"Interesting background material on Australia is easily integrated into the story which is spellbinding except for a slow start and occasional colorless lapses. A word of warning—the aborigines are called 'blacks' and sometimes treated unsympathetically, although this undoubtedly reflects the actual feelings of the early settlers. Mediocre illustrations." C. A. Hough

Library J 92:4618 D 15 '67 100w

"[Miss Spence] skates rather lightly over [the characters'] experiences on the . . . convict ship; too lightly perhaps for those who know something about conditions in sailing ships of the 1820s, and her story only becomes really gripping when they reach Australia. . . . The only flaw in the book is the episode of the evil father who tries to steal away one of the orphans. He comes to a violent end, but one that is not very convincingly narrated."

TLS p461 My 25 '67 200w

SPENCE, G. W. Tolstoy the ascetic. 154p $6.75
Barnes & Noble

891.73 Tolstoy, Leo 68-2049

"Dealing with such topics as dualism, death and illumination, God, suicide and sacrifice, and 'resurrection,' Mr. Spence . . . analyzes and traces the moral and philosophical threads connecting the early and late Tolstoy." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

"[The author] decries the fact that it has long since become commonplace to consider Tolstoy's spiritual crisis or conversion as nothing short of an irreparable, if inevitable, cleavage between the undisputed artistic genius and the sometimes questionable and embarrassing moral preacher. This book, parts of which have appeared previously in the Russian Review, is an attempt to put Humpty Dumpty back together again. . . . Recommended for academic and large literature collections." V. D. Newman

Library J 93:2374 Ag '68 160w

"[Spence's] examination of Tolstoy's distinction between necessity and freedom in War and Peace is straightforward . . . but he goes on to explore with logic and penetration the ways in which the notorious dichotomy can only lead to one kind of resolution, which Tolstoy both accepted and avoided in the ordered anguish of his last years—the resolution of passivity in life and of acceptance of death. . . . Joy in, and revulsion from, life—the sense of meaning and of unmeaning—proceed from exactly the same source, and this fact Tolstoy does not demonstrate but embodies in his whole achievement. Mr. Spence is more interested in the ascetic and abstract side of Tolstoy than in the full scope of this achievement, but he does help to show how and why readers must always question closely both the perversity and the logic of its structure."

TLS p126 F 8 '68 750w

SPENCER, COLIN. The anarchy of love [Eng title: Anarchists in love]. 319p $5.75 Weybright & Talley

67-20365

The 'heroine is Sundry, a young English artist in Brighton, who is in love with Reg, an earnest drifter, potential writer, and homosexual tramp. Reg, in loving Sundry, fights his way out of the old pattern. The plot [concerns] their bewildered groping toward knowing themselves and each other and in determining their relationships with other people. Other [characters] include Bengy, Reg's paunchy, rich patron; Hester, Sundry's mother who turns marital tragedy into farce by her own shallowness and Eddy, Sundry's crude, dishonest and drunken father." (Library J)

Choice 5:1312 D '68 120w

"It's good to find a serious fiction writer who does not try to add to accessible incoherence, or to capture the stream of consciousness of a nightmare, but who works to state precisely the reactions and experiences of possible people in possible situations. . . . When Mr. Spencer uses an ugly word, it is the only word that fits. . . . [His theme] is stated in Sundry's retort to a conventional young clergyman, 'I don't want people to become more spiritual, I want them to become more human.' . . . Yes, this is a sexy book, but with none of the hyena-giggling cruelty of the new obscenity. Highly recommended." J. B. Lopez

Library J 92:3448 O 1 '67 290w

"[The first volume] of a sausage-and-mashed epic of bottom-drawer England vividly drawn, wonderfully heard, and quite powerfully written. Lawrence's pale ghost is everywhere, but it doesn't always have its way. For one thing, sex for Mr. Spencer is simply sex and not the dark music of the earth. And when Mr. Spencer is not treating the procreative urge as if it were acne or bad drains, he thinks it is wonderfully funny. . . . His scenes sometimes lack clarity, until we can recall who a character is who's been offstage for many a page; and his episodes tend to be sprawling and exhaustive rather than spruce and dramatic. His pace dawdles but is steady; confidence grows in this hardy young novelist as we read, though we pray for succinctness in the volumes yet to come." Guy Davenport

Nat R 20:1120 N 5 '68 190w

New Yorker 43:189 O 7 '67 230w

Newsweek 73:53 Ja 6 '69 800w

"[This book] explores perceptively and sometimes brilliantly contemporary British high, middle and low life. . . . [Its principal fault] is the puzzling, often tedious mélange of wild humor and sentimental banalities. When Mr. Spencer preaches about the search for love and self-expression between lovers, about human values in a gross environment, he sounds like a latter-day D. H. Lawrence. Perhaps knowing this, he inserts very funny jokes into his text which occasionally underscore rather than allay the clichés and platitudes. . . . [Still, this] is a solid performance with much to recommend it. Explicit are a powerful narrative gift, a wealth of characters and invention, an unflagging vigor that recalls Balzac and Stendhal." E. M. Potoker

Sat R 50:42 S 30 '67 1000w

SPENCER, COLIN. The tyranny of love. 302p $6.75 Weybright & Talley

68-28267

"Against a backdrop of thin-edged respectability false-fronted by a South London suburb, forceful Eddy Simpson rages through life drinking and womanizing. . . . At home [he] tries to control the lives of his son [Matthew] and daughter [Sundry] by exerting the same domineering power he holds over his wife and his occasional women. But brother and sister provide briefly for one another the security neither had found apart, and soon the two spin away in ever-widening circles seeking escape in threatened marriages and illicit relationships. . . . [This] is the second in a series of four independent, but interrelated, novels of the new England, launched by The Anarchy of Love [BRD 1968]." (Publisher's Note)

Choice 5:1312 D '68 160w

"In making the contrast between the anarchy of homosexual love and the tyranny of woman's love for son, husband, and lover Mr. Spencer is traditional, trying to tell it 'as it is' without esoteric symbols or verbal distortion. For public libraries." J. B. Lopez

Library J 93:4309 N 15 '68 160w

Reviewed by Guy Davenport

Nat R 20:1120 N 5 '68 190w

"The Tyranny of Love dissects and analyses every aspect of it, not only filial, but platonic, intellectual, hetero- and homosexual and incestuous. The emotions displayed are sometimes painful, sometimes self-indulgent and very often funny; gradations of mood explored in a very contemporary way. . . . In and out of love, in and out of extreme mental confusion, Matthew is obsessed by Eddy. The complexities of the relationships and their close interaction have emotional and intellectual qualities which compensate for some unevenness of style." Gillian Freeman

New Statesman 74:233 Ag 25 '67 250w

Reviewed by Frank Littler

N Y Times Bk R p58 S ■ '68 490w

"The novel's modulation from the comic to the neurotically oppressive is carefully planned, and to some extent convincing, but none of the characters reverberates beyond his own peculiar predicament, and there is a prevailing sense of effects being too keenly strained for."

TLS p543 Je 15 '67 200w

SPENCER, CORNELIA. Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Chinese Republic. 191p pl $3.95 Day B or 92 Sun, Yat-sen—Juvenile literature. China—History—Juvenile literature 67-23529

A biography of the leader of the 1911 Revolution in China. Chronology. Bibliography. Index. "Grades eight to ten." (Library J)

"A somewhat detailed study of the man who helped to lead the country in the early part of this century until his death in 1925. . . . The story is simply told."

Best Sell 27:395 Ja 1 '68 90w

"Spencer has produced a readable book, but one that illuminates few of Sun's human and political dimensions. Sun appears as pure, utterly without personal ambition, a dreamer, naive and, perhaps most important, a Christian. But Sun is important because of his place in a great revolutionary process, and the nature of that process is obscure in this book. The role of foreign imperialism and of nascent Chinese nationalism, to take two examples, are hardly adumbrated. Surely this underestimates the capacities of readers 12 to 16, her intended audience." J. E. Sheridan

Book World p13 Ag 4 '68 210w

Horn Bk 44:77 F '68 140w

"The author has told the story of Sun's life from boyhood to death accurately, but, since her focus is on Sun's personality, some of the more dramatic (and confusing) events of that period in Chinese history are necessarily omitted. The young Sun is pictured as fervently Christian, drawn by what he believed to be the religion's modernizing and democratizing influences. It is questionable how religious he was, although he did use his church connections to good advantage. The book is not controversial; Sun's contacts with Russian Communists are briefly explained as the result of necessity and no mention is made of his widow's activities for the Chinese Reds." Wen Chao Chen

Library J 92:3205 S 15 '67 140w

"Although written in a dry and rather heavy style, this biography is commendable for its objective tone and for its detailed authoritative picture of one of the great figures in modern China." Zena Sutherland

Sat R 50:49 N 11 '67 110w

SPENCER, HOPE. The way to Rehema's house; an East African diary. 288p $4.95 Simon & Schuster

916.7 Africa, East—Description and travel 67-19820

"For two years, John and Hope Spencer lived in Kenya and Tanganyika while John worked on an assignment for the Institute of Current World Affairs. . . . Through her diary, Mrs. Spencer gives an informal . . . account of . . . differences between personalities and the tribal ways of life [and describes] . . . the social and political activities that arise as the Kenyan government emerges." (Library J)

"[Mrs. Spencer] used every opportunity to overcome the cultural barriers facing her among the various Asian, African, and British people. She mingled daily with them in the local markets, entertained government officials and others of the upper social level in her home, and taught English to groups of Masai and Kikuyu women, some of whom were illiterate. . . . [She] is a well-informed and sharp observer who communicates her enthusiasm for Kenya." E. H. Walden

Library J 92:2761 Ag '67 160w

"This lively East African diary written by a keen-eyed and warm-hearted observer succeeds in revealing a great deal about the complex life of East Africa today that no amount of sociological documentation could provide with equal vividness. . . . Of all her varied experiences it is perhaps Mrs. Spencer's relationships with native women that provide the most vital and heartening examples of the new life stirring in Africa." N. W. Ross

Sat R 50:23 D 23 '67 800w

SPIEGEL, SHALOM. The last trial; on the legends and lore of the command to Abraham to offer Isaac as a sacrifice: The akedah; tr. from the Hebrew, with an introd. by Judah Goldin. 162p $6 Pantheon bks.

296.1 Akedah. Ephraim ben Jacob, of Bonn —The akedah 65-10213

This volume is a translation of Spiegel's Megadot ha'akedah, published in 1950 "in the Marx Jubilee Volume (Jewish Theological Seminary of America). . . . [It is a study of] a 105-verse poem by the 12th Century eye-witness to the Second and Third Crusades, Ephraim b. Jacob of Bonn. The poem is a gloss on Genesis 22, reflecting the anguish of Ephraim's generation and . . . [contains] the statement, contrary to Scripture, that Isaac was slaughtered, resurrected and saved by God from a second death at Abraham's hand." (Library J)

"Spiegel provides for his readers: first, an excellent introduction to [the poem] . . . which is presented in translation in the back of the book; second, a fragrant sample of the taste of medieval Hebrew literature; and finally, a somewhat changing but continuing Hebrew heritage whereby Jews ponder on the Scripture with additional thought and legendary imagination. There are hardly any books comparable in English. . . . Goldin's introduction gives beginners a general knowledge of, and orientation for, this type of literature."

Choice 5:514 Je '68 190w

"Spiegel eruditely examines the development of the strands of the Genesis 22 narrative, known as the Akedah, or Binding, in Jewish tradition. He examines the significance of the Akedah for Judaism and Christianity, traces its parallels in pagan and Christian literature and its crucial role in the Middle Ages. Through Jewish liturgy and the rich rabbinic literature, he analyzes its basic concepts, including sacrifice, vicarious atonement, and the role of the death of Isaac. He dwells on such matters as the difference between the Jewish and Christian approach to the Akedah narrative and the attitude of the Biblical critics toward the poem." Martin Cohen

Library J 92:2930 S 1 '67 240w

SPIEGELBERG, HERBERT, tr. Phenomenology of willing and motivation and other phaenomenologica. See Pfänder, A.

SPIER, PETER, II. Hurrah, we're outward bound! See Hurrah, we're outward bound!

SPIER, PETER. London Bridge is falling down! See London Bridge is falling down!

SPIER, PETER, II. To market! to market! See Mother Goose

SPILLER, ROBERT E., ed. The American literary revolution, 1783-1837; ed. with a pref. and expl. notes by Robert E. Spiller. 500p $7.50 N.Y. univ. press; 497p pa $1.95 Double-day

810.9

67-25048;67-12851

"This collection of documents, from sources of the time, shows some of the ways in which Americans began their literary revolution from 1783 until 1837 when the publication of Emerson's Phi Beta Kappa address on 'The American Scholar' signaled the arrival of a genuinely national literature. The first section deals with the prologues and prefaces of the later eighteenth century that represent conscious attempts to announce a new American literature. . . . Later sections cover the debate on the need for a national literature as carried out in reviews and articles and in the Phi Beta Kappa orations. . . . A final section records the Copyright Law of 1790, gives library lists of books ordered from England, lists of books published in America, and excerpts from the English literary theorists who were most influential in America during this period." (Publisher's note) Bibliography.

SPILLER, R. E.—Continued

"[This collection] clearly and logically (though at unnecessary length) documents the gradual and difficult development of a viable theory of 'American' literature. . . . Perhaps inadvertently it conveys a mistaken impression of the comparative worthlessness of American literature in the interval when the theory was being worked out. Nonetheless it is an extremely valuable work for scholars and advanced students to have available. It includes the views of most of the prominent writers of the period from the Connecticut Wits to Bryant, Cooper, and Poe, as well as important statements by Samuel Miller, Noah Webster, C. J. Ingersoll, and W. E. Channing. And it demonstrates the crucial role of the North American Review between 1815 and 1820 in using Alison's associationist aesthetics to support the idea of a literature truly reflective of indigenous American experience."

Choice 5:488 Je '68 120w

New Yorker 43:87 S 2 '67 100w

SPINA, TONY. Press photographer; text and phot. by Tony Spina. 185p $8.50 Barnes, A.S. 778 Photography, Journalistic 67-10743

"From his thirty years as a photographer with the Detroit Free Press, Tony Spina has collected together more than 250 pictures and linked them with a . . . commentary explaining how he got them and the technical problems involved." (TLS)

Reviewed by S. W. Little

Sat R 51:94 Ap 13 '68 90w

"The scene is mainly American, and the emphasis tends to be on the establishment, the portrait gallery including statesmen, civic leaders and popular sports figures; but there is also a European sequence with some remarkable pictures taken inside the Vatican. Apart from subjects dictated by the flow of the news Mr. Spina has also caught some of the light and dark of everyday American life. . . . The commentary moves easily from one theme to another, and if Mr. Spina takes a modest and justifiable pride in his various 'scoops', where luck plays as large a part as judgment, he is careful to insist that the first requirement for a successful press photographer is patient craftsmanship."

TLS p815 Ag 1 '68 190w

SPINAGE, C. A. The book of the giraffe. 191p 11 maps $6.95 Houghton 599 Giraffes 68-2803

The first section of this book describes the giraffe, beginning "with the earliest (Miocene) fossils that can with any certainty be allocated to the family Giraffidae. The next chapter deals with the giraffe in primitive art, and the succeeding four chapters with the history of the giraffe's contact with western and Chinese civilization from the earliest dynasties of ancient Egypt to its final establishment as a regular inmate of European zoological gardens at the beginning of the present century. . . . [This is followed by a] biological account . . . divided between anatomy and natural history." (TLS) Bibliography. Index.

"The style is direct, technicalities are few or explained in simple terms. Difficult interpretations are made clear. Due to its completeness, point of view, and more important the appeal of sympathy for a disappearing species, this new book is recommended for libraries. Interest is constant throughout."

Choice 5:812 S '68 170w

"[The first section is] a tour de force of bibliographical zoology for which Mr. Spinage deserves much credit. . . . [He] also furnishes several interesting appendixes, the first of which treats lengthily of the okapi, discovered about 100 years ago and the only living relative of the giraffe. Drawings, etchings and black-and-white photographs, many reproduced from rare documents, are included. To my knowledge, this is the first and only full-length book on this animal: it will appeal most strongly to scholars in the field, science historians, and other naturalists." A. L. Fessler

Library J 93:2679 J1 '68 180w

Reviewed by Philip Morrison

Sci Am 219:127 D '68 210w [YA]

TLS p510 My 16 '68 470w

SPINDEL, BERNARD B. The ominous ear. 268p 11 $5.95 Award house; for sale by Crown 323.44 Wire-tapping. Eavesdropping. Privacy. Right of 68-18702

The author charges that "official investigations by Congressional committees, legislative committees and grand juries have invariably avoided the subject of the crimes which law enforcement has committed in the field of eavesdropping. They have, instead, thrown the stigma on the private aspects of eavesdropping. [The people] . . . charged and tried for eavesdropping have been private citizens, even though there are thousands of cases in the courts today which involve material obtained through illegal eavesdropping by law enforcement." (Introd)

"Spindel, who has been 'a private practitioner in the field of eavesdropping for over twenty-five years,' is here seriously concerned about the use of electronic devices by the government. . . . His book, a rambling account, does not have the impact of Omar Garrison's Spy Government [BRD 1968], or the exhaustiveness of Alan Westin's Privacy and Freedom [BRD 1967, but] . . . is recommended for large public libraries." E. J. Bander

Library J 93:2639 J1 '68 150w

"Spindel wants to outlaw all forms of eavesdropping save in the national defense in time of war or emergency, and in one's own interest (as when one records one's conversations on the telephone). He makes the interesting point that wiretapping hasn't contributed to crime prevention." W. F. Rickenbacker

Nat R 20:759 J1 30 '68 200w

Reviewed by Sergeant Cuff

Sat R 51:116 S 14 '68 20w

SPIRO, EDWARD. See Cookridge, E. H.

SPIRO, HERBERT J., ed. Patterns of African development; five comparisons. 144p $4.95; pa $1.95 Prentice-Hall 320.96 Africa—Politics 67-14837

This book is based on papers given in 1965 at the African Studies Association meeting by five political theorists who "consider the direction that African development may take, C. J. Friedrich providing the perspective of comparative politics, Ibrahim Abu-Lughod examining the special features of African nationalism, C. E. Welch comparing modernization in Japan and Africa, A. A. Mazrui distinguishing between borrowed political theory and original political practice on his continent, and H. J. Spiro explaining political development." (Publisher's note)

"With their diverse, often conflicting interpretations of development, these five essays reflect the current ambiguous status of this concept. . . . In a concluding essay, Herbert Spiro contends that Africa is now experiencing the 'development of politics,' the meaning of which he never makes fully clear. . . . [All Mazrui's] most provocative remarks, which have already stimulated considerable discussion among African intellectuals in East Africa, concern his interpretation of President Nkrumah as a 'Leninist Czar.' Ironically, while the other four authors see Africa in African terms, it remains for an African to perceive Nkrumah in light of European development. . . . The essays in this collection possess a coherence not usually found in volumes of this type. The authors write clearly. . . . The book has relevance not merely for Africanists but also for those interested in the new nations generally." C. F. Andrain

Am. Pol Sci R 62:284 Mr '68 700w

Reviewed by Louis Barron

Library J 92:1941 My 15 '67 300w

SPIRO, MELFORD E. Burmese supernaturalism; a study in the explanation and reduction of suffering. 300p $7.95; pa $3.95 Prentice-Hall 291.3 Burma—Religion. Animism. Buddha and Buddhism 67-27956

An "account of the Burmese folk religion and its relation to the traditional Buddhism of the country. This . . . subject is examined in relationship both to its historical, social, and political background and to its effect on society, culture and personality in modern Burma. Based on . . . interviews and research conducted by the author in Burma. . . . The book deals with phenomena such as ghosts, demons, witches, and evil spirits and there are . . . discussions of cases of possession and rituals of exorcism in which the author became involved as an accepted participant as well as a scientific observer." (Publisher's note)

"Here is a remarkably good case study of religious doctrine and practice in a non-Western society. It stands in the Weberian tradition of accepting a creative tension between theorizing and facts. In my view the book will make a strong contribution to courses in theory, method, religion, and comparative studies in any of the fields of psychology, anthropology, and sociology. There are very few other books of which one could say this." Dexter Dunphy
Am J Soc 74:312 N '68 1250w

"The author describes lucidly and trenchantly the non-Buddhists religious beliefs and practices in Burma with particular emphasis on Nat worship, illness and supernaturalism, and supernatural practitioners. . . . Possibly the freshest descriptive data—at least to this reviewer—was the ethnographic detail on illness, exorcists, and shamans in chapters 4 and 5. . . . I recommend [the book] to those who may be teaching courses on comparative religion, primitive religion, or Southeast Asia. Throughout his clear and well-written text, Dr. Spiro raises question after question of theoretic interest. . . . His statement of problem is a measure of his intellectual breadth and poise. Unfortunately, his attempt to cope with 'explanation,' on which the theoretic emphasis of this book rests, falls somewhat short of what I, for one, have always anticipated from this scholar." Cora Du Bois
Ann Am Acad 378:185 J1 '68 420w

"[This] is an outstanding ethnography of the cult of gods and demons for the particular Burma case. The job is excellently done; it represents an enormous advance on any comparable ethnographic material from this part of the world." Edmund Leach
Pacific Affairs 41:297 summer '68 350w

SPRAGUE, ROSEMARY. George Eliot; a biography. 337p pl $5.95 Chilton co.

B or 92 Cross, Mary Ann (Evans) 68-19179
The author of Forever in Joy (BRD 1965) has written an appraisal of the life and literary career of Mary Ann Evans, who later became Marian Evans and whom the world knew as "George Eliot." Bibliography. Index.

"This biography of George Eliot is not only competently written, but it is also written with sympathy and understanding. . . . The sections of literary criticism are . . . the more valuable pages in the book and of them all the discussion of 'Adam Bede,' its genesis and its writing, is most excellent. . . . The bibliography is slight and confined to main sources only." Sister Mary William
Best Sell 28:80 My 15 '68 410w

Reviewed by Barbara Gelpi
Christian Science Monitor p7 Je 27 '68 800w

"Anyone who enjoys George Eliot's novels will want to read this well-documented biography with its insight into her life and writings. Rosemary Sprague has stayed close to her subject and has presented the facts well, though Miss Eliot emerges lacking sufficient warmth to involve most readers' emotions. While this life story includes many plots from the novels which general readers may find cumbersome, they are, nevertheless, necessary since they are so interwoven with the novelist's background. . . . An excellent readable biography, the first specifically for young people. . . . Grades nine to twelve." J. S. Garvin
Library J 93:1816 Ap 15 '68 140w

SPRIGGE, ELIZABETH. Jean Cocteau: the man and the mirror, by Elizabeth Sprigge and Jean-Jacques Kihm. 286p il $5.95 Coward-McCann

B or 92 Cocteau, Jean 68-14306
A biography of the man who became involved in "countless artistic ventures that included painting, pottery, plays, poetry, prose, journalism, films and ballets." (Book World) Bibliography. Index.

"In this pleasantly written but superficial work, the authors describe Cocteau's grand tour through life." Serge Gavronsky
Book World p10 Ap 28 '68 400w

"The book is excessively and even maliciously gossipy and is so ineptly written that it often reads like a clumsy translation of a not very lucid French original. . . . Nevertheless, the authors have made available a good deal of biographical detail and the illustrations are excellent. A possible purchase for large literature collections." Dorothy Curley
Library J 93:1999 My 15 '68 120w

"[This] biography of Cocteau is [uncritical]. . . . Whether history will remember Cocteau as anything more than a monomaniac of uncertain gifts who happened to be in the right places at the right times is unclear, but the authors of the present volume are in no doubt at all of his vision, significance, legacy etc." Anita Brookner
New Statesman 75:453 Ap 5 '68 240w

Reviewed by Francis Steegmuller
N Y Times Bk R p6 D 22 '68 1650w

"A probing view of the writer's complex personality and diversity of experience [presented] in an easy-flowing, highly readable fashion. Steering clear of any evaluation of his work, the authors concentrate on the man and view his myriad creative efforts only as an aspect of his biography. . . . The solid documentation never slows down the narrative; it lends authority to the careful reconstitution of events large and small which combine to give the reader a warm, intimate portrait of Jean Cocteau. Miss Sprigge and Mr. Kihm decided to show us the flaws of the man together with his great kindness and generosity. . . . [They] also reveal his fickleness. . . . But these weaknesses of character are small compared to his stature as artist and human being. The biography underlines his noblest and most constant quest, which fuses the man and his work: the search for beauty. . . . The writing is, for the most part, smooth and particularly agreeable." Thomas Bishop
Sat R 51:22 My 25 '68 850w

SPRIGGE, TIMOTHY L. S., ed. The correspondence of Jeremy Bentham, 2v. See Bentham, J.

SPROTT, E. R., jr. auth. Famine on the wind. See Carefoot, G. L.

SPUNT, GEORGES. Memoirs & menus; the confessions of a culinary snob; il. by Jerry Joyner. 461p $12.50 Chilton co.

641.5 Cookery, International 67-22760
The author includes "Yiddish, Russian, French, Italian, Oriental, and English recipes, reflecting the many influences in his . . . life." (Library J) Sections of this book have appeared in Gentlemen's Quarterly magazine in slightly different form. Indexes.

"Spunt is a freewheeling gastronomic voluptuary; his book is a credibility-stretching reminiscence of life in the potpourri world of pre-World War II Shanghai. Blended into this Baroque trifle are a Jewish grandmother, a Chinese master chef, various extravagant Continentals and eccentric Russians, and an imperious Indian princess. . . . The illustrations show Spunt's family to be fat and good-natured. Having dined on some of the unsurpassable recipes . . . I quite understand why they look so round and rapturous." Gloria Levitas
Book World p6 D 17 '67 100w

"[Mr. Spunt's] memoirs are fun even when they're a bit harrowing, and his recipes are interesting, although the price of the book is high. . . . [This is a] good addition to the growing collection of cookbooks public libraries need to satisfy their cookery reading fans." J. B. Lopez
Library J 93:551 F 1 '68 220w

SQUIRES, RADCLIFFE. The light under is-lands; poems. 61p $4.95 Univ. of Mich. press
811 67-25344

Earlier versions of some of the poems in this collection have appeared in such publications as Accent, The New York Times, and Poetry.

"A new volume of poems following close upon Fingers of Hermes [BRD 1965] reinforces the impact of the resourceful vitality of this professor-poet whose diction is never hackneyed or self-repetitive, and whose images range from grim whimsy to a deeper grotesque and always probe consciousness into flashes of recognition that can burn on as insights gained. . . . Unromanticized nature is healing resolution, not just a phase in a cycle, and tenacious life emerges whole out of the paradoxes. This disciplined, allusive verse exacts honest responses and will wear well. It belongs with the best contemporary poetry."

SQUIRES, RADCLIFFE—Continued

Choice 5:198 Ap '68 150w

Reviewed by Daryl Hine

Poetry 113:57 O '68 70w

"Along with a good deal of derivative but graceful verse, this collection presents two of Mr. Squires' most completely realized poems. 'The Etruscans and Us' considers the difficult theme of art and life with a fresh intelligence in stanzas of real power under easy control. 'Where We Are Going,' which contains the title line for the collection, is Squires' finest poem to date. It is a brilliant performance and well worth the price of the book."

Va Q R 44:civ summer '68 80w

STAAR, RICHARD F. The Communist regimes in Eastern Europe: an introduction. (Publication) 387p $7.50 Stanford univ. Hoover inst. on war, revolution & peace

947 Europe, Eastern—Politics. Communism—Europe, Eastern 67-24367

"Country by country, in separate chapters for each, Professor Staar introduces briefly the post-1945 history and then deals with the current situation in Albania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Hungary, Poland, Romania, and Yugoslavia [surveying] . . . their differing forms of government and describing developments in industry, agriculture, foreign trade, defense, religion, and the treatment of ethnic problems. Also he explains how the communist parties came into control, and how party decisions are implemented. . . . Interaction among the bloc countries themselves and with the Soviet Union is treated in separate chapters on military coordination through the Warsaw Treaty Organization, on efforts toward economic integration through the Council for Mutual Economic Assistance, and on the concept of 'polycentrism.'" (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

"The epilogue updates the material through 1967 and speculates about future trends. . . . The contents, generally speaking, are quite disappointing. Each individual country is allotted from 25 to 42 pages of text, with Hungary receiving the minimum and Yugoslavia the maximum. This uneven treatment extends to the subject matter within each chapter. There is too little attempt at integrating the material or treating it in a comparative fashion. . . . Inadequate on the historical as well as the analytical side, and not likely to excite the interest of the beginning student in the complexities of Eastern Europe and its politics."

Choice 5:1043 O '68 240w

"By far the best feature of this handbook is the documentation. It is far-ranging, thorough, multilingual. Possibly there is excessive reliance on the reports of Radio Free Europe and the New York Times which by their very nature are not beyond criticism. Numerous charts and tables are an especially useful feature, and although the style is pedestrian, sometimes unidiomatic and awkward, it is, on the whole, adequate. The book should be helpful to all students of Eastern Europe . . . and to libraries generally." Isaac Stone

Library J 93:1990 My 15 '68 230w

STAKMAN, E. C. Campaigns against hunger [by] E. C. Stakman, Richard Bradfield [and] Paul C. Mangelsdorf. 328p il $7.50 Harvard univ. press

630 Agriculture—Mexico. Technical assistance. Rockefeller Foundation 67-20882

Three pioneers "in the Rockefeller Foundation's program to improve agriculture in Mexico relate their story, beginning with the first field trip in 1941. . . . [They describe] the successful technical assistance and training schemes which developed improved varieties of corn, wheat, and beans and helped introduce crops such as soybeans and sorghums. The resulting increased yields, ability to cope with plant diseases and parasites, improved soil conditions, and upgraded livestock varieties are termed an 'agricultural revolution.' . . .

[The book also discusses] subsequent extension of the Mexican pattern to programs in South America and India." (Choice)

"Program accomplishments are measured largely in terms of increased food-crop production per acre, changes in indigenous institutions, and advances in the quality and status of agricultural science. The authors attribute much of the program's success to 'stable, persistent [Rockefeller Foundation] leadership, long-term commitment, competent long-term men [scientists].' They gloss over the reality that the biologically possible may not be economically feasible. Slow adoption of new technology is often attributed to inadequate education and extension—not to research shortcomings. Almost uniformly, scientists involved are portrayed as good or excellent. Guidelines for the future emerge by implication through a summary of lessons learned. . . . The authors make no claim that all of the answers to development problems are to be found in technology." L. S. Hardin

Ann Am Acad 376:193 Mr '68 450w

"This documentation of a modestly financed but highly successful endeavor should be in agricultural libraries. For social science and humanities oriented collections it adds a valuable dimension to the many volumes dealing with technical assistance programs. The one serious fault is that we learn little of the motivations of the American scientists who participated, their reactions to a different cultural and institutional setting, and details involved in institutional and political changes as these pertained to their programs."

Choice 5:1178 N '68 190w

STALEY, LUCY. New trends in table settings; and period designs, too; arrangements, all by the author, were created especially for this book. 192p il col il $7.95 Hearthside press (N Y)

642 Table

67-27171

This "book is designed to help the modern hostess blend the best of yesterday and today. . . . [It] presents guidelines for choosing, caring for, and arranging equipment and accessories of various types, including plant material. . . . [The book also] covers specific occasions—formal and informal dinners, luncheons, buffets, as well as special holiday celebrations and public functions." (Christian Science Monitor) Bibliography. Index.

Christian Science Monitor p12 O 24 '68 120w

"Mrs. Staley will be a good teacher for novices wanting guidance in what goes with what; the meaning of 'period styles'; how to choose and take care of glassware, silver, linen; and the use of artificial flowers. . . . Though the photographs of her settings suggest that she favors the 'busy' pattern, and the conventional rather than the daring, Mrs. Staley offers sound direction." S. C. Gross

Library J 93:3004 S 1 '68 110w

STALLMAN, R. W. Stephen Crane; a biography. 664p pl $12.50 Braziller

B or 92 Crane, Stephen

68-16110

In this biography Professor Stallman "has placed Crane's intense, enigmatic personality in the perspective of the cultural cross-currents of the 1890's. He deals with Crane's childhood in Port Jervis, his rebellion against his father's faith and the family tradition, his adventurous, heroic days as a war correspondent in Greece and Cuba, and his final, hectic, debt-ridden life with Cora at Brede Manor in England." (Library J) Checklist: I. Writings by Stephen Crane; II. Writings on Stephen Crane; III. Related background writings. Index.

Reviewed by Maurice Adelman

America 119:568 N 30 '68 100w

Reviewed by Justin Kaplan

Atlantic 222:121 S '68 1150w

Reviewed by Jean Stafford

Book World p1 Ag 11 '68 2150w

Choice 5:962 O '68 200w

Christian Century 85:1020 Ag 14 '68 60w

Reviewed by J. R. Mellow

Commonweal 89:322 N 29 '68 1350w

"The story of Stephen Crane's short, impassioned life is told with careful objectivity and attention to detail in this fine full-length biography. . . . [Stallman] has answered questions and set the record straight in many of the shady, controversial areas . . . [and] has had the good sense to keep in the background the host of literary figures which pass through Crane's life—Joseph Conrad, Henry James, Harold Frederic, Richard Harding Davis, Frank Norris, Hamlin Garland, William Dean Howells, and H. G. Wells. The focus is where it belongs, on Crane, whose life is even more exciting and ironic than the characters in his own fiction. This first rate study is highly recommended for public and academic libraries." Arnold Smith-line

Library J 93:2646 J1 '68 270w

"The lofty tone of the biography suggests the self-consciously definitive biographer at work. Constantly, Stallman is pointing out that various . . . [earlier biographers] 'erred' or drew 'ill-founded' conclusions. . . . In presenting the life of Crane, Stallman gives the facts and chronology as clearly as possible, and in this lies the basic virtue of the biography. . . . [A] defect, however, is the fact that Stallman seems to have no real attitude toward the ultimate nature of Crane the man. . . . Because of this lack of psychological penetration, the mystery of Stephen Crane remains unsolved and largely unchallenged." J. F. Light

Nation 207:183 S 2 '68 1400w

Reviewed by Daniel Aaron
New Repub 159:33 S 7 '68 1600w

Reviewed by Alfred Kazin
N Y Rev of Books 11:12 D 5 '68 2850w

"Since Mr. Stallman, professor of literature at the University of Connecticut, is plainly the world's foremost authority on what Crane wrote, thought and did, this life story probably comes as close to being a definitive biography as we are likely to get. As a narrative, unhappily, it is marred by a good deal of rather graceless writing, endless plot summaries of Crane's work without much regard for its immensely varied quality, and far too lengthy rehearsals of what reviewers on both sides of the Atlantic said about his books. If the central test of a biography is to re-create a vanished personality, Mr. Stallman has admirably succeeded. Perhaps it is useless to ask for something more." Carlos Baker

N Y Times Bk R p3 Ag 11 '68 1650w

New Yorker 44:180 S 28 '68 180w

Reviewed by R. A. Sokolov
Newsweek 72:81 Ag 12 '68 600w

"The biography is a big book. . . . A large part of the new material, however, seems to me of only minor importance. . . . Throughout there are long and sometimes repetitious paraphrases of Crane's sketches and stories. In the end the book seems more like a collection of data for a biography than what, at least by modern standards, a biography ought to be. My impression that this is something less than a finished book is strengthened by the carelessness with which Stallman writes. . . . In general, his critical comments are just, but he does not manage to give the reader a feeling for the qualities that made Crane a great writer. . . . By digging up and bringing together a great mass of materials, Stallman may have simplified the task of subsequent scholars, but he himself has not penetrated very far into the mystery." Granville Hicks

Sat R 51:29 Ag 6 '68 1150w

Time 92:63 Ag 30 '68 800w

TLS p927 Ag 29 '68 210w

Reviewed by Arlin Turner
Va Q R 44:678 autumn '68 1250w

STAMBLER, IRWIN. The worlds of sound. 143p il $3.50; lib bdg $3.28 Norton

534 Sound—Juvenile literature 67-15449

Beginning with a "review of the inventions of the pioneers in sound, the author devotes the rest of the book to the description of present and future sonic devices, including: optical, video and magnetic tapes; ultrasonic transducers used for crop control, cleaning, welding, and medical purposes; underwater sonic echoes; radio astronomy; voice typewriters and translators." (Best Sell) Index. "Grades nine to twelve." (Library J)

"The introduction discusses the problems and uses of sound heard by the human ear as well as the much larger range of ultra and infra sonic vibrations. One section on hearing and speech explains the reason for sound in terms of anatomy of the ear and vibrations of sound waves, while the author's chapter on music reveals an expert knowledge of scales and instruments. . . . The opening pages of the volume provide an excellent framework for the novice in sound and the closing pages provide challenge." Mrs. B. E. Kueny

Best Sell 27:395 Ja 1 '68 140w [YA]

"A dull but accurate discussion of the production, transmission, and reception of sound. . . . Stambler's text gives a thorough, if somewhat wordy, description of radio, i.e. transmission of sound over long distances, and sonar in addition to movie and television sound tracts. . . . Recommended for libraries needing comprehensive material on the subject for older students." Simon Kellman

Library J 92:3868 O 15 '67 100w

STANDS IN TIMBER, JOHN. Cheyenne memories, by John Stands In Timber and Margot Liberty; with the assistance of Robert M. Utley. 330p il $7.95 Yale univ. press

970.3 Cheyenne Indians

67-24515

"Stands In Timber, an elderly Cheyenne, related these tales to Margot Liberty, an anthropologist and one-time teacher in an Indian school. She recorded them on tape, and then typed and edited the final product. They cover the . . . range of Cheyenne experience from creation myths to reservation life." (Choice) Bibliography. Index.

"Somewhat different versions of some of these stories appear in the work of Grinnell, Llewellyn and Hoebel, Mari Sandoz, and others. Mark Brown and J. W. Vaughan are two who have previously made use of Stands In Timber's versions. The present volume provides the reader with some new material of historical significance, but it is principally of value for what we can learn of Cheyenne social and political structure, and of how they view their history."

Choice 5:553 Je '68 150w

"[The book] contains the Cheyenne people's accounts of their great culture hero, Sweet Medicine; of the history and significance of their Sacred Arrows and the Sacred Hat; of raids for horses and coups; of battles with white soldiers and the end of the free, nomadic way of life. Margot Liberty has organized the many accounts into a connected narrative. She has also supplied numerous explanatory footnotes and references for clarity. The scope and authenticity of this book will undoubtedly make it a reference source for historians and anthropologists. . . . An essential purchase for Americana collections." T. W. Wright

Library J 93:549 F 1 '68 190w

STANFORTH, DEIRDRE. The New Orleans restaurant cookbook; written and il. by Deirdre Stanforth. 240p $6.95 Doubleday

641.5 Cookery, Creole

67-19107

The author provides recipes from 'eight famous New Orleans restaurants. . . . In approximately the first third of the book she confines herself to the descriptive and historical; in the remainder she gives recipes for famous dishes made by these restaurants. She gives a chapter to each category of food, from appetizers to drinks." (Library J) Index.

"An intimate glimpse into the haute cuisine of New Orleans. . . . The recipes, culled from Antoine's and Galatoire's, Arnaud's and Pontchartrain's are of extraordinary merit." Gloria Levitas

Book World p6 D 17 '67 20w

"In general, the recipes are complex and elaborate. Flamed crêpes dominate the dessert section. It is expected that this book will appeal to readers who have visited these famous dining rooms and to gourmets in general." M. S. Minnick

Library J 92:3421 O 1 '67 110w

STANLEY, LOUIS T. Golf with your hands; with a foreword by Gary Player; and phot. by the author. 256p $10 Crowell

796.352 Golf

67-17244

"More than 400 photographs of the world's most prominent golfers, amateur and professional, with detailed examination of the part played by the hands throughout every shot in the game. Gary Player, Arnold Palmer, Gene Sarazen, Sam Snead, Doug Sanders, and others reveal a wealth of . . . techniques perfected after years of constant practice . . . [and cover] pregame warm-up drill, wrist strengthening exercises, tension-free grip, wood and iron shots, short pitch, recovery, and bunker shots, and . . . the problems of the left-handed golfer. . . . [There are] profiles of such personalities as Tony Lema, Jack Nicklaus, Ken Venturi, and . . . Mildred 'Babe' Zaharias." (Publisher's note)

STANLEY, L. T.—Continued

"Stanley has studied, analyzed, played with, and photographed the great golfers of international repute. . . . His finely balanced book, . . . written to help every class of golfer, is easy, interesting reading. . . . It is, really, a picture dictionary of golf. Rates an 'A' when compared with recently published works in the field."

Choice 5:223 Ap '68 110w

"Mr. Stanley contends the key to successful golf is in the hands and stresses this importance emphatically. Advice on how to achieve success is the keynote of this book of instruction. . . . Recommended for all libraries with sporting book collections." S. J. Riccardi

Library J 92:2801 Ag '67 90w

STAPLES, HUGH B., ed. The Ireland of Sir Jonah Barrington. See Barrington, J.*STARBIRD, KAYE. The pheasant on route Seven; il. by Victoria de Larrea. 74p $3.50 Lippincott

811

68-24420

"This is a book of poems about the village of Pleasantport and the people who live there; about a fox, a snowstorm, and the pheasant who strode down the center line of Route Seven." (Publisher's note) "Grade five and up." (Library J)

Best Sell 28:279 O 1 '68 110w

Reviewed by Virginia Haviland

Book World p24 (children's issue) N 3 '68 160w

Reviewed by L. P. Scanlon

Commonweal 89:291 N 22 '68 160w

Horn Bk 44:568 O '68 130w

"Combining light verse with serious intent is a difficult job at best, but Kaye Starbird successfully presents glimpses of human nature which are revealing, poignant, and often highly amusing. In these 33 poems . . . the smallest details capture the essence of human individuality. . . . Nature is an integral part of Pleasantport and the imagery in a falling leaf, two robins, or an aging chestnut tree adds to the substance of the poet's message. Enjoyable for readers at almost any age and stage." Barbara Gibson

Library J 93:3974 O 15 '68 120w

Reviewed by Mary O'Neill

N Y Times Bk R p42 O 27 '68 280w

"In this beguiling collection of poems . . . Kaye Starbird has carved a bit deeper her niche in the world of children's poetry. The tone is light, the verse sure-footed, the comments shrewd, and the subjects sophisticated enough for the young reader to feel that he is not being relegated to a child's world, but accepted as a member-observer of society. Many of the names pop up in several poems, giving continuity to the volume and the pleasure of recognition to the reader." Zena Sutherland

Sat 51:37 O 19 '68 90w

STARK RODNEY. American piety: the nature of religious commitment, by Rodney Stark and Charles Y. Glock. (Calif. Univ. Survey res. center. Res. program in religion and soc. Publication). 230p $6.75 Univ. of Calif. press

277.3 U.S.—Religion. Religion and sociology 68-12792

The co-authors of Religion and Society in Tension (BRD 1966) attempt an "appraisal of the future prospects of the Christian church in America. Based on . . . surveys of church members, . . . [they seek to show] how religious Americans are these days, in their beliefs, practices, knowledge, and feelings. . . . Eleven major Christian denominations [are compared]." (Publisher's note) This is the first of a three-volume study of Patterns of Religious Commitment. Index.

Choice 5:1152 N '68 180w

"Based on data gathered from a 1963 study of 3,000 church members in northern California and a 1964 national study of 1,976 adults. . . . [It is the intention of the authors] to let the facts as they find them speak for themselves, and this they do. . . . In the last chapter they speculate on whether or not we are entering a 'Post-Christian Era.' As befits good, careful social scientists, they do not come to any absolute conclusions, but they do see a growing secularization of religious institutions. . . . Glock and Stark's work inadvertently goes a long way in documenting an important failure of American church-life—the failure of religious scholars, philosophers and theologians to make contact with the real life of the parish and its members." R. L. Means

Christian Century 85:1283 O 9 '68 800w

"Well organized and written with a minimum of professional jargon. Numerous statistical tables support the [authors'] astonishing statements concerning the religious knowledge and involvement of the American population. They point out that Americans have little understanding of their faith, particularly of the Bible. The future of the Christian church in America is exceedingly dim although 'institutions, like people, have a strong will to survive.' Recommended for public libraries, excepting the smallest, and for academic libraries." Jack Clarke

Library J 93:1636 Ap 15 '68 150w

STARKIE, ENID. Flaubert: the making of the master. 403p pl $8.50 Atheneum pubs.

B or 92 Flaubert, Gustave

67-28968

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Reviewed by Maurice Adelman

America 118:618 My 4 '68 30w

Reviewed by Phoebe Adams

Atlantic 220:150 D '67 100w

Choice 5:202 Ap '68 200w

Reviewed by Matthew Hodgart

N Y Rev of Books 10:14 My 9 '68 500w

STARR, BART. Quarterbacking, by Bart Starr with Mark Cox. 306p il $6.95 Prentice-Hall

796.33 Football

67-25951

"Starr covers all the aspects of playing this position, with extensive use of diagrams and pictures." (Library J)

"Starr's knowledge of the quarterbacking game is without question. The pictures and diagrams are excellent with terminology being used that reaches the level of coaches and easily enough understood by young players of the game. A rather lengthy book, with biography and game descriptions taking up some chapters and fundamentals and game strategy others, it could possibly have been two books: one area appeals to younger fans and beginning football students, while the other area seems more the buff, coach, or mature high school player. Still rates as good."

Choice 4:1412 F '68 130w

"A lively and very informative book. . . . Players on the field, TV watchers of and radio listeners to football games will find this a useful guide." Marian Trahan

Library J 92:1639 D 15 '67 60w [YA]

STARR, CHESTER G. The awakening of the Greek historical spirit. 157p pl $5.95 Knopf

938 Historiography. Civilization, Greek

68-12679

The author "traces the Greeks' slowly gathering awareness of the past as a continuous series of real events different from the present, yet leading up to it. He begins with the Iliad and the Odyssey, which are not yet history, but storehouses of folk memories. Against the background of early Greek philosophy, art, and literature he discusses the development of conscious ideas of space, time, human causation, and political evolution—none present in Homer. . . . Mr. Starr shows how the sixth century brought to Greece qualities necessary to the historical attitude: freedom of investigation untrammelled by politics or religion; the understanding of causation in human terms; the rise of objectivity and impersonality, exhibited in satire and elsewhere; and finally the appearance of written prose as a vehicle." (Publisher's note) Annotated bibliography. Index.

"In his interesting effort to explain how the Greeks, independently of the Jews and the Chinese, invented the idea of history, Mr.

Starr tries to consider everything. . . . His analysis of Pindar is good reading. . . . There is much to argue with, though, in Starr's earlier chapters on the epic, on the archaic senses of space and time, and on political development in the archaic age. . . . He collects interesting quotes and appends numerous references to modern scholarship, but there runs throughout a . . . depressing combination of the naive and the patronizing. He seems always to be apologizing to his colleagues in modern history for one Greek failing or another. . . . He takes [it] for granted that the purpose of history is to improve the future." J. J. Farber

Class World 62:60 O '68 270w

"[This examination of] the roots of historical thought among the Greeks before Herodotus . . . is a most difficult task and leads [the author] through all of the various facets of life among the Hellenes before the Persian Wars. He has written the book quite specifically for specialists in ancient history or historiography, and includes a great deal that is highly technical both in content and methodology. In addition, the professor presumes a great deal of knowledge of ancient Greek literature and art in his discussions of some highly controversial issues. This volume should be in university and research libraries." H. L. Adelson

Library J 93:1137 Mr 15 '68 110w

"A fascinating pursuit in intellectual history. . . . Professor Starr leads us learnedly through writers from Homer to Pindar."

New Yorker 44:160 My 25 '68 60w

STAUDE, JOHN RAPHAEL. Max Scheler, 1874-1928; an intellectual portrait, 298p $6.95 Free press

193 Scheler, Max Ferdinand 67-19239

A study of Scheler's "personal life and his shifting allegiances to various philosophies intended to heal the ideological, social, and cultural divisions of the German Empire and the . . . Republic that succeeded it. The author has pieced together the philosopher's biography from interviews with friends, professional associates, and two of his three wives. . . . [He attempts to describe] facets of Scheler's inner life and his relations with other intellectuals of the period—Max Weber, Ernst Troeltsch, Henri Bergson, Werner Sombart, Georg Lukacs, Hermann Keyserling, Edmund Husserl, Ernst Robert Curtius, Martin Heidegger, and the Spanish philosopher Ortega y Gasset." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

"The tortured career of Max Scheler emerges, in this useful study . . . as a symbol of European intellectual unrest before and after World War I. . . . Neither sage, saint nor scholar, he never quite balanced the richness of his expectations against the poverty of his own reality. His professional failure, the author argues, derived from the conditions of his personal life. Scheler's significant influence on his younger philosophical colleagues—notably Martin Heidegger, Ernst Cassirer and Gabriel Marcel—receives little notice in this work. The portrait of him presented here, however, provides a valuable full-length study (the only one in English) of a man who tried to live between two worlds. For many modern Christians torn between these conflicting ideals, the book is particularly interesting for what it suggests but leaves unstated." D. A. Drennen

America 118:88 Ja 20 '68 500w

"The years when as a convert to Roman Catholicism [Scheler] stood at the center of the intellectual quest and creativity which seemed for a while to give the Church new life are described by Staude with rare skill. . . . Staude's book is effectively written in view of the great complexity of the sociological philosophy under consideration. One might quarrel here and there, particularly when it is argued that a Drydenesque opportunism was part of Scheler's character." G. N. Shuster

Am Hist R 73:1182 Ap '68 390w

Reviewed by Werner Stark

Am Soc R 33:304 Ap '68 800w

"Scheler has had a considerable influence on European thought, both in sociology and philosophy. We are, therefore, indebted to Professor Staude for explaining this influence and for illuminating the dynamics of an enigmatic personality. The author has had the advantage of extensive conversations with Scheler's second wife and with a number of surviving friends and colleagues; he also shows a wide-ranging knowledge of intellectual and political currents in Germany during the first part of this century. Professor Staude has sensibly concentrated on Scheler's social and political philosophy, discussing his contributions to phenomenology, metaphysics, and educational theory only so far as these are relevant to his sociology." W. T. Jones

Ann Am Acad 376:210 Mr '68 470w

"[This study] fills a long-standing gap, being the first book-length study in English of the erratic but brilliant sociologist and philosopher. Scheler emerges as Germany's Thorstein Veblen—a rousing success sexually and a dismal failure vocationally. The social and political scene in Germany before and after World War I is also sketched. Interwoven with these two aspects of the study is the central concern: the turns and developments in, and underlying unity of, the diverse strands of Scheler's thought, especially his contributions to philosophy (phenomenology) and sociology (of knowledge). Here the parallel with Veblen breaks down, for Scheler's brilliance is rather more like sparks flying than a constellation. . . . Staude's portrait derives from his own unobtrusive version of the sociology—and psychology—of knowledge. A good introductory study, not definitive. Recommended."

Choice 5:66 Mr '68 190w

STAVIG, MARK. John Ford and the traditional moral order, 225p $6.95 Univ. of Wis. press

828 Ford, John

68-14030

The author's "intention is to provide 'a historical but critical evaluation of all of Ford's work in the hope that some of the still disputed questions about his contribution may be clarified'. The attempt falls into three parts: two chapters on Ford's early non-dramatic work, describing his philosophical assumptions and literary techniques; a chapter on Ford and the drama of his time; and interpretative analyses of Ford's independent plays, using the methods of historical criticism. . . . Professor Stavig says 'the more we can learn about the methods of Ford's theater and the attitude of Ford and his audience, the closer we will be to the plays themselves.'" (TLS) Bibliography. Index.

"Stavig makes it easier for us to read Ford's dramas. The problem of how to evaluate his apparently sympathetically portrayed lovers as they pursue their obviously downward courses is solved by learning about the moral concerns and dramatic forms of the Caroline period. . . . [The author's] interpretations of the plays are masterful and should stop the confused nonsense about them that has been appearing from Hazlitt and Lamb until T. S. Eliot and the more recent academic critics. Perhaps now directors can give the public clearer performances of these striking dramas. The third chapter is an excellent short summary of conclusions about Jacobean and Caroline drama. . . . Stavig's style, although not distinguished, is clear and concise."

Choice 5:982 O '68 170w

"[It is in] establishing Ford's indebtedness to the ideas of his time . . . that Professor Stavig's book makes its welcome appearance. . . . The method produces interesting results from the early non-dramatic work. . . . The chapter on 'Ford's Early Ethical Thought' is . . . illuminating. Ford emerges as 'a traditional and quite orthodox Christian who was deeply influenced by classical ethics', and the analyses of A Line of Life, Christ's Bloody Sweat, and The Golden Mean (all of which Professor Stavig accepts as Ford's) document the orthodoxy at every turn. These chapters are a valuable contribution to Ford scholarship."

TLS p800 Jl 25 '68 700w

"Stavig argues that Ford's moral assumptions are entirely orthodox and traditional and that his plays have been drastically misread by nineteenth-century critics and their successors who have insisted upon treating Ford and his heroes as rebels. . . . The evidence Stavig accumulates is useful and important, but the critical inference he draws from it—that Ford's dramaturgy can be reduced to his moral assumptions—seems unconvincing and unsophisticated. It is at least arguable that the theatrical emphases of Ford's plays—especially of plays like 'Love's Sacrifice' and 'The Broken Heart'—are not designed either to affirm or deny moral assumptions, and that the real issue with Ford is [that he may be] . . . deliberately manipulating traditional moral conceptions for discrete and often meretricious theatrical effects."

Va Q R 44:clvi autumn '68 130w

STEADMAN, JOHN M. Milton and the renaissance hero. 209p $5.60 Oxford

821 Milton, John. Epic poetry [67-102923]

The author "examines some of Milton's qualities as a radical traditionalist. . . . In Paradise Lost, according to Dr. Steadman, the conventional heroic is depicted and heightened only to be set aside. It is exposed as the false heroic, the negative exemplum, the Satanic eidolon, as opposed to the Son's true image of the Father." (TLS) Bibliography. Index.

"A significant, provocative study by a widely published Miltonist, which increases one's appreciation of Milton's achievement in his three major poems, though it may overstate. Steadman supports his thesis that Paradise Lost is a 'counter-epic' . . . simultaneously imitating and undermining classical and Renaissance heroic formulae of fortitude, sapience, leadership, amor, and magnanimity; he does not demonstrate satisfactorily, however, that Milton has thereby risked a revolutionary hypothesis in poetics similar to Copernicus' in astronomy. . . . The omission of line references in poetry quotations and of citations to the particular edition from which the quotations come is annoying as is the constant use of Roman numeral divisions within chapters. But the content . . . and attractive style, make the book desirable for any college library."

Choice 4:1384 F '68 150w

"[A] cogently argued book. . . . Readers of learned journals will be aware of the formidable merits of Dr. Steadman's scholarship in picking out and illuminating certain stubborn but limited areas of obscurity. It is more than interesting to read a book in which he allows himself the larger view. . . . There is more substance in [his] view of Milton, intimidating though it is, than in the older view of the poet deadlocked with the Puritan, a private stalemate projected upon the screen of literature. In the newer version, a design is at work, though perhaps with chilling efficiency. Yet the modern view also, when stated in its starkness, may be less than just to the complexity of the poem."

. . . The main and important merit of Dr. Steadman's book is that it obliges us to look again at a perennial problem within a content of argument that is both intelligently shaped and lucidly presented."

TLS p134 F 8 '68 300w

Va Q R 44:1xi spring '68 90w

STEARN, GERALD EMANUEL, ed. McLuhan: hot & cool; a primer for the understanding of & a critical symposium with a rebuttal by McLuhan. 312p $6.95 Dial press

001.5 McLuhan, Herbert Marshall 66-27387

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Reviewed by Dennis Duffy

Canadian Forum 48:48 My '68 200w

Choice 4:1370 F '68 70w

Reviewed by John Quirk

Commonweal 87:508 Ja 26 '68 950w

STEARN, JESS. The search for the girl with the blue eyes. 304p $4.95 Doubleday

154.7 MacIver, Joanne. Hypnotism 67-20920

The author investigates the case of Joanne MacIver, "a young Canadian girl who, under hypnosis, recalls a life she lived in Canada 100 years ago as one Susan Gainer, an almost illiterate farm woman who spent most of her adult life as a solitary childless widow." (Library J)

"[This] will doubtless be as avidly read, believed or pooh-poohed, as was the famous case some years back of Bridey Murphy. Stearn was assigned to the story and recounts his painstaking search for factual evidence that would confirm or confound the claim of reincarnation. The suspensefulness wears thin at times only to quicken again pages later."

Best Sell 28:82 My 15 '68 150w

Reviewed by Carol Tefft

Library J 93:2742 J1 '68 60w [YA]

"This investigation by Mr. Stearn into the occult seems hardly worth his time or worthy of his talents. . . . Stearn conscientiously tried to find records of the Gainer family's existence, but he had little luck. Joanne is a bright, attractive girl and when he is writing about her in her present incarnation, the book comes alive. Otherwise there are long, dull passages which do little to advance the case for reincarnation or even to hold the reader's attention until he reaches the last section when we learn what it is like to die and then to come back to earth in a foetal state. This book is only for the most avid readers on this subject." E. T. Smith

Library J 93:2887 Ag '68 160w

STEARNS, MONROE. The story of New England; ill. with prints and paintings by Paul Revere, John Singleton Copley, Gilbert Stuart, Winslow Homer, and many other New England artists, as well as maps and photographs. (Landmark giant) 179p $3.95; lib bdg $3.99 Random house

917.4 New England—Juvenile literature 67-20387

This is an account of the six New England States and their people, "from Miles Standish to John F. Kennedy. Here in words and pictures are the Pilgrims, Puritans, Minutemen, Yankee seamen, Irish and other New Englanders who have contributed to the growth of their region." (Publisher's note) Chronology. Annotated bibliography. Index. "Grades seven to ten." (Library J)

Best Sell 27:363 D 1 '67 60w

"[This book] gives short shrift to everything since the Revolution, and is largely just one more account of America's beginnings." Alden Vaughan

Book World p26 F 25 '68 100w

"New England . . . is described in a sprightly manner that will hold readers' attention. The text . . . is more sophisticated than the large size format and profuse illustrations might indicate. In general, statements are accurate. . . . Excellent black-and-white photographs and reproductions and three maps add to the information in the text." Elvajejan Hall

Library J 92:4629 D 15 '67 110w

STEARNS, PETER N. European society in upheaval; social history since 1800. 425p $7.95; pa $3.50 Macmillan (N Y)

309.14 Europe—Social conditions 67-13147

"The first section of this book deals with European society around 1780, before industrialization. . . . The demographic, industrial, and political forces of change [are] outlined in the second section. . . . The third section of the book deals roughly with the period 1800-1870. It focuses on the first generations to live under the impact of industrialization and therefore deals primarily with western Europe. . . . The First World War and the Russian revolution brought further social change to all regions. . . . [while] the impact of economic depression and the Second World War opened a [still] more basic change in European society. . . . An outline of the new social climate is possible and with this the book will end." (Introd) Bibliography. Index.

"One of the pioneering works in a new field of study, this . . . volume analyses new vistas of European history as they relate to European society as a whole." C. L. Hohl

America 116:696 My 6 '67 40w

"[This book] fills a need if ever an introductory text did: there simply has been no introduction to modern European social history. . . . Stearns has written a scholarly and readable text, unencumbered by footnotes and containing a selective, helpful bibliography. The emphasis is on the development of social classes, conventionally conceived, but disclosing close relationships to economic and political developments. . . . Usable on any level of college work: an interesting book that genuinely creates new understandings for those who have neglected nonpolitical aspects of history."

Choice 4:1168 D '67 160w

STEDMAN, JANE W., ed. Gilbert before Sullivan. See Gilbert, W. S.

STEEL, RONALD. Pax Americana. 371p $6.95 Viking

327.73 U.S.—Foreign relations. World politics—1945—. U.S.—Military policy 67-16965

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Choice 4:1321 Ja '68 160w

Reviewed by F. H. Soward
Pacific Affairs 40:315 fall-winter '67-
'68 400w

Reviewed by Charles Gati
World Pol 21:133 O '68 1800w

STEELE, MAX. Where she brushed her hair, and other stories. 215p $5.95 Harper
67-28821

The author, head of the creative writing program at the University of North Carolina, has collected fourteen stories, written from 1946 to 1967, which originally appeared in periodicals such as The New Yorker, Harper's Magazine, Paris Review, and others.

"Lunatic logic . . . illuminates everything this author writes. It is nearly impossible to describe it. One can say, for instance, that 'Promiscuous Unbound' is the story of an affair between a six-year-old boy and a thirty-two-year-old woman but without reading it no one can believe the complete conviction that its arrant nonsense carries. The author solemnly, smilingly, turns our values upside down and makes us take another look at the human comedy. By the author of the Harper Prize novel, Debby [BRD 1950], now reissued under the title The Goblins Go Barefoot." K. G. Jackson

Harper 236:101 F '68 140w

Reviewed by L. E. Bone
Library J 92:4435 D 1 '67 190w

"[Steele's] Southern settings and characters are seldom utilized for quaintness alone. Admittedly, one or two of his stories are perversely freakish and overplayed—but more than half are amazingly successful. . . . When the author deals with the relations between children and the aged, his clarity of vision saves him from archness. . . . The title story is that rarest of discoveries: an experiment that works." J. R. Frakes

N Y Times Bk R p42 Ap 28 '68 250w

"Sometimes wild, sometimes tender, the stories follow a pattern of their own. . . . They almost all deal with intense moments when a character stands revealed for an instant. And yet the drama is understated and there is very little (and often very minor) action. . . . Mr. Steele's stories are like scenes glimpsed from a moving train: situations that may lead to something, but one is never around to find out what. It isn't necessary; there is an odd sort of completeness to the fragment. . . . These tales are hard to describe and impossible to summarize adequately. There is bright fantasy in some, originality in all. They are sophisticated in the best sense." Elizabeth Easton

Sat R 51:31 F '10 '68 700w

STEELE ROBERT. The cataloging and classification of cinema literature. 133p $4 Scarecrow

025.4 Cataloging—Moving pictures. Classification—Books
67-12056

The author "investigated the classification practices of a number of libraries . . . holding the major collections of film literature in North America. . . . The four classification schemes which make up the heart of his book represent the . . . most thorough cinema expansions in English that Steele was able to locate. . . . They include: 1) an expansion of Dewey's '791.4 Motion Pictures' . . . [from] the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences; 2) the Canadian Film Institute Library's adaptation of the 1954 draft expansion of the Universal Decimal Classification's '791.4 Motion Pictures' drawn up by the Film Documentation Committee of the British Film Institute; 3) the classification scheme of the Museum of Modern Art Library; . . . and 4) Steele's own expansion of the Library of Congress Classification's 'PN 1993-PN 1999.'" (Library J) A portion of this book was published in the Journal of the Society of Cinematologists. Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by D. P. Teisberg
Library J 93:734 F 15 '68 280w

"The volume sets out in an easily usable form [four] classification schemes. . . . More fleeting attention is given to the schemes of the British Film Institute, the University of California, the University of Southern California, the University of Wisconsin, and Asheville-Biltmore College. . . . Each of the collections—though all are concerned with cinema literature—offers enough variety of problems to provide a thorough examination of the field. . . . I can see advantages and disadvantages in all of the systems. Steele's volume, however, offers enough variety and detail so that it should provide some kind of workable solution to all. . . . [It will] find valued use and will become part of the working tools of many librarians." Paul Myers

LRTS 12:373 summer '68 340w

STEELE, ROBERT V. P. Delmonico's. See Thomas, L.

STEELE, ROBERT V. P. The first President Johnson. See Thomas, L.

STEERE, WILLIAM C., ed. Wild flowers of the United States, v2, 2pts. See Rickett, H. W.

STEGER, H. U. Travelling to Tripiti; tr. from the German by Elizabeth D. Crawford. unp col il $4.95 Harcourt
68-1203

"Theodore had once been a beautiful teddy bear, but now, old and missing one ear and one eye, he has been tossed away on the dump. . . . [When] he met Kaspar, the wooden horse, in the rubbish pit, they decided to travel to Tripiti [a fishing village] together. . . . They were joined by Flora the wooden cow, Trudi the doll, Mischa the tractor driver, and other broken and abandoned toys. They passed over mountains and rivers, through valleys and cities until they had travelled half across Europe and had finally reached their goal." (Publisher's note) "Kindergarten to grade two." (Library J)

Reviewed by Anne Izard
Book World p7 (children's issue) My ■
'68 130w

Horn Bk 44:410 Ag '68 150w

"[The toys] wander through a landscape not named here but identifiable as Switzerland, the Balkans, the Middle East, and Greece. The story is too long for many kindergarteners to sit through, but they will pore over the illustrations, which are sweeping double page spreads of richly detailed, colorful scenery and action." G. B. Herman

Library J 93:2109 My 15 '68 100w

"The story line is thin, but the illustrations are rich with ingenious, oft-repeated detail. The style is decidedly European—not a slick chick by Mattel in the whole lot. A double page of greens evokes a lush forest; a spread of grays is a dreary, dismal rainstorm, and tucked away somewhere in each scene is always Theodore and most of his growing retinue." M. E. Ballou

N Y Times Bk R p34 Ap 21 '68 100w

"[This] is rather an interesting first children's book by a Swiss cartoonist. . . . [Children] would probably be intrigued by this, and rush to the atlas to find out exactly where those toys did get to."

TLS p1148 N 30 '67 140w

STEGNER, PAGE. The edge; a novel. 250p $4.95 Dial press
67-25307

The author of Escape into Aesthetics: the Art of Vladimir Nabokov (BRD 1966) has written a first novel set in California. "The scene opens at a seedy Big Sur resort where a child wakes to find his father not beside him. The boy wanders out . . . and eventually discovers his beach ball at the edge of the cliff over the sea. While retrieving the ball, he falls and drowns. This event sends his father to a mental hospital from which we are treated to a review of a life of apathy and irresponsibility in search of pure 'freedom.'" (Library J)

Reviewed by Phoebe Adams
Atlantic 221:143 F '68 50w

Reviewed by H. T. Anderson
Best Sell 27:404 Ja 15 '68 490w

Reviewed by Kenneth Lamott
Book World p14 F 4 '68 370w

"If a nightmare can be beautiful this is one transferred to the printed page. It is a first novel about people living on the edge of our continent—Big Sur, Santa Barbara, San Francisco (though most of them have come from somewhere else)—on the economic edge, and particularly in the case of Ryan, the narrator, on the edge—or over it—of sanity. . . . The story of how it happened . . . is one of the most painful journeys of self-examination and assessment I have read, a kind of psychedelic, schizophrenic dream with scenes and moods drifting in and out in apparent chaos and confusion, but it is beautiful because Mr. Stegner's sense of compassion and an ironclad artistic discipline impose an unbelievable tension and form on the chaos. One rides the whirlwind but does not get lost in it." K. G. Jackson

STEGNER, PAGE—Continued

Harper 236:100 F '68 210w

"Ryan, the father, has hated the world and everything in it since childhood. He was kicked out of prep school, cheated his way through high school and college, married his buddy's girl on the death of the friend, refused to face the examination for his advanced degree; and, finally, quit both school and family. Since he is on the edge of insanity, the story is told in flashbacks that are confused and misty. Ryan, the selfish semi-beatnick, is not a sympathetic character; so the reader is left with just another book about the alienated generation that is not worth the price." S. L. Mott
Library J 92:4526 D 15 '67 180w

Reviewed by Sara Blackburn
Nation 206:315 Mr 4 '68 320w

Reviewed by Robert Kirsch
N Y Times Bk R p37 Ja 28 '68 500w

"[Stegner] has chosen to tell the story in a way that creates many problems, most of which he solves. . . . As he looks back in anguish, Ryan . . . relies not only on memory but also on letters, manuscripts, and other documents. Out of these materials the reader is invited to reconstruct the character of Ryan . . . [who] is irresponsible, primarily because he has such a feeble grasp of reality. . . . Scene after scene deepens our feeling for the man, and when he realizes that one more effort at self-justification, represented by this narrative, has failed, we are not indifferent to his desperation. Both in conception and execution the novel indicates that Stegner is someone to be reckoned with. If his figures of speech are sometimes labored, they are often brilliantly original. If he has deliberately created a maze, he has known how to guide his readers through it." Granville Hicks

Sat R 51:19 Ja 20 '68 320w

TLS p1346 N 28 '68 190w

STEIG, WILLIAM. C D B! unip il $2.95 Windmill bks; for sale by Simon & Schuster

793.7 Word games—Juvenile literature 68-25755

Illustrated examples of a "word game based on letter sounds." (Commonweal) "Age eight and up." (N Y Times Bk R)

Christian Century 89:1604 D 18 '68 20w

Reviewed by L. P. Scanlon
Commonweal 89:294 N 22 '68 10w

Reviewed by Marjorie Lewis
Library J 93:4727 D 15 '68 90w

"Buying [this book] is your decision if you like this form of a rebus where words are deciphered out of letter sounds and numbers and you don't mind stuttering and stumbling over your tongue—and laughing." G. A. Woods
N Y Times Bk R p42 N 24 '68 110w

"Add to the ingratiating quality of Steig's drawings the fun of playing with words made out of letters, and you have a book that is sheer chucklebait. For example, an ice skater pauses to ask, 'R U O K?' and the just-fallen companion politely replies 'S N-Q.' . . . The book jacket says this is for ages six to ten, but it's wrong. Too difficult for the beginning reader, C D B! is for everybody older with a sense of humor." Zena Sutherland
Sat R 51:37 O 19 '68 90w [YA]

STEIG, WILLIAM. Roland the minstrel pig. 32p il $4.95; to libs & schools $4.43 Windmill bks.

Pigs—Stories 68-14923

Roland, the hero, is "a singer and lute player, who goes forth into the world after fame and wealth, wearing a plumed cap. Suddenly he is joined by Sebastian the fox and they go on together. 'Roland dreaming and the fox scheming,' Sebastian, who likes Roland's singing, relishes roast pig even more. But when he gets Roland where he wants him, the pig bursts into song, the King hears and rescues him, and Roland ends up in glory while Sebastian wastes his life away in prison on a diet of stale bread, sour grapes and water." (Book World) "Ages four to seven" (N Y Times Bk R)

"Steig . . . gives us a beguiling pig hero in Roland. . . . The nice thing about [this] book is that parents are likely to enjoy [it] as much as their young ones." Polly Goodwin
Book World p12 S 1 '68 160w

Reviewed by P. M. Daltry
Christian Science Monitor pB2 My 2 '68 170w

Reviewed by S. D. Long
Horn Bk 44:410 Ag '68 180w

Reviewed by J. C. Thomson
Library J 93:3294 S 15 '68 150w

"The story is somewhat traditional, but Mr. Steig, a cartoonist for The New Yorker, gives it a grand style and infuses it with special graces: the modest accomplishments of Roland's balladry . . . moments of peril and poignancy, gentle humor and illustrations that range from the hauntingly lovely to the regally resplendent. Happiness? It might very well be in having . . . [this] book." G. A. Woods
N Y Times Bk R p34 Ap 21 '68 220w

STEIN, M. L. Under fire; the story of American war correspondents. 256p pl $4.95; lib bdg $4.64 Messner

920 Journalists 68-14950

This is the story "of the men and women who have reported on America's wars from the Civil War to Vietnam. Horace Greeley, Richard Harding Davis, Stephen Crane, William Randolph Hearst, Winston Churchill, Ernest Hemingway, Edward R. Murrow, Ernie Pyle, Robert Capa, Harrison Salisbury, Ted Yates, Horst Faas, Inez Robb, Marquerite Higgins, Margaret Bourke-White, and Dickey Chapelle are among those discussed. Radio and TV reporters are also introduced, as are those who staffed the Stars & Stripes." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

"In light of the coverage given to the Vietnam war and the recent loss of life of a number of journalists, the story will capture the imagination of the young reader. Most of the book deals with the coverage from World War II to the present, with special sections given to women and to radio and TV reporters." Best Sell 28:115 Je 1 '68 80w [YA]

"Mr. Stein's writing is crisp and graphic, entirely in keeping with his subjects and their work. Useful supplemental reading for American history students, this is also an important book for journalism classes and clubs." Jeraline Nerney

Library J 93:1816 Ap 15 '68 150w

STEIN, ROGER B. John Ruskin and aesthetic thought in America, 1840-1900. 321p $8.95 Harvard univ. press

111.8 Ruskin. John. U.S.—Intellectual life 67-20883

A study of the rise and fall of Ruskin's influence in shaping American thought during the nineteenth century. "After a preview of 'the American setting' before 1840, Mr. Stein proceeds chronologically, offering a précis of Ruskin's chief works (from Modern Painters I in 1843, through The Stones of Venice and The Seven Lamps of Architecture) as they appeared in English and American editions. For each he cites pertinent journalistic reviews and individual critical responses by American writers, artists, and—frequently—ministers." (Am Lit) Bibliography. Index.

"[This] probing study of Ruskin's influence in this country . . . should rank as the definitive analysis of Ruskin's impact on aesthetic and critical thought in nineteenth-century America. . . . One price of the chronological approach and inclusive coverage is the inevitable repetition of Ruskin's views and critical aphorisms as they appeared seriatim in his numerous public statements; by the end of the book the reader feels saturated with familiar dicta. . . . Within an eminently scholarly context Mr. Stein explains why, after Ruskin's influence had flourished so vigorously and so long, it ultimately declined. . . . [He] has also succeeded in his larger aim of exploring for nineteenth-century Americans 'the meaning of nature, the role of religion, and . . . the place of art in the new democracy.'" D. H. Dickason
Am Lit 40:241 My '68 800w

"A valuable and well-documented contribution. . . . Stein never loses sight of his larger themes—the relation of Ruskin's theories about art and architecture to American intellectual concern with the relations of man and nature, the differing receptiveness of various religious sects, the confrontation with scientific materialism, and the function of art in a democratic society. . . . [He] also takes notice of the impact of aesthetic theory on practicing artists as well as on theorists. Although there are a few traces of academic dissertation style, the book is written lucidly and with easy control of detail. It deserves a place in any good undergraduate as well as graduate library." Choice 5:626 J1 '68 130w

"With consummate scholarship, with wide-ranging, yet amazingly detailed command of such varied subjects as literature, science, theology, and economics, Stein has produced an impressive panorama of the whole American cultural scene . . . [in] so attractive a literary style [as] makes this work an outstanding contribution to American history. . . . Teachers of American social history would be advised to place it on their students' 'required reading' lists. . . . There is an attractive objectivity about this work, for its author is no special pleader for Ruskin. . . . [He shows] that Ruskin's original popularity was due to his articulate expression of what Americans already believed, namely, that the foundation not only of aesthetics but of all life itself was a moral one. The decline in Ruskin's popularity stemmed from the decline in the belief in the moral law. . . . It is Stein's wide consideration of these matters which gives his book both its value and its sweep." W. S. Tryon J Am Hist 55:132 Je '68 450w

"This rather weighty study will do little to move [Ruskin] off the heap of cast-off eminent Victorians. Aestheticians and cultural historians should have some interest in this volume." G. A. Cvasco Library J 92:3628 O 15 '67 150w

STEINBERG, ALFRED. Sam Johnson's boy; a close-up of the president from Texas. 871p $9.95 Macmillan (N Y)

B or 92 Johnson, Lyndon Baines, U.S.—Politics and government—20th century 68-21306

This biography gives an "account of Johnson's life and political career from his childhood to the early months of 1968." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by Maurice Adelman America 119:571 N 80 '68 80w

Reviewed by W. H. Stringer Christian Science Monitor p9 Ag 3 '68 330w

"Steinberg's purpose is to show how, by ruthless and self-seeking determination, a poor and obscure Texas boy enriched himself and rose to a political height beyond his capacities. Drawing heavily on personal interviews, [the author] weaves a richly detailed and colorful narrative packed with anecdotes and human interest. Though highly readable, the book is far from being a balanced appraisal of LBJ as a politician and statesman. Also, better proportion would have resulted had he given more space to the Presidential years. Lack of balance and heavy reliance on unidentified sources of information limit the book's use to popular reading." T. M. Bogie Library J 93:2646 J1 '68 130w

"The many anti-Johnson scenes, stories, moods, and motives will unfailingly please his most severe critics whether of the Left or Right. But this fat, gossipy book contains little of interest to scholars. Certainly it cannot qualify as serious biography, though it is being advertised as such. . . . There are some truths in Steinberg's book. . . . But there are half-truths; distortions; too much open rancor." L. L. King New Repub 159:30 Ag 3 '68 1100w

"Steinberg does more than sketch Johnson; he sets him against an equally colorful portrayal of the Texas political world and the U.S. Senate. The Texas political ethos, as drawn by Steinberg, is at once fascinating for its passions and personalities, but repellent for its greed and cynicism. . . . And his picture of an amoral Johnson as Senate Majority Leader, wheeling and dealing, compromising and bullying, is as vivid as his portrayal of Texas politics. . . . Much of the book's final section is devoted to a rehash of old material. . . . Finally, the closing chapters are marred by cheap attacks." Patrick Anderson N Y Times Bk R p3 J1 28 '68 950w

Reviewed by Saul Maloff Newsweek 72:80 J1 15 '68 380w

Reviewed by Carroll Kilpatrick Sat R 51:32 S 21 '68 600w

STEINER, STAN. The new Indians. 348p pl $7.95 Harper

301.451 Indians of North America. Indians of North America—Government relations. U.S.—Race relations 67-22509

The author, a teacher at Yeshiva University, New York, attempts to present the thoughts and attitudes of the Indian toward his past, present and future position in American society. "The civil rights movement among American Indians started after World War II. . . . Led by a group of young college-educated men and women, these movements have always used peaceful methods, including dance-ins and the formation of such action groups as the National Indian Youth Council and National Congress of American Indians. . . . [They] reject the Government's attempts to impose white culture on them and to break up tribal organizations." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by W. L. Lucey America 118:611 My 4 '68 70w

Reviewed by J. A. Phillips Best Sell 27:480 Mr 15 '68 650w

"Steiner has visited most of the Indian nations in America and in this book has done an excellent reporting job on contemporary Indian attitudes. One of the book's more interesting disclosures is that there is a growing red power movement among the younger Indians. The red power movement differs from the black power movement only in that it is not so large, there is no anti-Semitism and there has so far been no violence attached to it. . . . The indifference to the Indians and the silent exploitation of them by the whites (which began before the blacks got here), and the Indians' reaction to this, is what Stan Steiner's book is all about. The new Indian is someone who generally has gone to college, but this did not 'civilize' him. As a matter of fact it increased his alienation. He is horrified at things being done to him and being done for him. He is rebelling against his guardian, the Great White Father." William Eastlake Book World p4 F 13 '68 800w

Reviewed by H. R. Matern Christian Century 85:686 My 22 '68 650w

Reviewed by Judith Rascoe Christian Science Monitor p13 Ap 11 '68 850w

"Steiner, who traveled among the Indian tribes and gained the cooperation of many Indians, young and old, has written a behind-the-scenes book. He has used the words of the Indians themselves to explain the movement. An excellent exposition, and an essential purchase for most libraries." H. E. Smith Library J 93:202 Ja 15 '68 140w

Reviewed by Regina Minudri Library J 93:1336 Mr 15 '68 90w [YA]

"The subject is timely and complex; here it is given both unity and perspective. . . . Some striking figures emerge: a young alcoholic who detests himself and wishes to die, a veteran who is cleansed of the contamination of war by means of an ancient ritual. . . . These people are not the masks of that racial stereotype which has emerged in art and history—the American Indian. They are individuals. . . . But there is a common denominator that serves to unite them now as never before; they share an absolute sense of cultural identity." N. S. Momaday N Y Times Bk R p22 Mr 17 '68 600w

"[The author] has set out to record the activities—so far sporadic but promising—and attitudes of the leaders of the 'Red Power' movement. . . . [He] accomplishes what he sets out to do, but [the book] suffers because he limits himself to recording the political thoughts and deeds of a small vanguard without examining their religion, the diversity of their tribal backgrounds, or the historical development of the problems that Indians face today. In none of these respects can his book bear comparison with Edmund Wilson's brilliant Apologies to the Iroquois [BRD 1960]. Lack of organization and turgid prose also weaken the Steiner work." Meredith Brown Sat R 51:47 F 24 '68 550w

STEINMANN, MARTIN, ed. New rhetorics; ed. by Martin Steinmann, Jr. 250p $4.95; pa $2.95 Scribner

808.04 Rhetoric

67-11320

These twelve essays "are concerned with the new and emerging concepts of rhetoric. [The authors] include not only rhetoricians but also scholars from a number of other fields, including linguistics, psychology, sociology, philosophy, and communication." (Publisher's note) Bibliography.

"[This] anthology must be judged by the degree to which it gives easy access to material otherwise dispersed in a set of journals we may not all read and the degree to which it does introduce us to a new set of approaches to a common problem. On both counts I think that the anthology must be judged useful. One could argue with the inclusion of particular articles (why A. C. S. Ross in the curtailed form from Noblesse Oblige, which is easily available?) or with a particular essay (does the clotted prose of Hovland, Jams, and Kelley induce confidence in what they say about rhetoric?), but one must conclude that the book will be a most useful introduction to one of the new directions in English studies." R. J. Baker

Canadian Forum 48:116 Ag '68 700w

"The essays are well chosen and serve as a useful survey of the relatively recent renewal of interest in rhetoric. . . . Without exception, the essays represent mature work of major scholars. . . . Recommended."

Choice 4:1259 Ja '68 90w

"This is a highly useful book, which should certainly be a part of any college library. It will be even more useful if it is supplemented by titles drawn from the editor's regrettably brief Bibliography." J. A. Rycenga

Library J 92:1160 Mr 15 '67 130w

STEPHEN, JAMES FITZJAMES. Liberty, equality, fraternity; ed. with an introd. and notes by R. J. White. 290p $7.50 Cambridge

320.01 Liberty. Equality. Mill, John Stuart 67-24942

This is a reissue based on the 1874 "edition in which Stephen added extensive footnotes dealing with the attacks made on his doctrines by John Morley and other liberal critics. There is a brief introductory essay on Stephen's political philosophy, a list of his writings, and a bibliographical note." (Choice)

"Libraries which do not have a copy of Stephen's classic attack . . . should obtain this volume. White's numerous footnotes identifying and commenting on persons and places mentioned in the text will be helpful even to students familiar with the period."

Choice 5:1194 N '68 130w

"Stephen's book is something of a Victorian classic, and although only a few thousand copies of it may ever have been sold, its ideas permeated the mind of a generation. . . . [It] is an answer to John Stuart Mill's essay On Liberty, not the only answer that was published, but certainly the most thoroughgoing, and the one which most completely represents conservative Victorian opinion as against Mill's advanced, and, let it be admitted, rather peculiar liberalism. The book is brilliantly and powerfully written, and deserved to be made accessible again. . . . [It is] a general weakness of [this] book, compared with Mill's essay, that the proper philosophical attitude of calm inquiry does not come naturally to [Stephen] and sometimes he is carried away by the force of his own rhetoric."

TLS p1093 O 3 '68 3000w

STEPHENS, EDWARD CARL. A turn in the dark wood. 284p $4.95 Doubleday

67-19128

The "hero of this novel is Joe Loam, a New York executive who handles the Krispie Krunchie breakfast account for the Missionary Mills Company. To compensate for his frustrations—for sexual problems, for impending old age, . . . and for a hundred other sources of discontent, Loam [eats] inordinate amounts of food and drink. . . . Then Vivian Biltmore comes into his life. Ah, lovely Vivian, Queen of the Underground Movies! . . . He is the happiest man in the world. He almost dies on Vivian's couch from a stroke. . . . Viewing his stroke as a badge of executive courage (and his adventure with envy), his company bestows suitable rewards on him, finally making him company president." (Best Sell)

"Joe Loam is Babbitt reincarnate, but Babbitt with a difference—a Babbitt, that is, who can act out his erotic fantasies in the broad-daylight language and actions of the taboo-less novel. In a few instances the freedom seems to hurt the novel; the overly clinical treatment of sex tends to diminish the comedy, as though the novel were at crosspurposes with itself. Nevertheless, much of the novel is marvellously satirical." Peter Corodimas

Best Sell 27:347 D 1 '67 480w

"The author has produced a too-convincing picture of a complete bore. . . . Condensed, this could be funny-pathetic satire. Drawn out, as it is, with descriptions of all of Al's school-boy imaginings and frustrations, his insipid conversations with his wife, and his satisfaction with all that has to do with the alimentary processes, Mr. Stephens's [book] becomes—like its hero—dull." J. M. Hoagland

Library J 92:3448 O 1 '67 150w

"Having invented a splendidly porcine, fearful slob and placed him halfway between a thrombosis and a nervous breakdown, Mr. Stephens sends him off in too many directions, until a surfeit of funny coincidences and overlapping layers of nuttiness obscure the classic purity of his frustration. . . . Nonetheless, Mr. Stephens is a witty, inventive writer, and his story of an updated Babbitt's decline, fall and rise has a high quota of truly comic interludes." Martin Levin

N Y Times Bk R p22 D 17 '67 200w

Reviewed by Granville Hicks
Sat R 51:27 My 11 '68 600w

STEPHENS, IRLINE ROEMER, jt. ed. Library surveys. See Tauber, M. F.

STEPHENS, PEGGY. Octopus lives in the ocean. See Stephens, W. M.

STEPHENS, WILLIAM M. Octopus lives in the ocean [by] William M. Stephens and Peggy Stephens; il. by Anthony D'Attilio. 44p lib bdg $3.50 Holiday

594 Octopus—Juvenile literature 68-6339

This description of the life cycle of a mollusk follows him "from his mother's laying of eggs to the time when he matures enough to mate, following him through the plankton world of his babyhood to the tide pool and the ocean. . . . Grades one to three." (Library J)

"The octopus, that heavy of many an underwater TV adventure is presented realistically and sympathetically in [this book]. . . . Boys, especially, will be interested in this simply written, well-illustrated [account]." Julian May

Book World p34 (children's issue) N 3 '68 40w

"This does not duplicate material in O. Earle's Octopus and should be an excellent introduction to Miss Earle's book, which covers all members of the octopus family—squid, cuttle-fish, etc., and surveys the place of the octopus in the sea world. The illustrations for this new book are as factual and competent as the text." M. I. Purucker

Library J 93:4399 N 15 '68 100w

STEPHENSON, WILLIAM. The play theory of mass communication. 225p $5 Univ. of Chicago press

001.5 Communication 66-23700

This study isolates the "play element in newspaper-reading, television- and movie-watching, and radio-listening, and indicates its relevance to the whole of human behavior." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index of names. Subject index.

"The reviewer found this book to be very irritating. It is pompous in its claims, irresponsible in portraying and evaluating the work of other social scientists, and outdated in much of the data it presents. . . . It is also poorly organized and superficial in places. However, aside from the general tone of the book, . . . [it] does present both a theory and an admonition to study the media within a particular focus. It advocates the Q-sort technique, an individualistic framework, a denial of the validity of the group as a proper unit of theory, and a clear emphasis upon the play aspects of mass communication as subjective experience. . . . [But] it would be unfortunate for the scientific study of mass communication within the behavioral science tradition if we were to divert our attentions exclusively to the route advocated by this book." M. L. DeFleur

Am Soc R 33:482 Je '68 1200w

"This is an excellent book, in a very readable style, on research concepts and methodology in mass communication. Further, it reflects a conceptual breakthrough in defining the chief characteristics of mass media as entertainment. A knowledge of statistics is helpful but not essential to comprehension of its content. All communications research persons and programs should carefully study Stephenson's thesis and methods. The bibliography provides a wealth of resource data for researchers in mass communications."

Choice 4:1259 Ja '68 130w

STERLAND, E. G. Energy into power; the story of man and machines; pub. for the Am mus. of natural history. 252p il col il $5.95 Natural hist. press

621 Force and energy. Power (Mechanics). Machinery 67-16902

"The first section of this book deals with the sources of energy that can be turned into power. The second section presents the scientific principles that lie behind the conversion of energy into power. This section also shows how and why different kinds of machines have been developed. . . . The third section looks into the future." (Introd) Index.

Economist 223:921 My 27 '67 210w

"[The] most stimulating section discusses the eventual exhaustion of present fuel stocks and some promising new approaches to producing power. The quality of the illustrative material is outstanding. The photographs and diagrams are all pertinent and clearly show the points at issue. The complex problems presented in the text are illuminated by visual references placed near the textual discussion. A well-planned, highly informative discussion that can serve adults as well as young people." Oscar Wright

Library J 93:1330 Mr 15 '68 200w [YA]

STERLING, DOROTHY. Tear down the walls! a history of the American civil rights movement. 259p il $4.95; lib bdg $5.70 Doubleday
323.4 Negroes—Civil rights 68-14212

This account opens with Mrs. Rosa Parks and the 1955 Negro bus boycott in Montgomery, Alabama. It then relates the history of the Negroes from the coming of the slaves, the slave rebellions, the Civil War, and Reconstruction days. It concludes with the Civil Rights gains after the second World War, and the school desegregation and voter registration movements. Bibliography. Index.

"[The author] has written this history of the American Civil Rights Movement primarily for young readers. She reveals the frustration and the courage that has confronted Negroes in their attempts to maintain their rights in American society. . . . [traces] the establishment and the work of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), and other organizations, like the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE). . . . [and] provides illustrations which in themselves are a tragic reminder of the plight of American Negroes in our country today." B. D. Williams

Best Sell 28:272 O 1 '68 390w

"A deeply moving statement. . . . The book is replete with dramatic incidents which make it more stirring reading than either Bradford Chambers' Chronicles of Negro Protest [BRD 1968] or Robert Goldston's The Negro Revolution [BRD 1968], but the author's conclusions frequently lack validity—for example, her emphasis throughout on the activities of the NAACP and her relatively skimpy treatment of more militant organizations and philosophies currently active. . . . Grades six to nine." Leora Oglesby

Library J 93:4734 D 15 '68 130w

"[Mrs. Sterling] does not distort history. What she does is enliven and highlight it, and she does this by the sparing and skillful use of conventional narrative techniques: characterization, dialogue, action. . . . We come to know W. E. B. DuBois and Martin Luther King, and many more, and the nature of the villains in the piece as well: Kluxers, Red Shirts, Knights of the White Camelia. The story of the first great Negro migration (to Kansas in the 1870's) has never been told so well in brief." Saunders Redding

N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p5 My 5 '68 500w

Reviewed by Zena Sutherland
Sat R 51:70 N 9 '68 70w [YA]

STERN, DANIEL. The suicide academy. 173p $5.95 McGraw

68-22769

"The 'Academy' . . . is a private institution where people may go to decide whether or not to kill themselves. . . . The novel represents one unusual day in [Director Wolf] Walker's regimen. His anti-Semitic Negro assistant [Gilliatt], attempts to have him fired, by arguing that the Jew is always secretly on the side of life. . . . Two of his directors try to align him in favor of forcing decisions toward life and death. . . . [and finally], the Academy goes up in flames." (N Y Times Bk R)

Reviewed by D. F. Lawler
Best Sell 28:238 S 15 '68 280w

"Stern has made an anti-novel, which has the force of a poem. Themes of earlier novels (notably After the War [BRD 1967]) are turned here into brilliant metaphors. . . . The style is cool—a coolness which often heats—is sometimes jivey, sometimes rhetorical. . . . This striking essay-poem works best at its beginning and end. What trips the author up are his vestiges of realism in the long middle third. . . . Only when the book recovers its purity of image—in the fire . . . —does it recover itself." Lucy Rosenthal

Book World p10 S 1 '68 300w

Reviewed by Alan Harrington
Commonweal 89:126 O 25 '68 950w

Reviewed by A. L. Fessler
Library J 93:3580 O 1 '68 220w

"[The novel] combines realism and allegory, plays one against the other. . . . But often [Stern's] realism and allegory work to diminish each other. Stern writes beautiful prose, indeed rhetoric is the strongest side of his novel. . . . Style is perfectly suited to vision; balanced paradox is the novel's theme as well as method. . . . Stern seems most concerned with the way of erecting a plausible, realistic allegory, not with drawing conclusions. . . . Perhaps as a result of his methodological concerns, [his] vision is balanced, inconclusive. . . . The point seems to be that revelation and resolution are illusory in the novel and in life. . . . [If this] is correct, then it seems unfortunate that so talented a writer would place himself at the disadvantage of allowing his concerns with form to dictate his theme." Shaun O'Connell

Nation 207:407 O 21 '68 850w

Reviewed by Richard Rhodes
N Y Times Bk R p38 O 6 '68 600w
New Yorker 44:249 N 23 '68 100w

"Walker is so stereotyped a Jewish victim of the story that he comes out a mere smoggy abstraction. He talks and thinks endlessly. . . . most of the time pointlessly. . . . There is so much wordy vagueness to the story . . . that we almost forget a crucial point: feeling, mood, realization are of major importance; plot and structure count for little. . . . In view of the nightmarish subject-matter and allegorical intent of the novel, there is altogether too much singing and too little silence for this literary experiment to really succeed with most readers." S. I. Bellman

Sat R 51:39 S 21 '68 390w

STERN, FRITZ, jt. ed. The responsibility of power. See Krieger, L.

STERN, MADELEINE B. The pantarch: a biography of Stephen Pearl Andrews. 208p pl $6 Univ. of Tex. press

B or 92 Andrews, Stephen Pearl 68-18386

This biography relates Andrews' various roles as "American reformer, civil rights proponent, pioneer in sociology, advocate of reformed spelling, lawyer, and eccentric philosopher." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

Choice 5:1037 O '68 110w

"Readers who have small patience with Utopian thinkers are advised to steer clear of this biography. For Andrews (1812-1886) displayed to a superlative degree the faults of a cosmic dreamer, along with some of the prophetic virtues, and his humorless combination of infinite egotism and a turgid style seems likely to infuriate many. . . . Miss Stern provides a well-organized and richly documented account of a disorganized and Quixotic existence. . . . The Pantarch remains a provocative curiosity and a marginal figure in American history. But the very extravagance and effrontery of his claims for himself command attention if not admiration." H. A. Larrabee

STERN, M. B.—Continued

New Eng Q 41:453 S '68 750w

"Madeleine Stern has provided us with a long needed and thorough biography of the exuberant, versatile, and pedantic nineteenth-century anarchist. . . . Even after finishing the biography the historian might well sympathize with a contemporary of Andrews who wrote that 'the world at large is unable to determine whether he was a crank or the founder of a great system of philosophy.'"
Va Q R 44:cix summer '68 130w

STERN, MARIO RIGONI. See Rigoni Stern, M.

STERN, ROBERT M. Foreign trade and economic growth in Italy; pub. in coop. with the Univ. of Mich. Graduate res. seminar in int. economics. 216p $12.50 Praeger

332 Italy—Economic conditions—1946-. Italy—Commerce. Economics, Mathematical
66-17366

"The purpose of this study is to examine the role which the export sector in particular has played in Italy's postwar economic growth. . . . We begin in Chapter 1 with a brief presentation and interpretation of the major outlines in the growth of the Italian economy from 1950-64. Chapter 2 contains a recapitulation of the important postwar developments which have occurred in Italy's merchandise export and import trade. The remaining substantive Chapters 3-5 consider the question of whether exports can be assigned a special role in the Italian growth experience. We close in Chapter 6 with a discussion of the main findings of the study and an examination of the implications which these findings may have for Italy's economic growth in the future." (Pref) Bibliography.

"This book is a model of its kind. . . . Professor Stern believes that he clearly establishes the importance of exports in shaping the structure and development of Italy's manufacturing industries in the postwar period. Whether the facts better fit the model of Lamfalussy. . . . or of Beckerman. . . . could not be established with the aggregative data available. . . . Professor Stern is hopeful that further disaggregation and improved statistical techniques for separating out the causes of improved productivity will clear up the remaining mystery. The noneconometrician may, nonetheless, have doubts. Professor Stern ignores import substitution as a significant factor in Italian growth. . . . [His] models are all linear. . . . This reviewer is disposed to take exception with the price of this book. . . . It is particularly unhappy that [it should not be] made available more widely in the normal university press run, priced at something like 2 cents instead of 5 cents a page." C. P. Kindleberger
Ann Am Acad 375:243 Ja '68 750w

"Will appeal to a limited audience of specialists in international economics and/or Italian economic history. . . . The most substantial, and rewarding, portion of the book is devoted to the empirical testing of both the Lamfalussy and Beckerman 'export led' growth models using Italian data. While the latter models are not significantly verified as they stand, Stern does conclude that exports have had a substantial role in Italian economic growth. The book disappoints on two counts: (1) the rather cursory treatment of imports, and (2) the failure of the author to formalize an 'export led' growth model of his own relevant to the Italian experience. The book, however, does contain all the data utilized."
Choice 4:1023 N '67 150w

STERNE, EMMA GELDERS. They took their stand. 238p il lib bdg $4.50 Crowell-Collier

920 U.S.—Biography—Juvenile literature. Civil rights—Juvenile literature
68-10359

"A collective biography of 12 white Southerners who, at various times in American history, took a stand against slavery and discrimination. [Bibliography. Index.] Grade six and up." (Library J)

"This is good collective biography; the short essays have depth and are more than extended encyclopedia articles. The subjects are fresh, and the book, attuned to young adults' present emphasis on 'doing your thing,' is sure to stimulate further reading." S. E. O'Neal
Library J 93:1817 Ap 15 '68 120w [YA]

"These stories illustrate both the difficulty and necessity of resolute commitment in a society where oppression is glorified and institutionalized. The inclusion of Sophia Auld, who accidentally began teaching Frederick Douglass to read and write, seems, however, a bit farfetched." Mel Watkins
N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p49 My 5 '68 80w

STERNE, LAURENCE. A sentimental journey through France and Italy by Mr Yorick; ed. by Gardner D. Stout, Jr. 377p pl $10 Univ. of Calif. press

828

67-10233

This edition provides a "text based on the first edition, presents a collation of the first edition with the extant manuscripts, and records the . . . revisions Sterne made in the holograph manuscript used as the printer's copy for Volume I." (Publisher's note) Index.

"Stout has produced the best edition yet. . . . one unlikely to be soon surpassed. It has a thoroughly reliable text [and] full explanatory and textual notes. . . . Second in importance only to Work's edition of Tristram Shandy." Choice 5:488 Je '68 50w

"[The text of this] first scholarly edition. . . . is preceded by an introduction which, in addition to providing information on Sterne's preparation of the work and its eventual reception by the public, discusses its sentimental and comic aspects at some length. Public libraries, as well as academic, will surely make an effort to acquire at least one copy of all such literary standards when they become available in established texts." R. E. Wagenknecht
Library J 93:190 Ja 15 '68 100w

STERNE, RICHARD L. John Gielgud directs Richard Burton in Hamlet: a journal of rehearsals. 339p il $6.95 Random house

822.3 Shakespeare, William, Hamlet, Shakespeare, William—Stage history. Gielgud, Sir John 67-12759

"A member of Gielgud's 'Hamlet' company has edited this volume from notes and tapes, adding the playing version with . . . description of stage business and retrospective interviews with the principals." (Library J)

Choice 5:802 S '68 150w

"For the Shakespeare buff, the student of acting, the theater fan, the present author has provided a fascinating volume. Beginning with Gielgud's initial explanation of concept . . . the Sterne playback offers extensive excerpts from Sir John's advice and instructions to the players. As befits the greatest Hamlet of his time and one of the theater's foremost authorities on Shakespearean playing, Gielgud intersperses his discourse with allusions to the theories both of academicians and fellow players. . . . The contents also include an interesting letter from Gielgud to Burton written just before the Broadway opening, a selection of rehearsal and performance photos, excerpts from reviews, the . . . prompt script with notes on readings. . . . Altogether, a remarkable memento of a unique theatrical event." John Beaufort
Christian Science Monitor p5 F 29 '68 500w

"[This] is the richest record of a distinguished production in gestation that I have seen. . . . Mr. Sterne shows how John Gielgud, a diffident director, weighed proposed cuts with his cast, how they hit upon 'business,' tried it, and often eliminated it as distracting. . . . [This is] an absorbing record likely to be as enjoyably informative to the general reader as it is absorbing to all readers with theatrical interest." James Sandoe
Library J 92:4024 N 1 '67 190w

"I cannot say . . . much for Mr Sterne's book. . . . Mr Sterne does not seem to realise, for instance, that a director may sometimes say silly things in rehearsal, so that an actor can find his own way by disagreement. . . . If Mr Sterne had wanted to show us what rehearsal is like he might have given us a transcript of two hours unedited. Instead we have a book that tells us little about rehearsals, little about direction, little about Hamlet, and offers us only a partial portrait of Sir John as director, fussing about inflections and neurotically indecisive about his grouping. I don't believe it." John Bowen

New Statesman 76:501 O 18 '68 250w

STEUART, SIR JAMES. An inquiry into the principles of political oeconomy; ed. and with an introd. by Andrew S. Skinner; pub. for the Scottish economic society. 2v 338:339-755p $22.50 Univ. of Chicago press

330.1 Economics

66-29886

This work was originally "published in 1767. [It] represents one of the first attempts to produce a systematic exposition of the principles of economics as a distinct branch of social science. Steuart's discussion is . . . organized around a theory of economic and social development. The work thus shows an emphasis which was to become the leading feature of contemporary thought." (Publisher's note) Bibliography and Index in volume two.

"This edition provides a very fine analytical introduction and biographical sketch of Steuart, along with footnotes and references to Steuart's sources and references. The text, unfortunately, is not complete: relatively slight and unimportant deletions have been made. If that had not been done, this edition would be the definitive one. It is still useful to scholars for the supplementary materials and can be used by students of the history of economics. . . . Any good college or university library should have this."

Choice 5:840 S '68 140w

"Except in the matter of population theory, where he anticipated and influenced Malthus, Steuart had little or no effect on later economic thought in Britain. On the Continent he was remembered rather longer; Karl Marx accused Adam Smith of borrowing from Steuart and others without acknowledgment. . . . There were certain matters—principally money and population where Steuart did better than Smith. But there is nothing fresh to be learned from him now, and his historical interest, though considerable for students of eighteenth-century thought, is limited by his lack of disciples."

Economist 221:1253 D 17 '66 380w

J Pol Econ 75:906 D '67 200w

"The text here reproduced is based on . . . the Collected Works of 1805, edited by Steuart's son, but has been carefully collated with the manuscript of Books 1 and 2, with the first printed version, and with a corrected copy of that version which is in the library of the London School of Economics. Mr. Skinner has wisely omitted some of the voluminous illustrative material that Steuart included [and] produces some fresh illumination of Steuart's ideas. In particular, in analysing Steuart's theory of development (in which, incidentally, Steuart anticipated some of the conclusions of Malthus) and the theory of policy based upon it, he explains the curiously old-fashioned flavour (as it already appeared at the time) of Steuart's interventionist views which were so much in conflict with the thrusting self-interest and freedom of trade demanded by early capitalism."

TLS p665 J1 27 '67 900w

STEVENS, RICHARD P. Lesotho, Botswana, & Swaziland; the former high commission territories in Southern Africa. 294p maps $7.50 Praeger

968 Lesotho—History. Botswana—History. Swaziland—History

66-18923

A "study of the transfer of power by the British Government to the people of its dependent territories in Africa during the last decade. . . . The book is divided into three parts—one for each of the three Territories—with a general introduction, and a conclusion in which future prospects for the three new states are mapped out. In each part, Dr. Stevens discusses the pre-colonial and colonial eras; tribalism and chieftaincy; constitutional and political developments; the emergence of political parties; and progress toward independence. There are also chapters on the economies of the three Territories." (Publisher's note) The author is director of the African Center at Lincoln University, Pennsylvania. Bibliography. Index.

"Dr. H. Henry wrote the excellent short economic segments [concluding each of the three essays]. The title is somewhat misleading since the narrative ends before Lesotho and Botswana became independent. . . . The book falls somewhere between a textbook approach and a detailed scholarly analysis. This is obvious by the author's attempt to survey in one short book three complicated, diverse groups of people over a long span of time, and the use of few primary sources. Stevens should not be criticized, however, for this approach. There is a need for books that attempt to synthesize complex African developments for nonspecialists, particularly students." H. A. Gailey
Am Hist R 73:1218 Ap '68 370w

"Stevens has primarily written a historic account of the development of the three territories, from the earliest contacts of African tribal societies with Europeans to independence. . . . The dilemmas faced by African political parties and leaders are treated with sympathy [by the author]. Professor Stevens' book deserves to be rated as a basic volume on the High Commission Territories. His study is rich in political data and is presented in a clear and straightforward manner. His insights are helpful." J. L. Cefkin
Ann Am Acad 376:170 Mr '68 800w

"The British reluctantly acquired these areas in the latter part of the 19th Century to check Boer expansion, but no firm policy was ever evolved for them. In varying degrees, each is poor, underdeveloped, and economically dependent on South Africa, who has always desired to acquire them. Now South Africa's concern is increased, for even their moderate success at becoming stable self-governing countries threatens South Africa's apartheid policy. . . . This book provides a short well-organized background of a potentially explosive area and is a recommended purchase for academic and public libraries." R. G. McInnis
Library J 92:1941 My 15 '67 200w

STEVENS, WILLIAM. The gunner. 340p $5.95
Atheneum pubs.

68-12547

During the second World War Deacon, waist gunner on a B-24, "is the only survivor of a bombing mission over Vienna. . . . [When he reports in at his southern Italian base] the officer does not have the faintest idea who he is. The rest of the book describes Deacon's . . . attempts to re-establish himself as a human being instead of a military number." (Atlantic)

Reviewed by Phoebe Adams

Atlantic 221:143 F '68 150w

"[In the psycho ward] the reader begins to get interested as he is introduced to some of the sorry cases who have been shell-shocked out of the war. Deacon, who never rises above the level of a vulgar, selfish, conniving trickster, temporarily recedes into the background as the other patients hold one's attention. . . . The author is really at his best in creating a small, well defined situation and these scenes in the hospital are the best part of the book, even as the set-pieces were the best part of the author's first novel, 'The Peddler' [BRD 1966]. . . . The final redemption of Sgt. Deacon seems a bit trifling and melodramatic. On the whole it's a somehow empty novel, one that really doesn't speak with a voice of its own. Perhaps it's just that any attempt to blend a little of Hemingway, a lot of Heller, and a pinch of John Hersey doesn't add up to much of a book. But the obviously talented Stevens may yet produce a first rate book within the next few years. You might just wait until then." T. L. Vince

Best Sell 27:427 F 1 '68 470w

"The Gunner is too good to be reviewed wholly in terms of its World War II contemporaries; too good to be ticketed as like, or equal to, or even better than Catch 22 [by J. Heller, BRD 1962], which it resembles closely in time and place and superficially in plot. . . . If only because Stevens himself uses words sparingly, no summary can convey the nightmarish clarity he achieves. This is not 'fine writing'; it is extraordinarily good writing. . . . The book is flawed by its ending. . . . But earlier, there is a passage that is finely realized. Toby, the Red Cross girl . . . [is] ready to love [Deacon], she wants to know, to share, to be involved. Then they meet one of Deacon's old flight mates. The two soldiers cannot so much as . . . pass the time of day without giving her more of the truth than she can bear. At this high point, Stevens stands level with Stephen Crane." D. B. Whitman

STEVENS, WILLIAM—Continued

Book World p3 Ja 28 '68 750w

Reviewed by Peter Gellatly

Library J 92:4526 D 15 '67 230w

"The personal chemistry of the combat crews; the dead who haunt them; the hairline between sanity and breakdown—all this is worked into the rubble-strewn background of wartime Italy. Sergeant Deacon goes into a psychiatric rehabilitation clinic and out again, in a freelance tour across country consistent with his bruised psyche. Mr. Stevens captures the bitter flavor of the times and the unique predicament of one fairly ordinary man faced with extraordinary horror." Martin Levin

N Y Times Bk R p34 Ja 21 '68 200w

Va Q R 44:lvii spring '68 120w

STEVENSON, ANNE, Elizabeth Bishop. 143p
$3.95 Twayne; pa $1.95 College & univ. press
811 Bishop, Elizabeth 66-17066

"This first full-length study of [the poet's] work offers an . . . introduction to her craftsmanship and thought. . . . A detailed consideration of numerous poems places them in relation to contemporary thought in other fields as well as poetry." (Library J) Chronology. Bibliography. Index.

"Elizabeth Bishop is fortunate that Anne Stevenson has done the first and only book-length study of her work. For this critic . . . is intent on seeing Bishop's virtues without being either condescending or unduly worshipful. The net result is a book filled with knowledge, sympathetic understanding, and plain good sense about poems, the poet, and poetry. And while this approach through best-ness may make it difficult for a reader to assess Bishop's ultimate place in the hierarchy of modern poets, it at least says forthrightly what the work is all about—its meanings, its view of nature, its sources in Imagism and Surrealism, its ambiguities and resonances. Highly recommended for all library acquisitions."

Choice 5:198 Ap '68 150w

"[A] perceptive and enthusiastic introduction. . . . The problem of the 20th-Century artist is, of course, the disappearance of certainties. . . . Various artists have attempted to solve the problem in various ways—by retreating into religion or madness, by affirming their alienation or by adopting a pose of cheerful cynicism, Miss Bishop's strength, as Miss Stevenson points out, is that she sees 'no solutions to the questions but the questions themselves.' . . . Recommended." Margaret Beebe

Library J 92:582 F 1 '67 170w

STEVENSON, ELIZABETH. Babbitts and bohemians; the American 1920s. 300p pl $6.95
Macmillan (N Y)

973.91 U.S.—History—1919-1933. U.S.—Social conditions 67-15709

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Reviewed by Robert Wiebe

Am Hist R 73:1258 Ap '68 210w

Reviewed by F. J. Hoffman

Am Lit 40:248 My '68 950w

Reviewed by N. I. Huggins

J Am Hist 55:178 Je '68 480w

TLS p845 Ag 8 '68 370w

Va Q R 44:lxvii spring '68 100w

STEVICK, PHILIP, ed. The theory of the novel. 440p $7.95; pa $3 Free press

808.3 Fiction 67-25335

An anthology of articles which consider the distinctions differentiating the novel from other literary genres. 'Selected from the writings of [a number of] . . . authors and critics, the essays fall into nine categories: Generic Identity; Narrative Technique; Point of View; Plot, Structure, and Proportion; Style; Character; Time and Place; Symbol; and Life and Art. The selections are taken from the work of such critics as Maurice Z. Shroder, Phyllis

Bentley, A. A. Mendilow, and Northrop Frye and such novelists as Joseph Conrad, Henry James, E. M. Forster, Miguel de Cervantes, Henry Fielding, and André Gide. . . . Individual prefaces to the nine sections introduce the basic elements of the novelist's craft and comment on the studies that follow." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

"By excluding essays that deal with individual books or authors, Mr. Stevick keeps attention firmly focused on the basic principles. . . . His introduction is a concise and sensible survey of eight 'criteria by which the province of the novel has been established': perceptual, structural, sociological, mythic, topographic, philosophical, subjective, and cultural. . . .

The selections include several articles that have already come to be accepted as landmarks; Mark Schorer on 'Technique as Discovery,' [and] Norman Friedman on point of view. . . . Sections are excerpted from such key works as N. Frye's Anatomy of Criticism, [BRD 1957], E. M. Forster's Aspects of the Novel [BRD 1927], A. A. Mendilow's Time and the Novel [BRD 1953]. Also, however, the editor includes less familiar pieces from journals that do not so readily fall within the purview of students of English literature, such as Thought and the Journal of Higher Education. There are some opposite passages from Phyllis Bentley's little-known book, Some Observations on the Art of Narrative [BRD 1947]."

Lionel Stevenson

Am Lit 40:262 My '68 700w

"[This] book is much more than a valuable collection of critical essays on the theory of the novel. . . . For one thing, [it] contains the most complete bibliography yet published of 20th-century works in English dealing with theories of fiction. Secondly, the editor's introductory materials provide a comprehensive survey of the problems involved in establishing the conceptual premises of the genre. . . . Among the better known critics included are R. S. Crane and Wayne Booth, but equally stimulating are a number of lesser-known essays such as those by W. J. Harvey, Maurice Z. Shroder, and the editor himself. An interesting concluding section juxtaposes excerpts from the critical view of 16 great novelists."

Choice 5:962 O '68 190w

STEWART, JULIAN, ed. Contemporary change in traditional societies. (Ill. univ. Ill. studies in anthropology, special publication) 3v 519:350:302p il maps v 1 $12.50; v2-3 ea $10; set $29.95 Univ. of Ill. press

301.29 Social change. Industrialization. Culture 66-25557

This study consists of v. 1: "African Tribes, by E. H. Winter and others; v.2: Asian Rural Societies by F. K. Lehman and others; v.3: Mexican and Peruvian Communities, by C. J. Erasmus and others. Stewart, author of Theory of Culture Change [BRD 1956], brings together a series of 11 ethnographies dealing with peasant and primitive societies. . . . The objective of this project in cross-cultural research, principally supported by the Ford Foundation, was 'to investigate the effects of the modern industrial world culture on various traditional, rural segments of national populations.' The project began in 1956; field work was done in Tanganyika (not part of Tanzania), Kenya, Nigeria, Burma, Malaya, Japan, Mexico, and Peru, intermittently from 1957-62." (Choice) Bibliographies.

"At times, a lack of clarity or bland evasion of critical problems mars [Stewart's] Introduction. . . . Regional specialists will find these detailed studies useful in teaching and stimulating for comparative studies. . . . Winter and Beidelman write on the Kaguru of Tanzania; . . . unfortunately in the article there is a too long and superficial history of the area mechanically listing mission history, transportation, and schools. . . . Manners' material on the Kipsigis is excellent, marred perhaps by his insistence that societies have no structural features which make them conservative. . . . Lehman's article on the Kayah of Burma is a superb blend of ethnographic description, theoretical analysis of society, and modernization. . . . Yoneyama has a two-fold comparison of two villages in Japan. Both are excellent studies, further documenting the ability of Japanese society to assimilate drastic change. . . . The total cost of the three volumes puts it out of the range of many faculty members and certainly graduate students." Arthur Tuden

Ann Am Acad 378:190 Jl '68 900w

"Each country covered is treated in a separate section, with particular stress on a specific region or village; exceptions are Japan and Peru. The authors are American academics with the exception of one Japanese scholar. Each contribution, reflecting the interests of the various authors and varying in length, style, and emphases, can be read independently, an entity with maps, tables, numerous photographs, and separate bibliographies. In his foreword Stewart makes explicit the fact that overall implications and perspectives on modernization will be left to a forthcoming volume. These extensive field studies are useful and add to our general knowledge. Recommended for libraries with extensive anthropological collections."

Choice 5:380 S '68 210w

Reviewed by Harumi Befu

Pacific Affairs 41:265 summer '68 260w

Reviewed by E. R. Wolf

Science 158:759 N 10 '67 4000w

STEWART, ALLEGRA. Gertrude Stein and the present. 223p $4.95 Harvard univ. press

810 Stein, Gertrude

67-20884

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Reviewed by William Wasserstrom

Am Lit 40:251 My '68 650w

Choice 5:346 My '68 140w

Reviewed by Gloria Jennings

Record 69:508 F '68 1750w

TLS p845 Ag 8 '68 370w

STEWART, GEORGE R. Not so rich as you think; with drawings by Robert Osborn. 248p $5 Houghton

628 Refuse and refuse disposal 67-25450

The author discusses our current problem of "disposal of gigantic quantities of waste. . . . The subject is discussed from the standpoint of where waste material is primarily committed—to water, land or air." (Library J)

Reviewed by Edward Weeks

Atlantic 221:134 F '68 1100w

Reviewed by A. J. Giunta

Best Sell 27:410 Ja 15 '68 550w

"[The author suggests that] our 'affluent society' is built in part by ignoring the cost of its effluents. And the longer we ignore these costs, the larger the bill becomes for the restoration of a healthy and livable environment. At the present rate of waste accumulation, we shall be smothered in our own garbage in no time at all. We are 'not so rich as you think'. . . . We need, somehow, to develop a more acute awareness of the problems we are creating, and learn to pay the cost of their solution. Rachel Carson alerted us to one problem, that of pesticides, in Silent Spring [BRD 1962, 1963]. George Stewart, in the present fascinating—and horrifying—book has looked at the broad picture of environmental deterioration. One can only hope that it will be read by millions." Marston Bates

Book World p6 Ja 21 '68 900w

Christian Century 85:52 Ja 10 '68 50w

"The American world gives some indication of ending in a bad smell," George R. Stewart means it literally. His reasons, backed up with hair-raising evidence, are stated in a low-keyed, faintly humorous fashion ('let the facts themselves do the screaming') that manages to make him as compelling as the ancient mariner himself. [He] sounds the alarm. But he offers advice too, suggesting where we might look for remedies. His ideas, at least to this nonexpert, sound reassuringly sensible, depending heavily on finding ways to re-use (recycle) what we so cheerfully discard." Pamela Marsh

Christian Science Monitor p11 Ja 4 '68

420w

Reviewed by K. G. Jackson

Harper 236:101 F '68 140w

"Stewart turns his attention in this book to one of the most urgent and certainly the most disgusting of man's crises. . . . This is a horror story of cosmic proportions. . . . The nightmare statistics of pollution stagger the imagination. . . . This deeply disturbing book should be bought by libraries and brought to the attention of every responsible reader." M. L. Garvey

Library J 92:3436 O 1 '67 130w

Reviewed by Alberta Hankenson

Library J 93:1826 Ap 15 '68 100w [YA]

Reviewed by S. L. Udall

N Y Times Bk R p6 F 4 '68 900w

Reviewed by M. I. Goldman

Sat R 51:49 Ap 13 '68 850w

STEWART, J. I. M. Vanderlyn's kingdom. 288p $4.95 Norton

68-10886

Bernard Vanderlyn is a "rich American deeply concerned with the arts. He becomes a patron on a grand scale, buying an Aegean island and surrounding himself with geniuses. In all but name he is lord of his island, prince of his own highly civilized court. Such hubris in such surroundings is doomed. But Vanderlyn disregards the lessons of Greek mythology." (Christian Science Monitor) Characters include Vanderlyn's second wife, Gemma, his stepdaughter Marion, Mark Varley, a young poet, and others.

"Mr. Stewart is not only telling a tale, he is playing a game. A clue is dropped very early in the book. . . . His narrator, an Oxford don called Jeremy Shefford . . . discusses Hardy's 'Jude the Obscure' with [Vanderlyn and his first wife and comments that] . . . 'There's altogether too much Crass Casualty. I think that's Hardy's phrase. Jude keeps on getting clobbered—just by sheer chance—far more often than is natural or credible.' . . . Though [the book] involves us as spectators rather than as partakers, the story is so engrossing that it is only when coincidences shower down mercilessly that we see how 'sheer chance' played a part at every turn. It is ■■ if Mr. Stewart had almost passed ■ self-imposed test and then, in the last few pages, thrown subtlety to the winds so that the reader could see what he had been about." Pamela Marsh

Christian Science Monitor p9 Mr 30 '68

410w

"This novel falls just short of being a tour de force. It is a utopian novel concerning an artists colony in which the sponsor tries to exert artistic controls, with predictably disastrous results. Mr. Stewart also explores the sexual complexities of a closely knit group. Here he excels; he is a master of innuendo who can change the emotional tone of a conversation with the tiniest shift imaginable. . . . The major flaw is Mr. Stewart's attempt to ■■ mythical and classically tragic. . . . This very nicely told tale should appeal to Hardy enthusiasts and those who like a hypnotic sense of place." T. E. Luddy

Library J 93:1504 Ap 1 '68 130w

Reviewed by Guy Davenport

Nat R 20:350 Ap 9 '68 350w

Reviewed by Alan Pryce-Jones

N Y Times Bk R p36 Ap 7 '68 500w

New Yorker 44:126 Je 1 '68 50w

TLS p844 S 21 '67 350w

STEWART, RAMONA. Casey. 400p $6.95 Little

68-11528

The novel takes place in the nineteenth century in New York City. Beginning in the slums, among the Irish poor, Tom Casey climbs from gangfighter to vote repeater and strong-arm man, to alderman and the Board of Supervisors, and finally to Boss of the City. When his fight for power is over, however, he suffers a sense of the loss of his family and friends.

Reviewed by J. A. Ciletti

America 118:647 My 11 '68 220w

"This novel contains several vivid descriptions of slum life [and] political battles, and studies the wretched conditions of the new American immigrants. Ramona Stewart has obviously researched her material carefully and in detail. Her portrayal of the New York City Draft Riots is especially well-handled. Yet, although her description is generally effective, there is simply too much of it. Its excessiveness weighs the narrative pace and lessens the appeal of the story. . . . The style is flat and quite gnarled; and this characteristic also dulls the movement and removes the luster such a tale should have." P. A. Doyle

Best Sell 28:8 Ap 1 '68 550w

Choice 5:962 O '68 170w

Christian Science Monitor p12 Ap 25 '68

110w

STEWART, RAMONA—Continued

"The story moves swiftly and effortlessly in colorful, often lurid language through draft and race riots, crimes and murders, up to 1886 with Tweed's downfall and Abram Hewett's election as mayor. Ramona Stewart throws new light on such characters as Fiske and Tilden, Dr. McGlynn and Honest John Kelly. She gives vivid descriptions of the old oyster houses, . . . and Delmonico's. . . And through it all one follows the fortunes of the fascinating little prostitute who ends up as a countess. It would make a marvelous movie. Recommended especially for New York collections." M. H. Zipprich
Library J 93:1504 Ap 1 '68 170w

Reviewed by David Dempsey
Sat R 51:80 Ap 20 '68 600w

STEWART, RANDALL. Regionalism and beyond; essays of Randall Stewart; ed. by George Core; foreword by Norman Holmes Pearson. 286p $6.95 Vanderbilt univ. press

810.9 American literature—History and criticism 67-20426

A collection of articles by a writer and critic of American literature who taught at Yale, Brown and Vanderbilt Universities. The essays are "grouped into three parts—Hawthorne; aspects of American literature; Southern literature; [and represent] writings that spanned almost half a century." (Sat R) Some of these articles have previously appeared in such periodicals as the Virginia Quarterly Review and The Mississippi Quarterly. Chronology of Randall Stewart's life. Bibliography of Randall Stewart's works. Index.

Am Lit 40:437 N '68 110w

"Readers of Stewart will know that 'regionalism' here inevitably refers to the American south and that many of his themes ('The Old Cost of the Human Redemption') will relate to classic Christian-Puritan motifs, treated in a rather heavy-handed thematic fashion." Christian Century 85:426 Ap 3 '68 40w

"A musty flavor permeates almost all [the book]. One is struck forcibly in [Stewart's] writing by an easy acceptance of his self-imposed genteel limits: for example, of literary interests that seem to have stopped, as far as issues go, somewhere early in this century with the battle between the New Humanists and the defenders of naturalism. . . . It is hard to imagine him ever taking seriously (or even mentioning, for that matter) the Beats, existentialism, Beckett, the Black Mountain poets, or the new French novel, though he lived and wrote well past the advent of them all. . . . Who will read [this book]? For the most part, I suspect, unfortunate graduate students still in bondage to some gentlemanly, Christian member of the American literature establishment. . . . Its talk is plain, respectful, cautious, and absolutely correct, even when its judgments are outlandishly questionable. It seems never to have pursued an enthusiasm. . . . [It] is a period piece." Robert Maurer
Sat R 51:35 Je 22 '68 800w

"Those who knew Randall Stewart will especially appreciate the enterprise of Mr. Core in collecting and so carefully editing these eighteen essays and every student of American literature must be grateful to the Vanderbilt University Press for publishing them in such a handsome volume. . . . Stewart first became widely known as a scholar through his edition of Hawthorne's 'American Notebooks' [BRD 1932], . . . went on to edit the 'English Notebooks' [BRD 1942] . . . and to provide in 1948 the authoritative biography [Nathaniel Hawthorne, BRD 1948, 1949]. But his special studies in Hawthorne did not limit his interests, as these essays demonstrate, representing as they do the entire spread of American writing from Puritan times to the present. The word 'Regionalism' in the title may be a bit misleading. . . . The major writers discussed—Hawthorne, Melville, James, Emily Dickinson, and Faulkner—are not regional in the usual sense of that term."

Va Q R 44:cviil summer '68 180w

STIFTER, ADALBERT. Limestone, and other stories; tr. and with an introd. by David Luke. 276p $4.95 Harcourt

68-24398

The three stories in this collection by the nineteenth century Austrian author "are all studies in isolation. . . . In 'Limestone,' the protagonist is a lonely priest who, by renunciation, transcends his personal love and suffering. In 'Tourmaline,' the eccentric is married, but marriage fails to save him. In 'The Recluse,' . . . a disillusioned old man finds, late in life, an object of affection, whom he warns against repeating his own experience." (Publisher's note)

Reviewed by W. B. Hill
America 119:564 N 30 '68 50w

"[Stifter's] appeal is not really to a mass audience, nor is it to any clearly defined group of readers. . . . His work does not seem modern—rather, it seems to be timeless in a way and yet archaic. He cares comparatively little for suspense and climax, things which have been traditionally dear to the story-teller, still he manages to hold attention and to involve his readers. . . . [Stifter] makes the goodness and ultimate harmony of life stand out in all of these tales. . . . Sometimes his incantatory style seems almost pointless and unnecessarily stilted—qualities that the English translation has preserved and perhaps heightened—so that his appeal is rather special, though his work is solid." W. B. Hill

Best Sell 28:238 S 15 '68 700w

Reviewed by Richard Clark
Library J 93:2899 Ag '68 120w

"The excellent translator of [these] stories, has, in his introduction, 'placed' the Austrian writer for the English speaking reader. . . . Stifter's prose must be traversed at a leisurely pace that can be trying at times, to our shabby modern endurance, because there is no irony, only faint passes at humor, no smartness of any kind. It is merely noble and good, serene, spacious, and very moving in being entirely beautiful." Lore Segal

New Repub 159:35 N 23 '68 1800w

"[This volume] is an excellent introduction to Stifter's world, as different from our own as a Biedermeier interior from a Bauhaus design. . . . Indeed, the unhurried pace of the Biedermeier period, of which Stifter is a leading representative, has been captured to a degree that a graduate of the Reading Dynamics Institute might find somewhat exasperating. . . . A fast reader is likely to miss the sophistication of an author who sought grandeur in simplicity. Simple objects (some useful, some not) surround Stifter's characters like talismans. . . . Nothing extraordinary ever happens to [his protagonists], but they experience each other with a sensitivity more deadly than a hammer blow. . . . What in a lesser author would be sermonizing didacticism, in Stifter's art becomes a vision of the Good Life." J. P. Bauke
N Y Times Bk R p4 S 15 '68 800w

STOCK, ROBERT. Covenants. 81p $3.95 Trident press

811

67-26455

"This is [the poet's] first collection to be published in book form." (Publisher's note) Among the periodicals in which these poems have previously appeared are The New Orleans Poetry Journal, Galley Sail Review, San Francisco Examiner and Poetry.

"The poet, by joining contemporary values to traditional forms, has produced a poetry which, although abstruse at times, is stimulating and admirable. The imagery is perhaps its strongest characteristic—intense, eclectic, erudite. [Mr. Stock's] is a poetry of power and drive. He moves with ease from the lyrical opening sonnets to a modern 'Epithalamium, I,' and from the sestina to the narrative. His 'Poems on Holy Saturday' is saturated with vegetative, creative images. His 'Portrait of Gertrude Stein' echoes her intense verbal power. . . . In the longer narrative pieces, 'To Tui,' 'Baldads of the Iara,' 'The Poet Mario Faustino,' he does not simply tell the traditional story, but creates a real experience. [This book] is absorbing, its pace is demanding; its images, though brilliant, sometimes frustrate the reader." M. I. Prochilo

Library J 92:3647 O 15 '67 190w

Reviewed by Gene Frumkin
Nation 207:344 O 7 '68 500w

"The unbreakable agreement which [Stock's] new book acknowledges is the poet's debt to the dead, and to death. . . . Most of the poems are, indeed, not only about the dead, but the deaths of the dead. . . . What renders Stock a hostage to death entirely, and, finally, unacceptably, is that—despite his effort at elegance—his diction ends up dead, too." Michael Benedikt

Poetry 113:194 D '68 420w

"The difficulty in [this book] lies not only in the way the poems reflect Stock's learning, which is considerable, but in the anxious language of the lines themselves. . . . Stock provides notes to help one, and tells us that 'If some of the poems seem nevertheless obscure, lay it to the esteem in which I hold the reader.' The attitude assumes a mutual esteem; this has to be earned on both sides. Which means that a reader ought not to be left more disappointed than he has been diligent, and that a poem should not be more difficult than it is deep. Stock does not always keep this covenant with his audience, but on the whole the book is for reading, slowly, with all the brain's windows open. The poet has things to say and ways to say them." Miller Williams
Sat R 51:33 Mr 9 '68 220w

STOCKWELL, EDWARD G. Population and people. 307p $6.95 Quadrangle bks.

301.3 U.S.—Population. Population 67-10246

"Professor Stockwell, Department of Sociology and Anthropology, University of Connecticut, and formerly of the United States Bureau of the Census, presents a quantitative and interpretive description of the fundamental demographic processes, such as mortality, fertility, immigration, and the major demographic variables: population size, composition and distribution as they apply to the United States." (Library J) Chapter bibliographies. Index.

"An elementary text for a population course or supplementary reading for broader problems courses. . . . Easily read by college students, and its quality is comparable to that of standard texts. . . . Tables, figures, notes, and an index contribute to the usefulness." Choice 5:1004 O '68 100w

"The requisite natural and social sciences, with the exception of mental health, have been integrated effectively, although, in consideration of the breadth of the study, superficially. The reader gains a heightened awareness of the major problems resulting from these processes and variables and an understanding of the general demographic discipline. Many of the problems that are identified are perceived in the broad context of the American ideal of quality. Generally Mr. Stockwell does not attempt to solve specific problems. He achieves a clear expository style, and his book is very well-organized and up-to-date. . . . Recommended for general collections for the concerned layman." H. O. Marcy
Library J 92:2939 S 1 '67 220w

STOLL, ROBERT. Architecture and sculpture in early Britain; Celtic, Saxon, Norman; with phot. by Jean Roubier [tr. by J. Maxwell Brownjohn]. (A Studio bk) 356p $18.50 Viking

723 Architecture. Romanesque. Architecture. Medieval. Architecture. English. Sculpture. British 67-7207

"The achievements of the Romanesque style—often referred to in Britain as Saxon and Norman—can in many ways be more fully appreciated in Britain than anywhere else in Europe. . . . To them must be added what remains of pre-Conquest architecture . . . and the contribution of Ireland, with its superb series of Celtic crosses. . . . These marvels of medieval art are . . . represented in this book in a sequence of over 250 new photographs. . . . Each plate is accompanied by a . . . commentary which conveys the essential historical and architectural information." (Publisher's note) Index.

"A beautiful example of the art book intended for specialist and layman alike, and of value to both. The introductory essay on early Christian Britain and the raison d'être of early medieval architecture, especially the extensive Norman architectural program after the Conquest, is brilliantly well written. Roubier's 254 plates, each accompanied by a short but informative essay note, are exquisite. One wonders at the sequence of the monuments discussed, since they are arranged in a counter-clockwise 'tour' of Britain . . . but this does tie together monuments widely separated in space, time and style. The major shortcoming of this book . . . is its lack of plans and sections." Choice 4:1374 F '68 160w

"The German edition of the work (Vienna, 1966) was called Britannia Romanica. The premise is meant to give more than marginal meaning to the study of English Romanesque. [The] volume is a worthwhile supplement to basic studies of the Romanesque and is recommended for collections in art and architecture." M. E. Landgren

Library J 92:3628 O 15 '67 180w

STOLZ, MARY. A wonderful, terrible time; pictures by Louis S. Glanzman. 182p $3.95 Harper

67-21573

Mady Guthrie and Sue Ellen Forrest live across the hall from each other in a racially-mixed New York City neighborhood. "Although Mady liked to discuss serious things, she was the shy one, and when the girls were invited to go to a summer camp Sue Ellen was amazed that Mady was delighted. Sue Ellen hated the camp; to her it was as much of an ordeal as it was a joy to Mady. . . . Ages nine to eleven." (Sat R)

Book World pt 2, p22 (children's issue) N 5 '67 280w

Reviewed by M. L. Birmingham

Commonweal 37:176 N 10 '67 60w

"The author has deftly described the conflict of loyalties in two Brooklyn girls of today. . . . The essence of camp life has never been more acutely described nor the ties of companionship between unlike but inseparable schoolmates more truthfully shown. . . . Beautifully handled are the girls' deep, often-unexpressed love and longing for their parents." V. H.

Horn Bk 43:754 D '67 160w

Reviewed by M. H. Scott

Library J 92:3856 O 15 '67 210w

"[These] are nice little girls characterized sensitively and subtly. Furthermore, the story is well-written, in Mrs. Stolz' inimitable, forthright style. All the same, the adventures of Mady and Sue Ellen are really rather a bore. Despite its professional veneer, this is an ordinary timekiller of the type that children consume, and forget. . . . Perhaps we need some run-of-the-mill stories about run-of-the-mill people who happen to be Negroes; but they'll have to be more fun than these lackluster campers if they are to communicate and relate." M. L. Birmingham

N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p43 N 5 '67 140w

"Of the several charms of the book perhaps the most appealing is the easy and natural approach to racial difference. The fact that both Sue Ellen and Mady are Negro is neither stressed nor ignored; they are simply two engaging little girls whose problems and experiences make a sprightly, sympathetic story." Zena Sutherland

Sat R 50:35 D 16 '67 150w

STONE, A. HARRIS. Plants are like that, by A. Harris Stone and Irving Leskowitz; il. by Peter P. Plasencia. 64p $3.95 Prentice-Hall

581 Plants—Juvenile literature. Botany—Experiments—Juvenile literature 68-10651

"This book is a series of experiments which teach many of the physical and chemical processes that occur in plants. [Glossary.] Grades five to seven." (Library J)

Reviewed by Gillian Charters

Christian Science Monitor pB8 My 1 '68 60w

"[The book] will be useful only to those who intend to perform the experiments. The information given about each process, though containing clear definitions, is general, and users of the book must fill in the details—an approach which teachers often welcome. The illustrations are uncluttered and helpful; the materials needed for the experiments are commonplace and a notation where they can be obtained is given at the back of the book." L. L. Clark and Bunny Heppel
Library J 93:1804 Ap 15 '68 100w

STONE, CHUCK. Tell it like it is. 211p $4.95 Trident press

301.451 Negroes

68-13435

This is a collection of newspaper columns which the author wrote between 1959 and 1964 for three Negro newspapers: the New York Age; the Washington Afro-American; and the Chicago Daily Defender.

Best Sell 27:421 F 1 '68 150w

STONE, CHUCK—Continued

"Each item in [this] collection has a caustic humor which is refreshingly provocative. Pieces such as 'Colored Snow,' 'Big Megilla over a White Tennis Ball,' . . . and 'Why Do White People Like Negro Babies?' rate a permanent place in the folklore of the Afro-American. . . . The general reading public has needed a black Harry Golden and now it has him. All public libraries will want copies." Edward Mapp

Library J 93:92 Ja 1 '68 140w

Reviewed by Valeria Gregory

Library J 93:1826 Ap 15 '68 100w [YA]

"[Stone] has collected an exuberant, angry, vivid, and highly personal series of reports on how a Negro reacts to the circumstances of life in the U.S.A. in the 1960s. [He] can be funny and furious in the same paragraph. . . . [Stone] confronts the abstract with direct dialogue . . . and he is never less than fair." S. W. Little

Sat R 51:70 F 10 '68 100w

STONE, EDWARD DURELL. Recent & future architecture. 136p il col il $25 Horizon press

720.924 Architecture, Modern—20th century 67-25682

A presentation of the American architect's "major buildings around the world, those recently completed as well as those scheduled for the future. . . . Among those shown are: the Ponce Museum of Art in Puerto Rico (which won the American Institute of Architects Gold Medal in 1967); the John F. Kennedy Center for The Performing Arts and the National Geographic Building in Washington, D.C. as well as the Capitol Mall Redevelopment; the General Motors Building in New York City and the huge New York Civic Center; [and] the Secretariat for the West Pakistan Government in Lahore. . . . Each of the buildings and plans is accompanied by detailed descriptions, and Mr. Stone has written [an] introduction . . . in which he discusses his philosophy and developing ideas." (Publisher's note)

Choice 5:478 Je '68 100w

"Both the present volume and [the author's] The Evolution of an Architect [BRD 1963] are pretentious in size, 14 1/2" x 13"; there is also much overlapping of content. Despite the title of this book it contains buildings which date back to 1958. It also contains a number of Mr. Stone's buildings which should quite frankly be forgotten, for example, the Gallery of Modern Art, New York, and the Perpetual Savings and Loan Association Building, Beverly Hills. . . . Whether one admires or is simply bored by his architecture, still the number and visual importance of his works mean that he is important in the present American architectural scene. Any library that wishes its readers kept abreast of current architecture will certainly have to acquire this volume." David Gebhard

Library J 93:2231 Je 1 '68 200w

"Mr. Stone's pierced screens, delicate arches, and skylit interior courts, complete with jungle greenery and babbling pools, have lost much of their freshness for us through repetition. He sees both the glass-skinned buildings of the fifties and the so-called 'brutalist' concrete buildings of the sixties as anachronisms. Mr. Stone's own work of the past decade, suave and rootless, belongs less to any particular time and place than to idiosyncrasy."

New Yorker 43:90 Ja 6 '68 200w

STONE, I. F. In a time of torment; our most distinguished independent journalist on the most urgent issues and key personalities of our time: LBJ, the war in Vietnam, Fulbright, the Negro revolution, the Kennedys, Malcolm X, the left, the right, and where do we go from here? 463p $7.95 Random house

909.826 History, Modern—20th century. U.S.—Civilization 67-22661

Most of these articles, written between 1961 and 1967, were originally published in I. F. Stone's Weekly or The New York Review of Books. "The selections cover the Kennedy years, Goldwaterism, rampant and creeping LBJism, peace, race, Vietnam, Southeast Asia and Latin America." (Library J) Index.

Reviewed by Ronald Steel

Book World p6 Mr 17 '68 1150w

Choice 5:410 My '68 180w

"[Stone] shakes up, like a kaleidoscope, the fixed patterns for looking at events. Typically he will start off with an unusual historical comparison . . . [which] forces the reader out of the protection of the standard clichés compelling him to see people and events from some fresh, oblique angle. . . . Having introduced his novel frame of reference, I. F. Stone then follows up with a barrage of novel facts. . . . No careless statement from years before, no stray but significant statistic escapes him. . . . His chief role [is] not to sell us on a particular political philosophy but on a particular standard of self-examination—to see our actions as they look to others." M. M.

Christian Science Monitor pB8 N 30 '67 700w

"Stone is most valuable in those moments that provoke stereo-type sentiments. . . . [His] style is shaped partly by the fact that he is a humanist who is quite as much at home in allusions to Plutarch as to Billie Sol Estes. But much of his style is shaped by his apprenticeship, years ago, on Madison Avenue. . . . [In his weekly] he has come to lean on the sharp, sassy phrase, the neo-slogan head to make his point quickly and unforgettably. . . . Stone is a great essayist and a great debater, but supporting everything else he is and does are his talents and training as a reporter. . . . He operates from the premise that every 'side'—including his own—must go naked into history." Robert Sherrill

Commonweal 87:506 Ja 26 '68 1250w

Reviewed by F. W. Summers

Library J 92:3649 O 15 '67 130w

Reviewed by Patrick MacFadden

Nation 206:214 F 12 '68 900w

Reviewed by Alex Campbell

New Repub 158:37 Ja 6 '68 700w

Reviewed by H. S. Commager

N Y Rev of Books 11:3 D 5 '68 2350w

"Stone tackles many issues, bringing to each a fine balance of factual information and analysis, historical perspective and immediate reaction, compassion and anger. The dominant themes are Vietnam and race. His general information is reinforced by visits to both theaters of operation. . . . One is impressed most with the tremendous journalistic accomplishment of one man, unaided by any of the resources of the big journalistic combines, embattled against government, making penetrations of the informational freeze, grappling with the forces of our time, and speaking more clearly than almost anyone." S. W. Little

Sat R 51:117 Ja 13 '68 750w

Reviewed by R. H. Zieger

Social Studies 59:227 N '68 250w

TLS p1099 O 3 '68 650w

STONE, JEREMY J. Strategic persuasion; arms limitations through dialogue. 176p $6.95 Columbia univ. press

341.6 Disarmament

67-25591

This "is a book about arms limitations and the on-going web of communications about weapons between the major power competitors. . . . [It] describes the non-technical difficulties and opportunities of both indirect and direct communications about the arms race. . . . Assuming that neither General Disarmament nor even an end to the arms competition can be achieved in a single stroke, . . . [the author] argues that it is the communications about arms that can be most easily and importantly improved or degraded." (Publisher's note)

"It is surprising that the author was unable to find any place at all for the United Nations in light of his concern for suitable auspices of the dialogue between the great powers. His approach to the question of arms limitations is the subtle technique of persuasion through dialogue. His essay—and it is essentially a speculative essay—takes for granted that there are no meaningful quantitative methods of reducing the arms stockpile or of slowing the arms race. . . . He avoids the formal methods of treaty or convention, such as the protracted Geneva discussion of arms control. . . . More satisfactory than a direct confrontation, [he argues], is the indirect approach to arms limitation which requires a sophistication on every level of government that is not apparent at this time. . . . Professor Stone makes his case and makes it with an ease that is too comforting for credibility." L. S. Kaplan

Am Pol Sci R 62:961 S '68 650w

Reviewed by W. R. Kintner
Ann Am Acad 337:165 My '68 650w

"Stone has written a useful and provocative essay. . . . The author, a mathematician, has had some experience in talking with Soviet scientists and other experts on these matters: he was a member of a group of American specialists who have explored the possibilities for arms control with the Soviets, and he has visited the USSR, where he has engaged interested Russians in like discussions. . . . Rather unfairly, Mr. Stone ascribes a Leftist political bias to [the group of scientists of the Pugwash Conferences], which has included science advisers to Republican and Democratic Presidents, Governors, Senators, and Representatives. . . . The author allots a bare seven pages to what should be discussed in the strategic dialogue. This is a defect in his essay. . . . For no matter how crucial are the form, process, and communication aspects of a dialogue, in the end the key ingredient is substance. . . . [But] if the objective is peaceful relations, the kinds of issues raised [here] are worth pondering." B. G. Lall

Sat R 51:45 Ap 13 '68 2000w

"The special problems of communication between governments are stressed in a sophisticated discussion of the rigidity, suspicion of change, and depth of doctrinal commitment that characterize large bureaucracies. . . . In talking about specific ways in which the dialogue can take place, Stone is on weaker ground, largely because he is examining the dialogue between governments as an outsider. . . . Finally, Stone's discussion suffers from a most important, but perhaps inevitable, limitation. He refers almost solely to open communication between the two sides and to the ways in which these public signals are perceived by national decision-makers. However, nearly all the information available to the leaders of major governments about the actions of foreign countries comes to them through their intelligence agencies. . . . Since intelligence agencies share the failings of any bureaucracy, there is likely to be substantial distortion in the signal received." L. S. Rodberg
Science 159:1088 Mr 8 '68 2000w

STONE, ROBERT. A hall of mirrors. 409p $5.95
Houghton

67-11109

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Reviewed by Emile Capouya
Commonweal 88:79 Ap 5 '68 850w

Reviewed by David Thorburn
Nation 206:452 Ap 1 '68 1300w

Reviewed by A. S. Byatt
New Statesman 75:209 F 16 '68 80w

Reviewed by R. A. Sokolov
Newsweek 72:82B J1 22 '68 170w

TLS p141 F 8 '68 250w

STONEMAN, ELVYN A., jt. auth. A handbook of new nations. See Percy, G. E.

STOPPARD, TOM. Lord Malquist & Mr Moon. 180p $4.95 Knopf

68-12671

"Lord Malquist hires Moon as his Boswell. It's London in the 1960's, 24 hours before 'the funeral of the year.' 'Dramatis Personae' include: L. J. Slaughter and Jasper (Old West gunslingers), Rollo (the family lion), the Risen Christ (a Dublin beatnik), Jane (Moon's wife), O'Hara, a Negro coachman. Elegant Lord Malquist careens about London with Moon daily recording his bon mots, in a pink and yellow-wheeled coach drawn by dappled grays. Accidentally, the grays and O'Hara panic and run down Mrs. Cuttle." (Publishers' Weekly)

Reviewed by Phoebe Adams
Atlantic 221:114 My '68 400w

"Although flecked with brilliant observations and witty aphorisms, the action of the novel seems to form no meaningful pattern. Perhaps this is in fact the meaning of the book: that life contains no meaningful patterns. The ending of the novel, which is highly unsatisfactory, supports this thesis to a certain extent, but then we might pose the question: is such a view worth writing about?" Peter Corodimas

Best Sell 28:61 My 1 '68 370w

Choice 5:1134 N '68 110w

"After writing his justly admired stage success, 'Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead,' Tom Stoppard turned to this short novel. Though considerably less of a triumph, it is clearly from the same almost-too-clever hand. Here again is Mr. Stoppard's charming passion for word-play. Events are seen once more through a slightly romantic pessimism. (His tendency is to dramatize life as a dark but graceful game of blind man's buff.) The Stoppard tone of what might be called black-froth comedy remains a constant-Noel Coward somehow crossed with Samuel Beckett. At the heart of it all lies Mr. Stoppard's iron-butterfly determination to deal with the most serious questions in the most witty way. . . . Without too much exaggeration, this little fantasy can be described as: stigmata, dandy style. Mr. Moon becomes the victim—not least because he mistakenly sees himself as aristocratic executioner." Melvin Maddocks
Christian Science Monitor p13 Ap 11 '68 500w

"The characters keep coming together in absurd and surrealistic situations while Mr. Moon, growing more and more sick of civilization, carries his bomb around waiting for the proper time and place to set it off. There is some very clever parody here, but one remembers bits and pieces rather than the whole. [The novel] is unlikely to appeal to the general reader. However, libraries with large fiction collecting may want to include it, for the author has talent." J. M. Hoagland
Library J 93:1504 Ap 1 '68 200w

Reviewed by Thomas Rogers
New Repub 158:37 Je 15 '68 550w

Reviewed by Mordecai Richler
N Y Times Bk R p32 Ag 25 '68 500w

New Yorker 44:159 My 25 '68 90w

Reviewed by L. T. Grant
Sat R 51:25 Je 29 '68 750w

TLS p864 S 15 '66 300w

Reviewed by D. J. Gordon
Yale R 58:112 O '68 850w

STOREY, MARGARET. Pauline; il. by Victor Ambrus. 210p $3.50; lib bdg $4.25 Doubleday
67-15378

"When her father died, Aunt Madge and Uncle Harry [who lived near London] offered [11-year-old] Pauline a home at once, even though they had three children of their own and money was scarce. Pauline was grateful, but it was hard to go on being grateful to people she couldn't really like, and she felt she'd never get used to living with them." (Publisher's note) "Ages eleven to fourteen." (Sat R)

Horn Bk 43:755 D '67 230w

"Despite spritely British schoolgirl jokes and slang, this is a book of limited appeal. . . . A satisfactory and plausible solution to Pauline's family problems is finally reached in a long, stretched-out family story in which nothing much really happens." B. M. Adam
Library J 92:4618 D 15 '67 100w

Reviewed by Janet Malcolm
New Yorker 43:166 D 16 '67 440w

"[Uncle Harry] disapproved of [Pauline's] friends although he'd never met them, and he resented the rapport between Pauline and her cousin Paul, who was in conflict with his father. The rebellion of Pauline, who is a rather quiet and pleasant girl, has an inevitability that is impressive. If case histories were books you couldn't put down, this would be one—a completely convincing study of the clash between a tyrannical adult and a child made bold by being tyrannized." Zena Sutherland
Sat R 50:43 O 21 '67 140w

"The social settings and the people in them are evoked most beautifully. . . . Miss Storey's masterpiece is not Pauline herself, subtle portrait though this is . . . but Uncle Harry, whom she makes obtuse and dreary, but never quite grotesque and somehow strangely pathetic. . . . Miss Storey has in abundance one of the basic qualities of the children's writer: she treats her audience with respect. Pauline is a wise, mature study of girls growing up in a difficult and exciting world. It is also a highly entertaining novel, to be read too by those fathers who can bear to see themselves painted in such unflattering tones."

TLS p504 Je 17 '65 270w

STORR, ANTHONY. Human aggression. 127p
$5 Atheneum pubs.

152.4 Aggressiveness (Psychology) 68-17384

"A British psychoanalyst attempts to do for aggression what Freud and the anti-puritan revolution did for sexuality—not so much to release it as to enable us to control it by admitting it is there. . . . His theses are that 'aggressive' behaviors are normal and functional in primates, including Man; that they are normally controlled by ritualization and by being displaced into other fields than by fighting with one another; that our society makes grossly exaggerated demands upon the individual for suppression of aggression by removing most possible alternative outlets; and that the means left to us for dealing with normal aggressiveness are nearly all psychopathological." (Book World)

"I don't think this subject could have been better treated, either in the field of intellectual analysis or of emotional comprehension, than Dr. Storr has treated it. . . . [His] courage and good sense, . . . as well as his judgment in linking psychoanalytic and ethological material, never once flags. His chapter on aggression between the sexes should by itself be compulsory adult reading." Alex Comfort

Book World p3 Je 30 '68 1050w

Reviewed by Louis DeRoslis

Library J 93:2670 J1 '68 150w

Reviewed by Lionel Tiger

New Repub 159:26 S 14 '68 2100w

"The layout is clear and useful, enabling the author to approach the subject in a dozen different ways, with the reader enjoying making interrelationships between the chapters. . . . It is distressing to me, as a psychoanalyst, that the psychoanalytic point of view is given in terms of the concept of the 'Death Instinct'. This idea that Freud played about with in an interesting way has not been accepted by psychoanalysts in general. In any case a discussion of this concept does not belong to a book such as this one that is for the general reader who is not concerned specifically with the evolution of the psychoanalyst's meta-psychology. . . . At the end an attempt is made to find ways of reducing aggression. Here, it is to be feared, the author gets no further than others have got." D. W. Winnicott

New Statesman 76:15 J1 '68 600w

Reviewed by Edmund Leach

N Y Rev of Books 11:24 O 10 '68 800w

"[This] is a book of utmost importance, . . . brief, readable, a document for Everyman, yet a book of revolutionary dimension. Its stature cannot be measured simply as a contribution to developing new science: it is an incalculable contribution to a developing new science, it is an incalculable contribution to our beleaguered times. . . . Throughout the fascinating body of his book, the author relates the [Konrad] Lorenz principle—that no organism could grow to maturity and reproduce its kind without the pressure of inborn aggressiveness—to our childhood development, to the relation of parents and children, to the hazards of adult life. . . . We will find few answers in the back of Storr's book. But we will find, I believe, something better. Every page . . . brings new illumination." Robert Ardrey

N Y Times Bk R p1 J1 14 '68 1900w

TLS p963 S 12 '68 850w

STORY, NORAH. The Oxford companion to Canadian history and literature [maps by C. C. J. Bond]. 935p $15 Oxford

971.003 Canadian literature—Dictionaries.
Canadian literature—Bio-bibliography

67-31959

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Reviewed by C. M. Johnston

Am Hist R 73:1265 Ap '68 440w

Booklist and S B B 65:1 S 1 '68 950w

Reviewed by Edith Fowke

Canadian Forum 48:70 Je '68 470w

Reviewed by Mordecai Richler

New Statesman 75:111 Ja 26 '68 320w

The STORY of Prince Ivan, the firebird, and the gray wolf; tr. from the Russian by Thomas P. Whitney; ill. by Nonny Hogrogian. unpub bdg $3.44 Scribner

398.2 Fairy tales, Folklore—Russia—Juvenile literature
68-12521

This fairy tale "tells of Prince Ivan's quest for the . . . firebird that stole the golden fruit from the royal apple tree. His . . . adventures win him not only the firebird but the steed with the golden mane and the beautiful Princess Elena." (Publisher's note)

Translated from the Bilibin edition originally published in St. Petersburg in 1901. "Grades three to five." (Library J)

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin

Book World p16 Je 9 '68 100w

"There are many traditional Russian stories of the firebird (Arthur Ransome retold one and Stravinsky used another for his ballet). . . . The artist might well have been carried away by the dazzling possibilities of the tale; instead she has used fresh, glowing water colors for restrained, beautiful pictures that reflect her impeccable taste and sense of design." E. L. H.

Horn Bk 44:320 Je '68 140w

"This version of one of the classic fairy tales of Russia varies in many particulars from other available editions. Here, Ivan is one of the three sons of the king, and his task of bringing back the firebird is complicated by his capture by two other kings who impose additional tasks. Poetic justice, as usually found in the folk and fairy tale, is absent; Ivan's own greed and disregard of instructions are responsible for his misfortunes, which are resolved only through trickery and the Wolf's magical powers. . . . Since there seems to be little uniformity among the various versions, this one, with the advantage of its inviting format, should be a popular selection." Della Thomas

Library J 93:2543 Je 15 '68 230w

Reviewed by Robert Ostermann

N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p42 My 11 '68
50w

Reviewed by Zena Sutherland

Sat R 51:37 S 21 '68 130w

STOUT, WILLIAM. The autobiography of William Stout of Lancaster, 1665-1752; ed. by J. D. Marshall for the William Stout tercentenary study group. 311p maps $9 Barnes & Noble

B or 92

67-75652

A group of scholars and archivists have supplied an introduction, notes, maps, and index and have restored the original spelling to the 1851 edition. The author "a convert to the Society of Friends and one of its principal officers in Lancaster, was a wholesale and retail grocer and ironmonger engaged in the medium range of Lancastrian foreign and domestic trade." (Am Hist R)

"Much painstaking research has gone into this volume, but it should be emphasized that the introduction, notes, and appendices, useful as they are in establishing Stout's general honesty and accuracy as an observer, cannot be said to have established the reliability of the broader social or economic patterns suggested by the autobiography. . . . [The volume] is likely to have increasing importance in British social and economic history, but principally for specialists. What is more important, the editors have made available in a fine critical edition a document that could infuse life into the analyses of a modern economic and sociological study of Lancashire on the eve of the Industrial Revolution." D. E. Ginter

Am Hist R 73:477 D '67 340w

"Marshall provides a conscientious introduction; R. Craig and M. M. Schofield 'place' the work as a source for 18th-century English economic and social history; and several economic and Lancaster historians annotate the text. . . . [The] autobiography illustrates the connection between Protestantism and capitalism. It reveals the moral ambiguities of Dissenting Protestantism: it never occurs to Stout that he, as retailer and wholesaler of tobacco, sugar and (sometimes) spirits, makes his money from the very 'vanities' that he, as Quaker, condemns. . . . And it shows that Quakers succeeded in trade because they could trust other Quakers to be honest and to give them 'inside dope.' For all these reasons, the Autobiography deserves this new edition. . . . Recommended for upperclassmen interested in social psychology, religion, English history, and economic business history."

Choice 4:1435 F '68 220w

STOUTENBURG, ADRIEN. American tall-tale animals; il. by Glen Rounds. 128p $3.95; lib bdg $3.77 Viking

398.2 Animals—Stories. Folklore—U.S.—Juvenile literature 68-18124

A collection of stories about "extraordinary animals which storytellers swear have stalked America's fields and forests. Included are Paul Bunyan's Bedcats and Goofer Bird, Pecos Bill's Whiffle-poofole, Bowleg Bill's Hoss-Mackerel, the Sooner Hound, and many others. . . . Grades four to seven." (Library J)

"Many of these stories can be found scattered throughout B. A. Botkin's A Treasury of American Folklore [BRD 1944], but the compiler's carefully organized, entertainingly folksy retellings . . . add greatly to their appeal for children." Elva Harmon

Library J 93:3974 O 15 '68 100w

Reviewed by Fred Gipson

N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p34 My 5 '68 180w

"In the style of Paul Bunyan, Miss Stoutenburg has put together ten humorous stories that make wonderful reading-aloud tales. . . . Delightful illustrations show the bear as big as a cloud, bedbugs the size of wildcats, and the hoss-mackerel, the big fish that cowboys ride like a bucking bronco."

Time 91:10 Je 7 '68 50w

STOUTENBURG, ADRIEN. Listen America; a life of Walt Whitman [by] Adrien Stoutenburg and Laura Nelson Baker. 182p lib bdg $3.63 Scribner

B or 92 Whitman, Walt—Juvenile literature 68-12520

A biography of the poet beginning with his boyhood in New York in the early 1800s. Bibliography. Index. "Grades nine to twelve." (Library J)

"In [this] well-documented biography . . . the authors are objective and present the man as they found him. The style, unemotional and spare, maintains a deliberate distance from the subject. . . . [A] thought-provoking book for older [children]." S. D. L.

Horn Bk 44:335 Je '68 150w

"The liberal use of excerpts from [Whitman's] journals in juxtaposition with passages from his poetry shows how extensively the authors have searched out Whitman's self-rearrangements in his poetic self-exposure, and what come across as well as the facts of his life are the pleasures inherent in this form of literary detection, a game that any number of readers can play but seldom get a crack at in juvenile biographies. . . . This biography builds from the poetry to the poet, helping to set the man in the context of his times and to measure his influence on American literature. A well-selected bibliography steers hooked readers toward the deeper waters." L. N. Gerhardt

Library J 93:2125 My 15 '68 180w

Reviewed by G. W. Allen

N Y Times Bk R p22 Je 23 '68 170w

STOVER, ROBERT. The nature of historical thinking. 276p $7.50 Univ. of N.C. press

901 History—Philosophy 67-17031

A professor of philosophy attempts "to coordinate the . . . approaches to the nature of history associated with positivism, analytical philosophy, pragmatism, and phenomenology. . . . [He discusses such] topics as the analysis of explanations of rational actions, the nature of historical understanding, and the relevance of 'standpoints' to historiography. . . . [and concludes with a] treatment of history as science, historical inevitability and responsibility, the role of value-judgments, and the meaning and uses of history." (Publisher's note) Index.

Reviewed by R. M. Saunders

Am Hist R 73:764 F '68 440w

Reviewed by J. T. Marcus

Ann Am Acad 375:239 Ja '68 550w

Choice 5:246 Ap '68 140w

"This essay supplies a useful summary and analysis of the work of philosophers of history from Wilhelm Dilthey to William Dray, Isaiah Berlin, E. H. Carr, Herbert J. Muller, and many others. The writing is perfectly lucid and very interesting in places, but all too often the argument is buried in philosophical double-talk.

Few historians will have the patience to unwind such sentences as the following: 'Given a description of distinctively human meaning the reader can himself regard the latter identifiably, even, indeed, when it is apparent from the historian's account as a whole that his way of regarding the described material was from the contrasting standpoint of natural order'. It is, nevertheless, a valuable contribution to the discussion of the nature of history."

D. D. Van Tassel

J Am Hist 54:621 D '67 380w

"[The author seeks] to bring rigorous logical analysis and scientific method to bear upon historical method and utterance. . . . The author leans heavily upon the work of [E.] Nagel and philosophers concerned with language. The result is a closely reasoned, highly technical rendering that presents a strong case for the analytic side. An important book for all academic and larger public libraries." W. S. Debenham

Library J 92:1938 My 15 '67 190w

STRAND, MARK. Reasons for moving; poems. 47p $4.50; pa $1.95 Atheneum pubs.

811

68-19151

A collection of poems.

Reviewed by Chad Walsh

Book World p4 Jl 28 '68 220w

"The tension between unadorned form and perilous content makes poetry of considerable impact—death lurks everywhere. The effect is akin to surrealism and at his insinuating best Mr. Strand makes the world we are accustomed to seem a perilous place indeed. Reasons for Moving contains a bold and authentic new voice. It is highly recommended for poetry collections." Keith Cushman

Library J 93:1638 Ap 15 '68 160w

"At its best Strand's art is sure. He has found his own voice and, for this book, his own theme: the elusiveness of the self and of reality. There are over a dozen poems in this small collection that are deeply moving." Robert Rick

Sat R 51:39 Ag 24 '68 420w

"[Some readers] will dismiss the book as being merely an assortment of clever stories set up to look like poems. For poetry to be as obviously interesting and readable as the pieces that open this book ('Eating Poetry,' 'The Accident,' 'The Mailman') is apt to arouse the intellectual reader's suspicion. Even the most difficult poems ('Man in the Tree,' 'The Ghost Ship') have a deceptive simplicity. They seem so perfectly transparent on first reading, it is puzzling to find, on repeated readings, that they wear as well as they do. Despite their initial sudden impact on our emotions, the poems deliver their full import to us slowly, after many readings." Laurence Lieberman

Yale R 58:147 O '68 750w

STRANGER, JOYCE. Rex; a novel. 218p $4.95 Viking

68-16076

A novel about "a Scotch Border collie born out on the wild Cumberland fells. The first weeks of Rex's life are so beset with peril . . . that he is virtually a wild beast himself when he is taken home by old Ned Foley . . . [who] bet a fiver with Pete Lanark, the sheep farmer from Five Ways, [that the dog] couldn't be trained within a fortnight. . . . Pete's five-year-old son Johnny, finding Rex in Ned's cottage and assuming the dog is a Christmas present for him . . . penetrates Rex's shield of fear and it is Johnny to whom Rex gives his whole soul." (Publisher's note)

"All in all, boy and dog and the other 'people' in this tinglingly refreshing novel all come to life in a memorable way. These are simple people: men relaxing at The Swan at the end of a long gruelling day; women busy with their growing families and the animals which literally belong to the household; . . . families showing discomfort because of the difficulty or selfishness of a growing son or daughter who cannot be controlled; men of the outdoors who have not married or who have been left alone by marriage and death. Their story is simple and beautiful, told in a language which is redolent of the fells, of shepherding, of animal lore and male fun. . . . This is truly an enjoyable book." O. A. Bouise

Best Sell 28:91 My 15 '68 500w

Reviewed by Jane Manthorne

Horn Bk 44:342 Je '68 150w

STRANGER, JOYCE—Continued

"This is a good dog story with an English setting. . . . The dog and the boy are so engaging that one forgets that some of the story is a bit improbable. The country people, the pub, and the village have appeared in other books by Joyce Stranger, Breed of Giants [BRD 1967] and Running Foxes [BRD 1966]. Recommended for general collections. The book will be appreciated especially by animal lovers; it is also suitable for Young Adult collections." Elizabeth Thalman

Library J 93:1920 My 1 '68 200w [YA]

"An adult novel about a boy and a dog named Rex, for pitysakes? Why yes, if the novel is by Joyce Stranger, an Englishwoman who seems able to get inside the hide of an animal and make the reader identify so strongly he's ready for a porringer of Ken-L-Ration. [This book] does not have the novelty of Miss Stranger's last novel ('The Running Foxes'), but it's an engaging story on its own terms. . . . There is a Rin-Tin-Tin ending to the adventures that hardly matters. It is the author's attunement with outdoor life that puts her in the great tradition of English zoophilia, and gives her book its magic." Martin Levin

N Y Times Bk R p54 Ap 21 '68 150w

Reviewed by Zena Sutherland

Sat R 51:70 N 9 '68 120w [YA]

STRATTON, JULIUS A. Science and the educated man; selected speeches of Julius A. Stratton; with a foreword by Elting E. Morison. 186p $5 Mass. inst. of technology

507 Science—Study and teaching. Massachusetts Institute of Technology 66-29173

The "chairman of the board of trustees of the Ford Foundation and former president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology [is] a physicist by training. . . . This book is a collection of his speeches and talks from 1956 to 1965. Throughout these speeches runs his feeling of the public responsibility of the university." (Library J)

"Only a small fraction of President Stratton's comments deal with the kind and amount of science which should be a part of the education of the non-scientist. . . . Most of the author's recommendations for subject-matter inclusions in the undergraduate curriculum are relevant to the training of engineers rather than non-scientists. . . . The range of subject matter covered in these addresses may be inferred from the wide diversity of audiences addressed which include the American Association of Museums and the International Management Conference. The last seven addresses deal with 'M. I. T.: Institutional and Personal Experiences.' The volume will be of interest not only to the general reader but also to presidents of educational institutions." H. E. Bent

J Higher Ed 39:239 Ap '68 600w

Reviewed by R. J. Havlik

Library J 92:1634 Ap 15 '67 200w

STRAUSS, ANSELM L., jt. auth. The discovery of grounded theory. See Glaser, B. G.

STRAUSS, CLAUDE LÉVI-. See Lévi-Strauss, C.

STRAUSS, MAURICE B., ed. Familiar medical quotations. 968p $15 Little

610 Medicine. Quotations 68-21620

This volume contains "more than 7,000 entries . . . grouped under headings, beginning with Ability, Abortion and ending with Yellow Fever, Youth. There is an index of authors [and] of key words." (Economist)

"Most of the entries will be unfamiliar to most readers; after all some of them are very recent. . . . The book is, in fact, an anthology of observations, epigrams, aphorisms about medicine in its widest sense. . . . Hippocrates, Shakespeare, Jefferson, Osler are quoted more than fifty times—Shakespeare over 400 times. But there is surprisingly little from Chaucer, not even the excellent description of a clinical depression in the Parson's Tale. So what this volume provides is a sourcebook for a doctor who wants to enliven a lecture or paper with someone else's sayings, or for a layman who wants to confound doctors out of their own mouths. But much more than this it will be a source of endless pleasure and interest to the casual browser, whether medical or lay."

Economist 229:61 N 2 '68 240w

Reviewed by D. M. Glixon

Sat R 51:59 N 16 '68 60w

STRAUSS, RICHARD. Richard Strauss & Romain Rolland: correspondence; together with Fragments from the diary of Romain Rolland and other essays and an introd. by Gustave Samazeuilh; ed. and annot. with a pref. by Rollo Myers. 239p $6.95 Univ. of Calif. press

B or 92 Strauss, Richard. Rolland, Romain 67-22769

"Rolland's correspondence with Richard Strauss, covering the years 1899-1926, together with extracts from Rolland's diary covering this period, first appeared in 1951 as Volume 3 of the Cahiers Romain Rolland." (TLS) This English translation also includes two essays by Rolland: Richard Strauss, and French music and German music. Index.

Choice 5:1316 D '68 110w

"A remarkable record of an unlikely relationship. . . . The correspondence between two great men, while interesting, provides merely a surface glance at their relationship. Rollo Myers . . . has used extracts from Rolland's diary to furnish a clearer view of the friendship. . . . The essays place the letters and extracts in their correct historical perspective. One can't help wishing, though, that the background material had come first. This would have provided a sound preparation for the other two sections, since it is the combination of correspondence, diary extracts, and essays that make this book more attractive than the usual simple compilation of letters." B. L. Glatz

Christian Science Monitor p9 Je 29 '68 650w

"[The correspondence] contains little of vital importance, but does give a picture of a German composer fighting the nationalistic tendencies of French musicians with the help of a French critic anxious to proselytize German contemporary music. . . . Some of Rolland's reactions to Strauss' music no longer seem valid today. . . . In spite of this the book contains examples of healthy criticism and is recommended for larger music collections." R. L. Enequist

Library J 93:2660 Jl '68 200w

"If anything, Mr Myers has been too faithful to [Rolland]. Not all the Samazeuilh (the pages on Mahler, for instance) is interesting or relevant now, while thirteen pages of Rolland's annotation of Strauss's setting of the modified French of Oscar Wilde's Salome are printed in barely legible facsimile, with the (French) editor's excuse that a typographical transcription of them is impossible, the English translation being thereafter set out in a perfectly satisfactory typographical transcription. The volume is, nevertheless, worth having. . . . A source of amusement inherent in the very shape of the book lies in going over the same events twice, coloured first by Rolland's perfect epistolary tact, then interpreted in private with Gallic sighs, shrugs, raised eyes and blowing." Rayner Heppenstall

New Statesman 75:876 Je 28 '68 550w

TLS p1019 S 12 '68 900w

STRAUSS, VICTOR. The printing industry: an introduction to its many branches, processes and products; il. by Edith P. Strauss; typographic design by Hans Schneider. 814p $24.50 Ptg. Inds. of Am; Bowker

655 Printing

67-26209

Commissioned by the Printing Industries of America, this "is a description in nontechnical language of the . . . machines and techniques used in manufacturing today's mass-produced book, magazine, newspaper or commercial printing project. . . . Drawings, photographs, and flow charts illustrate sections on printing processes, and methods: composition, from hand-set type to computerized photocomposition; color and graphic arts photography; relief, intaglio, planographic, and other printing-image carriers; presses and presswork; papers and printing inks; binding and finishing; and art-and-copy preparation." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

"Flowcharts, halftones, and diagrams in profusion clarify the text. Sophisticated systems are as well handled as the most rudimentary procedures. Of major importance is the in-depth introduction to machinery and functions. . . . [This] is a necessary reference on contemporary printing methods for graphic arts collections and should be consulted by anyone involved or interested in printing. Liberal arts libraries sensing the need for small, representative holdings on books and printing must add Strauss' survey to their McMurtries, Morisons, Steinbergs, and Lehmann-Haupts." Choice 4:1100 D '67 440w

"Considered to be the most comprehensive work on the subject ever attempted in the field of graphic arts, The Printing Industry provides the interested layman with a working background and introduction to the present state of printing. . . . Mr. Strauss treats all aspects of the printing industry with clarity and detail; an 11-page bibliography and a section of notes and references direct the reader to further information. This excellent manual, reviewed by some 200 experts in the field, will provide authoritative answers to most queries about the current art and craft of printing. Highly recommended." L. W. Griffin.

Library J 93:536 F 1 '68 170w

STRICKLAND, RENNARD, jt. auth. Sam Houston with the Cherokees. See Gregory, J.

STRICKLAND, STEPHEN PARKS, ed. Hugo Black and the Supreme court. See Hugo Black and the Supreme court

STROUD, DOROTHY. Henry Holland; his life and architecture. 159p pl $10 Barnes, A.S.

B or 92 Holland, Henry. Architecture, English 67-13085

A biography of the English architect of the late eighteenth century. Index.

"The text of Dorothy Stroud's monograph . . . is, unfortunately, less interesting to the general reader than the photographs. She has scrutinized every scrap of source material and, in a dry-as-dust way, doesn't let you forget it." Bowden Broadwater

Book World p6 D 10 '67 150w

"[This book] is well documented and copiously illustrated. . . . [The author] remains a patient and thorough digger-out of facts, which, sorted into approximate chronological order, are then put on the page for the reader to make what he can of them. Unfortunately Miss Stroud . . . has a mind not discriminating enough in its care for particulars to allow a comprehensive grasp of her subject; she is not sufficient of a critic to be a good historian. In consequence, her account of what can be established of Holland's life is pedantic, her descriptions of buildings mechanical and dull; the reader will almost certainly forget what he has read as soon as he puts the book down."

TLS p66 Ja 26 '67 390w

STROUP, THOMAS B., ed. The humanities and the understanding of reality, by Monroe C. Beardsley [and others] ■ centennial publication. 84p $3.50 Univ. of Ky. press

001.3 Humanities

66-21647

"In October 1965, as part of its Centennial Celebration, the University of Kentucky held a Conference on the Humanities, at which Monroe Beardsley, Northrop Frye, and Frank Kermode were invited to address themselves to the question: 'Do the humanities provide a form of understanding of reality that the sciences do not?' Their contributions, together with a dinner speech by Barry Bingham, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, have been collected in this [volume]." (Choice)

"[A] slim, self-conscious, overpriced, and ambitiously titled volume. The result is not so much a book as a souvenir of a ceremonial occasion. Beardsley, Frye, and Kermode have all written more cogently and more persuasively elsewhere, and each of them manifests obvious embarrassment over the topic, clearly made up for them by some planning committee. This collection does little to advance the humanities, our understanding of reality, or the substantial and generally deserved reputations of the contributors."

Choice 4:153 Ap '67 200w

"All [these essays] are quite good. All point to a certain malaise in the humanities. All seem to this reviewer an American version of that false problem of the Two Cultures." R. G. Saisselin

J Aesthetics 26:415 spring '68 100w

STRUVE, NIKITA. Christians in contemporary Russia; tr. by Lancelot Sheppard and A. Manson. 464p $7.50 Scribner

274.7 Church and state in Russia. Russia—Church history 67-17298

The author, editor of Le Messager Orthodoxe, Paris, presents a summary of the position of Christians in the Soviet Union and describes the spiritual characteristics of Russians. This is "a translation of the augmented second edition of Les Chrétiens en URSS (1963), with minor revisions to bring the English version up to date. The book is based upon both Soviet and Western materials. Struve deals primarily with the Russian Orthodox Church but has one chapter on the schismatics and sectarians and one on the 'neighboring churches' of the Soviet border republics." (Choice) Index.

"Less inclusive and less scholarly than W. Kolacz, Religion in the Soviet Union [BRD 1962] . . . but more current in its data on such matters as the position of the clergy and the state of theological studies. . . . Recommended for large general collections or for libraries specializing in religion."

Choice 4:1400 F '68 150w

"[The author is] thoroughly disingenuous, for he bases his critique of Soviet ideological 'totalitarianism' entirely upon the secular polity of the bourgeois 'free world', where the Church is an institution among institutions. That a state might have as much right to be atheistic as theocratic is a question he never confronts. . . . Christianity here is made identical with Russia and appears a good thing in any form, even in the revival stimulated by the Nazi occupation. The book is a catalogue of martyrology plus some interesting documents on relations between church and state, including a very brave Open Letter addressed by two monks to President Podgorny on the malpractices perpetrated by Soviet officials in their zeal to suppress the Church." Stanley Mitchell

New Statesman 74:558 O 27 '67 250w

"Struve's principal concern is the Orthodox Church of the 1950s and early 1960s. . . . The situation is described in some detail, with copious references to such periodicals as the Journal of the Moscow Patriarchate and Nauka i Religiya (Science and Religion—the Soviet atheist movement's monthly), as well as to Western tourists' reports and, occasionally, to private letters and appeals from Soviet sources. . . . The sensitivity of some of the private correspondence and the tourists' accounts permits one to gain a vivid insight into the lives of Russian Christians. . . . The chapter on 'The People of God' . . . and the final chapter, which deals with the persecutions of the years since 1959, is also to be welcomed as one of the few reliable descriptions of this period at present available. This is not to say that Mr. Struve is at all times reliable. . . . [The translation in general] is clear and readable, though unfamiliarity with the subject matter has led to a number of regrettable slips."

TLS p337 Ap 20 '67 1150w

STUART, JESSE. Mr Gallion's school. 337p $5.95 McGraw

63-12132

"Mr. Gallion, a successful school administrator, after two years of inactivity resulting from four heart attacks, learns that a consolidated high school where he has been principal 20 years before has fallen into anarchy. He decides that his mission, despite his poor health, is to become principal again and to demand the observance of certain moral, scholastic, and physical standards from teachers and students." (Library J)

"[A] prolix but still interesting story. . . . Gallion's success does seem a little too pat. And the people who oppose him often resemble straw men—one teacher, for instance, has no consistency of character at all and simply offers on each occasion a perfect foil for Gallion's qualities. The complaining wife reiterates constantly the theme of self-preservation, over and over, ad nauseam. And the obvious naïveté of the central character permeates the whole narrative. Yet the freshness, vigor, and optimism of the story make it a pleasant and refreshing experience in reading." W. B. Hill

STUART, JESSE—Continued

Best Sell 27:347 D 1 '67 600w

"Some of the problems of the teen-ager in eastern Kentucky as Mr. Stuart presents them are not so different from those found elsewhere. But although the problems are important, his treatment of them is superficial, if not downright egotistical. . . . The incident he describes with the State Athletic Control Board almost catches fire, as do situations involving stealing, parental arrogance, and political crookedness—but somehow drama and suspense never dominate. . . . This book will not incite the high school student enough to grasp the few points he might consider in terms of his own responsibilities in society. Detail is rampant; the long novel contains important subject matter, but it is superficial and condescending." J. N. Whitten
Library J 92:4028 N 1 '67 300w

Reviewed by W. T. Jack
N Y Times Bk R p80 N 19 '67 600w
Va Q R 44:lviil spring '68 130w

STUBBS, JEAN. My grand enemy. 217p $5.95
Stein & Day

67-25617

This historical novel set in eighteenth-century England is about Mary Blandy who was hanged for murder in 1752. "Duty to her father brought her to engage herself to William Crans-toun, poor son of the aristocracy, and her love for Willy brought her to poison her father and burn all concrete evidence leading to Willy as the supplier of the 'love philtre' which was in fact arsenic." (Library J)

Best Sell 27:406 Ja 15 '68 80w

"[This] case was a sensation in 18th-century England. Jean Stubbs has given us the story in all its gruesome detail. The narrative is somewhat drawn out, but holds the reader's attention right through the hanging of the female parricide and the subsequent demise of her almost-repentant suitor. True crime buffs will note that this is the first case in which arsenic was identified by scientific test in a murder case. Miss Stubbs' book is recommended for the large public library." D. W. Harrison
Library J 93:1014 Mr 1 '68 130w

"Both Miss Stubbs and I think [Mary Blandy] was guilty of nothing more than culpable gullibility; and Miss Stubbs makes miraculously clear how such a terrible mischance could come about—while at the same time illuminating many facets of the people and manners of England at the midpoint of the 18th century. The author has found a wonderfully workable technique for the novelization of fact; she shapes an artistic whole while departing so little from strict documentation that I have read many 'fact-crime' studies which contained far more fiction than this novel. This is a moving, compassionate, ironic study of a great case; take it as fiction or fact, it is splendid." Anthony Boucher
N Y Times Bk R p28 Ja 11 '68 250w

"Miss Stubbs' flourishing and generous talent suffers from being confined within the limits of a factual and well-documented tale. . . . [She] tells something of the story, and something of its essence—a little of each—but not enough to make the powerful novel of passion that is hidden in poor Miss Blandy's short life-span." New Yorker 43:115 Ja 20 '68 90w

STUCKENSCHMIDT, H. H. Maurice Ravel; variations on his life and work; tr. from the German by Samuel R. Rosenbaum. 271p $6.50
Chilton co.

B or 92 Ravel, Maurice 66-22690

Ravel "is shown by Stuckenschmidt to be a product of two contrasting elements in his heritage: the precision and clock-like exactness that came from his Swiss father and the warmth and sensuality that were the gifts of his Basque mother. Stuckenschmidt [offers this theme] as the key insight into both the composer's life and his creative efforts." (Publisher's note) Chronology. Index.

"The author frequently makes generalized or absolute statements of which one would like to see more proof. And despite the scholarly research that undoubtedly has gone into this work, there are present no footnotes. Possibly there were some in the original German edition? Furthermore, depending upon one's taste, the reader will react favorably or unfavorably to the author's frequent attempts at Freudian analysis of Ravel's character through personality traits of his everyday life or by means of the ingredients present in his musical compositions. . . . The book definitely is intended for the professional musician or the knowledgeable amateur. It is studded with technical terms and there is present neither an index of definitions nor any illustrations by which such terms might be rendered intelligible to the average reader. Despite these reservations, I found the book enjoyable to read and decidedly enlightening. . . . It is highly recommended to serious students of music." R. F. Young

Best Sell 28:122 Je 15 '68 200w

"While this new volume by a highly respected German critic adds little to our knowledge of Ravel, it is a balanced and readable account; as such it is recommended highly for general and informed readers." Baird Hastings

Library J 93:1997 My 15 '68 110w

STUMPF, RICHARD. War, mutiny and revolution in the German navy; the World War I diary of Seaman Richard Stumpf; ed. tr. and with an introd. by Daniel Horn. 442p pl $10
Rutgers univ. press

940.45 European War, 1914-1918—Personal narratives. European War, 1914-1918—Naval operations. Germany. Navy 67-20390

"The text is a translation of the complete version of the diary of Seaman Richard Stumpf originally entitled Memories of the German-English Naval War on [the] Helgoland, . . . and published as Volume X, Part 2 of Das Werk des Untersuchungsausschusses der Verfassungsgebenden Deutschen Nationalversammlung und des Deutschen Reichstages 1919-1928, Vierte Reihe. Die Ursachen des Deutschen Zusammenbruches. Zweite Abteilung. Der Innere Zusammenbruch. Since this version of the diary published by the Reichstag Investigating Committee omitted . . . names of persons who were not outstanding historical personalities, I have, wherever possible, restored the names originally listed, including them in the text in brackets. . . . For the sake of authenticity, occasional technical errors in the designation of ship types and the rank of officers have been retained." (Pref) Index.

"[In this] fascinating diary kept by a . . . German sailor from July 1914 through November 1918 [were] . . . recorded his impressions of navy life; the toil of keeping ships in a constant state of alert, growing dislike for 'gentlemen' officers, speculation about when and against what forces they would sail, and the change from anticipation to listlessness to a breakdown of morale. . . . He followed and recorded German successes and failures in all areas of conflict . . . and he noted the increasing hardship that war placed upon German civilians as he traveled several times to visit his native Bavaria. . . . Stumpf saw the problems of the naval revolts from a different perspective than that held in self-justifying memoirs of Scheer, Tirpitz, Ludendorff, and other leaders. . . . Horn has made a valuable contribution to historical scholarship by editing and translating with skill and imagination. His introduction properly sets the stage for Stumpf's own words. His frequent explanatory footnotes are for the most part helpful, although some are unnecessarily long and detailed. . . . A first-rate piece of editorial scholarship." Carl Boyd
Am Hist R 73:1556 Je '68 450w

"[This] is less penetrating than the fictional account of [these events by] Theodor Plivier, [The Kaiser Goes: The Generals Remain, BRD 1933] and is particularly sparse on the last crucial year, 1918. Of moderate interest in tracing the development of the hostility of the common seaman to the officer corps, the examples of mistreatment are mild . . . and underline the ignorance and prejudice of the seaman. . . . Horn, in the introduction, has . . . not consulted the contemporary war bulletins and newspapers and does little except laud the rather banal text. . . . Recommended for outside reading in advanced collections on World War I and naval affairs."

Choice 4:1436 F '68 200w

STURT, GEORGE. The journals of George Sturt, 1890-1927; a sel. ed. and introduced by E. D. Mackerness. 2v 453;455-915p $19.50 Cambridge

B or 92

67-10779

"Contents:—v.1: 1890-1904; v.2: 1905-1927. Sturt (1863-1927) was author of Change in the Village, Lucy Bettesworth, The Wheelwright's Shop, and other . . . studies of English village life, some published under the pseudonym 'George Bourne.'" (Choice) General index and Index of George Sturt's writings.

"The journal which [Sturt kept] . . . eventually reposed in the British Museum, and from it Geoffrey Grigson extracted passages for a book entitled The Journals of George Sturt 'George Bourne' 1890-1902. Grigson's selection was an attractive introduction for the general reader; his prefatory essay remains one of the best appraisals of Sturt. Mackerness' two handsome, well annotated volumes, which draw material from the entire range of the journals, constitute the first scholarly edition, and they should be acquired by every college library. Sturt may someday be recognized as the most astute analyst of rural life, particularly the life of the poor, during the last century. His journals are of extraordinary interest for both the student of literature and the social historian."

Choice 5:198 Ap '68 150w

"There are two quite distinct styles. In [Sturt's] encounters with country people, in managing the shop, in choosing wood or talking to neighbours, he writes with clarity and coolish sympathy. But then he starts thinking, constructing theories. . . . Sturt's ideas, a woeful mish-mash of Thoreau, Emerson, Ruskin (the later, mad Ruskin of the St George's Guild), are very close to those of H. S. Salt's Humanitarian League, with which he had some contact. One day . . . someone will write a book about them all, the faddists, the fellowship people, . . . the folk-industry revivers, the advocates of vegetarianism and the Simple Life. In a way, it was the socially committed front of the aesthetic movement, and whoever writes its history will find in Sturt's journals an invaluable source of information." Timothy Hilton

New Statesman 74:369 S 22 '67 1100w

"[Sturt's] Journal is a blend of self-education, autobiography, speculation and observation, in which the latter two elements predominate. His present editor, in addition to supplying essential preliminaries in which not a shade of unjustified claim appears, does everything tactful to ensure reading which is never without clarity and seldom without grace. . . . Sturt's main concern was always the human condition, about which there is abundance, every line of it worth meditation, either for its immediate effect or as social history."

TLS p618 J1 13 '67 1800w

STUTCHBURY, HOWARD E. The architecture of Colen Campbell. 186p pl $12.50 Harvard univ. press

720.942 Campbell, Colin

68-1443

The author examines the eighteenth-century Scottish architect's "total output (both executed and unexecuted), his relation to Palladio and Inigo Jones, his innovations, and his influence. Among the special topics considered are Campbell's role in the development and propagation of the large country house, the villa, and street and town house architecture." (Choice) Chronologies. Bibliography. Index.

"As the first detailed study of the architecture of the man perhaps most responsible for the introduction of Palladianism in 18th-century England, this is a valuable addition to our knowledge of the period. The importance of Campbell, not only as the author of the immensely significant Vitruvius Britannicus (5v., 1715-71), but also as the designer of a number of influential buildings (e.g. Wanstead and Mereworth), is here well demonstrated, albeit a little dryly. . . . Supplemented by appendices . . . and approximately 140 illustrations, this volume would be desirable for upper division undergraduate courses and graduate work in English art and, because of the Palladian influence on Colonial America, in American art as well."

Choice 5:478 Je '68 200w

"[This study] has been eagerly awaited; and it is therefore all the more disappointing . . . that it should fall so far short of what was needed. . . . The general appearance of the book . . . is frankly deplorable. Rarely can so ugly a page have been devised. . . . The illustrations (grouped at the end) are made from not very impressive blocks and are printed on greyish paper. Most of the photographs, taken by Dr. Stutchbury, are quite undistinguished. . . . The text is full of maddening abbreviations of Dr. Stutchbury's own, the key to which is not easy to find. Then there is the matter of Dr. Stutchbury's prose, which is thick sometimes to the point of impenetrability. He uses an elaborate, often inaccurate, technical vocabulary. . . . The descriptions and analyses of buildings and designs are throughout methodically dull and lifeless. . . . The last chapters (on Campbell's influence) are more original, but so rushed and haphazard as to spread more confusion than light. Dr. Stutchbury . . . has not mastered his material. Equally serious, his material itself is frequently incorrect and suffers from major omissions."

TLS p440 Ap 25 '68 2700w

"Mr. Stutchbury quite wisely concentrates on [Campbell's professional life] and sets down all that is known about his career but adds an acute, running criticism of his work. . . . The present book, with its carefully chosen illustrations, gives as clear an exposition of the architect's time and career as the classical logic of Campbell could wish."

Va Q R 44:cxxvii summer '68 140w

STYAN, J. L. Shakespeare's stagecraft. 244p $7.95; pa $2.45 Cambridge

822.3 Shakespeare, William—Stage history.
Shakespeare, William—Stage setting and scenery [67-13808]

This volume begins with an examination of "the physical aspects of the theater in which Shakespeare created. . . . [and analyzes the] usage of stage space and various technical elements, [covering] the spatial relationships of actors, including the contrasts of stage groupings, from the use of the lone figure through an increased number of actors, building finally to the sweep of Shakespeare's spectacular scenes. Mr. Styan also gives individual consideration to the use of a silent presence, symbols, properties, stage conventions, entrances, exits, processions, masques, costumes, and setting the stage according to the lines of the actors." (Library J) Bibliography. Index of subjects. Index of proper names. Index of scenes.

"This well written book is for the undergraduate and graduate library alike, where it can be utilized perhaps more as an encyclopedia of stagecraft for individual scenes of speeches (it is well indexed) than as a book to be read straight through."

Choice 5:628 J1 '68 150w

"Styan particularizes and illustrates with specific examples. Although his interpretations are at times arbitrary, this is nevertheless a valuable volume for the serious student of Shakespeare, and heightens for us a sometimes unappreciated aspect of Shakespeare's artistry which is often overshadowed by the universality and flexibility of his plays. In this volume Mr. Styan establishes clearly and in a scholarly way the image of Shakespeare [not only as a poet but as] a practical man of the theater." M. B. Raines

Library J 93:1914 My 1 '68 300w

"The actor's task in creating atmosphere on a neutral stage with the occasional necessity to 'do more than play in character' is well brought out. The daylight convention is given too little importance in his account, and in this and other sections more cogent examples could have been chosen to pin-point the essential difference from the practice of today. . . . The second chapter, on 'visual craft', contains many interesting discussions of movement and grouping on the platform. . . . When he turns in his third chapter to Shakespeare's 'aural craft', Mr. Styan comes up against the inevitable difficulty of describing vocal effects on the printed page. . . . A close and interesting analysis of Antony's speech when alone with Caesar's body is ultimately unsatisfactory. . . . This is a book which needed writing."

TLS p134 F '68 800w

STYLES, SHOWELL. Mallory of Everest. 174p
il maps $4.95 Macmillan (N Y)

796.5 Leigh-Mallory, George Herbert—Juvenile literature. Everest, Mount—Juvenile literature 68-20610

The author "relates the history of Everest from its discovery, through the heroism and tragedy of Mallory's three attempts on the great mountain, to the present day." (Publisher's note) Glossary. "Grades eight to twelve." (Library J)

"British mountaineer George Leigh Mallory . . . [died] in 1924, but Mallory, the climber and the man, are very much alive here. The author, himself a Himalayan climber, carefully details, step by painful step, Mallory's heroic efforts and his diligent planning. The book includes a good, if brief, discussion of other attempts to conquer Everest, including the successful 1953 Hillary-Tenzing climb. It's an exciting biography told in appropriately crisp style." Jeraline Nerney
Library J 93:3987 O 15 '68 80w

"[This book] should stimulate adult and boy alike."

TLS p1160 N 30 '67 50w

STYLES, SHOWELL. On top of the world; an illustrated history of mountaineering and mountaineers; with an introd. by Fosco Maraini. 278p il col pl maps $14.95 Macmillan (N Y)

796.5 Mountaineering—History 67-16944

This volume recounts "the triumphs and tragedies of five centuries of mountaineering. . . . The mountaineers and their motives for challenging the heights are analyzed." (Publisher's note) Index.

"[This is a] big disappointment. [It] is the British author's 74th book, and it shows it. It also shows that the writer has not really tried to keep up with mountaineering since about 1945, but is content to retell the well-worn sagas on which every climber cuts his eye-teeth. . . . Most ludicrously, the author obviously has little inkling what real technical climbing is like, and can only imagine it in the most lurid of terms." D. S. Roberts
Book World p16 D 15 '68 160w

"Styles, a prolific writer and ardent mountaineer, conveys enthusiasm and zeal . . . but little artistry or originality. Here are the familiar exhibits fetched out again for our inspection: the broken rope on the Matterhorn, the cruel solitary splendor of Herman Buhl atop Nanga Parbat. More engrossing are the less overworked exploits of Annie Peck, that 'schoolmarm from Providence,' and youthful Joe Brown. Scant attention is given American climbing; much respectful rehashing is made of Himalayan ventures, and of the question, Why do men climb? The uneven text is matched by generally mediocre photography. Libraries need buy this book only if sufficient interest warrants." Anita Nygaard
Library J 93:1158 Mr 15 '68 110w

"This rich and substantial production could be coveted simply as a picture book of the world's mountains. . . . The abundant photographs should have a wide appeal: they range from towering peaks of shining splendour, through scenes of a softer grace, to the more specialized interest of details of terrain and of technique. The written material . . . has point and purpose in itself. Twelve solid chapters each recreate a single climb or one short coherent stage in mountaineering history . . . and there is a good chapter on the chances of concentrated practice to be found on the rocks at home. Each subject in its turn is treated in detail and depth, and with a vigour that makes it come alive. By entering into the spirit of these different climbs one can sense as well the gathering changes in men's feelings for the mountains."

TLS p354 Ap 4 '68 430w

STYRON, WILLIAM. The confessions of Nat Turner. 428p $6.95 Random house

Turner, Nat—Fiction 67-12732

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Reviewed by Leon King
America 118:269 F 24 '68 50w
Choice 5:54 Mr '68 200w

Reviewed by Paul Schlueter
Christian Century 85:234 F 21 '68 600w

Reviewed by Richard Gilman
New Repub 158:23 Ap 27 '68 4100w

Reviewed by Ronald Bryden
New Statesman 75:536 My 3 '68 1500w

Reviewed by Benjamin Quarles
Social Studies 59:280 N '68 260w
TLS p480 My 9 '68 1800w

SUÁREZ, ANDRÉS. Cuba: Castroism and communism, 1959-1966; with a foreword by Ernst Halperin; tr. by Joel Carmichael and Ernst Halperin. (Center for int. studies. Studies in int. communism) 266p $7.50 Mass. inst. of technology

972.91 Cuba—Politics and government. Communism—Cuba. Castro, Fidel 67-26191

An "account by a former officer of the Cuban Revolutionary government of how Castro converted to Communism and Cuba was transformed into a Communist state. After briefly examining the events leading to the flight of Batista, Mr. Suarez traces the rise of Castro with an eye to his relations with the Communist party, native and foreign. . . . [He] also reviews the steps that led to the organization of the present Cuban Communist Party . . . and the growth of Castroism." (Library J) Index.

Reviewed by R. L. Woodward
Am Hist R 73:1692 Je '68 500w

Reviewed by R. R. Rubottom
Ann Am Acad 376:171 Mr '68 290w

Reviewed by Ronald Steel
Book World p6 Ag 18 '68 140w
Choice 4:1437 F '68 140w

"[The author] sees Castro's gradual entrance into the Soviet camp as not determined by American blundering but by the dictator's desire to have Soviet nuclear protection so that he might spread the revolution to Latin America. Looked at in this light such episodes as the missile crisis of 1962 take on a new aspect. . . . The figure of Castro that emerges from the book, which is not easy reading because of Mr. Suarez's style, is one of a political genius capable of inspiring blind devotion in a sufficient number of supporters to control the country. A book, in short, that should be in specialized collections on Cuba and Communism." J. A. Boromé

Library J 92:4513 D 15 '67 230w

"This study of the Cuban revolution in search of its ideology will stand for many years stolidly but competently among the best source books on contemporary political dynamics. Its wealth of detail cannot be denied. . . . That the C.I.A. provided the author with research material there is no doubt; there is no other collator of his thousand sources. But I do not believe that except in certain minor or tangential ways Suárez was influenced by anyone. . . . The bold if shadowy shape of a new ideology overwhelms the book. It is an ideology so far unrecognized by most professional Communist-watchers and one that the author defines by scrupulously examining each new symptom rather than by naming it as a whole." Donald Hogan

N Y Times Bk R p10 N 12 '67 1500w

SUDD, JOHN H. An introduction to the behavior of ants. 200p il $8.25; pa $3.25 St Martins

595.7 Ants 66-29852

This work "resulted from the author's search among a number of the many papers on ants—an estimated 35,000 a few years ago—and is intended to shorten this same search for other students of the ant. . . . Professor Sudd does not attempt to explain the workings of the ant's nervous system in producing its behavior, nor those of the evolutionary processes by which the behavior arises. Instead, he discusses the variety of behavior that has been discovered in the small proportion of ants studied. His aim is simple description, assisted in this book by . . . line diagrams and [photographs]." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

"References include more than 400 entries mostly published since 1925 and several appearing in English for the first time. . . . Arrangements of chapters is good and accounts of numerous publications are brought together, serving as an excellent introduction. . . . Certain terminology and topics such as polyethism, superorganism, language, learning power, guests, and navigation are particularly enlightening. Recommended as a reference book for students taking courses in biology and others interested in biological science."

Choice 5:78 Mr '68 150w

"Here at last is a clear, adequate account of these insects. The book goes well beyond the scope of its modest title, touching on many engrossing topics in physiology and ecology relevant to the core subject of behavior. . . . Sudd has chosen for citation about 500 articles that are most representative of the field, and he has synthesized with skill the material they contain. The book contains no important new ideas and does not try to probe very deeply into old ones. It is, instead, a sober, didactic account of available information. . . . It should draw new students to the subject and serve as a stimulus and useful reference work for biologists and psychologists of many persuasions." E. O. Wilson

Science 156:1473 Je 16 '67 400w

SUKENICK, RONALD. Up; a novel. 330p $4.95
Dial press

68-14993

An autobiographical novel about a young man growing up in Brooklyn, coming of age, becoming a teacher of English literature, and writing a novel while living in a lower East Side tenement.

Reviewed by Lucy Rosenthal

Book World p10 Jl 21 '68 650w

"The virtuoso of the season [is] Ronald Sukenick, a young man who can do just about anything with words. He can turn out a parody, a burlesque, a pastiche, a bit of genre realism, a modernist set piece; he has a fine gift for mimicry. . . . He has absorbed the lessons of Joyce and the influence of Bellow; he has done just about everything except write a good novel. Seldom has so much literary knowledge—Mr. Sukenick has just published a fine critical study of Wallace Stevens [BRD 1968]—been brought together with a setting, a group of characters, an intellectual terrain, all calculated to stir memories of high school. . . . Alas, Up cannot rise very high above the level of its materials; effective satire cannot be written about a world that is silly rather than evil, characters who are pipsqueaks rather than ominous." Irving Howe

Harper 236:83 My '68 1400w

Reviewed by Allen Cohen

Library J 93:2262 Je 1 '68 230w

Reviewed by Sara Blackburn

Nation 207:58 Jl 22 '68 130w

Reviewed by R. A. Sokolov

N Y Times Bk R p34 Jl 14 '68 440w

"It is hard to imagine a book as silly as this that is also as brilliant. . . . Sukenick, 36, knows every lit-crit cliché in the book and has at them with both barrels in this unbelievably complicated spoof of the Jewish-childhood bit mixed in with the theories of modern criticism. Sukenick has given 'Up' a negative review in the pages of 'Up,' but he was too hard on himself. Any man as good as he is at concrete poetry, fractured time sequences and the creation of delectable fantasies can't be all bad. He copies every known writing style from the illiterate . . . to stream of consciousness . . . to socially unredeeming pornography toggled out in French dialogue spoken by two Americans in Paris each pretending to the other to be native." R. A. Sokolov

Newsweek 72:80 Jl 22 '68 170w

"[This] is one of the funniest books of the season, a hilarious outburst of wild comedy that mocks the pretensions of the young. . . . [The book makes serious points] coolly and without the pontifical solemnity some cultural historians require. . . . [It] is an attempt to find a way out of chaos. Exposing the moral corruption of the nation, Sukenick ridicules, blithely and without much malice, all of the rackets, fads, shmucks, and schlemiels. . . . This apostate from the sexual revolution is the zany hero of his own novel. . . . [It is] unconventional in the tradition of Sterne's Tristram Shandy. . . . Sukenick is most successful when he writes about non-Jews, or cases and circumstances in which Yiddishkeit is peripheral or suffused. . . . There are many [whacky characters] caught up in the exuberant flow of sexy, raucous, stunning scenes. Up is the kind of book that any person in his right mind can enjoy." E. M. Potoker

Sat M 51:26 Jl 6 '68 1200w

SUKENICK, RONALD. Wallace Stevens: musing the obscure; readings, an interpretation, and a guide to the collected poetry. 234p $8;
pa $2.45 N.Y. univ. press

811 Stevens, Wallace

67-25041

Following an introductory essay, the author paraphrases and endeavors to explain forty-seven of Stevens's three hundred seventy-seven published poems. In addition, he concludes with "A Guide To Stevens' Collected Poetry" which "provides an entrée to a larger body of poetry than could be [paraphrased]. . . . The Guide either makes brief comments on the poems, or refers the reader to a section or sections of the book that discuss relevant thematic material. Together with the paraphrases, it covers the complete Collected Poems [BRD 1954], and all the poetry in Opus Posthumous [BRD 1957] that is of importance." (Pref) Chronology. Bibliography. Index.

"[The paraphrases] run from ordinary, reductive restatement of the poetry to an occasional thorough explication—the one of 'Thirteen Ways of Looking at a Blackbird' being the closest to an original reading and almost the only explication (as opposed to explanation) the book affords. The introductory essay has almost nothing to commend it . . . [and] it is badly lacking in documentation. . . . The book might be useful to beginning undergraduates . . . but one dreads . . . to see the paraphrases turning up in students' papers. . . . There is very little original in this book—neither the paraphrases (which after all, only follow Stevens), nor the rare comment (seldom original). Mr. Sukenick seems to have added the notes at random and according to what criticism he happened to have read. He has not read enough; nor has he read closely that which he does note." J. N. Riddel

Am Lit 40:417 N '68 550w

Choice 5:346 My '68 180w

"Despite general agreement on the complexity of Wallace Stevens's poetry, few critics have risked useful explication. Now Ronald Sukenick . . . unabashedly paraphrases and explicates the poems, without neglecting at all larger ideas and recurring patterns. The philosophical, theoretical textures become less formidable as his relentless, well-annotated examination of individual poems proceeds. Happily, this book should end the spate of silliness and fuzziness in the quarterlies, much of which has damaged, albeit unwittingly, the reader's understanding of a great poet. . . . Useful for both serious student and frustrated layman, this excellent study should be included in all large academic and public collections."

J R. Willingham

Library J 92:2931 S 1 '67 130w

"We have spent too long looking for unity [in Stevens's poetry] among the materials themselves, or a logic among the ideas, a strict philosophy. It is the great merit of Mr. Sukenick's book that he diverts us from this enquiry. . . . The poems are chapters in the life of the poet's mind, and Mr. Sukenick glosses them on this understanding. He does not say much about the poetry as a whole, or even about the bearing of one poem upon another; only enough to establish his own position, his sense of Stevens. . . . [However] some of the poems which Mr. Sukenick explicates seem to me sufficiently clear already. . . . On the other hand there are poems . . . which I find difficult and opaque even after Mr. Sukenick's commentary. . . . [However, his] readings are remarkably acute, so that even to disagree with them is exhilarating." Denis Donoghue

N Y Rev of Books 10:23 F 1 '68 1900w

SULEIMAN, MICHAEL W. Political parties in Lebanon; the challenge of a fragmented political culture. 326p il $7.50 Cornell univ. press

329.9 Political parties. Lebanon—Politics and government 67-14604

Professor Suleiman "begins with a historical background. . . . He explains the present setting, with its regional differences, family, clan, and feudal ties, education, economy, the press, confessionalism, and the constitutional and political factors in Lebanon. He then proceeds to analyze the various political groupings, beginning with such transnational parties as the Communist party, the Syrian Nationalist party (PPS), the Baath and the Arab Nationalists' movement. Next come the religious and ethnic groups (including the Armenian), and finally the exclusively Lebanese parties, with stress on the An-Najada, the Progressive Socialist, the Phalange (Al-Kataeb), the Constitutional Union and National Bloc, and the National Liberals' party." (Am Hist R) Bibliography. Index.

SULEIMAN, M. W.—Continued

"Suleiman examines both the programs and the leadership in highly understandable terms and presents the structure for what it is, with competition for political power and political socialization among the functions of the contending parties. . . . [He] has done well, indeed, with his subject. Students of Lebanese and Middle Eastern politics will be indebted to him. Not only is his book well and clearly written; it is also replete with illustrative tables, and he closes with a selected bibliography of materials both in Arabic and Western European languages." H. N. Howard

Am Hist R 73:869 F '68 380w

Reviewed by P. L. Beckett
Ann Am Acad 375:219 Ja '68 450w

SULLIVAN, ARTHUR, jt. auth. W. S. Gilbert's A song to sing. O! See Gilbert, W. S.

SULLIVAN, J. P. The Satyricon of Petronius; a literary study. 302p $7.50 Ind. univ. press
877 Petronius Arbiter—Satyricon 68-14596

A translation and examination of "the many unanswerable questions which the fragmentary state and disputed authorship of this masterpiece provoke. . . . [The author offers] his conclusions about the original size and shape of the book. . . . the audience for which it was intended. . . . [and] the other books of which it is, in part, a parody." (New Statesman) Bibliography. Index of Petronian passages. Index of ancient authors. General index.

"This very valuable addition to Petronian studies is by . . . a leading member of the 'new school' of classical scholarship at the University of Texas who is well qualified to write on Petronius. He deals provocatively with the famous authorship question, and deals sensibly with the question of 'obscenity' in Petronius's writings. His attempts to reconstruct the lost parts of the original work will not command general assent, which is to the good. Mr. Sullivan wears his erudition lightly; his style is candid and sometimes witty. . . . The book is a necessary purchase for Latinists." Barry Baldwin

Library J 93:2006 My 15 '68 100w

"Satyricon is so scandalously funny that it has been kept out of the hands of all but specialist readers for most of the 1,900-odd years of its life. . . . The idea that it was read aloud to Nero's court circle is pleasing and convincing, and for the reader with little Latin Sullivan's analogies with modern literature are often helpful. But even on the evidence of his own translation his critical estimate of the work is quite unacceptable. . . . To consider Trimalchio a greater comic figure than Encolpius is to risk appearing comic oneself. Encolpius is the Satyricon. . . . Sullivan finds him psychologically inconsistent for no discernible artistic reason, and I find Sullivan incomprehensible. . . . For all his use of Freud, his literary judgment seems very detached from life." Julien Mitchell

New Statesman 75:763 Je 7 '68 900w

TLS p725 Jl 11 '68 1050w

SULLIVAN, NAVIN. The message of the genes. 198p il $5.95 Basic bks.

575.1 Heredity. DNA 67-17395

An "account of the mechanism of heredity. This is the story of . . . the units in the sex cell which determine hereditary characteristics and of the . . . molecules DNA and RNA. It is DNA that directs each individual to grow in a particularly individual manner, and it is RNA that carries this genetic message . . . to every cell of the body." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

"[This] is a book about concepts and men rather than detailed mechanisms, and is an excellent history. . . . The text provides a conceptual base upon which students at all levels can build a more detailed understanding of genetic mechanisms and the problems being studied today. In general, the style is much like the better contributions in Scientific American, with something of value for everyone. The index could serve as a glossary of terms needed by the new student, and the recommended reading is useful. Overall, one of the best introductory surveys of genetics available at the present time."

Choice 5:218 Ap '68 100w

"For the advanced science student, this is an engrossing, often exciting, clearly written book. . . . Step by step, the author traces the development of the sturdy conceptual framework that has welded genetic structure and function to molecular biology. . . . A surprising amount of technical information, some in the form of line drawings, is provided in non-technical or readily understandable technical terms, though some knowledge of chemistry is necessary. Throughout, there are revealing and often amusing anecdotes about the scientists involved. The drama of scientific research and the excitement of discovery permeate these pages. . . . Grades ten to twelve." D. E. Bliss

Library J 92:4265 N 15 '67 200w

SUMMER STUDY ON INFORMATION NETWORKS, UNIVERSITY OF COLORADO, 1966. EDUNET. See EDUNET

SUMMERALL, PAT. Kicking to win, by Pat Summerall with John Chanin; il. by Robert Graves. 86p $3.95 Viking

796.33 Football 67-22025

"A former professional football player, and currently a CBS sports commentator, here presents [an] analysis of the kicking game. He devotes chapters to the kickoff, punting, kicking for the extra point and field goals, and emphasizes technique. He also gives attention to the strategy dictated in different game situations." (Library J)

"One of the attractive features of the volume is the fine work of the illustrator. . . . More than just a book for coaches, young readers will enjoy the work and appreciate the helpful advice of Summerall on training and conditioning."

Best Sell 28:227 S 1 '68 80w

"This book will be of interest to active players and coaches; Sunday afternoon quarterbacks will probably find here more about the kicking game than they care to know." Robert Van Benthuyssen

Library J 93:2685 Jl '68 120w

SUMMERLIN, SAM, jt. auth. The China cloud. See Ryan, W. L.

SUMMERS, HOLLIS. The peddler and other domestic matters. 86p $4 Rutgers univ. press
811 67-28414

This is the author's fourth collection of poetry. Some of the poems have previously appeared in such periodicals as The American Scholar, New Mexico Quarterly and Perspective.

"The contents resemble middle-aged academic concerns which are not unlike those of the lower middle class in Britain. As a stylist, Summers seems superior to John Ciardi, and his equal in invention. He has a taste for the Tudor spirit; his symbolism is a bit empty and sad: seagulls, empty beaches, and the like. The only powerful poems ('Toward Santiago,' on a Quixotic theme; 'The Gift,' a wry, super-numerary junior magus poem; 'The Velocipede,' an allegory) have weak endings. For readers who enjoy irony and bitterness, even if diffuse."

Choice 5:628 Jl '68 100w

"Summers has an easy hand; he employs the devices of both conventional poetry and contemporary language without awkwardness. There is no stiffness, and no grand flourishes. The poems, in fact, are so quiet at times that the lines sink into the page until there is nothing there, nothing to resolve the poem but a shrug of the shoulders—whether the reader's or the author's I am not sure. . . . There are sixty-six poems in this book. Some of them left me with nothing at all. Most were good reading and I enjoyed them, but I may not look at them again. There are eleven that I will remember and show to friends, and wish I had written. That is a good number for any book." Miller Williams

Sat R 51:32 Mr 9 '68 410w

SUMMERS, JAMES L. The iron doors between. 206p $3.75 Westminster press

68-15010

"Seventeen-year-old Vic Shan, in a detention home for stealing a Renault, is released to foster parents. In spite of the Chapmans' sincere efforts to aid in his rehabilitation and the interest and concern of a nice girl, Vic cannot adjust to this new life and returns to his former ways. The story ends with Vic back in jail, apparently satisfied with his choice. . . . Grades nine to eleven." (Library J)

"With little effort at plot, the author attempts to portray various characters and their reactions to juvenile delinquency. . . . The book raises questions, but will not supply readers with answers; it seems to imply that the boy is a complete victim of his environment with little hope for the future."

Best Sell 28:279 O 1 '68 100w [YA]

"It has been my pleasure over the years to review a good many of Mr. Summers' books [including Ring Around Her Finger, BRD 1957]. In his latest, I believe he has extended not only his own powers but also the limits of books for youngsters who are just on the edge of adult reading. . . . The author's special contribution to the young reader is to introduce an ambivalence that is not usually present in juvenile fiction. He remains fair to his picture of an apparently intractable boy in a bewildered society." E. B. Hungerford

Book World p18 (children's issue) N 3 '68 120w [YA]

"A story about a boy with an iron mother: prison. . . . The author succeeds admirably in telling it like it is, using the idiom of the street and the pool hall with verity, capturing the anger, exasperation, despair, impatience of all the people who try, really try, to cope with Vic." Jane Manthorne

Horn Bk 44:576 O '68 190w

Reviewed by Patricia Dahl

Library J 93:[3327] S 15 '68 100w [YA]

SUN, RUTH Q., comp. Land of seagull and fox; folk tales of Vietnam; coll. and retold by Ruth Q. Sun; ill. by Ho thanh Duc. 135p $4.50 Tuttle

398.2 Folklore—Vietnam

67-23010

A collection of thirty-one tales retold by an American who has taught at the University of Saigon. Chronology of Vietnamese history.

"The tales are charming and will be of interest to story-tellers wishing for fresh material, as well as to students of Asiatic folklore."

Best Sell 27:165 JI 15 '67 100w

"The book does not pretend to be scholarly, and [none] of the apparatus of folkloristics is present. The Chinese and the European influences are much in evidence in some of the stories, especially toward the end of the slim volume. The selection focuses on the people themselves, with very little included on the natural world. This work can hardly be compared with other works on the same subject because so little attention has been paid to Vietnamese folklore, but the book certainly points up the need for more comprehensive study of a graceful culture. Recommended for general reading, it should be in all libraries."

Choice 5:494 Je '68 200w

"Some of these legendary stories contain memorable images: the invisible cloak patched with a silken butterfly, the ice-cold well of immortality. Thoughtful adolescents who are aware of current history will value these epiphanies of the Vietnamese people. Younger children will enjoy hearing many of the tales." M. L. Birmingham

Commonweal 87:182 N 10 '67 100w [YA]

SUNDELL, ABNER, jt. auth. Two faces of Asia. See Myron, R.

SUPER, R. H., ed. Dissent and dogma. See Arnold, M.

SUPERVIELLE, JULES. Selected writings. 277p $6.75; pa $2.75 New directions

848

66-11415

This volume contains forty-five poems, with the French text en face; eight short stories; and the novel, The Man Who Stole Children (Le Voleur d'enfants).

"[This volume] makes no attempt to indicate Supervielle's evolution and poetics, to situate him or even to present him to the American reader. There is no preface, no introduction, no dates. The selection from the poetry can hardly be called generous, but it is well chosen. Most of the translations are by James Kirkup, who lacks Supervielle's tact and subtlety. But the nine translations by Denise Levortov are perfect. . . . The Man Who Stole Children is . . . a beautifully controlled, wild imagining, surely a minor masterpiece of some sort. It is superbly translated by Alan Pryce-Jones." Peter Brooks

Book World p26 S 8 '68 410w

"[This selection] reveals a fantasist who delights in casting spirals of psychedelic colors upon firmly rooted concretions and transforming them into light-bewitched, shifting abstractions. In his short stories he appears bent on refashioning the Bible. Stories such as 'The Creation of the Animals,' 'Anthony of the Desert,' 'The Ox and the Ass of the Manger,' and 'The Flight Into Egypt,' richly surrealistic and pictorial, do not easily give up the flutter of their wings for a simple, pinned analysis. The poems, too, cover their nut hardness with many confectioned layers. The novel, although short, does not sustain its mood or theme with the same success as the poems. Valuable for large collections." John Demos

Library J 92:3042 S 15 '67 100w

"[Supervielle's] most beautiful poems create a mood of ocean-like immobility. The poet becomes a spiritual diver, descending into the hidden reaches of his life. . . . It is rare that poems translated from the French are as well served as those in [this volume]. . . . The stories are written with the light simplicity of children's tales and like the poems, they are often about children. But these are a strange race of lonely, enigmatic creatures Supervielle evokes. . . . The legends Supervielle retells are fascinating. . . . In all of them he describes the dilemma of the poet isolated and yet curiously strengthened by his imagination, like St. Anthony by his temptations, or like Orpheus by the magic of his singing." Paul Zweig

Nation 206:384 Mr 18 '68 2000w

SUPPLE, BARRY E., jt. auth. Boston capitalists and Western railroads. See Johnson, A. M.

SURFACE, WILLIAM. The poisoned ivy. 223p $5 Coward-McCann

616.86 Narcotic habit. Drugs. Students—U.S. 68-14310

Based on interviews with student users, college administrators and medical authorities, the author gives an "account of the circulation and use of marijuana and LSD at [Harvard, Yale, Princeton and others of] the Ivy League schools. . . . [He describes] the reasons, both subjective and objective, for the rapidly increasing use of these drugs by the students. He points out the dangers of mental and physical disorientation and damage as well as the inducement to crime, both for drug takers and drug pushers many of whom are students." (Library J)

"Surface has not pinpointed the frequency of drug users among college students; . . . but his study lends support to the widespread use of drugs. What he finds surprising is the frequency, especially of users of marijuana, among the ivy-league colleges and their sister institutions. Traditionally, these students have been the elite—the group from which come three quarters of our corporate executives and government officials. . . . We must rule out the practice of categorizing users as either emotionally maladjusted youths, or 'hippies.' Perhaps only five to eight percent of the users would belong to these categories. . . . Although the interview method is not without error, the author has done a service in calling our attention to an increasingly serious problem." L. J. Lennon

Best Sell 28:191 Ag 1 '68 330w

SURFACE, WILLIAM—Continued

"The picture [described here] is a pretty sorry one, with hypocrisy, immaturity, bribery, and crime appearing regularly. . . . Mr. Surface offers no complete solutions, other than the suggestion that the students themselves could clear up the situation if they took a good look at reality and acted maturely. [The book] is recommended for public and college libraries." W. K. Beatty

Library J 93:2468 Je 15 '68 170w

SURMELIAN, LEON. Techniques of fiction writing; measure and madness; introd. by Mark Schorer. 255p $4.95 Doubleday
808.3 Fiction—Technique 66-24323

This "analysis of the flexibility, the moods and the . . . choices of mode in fiction, . . . with examples ranging from Flaubert to Joyce, and from Dostoevsky to Hemingway, . . . attempts to show the framework, the trends and styles of modern fiction." (Publisher's note) Bibliography.

"[Schorer's] brief but tightly packed introduction to this work is excellent. . . . [The author's] suggestions are always stimulating and his examples, from the best of writers, are always exactly to the point. As do most other writers on the subject, he covers such standard ingredients as scene, description, point of view, plot, character, and prose style, but with a view to the individual's use of them rather than their use of the individual. This is an outstanding book of its kind. Probably the best recommendation I can give it is that I plan to adopt it for my own creative writing course, but it should also be made available in libraries for those not taking formal courses." C. A. Raines

Library J 93:995 Mr 1 '68 180w

"Surmelian, in a refreshingly balanced essay at a poetics of fiction, demonstrates the respective values of technique and experience and their interaction in literary art. As a teacher (at California State College), he believes in 'measure,' that is control; as a writer of fiction himself, he cannot discount that unteachable quantity he calls 'madness,' or 'the unconscious craftsmanship' that distills the essential in an experience. . . . No one since E. M. Forster or Percy Lubbock has brought so much faith and good will as Surmelian has to the task of examining and evaluating the elusive workings of fiction. This lucidly argued and felicitously phrased guide to the uses of plot, character, scene, summary, etc., takes nothing for granted." Nona Balakian

N Y Times Bk R p18 O 6 '68 210w

SURTZ, EDWARD L. The works and days of John Fisher; an introduction to the position of St John Fisher (1469-1535), bishop of Rochester, in the English renaissance and the reformation. 572p $15 Harvard univ. press

230.2 Fisher, John, Saint. Bp. Catholic Church—Doctrinal and controversial works 67-17319

"This work consists of a series of essays on Fisher's intellectual position as well as detailed commentary on his method and style. . . . Chapters II through XII . . . elaborate Fisher's thinking on such critical Reformation issues as the authority of Scripture and tradition, the efficacy of faith and grace, and the importance of original tongues for Biblical study whereas Chapters XIII through XX deal with method and style in his sermons and polemical treatises." (Am Hist R)

Reviewed by M. J. Tucker

Am Hist R 73:1147 Ap '68 240w

"With meticulous scholarship Surtz analyzes Fisher's work in its Renaissance and Reformation contexts. Primarily an intellectual rather than a biographical study, Surtz' book presupposes a rather extensive knowledge of early 16th-century history and theology. Students possessing this background, especially those interested in Renaissance humanism and education, late mediaeval and Reformation theology, and Tudor England in general, will find it richly rewarding."

Choice 5:796 S '68 140w

"The whole work . . . displays a wide reading and fidelity of presentation that Fisher himself would have admired, and when next a biographer of its subject appears, he will bless Father Surtz. By the same token, the book is hard going, and those who approach it with the image of a dusty scholar in their minds will probably leave it with little change of heart. . . . We get no glimpse of the courage and serenity and depth of feeling that pervade the records of Fisher's last months and last days. But the doctor of the church is here for the first time justly and amply presented, with a wealth of footnote information and an excellent index, and the work will not need to be done again."

TLS p926 Ag 29 '68 900w

SUSKIND, RICHARD. Men in armor; the story of knights and knighthood; il. by Enrico Arno. 84p $3.75; lib bdg $3.54 Norton
940.1 Knights and knighthood—Juvenile literature 68-10716

This introduction to life in feudal times presents information "on the training of the knight, his day-to-day activities in the castle, his weapons and equipment. There are . . . sections on the techniques of warfare as practiced during this era as well as the recreational pastimes, such as hunting, falconry, feasting, and tournaments. An added feature is the inclusion of summaries of famous stories concerning knighthood with King Arthur's Round Table and The Song of Roland representing the glamorized versions and Don Quixote, the satire. [Index.] Grades four to six." (Library J)

Book World p13 My 26 '68 160w

Horn Bk 44:336 Je '68 230w

"The style is factual and straightforward, and unusual words are explained. This book . . . does not give the extensive, colorfully illustrated coverage of the Horizon Caravel Knights of the Crusades [BRD 1963]." Agnes Gregory

Library J 93:873 F 15 '68 200w

"Certain contemporary words are . . . shown with their derivative 13th-century forms. . . . [Such] instructive touches, along with the stylish woodcuts accurately depicting battle scenes, expertly reinforce a clearly written narrative." Jonathan Segal

N Y Times Bk R p30 Mr 31 '68 200w

SUSSMAN, AARON. The magic of walking, by Aaron Sussman and Ruth Goode. 410p $7.50 Simon & Schuster

796.5 Walking. Literature—Collections 67-25376

This book discusses the why, where, and how of walking, followed by a walking guide, and a shopping guide listing equipment. There is an anthology of essays and poems on walking by various authors including Whitman, Thoreau, Stevenson, Kieran, Frost, and others. Bibliography. Index.

"Some writers might have dragged their feet with such material. But these two are not pedestrian at all. They're story-rich, witty, erudite. They run, stroll, march with and quote great walkers of history. Plus anthologized essays, articles, poems, and even one of Ray Bradbury's short stories. The overall effect is a joy, of course. . . . Indeed, after reading this book, even the laziest must rise and rush outside. Walk, do not run." C. W. Case-wit

Book World p13 Mr 17 '68 190w

Reviewed by J. M. Carter

Library J 92:3439 O 1 '67 210w

"This book, like a good walk, covers enough ground so that everyone will like at least some of it. It is partly pro-walking propaganda, pointing out benefits to body, mind and spirit. . . . The author-compilers avoid undue heartiness, and show their urbanity by urging city as well as country walks, and by including Max Beerbohm's anti-walking essay. . . . They are not against conversing or poking about on a walk, and seem even to favor it. A saunterer's book, to saunter through rather than to march through. For real hikers . . . there is a very good list of walks and trails here and in Europe, and sources of information about all of them. A good thing to have all in one place."

N Y Times Bk R p24 D 10 '67 290w

New Yorker 44:155 Mr 9 '68 80w

SUSSMAN, HERBERT L. Victorians and the machine; the literary response to technology. 261p $6 Harvard univ. press

820.9 English literature—History and criticism. Technology 68-14274

"Concentrating on seven representative writers—Thomas Carlyle, Charles Dickens, John Ruskin, William Morris, Samuel Butler, H. G. Wells, and Rudyard Kipling—the author examines the complex ways in which the Victorians tried to adjust to the machine and to the idea that technology might not be inimical to a humane society. Challenging the oversimplified notion that their literature was escapist and that they rejected the machine, the author suggests that a new tradition developed in the nineteenth century: an attempt was made to find in the mechanized world new sources of emotional strength and beauty. Mr. Sussman shows how the machine came to occupy a central place in Victorian literature as the most appropriate symbol to define the age." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by J. R. Mellow

Commonweal 89:124 O 25 '68 450w

"[Mr. Sussman] shows that the Victorians never really came to terms with the aesthetic implications of technology and that their writings on the machine betrayed their inability to distinguish between the moral and the artistic aspects of industrialization. . . . Recommended for college and university libraries." L. S. Fallis
Library J 93:1145 Mr 15 '68 140w

"[This study] is exceptionally well done. Mr. Sussman has not scamped his homework; he has combed his chosen authors closely and has left unrecorded no passage from them that is germane to his purpose. . . . [While the book] is a first-rate guide to what [these] writers thought of the growing mechanization of their society, [it] does not in fact tell us much more than that creative writers, in the nature of things, fear and distrust mechanical techniques."

TLS p675 Je 27 '68 490w

SUSSMAN, MARVIN B. The walking patient; a study in outpatient care [by] Marvin B. Sussman [and others]. 260p $7.50 Western Reserve univ. press

362.1 Sick. Hospitals

66-28147

Two sociologists "have analysed the outpatient department of Cleveland's University Hospitals as a social system, with particular reference to differential reactions of patients and staff to changes brought about by the decision of the medical center to modify certain aspects of the handling of clinic patients. . . . The authors conclude that, if the hospital solved procedural problems in the outpatient clinics, patients might come to judge the clinics chiefly in terms of the medical care available." (Am J Soc) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by L. J. Taubenhaus

Am J Pub Health 58:1129 Je '68 190w

"The book's title is not completely accurate. What the authors have presented is not a study in outpatient care but a case study of attitudes and beliefs of patients and staff concerning logistics of the delivery of outpatient care, which is quite another matter. Although the research suffers from the inescapable limitations common to case studies of ongoing organizations, the study is remarkably well integrated, considering the nature of the sample and data. The statistical analysis relies primarily upon the  $\chi^2$  test and rank-order correlation. . . . [This] is a well-organized work presented in a lucid, relaxed style. Materials presented in the appendixes might well stimulate further research." Jean Carroll

Am J Soc 73:367 N '67 500w

"The problem of health services in the U.S. today centers around the necessity to move patient care out of the overcrowded hospitals into clinic or home care services. In spite of the fact that this reported study is narrow in scope, it contains far-reaching implications for all those who might be planning clinic health services, and who strive to render service which will be satisfying not only to patients but also to the medical and nursing staff. Findings are clearly delineated and summarized at the end of each chapter."

Choice 4:1280 Ja '68 100w

SUTHERLAND, JOHN. Men of Waterloo. 335p 11 maps $7.95 Prentice-Hall

940.2 Napoléon I, Emperor of the French. Europe—History—1739-1900 66-19886

This book begins with Napoleon's escape from Elba and discusses the Battle of Waterloo, concluding with the French retreat and the return of the Emperor to Paris. Bibliography. Index.

"Sutherland's enthralling account of the Hundred Days outranks recent popular books on the subject . . . not only in scope and substance but, above all, because the author has skillfully brought a vast number of individuals into sharp focus. His elaborately composed narrative thus results in a kaleidoscopic evocation of the memorable events. All phases and aspects of the subject have been carefully explored in years of extensive research. One minor flaw is that the documentation heavily concentrates on British sources. The attractive format is enhanced by 24 fine illustrations and 5 maps. In an appendix all military units participating in the campaign are tabulated. . . . Highly recommended for college libraries."

Choice 4:212 Ap '67 200w

"[This] is certainly a work of great erudition, but, unhappily, too often takes the form of trifles. . . . Kellermann's great and successful charge with his heavy cavalry is admirably described, as is Ney's failure through an almost incredible series of mistakes by his messengers, to reinforce Napoleon. . . . From . . . [the end of the double battle of Ligny and Quatre Bras] onward there is little ground for criticizing the narrator."

TLS p244 Mr 14 '68 500w

SUTHERLAND, ZENA, comp. History in children's books; an annotated bibliography for schools and libraries. 248p $8.50 McKinley

016.909 World history—Bibliography. Children's literature—Bibliography 67-3179

"After a section on Ancient Times, the arrangement is by broad geographical areas, and within these by countries and—for the U.S.—historical periods; books for lower grades are separated from those for higher grades. About 1,750 entries." (Sat R) Author and title index.

"This is a useful bibliography that supplements, updates, and complements similar existing works in this subject area. It is not exhaustive, nor does the author claim that it is."

[It] can be recommended as yet one more useful tool for the selection of appropriate trade book material in the area of history for grades K-8." A. C. Rusk

Library J 93:4708 D 15 '68 700w

Reviewed by D. M. Glixon

Sat R 50:49 My 20 '67 50w

"[This] is very useful for the librarian and . . . for the teacher who wishes to enrich and enliven his courses in history and the social studies with supplementary reading. . . . Fully one-half of the titles refer to various periods, movements, and aspects of U.S. History, with significant sections on the American Indian and the Negro. Included are a list of publishers."

Social Studies 59:94 F '68 170w

SUTPHEN, DICK. The mad old ads. 128p 11 $4.95 McGraw

659.109 Advertising—History 67-66349

"Mr. Sutphen points out that 'the material in this volume has been compiled from actual old newspapers, magazines and books. The facts used in the case histories, and many of the earliest ads are from the book "A History of Advertising," published in England in 1874.'" (Library J)

"While this small volume of old advertisements—chiefly those of the 19th Century—appears to have been issued mainly for laughs, it also can serve as a grim reminder of the depths to which unregulated advertising can sink. . . . Recommended." J. B. Woy

Library J 92:4500 D 15 '67 130w

N Y Times Bk R p32 O 29 '67 160w

"[The author] devotes only a single chapter to Quacks and Impostors but almost everyone in the book qualifies as one or the other. . . . Sutphen's museum of antique nonsense is more than simply quaint and quacky. These are the Neanderthal antecedents of what has become a supersophisticated industry. . . . In an eerie way, the mad old ads are a glimpse at the world that has come." P. D. Zimmerman

Newsweek 69:60 Ja 2 '67 700w

SUTTON, HENRY. The exhibitionist; a novel. 410p $5.95 Geis; for sale by Crown

67-13097

A novel about a beautiful young film star, Merry Houseman, whose father is a fading movie idol.

Reviewed by Richard Conlin
Best Sell 27:308 N 1 '67 100w

"One might decide to read this travesty . . . [because of] curiosity as to whether a highbrow modern poet, out to make a buck under a nom de guerre, will write a better dirty book (more complex and literate) than other dirty books—will he, that is, take the genre at all seriously . . . As to whether or not Mr. David Slavitt (for it is he—another open secret) takes it seriously at all, the answer is No. The writing is facile enough to be intelligible but he could scarcely have done less." Robert Brown

Book World p3 O 29 '67 500w

"The novel is slick, determinedly sexy, well constructed, very readable. Anyone who has read The Carpetbaggers [by H. Robbins, BRD 1961] or other such epics . . . will recognize the brand, and will be unlikely to be either shocked or surprised by it. What, if anything, makes The Exhibitionist a hot property is that it is fiction which skirts perilously close to fact. The film-star father and film-star daughter whose sexual sagas are told therein are all too identifiable. The kicks which this kind of thing seems to provide for Hollywood scandal watchers, plus the author's packaging skill and the Geis promotion hoopla, should ensure an early and high place for this 'product' on the best-seller list. It is less likely that the book will rate any kind of ranking by those who consider novels on the basis of either their literary or social worth." Eric Moon

Library J 92:4175 N 15 '67 180w

"Merry learns about life from a degenerate stepfather, a degenerate stepmother, a degenerate Argentinian producer, a degenerate American producer, and a nice young Off Broadway actor who is really a blackguard. All of these spicy garnishings go for naught because there is no entree to garnish. Nothing transpires in this novel to make us curious about its characters; little development occurs beyond the chronological. All sex play and nothing else makes a really dull book. The reader's time and the publisher's paper might have been better conserved had all the interludes of coitus been put out as a pamphlet." Martin Levin

N Y Times Bk R p70 O 29 '67 150w
Time 90:105 O 27 '67 800w

SUTTON, JAMES. An atlas of typeforms [by] James Sutton and Alan Bartram. 116p il $10.50 Hastings house

655 Printing—Specimens. Type and type founding 68-24227

This volume attempts "to show by illustration, rather than by explaining in words, the main changes in typeforms over 500 years of printing." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

"[This book] is brilliantly successful. There is a crisp, factual introduction to the subject, where the history is condensed but still tells the amateur all that is necessary. The professional will delight in the fine reproductions of the famous types, many enlarged so that the shapes can be seen clearly and compared. The commentary throughout retains an economy of words without losing anything of value. . . . For a folio volume the price is ridiculously low, compared with similar works. Highly recommended wherever there is an interest in typography. Public libraries should have it as a reference, and it would be a useful present for typographers and typophiles." P. W. Filby

Library J 93:3777 O 15 '68 120w

"Most interestingly, [this] reproduces early types alongside the redesigned or recut versions now in use, and often says how they have been modified. . . . The book is not very logically planned, and there is no balance to it. . . . Far too much weight is given to the fashions of the past few years. . . . [This] is a shortsighted policy, because tastes change and students need the equipment with which to make them do so. Moreover techniques change too, and already such books ought to be showing faces available not only for photo-setting but on typewriters and computers and for machine reading. . . . The book is essentially concerned with hand and machine composition only."

TLS p875 Ag 15 '68 440w

SUTTON, MAURICE. Cancer explained; with a foreword by Irving M. Ariel. 91p il $3.95 Hart

616.9 Cancer

67-23614

"A British radiotherapist and physician has written [an] . . . introduction to the present theory concerning the causes and treatment of cancer." (Library J) Index.

"A small volume intended for the average reader with little or no knowledge of cancer. Sutton . . . acknowledges the use of materials from the American Cancer Society to which he has added information in simple language, photographs, and charts. The index headings attract attention and a brief index is geared to terms the reader might use. Thus, it can be said that while the book duplicates information available from various sources in this country—especially the American Cancer Society—its arrangement between the covers of one book will make it attractive to the people it is intended to reach."

Choice 5:649 J1 '68 100w

"Especially valuable for the hesitant or fearful patient are the descriptions of typical examinations and treatment processes. Recommended for public libraries." C. M. Brosky

Library J 93:91 Ja 1 '68 70w

SUTTON, TIMOTHY LACHLAN. Hierarchy and democracy in Australia, 1788-1870; the formation of Australian Catholicism. 344p il $12.50 Cambridge

282.94 Catholic Church in Australia. Australia—Church history 65-23584

The author "examines Australian society . . . through the experiences of the Catholic, essentially Irish, element, which provided 25 per cent of its people. . . . John Dunmore Lang, a Scottish Presbyterian preacher, who was radical in politics . . . is examined as an external architect of Australian Catholicism. . . . The author traces the successive struggles within the Church against secular forces and for control of the Church in the new land. . . . The pattern of Australian Catholicism, [he] affirms, finally emerged in Brisbane, the National Church growing out of Irish Catholicism and aloof both from egalitarianism and from the ideas of England's century." (Am Hist R)

"Sutton works with an intensely local focus, parish by parish and diocese by diocese. Men and ideas stud his pages, but the major events of Australian development appear only dimly at the frontier of the readers' vision. . . . The book, at its best, makes fresh and interesting interpretations. Sutton sees the Eureka fight as the event that married the Irish Catholics to social and political radicalism. . . . [However,] the book becomes rather gossipy as the author probes the lives of priests and laymen, some of whom could by no standards be viewed as significant in the shaping of Australia." C. S. Blackton

Am Hist R 72:1471 J1 '67 400w

"Sutton charmingly describes the development of Catholicism in Australia. The book has only notes for sources at the back, and lacks references. Nevertheless it is the work of an original mind, who has read widely in the sources. Much of the book is the history of internal controversy. . . . [The author] takes a high view of Ullathorne, perhaps higher than Ullathorne's later record in England quite allows; and gives a very fair description of Archbishop Polding's stature and decline. . . . But although this is intended as an internal history of the Catholics, it is also a contribution to the history of Australia and of its other churches. For it is part of [the author's] case that Anglican and other Protestant leaders contributed as much to the development of Catholicism as the Catholic leaders of public opinion." Owen Chadwick

Engl Hist R 83:194 Ja '68 210w

SUYIN, HAN. See Han, S.

SWANBERG, W. A. The rector and the rogue. 159p $4.95 Scribner

364.1 Williamson, Eugene Edward Fairfax. Dix, Morgan 68-27793

The rogue was "Gentleman Joe" (Eugene Fairfax Williamson) a practical joker, who, in 1880, perpetrated a hoax on the Rev. Morgan

Dix, rector of Trinity Parish, and on Daniel Buckley, a saloonkeeper in the Tenderloin district in New York City. Bibliography.

Reviewed by Phoebe Adams
Atlantic 222:144 N '68 80w

"Here's a thoroughly enjoyable little book about a thoroughly roguish little man who pulled off one of the least known but most theatrical hoaxes in the entire history of New York City. . . . The great mystery concerns motive. Williamson himself stated that he did not know, although the papers at the time offered a variety of reasons. Mr. Swanberg explores more in a book that is well worth the price for the picture of New York City during the 1880's alone. . . . The book's avowed purpose is to right an historical wrong in bringing Williamson's story into proper dimensions—it does that. It is seriously doubted that it also examines 'the astonishing collision of a moral issue and an artistic concept' as purported. . . . The story . . . is just the kind of thing that allows history to compete comfortably with fiction." H. T. Anderson

Best Sell 28:307 N 1 '68 500w

Christian Century 85:1342 O 23 '68 40w

Reviewed by Louis Barron
Library J 93:4294 N 15 '68 230w

"This is a delightful little book, skillfully and cleverly spun out, about a very minor matter. It deals with an artistic crook [whom] . . . amused himself by making use of the mails to drive two men, total strangers to himself and to each other, to near distraction. . . . Mr. Swanberg keeps the suspense up as long as he can, which is for a good part of the book. It is full of wit and movement. . . . But the interest sags with the discovery of the impostor. The proliferation of biographical facts is not really illuminating as to why he became a forger and thief, and finally a practical joker on such a gargantuan scale. . . . The results of Williamson's trickery are very, very funny; Williamson himself is a bit of a bore." Louis Auchincloss

N Y Times Bk R p6 N 10 '68 750w

Reviewed by Sergeant Cuff
Sat R 51:58 N 30 '68 70w

SWANN, DONALD. The road goes ever on; a song cycle; poems by J. R. R. Tolkien; music by Donald Swann; with decorations by J. R. R. Tolkien and Samuel Hanks Bryant. 67p $3.95 Houghton

784 Songs

Seven Tolkien songs, six from the Lord of the Rings trilogy (BRD 1954, 1955, 1956) and one from The Adventures of Tom Bombadil have been set to music by Mr. Swann. "Accompaniment is for the piano, but chord symbols for the guitar have been added to four of the songs. Professor Tolkien has written a detailed glossary of the two elvish poems set to music with translations and comments on their significance in elvish mythology." (Library J)

"The songs introduced into [Tolkien's] narrative of the long and hazardous journey through the Third Period of Middle Earth fascinated [Swann] and he began to think of setting them to music. The result is this . . . attractive book. The tunes are delightful and the poems equally so."

Best Sell 27:358 D 1 '67 200w

"Swann, British entertainer, [is a member] of the team, Flanders and Swann, that has successfully toured America in their At the Drop of a Hat revues. . . . [His music] consists of simple lyric melodies having an uncomplicated Schubertian style of song. This is most evident in the title song, and its melody is used as the motif of the entire cycle. The quality of the rest of the music does not attain this level. Swann's music, on the whole, is congruous to the mood of Tolkien's Hobbits and the result is a pleasant combination. Of interest chiefly to voice students and folk singing groups; must for the Tolkien enthusiast."

Choice 4:1390 F '68 160w

Horn Bk 44:188 Ap '68 170w

"Elvish script adorns the pages of this book, which is for the enthusiastic young adults who have responded to Tolkien's books and the music of Middle Earth." E. A. Morse
Library J 93:316 Ja 15 '68 110w [YA]

SWANN, PETER C. The art of Japan; from the Jōmon to the Tokugawa period [Eng title: Japan; from the Jōmon to the Tokugawa period]. 238p il col pl $6.95 Crown

709.52 Art, Japanese 66-22128

This book is arranged chronologically and covers the period from 1000 B.C. to 1858 A.D. It is a volume in the Art of the World series and deals with the art in relation to the history, sociology and religion of the culture. Chronological table. Bibliography. Index.

"This volume is beautifully illustrated with color and black-and-white photographs, drawings, and maps. Key words are defined and listed in the margins. Excellent format, authoritative text and fine illustrations contribute to a good volume in a commendable series. Will be of interest to the general reader and all size libraries should consider purchase." Elizabeth Frazer

Library J 91:4940 O 15 '66 100w

"[The author has] created a smoothly flowing narrative that is flawless and seemingly complete—demonstrating again the talent for synthesis that also distinguished his earlier book, An Introduction to the Arts of Japan [BRD 1958. However, he is] . . . not concerned with the matter of style. . . . Swann's major contribution to the presentation, along with his ability to write well, lies in his contrasting Chinese and Japanese art by concise characterizations for the general reader. . . . Although Crown Publishers are to be commended for setting a very reasonable price for the volume, . . . they must be taken to task for allowing nearly half of the sixty-one hand-tipped color reproductions in the book to be so blurred as to be virtually unreadable." G. T. Webb

Pacific Affairs 41:106 spring '68 600w

SWANSON, BERT E. The struggle for equality; school integration controversy in New York City; with a foreword by Bert James Loewenberg. 146p $4 Hobbs, Dorman

370.19 New York (City)—Public schools. Discrimination in education. Human relations 66-31958

"An examination of the response—and lack of it—to the demands for integration and the reactions produced by such demands." (Library J)

"Swanson's description of school integration problems in New York serves as a fine model of this continuing political struggle between the 'have-nots' and the 'haves.' The cast of characters is well delineated—even to the point of insightful portrayal of the cleavages within contending sides on the questions of specific goals and tactics. The relationship of various interest groups to the core of decision-making power is also clearly spelled out, as is the sequence of events in the New York case. But the book's value beyond the purely descriptive level is questionable. For example, the author is weak in specifying conditions under which the balance of pressures on decision-makers will tip one way or the other. . . . [An] interesting, but incomplete case study to the race relations literature." M. R. Cramer

Am Pol Sci R 61:1132 D '67 850w

"[The author] succeeds very well in conveying a kaleidoscopic impression of the vast and complicated interplay of forces that swirled through New York City during the hectic months of 1964. But the report, unfortunately, is neither good reporting nor good research. . . . [Errors vitiate confidence in] the accuracy of the reporting. The book suffers from its lack of focus. Mr. Swanson shuttles back and forth between discussions of integration and the exercise of political power and never does seem to decide which is the ascendant topic. . . . The subject [of equality] is not discussed, and expenditures of money to improve instructional programs are repeatedly and cynically greeted as attempts to bribe participants into complaisant acceptance of desegregation moves. . . . The pursuit of good education, of integrated education, is one of the most urgent and significant causes of our time. . . . This book may not exactly do the cause a disservice, but it certainly doesn't help very much." C. E. Gross
Harvard Ed R 38:190 winter '68 700w

"[This is] very appropriately sub-titled. It is almost axiomatic to northern big-city school integration that 'integration is good for all children, except mine.' . . . Swanson is very kind to the opposers of integration; he doesn't lose his objectivity. There are, however, instances where he glosses over some important developments (example: political pressure on the school board). All interested parties in the school integration movement will find much valuable information here. Recommended for college and public libraries." R. G. Griffin

SWANSON, B. E.—Continued

Library J 91:3411 J1 '66 150w

SWANSON, DONALD C. The names in Roman verse; a lexicon and reverse index of all proper names of history, mythology, and geography found in the classical Roman poets. 425p $7.50 Univ. of Wis. press

871.03 Names—Dictionaries. Latin poetry—Dictionaries 67-25942

"A factual and analytic compilation of all proper names and their meanings found in Latin verse from about the third century B.C. to the second century A.D. and a reverse index of the same names. . . . The proper names include those of persons, animals, places, celestial bodies, personifications, and products, whether real or imaginary, as listed in the indices of recent standard editions. Dubious readings, emendations, and conjectures are offered in Appendix I, along with some critical remarks on the text. The sources, listed in Appendix II, comprise all classical poets within the given period, seven fragment collections, and the surviving verse of three prosaists, Cicero, Columella, Petronius. Appendix III provides the Indices Nominum compiled especially for this work." (Publisher's note)

"This new computerized critical listing of historical, mythological, geographical proper names found in Roman poets marks the future for lexica, dictionaries, concordances, and the like. The lexicon is as complete and accurate as humanly possible. When the projected companion, compiled from prose writing, appears, for the first time in the history of classical scholarship there will be a practically exhaustive checklist (with text, location, critical notes) of proper names . . . in Roman literature. Identifications in meanings and authorities make an invaluable tool for new opportunities in exact research, investigations, emendations, never before possible. . . . The purpose, meaning, and benefit of the Reverse Index could have been included in the preface." Choice 5:466 Je '68 200w

"This reference work is a good example of what computers can do for the classics: a digital computer supplied print-outs for the main index to which identifications were added manually. The reverse index was produced by a separate computer program. . . . This work is recommended for larger academic and special libraries." F. D. Lazenby

Library J 93:2228 Je 1 '68 200w

"Swanson was among the first to recognize the uses to which the digital computer could be put in Classical scholarship; and [this book] makes it clear that scholars and researchers cannot long persist in comfortable disregard of this technological aid. It is . . . a superlative example of the application of the computer to bibliographical and lexicographical compilations. . . . Professor Swanson's introduction, in which he outlines the purpose and plan of this volume, is lucid and concise; and his instructions in the use of the book are clear, complete and delightfully brief." R. A. Swanson

Mod Lang J 52:317 My '68 480w

SWANSON, GUY E. Religion and regime; a sociological account of the reformation. 295p $7.50 Univ. of Mich. press

270.6 Reformation. Protestantism. Religion and sociology 67-11979

A sociologist "offers an explanation of why some societies became Protestant while others remained Catholic. . . . [He maintains that] the question of immanence—the presence of God's own attributes in the world—is vital to the Catholic-Protestant division. . . . Catholics believe that God is immanent; Protestants do not. And the explanation for a disbelief in God's immanence, Swanson theorizes, stems from the political experience of a society. In those societies whose central governments were penetrated by special interests, by groups with purposes other than those of the regimes themselves, Catholicism gave way to Protestantism.

To test his thesis, Swanson examines forty-one societies in 15th- through 17th-century Europe." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

"Swanson distributes governments among five categories ('Centralist,' 'Limited Centralist,' 'Balanced,' 'Commensal,' and 'Heterarchic'), roughly corresponding to a scale running from rejection of the Reformation to enthusiastic embrace of it. . . . For the historian, this book's political categorization seems arbitrary and faulty, schematic to a degree that falsifies the conditions as they were. . . . This method also seems to imply a one-way relation between environment and ideas, whereas the intellectual, the nonintellectual, or the unintellectual historian is likely to jib at any such assumption. . . . What is irritating is the solemnity with which political structure is treated as a part of religious ideology, but otherwise unrelated to actual conditions." R. L. Colie
Am Hist R 73:1132 Ap '68 900w

"An intriguing volume whose subject matter and methodology invite comparison with Weber's modern classic, The Protestant Ethic and the Spirit of Capitalism [BRD 1930]. . . . Some historians may question the validity of certain assumptions, such as taking 'Catholicism as defined by the Council of Trent' as the starting point for analysis of the Catholic view of immanence. Abstractions of this sort, while understandably useful for purposes of sociological argument, hardly conform to the historical reality, in this case, the fluid character of Catholicism and Protestantism in the 16th century. Taking reservations into account, even the most critical will appreciate Swanson's provocative application of sociological method to a complex historical problem. Deserves a place on the college bookshelf alongside Swanson's earlier The Birth of the Gods [BRD 1962] and Weber's pioneering contributions." Choice 4:1128 D '67 200w

SWANSTON, HAMISH F. G. The community witness; an exploration of some of the influences at work in the New Testament community and its writings. 230p $4.95 Sheed

220.6 Bible—Criticism, interpretation, etc. 67-20751

"An English Oratorian priest [attempts to] show how the Old Testament writings, the preaching of the Resurrection, and the awareness of Christ's presence in the community, especially in its liturgical and sacramental life, not only influenced the formation of the early Christian community, but are evident everywhere in the pages of the New Testament." (Library J)

"A lucid and unpretentiously learned account of how the early Christian community formed the New Testament. An orthodox use of form criticism; valuable suggestions for a renewed sacramental theology. This first American publication of a competent young English theologian, who is also a stylist, is a happy promise of more to come." Cora Brady

America 118:265 F 24 '68 50w

"[A] difficult but rewarding study. . . . Using detailed examples, [the author] shows how the New Testament reveals on almost every page the way in which the early Christians preached the Gospel and worshipped. In this study Father Swanson makes use of the best modern biblical scholarship—Catholic and Protestant. His book should give serious students of Scripture and the early Church many new insights." W. C. Heiser

Library J 92:4421 D 1 '67 130w

SWARTZ, MARC J., ed. Political anthropology; ed. by Marc J. Swartz, Victor W. Turner, and Arthur Tuden. 309p $8.95 Aldine pub.

320.01 Political science. Power (Social sciences) 66-15210

"The orientation, stipulated in an introduction written by the editors, is to the study of political process rather than political systems or structures, and the 17 studies which follow tend to emphasize this point of view. . . . Each study was written for this publication." (Choice) The papers were contributed for presentation at the 1964 Annual General Meeting of the American Anthropological Association.

"The phase development model of conflict resolution is presented as a device for the study of changing political systems. It does not, however, . . . provide theoretical guidance as a conceptual framework for the various papers included in the volume, as evidenced by the lack of congruence between the papers and the model. Although apparently not the fault of the contributors, the concepts and processual model simply disappear in the pages beyond the introductory chapter. The papers themselves vary considerably in their potential interest to political scientists. Some seem barely to rise above ethnographic minutia. Others, however, notably the papers by Nicholas, Swartz, Cohen, Turner, and Fried, should be of particular theoretical interest to those in comparative politics, especially those concerned with the problems of conflict and conflict resolution." R. L. Hargrave

Am Pol Sci R 61:1120 D '67 850w

"Probably the first book written expressly for the new developing subfield of anthropology, political anthropology, and, as such, deserves the attention of all students of anthropology. The book is not, however, a text nor does it give a well rounded view of approaches to political anthropology. . . . The introduction, though poorly edited, is a forthright and dynamic approach to the study of politics, although it goes too far in deprecating structural studies. Concepts considered essential to the orientation are enumerated and clarified. . . . In general, the studies seem too brief to give much understanding of the processes they purport to describe."

Choice 4:1020 N '67 130w

"This is an exceptionally valuable collection of 17 sophisticated contributions to the study of political behavior in primitive, folk, and tribal non-Western societies (including two dealing with Chinese materials). Among the themes included are those of political authority, political compliance, succession to power, the roles of king-priests and diviners, decision-making processes, conflict resolution, et al. . . . College level libraries should own this book." Joseph Bram

Library J 92:790 F 15 '67 70w

"By far the most valuable part of this book is the specially written introduction by the three editors. . . . Although it might have little to say to a political scientist, this represents a welcome and useful break away from the simplistic and one-sided view of Radcliffe-Brown, which for so long has been the classical starting point of discussion." Cyril Belshaw

Pacific Affairs 40:207 spring-summer '67 250w

SWEENEY, CHARLES. See Sweeney, R. C. H

SWEENEY, JAMES JOHNSON. Vision and image; a way of seeing. 188p $4.95 Simon & Schuster

701 Art—Psychology. Composition (Art) 68-11018

The author "sets down his analysis of the creative process, seeking to explain in the complex processes of imagination, technique and tradition by which the vision and the image are combined, by the artist's mind, hand and eye, to create a work of art. [He seeks to lead] the reader to an . . . understanding of the aesthetic encounter with reality. . . . He [attempts to] show why it is that art must constantly have a new face of novelty and innovation, yet be created within the . . . tradition of artistic vision." (Publisher's note)

"Sweeney is a distinguished art figure with a long and notable career as a museum director. . . . Those who are interested in the aesthetics of contemporary art, museum collections, and in the formation of current tastes in art will find much of absorbing interest in [this book]. . . . Mr. Sweeney sees today's artist poised in an era of opportunity between two art periods: the old has closed and the new has not fully taken form." W. J. Dane

Library J 93:1470 Ap 1 '68 170w

"Mr. Sweeney . . . takes the orthodox line as a champion of modernism against the Philistine. Admittedly his task is made slightly easier by the fact that his book appears to have been written some ten years ago, before the most extreme tendencies. . . . had made their full impact. But one doubts whether Mr. Sweeney would have been deterred by them, for if his book expresses one anxiety it is that of falling behind. . . . Mr. Sweeney's convictions rest on fallacious evolutionist beliefs. . . . [However] Mr. Sweeney is . . . genuinely tolerant in emphasizing the element of playfulness in artistic explorations." E. H. Gombrich

N Y Rev of Books 10:3 Je 20 '68 1400w

SWEENEY, R. C. H. The scurrying bush. 208p $4.95 Pantheon bks.

591.96 Animals—Africa, East. Insects

67-13320

The author, an entomologist, relates his experiences with insects, reptiles, animals and birds in Tanganyika, Sudan and Malawi. Index.

"No better and no worse than dozens like it that recount personal experiences of a naturalist residing in what, to the reader, is a remote area. . . . The best chapter deals with the exploration and capture of fauna in the Amboni caves of East Africa. . . . There are the usual chapters dealing with snakes, . . . lions, . . . and other facets of natural history that are apparently essential in any book dealing with the wild life of Africa. A chapter describing the voracious march of the Sifafu, the driver or safari ants, is remarkable. . . . Will appeal to high school students and armchair naturalists but is not comparable to a textbook pertaining to the ecology or natural history of Africa."

Choice 4:1134 D '67 180w

Reviewed by G. F. Dole

Library J 92:2169 Je 1 '67 170w

Library J 92:2665 J1 '67 80w [YA]

Natur Hist 77:[76] D '68 60w

"[Mr. Sweeney] describes his experiences over many years in Africa without mentioning any politicians, and bringing people in at all only incidentally. It is quite an achievement. . . . There are plenty of humorous moments. . . . From Mr. Sweeney's pages, and through all the personal anecdotes, the reader can acquire quite a treasury of information about the fauna of eastern Africa."

TLS p70 Ja 26 '67 230w

SWIDLER, LEONARD J., ed. Ecumenism, the spirit, and worship. 258p $4.95 Duquesne univ. press

262 Christian unity

67-15784

"Chosen from papers presented at two graduate seminars in ecumenism and a week long symposium on 'Ecumenism and the Modern World' conducted by Duquesne from 1963 through 1965, and edited by [the] editor of the Journal of Ecumenical Studies and professor of religion at Temple, [these essays are] written by theologians such as Robert McAfee Brown, George Lindbeck, and Bernard Cooke. . . . The first group describes ecumenism and treats of its origin and history. The essays on the Spirit include four papers on the life of the Spirit by theologians of varying Christian traditions, and a fifth that deals with the burning problem of interior freedom and authority. A third group of essays considers the topic of worship with emphasis on the motives for worship and on liturgical reform in an ecumenical perspective." (Choice)

"A useful and readable addition to the ever growing library of ecumenical writings."

Choice 5:976 O '68 150w

"Swidler knows his business, whether that business is moderating seminars . . . or editing ecumenical books. . . . In the current case, he is an impresario with a choice cast of characters: . . . [they] present the blend of scholarship and popular appeal which belongs in books like these. The work, in spite of all that is going for it does not come off. Those who own it will find themselves scanning it, skimming some high points, concentrating on a favorite essay or two, and then setting it aside. The essays have low impact, are not memorable, and do not invite return consultation." M. E. Marty

Commonweal 87:151 N 3 '67 800w

SWIFT, JONATHAN. A discourse of the contests and dissensions between the nobles and the commons in Athens and Rome; with the consequences they had upon both those states; ed. with an introd. and notes textual, critical and hist. by Frank H. Ellis. 270p pl $8 Oxford

827

[67-84550]

This volume prints the text of the first edition which originally appeared in 1701. It includes "80 pages of political explication and . . . discussions of classical sources, publication and reception, the history of the editions, besides textual variants . . . [and an] analytical index." (Choice)

SWIFT, JONATHAN—Continued

"Ellis, in providing more factual explanations than have hitherto been offered for Swift's first book . . . makes it now possible for the reader to understand this satire. Swift attacked by classical historical allegory the Tory majority in the Commons for what he considered usurpation of power, and this edition not only presents all the minute and now forgotten contemporary references but lays out Swift's remarkable achievement in finding classical analogues. . . . For all university libraries."

Choice 5:346 My '68 200w

"A worthy monument to the tercentenary of Swift's birth, and to the thoroughness, reliability and readability of the best American scholarship. . . . In his introduction, Mr. Ellis brilliantly deploys the information necessary for a true judgment of Swift's art as a political satirist. In his enthusiasm he is led to undervalue publicists on the other side such as Charles Davenant. . . . With the Discourse, Swift springs fully-armed into the arena as a polemicist of formidable power, able to choose attack rather than defence, and capable of exploiting the possibilities of a consciously and carefully chosen persona, in this case that of an adroit, academic writer, eager to parade his learning and intimate knowledge of the classics in the service of 'reason' and 'moderation'."

TLS p941 O 5 '67 400w

SWINSON, ARTHUR. The battle of Kohima. [Eng title: Kohima]. 275p il maps $6.95 Stein & Day

940.542 Kohima, Battle of, 1944 67-26416

"In the spring of 1944 the Japanese army began what Tokyo radio called 'The March on Delhi'; by summer, the remnants of those . . . troops were struggling back across Burma: at the twin battles of Kohima and Imphal they had met British and Indian forces head-on [and] were beaten in a crucial action. . . . [The book is based on] unpublished documents and diaries from Japanese as well as Allied sources." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

"Swinson, professional writer, was in the Burma campaign, thus lifting this book above most battle histories. . . . [There are] maps, an Order of Battle as an appendix, and some dull mat photographs. Universities and better college libraries should possess this."

Choice 5:1020 O '68 260w

"It is no disparagement to say that Mr. Swinson's account of the Kohima battle is primarily an act of loyalty. . . . Had this loyalty resulted in a biased account of the fighting, he could be criticized as an historian; in fact he has rightly taken the view that he would serve his former comrades best by setting out the story as objectively as possible. . . . One gains the impression from this detailed and vivid account that the Japanese were . . . the more professional soldiers. . . . Mr. Swinson does not try to cover up the prejudices and differences in temperament that marred the smooth conduct of operations; the deplorable prejudice and jealousy between Indian and British Army had by 1944 disappeared in the European theatre of war, but the Far Eastern theatre still had a lot to learn. . . . Naturally Mr. Swinson gives some prominence to the part played by his own Division, the 2nd British. . . . They received little credit at the time, for political reasons. Mr. Swinson's account puts the record straight and certainly does not spoil the case by overstatement."

TLS p3 Ja 5 '67 1100w

SWINSON, ARTHUR. North-West frontier: people and events, 1839-1947. 354p il maps $7.95 Praeger

954.9 Great Britain--Relations (general) with India. India--History 67-25155

"Geographic, ethnic, and political factors combine to make [this] area one that generates intense emotions and pressures that are both mysterious and paranoid. The history of the area has revolved around intrigues, battles, gallantry, disastrous retreats, and devotion. The English writer . . . is concerned particularly with the British involvement in the frontier from Lord Auckland's arrival in 1839 until independence in 1947." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

"[Readers] can ignore this book with a clear conscience. Swinson . . . has done little more than compile a tedious catalogue of names and incidents involved in the First, Second, and Third Afghan Wars, stitched together with episodic treatments of selected events in the intervening years. A student who is unfamiliar with the broad outlines of the story will be hopelessly lost in trying to thread his way through this book. A student who is familiar with the background will find the discussion fragmentary and superficial."

Choice 5:394 My '68 130w

"Mr. Swinson, who has written for the general reader, is at his best when recounting such episodes as Elphinstone's retreat from Kabul in 1842, in which Afghans gaining the heights set upon the British army clogging the passes with the dead and dying and completely destroying the army in a disaster unique in British history. This is fine adventure reading and a substantial contribution to the history of the area." R. S. Dillon

Library J 92:2773 Ag '67 200w

Reviewed by P. A. Macrory

Pacific Affairs 41:321 summer '68 490w

"It is in supplying [a] background [for the bloodshed and intrigue] that Mr. Swinson is so good. With contemporary photographs, drawings and correspondence and valuable help from many experts, he has constructed a vivid and often perspicacious narrative. He disclaims any pretensions to writing a definitive history; but no one can fail to get from this book a better understanding of all that the British did, tried to do and failed to do. . . . In painting a picture on so wide a canvas, Mr. Swinson inevitably exposes himself to some criticism about details. . . . [that are] quite misleading. . . . Nor will [his] rather indulgent treatment of Dyer's part in the Amritsar affair pass unchallenged by those who were in India at the time. Such small blemishes invite the kind of criticism which might give a wholly false impression of an otherwise admirable and fascinating book."

TLS p249 Mr 14 '68 400w

SWITZER, E. E., jt. auth. The Random house guide to graduate study in the arts and sciences. See Wasserman, E. R.

SWOBODA, HENRY, ed. The American symphony orchestra. 208p $5.95 Basic bks.

785.06 Orchestra. Musicians, American

67-22555

"Appraisals, trends, as well as cultural and financial aspects of American symphony orchestras are discussed in this collection of lectures and interviews, originally prepared for the Voice of America radio program. Copland, Piston, Leinsdorf, and Stokowski are among the contributors." (Am Lit) Index.

Am Lit 39:593 Ja '68 50w

"This is not as complete a picture as the title suggests. From various angles, and sometimes the same ones, ideas are given on such diverse areas as finances, acoustics, training, and taste. Needed here: tighter editorial control; more symposium and less pasticcio; deeper penetration into implied philosophies. Some chapters are of very temporal and parochial interest."

Choice 4:1252 Ja '68 120w

"Among the topics and contributions are the following: Boston Symphony, by Erich Leinsdorf; San Francisco Symphony, by Josef Krips and Alfred Frankenstein; Utah Symphony, by Maurice Abravanel; conductor, by Max Rudolf; composer as conductor, by Aaron Copland and Leon Kirchner; soloist, by Isaac Stern and Eugene Istomin; educating orchestra musicians, by Howard Hanson; acoustic and seating innovations, by Leopold Stokowski. People like these could certainly have made a valuable contribution to the slight literature on American orchestras, but obviously the broadcast medium and the intended audience were potent obstacles. The outcome is little more than chitchat." G. A. Marco

Library J 92:2577 J1 '67 140w

"Composers, conductors, critics and musical middlemen respond to a variety of questions about the state of symphonic music in the United States today, which on the whole they find to be comfortably healthy. The issue here, of course, is government sponsorship of symphony orchestras. Given its auspices, one is hardly surprised to find a preponderance of opinion in the book opposed to government subsidy; . . . [but] interestingly enough, the closer the contributors to this volume are to the actual making of music, the less panic they show that government subsidy would prostitute our orchestras." Richard Freedman

Nation 206:184 F 5 '68 650w

SYKES, GERALD. The cool millennium. 280p $5.95 Prentice-Hall

901.94 Civilization, Modern. Technology and civilization 67-16392

"Man rushes first to be saved by technology, and then to be saved from it." Thus writes [the author] borrowing from the French sociologist Jacques Ellul. In The Technological Society [BRD] 1964, 1965], M. Ellul describes some of the results of advanced technology, but chooses not to discuss the effects of this revolution on the individual. Prof. Sykes addresses himself to these effects on the individual, believing that the cultural changes of our time have not been presented in a way that allows students to cope with them." (America)

Reviewed by Robert Hassenger
America 117:159 Ag 12 '67 470w
Choice 4:876 O '67 190w

Christian Century 84:752 Je 7 '67 40w

"Mr. Sykes offers a very melancholy picture, but a valid one within his own scope and spectrum. He predicated his whole argument on a materialistic society in the United States. . . . Mr. Sykes teaches at Columbia University and the New School for Social Research. His book is provocative, wise, and aggravating. Sometimes his deftness and elliptical style turn serious questions into bright balls tossed in the air. The issues he raises are profound ones, but they are examined by the strict limitations of his own point of view. Unquestionably this is the way our society looks from where Mr. Sykes sits, and he is sitting in a crowded bleacher. But one reader would like to suggest that some of the people cannot be fooled all of the time, and that under the surface a good many counteragents may be at work." Henrietta Buckmaster

Christian Science Monitor p9 O 14 '67 750w

"Playing it cool is not all bad, Gerald Sykes points out. . . . But it is no more than a temporizing device. Eventually even in a technological society we have to descend into the maelstrom of life. The Cool Millennium aids in the descent. . . . Insensitive readers will be mystified by Sykes' tactics: Whose side is he on? His discussion not only of art but of desacralization, of commercialism, of teamwork, and of living by ideology rather than by thought and ideals, leaves one with no simple answers. How could it? For Sykes takes life as it is, full of complex interactions between variously contending forces. . . . The responsive two-sidedness of [his] vision manifests not a wishy-washy relativism but wry and affirmative sanity and strength. More real and supple than Jacques Ellul's, more real and less sanctimonious than Sartre's, his understanding of technology is not overprogrammed." W. J. Ong
Commonweal 86:589 S 22 '67 950w

Reviewed by Harold Fruchtbaum
Library J 92:2427 Je 15 '67 100w

"To those familiar with the campus scene, the Local Guru is a well-known type, and most campuses have one. . . . To succeed as a Guru, however, takes a good deal of force and charm, and one supposes that Sykes may indeed command these, but in print the whole affair seems pretty derivative. Sykes' range of cultural reference is impressive (the other adjective that defines it is ostentatious): he quotes just about everybody, especially the fashionable ones—McLuhan, Alan Watts, Mircea Eliade, and Jung, but he can also ring in Cassirer, Nietzsche, Rilke, Huizinga, Plato and Dante. Entertaining as all this is, his whole argument really derives from another Guru, the Local Guru's Guru, as it were, Jacques Ellul. . . . The Cool Millennium is merely one of a great many recent books which are informed by an impulse not really to reject but to say that one rejects the conditions of contemporary life. . . . The malaise we find in books like [this] is really a claim to higher status within the system, and as such it sells." Jeffrey Hart
Nat R 19:912 Ag 22 '67 1400w

"Since the purpose of this book is to explain men of thought and men of action to one another, it is clearly philosophy. The measure of such an effort, no matter how surprising the matter, is the reader's amazed recognition of formerly unnoticed truth. For this reader, the recognition was occasional and reserved. . . . [Sykes] presents the odd image of a languid cynic in serious search of the Grail. On those terms he is certainly not going to find it; perhaps he should be looking for something else. (And perhaps he is; he would not object to being rich.) His judgments of men seem to me wrong. He takes Socrates for a braggart; he swears by Jung. On both counts I am astonished. . . . His whole argument, often fascinating and closely reasoned as it is, seems finally to exist in a chrysalis of Academe, not in the terrible universe which still rains inexplicable buffets on the chrysalis." David Cort
N Y Times Bk R p40 S 10 '67 1050w
New Yorker 43:83 Ag 5 '67 100w

Reviewed by Nicholas Samstag
Sat R 50:31 Je 24 '67 1300w

SYKES, JOHN. Direction North; a view of Finland. 238p pl $5.50 Chilton bks.

914.71 Finland—Description and travel 67-16388

In the first chapter, the author recalls his experiences when he served with the Friends' Ambulance Unit in Finland's Winter War with Russia in 1940. "The rest of the book describes his experiences a quarter of a century later, when he returned to Finland to see how the country had changed. He lived with the families of two old acquaintances, one a provincial factory manager, the other an urban doctor." (Library J)

"Sykes' book mingles his own, very subjective impressions of the country as a whole with an account of [the factory manager] Pekka Suonsanen's difficult break from rigid socialist dogma to an acceptance of the modern, classless, affluent society. Most of Sykes' cultural and political observations are accurate, and the fading of class war from Finnish consciousness is a legitimate focus of interest. The drama, however, is a bit too neatly presented, and some apparent mysteries might evaporate with an ability to speak the local language. Good recreational reading for Nordic travel buffs." Choice 5:115 Mr '68 130w

Reviewed by L. A. Garloch
Library J 92:1930 My 15 '67 140w

"While this is not quite a travel book nor a sociological study, it does give a glimpse of various segments of Finnish society and the everyday lives of an admirably self-reliant people."

Library J 92:2665 Jl '67 120w [YA]

SYKES, JOHN. The mountain Arabs; a window on the Middle East. 229p pl $5.50 Chilton co.

915.692 Lebanon—Description and travel. Maronites 68-31761

The author of Direction North (BRD 1968) presents his impressions of Lebanon during the period of the Six Day War in July 1967. He describes the country, its history, political, economic and cultural conflicts, and focuses his study on the mountain Arabs, the Maronite Christians.

Reviewed by P. J. Earl
Best Sell 28:296 O 15 '68 260w

"Sykes spent part of his war service in Lebanon, and knows the people well. His descriptions of the scenery are excellent, but in addition he has caught the sounds and smells not only of Beirut but also of the mountain villages. He knows the Lebanese character and depicts it deftly. . . . This book will give the reader a taste of modern Lebanon. Highly recommended." David Dorman
Library J 93:3137 S 15 '68 170w

"A conscientious and well-meaning but narrow, humorless, and rather pointless account of [the author's] time in Lebanon. . . . [The book] offers only a surface view. It is pleasant and painless but hardly memorable. Sykes takes his hosts [the Hadiri Maronite family] so seriously, particularly their parochialism, and leaves out so much of the political, economic, and historical context, that the reader is mostly confined to a closed family circle of clan maneuvering and business give-and-take. Yet the author fails to make the Hadiris sound very interesting. Only in the diary of the week of the June 1967 Six-Day War, when Lebanon lost its cool and just as quickly regained it, does Sykes communicate a feeling for the country. Then we get a sense of the self-centered, opportunistic, calculating, intriguing, and usually charming ways of the Lebanese," Edward Wakin.

SYKES, JOHN—Continued

Sat R 51:50 O 26 '68 290w

"Although, irritatingly, Mr. Sykes peppers his book with tourist's Arabic, his Lebanon is that of the multilingual in their comfortable homes. In spite of his many encounters with ex-Palestinians, during which he catches a measure of their frustration and despair, his book is therefore not the 'window on the Middle East' of its subtitle, but rather the window on the west through which an Arab looks if he has never been farther west than Beirut."

TLS p1219 O 31 '68 340w

SYLVESTER, ANTHONY. Living with communism; personal impressions. 112p $3.50 Dufour

335 Communism

67-15648

The author "gives impressions of people and their everyday life in the Communist countries of Yugoslavia, Poland, Rumania, Bulgaria, the USSR, and Cuba." (Library J)

"[Sylvester] has written a very banal work. . . . He offers no fresh or interesting insights on life in [Communist] countries and his descriptions of cities and collective farms are hackneyed. Moreover, despite his prefatory claims to objectivity, much of what he writes is clearly biased and subject to serious question. Although he readily cites production figures for several of the countries, he offers no documentation."

Choice 5:1224 N '68 90w

"The material in this narrative is well organized and readable. Laymen will find this an accurate reflection of conditions as discussed in more scholarly works in the last two years. For all general collections," A. S. Birkos

Library J 93:566 F 1 '68 110w

"Mr. Sylvester can hardly be credited with the 'scrupulous objectivity' that his publishers claim for him. A refugee is under a psychological compulsion to find little to commend in the regime that he has so decisively repudiated, and Mr. Sylvester is no exception to this rule. . . . Nevertheless, there can be little doubt that . . . he is trying very hard to be objective. . . . [His] outstanding merits are those of a competent, intelligent and well-informed journalist, with an eye for significant detail and a capacity to make fruitful contact with ordinary men and women. His book should not be mistaken, as it easily might be, for a cold war production. In spite of his confessed inability 'to enjoy life in a closely regimented society', he is no revanchiste. But, while recognizing the necessity of living with communism, he sees no reason why the establishment of normal, neighbourly relations with a family whose way of life one does not wish to imitate should entail any modification, still less any repudiation, of one's own chosen values."

TLS p1018 N 10 '66 330w

SYME, RONALD. Captain John Paul Jones: America's fighting seaman; il. by William Stobbs. 94p $2.95; lib bdg $2.94 Morrow

B or 92 Jones, John Paul—Juvenile literature 68-14230

The author recounts the life of "America's legendary naval hero from his humble childhood as the son of a Scotch gardener, through his promising career as an English naval officer and his role in the American Revolution, to his death as a forgotten figure in European society. . . . Grades three to five." (Library J)

"A short simple account of adventure without much effort to explore the man." H. B.

Christian Science Monitor pB6 My 11 '68 180w

Horn Bk 44:443 Ag '68 30w

"Drawn in part from documents of the period, the book depicts Jones as a complex figure, brave, yet conceited and ruthless. The black and white illustrations are adequate." F. L. McClure

Library J 93:1315 Mr 15 '68 110w

"Of the many biographies of this diminutive-sized hero, Mr. Syme's must be the shortest; but it covers the ground. The author pours adjectives all over his prose, doubtless in the hope of making it 'vivid,' and some readers may get the impression that they are being written down to. Yet he is fair. . . . The fight between the Serapis and the Bon Homme Richard is extremely well done, the best thing in the book, and the author does not hesitate to describe the last years of the burnt-out ex-phenomenon as a pretentious bore. There is a useful map, but the illustrations are uninspired." D. B. Chidsey

N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p40 My 5 '68 170w

SYME, RONALD. Garibaldi; the man who made a nation; il. by William Stobbs. 190p $3.25 Morrow

B or 92 Garibaldi, Giuseppe—Juvenile literature. Italy—History—1815-1915—Juvenile literature 67-15148

An account of Garibaldi's "military accomplishment in freeing and uniting Italy by capturing 'the imagination and enthusiasm of the masses' in the mid-nineteenth century." (Horn Bk) Bibliography. "Grades five to seven." (Library J)

"The biographer's long list of books about world leaders and explorers is splendidly supplemented in this competent, easily read account. . . . Documented by quotations from [the historian, G. M.] Trevelyan, from Garibaldi's own writing, and from contemporary accounts, the writing has color and substance." V. H.

Horn Bk 44:190 Ap '68 100w

"The life of Garibaldi is well presented in this dramatic, occasionally fictionalized account. . . . [Unfortunately] the black-and-white drawings are heavy and static." Georgia Charleston

Library J 93:296 Ja 15 '68 100w

SYMONDS, JOHN ADDINGTON. The letters of John Addington Symonds; v 1, 1844-1868; ed. by Herbert M. Schueller & Robert L. Peters. 867p pl $17.50 Wayne state univ. press

B or 92

67-11765

This volume contains six hundred and nineteen letters covering the author's life up to the age of twenty-eight. Chronology. Name index.

Choice 5:628 J1 '68 120w

"[The earliest] letters by this remarkable Victorian scholar, critic, aesthete, traveler, connoisseur, homosexual, and agonized human being are presented here in an imposing and impeccably edited first of three volumes. . . . The editors supply a helpful but brief preface. . . . Only the confirmed Symondsian will plow through the first 100 or 200 precocious school-boy letters; . . . but later the nuggets come thick and fast. . . . For American readers Symonds's excited response on first reading Leaves of Grass—'this man has said what I have burned to say. . . .—and his congratulations to Rossetti for first publishing Walt Whitman in England are specially significant. Certainly the first installment of a major literary event." B. W. Fuson

Library J 92:4499 D 15 '67 260w

"[Symonds'] letters are no biographical morsels. They are important for the view they provide of upper-middle-class Victorian life. The reader discovers the other sides of the wealthy, if somewhat corrupt, Harrow and the fashionable Balliol. . . . One listens to . . . hair-raising descriptions of the 'fag system.' . . . [Usually Symonds is] informative and faithfully chronicles life at school and, later, life with Catherine. Also significant in these letters presented for the first time are Symonds's many masks. His moods change within a moment from joy to melancholy, his true state unclear. The humorless and unaffected seriousness of his nature, however, shine throughout. . . . The editors, both eminent authorities on their subject, have superbly prepared this volume, printing the original manuscripts of Symonds's letters and annotating everything the reader—from amateur to scholar—could wish to know. The next volume is eagerly awaited." G. S. Rousseau

N Y Times Bk R p7 Mr 3 '68 1250w

"Some 2,000 letters by Symonds are known to exist, and in this first volume . . . a book which is far too heavy to be held comfortably. [the editors] tell us that they propose to print them all. . . . It is altogether too much. . . . The two longest series of letters are those to Symonds's sister Charlotte and to H. G.

Dakyns, whom he met in October, 1863, and who was afflicted by similar sexual perplexities. . . . It is easier to pity or even to admire than to like Symonds. . . . Editorial annotation is business-like. [However] . . . there is some unnecessary repetition in the biographical detail of the notes, one or two slips are made in translating Latin, and misprints are fairly numerous. . . . The earliest letters seem to be misdated. It is inconceivable that the first one was written before Symonds was four years old and the following three as much as ten years later."

TLS p183 F 22 '68 1050w

SYMPOSIUM FOR INFORMATION WORKERS, LIVERPOOL SCHOOL OF LIBRARIANSHIP, 1966. Information work today; papers presented Sept. 1966; ed. by Bernard Houghton. (Archon bk) 119p $4.50 Shoe String

029.7 Information services 67-5123

A collection of eleven papers presented at a conference which "was intended as an introduction to the subject for scientists and librarians who had moved into information work from laboratories or from non-technical libraries. It was also meant to expand the views of those who had been in this field of work for a short time." (LRTS) Bibliographies.

Reviewed by Ted Srygley

Col & Res Lib 29:445 S '68 360w

"The papers are readable and the authors are knowledgeable, but the introductory level and sketchiness of the material is such that the value of the papers in printed form is questionable. . . . The title may be misleading to some. The lectures deal with special libraries, their traditional information services, and their relation to other libraries. Except for very brief mention, there is no material on mechanized information services or on data processing in library operations. B. C. Vickery's nine pages on 'Information Retrieval: The Subject Organisation of Information' is a concise summary aimed at the reader with no background in classification or alphabetical subject analysis." M. J. Voigt

Library J 92:2742 Ag '67 180w

"Most of the papers are so slanted towards British problems and practices as to limit their appeal in other countries, so far as the average reader is concerned. . . . [However] there are a few papers which could be read with profit by most administrators in information work." Ellis Mount

LRTS 12:228 spring '68 450w

SYMPOSIUM ON CASTE AND RACE: COMPARATIVE APPROACHES, 1966. Caste and race. See De Reuck, A., ed.

SYMPHER, WYLIE. Literature and technology; the alien vision. 257p $6.95 Random house

700 Literature. Technology and civilization 68-14516

"This book deals with the unacknowledged or understressed relations between technology and the arts, especially during the later nineteenth century, and with the current revolt against the technological imperatives that have affected the arts. . . . [Mr. Sypher holds] that the conflict in the so-called two cultures is not between science and art but between technology and both science and art." (Publisher's note) Bibliography.

Choice 5:1120 N '68 170w

"Some of Professor Sypher's speculations are just plain wild. . . . A useful treatise on a subject as perplexing as the relations between modern art and science is not likely to be the product of extravagant, imprecise thinking. Colin Campbell

Christian Science Monitor p9 J1 ■ '68 800w

"[Professor Sypher] writes of the alienation of the individual in society. He uses as his framework two developments: first, the rise of the objective outlook, which makes an observer of both the artist and the scientist, placing him outside the events he describes or measures; and second, the rise of the mechanization of the means of production, which separates the worker from the end product of his labor. On this framework, Mr. Sypher hangs all manner of speculation, from the mechanics of Newton to Taylorism, from the tragedies of Shakespeare to the economics of Marx, and so on. The work is not well organized . . . and Mr. Sypher is often confused and abstruse. Yet his many stimulating observations recommend the book for public and academic libraries." M. E. Landgren

Library J 93:1485 Ap 1 '68 170w

"The book is learned, ambitious, and complex. Sypher's is one of those grand taxonomies that expands the mind even while stirring doubt at roughly every other point. For instance I find many of his parallels between art and science unsatisfactory. . . . Yet the main concept of Sypher's argument—that of distancing and alienation—has both explanatory power and resonance. His taxonomy is productive, not inert." Richard Ohmann

New Repub 159:30 S 21 '68 1650w

Reviewed by Martin Lebowitz
Yale R 58:149 O '68 650w

SZABADVARY, FERENC. History of analytical chemistry; tr. by Gyula Svehla. 419p il $18.50 Pergamon

543 Chemistry, Analytic [64-23711]

"The book looks briefly at chemical tests in antiquity, then . . . moves to the origins of quantitative work by the Renaissance assayers. . . . Attention is given to the application of knowledge of chemical reactions to the growth of qualitative, gravimetric, and volumetric methods. . . . Treatment is given to instrumental methods, and the subject of analysis is brought up to the present era." (Science)

"The history of chemistry and that of analytical chemistry are virtually identical up to the beginning of the great theoretical developments of the 19th and 20th centuries, so the interest of this book is broader than its title might indicate. Szabadvary's scholarship is exhaustive in the periods up to the 20th century, but recent history (which is very rich indeed) is only sketchily covered, a situation freely acknowledged by the author. . . . A surprisingly readable book; more so than many in the history of science. Unfortunately, the translation is rather awkward and at times ungrammatical. A valuable library addition but hardly a 'best buy' for a small budget."

Choice 4:1274 Ja '68 150w

"Not only does [this book] fill a conspicuously empty niche, it does so in brilliant fashion. The author shows a deep sensitivity toward the relations between analytical problems and the development of chemistry. He is knowledgeable on all phases of analytical chemistry and understands these phases in their historical context. . . . The book was originally published in Hungarian and has also appeared in German translation. It is unfortunate that the publishers of the English edition have not extended to the author the care and thoughtfulness that his book deserves. . . . Despite these technical shortcomings the book is a notable contribution to the history of chemistry. The author communicates a deep understanding of his subject." A. J. Ihde

Science 156:778 My 12 '67 390w

T

TACK, ALFRED. The top steal. 235p $4.50 Doubleday

68-22536

"Charles Duke, an English millionaire . . . suddenly finds his business complex tottering for lack of three million pounds. Having exhausted all sources of aid, he decides to steal jewels which can be sold for the necessary amount." (Best Sell)

Best Sell 28:320 N 1 '68 100w

"If plots were everything, Mr. Tack could be credited with a masterpiece. Unfortunately, his abecedarian prose style and indifference to detail in favor of sweeping power plays by the Iron Duke make the story read like unfleshed fantasy." A. L. Rosenzweig

Book World p19 O 27 '68 190w

Reviewed by M. K. Grant
Library J 93:3583 O 1 '68 40w

TACK, ALFRED—Continued

"Freshness and vigor are the qualities most notably lacking [here]. . . Long before the denouement, the Tack plotto is creaking badly." A. J. Hubin

N Y Times Bk R p68 N 17 '68 130w

TAGORE, RABINDRANATH. One hundred and one; poems, 181p $8.50 Asia pub.

891.4

SA67-471

"This anthology covering an expanse of sixty years (1881-1941) is a selection of one hundred and one poems which in the opinion of the Editor represent the best in Tagore. The selection is representative and aims at including at least some specimens of the many moods and styles in which he wrote." (Publisher's note)

"The poems are translated, a few each, by leading Bengali scholars of English, some of whom are also creative writers, but the translations fail to equal the poet's own translations of some of his poems. . . . Much of the music and imagery of the originals are lost. . . . Still there remains the strong impression of a single mind at work. This is because the selection leans towards poems with universal themes which are the least altered by translation. . . . [This anthology includes] some of [Tagore's] best poems. . . . Kabir's introduction is helpful. A valuable contribution to world literature."

Choice 4:1390 F '68 200w

"One Hundred and One unfortunately does not offer much toward a better understanding of Tagore. . . . The hazards of translating Tagore literally are apparent in awkward inversions of word-order and convoluted sentences. Often in trying to avoid a specific, vivid Bengali image which might be unfamiliar to a western reader, a vague and ineffective English one is substituted. Some informative notes would have alleviated this problem. It also should have been made clear that the various shapes of the translations have no correspondence with the original poems. The collection will, however, give the steadfast reader an idea of the range of subject and mood in Tagore's poetry. . . . Many moving late poems are offered, as well as some longer narrative poems." Leila Laughlin

Poetry 111:407 Mr '68 300w

TAI, PAULINE. The bachelorette cookbook; easy-fun ideas for the single chef; il. by the author. 202p $4.95 Doubleday

641.5 Cookery

68-11756

Recipes "are arranged in chapters beginning with 'Nibbles,' 'Main Courses,' 'Vegetables,' and ending with 'Desserts.' . . . [There are] step-by-step directions . . . a brief chapter covering 'Basic Necessities for an Instant Model Kitchen,' and a section on 'Extras,' or ways to use those leftovers." (Library J) Index.

"How to cook for one, and like it, is a happy theme that enlivens [this cookbook]. Busy bachelor girls will appreciate Miss Tai's thoughtful estimates of one recipe ingredients often slighted—time. She lists before each recipe the total time, with subtotals for preparation and cooking times." Y. H.

Christian Science Monitor p7 Je 13 '68 270w

"[Unfortunately] those who live alone will find little more than guides to the usual steaks, chops, hamburgers, lamburgers, porkburgers, chickenburgers, and even tri-burgers. . . . [The recipes] do not seem to reflect the principles of Chinese, nor established, cookery. Miss Tai also fails to suggest the substantial simple sandwiches, soups, casseroles, and bakery dishes which would satisfy and delight the busy hard-working girl. . . . Her recommended timing seems to be off. Bigger and better cookbooks are available. I cannot recommend this one for library purchase." D. L. Gustafson

Library J 93:2496 Je 15 '68 200w

TAIT, ALAN A. The taxation of personal wealth. 238p $7.50 Univ. of Ill. press

336.2 Taxation—Great Britain. Taxation—U.S. Wealth

67-12992

"In critically analyzing different forms of wealth taxation and the relationship between wealth and other taxed items, the author raises and attempts to answer such questions as: Is the distribution of capital likely to be a continuing problem in developed economies? . . .

What forms of tax are possible in taxing wealth? . . . Professor Tait begins by discussing the concept of wealth and its existing distribution in the United States and the United Kingdom. . . . The reasons underlying this distribution and its justifications then are outlined. Major factors (including taxation) affecting future distribution of wealth are explored . . . and the political implementation of tax proposals examined. The author argues that the relation of wealth taxes to stocks of wealth and income flows is such that equity throughout the system can be improved with three basic parts of a tax structure: an income tax, a pay-as-you-accumulate (P.A.Y.A.) tax, and a lifetime tax." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

"Tait uses some economic theory and statistics to prophesy that distribution of wealth will become more unequal. The main theme of the book is not redistribution, but equal treatment of equals—equity. . . . The effects of personal wealth taxes on work, saving, and risk-taking are investigated, but no conclusion is reached. The prose is relatively clear; however, the whole project was too ambitious so that some parts are not treated thoroughly enough."

Choice 5:238 Ap '68 150w

"Professor Tait, lecturer and tutor at Trinity College, Dublin, . . . shows present tax structures to be inadequate since they tend to fossilize the inequalities of wealth distribution. These inequalities may themselves be based on the fact that ancestors acquired wealth by craft, theft, or power. Present laws merely legalize the ancestors' acquisitiveness. . . . What is needed, Professor Tait states, is a rewriting of the tax laws themselves to close the loopholes whereby some individuals with incomes in the millions can avoid paying taxes, while 80 per cent of the revenues obtained by government comes from income levels between $5,000 and $15,000. Professor Tait's book is both readable and interesting, for he writes with humor and penetration. Recommended for any library wishing a lucid commentary on personal taxes, but especially for libraries specializing in economics." R. W. Haseltine

Library J 92:4149 N 15 '67 230w

TALBERT, BILL. Tennis observed; the USLTA men's singles champions, 1881-1966, by Bill Talbert with Peter Axthelm. 142p il $12.50 Barre

796.34 Tennis

67-14594

Comments, with action pictures, "on all winners of the U.S.L.T.A. Men's Singles Championships and a complete listing of the draws from 1881 to 1966. The comments . . . cover individual strengths in shots, style of play, strategy, competitive spirit, physical condition, and [the] closest competitors of the era." (Choice)

"A treasure for the historian, and interesting to the player. . . . The excellent pictures help make this a most worthwhile and unique contribution to tennis history."

Choice 4:1412 F '68 80w

"The first half of [this book] contains brief, superficial analyses of the techniques and temperaments of the winning players. . . . The second part is amply filled by a compilation of the complete draws for each tournament. The first part may be read with some enjoyment during an hour of relaxation. The reader will find it difficult to use the second part as reference. . . . It takes time and some devotion to compile a good index, and I'm afraid that these concerns were lacking here. The book may appeal to tennis fans but its scope is limited for the casual reader. A possible buy for largest libraries." E. G. Hamann

Library J 92:3053 S 15 '67 150w

TALBERT, WILLIAM FRANKLIN. See Talbert, B.

TALKS with social scientists; ed. by Charles F. Madden 205p $5.85 Southern Ill. univ. press

300 Social sciences. Social conditions

68-10731

"Between February and May 1964, 15 'social scientists'—scholars and people prominently engaged in today's social problems—participated by amplified telephone in a six-college cooperative course. Questions and answers followed a short presentation by an authority. This work is a transcription of the presentation and discussion of 12 and presentation of one of the original 15." (Choice) "Margaret Mead spoke on culture, A. H. Ras-kin on labor unions, Carey McWilliams and Adolf A. Berle on automation, Marston Bates on the population explosion, Ralph McGill on civil rights, Adrienne Koch on an American philosophy, Huston Smith on ethical relativism, Ralph Bunche on the UN in 1964, Max Lerner on the age of overkill, David Reisman on education, Glenn T. Seaborg on peaceful uses of atomic energy, and Barbara Ward on the politics of affluence." (Library J)

"These informal comments . . . must have been extremely stimulating to students at the time of delivery, but are unfortunately now considerably outdated by more recent events. This work will be of continuing use for the student of mid-20th century problems, but it is not now of the interest it would have been if published [sooner]." Choice 5:1176 N '68 140w

"Of necessity, these brief talks only skim the surface of their subjects. This book might possibly be used for discussion groups or college courses on current issues, although some of the talks are dated. It also might be of some use to high school or college students if they discover it on the shelf, or if an assisting librarian remembers it. Most libraries can save their money." David Cooley Library J 93:2891 Ag '68 170w [YA]

TAMARIN, ALFRED H. Revolt in Judea: the road to Masada; the eyewitness account by Flavius Josephus of the Roman campaign against Judea, the destruction of the Second Temple, and the heroism of Masada; condensed and adapted for modern readers, by Alfred H. Tamarin. 157p il pl maps $7.95 Four winds

933 Jews—History

68-27279

A digested and modernized version of Josephus's account "of the revolt of the Jews against the Roman empire . . . [ending] with the heroic suicide of some 900 Jewish zealots, their wives and their children, when faced with the inevitable conquest [by] the Roman legions in their last refuge, the butte of Masada, near the Dead Sea." (Best Sell) Chronology. Index.

"The book is beautifully designed and executed with a large number of monochrome illustrations, and bound in a brown simulated leather stamped in gold. Superb for High School libraries, and for libraries of higher level."

Best Sell 28:379 D 1 '68 110w [YA]

Christian Century 89:1604 D 18 '68 70w

"The renewal of interest in Josephus began with the discovery of the Dead Sea scrolls and was reinforced by archaeological excavations such as the one just completed by Yigael Yadin at Masada. The timely appearance of Tamarin's version of Josephus's account of the Roman campaign against Judea, trimmed of Josephus's verbiage and florid digressions, will find an enthusiastic reception among those who do not have time to spend on the original but who would yet enjoy a firsthand account. . . . Mr. Tamarin has captured the essentials of the story and translated them into modern, readable English though much of the style as well as many historical facts have been eliminated. This is not a book for the specialist or purist but for the general public." F. M. Lauritsen Library J 93:3785 O 15 '68 160w

TAMMUZ, BENJAMIN, ed. Art in Israel; ed. by Benjamin Tammuz & Max Wykes-Joyce. 298p il col il $22.50 Chilton co.

709.56 Art, Israeli. Architecture, Israeli

67-20515

Contents: Painting, by Yona Fisher; Sculpture, by Mira Friedman; Architecture, by Aviah Hashimshony; Crafts & design, by John Cheney. Name index.

"The text is informal and easy to read. The latest examples of art discussed or illustrated are no later than 1962. More up-to-date material would have enhanced the book considerably. [The volume] covers the works by such artists as Agam, Bezem, Castel, Gross, Zaritzky, Wechsler, Lan-Bar, Okashi, Steinmatsky, Streichman, Tamir, and Tumarken."

Choice 5:1126 N '68 180w

"The survey of each major topic is well written by authorities on the subject who have lived in Israel and worked there with the visual arts. . . . The illustrations are fine and add much to the book's interest and value. . . . Recommended for school, public, and college libraries." W. J. Dane

Library J 93:66 Ja 1 '68 150w

TANNER, LOUISE. All the things we were; a scrapbook of the people, politics, and popular culture in the tragicomic years between the crash and Pearl Harbor. 362p il $6.50 Doubleday

917.3 U.S.—Civilization

67-11190

This "scrapbook" of the years between 1929 and 1941 recalls "many of the major events that made up the political, social, artistic, literary, and popular history of the times. Mrs. Tanner also remembers some less-than-shaking events. The first housetrailer. The first canned laughter. . . . The first commercially sponsored symphony broadcast. The first singing commercial. The first convertible." (Christian Science Monitor) Annotated chapter bibliographies. Index.

"This is not so much a book to be read as one to be picked up and put down many times. Each sampling starts the stream of memory and serves to bring the reader back to the book repeatedly. . . . [Mrs. Tanner] amazes the reader with the breadth and depth of her memory, but also wins him by including the favorite reminiscence of every one. . . . [She shows] how the comic strip mirrored its times [and] . . . she reviews movies and soap operas, radio personalities and prize-fighters, music and motor cars, chain letters and cigarette contests." E. A. Doehler

Best Sell 27:464 Mr 1 '68 550w

"Despite some careless editing along the way . . . [this book] is chatty, informal, evocative—in short most of the things a scrapbook should be. Mrs. Tanner doesn't re-view the past through rose-colored glasses. She chronicles with candor the pop history of an era which began with a world depression and ended with a world war. Except when she is documenting some of the decade's horrors . . . her tone is prevalently detached, amused, ironic. She uses sentiment only for seasoning. . . . When the occasion offers . . . Mrs Tanner contrasts or parallels the '30's and the '60's. . . . [But] it seems to me that [she] doesn't carry her analysis far enough." John Beaufort Christian Science Monitor p9 Ap 1 '68 750w

"Louise Tanner, an author of fiction and nonfiction, indulges in an almost breathless dropping of names of the great and not-so-great of the Depression era in a style which is difficult to follow. Her pace and the long list of people and events she presents provides the reader with more of a sniff than a taste of the period. . . . Libraries which are interested in developing a broad social history collection will want this book, but most libraries should rely on the more standard books of the period." F. W. Summers

Library J 93:187 Ja 15 '68 160w

Reviewed by Regina Minudri

Library J 93:1826 Ap 15 '68 60w [YA]

Reviewed by Greta Walker

N Y Times Bk R p49 My 12 '68 100w

TARN, NATHANIEL. Where Babylon ends. unpag. $4; pa $2.50 Grossman pubs.

821

68-15649

Some of the poems in this collection have appeared previously in such publications as Quest and The Spectator.

"[Here are poems which] speak to modern man in the modern voice. . . . Hopefully, librarians will rush out to buy [them]." Bill Katz Library J 93:2882 Ag '68 80w

"Tarn's poems are uncompromisingly creatures of the page. His book is a visual object, complete with expensive illustrations. It is also by no means free from pretentiousness, most notably in a sequence called 'Projections for an Eagle escaped in this city.' At first reading, the 'apses into clarity suggest the worst. . . . But there is better. The dense feral metaphors suggest at least some inner obsessional need, though its product is as much modish as magical."

TLS p499 My 16 '68 110w

TARR, HERBERT. Heaven help us! 277p $5.95
Random house

66-21485

"Rabbi Gideon Abel (25—and still unmarried) comes to Hillendale determined to show his congregation the way to religion. But they . . . are more concerned with fashion shows, the temple musical comedy (My Fair Sadie), and fund-raising for a brand-new kitchen. So the battle lines are drawn between Gideon and his people." (Publisher's note)

Reviewed by W. B. Hill
America 119:563 N 30 '68 50w

Reviewed by W. H. Schweder
Best Sell 28:102 Je 1 '68 350w

"This tale of Rabbi Gideon Abel's attempts to persuade his first congregation that if religion is to be genuine it must be practiced is both hilarious and satiric. Most members of the rabbi's congregation don't go for all those Old Testament ideas about social justice; they are inclined rather toward chromium-plated kitchens and country club Bar Mitzvahs. . . . Some of the satire gets a bit heavy handed, but most readers—Christians and Jews alike—will see reflected in the pages some aspects of their own congregational life." A. P. Klausler
Christian Century 85:1476 N 20 '68 90w

"Rabbi Tarr has written a worthy successor to his popular The Conversion of Chaplain Cohen. This new novel mingles mirth and seriousness. The religious humor has bite and just a taste of acid to it. Young, scholarly Rabbi Gideon Abel guides his first congregation in Jewish suburbia. His personal chronicle gives immediacy to the satirical descriptions. The episode involving picketing of a slumlord is particularly memorable. Characterizations of some of the synagogue members are not at all flattering. The comedy, though, is broad and adult and really funny! The rabbi, author and main character, teach in the best way: by gently shared experience. Recommended for most libraries." H. M. Kapenstein
Library J 93:1504 Ap 1 '68 110w

Reviewed by Marvin Kitman
N Y Times Bk R p6 My 12 '68 900w

TARRANT, DESMOND. James Branch Cabell; the dream and the reality. 292p $5.95
Univ. of Okla. press

813 Cabell, James Branch 67-15595

This study of Cabell's works examines his "literary intentions and his actual achievements, his knowledge and . . . [use of] myth, his mastery of the nuances of language, and the philosophies he espoused." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

"This study suffers from some vagueness in the exposition of theory and much looseness in the engagement with individual works. What Mr. Tarrant means by myth is at once too grandiose, too elementary, and too elusive. What he intends to be analysis often turns into a pastiche of synopsis, quotation, eulogy, name-dropping comparison, and data about composition and publication. Yet his book is a study whose richness and originality are real and pervasive." J. L. Davis
Am Lit 40:410 N '68 650w

Choice 4:1384 F '68 190w

"Tarrant has performed a genuine service to the generation of the 1960's in undertaking to introduce it to the complexities of Cabell's meaning and purpose. . . . He has devoted most of his book to the Biography of Manuel the 'redeemer' and his progeny—that is, to the novels produced during the decade 1917-1927—with some consideration also to the early and late periods, so that we have the outline and principal details of the entire work. As one might expect of a pioneer work . . . much is left to be filled in and perhaps corrected, but it is a worthy start on what, one must hope, may be an extended series of studies." Va Q R 44:cxvii summer '68 230w

TARROW, SIDNEY G. Peasant communism in southern Italy. 389p il maps $8.75 Yale univ. press

335.4 Communism—Italy. Communist party (Italy). Peasantry 67-24516

The author suggests that "Italy is really two broad nation states—north and south—and politics, economics, and social setting differ markedly. He further argues that, despite Italian government efforts through its 'Cassa per il Mezzogiorno' (Fund for the Development of the South), only the peasant Communists of the south have really grasped the interaction of ideology and social conditions which can result in a sectional political program. . . . The failure of the Communists to integrate north and south, new and old social classes, and urban-rural organization has brought the Party to naught, despite its original . . . analyses of the peasant mentality and needs." (Library J)

"In many ways, an excellent book. Even the specialist will learn much concerning the peculiar social problems of southern Italy as well as the role of the Italian Communist Party in that region. Tarrow . . . is very successful in applying relevant literature of the social sciences to historical material on the P.C.I. and the Italian South. On the other hand, his assertion of basic contradictions between the thought and work of Antonio Gramsci (the earlier leader of the P.C.I.) and that of his successor, Palmiro Togliatti, is not demonstrated. . . . Then too, he cites very few works by Italian Communists published after 1960, though his own interviews were done in 1964, and he makes abundant use of figures compiled in recent years by Italian institutions of social science. Despite these reservations, this is a most informative and stimulating book."

Choice 5:267 Ap '68 180w

"Professor Tarrow of Yale in this basically fascinating and useful study concentrates on the often overlooked fact that European societies—or a section of them—can be underdeveloped. He concentrates on one such area—the south of Italy with its immense poverty, ruralism, and, as he suggests, institutionalized social disorganization. His thesis, while overblown with jargon and the semantics of the social scientist, is well taken. . . . [This] careful study will be of particular interest to specialists in the field." K. F. Delaney
Library J 92:4166 N 15 '67 400w

"[A] mine of information. First, however, a fundamental criticism must be made of the method which structures [the] study. [The author] insists on approaching [his] subject through the jaundiced undergrowth of bourgeois political theory. . . . [But] this is a very important book which goes right to the heart of the absolutely basic problems of class, ideology, political education and organisation facing the PCI throughout Italy. Tarrow handles the internal class contradictions of PCI policy with a deftness and precision not to be found in any Italian studies, and it is very much to be hoped that his work will stimulate the PCI itself into a full-scale critique of the book, and a thorough investigation of the questions raised by it. There are errors of judgment, . . . uncritical use of sources, . . . and occasional excess." Jon Halliday
New Statesman 75:211 F 16 '68 500w

TARSHIS, JEROME. Claude Bernard; father of experimental medicine. 182p $3.95 Dial press

B or 92 Bernard, Claude—Juvenile literature 63-15257

This is a biography of the nineteenth century French doctor "famous for his work on the role of the pancreas, on carbon monoxide poisoning, liver function, the vasomotor nervous system and . . . instrumental in promoting the idea that scientific research and laboratory work were essential to medical progress. [Chronology. Bibliography. Index.] Grades seven to twelve." (Library J)

"The author builds history of this energetic researcher in the light of historical background of Paris in the 19th Century. . . . Despite an unhappy marriage and much personal suffering, Bernard's life was rewarding and the volume will give young readers a wealth of information on the development and history of scientific medicine."

Best Sell 28:174 Jl 15 '68 100w

Reviewed by H. C. Stubbs
Horn Bk 44:446 Ag '68 190w

Reviewed by Isadora Kunitz
Library J 93:1817 Ap 15 '68 110w

"[Bernard's] story is well told by Jerome Tarshis. . . . although the last chapter is anticlimactic and seems tacked on." N. R. Campion
N Y Times Bk R p26 My 19 '68 120w

TARSIS, VALERIY. The pleasure factory; tr. from the Russian by Michael Glenny. 224p $4.95 Day

68-13941

The author of The Bluebottle (BRD 1963) and Ward 7 (BRD 1965) writes about a state-operated "people's resort on the Black Sea. . . . The reader encounters the inside story about the operation of the pleasure factory by waiters, entertainers, party members, farm workers. . . . The pleasure factory and its Armenian manager, Vartan Lipyan, are introduced when Stepan Pistoletov . . . and his beautiful mistress Nastasya arrive at Razdolyn to seek their fortune and future. Stepan becomes a poor man's maitre d'hotel and Nastasya becomes a sometimes pleasurable bed companion and sometimes singer. . . . [Other characters include the] French journalist Alphonse Jabot [who] ineffectually tries to seduce Nastasya. . . . [and] the Olenin family of two boys and three girls." (Best Sell)

Reviewed by Phoebe Adams
Atlantic 221:136 Ap '68 200w

"A book which has worth as fiction to entertain as well as fiction to instruct. . . . If the inane antics of the pleasure seekers are lamentable, the day-by-day plodding of the pleasure providers is tragic. The alcoholic profligacy of lecherous customers is sad, but the measured stoicism of the panderers is pathetic. . . . A didactic fiction, this story is a political handbook. Michael Glenny's translation captures the caustic rebellion of most of the characters against a communal system which rewards only those whose techniques are opportunistically illegal. . . . Recreationally and intellectually, this book is a pleasure factory." J. A. Phillips
Best Sell 27:474 Mr 15 '68 650w

Reviewed by Oleg Iysky
Library J 93:1920 My 1 '68 300w

Reviewed by Guy Davenport
Nat R 20:402 Ap 23 '68 330w

Reviewed by Stanley Reynolds
New Statesman 74:366 S 22 '67 190w

"Tarsis's earlier novel, 'Ward 7,' was concerned with Soviet persecution. [This novel] is less Soviet than it is Russian. Its characters, the resident community of a Black Sea resort, are steeped in Pushkin and Dostoevsky, and pursue melancholy, futile attachments that can only end in anticlimax or disaster. Or both. . . . All of the characters have a common bond in their hostility to an oppressive bureaucracy. But otherwise they all go their introspective ways to a destination that parallels that in 'The Idiot.' Rambling and apostrophic in style, the novel is mainly interesting for its sidelights on Russian life and the Russian temperament. Commissars may come, and commissars may go, but Dostoevsky goes on forever." Martin Levin

N Y Times Bk R p44 Mr 3 '68 220w

"Part of what [the author] likes is delicious, biting wit at the expense of the Soviet colossus. . . . What he also likes is to evoke delicate moods, to structure intricate thoughts like building blocks, to move a yarn relentlessly toward some inevitable dénouement. He often does these superbly. And if in his latest novel his talents still don't permit him to deal totally with people as people, apart from politics, Tarsis gets close enough to that goal to deserve serious attention as a novelist. . . . [However], it would be a shame if such a novel were received only as more documentary evidence condemning a political system. . . . A purely cold-war view of [the book] does injustice as well to Tarsis's craftsmanship. There are times when he writes with the power and polish of a Nabokov, or of a Stendhal." Robert Maurer

Sat R 51:36 Mr 9 '68 800w
Time 91:96 Mr 15 '68 600w

TLS p934 O 5 '67 500w

TATZ, COLIN M., Jr., ed. Aborigines in the economy. See Sharp, I. G.

TAUBER, KURT P. Beyond eagle and swastika; German nationalism since 1945. 2v 995:999-1598p il $35 Wesleyan univ. press

320.943 Nationalism. Germany—Politics and government—1945- 67-15231

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Reviewed by Andreas Dorpalen
Am Hist R 73:1191 Ap '68 310w

Reviewed by L. L. Snyder
Ann Am Acad 376:157 Mr '68 750w
Choice 5:254 Ap '68 120w

Reviewed by Neal Ascherson
N Y Rev of Books 10:8 F 1 '68 1200w

TAUBER, MAURICE F., ed. Library surveys; ed. by Maurice F. Tauber and Irlene Roemer Stephens. 286p $13.50 Columbia univ. press

025 Library surveys 67-25304

A collection of papers presented at the "Conference on Library Surveys, held at Columbia University, June 14-27, 1965. . . . [The book contains a] review of the history, origin, and evolution of the survey in various types of public and academic libraries as well as discussions of procedures and descriptions of measuring instruments used in evaluating resources, technical services, building programs, personnel, and other important aspects of library service today." (Library J) Chapter bibliographies. Index.

"The Tauber-Stephens work is the first full-scale investigation of an increasingly important branch of library science. No significant aspect of the multifarious field is omitted. Experienced surveyors and those planning any type of survey will find in the compilation a variety of helpful discussions on the methodology, purposes, limitations and uses of the library survey in its many manifestations." R. B. Downs

Col & Res Lib 29:160 Mr '68 800w

"The editors of this volume have done a fine job in organizing the papers read by the various expert participants covering a great many aspects of survey methods and special approaches to problems of library surveys. . . . Very few critical remarks, however, cropped up in these fine academic discussions, and one is almost relieved to find an occasional hint of doubt about present practices." Joseph Klimberger

Library J 92:2903 S 1 '67 700w

"The conference was designed to consider surveys of all types of libraries. The book suffers slightly from an unevenness in point of view because some authors failed to heed the conference chairman's instructions more closely. This is most noticeable in Part 1 where papers should have centered on various aspects of surveying without regard to type of library. . . . The papers from this conference . . . perhaps put too much stress on the traditional single library administrative survey, have too little to say about surveying systems of libraries, avoid too completely any discussion of actual research techniques, and get confused at times on the distinctions between surveying and consulting (if indeed there are distinctions). Despite these shortcomings, this carefully edited collection of papers is an important and useful compendium of material on the library survey and will be a standard item on the surveyor's bookshelf for years to come." Guy Garrison

Library Q 38:196 Ap '68 1450w

"[This volume and Maurice B. Line's Library Surveys, BRD 1968] complement each other in a manner which, I am sure, the publishers never anticipated. If one is pondering the dilemma 'to survey or not to survey,' I refer him to Tauber and Stephens. Does one decide to survey—then Maurice Line gives methods, procedures and guidelines. . . . The contributors [to Tauber and Stephens' work] constitute a most distinguished roster of representatives of the library profession, as well as the publishing field. And the end result is a publication which offers insight and opinions relating to all types of library surveys." M. N. Sloane

Special Libraries 59:116 F '68 350w

TAUBES, FREDERIC. The technique of portrait painting. 159p il col il $12.50 Watson-Guptill

757 Portrait painting 67-21791

A guide to the technique of painting portraits in oil which discusses materials, "color selection and mixing, planning the portrait, underpainting and overpainting techniques, rendering details, and all prima techniques for panel and canvas." (Publisher's note)

Choice 5:337 My '68 100w

"Taubes, noted painter and writer, has given us another . . . anodyne profusely illustrated with his own works, and some from the great masters. His corny writing might appeal to Sunday painters who need quantities of folk talk with their art. His advice is sometimes good, but is overshadowed by the unrelieved monotony of his paintings. Unwisely, the publishers have chosen to limit the color illustrations to Taubes' own portraits: the great masters get only poor black and whites. This reviewer would not recommend [this book] to young artists or professionals on the grounds that it degrades the art of portraiture." R. A. Beale

TAUBES, FREDERIC—Continued

Library J 93:980 Mr 1 '68 150w

TAUBMAN, HOWARD, ed. The New York Times guide to listening pleasure. See The New York Times

TAVARD, GEORGE H. The Pilgrim church. 176p $4.95 Herder & Herder
262 Vatican Council, 2d. Catholic Church. Theology 67-25886

A description of some of the themes of the Constitution on the Church promulgated by the second Vatican Council. "After presenting the theological background to Vatican II in a survey of the state of Catholic thought in the years following the second World War, the book focuses on the renovation of ecclesiology realized in the Council's Constitution on the Church. The main elements studied are the Church as Mystical Body and as People of God, the hierarchy, and the eschatological dimension of the Church. This latter theme is then extended to a discussion of religious orders . . . [and] the purpose and scope of the religious vows." (Publisher's note) Six of the seven chapters were previously delivered as lectures. Chapter seven appeared in Worship.

"Readers who have kept abreast of discussions of Vatican II will find nothing very exciting or original in the central chapters. They are a straightforward presentation of basic themes that have already received considerable attention. The penultimate chapter, dealing with religious life in the Church, is at once the longest and the least satisfactory. . . . It has been said of a contemporary lecturer-author that he should be read and not heard. One wonders if the reverse is not true of Tavard." E. L. Donahue

America 118:46 Ja 13 '68 290w

Christian Century 84:1162 S 13 '67 50w

"I am disappointed with this book. . . . Pointing to a 'need for serenity in assessing the katyros of Vatican II,' [the author] distinguishes his endeavors from other treatments of the Council. . . . His writing is indeed serene, but it does not throw much light on the Constitution on the Church. For the major part of the book he quotes extensively from the Constitution, adding his own commentary and reflections. . . . In a preliminary chapter on the theological setting of Vatican II, Tavard does aid the reader to put various Conciliar developments into historical context . . . but at times the attempt to describe continuities among authors or in doctrinal development seems strained. . . . By far the best chapter of the book is that dealing with religious orders in the Church." E. C. Bianchi

Critic 26:81 D '67-Ja '68 1600w

"The decisive document of the [Second Vatican] Council was the Dogmatic Constitution, Lumen Gentium, on the Church. . . . Father Tavard's book is in effect a commentary. . . . It provides a most valuable introduction to the theological setting of the Council itself. . . . [Father Tavard] writes with the authority of a trained theologian who himself was closely concerned with the theological studies that contributed so much to the Constitution's development. His book is therefore more than an introduction to it: it supplies the necessary background to its formulation and to its place in the developing theological debate since Vatican II."

TLS p757 Jl 18 '68 420w

TAX, SOL, ed. The draft, a handbook of facts and alternatives. 497p $12.95 Univ. of Chicago press

355.2 Military service, Compulsory 67-25517

This volume is the result of a conference held in 1966 at the University of Chicago. Part one, which consists of twenty-five contributed papers, is divided into four sections: Problems of the Draft, Broadening the Draft, Perspectives on the Draft and Alternatives to the Draft. Part two is a transcript of the conference discussions. The epilogue contains four post-conference documents, including the President's message to Congress "on March 6, 1967, which dealt in great part with subjects discussed during the conference; General Hershey's summary of the changes effected by the 1967 law, and Senator Edward M. Kennedy's objections to the new law." (Publisher's note) Indexes.

Reviewed by Carl Bangs

Christian Century 85:820 Je 19 '68 220w

Reviewed by R. J. Neuhaus

Commonweal 88:413 Je 21 '68 700w

"[This book includes] data reviews, studies, and formal statements from government officials and social scientists. . . . [It] gives the reader a sense of the urgency of the complex policy and procedural difficulties which must be solved if our defense needs are to be met in a fully equitable way. Included are papers by sociologists, psychologists, economists, political scientists, statisticians, military officers, law professors; [and] statements by draft officials. . . . The military, educational, and social implications of the draft are all discussed here as are most of the changes that have been seriously proposed. . . . [Recommended] as a detailed source book and review of the many views of our strange, confusing, and, to say the least, controversial draft laws." George Adelman

Library J 93:765 F 15 '68 200w

"[This book is] evidence of the serious consideration being given to the [draft] issue today by intellectuals of all ideological and philosophical schools. . . . The conferees ended up in two distinctly opposite camps—one authoritarian, the other libertarian. Their respective banners were marked National Service and Voluntary Army, and, for once, the libertarians put the authoritarians to rout. . . . It becomes clear in these pages that National Service would, in effect, be the planner's tool in nationalizing American education. [Morris] Janowitz is most direct about this. . . . It becomes equally clear . . . that if National Service is to be national and is to achieve the goals envisioned by its proponents, it must also be compulsory. . . . [On the other side Dr. Walter Y. Oi] provided the statistical data showing the costs, implications and feasibility of an army recruited by voluntary means. [Dr. Milton] Friedman . . . [added] a brilliant array of his own reasons for supporting a voluntary army. [Bruce] Chapman did an equally impressive job presenting the political arguments in favor of voluntarism." David Franke
Nat R 20:299 Mr 26 '68 600w

Reviewed by E. F. Sherman

New Repub 158:36 My 18 '68 480w

Reviewed by Paul Lauter and Florence Howe
N Y Rev of Books 10:25 Je 20 '68 850w

N Y Times Bk R p10 Mr 10 '68 260w

TAXAY, DON. An illustrated history of U.S. commemorative coinage. 256p $6.50 Arco

737.4 Coins

67-10696

"Drawing in small part from the records of the United States Mint, and to a far greater extent from the project files of the Commission of Fine Arts. Mr. Taxay, former curator of the Chase Manhattan Bank Money Museum, [discusses] . . . the 51 events for which commemorative issues were struck during the period 1892 to 1951." (Library J)

"Informative and entertaining. Unlike most works on coins and medals, it is addressed only incidentally to collectors. . . . Recommended to libraries interested in American art as well as history."

Choice 4:1230 Ja '68 170w

"[The author] introduces hitherto unpublished data and presents a vivid picture of the personalities involved, two noteworthy examples being the Mint's engraver George T. Morgan and the sculptor member of the Fine Arts Commission, James Fraser. The arrangement and reproduction of the vast amount of correspondence involved is commendable, and the inclusion of more than 80 pages of illustrations, which depict artists' models and sculptural prototypes, further the reader's awareness of the artistic and technical problems to be encountered. Recommended for public and numismatic libraries." F. D. Campbell

Library J 92:2553 Jl '67 170w

TAYLOR, A. M. Imagination and the growth of science. 110p $3.95 Schocken

501 Science. Scientists 67-14963

"A series of four Tallman Lectures delivered in 1964-5 at Bowdoin College by the professor of physics at the University of Southampton, England. The thesis is that 'history reveals the growth of science as a long story of theories held tenaciously in the face of apparent contradiction, of flights of imagination sustained by little factual evidence, and brilliant guesses astonishingly forerunning experimental discovery.' . . . The thesis is illustrated in the development of human knowledge of astronomy, electricity, relativity, and atomic structure." (Choice) Index.

"Taylor observes that scientific philosophy is often at complex variance with what the scientist actually does, a situation of which the scientist himself is often unaware. . . . An appendix gives brief but fascinating and informative biographical notes on the scientists mentioned in the text. . . . A must for the college or public library."

Choice 4:1406 F '68 130w

TLS p1100 N 24 '66 450w

TAYLOR, ELIZABETH. The wedding group. 186p $4.50 Viking

68-16077

"At eighteen Cressy is a fledgling from Quayne, the austere establishment on the hill where her patriarchal grandfather, the painter, holds sway over a clan of women. . . . She escapes almost into the arms of an attractive older journalist, a man-about-town who has remained a determined bachelor attendant upon his lonely mother in the country. David is charmed by young Cressy and impulsively marries her. Their life together, insistently aided at every step by David's loving mother [Midge], supplies the [drama] . . . by which the story progresses to its climax." (Publisher's note)

Reviewed by Alice McCahill

Best Sell 28:9 Ap 1 '68 700w

Choice 5:1312 D '68 120w

Reviewed by K. G. Jackson

Harper 236:106 Ap '68 220w

"With honest, childlike greed and selfishness, the young heroine of Mrs. Taylor's latest novel shatters the carefully concealed egoism and calculated benevolence of her husband and his worldly mother and of her own studiously unworldly family. The usual Taylor characters are all here. . . . So, too, are the literary qualities that have won Mrs. Taylor a devoted following: irony, humor, artful structuring and stylistic grace. Although not (to me) quite as good as In A Summer Season [BRD 1961], this quiet, very British character study which makes no bid for greatness is sheer delight and should provide entertainment for many feminine patrons of public libraries." Elizabeth Thalman

Library J 93:573 F 1 '68 130w

"The novel, once it has extricated its protagonist from a suffocating little utopia (a Catholic Arts and Crafts model community), becomes one of the subtlest studies of an English family ever written. . . . [Cressida] marries the worldly son (a journalist) of a sweet, cozy, perfect English Mum. Then the fun begins. Every surface so persuasively established thus far begins to crumble, and we realize that we are in the hands of a real novelist, the kind of analytical and unfoolable mind that invented the novel in the first place. England has only one other novelist so perfectly skilled and that is Miss Ivy Compton-Burnett. . . . Both know the human heart as if schooled therein by the Recording Angel." Guy Davenport

Nat R 20:402 Ap '68 330w

Reviewed by Janice Elliott

New Statesman 75:589 My 3 '68 190w

"[This novel] reincarnates the destructive benefactor who savages private lives. Midge Little is one of the most possessive mothers in recent fiction. . . . David dislikes responsibility and has a need for patterns; he is astonished at his impulse to marry Cressida, an 18-year-old waif. His mother, dreading to lose him, subtly blights his marriage by encouraging the girl's fecklessness, fattening her up, cossetting her helplessness and passivity. . . . The novel ends with an honest ambiguity: the couple plan their escape, but the marriage is uncertain. It is a fertile notion, but, unfortunately, Mrs. Taylor doesn't develop it. She procrastinates on plot, and he characters seem to have few resources beyond gardening. . . . Some of Mrs. Taylor's early books seem overly modest; this one is actually insubstantial." Nora Sayre

N Y Times Bk R p40 Mr 31 '68 700w

Reviewed by Robert Granat

Sat R 51:40 Ap 6 '68 400w

TLS p473 My 9 '68 400w

TAYLOR, GORDON RATTRAY. The biological time bomb. 240p $5.50 World pub.

612 Biology—Research. Medicine—Research [68-98003]

"Each section of the book begins with an account of current research in a particular area of biology, continues with an imaginary extrapolation of this research into the future and concludes with the . . . prediction that the consequences for society as we now know it are likely to be disastrous." (TLS) Contents: Where are biologists taking us? Is sex necessary? The modified man; Is death necessary? New minds for old; The genetic engineers; Can we create life? The future, if any. Index.

Reviewed by Judson LaHaye

Best Sell 28:225 S 1 '68 460w

Choice 5:1162 N '68 120w

Christian Century 85:1082 Ag 28 '68 80w

Reviewed by R. C. Cowen

Christian Science Monitor p13 S 26 '68 750w

Economist 227:ix Ap 27 '68 440w

Reviewed by J. J. Taylor

Library J 93:3773 O 15 '68 160w

Reviewed by M. S. Gazzaniga

Nat R 20:913 S 10 '68 1000w

Reviewed by Nigel Calder

New Statesman 75:552 Ap 26 '68 290w

"Added to his command of evidence are unusual gifts for extracting the meaning from highly technical papers and laying it out so any ordinary man can understand what it is all about, for Mr. Taylor has succeeded in reviewing most of the extraordinary biological advances of the last 20 years and compressing them all into [240] very readable pages. . . . There are some matters of emphasis or evaluation and some predictions that may strike the more conservative as going beyond the evidence. . . . [The author] is almost certainly wrong when he [says that] . . . 'today sensitive tests for most . . . [hereditary defects] exist, so marriage counseling is feasible.' . . . Certainly [Mr. Taylor] is wise to emphasize . . . political and economic matters if only because so few other people have had the courage to do so. One may not, however, wish to dismiss the moral issues quite so easily as [he] seems to." R. S. Morison

N Y Times Bk R p3 S 15 '68 1250w

"[Mr. Taylor] inclines to simplify in the interest of the lively tag of dramatic sequence. . . . Almost nothing is included of the mathematics that underlie recent advances in biology and biochemistry. . . . Lacking their mathematical base and sophisticated statistical forms, many of the developments on which Mr. Taylor reports seem wilder or more eccentric to rational and, indeed, aesthetic criteria and expectations than they actually are. . . . But one must cite against these drawbacks the unfailing excitement of [this book], its readiness to tackle and argue difficult concepts, its fine selection of crucial topics, and the sheer intelligent hard work that informs Mr. Taylor's reconnaissance. There is scarcely a page that does not make complacency stumble and the mind look around as in an altered landscape." George Steiner

New Yorker 44:237 N 16 '68 3100w

"The parts of the book which describe current biological research, although frequently inaccurate in detail, none the less show that [Mr. Taylor] has a great talent for the popular exposition of scientific work. . . . But if [his] real motive in writing this book is, as he asserts, to promote serious and informed discussion about the social and ethical issues raised by biological research, he does his case no good by confusing fact with fancy and by treating both as if they were equally plausible and, given time, equally probable. . . . Life has not been created in the test-tube, or anything like it. . . . [Society cannot] decide what a man may discover, but . . . there is not the slightest chance of any biological discovery being applied to society as a whole unless society wants it to be applied. . . . It is therefore of crucial importance that when public decisions about scientific matters are made, they should be made against a background of public opinion which is as well informed and as calm as is possible. To achieve this kind of public opinion is no easy task; and Mr. Taylor's book is no help."

TAYLOR, G. R.—Continued

TLS p411 Ap 25 '68 2350w

TAYLOR, JOHN. It's a small, medium and outside world. 132p il $4.50 World pub.

391 Fashion. Humor. Costume 67-25455

"The editor of 'Tailor and Cutter' magazine, London . . . discusses the vagaries of fashion, men's and women's clothing as it has developed over the last century and a half." (Best Sell)

"[The author has a] thesis that, so long as Britain remained the far-flung empire with self-imposed responsibilities world-wide, the British fashions were sober and highly respectable, whatever the moral practices of Victorian individuals might have been. . . . [Now that] Britain has lost its colonial responsibilities, it has taken on the task of fashion arbiter. For more than merely those who might be interested in trends of fads in clothing, here are some thoughtful and often witty lucubrations."

Best Sell 27:260 O 1 '67 180w

"[The author] explores with considerable gusto, occasional wit and some bad puns . . . facets of male and female fashion from 1800 to the present. Along the way Taylor leaps nimbly from topic to topic, sniffing out odd facts, undressing some curious beliefs regarding fashion and adding his opinions on everything from sex . . . to the mortifying way American men dress." John Willig

N Y Times Bk R p59 D 10 '67 650w

TAYLOR, JOHN RUSSELL. The rise and fall of the well-made play. 175p $5.75 Hill & Wang
822 English drama—History and criticism 67-25684

The author, film critic of The Times (London) presents a survey of the English theatre in which he maintains that serious, well-constructed plays thrive during periods of fixed social convention. In this study he examines "the principal exponents of the well-made plays: Jones, Pinero, Tom Robertson, and also studies their dramas. In addition he . . . traces the forces that led to this development in drama and the trends away from it to the present—from Shaw and Granville-Barker to Coward and Rattigan. A selected bibliography of the dramatists under examination is appended." (Library J)

"A perceptive, stimulating, and germinal study of an area and of playwrights generally neglected in recent years; indeed, no survey really comparable presently exists. Taylor's remarks on Jones, Pinero, and Rattigan alone open vistas for development. Actually, the only fault is brevity; one wishes for 400 to 500 pages. Highly recommended for all libraries."

Choice 5:75 Mr '68 180w

"Specialists in the field will value Mr. Taylor's well-summarized treatment." Paul Myers
Library J 92:4024 N 1 '67 120w

Reviewed by Philip French

New Statesman 75:182 F 9 '68 1450w

"The book defines the methods of French master-carpenters Scribe and Sardou. . . . It presents such English apostles as Pinero and Henry Arthur Jones—then proves its point in earnest with examples from Galsworthy, Maugham, Lonsdale, Coward and Rattigan. . . . All of [these dramatists], were showmen who earned their royalties—and the basics of their technique are still used by the successful playwrights of the 1960's. Taylor, a witty and engaging writer . . . has chapter and verse to show that even Pinero is indebted to Pinero, if only by osmosis."

N Y Times Bk R p18 Ja 7 '68 220w

"Based on a wide reading of the (mainly forgotten) texts. . . . Very useful for reference purposes. Chapters on separate playwrights contain thumbnail biographies, relating them to the theatre of their time and covering most of their output. . . . [The author's] idea is well worth developing, but it is not developed here. . . . [His] difficulty is that his theme is inseparably bound up with social values which, as a critic of the 'pure entertainment' school, he regards as none of his business. Nor is he ready to go into detail about craftsmanship. He offers no definition of the well-made play; and in discussing texts, his method is to give a plot synopsis at length, and then drop in a few relaxed comments afterwards. So far as they go, these are usually just; but they seem to be delivered off the cuff, and they do no more than underprop received ideas—that the Scribean well-made play depended on elaborate plot; that Tom Robertson gave the form an injection of modest realism; that Noël Coward pared plot down to the minimum."

TLS p1211 D 14 '67 650w

TEALE, EDWIN WAY. The bees; adapted from Edwin Way Teale's material; phot. by Wilhelm Rebhuhn; il. by Robert Borja, new ed 63p $3.95 Childrens press

595.7 Bees—Juvenile literature 67-26470

"Microphotographs in color, with compact accompanying texts, tell the story of the honeybees—the ancient superstitions surrounding them, modern discoveries about their methods of communication, the work of the hive, the life cycle of the worker bee and the creation of the queen." (N Y Times Bk R) Bibliography. Index. "Grades five to six." (Library J)

"The predominant feature of this book is the many large detailed color photographs of honeybees. The text is adequate, without adding anything new to previous books on the subject. . . . Arrangement is logical and clear and the format is uncluttered." Dorothy English

Library J 93:296 Ja 15 '68 60w

Reviewed by Paul Walker

N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p57 N 5 '67 90w

TEIKA, SADAIE. See Fujiwara, T.

TEILHARD DE CHARDIN, PIERRE. Letters to two friends, 1926-1952. 236p $6.95 New Am. lib.

B or 92 Christianity—Philosophy 68-14357

A "collection of letters by the . . . French scientist-priest . . . [to two scientists] of an entirely different religion. . . . [These are] not entire letters, but selected passages dealing with Teilhard's daily life and the development of his thought . . . from 1926 to 1952." (Library J) Translated from the French.

"As [this book shows] Teilhard believed he was the prophet of a new religion, meta-Christianity. . . . [Yet] one must speak of [him] in a Catholic context although he admits that he only remained in the Church 'to graft a new faith on the old stem.' He states this in most of his Letters, and the frequency of the statement increased with age. This leitmotiv disturbs not only Christians like Jacques Maritain, . . . but many agnostic scientists too, like Sir Peter Medawar, Raymond Dart or Jean Rostand. . . . [However,] in the Letters, more than in the lyrical and exalted semi-prose of his books, the reader meets, between his brevity and his instruments, a gentle, charitable man, modest and humble, curious about everything." Thomas Molnar

Book World p3 Mr 10 '68 260w

"Here [the author] is not so much the Roman Catholic theologian or the scientist as the true humanist chatting with friends. . . . We find many fascinating perspectives on [his] life, his disagreements with superiors and the support he found from fellow Jesuits, his unfruitful efforts to publish the Phenomenon and Divine Milieu, his scientific work and travels. But most of all we see Teilhard as a human devoted to the building of this earth. Regrettably this very important collection, like all his other works thus far published, is crippled by repeated deletions of names and whole paragraphs. How serious this crippling is we do not know. Its arbitrariness and extent are a matter of concern for anyone interested in a serious study of Teilhard and his thought." R. T. Francœur
Commonweal 88:116 Ap 10 '68 260w

"[The author] often finds himself trying to explain his delicate position with regard to Rome as well as trying to keep the overzealous from jeopardizing his possibilities. But Teilhard was never one to look backward. His correspondence is always filled with spirit and hope in the future. . . . He saw a new spirit at work in the world and every letter he wrote contained his own new insights. . . . Highly recommended for interested readers. . . . Richard Walz

Library J 93:85 Ja 1 '68 200w

"Happily, these two friends served as catalysts to evoke a statement of [the author's] philosophy unencumbered by the jargon of his more formal writings. The letters are human, revealing not only his misgivings but humor even in periods of despondency. Delightful trivia about his extensive travels and impressions of the people he met also lighten the heavier passages. The correspondence amounts to an informal journal of the progress of Teilhard's intellectual life." J. B. Pritchard
Sat R 51:38 Ap 20 '68 550w

TEILHARD DE CHARDIN, PIERRE. Writings in time of war; tr. by René Hague. 315p $5.95 Harper

201 Philosophy 68-17597

The letters which the French Jesuit anthropologist-philosopher "wrote during World War I were published as The Making of a Mind [BRD 1965]. These letters . . . [refer to] a number of essays which he wrote during brief rest periods from his work as a stretcher-bearer. The essays he mentioned are presented here exactly as they appear in his manuscripts together with brief introductions and notes. They deal with such problems as pantheism, cosmic unity and multiplicity, the role of Christ in the cosmos." (Library J) Index.

"[Teilhard] was very much a man of his time and place, and his attempt to find and sustain 'the joy of battle' and to see a 'release of spiritual energy' in the war reveals the least lovely side of a complex man."

Christian Century 85:969 Jl 31 '68 70w
Commonweal 89:258 N 15 '68 20w

"Though it is evident in these essays that his ideas had not fully matured, [Teilhard] reveals an astonishing fecundity of thought and an ability to bring new insights to bear on many aspects of philosophy and theology. The general reader will probably be more interested in his letters and the later works, but these essays will delight serious students and will be an important aid to scholars in interpreting his later writings." W. C. Heiser

Library J 93:2661 Jl '68 190w

"Subsequently Teilhard said of these papers that they contained nothing that he had not said more clearly at a later date. This is true, and their interest is therefore mainly biographical. That interest is, however, great, and for two reasons. The first is, that almost the whole of Teilhard's thought is here in embryo. . . . The second reason for the biographical interest of these essays is their passionate, poetic quality. This quality was never, indeed, to desert Teilhard's writings. . . . but it was never so marked as in these early essays, which have a lyrical as well as a scientific ring about them. Of the twenty essays which appeared in the French original (Ecrits du temps de la guerre) only thirteen are here reproduced, as the other seven have already been published, or are about to be published, in other English works. . . . Hague's translation leaves nothing to be desired."

TLS p851 Ag 8 '68 600w

TEMKIN, OWSEI, ed. Ancient medicine. See Edelstein, L.

TERRES, JOHN K. Flashing wings: the drama of bird flight; il. by Robert Hines. 177p $4.95 Doubleday

598 Birds. Flight 67-19083

The author's "experience in training and observing the Princess, a peregrine falcon, is the focal point of this book. He describes the principles involved in bird flight and illustrates these with different birds such as the albatross, hawk, and hummingbird. In addition, his book contains observations he has made during a . . . career in conservation." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

"[The] former editor of Audubon Magazine needs no introduction to readers of nature writing. In this pleasant volume he describes in nontechnical language the principles and wonders of bird flight. . . . The book, enhanced by the woodcuts of Robert Hines, is recommended for general collections." William Newman

Library J 93:1646 Ap 15 '68 100w

Reviewed by Regina Minudri
Library J 93:2553 Je 15 '68 100w [YA]

Reviewed by Brooks Atkinson
N Y Times Bk R p27 Je 9 '68 100w

TERRY, WALTER. The ballet companion: a popular guide for the ballet-goer; il. with drawings by Mel Juan and photographs. 236p $5.95 Dodd

792.8 Ballet—Handbooks, manuals, etc. 67-26148

The author of The Dance in America (BRD 1956) discusses ballet as a technique, as a company of dancers and as a production. He describes the development of ballet and the relation of the choreographer's art to other dance forms, such as folk dance. Discussions of ballet music, décor, costumes and training are also included. Glossary. Index.

"This book is uneven in quality and usefulness. . . . [The] first chapter . . . is an excellent introduction for a layman interested in understanding the development and aesthetic of this performing art. Terry's idea of devoting successive chapters to the special artists who contribute to a total ballet production appears to work out better in theory than in practice. The trouble seems to be that ballet cannot be pictured in categories. . . . As a result of his arrangement, Terry's book becomes too repetitious for reading enjoyment and too scattered to serve usefully as a reference. . . . Sound advice is found in the chapter on dance education, and material on the organization of a ballet company is clear and helpful. Many charming pictures from the dance collection of the N.Y.P.L.; undistinguished glossary."

Choice 5:612 Jl '68 190w

"Terry, well-known dance critic, has written several books, but this one impresses me as his best. . . . His breezy and informal style conveys his enthusiasm for ballet. . . . His book will probably be read with greater attention and interest than many more scholarly works. Newcomers of all ages to the art of the dance will get a good basic orientation here. A good choice for large and small libraries." G. L. Mayer

Library J 92:4024 N 1 '67 120w

Reviewed by Janet Strothman

Library J 93:1827 Ap 15 '68 100w [YA]

TEXAS, UNIVERSITY. Humanities Research Center. Catalogue of the Browning collection; comp. by Warner Barnes. 120p $7.50 The center
012 Browning, Elizabeth (Barrett)—Bibliography. Browning, Robert—Bibliography 66-63479

"A chronological listing of the manuscripts, letters, and editions of works by Robert and Elizabeth Browning in the collection at Texas. . . . Number of leaves and size are given for the manuscripts. Letters are identified briefly by a paraphrase or quotation, with the approximate format and the number of pages. Editions of works contain an abbreviated form of the title and publisher's imprint, together with a note on the kind of paper, the color of endpapers, and the type of cloth binding." (Choice) Index.

"[This] is the best gathering of primary research material on Elizabeth Browning in this country, but the material on Robert Browning is inferior to the holdings in the Armstrong Browning Library of Baylor University. . . . Has limited use as an addendum to Robert Browning: A Bibliography, 1830-1850, edited by [L. N.] Broughton and others [BRD 1954], or to the specialist, but has little value to the undergraduate college library."

Choice 5:466 Je '68 200w

"[A] useful catalogue of UT's impressive collection. . . . Since this is not a bibliography, Mr. Barnes is in general economical of physical description . . . but he is carefully full where variants or peculiarities have been noted. Moreover he has included for good measure, suitably symbolized, 'unreported variants' at the extensive Armstrong Browning Library of Baylor University, Waco, Texas, and even 'variants not observed, but reported by Mr. John Carter' in his prentice work Binding Variants [in English Publishing]. . . . The most valuable component of this catalogue, however, is the list of manuscript material; especially the unpublished letters, with notes of their content and generous quotation: twenty-five of Elizabeth Barrett Browning, and almost 200 of Browning, including sixty-one to the sculptor Gustav Natrop, who seems to have been a frequent correspondent during the 1880s."

TEXAS. UNIVERSITY—Continued

TLS p512 My 16 '68 460w

Reviewed by Robert Langbaum
Yale R 57:303 D '67 600w

TEXTOR, ROBERT B., comp. A cross-cultural summary. vp $29.50 Human relations; for sale by Taplinger

572 Ethnology 67-18560

This "largely computer produced volume 'draws together . . . material from the entire corpus of available cross-cultural codings' (pre-1964), and through application of the Pattern Search and Table Translation Technique (the basic computer technique used), presents print-outs which statistically summarize 'the most salient, strategically promising conclusions or propositions about cross-cultural phenomena that can be reached by the sharing of codings and for which there is at least prima facie statistical support' (Introduction). Specifically, the Summary contains some 20,000 correlations derived from 400 sample cultures (drawn from [G. P.] Murdock's Ethnographic Atlas, 1967) and 536 finished characteristics (e.g. class stratifications; family organization; natural environment)." (Choice)

"Designed to facilitate cross-cultural research (both in developing and testing hypotheses) by cultural anthropologists and other social scientists, this heavy (over six pounds), thick (the spine measures 4" in width), [volume] . . . used properly will be a boon to social science research: it should stimulate both theory building and problem solving; it complements and enhances the monumental Human Relations Area Files; and it should save countless hours of valuable research time. For academic libraries where anthropological research (or social science research of an interdisciplinary nature) is conducted."

Choice 5:455 Je '68 280w

"Each significant association is 'translated' into dichotomous statements or propositions, which are first ordered into paragraphs and then grouped into sections. . . . Rigorously scientific, Mr. Textor relates his work to previous research in cross-cultural inquiry, describes his sample, explains the statistical measures appearing in the print-out, outlines his methodological approach, discusses the coding rules, and lists his bibliography. Experts who have previewed [this volume] seem content in their prediction that Mr. Textor's effort should supply the researcher, scholar, and student with a valued source of 'employment' for years to come." M. B. Cassata

Library J 93:2472 Je 15 '68 150w

THARPE, JAC. Nathaniel Hawthorne: identity and knowledge; with a pref. by Henry T. Moore, 180p $4.95 Southern Ill. univ. press

813 Hawthorne, Nathaniel 67-11702

"Tharpe accepts the importance of the basic scholarship on Hawthorne's seventeenth-century moralistic background, but he emphasizes the more modern concepts of identity and knowledge, which he feels are the central concerns in Hawthorne's fiction. He re-examines the novels and major stories in an attempt to show that the search for defining what man is and the knowledge of life discovered in this search are the more important themes in Hawthorne's fiction." (Va Q R) Bibliography.

"[This book] does little to dispel the widespread opinion that there should be a moratorium on book-length critical studies of Hawthorne. . . . A bibliography (which omits such names as Leslie Fiedler and D. H. Lawrence) is appended, but this is hardly a substitute for orienting one's work in relation to previous scholarship. . . . [Part of Tharpe's] summary is sound but familiar. . . . And part of the discussion is original: Septimius Felton may have been an early work, conceived soon after Fanshawe; . . . Hawthorne may have derived his use of the word 'chameleon' from Wilhelm Meister. Unfortunately none of these random speculations is supported by any evidence. . . . One finishes [the book] wondering if it could not have been condensed into a twenty-page article." R. R. Male

Am Lit 40:239 My '68 500w

"[Tharpe] suggests that Hawthorne's fictional searching led him to see life pessimistically and to consider inaction the only possible human condition. The interpretation is controversial but one that should be read with F. C. Crews' 'The Sins of the Fathers' [BRD 1966] for unusual and stimulating viewpoints on Hawthorne."

Va Q R 44:xxiii winter '68 110w

THAYER, GEORGE. The farther shores of politics; the American political fringe today. 610p $7.95 Simon & Schuster

329 Political parties. Right and left (Political science). U.S.—Politics and government 67-16728

"The author describes the personalities and the programs of groups to the left and right of practical American politics, as well as a few groups, like the Prohibition Party, that do not lend themselves to directional placement. Most of the organizations are small, with a tendency toward fission, and Mr. Thayer explains, when he can, the reasons for splits." (New Yorker) Appendixes: The attorney general's list; Ku Klux Klan organization; The presidential elections, 1860-1964. Index.

Reviewed by E. V. Schneider
Bul Atomic Sci 24:36 N '68 950w
Choice 5:267 Ap '68 200w
Economist 227:50 Je 29 '68 300w

"[Arranged as] racists, the far right, the nationalists, the left revolutionaries, the moderate left, and the independents, [the parties considered] range from Nazi Party to Communist Party. This ground has been covered by other writers in recent times, but the difference here is that Mr. Thayer, a political writer and researcher, spent a year visiting with leaders of the minor groups. His observations, although not deep, do offer some enlightening interpretations on how the splinter groups survive and thrive. . . . Neither conservatives nor liberals should be offended by Mr. Thayer's fair treatment. This volume would be most useful in public libraries with a demand for books on political extremism." Marco Thorne

Library J 92:2588 Jl '67 170w

"The book is a compendium of the gambits and distortions which plague popular 'exposé,' political writing. Because of its sheer size and scope, and its author's lack of basic familiarity with his subject, its treatment of political minorities is, in part at least, unconsciously parodic. . . . Mr. Thayer has organized [his] material in a neat structure, but formal organization by itself cannot redeem its lack of organic unity. . . . Thayer's book might still be useful if he could only have gotten his facts straight. But the book—especially its treatment of the Left—is rife with errors. . . . Nor are Thayer's inferences, characterizations and conclusions any more rewarding." F. J. Donner

Nation 206:349 Mr 11 '68 2800w

"[This] is a first-rate reporting job. Mr. Thayer has a good eye and a good ear, and his firsthand observations, along with some solid research, have produced a highly readable and even entertaining book, which begins, suitably enough, with George Lincoln Rockwell. . . . It is too bad, though, that Mr. Thayer does not offer a more satisfying analysis of the significance of American extremism."

N Y Times Bk R p12 Mr 10 '68 200w

"Mr. Thayer himself reminds us of the immense woodpile of splinter parties in American history, some of which provided useful ideas. The work is a commendable achievement; though Mr. Thayer's subjects will probably not appreciate his balance, his other readers certainly will."

New Yorker 43:65 D 30 '67 150w
TLS p674 Je 27 '68 1000w

THAYER, JANE. The cat that joined the club; pictures by Seymour Fleishman. unp $3.25; lib bdg $3.14 Morrow

Cats—Stories 67-5174

"Casey, an independent cat with a gourmet's taste in food, deserts the Nelsons who have given him a home and hangs out at the back door of an exclusive dining club, where the scraps consist of lobster, crabmeat salad, and other delectable morsels. When the club closes at the end of the summer, Casey reluctantly returns to his home, only to find that the Nelsons have moved. A diet of mice and garbage-can scraps is too dreary for his educated palate, and Casey starts off to find his neglected owners. . . . Kindergarten to grade two." (Library J)

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin
Book World p14 Ja 14 '68 90w
Horn Bk 43:586 O '67 110w

"A minimal story, but text and illustrations effectively and humorously capture the personality of the independent cat." B. M. Adam
Library J 92:4607 D 15 '67 90w

Reviewed by Richard Lockridge
N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p6 N 11 '67 70w
"A slight but amiable story, pleasant to read because of the lightly humorous style." Zena Sutherland
Sat R 50:40 N 11 '67 90w
TLS p587 Je 6 '68 40w

THEIS, PAUL A., ed. Who's who in American politics, 1967-1968. See Who's who in American politics, 1967-1968

THELEN, HERBERT A. Classroom grouping for teachability [by] Herbert A. Thelen, with the assistance of: Henry Peterson [and others]. 274p $7.50 Wiley

371.2 Students. Teachers. Teaching 66-28763
An account of "research investigation of classroom grouping for 'compatibility' and effectiveness in achieving educational objectives. Subjects were 50 high school sophomores and 13 teachers at the University of Chicago Laboratory School. Thelen presented his findings at the 1964 conference in Hamburg, Germany, sponsored by the UNESCO institute. . . . Topics are student attitudes, design of the study, teachers' judgments, selection of students for individual teachers, 'cohesiveness' or morale of classes, teachers' styles, evaluation of results, factor analysis of changes, and summary of the study." (Choice) Index.

"Heavy reading sparked with humor. Important book for researchers, administrators, and theorists. The first chapter, placing the experiment in the context of societal and educational events of the last 30 years, is most valuable for the general reader. The last chapter offers some practical ways to start teachability grouping in schools."

Choice 4:1295 Ja '68 160w

"[Thelen] and his associates [have] produced a great deal of relevant information bearing on the influence of teacher-pupil compatibility and its implications for grouping. . . . Despite the focus on young adolescents, the reader will find that the conclusions reached also have a direct bearing on education programs designed for elementary-school children. What was concluded . . . [is] that a given instructor does a better job with some students than with others and vice versa. In Thelen's words, the interplay of particular personalities in a group has . . . a great deal of influence over the nature and productivity of classroom experience. . . . The teachability-grouping concept, while clearly understandable in principle, emerges as an approach demanding consummate professional skill and teacher motivation." H. G. Shane

Harvard Ed R 37:683 fall '67 800w

THEMERSON, STEFAN. Tom Harris. 291p $5.95 Knopf

68-12672

In this novel, "an anonymous narrator dedicates himself to an attempt to vindicate, and at the same time discover, the essential Tom Harris. Harris depending on the character's viewpoint, is mysterious, threatening, or simple. After beginning life as one of the London poor (first a barber, then a waiter in a Chinese restaurant), he is plucked from poverty by an eccentric knight. Falsely (?) accused of the knight's murder and imprisoned, he lends a crucial fifty pounds to an Italian inventor and entrepreneur who gratefully sets him up in Milan. The last part of the novel consists of three attempts on the part of the narrator to reconstruct what Harris's account of his life might have read like." (TLS)

Reviewed by Phoebe Adams
Atlantic 221:114 My '68 110w

Reviewed by J. A. Phillips
Best Sell 28:31 Ap 15 '68 850w

"This book is not only a mystery and an entertainment—it is a fascinating puzzle. By the end—if it can be said to have an end since the narrative leads straight back into the beginning again—the reader feels that he has all the clues in his hand. Its cockney hero is a natural philosopher, a man who would rather think than act and whose stream of consciousness can be earthy. He is obsessed with, among other things, a theory about appearances. . . . Somewhere in his theory must lie the clue to whether a murder was really committed. . . . And somewhere in Mr. Themerson's writing lies his ability to keep us reading. . . . and demanding that our friends join us." P. M.
Christian Science Monitor p12 Ap 25 '68 260w

Reviewed by T. J. Pedley
Library J 93:1654 Ap 15 '68 160w

"The book's final 160 pages razz charmingly that exhausted type of postwar British novel that depicts the 'angry young man's' laborious rise in society. The best part of the joke is that Tom Harris is not especially ambitious, not especially bitter, and never angry. . . . And yet, at the book's close, we do know. . . . Tom Harris somewhat. . . . [The book] possesses the multiplicity of so much 'new' fiction, especially that being written in France by Michel Butor and Alain Robbe-Grillet. . . . The architectural beauty and the esthetic rigor of Robbe-Grillet are not to be found in Themerson's book, but there is something there that makes up for these lacks: an absolutely elegant sense of humor. . . . Themerson's mastery of English is astonishing (he is Polish by birth)." Albert Goldman

N Y Times Bk R p49 My 26 '68 750w

"At heart this is a straightforward but pointless story laboriously disguised as a nouvelle vague mystery in modish search of its hero." TLS p543 Je 15 '67 140w

THEOBALD, ROBERT, ed. Social policies for America in the seventies: nine divergent views. 216p $5.95 Doubleday

301.2 U.S.—Social policy 67-19804

"This book is concerned with the possible alterations in our economic and social values and systems as we enter a world that is being fundamentally altered by the impact of science and technology. The topics covered, therefore, range from economics to education, from job patterns to income distribution, from the concerns of the overdeveloped countries to the problems of the growing income gap between the rich and the poor countries of the world." (Pref)

"The authors' approaches overlap and tend to be in conflict. While many of the authors are economists or present proposals with respect to economic policy, it is clear that what is good for the economy is not necessarily good for people. . . . While some of the articles are quite technical, they are understandable to the student with some background. It is a convenient, valuable package documenting notions on complex normative issues which frustrate empirical approaches. The articles are footnoted."

Choice 5:1380 D '68 120w

"This is a continuation of socio-economist [Mr. Theobald's] last book, The Guaranteed Income (BRD 1966). . . . Each expert presents a distinct solution; all nine views, when taken as a whole, blend together and present solutions to various segments of the same problem. . . . I found all the articles interesting. . . . Those by John Holt, Louis Kelso, and Helmut Weyman were of particular interest. . . . Highly recommended for general and informed readers, and for special collections." R. W. Haseltine
Library J 93:70 Ja 1 '68 270w

Reviewed by C. C. Bursk
Sat R 51:81 Ja 13 '68 20w

THEROUX, PAUL. Fong and the Indians. 199p $4.95 Houghton

68-23030

In this novel, set in a newly independent East African nation, the "hero is Sam Fong, a blissfully innocent Chinese Catholic carpenter turned unwilling grocer, scraping a miserable living for his family. Fleeced by the wily Indian Fakhru, worried by the Communist Mr. Chen, and bewildered by the two . . . United States A.I.D. officials, Fong's . . . only hope is that the Nairobi milk train will be wrecked." (Library J)

THEROUX, PAUL—Continued

Reviewed by Phoebe Adams
Atlantic 222:134 S '68 30w

"The situations in [this novel] are outrageous. So are most of the characters. But they manage at the same time to be outrageously funny, with a funniness that comes so close to the frequent tragedy of the human condition that this reader found himself wincing. . . . Theroux's East Africans and East African Asians will probably cause offense to the more sensitive inhabitants of the territories about which he writes. But his Americans are just as ruthlessly drawn. . . . Within these shrewd caricatures, Mr. Theroux runs many a sensitive thread. . . . These are the touches which, save [him] from being unmitigatingly cruel." Geoffrey Godsell

Christian Science Monitor p13 S 5 '68 500w

Reviewed by Harold Lancour
Library J 93:3531 O 1 '68 160w

"It is difficult to read a contemporary novel about Africa without comparing it with the African novels of Joyce Cary. The comparison is nearly always unfair—and, in [this] case, . . . particularly so, since this is a satire and not a novel of character. . . . [It] is a pleasant enough book. . . . It makes its points well. Its characters are properly paranoid . . . even though they are not too urgent about it. In fact, much of the novel's pleasantness arises from an odd lack of urgency, an absence of bite. . . . The novel's conclusion, in which all the characters get what is assumed they deserve, is somewhat maddeningly ironic. . . . But what the book lacks most is a sense of menace. . . . The trouble may be that Theroux, like nearly every white novelist since Cary, cannot write about Africa without turning it into the stage set for an operetta." Sally Kempton

N Y Times Bk R p50 N 3 '68 600w

"Theroux has written a small masterpiece that . . . cuts so close to the bone of truth that anyone familiar with the 'developing nations' must regard it as selective and hilarious reportage. . . . The intricate story is . . . brilliantly constructed. . . . There is no flagging of interest from beginning to end. The wildly assorted personae move in and out, figures in an absurd dance of rapacity, racism, and misconception. All are equally preposterous—and fully believable: Africans, Asians, whites, cheating, despising, mistrusting one another. . . . The ironic paradoxes are superbly developed. . . . With a smile Theroux lays bare the myopic self-serving not of Africa but of man. . . . [This] should be widely read and discussed." Constance Wagner

Sat R 51:41 S 28 '68 500w

Time 92:68 Ag 23 '68 230w

THETFORD, OWEN. Aircraft of the Royal Air Force since 1918. 4th rev ed 611p il $17.50 Funk

629.133 Great Britain. Royal Air Force. Airplanes, Military. Airplanes—Models 68-18168

"Treatments, with photographs and three-view drawings, of all the new aircraft which have recently or will shortly enter service with the RAF, together with a complete re-editing of the earlier text to incorporate . . . research findings on the operational or manufacturing histories of RAF aircraft which have come to light in the last five years. In addition, many hitherto unpublished photographs and improved drawings supersede those which appeared in earlier editions." (Publisher's note) Index.

"Perhaps it is time to ask whether the traditional format [of this volume] is any longer adequate. All the facts are there, range, speed, dates, numbers manufactured, but the background the reader is left to fill in for himself. . . . Anyone thumbing through to refresh their memory about what happened in the early 1960s when bomber orders were being reshuffled between the Avro Vulcan and the Handley Page Victor, because the former could carry the American Skybolt missile and the latter could not, will thumb in vain. Of cut-backs in orders and similar upheavals, there is not so much as a whisper. . . . [This book does not] give a fair picture of what was until recently the third most powerful air force in the world. . . . The RAF deserves better."

Economist 227:51 Ap 6 '68 150w

"The reviewer agrees with Owen Thetford that this book 'is virtually an encyclopedia of aircraft which have served with the Royal Air Force since its formation on 1 April 1918 to the present day.' Mr. Thetford not only gives technical data for each aircraft, but also the origins of the design, technical and operational history, and squadron allocations. Historians and aviation buffs will be delighted to find information on the numbers built of each aircraft and the interrelationships of certain design elements where pertinent. The book is extremely well illustrated with 512 photographs and precise three-view line drawings which make design comparison easier. Appendixes cover civil aircraft taken over by the RAF, gliders, and missiles. For large and medium-sized reference collections." A. S. Birkos

Library J 93:1614 Ap 15 '68 130w

THEWLIS, J., ed. Encyclopaedic dictionary of physics. 9v See Encyclopaedic dictionary of physics

THIELE, MARGARET R. None but the nightingale; an introduction to Chinese literature. 159p il $5 Tuttle

895.1 Chinese literature 67-20950

The author attempts to present "the wit and wisdom of [the Chinese people as] . . . revealed in their stories, anecdotes, essays, and poems [offering] a close-up view of the educational system, home life, and government of old China . . . with personal glimpses of some of the great—the emperors bathing in the crystal pools, Lao Tzu in his library, and Confucius in his fur-lined underwear. The translated works presented here have been . . . selected by the author from those which seemed to be favorites with the numerous groups before whom she has lectured." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

"Readable, condensed, entertaining. Neither a book for scholars nor a scholarly presentation, but one competently done for the general interested reader. Unique in approach . . . the text is enlivened by interspersed, well selected translations from literary classics. . . . In no sense supplants Giles, History of Chinese Literature or Legge, The Chinese Classics but quotes extensively from both and makes ancient Chinese literature seem relevant to today."

Choice 5:633 Jl '68 170w

"The author does supply the reader with fairly clear documentation of the sources of her quotations. The notes reveal the catholic taste of Mrs. Thiele's interest in China. The books listed range from fairly obscure works to well known writings by Sinologists. In the index the reader will find not only titles, authors and subjects but also first lines of some of the quoted poems. . . . Nevertheless, the book, by any existing standard, cannot be called an introduction to Chinese literature. . . . [Rather, it] falls between the two classical genres of Chinese literature: the sui-pi (a random journal) and shih-hua (casual talks on poetry)." Chun-Jo Liu

Pacific Affairs 41:150 spring '68 280w

THIMANN, KENNETH V., ed. On integration in plants. See Dostál, R.

THIMMESCH, NICK. The condition of Republicanism. 272p $5.95 Norton

329.6 Republican party. U.S.—Politics and government—1961- 67-17638

The "Washington Bureau Chief of Newsday suggests that the GOP 'may have come full circle in that its stress on individualism, the private sector, and the urging to excellence are ideally suited to contemporary national temper and aspiration.' He feels the Republicans have risen above the ideological ruts and internal skirmishes of 1964 to a realization that fresh pragmatic approaches to problem-solving by personable leaders can capture the public's fancy. Much of the book consists of one-chapter profiles of six such personalities: Nixon, Rockefeller, Romney, Percy, Reagan, and Lindsay." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

"Thimmesch has a discerning eye when it comes to portraying Republican leaders. The chapters on Nixon, Rockefeller, Romney, and Lindsay are quite well done; the one on Percy is superb." Godfrey Sperling

Christian Science Monitor p9 J1 20 '68 550w

"The sketch of Nixon is the most appealing, perhaps because the author shows a certain sympathy for the 'the lovable ugly' who deserves respect for his experience, excellence and good mind.' Readers of national news magazines will recognize in this book an amalgamation of weekly articles on party politics. It contains good reporting presented in good journalistic style. Yet, Mr. Thimmesch really does not prove that the Republican candidates are in harmony with popular attitudes. It seems that the Republicans and those who write about them are no better able to define the contemporary national mood than anyone else." H. W. Mott

Library J 93:2507 Je 15 '68 200w

"This study of the Republican Party has the impartial virtues of its indiscriminating defects. Mr. Thimmesch finds something good to say about practically everybody. . . . His own liberal predispositions keep leading him into the paths of political error . . . [and he] winds up making analytical mistakes that could easily be avoided. . . . The author has tried hard to see the Republican Party whole, but the liberal mind-set seems to be more powerful than the best of journalistic intentions." M. S. Evans

Nat R 20:971 S 24 '68 140w

THIRSK, JOAN, ed. The agrarian history of England and Wales, v4. See The agrarian history of England and Wales, v4

THOMAS, A. J. The Dominican Republic crisis, 1965. See Hammarskjöld forum, 9th, New York, May 2, 1966

THOMAS, DYLAN. The notebooks of Dylan Thomas; ed. by Ralph Maud [Eng title: Poet in the making]. 364p $3.50 New directions 821 66-17820

This volume contains some two hundred poems from four manuscript exercise books in which the poet copied them from scrap paper drafts during the years 1930 to 1934. The appendix contains twenty additional poems from other sources. Index.

"[This] is a handsome and painstaking ordering of Thomas' early work. Maud provides an excellent introduction and very full notes. Should be acquired by libraries with collections of Thomas."

Choice 5:1134 N '68 100w

Economist 227:57 Ap 27 '68 400w

Reviewed by Bernard Bergonzi

New Statesman 75:450 Ap 5 '68 800w

"'Notebooks' is a misleading word here; it promises a glimpse into the poet's workshop, a look at half-conceived poems, notes for poems, reflections, etc. What Ralph Maud has given us, however, is a well-edited scholarly edition of Dylan Thomas's copybooks. . . . In them we can see how early the poet arrived at his 'yelling, swinging style,' as R. P. Blackmur once described it. . . . In any case, they show us how early Thomas became a 'serious' poet."

N Y Times Bk R p16 F 25 '68 200w

"Among these pieces are forty or so familiar to readers of the Collected Poems [BRD 1953]. . . . In one sense, what we have here is an oddly limited, semi-variorum edition of these poems, in which only the changes Thomas made in the notebooks are recorded, though the notes do tell us where those poems that were eventually printed appeared. It is thus a sourcebook for scholars and critics, and a useful one. . . . Mr. Maud has done a professionally excellent job. . . . [However I think that] it was a mistake to omit from the body of the texts Thomas's interlinear insertions. . . . Some of the writing is merely adolescent, some has the kick of Thomas's greatest power without quite making it, and some will seem to many to warrant a birth certificate in spite of the decisiveness of the poet's prefatory note in Collected Poems. They are often striking even when the poetry is getting nowhere and being a bit tiresome." M. L. Rosenthal

Sat R 50:24 D 30 '67 1500w

Time 90:82 D 22 '67 550w

TLS p460 My 2 '68 800w

Va Q R 44:1x spring '68 100w

THOMAS, GWYN. A few selected exits: an autobiography of sorts. 239p il $5.95 Little

B or 92

68-30876

"This book spans the years [of the] Welsh playwright, novelist, [and] essayist . . . from the summer of 1931 to the mid-sixties. Thomas describes his school days in a wretched South Wales mining town, his sojourn at Oxford, living in Spain, and his career as school-teacher, then writer and television personality." (Publisher's note)

"[These episodes] are written with wry humor. They have the delightful lilt of a born storyteller which induces one to read slowly, and so savor the beauty of phrase and appreciate the apt aphorism. . . . Recommended for public libraries." R. W. Henderson

Library J 93:4134 N 1 '68 150w

Reviewed by Arthur Marshall

New Statesman 76:546 O 25 '68 310w

"Thomas is brilliantly successful in many passages: a visit to stay with a friend whose brother is mad, a colleague at school who was an Olympic runner, a portrait of Dr. Bropowski. But there is a monotony in his sustaining the role of being Gwyn Thomas the Welsh word-spinner whom one has seen on television conjuring across the air the magic words which will raise a laugh. Where we want a writer giving us entrancement or at least entrances, we are given exits by a performer, anxious never to be boring but sometimes like G. K. Chesterton boring us by his anxiety not to do so."

TLS p1337 N 28 '68 800w

THOMAS, JOHN L., ed. John C. Calhoun: a profile. 228p $5.95 Hill & Wang

B or 92 Calhoun, John Caldwell

68-14785

This collection of essays describes Calhoun's career as "Congressman, Senator, Secretary of War, Secretary of State, political philosopher, as well as Vice President. . . . A dozen writers—Jefferson Davis, William P. Trent, Ralph Gabriel, Margaret Coit, Richard N. Current and others—trace Calhoun's importance as antebellum Southern spokesman and show his influence on American political theory." (N Y Times Bk R) Annotated bibliography.

"[The editor contributes a] biography of Calhoun and an . . . introduction commenting on the well chosen selections, which range in time from 1843-1965. . . . In tone the selections range from extreme admiration (an article of 1887 by Jefferson Davis) to severe criticism (articles by Richard Current, 1943 and Gerald Capers, 1948). Throughout, the emphasis is on Calhoun, the thinker."

Choice 5:1217 N '68 150w

Reviewed by N. K. Burger

N Y Times Bk R p29 J1 23 '68 200w

THOMAS, JOHN L. Looking backward, 2000-1887. See Bellamy, E.

THOMAS, LATELY. Delmonico's; a century of splendor. 374p il $10 Houghton

647 Delmonico's

67-25686

In this history of a New York restaurant the author relates anecdotes about its clientele and describes the cuisine created "by four generations of the Delmonico family in the nine restaurants they conducted in New York between 1827 and 1923." (N Y Times Bk R) Bibliography.

Best Sell 27:327 N 15 '67 120w

"Owing primarily to the lack of Delmonico business records, the book is weak on the economics of catering; and in relating the restaurant to the life of the city, it tends to ramble in search of a good story, however irrelevant. There are no footnotes, and several names are misspelled in the bibliography. Nevertheless, this attractively printed popular account will charm gourmets, nostalgic old New Yorkers, and dilettantes in social history." Robert Ernst

J Am Hist 55:137 Je '68 230w

"Whether one is interested in New York history, the customs and manners of the 19th Century, or the Delmonico family, this is a fascinating book. It is a gay, although not always well-written, account of days that are almost forgotten. The bibliography is imposing although the newspapers and magazines cited do not give complete details. But the interested reader can do a bit of further reference work!"

THOMAS, LATELY—Continued

Libraries will purchase this book for its broad interest and its appeal to all who have a fondness for New York of that era." K. T. Willis
Library J 92:3418 O 1 '67 80w

"This thoroughly researched and charmingly written book begins appropriately with a complete facsimile of the 11-page menu of the first Delmonico restaurant. . . . Mr. Thomas calls this document 'The Magna Carta of American Dining,' since it proves that at a remarkably early date the blending of French high cuisine with abundant American materials was producing an array of sophisticated food and drink as good, or perhaps better, than anything in Europe. . . . His book is a history of the nation's diet, specifically of 'a revolution that transformed the diet of Americans from one of colonial simplicity and provincial limitations to the most copious, varied and flexible in the world.' . . . Thomas garnishes his social history with piquant facts and anecdotes." Roger Butterfield

N Y Times Bk R p7 N 12 '67 1150w

New Yorker 43:244 D 9 '67 180w

Newsweek 72:62B Ja 8 '68 750w

THOMAS, LATELY. The first President Johnson; the three lives of the seventeenth president of the United States of America. 676p pl $12.50 Morrow

B or 92 Johnson, Andrew 68-25487

This biography "concentrates on Johnson the family man and politician. . . . [It traces his rise from tailor in Tennessee to president and] ends with Johnson's election to the Senate and his death in 1875." (Best Sell) Bibliography, Index.

Reviewed by F. C. Brown

Best Sell 28:347 N 15 '68 600w

"Thomas' new, full-scale portrait of Andrew Johnson is by far the fullest and best which has yet been published. Clearly and entertainingly written in a style more given to narrative than to analysis, [it] draws heavily upon the unpublished Andrew Johnson manuscripts in the Library of Congress, to reveal more about the President's personal and family life than has any previous biography. Thomas largely allows his hero to speak for himself, and his account is rich with quotations from Johnson's letters, speeches in Congress and Presidential messages. For all it merits, [the book] fails to make its hero a believable human being. The fault lies less in Thomas than in his sources." David Donald

Book World p17 N 10 '68 550w

"Thomas, in a scholarly yet readable style, presents the facts of Johnson's life. . . . With an impressive knowledge and understanding of the role played by the men around the President, Mr. Thomas leads the reader pleasantly through the intricacies of politics and war. . . . Even though we know the outcome of the impeachment trial, the suspense Mr. Thomas builds up in relating it is one of the high points of the book. The lengthy bibliography will be regarded by many users as a very useful reading list." W. S. Powell

Library J 93:3128 S 15 '68 160w

"[The author] has seriously limited himself by his stated intention to write only the history of 'Andrew Johnson the man,' and not of an Administration or the Reconstruction. Of the 'three lives' of the subtitle—Congressman, war Governor and President—the third alone offers a serious literary challenge. . . . There is little point in a new work which sees the national postwar mood, the radical mentality, the Southern temper or other great forces of a century ago solely through Johnson's uncomprehending eyes. A careful use by the author of some works listed in his bibliography (like . . . Kenneth Stampp's 'The Era of Reconstruction,' [1865-1877, BRD 1965]) would have lifted the book to a level worthy of its central drama." B. A. Weisberger

N Y Times Bk R p20 N 3 '68 1150w

THOMAS, LESLIE. Orange Wednesday. 245p $5.95 Delacorte press

68-10322

Lieutenant Kingdom Brunel Hopkins is "sole guardian of the British Army's Moribund Documents Section in the small West German town of Fulshad. His idyllic life is soon shattered. The American, British, French, German, and Russian leaders agree to the reunification of Germany and propose to sign the treaty without great fanfares. Under the code name of 'Orange Wednesday' the security authorities make the arrangements for the safety of the world leaders who are converging on Fulshad. Because of his local knowledge, Lieutenant Hopkins is caught up in these events despite his lack of interest and enthusiasm. Death and disasters occur to prevent the successful treaty completion and innocent lives are forfeit." (Library J)

"After 43 days of preparation, Thomas has the reader ready for a continuation of the clever dialogue and ingenious situations which make the first part of the book so enjoyable. With one exception in plot, the rest of the book does prove satisfactory. . . . The exception is sex. Not a wholesome man-woman relationship but a prurient, lecherous concoction of unsavory, unpalatable, nauseous sex situations which serve no worthwhile purpose in a mystery book. . . . That Leslie Thomas has the ability to write well is undeniable. That he learn restraint is essential." J. A. Phillips

Best Sell 27:427 F 1 '68 480w

Reviewed by W. J. Smith

Commonweal 88:242 My 10 '68 430w

"Unfortunately, the story as a whole lacks the sparkle and promise of Leslie Thomas's earlier novel of army life, The Virgin Soldiers [BRD 1966]. The anti-military hero, the ruthless security officer, the compliant secretary generous with her favors, the resurgent Nazis, the fanatical Frenchman, the blimpish retired colonel, and the almost innocent maid are stock figures in whom it is difficult to remain interested. There are a few effective, comic moments but not enough to rescue the whole novel." Norman Horrocks

Library J 92:4526 D 15 '67 210w

Reviewed by Stanley Reynolds

New Statesman 74:366 S 22 '67 200w

"It shouldn't take more than a couple of pages of [this book] to convince you that this is a new writer . . . who can, in the absolute, write. . . . You will find that [the author] is highly gifted in comedy, irony, sex, local color, character, dialogue, [and] vivid set-pieces. . . . To some extent this is a send-up of the espionage-intrigue novel, but at the same time it is a valid specimen of the genre at its best." Anthony Boucher

N Y Times Bk R p36 F 18 '68 140w

TLS p934 O 5 '67 380w

THOMAS, LOUIS. Good children don't kill; tr. from the French by Graham Snell. 155p $3.95 Dodd

68-21900

"Three Marseilles youngsters [Michel, Max and Nicole] decide to capitalize on the widely publicized exploits of a gang extorting money for 'protection.' They send off a note, collect 100,000 francs, and terror begins in earnest, for one of the three has a good deal more in mind than innocent fun." (N Y Times Bk R)

Best Sell 28:146 J1 1 '68 60w

Reviewed by M. K. Grant

Library J 93:1923 My 1 '68 100w

Reviewed by A. J. Hubin

N Y Times Bk R p25 Ag 11 '68 80w

"Each separate episode is a lively, finely detailed tableau—of fright, of humor, of young love, of violence—and all the conversation goes rapidly and keeps to the point. The translation is very good."

New Yorker 44:147 Je 8 '68 160w

THOMAS, W. I. On social organization and social personality; selected papers; ed. with an introd. by Morris Janowitz. 311p $7.50; pa $2.95 Univ. of Chicago press

301 Sociology

66-23701

"The organizing principle for presenting the writings of W. I. Thomas in this volume is to encompass the wide range of his work by including both his key concepts and a sampling of his empirical observations and conclusions." (Introd) "The excerpts are mainly selected from . . . The Polish Peasant in Europe and America [BRD 1928]. Other excerpts are from The Unadjusted Girl [BRD 1923], The Unconscious [ed. by E. S. Dummer, BRD 1928], and some articles and studies." (Choice) Bibliography.

"In its totality, the collection synthesizes one of the earliest comprehensive social science theories rooted in empirical observation. Janowitz does the further service of pointing out the imprints Thomas made upon social science—ranging from strategies of research, symbolic interactionism, and social psychiatry to culture and personality, cultural ecology, the analysis of 'modernization,' and systematic theory. To do this, the rapprochement between Thomas' work and that of his contemporaries in the several disciplines—spanning a half-century—is properly assessed." W. R. Rosengren

Am J Soc 73:123 J1 '67 310w

"A carefully edited selection of the writings of a central figure in the 'Chicago School' of sociology. The introduction is an eloquent, profound, and systematic analysis of Thomas the man, his writings and basic works. . . . The selections represent Thomas' main ideas and major themes. . . . Could be used as outside reading for courses in social thought and social psychology for both graduate and undergraduate levels. A must for libraries." Choice 4:1187 D '67 100w

THOMPSON, BLANCHE JENNINGS, ed. All the silver pennies (combining Silver pennies and More silver pennies) decorations by Ursula Arndt. 224p $4.95 Macmillan (N Y)

821.08 Poetry—Collections—Juvenile literature 67-4508

This is a reissue in one volume of two anthologies of modern verse for children, Silver Pennies and More Silver Pennies (BRD 1939). Author Index. Title Index. Index to first lines.

Reviewed by Eve Merriam
Book World pt 2, p26 (children's issue) N 5 '67 80w

"I highly recommend [this volume] to any child who likes poetry, or could be persuaded to listen to some—though the editor's comments are wonderfully dispensable. She has, however, chosen the poems with great care and intelligence, and almost all the great poets from the twenties are represented." Carolyn Heilbrun
N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p59 N 5 '67 80w

"[This volume] brings under one cover more wishy-washy poems than have probably ever been collected before. . . . [It] seems to me a daunting introduction to poetry. [The collection] represents poetry as girlish, trivial, and easy to read. . . . There are seven real poems in [the collection]." Janet Malcolm
New Yorker 43:187 D 16 '67 460w

THOMPSON, E. A. The Visigoths in the time of Ulfila. 174p $4.50 Oxford

909 Teutonic race. Ulfilas, Bp. [66-74452]

The first part of this volume "is an attempt at reconstructing the history and general ethnography of the Visigoths. . . . The second part is a detailed study of particular problems and documents, particularly related to the spread of Christianity among the Visigoths." (Choice) Index.

"A useful book, but not quite of as general interest as its title might imply. . . . Thompson uses both the literary and archaeological sources fully and skillfully. His background in general anthropology and ethnography seems more limited. . . . [The sections of the second part of the book] will be of interest to the scholar working in the Late Roman Empire but are not of general interest." Choice 4:462 Je '67 100w

"[Thompson's book] is mainly a collection of reprinted (and recast) articles. He was right to make a book of them. They hang well together and are united by his unerring sense of purpose. He is interested in the social conditions that lead to political and religious change and not in the heroes that history associates with them. Thus for him the problem of the conversion of the Visigoths to Arianism is not the role of Ulfila (whom he does not see as a missionary) but the changes in Visigothic society that could make conversion feasible. . . . The best part of his book is his sketch of the conditions that between 382 and 395 turned [the pagan] majority into a minority. . . . But the Christianity to which the majority turned happened to be Arianism. Why? . . . How can there be [an answer], if one sets aside the living tradition of Ulfila? Mr. Thompson's baby has gone out with the bathwater. . . . But this book, like everything [Thompson] writes, signposts a way to fruitful thinking." J. M. Wallace-Hadrill
Engl Hist R 83:146 Ja '68 700w

THOMPSON, EDGAR T., ed. Perspectives on the South: agenda for research, sponsored by the Center for Southern studies in the social sciences and the humanities. 231p $8 Duke Univ. press

917.5 Southern States 67-20397

In a "series of papers presented at an interdisciplinary symposium at Duke in 1966 . . . authorities presented proposals for [an] agenda for research on the South. Their papers outline areas of needed research in political science, economics, sociology, history, and literature and are supplemented by critical commentaries by specialists in these disciplines. In addition, invited papers in the areas of anthropology, linguistics, education, and religion are included to round out [the] volume." (Choice) Index.

"[These pieces] by the distinguished elders of southern scholarship are important not merely for their well-informed content but as documents illustrating the inner conflicts of American scholarship during the last third of the twentieth century." R. L. Brandon
J Am Hist 54:901 Mr '68 500w

"For a systematic study of the South and its place in the nation, new relevant questions must be raised if constructive solutions are to be found for its persistent problems. Perspectives on the South does precisely this. . . . An excellent series of papers. . . . An essential book for anyone interested in the South or in the interdisciplinary approach." Choice 5:526 Je '68 130w

THOMPSON, ELIZABETH J., jt. ed. Among the people: encounters with the poor. See Deutscher, I.

THOMPSON, GEORGE SELDEN. See Selden, G.

THOMPSON, J. L. CLOUDSLEY. See Cloudsley-Thompson, J. L.

THOMPSON, JAMES D. Organizations in action; social science bases of administrative theory. 192p $7.95 McGraw

658 Industrial management 67-11564

"The book is a propositional inventory, based on a synthesis of the 'rational model' and 'natural systems' approaches to organizational analysis; its central assumption is that 'complex purposive organizations are natural systems subject to rationality norms.' The exposition revolves around 95 propositions which start from this assumption and progress from the relationship of the organization to its external environment, to administrative processes internal to the organization." (Am Soc R) Bibliography.

Reviewed by Abraham Zaleznik
Am J Soc 73:775 My '68 310w

"[This book] throws down a challenge of significant proportion to students of public administration and government. . . . [It] is a tightly written theoretical essay packed with well ordered formal propositions attempting to capture and extend a goodly portion of the sociological thinking on complex organization. It fairly shouts for empirical testing and its major variables are particularly applicable to the study of large technological-based public organizations. . . . Its major weakness is also one of its moderate strengths. It is uncluttered by ubiquitous references to massive literature, but occasionally needs more persuasive use of them than is apparent. The book's thrust is engaging and its integration of variables in organizational literature is potentially useful in giving us a level of better categories and prediction in understanding the behavior of large complex public organizations." Todd La Porte
Am Pol Sci R 62:246 Mr '68 600w

"There are several notable features of this work. Despite the initial synthesis of the 'rational model' and 'natural systems' approaches, the emphasis is primarily on rationality . . . and this book thus becomes virtually the only modern sociological treatment of organization which systematically treats the formal aspects of administrative structure. . . . This book gives much more attention to environmental and technological factors in organization than is usually the case. . . . An effort is made to give a more specifically sociological structural content to various formulations deriving from the work of Simon, James March, and other similar writers. This effort meets with mixed success. . . . But such problems hardly mar the achievements of this book in synthesizing a variety of theoretical viewpoints and indicating a number of new directions to follow. It could be something of a landmark. One need only add that the style is straightforward and readable." S. H. Udy

THOMPSON, J. D.—Continued

Am Soc R 33:132 F '68 800w

"In the preface to this book the author states that he hopes to generate potentially significant propositions which might enhance our understanding of complex organizations. He does, indeed. But he does much more. While others apparently are so blindly bound to particular, limiting strategies (either closed-system or open-system) whereby organizations may be analyzed. Thompson avoids such provincialism, either in time or in field. He simply backs away from organizations, as it were, views them in the round, and says, in effect, 'Perhaps the framework identified here may be useful.'" J. M. Lipham

Harvard Ed R 38:389 spring '68 1550w

THOMPSON, JOSIAH. The lonely labyrinth; Kierkegaard's pseudonymous works; foreword by George Kinball Plochmann. 242p $8.50 Southern Ill. univ. press

198 Kierkegaard, Søren Aabye 67-10281

The author's thesis "is that the whole of the Kierkegaardian pseudonymous literature is a search not for truth but for health. . . . He has several suggestions as to the identity of Kierkegaard's illness. . . . [which] are pursued not with a psychological but rather with literary analysis." (Choice) Bibliography.

"Thompson's book is the newest endeavor to interpret Kierkegaard purely and simply along the lines of his mental anguish. . . . [His] thesis is not entirely clear because [he] does not give a clear definition of precisely what is meant by health or by sickness in a strictly clinical sense. . . . [However] Thompson's thesis is not surprising when one is acquainted with the rather massive German and Danish material which interprets Kierkegaard along the lines of 'literary psychology.' Thompson is to be complimented for making this unusual interpretation of Kierkegaard available to English readers and for expounding it in such a thorough and stimulating literary fashion."

Choice 4:1394 F '68 170w

"Mr. Thompson interprets the Journals [BRD 1939] and the pseudonymous works in a way which is virtually unique in the English language. His book will interest those who first of all are convinced that Kierkegaard is an irrationalist because Mr. Thompson's theme lends itself to support such a view. The remarkable thing is that this assistant professor of philosophy at Haverford College is able to write numerous pages on Either/Or without mentioning Hegel's aesthetic theory, romanticism, or Kantian ethics. . . . In actual fact probably everything he says is true, but there is more to Kierkegaard than a search for health; there is a philosophical dimension also. For university and large city libraries." R. L. Perkins

Library J 93:557 F 1 '68 160w

THOMPSON, JOSIAH. Six seconds in Dallas; a micro-study of the Kennedy assassination. 323p il $8.95 Geis; for sale by Random house 364.1 Kennedy, John Fitzgerald—Assassination 67-23577

A "professor of philosophy at Haverford College. . . . in the first half of his work. . . . deals with the autopsy and its results, and various available films, photos, documents, depositions, and statements. He follows this with a discussion of purely physical evidence, a reconstruction of the assassination, and a criticism of the Warren Report. [The remaining pages] are appendixes containing several photoreproductions." (Library J)

Reviewed by Oscar Handlin

Atlantic 221:141 F '68 150w

"This debated and debatable book offers a micro-version of a mini-moment of great moment. Largely speculative, Thompson's book adds little to our knowledge about Pres. Kennedy's assassination."

Christian Century 85:52 Ja 10 '68 40w

Reviewed by A. V. Krebs

Commonweal 88:637 S 20 '68 380w

"Thompson has used a new approach in Six Seconds in Dallas. Unlike the many books on President Kennedy's assassination this one is based exclusively on now known and available evidence. . . . Among the many critical works this is one of the few on a really scientific level. It is not easy reading for any but the well educated, though it will be attractive to a wide public because Thompson advances arguments for assassination by three gunmen. His book is suitable for libraries of forensic science and also public libraries." H. H. Bernt

Library J 93:187 Ja 15 '68 150w

Reviewed by F. J. Cook

Nation 206:277 F 26 '68 2250w

"[This] is a padded book—and a picture book, too, with about half the space taken up by illustrations that, to this lay eye, are nowhere near as helpful as the author must have thought they would be. The padding consists of an elaborate rehashing of eyewitness evidence which is in itself not reliable, and becomes no more so when Mr. Thompson assembles it in statistical and then tabular form. But Mr. Thompson has a thesis, around which his book is structured, and which requires an answer that only a fresh investigation could provide. . . . In his analysis of the Zapruder film, and also with respect to a curious dent in one of the cartridge cases found in the Texas School Book Depository Building, Thompson calls attention to aspects of the physical evidence which the Warren Commission ignored, which raise serious, indeed crucial, questions." A. M. Bickel

New Repub 157:34 D 23 '67 1000w

Reviewed by Fred Graham

N Y Times Bk R p16 F 18 '68 800w

"[The author] has gone in far greater detail than any previous student into two special areas of the inquiry: the origin and nature of the shots and the evidence of the bystanders. . . . Basing himself on scientific evidence (set forth with a wealth of mathematical equations in a technical appendix prepared by an expert) he believes that the President was hit by four shots. . . . [I] question his scientifically deduced conclusions about the trajectories of the bullets and the origin of the shots. . . . [a]lthough he] gives the fullest account I have seen of the finding of Bullet 399 and suggests an ingenious alternative to the theory that it was 'planted'; . . . Thompson advances no wide or wild conspiracy hypothesis; he does not seek to involve the F.B.I. or C.I.A." John Sparrow

TLS p1217 D 14 '67 700w

THOMPSON, LAURENCE. The greatest treason; the untold story of Munich. 298p pl maps $7.95 Morrow

940.5 Munich four-power agreement, 1938. World politics 68-14814

The author of 1940 (BRD 1966) "here retells the story of the Czech-Sudeten crisis of 1938 when Hitler exploited grievances of the Sudeten Germans to further his ambitions in Europe." (Library J) Index.

Reviewed by C. L. Hohl

America 119:568 N 30 '68 70w

"This account of the development of the Czech crisis of 1938 draws upon some hitherto unused sources, but contains no startling revelations. Its virtue lies in the clarity of its exposition and in significant shifts of emphasis that replace the black-and-whites of the conventional story with varying shades of gray. Thompson spares no sympathy for Hitler, but finds more validity to the grievances of the Sudeten Germans than was usual in the past. . . . But the main concern of the book is a reassessment of British policy as shaped by Neville Chamberlain." Oscar Handlin

Atlantic 221:132 Mr '68 600w

"Although this tale has been told before, and will undoubtedly be told again, it still will fascinate the reader with its intrigues, mistakes, lies, drama, and high tragedy. The 'untold story' consists of some new material and a few new interpretations. For fresh sources, Mr. Thompson interviewed the survivors, chiefly Sudeten Germans, whose veracity he sometimes overvalues. He is very fair to Chamberlain, . . . and he is very hard on Eduard Benes, the president of Czechoslovakia. He throws fresh light on the attitudes and politics of the French leaders, Edouard Daladier and Georges Bonnet. . . . This book is an important addition to the literature on the Munich Crisis, and it should be in all library collections on recent European history." Keith Eubank

Library J 93:750 F 15 '68 200w

THOMPSON, PAUL D. The virus realm; Helen Hale, editorial consultant; il. by Mary Lybarger. 189p $4.50 Lippincott

576 Viruses

68-10763

This book describes how these microorganisms "exist in the shadows between life and nonlife. . . . [It also discusses virus infections;] describing past and present research in the field, including the ways in which viruses are being put to use by man, now that he has some measure of control over them. Appended to the book are experiments in this area which may be performed by the reader." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

Best Sell 28:174 J1 15 '68 90w

Reviewed by H. C. Stubbs

Horn Bk 44:339 Je '68 90w

"Among the topics covered in this comprehensive book are ways in which the body defends itself, the spread of disease, viruses and cancer. An interesting history of research on viruses is also given. Some of the portions on different types of viruses and methods for making viruses visible are technical enough to require of readers a fairly strong background in science. Some experience in scientific experiments would be needed to do the plant experiments described. . . . Grades ten to twelve." Isadora Kunitz

Library J 93:1817 Ap 15 '68 110w

"This is a book for the reader of high-school age who is intrigued by the microscopic world, and wants to pursue the subject beyond classroom lessons. Less serious students are likely to find it too rough going to be interesting. . . . The author has included an outline of several experiments that the industrious amateur virologist can perform at home unassisted. 'The Virus Realm' would be a good source for adults who feel that advances in biology since completion of their college courses have stranded them in left field." J. B.

N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p18 My 5 '68 220w [YA]

Reviewed by Zena Sutherland

Sat R 51:43 Ag 24 '68 90w

THOMPSON, R. W. Churchill and the Montgomery myth [Eng title: The Montgomery legend]. 276p $5.95 Evans, M; Lippincott

940,542 World War, 1939-1945—Campaigns and battles—Africa. World War, 1939-1945—Biography 68-18714

It is the author's "main argument that in the summer of 1942 Churchill needed a great victory and a great hero for a variety of political and psychological reasons. British Field Marshal Montgomery was ultimately but not originally chosen for the role. Mr. Thompson is . . . critical of Montgomery's handling of the situation and of many of Montgomery's personal traits. . . . [He further] argues that the tide had already turned under General Auchinleck, that the situation in the desert was not desperate, and that Montgomery's battle at El Alamein was really not necessary." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

"This is a further attempt to cut Montgomery down to size, but the tough little man emerges still largely unscathed [despite] Mr Thompson's case, well written and cogently set out. . . . History may well decide that Montgomery was not so good a general as his admirers have claimed—or as he himself in his memoirs implies. But it will certainly decide that he was a very good general—and a great leader of fighting men. His legend will stand a lot of buffeting. But Mr Thompson does a real service in probing those points where it is overstated or wrongly based."

Economist 223:475 Ap 29 '67 330w

"This is a book of historical revisionism. For those who like revisionist histories, especially those who fiercely attack seemingly secure myths, and for those who enjoy military histories, this work will be immensely appealing. . . . [Thompson's] criticisms are quite relentless, but to anyone who has seen the film How I Won the War, or even read War and Peace for that matter, the whole argument has a certain pointlessness. How much control over war do individuals have?" H. J. Steck

Library J 93:2490 Je 15 '68 260w

"Restricted to the period between August, 1942, and December 1943, [this book] forms almost a companion piece and commentary to its subject's first published work El Alamein to the River Sangro [BRD 1949. Thompson's] style is spirited but his approach to the facts is occasionally rather slapdash. . . . [Although] he can be criticized on detail he makes a number of points which, if not new, deserve re-emphasis. . . . [And] he occasionally also lets off a second barrel at Churchill, the 'Yankee Marlborough' as he styled him in the title of an earlier book [BRD 1963]. . . . Those who enjoy a debunking book will find this very satisfactory; but it must be recorded that they will find the same theme more authoritatively deployed in the last two parts of C. Barnett's The Desert Generals [BRD 1961]."

TLS p374 My 4 '67 950w

THOMS, HERBERT. Jared Eliot, minister, doctor, scientist, and his Connecticut. 156p il $6 Shoe String

B or 92 Eliot, Jared

67-12392

A biography of the man who helped develop Yale, and also wrote Essays Upon Field Husbandry in New England in 1760. Bibliography.

"This book might have been better entitled 'Colonial Connecticut and Jared Eliot.' Nearly half of it is concerned with various aspects of the history of the colony. . . . Most of the important early settlers, clerics, and governors receive some attention. . . . The book contains several illustrations of gravestones, houses, and old portraits. The author seems to have relied largely on secondary sources. There is an index. Thoms has given us a good glimpse of early Connecticut, but he has presented too much material and introduced us to too many people in too short a space. Information about Eliot is scattered and is hard to retrieve even with the help of the index. The book is not well organized; it gives the impression of being a series of sketches rather than a unified whole." G. W. Jones

Am Hist R 73:1618 Je '68 310w

Reviewed by E. S. Gaustad

New Eng Q 41:313 Je '68 650w

THOMSON, GEORGE H. The fiction of E. M. Forster. 304p $9.95 Wayne state univ. press

823 Forster, Edward Morgan

67-15892

This "is a critical study of Forster's fiction—the short stories, the Italian romances, The Longest Journey, Howards End [BRD 1911], and A Passage to India [BRD 1924]—read in a symbolical and mythical context. . . . [The author's thesis is that] Forster is a writer of romance rather than novel [and] that symbolism is central to his achievement in the romance form." (Publisher's note) Index.

"In perhaps the best synoptic study of Forster's fiction, Thomson's approach justifiably disregards the customary extrinsic perspectives of moral, social, biographical, historical, and psychological realism. . . . Though he goes too far by overlooking Forster's unique superimposition of romance and realism, his approach nicely charts Forster's developmental use of Greek myth and archetypal patterns. . . . One may balk at the sometimes heavy handed readings of the early fictions. . . . (but Thomson's) approach provides the best reading yet offered of [Passage to India]. . . . Though his use of mystical and Jungian concepts is necessary to his approach, the concepts are not altogether necessary to Thomson's many fine insights and they tend to make ponderous the eminently readable Forster."

Choice 5:962 O '68 230w

Economist 227:xviii Ap 27 '68 430w

"Mr. Thomson can be enlightening on those parts of Forster's work which admit of symbolic or archetypal criticism, but he is obliged to deny most of Forster's qualities and, above all, his ironic, irreverent and reassuring refusal to accept easy comfort."

TLS p335 Ap 4 '68 400w

THOMSON, GEORGE MALCOLM. Vote of censure. 253p pl $6.95 Stein & Day

940,531 Churchill, Sir Winston Leonard Spencer. Great Britain—Politics and government—20th century. World War, 1939-1945—Great Britain 68-19595

The author describes the personal and political pressures preceding and following the parliamentary debate, in July 1942, in which the House of Commons was "invited to declare

THOMSON, G. M.—Continued

Churchill's Government—and above all Churchill himself—incompetent." (p.176) Bibliography. Index.

"Thomson has some interesting, and often critical, comments on Churchill's leadership and on his relations with his wartime associates. Since Beaverbrook was the author's employer, it is quite natural that the newspaper magnate gets most of the attention; indeed, there is as much about Beaverbrook's leadership as there is about Churchill's. The writing is brilliant, partial, and facile. Documentation is most inadequate, generalizations unsupported, and rumors and facts uncritically mixed. Better accounts of the events will be found in Churchill's [Second World War, v4; The Hinge of Fate, BRD 1950], A. J. P. Taylor's English History, 1914-1945 [BRD 1965, 1966], and in the published memoirs of many wartime politicians and soldiers."

Choice 5:1209 N '68 140w

"Mr. Thomson has pinpointed an important problem—politics at home—during a crucial period in Britain's struggle against Germany. Certainly, he demonstrates that Churchill did not dominate public opinion and command adoration as we have been led to think. Like Lincoln, Churchill had his hands full of 'politics as usual.' . . . It is unfortunate that Mr. Thomson's sprightly approach is not equal to the type of book that is needed, the kind of book that only careful professional historians can write properly. This book is too sketchy and unsophisticated to provide even a start. Most libraries can safely ignore it." H. J. Steck

Library J 93:2239 Je 1 '68 200w

"Mr. Thomson does rather more than drive yet another newspaper van along Churchill Avenue. As Lord Beaverbrook's confidential secretary he is well placed for presenting another power figure of the time, that complex press lord who was part evangelist, part ruthless man of action, with his switched-on rages, his sudden charm and his unpredictability. . . . Why did Beaverbrook, Churchill's staunch and valued friend, resign from the Government in that dark February of 1942? . . . [Thomson] believes the reason was a temperamental antipathy to Ernest Bevin, who would not allow Beaverbrook to be the sole dictator of war production. . . . That such a thing could happen in one of the blackest weeks of the war, without any explosion from Churchill, underlines our need to understand far more than we do about the motivation of resignation and revolt."

TLS p455 My 2 '68 330w

THOREAU, HENRY DAVID. The variorum Civil disobedience; annot. and with an introd. by Water Harding. 91p $3.50 Twayne
323.2 Government, Resistance to

66-28155

"The text of Thoreau's famous essay reproduced here is that of the 1866 edition, but the variants from the 1849 text are indicated. Selections from various comments on the work are gathered in a special section." (Am Lit)

"Not the least interesting feature of Mr. Harding's remarks is his indication of the continuing influence of 'Civil Disobedience' on present-day pacifist endeavors." L. D. R.
Am Lit 40:266 My '68 90w

"The term variorum is somewhat misleading when there is no textual problem. But Harding's usual factual thoroughness justifies his entering a very crowded field with his editing of Civil Disobedience: his notes are thorough, often to the point of laboring the obvious. His introduction provides a useful collection of facts concerning Thoreau's incarceration but an unfortunate political bias mars the scholarship. Harding, in fact, provides a pamphlet which perpetuates the conventional misappropriation of Thoreau's remarks to others' diverse political purposes. [The section of] comments by various writers is also useful but narrow. Recommended for upperclassmen and graduates; a necessary book for all Thoreauvians."

Choice 5:628 Jl '68 140w

THORN, RICHARD S., ed. Monetary theory and policy; major contributions to contemporary thought; ed. with introd. by Richard S. Thorn. 672p il text ed $12.95 Random house
332 Money

66-14884

This collection of papers published during the past fifteen years "includes contributions on the neo-quantity theory by Friedman and the asset preference theory by Tobin. The well-known survey articles of Harry Johnson and G. L. S. Shackle are also reprinted. The articles are grouped under the general headings of the demand for money, supply of money, the integration of monetary and value theory, the rate of interest, and monetary policy." (J Pol Econ)

"Though technically a book of readings, Thorn's intention was to present 'a textbook of contemporary monetary thought.' As a result, the book's scope is wider than that of others . . . with respect to coverage of monetary theory and the theoretical aspects of monetary policy. . . . While the book may properly be called a 'textbook of contemporary monetary thought,' it is not a textbook of monetary economics, and basic texts such as Chandler's, Whittlesey's, or Burstein's remain prerequisites for understanding the collection under review. Of greatest value to majors in economics at the upper level and for use in seminars. The choice of articles is excellent and both teacher and student will welcome this handy collection of first-rate essays."

Choice 4:1023 N '67 200w

"This volume contains a collection of modern 'classics' in the field of monetary theory and policy. . . . It surveys in depth the substantial strides that have been made in monetary theory and policy in the postwar period. . . . The editor has provided short introductory essays to each major section of the volume, relating the articles to one another and providing the student with background to the issues discussed."

J Pol Econ 75:907 D '67 150w

THORNE, CHRISTOPHER. The approach of war, 1938-1939. 232p pl maps $5.75 St Martins
940.53 World War, 1939-1945—Causes

67-10649

"The first chapter surveys the European scene and the opportunities before Hitler; examines the motives and meaning of Western policies of 'appeasement'; and reassesses Hitler's intentions, methods and responsibility for the war in the light of recent, sometimes bitter, academic controversy. Events are then traced from the German seizure of Austria to the outbreak of European War, with . . . extracts from diplomatic documents, diaries, eye-witnesses, and the press." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

"This scholarly, well documented work covering the diplomatic activity of the two years preceding World War II is a worthy addition to the series. Thorne has divided his work into separate subjects such as Anschluss, Munich, Prague, Danzig, etc., but for the uninitiated this may prove somewhat confusing, since there is some backtracking. . . . The work [points] out clearly the character, strengths, and weaknesses of the leaders of the various countries. . . . In general, recommended for libraries, but more useful for the advanced student rather than the beginner."

Choice 4:1307 Ja '68 190w

"The present work is one of three volumes of the series [Making of the twentieth century] published to date. One can agree that [it] fulfills the introductory remark to the series that 'each book . . . will provide sufficient narrative and explanation for the newcomer while offering the specialist student source-references and bibliographies. . . . Recommended for all libraries.' Victor Novak

Library J 92:2588 Jl '67 190w

Social Studies 59:140 Mr '68 40w

THORNTON, WELDON. Allusions in Ulysses; an annotated list. 554p $12.50 Univ. of N.C. press

823 Joyce, James—Ulysses

68-14359

Arranged by chapter, and then by page references to both the 1961 and 1934 Modern Library editions, this list "includes only words and phrases which are used as allusions in the sense that they bring a context with them. [Mr. Thornton] does not include difficult or archaic words, slang and foreign phrases, geographical references, references to actual people, or clichés unless they bear an allusion. Nor does he list literary parallels per se. . . . An appendix [contains] the text of three songs alluded to copiously in certain sections of Ulysses." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

"A major piece of erudite identification. . . . [Thornton's] sources, index, and imagination rank this reference above, e.g., [W. Y.] Tindall's work [A Reader's Guide to James Joyce, BRD 1966] (it does not replace but refurbishes and extends)."

Choice 5:30 Mr '68 50w

"Thornton, associate professor of English at the University of North Carolina, has performed a staggering feat of literary scholarship. . . . [He] has aimed at completeness in the areas of literature, philosophy, theology, history, the fine arts, and popular and folk music. In his search he has built on the foundation provided by Stuart Gilbert, Joseph Prescott, William York Tyndall, M.J.C. Hodgart and Mabel Worthington among others. . . . There are helpful cross references. Contexts are explained and amplified, occasionally at considerable length. . . . The index is prepared in such a way that it indexes both the list and the novel itself. Citations in the list are full and numerous. No library with an interest in Joyce can afford to be without this essential reference volume, and the book will be of inestimable help to any reader of Joyce's protean epic." L. W. Griffin

Library J 93:977 Mr 1 '68 260w

"There are things to make Ulysses-lovers think, though not deeply. . . . We are reminded of certain things we may have forgotten, or else have thought unimportant . . . but some things we need to know, and that the commentators have always shied at, such as the exact significance of 'Deshil Holles Pampus' in the 'Oxen of the Sun' episode, are unilluminated here. . . . It is hard, really, to know to whom this book should be recommended. . . . There is no harm in consulting it, but there is no great urgency."

TLS p942 S 5 '68 700w

"If a prize for the most useful book on Joyce to appear in 1968 were to be awarded, Thornton's book would win hands down. . . . 'Allusions' is not the key to 'Ulysses' . . . since it does not help the reader understand the novel, but it is the kind of handbook which students of 'Ulysses' will constantly refer to for factual information. . . . [Thornton] is not complete, nor is he always accurate. . . . A few notes are unnecessary; others are incomplete; . . . some are absurd; . . . some Thornton gave up on too soon. But to note the shortcomings is not to damn the book; the task was monumental and perfection is never attainable in such projects. . . . It is a job well begun."

Va Q R 44:cxiii summer '68 300w

THORWALD, JÜRGEN. Crime and science; the new frontier in criminology; tr. by Richard and Clara Winston. 494p pl $8.95 Harcourt

364.12 Criminal investigation. Crime and criminals—Identification 67-20323

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Reviewed by F. C. Shapiro
Book World p6 F 4 '68 700w

Reviewed by A. V. Crewe
Bul Atomic Sci 24:37 My '68 450w
Choice 5:1233 N '68 170w

Reviewed by C. L. Tefft
Library J 93:316 Ja 15 '68 200w

Reviewed by Margaret Kreig
Sat R 51:35 Mr 2 '68 800w
Sci Am 218:144 Mr '68 200w

THRAPP, DAN L. The conquest of Apacheria. 405p pl maps $6.95 Univ. of Okla. press

973.8 Apache Indians. Indians of North America—Wars 67-15588

In this description of the Indian-white struggle for an "area, including most of Arizona, a large part of New Mexico, and the northern parts of Sonora and Chihuahua, . . . [the author tells how for 200 years the Apache Indians] fought Spaniards and Mexicans before coming in contact with Americans in the mid 1800's. Led by such able leaders as Victoria, Nana, Cibicu, Cochise, and Geronimo, they killed hundreds of settlers, miners, and soldiers before the last of them surrendered in 1888." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by W. T. Hagan
Am Hist R 73:1646 Je '68 400w

"In this volume Thrapp covers, better than anyone else, the last quarter-century of Apache resistance to the whites. He is rather inconsistent in his attitude, sometimes attributing to the Indians inherent qualities of cruelty and fanaticism, at others seeming to hold the whites responsible for the bloodshed. The research appears to have been wide, but not always thorough; the writing generally lively and colorful, but marred by an occasional effort to be too colorful. It should be well received by the general public, yet is scholarly enough to merit inclusion in college libraries."

Choice 4:1314 Ja '68 120w

Reviewed by Gail Boyle

J Am Hist 54:902 Mr '68 300w

"Mr. Thrapp of the editorial staff of the Los Angeles Times has written a good, concise history of an important phase of the opening of the West. Recommended for specialists in the field and for general readers." H. E. Smith

Library J 92:4154 N 15 '67 150w

THUBRON, COLIN. Mirror to Damascus. 226p il maps $7.50 Little

915.691 Damascus

68-11518

"This dip into the life of Damascus is a view partly in the present and partly in the past. [The author], an Englishman, . . . spent several months in Damascus in late 1965 and early 1966. . . . He describes in one chapter the daily life of the Damascene family with whom he stayed, and in the next he is off into Arab history. . . . [He] has filled the history with anecdotes and unusual events. He has traced the old Roman walls of Damascus and found the sites of the Roman gates; he has explored monasteries and churches in the area and the mosques, and he writes . . . of his travels." (Library J) Chronology. Bibliography. Index.

Best Sell 27:419 F 1 '68 210w

"Begun as a history and description, [this account] rapidly became 'personal' as the author notes, carrying him beyond the facade of the monuments and events he describes and recounts to an evocation, beautifully poetic but not romantic, of the humans who have peopled the city. In the process, a cross section of Muslim society is exposed. The moments of grandeur are rarer than the periods of decline but both receive their due. Dramatically emphasized is the point, so central to Syrian and Damascene history, that so often Syria belonged to someone else. This is history made easy, (sometimes too easy) for the general reader."

Choice 5:1352 D '68 130w

"[Thubron] writes primarily for a British audience but Americans will enjoy the book, too. . . . The photographs of Damascus and its environs are excellent. . . . A delightful book for browsing, it is recommended for armchair travelers and for travel collections of public libraries." David Dorman

Library J 93:188 Ja 15 '68 190w

"[The author] describes his book as 'simply a work of love'—and no one could mistake it for anything else. The sincerity of its affection is transparent. But he loves judiciously, sadly chronicling the warts and weaknesses of his mistress alongside her wonders. He comments sharply on the lamentable decline of the city's traditional crafts . . . [and] skimps none of its long record of violence and fanaticism. . . . His narrative [has] one great quality often missing from modern books of travel: its continual reference to the reality of another society and its actual people. His hosts and their relatives and friends emerge as individuals, not as stereotypes. . . . All this provides a pungent counterpoint of personal involvement and adventure to a solid account of the city's present flavour and past development, and the way Mr Thubron has woven these elements together is a lesson for anyone who tries to combine entertainment with instruction."

TLS p1235 D 21 '67 1100w

THUROW, LESTER C., ed. American fiscal policy; experiment for prosperity. 177p $4.95; pa $1.95 Prentice-Hall

351.7 Finance—U.S. 67-18699

Topics "include the principles and objectives of fiscal policy for the 1960's, past and present policy decisions, programs and techniques for growth and full employment, and the problems of restraining inflation. Contributors include the Council of Economic Advisors, A. F. Burns, J. K. Galbraith, James Tobin, Walter Heller." (Choice)

Choice 5:1186 N '68 160w

J Pol Econ 76:1100 O '68 220w

THUROW, L. C.—Continued

"This is a succinct statement of the exciting controversy swirling about the contemporary government fiscal (taxing and spending) policy. Edited by an assistant professor of economics at Harvard . . . [it attempts] to explain how fiscal policies can help in achieving employment growth with relative price stability. . . . Although these readings are easily accessible elsewhere, it is valuable to have them gathered here. Both public and academic libraries will find this a good addition." R. E. Will
Library J 92:2561 J1 '67 140w

THWAITE, ANTHONY. Japan in color. See Beny, R.

TIBULLUS, ALBIUS. The poems of Tibullus; tr. by Constance Carrier; with introd., notes, and glossary by Edward M. Michael. 128p (Ind. univ. Greek and Latin classics) $5.75; pa $1.95 Ind. univ. press

871

68-56109

"The Latin text used for this translation is the Loeb Classical Library edition." (Introd)

"[This] should find a place in all libraries with a literature collection. . . . Especially welcome is the inclusion of the Corpus Tibullianum. The decision to translate Postgate's out-of-date text in the Loeb Library was ill advised. . . . [The] introduction, in curiously stilted English . . . tries to arouse a sense of appreciation for Tibullus as a poet without attempting to remedy the gross ignorance of the modern reader about the social patterns of ancient erotic experience. It may do as much good as harm."

Choice 5:946 O '68 130w

"Meter and rhyme vary from poem to poem. We are offered sometimes no rhyme, sometimes ballad rhyme, rhyming couplets and quatrains. Perhaps because they are closer to the motion of the Latin this reader finds the poems without rhyme more satisfactory. . . . [Some of] Postgate's transpositions . . . are now discredited and his text has been improved upon at many points. Moreover his English version which had its influence clashes with [the translator's] usually careful turn of phrase. The translations are free without being lax. Most additions and changes help rather than impede a poem's course. There will be few excuses for scholars to grumble. . . . Rare lapses in no way detract from an elegant presentation of Tibullus' deceptive ease." M. C. J. Putnam

Class World 62:103 N '68 250w

"These translations should do something towards rescuing [Tibullus] from oblivion. They are fresh, clear and uncomplicated, and move along with ease and assurance. The rhythm chosen, however, is uncomfortably close to the Latin pentameter . . . and after a while the reader is likely to find this troublesome. . . . It was admirable of Constance Carrier to attempt to catch something of the structure, as well as the content, of the original, but the choice of [the] meter . . . was probably a mistake. As for the translation itself, it has many felicities, but suffers from a good deal of padding. . . . This does not detract from the finished product, which is a series of English poems in its own right; but Tibullus himself occasionally drowns in the process." T. M. Robinson

Library J 93:2246 Je 1 '68 180w

TIEDE, TOM. Coward. 383p $5.95 Trident press

68-18311

The author of this novel has been a reporter in Vietnam. The story concerns "Private Nathan Long [who] first shakes up the Army with his hunger strike against the Vietnam war, then is court martialed; as punishment he receives duty there. He dies under enemy torture, acting bravely but still with the stigma of cowardice." (Library J)

"Tiede's novel about a conscientious objector who dies in combat in Vietnam starts out excellently, but toward the end it loses momentum and the presumably ironic death of the young man lacks dramatic force. Despite this flaw, the book is always interesting and thought-provoking; the sights and sounds of Army life and of jungle fighting are superbly rendered." W. B. Hill

America 118:623 My 4 '68 60w

Reviewed by R. J. Pierce

Best Sell 28:32 Ap 15 '68 500w

"Tiede has created a literary equivalent of 'as-long-as-we're-there-we've-got-to-stay-in-there-and-make-the-best-of-it.' Unhappily, [his novel] has none of those excellences of style, thought, or structure which might sustain it through a critical climate less sensitive to its politics. It is too much a book written hastily between skirmishes—a book of small, occasionally telling vignettes. A book, mainly, of little ironies. The man with the little wound, not the big one, always dies. The whore with the heart of gold turns out to be a thief after all. The brave man is remembered as a coward and the coward as a brave man." Charles Horman
Commonweal 88:604 S 6 '68 1000w

"Tiede writes convincingly about a hideous war. Atrocities are attributed impartially to the Viet Cong, Arvin, and United States forces, and the book's burned flesh, gouged eyes, and so forth, are for the strong of stomach only. But when the horror wears off the book does not stand up well. Private Long does not understand why he acts and neither do we; he and the other names are not characters but merely pegs on which to hang some powerful descriptive writing. Their dialogue is often embarrassingly far from human speech." Collin Clark
Library J 93:1504 Ap 1 '68 150w

TIGNOR, ROBERT L., Jr. auth. Egypt & the Sudan. See Collins, R. O.

TIGNOR, ROBERT L. Modernization and British colonial rule in Egypt, 1882-1914. 417p $9 Princeton univ. press

325.342 Egypt—History

65-17163

"Three distinct periods in the thirty-two years of British rule are delineated. The first was preoccupied with preparations for evacuation. The second period emerged as this goal receded; more attention was devoted to modernization programs that concentrated on irrigation and agriculture. British efforts also covered such areas as legal reform, education, public health, and urban development. In the final period the emergence of Egyptian nationalism required alterations in British policies." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by W. R. Louis

Am Hist R 73:1213 Ap '68 300w

"An important study of Britain's effective presence in Egypt. . . . Not only does it analyze dispassionately the changing nature and aspirations of the occupation authority in response to British domestic politics as well as international pressures, but it also depicts the growth of certain social and economic sectors within Egypt with which the occupation had to concern itself. The intensification of Egyptian nationalism in response to the various policies is reasonably well analyzed. [This study] contributes not only more details but much needed new information on hitherto neglected aspects of Egyptian development, e.g. public health, administration, agriculture, and irrigation. Tignor has drawn on a wide variety of primary as well as secondary sources. Strongly recommended to students of the Near East as well as to students of colonial history."

Choice 4:1161 D '67 170w

"In addition to many books and pamphlets in English, French, and Arabic, the [author] has worked on a vast body of unpublished papers in England and—presumably faute de mieux—the archives of the Egyptian Ministry of Health. The material has been carefully sorted out and the exposition is logical and clear. The result is the best single book yet published on this period, but this reviewer feels that much more could have been done on the economic and social structure and trends. . . . [The] price of nine dollars . . . is excessive." Charles Issawi

Pol Sci Q 83:152 Mr '68 700w

"[In this] account of the events which followed the brief Suez war of 1882 [the author] breaks no new ground. But where he sticks to the political and administrative history of the period his book is an excellent introduction to the story of British rule. . . . As for Lord Cromer, Mr. Tignor presents a perceptive analysis of his policies. . . . On the other hand, his successors, Gorst and Kitchener, remain somewhat shadowy figures. . . . It is unfortunate that Mr. Tignor does not confine himself to political history. . . . [His analysis of] the measures taken to develop the country's agricultural resources . . . requires a firmer grasp of the economic history of the period than he seems to possess. . . . For the most part, his treatment of the social consequences of rapid economic development is superficial."

TLS p634 J1 20 '67 1100w

TILlich, PAUL. A history of Christian thought; ed. by Carl E. Braaten. 2d ed rev 300p $8 Harper

230 Theology 68-17592

This volume gives "Tillich's reflections on the whole history of Christianity, up to the 19th century, as a developing religious phenomenon and as the heritage of present-day theology. Tillich spans the pre-Christian era and the influence of Greek philosophy, the early Church, medieval Catholicism, and the . . . events of the Reformation as they bear upon modern Protestantism." (Publisher's note) This edition "is a revision of the text of the second edition, 1956. The first edition was composed of lectures which Tillich delivered during the spring semester, 1953, at Union Theological Seminary in New York." (Pref) Index of names and subjects.

"Like Perspectives on 19th and 20th Century Protestant Theology [BRD 1967], Braaten's first effort at editing Tillich's lectures, . . . [this] is a vital contribution to the present generation of theological students and teachers. In a sense it constitutes the first part of the great story of the Christian intellectual tradition as interpreted by Tillich, the latter part having been presented in Perspectives. . . . For those who know their Tillich, reading this book will be a refreshing experience. . . . For those who are new to Tillich's thought, it is a good place to begin, for in the history of Christian thought Tillich was a master teacher." J. C. Cooper

Christian Century 85:1305 O 16 '68 550w

"The present edition is intended primarily for theological students, but it will certainly interest a much wider audience. Characteristically, Tillich stresses broad, overlying ideas at the expense of facts and dates. . . . The book is recommended for public and academic libraries that are building strong historical or theological collections." Jack Clarke

Library J 93:2661 J1 '68 110w

New Yorker 44:239 N 9 '68 80w

TILLOTSON, GEOFFREY, ed. Thackeray: the critical heritage; ed. by Geoffrey Tillotson and Donald Hawes. 392p $8 Barnes & Noble

823.8 Thackeray, William Makepeace [68-79649]

Among the "items in this assembly of critical commentaries on Thackeray's novels are . . . reviews drawn from more than a score of 19th-century magazines and newspapers. . . . [It] also includes critical remarks from private letters." (Choice)

"The book may be a revelation to those who have not yet realized what a wealth of incisive, imaginative, informed criticism lies buried in Victorian periodicals. It is regrettable that the scope of the work has not allowed inclusion of contemporary reviews of Thackeray's published lectures on the 18th century."

Choice 5:488 Je '68 170w

"[This book] acts as a salutary reminder that the critic of today may well be less original in his pronouncements than he had hoped or supposed. . . . The two score of writers called in evidence . . . include Thackeray himself; . . . some celebrities not primarily renowned for literary criticism, such as Dickens and Trollope; . . . professional editors and regular reviewers. . . . Nor is American criticism overlooked. . . . Of Thackeray's reputation on the European continent no evidence is offered beyond the statement that many of his writings 'were soon translated into French and German.' . . . By and large our great-grandparents, as here represented, make a very good showing. If all our critical heritage were of this calibre we should have cause for pride."

TLS p152 F 15 '68 1150w

TIME-LIFE BOOKS. Ancient China. See Schafer, E. H.

TIME-LIFE BOOKS. Cradle of civilization. See Kramer, S. N.

TIME-LIFE BOOKS. The Negro and the city. See Fortune (periodical)

TIME-LIFE BOOKS. The world of Dürer, 1471-1528. See Russell, F.

TIME-LIFE BOOKS, eds. The world of Picaso, 1881-. See Wertenbaker, L.

The TIMES (LONDON). Times atlas of the world; comprehensive ed., produced by the Times of London in collaboration with John Bartholomew & Son Ltd., Edinburgh. 272p $45 Houghton

912 Atlases

Map68-4

This is a one-volume edition based on the five-volume third edition published from 1955-1960 (BRD 1962). "The maps have been redrawn to take account of political changes and the latest geophysical information. Among new features are preliminary sections on space and space exploration, star charts and a double-page map of the moon; world maps of energy, food and strategic mineral resources; geographical and demographical statistics." (TLS) Glossary. Index gazetteer.

Reviewed by C. L. Hohl

America 119:566 N 30 '68 30w

Reviewed by Phoebe Adams

Atlantic 221:136 Ap '68 100w

"This is a sturdy 12-pounder and stands a foot-and-a-half high. . . . The book is generous to Americans in the way that matters: in giving fullest treatment to places less familiar to us than America. The intensity of coverage is impressive. . . . [The] index is implemented by a list of convenient abbreviations. . . . What is more impressive, there is a glossary explaining some 2,300 terms from 47 languages. This is useful in view of the policy of favoring native designations on the maps. The packing of information into the maps has been aided also by another device: a detached plastic panel summarizing the map conventions of color, abbreviation, and other symbols. . . . The maps are an inexhaustible store of lore and an unflagging delight to the eye. Seen in the light of what you can now get with $45 in the supermarket, the book is a good buy." W. V. Quine

Book World p7 My 5 '68 1450w

"Although this one-volume edition is only slightly bulkier than one of the volumes of the previous five-volume edition, almost all of the materials included in that entire set plus 19 new pages of maps are found in the present edition. A new paper [has been] developed especially for this edition . . . [which] is a beautiful book in every sense of the word. . . . It is comprehensive, accurate, clear, convenient to use, and well organized. It would be difficult to find a better general atlas. It is highly recommended for all types of libraries. . . . It is recommended even for those libraries which own the mid-century edition since the plates are new and additional material has been included."

Booklist and SBB 64:1244 J1 15 '68 1500w

"The arrangement of the listing of states and territories is improved (no longer a straight, alphabetical listing) as are the colors for the political divisions. Forty-three pages of additional material has been added—including maps and charts on . . . soil, climate, and vegetation. . . . The Index Gazetteer gives latitude and longitude. Its detail is evidenced by 260 pages covering 200,000 place name entries. However, irritating omissions occur such as the names of countries. . . . which force the use of the table of contents. Due to the tight binding, it is difficult to read the maps at the center of the page. . . . The maps are beautifully executed which makes the atlas as perfect as it is possible for an atlas to be. However it is expensive."

Choice 5:612 J1 '68 220w

Economist 229:57 D 7 '68 180w

Reviewed by D. M. Glixon

Sat R 51:46 My 18 '68 150w

Sci Am 219:120 Ag '68 270w

TLS p1170 N 30 '67 100w

TIMOSHENKO, STEPHEN P. As I remember: the autobiography of Stephen P. Timoshenko; tr. from the Russian by Robert Addis. 430p il $9.75 Van Nostrand

B or 92

67-18069

These memoirs contain the author's "personal comments and opinions on many subjects: politics, education, congresses he attended, and his colleagues both in Russia and in the United States, where he emigrated in 1922. He tells of his childhood in Russia, his student days, early teaching experience at the St. Petersburg Polytechnic Institute, and then, following the Revolution, his career in America, first in industry and then teaching at the University of Michigan and finally at Stanford University. . . . Published in Paris in 1963, the Russian language original is now translated into English for the first time." (Publisher's note) Bibliography of the writings of S. P. Timoshenko.

TIMOSHENKO, S. P.—Continued

"This fascinating autobiography of 'the father of engineering mechanics,' . . . provides a glimpse of life in Czarist Russia. . . . [The author's] account of a 1958 trip to study engineering education in the U.S.S.R. is particularly interesting. Professor Timoshenko is an amazing man with an equally amazing life story. Highly recommended for public and academic libraries and for YA collections." B. A. Begg

Library J 92:1828 My 1 '67 100w [YA]

"The book is not a 'scientific' autobiography. General readers will find interest in Timoshenko's account of how, as a young man in Russia, he studied the books of and in many cases had close personal contact with the great creators of applied mechanics of the age: Rayleigh, Love, G. I. Taylor, Southwell, Mesnager, Foppl, Prandtl, and von Kármán; how he found original applications of the ideas and theories of those men to his own field; and how he spread the gospel through contacts with his pupils and through his printed books and papers. . . . There is no question that Timoshenko did much for America. It is an equally obvious truth that America did much for Timoshenko. . . . However, our autobiographer has never admitted as much to his associates and pupils. . . . One would have wished for a little less acid and a little more human kindness. . . . The present translation is warmly recommended to all readers interested in applied mechanics or contemporary history." J. P. Den Hartog

Science 160:1102 Je 7 '68 1000w

TINBERGEN, N.. jt. auth. Tracks. See Ennion, E. A. R.

TINDALL, GEORGE BROWN. The emergence of the New South, 1913-1945. (A hist. of the South, v 10) 807p pl $12.50 La. state univ. press

975 Southern States—History 67-24551

A "professor of history at the University of North Carolina [presents a] study of events and movements during the years of and between the two World Wars, [which] is primarily devoted to the economic rise of the region with emphasis on changing labor conditions and agricultural and industrial progress. The social and political South is . . . explored and in two chapters Professor Tindall traces the Southern literary renaissance." (Library J) Annotated bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by J. M. Clum
Am Lit 40:269 My '68 70w

Reviewed by W. A. Mabry
Ann Am Acad 378:171 Jl '68 500w

"[The author] has produced a work for the 20th century that has no equal. It fulfills a need for students, both of recent America and of the South. . . . [The] use of primary sources, contemporary works, and dissertations gives his work unparalleled completeness. A superb annotated bibliography provides a fine beginning for the researcher. A college library should have multiple copies."

Choice 5:118 Mr '68 210w

"If Professor Tindall's enormous array of facts does not really prove that Southerners accepted new values, it does show the degree to which the South came to impose its ideas upon the nation. . . . Though Southern values were influential and Southern political power was great, the region remained identifiably distinct. It is the failure to analyze the reasons for this persistent peculiarity that one most misses from Professor Tindall's laborious and careful book. Perhaps he might have written a more interesting study had he brushed aside the surface similarities between the South and the nation, which he develops at such length." David Donald

Commentary 45:83 Mr '68 1550w

Reviewed by Horace Montgomery
J Am Hist 55:169 Je '68 420w

"[Tindall] has given so full a picture in so readable a style that the work should appeal to laymen as widely as it will to scholars. It is a model of prose style, clear, direct, and inviting. [He] investigates facet after facet in an ever-expanding panorama and his treatment is broad, intelligent, and fair. The book should be added to public and college library collections." Rice Estes

Library J 93:1140 Mr 15 '68 190w
New Yorker 44:158 Mr 23 '68 190w

Reviewed by E. M. Yoder
Va Q R 44:121 winter '68 1600w

TINKER, HUGH. The Union of Burma; a study of the first years of independence; issued under the auspices of the Royal inst. of int. affairs. 4th ed 423p maps $8 Oxford

915.91 Burma 67-95770

This "study of Burma since independence has been updated to 1962, ending with the fall of U Nu." (Choice) Bibliography. For reviews of the first edition see BRD 1957.

Choice 5:1026 O '68 70w

"The only difference between [this] and the third edition is that brief postscripts have been added to most of the chapters summarizing events since Ne Win's seizure of power in 1962. The statistics have not been brought up to date. . . . The book remains one of the best studies of the first decade or so of Burmese independence." Peter Harnetty

Pacific Affairs 41:153 spring '68 100w

TIRLER, HERMANN. A sloth in the family; tr. by Maurice Michael; with an introd. by Gerald Durrell. 47p 32col pl $3.50 Walker & co.

599 Sloths 66-28325

The author is a Swiss engineer who works in Rio de Janeiro. He describes how Nepomuk, a sloth who spent fifteen hours of every twenty-four sleeping, and saved the rest for eating, became a member of the Tirlers family and a regular guest at Sunday lunch. After a while the Tirlers found a bride for Nepomuk, and before long they were able to announce a baby sloth in the family.

Reviewed by Peter Farb
Book Week p22 (spring children's issue)
My 7 '67 80w

"Mr. Tirlers' life with his 'three-toed pet' is unusual and convinces us that this little tropical animal will no longer be held in derision. His story is to be generally purchased." K. T. Willis

Library J 92:1171 Mr 15 '67 130w

"[Tirlers'] account of his life with a sloth . . . differs from other accounts of the domestication of wild animals (lions, otters, for instance) in the complete lack of desire it inspires in the reader to own the animal in question. . . . The author named him Nepomuk because 'there was something about his face that reminded me of the statue of St. Nepomuk in Prague.' His fondness for the sloth, though inexplicable, is engaging, and the color photographs of the animal, mostly in repose, permit one to see what the author means when he says about the sloth that 'the very sight of one makes you smile.' Janet Malcolm

New Yorker 43:185 D 16 '67 440w

TITMUS, COLIN J. Adult education in France. 201p $6.50 Pergamon
374.944 Adult education. Education—France [66-25322]

"Titmus gives an overview of all non-vocational adult education in France, dealing first . . . with the relevant historical background, continuing with a survey of popular education since 1945, and then moving on to an . . . analysis of the role of the state, of private organizations of various kinds, and of associations active in adult education. He then touches briefly . . . on the facts, the problems, the methods, and the staffing, and concludes with a . . . summary of the total adult education picture." (J Higher Ed)

"[The author] does an exceptionally good job of relating the developments in adult education to the cultural background of the country. . . . [His] treatment is definitely non-statistical: not one chart in the book. . . . Titmus succeeds amazingly well, however, in providing us with an understanding of why adult education in France focuses on sport and recreation more than it does in other countries, how its superfragmentation and diffusion are a reflection of the political system there, and why the emphasis on continuous education has developed so strongly in France. . . . [The book] provides a literate and sensitive starting point for any who are interested in securing some understanding of the Gallic system of adult education." A. A. Liveright

J Higher Ed 39:293 My '68 550w

"Adult education in France is a subject about which very little is known in this country. Mr. Titmus has been extremely industrious in collecting information from a variety of sources and setting it out in a most interesting and lucid analysis of the situation."

TLS p747 Ag 17 '67 600w

TOBEY, MARK. Tobey. See Schmied, W.

TOBINO, MARIO. The deserts of Libya. See Lost legions

TÖKÉS, RUDOLF L. Béla Kun and the Hungarian Soviet Republic: the origins and role of the Communist party of Hungary in the revolutions of 1918-1919. (Stanford Univ. Hoover Inst. on war, revolution and peace. Publication) 292p $7.50 Praeger

943.9 Hungary—History—Revolution, 1918-1919. Kun, Béla. Communist party (Hungary) 67-17142

"This study is concerned with the background and history of the communists' first, shortlived role in Hungary, and specifically with the intellectual prehistory and ideological and organizational achievements of the Communist Party of Hungary in the democratic and proletarian revolutions of 1918 and 1919." (Pref) Bibliography. Index.

"Not an historical study in depth of Kun and the period, but primarily a consideration of the Hungarian Soviet Republic as part of the Hungarian and world Communist movements. . . . A textbook treatment—a clear but undistinguished style; many captions, quotations, and supplementary footnotes; and 11 appendices (statistical tables, organizational charts, documents, biographical sketches of leaders, etc.). Valuable chiefly because of the scarcity of writings on the subject in English and because of the author's use of an extensive bibliography of published Hungarian sources, primary and secondary. (There is practically no recourse to unpublished archival materials.) . . . Topic and treatment will appeal primarily to graduate students and scholars working on Communism or East Central Europe."

Choice 4:1308 Ja '68 190w

"There was real need for a good biography of Béla Kun, and Dr. Tökés's book helps to fill the gap although it fails to bridge it. Too much of the book is devoted to the first Hungarian Soviet Republic and not enough to Béla Kun. Not much is known of Kun's childhood; and Dr. Tökés—almost over-meticulous about his data—rejects much that is generally accepted and tells us the bare minimum about his hero's life. . . . This is a scholarly, indeed too scholarly work. Dr. Tökés's style is lucid; his research is impeccable and wide; his comments are sober, thoughtful and to the point. Yet the book is hardly more than a conglomerate of learned and carefully marshalled data: the author lacks narrative power; Kun . . . does not come to life at all; the 133 days of his regime seem to be a simple sequence of political events, crises, and decisions and we learn almost nothing about the hopes, excitements, disappointments and sufferings of the people or of their rulers."

TLS p4 Ja 4 '68 900w

TOKYO ECONOMIC RESEARCH CENTER. Postwar economic growth in Japan. See Komiya, R., ed.

TOLKIEN, J. R. R. The road goes ever on. See Swann, D.

TOLKIEN, J. R. R. Smith of Wootton Major; il. by Pauline Baynes. 61p $1.95 Houghton

67-30683

"Every 24 years, the Master Cook of Wootton Major bakes a great cake for the Feast of the Good Children. . . . A certain piece of the cake contains a tiny, magic star. It is swallowed by Smith, perhaps the least remarkable child in the village, and from that day on . . . his life becomes privileged. He travels deep into the world of Faery. . . . Then one day the time comes when Smith, now a grandfather, must give up his star and allow it to pass to another chosen child." (N Y Times Bk R)

Best Sell 27:358 D 1 '67 200w

Horn Bk 44:63 F '68 200w

"[This] book develops [Tolkien's] ideas concerning the land and peoples of Faery. . . . Because Tolkien uses both plot and characters merely as mediums to express an idea, they are lacking in depth. Although Tolkien's popularity is now passing, most libraries should purchase the book." F. M. Lauritsen

Library J 92:4175 N 15 '67 130w

"The more closely [this book] is examined, the more it reveals the grandeur of its conception. . . . Its parts are tightly yet discreetly interlinked and there is not one thing superfluous. . . . Each strand has its place and the whole stays together out of the tension of its components. . . . This astonishing little book . . . [has] a certain justice, a ring of truth. . . . [It] is a book for anyone over the age of eight. And whoever reads it at eight, will no doubt still be going back to it at eighty." David Wade

New Statesman 74:908 D 29 '67 900w

Reviewed by Robert Phelps

N Y Times Bk R p26 F 4 '68 550w

"[This tale] admirably succeeds in persuading the reader to suspend his analytical powers while he is reading it. . . . [Tolkien] wisely offers intimations rather than descriptions of Faery, but here and there he throws in a vivid detail. . . . One can gather that the story takes place in another time, but the author has been careful not to specify which period, nor has he put in any spurious period dialogue or local color. The spurious medieval illustrations . . . spell out what Tolkien has been good enough to leave unsaid, and are to be regretted." Janet Malcolm

New Yorker 43:176 D 16 '67 340w

TLS p1153 N 30 '67 40w

TOLSTOI, LEV NIKOLAEVICH. See Tolstoy, L.

TOLSTOY, LEO. Tolstoy on education; tr. from the Russian by Leo Wiener; with an introd. by Reginald D. Archambault. 360p $6 Univ. of Chicago Press

370.1 Education—Philosophy 67-25514

Tolstoy's essays on pedagogy, originally published in the 1860's, are here reissued in Leo Wiener's 1900 translation, together with a new introduction. Dissatisfied with contemporary educational practice, Tolstoy "founded in 1861 an experimental school for peasant children on his estate, Yasnaya Polyana. . . . [In an] argument for permissiveness, based on his own successes and failures, Tolstoy suggests that the true aim of education is to cultivate and enrich an individual's best self. . . . Instead of curbing the child's natural penchant for freedom, as traditional disciplinary measures do, Tolstoy allowed his pupils to come and go as they pleased, and insisted that teachers, too, should be free to teach what and at whatever length they wished." (Publisher's note)

"Many of [Tolstoy's] attitudes, premises, and practices seem, even today, modern; in some instances 'post-modern' would be a more appropriate word. . . . A worthwhile addition to collections on the history of education, and on Tolstoy himself." Hyman Kublin

Library J 93:1475 Ap 1 '68 200w

"[This volume] renders in lucid English the keen observations of a master writer who saw learning as 'a process of freeing the individual for creative improvisation.' Skeptical about mass instruction and compulsory attendance, . . . Tolstoy repeatedly insists that schools are based on homes. Modern sophisticates accepting slackening family ties may react with knowing smiles. Less easy to dismiss, though, are Tolstoy's clear understanding of the 'unconscious education of life,' his appeal for experiment, his warnings about smug appraisals of educational progress, and his zest for the living world." John Calam

TOLSTOY, LEO—Continued

Sat R 51:30 Mr 16 '68 100w

TOLSTOY, LEO. Tolstoy's writings on civil disobedience and non-violence. 400p il $9.50 Bergman pubs.

323 Government, Resistance to. Passive resistance to government 66-29085

Material selected from essays, letters and character portrayals by the Russian author which are related to man's search for peace. It is his contention that "by following the dictates of his reason, his conscience and his god, man is continually evolving beyond the immoralities of earthly institutions—patriotism, religious dogma, human persecution, and killing, . . . [and that by] peaceful resistance, man also more and more refuses to surrender his innate, noble principles." (Library J)

Choice 5:784 S '68 120w

"Great faith in the capacity of man to attain ultimate peace on earth pervades these 24 short selections . . . [which] will delight [Tolstoy's] readers. Partisans of institutionalized morality and military power may be disturbed by this book. Others will revel in the master's use of biblical quotation and Christian logic to support his major thesis: in the final analysis, peace-loving man, not warmongering government, is the true center of the universe." H. W. Mott

Library J 93:759 F 15 '68 160w

Reviewed by V. S. Pritchett

New Statesman 75:336 Mr 15 '68 60w

"The anonymous editor has strung together a score or more articles and excerpts on the same theme, mostly taken from the Maude translations of 1899. He has added a select bibliography on civil disobedience and non-violence. . . . Tolstoy championed many worthy and unpopular causes in his articles and he did so in a lucid and aggressive manner . . . But his strength was as an artist, not a pamphleteer, and his condemnation of war has the greatest impact when it is wrapped up in art. For this reason a new translation of the Sevastopol Sketches would have done more to promote the cause than the most polemical of these essays."

TLS p527 My 23 '68 300w

TOMERLIN, JOHN. The fledgling. 188p lib bdg $3.91 Dutton

68-24729

"After a year of apathetic conduct following an accident in which his brother was killed, young Rich Newman is attracted to flying. His attempts to take lessons without the knowledge of his parents are frustrated, but he eventually is able to go to work with the Tomkins International Air Show and is able to take additional flying lessons. The boy gradually gains confidence and a final incident when he lands in a storm with the seriously ill Tom Tomkins seems to help him through the gates of maturity." (Best Sell) "Grades seven to twelve." (Library J)

"Despite some contrived plotting the story will interest young readers, particularly those who are attracted to aviation stories."

Best Sell 28:195 Ag 1 '68 100w

"With some subtlety and much sensitivity [this novel] tells of a boy's emergence into manhood through the challenge of flying lessons. His own uncertainties and fears, not quite able to quench his fascination with planes, are complicated by those of his parents. . . . While the outcome is predictable, the characters are warmly drawn and quite credible, making the journey to the book's unsurprising resolution an enjoyable one." John Allen

Christian Science Monitor pB11 N 7 '68 90w

"This meticulous account of Rich's apprenticeship in piloting a private plane is . . . an understated story of his struggle to gain self-confidence. Girls may find the amount of detailed flying information tedious, but they will appreciate these high schoolers and their doings. The skilfully drawn adults, especially Rich's troubled mother and Tommie, who champions Rich's struggle to become independent, are satisfyingly realistic supports for this vigorously paced story." M. E. Sandahl

Library J 93:[3327] S 15 '68 100w

Reviewed by Zena Sutherland
Sat R 51:69 N 9 '68 150w

TOMKINS, CALVIN. Eric Hoffer; an American odyssey; introd. by Eric Sevareid; phot. by George Knight; aphorisms by Eric Hoffer. 68p $4.95 Dutton

B or 92 Hoffer, Eric

68-28887

Biography of an American autodidact, a writer and philosopher who "worked as a placer miner, migrant worker and longshoreman on the West Coast. As a drifter in California, he learned to write." [He is the author of The Temper of Our Time, BRD 1967]. . . . Tomkins [attempts to] show that everything Hoffer has written comes from a single train of thought, set in motion by the events of his life." (Publisher's note) Most of the text appeared originally in The New Yorker in somewhat different form.

"Hoffer has said that he has no intention of writing his autobiography, his millions of admirers will have to be content with the brief biography by a friend who has been close to him for the past several years and has had access to Hoffer's notebooks. . . . Hoffer has had four books published, of which The True Believer [BRD 1951], translated into almost a score of foreign languages, is required reading in many college political science courses. . . . There are appended to the text 29 photographic studies of Hoffer, each accompanied by one or more aphorisms from his notebooks."

Best Sell 28:300 O 15 '68 280w

Christian Century 85:1306 O 16 '68 60w

"Tomkins places major emphasis on [Hoffer's] intellectual development and the process through which he formed his ideas and his writing style. While Mr. Tomkins, a staff writer for the New Yorker, relates details of Hoffer's childhood, mature life, and contemporary activities, including his close relationship with the Osborne family, his chief interest is in presenting an exposition of Hoffer's thought. . . . The book would be suitable for large public libraries and for college and university libraries. It should be of special interest to readers interested in Hoffer's background, philosophy, and current thought." D. R. Picht
Library J 93:3000 S 1 '68 160w

TOMPKINS, STUART RAMSAY. The triumph of Bolshevism; revolution or reaction? 331p il $5.95 Univ. of Okla. press

947.084 Communism—Russia. Russia—
Politics and government 66-22714

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Reviewed by T. H. Von Laue

Am Hist R 73:543 D '67 380w

Reviewed by Harold Shukman

Ann Am Acad 375:210 Ja '68 360w

Reviewed by D. W. Treadgold

Social Studies 59:227 O '68 320w

TOOHEY, JOHN L. A history of the Pulitzer prize plays. 344p il $14.95 Citadel
792.0973 Theater—U.S. 67-25654

The author tells "how and why the Pulitzer Prize was started in 1916-1917, its criteria and judges. He gives reasons for the eight years when no prize was awarded, and . . . information about the 42 winners . . . [including] the name of the play, the cast, author and/or adapter, composer, lyricist, theater, date, number of performances, director and producer. The highlights of the critics' reviews are given, together with some information about the author and how he came to write the play. The names of the 'also ran' plays of each year, and the names of the plays that won the Critics Circle Award are given." (Library J) Index.

Reviewed by J. M. Clum

Am Lit 40:269 My '68 70w

"Toohey, well-known theater press agent . . . has written a book which is a mine of information, interest, and, for those of us who have seen most of the plays discussed, of nostalgia. . . . For the nostalgia department perhaps the most important things are the pictures (about six for each play) bringing back faces and figures of actors in unforgettable moments of these great plays. Highly recommended for any theater library." Marguerite McAneny

Library J 93:206 Ja 15 '68 190w

TOPOLSKI, FELIKS, jt. auth. The United Nations: sacred drama. See O'Brien, C. C.

TOPSELL, EDWARD. The history of four-footed beasts and serpents and insects; with a new introd. by Willy Ley. 3v ll $65 Da Capo press

591 Zoology 65-23391

An unabridged republication of the 1658 edition published in London. Reproduced from a copy in the rare book collection of the Library of the American Museum of Natural History. Contents: v 1, The history of four-footed beasts, taken principally from the Historiae animalium of Conrad Gesner, by E. Topsell; v2, The history of serpents, taken principally from the Historiae animalium of Conrad Gesner, by E. Topsell; v3, The theater of insects [translation of Insectorum sive minimorum animalium theatrum] by T. Muffet.

"Good paper, ample margins, delightfully quaint wood engravings, some from the original Gesner volumes, and others based on illustrations drawn by John White for the original Muffet work, make the . . . price for the three volumes a worthwhile expenditure. Zoology departments in college and university libraries will welcome the set because of its usefulness as historically comparative reference. Classical, mythological and theological references broaden the appeal of the work. . . . The book will appeal not only to scholars generally and specialists in the field but to the informed layman. For large public, college, and university libraries." Jerome Cushman
Library J 92:3050 S 15 '67 250w

"This set of volumes is a lovely facsimile edition of the first animal book in English to be printed in Great Britain. As such, [it] has some place in the history of printing. Its zoological importance is entirely of a different character. . . . Although Gesner's work may be thought of as a descendant, in arrangement and form, of the biological works of Aristotle, the Historia Naturalis of Pliny the Elder (1st century A.D.), and the medieval encyclopedists . . . it actually embraces the newer zoological work of Renaissance science." Harry Woolf
Science 158:1663 D 29 '67 300w

"The present introduction by Willy Ley is certainly informative, but five pages (with enormous blank margins) is far too brief to introduce the first major book on animals printed in Britain in English. . . . For zoologists interested in the roots of their subject, however, the reprinting of this rather rare book will be greeted with enthusiasm. But its widest appeal will surely derive from the very beautiful woodcuts. The unicorn, Dürer's rhinoceros, the sphinx and satyre and a host of lesser known beasts will delight the laymen and prove a useful source for many branches of art."
TLS p7 Ja 4 '68 1000w

TORNEY, JUDITH V., jt. auth. The development of political attitudes in children. See Hess, R. D.

TORRES, CAMILO. Camilo Torres: his life and his message; the text of his original platform and all his messages to the Colombian people; ed. by John Alvarez Garcia and Christian Restrepo Calle; tr. by Virginia M. O'Grady. 128p $3.95 Templegate

B or 92 Colombia—Politics and government 68-28866

This book relates the beliefs of "a young Colombian priest who led a guerilla force dedicated to the overthrow of what he regarded as a . . . [corrupt] government in Bogota." (Publisher's note) This is a translation of Camilo Torres: Biografía, Plataforma, Mensajes, published in Colombia in 1966.

"This book is the first full English language work on Camilo Torres. It includes . . . a description of conditions in Colombia by Virginia O'Grady . . . and several of [Torres'] messages to the Colombian people. None of these selections is long, none deeply insightful, but together they give a preliminary view of the man and his thought. While the content is disappointing, it raises several important questions. More than anything else, it raises the question of the Church and revolution. . . . In reading [Torres'] messages one begins to understand why he chose [violence as a] way to serve the poor." P. J. Weber

America 119:359 O 19 '68 650w

"[Dorothy Day] contributes a repetitious and ill organized introduction to this book; . . . her uncertainties about violence may have caused confusion in her writing. The editors contribute silly sentences. . . . Torres' own writings are for the most part stentorian manifestos, utopian and plodding. But his 'Christian' pages, are glowing, indeed searing, testimonies to a Christian passion for justice; for these pages alone he deserves to be remembered as a Christian hero."

Christian Century 84:996 Ag 7 '68 130w

TOSCANO, MARIO. The origins of the pact of steel (Le origini diplomatiche del patto d'acciaio). 417p $11 Johns Hopkins press

327.43 Europe—Politics—1918-1945. Germany—Foreign relations—Italy. Italy—Foreign relations—Germany 67-24276

In this translation of the revised second edition, 1956, of a book originally published in 1948, "Chapter I has been revised, and minor changes and additions . . . made throughout." (Pref. to Am. ed) "Using published German documents and unpublished Italian materials, Mr. Toscano gives a detailed study of the history of the pact between Italy and Germany, signed on May 22, 1939, in which the allies promised each other aid in war." (Library J) Index.

"This is a comprehensive, very detailed analytical narrative of the tortuous negotiations between Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy which culminated in [a treaty of alliance] . . . in the spring of 1939. Written largely with attention to the vagaries of Italian diplomacy under Mussolini, it demonstrates that the Duce mistakenly thought that such a pact would be useful in curbing the Fuhrer's recklessness and helpful in his relations with France. Toscano argues that news of Hitler's plan to launch aggressive war against Poland in 1939 made the treaty a dead letter, owing to Italian opposition to the venture. . . . There is no comparable study. Vital for all collections in Italian, German, and diplomatic history."

Choice 5:1209 N '68 170w

"Students of European diplomatic history will welcome the publication of an excellent anonymous English translation of [this book]. . . . Unless new documentary materials are found [this] study will stand as the definitive work on the Pact of Steel. . . . [It] is recommended for every library interested in major works on recent diplomatic history." Keith Eubank

Library J 92:4413 D 1 '67 110w

TOWERS, JOHN. Dictionary-catalogue of operas and operettas. 2v $35 Da Capo press

782.103 Operas—Dictionaries. Operettas—Dictionaries 67-25996

"Contents:—v.1: Dictionary of Operas and Operettas; v.2: Composers and Their Operas and Libretti. A tabular listing of 28,015 titles of operas, arranged alphabetically by the first or most important substantive, followed by the name, date, and nationality of the composer. . . . An index of composers and libretto names, bound with the main listing as one volume in the original 1910 edition, is separated in this reprint to form a second volume." (Choice)

"The information is not notably reliable and no sources are given, but the sheer quantity of information makes this a helpful reference book in the research library. . . . The set is well produced but rather expensively priced."

Choice 4:1229 Ja '68 110w

"This amazing compilation has been universally damned for its multitudinous errors and for its lack of references to sources. It still deserves to be used, especially in verifying opera titles; and thus this reprint is nice to have around. . . . [It is] well to remember that the [titles] are arranged by the first or most important substantive (The Red Mill being under Mill). . . . Such practices are inconsistent, however, and there are several double alphabets.

TOWERS, JOHN—Continued

... Reference use aside, the volume tempts and rewards the browser. ... At the same time the music historian will inevitably be fascinated by the variety, if not always the originality, of operatic designations. ... The fact that nobody will probably ever again prepare a comparable list or undertake a revision of Mr. Towers' makes his book something of a monument." D. W. Krummel

Music Lib Assn Notes 24:502 Mr '68 480w

TOWNE, ANTHONY. Excerpts from the diaries of the late God; sel. and ed. by Anthony Towne; with il. by Barton Lidice Beneš. 108p $3.95 Harper

817 Christianity 68-11740

The co-author with W. Stringfellow of The Bishop Pike Affair (BRD 1967) presents comments lampooning "man's attitude to God. ... God reveals, in these pages, his perplexity about: time, money, death, women, prayer, the church, theology, morals. ... [It is the author's theme] that God's perplexity about us differs radically from our perplexity about God." (Publisher's note)

Reviewed by Phoebe Adams
Atlantic 222:106 J1 '68 10w

"The 'God' of the Diaries—excerpted and edited, of course, by Mr. Towne—is charming, opinionated, provincial (northeast U.S.), sophisticated, possessed of a sense of humor—and slightly jaded in his boredom with creation. ... The diary device is calculated to infuriate some, and at points it will raise the gorge of almost any reader. The parochialism of Towne's God happens to approximate my own (with, however, some rather screaming exceptions), and I find most of the entries refreshing, illuminating, gratifyingly satirical or humorous. The taste of Excerpts will be less palatable to others and would no doubt be downright bitter to many who are unlikely ever to read it. And more's the pity." Davie Napier

Christian Century 85:1108 S 4 '68 410w

"Towne is a poet and the author, several years ago, of the piece called 'God is Dead in Georgia,' a New York Times-style obituary that originally appeared in Motive, and which was unaccountably reprinted by the Times itself. If you saw that, and found it funny, this book will appeal to you. If you felt, as I did (and as Benjamin DeMott has recently argued), that the obituary was largely without taste, humor, or perception, then this book will fall flat. ... [The diarist] is by and large a boring personage, who writes in a kind of wowie-gee-whiz! style that makes him sound like Sally Fields in 'The Flying Nun.' ... Towne's book is not serious enough to be funny and thus cannot make us laugh or cry, cannot tell us either what it is to have a god, or to lose one." William Hamilton

New Repub 159:38 J1 6 '68 700w

TOWNSEND, JAMES R. Political participation in Communist China. 233p $5.50 Univ. of Calif. press

354.51 China (People's Republic of China)—Politics and government. Communism—China (People's Republic of China) 67-11422

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Reviewed by J. E. Rue
Am Pol Sci R 62:995 S '68 1050w

Reviewed by J. L. Nichols
Ann Am Acad 378:183 J1 '68 420w

Reviewed by J. K. Fairbank
Pol Sci Q 83:317 Je '68 700w

TOWNSEND, JESSIE G. Annie, Bridget and Charlie. See Pienkowski, J.

TOWNSEND, JOHN ROWE. Pirate's Island. 159p $3.75 Lippincott

68-14619

"Gordon Dobbs, a fat 12-year-old, is 'the sort of boy who was bound to be tormented at a tough council school in a tough district' of the northern industrial English city in which he lives in 1946. His only friend is a strange waif named Sheila who protects herself from the dreary realities of her own existence by spinning fantasies which she recounts to Gordon. Her tale of pirate treasure turns into a real adventure with stolen money, in the course of which Gordon discovers his own potentialities, and the problems of Sheila's home life are resolved. ... Grades five to seven." (Library J)

"In his special sphere of juvenile literature, Townsend is without peer and indeed almost without company. His adventure stories are magnificently credible, because his adventurers are the children all around us. Fat boys suffer as much from unimaginative writers as they do from their schoolmates, but Gordon is presented neither comically nor tragically; only matter-of-factly as an unhappy child needing understanding and help. The indomitable Sheila, too, escapes the Orphan Annie stereotype; in her own way she is as wonderful as Mrs. Koenigsburg's unforgettable Jennifer (in Jennifer, Hecate, Macbeth, William McKinley, and Me, Elizabeth) [BRD 1967]. Best of all, both children are alive in the literal sense that, like all living things, they grow and change as the story advances. A strongly satisfying little book." D. B. Whitman

Book World p24 (children's issue)
My 5 '68 200w

Reviewed by Margery Fisher
Christian Science Monitor pB10 My 2 '68 160w

Horn Bk 44:423 Ag '68 180w

Reviewed by G. B. Herman
Library J 93:1805 Ap 15 '68 140w

"[Townsend's] work is always of a high standard ... but I find its pulse intermittent: narrative isn't one of his strong points; he's happiest with character and mood and the way children talk to one another. But in [this book] the beat is loud and strong, and the story line ... fairly pumps up the blood-pressure. There's some well-observed junior tribal behaviour, and a quick concession to puberty in the idea that girls can be both civilising and exciting. The end is very deft, though I resent its implication that the way to manhood is to be a boys' boy rather than a girls' boy." Michael Baldwin

New Statesman 75:695 My 24 '68 130w

"A pampered pork-butcher's son and a fey little girl whose only escape from her shabby existence is 'Treasure Island' come together in this return to the Jungle, that 'citadel of slumdom' in a tough city of northern England first introduced to older readers in 'Goodbye to the Jungle' [BRD 1967]. ... In the author's setting of rat-ravaged alleys, where policemen and rent collectors travel in pairs for safety; in his characters, who can curse and brawl and beat children; in his picture of poverty, which creates numb, blank-eyed mothers and sickly little ones, Townsend brings the dimensions of reality to children's books." Jane Manthorne

N Y Times Bk R p30 My 26 '68 170w

Reviewed by Zena Sutherland
Sat R 51:40 My 11 '68 140w
TLS p254 Mr 14 '68 440w

TOYNBEE, PAGET JACKSON. A dictionary of proper names and notable matters in the works of Dante; rev. by Charles S. Singleton. new ed 722p il maps $18.40 Oxford

851 Dante Alighieri—Dictionaries 68-81646

A new expanded edition of a work originally published in 1898.

"A needed and notably done aggiornamento. ... All references to and quotations from Dante's works are changed from the Oxford Dante to the standard edition of the Opere di Dante (Società Dantesca Italiana), and Mario Casella's thorough Indice Analitico dei Nomi e delle Cose has also served to enhance the present work. ... The new edition [contains] a valuable new general bibliography of contemporary and modern Dante studies. ... Another new section of four historical maps of Tuscany and Florence, preceded by explanatory notes, closes this important reference work."

Choice 5:466 Je '68 190w

"Singleton has drawn on important 20th-Century Dante scholarship to supplement the vast amount of information collected for Paget Toynbee's previous edition. While not intended as a critical or interpretive study this scholarly reference work does include a wealth of factual information on persons and places and 'notable matters' in the works of Dante. A significant feature is the inclusion of the context in which a name was used. ... Entries in the book vary in length, but few run to more than a page. Appended are valuable bibliographies of works by and about Dante, and tables of kings of various countries of Dante's period. The book, well printed and well bound, is for college, university, and large public libraries." L. E. Bone

Library J 93:2228 Je 1 '68 180w
 TLS p759 J1 18 '68 650w

TRACY, HONOR. Mind you, I've said nothing! forays in the Irish republic. 176p $4.95 Luce, R.B.

914.15 Ireland—Description and travel. National characteristics, Irish 68-20390

"Originally published in England in 1953, this [is a] collection of 14 descriptive sketches of Irish people and places." (Library J)

"H. V. Morton gave us a delightful travelogue some years ago titled 'In Search of Ireland' [BRD 1931. He] would make a reader love the Green Isle, but Miss Tracy would make a person cast quizzical glances at it . . . and some of the glances would not be kindly at all. Not at all! Fervent Irishmen may feel their hair bristle and their necks redden when they read some of her sarcastic phrases or ridiculing witticisms but a calm reader will even enjoy her amusing and often astringent comments. . . . In her defense let it be said that Miss Tracy does not invent news; she merely reports it, but she seems to pour more vinegar than honey when she wants to express her vehement convictions. All in all, this book makes for delightful reading." E. A. Dooley

Best Sell 28:192 Ag 1 '68 500w

Reviewed by Pamela Marsh

Christian Science Monitor p12 S 26 '68 140w

"Here is a pleasantly diverting look at the manners and mores of the 'natives,' often witty and perceptive, and invariably sophisticated.

The essays vary in quality, but 'All Honour to St. Patrick,' a Zola-like portrait of dear, dirty Dublin on the national holiday, is alone worth the price of the volume." T. J. Galvin

Library J 93:2869 Ag '68 130w

"There is an unfortunate sameness, an apparently unavoidable flavor of patronage about all books of this nature. To carry conviction about Ireland beyond her borders it seems a writer must be born and grow up and suffer there and then leave for good. Delightful as these rain-washed scenes are they never for a moment convey the unmistakable reality of Frank O'Connor's Dublin or Brian Moore's Belfast." Jean Gardner

N Y Times Bk R p22 S 22 '68 260w

TRACY, HONOR. Settled in chambers; a novel [Eng title: The beauty of the world]. 209p $4.95 Random house

67-22671

Sir Toby Routh is a "High Court judge specializing in divorce. . . . Lady Routh is given to mild bouts with the bottle; their daughter has left home. Rectitude . . . has nagged his wife to drink, his daughter to illicit union with a coal miner's son. . . . [When he meets] Gerda, Baroness Trauenegg [an opera singer]. . . . Sir Toby loses first his head, then his rectitude, and, for a time, even his sense of judgment." (Christian Science Monitor)

Reviewed by W. B. Hill

America 118:623 My 4 '68 90w

"The Straight and Narrow Path [BRD 1956] . . . seems in retrospect to have been unique, unrepeatable, unmatched. . . . [However this] is, with no reservations whatever, a beautiful novel—continuously, peremptorily funny, flawlessly put together and peopled at every hand with characters drawn too perfectly to have been drawn from life. Miss Tracy's people are all Platonic ideals of satiric subjects, and we miserable sinners can hope to achieve no more than dim approximations of their asininity, their malice and their folly. Her plot is a modest, efficient thing. . . . [Miss Tracy] manages to make the affair seem thoroughly plausible, so that the book takes off from farce into the blissful sphere of high comedy." Richard Boeth

Book World p11 Ap 28 '68 420w

Reviewed by P. M. Daltry

Christian Science Monitor p13 Ap 11 '68 320w

Reviewed by Maybelle Lacey

Library J 93:772 F 15 '68 200w

Reviewed by Stanley Reynolds

New Statesman 74:593 N 3 '67 130w

"Even the lightest of comedies must convince in its own terms, at least for so long as we are reading it, must establish its own reality. For me, [this novel] established no reality. All I saw was an amusing idea perfunctorily carried out—except for two characters, the columnist and his employer, a press magnate. Significantly, these are by far the funniest figures in the novel. It was on them, I felt, that the resources of Miss Tracy's wit, venom and satirical invention had been directed. . . . They are alive as no other characters in the novel are. In them one sees Honor Tracy doing her real job. If the book had been a first novel, I hope I would have spotted that it was here that the young novelist's talent lay." Walter Allen

N Y Times Bk R p4 Mr 10 '68 700w

Reviewed by P. D. Zimmerman

Newsweek 71:125E Ap 8 '68 300w

Reviewed by A. Z. Silver

Sat R 51:26 J1 20 '68 230w

Time 91:112 Ap 5 '68 400w

TRADER Vic's Pacific Island cookbook; with side trips to Hong Kong, Southeast Asia, Mexico and Texas; 300 food and drink recipes from 18 different places; photography by Bruce Harlow; il. by Wing Low. 287p $7.50 Doubleday

641.5 Cookery, International 68-10564

"A fun cookbook for the gourmet with international interests, this contains . . . food and drink recipes from 18 places such as Hawaii, Tahiti, Polynesia, Japan, Hong Kong, Southeast Asia, . . . Mexico and Texas. Each section presents a short description of the locality involved. . . . Items such as shrimp tempura, sukiyaki, rice pilaf, fresh prune chutney and sweet and sour pork are included." (Library J)

"In addition to . . . exotic recipes, the awkward text offers standard American adaptations of interesting foreign specialties." Gloria Levitas

Book World p4 Ag 11 '68 90w

Reviewed by M. L. Rice

Christian Science Monitor p8 N 29 '68 80w

"[Certain] recipes such as that for Chinese cabbage are omitted. Some of the Mexican recipes are difficult to find even in Mexican cookbooks. The Texas recipes are an unusual innovation. . . . The author ends with the San Francisco area, giving early California dishes such as rabbit stew and gingerbread plus current San Francisco recipes—calves liver stroganoff, veal rosemary, and cornmeal dumplings. Party punches and Trader Vic's tropical drinks add interest. A necessary purchase for all cookbook collections." L. A. Garloch

Library J 93:1142 Mr 15 '68 100w

"The book features recipes of the popular restaurant chain. . . . Their menus are surprisingly good, if they are not judged from the standards of strict authenticity. In fairness, it should be said that Trader Vic's chefs make no such pretenses; their aim has always been to widen the spectrum of festive, middle-class American meals, plus tropical drinks at which the mind boggles." Nika Hazelton

N Y Times Bk R p24 Je 2 '68 50w

TRAHEY, JANE, ed. Harper's bazaar; 100 years of the American female . . . 307p il col il $20 Random house

301.41 Woman—History and condition of women. Fashion 67-22634

A centennial selection of pictures and prose from the American fashion magazine.

Reviewed by Alice Glaser

Book World p5 O 15 '67 850w

"Only incidentally a history of fashion during the past century, this sampler from a fashion magazine devoted to the expensively stylish, is rather a revelation of the role of photographers. The real figures of the book are not the shadows called Suzy Parker, Edith Sitwell, or Katherine Hepburn, but those who evoke the images—Munkacsy, Avedon, Hiro, Beaton, Dahl-Wolfe, and other camera artists. . . . [Though limited] this mauve volume will nevertheless be wanted in large libraries, where it will appeal to general readers, specialists, and perhaps, to young adults." S. C. Gross

Library J 92:4170 N 15 '67 130w [YA]

TRAHEY, JANE—Continued

Reviewed by Iola Haverstick
N Y Times Bk R p6 N 19 '67 650w
New Yorker 43:248 N 11 '67 60w

"There are many windows on the past, and . . . I would not have selected Jane Trahey's, big and shiny as it is. . . . The 'Literary Supplement' in the volume . . . is highly rewarding, and there is a certain amount of fun to be found in flipping through the slick-paper pages with their nostalgic pieces on how much it cost in 1923 to run a country house ($9,861.78) and how to slim down with the the Nine-Day Wonder Diet so admired in Elsa Maxwell's heyday, but these pages are inadequately captioned and (inexplicably) undated; you know what part of the century you are in only by your position in the book. Altogether . . . it is impossible to avoid the impression that the whole affair was thrown together to deck the halls of Harper's Bazaar with wreaths of currency in a flurry of file-flapping, floor-sweeping, and gush. This last reference is to the fortunately limited prose of the editor." Nicholas Samstag
Sat R 50:50 N 25 '67 330w

TRASK, WILLARD R., ed. The unwritten song; poetry of the primitive and traditional peoples of the world; ed. in part, retranslated, and with introd. by Willard R. Trask; 2v; v 1. The Far North/Africa/Indonesia/Melanesia/Australia. 287p $7.95 Macmillan (N Y)
808.81 Folk songs 66-24053
For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Choice 5:352 My '68 110w

Reviewed by Jerome Rothenberg
Nation 207:56 JI 22 '68 650w

Reviewed by William Hunt
Poetry 111:266 Ja '68 400w
TLS p572 Je 6 '68 850w

TRASK, WILLARD R., ed. The unwritten song; poetry of the primitive and traditional peoples of the world; ed. in part retranslated, and with an introd. by Willard R. Trask; 2v; v2. Micronesia/Polynesia/Asia/North America/Central America/South America. 316p $8.95 Macmillan (NY)

808.81 Folk songs (66-24053)

This collection contains poetry which has been transmitted orally and reflects the lives of primitive people. Included are chants, prayers, incantations, dance songs, dialogues, jungle songs, funeral poems, and love songs. Bibliography. Index of peoples. The first volume (BRD 1967) covered The Far North, Africa, Indonesia, Melanesia and Australia.

"Some of the sections, especially those on Polynesia and Asia, have numerous subdivisions; others have only a few. . . . The book is very attractive. The selections appear to be fairly representative, and the quality is high. This book, like its companion, . . . gives needed insight into the artistic creations of preliterate peoples of the world. The range of poetry is wide, concerned mainly with two of the most important elements of existence: relationships between the sexes, and death. Other areas of concern are present, however, in this well balanced volume. Highly recommended."

Choice 5:970 O '68 120w

"The anthology is arranged by continent, followed by country, then by title. In his excellent introduction, Mr. Trask carefully demonstrates the characteristics shared by this poetry from an oral tradition and poetry from other cultures having a written language. . . . This anthology will be in demand by scholars and casual readers of verse alike." R. K. Burns

Library J 92:3428 O 1 '67 160w

TRATTNER, WALTER I. Homer Folks, pioneer in social welfare. 355p $10 Columbia univ. press

B or 92 Folks, Homer 67-29169

A "study showing a Folks who stood between 19th-century charity organizations and later developments in the 1930's, the result of severe economic depression. . . . His career, largely developed in New York, especially in connection with the State Charities Aid Association, helped create the program Governor

Franklin D. Roosevelt took with him to Washington in 1933." (Choice) Annotated bibliography, Index.

"Much of this study involves administrative innovations, conferences, and legislative campaigns, rather than social conditions and practice. Enough is said, however, to more than justify the title. Excellent notes."

Choice 5:679 JI '68 150w

Reviewed by R. H. Bremner
J Am Hist 55:678 D '68 550w

"Professor Trattner of the University of Wisconsin developed this book from his doctoral dissertation which included interviews with Folks before his death in 1963. The book places Folks firmly within the ranks of dynamic leadership in the history of his time. Recommended for university and large public library collections." Clara Luciola

Library J 93:747 F 15 '68 200w

TRAVER, ROBERT. The jealous mistress. 170p $4.95 Little

340 Law

67-28226

A former Michigan Supreme Court judge presents fourteen vignettes of "legal and sociological incidents culled from the opinions of judges in actual cases, and suggests the legal context in which they should be considered." (Library J) Bibliography.

Reviewed by J. B. Cullen
Best Sell 27:419 F 1 '68 700w

"Going to what he rightly calls 'the vast neglected boneyard of the law . . . heaped [with] mildewing lawbooks,' Traver has strung together a small collection of actual cases involving, for the most part, variations on the themes of rape, adultery and nudism. . . . Interspersed throughout are Traver's unrelentingly arch digressions on a variety of nostalgic topics. . . . But judicial opinions make dull reading since most judges, unlike Traver, write to resolve problems, not to titillate third parties. . . . One judge, however, earns his unstinting approbation. Mr. Justice John D. Voelker of Michigan is Traver's solitary hero." J. R. Waltz

Book World p9 My 26 '68 750w

"Mr. Traver's style is light, albeit authoritative, reflecting professionalism, humor, and legal background. When he poses the principle or moral emanating from the specific fact pattern, however, he is indeed serious, especially when he ends with a plea for acceptance of world law by the nations of the world. Recommended for law libraries and large public libraries." J. J. Marke

Library J 92:4518 D 15 '67 250w

"Law, says the well-known judge, is the 'difference between a debate and an alley fight'; it is also a jealous mistress. . . . Marred only by a rather mawkish chapter on a 'dream conversation' with the jealous mistress herself, this book should appeal to those young adults intrigued by logical reasoning as well as by the law as a future career." Dorothy English

Library J 93:897 F 15 '68 110w [YA]

"My only complaint about [this book] is the usual one, from me, that it is all too short. Mr. Traver was well known to some of us buffs as an attractive writer of legal reminiscences long before his popular fame arrived with 'Anatomy of a Murder' [BRD 1953]. This happy new book is a loose collection of essays on odd aspects of the law—on the crime of slavery in modern times, on the civil rights of nudists, on the quality of judicial prose, and a number of other topics, most especially the legal peculiarities and paradoxes of the crime of rape. It is written, mercifully and gracefully, for laymen, by a lawyer who is informed, civilized, curious, witty and ever stimulating. (But I am grieved that even Mr. Traver shockingly misuses, on page 17, the word quixotic)." Anthony Boucher

N Y Times Bk R p36 F 18 '68 260w

Reviewed by Sergeant Cuff
Sat R 51:36 Ja 27 '68 50w

TREADGOLD, DONALD W., ed. Soviet and Chinese communism; similarities and differences. 452p $10 Univ. of Wash. press

335.4 Communism—Russia. Communism—China (People's Republic of China) 66-19575

This collection of revised versions of papers delivered at a 1965 conference at Lake Tahoe attempts an "examination of the recent past and present of communism (viewed as both ideology and as political, economic, and social system) in Russia and China. . . . [The essays concern] Communism's historical roots, or lack of them, in China and Russia; changes effected in each party by the transformation from revolutionary organization to ruling authority; law and extrajudicial means of social control under Communism in both countries; the degree of freedom for literature in both countries, with specific attention to the 'Hundred Flowers' movement and the 'Thaw'; strategy and tactics of economic development; international affairs; and a final essay about the roles of Russian and Chinese Communism in stimulating or restricting science and technology, on the one hand, and 'the realization of human dignity, on the other.' (Am Hist R)

"The contributors to this volume are all distinguished, able scholars, and their papers generally reveal the high level of competence that one expects. . . . But the chief problem here seems to be the dearth of double specialists; many of the contributors are professionally concerned with only one of the countries and understandably limit themselves to the area of their expertise. Although five of the contributors attempt to give full attention to both countries in a comparative fashion, ten papers focus primarily on only one of the countries, and six of these contain virtually no attempt at comparison." J. E. Sheridan
Am Hist R 73:442 D '67 400w

"A collection of useful and informative articles. . . . Contributors include scholars such as Fainsod, Monas, Schurmann, Dallin, and Zagoria. Most of the 14 articles emphasize the contemporary situation in one of the two political systems. . . . The articles are of approximately equal quality. This collection both improves upon and supersedes Unity and Contradiction, edited by Kurt London [BRD 1962]. The volume could be used for an upperclass course on comparative Communism. Recommended for libraries of institutions where such a course is taught."

Choice 4:754 S '67 140w

"Comparative studies of communism appear to be all the rage these days in American academic circles, but this book is not a positive demonstration of their value. . . . [A] kind of doctrinaire approach makes an unfortunate beginning to the whole book. . . . The essays on law and on literature in the two societies, although of considerable intrinsic interest are so widely disparate that there is little basis for comparison. The most successful of those essays which are avowedly comparative in approach are the ones concerning economic and foreign policy, and especially the contributions by F. Schurmann and R. Lowenthal." John Gittings

Pacific Affairs 40:362 fall-winter '67-'68 800w

TREDEZ, DENISE. See Trez, D.

TREECE, HENRY. The centurion; il. by Mary Russon. 3pts in 1 113p $3.95 Meredith 67-16509

In the year 61 A.D., Drusus Pollio, "a hard-bitten centurion of the Ninth Legion is ready for retirement. He looks forward to his pension and to building a small farm somewhere in Lincolnshire, where he can live out his days in peace. But the British tribes—'barbarians' to the Romans—rise to the war cry of Queen [Boudicca, or Boadicea], and the old warrior is swept into the fray. For the first time, he sees the ravages of warfare through the eyes of a noncombatant, and the experience is shattering. [Glossary.] Ages ten to fifteen." (N Y Times Bk R) Part two of this novel was first published in Great Britain in 1965 under the title The Bronze Sword.

"Here is a thoughtful study of the conflict of Roman and Celt, and one way in which it was resolved. The reader is helped to see both sides in a bitter conflict, and to understand the human equation in all such situations." E. F. Ridington

Class World 61:223 F '68 80w

"The plot is shorter and less complicated than that of other stories by the author, and perhaps therefore the story would appeal to those not yet introduced to his books. This one, however, matches others by Treece in giving a complete feeling for the time and place." H. B. C.

Horn Bk 43:472 Ag '67 190w

Reviewed by Patricia Dahl
Library J 92:2660 J1 '67 170w

"[This volume and The Queen's Brooch, BRD 1967], among the last works of the late Henry Treece, could easily be complementary parts of a single volume, since they are similar in time, setting and mood. For each, Mr. Treece has chosen Roman Britain as the canvas on which to portray one of his favorite themes—the clash of cultures. [The Centurion is a] double-edged tale, full of action, uncompromisingly direct." Robert Berkvist

N Y Times Bk R p38 O 3 '67 150w

TREECE, HENRY. The windswept city; a novel of the Trojan War; il. by Faith Jacques. 110p il maps $3.50 Meredith 67-20860

Asterius, Helen's young Thracian slave, learns how to leave the besieged city of Troy "by means of a hidden water pipe, and becomes aware of the machinations of Odysseus. Later, after having witnessed the death of Hector, whom he worshipped as a hero, and the subsequent death of Achilles, he meets Agamemnon. After the fall of the city, he is freed because of his independent spirit by Menelaus, is given as a gift Helen's horse Hippios, and rides away to a new life." (Horn Bk) "Grades five to six." (Library J)

Best Sell 28:19 Ap 1 '68 90w

"In retelling [part of] the story of Troy, [Mr. Treece] uses a tempered realism which produces pathos rather than tragedy. The last desperate days of siege are seen through the eyes of Helen's favorite serving-boy, whose loyal sympathy for her, for tormented Cassandra and noble Hector, is limited by his immaturity; just as his immaturity allows him to admire the great Achilles and his steed and to wonder at the inexplicable reasoning of his elders. Behind this fresh young vision shines distantly the author's awareness of great issues, giving substance to a short tale." Margery Fisher

Christian Science Monitor pB4 My 4 '67 110w

"[This] story of the fall of Troy retains its original power. . . . The stratagem of the wooden horse is given a new, plausible explanation, and the Greeks are seen as commercial rivals of the Trojans as well as seekers of vengeance for Helen." P. H.

Horn Bk 44:181 Ap '68 150w

"Ancient heroes lose their shine but gain humanity in this realistic story. . . . Odysseus is a bit on the crude side, Agamemnon has 'a warrior smell,' and Cassandra is appropriately spooky. Helen's beauty has faded, but she is gentle and kind, especially to Asterius. . . . The lucid writing is rhythmic and strong." Katherine Heylman

Library J 93:1316 Mr 15 '68 80w

TREFFLICH, HENRY. Jungle for sale, by Henry Trefflich [and] Edward Anthony. 283p il $5.95 Hawthorn bks.

591 Animals

67-24653

The author "reminisces about 35 years as a collector and seller of wild animals and domestic pets." (Library J)

"A renowned animal collector and his friend collaborate in this diverting record of man-beast encounters. . . . Bursting with incidents which demand telling in book talks, Trefflich's lifetime with creepy, crawly creatures contains, too, a wealth of definitive data on everything from cockatoos to cockroaches." Jane Manthorne

Horn Bk 44:85 F '68 190w [YA]

"[The author's] chatty story takes in two generations, progressing from Hamburg to the well-known business establishment at 228 Fulton Street in Manhattan. He emphasizes the more exciting and interesting events in his life. . . . Whether or not the animal buff has ever spent a day browsing in Mr. Trefflich's store, he and the general reader should like this book." W. H. Matthews

Library J 92:3432 O 1 '67 140w

Reviewed by Valeria Gregory

Library J 92:4640 D 15 '67 60w [YA]

TRENDALL, A. D. The red-figured vases of Lucania, Campania and Sicily. 2v 700/701-812p il maps $50.40 Oxford

738.3 Vases

[67-97297]

This volume covers the period ca. 440 B.C. to the early third century. "The succession of workshops, a variety of master-and-pupil relationships, and in turn the splitting up of workshop associations, have all been worked out on the evidence of the style of painting and the occasional recorded provenances alone; there is no documentary evidence surviving." (TLS) Bibliography.

TRENDALL, A. D.—Continued

Reviewed by Christoph Clairmont
Class World 61:362 Ap '68 300w

"Professor Trendall is at heart an historian and his establishment of artistic genealogies and his working out of cross influences are masterly and will remain models of their kind; they are prime examples of how material can be made to yield its story by rigorous stylistic analysis. . . . One of the features of the book is the plates which provide documentation for some 1,000 vases by various hands and workshops. These plates are very well produced by the Clarendon Press, which has acquitted itself with great credit in the production of this distinguished addition to the Oxford series of Monographs on Classical Archaeology."

TLS p148 F 15 '68 900w

TRENT, JAMES W. Catholics in college; religious commitment and the intellectual life [by] James W. Trent with Jenette Golds; with a foreword by John Tracy Ellis. 366p $9 Univ. of Chicago press

378 Catholics in the U.S. Church and education. Students—U.S. Education, Higher 67-25518

The author, using "empirical data from comparative studies of Catholic students, who attend both Catholic and non-Catholic colleges, and non-Catholic students . . . probes the psychological life of his subjects with personality scales which measure emotional, intellectual, and religious disposition. . . . He attempts to answer such questions as: How do the religious and intellectual values and attitudes of students who have attended different types of institutions change after four years of college? How do Protestants and Catholics differ in intellectual attitudes from fundamentalist Protestants? . . . And what does it mean to be a Catholic intellectual?" (Publisher's note) Bibliography, Index.

Reviewed by M. P. Sheridan
America 118:504 Ap 13 '68 600w

Reviewed by J. J. Kane
Ann Am Acad 378:194 Jl '68 380w

"I welcome [Trent's] book as a helpful statistical buttress for my common-sense observations which match his. Not all social scientists will agree with all his statistical interpretations. . . . The strength of the book lies in its unavoidable weakness: it has been written for the patrons of the chi square. Undoubtedly this is desirable because statistical validation is what is needed. Yet one does not like to think of Mr. Trent's message being lost to those who do not belong to the statistical mystique, and, ironically, whose number is legion. Therefore either Trent must hasten to do a popularly condensed article for the non-initiates or someone must translate his data into comprehensible prose. . . . He himself in the last two chapters departs from the numbers game, and putting forth some valuable observations writes for the non-scientific man." Sister Candida Lund

Critic 26:80 Ap '68 850w

"[The core of this book] consists of a statistical analysis of two samples of Catholic college students tested as freshmen in 1959 and again as seniors in 1963. . . . These Catholic college students . . . were found . . . to lack intellectuality ('openness to the ideas of others'). . . . Trent himself a Catholic is associate research psychologist and project director at the Center for Research and Development in Higher Education, University of California, Berkeley. His first three chapters constitute a valuable survey of past probings into the nature of the intellectual life; his last three sum up well the implications of intellectuality ('openness') for the modern, open Church. All libraries . . . will need this." C. E. Zakrzewski
Library J 92:4421 D 1 '67 300w

TRESSELT, ALVIN. The legend of the willow plate, by Alvin Tresselt and Nancy Cleaver; with pictures by Joseph Low. unp $3.50; lib bdg $3 Parents mag. press

398.2 Legends—China—Juvenile literature 68-11666

A retelling of the ancient legend of "two lovers who lived long ago in the far-off land of China. Koong-se was the beautiful daughter of a wealthy mandarin. But Chang was a poor peasant poet and they were not allowed to marry. The willow plate tells the story of their escape from Koong-se's angry father, their brief happiness together and how they became immortal." (Publisher's note) "Grades two to five." (Library J)

Reviewed by Elinore Standard
Book World p16 (children's issue) My 5 '68 110w

Reviewed by Elizabeth Pond
Christian Science Monitor pB5 My 2 '68 60w

Horn Bk 44:317 Je '68 80w

"The Willow Pattern is generally reported to be pseudo-Chinese, having been developed by an 18th-Century engraver from a combination of designs on porcelains brought back by the ships of the East India Company, and the legend, although alien to the culture to which it is often attributed, grew out of that pattern. Its appeal to the Western world persists, however, and librarians who have searched in vain for the story in bona-fide collections of Chinese folklore will welcome this picture-book version in which Joseph Low successfully suggests the familiar figures without literally reproducing them." Della Thomas

Library J 93:1805 Ap 15 '68 150w

"In graceful prose as polished as fine jade, [the authors] have given [the story] a fresh, appealing interpretation. Further embroidered in illustrations drawn with blithe, impressionistic strokes and glowing jewel-toned washes, the story has come full cycle, a marriage of traditional and modern artistry." M. F. O'Connell

N Y Times Bk R p20 Ap 14 '68 180w

Reviewed by Zena Sutherland
Sat R 51:33 Je 15 '68 110w

TREVOR, ELLESTON. A place for the wicked. 264p $4.95 Doubleday

68-14203

This novel "tells of a group of seven people, four men, three of them married, who are deeply bound by long affection and friendship. . . . [One] is a crook; . . . the others join him on a job. . . . The weakest breaks, and, by law, all four are guilty of murder. After the job they have gone . . . to the French villa of former happy holidays, and here Mr. Trevor . . . builds the atmosphere and tensions that this situation produces in these people." (TLS)

"This remarkable novel has a very deceptive opening. . . . [It is] a fascinating psychological study of the power of love and friendship under incredibly tense conditions. . . . This is not a novel based on a gimmick or surprise ending, but it would be unfair to the reader to reveal the fine climax. . . . Trevor has used the underlying themes of innocence and guilt, redemption and retribution, along with massive doses of love and friendship to reverse the old adage and demonstrate that there can indeed be honor among thieves." J. W. Hattman

Best Sell 28:184 Ag 1 '68 400w

Reviewed by M. K. Grant
Library J 93:2263 Je 1 '68 60w

"Trevor builds a lot of scenery and shows us, with often agonizing slowness, a good deal about his people before anything much happens. . . . Unfortunately, I couldn't quite swallow the masculine characterizations. It was only at the end of the book that I finally sensed some of the emotional churning the author was trying to convey." A. J. Hubin

N Y Times Bk R p66 S 8 '68 110w

TLS p656 Je 20 '68 210w

TREVOR, WILLIAM. The day we got drunk on cake, and other stories. 210p $4.50 Viking 68-14144

The twelve stories here "are largely centered about characters who are either misfits or complete failures: a bore, confronted by a drunken woman at a cocktail party; a retired general, who seeks to recapture the past through daydreams and alcohol; a disillusioned driving instructor tormented by b. o. and a sense of opportunity lost; a meek little man driven to earn a few pounds by serving as correspondent in a contrived adultery to satisfy the strange ways of the English divorce courts; and a middle-aged couple who successfully maintain the fiction of a child who never existed." (Best Sell) Stories in this collection have appeared in The Antioch Review, The Listener, London Magazine, Queen, Town, The Transatlantic Review, and Voices Two.

Reviewed by Eugene McNamara
America 118:355 Mr 16 '68 200w

"Irish-born William Trevor, who now lives in London, is in the great tradition of the short story writer. His work has been compared to that of Evelyn Waugh, Graham Greene, and Muriel Spark; but readers of 'Miss Smith' in the present collection must immediately think of 'Saki,' for not since that master's 'Sredni Vashtar' have we had such a devastating fictional portrait of a demon-inspired child. . . . Trevor writes forcefully, without tricks or mannerisms; he follows no formulas; he has respect for the nuances of language and the ironies which abound in modern life. To read him is to experience English prose style at its best. Recommended, without reservation, for mature readers." S. P. Ryan

Best Sell 27:405 Ja 15 '68 250w

"[The author] sees his marvelously created characters from a slight angle, so that although they are thoroughly alive, they seem slightly askew, humorous portraits of serious people suffering from a terrifying isolation. In most of these short stories he carries the usual trick of twisting the ending a step further, adding a sharp sting too. Innocence always turns into evil, good intentions wreak havoc. If this robs the tales of some of their surprise, there are other surprises waiting for us—surprise that he uses the trick so often, surprise that he brings it off so well, surprise that anyone should want to read so much accumulating horror. Any pleasure in reading [this] lies in our admiration for Mr. Trevor's superb mastery of his craft." Pamela Marsh

Christian Science Monitor p11 Ja 11 '68 140w

Reviewed by A. J. M. Pedley
Library J 93:97 Ja 1 '68 100w

"Trevor has marked out a suburban allotment of the loser-macabre somewhere between Greene and Spark, but the note of his stories is not as genuine as Greene's or as chillingly funny as Spark's. To cultivate mannered jokiness in the cause (I suspect) of tragic moral purpose is a risky project. When you come to cry wolf, they may all be too busy laughing." Kenith Trodd

New Statesman 73:804 Je 9 '67 150w

Reviewed by Peter Buitenhuis
N Y Times Bk R p38 F 11 '68 600w
TLS p633 Jl 20 '67 60w

TREVOR-ROPER, H. R. The crisis of the seventeenth century; religion, the reformation and social change. 486p il $8.95 Harper

940.2 Europe—History—1492-1789. Seventeenth century. Reformation. 68-15971

The Regius professor of history at Oxford presents a collection of nine essays, eight of which were previously published, concerning the crisis "in government, society and ideas which occurred in England and on the Continent between the Reformation and the mid-seventeenth century. Several of these essays deal with various aspects of the Puritan Revolution, including its extension into foreign countries and its relationship to the 'Protestant International' of Europe. Others consider the effect of the Counter-Reformation on South European capitalism, the Renaissance state and the religious origins of the eighteenth-century Enlightenment. The longest essay [is] a brand-new inquiry into 'The European Witch-craze of the Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries.'" (Publisher's note) Index.

"Alarm is doubtless the inevitable response to Trevor-Roper. It is built into his manner as well as his method. His tone is contentious; his prejudices are boldly affirmed—we never doubt which side he is on—and his opinions are unqualified. The result is certainly lively and provocative. Is the demand for more evidence simply the irritation of the specialist? Or is it part of the ordinary requirement of historical discourse for precision and accuracy? Yet these are, after all no more than essays, trials, and one must recognize the cleverness and inventiveness of the author. Can we hope that some day he will find time to write the major work which his theme demands?" J. M. Levine

Book World p8 Jl 14 '68 900w

Reviewed by David Jordan
Library J 93:1896 My 1 '68 160w

Reviewed by B. H. Smith
Nat R 20:660 Jl 2 '68 1500w

Reviewed by K. G. Davies
New Statesman 74:206 Ag 18 '67 1000w

Reviewed by J. P. Kenyon
N Y Rev of Books 10:24 Je 6 '68 2200w

"[The author] has chosen to express himself in an art form rarely encountered today, especially among academics: the long essay on some major topic, embodying vast reading rather than detailed research, and concerned to establish interpretative schemes which seize upon the imagination and stimulate thought. . . . The splendidly simplifying concepts presented in these essays are, however, the beginning of debate, not its end. . . . [The essay on witchcraft] should be read not only for its contents but for its method also. The manner in which the interpretation is built up by cunning degrees, choosing the right tracks from several directions and through often marshy ground, until the reader, oblivious of the compression which has achieved clarity, breathlessly joins the historian at the finishing tape, is a triumph of art." G. R. Elton

N Y Times Bk R p49 Mr 31 '68 700w

"The author persuasively revises a number of historians' clichés (about, for instance, the connection between Protestantism and capitalism) and solves some historic puzzles (why the era that founded modern physical science was also an era of panicky witch-hunts and witch-burnings). Though Mr. Trevor-Roper is a scrupulous scholar who does not labor to score up-to-date points, his work is overflowing with contemporary relevances."

New Yorker 44:196 Ap 20 '68 70w

"Trevor-Roper, at his best, writes with a vividness and a sense of rhythm and form in the use of language, which mark him out from almost all other [historians]. . . . Essentially an eclectic, he draws on the concepts of other disciplines without becoming their slave. . . . He sees the interaction of material reality—that is, of economics, social structure and institutions—with individual and mass psychology and with ideas. . . . It would seem facile to call him 'a materialist of the Right'; certainly he is every inch an intellectual, likewise an up-to-date, with-it thinker, and he is decidedly not of the Left. A conservative rationalist then perhaps. In a book which will surely go into later editions, one or two errors and misprints deserve correction. Sometimes there could be fuller documentation."

TLS p973 O 19 '67 3400w

TREZ, ALAIN, jt. auth. Good night, Veronica. See Trez, D.

TREZ, DENISE. Good night, Veronica; story and pictures by Denise and Alain Trez [tr. by Douglas McKee]. 32p $3.95; lib bdg $3.77 Viking

68-18121

"The half-asleep fantasies of small Veronica and her dog Citron on a hot summer evening." (Commonweal) "Kindergarten to grade three." (Library J)

Reviewed by Pamela Marsh

Christian Science Monitor pB4 My 2 '68 70w

Reviewed by M. L. Birmingham
Commonweal 88:301 My 24 '68 30w
Horn Bk 44:411 Ag '68 110w

"This read-aloud picture-story, constructed around the imaginative dream fantasies of a small girl, is executed with a sophistication and sleekness which impair its plausibility and appeal. In the dream sequences, Veronica, accompanied by her dog Citron, becomes involved in a series of bizarre situations (clouds unravel into a skein of wool, a drink of river water makes animals shrink) which unfold in the semi-logical manner of dreams but which will be of little interest to young listeners. The cartoon-like drawings have the verve characteristic of this French artist's work . . . but they cannot rescue this from a one-read-ing-is-enough category." E. S. Miller

Library J 93:2109 My 15 '68 130w

"Like creampuffs, dreams don't transport well, but the Gallic husband and wife team of Alain and Denise Trez manages to preserve one graphically between the covers of [this book]. Mrs. Trez's words serve merely as loose continuity for an inspiration almost wholly visual. . . . It is a pictorial will o' the wisp." S. G. Lanes

N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p54 My 5 '68 100w

TRICKER, R. A. R. The paths of the planets. 240p il pl $9.50 Elsevier pub. co.

523.2 Solar system [67-111065]

The author "shows how one can retrace in part the work of Copernicus, Kepler, and others in the construction of an accurate theoretical model of the solar system. [He describes] how this can be done by an amateur with . . . simple equipment and a knowledge of elementary geometry." (Library J)

"British schoolmaster Tricker's facts are correct and his development of planetary astronomy is appropriate for young students who have studied geometry. However, his prose style is cumbersome and will confuse the average American in junior high school. Many of the 121 diagrams are very useful for introductory explanations, but none of these have captions, and most of them resemble diagrams in a geometry textbook. Photographs of planets and instruments are given in 15 useful black-and-white plates, and the plotted paths of Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn over 20 years are unique. The scope is strictly limited to 'paths.' . . . [This book] may be useful to teachers or as collateral reading for exceptional high school students."

Choice 5:216 Ap '68 170w

Reviewed by J. W. Weigel

Library J 93:1642 Ap 15 '68 60w

TRILLING, LIONEL. The experience of literature; a reader with commentaries. 1320p $12.95 Doubleday

808.8 Literature—Collections 67-20030

This book "is divided into four parts: Short Stories, Plays, Poems, Poetry for Further Reading. Included are eight plays ranging from the classical drama to the contemporary theatre, twenty-two short stories by American, English, Russian and French authors . . . and twenty-two poems arranged chronologically from Wyatt and Donne to Auden and Lowell. Each selection is accompanied by a critical commentary written for this volume by Professor Trilling. In addition, there is an anthology of two-hundred and fifty of the greatest poems in the English language." (Publisher's note) Index.

"An extraordinarily rich book. . . . At every turn, there is . . . the sense of public and private relevance informing the choice [of short stories]. . . . Care is [also] evident in the commentaries. . . . They are unfailingly vivid; and tactful, never too much, never too little, just enough to stimulate the reader's mind, his values, his conscience. . . . [However] Mr. Trilling's inescapable terms, as a critic, are morality and politics. But he knows that one of the most fundamental tests of morality and politics is the test enforced by great literature. . . . Ambiguities, which have already animated Mr. Trilling's critical books, are now active again in this remarkable anthology. . . . [Moreover] the texts here are not impeccable. . . . I must report that there are errors." Denis Donoghue

Commentary 45:92 Ap '68 3000w

"[This is] a text so remarkably good and interesting that it . . . has surmounted pedagogy in order to teach. . . . Mr. Trilling's format . . . is no different from that of many commonplace anthologies. The striking difference . . . lies in the quality of the critical interpretation. . . . Mr. Trilling, quite simply, tries to define whatever it is in a work of literature that makes it alive. . . . Once a good reader like Trilling has gone directly to the idea-heart of a work, all the terms of study are changed. A lot of the usual kind of discussion or scholarship either becomes comparatively irrelevant or else falls readily into place among the footnotes. In fact, it is not even of major importance that some of the Trilling commentaries are not complete or long enough." Robie Macauley

N Y Times Bk R p3 D 31 '67 1100w

"The selection of poetry seems to me excellent; and Trilling's critical discussions are quite remarkable. . . . A broader shadow is cast over the contemporary section by a format decision that may at first seem harmless: . . . the poems included are all English and American. Obviously, certain major works of European poetry could easily have been included in the original, with versions en face. This omission . . . has decidedly inconvenient esthetic repercussions. Insofar as we wish to consider literature as an 'experience,' . . . we cannot omit European poetry. . . . Although for ninety-five percent of the way this vast anthology strikes a nice balance between the universal and the personal, in the end there is difficulty. The excellence, grace, and insight of Trilling's work seems to me undermined by this final five percent of the book." Michael Benedikt

Poetry 113:214 D '68 360w

TROOP, ROBERT. An innocent greed [Eng title: The hammering]. 268p $4.95 Dutton

68-29120

In this novel, Peter Horenson, "a London securities analyst, is already cracking under the strain of having lost 3,500 clams of the firm's money in personal speculation. He tried to borrow the sum from his golfing friends and harvests a crop of indecent proposals, including one that he take part in the natural insemination of a childless wife. Then there is Freddie Hale-Brown, who wants Horenson's wife [Rachel] as collateral—and Fergus Tovey, a mysterious American who offers him a sinister assignment." (N Y Times Bk R)

"[This] novel is amusing and trying by turns. . . . In a final poignant scene, [Horenson] waits on the beach for his children to recognize him, but sister cautions brother not to wave at strangers. [The book] has its moments of hilarity. The chief difficulty is that it is only the latest in the long line of black humor put-ons satirizing the foibles and values of that bleeding hulk known as 'the middle class.' . . . Perhaps the fault is not Mr. Troop's, but is in the material he chose." N. J. Loprete

Best Sell 28:264 O 1 '68 190w

Reviewed by William Ready

Library J 93:4309 N 15 '68 150w

"There is a memorable ending [in this novel] in which we see the former pillar of the community turning into a Beckettian tramp before our eyes. In this absorbing comedy, we sense sufficient control and imaginative resources to have sustained an even intenser vision. To have wrung exuberance and a sense of callous evil out of the conventional suburban situation is an achievement, and it isn't marred by any dénouement sentimental. One feels that the author has for some reason denied himself the pleasure of carrying us over from intelligent entertainment to true pathos." Gabriel Chanan

New Statesman 74:294 S 8 '68 230w

Reviewed by Martin Levin

N Y Times Bk R p38 Ag 18 '68 270w

"[This book deals] with an increasingly inhuman and impersonal world. . . . [Through] black comedy and ironic farce, . . . [the author attempts] to express a growing concern with the chaos and greed, futility and selfishness, lurking beneath the civilized suburban surface. . . . The sterility of commuter England, indeed the sterility of England itself, is fair enough game, as indeed is man's inhumanity to man; but both these themes eventually elude the author, one because the English class system is seen, and imperfectly understood, from outside (the author is Canadian by birth and education) and the other because . . . the power slickly to shape many an amusing quotation for his own ends is no substitute for an organizing intelligence. The most opaque transatlantic verbosity treads on the heels of pertinent observations. Control is lacking and black comedy shades off into grey boredom." TLS p844 S 21 '67 310w

TROTSKY, LEON. Stalin; an appraisal of the man and his influence; ed. and tr. from the Russian by Charles Malamuth; introd. by Bertram D. Wolfe. new ed 516p il $10 Stein & Day

B or 92 Stalin, Iosif 67-28713

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Choice 5:399 My '68 140w

Economist 229:73 N 23 '68 30w

Nation 206:124 Ja 22 '68 40w

TROY, WILLIAM. William Troy: selected essays; ed. and with an introd. by Stanley Edgar Hyman; with a memoir by Allen Tate. 300p $9 Rutgers univ. press

809 Literature—History and criticism

67-13074

The author, "a university lecturer on literature, . . . reviewed fiction regularly for The Nation, for which he also served as film critic, and . . . contributed reviews and essays to literary journals and quarterlies, especially Partisan Review and The Hudson Review. . . . Mr. Hyman has chosen for inclusion here twenty of Troy's published articles and reviews and three previously unpublished pieces. Among the authors Troy writes of are Henry James, Virginia Woolf, James Joyce, Gertrude Stein, Scott Fitzgerald, Stendhal, Balzac, Thomas Mann, and Shakespeare. The hitherto unpublished pieces are 'Time and Space Conceptions in Modern Literature,' 'Thoughts on Tragedy,' and a postscript to an essay on Thomas Mann." (Publisher's note) Bibliography of Troy's literary criticism. Index.

Choice 5:772 S '68 130w

"Allen Tate, [the author's] friend for nearly forty years, contributes an illuminating personal memoir. . . . Mr. Hyman, with his unique knowledge of contemporary criticism, has beautifully introduced Troy's work to a generation that knows too little about it—and incidentally reaffirmed Troy's true stature for those who needed reminding. . . . [His] essays are indispensable to anyone interested in the two decades between the war, when so much of our present understanding of literature was being constructed. But his significance goes far beyond his time: he never wrote merely fashionably, his respect for reason and form was much too strict for that. . . . Troy is for those who enjoy the passionate and witty play of a first-rate mind upon the perennial mysteries of human conduct, and upon the beautiful forms that literature may take now or in any age." Francis Fergusson

Commentary 44:79 J1 '67 1600w

"A figure like Troy, who wrote about seventy critical pieces and no book, is easily forgotten. . . . [He] was too eclectic for easy labeling, and thus for packaging in histories of criticism. His attempts at theory, like the essay on tragedy here reprinted, were both loose and unoriginal. . . . Yet Troy is eminently worth reviving. . . . [His essay on Stendhal is perhaps his most dazzling. Combining close analysis of action with biographical, psychological and historical inferences, tactfully framed. Troy shows how Stendhal exemplifies a cultural idea, thereby exemplifying his own large sense of the meaning of literature. . . . In his introduction, Hyman praises Troy for his originality, which is indeed impressive. More impressive is the enduring rightness of his judgment." C. T. Samuels

Nation 204:764 Je 12 '67 1650w

"Troy was especially sympathetic to French literature. His essays on Stendhal, Balzac, and Valéry, in particular, pointed the way, in the 1940s, when they first appeared, to critical methods designated today in France as structuralist, sociological, thematic, psychoanalytical. . . . The publication of these essays will assure Troy a deserving place among his contemporary American critics. . . . His pages on Joyce (cf. 'Notes on Finnegans Wake') reveal an unusual affinity with the mind and the sensibility of the Irish writer. . . . Troy never failed to point out some of the relationships that exist between the writer and his age, particularly if the writer has the genius of Henry James or Virginia Woolf or Thomas Mann. But he seemed to be more concerned with the way in which a genius went beyond his age, the way in which he felt the genius would survive his age. He was more interested in the work itself than in its temporal situation." Wallace Fowlie

Poetry 112:116 My '68 800w

TROYAT, HENRI. Tolstoy; tr. from the French by Nancy Amphoux. 762p il $7.95 Doubleday

B or 92 Tolstoy, Leo 67-22472

A biography of the author of War and Peace which describes his evolution as a man and writer. Troyat seeks to show "why he was regarded by his contemporaries not only as a literary giant but also as a gargantuan enigma. Tolstoy . . . was the personification of Man at all times, who was in reality two men, 'one saint, the other a libertine—clothed in the same skin and constantly at war.'" (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by Maurice Adelman
America 118:618 My 4 '68 100w

Reviewed by Oscar Handlin
Atlantic 220:142 D '67 1350w

Reviewed by R. F. Grady
Best Sell 27:381 Ja 1 '68 550w

"To reconcile Tolstoy the pure artist with Tolstoy the demon-ridden preacher is the formidable task challenging his biographer. It has been superbly met by Henri Troyat. . . . His Tolstoy is worthy not only to stand on the same shelf as Ernest Simmons' classic biography [Leo Tolstoy, BRD 1946], but with the works of its subject as well. . . . If Troyat comes up with no glib key to the enigma of Tolstoy's personality, our disappointment is mitigated by the corresponding lack of spurious post-mortem psychoanalysis. . . . [However, this] is in no sense a critical biography. . . . Troyat's major contribution to the reader's understanding of Tolstoy is his demonstration, step by step through intelligently selective excerpting from diaries and letters, of just how gradual and inexorable Tolstoy's conversions were from the army officer and rakehell to the artist, and then from the artist to the dogmatic preacher of anti-esthetics, self-abnegation and Christian Communism." Richard Freedman

Book World p1 D 17 '67 1350w

Choice 5:350 My '68 220w

Reviewed by Pamela Marsh

Christian Science Monitor p22 D 7 '67 850w

Critic 26:92 Ap '68 160w

Economist 227:xiii Ap 27 '68 550w

Reviewed by Justin Kaplan

Harper 235:108 D '67 1350w

"Troyat has created an unforgettable picture of Tolstoy's tormented personality. In the process he also provides numerous insights into the various levels of 19th-Century Russian life. Russian-born Mr. Troyat, a member of the French Academy, writes with a novelist's skill and with an appreciation for the unique aspects of Russian life and character. . . . Part of the greatness of this biography lies in its duality: it is both a fascinating introduction for the novice and a stimulating presentation from which the Tolstoy devotees or Russian literary critics will derive new insights. A definitive work for all but the smallest library." Richard Schwarz

Library J 93:81 Ja 1 '68 120w

Reviewed by A. M. Lerner

Nation 206:347 Mr 11 '68 1550w

Reviewed by V. S. Pritchett

New Statesman 75:335 Mr 15 '68 2450w

Reviewed by James Lord

N Y Times Bk R p1 D 17 '67 1700w

New Yorker 43:115 Ja 20 '68 130w

Reviewed by Saul Maloff

Newsweek 70:103 D 18 '67 850w

"The very special genius of Henri Troyat . . . is not that of a critic in novels, but of a novelist in men. If Tolstoy's novels seem to be 'missing' from this biography, it is not only because they have little place in Tolstoy's life records, but also because Troyat does not like them very much or analyze them very deeply. . . . [Troyat's] criticism is the surface-skimming of an earlier age. Nor is this very reasonable Academician particularly sympathetic with Tolstoy's idealist pretensions. . . . And yet I cannot imagine Tolstoy finding a better biographer. Though he steers clear of Tolstoy's soul, and avoids the lower reaches of the creative unconscious, Troyat has still written a magisterial biography. . . . His play of words bespeaks a lifetime of using them well; his sentences sing—even in English. (The translation . . . is nearly perfect, invisible: [it] is Troyat, for all I could tell.)" David Littlejohn

Reporter 38:41 F 8 '68 2000w

"[M. Troyat] has been able to produce a good deal of fresh and important information. The episodes [devoted to Tolstoy's courtship and marriage] are brilliantly told and contain much new factual material. . . . [The author] provides information about the genesis of the major novels, the extent of their autobiographical content, and the part their writing played in the relations between husband and wife. He also offers condensed but excellent critiques. . . . [However] M. Troyat does not treat Tolstoy's nonliterary works of [the last thirty years in his life] with the same careful attention he gives to the fiction, although they formulate the philosophy of life that guided Tolstoy's actions during these years. . . . The book is supplied with a substantial bibliography and a system of notes which cite sources, mostly Russian, of hundreds of quotations. But data for the sources of many quotations are incomplete, and in not a few cases are omitted entirely. Although there are the usual slips, they are surprisingly few in so extensive a work." E. J. Simmons

Sat R 51:25 Ja 20 '68 2150w

Time 90:79 D 22 '67 850w

TROYAT, HENRI—Continued

"M. Troyat's Tolstoy introduces no new material. That is hardly surprising. When the 'facts' are legion, one can only look for selection and interpretation. It does, however, introduce some factual errors, for which the translator may be responsible. . . . It is not M. Troyat's task to assess Tolstoy's literary merits. For the most part they are taken as read. But when he does venture an occasional comment on the novels he has some controversial things to say. . . . There is no need for a biographer to be a literary critic. With Tolstoy, however, a definitive biography should surely give adequate space to the impact and relevance of his thought. . . . It is a pity that the spiritual dimensions of Tolstoy's life and particularly his profound study of the great religions of the world should have been so neglected in M. Troyat's biography, which deals so fully with the external details of daily life and the intimate relations of husband and wife."

TLS p527 My 23 '68 1800w

Va Q R 44:cxx summer '68 130w

TRUAX, CAROL. The art of salad making; il. by Jean Charlot. 210p $4.95 Doubleday

641.8 Salads 68-10542

The author "shows how a salad may substitute for almost any course of a well-planned meal and gives recipes for salads, ranging from appetizers, tossed salads, and main dish salads to dessert salads. . . . There is a section on . . . salads native to different countries. . . . Some suggested menus are included." (Library J)

Reviewed by Gloria Levitas

Book World p5 Ag 11 '68 60w

"Both the novice and experienced cook will welcome this book. . . . Directions are clear and suggestions for serving and garnishing the salads illustrate the importance of color harmony and form as well as taste. Recommended as an excellent addition to cookbook collections." M. L. Blackwell

Library J 93:1631 Ap 15 '68 210w

TRUDEAU, PIERRE ELLIOTT. Federalism and the French Canadians; with an introd. by John T. Saywell. 212p $6.50 St Martins

320.0971 Federal government. French Canadians. Canada—Politics and government 68-29110

A selection of pieces by the leader of the Canadian Liberal Party. "The book's nine 'position' papers (written from 1954 to 1967) outline the legal basis for his 'Just Society': the divided jurisdiction of a federal state protects individual freedom and allows achievement of the provinces' economic goals. Each level of government must operate within its own sphere with no legislative encroachment into other jurisdictions. 'Particular status' to any one government on an ethnic basis is denied, whether French-Canadian or otherwise. Provincial autonomy within power demarcations is desirable, however, once outside, autonomy becomes a threat to the national state." (Library J) This book is a translation of Le Fédéralisme et la société canadienne-française.

Reviewed by B. D. Williams

Best Sell 28:308 N 1 '68 460w

Choice 5:1224 N '68 130w

"The fact that the [author] happens to be an economist, lawyer and political philosopher should not mislead anybody into expecting dullness. This [book] . . . blends vehement polemic with a keen analytical cutting power. . . . [Trudeau] shows very plainly how the demand that the French Canadian should have a 'national state' in Quebec means their forfeiting the claim to equal linguistic right throughout the rest of Canada—including Ottawa. Exposure of the frauds and evils of narrow nationalism is a theme he returns to not only in a Canadian context but in wider ones too."

Economist 227:48 Je 29 '68 700w

"Trudeau's concern is with developing, by constitutional reform, the jurisdictional areas of the powers already allocated. Well-documented footnotes provide for updating and for a history of federal-provincial relations. Excellent reading for the student of constitutional theory." Dean Tudor

Library J 93:3792 O 15 '68 200w

Reviewed by Marshall McLuhan

N Y Times Bk ■ p36 N 17 '68 1100w

"This volume comes out after its author, the 48-year-old Liberal politician has been elected Prime Minister of the first Canadian majority government in six years; it contains not one blowhard campaign speech, and it focuses with high intelligence on the most controversial, divisive political issue in Canada: French separatism. . . . Trudeau is a colorful French-Canadian maverick, who is dead set against French separatism, and peppers his sober political and economic analysis of the problems with flatout comments like: 'Separatism a revolution? My eye.' . . . Trudeau's caustic observations about his Canadian brothers seem curiously relevant to America. . . . Though the French problem in Canada is not precisely duplicated in any other country, the Prime Minister's over-all analysis of the general dynamics of minority group-majority group relations is so acute that it definitely makes very interesting reading south of the border." T. G. Plate

Newsweek 72:62 S 2 '68 700w

TLS p819 Ag 1 '68 500w

TRUFFAUT, FRANÇOIS. Hitchcock; with the collaboration of Helen G. Scott. 256p il $10 Simon & Schuster

791.43 Moving pictures. Hitchcock, Alfred Joseph 67-16729

This book is based on a series of taped dialogues between François Truffaut, the French film director, and Alfred Hitchcock, which give a history of Hitchcock's career, film by film. The scope of Truffaut's study included "(a) the circumstances attending the inception of each picture; (b) the preparation and structure of the screenplays; (c) specific directorial problems on each film; and (d) Hitchcock's own assessment of the commercial and artistic results in relation to his initial expectations for each picture." (N Y Times Bk R) The Films of Alfred Hitchcock. Bibliography. Indexes of film titles and names. Originally published 1966 entitled Le Cinéma selon Hitchcock.

Reviewed by Maurice Adelman

America 118:620 My 4 '68 50w

Reviewed by Oscar Handlin

Atlantic 221:116 Ja '68 700w

Reviewed by J. J. Quinn

Best Sell 27:410 Ja 15 '68 290w

Reviewed by Andrew Sarris

Book World p4 Ja 14 '68 1000w

"Hitchcock divulges a lot of inside dope and aesthetics; Truffaut asks the right questions and sometimes states an unpopular opinion regarding a film. All told, a worthwhile book. . . . Price is too high."

Choice 4:1404 F '68 120w

Reviewed by John Beaufort

Christian Science Monitor p11 Ja 4 '68 550w

Reviewed by Jonathan Baumbach

Commonweal 87:658 Mr 1 '68 1000w

"The Truffaut-Hitchcock encounter is ingratiating, primarily because Truffaut's enthusiasm for his elder's work is contagious. I would have expected the admiration to be more tongue-in-cheek. . . . Hitchcock is endlessly fascinating on the subject of how his films are carpentered. No one weighs with more finesse the ingredients of suspense, or can speak more eloquently of angles, distances, cuts, and timing. One need not be a film buff to become engrossed in this sophisticated shop-talk. But as to why his films are made—what they are intended to be or do—silence. Truffaut keeps urging motive and Hitchcock keeps falling back on expertise. . . . The motive, always, is to fill the house. That, of course, is show business, and Hitchcock has never pretended to be in any other. But he maintains so rigorously the role of brisk, cold-blooded manipulator, that one recalls the broad streak of ham running through his public personality."

Robert Hatch

Harper 235:121 D '67 380w

Reviewed by G. D. McDonald

Library J 93:1498 Ap 1 '68 180w

Reviewed by Jack Leavitt

Nation 206:313 Mr 4 '68 1200w

Reviewed by A. Croce

Nat R 20:563 Je 4 '68 210w

"To an astonishing degree the book . . . follows Truffaut's original plan. What is even more astonishing is Hitchcock's extreme candor in supplying the answers. . . . His recollections of his early vicissitudes in England's rickety film establishments of the twenties are told with humor and charm; and seldom is he less than straightforward, often to the point of being self-critical, in his responses to Truffaut's questioning. . . . Much of the interview is actually a conversation between two highly skilled and articulate men who sincerely admire each other, and are both passionately concerned with the art and craft of their chosen profession. Hitchcock, it becomes immediately clear, is entranced with the technical side of film making. . . . [Truffaut] is constantly trying to discover a meaning, an underlying rationale that might tie the films together. . . . [The book] should prove a revelation to the layman and an invaluable guide to this nation's growing number of film students." Arthur Knight

N Y Times Bk R p6 D 17 '67 1150w

Reviewed by Joseph Morgenstern
Newsweek 71:59 Ja 1 '68 800w

"[This book is] accompanied by nearly five hundred photographs, and it is likely to become a classic book on the art of the film. . . . No book before this one has made a better case for Hitchcock's genius or for the French 'author' theory of film directorship. . . . The most fascinating and important aspect of [the book] is the way it reveals the psychology of Hitchcock's cinema. The psychological effect of cinema is something every moviegoer feels, nowhere more pervasively than at a Hitchcock movie, but few have adequately explained. . . . The chief problem is that Hitchcock's films can arouse our feelings of guilt and fear and to some degree control them, but they do not enable us to understand our emotions or to master them. [They provide] no catharsis. What Truffaut's Hitchcock does not answer is whether this absence of psychological or dramatic purgation is an aspect of Hitchcock's artistry or a limitation in the form of the film itself." Robert Sklar

Reporter 38:48 F 8 '68 800w

TRUNGPA, CHÖGYAM. See Chögyam Trungpa

TSCHICHOLD, JAN. Asymmetric typography [tr. by Ruari McLean] pub. in co-operation with Cooper & Beatty, Ltd, Toronto. 94p il $16.50 Reinhold

655.2 Typesetting. Printing—Specimens 66-24550

This book, "published in Switzerland in 1935, [is] now revised and brought up to date. . . . [The author discusses] the application of asymmetric design to different printing methods such as gravure, offset and letterpress. There are also . . . chapters on typographic refinements concerning type setting, grouping, line endings, tables, colour and paper." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Originally published under the title Typographische Gestaltung.

"[This book by] the acknowledged founder of new typography . . . reads as well today as ever. . . . Although primarily concerned with display typography . . . [it is] a manual for printers. . . . Should be in any large library." Bill Katz

Library J 92:1920 My 15 '67 80w

"In its time [this was] a revolutionary book, directed against the prevailing symmetrical conventions of pre-Bauhaus times. . . . It is rooted in a close knowledge of the best radical work of the 1920s—Lissitzky above all but also the Czech Karel Teige—and a sure commitment to the abstract (or 'concrete') art of such painters as Albers, Mondrian and Moholy-Nagy, whose compositional principles it extends to typography. . . . It is true that in 1968 there is no longer the same novelty in the examples, given of asymmetric layout, and some of them perhaps look a bit thin. The text itself, however, is far from being a period piece. It remains apposite and suggestive for all concerned with print today. Not least because it will correct the excesses of those avant-garde designers who take a less functional view than Herr Tschichold of their job. . . . As for his fundamental principles, they could not be bettered."

TLS p177 F 22 '68 550w

TSHOMBE, MOÏSE. My fifteen months in government [tr. by Lewis Barnays]. 117p $4 Univ. of Plano

967.5 Congo (Democratic Republic)—Politics and government 67-22557

"The book concentrates exclusively on Tshombe's fifteen-month tenure as Congolese Prime Minister." (Nat R)

"In this remarkable little volume, Moïse Tshombe has given us an interim political testament that establishes him as Africa's most realistic and genuinely African leader. . . . [It is] written in a simple, sincere, and occasionally delightful droll manner. . . . It was Tshombe's misfortune to be a too-successful Prime Minister, thus incurring the enmity of President Kasavubu and occasioning his downfall. The reasons for Tshombe's success are readily apparent in this book." J. B. Burnham
Nat R 19:817 J1 25 '67 260w

"In these brief notes on his 'restoration,' Tshombe exudes that confident air of superiority characteristic only of wealthy men with genteel spirits. The crass struggle for power has been reduced to congenial anecdotes told with the aplomb of an English gentleman traveling through Africa in the last century. Behind his unscrupulous noblesse and a wide, winner's grin lies a warped vision of himself and innumerable distortions of the Congo's political reality during his reign. . . . His recent kidnapping probably has ended the political career of the salesman from Katanga." Paul Semonin
N Y Times Bk R p96 N 19 '67 750w

TSOUMIS, GEORGE. Wood as raw material; source, structure, chemical composition, growth, degradation, and identification. 276p il $10 Pergamon

620.1 Wood 67-27494

"Beginning with a . . . description of forest trees as sources of wood, the author . . . [gives] descriptions of macroscopic, physical, and microscopic characteristics of wood, followed by discussion of its chemical composition and ultrastructure, the mechanism of wood formation, the formation and structure of bark, variations in wood structure, and abnormalities in and degradation of wood, and ends with keys for identification of wood and some material on techniques for microscopic investigations." (Science)

"The book is written primarily . . . for students in fields in which a knowledge of wood is necessary. . . . The presentation of such a broad range of information in a relatively small book has been at the expense of clarity in some places and has resulted in excessive generalization in others. Many of the illustrations are . . . [unclear and] not consistent with the text in level of understanding required. . . . The presentation does not seem adequate for serious students of wood science and technology. . . . The book omits any reference to the major strength and related mechanical properties of wood. . . . In spite of these limitations, the book is well worth consideration by those who desire a brief, general treatment of the growth and structure of wood. It certainly has merit for this purpose." R. L. Youngs
Science 162:788 N 15 '68 390w

"In this not very technical but knowing book, half text, half reference work, a broad and clear view is taken ranging over the long list of topics in the subtitle. The photographs are fascinating, and each chapter has a long list of references to the primary technical sources for this admirable survey."

Sci Am 219:122 Ag '68 390w

TUCCI, GIUSEPPE. Tibet; land of snows; tr. by J. E. Stapleton Driver; phot. by Wim Swaan, Edwin Smith and others. 216p $15 Stein & Day

915.15 Tibet 67-24403

The author visited Tibet between the years 1927 and 1948. This volume discusses the history of the region, Tibetan Buddhism, art, daily life, and Tibetan literature. Bibliography. Tibetan terms. Index.

"A volume in the Stein and Day series on ancient cultures, this is a must for the public and collegiate libraries."

Best Sell 27:378 D 15 '67 100w

Choice 5:544 Je '68 160w

Reviewed by Joseph Bram
Library J 93:549 F 1 '68 340w

TUCCI, GIUSEPPE—Continued

"A beautiful big picture book on Tibet, with an authoritative text by Professor Tucci, an Italian Orientalist who has made eight visits to the country he calls 'a kind of miraculous medieval survival.' Along with giving an extensive account of Tibetan history, religion, and the amazingly decorative and overblown art, Professor Tucci answers questions that we might not have thought to ask, such as what modern Tibetans do in the evening (the rich play dice or dominoes, the poor ask each other verse riddles). Superb photographs. . . many in color."

New Yorker 43:246 D 9 '67 80w

TUCHMAN, MAURICE, ed. American sculpture of the sixties; exhibition selected and book-catalog [held] Los Angeles County mus. of art, Apr. 28-Je. 25, 1967 [and] Philadelphia mus. of art, Sept. 15-Oct. 29; sponsored by the Contemporary art council [a publication of the Los Angeles County mus. of art]. 258p il col il $13.50; pa $6 N.Y. graphic

730.973 Sculpture, American—Exhibitions 67-18143

The catalog of an exhibition organized by the curator of modern art at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art, and held there and in Philadelphia, this past spring and fall. The essays describe "the interesting problems which are raised in the diversity of contemporary sculpture: serial repetition of simple forms, ideas of single-gestalt imagery, the effect upon sculpture of new materials and processes, the role of color and connections between painting and sculpture. Varying evaluations are made about the merit of new work." (Intro) Bibliography. Glossary of terms.

"[This publication] makes available in organized and generous form . . . an aspect of current American sculpture. It cannot possibly be comprehensive because of the physical and economic limitations of museum exhibitions, nor has sufficient time passed to afford historical perspective. It is rather the raw material of history yet to be made. [It] will be of value to art students at all levels and to advanced art history students."

Choice 4:1234 Ja '68 150w

"The book is wordy and arcane; even the glossary of specialized art terms helps little toward clarification. The color and black-and-white illustrations are very good, and the book is well printed. The essays seemed to this reviewer to be the most important part of the catalog because the sculptures—their impenetrable forms a 3-D version of an elaborate philosophy of artistic reduction—say nothing about themselves. . . . The sculptors have provided capsule statements at the end of the catalog." Richard Beale

Library J 93:67 Ja 1 '68 170w

"The exceptionally clear reproductions, not only in black-and-white but also in color, which is important now that so much sculpture is painted, are . . . introduced by ten essays by as many prominent critics of contemporary art. The essays are possibly more interesting as definitions of the positions of the critics themselves since they are largely concerned with what has happened in New York, and what each other has said about it, than with what is happening, not only in the East but also on the West Coast. The change of tense is worth emphasizing because this is a critical catalogue not so much of sculpture of the 1960s as of the immediate present. No less than ninety-two of the 166 items were created or completed in 1966-67." G. H. Hamilton

Sat R 50:42 N 25 '67 460w

TUCHOLSKY, KURT. What if—? satirical writings of Kurt Tucholsky; tr. by Harry Zohn and Karl F. Ross. 217p $6.95 Funk

837 Satire, German 67-30021

The book begins with a "review of Tucholsky's life and times, . . . followed by English versions of a selection of his prose satire, translated largely by H. Zohn, and of his poetic satire, translated entirely by K. Ross. The latter . . . offers the German original on the facing page." (Choice)

"Humor or satire of any kind presents the translator with a difficult task, and in this Tucholsky is no exception. Both translators have evidently worked according to the principle that it is more important that the English versions project the flavor and basic meaning of Tucholsky rather than offer a literal transfer from one language to the other. This is especially noticeable in the poems, where Ross has attempted to maintain form as well as content."

Choice 5:781 S '68 160w

Reviewed by Ernst Pawel
Commentary 46:100 D '68 1400w

"A useful introduction to Tucholsky. . . this collection of short sketches, aphorisms, and poetry ranges from a tongue-in-cheek description of Tucholsky's own funeral to bitter denunciations of war. The attraction of the book lies in its gentle irony and the quaint quality it evokes of a bygone era quite reminiscent of the songs of Kurt Weill and Bertolt Brecht. . . . Recommended for all but the smallest libraries." Klaus Musmann

Library J 93:3000 S 1 '68 150w

TUCKER, JOHN. Kanchenjunga; foreword by Sir John Hunt. 224p pl maps $5 Abelard-Schuman

796.5 Kanchenjunga 66-25008

"Kanchenjunga in the Himalaya is only a few hundred feet lower than Mount Everest. Some mountaineers consider it both a more beautiful mountain and a more dangerous climb. It was not conquered until 1955. The climb could not have been accomplished, asserts Sir John Hunt in the foreword, had not an expedition of explorer-mountaineers investigated the peak the year before to suggest routes and establish bases. John Tucker was one of this small British party. His account of this expedition was published in Great Britain in 1955 and is now being published in the United States." (Library J) Index.

"Unfortunately, Mr. Tucker does not write with the style of James Ramsey Ullman [Americans on Everest, BRD 1964] or with the lyrical observation of Wilfred Noyce [South Col, a Personal Story of the Ascent of Everest, BRD 1955]. His book is a literal account of the exploration of a route up the third highest (some say the second highest) mountain in the world. A number of photographs in black and white complete the record." A. S. Harris

Library J 92:1010 Mr 1 '67 140w

"We are told, on the dust cover of this book, that it is 'the story of an unprecedented mountaineering experience.' Perhaps, in the sense that the author and his companions covered new mountain territory, this is true. . . . However, for the reader what makes an experience 'unprecedented' or memorable is the telling, and here Mr. Tucker is at a disadvantage, for he wields a better ice axe than a pen. His style alternates between rather dull description that can only be appreciated by those interested in mountaineering technically, and bursts of that peculiar schoolmasterish levity to which British mountaineers have so often been prone. . . . All too often it sounds like a Sixth Form outing: 'here we rested awhile chewing Kendal Mint Cake and drinking lemonade.' So much Mint Cake is chewed and so much lemonade drunk, that one is inclined to lose sight of the very real exploratory achievements of the group. A terse article in a geographical magazine would have been much more useful." George Woodcock

Pacific Affairs 40:437 fall-winter '67-'68 250w

TUCKER, LAEL. See Wertenbaker, L.

TUCKER, MARTIN. Africa in modern literature; a survey of contemporary writing in English. 316p $7.50 Ungar

820 African literature—History and criticism 66-19472

In this study of creative writing in English about Africa, the author has divided his material into chapters according to regional setting: West, East, Central and South Africa. "Four distinctive categories of writers are discussed: the black African; the Englishman; the American; and the white resident or native of South Africa. And in addition Mr. Tucker interprets the role of certain characters who have appeared consistently in novels based in African milieux. . . . [Among the writers discussed are] Olive Schreiner, Graham Greene, Joyce Cary, Ernest Hemingway, Nadine Gordimer, Alan Paton, Doris Lessing, Thomas Mofolo, Ezekiel Mphahlele, Wole Soyinka, Chinua Achebe, Onuora Nzekwu, and John Pepper Clark." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

"The preeminence of the novel over poetry and drama in African writings is reflected in [this book's] emphasis. . . . [Mr. Tucker also] takes a brief look at French African writings and their interest in the Negro. . . . [The four] areas are well covered with almost every major novel placed in its setting and evaluated. The book contains a notable bibliography that in itself will be most helpful to scholars, while the text is readable and can be enjoyed by the reader who may wish some guidelines in what to read. Where courses in African Literature are given, this book will be a valued text or basic collateral reading." M. D. Herrick

Library J 93:82 Ja 1 '68 250w

"Martin Tucker, associate professor of English at Long Island University, is a well-read, knowledgeable man who has taken the literature of Africa and written about it sympathetically. This valuable little book is the first examination of 20th-century writing in English by and about Africans, and for that we can forgive it its academic tone, its clumsy style and its occasional extra-literary ignorance. . . . Unfortunately he spends most of his time . . . on the American, British and white South African writers about Africa, . . . thus overlooking a whole world of interesting literature. . . . Still, what he does say about the writers he discusses is often shrewd."

N Y Times Bk R p30 Mr 24 '68 200w

"Tucker's attempt to balance (to a certain extent) the works by native African writers with those by the expatriates has resulted in a curious imbalance—frequently not at all representative of the more notable accomplishments of the African-born writers themselves. . . . Aside from plot summaries, there is little discussion of most of the novels by African-born writers. . . . [Furthermore] one wonders about some of Professor Tucker's choices. . . . [His] scrutiny of South African novels by writers of European descent is the strongest part of his book. . . . [However] the over-all impression which [this book] conveys is one of disjointedness and superficiality. There are a number of inconsistencies and inaccuracies that indicate not only careless editing but, even worse, a failure by Professor Tucker to keep up with recent literary developments in Africa. And yet this is still an important book." C. R. Larson

Sat R 51:44 Mr 23 '68 1350w

TUCKER, ROBERT W., jr. auth. Force, order, and justice. See Osgood, R. E.

TUCKER, SUSIE I. Protean shape; a study in eighteenth-century vocabulary and usage. 322p $8.80 Oxford

428 English language—History [67-91983]

This "study of eighteenth-century vocabulary provides a source book for usage, annotating the varieties and vagaries of language by references to contemporary writings—letters, literature, dictionaries, and, especially, periodicals. The book, containing a 'Prologue' and 'Epilogue,' is divided into two parts: 'The Eighteenth Century Looks at Its Language' and 'The Twentieth Century Looks Back.' . . . [There is an] index of terms discussed." (Va Q R) Bibliography.

Choice 5:488 Je '68 180w

"Miss Tucker has written a highly enjoyable book on eighteenth-century English vocabulary and usage, a book that will prove not only essential to the literary critic of that period but also delightful for the many amateurs of books about words. Miss Tucker's lightness of touch, and her dextrous and amusing occasional links with the language of our day give her work a gaiety unusual in researches of this quality. . . . This book is flawed by its improper degree of reliance on the Oxford English Dictionary. . . . Surprisingly, however, Miss Tucker occasionally fails to depend on OED when she could justly do so. . . . [Such errors] mar, but certainly do not spoil Miss Tucker's useful book. But they are worth attention, because so widespread."

TLS p782 Ag 31 '67 1250w

"'Protean Shape' should prove a valuable reference book for students of the period." Va Q R 44:xxiv winter '68 180w

TUGENDHAT, CHRISTOPHER. Oil: the biggest business. 318p il pl maps $6.95 Putnam
338.2 Petroleum industry and trade

68-12114

The first part of this book "describes how the industry grew up—from 1859, when Edwin L. Drake drilled the first well in Titusville, Pennsylvania, through the dramatic period of the great 'barons'—such as John D. Rockefeller, Henri Deterding, and Calouste Gulbenkian—up to 1960 and the formation of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, when the industry finally achieved its present form. . . . [In the second part] Tugendhat reveals how the industry operates today." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

"Tugendhat's book is one that deserves to succeed. Oil, like international liquidity, is a subject of high importance which is nevertheless hard to write about readably. But Mr Tugendhat has managed it, while avoiding the trap of over-simplification. For anyone even slightly interested in oil this is a compulsively readable history, and it contains an accurate analysis of the complex market and production forces that are changing the oil scene so rapidly now."

Economist 227:52 Ap 6 '68 150w

"Tugendhat, a young journalist who is a writer on economics for the Financial Times, London, provides a lively, if superficial, account of where and how it all began and what some of the more sensitive international issues are as they relate to petroleum. He gives supporting statistics and illustrations. The book will appeal to those with little or no background in economics who do not seek the depth of analysis which would come from more penetrating scholarly studies or serious analyses of the oil industry. . . . Primarily for public library collections." Paul Wasserman

Library J 93:3002 S 1 '68 150w

Reviewed by R. A. Sokolov
Newsweek 72:72 Ag 5 '68 750w

TLS p667 Je 27 '68 1500w

TUGWELL, R. G. The Brains Trust. 533p $10 Viking

329 Roosevelt, Franklin Delano. Presidents —U.S.—Election. U.S.—Politics and government—1919-1933 68-16079

A memoir of F.D.R.'s 1932 campaign for the presidency written by one of Roosevelt's group of campaign advisers who came to be labelled the Brains Trust. Chronology. Index.

Reviewed by Michael Morrison
America 119:138 Ag 31 '68 420w

"There is drama in the stubborn though affectionate struggle between Roosevelt and Tugwell, even though the outcome was never in doubt. Even those far from sympathetic to Tugwell's faith in economic planning will appreciate his wit, candor, eye for illuminating detail and flowing style. There is much profundity here, but it is also hammock reading superior to the best political novels. . . . Some of the most engaging and sophisticated passages in this book concern Tugwell's dialogues with Roosevelt. In part these seem to be based only on memory; nevertheless they are well worth reading for their clear exposition of two points of view on the part of equally humane men, the intellectual versus the politician." Frank Freidel

Book World p5 Jl 28 '68 900w

Choice 5:1362 D '68 250w

"Perhaps the tone of reasonableness, lack of awe, and ease is possible because Tugwell deals here with FDR before he became a god and his works myth—that is, before March 4, 1933. But it is an ease and realism born of experience and participation. . . . Personal accounts are generally corroded by bitterness, but not so Tugwell's. His book is as detached and frank about his own trying traits—political naïveté and a certain single-mindedness—as about FDR's own dramatic flaws. . . . Tugwell's achievement is in dramatizing in the most intimate terms how FDR entertained the possibilities of choice, of commitment to diagnosis of the causes of the depression and plans for remedying it. And having the choice, chose not to choose." Michael Janeway

Christian Science Monitor p11 Jl 22 '68 1650w

TUGWELL, R. G.—Continued

"From time to time Mr. Tugwell takes issue with the recollections of others who served in the Roosevelt entourage. The great service of this work is, however, a distillation of the Roosevelt philosophy and the highlighting of Roosevelt's political acumen. Rex Tugwell has written a book that will be of value to all students of the Great Depression, and will interest those who condemn as well as those who commend Franklin Delano Roosevelt." H. M. Burns

Library J 93:3147 S 15 '68 160w

Reviewed by W. E. Leuchtenburg
N Y Times Bk R p10 N 10 '68 800w
New Yorker 44:180 S 28 '68 260w

Reviewed by Saul Maloff
Newsweek 72:94 J1 29 '68 850w
Va Q R 44:clxviii autumn '68 200w

TUGWELL, REXFORD G. Grover Cleveland. 298p il $5.95 Macmillan (N Y)

B or 92 Cleveland, Grover. U.S.—Politics and government—1865-1898 68-12399

"The only President to serve two non-consecutive terms, Cleveland revealed his conservative nature in handling the depletion of the gold reserve during his second term. [This biography] characterizes Cleveland as a negative President, the 'plodder' without flair, but incorruptible in office." (Library J) Index.

"Tugwell is at his best when he is writing economic history. His brilliant chapters on gold, silver, and the Pullman fiasco make delightful reading. Cleveland's second term was handicapped by the depression of 1893. He did his best, but his best was in conflict with reality. This biography ends abruptly. Cleveland's last years at Princeton are given short shrift. . . . Without detracting from this excellent biography, certain corrections are in order." F. C. Brown

Best Sell 28:41 Ap 15 '68 750w

"It is a literary feat of no mean order merely to write a sparkling book about Grover Cleveland, but this one does more than sparkle, it persuades. True, bi-metallism and the tariff are too opaque even for Tugwell's brilliance to come through, but his discussions of both subjects are mercifully short. But such flaws are trivial in view of the success of this demonstration that the basis of Cleveland's failure was his lack of comprehension of what the Presidency was in 1884. . . . Incidentally, this is the factor that makes the book a tract for our times, since even today the fecund source of more than half our national woes is the inability of public opinion to maintain the pace that history sets. . . . We have here a saddening book and by some of its implications a frightening book, but an absorbing human story, plainly in the line of Aristotelian tragedy. It will add to the stature of its author as a literary craftsman as well as a political philosopher." G. W. Johnson

Book World p5 My 26 '68 750w

"The brevity and clarity of this biography merits for it a place on the shelves of many libraries, particularly those serving high school and college students." J. D. Filipiak

Library J 93:1999 My 15 '68 180w

Reviewed by Janet Strothman
Library J 93:2136 My 15 '68 150w [YA]

TULLY, ANDREW. White tie and dagger. 257p $5.95 Morrow

327 Subversive activities. Diplomatic and consular service. Spies 67-29841

"This work by a Washington columnist professes to tell 'the story of how foreign embassies spy on the U.S. and influence American opinion, policy, and laws.' There are a number of perspectives present in the attempt to achieve this end. (1) The ordinary comings and goings of diplomats, spies, and general personnel. . . . (2) Some background to contemporary attitudes and protocol among embassies. . . . (3) The part that spying and intrigue play in international crises. . . . (4) The reference to specific examples of spying. . . . (5) Who is the best hostess along Embassy Row? Where are the best parties given? How much do state secrets cost? At what restaurant do spies meet?" (Best Sell)

"Tully does not reveal anything that makes the scalp prickle with foreboding. . . . Actually, diplomats and spies emerge as rather ordinary people . . . carrying on like any man in his bread winning job. In fact much of the book's flavor emerges from this source. . . . The major weakness of the book, one that will trouble the sleep of scholars, is the complete absence of documentation. . . . The book has a chance to hit the best seller list. If it does make it, it will be a triumph for the light columnistic approach to something which may be of great importance and a defeat of scholarship." F. L. Ryan

Best Sell 27:328 N 15 '67 650w

"The emphasis here, as the title indicates, is on the diplomats' social life on one hand, and their espionage activities on the other. Much of the book is devoted to the latter: the espionage activities of the foreign embassies, the missions to the U.N. and foreign lobbies, particularly the two China lobbies. . . . Diplomats from Communist countries receive the brunt of the exposé, but the French and the British because of their activities during the Suez crisis are not spared either. Only a few diplomats are shown in a favorable light. . . . Those who missed reading the society pages in the Washington papers can repair their ignorance in his new book. Public libraries should purchase it." David Shavit

Library J 92:2934 S 1 '67 210w

"[This book] is a hash-slinging job, mixing lean facts with a generous seasoning of fancy. . . . The narrative itself is about evenly fair (or unfair, as the view may be) to both camps in the Cold War. . . . But I object to the total absence of hard documentation in a book that abounds in huge stories and sweeping statements. Without it, [the book] often sounds like shop talk at the National Press Club's bar, where, I fear, some of [the author's] stories probably originated." Ladislav Farago

Sat R 50:31 N 18 '67 450w

TURBOTT, E. G., ed. Buller's birds of New Zealand. See Buller, W. L.TUREKIAN, KARL K. Oceans. 120p il maps $5.95; pa $2 Prentice-Hall

551.4 Oceanography 68-10425

This volume provides a "picture of the topography and structure of the ocean basins, near shore and deep-sea sediment composition and transportation and stratigraphy and geochronometry of deep-sea deposits. . . . [It considers] ocean motion, especially circulation, marine geochemistry, distribution of the elements and composition of seawater, and material balances and element budgets." (Library J)

"Unfortunately, the content is not as inclusive as the title. [This is] actually an introduction to the geophysics and geochemistry of the marine environment. . . . There are a few anachronisms. . . . Might best be used as an adjunct to other reading or to supplement class discussion by the teacher. Not suitable as a text for an introductory course in oceanography. The volume does present information that has been previously scattered among several sources, although there is nothing presented that is new. The serious student or specialist might consider the coverage superficial, while the casual reader would probably find many sections too detailed. Valuable list of suggestions for further reading. The book is well illustrated and the print is easy to read." Choice 5:1166 N '68 50w

Reviewed by D. M. Simms

Library J 93:2013 My 15 '68 140w

"A hundred somewhat too laconic pages make up this remarkably up-to-date little book. . . . It is not all easy going. . . . The treatment of chemical equilibrium in the sea is somewhat too technical for the general level assumed in an introductory text. . . . but one can find no better brief guide to the modern flood of understanding of the ocean as a part of the earth. Marine life, however, is treated only incidentally."

Sci Am 219:168 N '68 260w

TURKLE, BRINTON. The fiddler of High Lonesome; written and il. by Brinton Turkle. 44p $3.50; lib bdg $3.37 Viking

68-16071

"Orphaned, lonesome Lysander Bochamp comes to claim his only kin, the unsavory, moonshining Fogles. They accept the boy for his lovely fiddle music, but it's a short relationship played out on a magical night of a full moon. . . . Lysander invites his . . . cousins to watch the animals dance to his music in the light of the moon. They betray a promise to leave their guns home. . . . Grades four to six." (Library J)

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin

Book World p14 J1 28 '68 210w

Reviewed by M. L. Birmingham

Commonweal 88:304 My 24 '68 70w

"The original story has a folktale flavor that is sustained by the savory mountain idiom and by powerful illustrations. The pictures help to create the characters: gentle but determined Bochamp; his hulking, roistering kinfolk, the Fogles; and the shy 'critters.' The pictures evoke the atmosphere of the tale; the brooding stillness of the mountain top; the gaiety of Bochamp's fiddle; and the violence of the Fogles." D. F.

Horn Bk 44:424 Ag '68 140w

"This short backwoods tale makes a plea for the dignity of all life with illustrations that bear a strong resemblance to the work of James Daugherty and Lynd Ward. . . . The characters are all good or bad, the portrayal of the mountain setting is a stereotype of hillbilly life and speechways, but the boy's renunciation of violence is well substantiated by events in the story." J. C. Ullom

Library J 93:2117 My 15 '68 160w

"Turkle makes beautiful music with his words composed in mountain vernacular. His story, with its color, romance, truth and tragedy, matches any of the old legends in power and entertainment. And his illustrations: you can smell, hear and touch the raw splendors of the back country scenes and ways. The book is like a deep draught of mountain dew." G. A. Woods

N Y Times Bk ■ p30 Mr 31 '68 190w

TURNBULL, ANDREW. Thomas Wolfe. 374p
il $7.95 Scribner

B or 92 Wolfe, Thomas 68-10727

The author of Scott Fitzgerald (BRD 1962) has had access to the Wolfe documents, and has interviewed acquaintances of the novelist to document this biography. He emphasizes Wolfe's relationship with Aline Bernstein, his mistress, and Maxwell Perkins, his editor. Chronology. Index.

Reviewed by W. J. Lynch

America 118:326 Mr 9 '68 600w

Reviewed by Oscar Cargill

Am Lit 40:412 N '68 500w

Reviewed by Oscar Handlin

Atlantic 221:130 Mr '68 1000w

Reviewed by Sister Mary William

Best Sell 27:437 F 15 '68 480w

"The anecdotes and close-ups of Wolfe at parties, Wolfe sleeping, Wolfe on the rampage, . . . are the best part of the book. . . . Not only is there no literary criticism . . . no fresh literary opinion of a writer whose works could certainly use some support at this stage, but Turnbull's own descriptions of Wolfe sound as if he had no particular opinion of his work at all, and wasn't going to be forced into giving one. . . . [The] book is at its best when it conveys, straight from Wolfe's familiars, [the] unmythical side of his character. . . . Though Turnbull's feeling for Maxwell Perkins is hero-worship at its most uninhibited, Perkins' devotion to Wolfe comes through in all its patience and abnegation. Best of all is a letter in the appendix, from an old German girlfriend of Wolfe's, that is extraordinary in its passion." Alfred Kazin

Book World p1 Ja 28 '68 1850w

"Turnbull has ably done the obvious. He has shown us just where Wolfe's novels parallel Wolfe's life. . . . In general, the fictional tracks run even closer to autobiography than we might have expected. What Mr. Turnbull has not been able to do is to reproduce the inward event of Wolfe's life. When he tries, it comes out as formula 'creative-biography.'" Melvin Maddocks

Christian Science Monitor p11 F 8 '68 500w

Reviewed by K. G. Jackson

Harper 236:149 Mr '68 240w

"[This book] will serve as a correction and supplement to Elizabeth Nowell's biography [Thomas Wolfe, BRD 1960, 1961] . . . [Mr. Turnbull] especially avoids the trap of using Wolfe's fiction as truth and the result is a biography that is cautious and selective, but sound. His style is smooth and the book is most readable. . . . Clearly Mr. Turnbull was trying neither to provide a day-by-day description of Wolfe's life, nor was he attempting to write the definitive biography of Wolfe. He does achieve, however, a good steady look at Wolfe's whole life and career, and this book will stand as a very respectable addition to Wolfe studies. Public and academic libraries will want to purchase it as part of their basic holdings." Duane Schneider

Library J 93:544 F 1 '68 210w

Reviewed by Glenda Todd

Library J 93:2136 My 15 '68 100w [YA]

Reviewed by Mina Curtiss

Nation 206:446 Ap 1 '68 2050w

Reviewed by P. P. Witonski

Nat R 20:616 Je 18 '68 1150w

Reviewed by Richard Gilman

New Repub 158:31 F 24 '68 1950w

Reviewed by Malcolm Bradbury

New Statesman 75:729 My 31 '68 950w

"Although Turnbull's Biography is exhaustive and there is no reason to dispute his facts, he is so much in agreement with his subject about his subject's towering genius that for the most part he sounds as if he is writing flap copy for 'The Collected Works of Thomas Wolfe.'" Jean Stafford

N Y Rev of Books 10:17 My 9 '68 1800w

Reviewed by R. G. Davis

N Y Times Bk R p1 F 11 '68 3400w

Reviewed by Saul Maloff

Newsweek 71:78 F 5 '68 800w

Reviewed by David Littlejohn

Reporter 38:41 My 30 '68 2350w

"[This book] is scholarly without being in the least academic. . . . With the large amount of material available to him, it is to Turnbull's credit that he resisted the temptation to do the biography on a Wolfean scale. . . . [He] writes about Mrs. Bernstein with candor and great sympathy. . . . Writing at length about Perkins' character and achievements, Turnbull makes him seem less remote than before but no less admirable. . . . Turnbull is a superb biographer. . . . [He] went to the facts, as far as the facts could be determined; and built on them a sturdy structure." Granville Hicks

Sat ■ 51:23 F 3 '68 1850w

Time 91:94 F 9 '68 750w

TLS p968 S 12 '68 1100w

Reviewed by C. H. Holman

Va Q R 44:329 spring '68 1300w

TURNBULL, CLIVE. Black war: the extermination of the Tasmanian aborigines; with an introd. by Ian Hogbin. 274p $5.80 Ginn

572.994 Tasmania—Native races [67-87878]

An unrevised reprint of a book originally published in Australia in 1948. Interweaving letters and documents with narrative the author investigates the interaction of the European and Aboriginal cultures in Tasmania up to the death of the last known aborigine of the area in 1876. Bibliography. Index.

"[The original printing] did not have as wide a distribution as its importance deserved. Hopefully the situation will change. Black War is the only detailed account of the extermination of a complete unit of mankind, the original Tasmanian. Standing alone, as it does, we are fortunate that Turnbull not only exercised a meticulous scholarship but illuminated the task with an exceptionally keen interpretive ability. His assessment of the different forces and individuals at work in the gathering tragedy is revealing and compels belief. . . . No library which regards itself as having an interest in mankind can be without this book."

Choice 4:1187 D '67 130w

Sci Am 216:148 Mr '67 200w

TURNER, E. G. Greek papyri; an introduction. 220p il p1 $6 Princeton univ. press

091 Manuscripts

67-21030

The author "touches upon . . . [many aspects] of papyrology, from where and how the papyri were rediscovered, how they are edited, who owned and read them in ancient times, their internal structure and content, their relationship to other known texts, both literary and nonliterary, their importance and significance the state of papyrological studies in 1965, and the principal editions of papyri." (Library J) Index.

TURNER, E. G.—Continued

"Until the appearance of the present volume, there has not been any really useful or reliable introductory volume on [this] subject in English. . . . [The author] does not restrict himself solely to Greek papyri, but deals with Latin texts as well. . . . The book is filled with critical and bibliographical material. There is no question but that this is an important, useful, and welcome piece of scholarship." A. R. Schulman

Library J 93:2860 Ag '68 190w

"The publishers tell us that the author has the 'non-specialist classical scholar' and the 'inquiring layman' particularly in mind. The inquiring layman will have to know Greek however. . . . There are signs of hasty composition, and the author's style is often inelegant and occasionally ungrammatical. . . . But Professor Turner's command of the huge spread of literature in his field will win admiration, and he has written a book which tells all that—and in a few cases . . . more than—most of us will want to know about the subject. A review like this can only hint at the wealth of material tightly packed within its covers."

TLS p618 Je 13 '68 750w

TURNER, WILLIAM W. Invisible witness: the use and abuse of the new technology of crime investigation. 300p $6 Bobbs

364.12 Criminal investigation 68-14046

The former FBI agent and current editor of Ramparts magazine gives an "account of the development of criminalistics and the technology of crime investigation. . . . The overall theme of the book is concerned with the counterbalance between benefits of progress in investigation against the abuse of the increasingly sophisticated and rapidly expanding techniques involved. Mr. Turner supplies actual case illustrations to show the marvels of modern investigative technology. He makes . . . use of case references to fortify his emphasis on investigative abuses." (Library J) Index.

"'1984' is Turner's symbol of present realities in technological techniques of crime detection. What he has to say has been said before, nor does he say it better. But one more time around should not be amiss among those who will try to contend for personal liberties in the middle of cries for law and order."

Christian Century 85:844 Je 26 '68 60w

"The literary quality of the book is quite impressive. Mr. Turner writes fluently and his background in law enforcement provides authenticity. The result shows neither the strain for idiom nor the dominance by it which are so common in books of this kind. . . . [Some of the case references] are farfetched and one sided giving the impression of a lack of objectivity. As matter of fact, this reviewer's increasing impression as he read was that Mr. Turner's lack of enthusiasm for the FBI and other establishment agencies was such as to represent a bias precluding objectivity in reference selection." John Cronin

Library J 93:2517 Je 15 '68 290w

Reviewed by Sergeant Cuff

Sat R 51:116 S 14 '68 20w

TURNER, WILLIAM W. The police establishment. 319p $6.95 Putnam

363.2 Police—U.S. 68-15613

This book provides "an inside look at the New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Oakland, Berkeley, Dallas, and New Orleans police forces—what makes them tick; who runs them; what their staffs are like; how they stack up. Here, too, are . . . examinations of 'nightstick mentality'; ultraconservatism, and racial prejudice among policemen; the fight against civilian review and Supreme Court decisions; and the unacknowledged but powerful police lobby in Washington." (Publisher's note)

"A comprehensive, well-written book. . . . Turner points out that police isolation, parochialism and fear of the unfamiliar often keep them from being either fair or effective. It holds them back from the professionalism for which they long. For his book Turner questioned anthropologists as well as desk sergeants, and perhaps he has found the first people since Valachi to come forward from an insular subculture and expose before strangers its inner society, trick handshakes and skeletons." Nicholas Pileggi

Book World p5 Je 23 '68 450w

"A sharp indictment of American law enforcement, based on a well-documented evaluation of police establishments in larger cities. . . . In a final chapter [Mr. Turner] makes constructive suggestions for a much needed 'new breed of police officer.' Public libraries will make a distinct service to their communities by making this very important volume available." R. W. Henderson

Library J 93:1156 Mr 15 '68 200w

"Turner, a former FBI agent and currently a staff writer for Ramparts magazine, . . . grants that many allegations of police brutality are groundless, that the police are forced to handle social problems they didn't create, that the policeman's lot is not an easy one. But he upbraids the average cop for persecuting minorities according to his own prejudices, . . . for persecuting perpetrators of 'victimless' crimes—homosexuals, derelicts, prostitutes—and for assuming the guilt of those bearded or poorly dressed citizens who do not conform to social norms. . . . Turner makes a strong case for the Civilian Complaint Review Board as a necessary check on police power and as a safety valve for members of the ghetto community who despair of taking their grievances before a police board. . . . But, to Turner, the policeman is also a victim. Underpaid and subjected to temptation, often minimally educated, he is asked to deal with social problems beyond his understanding." P. D. Zimmerman

Newsweek 71:92 Je 17 '68 550w

TUTAEFF, DAVID. See Tutaev, D.

TUTAEV, DAVID, ed. The Alliluyev memoirs. See Alliluyeva, A.

TUTAEV, DAVID. The man who saved Florence. [Eng title: The consul of Florence]. 303p pl $5.95 Coward-McCann

940.53 World War, 1939-1945—Italy. Florence —History. Wolf, Gerhard 67-28437

An "account of how one man, Dr. Gerhard Wolf, German Florentine consul during the Nazi occupation from 1943 to 1944, devoted his energies to the preservation of the 'gem of Europe.' As a high German official, Dr. Wolf worked cautiously, protecting individuals from Nazi cruelty as best he could, but primarily concerned with making Florence an open city, free of German defense and Allied assault." (Library J) Index.

Best Sell 27:387 Ja 1 '68 160w

"[The author's] own narrative proves that many people had a hand [in saving Florence] and that factors other than purely personal interventions determined the city's destiny. . . . [He] is fanatical in his love for Florence and, because of this, one should be generous in bearing with him through outbreaks of extravagant and bathetic prose. And his enthusiasm does inspire him to give us an intimate picture of how life was in the city while the Germans were occupying it after Mussolini fell and the Allies were battling [northwards]." Edwin Tetlow

Christian Science Monitor p9 Ja 25 '68 850w

Reviewed by R. N. Van Note

Library J 93:76 Ja 1 '68 140w

Reviewed by Laurence Thompson

New Statesman 73:16 Ja 6 '67 300w

N Y Times Bk ■ p24 Mr 17 '68 160w

"[This] is a well-documented study of a humanitarian, but its weakness is that it never brings Wolf to life. The consul remains a shadowy figure, his values and motives uncertain. A pity, for he acted bravely and well deserved the honorary citizenship conferred on him by Florence in 1955." Vincent Cronin

Sat R 50:24 D 30 '67 250w

"Technically, the title is wrong. Neither Wolf nor any one individual can be called 'the man who saved Florence.' But the consul's efforts were quietly heroic in limiting the damage. . . . Tutaev, who is a specialist in Russian affairs living in England, sets down what he has unearthed with workaday, amateurish zeal. But the facts are eloquent enough."

Time 91:80 Ja 5 '68 400w
 TLS p975 O 27 '66 600w

TUVESON, ERNEST LEE. Redeemer nation; the idea of America's millennial role. 238p $6.75 Univ. of Chicago press

973 Millennium. Philosophy, American 68-14009

The author "investigates the idea of America's divine mission as espoused by the advocates of one kind of Christian eschatology—millennialism. . . . Tuveson describes the origin of millennialism in the theologies of English and American divines such as Joseph Mede and Jonathan Edwards. . . . Turning away from Augustine, the millennialists constructed an eschatology which anticipated a literal fulfillment of the millennial prophecies and, particularly in its American versions, looked to the new world as the arena for the victory of virtue over evil. Ranging over most of U.S. history but with special emphasis on late 18th and early 19th century writers, Tuveson shows how a literal interpretation of prophetic biblical passages contributed to the ideas of manifest destiny, America's role as a chosen people, and the need for reform." (Christian Century) Annotated bibliography. Index.

"Though much of the ground Tuveson traverses will be familiar to historians, his discussion of the millennial theme will impress them. Somewhat surprising is his emphasis on apocalypticism as a continuing and consistent element in millennialism. . . . Some of the most effective passages . . . [here] deal with the role played by millennial rhetoric and images in the Civil War and World War I, particularly in the writings of Julia Ward Howe and Woodrow Wilson. Tuveson also includes a short and stimulating analysis of the millennial ideas to be found in Mark Twain's A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court. This well researched, well written study ought to stimulate much more work on a long-neglected topic." E. R. Sandeen

Christian Century 85:1305 O 16 '68 1000w

"In this well-written and amply documented volume, . . . [Tuveson] analyzes the thought of several important millennial philosophers, notably Samuel Hopkins, Robert Owen, and Harriet Beecher Stowe, and assesses their contribution to Western civilization. The result is a fascinating but abstruse book that will appeal primarily to theologians and students of the history of ideas. Recommended only for large libraries with strong theology or philosophy collections." Jack Clarke

Library J 93:999 Mr 1 '68 140w

TWAIN, MARK. Selected Mark Twain-Howells letters, 1872-1910; ed. by Frederick Anderson, William M. Gibson [and] Henry Nash Smith. 453p $9.95 Belnap press of Harvard univ. press

816 Howells, William Dean 67-13251

This volume is a condensation of Mark Twain-Howells Letters, 1872-1910 (BRD 1960). Biographical directory. Bibliography. Index. Index of works by Clemens and Howells.

Am Lit 39:440 N '67 50w

Choice 4:1379 F '68 80w

"In order to reduce the two volumes to one, the editors have deleted passages in the letters that contribute little to our understanding of the lives, opinions, and writings of Mark Twain and Howells. . . . Because of the compactness and the lower price of the new edition, small libraries that do not hold the two-volume edition should consider it; and since two letters that have come to light since 1960 are added to the new edition, complete scholarly collections should also consider it." Robert Regan

Library J 92:1492 Ap 1 '67 210w

"Although a good portion of the critical apparatus is reduced, the annotation is taken largely without alteration from the two-volume Letters. . . . The Undated Letters and Notes, Appendices, and Calendar of Letters are not included. . . . The two new letters occur early in the correspondence: the first . . . sheds some additional light on Twain's role in the Bret Harte-W. A. Kendall affair, but the second is of no significance and little interest. The core of the Twain-Howells correspondence has been judiciously extracted here, and, given the editors expressed intention and scope, the volume is an excellent one for the general reader." Richard Van Der Beets

New Eng Q 40:606 D '67 290w

TLS p1254 D 28 '67 130w

TWIGGY. Twiggy; how I probably just came along on a white rabbit at the right time, and met the smile on the face of the tiger. 159p il $3.95 Hawthorn bks.

B or 92

68-19108

An autobiography by the young English model.

"The book has limited interest and is not worth the money."

Best Sell 28:174 J1 15 '68 90w [YA]

"A fundamentally straightforward life of less than 20 years cannot spawn much material of general interest, whatever rarified heights of fame the subject may suddenly have attained; Twiggy's is no exception. Her attempt to reproduce her cockney accent begins bravely enough, but rapidly dwindles almost to extinction, or to curious mixtures in the same sentence. . . . Twiggy's descriptions of the home cooking and simple life she and her family still enjoy, however authentic, are thoroughly labored, and her occasional comments on the world situation are platitudinous in the extreme. She attempts to give an impression of naïveté, youth . . . and sweetness. The photographs perhaps offer some redemption for the text, but the taste left in this reader's mouth was not of sugar but of saccharine."

Library J 93:1471 Ap 1 '68 150w

"The photographs are excellent and numerous and amply demonstrate that Twiggy is a photogenic young woman. The text is minimal, a bit on her childhood, more on Justin de Ville-neuve, her mentor and boyfriend; the rest is history: thousands of dollars in fees made her a millionairess before she was 18. It is hard to believe that Twiggy actually wrote the book, but if it was ghost-written the ghost is skillful and has captured her well." Regina Minudri

Library J 93:1827 Ap 15 '68 70w [YA]

TYACK, DAVID B. George Ticknor and the Boston Brahmins. 289p pl $6.95 Harvard univ. press

B or 92 Ticknor, George. Boston—Intellectual life 67-13255

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Reviewed by W. R. Hutchison

Am Hist R 73:910 F '68 470w

Reviewed by R. B. Nye

Am Lit 39:567 Ja '68 800w

Reviewed by James Baird

New Eng Q 41:315 Je '68 1000w

TYLDEN-WRIGHT, DAVID. Anatole France. 344p pl $7.50 Walker & co.

B or 92 France, Anatole 67-23643

A biography of the nineteenth-century Parisian novelist and literary journalist who "was the friend or acquaintance of almost every literary figure of his times, from the Goncourts to Zola and Proust. He was in Paris during the siege of the Franco-Prussian War and under the Commune. The Dreyfus case involved him in politics and through his . . . friend, the socialist Jean Jaurès, he became one of the intellectual ornaments of the French Left and a defender of the Communist regime in Russia." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

Choice 5:349 My '68 180w

Reviewed by Albert Sonnenfeld

New Statesman 75:80 Ja 19 '68 750w

"Tylden-Wright chose to be a biographer of France rather than a critic. . . . Still, the almost total absence of critical estimates of 'The Crime of Sylvestre Bonnard,' 'The Gods Are Athirst' or 'Penguin Island' mars his book. For nowhere are we made to grasp why the anecdotal details of the life and loves of a rather mediocre personality should be of concern to those who have today ceased to read him. A second flaw of this otherwise estimable volume is the inordinate number of mistakes, or misprints, in the French words." Henri Peyre

N Y Times Bk R p4 D 17 '67 1150w

"Anatole France, probably overvalued during his life, has probably been undervalued since his death, so Mr. Tylden-Wright, an English author and critic, has sensibly decided it is time to take another look at his life, works, and personality, and has produced a good, up-to-date reevaluation. He makes no huge, unsupported claims for his subject; he discriminates between the man's good and bad works, better and feebler actions, and he interests his audience in reading (or rereading) some of France's books."

TYLDEN-WRIGHT, DAVID—Continued

New Yorker 43:89 Ja 6 '68 90w

"Tylden-Wright's excellent book is a true biography, not a work of criticism half-disguised. Only so much comment on France's works is included as is necessary to explain the development of his life. But to anyone who has read his books it is extremely illuminating. For all the apparent detachment of the first part of his life, before he became engaged in politics, France was always moved in his writing by his social emotional life. . . . Mr. Tylden-Wright is a good guide to his political development, though others might lay a little more influence on the Affair and less on anti-clerical legislation as the subject which really moved France. . . . But he brings out admirably the way in which France learnt to dissociate his political self from his writing self."

TLS p800 S 7 '67 800w

TYNAN, KENNETH. Tynan right & left; plays, films, peoples, places and events. 479p $8.95
Atheneum pubs.

801 Criticism

67-25489

This book contains "opinions of plays and films, and observations of people and places, by the theatre critic who is at present the literary manager of Britain's . . . National Theatre. The plays, for the most part, were presented in London in the past ten years, . . . the films are of all nationalities, [most of] the people . . . are connected with the theatre, and the places range from France . . . to San Francisco." (New Yorker) Most of the articles have appeared in various periodicals. Index.

"With the play reviews we ascend the heights of contemporary dramatic criticism—judicious, . . . well-informed, well written, witty and above all, beautifully structured. . . . Tynan's film criticism is appalling—modish, irresponsible, insensitive, ill-considered and, for the most part, ill-written. . . . [There are] three talents that probably contribute most to Tynan's excellence and readability [in dramatic criticism]. . . . [First,] the lightning phrase which, in a flash, illuminates an artist or performance. . . . [Secondly,] the ability to evoke a performance or production with a few coruscating sentences. . . . Tynan's third supreme aptitude is for parody and persiflage. . . . [However, there is] one small problem with much that is best in the book: brilliant dramatic criticism that has to be read against the parlor-leftist grain." John Simon
Book World p28 D 3 '67 1300w
Choice 4:1404 F '68 60w

Reviewed by Melvin Maddocks

Christian Science Monitor p7 F 1 '68

600w

"Whatever he is writing about Tynan never forgets the subject on which he is the leading world expert: namely Kenneth Tynan. . . . This egotism also manifests itself in the occasional schoolmasterly tone of the writing . . . [and] in a record of his six-day gastronomic tour of France. . . . Fortunately, Tynan's positive qualities are ample compensation. . . . [His] interests cover an unusually broad range, and his references are equally wide. . . . [When reviewing a film or play] he raises the right questions even if he does not always come up with the right answers. . . . Almost without exception he is readable and stimulating, whatever the subject: he is very honest, and often very funny." Richard Boston
N Y Times BK R p5 D 10 '67 1550w

"There is no detailed table of contents, which would have been useful, and the index can be disconcerting. . . . Mr. Tynan is a clever writer, and in his observations of people and places his cleverness sometimes overwhelms the substance. But when his subject is the theatre or the films (as it is for more than half the book), his cleverness acts as a fulcrum for the urgency of his opinions, and he has no superior as a critic today."

New Yorker 43:71 D 23 '67 160w

"Mr. Tynan's writing on the cinema fails, by and large. . . . His interview-profiles of Orson Welles, George Cukor and such are lively, informative, and only occasionally a trifle too evidently worked over. But his reviews, even when they are enthusiastically for or bitterly against something, seem strangely uninvolved. . . . Collected, the reviews give an even stronger impression of disengagement than they did read week by week in The Observer."

TLS p16 Ja 4 '68 200w

Va Q R 44:xxxix winter '68 160w

TYNDALE, WILLIAM. William Tyndale's Five books of Moses called the Pentateuch. See Bible. Old Testament. Pentateuch

U

UBBELOHDE-DOERING, HEINRICH. On the royal highways of the Inca; archeological treasures of ancient Peru [tr. by Margaret Brown]. 311p pl $17.50 Praeger

985 Peru—Antiquities. Indians of South America—Peru—Antiquities 67-14710

The director of the Munich Museum of Ethnology presents the findings of four archeological expeditions to Peru made between 1931 and 1964. The sites covered the area from the desert to the highlands. Chronological tables. Bibliography. Index.

"Dr. Doering's finds cover 1000 years of earlier cultures, all of which contributed to the Inca civilization, and all of which left strange and handsome relics behind them. Since the author is as interested in the probable meaning of these relics, in the modern Indians, and in the Peruvian landscape as he is in his digging, the book covers more varied territory than is usual in archaeological narratives. The handsome photographs range from bones bedizened with decayed tapestry to disapproving aborigines draped in ponchos bearing very similar patterns." Phoebe Adams
Atlantic 220:142 N '67 150w

"[The author] has made a good study of the development of ancient Peru from the early Chavin period to the period of the Incas by showing the setting in which the finds were made and by outlining some of characteristics of the ancient world. Excellent plates are integrated with the text; unfortunately, this makes difficult reading. Although the book does not add much that is new to Peruvian archaeology, and its format and excessive price will keep all but specialists from buying, larger academic and art libraries will probably want it." Mary Gormly

Library J 92:4413 D 1 '67 120w

TLS p479 My 9 '68 160w

UCHIDA, YOSHIKO. In-between Miya; ill. by Susan Bennett. 128p lib bdg $3.12 Scribner

67-24051

The middle child in a family, "twelve-year-old Miya, daughter of a Buddhist teacher and priest in a Japanese village, secretly longs for a life of greater luxury. Therefore, she seizes an opportunity to do housework for an ailing, well-to-do aunt in Tokyo. Proving inadequate to her responsibilities, Miya returns home, but her disappointment is alleviated by family acceptance, deepening friendships, and growing self-understanding. . . . Grades four to seven." (Library J)

"Uchida well understands the universal pain and dissatisfaction, the restless frustration of a 12-year-old—especially a poor one who has been given a taste of the good life. Besides Miya, there are some splendid people in the story: the father, a wise priest-teacher; the sister, a modern Japanese working girl; a perfectly marvelous plump grandmother person who saves the day on more than one occasion; and even a greasy Japanese con-man. The book is beautifully designed and the illustrations by Susan Bennett have an appropriate block print quality." Elinore Standard
Book World pt 2, p45 (children's issue)
N 5 '67 220w

"So natural is Miya in her relationships with her family (she is the in-between child), her contemporaries, and the kind old lady she meets on the train, that readers will identify with her, sympathizing with her uncertainties and her joys, experiencing Japanese life with its sharp contrast between old and new, poor and rich. Young readers who are friends of Sumi, another memorable character of Miss Uchida's, will want to become acquainted with Miya." H. B. C.

Horn Bk 43:755 D '67 150w

"Realistic characterization, Japanese setting, and the skillful fusion of small but significant incidents make an absorbing story." P. A. McKenzie

Library J 92:4255 N 15 '67 60w

Reviewed by Zena Sutherland

Sat R 50:44 N 11 '67 150w

TLS p1121 O 3 '68 60w

UCKO, PETER J. Paleolithic cave art [by] Peter J. Ucko [and] Andr  e Rosenfeld. 256p il col il maps $4.95; pa $2.45 McGraw

709.01 Cave drawings. Art. Primitive 66-16481

The authors "survey the Paleolithic epoch, canvass the mural art, offer a . . . review of the interpretative traditions, and conclude with a critical analysis of interpretations." (Science)

"A compact and brilliant [work]. . . . No-where, on any level of erudition or seriousness of purpose, will one find as sensitive and clear-headed a discussion of methodology as in this book. This, indeed, is the main purpose of the work: it is a major contribution . . . to the subject for the would-be serious student, and it will instruct mature scholars in the field as well." M. H. Levine

Science 161:150 J1 12 '68 700w

"These writers, an anthropologist and a physicist, make a strong case against the idea that we know very much about the purposes of the art. The statistics seem fragile to them, on the bases of doubtful categorization of location and type, of nonrandom selection and of small samples. . . . They do not offer a substitute thesis. They recognize that great art is likely to have had many purposes, many ends and many artists whose nature we shall find hard to penetrate. This pocket-sized book, adorned with many pointed maps and photographs, sets out the problem very clearly. The writers conclude: 'Some and perhaps many Paleolithic expressions were made for reasons which still totally elude the modern observer.'" Sci Am 213:138 Je '68 220w

UDEN, GRANT, jt. comp. They looked like this (Europe). See Pedley, A.

UEDA, MAKOTO. Literary and art theories in Japan. 274p pl $7.50 Press of Case Western reserve univ.

700.10952 Japanese literature—History and criticism. Art, Japanese. Esthetics 67-14521

In this collection of essays the author considers "masters from the 9th Century through the 18th Century whose work individually represents different forms of literary and artistic expression. Mr. Ueda's objective is not to assess what they substantively created but rather to determine how they viewed their work." (Library J) Index.

Choice 5:614 J1 '68 100w

"[Ueda examines] the following: Tsurayuki on lyric poetry; Lady Murasaki on fiction; Yoshimoto on linked verse; Zeami on N  ; Senn   on flower arrangement; Riky   on the tea ceremony; Toraaki on comedy; Jig   on narrative singing; Mitsuoki on painting; Bash   on haiku; Y  sh   on calligraphy; Chikamatsu on the puppet theater; and Norinaga on creative writing. . . . Appended to the text are Biographies of the theorists under discussion, with information on English translations of their writing, whenever available, and Sources for those readers interested in the original Japanese texts. . . . [This] is the only book of its kind in English or in any European language for that matter. As such it will serve as an excellent introduction and as a useful handbook to students of aesthetics." Beongcheon Yu

J Aesthetics 26:540 summer '68 850w

"Despite the widespread appreciation of Japan's literary and artistic heritage, inadequate understanding of its underlying conceptions of aesthetics has been typical. In this collection of sensitive and illuminating essays Professor

Ueda of the University of Toronto helps to remedy this shortcoming. . . . These essays are of unusually high caliber, and it would be only human to plead for further studies by the author. For all serious collections on aesthetics in general and on Japanese culture specifically." Hyman Kublin

Library J 93:981 Mr 1 '68 120w

"This excellent book is a . . . very 'meaty' volume containing much that will be new to the average Japanese specialist, along with admirable expositions of other material that will be more familiar, such as the views of Zeami or Bash  . It contributes substantially to the appreciation of the individual artists. On the other hand, I find its overall picture of Japanese aesthetics a little uneven. To be fair, it does not set out to be a history of Japanese aesthetics. But it does seem a little curious to find important theoreticians like Teika or Shunzei omitted, while the Ky  gen actor Toraaki is included. . . . These are minor criticisms, however. The book still provides a good sampling of Japanese aesthetics, and is rounded off extremely well with a chapter summarizing and drawing together the threads of what has gone before." D. E. Mills

Pacific Affairs 41:438 fall '68 460w

UKHMANI, A., jt. comp. Anthology of modern Hebrew poetry, 2v. See Penuell, S. Y.

ULAM, ADAM B. Expansion and coexistence, the history of Soviet foreign policy, 1917-67. 775p $12.95 Praeger

327.47 Russia—Foreign relations. Russia—History—1917- 68-11323

This "is not only a setting forth of the explicit 'events' in Soviet diplomacy but an analysis of the personal, ideological, and political factors that have shaped Russian foreign policy." (Publisher's note) Index.

Reviewed by Walter Laqueur

Book World p6 D 29 '68 1200w

Reviewed by A. S. Birkos

Library J 93:2883 Ag '68 190w

"Ulam imagines the Communists as just another bunch of politicians—something like Kennedy or Wilson—with similar thought processes and similar goals. These flaws are fatal to [his] otherwise very careful study. . . . Ulam's work is of some factual value. It's his assumptions and interpretations that are invalid, and they make his book an expensive curiosity rather than the solid scholarly contribution it might have been." W. D. Jacobs

Nat R 20:1335 D 31 '68 250w

"Even so professional a Sovietologist as Adam Ulam is hard put to explain why his cast of characters behave as they do. One of the central problems in his authoritative survey . . . is the origin of the cold war. . . . Perhaps it is the mark of a good historian that his analyses can be cited in support of various schools of thought. Professor Ulam is certain to be quoted both by those who oppose the trend of US policies and those who support them. . . . Ulam has brought to . . . [this book] an authoritative knowledge of Communist politics . . . and a talent for writing about it." Francis Pierce

New Repub 159:31 N 2 '68 900w

"This big, informative work by a Russian expert at Harvard is close to enthralling. It takes all the space it requires to give all the details needed to mark what seems a tortuous path, and at the end the reader . . . comes to realize that Soviet foreign policy has been more consistent than its historic switches suggest. He sees, too, why Professor Ulam is profoundly pessimistic. . . . [Ulam's] estimate of American foreign policy and diplomacy since the Second World War is, by and large, unenthusiastic. Still, if the reader cannot change the world, he may find some consolation in understanding it, and this book is an immense aid to such understanding."

New Yorker 44:249 N 23 '68 240w

ULLMAN, JAMES RAMSEY. Straight up; the life and death of John Harlin. 288p pl $5.95 Doubleday

B or 92 Harlin, John. Mountaineering 68-12193

This is the biography of an American mountain climber "who died in a fall in the Alps at the age of 30." (N Y Times Bk R) Glossary.

"[Harlin] was a creature of some complexity, who deserves a better chronicle. Ullman increasingly indulges his penchant for overstated, vivid writing and banal dialogue none of which conceals his marked ambivalence toward his subject. A better account of the luckless Eiger climb is P. Gillman's and D. Haston's Directissima: a Mountain Adventure [BRD 1967]."

ULLMAN, J. R.—Continued

Anita Nygaard

Library J 93:2857 Ag '68 140w

"The book oscillates between admiration and disenchantment. Some readers, especially those without a high degree of tolerance for climbing, will still find it difficult to figure Harlin out from the evidence the author presents. . . . [Harlin was killed] while trying to scale what may have been the hardest route ever attempted in the Alps, the direct ascent of the Eiger North Wall. Ullman's description of [this] last climb is a thriller. It comes as a pleasant change, after his not too successful attempt to untie the Gordian knot of Harlin's complex and not entirely attractive character." Jeremy Bernstein

N Y Times Bk R p42 J1 14 '68 410w

ULLMAN, RICHARD HENRY. Anglo-Soviet relations, 1917-1921 [3v; v2, Britain and the Russian Civil War]. il maps $10 Princeton univ. press

327.42 Great Britain—Foreign relations—Russia. Russia—Foreign relations—Great Britain 61-6290

The second "of a trilogy covering the process by which Great Britain first sought an alliance with, then fought, and finally accommodated herself to the Bolsheviks during 1917-21. . . . The first volume (Intervention and the War) chronicled the period from the October Revolution to the end of World War I; a third volume will cover 1920-21." (Choice)

"[This work] is of first-class importance. . . . Ullman, though a political scientist (Princeton), operates here as a diplomatic historian, and presents a very complex story with stylistic grace and great clarity, while carefully balancing narrative with sufficient interpretation to underscore his points. He uses the newly available Cabinet, Foreign Office and War Office papers for 1918-20, as well as those of Curzon, Balfour, Robert Cecil, William Wiseman, Henry Wilson, and Ironside. . . . Good index. Should be in all but the smallest college libraries."

Choice 5:1209 N '68 200w

Reviewed by Hyman Kublin

Library J 93:2862 Ag '68 190w

ULLMANN, LEONARD P. Institution and outcome; a comparative study of psychiatric hospitals. 197p $7.50 Pergamon

362.2 Hospitals—U.S. Mentally ill—Care and treatment 67-15605

The author "reports the results of a study of the effectiveness of the psychiatric hospital as a function of certain characteristics of the institution. . . . The author regards returning the patient to the community to be the main function of the mental hospital. . . . Appropriate data were collected on thirty Veterans Administration (VA) psychiatric hospitals during a full year. The general research strategy was to treat the various hospitals as subjects and to apply techniques commonly used by psychologists for studying individual differences. . . . From these considerations, the author makes some recommendations . . . to increase the effectiveness of the institution." (Ann Am Acad) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by W. A. Rushing

Am Soc R 33:317 Ap '68 700w

"The major findings of the study, that small hospital size and high staffing correlate positively with hospital effectiveness, are not surprising. However, the data permitted refinement of these general statements and additional correlations between hospital characteristics and effectiveness. . . . A limitation of the study is that the only criteria of hospital effectiveness was getting the patient out of the hospital for a minimum period of time. . . . [Nevertheless the book] provides a carefully developed and validated methodology for studying institutions as individual subjects; it yields some specific information on the relationship between institutional characteristics and hospital effectiveness; and the findings are meaningfully interpreted within a socio-psychological model of patient-staff interaction." J. P. Brady

Ann Am Acad 376:200 Mr '68 430w

Choice 5:1179 N '68 190w

"A closely reasoned and elegantly executed investigation . . . within which [Ullmann's] specific research findings take on full human meaning. . . . It should be noted that the [hospitals studied] were all Veterans Administration hospitals, a fact that made it possible to obtain useful standard records and maximum comparability; at the same time, this restricted the patient population to males and may also have imposed certain organizational idiosyncrasies that limit the generalizability of findings. . . . This is an extremely valuable book. It adds to our knowledge of organizational functioning. If the author's modestly phrased but trenchant suggestions for improvement of psychiatric hospitals were acted upon, hospital personnel, patients, and society at large might profit immensely." R. N. Wilson

Science 158:1170 D 1 '67 700w

ULMAN, LLOYD, ed. Challenges to collective bargaining. See American assembly

UMLAUF, CHARLES. Charles Umlauf, sculptor; foreword by Gibson A. Danes; introd. by Donald B. Goodall; pub. in coop. with the Univ. art mus. of the Univ. of Texas. 124p il $10 Univ. of Tex. press

730

67-26051

The work of an American sculptor, "covering the years 1937 to 1966, is presented here in some 167 plates and sketches [preceded by a biographical introduction. Umlauf] . . . has been a professor of sculpture for 25 years at the University of Texas; he has exhibited in Texas and elsewhere. He works in stone, bronze, and sometimes in marble and terra cotta. His subjects are mainly religious although he has sculpted some animals and some mythological subjects. A few of his abstract works are shown in this book, but the bulk of the photographs are of representational pieces." (Library J) Chronology.

"An exceptional monograph, with a particularly sensitive foreword, . . . a comprehensive and perceptive introduction, . . . and an extensive list of plates. Photographs and reproductions are of consistently high quality. While they represent a fraction of Umlauf's sculpture, these illustrations indicate an excellent cross section of a varied and prolific sculptor. While no monograph can reveal the outer limits of a man's search, this volume successfully gives the essence of a man's life as expressed in his work."

Choice 5:333 My '68 170w

"Goodall's introduction to the book is primarily biographical; there is also a chronology of events in the artist's life. Recommended for art libraries primarily." Ruth Bertrand

Library J 93:1471 Ap 1 '68 130w

UNAMUNO Y JUGO, MIGUEL DE. Selected works; v3. Our lord Don Quixote; eds: Anthony Kerrigan [and others]. (Bollinger ser) $6.50 Princeton univ. press

863

68-2124

This volume contains translations of the author's "The Life of Don Quixote and Sancho and sixteen other essays on the Quixote theme." (Nation)

"In the extremely adept translation . . . the demands of the styles of both Unamuno and Cervantes (when excerpts of the latter's work are interpolated) are sensitively fulfilled. . . . Starkie's genial introductory essay with its personal reminiscences sets the stage most appropriately for the reader's orientation. . . . [The] essays which comprise the closing section of this . . . handsomely produced book reflect as does The Life of Don Quixote and Sancho, Unamuno's preoccupation with immortality, glory, and the search for personal identity." A. M. Pollin

Library J 93:2874 Ag '68 180w

"[This volume] is splendid in every respect—handsomely printed and bound, with . . . very full notes of great help to the scholarly reader. . . . [The] translation is clean, forceful and direct. Much of the material is translated for the first time, but where this is not the case, Kerrigan's is preferable to any previous efforts; his translation . . . far surpasses in clarity the H. P. Earle translation [of The Life of Don Quixote and Sancho, BRD 1927]."
Allen Lacy

Nation 206:829 Je 24 '68 1900w

"The translation is excellent, the notes discreet, the index workmanlike, the presentation handsome; all that is left to grumble about is Professor Starkie's deplorable introduction, and . . . this particular piece of Unamuno's work. . . . [Unamuno's] personal view of Don Quixote causes him to read certain passages with sensitivity and insight. . . . But on the other hand Unamuno resolutely ignores most of Cervantes's irony, and his own single-minded version of the book's meaning obliges him to exclude consideration of all that is not directly relevant to it. . . . Cervantes is simply more interesting than Unamuno, so Unamuno is most interesting when he is close to Cervantes, which, of course, is on principle not very often."

TLS p1004 S 12 '68 500w

UNDERWOOD, MAVIS EILEEN. See Kilpatrick, S.

The UNFINISHED journey; issues in American education; pref. by Lyndon B. Johnson; intro. by Harold Howe II. 202p $3.75 Day
370.973 Education—U.S. U.S. Office of Education 68-28751

"This volume of 12 essays has been published to mark the centennial in 1967 [of the U.S. Office of Education] and to point up its broad influence. Contributors, chosen from inside and outside the field of education . . . discuss federal aid to, and control over, schools; the effects of poverty on education; urban school problems; the role of small colleges and of Negro colleges; the quest for quality in education; the impact of technology on education, and other topics." (Library J)

"There is little here that has not been covered at greater length and depth both in periodicals and monographs. Accordingly, the collection is recommended only for large public and academic collections." C. E. Zakrzewski
Library J 93:3002 S 1 '68 160w

"A distinguished collection [which] opens with Ralph W. Tyler on the price of quality education and closes with Charles Frankel's appeal for international education as a path to urbanity. . . . This excellent book demands high priority on fall reading lists."
Sat R 51:73 S 21 '68 100w

UNGERER, TOMI. Zeralda's ogre. unnp il $3.95 Harper

Fairy tales

67-14069

"Once upon a time there was a terrible ogre who ate little children, causing the townspeople to hide all the surviving tots. Meanwhile, in another part of the forest, lovely, angelic little Zeralda set forth to market for her ailing father; when the starving ogre saw her he tripped in his impatience and went out like a light. Zeralda's Cordon Bleu cooking revived him, and refined his palate so much that he gave up cannibalism and married his new cook. . . . Ages five to eight." (Sat R)

Book World p36 S 10 '67 150w

"In the amusingly moral spirit of the author's earlier The Three Robbers [BRD 1962] . . . this original story about an ogre presents again an innocent child winning over wickedness. . . . [Zeralda's] menu is to be chanted delectably, in English or in French. . . . [The ogre's] customary craving forgotten, he became, of course, a reformed ogre, and he and Zeralda lived happily ever after. Ungerer's bold drawings, in full color on half of the pages, are, in their crude and comic exaggeration, compatible with the text." V. H.

Horn Bk 43:745 D '67 170w

"A folktale type of story with a delightfully humorous twist, this is illustrated with the comic inventiveness . . . in bold, brash poster-like pictures, full color alternating with pages done in tones of brown and orange." Elva Harmon

Library J 92:3843 O 15 '67 130w

Reviewed by Eve Merriam

N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p70 N 5 '67 60w

"Makes fun of gourmet cooking, and any book that does that is all right with me, though it's possible that small children whose gustatory educations are still at the Shake-a-Puddin' stage of development may not feel the full force of Mr. Ungerer's wit. . . . The illustrations are large and handsome and cheerful, and they mitigate any terrors the story might hold for a child (the ogre looks far less formidable than the gourmet food), but I doubt whether children would find the book frightening in any case. A book about an ogre who eats naughty children would be something to keep out of the hands of an impressionable child, but Ungerer's amoral endomorph is hardly the material nightmares are made of." Janet Malcolm

New Yorker 43:159 D 16 '67 400w

Reviewed by Zena Sutherland

Sat R 50:35 D 16 '67 130w

UNITAS, JOHN. Playing pro football to win, by John Unitas with Harold Rosenthal; foreword by Carroll Rosenbloom. 165p il $4.95 Doubleday

796.33 Football—Juvenile literature 68-25598

The author describes "players who have left their marks on the game . . . like Gale Sayers, Bart Starr, Raymond Berry . . . Bronko Nagurski and Red Grange. He also writes about many of the most exciting games in pro football history. . . . [He includes] his quarterbacking philosophy and his views on the roles of other players in today's highly-developed game." (Publisher's note) "Grades seven to ten." (Best Sell)

"There are some stories of his own great games, but the author also writes of other famous games in the history of professional football. In each account there is an illustration of some facet of the game. . . . The book will have a natural appeal for sports enthusiasts."

Best Sell 28:279 O 1 '68 70w

"Although a children's book, this title would be a good one to give an adult who likes the game." J. N. Goodsell

Christian Science Monitor pB12 N 7 '68 70w

"Regrettably, only a minor portion of the book is given over to Unitas's views on football tactics and strategy; the remainder describes professional football games dating from the 1920's, most of which may be found in other similar collections. On the plus side for this group, however, are extensive coverage, a high degree of accuracy, and a reliable list of pro football records."

Library J 93:4739 D 15 '68 70w

UNITED STATES. National gallery of art. Renaissance medals; from the Samuel H. Kress collection at the National gallery of art; based on the catalogue of renaissance medals in the Gustave Dreyfus coll. by G. F. Hill; rev. & enl. by Graham Pollard. 307p 1209il $18.50 Praeger

737 Medals. Coins

[67-105399]

"The catalog of this collection, originally compiled by Sir George Hill, [was] first published in 1931. In this book there are . . . natural-size reproductions of 667 Renaissance medals and coins (mostly Italian), an identification of the artist and the subject (portraits on the obverse, mostly allegories on the reverse) of each medal, and . . . bibliographical references to each work." (Library J) Indexes of inscriptions, of persons, of artists and general index.

"Substantially G. F. Hill's monumental catalog, . . . revised and augmented by Pollard, another authority in the field. As such it is very important since it makes this fundamental work widely available, now in a smaller format than the scarce original to conform with the other volumes in the catalog of the Kress Collection. Like the others it is splendidly produced. All medals are reproduced in the original sizes with somewhat greater contrast than in the Hill catalog of 1931. Extended reference apparatus, comprising concordances [and several indexes]. . . . Highly recommended."

Choice 5:43 Mr '68 100w

"A scholarly inventory of a special collection, this well-made book has aesthetic appeal and historical significance for every student of the Renaissance. For scholarly and larger general collections." J. L. Dewton

Library J 92:4145 N 15 '67 200w

UNIVERSITIES-NATIONAL BUREAU COMMITTEE FOR ECONOMIC RESEARCH. Issues in defense economics; ed. by Roland N. McKean; a conf. of the Universities-National bureau committee for economic research; pub. by the Nat. bur. of economic research. 286p $7.50 Columbia univ. press

355.03 Disarmament. U.S.—Defenses

67-19156

These papers "deal with the application of economic theory and related mathematical tools to defense problems, both in the context of American national defense and of mutual security arrangements. The volume is divided into three parts [Applying Economic Concepts to Defense Problems, Strategy and Resource Allocation, and Institutional Structures and Defense Spending]." (Publisher's note) Index.

"[The] papers are provocative and include many revealing suggestions and useful ways of considering some of the very tough issues facing us today. . . . This volume is a useful addition to the growing body of work by economists who have applied their talents and expertise to problems of national security and defense. Like all such collections of papers prepared for a conference, there is a certain unevenness in the quality of the papers and in the formal remarks of the discussants, and there is little relationship among the three groups of papers. . . . Those interested in the application of the tools of economics to non-defense government issues can find much that is useful in the present collection, . . . especially in the last group of papers." W. M. Capron

Am Econ R 58:1024 S '68 1700w

Reviewed by Arthur Schweitzer

Ann Am Acad 378:146 J1 '68 450w

UNIVERSITIES-NATIONAL BUREAU COMMITTEE FOR ECONOMIC RESEARCH. National economic planning; a conference; Max F. Millikan, ed [pub. by] Nat. bur. of economic research. 413p $10 Columbia univ. press

338.9 Economic policy. Economic development 66-25247

"This book is a collection of papers and comments thereon . . . delivered at a conference held [in November, 1964]. The volume includes five papers on functional issues in national economic planning and four papers analyzing planning experience in four countries at different stages of economic growth [Russia, France, India and Yugoslavia]. . . . The functional papers include: 'The Methodology of Planning Models,' by R. Stone and C. Leicesters; 'Locational Choices in Planning,' by T. Vitorisz; 'Techniques of Project Appraisal,' by A. C. Harberger; 'Some Implications of Planning for Trade and Capital Movements,' by D. D. Humphrey; and 'Planning Public Expenditure,' by W. A. Lewis." (J Pol Econ) Index.

"The papers in the first group . . . deal with methodology, techniques, and theoretical implications of planning, most of them employing rather demanding mathematical models. . . . Except for Eckaus' thorough discussion of a planning model for India, the second group of papers adds little to current understanding of planning in the countries covered (U.S.S.R., France, Yugoslavia) and is below the first group in quality. . . . Most papers contain tables, graphs, and detailed bibliographies. Useful for advanced undergraduates and recommended for graduate students in development economics, economic systems, and econometrics."

Choice 4:1420 F '68 160w

J Pol Econ 75:904 D '67 180w

UNTERMEYER, JEAN STARR. Job's daughter. 150p $6 Norton

811

67-20617

A chronologically arranged collection of poems written over a period of 50 years. The poet "treats themes such as the miseries of misplaced and lost love, and adultery and pretense in love. . . . In the section 'The Kaddish,' which is part of the long poem 'Seven Meditations for Julie Brousseau Roth,' Mrs. Untermyer implies the . . . parallels between the Kaddish prayer and the Book of Job. The last poem in her book is in memory of President John F. Kennedy." (Library J) Some of these poems first appeared in such periodicals as Wisconsin Poetry Magazine, Directions and The Saturday Review of Literature.

"[All of these poems] show a remarkably good ear for words, a faultless sense of rhythm. The ballads and songs particularly are excellent. But craft is not, in general, combined with an abundance of imagination. Untermyer will stand with our minor poets and is certainly worth study as an example of the feminine sensibility in American poetry. Libraries with relatively complete collections of 20th-century American poetry will want this volume."

Choice 5:962 O '68 80w

"In her prefatory note, Mrs. Untermyer says that what impressed her most about Job was the fact that he survived; however, in her poems she seems more impressed with Job's suffering than with his survival. . . . Her rhymes seem jangling and forced; her poems in free verse are more effective. However, she lapses occasionally into awkward lines of prose. Stylistically, 'Eve Before the Tree' reads like a bad imitation of Shelley. . . . Some of her best poems are 'Hidden Meteors—Homage to Emily Dickinson' and the poem on Mozart. Since these poetic statements are short, intense, and sustained, they succeed where her longer effusive poems seem to limp along. . . . Because it is quite moving and not too complex [this] book may be popular with young people and public speakers." E. W. Frazer

Library J 92:3428 O 1 '67 260w [YA]

UNTERMEYER, LOUIS. The firebringer, and other great stories; fifty-five legends that live forever; newly written by Louis Untermyer; il. by Mae Gerhard. 255p $5.95 Evans, M. & Co.

398.2 Legends—Juvenile literature 68-18716

Included in this collection are "the stories of Pandora, Phaethon, Atalanta, Pygmalion, Aeneas, Midas, Baucis and Philemon, Julius Caesar, Esther, Siegfried, Beowulf, Sohrab and Rustum, Joan of Arc, Sister Beatrice and the Statue, Wat Tyler [and] Guy Fawkes. . . . Grade five and up." (Best Sell)

"[The illustrations] get in the way of the stories in some instances. But the collection will prove agreeable reading for all ages."

Best Sell 28:379 D 1 '68 90w

"[This book is] a handsome compliment to far from forgotten heroes in seemingly timeless tales." A. B. Myers

N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p46 N 3 '68 70w

UNTERMEYER, LOUIS. Tales from the ballet; adapted by Louis Untermyer; il. by A. and M. Provensen. 91p $5.95 Golden press

792.8 Ballets—Stories, plots, etc.—Juvenile literature 68-21311

This book explains the plots of twenty famous ballets including Swan Lake, Billy the Kid and Firebird. It also contains a concise history of the Ballet as well as brief information about the background, choreography, composer, scenery and costume designer of each ballet. "Ages six to nine." (N Y Times Bk R)

"A big, beautiful book. . . . Untermyer lends a light, warm touch to his recital of the plots . . . putting words into the mouths of his characters that 'suggest what they would say if they could speak.' But it is the Provensens' magnificent illustrations, their finest to date, that evoke the enchantment, poetry, color, humor and drama of ballet and give the book its distinction. . . . Started by the artists to amuse their daughter, the book should be enjoyed by everyone, of all ages, who loves ballet." Polly Goodwin

Book World p16 S 22 '68 180w

"The emphasis of selection is on the classic repertoire; the ballet of most recent vintage, 'Fancy Free,' was first produced 24 years ago. [The book] will not only answer the child's inevitable 'What's happening up there on the stage?' but will also serve as an appealing and unusual storybook as well. With a strain of fond humor [the] illustrators . . . have unerringly captured the spirit and style of pieces that are ages and cultures apart." M. L. Bird

N Y Times Bk R p30 S 15 '68 190w

UNWIN, DERICK, ed. Aspects of educational technology. See Programmed learning conference, Loughborough, England, 1966

UPDIKE, JOHN. Couples. 458p $6.95 Knopf

68-12996

The author of Rabbit, Run (BRD 1960) and The Centaur (BRD 1963) in this novel describes the lives of ten middle class couples in a Boston suburb (called Tarbox) who are obsessed with sex and among whom infidelity is common. Characters include Piet Hanema, a building contractor, Foxy Whitman, wife of a biochemist, and others.

Reviewed by W. B. Hill

America 118:622 My 4 '68 140w

Reviewed by Diana Trilling

Atlantic 221:129 Ap '68 2000w

Reviewed by W. H. Archer

Best Sell 28:32 Ap 15 '68 550w

Reviewed by Alfred Kazin

Book World p1 Ap 7 '68 2000w

Choice 5:628 J1 '68 180w

Reviewed by Wesley Kort

Christian Century 85:1340 O 23 '68 950w

Reviewed by John Thompson

Commentary 45:70 My '68 3550w

Reviewed by Josh Greenfeld

Commonweal 88:185 Ap 26 '68 1800w

Reviewed by Michael Novak

Critic 26:72 Je '68 1350w

"Some readers will gag with disgust at the excruciatingly detailed varieties of sexual play that Mr. Updike describes. But he derives both the thrusting force of the narrative and the definition of the thematic structure of the novel from the encyclopedic use of sexuality as a metaphorical device. Even though He is scorned throughout the book, a phenomenal fear of the Christian God pervades the attitudes of all the characters. . . . Certainly this novel will cause controversy, but because it so correctly and dramatically diagnoses the moral disease which is eating at the soft vitals of the American middle class, it should quickly assume the status of a major novel. Needed in every library's fiction collection, but be prepared to defend your choice of it." R. F. Cayton

Library J 93:1164 Mr 15 '68 400w

Reviewed by Anatole Broyard

New Repub 158:28 My 4 '68 1450w

Reviewed by Francis Hope

New Statesman 76:639 N 8 '68 800w

Reviewed by W. H. Gass

N Y Rev of Books 10:3 Ap 11 '68 2000w

"[The book can] be read simply as a fiendish compendium of exurban manners—the dinner party scenes, the protocol of adultery, the care and neglect of children. The games are described with loving horror. The incidents of wife-swapping are a nice blend of Noel Coward and Krafft-Ebing. As to that style—it is there in set-pieces, which can almost be read separately. . . . Updike's weakness is not too much beauty but too much precision; he tells you more than you want to know, in words as arcane and exact as old legal language. . . . [In this book] he has written a painful natural history of Man, and it would have been in his interests to make it big with personal tragedy. But this goes against his religion. So instead, it trails off on a note of irony. . . . Existence is tragedy enough for a Calvinist temperament like his own." Wilfrid Sheed

N Y Times Bk R p1 Ap 7 '68 3000w

Reviewed by R. A. Sokolov

Newsweek 71:125 Ap 8 '68 700w

Reviewed by C. W. Griffin

Reporter 38:43 My 30 '68 650w

"[This] is the longest book Updike has written, but it isn't the major novel many of us have been hoping for. For one thing, Piet is not quite real. For another thing, the book is not different from what Updike has written before but simply more—more couples, more coupling, more trouble. However . . . it is full of good things. I've written that or something like it about every book Updike has published, and it's always true. . . . Although quantitatively, so to speak, Couples reminds me of the work of Updike's fellow-Pennsylvanian John O'Hara, there is no comparison in quality. Updike's style can carry the burden of details with which the book is filled. He uses even the four-letter words with distinction." Granville Hicks

Sat R 51:21 Ap 6 '68 2000w

Time 91:66 Ap 26 '68 6000w

TLS p1245 N 7 '68 1050w

Va Q R 44:xvii summer '68 270w

Reviewed by D. J. Gordon

Yale R 58:112 O '68 850w

URIEL ACOSTA: A specimen of human life.

127p il $4 Bergman

B or 92 Judaism

62-28486

This volume contains an English translation "of Acosta's Autobiography, which provides the title for this edition [and] of his Eleven Theses Against the Tradition. To these [are added] translations of Jewish documents relative to Acosta's excommunication, and . . . the Defense of Christianity in Answer to Acosta's Objections by the Dutch divine, Philip á Limborch." (Library J)

"This slim volume is only a sloppy serving of unassimilated source material. . . . Whose translation (and from what language) are we reading? And who is the editor, and who 'The Editor' of the few footnotes? And why is not the story of his 17th-century religious skeptic outfitted with a historical perspective? . . . This book is not even a kissing cousin to scholarship. Almost any encyclopedia . . . is infinitely superior."

Choice 5:788 S '68 150w

"Regrettably, Acosta's works are unaccompanied by an introduction that would place them in their historical and ideological perspective. Also lacking are the detailed notes required to clarify the numerous difficulties contained in the writings. Without these indispensable elements, Acosta's invectives against the Amsterdam Jewish community may lead any reader but a specialist in the field to crude misconceptions about the nature of Jews and Judaism. Limborch's invective, similarly read, will not alleviate this situation. As a result, these texts can be recommended only for experts. Even then their value is limited."

M. A. Cohen

Library J 92:2578 J1 '67 210w

URRY, WILLIAM. Canterbury under the Angevin kings. (London. Univ. Hist. study) 514p maps $16.80 Oxford

942.2 Canterbury, England—History

[67-101737]

"The present Cathedral and City Archivist of Canterbury . . . [presents a] commentary on a series of rent rolls, charters, and surveys relating to the archiepiscopal city in the period 1160-1220. The complete Latin texts of these documents are included. Twenty-three fold-out maps compare the changing holdings in Canterbury in 1166 and 1220." (Choice)

Reviewed by C. R. Young

Am Hist R 73:1498 Je '68 360w

"A work of extraordinary scholarship. . . . One of the remarkable things this work reveals is how some tenements have descended virtually unchanged from Angevin times to our own day. This book is a gold mine for someone wanting to learn more about the medieval city. . . . Nevertheless, this analysis presumes prior acquaintance with the 12th century and with the town of Canterbury itself. A somewhat similar study, DuBoulay, The Lordship of Canterbury [BRD 1967], considered the whole archiepiscopal fief as well as the city itself. They make good companion volumes. Urry's more detailed study is to be praised on all accounts. . . . [However] his brilliant work will necessarily appeal to a small audience and may well be more suited to graduate and specialized libraries than to undergraduate holdings."

Choice 5:399 My '68 170w

"Dr Urry's book adds to the studies of individual towns which historians can use in an attempt to reach a balanced picture of English society from the Conquest onwards. Others are J. Hill's 'Medieval Lincoln' [BRD 1949] and G. Williams's recent 'Medieval London from Commune to Capital' [BRD 1964]. . . . [This book] will surely have greater appeal for the 'professional' historian than for the general reader, unless he has a working knowledge of medieval Latin; although any Canterbury inhabitant might enjoy using the admirable maps. . . . For anyone interested in the English urban past, it contains a mass of information about this borough dominated by the Archbishop and monks of the priory. . . . The drama of the 'murder in the Cathedral' has brought medieval Canterbury into the consciousness even of the non-specialist."

Economist 224:794 S 2 '67 480w

"For the administration of their local property the monks of Christ Church, Canterbury, accumulated extensive archives. These were chiefly in the form of Charters and rentals. . . . By his careful editing of this material Dr.

URRY, WILLIAM—Continued

Urry has placed all students of English municipal history in his debt, and in his introductory chapters he has begun to analyse the purport of this evidence in so far as it concerns Canterbury itself. He has much to say for instance, about the relations between monks and citizens, and about the trades and occupations of the inhabitants of twelfth-century Canterbury.... Not a writer whose work is to be read casually or in haste.... [His book is] solid, significant and authoritative."

TLS p416 Ap 25 '68 300w

USHERWOOD, STEPHEN. Shakespeare play by play; il. by Raymond Piper. 99p $5.95 Hill & Wang

822.3 Shakespeare, William—Drama 67-24780

A synopsis of each play is given "in the chronological order of their writing, [giving] the historical setting and literary sources where necessary." (Best Sell)

"It may be unfair to Raymond Piper, who has contributed 120 line and color illustrations to this book, not to include his name as co-author, but that seems to be the fate of illustrators.... It is a real service to the play-goer and the play-reader to have this book, which is more than a supplement to or alternate for the Charles and Mary Lamb 'Tales from Shakespeare.' Piper's illustrations often reflect modern productions which he has witnessed and they are in every instance authentic and enlightening."

Best Sell 27:437 F 15 '68 110w

"Three pages of text and several drawings per play, plus a good chart of the royal houses of York and Lancaster for the history plays and a short article on Shakespeare's life make up this summary. The plays are outlined briefly and well, with short commentaries. Students will be able to use this not as a substitute for reading the plays but, rather, as a guide after reading or for brushing up before a test." Regina Minudri

Library J 93:1827 Ap 15 '68 70w [YA]

UTLEY, ROBERT M. Frontiersmen in blue; the U.S. army and the Indian, 1848-1865. 384p il $9.95 Macmillan (N Y)

355.3 U.S. Army—History. The West—History 67-19682

The chief historian for the Department of the Interior "has written a synthesis and analysis of the multitude of monographs, books, and documents dealing with the Indian and the frontier army immediately following the Mexican War and through the Civil War.... [He] treats the territorial, political, and military conditions confronting the nation during this era." (J Am Hist) Bibliography.

Reviewed by A. M. Gibson

Am Hist R 73:1644 Je '68 500w

"Along with his analysis of the general situation, Utley writes an excellent description of the frontier soldier and the army.... [He] shows an extensive knowledge of the numerous Senate and House executive documents relating to the various Indian policies and campaigns. He draws extensively from the annual reports of the secretary of war and the commissioner of Indian affairs. His bibliography of published materials is comprehensive. He says he felt these sources were sufficient for the job he had in mind, and he was correct. Happily for the reader, Utley is able to write well. His style is inobtrusive, entertaining, and objective, to an extent rarely encountered today. It is refreshing to find a history of the frontier, the army, and particularly the Indian without the present-day mawkish sentimentalism." L. W. Wetzler

J Am Hist 54:895 Mr '68 500w

Reviewed by John Buechler

Library J 93:549 F 1 '68 130w

UTTLEY, JOHN. A short history of the Channel Islands [Eng title: The story of the Channel Islands]. 224p pl maps $6.50 Praeger

A "former schoolmaster at St. Lawrence, Eton, and Stowe, is now a resident of Guernsey and a member of La Société Guernsiaisie. His book covers the history of the Channel Islands from prehistoric times to 1964." (Choice) Bibliography. Index.

"Much of [this book] is anecdotal and much of it is well told. The book is directed at entertainment of the common reader, who is not judged to be interested in documentation at all and to have only the smallest interest in bibliography. Suitable index.... Other recent books dealing with Channel Islands are not so all inclusive either in covering all times or all islands."

Choice 4:1168 D '67 100w

"[The Islands] are now a popular resort of travelers. Mr. Uttley's account is well balanced; he devotes much space to medieval history but does not fail to describe recent island life under the Nazi occupation. Those who pick up this book—most readers, one suspects, will be historical amateurs or travelers with a taste for unusual sights—will find much to interest them. The odd survivals of medieval government and the importance of Huguenots and Methodists in island society are especially intriguing. Professional historians and other scholars, however, will prefer the older authoritative works. Recommended only for large, general collections." R. K. Donovan

Library J 92:577 F 1 '67 100w

UYSAL, AHMET E., jt. auth. Tales alive in Turkey. See Walker, W. S.

V

VALENTINE, ALAN. Lord North. 2v 568;517p il $19.95 Univ. of Okla. press

942.07 North, Frederick, 2d Earl of Guilford 67-15575

A biography of the British statesman who was prime minister under King George III. Bibliography in volume two. Indexes in volume one and two.

"A work of such dimensions inevitably assumes the character of a 'life and times.' In sheer bulk the 'times' predominate. The major portion of the work is a rather uneven summary and synthesis of the current scholarly interpretations that Valentine has studied. He faces intrepidly the fierce historiographical controversies that color Georgian scholarship, but he finds no constructive way to resolve them.... [He] goes into great detail in many passages, but there are just enough errors to make the specialist shy away from the biography as a work of reference for the 'times.'... Though the author displays sound historical judgment on many issues, he often spoils the effect with literary conceits.... Valentine knows his man intimately. The amiable, dilatory, indolent North re-emerges, but the author's diligent labors in the archives have enabled him to brighten and highlight facets of character that have remained obscure to previous biographers." A. S. Foord

Am Hist R 73:1529 Je '68 600w

Choice 5:399 My '68 180w

"[From] a cursory reading of these two volumes with their extensive footnotes, the untutored might conclude that they were the product of a trained historian who had devoted the bulk of his scholarly life to the project.... [But] in his own introduction.... [Valentine] admits that he is lacking in all of the prerequisites: learning, judgment, and the youth necessary for what must be a long task of research and writing. These deficiencies are evident in the book. Valentine often does not critically evaluate his sources or discriminate between conflicting authors. At times, he used a précis of correspondence rather than the complete file. He ignores some recent scholarship and in amateurish in handling citations.... There are also serious factual errors.... The biography is a vehicle for an attack on aristocratic politics and society of England in the eighteenth century. And North is a symbol of this society." J. M. Sosin

J Am Hist 54:877 Mr '68 800w

"The research work of recent decades was creating the need for a new biography of the man; but Mr. Alan Valentine may have taken action too quickly. He has set himself an enormous task, for he has produced a treatise which almost sinks the biography in the history.... It involves the recapitulation of much of the history of the struggle with the American colonies—a story already dealt with by a number of recent writers.... Mr. Valentine is not quite an adequate master of the whole range of history with which he has to deal. . . The book, therefore, is hardly calculated to put an end to controversy, though, at best, it may have the advantage of keeping controversy open. And one must regret that the author has not . . . produced more of a portrait and analysis, but, in his summary, has chosen rather to accumulate contemporary descriptions, a procedure which is satisfactory only up to a certain point."

TLS p87 Ja 25 '68 1200w

VALENTINE, CHARLES A. Culture and poverty: critique and counter-proposals. 216p $5.95 Univ. of Chicago press
301.45 Poverty 68-16718

The author "examines the leading theories about poverty and culture, and comes to the conclusion that one reason for the failure of the war against poverty is that the causes of poverty and unequal opportunities are not being attacked." (Library J)

"While presenting a cogent argument against the culture of poverty concept and for more ethnographic research among the poor . . . Valentine does not come through as sincere because of the nature of his vilifying attacks. The book will serve to aggravate rather than improve our understanding of the nature of poverty. The insightful ideas concerning ethnographic research designs and some worthwhile suggestions for reducing poverty are virtually lost within the polemic. Students interested in poverty will not be able to glean that which is worthwhile unless they already possess a reasonably good background in the field. Not recommended for undergraduate libraries unless they already contain an extensive collection of material on poverty. Adequate index; excellent bibliography."

Choice 5:1179 N '68 220w

Reviewed by Ruben Kugler

Library J 93:2680 J1 '68 130w

"[This book is] provocative and should raise hackles in the right places. . . . Especially provocative is Valentine's handling of Oscar Lewis' concept, 'the culture of poverty' and his working-over of Daniel P. Moynihan. . . . Antipoverty policy proposals are made in a postscript . . . which is surely the first comprehensive—probably too comprehensive—urban 'ethnographic research design' to appear in print. . . . Valentine cannot be criticized if his policy proposals should prove to be too late but unfortunately, he can be, on other grounds. For example . . . Valentine appears to credit Lewis with original sin: the invention of the phrase 'the culture of poverty.' . . . Valentine has a great many sharp things to say; he says them without regard for falling chips, and he breaks new ground for urban anthropologists." Nan Pendrell

Nation 207:342 O 7 '68 1850w

Reviewed by C. A. Hogan

Sat R 51:23 J1 20 '68 170w

"The zeal of [Valentine's] attack on writers about poverty at times gets the better of him. . . . Valentine's forthright discussions highlight a variety of issues centering around the concepts of culture and poverty and provide a good introduction to the subject. But occasionally he goes beyond bold assertion to caricature. . . . Valentine stresses the need for further ethnographic research on the poor. His book includes interesting suggestions for such research, detailing alternative hypotheses that can serve as guidelines and explaining the advantages that such work would have. . . . The book is well written; the issues are clearly presented, although sometimes overdrawn; and the ideas swirling about the concept of a culture of poverty are discussed in detail, along with the implications of these ideas for national policies." Hyman Rodman

Science 161:675 Ag 16 '68 1500w

VALENTINE, MARY HESTER. The post-conciliar nun. 157p $4.95 Hawthorn bks.

248.8 Monasticism and religious orders for women 68-19113

"In presenting her analysis of the position of the nun in the modern world, Sister Mary Hester provides [information for the] layman curious about the nun's emergence from the traditional past. . . . [She] connects the modern nun with her traditional past. . . . and suggests that modernism is not merely a matter of dress or independence, but an individual response to vocation." (Library J)

"Communities have begun the long and painful process of renewing and adapting themselves to the needs of the post-conciliar world. . . . [This book] is not a prophecy, as the title might suggest. [The author's] sensitive reporter's eye has created a montage of what is happening now. . . . This is a book then that tells the whole story 'for the curious layman.' I am sure, however, that many sisters will also find it helpful in measuring the dynamics of renewal they are experiencing day by day in their convents and communities. Sister Hester has wisely brought to her study some historical dimensions. . . . [She] knows well the literature on the vows. In three chapters she admirably summarizes what she has learned. It is refreshing to read a balanced and mature yet truly contemporary presentation of these signs of dedication to Christ." D. E. Heintschel

Critic 27:66 Ag '68 1250w

"Since the study reflects a personal view, the reader is assured that it is authentic, but perhaps slightly optimistic. . . . The scope of the book is such that it is not limited to convent libraries. Large public libraries might consider acquiring it since Sister Hester's aim is to inform the laity." Elizabeth Nelson

Library J 93:2008 My 15 '68 130w

VALI, FERENC A. The quest for a united Germany. 318p $8.50 Johns Hopkins press

320.943 Germany (Federal Republic)—Politics and government. Germany (Democratic Republic)—Politics and government
67-16914

In his first seven chapters the professor of government at "the University of Massachusetts presents the historical background and development and the various aspects of the problem [of German reunification] as seen from such standpoints as the West German governments from Adenauer to Kiesinger, the West German parties, the Protestant and Catholic churches, the opinion influencing élites, and the East Germans. One chapter is devoted to the question of Berlin. In two final chapters, Professor Váli discusses the problem in the frame of international politics and of the future." (Library J) Annotated bibliography. Index.

"A broad scope and careful research combine to make [this] study one of the most significant on the German question. The author . . . has avoided polemics and produced a balanced, well documented analysis of one of the most intractable problems of world politics. . . . Unfortunately, certain of Professor Váli's generalizations are open to such serious questions that they weaken the impact of an otherwise strong work. Among these is the assertion that a majority of the postwar West German elite favored the founding of the Federal Republic as a step toward the goal of reunification." J. H. Wolfe

Am Pol Sci R 62:674 Je '68 800w

"Professor Váli has written a very thoughtful and carefully documented book—though documented more from western German than from Polish or Russian sources—on this important problem. This problem was created by the destruction of Poland in 1939, for Poland filled the important role of a buffer state between the two giant neighbors, Germany and Russia. . . . Both Poland and Czechoslovakia felt then, rightly or wrongly, that they were abandoned by their Western friends and allies. It is against this background that the present situation ought to be seen. Professor Váli's stimulating book will acquaint the reader with many aspects of this situation, though he views them frankly from a West German point of view. Perhaps, this presentation of a clear-cut point of view in a scholarly fashion enhances the value of the book." Hans Kohn

Ann Am Acad 376:156 Mr '68 650w

Choice 5:1045 O '68 180w

"Not surprisingly, one of the most vexing political problems, the reunification of Germany, has produced a literature which is legion. Yet so far, there has been no comprehensive and dispassionate account of its history and complexity. This book has accomplished the feat. . . . The 'strictly selective' bibliography, which nevertheless fills several pages, and the footnotes attest to the author's admirable control of documentation and secondary material. This work will be indispensable in current history and political science collections in large public and all academic libraries." Edith Lenel

VÁLI, F. A.—Continued

Library J 92:2791 Ag '67 190w

"Mr Váli has again demonstrated a high level of understanding of European politics and of objective analysis of both emotions and actualities." P. E. Mosely
N Y Times Bk R p4 D 31 '67 210w

VALLEJO, CÉSAR. Human poems (Poemas humanos) tr. by Clayton Eshleman. 326p $8.50 Grove 861 68-22011

This "volume is bilingual, with Spanish and English texts on facing pages. . . . The poems [are separated] into two groups, comprising those that are undated and those that are dated." (Publisher's note) The Spanish text was originally published in Paris in 1939. Many of the English translations have appeared in literary magazines.

"The singular quality of Vallejo's poetry, visceral and taut, with its imagery of tormented skin and bone and the psyche made flesh, is almost impossible to communicate in English verse. In this handsome . . . edition, the translator has chosen wisely to adhere almost literally to the Spanish original, and with little loss, since Vallejo employed a free verse form. . . . Vallejo should, with this first substantial appearance of his work in translation, take his place . . . as one of the major Latin-American poets of this century." Rosemary Nieswender
Library J 93:4148 N 1 '68 150w

"Eshleman is able to suppress a translator's normal impulse to arrange Vallejo, to smooth him out and to rewrite him. . . . Earlier versions of the translations published in the quarterlies are poorer stuff when compared with the copies printed [here]. . . . There are times when Eshleman forgets that he is a disciple and tries to re-create Vallejo; and whenever this happens the reader's hackles rise. . . . These translations have evident weaknesses, but the cumulative effect of the volume is strong and impressive. The bad spots usually are limited to a work or a line at the most. . . . The book is readable and flashes page by page with good things." John Knoepfle
Nation 207:439 O 28 '68 1400w

VAN BORK, BERT. Jacques Lipchitz: the artist at work; with a critical evaluation by Alfred Werner. 220p il $7.50 Crown
730.924 Lipchitz, Jacques 66-15120

"The largest part of the text and pictures is devoted to major pieces such as 'Our Tree of Life,' . . . 'Pegasus' and the . . . portrait heads. . . . There is a short biographical chapter." (Library J)

"[This] falls into the dual category of the picture book of art and the picture book with intimate views of an artist. It should, therefore, possess a minimum of text. This one has two. The first, anecdotal and stylistically undistinguished, is by Van Bork; the other, slick and rhetorical, is by Alfred Werner. . . . There is little here that supplements the standard Lipchitz literature. Van Bork's photographs are frequently handsome and offer commanding and original views of the artist and his work. But too many suffer from a pervasive and monotonous grey tonality (regrettably there are no color photographs), a peculiar lens focus and downright blurriness that tend to obscure the subject."

Choice 4:1236 Ja '68 160w

"The book is a successful blending of text and photographs and is recommended for schools offering studio work in sculpture, for art libraries, and for general collections." W. J. Dane
Library J 92:1001 Mr 1 '67 170w

VAN BUREN, PAUL M. Theological explorations. 181p $4.95 Macmillan (N Y)
230.08 Theology 68-16766

A collection of essays by the author of The Secular Meaning of the Gospel (BRD 1964). "Written over a period of years, the essays vary in title from 'How I Am: Making Up My Mind' to 'Christian Education in a Pragmatic Age.'" (Library J) Some of this material has been previously published.

"Readers who have long been hoping that the 'radical theologians' would finally turn out some solid theology, and who looked to Van Buren as their best hope for achieving such, will be sadly disappointed by this repetitious collection of essays tied—predictably—around the theme of the possibility of theological language in the context of 'the dissolution of the absolute.' . . . In all these essays, Van Buren stresses the concept of 'the game': theology is a game, philosophy is a game, the church is a game, life is a game, language is a game. There obviously are significant game elements in thinking, speaking and social organization. But too much emphasis on this fact produces literature which itself turns into a rather dull game." T. C. Oden
Christian Century 85:968 J1 31 '68 700w

"Van Buren is . . . a thoroughly engaging writer. His style has an impeccable cleanliness, and his candor and unpretentiousness shine through every sentence he writes. . . . Today, he is not the theologian using philosophy, not even the philosophical theologian, but a meta-physician. . . . trying to clear up some of the words that some of us use when we talk of theological matters. . . . His main mentors, he states, are Wittgenstein, Wisdom and William James, and his essay on the latter, 'William James and Metaphysical Risk' is, I think, the outstanding piece in the book, and a very fine piece of detective work. . . . Van Buren, with this new book, shows affinities with the philosophical work being undertaken by M. Novak, L. Dewart and E. Fontinell." William Hamilton
Commonweal 88:364 Je 7 '68 700w

"Particularly interesting are Mr. Van Buren's thoughtful chapters on Dietrich Bonhoeffer and William James whose influence on him appears to have been considerable. The essays, well written and clearly organized, should attract students of theology and philosophy. Recommended for university and large public libraries with strong theological collections." J. A. Clarke
Library J 93:757 F 15 '68 200w
TLS p1182 O 17 '68 600w

VANCE, JOHN HOLBROOK. The Pleasant Grove murders. 184p maps $3.95 Bobbs 67-20453

"Sheriff Joe Bain's second case is the brutal hammer murder of Ken Mooney, the postman whose body is found in his mail truck on a quiet residential street. Before Joe can decide whether the man or the mail is the focal point, there are two similar slayings. Then there is the problem of the lovely Luna and her inter-planetary communication experiment that arouses the resentment of the director of the mosquito abatement program, as well as the question of Halfway House, the stagecoach inn that possibly could be successfully renovated." (Library J)

Best Sell 27:311 N 1 '67 50w

"As fresh and entertaining a procedure as the first one." M. K. Grant
Library J 92:2944 S 1 '67 110w

"Vance has created San Rodrigo County, a little south of San Francisco, with loving and meticulous care; Sheriff Joe Bain is a likable pro; and the story in [this book] is stronger than was Bain's first case [The Fox Valley Murders, BRD 1966]. . . . In the course of solving the case, Joe finds a new sideline to augment a sheriff's pay and picks up the most kookily pleasing girl friend in recent crime fiction. All very sound, real and enjoyable—only please, Mr. Vance, if you must make Roman Catholicism a vital factor in a plot, will you kindly bother to find out a little about what Catholics think and do?" Anthony Boucher
N Y Times Bk R p60 S 10 '67 190w

"Slaughters in sequence do not prevent this cold-blooded chronicle from being a warm-hearted production and a sheer delight—and Sheriff Joe Bain is a jewel." Sergeant Cuff
Sat ■ 50:37 O 28 '67 30w

VAN DEN BERGHE, PIERRE L. Race and racism; a comparative perspective. 169p $4.95 Wiley
301.45 Race problems 67-22553

The author uses a cross-cultural approach in "case studies of four complex societies with situations ranging from relative harmony to acute conflict—Mexico, Brazil, the United States and South Africa. . . . The analysis includes: the historical development of race and ethnic relations; the colonial experience and its influence; [and] the system of slavery or serfdom in the context of the total social structure. The societies are then compared and contrasted within a theoretical framework of 'pluralism' which treats race as a special case of stratification." (Publisher's note). Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by E. D. Genovese

Am Soc R 33:651 Ag '68 600w

"[This book] is a real contribution to an undergraduate library collection. Findings are summarized in tabular form, and the index is comprehensive. Extensive and selective bibliography."

Choice 5:274 Ap '68 210w

"In his introduction, Van den Berghe shows a talent for attacking what he considers to be the rigid orthodoxies of most students of racism. It is unfortunate that his performance of this useful function is hindered by his acerbic style, his sweeping generalizations, and his failure to examine instances of the rigidities and errors he laments. . . . [However, this is] a valuable book. When [the author] turns to his typology of race relations, the descriptions of the four societies, and the analytic comparison of their race-relations patterns, he demonstrates a noteworthy talent for seeing similarities of structure beneath superficial differences, while remaining sensitive to unique historical and cultural facts." J. M. Yinger

Science 158:1557 D 22 '67 800w

VAN DEN BRINK, F. H. See Brink, F. H. van den

VANDER KERKEN, L. See Kerken, L. vander

VANDER LINDEN, ALBERT, Jr. auth. Historical atlas of music. See Collaer, P.

VAN DER MEER, F. See Meer, F. van der

VAN DER POST, LAURENS. A portrait of Japan; phot. by Burt Glinn. 176p col pl $12.95

Morrow

915.2 Japan—Description and travel

68-21031

The author describes his earlier encounters with Japan: the first in 1926, and the second as a prisoner of the Japanese during World War II. He seeks "to reconcile his two earlier conflicting encounters—the bright enchantment of the youthful sojourn; the darkness of the war years. To do so, he deals first with . . . Tokyo—the head of Japan, as he terms it; then with Kyoto, its heart and 'the capital of the world within'; and finally with the 'body', . . . Nara, . . . Nikku . . . and Kyushu." (Publisher's note)

"Van der Post recently published 'A Portrait of All the Russias' [BRD 1967], which was perceptive and as beautifully illustrated with photographs . . . as is this lovely volume. . . . He and his photographer have captured the elusive and somewhat (in view of modern westernizing influences) ambiguous culture of the Japanese people with remarkable insight. This is a volume that will enlighten many and will make an enviable gift item."

Best Sell 28:350 N 15 '68 110w

"[The author] has made a new visit to a new Japan. As a proved and experienced travel-reporter, he had been commissioned by an American magazine. But this was a reporter with a difference, intuitive, imaginative, sometimes dreamy or fanciful, never patronising, never seeing people in isolation. . . . He looks for illumination in the individual—particularly in Japan, where there is 'an extraordinary instinct to form crowds'. This search lends weight to his generalisation. . . . It is no disparagement to say that this book . . . is a pleasant travelogue which keeps indicating that depths exist. What with cherry blossoms, steel mills, bedizened actors and Fuji-no-yama, Japan virtually photographs itself. But Burt Glinn has caught certain landscapes, some flashes of night life, and a few private and public moments which are fresh, characteristic and memorable." William Plomer

New Statesman 76:545 O 25 '68 950w

New Yorker 44:107 D 21 '68 200w

VAN DEURS, GEORGE. Wings for the fleet; a narrative of naval aviation's early development, 1910-1916. 175p il $12.50 U.S. naval inst.

358.4 U.S. Navy—History. Aeronautics, Military—History 65-21791

The author "has drawn on his personal knowledge and . . . research to tell the story of the birth of Naval Aviation. . . . [The] book tells of the trials and tribulations of the men who risked their careers and lives to fly the Wright and Curtiss aircraft of the era. The narrative emphasizes the aviators and their early flights, achievements, and mishaps." (Library J) Bibliography.

"Easily the most complete account of the earliest years of U.S. naval aviation, with much more detail on the pioneer period than could be included in the standard, more general work, A. D. Turnbull and C. L. Lord, History of United States Naval Aviation [BRD 1949]. Written by a veteran naval aviator. . . . it displays the expected sympathy with the navy but is by no means uncritical. Van Deurs has a clear eye for the obstacles that, until after American entry into World War I, kept naval aviation even more primitive than the 'aeroplanes' of the day demanded. . . . The bibliography lists extensive manuscript and printed sources, and the text confirms that Van Deurs used them well. The numerous photographs alone would make the book a valuable contribution to the history of military aviation."

Choice 4:1315 Ja '68 130w

"[A] well-written and beautifully produced book. . . . The exploits of pioneer flyers such as John H. Towers and Marc A. Mitscher, who were destined to gain fame as admirals in World War II, adds much to the story. This book is an excellent addition to the history of American aviation." W. N. Hess

Library J 92:775 F 15 '67 100w

VAN DEUSEN, GLYNDON G. William Henry Seward. 666p il $12.50 Oxford

973.7 U.S.—History—1783-1865. U.S.—History—1865-1898 67-28131

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Choice 5:118 Mr '68 190w

Reviewed by R. N. Current

J Am Hist 54:892 Mr '68 490w

TLS p1071 S 26 '68 500w

VANDEVORT, ELEANOR. A leopard tamed: the story of an African pastor, his people and his problems; drawings by James Howard. 218p $5.95 Harper

266.5 Missions—Sudan. Nuer (African tribe). Kuac, Moses 68-17585

"A Presbyterian missionary to the Nuer tribe in southern Sudan from 1950 to 1962 writes here of the impact of Christianity on a primitive tribe. . . . [Her story tells of] the conversion of Kuac ('the Leopard'), his education, and his work and trials as pastor of his village church. . . . In 1962 Miss Vandevort was expelled. Kuac and many other Christians fled to Ethiopia." (Library J)

"[The author's] view of the relations of the white man and the black African is not superficial. She describes with sensitivity the native customs, ceremonies, and the Nuers' reactions to the strange ways and culture of the white man. During her stay she came to appreciate the meaning of tribal rites and the difficulty of translating the Bible into a language with a very small and different vocabulary. . . . [This book] which reveals both Miss Vandevort's and Kuac's strength of faith, is suitable for public and religious libraries." J. L. Ross

Library J 93:1132 Mr 15 '68 200w

"Beneath the record of Kuac's wavering faith lies the real sinew of [this book]. For in seeking to understand the baffled young pastor and his people, Miss Vandevort found it necessary to put her own religion on trial—in fact, to question the absolute rightness of Christianity when taught in societies conventionally regarded as 'pagan.' Among other things, Miss Vandevort wants to know where superstition ends and religion begins. ('Have we not all made up our rituals?') . . . Through her queries Miss Vandevort presents a fresh and unflinching appraisal of the missionary role that should be of great value to more than one servant of the church. But the book is also very much for the lay reader . . . land contains an informal and charming portrait of one of Africa's most likeable personalities." Charles Miller

VANDEVORT, ELEANOR—Continued

Sat ■ 51:26 Je 15 '68 1400w

VAN DOREN, MARK. Mark Van Doren: 100 poems; sel. by the author. 128p $3.50; pa $1.50 Hill & Wang

811

67-23517

Included among these poems are: Morning Worship, Little My Soul, Spring Thunder, and The God of Galaxies. Index of titles. Index of first lines.

"Open yet secret, wisely innocent, informed by unspeakable tensions, the [poet's] spoken voice comes off the page, telling the human paradox that is his poetry's oldest theme. . . . Failing their hope of full love, as poems and men often do, these poems are never inadequate. Nor do they promote their own virtues. They simply speak the speech (and life-rhythm) of a man who—in spite of major literary honors—has retained a wondering sense of his own humanity, and has made simply humane the complex poems which make up this book." Philip Booth

Christian Science Monitor p10 O 19 '67 130w

"The crystalline clarity of Van Doren's poetry is pure delight. . . . The wholeness of his imaginative heart and mind at work together with words is always glorious. Van Doren constantly rediscovers the world and holds up to the reader idea after idea to flash in the sunlight. . . . Read these polished poems aloud to discover the beautiful simplicity of the rhymes and to appreciate the unique, fluid quality of enjambment. For young adult collections and for those not having any of Van Doren's volumes of poetry, especially Collected Poems and New Poems [BRD 1963]." R. F. Cayton

Library J 92:2786 Ag '67 200w [YA]

Reviewed by Hayden Carruth

Poetry 112:424 S '68 150w

VANEK, JAROSLAV. Estimating foreign resource needs for economic development; theory, method, and a case study of Colombia; with the assistance of Richard Bilsbrow. 180p il $8.95 McGraw

330.9861 Colombia—Economic conditions. International economic relations 66-22792

"This study of Colombia involves a statistical computation of the key parameters found in economic growth and a projection of the size of major economic variables likely to develop, based on the assumption of a variety of growth rates." (Choice)

"Clearly the book makes contributions of two types. On the one hand it contains an enormous amount of figures, observed as well as estimated (for future periods), for Colombia, which constitute very valuable information about the past and the expectations for the future of Colombia. The various groups of key estimates with all their alternatives are carefully described and argued and represent, with the final choices made, a precious documentation about Colombia. The other type of contribution the book makes are contributions to the two-gap theory. Since this is a young branch of economic thinking, it can hardly be expected to have reached already a stage of established doctrine. In the reviewer's opinion the author has not yet provided us with what a textbook on this theory three years from now should contain; but the book does have some useful new concepts and vistas." J. Tinbergen

Am Econ R 57:1329 D '67 1150w

"The model used for estimating future resource needs is simple and orthodox. However, some of the conclusions indicate that the balance of international trade may play a more critical role in economic development for underdeveloped countries than the domestic balance of savings and investment. Much attention is paid to the bias inflicted on the model from historical coefficients and a chapter is devoted to investigating some of the implications of using the familiar capital-output coefficient. . . . For those interested in the development and use of statistical models this study should be a valuable addition. For those who feel economic phenomena cannot be projected out of a mathematical model the study will be of much less benefit. For all students of economics, however, Vanek's discussion of economic relationships should be of interest."

Choice 4:1145 D '67 180w

VAN KAAM, ADRIAN. The demon and the dove; personality growth through literature, by Adrian van Kaam and Kathleen Healy. 308p $4.95 Duquesne univ. press

801 Literature—History and criticism. Personality 67-15650

The authors, a professor of psychology and "a literary critic, have tried to approach psychology via literature. . . . Instead of the usual Freudian interpretations, they view fiction in the framework of existential psychology. . . . The major point of the book is that literary masterpieces can give a greater understanding of the anguish and joy of modern existence. Literary works discussed include: [Shakespeare's] Measure for Measure, [Tolstoy's] Anna Karenina, 'Beast in the Jungle' by [Henry] James, [Graham] Greene's A Burnt-Out Case [BRD 1961], and [Albert] Camus' The Fall [BRD 1957]." (Choice) Bibliography. Index.

"A broader, more modern selection would have helped this book. Also, the authors tend to be somewhat repetitious and are plagued by one of the major drawbacks of the current existentialist school: turgid writing style. Would be useful for psychology courses using literary approaches, and for certain literature courses."

Choice 4:1231 Ja '68 200w

"The two parts [of the book] make opposing literary discriminations. The later essays are quite modest in their approach to literature; only dramatic literature is dealt with and, more precisely, only dramatic literature in which character is central. The earlier section makes claims about all literature, although only dramatic literature fits the discussion, and instead of focusing on a literary principle, . . . it draws attention to something nonliterary as being the criterion of great literature; namely, the experience communicated by the artist. Finally, the two parts address different aesthetic moments: the first dwells mainly on the reading of literary texts; the second is concerned with the texts themselves. . . . [But the book is] a daring publication and, although not a pleasing whole, it provides unusual and provocative reading." Wesley Kort

Christian Century 85:400 Mr 27 '68 500w

"[Van Kaam's analysis of] The Beast in the Jungle is his most convincing, since the book so easily lends itself to the psychologist's couch. His emphasis on the satirical aspect of . . . The Fall is a pleasant and refreshing corrective to the many recent attempts to make it Camus' refusal of the Church's last rites. His psychological approach to . . . The Burnt-Out Case is also a genuine contribution to our understanding of the labyrinthian ghosts of Greeneland. The novels become instances or examples of man's existential crises; if only the book stopped with the exemplar idea! . . . [Its] purpose is to show that there can be 'personality growth through literature' and that this is a free gift given with aesthetic experience. Yet [it] overlooks the inner make-up of literature, and aesthetic experience becomes simply ascetic experience leading to the good life. Literature becomes a psychological panacea. . . . Hence, in attempting to take just one pound of flesh [the book] actually draws blood and leaves literature a lifeless corpse." C. M. Hegarty

Commonweal 87:92 O 20 '67 900w

VAN LAWICK-GOODALL, JANE. See Lawick-Goodall, J. van

VAN MEERHAEGHE, M. A. G. See Meerhaeghe, M. A. G. van

VAN NOSTRAND, A. D. Everyman his own poet; romantic gospels in American literature. 272p $7.50 McGraw

810.9 American literature—History and criticism 68-18578

The author "ponders the absence of a single cosmos of meaning in America and shows how our greatest authors devised their own and then advanced them as being good news." (Christian Century)

"Here is a book that deserves to rank with the explorations into American myth of such writers as R. W. B. Lewis and Henry Nash Smith. . . . Here is what might be called the real American theology."

Christian Century 84:996 Ag 7 '68 60w

"The native romantic tradition has produced Emerson's Nature, Poe's Eureka, Thoreau's Walden, Whitman's Leaves of Grass, Melville's Moby Dick, Henry Adams' The Education, Thomas Wolfe's amorphous saga, Hart Crane's The Bridge, and Williams' Patterson. These seminal pieces, because 'they all represent the struggle to build the one true cosmos,' Dr. Van Nostrand . . . calls 'cosmologies.' . . . With skill and sense he considers the generation and formal quality of each of these American masterpieces. His book will be of interest mainly to the student of American letters; it is highly recommended for academic and large public collections." J. R. Willingham

Library J 93:3789 O 15 '68 120w

"The author proposes a new genre, 'cosmology.' . . . Refined largely by means of paradoxes, this octopus-like concept is quite intriguing but only about halfway convincing. Chapter by chapter its tentacles reach out to accommodate . . . diverse works in such strange ways that the final impression is one of exhaustion from over-exertion. Still, the imaginative insights from Van Nostrand's close scrutiny often do place the works in fascinating new relationships. An animated book, it is sure to provoke some productive retorts."

Va Q R 44:clii autumn '68 130w

VAN SLYKE, LYMAN P. Enemies and friends; the united front in Chinese communist history. 330p $8.50 Stanford univ. press

951.05 China (People's Republic of China). Communism—China 67-26531

The author's thesis is "that the United Front concept after 1935 became an integral part of Chinese Communist doctrine and is an inseparable aspect of its present and future policy as long as Mao Tse-tung remains its leader." (Nation) Bibliography. Index.

"The clarity and sophistication of Professor Van Slyke's study testify both to his own capacities and to the notable growth of American research on CCP history. . . . [He] traces the complex gestation of the united front policy both at the European and Comintern ends from early 1934 and at the Chinese end during the Long March . . . [and shows how] covert growth of a 'united front from below' was combined with the overt collaboration of the CCP with central government and provincial authorities in a 'united front from above.' . . . [A] masterly chapter, on the postwar negotiations and civil war, indicates how the liberal-oriented Democratic League became the chief focus of united front strategy, which then carried over into the polity constructed after 1949. . . . The present volume points the way toward [a] broader kind of study." J. K. Fairbank

Am Hist R 73:1597 Je '68 550w

"[Van Slyke] has produced the most objective and informative work on this subject to date."

Choice 5:544 Je '68 90w

"Written as entertainingly as a historical novel, but without any loss of its quality as a serious and first-rate academic work." N. J. Gallo

Nation 206:614 My 6 '68 60w

Reviewed by John Gittings

Pacific Affairs 41:420 fall '68 600w

VANSTONE, JAMES W. Eskimos of the Nushagak River; an ethnographic history. 192p maps $6.95 Univ. of Wash. press

970.4 Eskimos. Alaska. Acculturation 67-21203

This study in culture change is divided into two parts. "In part 1, entitled Agents of Change, the author treats in separate chapters the influences in the region of early Russian and American explorers, missionaries, traders, commercial fishermen, mining and reindeer herding, and educational and medical services. Each chapter consists of a chronological account of events related to the specific subject being considered. . . . [In part 2], under the heading Emerging Socioeconomic Patterns, . . . successive chapters [deal] with population groupings and settlement patterns in the 19th and early 20th centuries, the yearly cycle at about the same period, and the yearly cycle today. The book ends with a . . . comparison of developments following the arrival of Europeans in southwestern with those in northwestern Alaska." (Science) Bibliography. Index.

"The combined research methods of history and anthropology applied to the southwestern Alaskan Eskimo provide VanStone with few data allowing him to perceive anything in the contact of Western and Eskimo societies not already familiar to ethnologists. Hence his book constitutes less of a contribution to ethnology than to local history. . . . The emphasis on economics means that only a limited sector of culture is thoroughly examined. The volume belongs in any collection of Alaskan anthropology, along with . . . J. Gubser's The Nunamut Eskimos: Hunters of Caribou [BRD 1966]. The general reader will find VanStone's book leaner fare than the others."

Choice 5:415 My '68 200w

Reviewed by Morgan Sherwood

J Am Hist 55:110 Je '68 270w

"This is the first of what probably will be a series of monographs on this area by the same author. . . . [His] style is intensely descriptive. He crams about as much information into the 166 pages of text as would be possible in a readable account. As a result, this short book contains a large quantity of data that could not be obtained anywhere else save in the numerous sources the author cites in his bibliography. . . . The maps, which contain the absolute minimum of pertinent information, constitute the major weakness of this study. . . . As it stands, this book will probably not appeal to a very wide audience of anthropologists. It is, however, an important addition to the literature on the Eskimos and as such will be useful to specialists on northern peoples . . . [and] to students of more general problems of culture change and contact." E. S. Burch

Science 160:1101 Je 7 '68 800w

VAN VORIS, JACQUELINE. Constance de Markievicz in the cause of Ireland. 384p il $7.50 Univ. of Mass. press

B or 92 Markievicz, Constance Georgina (Gore-Booth) Countess de 67-11245

A biography of the woman who, "a member of the Anglo-Irish aristocracy and the wife of a Polish nobleman, left her life of leisure to take part in the struggle for Irish independence. . . . During the 1916 Easter Rising, she was second-in-command of the forces at St. Stephen's Green which held out against the British for six days. . . . [She] escaped execution only because of her sex and, while still in prison in 1918, became the first woman elected to the British House of Commons. Later, in de Valera's Irish parliament, she became the first woman cabinet member in western Europe." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

"Van Voris has done her homework; she has interviewed 'Madame's' surviving contemporaries and has uncovered unpublished material. But she writes Whig history. She regards the Irish Revolution as inevitable, thereby finessing the difficult question of why it happened at all. And she oversimplifies Irish nationalism. Furthermore, her Countess is not to be believed. As the daughter of an Anglo-Irish landlord, Madame learned benevolence at Lissadell and sought to practice it in widening waves. This is not convincing."

Choice 5:399 My '68 140w

Reviewed by M. H. Zipprich

Library J 93:1133 Mr 15 '68 150w

"How the society butterfly became a revolutionary and the bitter enemy of her class is told with remarkable understanding in matter-of-fact style by Mrs. Van Voris in this latest—and best—biography of the flamboyant heroine of the 1916 Rising. 'The Red Countess,' as the sensational English press called her, has found a sympathetic recorder of her worthy deeds. . . . Mrs. Van Voris, who obviously understands the period, moves skillfully through the political thickets. The research is thorough, the errors very minor. . . . Some names are misspelled." Sean Cronin

Nation 206:20 Ja 1 '68 1700w

"Mrs. Van Voris, whose heroine is always 'Madame' (the name by which she was familiarly known among the Dublin poor) relates the historical background more fully, and achieves a deeper and more satisfactory study [than does Anne Marreco, The Rebel Countess,

VAN VORIS, JACQUELINE—Continued

BRD 1967]. Both have been meticulous and painstaking in their research, but if one volume has to be chosen to supersede Mr. Sean O'Faolain's of thirty-four years ago, it must be Mrs. Van Voris's. Yet she is slightly disappointing on two counts, the first as artist, the second as historian." Robert Kee

N Y Rev of Books 10:29 F 29 '68 1000w

"Jacqueline Van Voris writes a painstakingly academic book and shows considerable understanding of the time and how the woman related to it." Benedict Kiely

N Y Times Bk R p4 O 29 '67 600w

VAN VORIS, W. H. The cultivated stance; the designs of Congreve's plays. 186p $6.95 Dufour
822 Congreve, William 66-15453

"This approach to Congreve's plays examines his main assumptions and shows how they are revealed in the designs of his four comedies and his tragedy. . . . [Also examined are] the dramatic utility of his dialogue . . . [and his] dramatic use of time." (Pref) Chronology.

"Although his book is occasionally marred by murky writing, Van Voris makes some very perceptive comments about Congreve's dramatic technique. Especially informative . . . is his discussion . . . of the way the physical design of the Restoration stage both influenced and interacted with the dramatic structure of the plays. Students of the period will find this examination interesting and even helpful."

Choice 5:517 Je '68 140w

"[The author] is concerned with the study of Congreve's dramatic use of time, and he offers this as his main contribution to the critical debate about Restoration drama. . . . [His] thesis is closely argued, and he has many valuable insights. Yet one feels, again, a touch . . . of excess; he . . . becomes at times portentous and repetitive. . . . Overstatement, coupled with a tendency to distort the clarity of a plot in order to make it fit in with his theories . . . detracts from the value of Van Voris's study. One must add that he has been badly served in the production of this book; the type is often greyish and unclear, there are at least fifty misprints, and some errors of punctuation make [his] style seem occasionally very awkward."

TLS p10 Ja 5 '67 850w

VARG, PAUL A. The making of a myth: the United States and China, 1879-1912. 184p $6
Mich. state univ. press

327.51 U.S.—Foreign relations—China, China
—Foreign relations—U.S. 68-20411

A re-evaluation of American foreign policy toward China during the early years of the twentieth century. The author contends "that the American government never thought China was important enough to worry about. It is his opinion that the State Department paid lip service to Hay's 'Open Door Policy' of allowing every nation equal trading opportunities in China, but turned its back whenever China's sovereignty was violated. Dr. Varg notes that this was especially true after 1905 when Japan's interests in China conflicted with the Hay policy. He finds that the American business community talked a great deal about the China market, but wielded a small stick when it came to carrying on trade, pushing for investments, and establishing foreign branch offices." (Library J)

"Recent historians of Chinese-American relations have avoided the sweeping survey in favor of chronologically restricted studies in depth. Varg's new contribution to this literature is less an exhaustive narrative than an extensive essay on the formative years of 20th-century China policy. . . . [The author], who has previously written about both missionary and economic influences on policy formulation, carefully avoids simplistic explanations with a well balanced analysis. Exclusive reliance for the Chinese point of view on the interpretations and descriptions of American writers and diplomatic personnel provides a minor weakness. While there is no bibliography, extensive footnotes reflect a thorough utilization of American archival material, but no Chinese primary sources. . . . A useful addition to any library."

Choice 5:1194 N '68 150w

"Professor Varg, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, Michigan State University, here . . . takes issue with a number of leading myths about the era. He disagrees with Wisconsin University scholar William Appleton Williams and his followers who view John Hay's 'Open Door' pronouncement as a political cloak used to wrap up the China market for American business. Neither does he think that America's policy was based on justice and friendship for China. . . . [The author] is to be commended for partially untangling the myths by which China and the United States still view each other. His excellent monograph is recommended for scholars and mature China-watchers." L. H. Madaras

Library J 93:3558 O 1 '68 250w

VARTY, KENNETH. Reynard the Fox; a study of the fox in medieval English art. 169p pl
$17.50 Humanities press

704.94 Animals in art. Art, Medieval
[67-104025]

The author, "senior lecturer in French at the University of Leicester, . . . traces the literary sources for the depiction of Reynard the Fox in the carvings and drawings of medieval England. . . . Using Pierre de Saint Cloud's poem, Roman de Renard, created about 1175, as the main focus of his analysis, Dr. Varty explores the various tales about Reynard (English version of name) most of which are French in origin but a few of which come from the English. These include, for example, the story of the fox as minstrel, as physician, as the eternal enemy of the cock (Chanticleer), and as the friend of the ape." (Library J)

"The black-and-white illustrations in the rear section of the book are an invaluable complement to the text although I must quibble about some of the pictures which were taken from too great a distance to be clear or useful. Dr. Varty has made little or no attempt to investigate the artistic values of these popular fox artifacts. He is rather a student of medieval literature who compares the written and folk lore evidence of Reynard the Fox with the iconographical evidence found in some of the churches of England. He has made a fascinating beginning in this picture-essay . . . one that will be of significance to college and university libraries who must certainly add this volume to their collections." Henry Halpern

Library J 93:2873 Ag '68 270w

"Of the 170 examples from wood, stone and manuscript that [the author] gives, many (especially among those taken from misericords) have been published before; but never have they been so well photographed—or so closely related to the Roman, to Aesopian fable, or to the Bestiary. . . . It is illustrations like [those] of the Bristol carvings that make [Varty's book] one of the most delightful to come from a university press for many years; printer (Constable) and designer (Arthur Lockwood) must share the praise for giving the topic the treatment it deserves. Readers who will be stirred to pursue it farther can begin with the forty pages at the end of the book listing known examples."

TLS p188 F 22 '68 850w

VATIKIOTIS, P. J. Politics and the military in Jordan; a study of the Arab legion, 1921-1957. 169p $7.50 Praeger

956.95 Arab Legion, Jordan—Politics and government 67-28182

In the first part of the book, the author "deals with Jordan's short historical development, in the second with the Arab Legion itself, and in the third with the role of the Arab Legion in the political turmoil of 1954 to 1957. In an epilogue he treats briefly the undeclared war with the Israeli in 1966, and the lightning war of 1967, in which the Arab Legion was defeated and half of its combat force destroyed." (Library J) Chronology of events. Index.

"[This book] should certainly be of interest to anyone concerned with Jordan's history and government and to students of Middle Eastern politics in general. . . . The form of organization Professor Vatikiotis chose to develop for the book results in considerably more overlap and duplication in the various parts and chapters than would be ideal, despite the volume's over-all brevity. By far the book's greatest deficiency, however, is its failure to reflect adequately what has happened to and in Jordan since 1957. For this reason, its worth must be considered largely historical. . . . Obviously [the epilogue is a] 'lame' and altogether inadequate device for dealing with developments [of 1966 and 1967]. . . . Rarely have the hazards of attempting to write about the contemporary Middle East been more glaringly illustrated." P. L. Beckett

Ann Am Acad 378:189 J1 '68 550w

"Based to some extent upon the personal recollections of a number of British officers who served in Command posts, or in advisory capacity to the Arab Legion, the study is factual, objective, and authoritative. It will have greater appeal to the specialist than to the general reader." J. C. Shipman
Library J 93:76 Ja 1 '68 190w

"[Professor Vatikiotis] has drawn on an unusual range of sources, both in Arabic and in British regimental periodicals, to show how the Jordan army, in contrast to its counterparts in Egypt and Syria, has acquired a sense of collective responsibility. . . . [He] adequately accounts for the pressures, material as well as political, that have long caused King Husain to walk a tightrope, and that in June forced him to fling in his lot with Nasser." TLS p1081 N 16 '67 200w

VAUGHAN, ALDEN T. America before the Revolution, 1725-1775. 185p $4.95; pa $1.95
Prentice-Hall

973.2 U.S.—History—Colonial period—
Sources 67-28393

There is presented here "a composite portrait of life in the colonial cities, towns, plantations, and frontier settlements of His Majesty's American Empire through original letters, journals, diaries, and reports." (Publisher's note)

"[This is a] good selection, but intended for classroom rather than library use. Not recommended for library purchase." Choice 5:869 S '68 40w

"[Mr. Vaughan] has chosen selections which present . . . a picture of American economic, social, religious, and political life, intentionally omitting any reference to the political controversies between England and her colonies. The readings, usually otherwise inaccessible, are intelligently chosen, and interesting. The only item of importance lacking is a document with detailed population statistics for each colony, indicating the numbers of whites and Negroes, slave and free, and an approximate estimate of the numbers in cities and on farms. Although in itself dull, this information would enable the reader to place the other descriptions in context. . . . For all public and academic libraries." Jerome Nadelhaft
Library J 93:76 Ja 1 '68 150w

Reviewed by T. C. Barrow
New Eng Q 41:293 Je '68 550w

"[The] associate professor of history at Columbia groups his selections by categories: the hazards and opportunities of life in the New World; religion, education, the arts, amusements; urban and rural society; even the hopes and expectations of the pre-Revolutionary Americans. Each section is prefaced by an editor's summary that provides a framework for what follows. . . . It will please more than one browser." N Y Times Bk R p28 Ja 28 '68 250w

VELIMIROVIĆ, MILOŠ, jt. ed. Studies in Eastern chant, v 1. See Wellesz, E.

VELIZ, CLAUDIO, ed. The politics of conformity in Latin America; issued under the auspices of the Royal inst. of int. affairs. 291p $7 Oxford

309.18 Latin America—Social conditions.
Latin America—Politics 67-29929

Eight "essays edited by the Director of the Institute of International Studies at the University of Chile. Four of them comment . . . upon the social structures, the peasants, the military, and the university students of Latin America in general. The other four study the ejido in Mexico, religion in Brazil, immigrants in Argentina, and the middle class of Cuba. All were intended originally to implement the theme of the politics of change in Latin America, but as they were reviewed by the editor the decision was made that in each case conformity more than change seemed to be the predominating factor, even among elements generally considered to be enthusiastic about hemispheric revolution." (Choice) Index.

Reviewed by K. N. Walker
Am Pol Sci R 62:1011 S '68 600w

"The fatal flaw of this collection of articles is that its basic premise—that Latin America still suffers from a two-class system only apparently confounded with middle elements—is not believed by all the contributors. . . . The book responds neither to its title nor its introduction. But it is a good and sometimes exciting collection of essays on different themes and with different theoretical sets. This reviewer particularly recommends Thomas' intimate, closely researched, and crystal-clear analysis of the Cuban revolution, a treatment repaying the total investment in this book. De Kadt's article on Brazil and Chevalier's on Mexico were also especially rewarding to this reader, but the level of sophistication and expertness is high everywhere except in the articles on university students and peasant migration." K. H. Silvert
Ann Am Acad 378:176 J1 '68 700w

"Provocative essays. . . . Informed followers of the Latin American scene will find much food for thought in this unusually well written volume. Helpful and interesting footnotes (chiefly bibliographical in nature)." Choice 5:884 J1 '68 190w

"This is an anti-Alliance for Progress book. The Alliance assumed a reasonable rate of economic growth, the promoters and beneficiaries of which would be a reformist middle class, capable, if not of destroying the oligarchic carapace, at least of removing some of the structural impediments to growth. The studies collected in this book will make depressing reading for anyone who still believes in this strategy. For most of the contributors the middle class either does not exist in 'Western' form or, if it does exist, then it is incapable of challenging the obstacles to change. . . . Altogether this collection is by far the most stimulating of the available essays on Latin American problems." Economist 225:1149 D 16 '67 600w

"The evident fact that the continent is facing some sort of crisis has produced a flood of introductory books on Latin America. Veliz's book is not introductory: Alistair Hennessy on students, Emanuel de Kadt on the Brazilian Catholic Church, Hugh Thomas on middle-class politics and the Cuban Revolution, E. J. Hobsbawm on peasants and rural migrants, all plunge straight into the debates that have surrounded the interpretation of Latin America, bringing out much new evidence. I suspect that all this adds up to a much better introduction to the continent than books explicitly designed for the purpose." Robin Blackburn
New Statesman 74:882 D 22 '67 600w

Va Q R 44:clxxvi autumn '68 140w

VERDON, RENÉ. The White House chef cook-book. 287p col pl $7.95 Doubleday

641.5 Cookery 68-10570

Over five hundred recipes and menus by the chef at the White House during the Kennedy years. Index.

"Verdon's slender volume is sedately and classically French. A good-natured pride in his profession and a great deal of personal warmth illuminate this knowledgeable text. The book reveals little about the personal life of the Kennedys." Gloria Levitas
Book World p6 D 17 '67 60w

"[There is much here] for both the gourmet and the family cook. The recipes vary in the numbers they will serve, and there is a good balance between dishes using expensive and exotic materials, such as Roast Duckling with Branded Kumquats, and economical ideas based on simpler, and even canned, foods such as Chicken Sherry Cream. Although French cuisine predominates, especially in the extensive section on sauces, it is well adapted to American and international tastes. The repuffable soufflé will appeal to cooks of any persuasion. Some indication of suitable accompaniments for the main dishes might have been useful. Details on the Kennedy family and life in the White House are well narrated for followers of such things." A. J. M. Pedley
Library J 92:3641 O 15 '67 140w

VERGARA, JOE. Love and pasta; a recollection; il. by Seymour Chwast. 184p $4.95 Harper

B or 92 Vergara, Rosario 68-15972

Told by his oldest son, this is the story of an "Italian immigrant who failed to achieve the glory of his dreams in a foreign land—struggling through the years of World War I, the great Depression of the 1930's, and again through World War II, inching his way towards the suburbs, becoming a citizen, and raising thoroughly Americanized children." (Library J)

"Literature dealing with the assimilation of Italian immigrants into American society is a rarity, with the exception of sociological reports. Mr. Vergara's recollections of his family are a welcome addition . . . to the history of ethnic culture. . . . The general reader will learn a good deal about Italian family life, but the American of Italian origins will enjoy it more." N. J. Loprete

Best Sell 28:192 Ag 1 '68 160w

"'Pop' never forgot his beloved Calabria, even after 60 long years of shoe repairing and he imparted to his children a love of family, of the soil, Italian customs and food, and in particular the simple pasta, the basic good, along with a wholesome philosophy. Joseph Vergara, Pop's eldest child, has related a thoroughly warm and readable account of the life of this typical Italian-American family. First generation Americans of Italian heritage will have no difficulties with the sprinkling of Italian expressions throughout the book. Younger ones may have to question their 'Pops' in turn. Well recommended for public libraries." S. J. Riccardi

Library J 93:1997 My 15 '68 180w

Reviewed by Janet Strothman

Library J 93:3340 S 15 '68 130w [YA]

VERHULST, A. E., jt. auth. Medieval finance. See Lyon, B.

VERLET, PIERRE. The eighteenth century in France; society, decoration, furniture [tr. by George Savagel. 291p il col il $25 Tuttle

747.244 Decoration and ornament, French, Furniture, French. France—Social life and customs 67-4313

This volume discusses society in the eighteenth century; the distribution and decoration of apartments; architectural furniture; furniture of comfort and elegance; and inventories. Index.

"The original French title, La Maison du XVIII<sup>e</sup> Siècle en France, more accurately describes the contents, and there is no other comparable book on the subject in English. . . . Strongly recommended."

Choice 4:1374 F '68 100w

"Pierre Verlet, curator-in-chief at the Louvre, whose writings include two volumes on French royal furniture, has combined in this work his exact knowledge of the subject with his access to important but less well-known source material. . . . [He] has written a social history of the era, accompanied by a careful and purposeful selection of excellent illustrations showing individual pieces, contemporaneous paintings of interiors, and modern photographs of existing rooms. The translation is at times self-conscious; however, the authority of the text and the excellence of the reproductions make this a book which should be considered by larger libraries in spite of the price." Paul von Khrum

Library J 92:2755 Ag '67 110w

VERMANDEL, JANET GREGORY. So long at the Fair. 180p $3.95 Dodd

68-12813

"Montreal in January of 1967 is busy preparing for Expo. Secretaries come in from all over—like Lisa Benthall who has left Buffalo to forget a shattered romance. For safety's sake and her mother's peace of mind, she stays with an old, though little known, family friend, the glamorous secretary Victoria Lester who, in two years, seems to have amassed a fortune in money, minks, jewelry, etc. When Victoria disappears, the intrigue deepens. Men, murder, blackmail, and romance fill the scene." (Library J)

Best Sell 27:406 Ja 15 '68 80w

Reviewed by M. K. Grant

Library J 93:99 Ja 1 '68 20w

"The prose is brisk, the locale becomes colorfully real, and the book provides a good deal of suspenseful fun." J. A. Lloyd

Library J 93:1334 Mr 15 '68 130w [YA]

"Lightweight in plot and characterization, but agreeably spirited and amusing, with a nice blend of romance and action, [this book features] an interesting background of the turbulent days of preparation for Expo, and a clever crime-scheme which could happen only in Montreal in 1967." Anthony Boucher

N Y Times Bk R p40 F 11 '68 70w

Reviewed by Sergeant Cuff

Sat R 51:52 F 24 '68 30w

VERMEULE, CORNELIUS C. Roman imperial art in Greece and Asia Minor. 548p 200il maps $25 Harvard univ. press

709.01 Art. Roman

67-20886

The "Curator of Classical Art at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts [discusses] . . . official Roman imperial art in Greece, the Aegean Islands, and Asia Minor, covering some 800 years from the second century B.C. through the sixth century. The author's purpose is to isolate and define the characteristics of imperial portraits, scenes, or monuments in the Greek world, and he finds that the subjects and motivations of this art are Roman, but it is Greek in design, style, and execution." (Choice) Index.

"[Vermeule] addresses himself to the scholar, in this . . . comprehensive discussion. . . . Over 100 pages are devoted to the appendices containing three lists of pertinent works of art. The photographs—184 in black-and-white—are satisfactory."

Choice 5:1126 N '68 110w

Reviewed by K. T. Erim

Class World 62:146 D '68 280w

"In this monumental volume [the author] displays remarkable erudition in a style that is a pleasure to read. . . . It is an impressive survey covering architecture, sculpture, large sarcophagi, metalwork, coins (a particularly fine section), and portraits. . . . Mr. Vermeule contends that, during the so-called Roman period, remains are predominantly Greek in character. He thus presents a new picture of Roman art in the Hellenic world, and his book will be a distinctive addition for larger public, academic, and special collections." F. D. Lazenby

Library J 93:3122 S 15 '68 100w

VERNE, JULES. A long vacation; tr. from the French by Olga Marx 224p $3.50; lib bdg $3.27 Holt

67-17996

A story set in 1860, on an uninhabited island off the tip of South America, which becomes the refuge of fourteen schoolboys and a Negro cabin boy. They "have been caught in a squall while alone on a schooner on which they had planned a vacation from their New Zealand school. In the two years they are on Chairman Island the boys set up a system of self-government, achieved only following a power struggle between two strong personalities. When an American ship is wrecked, the boys are confronted with a criminal gang whose hostage, a woman, they rescue. After a fight in which some of the men are killed, the boys get away in the ship's launch." (Sat R) This book was first published in 1888 entitled Deux Ans de Vacances. "Grades six to eight." (Library J)

Best Sell 27:316 N 1 '67 90w

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin

Book World p12 Mr 17 '68 170w

"Perhaps it is significant that the schoolboys, familiar with both Robinson Crusoe and The Swiss Family Robinson, took their own survival seriously. The story of [the boys'] experiences is more than a mere adventure or misadventure. The characters are individualized, contrasted and developed; and at the end 'the little boys were almost big . . . and the big boys almost men.'" P. H.

Horn Bk 44:71 F '68 230w

"In depth of treatment the book is close to Swiss Family Robinson. Biologists may wince at Verne's description of the flora and fauna on the island (e.g. both penguins and hippos are found there), but, essentially, this is an exciting, imaginative adventure story that can serve as a stepping-stone to some of Verne's more substantial works." J. T. Gillespie

Library J 92:4266 N 15 '67 110w

"The masterful Verne introduces... the delicate interplay of social and psychological relationships in a colony made up of... English, French and American boys... The group splits into factions, roughly on national lines, only to be united finally by a common threat. What is significant is that instead of reverting to savagery, like the group in [W.] Golding's 'Lord of the Flies' [BRD 1955], these boys consciously reproduce a model Anglo-Saxon society... Why the society takes such a direction is a question which should intrigue adult readers of this ingenious, thoroughly absorbing story." Will Jacobs

N Y Times Bk R p62 N 26 '67 180w
Reviewed by Zena Sutherland
Sat R 51:35 Ja 27 '68 120w

VERTS, B. J. The biology of the striped skunk. 218p il $7.95 Univ. of Ill. press

599 Skunks 67-21857

This study examines "external morphology, growth and development, behavior, activity and movements, dens and denning, food habits, habitats and populations, reproduction, sex ratios and age ratios, and parasites and diseases... A survey of the etiology, transmission, systems, pathology, mortality history and distribution, and epizootiology of rabies is then presented, with special attention given to its prevalence among skunk populations in northwestern Illinois." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

"[The author's] finds on rabies are of considerable interest, not only from the standpoint of striped skunk populations, but also on its spread in other animal groups as well. Both popular and technical in scope; portions are very readable, while other portions are of more interest to the specialist. Recommended for all colleges and universities where there is an active interest in the ecological aspect of biology."

Choice 5:813 S '68 170w

Reviewed by R. H. Manville
Science 159:725 F 16 '68 250w
Sci Am 219:264 S '68 300w

VESAAS, TARJEI. Palace of ice; tr. by Elizabeth Rokkan [Eng title; The ice palace]. 176p $4.50 Morrow

68-28673

This novel, which was awarded the Nordic Council Prize in 1963, "tells of the relationship between two 11-year-old girls: Siss [and Unn. Unn]... goes off alone to explore the ice palace, a gigantic frozen waterfall, and dies there. Siss is left with the problem of being true to her friend's memory... and for a time she assumes... [a] version of Unn's personality." (New Statesman)

"Vesaas has a rich poetic style which is effective in many of his descriptive and expository passages. He also possesses a deep feeling for and a rich ability to communicate the beauty and vagaries of nature. Both the transitory quality of much of nature and all of humanity's existence is connoted in a frequently hauntingly beautiful manner. Aside from the dialogue—at which Vesaas is not especially talented—the book becomes a prose poem, deficient in essential narrative pace and interest, but striking in insight and in its ability to convey mood and atmosphere. Meditative readers will unquestionably enjoy this particular novel." P. A. Doyle

Best Sell 28:264 O 1 '68 470w

Reviewed by Marsha McCreade
Christian Science Monitor p7 D 19 '68 240w

Reviewed by L. S. Thompson
Library J 93:2693 J1 '68 100w

Reviewed by Larissa Rulofson
Library J 93:4741 D 15 '68 80w [YA]

"There are touching, accurate moments... but the two girls are far too transparently projected as aspects of a single theoretical identity, the cosy moral being that it is dangerous to cultivate the one at the expense of the other. The clean-limbed, super-sympathetic schoolchums are the healthy norm and Siss is at last restored to them, just that careful bit less carefree than before." Ian Hamilton

New Statesman 71:55 Ja 14 '66 220w

Reviewed by Martin Levin
N Y Times Bk R p36 S 22 '68 160w

"[Vesaas'] characters are figures in a landscape, dwarfed by the forces of nature... [This] is a novel without sexual conflict, violence or a sense of chaos... [The author's] lucid, concentrated prose is exceedingly difficult to translate. Elizabeth Rokkan has caught much of the fierce descriptive power of the original, but the idea of entering the mind of a child often afflicts English writing with a nursery cosiness, and some passages of reverie and dialogue suffer from this flaw... The design of this novel is too simple, the allegory too obvious, the domestic scenes are too tame, but the vision of a wild, free landscape is wholly personal and exhilarating."

TLS p21 Ja 13 '66 460w

VICENS VIVES, JAIME. Approaches to the history of Spain: tr. and ed. by Joan Connolly Ullman [maps by Alice Alden]. 189p $6.50 Univ. of Calif. press

946 Spain—History 67-27127

"This interpretive work was first published in 1952 [under the title Approximación a la Historia de España]. In 1960 it was republished with supplements for each chapter, bringing it up to date with the author's latest views... [This translation] contains all this material [and also] additional information and bibliography in the footnotes. Vicens' book goes through Spanish history chronologically, assessing and passing judgment." (Va Q R) Annotated bibliography. Index.

"When first published... the book was welcomed as a remarkable interpretative synthesis of Spanish history from the earliest times to the eruption of the civil war in 1936. Given to interpretation of the geographic, socioeconomic, ethnic, and political shapers of modern Spanish history, it was valued as a splendid introduction for beginning students and as a valuable guide for professionals in the field. This very able translation... is doubly welcome: it makes the work available to all students and provides an excellent annotated bibliography of key works written before 1960."

Choice 5:858 S '68 130w

Reviewed by R. D. Harlan
Library J 93:187 Ja 15 '68 240w

"This is a very welcome English version of a key work by one of contemporary Spain's foremost historians, the late professor of the University of Barcelona... It is not intended for beginners; but anyone with even a smattering of the subject will enjoy the lively discussion of problems, the constant search for balanced evaluations free from nationalist prejudice or traditional misconceptions. There is no better place to secure light without heat upon the long Spanish story."

Va Q R 44:clxxii autumn '68 140w

VICKERS, SIR GEOFFREY. Towards a sociology of management. 206p $5.95 Basic bks.

658 Management 67-24410

"The papers collected here... all start from and try to illuminate the belief that business is a social activity and management a form of social regulation. They all use, as their main clues to understanding, two sets of concepts... [one] derived from general systems theory; the other from communication science. The first theme stresses the importance of the circular process of control... a process exemplified by cybernetic assemblies... The second... stresses the part played by human expectations, socially generated, in setting and changing the manifold and often conflicting standards of what 'ought to be'—the standards of success—and... with the part which management should take in that process." (Foreword) Chapter bibliographies. Index.

"Each of the essays expertly covers an area or field of business leadership. Sir Geoffrey is undoubtedly too wordy and certainly too British, but if one takes the time to wade into his thinking one will be rewarded with some fresh ideas and interesting concept presentations."

Choice 5:657 J1 '68 150w

"[The author] follows his The Art of Judgment [BRD 1965] with this collection of papers, mainly on systems of administration in relation to ecology, biology, the physical sciences and human behavioural studies. Incentive, adaptability, responsibility, decisiveness, relations between political society and businesses, automation, public and private undertakings' respective rights and duties; all of these are described and weighed with the judiciousness of an eminent legal mind, and in a style of model clarity. It is a 'must' book for all aiming at success in private or public administration, and is handsomely produced."

VICKERS, GEOFFREY—Continued

TLS p541 Je 15 '67 100w

VICKERY, WALTER N. Pushkin, death of a poet. 146p il $5.75 Ind. univ. press

B or 92 Pushkin, Aleksandr Sergeevich

68-10279

The Russian author died of a duelling wound in 1837. In this examination of the circumstances and results, Vickery "recreates the personalities of the central figures in the story, and explores the... events which preceded the duel and the desperate last-minute efforts by friends of both Pushkin and d'Anthes to prevent their meeting.... [He includes an] account of the duel itself and its [aftermath.]" (Publisher's note) Index.

"The facts are known but they are variously interpreted. Professor Walter Vickery has re-examined them in a well-written, impartial essay that sifts the evidence and reconstructs the occurrences that step by step led to the tragic catastrophe of January 27, 1837. It is a judicious narrative that takes into consideration the characters, the moods, and the emotions of the principals involved in the disaster, without the usual predetermined bias, wherein Pushkin figures as a helpless victim and D'Anthes as the arch villain of a hostile clique. Especially good is its recreation of Pushkin's exacerbated frame of mind.... It is a scholarly, convincing, and, in its unemphatic realism, a moving little book." Helen Muchnic

N Y Rev of Books 11:20 O 10 '68 600w

"Vickery has brought no new evidence to his study.... What makes for [its] startling novelty... is its conclusion that Pushkin was neither as blameless, nor his foes as guilty as has been assumed.... Russian feeling about Pushkin verges on a cult, and thus this book will hardly be appreciated in the Soviet Union. But Vickery has quite wisely made a distinction between the majesty of the poet and the fallibility of the man and reached his conclusions quite objectively. His scholarship is sound and his argument persuasive: he will not be easily refuted."

Va Q R 44:cxx summer '68 270w

VIDAL, GORE. Myra Breckinridge. 264p $5.95 Little

68-14745

In this novel, Myra who was once Myron seduces both Rusty Godowsky and his girl friend Mary-Ann Pringle. By the author of The Best Man (BRD 1961) and Visit to a Small Planet (BRD 1957).

Best Sell 27:477 Mr 15 '68 30w

Reviewed by S. K. Oberbeck

Book World p6 F 25 '68 650w

"[A] sordid but important [book]. Black and nasty, it is, on the surface, a tale of a man turned woman (à la Christine Jorgenson) whose present purpose is the emasculation of the stereotyped American Jack Armstrong. This vengeance accomplished, she returns to a he (through an accident) and marries a woman. Symbolically, Myra is America, wickedly metamorphosized, who thirsts for superiority over a heroic and predominant past (like a child with its parent). Once the national sadistic act is perpetrated, a strange but valid catharsis occurs; Myra is transformed into a promising likeness of the preferred heroic America. Unpleasant reading but the black humor (mature and not absurd) and the basic point carry the book."

Choice 5:200 Ap '68 120w

Reviewed by Michael O'Malley
Critic 26:76 Je '68 1000w

"Anyone who hasn't tumbled to Gore Vidal's great switcheroo by about the second or third page is maybe too naive to be reading this book anyway. It is meant to be a witty piece of satire, both on some of today's rather sad erotica and on that shot-up target, the lunatic world of Hollywood. There are some wonderful, memorable, funny lines here and there, but the novel as a whole adds up to only a rather damp fizzle. Gore Vidal has written some good novels, but this isn't one of them; it makes Candy [by T. Southern and M. Hofenberger, BRD 1964] look like a classic." Eric Moon

Library J 93:1164 Mr 15 '68 180w

Reviewed by Nora Sayre

New Statesman 76:358 S 20 '68 1000w

Reviewed by Margot Hentoff

N Y Rev of Books 10:32 My 9 '68 700w

"[The book contains] exhaustive (and exhausting) critiques of pictures and picture-making; instant-mix diagnoses of our current turmoils; lampoons of Negrophobia; formulas for curing the population explosion; a brief for the eventual blurring of the sexes—which is one of the few projects Myra is ready to endorse. There is never (well, hardly ever) a dull moment.... [It is] a shocker as artfully mechanized as a Keystone Kops chase sequence. Plus, of course, standard gamey bits: the ambidextrous orgy scene; [and] the sadistic daydreams of the protagonist.... And yet, the author's cheerful nihilism is suited to his outrageous theme.... Once the word gets round, it will sell like popcorn at a double feature." James McBride

N Y Times Bk R p44 F 18 '68 700w

"[Vidal] chops the narrative in short chapters tailored to the shrinking attention span of the McLuhanized mind. He tells his tale in the first person for immediacy and seasons it with easily digestible vest-pocket essays. His book is short on traditional character development, long on sex of all kinds and cinematic in method.... [It concerns the] cool, bleak world of inversion and onanistic fantasy, told with a passion for anatomical detail that Vidal's audience, conventional or cathode, is, in the main, unlikely to share. Witty, imaginative, full of élan Vidal, 'Myra' becomes in the end, a kind of erotic propaganda. The book is a put-on, a sexual game, but one in which Vidal too often succumbs to the erotic fantasies he has created." F. D. Zimmerman

Newsweek 71:88 F 26 '68 850w

Reviewed by Marvin Barrett

Reporter 38:39 Ap 4 '68 1750w

TLS p1145 O 10 '68 900w

VIERTEL, JOSEPH. Monkey on a string. 414p $6.95 Trident press

68-13436

"In his rise from ghetto to appointment as ambassador to an African state, [Marcus Garvey] Holmes... is the second colored man to graduate from West Point; he is one of the first officers to lead mixed troops into battle in Korea; he suggests the simple device of eliminating racial designations from service records as a means of integrating the armed forces; his project for African-American student exchanges anticipates the Peace Corps.... It is his interracial marriage to a childhood friend, a neurotic white girl from a wretched, broken home, that finally brings Marcus Holmes down. As [Robbi] becomes less dependent upon Marcus's strength and more a victim to her latent prejudices and fears, the marriage founders." (Sat R)

Reviewed by Charles Dollen

Best Sell 28:9 Ap 1 '68 500w

"The story is brilliantly interwoven with intricate details of recent United States-West African diplomacy, touching on many of the delicate problems involved. Sexual tensions within marriage (an important factor) and social exacerbations without, intensified by pressures upon an Ambassador combine to bring disaster. Marcus was the 'victim of a dichotomy' he was unable to understand or cope with. As the story progresses, Marcus becomes so real, so appealing a person that the book reads like an actual autobiography. A powerful, realistic story. We nominate it for one of the best novels of 1968." R. W. Henderson

Library J 93:574 F 1 '68 100w

"Mr. Viertel does not make things easy for himself. He refuses to relax into stereotypes, white or black, to fake convenient answers, or to simplify the choking complexities of his material.... The sureness with which the author deals with Africa might well have swept the reader over other weaknesses, but Marcus doesn't even reach that continent until halfway through the novel.... Besides [a] crucial failure with Robbi, the character of Marcus himself is neither innocent enough to be comic nor wise enough to command attention.... Partly

Mr. Viertel's trouble is just plain style. . . . [But] most deadly of all is the lack of any tone, of any attitude toward this world-shaking subject matter. . . . 'Monkey on a String,' though committed and serious, remains sadly voiceless." J. R. Frakes

N Y Times Bk R p44 Mr 31 '68 410w

"Part of [Viertel's] failure stems from his succumbing to the faults of many historical novels: he strives too hard, in a flat, autobiographical narrative, to achieve a feeling of authenticity, and his protagonist never rises to his tragedy because he has never attained reality. Monkey on a String suffers from its hero's inability to escape stereotype. Marcus Garvey Holmes is always less a man than a model of the successful Negro. . . . [The author has] sacrificed drama to melodrama, truth to history, and story to moral." Joseph Haas

Sat R 51:23 My 25 '68 290w

The VIKING [designed by Tre Tryckare, Cagner & Co., and based on the ideas and plans of Ewert Cagner, by] Bertil Almgren [and others]. 287p il col il maps $27.50 N.Y. graphic

914.8 Northmen

This book covers "the explorations and adventures of the Vikings across the Atlantic, along the European coast to the Mediterranean and through Russia to Asia. . . . The authors describe customs, language, literature and daily life." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

"The International Book Society of Time-Life has . . . produced a handsome volume written and illustrated by an international team of archaeological experts. . . . The book includes 62 pages of magnificent full-color photographs that show Viking finds or places where the Vikings settled. Where photographs are lacking, numerous detailed line drawings are used. . . . The subject matter is scholarly, but the style is popular. The book will appeal both to the general reader and to the student of history. Although the price and format . . . will most likely limit purchase to larger history collections, for those who can afford it, it is a worthwhile addition." S. L. Steen

Library J 92:2921 S 1 '67 320w

New Yorker 43:244 D 2 '67 100w

"A thoughtful survey. . . . A majority of the photographs are very good, and some of them deserve to be called magnificent. . . . [The] survey is organized in thirteen chapters, some full, others spare, and one, on the Viking camps, perfunctory. The chief value of the book as scholarship lies in its chapters on daily life in Scandinavia, the Viking expansion westwards to Britain, Iceland, Greenland and America, and the development and practice of Norse ships and seafaring. Trade is discussed, . . . the old religion, the classes of society, runes and literature, are presented in an agreeable but rather brief way. What emerges is a fair and convincing picture of the Scandinavian peoples and their way of life. . . . The pictures are bright, the drawings clear, and the text lucid, but [this] is not the easiest book in the world to read or consult even so. It is roughly twelve inches tall, and has an opening of just on twenty-two inches, which calls for firm two-fisted control. . . . There are some unfortunate misprints of proper names. . . . The index is sketchy, and the bibliography, in respect of its English-language entries, is a hit-or-miss affair."

TLS p1126 D 1 '66 750w

VILE, M. J. C. Constitutionalism and the separation of powers. 359p $8 Oxford

342 Constitutional history [67-81265]

The author "discusses the transformation of the theory of mixed government into the separation of powers and the development of the idea of the balanced constitution. . . . [He] then presents a functional system of government, divided into rule-making, discretionary rule-applying, and rule-interpreting roles. He adds that a balance between coordination and control is necessary in any political system." (Choice)

Reviewed by C. J. Friedrich

Am Hist R 73:1099 Ap '68 340w

"Highly recommended for purchase, this book contains some novel insights into traditional theoretical materials as well as a new model for the study of constitutionalism. Vile offers a devastating refutation of [R.] Dahl's A Preface to Democratic Theory [BRD 1957]."

Choice 4:1327 Ja '68 120w

"Professor Vile has traced the doctrine [of the separation of powers] from Aristotle . . . down to today's establishment of an ombudsman. He combines an historian's respect for the past with a political scientist's concern for the present. . . . He has a healthy scepticism about received ideas combined with a decent respect for the opinion of mankind. In consequence he has written a book that while being profoundly and extensively informative also leaves questions in the mind of the reader; the debate continues, but it is made more comprehensible because one is made master of all that has gone before. . . . When he turns to the parliamentary democracy of nineteenth century Britain Professor Vile takes short issue with that distinguished editor of The Economist [Walter Bagehot] whose 'English Constitution' propagated, in his view, an erroneous understanding of the system of government of his day. . . . [Bagehot] rocks visibly on his base under these vile poundings and it will tax his defenders to render him stable again. Finally Professor Vile looks at the doctrine today, in France, Britain and the United States. . . . He defends the values which the doctrine enshrines. . . . with sensitivity, learning and skill. His is a valuable book."

Economist 223:52 Ap 1 '67 750w

VINCENT, J. R. Pollbooks; how Victorians voted. 193p $10 Cambridge

324.42 Social classes—Great Britain. Elections—Great Britain. Great Britain—Politics and government—19th century 67-10160

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Reviewed by D. C. Moore

Am Hist R 73:480 D '67 430w

Reviewed by R. H. Turner

Am J Soc 73:523 Ja '68 600w

Reviewed by J. P. D. Dunbabin

Engl Hist R 83:417 Ap '68 280w

VIORST, MILTON. Fall from grace; the Republican party and the Puritan ethic. 227p $5.50 New Am. lib.

329.6 Republican party. U.S.—Politics and government 68-20115

A "thematic history of the Republican party—its origins and development, its years of political dominance, its collapse in 1932, and its present state as the nation's minority party." (Publisher's note) Annotated bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by Hugh Scott

Book World p7 My 19 '68 950w

Reviewed by R. T. Stout

Christian Science Monitor p9 S 14 '68 700w

"Well-written, readable and serious, this work is recommended generally for political science and historical collections." J. M. Christ

Library J 93:1907 My 1 '68 230w

"[This] is short and lively, a swift and engaging synthesis of the work in the field. . . . but with many fresh insights—Viorst shows real gifts as an historian. The myths about the Republican Party [which the book] explodes were exploded a generation ago by Charles Beard in his moving and stately Rise of American Civilization [BRD 1927]. Viorst depicts the Republicans as the party of business and of the Wasp [and] tries to make the story a little more interesting by linking the party with the Puritan ethic, though it is hard to tell where Puritanism ends and plain acquisitiveness begins. This is no novel thesis. The surprise is that at this late date it should be attacked as 'outrageous' and 'audacious' by a Republican newspaperman who is a Washington correspondent." I. F. Stone

N Y Rev of Books 10:33 Je 20 '68 2100w

Reviewed by Grant McConnell

N Y Times Bk R p3 Ag 4 '68 700w

"Viorst has rummaged through GOP history and found a guiding thread that tries to make polemic sense of the Republican Party's fall from grace and power. The Republicans, for Viorst, are not primarily politicians, but priestly ideologues evangelizing for the Protestant ethic, Yankee morality and Brahmin supremacy. . . . Many people disposed to accept Viorst's pat analysis may wonder how far and wide the term can be stretched and still have real meaning. Isn't the GOP really just an old-fashioned moderate party? Is American conservatism much different from, say, European coalitions of the center-right? . . . The Puritan label is really less useful as a tool for political analysis than the old, maligned stand-bys such as right-wing, liberal-conservative, progressive or elitist. The Republican Party is all of those things and more. The only thing certain about it is, that it is smaller than the Democratic Party." R. A. S. Newsweek 71:105C My 20 '68 650w

VIORST, MILTON—Continued

VISCARDI, HENRY. The Abilities story, by Henry Viscardi, Jr. 239p pl $5.95 Eriksson
331.5 Abilities, Inc. Physically handicapped—Rehabilitation. Mentally handicapped 67-17282

Concerns "a business started by and for the disabled. Its story is told by one of the founders and executives of the firm. . . . There are stories of particular workers and accounts of the important people (business men, political figures) with whom Viscardi and his firm have had significant contact. . . . Financial, sales, and managerial difficulties as well as problems with [the company's] role as a subcontractor, in product diversification, and in work planning, both for the physically disabled and the mentally retarded [are described]." (Choice) Index.

"The success story of a venture with a mission, to prove that the disabled can participate productively in our economic life. . . . Tied in with Abilities are two other programs: Human Resources Center, a research unit seeking to resolve the problems of special workers and provide products; and Human Resources School, a training school for the handicapped. An inspirational book but not one about organizational theory," nor even a clear case study of an organization.

Choice 5:92 Mr '68 190w

"That [the company's] problems were finally worked out and that Abilities, Inc. survived all its crises is a triumph for Henry Viscardi and all the people who work with him. This book will be enjoyed by readers at the high school and college levels and in all public libraries." Gloria Weinrich

Library J 92:2596 J1 '67 230w

VISSER'T HOOFT, WILLEM A., jt. auth. Peace among Christians. See Bea, A.

VITAL, DAVID. The inequality of states: a study of the small power in international relations. 198p $4.80 Oxford

327 States, Small, International relations [67-114024]

This book "is divided into two equal parts: a factual half called 'Disabilities' and a speculative half called 'Possibilities'. The first half, after offering Mr. Vital's definitions of small statehood, examines the inherent weaknesses which go with it. The economic weaknesses and the incapacity for effective defence are . . . [examined, as are] vulnerability and exposure to coercion. . . . In the second half of the book Mr. Vital examines the kinds of policy open to the small states, having regard to their weaknesses. . . . [In a final chapter he asks:] are the small states strengthened or weakened in their dealings with the great powers by the existence of nuclear weapons, whether or not they possess them? [He] is inclined to believe that in the long run their vulnerability is increased." (TLS)

"The question raised in this book is whether or not the small, nonaligned (defined as . . . implying that there are no clear, effective and mutually binding ties with other powers) power is really an anachronism in today's world or has enough real power to be effective. . . . The conclusion seems to be that small powers have a real role to play because they represent a distinct ethos and culture which would be the world's loss should it become nonexistent. Even taking into account the credentials of Vital (an Israeli Government employee) and his obvious bias and discounting the many repetitions of facts, the work is remarkable in its portrayal of the small powers. Well recommended."

Choice 5:1225 N '68 180w

"[An] interesting and thoughtful study. [Vital's] conclusion is, on the whole, pessimistic so far as the long-term prospect of the small states is concerned, but this may well mean the long term in which we are all dead. . . . It is tempting to regard the small, the under-developed and the newly emergent as three names for a single category of states; but in fact they are three distinct categories with a surprisingly small area of overlap. Mr. Vital is right to resist this temptation, even at the cost of leaving his generalizations subject to large exceptions in almost every case. . . . He regards the survival [of small states] as 'precarious', which is not to say that they will not survive for a very long time. His stimulating and well-argued book thus ends rightly on a note of uncertainty."

TLS p30 Ja 11 '68 950w

VITHALDAS, YOGI. The Yogi cook book, by Yogi Vithaldas and Susan Roberts. 137p $3.50 Crown

641.56 Cookery, Indic 68-17117

The authors "have collected many of the traditional recipes handed down by Yogis for 5000 years and has adapted them for American use. The recipes, all of which are vegetarian, make much use of three staples of the Indian cuisine: yogurt, ghee (purified butter), and dal (lentils). To these basic ingredients are added vegetables, fruits, and spices, most of which are readily available in this country. Instructions are given for the preparation of ghee, yogurt, and chick-pea flour. One chapter is devoted to a description of spices commonly used in Indian cookery. Other chapters give recipes for curries, rice, vegetables, lentils, breads, chutneys, savories, sweetmeats, and beverages, and menus for parties and dinners." (Library J) Glossary. Index.

"Fearing that it may naturally attract only meditative vegetarians, I want to recommend [this book]. . . . It is full of delightful oddities and should beguile even entrenched curry haters." Phoebe Adams

Atlantic 221:114 My '68 30w

"You don't have to assume the lotus position to use [this book] but there are problems. . . . My yoghurt curries were watery and the lentil dumplings—something of a staple for the Yogi—were leaden and faintly bitter. The chutneys, on the other hand, rivaled any I've eaten anywhere. I'm inclined to be charitable towards both the Yogi and his translator, Susan Roberts, simply because the book, with its highly personal tone and its proud petulance, was so much fun to read." Gloria Levitas

Book World p7 My 12 '68 100w

"Recommended for library cookbook collections." Shirley Hopkinson
Library J 93:1143 Mr 15 '68 150w

VIVES, JAIME VICENS. See Vicens Vives, J.

VLADIMIROV, LEONID. The Russians. 249p $6.95 Praeger

914.7 Russia. Communism—Russia 67-24678

The former editor of a Russian science magazine, who defected to the West in 1966, describes his homeland. He discusses, among other things, Russia's industry, agriculture, city and country life, press, arts, science, education, and the relation of the people to the government. Index.

"This book . . . is a first-rate piece of reporting, highly readable, informative and reliable in its portrayal of Soviet realities. It covers many aspects of Soviet life. . . . A notable exception is the Red Army, which is not even mentioned. Vladimirov produces anecdotes and illustrations derived from his rich and varied experience. . . . The author believes that . . . the tendency is to 'bring about certain reforms in the Soviet way of life.' . . . I do not agree with Vladimirov's conclusions. The facts adduced in [this book] contradict his prognosis." N. D. Roodkowsky
America 119:330 O 12 '68 550w

Reviewed by R. M. Kennedy

Library J 93:3558 O 1 '68 250w

"Critical of the Soviet way of life especially its severe curtailment of freedom, the author presents a sympathetic and often humorous picture of life in Russia. In a light journalistic style he reports about people in the city and on the farm; about the roles of scientists, artists and writers; about the training of leaders for tomorrow, the state of religion, the role of the press, and many other aspects of Soviet life. An enjoyable, very personal account." Larissa Rulofson

Library J 93:3997 O 15 '68 100w [YA]

VLAHOS, OLIVIA. African beginnings; il. by George Ford. 286p maps $6.95; lib bdg $6.43 Viking

916 Africa—Civilization—Juvenile literature 67-24859

"The author describes the beginnings of civilization in Africa, the emergence of great Kingdoms and tribal societies, and concludes with a discussion of Arabs in East and North Africa." (Sat R) Bibliography. Index. "Grades eight to ten." (Library J)

Best Sell 27:396 Ja 1 '68 80w

"Mrs. Vlahos has studied in anthropology and consulted much literature about [Africa]. . . . The six chapters devoted to 'Kingdoms Below the Desert' are especially revealing about African art, agriculture, social customs, political methods. . . . However, this is a glamorizing book that often fails to help the teenage reader correlate facts." William Gilman
Book World p12 D 17 '67 180w [YA]

"The author writes in a direct, informal style, and organizes her subject roughly according to chronological, geographical, or cultural areas. Arab and European influences are discussed in some detail, but the book will be particularly valuable in informing young readers of the degree of cultural sophistication that many African peoples have possessed for centuries. The illustrations, while somewhat idealized, are dramatic." Harold Lancour
Library J 92:4266 N 15 '67 110w

"When a born storyteller with a sense of humor and a flair for incisive phrasing writes with scholarly competence about a land as diverse and colorful as Africa, the result demands that overworked word 'absorbing.' . . . What makes the book fascinating rather than merely interesting is the spontaneity of the writing and the brilliant observations of cultural details, which do not however obscure the broad, clear picture." Zena Sutherland
Sat R 50:36 D 16 '67 90w [YA]

VO NGUYEN GIAP. "Big victory great task"; North Viet-Nam's minister of defense assesses the course of the war; introd. by David Schoenbrun. 120p $4.50 Praeger

959.7 Vietnamese Conflict, 1961- 67-31381

This book was originally serialized in two Hanoi publications, Nhan Dan and Quan Doi Nhan Dan, in the autumn of 1967. The general emphasizes four points, "three of which are not military but political: Vietcong disruption of the pacification programme, on whose success the viability of any South Vietnamese government must rest; the weakening of South Vietnamese military morale; the reduction of South Vietnamese administrative effectiveness; and the dispersion of the American military effort so that numerical and, to a degree, technical superiority is negated." (TLS)

Choice 5:559 Je '68 110w

"[This is] an anonymous, and presumably unofficial, translation. . . . What [General Giap] says about the war and the ultimate Communist victory that is assured seems to me sober and realistic. His words are of interest to any American concerned about his own country and the world." Collin Clark
Library J 93:87 Ja 1 '68 100w

Reviewed by Jonathan Mirsky
Nation 206:608 My 6 '68 750w

"David Schoenbrun's useful introduction points out that Giap's essay is 'hortatory rather than expository,' and although it is riddled with clichés and epithets, now and then the propaganda comes close to the mark." N Y Times Bk R p24 Mr 31 '68 220w

Reviewed by C. W. Yost
Sat R 51:30 My 11 '68 430w
TLS p283 Mr 21 '68 500w

VOELKER, JOHN DONALDSON. See Traver, R.

VOGAU, BORIS ANDREEVICH. See Pilnyak, B.

VOGT, JOSEPH. The decline of Rome; tr. from the German by Janet Sondheimer. 340p il $12.50 New Am. lib.

913.37 Rome—History—Empire, 30 B.C.-476 A.D. Rome—Civilization 67-23462

A "synthesis of the political, economic, cultural, and religious aspects of the final three stages of the Roman Empire, from 200 to 500 A.D., . . . [by a] professor of ancient history at the University of Tübingen." (Library J)

"One of the best of the studies of this era which have appeared recently. . . . The book is not simply a study of decline, like some accounts which retail the more striking phenomena of dissolution and growing barbarism; with his expert and judicious knowledge of the ancient world, the author makes it clear that something new emerged from the ruins of the old. . . . [The] illustrations—including some objects not often reproduced—exemplify the author's care to make full use of the testimony of art history and archaeology." Glanville Downey

Class World 62:26 S '68 150w

"The German side of the book is pure gain. Much of the history of the late western empire is one of German invasion. . . . [The author] looks at this part of the story from the German point of view, deals with it nation by nation and brings out the differences between them. . . . The ups and downs of Roman history are largely omitted. The result is an immense clarification. The Christian side is more dubious. . . . Political, social and economic history are sketchily treated except as they throw light on the gains of Christianity. . . . Except for the long section on the impact of the German nations, it is largely an ecclesiastical history. . . . No one should treat this as just another volume in an objective series; but, if one bears its bias in mind, it is valuable reading. Dr Sondheimer's translation is first class. There is a good but rather unoriginal section of plates; and there are too many misprints." Economist 225:xii D 2 '67 380w

"This is a brilliant [book]. . . . Drawing on the most recent research, [Vogt] has written a sensitive, significant study. . . . [He] clearly delineates not only the men who shaped their ages but also the way in which their ideas and thoughts were manifested in all corners of the empire. He also points up man's inhumanity to man, often in the very name of religion. The book contains 64 pages of photographs which aid the reader in charting the course of late Roman art, architecture, and technology. Highly recommended for academic and public libraries." F. D. Lazenby
Library J 93:1895 My 1 '68 120w

VOLOCHOVA, SONIA, ed. The Christ. See Guignebert, C.

VOLODIN, ALEKSANDR. Five evenings; tr. and adapted by Ariadne Nicolaeff [pub] in assn. with the Minn. theatre company. 101p $4.50; pa $1 Univ. of Minn. press

891.7 66-27419

This is a contemporary two-act Soviet play set in Leningrad.

"The piece is agreeable, gently amusing, and entertaining without being particularly profound or unusual in technique. With a felicitously written introduction by Harold Clurman, this edition serves a most useful purpose in introducing to English readers a work by Volodin, one of the most publicized contemporary Russian playwrights. Volodin's humanity, whimsy, and good humor give us fresh insight into today's Russia and the modern Russian mind." Choice 4:1388 F '68 100w

"The dialogue in this translation is not always clear and idiomatic, which creates some directionless and disengaged absurdist moments. The characters are all given to aphoristic speech which is functional in the play and which also communicates pat Soviet ideals. Yet the propagandistic elements are understated and do not detract from the playability or enjoyment of the piece." T. E. Luddy
Library J 91:4969 O 15 '66 120w

VOLPONI, PAOLO. The worldwide machine; ■ novel; tr. from the Italian by Belén Severeid. 213p $6 Grossman pubs.

66-26536

"Anteo Crocioni is a farmer from the Italian Marche who . . . is convinced that men are actually machines built by other beings, perhaps from another planet that may be now extinct. He believes that it is man's duty and destiny to design a better machine that will replace the human species. . . . [He denounces] not only the 'bourgeois,' but frequently influential, individuals and institutions which fail to share his utopian enthusiasm. The Church takes Crocioni's land, he is denied work in the area, his wife leaves him, later kills their child, and he calmly commits suicide-by-dynamite." (Library J) Originally published in Italian under the title La Macchina Mondiale.

Choice 5:632 J1 '68 130w

"This work is not nearly so powerful a social document as Mr. Volponi's My Troubles Began [BRD 1965], one of the most significant Italian novels of the last decade, but his Kafkaesque, introspective narration is a further extension of his own stylistic experimentation. For modern literature collections." Arthur Curley

Library J 92:3449 O 1 '67 200w

"[This book] is sadly individualistic, to the point of solipsism, a kind of diary of a madman. . . . [Anteo] is trying to write a treatise in which (like Marx) he may formulate his insights in a scientific pattern. Perhaps the author's intention is to parody the lives of men like Marx. . . . But the passages quoted from his treatise indicate that Anteo is ill-equipped for his task. . . . [He] is a 'rebel' against 'society,' but not in an interesting way, since he is convincing and comprehensible only when he is wholly negative. . . . He poses as a man of superior insight, without providing the evidence. . . . In the story, there is a gentle priest who befriends him, listens and tries to make sense. Many readers will be less tolerant." D. A. N. Jones

N Y Rev of Books 9:21 Ja 4 '68 600w

Reviewed by Helene Cantarella

N Y Times Bk R p56 N 5 '67 750w

"Narrator-hero, Anteo Crocioni is surely one of the most bewilderingly pathetic figures in contemporary Italian fiction, all the more tragic since he hovers throughout at only one remove from caricature. . . . Volponi's tragic power lies in making both credible and likable a headstrong, virtually lunatic peasant. . . . Yet [the hero's] preoccupation with the machine-ordered cosmos dooms him. Is this not the lesson of the myth of Antaeus, whose name Volponi has borrowed for him? So long as Antaeus kept contact with the soil he was safe; when he soared toward the skies he died immediately, inevitably. In describing Anteo's vicissitudes . . . Volponi, like the postwar cinema directors, reminds us that social injustices still exist in Italy. Yet whereas Anteo is too inarticulate and alienated to plead the cause of the social rebel, the young Italian novelist himself steps in to fill the breach." R. L. Clements

Sat R 50:30 D 9 '67 430w

VON BALTHASAR, HANS URS. See Balthasar, H. U. von

VON BERTALANFFY, LUDWIG. See Bertalanffy, L. von

VON ECKARDT, WOLF. A place to live; the crisis of the cities; foreword by August Hecksher. 430p il $9.95 (Seymour Lawrence bk) Delacorte press bk.

724.9 Architecture, Modern—20th century. City planning 67-20653

The architectural critic of the Washington Post, author of The Challenge of Megalopolis (BRD 1964) presents a collection of essays which "begins with a discussion of urban theories, then skips to a history of modern architecture, including some . . . assessments of the great names therein. The author then leads readers on an odyssey through the history of American city planning to contemporary views on what urban renewal has done to the American landscape and what new towns might do." (Reporter) Bibliography. Index.

"[The author] establishes a basis for popular good taste that could help citizens to fulfill a more active role in urban reformation than merely voting bond issues and outrunning the bulldozers. Von Eckardt argues that modern architecture has floundered in failing fully to harness modern technology, to provide historic continuity, and to gain genuine popular acceptance. His chapters support these contentions with telling instances from recent history of technology, new towns, project renewal and redevelopment, germinal architectural movements, virtuoso architectural movements, virtuoso architectural devices, and, occasionally a purely personal reaction. . . . But the personal touches do not intrude on the objectivity of the background report, which is documented from authoritative records, interviews, correspondence, and personal visits to landmark enterprises in this country and abroad." George McCue

Arch Forum 129:76 O '68 700w

"Mr. Von Eckardt has an intelligent, knowledgeable, journalistic style. He communicates to the general reader in the manner of his mentor, Lewis Mumford, rationally and by use of example. He stirs the emotions the way Jane Jacobs, his fellow believer, does. Hundreds of well-chosen photographs illustrating the text sensitively illuminate the points he makes. A handsome book, useful for many public and other libraries." H. M. Kapenstein

Library J 93:1619 Ap 15 '68 140w

"The main trouble is that . . . von Eckardt has nothing new to say about the buildings, cultures, plans and individuals he discusses. His historical and theoretical pieces are not only culled from secondary sources, they are almost always from previous popularizations. . . . I would be about to concede that 'A Place to Live' is anyway a fairly readable one-volume work that is suitable for someone who wants to know from scratch about current architecture and its historic background with instant opinions. But the mistakes in the book put me off even that. The incident of error is really alarming. . . . [Von Eckardt] is best when he is reporting about the politics of Washington's building and planning programs, which almost nobody understands as well as he does, or when he is close to the situation in time and place." Nathan Silver

N Y Times Bk R p12 F 25 '68 700w

"The book displays all the strengths and weaknesses of the author's heroes, the great modern architects—it is dramatic, sweeping, bold, indeed breathtaking, but a little impractical. . . . The most revealing part of the book is in Von Eckardt's evaluation of leading modern architects. . . . His saving grace is that he is not afraid to dream and to hope. His epilogue on de Tocqueville's return to America in the twenty-first century is a hymn of hope to the rational powers of Americans in controlling their environment. One needn't agree with every particular of his hopes for cities, but they are a refreshing contrast to the miasma of ideological dogma and metaphysical froth that dominates much of the discussion of cities today. Von Eckardt's view of the future is much more vivid than his view of the past, to which he devotes too much of his book." Martin Nolan

Reporter 38:48 Mr 21 '68 1350w

VON FRISCH, KARL. See Frisch, K. von

VON FÜRER-HAIMENDORF, CHRISTOPH. See Fürer-Haimendorf, C. von

VON HAGEN, VICTOR W. The roads that led to Rome; with phot. by Adolfo Tomeucci. 288p col maps $10.95 World pub.

625.7 Roads. Rome—Antiquities 67-25795

The author of Roman Roads (BRD 1966) "and the organizer of the Roman Road Expedition, takes the reader through . . . the area once under the political and cultural sway of Rome, an area that still bears her traces, from the fringes of the Sahara and the Near Eastern deserts to the banks of the Danube and the Rhine and to Hadrian's wall, from Segovia and Trier to Palmyra and Leptis. . . . He describes the various stages and aspects of the Romanization of the world. . . . [The illustrations] reveal the presence of the Roman heritage as it appears today—cities, temples, aqueducts, thermae, rows of colonnades, houses, and walls." (Library J) Chronology. Bibliography. Index.

"A result of the Roman Road Expedition which over a period of five years explored some 30,000 of the 53,500 miles of roads across Europe, Asia, Africa and Britain, this volume stresses the fact that the greatest monument the

Romans left to succeeding centuries was this network of carefully engineered and constructed highways that crossed mountains, marshes, rivers and ravines. 150 black-and-white plates and 64 color plates enhance the book. Von Hagen begins with a chapter on The Monument, then recounts the roads in Africa, Egypt, the Balkans, Noricum and Germania, Gaul, Britannia, Hispania, each in a separate chapter, then concludes with a summary. A map of the Roman empire showing the roads . . . is itself an impressive piece of evidence. . . . A most valuable work for reference.

Best Sell 27:358 D 1 '67 160w

"The reading is fascinating, and no college library can afford not to have it."

Choice 5:248 Ap '68 140w

"The volume is really a discursive essay illustrated by many striking photographs, a large number of which have little to do with its theme. There is only one map, this of the entire empire and on a very small scale, with only the Via Appia named and few sites indicated. There should have been detailed maps of each part of the empire, so that the reader could follow the routes. There are dozens of errors, contradictions, wrong identifications, suggesting a considerable innocence on the author's part of the bare facts, and even more the niceties, of Roman history. As a result, the book, although instructive in its synthesis of information about Rome's road system, will exasperate or infuriate the knowledgeable reader and mislead or misinform the amateur. It must therefore be used with extreme caution." H. W. Benario

Class World 61:362 Ap '68 170w

Reviewed by F. M. Wassermann

Library J 93:76 Ja 1 '68 150w

TLS p850 Ag 8 '68 400w

Va Q R 44:clxxx autumn '68 250w

VON HOFFMAN, NICHOLAS. We are the people our parents warned us against. 281p il $5.95 Quadrangle bks.

301.43 San Francisco—Social conditions. Social problems. Youth 68-13465

A reporter for The Washington Post "describes what happened in the Haight-Ashbury section of San Francisco during the summer of 1967. . . . He reports that, regardless of their philosophy of life and love, world view and politics, what the Hippies of that time did was deal dope." (Best Sell)

"The colloquial language of the Haight is the speech of the ghetto interspersed with a few expressions from two other fugitive minorities, homosexuals and the underworld. It does not read well. There is a further difficulty that what is said is so emotionally charged that it suffers from incoherence even when one knows the words. . . . The reading of this book was an experience, but not a pleasant one. Most of all one felt a certain helplessness and hopelessness. Most of the victims are prey to their emotions. . . . Is it a problem of health or one that demands strong police action? It seems clear that very little help can be given these people by persons outside the group. Since this is so, I would not recommend this book lightly." W. H. Schweder

Best Sell 28:122 Je 15 '68 480w

Reviewed by Gail Kelly

Book World p4 Jl 21 '68 200w

Christian Century 85:761 Je 5 '68 80w

"Recommended for college and university sociology collections and large public libraries." Jerome Cushman

Library J 93:2683 Jl '68 180w

Reviewed by Robert Stone

N Y Times Bk R p18 O 13 '68 600w

"[This study] is at once objective and passionate, a rare example of journalism that approaches art in one direction and the best of social science in another. To begin with, von Hoffman actually reports the scene. He doesn't try to turn it into a glamorous, sexy light show or a satanic adventure in criminal degeneracy. He won the newsman's classic gamble and penetrated a forbidden world without getting seduced into joining it. . . . [He] describes everything from a naked, scabby, tattoo-covered speed freak to a secret session where LSD is put into capsule form. . . . For von Hoffman, the . . . scene is a somber product of drugs and a youth culture that knows it won't be needed by adult society until its late 20s." R. A. Sokolov

Newsweek 71:92F Je 3 '68 450w

Va Q R 44:clxxiv autumn '68 150w

VON KÁRMÁN, THEODORE. The wind and beyond; Theodore von Kármán; pioneer in aviation and pathfinder in space, by Theodore von Kármán with Lee Edson. 376p pl $10 Little

B or 92 Aerodynamics

67-11227

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Reviewed by T. P. Hughes

Am Hist R 73:1110 Ap '68 550w

Reviewed by Murray Green

Bul Atomic Sci 24:29 S '68 500w

Choice 5:83 Mr '68 300w

Reviewed by R. C. Cowen

Christian Science Monitor p9 Ja 17 '68

700w

Reviewed by I. B. Holley

Science 159:517 F 2 '68 650w

VON MATT, LEONARD. See Matt, L. von

VONNEGUT, KURT. Welcome to the monkey house; a collection of short works, by Kurt Vonnegut, Jr. 298p $5.95 Delacorte press

68-14979

A collection of stories and essays which "ranges in time from pieces written in 1950 to 1968, and in subject from observations on Barnstable Village on Cape Cod to a fictional exchange of letters between the fathers of deceased American and Soviet astronauts. In between, there's some semi-science fiction and . . . a fictional venture into cold war political psychology." (Publishers' Weekly)

Reviewed by Gerard Reedy

America 119:190 S 14 '68 650w

Reviewed by Charles Nicol

Atlantic 222:123 S '68 1400w

"[This] is a revised and augmented collection of [the author's] best short stories (an earlier version, Canary in a Cathouse, was issued in paperback in 1962 and is out of print). The stories come from Atlantic, Collier's, Esquire, Playboy and other slicks, and Vonnegut is uncertain enough of their reception in hardcover to worry them over in an honest, edgy preface. 'The contents of this book are samples of work I sold in order to finance the writing of the novels. Here one finds the fruits of Free Enterprise.' The stories are better than that, though not so good as the novels. The novels are extraordinary. . . . Vonnegut was writing black humor long before anyone gave it that name. . . . [His] writing is relentlessly satiric. . . . The apocalyptic themes of Vonnegut's books . . . have been truncated from the stories in [this collection]. They were stories written to sell . . . and they carry along a burdensome weight of disguise. . . . The best piece in the book is not a story at all, but a review of Random House's new dictionary." Richard Rhodes

Book World p4 Ag 18 '68 1550w

Christian Science Monitor p25 D 5 '68 200w

Reviewed by Sara Blackburn

Nation 207:286 S 23 '68 150w

Reviewed by L. L. King

N Y Times Bk R p4 S 1 '68 1100w

"Vonnegut cultists on campus and other admirers of his full-length works like 'Cat's Cradle' and the uproarious 'God Bless You, Mr. Rosewater' [BRD 1965], will recognize their beloved, giggling fantasist in these minor, free-lance efforts, but only dimly. . . . The real Vonnegut matured as a witty artisan of unreality, a sci-fi gag writer. Probably the best piece in this collection takes place in a grimly sexless future. . . . 'Unready to Wear' is a slick bit of invention that adds a new twist to the old Mind-Body question. . . . There are a few other sprightly cadenzas like 'Report on the Barnhouse Effect', in which a scientist learns to move mountains with his mind, and 'Harrison Bergeron', in which everybody is really equal and those with high IQ's or good looks are chained and uglified by law to make them 'normal,' but far too many of the selections in this pseudobook are mere contrivances or tearjerkers." R. A. Sokolov

Newsweek 72:85 Ag 19 '68 550w

"Spanning the decades from the '40s to A.D. 2158 and beyond, Vonnegut rockets the reader from the old themes of love, identity, loneliness and the poignancy of human loss to stories concerning population explosion, programmed happiness and the emotions of machines. . . . Though Vonnegut is knocking a misplaced sense of values by showing the horrifying results, he is doing it with an irreverent chuckle. . . . Less fascinating than the witty, horrific, social criticisms—bleak utopias all—but often more convincing and moving, are Vonnegut's stories on contemporary themes. . . . These tales forcibly demonstrate humanity at its best—people trying to cope with the painful present instead of escaping into an anesthetized future. . . . Though Vonnegut's performance is occasionally a little slick or a little sloppy, he does succeed in making his literary instrument sing." Time 92:68 Ag 30 '68 600w

VONNEGUT, KURT—Continued

VORGRIMLER, HERBERT, ed. Commentary on the documents of Vatican II, v 1. See Commentary on the documents of Vatican II

VORIS, JACQUELINE VAN. See Van Voris, J.

VOZNESENSKY, ANDREI. Antiworlds, and The fifth ace; poetry; ed. by Patricia Blake and Max Hayward; with a foreword by W. H. Auden; tr. by W. H. Auden [and others]. Bilingual ed rev 296p $7.95 Basic bks; pa $1.95 Doubleday 891.71 67-9366

In the edition of "Antiworlds [BRD 1966], translated by diverse hands, changes are the Russian original and the translation on facing pages, the addition of one poem, 'Sketch for a Poem,' and the seven-poem The Fifth Ace, translated by Stanley Kunitz and Vera Dunham from the 1966 Russian collection, An Achilles Heart." (Choice)

"Remains one of the best English language editions."

Choice 4:1122 D '67 60w

"This book represents a true achievement in the art of translation, and should be welcomed as another intercultural bridge between the English- and the Russian-speaking societies. In the person of Andrei Voznesensky, the reader is happy furthermore to discover a poet who has escaped the straightjacket of Soviet dogmatism and who belongs in the international fraternity of free spirits. . . . [His] imagery is often jolting in its suddenness and his voice is strident with indignation, and both these properties have survived in the English text." Joseph Bram

Library J 93:558 F 1 '68 170w

VRIES, LEONARD DE, comp. Little wide-awake; an anthology from Victorian children's books and periodicals in the collection of Anne and Fernand G. Renier. 240p il col il $8.95 World pub.

820.8 Poetry—Collections—Juvenile literature 67-23362

A collection of some of the poetry which appeared in books and periodicals for children during the nineteenth century.

"With a title taken from an illustrated magazine for children published between 1875 and 1892, this fascinating book offers a selection made from one of the largest private collections of Victorian children's books and periodicals. Predominating are excerpts from stories and verse that instruct . . . evangelically and melodramatically. Very evident are the sentimentality and the exaggeration—in fun as well as in sadness—that were characteristic of the Victorian age." R. H. V.

Horn Bk 44:198 Ap '68 150w

"[This anthology is] so stunning and valuable as entertainment and as a social document that it cannot be ignored by anyone interested in Victoriana, in children or, simply, in attractive books. . . . When the children were not reading stories of boys horribly dying from the bites of rabid dogs, they were being asked if they were ready to meet Jesus, having nightmares to punish them for being jealous of the new baby, and being told their sins would find them out. There are, of course, lighter moments, even some Rhymes with Reason. . . . Recommended to everyone over the age of 12; those younger will like the marvelous illustrations and, trained on television, may not even notice the gruesome bits." Carolyn Heilbrun

N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p58 N 5 '67 150w [YA]

"Of interest and importance to historians of children's literature and to students of Victorian culture. Parents who see the book will mainly feel relieved that this sort of thing is no longer being printed. . . . One's heart goes out to the boys and girls who had to read the inane and frightening stories and poems that the anthology represents." Janet Malcolm

New Yorker 43:157 D 16 '67 170w

VRIEZEN, TH. C. The religion of ancient Israel [tr. by Hubert Hoskins]. 328p pl $7.50 Westminster press

296.09 Judaism—History 67-22703

The author presents a 'picture of the development of Israelite religion in the setting of ancient Near Eastern culture. [He] deals with the religion of about 1000 B.C. before he moves back to the patriarchal period or discusses the essential nature of the religion of Yahwism. He then moves forward to the victory of Yahwism, religion under the monarchy, the great prophets, reformation and the downfall of the state, regeneration and recovery, centralization and disintegration." (TLS) Indexes of authors, of gods, of persons of places and of subjects, first published in Dutch under the title De Godsdienst van Israël.

"Vriezen's excellent treatment of religion in the Old Testament period gives us a different view from that of [H.] Ringgren's admirable Israelite Religion. . . . Vriezen is a competent and candid scholar, acknowledging complexities and fuzzy lines of demarcation. But he looks for an 'orthodoxy' that permits identification of the heterodox—i.e. he does not quite see the difference between writing about the religion of Israel and writing about the theology of the Old Testament. Ringgren sees that difference, and its implications are among the highest priority items on the agenda of OT scholarship. Vriezen's book will be more easily digested by undergraduates than Ringgren's; both should be on every recommended reading list."

Choice 5:1152 N '68 210w

"[By a] Dutch professor, who is widely known for his work on the theology of the Old Testament, [this] rarely presents original views, though it is marked throughout by independence of judgment. . . . The post-exilic period deserves fuller treatment than it receives, but as a whole the volume presents a judicious and balanced view of Israelite religion of immense value to student and scholar. The scholar will be especially grateful for the thirty-two pages of notes at the end of the book, with their abundant references to modern literature. . . . Few would agree with everything in the book, but few would dispute that the student will find here an excellent and up-to-date treatment of the nature and growth of Israelite religion in the light of our present sources of knowledge. The translator has done his work well, and, unlike the original Dutch edition, the text of this volume—though not the notes—is excellently indexed."

TLS p65 Ja 18 '68 550w

VROMAN, LEO. Blood; pub. for the Am. mus. of natural history. 178p il $4.95 Natural hist. press

612 Blood 67-12892

From his "descriptions of the coagulation process including. . . examples, and accounts of his own work [the author leads the reader] through a discussion of proteins, particularly the blood proteins. [He gives] descriptions of the types and functions of blood cells, blood types, common blood tests (cell counts, hematocrit antigen-antibody reactions, and so on). [He] concludes the book with a discussion of the functions of blood as a tissue." (Library J) Index.

"This short treatise . . . would be best appreciated by readers who have an elementary knowledge of science and scientific terms. Vroman probably meant it for popular use as there is no listing of literature consulted. It could be used as supplementary reading for high school students with some biological background or college freshmen who are taking general biology. The material covered is recent, clearly written, and fairly comprehensive. The appendix contains a topical history of significant discoveries in blood chemistry. . . . Vroman's attempt to personify his subject matter could have been omitted as well as most of the illustrations."

Choice 5:79 Mr '68 90w [YA]

"Based upon years of what must certainly have been both productive and provocative research with blood, [the author, a] research biochemist at Brooklyn Veteran's Hospital, has written an informative yet wholly entertaining book. . . . A brief appendix refers the more serious reader to further sources of information. Numerous sketches add clarity, interest, and humor. The book is factually and enjoyably worthwhile." J. J. Taylor
Library J 92:2422 Je 15 '67 120w

"Personal, candid, self-revealing, self-illustrated with line drawings that are usually rather droll, brilliantly clear on more than one major topic, this small book is a find. . . . It begins with as open an account of the life of a graduate student as one can easily find; it sums up clinical research and the patients whose travail lies behind it; it sensibly connects the realm of laboratory hardware with that of molecular structure; it handles number and magnitude with a deft mix of sharpness and approximation. One pays a small price; Vroman is so eloquent and so engaged a writer that he sometimes produces metaphor too strong for the occasion, more crimson than blood. That price is worth paying. His science draws the reader in and his attitude wins him." Philip and Phyllis Morrison
Sci Am 217:146 D '67 190w

VROOM, VICTOR H., ed. Methods of organizational research. 211p $3.95 Univ. of Pittsburgh press

301.18 Associations—Research 67-11463

"Essays dealing specifically with methodology in organizational research [present] alternative points of view in juxtaposition for comparison. Each effort is an outgrowth of a seminar, following which a . . . social scientist from each of the four small groups wrote a paper to present his perspective on the issues." (Choice) Contributors are Karl E. Weick, Louis B. Barnes, Tom Burns, and Thornton B. Roby. Chapter bibliographies.

"These [four] summaries are framed in ways which make them directly complementary to [J. D. Thompson's Organizations in Action, BRD 1968], and, if mastered, would add greatly to the rigor and usefulness of studies in public organizations. . . . Together these books suggest a set of concepts and variables and methods of examining them which could be of great aid to political scientists interested in moving the study of public organizations off the conceptual 'dead center' we now seem to be inhabiting. . . . Each paper, while meant to review and familiarize other students of organization, is so spare a summary of a large area that inevitably the reader feels he could have gained a good deal more if he were already familiar with the literature being reviewed." Todd La Porte
Am Pol Sci R 62:246 Mr '68 600w

"Weick writes of the uses, advantages, and hazards of laboratory experiments. The maturing of this methodology is reflected in his analytic rather than contentious approach. . . . Barnes' discussion of field experiments is oddly pedestrian in view of the relative novelty of the method and the relative void of prior creative and insightful treatments. . . . Burns' paper is first-rate, a prime contribution to the comparative study of organizations. It is also good fun to read, for there is a wry humor, a breadth of view, and an inventive mind at work. . . . [Roby's paper] is a concise, clear, and practical statement on the uses and abuses of computer simulation." S. E. Seashore
Am Soc R 33:133 F '68 800w

"The strength of [these] presentations lies in the defining and clarifying of the basic assumptions comprised in the methods. The reader's conceivable applications are stimulated by being cognizant of the crucial dimensions of organizational research and specific examples included in this volume." Choice 4:1020 N '67 120w

UARNET, JEAN, jt. auth. How to ski the new French way. See Joubert, G.

VRYONIS, SPEROS. Byzantium and Europe [by] Speros Vryonis, Jr. 216p il col il maps $5.50 Harcourt

949.6 Byzantine Empire 67-11706

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Reviewed by J. E. Rexine
Am Hist R 73:1491 Je '68 500w

Reviewed by J. E. Seaver
Class World 61:415 Jl 22 '68 350w

Reviewed by D. M. Nicol
Engl Hist R 83:280 O '68 480w

W

WABER, BERNARD. An anteater named Arthur. 46p il $3.25 Houghton

Anteaters—Stories 67-20374

Arthur's mother describes Arthur who "wears boy clothing, has a debris-ridden room like a boy, and on his way to school has to make repeated trips back to his house for forgotten items—like any boy. But Arthur is definitely an anteater. Indeed he is troubled by the designation and complains to his mother that other animals are not called by what they eat." (Book World) "Grades one to three." (Library J)

"Mr. Waber has wisely turned away from his widely praised creation of Lyle the crocodile after having milked the basic anthropomorphism of the idea beyond all artistic justification. His new creation is an inspired one, and to note that its tone and format are distinctly reminiscent of the wonderful Little Bear books by Else Minarik and Maurice Sendak is not to diminish its qualities of warmth and humor." Richard Kluger
Book World pt 2, p6 (children's issue)
N 5 '67 200w

Christian Science Monitor pB3 N 2 '67 50w

Horn Bk 44:170 Ap '68 100w

Reviewed by Jessica McDaniel
Library J 92:4607 D 15 '67 120w

"Because Mr. Waber doesn't try to relate to reality by plausible explanations, we accept the incredible nonchalantly. Of course this is the way an anteater dresses, looks, and talks. Mr. Waber the text-writer has understood Mr. Waber the illustrator—a dandy singular achievement." Eve Merriam
N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p70 N 5 '67 80w

"Children and mothers will recognize themselves in this book, which casually pokes fun at the way things are but also suggests, in the easy and good-humored relationship that exists between mother and son, and in the air of comfort and contentment that prevails in the household, that they really aren't so bad." Janet Malcolm
New Yorker 43:157 D 16 '67 350w

Reviewed by Zena Sutherland
Sat R 50:40 N 11 '67 90w

WADDELL, D. A. G. The West Indies & the Guianas. 149p $4.95; pa $1.95 Prentice-Hall
972.9 West Indies, Guiana 67-18702

A senior lecturer in history at the University of Edinburgh discusses the history of the area and "explores the influence of the past in the continuing problems of overpopulation and underemployment, poverty amid rising expectations, unsettled metropolitan relationships, and uncertain national identities." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

"[Professor Waddell] has examined the history and present problems of some twenty-three separate political units still affected by their Spanish, British, French, Dutch, and United States backgrounds and connections. This is not an easy task since . . . this territorial geographical expression is so filled with dissimilarities of every type that a comprehensive study, especially of this brief nature, cannot hope to do justice to the subject. Yet Waddell has presented an essay that is thoughtful, at times philosophical, and always within his understanding. . . . Throughout the book optimism is tempered considerably by the author's deep understanding. The facts are here, and they are presented in a straightforward fashion without waste of words. This is a valuable addition to the series 'The Modern Nations in Historical Perspective.'" A. C. Wilgus
Am Hist R 73:631 D '67 500w

"[The author] limits himself to those 'territories that remained colonies until the second half of the twentieth century.' . . . [This volume] furnishes a quick (if less than profound) 'overall' view."

Choice 5:860 S '68 170w

WADDINGTON, MIRIAM. The glass trumpet. 96p $4.50 Oxford

811

66-31488

A collection of poems.

"Reviewing some poets is like trying to pick up a very heavy spherical sandbag—you just don't know where to get hold of it. In the end you reach the obvious conclusion that anywhere will do. . . . Stylistically [this poet] is sufficiently various to maintain reader interest, though the poetic texture is occasionally baffling. . . . There's plenty of variety . . . poems about children, nights on Skid Row, Toronto-scapes (what a verbal haul this dreary city has garnered!), Hart Crane, the Balkans, birth-days and looking at paintings." Alan Pearson
Canadian Forum 47:68 Je '67 490w

"The few moments of quality in this collection (the second half of #2 in Prairie Thoughts; the opening lines of 'Goodbye Song'; the ending of Children's Coloured Flags; the last stanza of 'The Gardeners') reveal how faulty most of the poems really are. The craft appears hurried, the sentiments compromising in their banality. Whole sections of poems are unconvincing and even soporific. The love poems and the city poems are more often than not exercises in descriptive romantic fantasy which neither probe nor clarify. Even where the rhythms are good and images stand out, the overall effect is excess."

Choice 4:1247 Ja '68 110w

Reviewed by Marvin Bell

Poetry 111:326 F '68 280w

WAELDER, ROBERT. Progress and revolution; a study of the issues of our age. 372p $7 Int. univs. press

901.94 Civilization, Modern

66-28501

The author discusses the trends in "scientific and technological progress and moral progress [which] have developed sometimes in the form of evolution, sometimes in the form of revolution. . . . [He] analyzes power, the structure of different governments, the role of violence, the influence of ideas, as well as the conditions for revolution. He focuses . . . on the contemporary world situation, where the development of powerful tools of coercion has become dangerous in the . . . war of political ideologies. The last section of the book . . . is devoted to the predicament of the developed countries, of the Western democracies, of the Communist countries, and of the 'third world.'" (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Name index.

"A very far-reaching series of loosely connected essays on the nature of change in the contemporary world by a Philadelphia psychoanalyst . . . [Waelder is] concerned with drawing upon psychoanalytic and political commentary. . . . [He writes] more from the vantage of the unattached intellectual than that of the academic scholar. His work is . . . incisive and tough-minded, . . . original, interesting, and worthy of attention."

Choice 4:876 O '67 140w

"The late Robert Waelder . . . knew very well how to use concepts from psychology in the interpretation of politics. . . . [His thesis is that there is a] moral and intellectual sickness that pervades the West [accompanied by] disorders of reasoning, failures to apply the reality principle, and willingness to justify force against democratic and nontotalitarian governments. . . . [This book] deserves to be placed on the shelves of political scientists. . . . [It is] among the very few works in the literature that use psychiatric insights effectively for purposes of political analysis. . . . The Senate Foreign Relations Committee might well ponder this book. [Dr. Waelder] provides a framework for analysis that may help both Senate and administration find a humility based on adequate knowledge of themselves in the world we all face. Psychoanalysts and psychiatrists should read [it] to see how an intelligent psychoanalyst has applied his tools to the subject matter of politics." M. A. Kaplan
World Pol 20:694 Jl '68 5000w

WAGATSUMA, HIROSHI, jt. auth. Japan's invisible race. See De Vos, G.

WAGENKNECHT, EDWARD. John Greenleaf Whittier; a portrait in paradox. 262p $6.50 Oxford

811 Whittier, John Greenleaf

67-20407

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Reviewed by H. H. Clark

Am Lit 40:240 My '68 380w

Choice 4:1384 F '68 70w

Reviewed by Lewis Leary

New Eng Q 41:122 Mr '68 460w

WAGENKNECHT, EDWARD. Mark Twain; the man and his work; with a commentary on Mark Twain criticism and scholarship since 1960. 3d ed 302p $4.95 Univ. of Okla. press
B or 92 Clemens, Samuel Langhorne 67-15630

This edition contains a new chapter "intended to point out the 'directions in which scholarship [on Mark Twain] has traveled' during the period 'and to indicate the sources that must be consulted to bring the records up to date.'" (Am Lit) Bibliography. Index. For first and second editions see BRD 1935 and 1961 respectively.

Am Lit 39:440 N '67 60w

"Wagenknecht gives us much more than the usual new edition. . . . [We get] the mature reflections of a sane critic who can reconsider and reevaluate without dwelling on the picaresque. The result is more important than just another book on Mark Twain. With a mellowness that pervades the whole volume, Wagenknecht looks back without anger at the various positions held by well-known and not so well-known scholars and critics and puts these into a balanced perspective. . . . It is good to have this new edition, in reality a new book based on the 1935 and 1961 editions; it should prove valuable to the scholar, the beginning student, and the general reader."

Choice 4:1247 Ja '68 150w

WAGENKNECHT, EDWARD. The personality of Chaucer. 155p $5 Univ. of Okla. press

821 Chaucer, Geoffrey

67-24621

This is a biography of Chaucer "based almost exclusively on his literary works." (Library J) Index.

"Wagenknecht's method is synthetic, producing an odd mixture of current and past thinking and scholarship, genial speculation, and personal reminiscence. This is an amiable but serious book, which I recommend for libraries above the junior high school level." D. K. Fry

Library J 93:2854 Ag '68 110w

"[Wagenknecht's] lack of rigour, and the many misprints in his quotations . . . should not obscure either the shrewdness or the touch of originality in this book meant for the general reader. It gives us a Chaucer who is balanced, humorous, worldly, Christian." Derek Brewer

New Statesman 76:808 D 6 '68 80w

"Mr Wagenknecht maintains throughout, despite his warmth and humanity, a marvelous balance in his appreciation of Chaucer. One feels that he is aware of the greatness of the poet, but at the same time cannot pretend that the very highest reaches of poetry were within Chaucer's scope. . . . A book so rich in ideas, so profound in appreciation as this one cannot be summarized." Bernard Grebanier
Sat R 51:28 Je 29 '68 1300w

WAGER, WALTER, ed. The playwrights speak: with an introd. by Harold Clurman. 290p $6 Delacorte press

809.2 Dramatists. Drama—History and criticism 67-17162

The "present editor of Playbill and former editor of Show has . . . edited this book [of interviews] about the techniques, viewpoints, evaluations of 11 contemporary dramatists: Arthur Miller, Edward Albee, Friedrich Dürrenmatt, John Osborne, William Inge, Eugene Ionesco, Harold Pinter, Peter Weiss, Tennessee Williams, John Arden, and Arnold Wesker." (Library J) Some of the interviews have previously appeared in such publications as Tulane Drama Review, Horizon and Siena College's Beverwyck.

"If your time is limited skip the book but read the twenty-one page introduction. . . . No doubt many a dull conversation will be enlivened by quoting—both in and out of context—some of the penetrating, provocative and startling comments found in this collection." Sister M. Gregory

Best Sell 27:376 D 15 '67 500w

"Question-answer interviews record valuable material about the working methods, views on theatre, aims, aspirations, and so on, of these playwrights. Each interview is preceded by a brief biographical sketch which adds immeasurably to the research value of the book. Harold Clurman has written an introduction which, in itself, is a concise history of 20th Century drama. The book should be worthwhile reading for anyone interested in the theater of today but it is particularly useful for students of the drama." Paul Myers

Library J 92:2941 S 1 '67 120w

"A clue to the inadequacy and lack of fundamental seriousness of [these interviews] can be found in the first paragraph of [Wager's] preface. The eleven dramatists, he writes, 'have all contributed something significant and distinctive to the world of theater and must be numbered among the men whose dramas are part of the standard—the basis for comparison.' Apart from the fact that two of the eleven—William Inge and Arnold Wesker—have no such assured position as major dramatists, that another—Peter Weiss—has only one secure accomplishment and two others—Arthur Miller and Edward Albee—have in recent years been subtracting from the standard, the statement betrays a quality of journalistic and sentimental appreciation against which Mr. Wager's earnest labors and good intentions have little chance of prevailing. . . . The book is at least as full of absurd irrelevancies about the dramatists' personal lives . . . as it is about the art of drama and its vicissitudes." Richard Gilman

N Y Times Bk R p36 N 12 '67 900w

WAGGONER, HYATT H. American poets; from the Puritans to the present. 740p $8.50 Houghton

811 American poetry—History and criticism 66-14759

This study is an "attempt to rid Americans of their embarrassment in the presence of Emerson. It . . . demonstrates how poet after American poet . . . has come to conclusions that Emerson anticipated. It argues that Emerson's innocence, far from being naive, far from being a refusal to face the facts of experience, was in reality a radical innocence, a viewpoint enabling and encouraging the poet to become a 'transparent eyeball,' open to experience, letting all the 'tides of Being' flow through him." (Christian Science Monitor). Appendix: A note on Whitman's mysticism. Bibliography. Index.

"In his reading of some 60 American poets from our earliest, Anne Bradstreet, to our latest, Robert Creeley, Robert Kelly, Denise Levertov, Professor Waggoner uses Emerson as the lens of vision. . . . Emerson, Whitman and Dickinson are in Professor Waggoner's eyes 'the three great American poets of the nineteenth century.' . . . As he moves toward the present, past Robinson, Frost, Sandburg, Wallace Stevens, Ezra Pound, E. E. Cummings, Theodore Roethke, Professor Waggoner's preoccupations become clearer and clearer. His overriding concern is the poet's philosophy. . . . He is interested in values. . . . What has been offered is no less than a major reassessment of American poetry." Victor Howes

Christian Science Monitor p13 Ap 25 '68 700w

Va Q R 44:cvi:ii summer '68 100w

"[The] book is dominated by one idea—'Emerson's centrality to our poetry.' This idea assumes so rigid and pronounced a pattern in Waggoner's elaborate treatment of American poetry that his study . . . suffers from those distortions which can result when diverse poets are considered from a singular point of view. . . . Waggoner wants to discover what is 'American about American poetry' and his conclusion is that the most characteristically indigenous poems . . . cannot be understood except in religious terms. . . . Few would argue with Waggoner's emphasis upon the religious quality of some of America's greatest poems, but this judgment scarcely illuminates the poems themselves. . . . Judgments abound in American Poets; intensive interpretation is rare. . . . For Waggoner is an intelligent and sensitive critic; but in too many instances the reader feels that he has not been deeply challenged" T. L. Gross

Yale R 57:615 summer '68 1300w

WAGLEY, CHARLES. The Latin American tradition; essays on the unity and the diversity of Latin American culture. 242p $6.75 Columbia univ. press.

918 Latin America—Civilization. Civilization, American 67-30968

A "professor of anthropology and director of the Institute of Latin American Studies at Columbia [surveys] . . . research efforts on Latin American culture by sociologists and anthropologists . . . through a series of papers and essays which he wrote between 1951 and 1964. Writing on such . . . subjects as the dilemma of the middle class and a typology of Latin American subcultures, he attempts to identify traditional patterns of thought and behavior which have persisted in the face of . . . economic and social changes; he then expands this frame of reference to describe social distinctions and kinship patterns within . . . Latin American social strata." (Library J) Index.

"The value of the book lies in the fact that it brings together in a single volume and reveals the views of a respected authority on various aspects of Latin American culture and society, notably on the peasant; the middle class; social, race, and kinship patterns. . . . Since the papers were originally prepared for diverse audiences—for scholarly meetings as well as for gatherings of nonspecialists—the appeal of the pieces varies, and there is some overlapping; but all are written with clarity and perception."

Choice 5:1055 O '68 130w

"Mr. Wagley's purpose is to develop a conceptual framework, or what he terms 'the universal or common denominator in Latin American culture,' for the interested social scientist or potential researcher. . . . He also provides excellent reference material on background studies and offers an inventory of future research needs. Recommended for academic and large public libraries." B. J. Brewster

Library J 93:1013 Mr 1 '68 240w

"One of these [papers] was originally prepared for the Foreign Service Institute of the United States and used in the training of overseas staff. . . . It deals with all kinds of day-to-day matters, generally about how to behave to the Latins and how to deal with them and understand their ways. . . . The next three essays are more academic and the terminology is that of the specialist. . . . In this trio the author describes how the anthropologist has tried to typify the various strata of society from the pure Indian upwards. . . . Where Professor Wagley is particularly interesting and well informed is in tracing the attempt in Brazil to make a middle class conscious of its existence. . . . This is an interesting collection of papers by a sympathetic perspicacious and serious scholar and each essay, even the popular ones, merits thoughtful consideration."

TLS p1274 N 14 '68 900w

WAGNER, GEOFFREY. On the wisdom of words. 345p $6.75; pa $3.50 Van Nostrand

422 English language. Semantics 68-19371

Drawing on "linguistics and the philosophy of language, as well as general semantics, the author divides his study into two parts, 'apparent' or sign language, and 'transparent' or symbolic language. Some of his . . . [observations] in the first part have to do with gestures and with the ritual communications of daily life. . . . The second part studies inferences, contexts, classification, and taboo—with an . . . afterword on euphemisms." (Publisher's note)

"Today the supposed decline and fall of language is still bewailed in intense, if limited, circles. Not that Geoffrey Wagner's fetching study of words in turmoil is such a lament. . . . Yet, in reading this book, one cannot escape the feeling that, on the whole, the author finds the wild wheeling and dealing going on within the English language an exciting and not necessarily condemnable process. He describes such changes with too much relish and humor to be actually pessimistic over the effect. . . . As a review of what is happening to English in several of the most important fields of word-use this book can be warmly recommended." J. G. Harrison

Christian Science Monitor p10 Je 4 '68 450w

WAGNER, GEOFFREY—Continued

"Wagner [is] an urbane professor who was reared in England and now teaches at New York's City College. . . . Teachers of English and general semantics will admire his ability to apply British and metropolitan American concepts of literature to a development of general semantics. His principal theme is that the use of words has a profound ethical significance. He sees Orwellian trends in today's misuse of language in politics. In repeated opposition to Marshall McLuhan he cites such faults as confusion of cause and effect. Some of his assertions of value judgment lack explanation and taboos are amply illustrated in four-letter words. However, this is not a pedantic book but a valuable source for English language lecturers and mature readers." R. S. Rutherford

Library J 93:995 Mr 1 '68 140w

WAGNER, GEOFFREY. The sands of valor.
434p $6.95 Knopf

67-11134

"In the blazing heat of the North African desert a British tank regiment fights a desperate combat against the superior forces of General Erwin Rommel's Afrika Korps. It is also the final stand for chivalry, with both sides clinging to the last vestiges of honor in modern war. For the men of this regiment the battle proves a catalyst; Major Edward Vickrey, the 'old soldier' par excellence, wracked and weakened by his wife's misunderstandings; Tupe Morgensen, who finds the desert a perfect theater for fighting a private war; Roger Weingarten, a middle-age American lawyer with his own cause; the sensitive, introspective Mark Yures, who achieves maturity before his time; Luke Kent, their ascetic commander; and Cuddy Blakely, a young officer who passes a lifetime on the desert and learns what courage really is." (Publisher's note)

"Collectors of that curiosity, metaphysical historical fiction, should invest in this novel. . . . Despite length Wagner writes with exact, dry clarity. One of the best descriptions of a tank battle is included in this no-nonsense British tale."

Choice 4:1384 F '68 100w

"The hazards of desert warfare (heat, sand, boredom, battle fatigue, and the German 88's) are described with typical British understatement. The characters, mostly upper-class public school types, are well drawn, but the average reader will not easily identify himself with them. He will, for instance, find it hard to understand the sense of guilt felt by the central character as he inadvertently reads a letter written by his wife to one of his fellow officers. Another barrier for the American reader is the constant use of British army lingo. Recommended for inclusive fiction collections only." W. P. Vander Linden

Library J 92:1033 Mr 1 '67 100w

"This complex, artful, and exciting novel is notable for several reasons. It is an engrossing narrative told by an expert storyteller. It is an interesting account of the tactics and terrors of tank warfare. It is a psychologically astute exploration of the nature and sources of courage. . . . All these factors insure that The Sands of Valor is a considerable achievement. But several built-in problems of war fiction were too difficult for Mr. Wagner to solve. The most important is dialogue. Mr. Wagner spares us most of the indecencies of soldier talk, but in his desire for authenticity he quotes quantities of absolutely incomprehensible conversation." Orville Prescott

Sat R 50:32 Mr 25 '67 700w

"Perhaps Mr. Wagner heaps rather too much on to his plate: all those officers with their public-school-country-gentleman background, their nerves screwed up, their brief wild rutting-seasons in Cairo or Alex, their private meditations-in-flashback—they take a deal of handling, make large demands on an author's creative stamina. It is not surprising therefore to find Mr. Wagner's imagination wilting at times. When this happens the book becomes melodramatic and stagey. . . . But when Mr. Wagner looks at his characters from the outside, and keeps clear of interior probings—as for example in his portrait of the raffish, fearless, over-age pirate Tupe Morgensen—he can compel and fascinate."

TLS p824 S 14 '67 380w

WAGNER, HENRY RAUP. The life and writings of Bartolomé de las Casas, by Henry Raup Wagner with the collaboration of Helen Rand Parish. 310p $12.50 Univ. of N.Mex. press

B or 92 Casas, Bartolomé de las, Bp. 66-29983

A biography of the priest who was a protector of the Indians in New Spain for over half a century. He fought against the encomiendas and wrote The General History of the Indies and other works. Index.

"This will be the definitive life of Casas, at least for some years. It is the labor of love of a genial scholar who devoted the last 35 years of his life to studying the Spanish conquest of America. (Despite the title, it is in no sense a book of his writings, but it contains much material about them.) . . . Besides being a historian, Wagner (d. 1957) was an outstanding bibliophile and bibliographer. His account of the many published and unpublished works of Casas constitutes perhaps the most valuable part of this volume." E. K. Culhane

America 117:281 S 16 '67 470w

Reviewed by Woodrow Borah

Am Hist R 73:1268 Ap '68 600w

"Wagner made a fetish of working only from primary sources because he felt modern writers 'used secondary sources and continued to copy old errors as if they had not been exposed.' Wagner's reluctance to benefit from the analyses of Lewis Hanke, in particular, reduces the value of this volume. . . . Scholars will dispute some of Wagner's interpretations; but they will appreciate his use of new evidence, his facility at textual analysis, his 'Narrative and Critical Catalogue of Casas' Writings,' and generally, his attempt to place the Bishop's career and writings in judicious balance, especially during his later years. The author's biographical approach sets his work apart from the numerous recent efforts to establish Casas' intellectual milieu. . . . This [is a] personal and beautifully produced book. Copious notes and splendid index."

Choice 4:1308 Ja '68 210w

WAHLÖÖ, PER, jt. auth. Roseanna. See Sjöwall, M.

WAIFE-GOLDBERG, MARIE. My father, Sholom Aleichem. 333p pl $7.50 Simon & Schuster

B or 92 Rabinowitz, Shalom 68-1.011

A biography of the Jewish writer whose background "was the Jewish settlements in pre-World War I Russia. Tevye of Fiddler on the Roof"—the musical made from Sholom Aleichem stories—was the family's summer milkman, in a prosperous interlude. Though a great writer and a celebrity wherever people had read his tales Sholom Aleichem had no hard knack for business, and life was not easy for his family, especially when they had to live in exile from Russia." (Publishers' Weekly) Works of Sholom Aleichem in English translation. Index.

Reviewed by Toby Stein

America 118:419 Mr 30 '68 700w

Reviewed by Phoebe Adams

Atlantic 221:136 Ap '68 100w

"A storybook manner appropriate to the early career of success amid hardships grows into a restrained and moving narrative of the maturer years of the folk writer who shared both the vicissitudes and strong family solidarity of his people. . . . Social history and literary analysis are definitely just setting and illustration in this essentially singleminded biographical tribute to a great man. . . . The detail in some parts of this generally pleasing book seems excessive, but its warmth and color and readability invite us to see for ourselves, at least in translation, the universality and humanity of Sholom Aleichem's pictures of an unfamiliar culture." Sister M. A. Weinig

Best Sell 27:477 Mr 15 '68 380w

Reviewed by I. B. Singer

Book World p4 Mr 17 '68 800w

Reviewed by M. J. Bandler

Christian Science Monitor p9 Ap 20 '68 800w

"The youngest daughter of the remarkable Yiddish author . . . sensitively reveals both the family man and the literary personality. Sholom Aleichem shared with such beloved characters as Menachem Mendel and Tevye, the Dairyman, an eternal optimism and faith in a brighter tomorrow. Aleichem, who captured sad humor in the incongruity that God's Chosen People should be the most woeful on earth, was himself driven from Russia by the pogroms to become the victim of economic deprivation in Europe and America. Yet he never stopped writing the tales which brought joy to the ordinary man whose struggle to maintain hope and dignity amidst suffering he so poignantly described. Highly recommended for public and academic libraries." Janet Freedman

Library J 93:544 F 1 '68 120w

"Mrs. Goldberg has re-created Sholom Aleichem in all his depth, humor and compassion. . . . Readers of Sholom Aleichem who know little about the author will find that the portrait emerging from the memoir may very well fit preconceptions based upon the fiction. For the empathy of the people of Kasrilevke (Sholom Aleichem's mythical Jewish Everytown), their optimism, love of life and abhorrence of violence are shared by Sholom Aleichem himself." Curt Leviant
Nation 206:833 Je 24 '68 1400w

"[This memoir] is a work of narrow range but large implication. . . . Precisely because his is not now an influential or fashionable figure, Sholom Aleichem (1859-1916) provides an example to be seriously considered. . . . And toward this end his daughter's memoir provides some valuable material. Her book is full of biographical nuggets about Sholom Aleichem as writer, father, Jewish spokesman and, above all, a marvelously warm and glowing man, as unpretentious in his cultivated goodness as many of our later literary heroes in their programmed 'badness.' Mrs. Goldberg writes simply, sometimes naively; . . . she is not a sufficiently stringent critic; and her book is not economical enough for the ordinary reader. What matters, however, is the sense of Sholom Aleichem that slowly emerges from her recollections. And if she isn't very good at maintaining a taut narrative line, she does have a gift for sharp little vignettes displaying Sholom Aleichem at characteristic moments." Irving Howe

N Y Times Bk R p5 Mr 31 '68 1300w

New Yorker 44:184 Ap 13 '68 100w

Reviewed by Maurice Samuel
Sat R 51:34 Mr 16 '68 1350w

WAINWRIGHT, NICHOLAS B., ed. A Philadelphia perspective. See Fisher, S. G.

WAKEFIELD, DAN. Supernation at peace and war; being certain observations, depositions, testimonies, and graffiti gathered on a one-man fact-and-fantasy-finding tour of the most powerful nation in the world. 252p $5.95 Little

917.3 U.S.—Civilization. Public opinion 68-24098

The author of Island in the City (BRD 1959) "examines three segments of American society as divided by the issue of Vietnam abroad and socioeconomic problems at home—those engaged in protest and rebellion, those who are uncaring or confused or merely satisfied with life as usual, and those engaged in the variegated missions that pertain to running the war, the economy and the government." (Publisher's note) Part of this book was first published in Atlantic.

Reviewed by Richard Boeth
Book World p4 Je 23 '68 800w

Reviewed by Florence Casey
Christian Science Monitor p11 Je 13 '68 550w

"Wakefield, an honorable and exact reporter, toured America looking for 'where it's happening.' His search was focused by the fact that . . . the two issues he considered important were Vietnam and the internal revolt of Negroes and youth. . . . [He] does a good deal of reasonable and balanced editorializing. [He] gives a lot of evidence that the society is trying to do something about the alarms, and disorders. But in the quietest way possible he finally exposes what he really thinks about all this. . . . In a brief appendix he gives a quotation that our world is in 'the last stages of the insanity which will soon finish it.' This eschatological shriek is evidently what he wanted to say. But the observed material that precedes it does not at all justify the shriek. Consider the material; forget the shriek." David Cort

Commonweal 88:474 Je 12 '68 800w

"Wakefield, while angry and concerned, uses quiet, 'cool' language. . . . His book is based on interviews with solid middle-class citizens, hippies, minority race members, veterans, draft-dodging refugees in Canada, and others. Their expressions have distinctive and representative impact. Their demand is that America get out of Vietnam and clean up domestic strife at home. . . . [The book is] well written, and public and college libraries will find [it] representative of strong current public opinion." Marco Thorne
Library J 93:2666 J1 '68 120w

"The author, an independent commentator-reporter, bases much of his findings on personal contacts and on-the-scene observations. Although many of his conclusions are perceptive, readers may be left with the feeling that his contacts were too few and the subject too vast. But the book will appeal to young people because of its brevity, currency and relevancy." Larissa Rulofson
Library J 93:2743 J1 '68 100w [YA]

Nation 207:507 N 11 '68 30w

Reviewed by Jeffrey Hart
Nat R 20:755 J1 30 '68 100w

"[This book] began life as a superstory in the Atlantic, filling nearly all of one issue. A subjective oddity is that in the Atlantic, it seemed weighty and formidable. . . . But in hard cover, the text seems brief and often irritatingly superficial. . . . Wakefield is an incurable essayist. He takes the sting out of his reporting chapters with neatly balanced explanations of the self-evident. . . . What reporting there is seems true enough, though Wakefield's modest conclusions will startle few ordinarily demanding readers."

Time 91:96 Je 14 '68 500w

WALDEN, AMELIA ELIZABETH. The spy who talked too much. 204p $3.75 Westminster press

68-10318

A novel of international intrigue by the author of My Sister Mike and Palomino Girl (both BRD 1957). "When the CIA suspects foul play in Arabia, Don Lukas is assigned to convince Kim Farida, former courier for a Middle-Eastern underground group and now an American citizen and famous international courturiere to help uncover the plot. Reluctant to become involved, Kim goes to Turkey followed by Lukas and his assistant. Caught between loyalties, Kim renews her previous contacts and learns that a revolution is being planned to gain control of Kuwaiti oil. . . . Grades eight to ten." (Library J)

"Style and content of this novel will absorb a reader's interest until the entire story is finished."

Best Sell 28:115 Je 1 '68 120w

"The convolutions of the plot resemble the streets of Al Kuwait, as do the mental gymnastics of the heroine as she fights to gain her freedom from a past she thought she left behind as a little girl. The ruthlessness of the spying game is touched upon with romance and the flavor of the Middle East. Much is oversimplified, of course, but the story holds its own against the unfamiliarities of its background and the background itself is rendered with the needed blend of romanticism and realism." John Allen

Christian Science Monitor pB9 My 2 '68 170w

"The turgid plot with its stereotyped characterizations and wooden dialog is not redeemed by the descriptions of high fashion or Middle-Eastern customs." Julia Losinski
Library J 93:1331 Mr 15 '68 110w

Time 91:10 Je 7 '68 20w

WALDMAN, DIANE, jt. auth. Adolph Gottlieb. See Doty, R.

WALDO, MYRA. The international encyclopedia of cooking; 11. by Sidonie Coryn. 2v; v 1, Recipes; v2, Glossary. 1110;648p $25 Macmillan (N Y)

641.5 Cookery 67-8335

Volume one contains more than 4000 recipes. Volume two comprises, in addition to "nutrition charts, household hints and tables of substitutions, some 20,000 . . . food facts." (Book World)

"[This set] contains both a traditional cookbook and an unprecedented reference work. . . . Along the way, you will encounter 37 ways to stuff your Christmas bird, 26 methods for preparing eggplant, 10 cheesecakes, and . . . instructions on how to open a coconut. . . . If you can't tell a quiche from a quache . . . you are bound to be captivated by the culinary tidbits." Gloria Levitas

WALDO, MYRA—Continued

Book World p6 D 17 '67 200w

"Designed to entrance librarians and cooks with its appetizing photographic decor, Myra Waldo's two-volume cooking encyclopedia should wear well. . . . [She gives] recipes for dishes in provincial style and haute cuisine, drawing on Eastern and Western cookery, without trying to be exotic; required ingredients are generally available. The printed presentation is simple to follow. . . . Except for the poor drawings, mostly irrelevant, the books are wholly admirable." S. C. Gross

Library J 92:4503 D 15 '67 140w

WALDO, MYRA Myra Waldo's Chinese cook-book; il. by Rosalie Petrash. 182p $5.95 Macmillan (N Y)

641.59 Cookery, Chinese 68-17205

"Arranged in the usual order, from appetizers to desserts, [the food and travel editor for CBS] has selected typical recipes from the major regions of China—Shantung, Fukien, Honan, Szechwan, and Canton. Ingredients and quantities are adapted to American market availability. [There are] several suggested menus." (Best Sell) Index.

Reviewed by Friede Gruenrock

Best Sell 28:204 Ag 15 '68 150w

"[A handy book which] includes many well-known dishes such as barbecued spareribs, egg rolls, sweet and sour dishes, and others that are challenging to taste. The recipes are easy to follow. . . . [The] book also includes . . . a complete list of sources, arranged by states, for obtaining Chinese ingredients." Makiko Doi

Library J 93:1483 Ap 1 '68 110w

WALKER, BARBARA K., comp. Once there was and twice there wasn't; Turkish tales collected by Barbara K. Walker; il. by Gordon Kibbee. 128p $3.50; lib bdg $3.69 Follett
393.2 Folklore—Turkey—Juvenile literature 67-21156

"The compiler's note likens the folk hero of [the stories in this collection of Turkish folklore]—the bald-headed Keloglan—to the Jack or Cinderlad of the Northern European tales: the blundering young son who manages to come out ahead." (Horn Bk) "Grades three to five." (Library J)

Reviewed by Helen Renthal

Book World p14 (children's issue)
My 5 '68 100w

"Every aspect of this . . . collection is praiseworthy: the tales are authentic and amusing, the sources and translations are noted, the telling is brisk, and the format and the line illustrations are attractive. . . . [The] book has the rich flavor of the Middle East." V. H.

Horn Bk 44:175 Ap '68 140w

"For years librarians and students depended on the amusing Hodja tales as their source for Turkish folklore, but recently Mrs. Barbara Walker has entertained readers with several other good-natured tales from this colorful country. Her style deviates from the traditional to the point that, at times, the use of modern slang in the Turkish setting is jolting. Her newest collection has tales that concern Keloglan. . . . who is a combination of many folklore characters, and the amusing stories center on his good-natured stupidity. Frequently, many variants of folklore commonly associated with European countries are discernible in one story. The print is large and the two-color illustrations blend well with the text." Arlene Mosel

Library J 93:1316 Mr 15 '68 140w

"Apparently there are many of these bald-headed youths in Turkey (in contrast to the one-and-only Nasreddin) for here we meet seven different examples. One Keloglan is forgetful, another is particularly foolish, another outwits a magician—but every one of them comes off exceedingly well in these wise, lively, humorous and altogether exhilarating tales." Ethna Sheehan

N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p48 N 3 '68 140w

WALKER, DALE L., jt. auth. The lost revolutionary. See O'Connor, R.

WALKER, DAVID. CAB-Intersec. 312p $4.95 Houghton

67-28554

This novel raises the question: "Can you betray the person with whom you escaped from a German prison camp 20 years ago? Harry Ambler is forced into such a situation. The prison companion has become a financial giant living in Switzerland. Approached by Intersec, a top-level secret organization higher than Interpol, Ambler sets out to betray his friend. . . . The setting is Switzerland and Ambler faces skiing problems, avalanches, even an H-bomb, before he finally completes his assignment and finishes his ski vacation." (Best Sell)

Best Sell 27:446 F 15 '68 120w

"David Walker has written a number of good, solid novels, perhaps most memorably Where the High Winds Blow [BRD 1961]. . . . [His latest is] a spy-adventure story with some humor and discreet love scenes along the way. . . . Entertaining as it carries the reader along, the book is recommended for larger fiction collections." Norman Horrocks

Library J 93:574 F 1 '68 140w

Reviewed by Glenda Todd

Library J 93:1822 Ap 15 '68 100w

"[Mr. Walker] displays a fine touch with romantic adventure in a colorful Alpine setting, complete with hairbreadth escapes on skis and a splendid double-dyed villainess. . . . [He] isn't quite in the master class yet; but admirers of Gavin Lyall and Alistair MacLean will not be disappointed." Anthony Boucher

N Y Times Bk R p48 Mr 17 '68 90w

Reviewed by Sergeant Cuff

Sat R 51:43 Mr 30 '68 40w

WALKER, EDWARD JOSEPH. See Walker, T.

WALKER, FRANK. Hugo Wolf; a biography. 2d ed 522p pl $12 Knopf

B or 92 Wolf, Hugo 63-10870

This second edition of the biography of the Austrian composer contains a new chapter and short passages omitted from the original text. Bibliography. Wolf's compositions. General index. Index of compositions mentioned in the text. For the first edition see BRD 1952.

"[The author] was the gentleman-scholar par excellence. With infinite patience and understanding he pieced together one of the outstanding musical biographies of recent years. But out of respect for certain people then still living, not all of the material he gathered could be published in the first edition. . . . Admirable as it was, the earlier edition is outdated by the new." P. L. Miller

Library J 93:3552 O 1 '68 210w

"Wolf married music to poetry . . . with such grace and felicity that one can only share his biographer's sorrow that the burdens of his life denied Wolf's genius its fullest realization. . . . This definitive edition, appearing six years after the author's own untimely death, must surely go unchallenged as the standard life of Wolf for many years to come." D. C. Goddard

N Y Times Bk R p22 S 8 '68 270w

New Yorker 44:248 D 7 '68 290w

Reviewed by Robert Jacobson

Sat R 51:42 D 21 '68 150w

WALKER, FRANKLIN. Jack London and the Klondike; the genesis of an American writer. 288p il $5 Huntington lib.

813 London, Jack 66-20412

The author's purpose is "to provide 'a vivid and valid picture' of the great Klondike Gold Rush, to present a 'most important segment' of Jack London's life, and—by giving an account of London's writing methods—to throw light on his creative talent." (Am Lit) Jack London's Klondike writings. Bibliography.

"This book is saved—and made—by the scholar's conscientious research (Mr. Walker not only sifted through the massive London collection at the Huntington Library but also drove through the Yukon country, consulting sourdoughs and official records alike); by his tactful synthesis of document, hearsay, and fiction; and—above all—by his good sense. . . . In view of the scantness of genuine criticism dealing with London's fiction [the last three chapters] are especially noteworthy. Gratefully missing is the silly pretension and jargon we have learned to tolerate among our critics; also missing is the current tendency to dismiss London's literary accomplishments with a supercilious cliché. And only once, when he equates Buck the good sled dog with London the writer, does Mr. Walker slip into the biographical fallacy that has trapped so many London commentators. Without sidestepping the embarrassing implications of London's Anglo-Saxon sympathies, Mr. Walker rightly emphasizes those qualities in London's fiction that are timeless: vitality, sincerity, romance, courage, and humanism." Earle Labor

Am Lit 39:416 N '67 750w

"The background of London's stories of the North-West is given its first full investigation in Professor Walker's excellent and often entertaining study. He follows, in as much detail as can now be unearthed, London's own adventures in the gold rush of 1897. . . . Quite a large number of the Klondike stories are based more or less closely on fact, and Professor Walker traces the genesis of some of these in the concluding part of his book." Edwin Morgan

New Statesman 72:797 N 25 '66 1100w
 TLS p1021 N 10 '66 1050w

WALKER, ROBERT H. Everyday life in the age of enterprise, 1865-1900; ed. by Louis B. Wright. (Life in Am) 255p il $3.50 Putnam
 917.3 U.S.—Social life and customs—Juvenile literature. U.S.—History—1865-1898—Juvenile literature 67-14812

The author "describes social life, artifacts, and customs in the United States between the years 1865 and 1900, when this country changed from an isolated, agricultural, regionalized society to a more centralized and industrial nation. There is also information about the influence of newspapers, the impact of railroads, and the effect of electricity, steam, steel, and coal on American life and the economy. [Bibliography. Index.] Grade seven and up." (Library J)

Horn ■■ 44:80 F '68 40w [YA]

"This well-researched study covers a period for which such detailed material is hard to find in one place. Contemporary photographs are included." Leora Oglesby
 Library J 92:4629 D 15 '67 90w

WALKER, TED. The solitaires; poems, 1964-5. 57p $3.95 Braziller
 821 67-20026

This English poet, whose first book Fox on a Barn Door (BRD 1966) was awarded the Eric Gregory Award for 1964, here "explores contacts and the common ground between man's life and the lives of other creatures." (Publisher's note)

"Distinguished not only for precise observation, sharpness of image, and technical skill, but by depth of insight and genuine feeling, these poems reveal a mind and spirit deeply moved by the sadness in things and the loneliness of human beings caught in the endless cycle of time and change, without faith, without hope, without any certainty except the inevitable return to earth and its elements. There is little, if any, relief from this mood. Walker is not an innovator either in technique or subject matter. His originality consists rather in his unique apprehension of the world and the validity of his communication."

Choice 4:1119 D '67 200w

"[Walker's] second collection may be less lyrical than his first . . . but the verse moulds itself more to fit the thing described. 'Ox' has short lines with a repetitive thud of half-rhymes to suggest the movements and the mind of a beast following its compulsions and in 'Cowman' the verse imitates both the man's movements and his speech-patterns. The animals sometimes start off as real and end up as metaphors, as in 'Homing Pigeons,' which works out a parallel between the instinct that takes them back to the attic loft and the force that 'drives us back from any fanciful hovering beyond our lives.' The best poem is 'Apocalypse on the Jetty.'" Ronald Hayman

Encounter 29:90 D '67 230w

"[This] second collection shows [the poet] making an instant identification with 'nature,' which is compared often sententiously with the mechanism of civilisation. . . . His much-praised first book must surely have been more impressive."

New Statesman 73:658 My 12 '67 140w

Reviewed by S. F. Morse
 Poetry 112:137 My '68 220w

"[Walker] is honest, yet somehow limiting; but then he is also too gropingly ambitious with large, portentous themes, where lucidity in the development of the argument suffers. There are sudden striking precisions of observation. . . . But there is also an air of contrivance about some aspects of theme and language; as in 'Moths,' where a simple, original idea is almost spoilt by the intrusion of an obligatory and irrelevant sense of menace. Perhaps his best effects are achieved where the observation is most gritty, exact and unpretentious, and where his unremarkable rhythmic pattern loosens up. Yet the combination of consistent seriousness and sensuous intelligence finally makes this a rewarding, if uneven, collection."

TLS p305 Ap 13 '67 300w

Reviewed by Laurence Lieberman
 Yale ■ 57:269 D '67 800w

WALKER, WARREN S. Tales alive in Turkey [by] Warren S. Walker & Ahmet E. Uysal. 310p $6.95 Harvard univ. press

393.2 Folklore—Turkey 66-21348

A collection of stories "recorded on tape between October, 1961, and October, 1964. . . . There are 'Tales of the Supernatural,' 'Perplexities and Ingenious Deductions,' 'Humorous Tales,' 'Moralistic Tales,' 'Koroghlu' (tales relating to a celebrated outlaw), and 'Anticlerical Tales.' There is a general introduction, and an introduction to each of the above-mentioned sections." (Library J) These tales were narrated in Turkish and have been translated into English for this book. Bibliography. Index.

"An exciting collection of material. . . . The introductions to the sections are good, although occasionally too brief to give a thorough background; and, in addition, the omission of tales which may be offensive to some readers is to be deplored. The stories come from many different provinces from coffee houses to the prison, and from individuals who possibly represent the foremost among informants available from 1961 to 1964. Of particular interest to the folklorist are the excellent notes, . . . the impressive bibliography, and the comprehensive index. The field collecting techniques were admirable. . . . Recommended."

Choice 4:1123 D '67 130w

"[These stories] well illustrate how village life and belief in Anatolia have changed little over the centuries. Many of the stories also point out the numerous traditions which form the background of Turkish life in Anatolia. This volume is somewhat unusual in that it is both a highly scholarly presentation, equipped with extensive notes, and a collection of tales which may be read for the insight and pleasure they convey. . . . Highly recommended for school, general, and university libraries." David Gebhard

Library J 91:6088 D 15 '66 220w

WALLACE, DAVID H. John Rogers: the people's sculptor. 326p il $20 Wesleyan univ. press

730.973 Rogers, John 67-24107

The "supervising museum curator of Independence National Park, Philadelphia, has based his study of Rogers' life and work mainly on the sculptor's extensive papers in the New York Historical Society. [He] includes a complete annotated and illustrated catalog of 225 known works. The appendixes contain a study of Rogers' techniques and 'Notes for Collectors.'" (Library J)

"This volume very effectively combines biography with a many faceted investigation of the sculptor's works. . . . There have been a few earlier notices of Rogers . . . but this is the most complete and thorough account available and is likely to remain the definitive work."

Choice 5:190 Ap '68 200w

"John Rogers (1829-1904), the people's sculptor, was of course the author of the 'Rogers Groups,' those narratives, cast in plaster that graced many a Victorian parlor . . . [and are now] important Americana, much sought after

WALLACE, D. H.—Continued

today. This study, more complete in every way than that written by the Chetwood Smiths and published in a small edition in 1934 . . . will be welcomed by most public libraries and collections in American art." M. E. Landgren
Library J 93:179 Ja 15 '68 160w

Reviewed by Neil Harris

New Eng Q 41:463 S '68 850w

"Mr. Wallace's book communicates most agreeably everything we need to know about Rogers and his work. The decision to reproduce in the small each of the groups of which an example is known will undoubtedly please collectors, but the public would have been better served with larger, if fewer, plates. For it was by piling up miniscule detail that Rogers achieved his effects." J. T. Flexner
N Y Times Bk R p6 D 31 '67 1000w

WALLACH, LUITPOLD, ed. The classical tradition; literary and historical studies in honor of Harry Caplan. 606p $12.50 Cornell univ. press

880.8 Classical literature. Caplan, Harry
66-10776

A collection of "scholarly articles arranged under six headings: Greek History, Literature, and Thought; Latin Literature and Roman History; Biblical Literature; History and Theory of Rhetoric; Greek and Latin Patristics; and Medieval and Renaissance Literature. . . . Some illuminate work of major authors (e.g. on Catullus as translator), some pertain to intellectual or literary history (e.g. Isocrates' view of history, and a group of items on rhetoric). Included is a discussion of a Latin legal formula in literary contexts by D. Daube, Regius Professor of Law at Oxford." (Choice)

"[Good essays written] in honor of one of our great teachers and scholars. . . . Readers of this review will be most interested in the historical essays, which are few but significant; they ought to realize, however, that the topics range from Homer to Spenser and that the list of contributors contains such luminaries as Daube, Ullman, McKeon, Wolfson, Kristeller, and others. Among the historical papers, I found O'Meara's and Welles's especially noteworthy; more specialized, but equally important, are Meritt's (on the Hellenistic calendar), Larsen's (on Polybius' partiality to the Achaeans), and Getty's (on Nero's indictment of the Christians). . . . The book merits its title, and it testifies to the survival of the classical tradition." A. E. Raubitschek
Am Hist R 73:1111 Ap '68 310w

"The authors are scholars of note, and the articles range from good to excellent. . . . Any library that regularly receives periodicals in any of the above fields should add this volume, which would also be suitable in smaller libraries too, where especially there should be at least a sample of fine current scholarship in these fields."

Choice 3:1012 Ja '67 130w

WALLENSTEIN, BARRY, Jr. ed. Years of protest. See Salzman, J.

WALLER, WILLARD WALTER. The old love and the new; divorce & readjustment: introd. by Bernard Farber; foreword by Herman R. Lantz. 331p $7 Southern Ill. univ. press

301.42 Divorce. Sex 67-21752

By a case-study method Waller shows how it felt to go through the divorcing process. This reissue includes an extensive introduction which "compares Waller's findings with those of later studies. . . . Farber believes that the generally less pessimistic findings reported by later studies may reflect genuine changes in the phenomena associated with divorce and in our interpretation of its significance." (Am Soc R) For the first edition see BRD 1930.

"How does one go about reviewing the reissue of an old classic, especially when it has a thoughtful and impeccable introduction . . . to put it into historical perspective and cogently analyze its method, findings, and interpretation? Perhaps a thank-you to the University of Southern Illinois Press is all that is needed. . . . It would have been better if it were in paperback at a third of the price to make it more available to students in this computer-oriented generation. There is no index, and Waller's introduction and glossary (but not the footnote references to it) are omitted." Jessie Bernard

Am Soc R 33:322 Ap '68 600w

"One of two classic works on divorce and readjustment to it. . . . [The] extensive introduction . . . adds considerably to its worth. If a library does not own the earlier edition, it should add this one for it is vital background material for anyone doing work in this area. Even if the original is owned, this reprint should be added also, simply because of the help that Farber's comments will be to those who are reading or else doing research on this topic."

Choice 5:415 My '68 80w

WALLERSTEIN, IMMANUEL. Africa: the politics of unity; an analysis of a contemporary social movement. 274p $4.95 Random house

320.159 Pan-Africanism 66-22247

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Reviewed by M. L. Bates

Am Hist R 73:557 D '67 500w

Reviewed by St. Clair Drake

Am J Soc 73:526 Ja '68 1000w

Reviewed by H. L. Bretton

Pol Sci Q 83:326 Je '68 550w

Reviewed by Brian Weinstein

Social Studies 59:179 Ap '68 500w

WALLIS, GERALDINE. See Campbell, H.

WALPOLE, HORACE, 4th Earl of Orford. Horace Walpole's correspondence with Sir Horace Mann; ed. by W. S. Lewis [and others]. v7-8 571:545p ea $17.50 Yale univ. press

B or 92 Mann, Sir Horace (54-13338)

Volumes twenty-three and twenty-four in the Yale edition of Horace Walpole's Correspondence. They cover the correspondence with Sir Horace Mann from 1768 to 1780. For volumes thirty-two, thirty-three and thirty-four see BRD 1966.

Reviewed by C. F. Mullett

Am Hist R 73:1526 Je '68 650w

"As usual, [with the Yale edition, these volumes] . . . are immaculately edited and presented. . . . They are important and will make converts."

Economist 226:55 F 24 '68 200w

"Aside from historical significance, but not unrelated to it, many of the letters must be savored as the literary masterpieces they are. To use the metaphor with which W. S. Lewis introduces this segment of the Yale Edition, they represent some of the highest peaks on this the great Andean range of the Walpolean continent." W. N. Free

Va Q R 44:345 spring '68 60w

WALSH, GILLIAN PATON. See Walsh, J. P.

WALSH, JILL PATON. The Dolphin crossing. 134p $3.75 St Martins

67-17767

Story set in a seaside village in England in 1940. John Aston "and his mother had to move out of their large house to a small cottage. When he met Pat, however, John realized that his own lot was comparatively easy. With his father also in the service, Pat and his pregnant stepmother, evacuated from London, were living in a derelict railway carriage. John offered Pat a home, and thus began a friendship in which shared danger was a part; when the call came for the relief of Dunkirk, the two boys sailed off in John's small boat, the Dolphin, to help." (Sat R) "Grades six to eight." (Library J)

"The rich boy emerges as reasonably believable, pompous but fairly sympathetic; the poor boy, however, is an absolute triumph of portrayal. The story ultimately rides on his rugged, cocky, pugnacious personality as the two youths take a small motor boat across the Channel to help carry away troops under enemy attack. Some of the action scenes are powerful, and they make for a story that mounts steadily in suspense right up to a final scene that hits like a hand grenade. The book suffers a bit from still writing and unreal adults, but these defects are obliterated by the unexpected, moving end." Gerald Gottlieb

Book World p24 N 19 '67 200w

Horn Bk 44:72 F '68 240w

Reviewed by M. H. Scott

Library J 92:4629 D 15 '67 120w

"This is an exciting adventure story, made more poignant because its most dramatic moment is part of history. The roles played by John and Pat are fiction but completely convincing, and the earlier part of the book gives a moving and candid picture of British stamina in wartime." Zena Sutherland

Sat R 50:36 D 16 '67 140w

"Fiction just manages to overcome the author's didactic intention of reviving the atmosphere of the Second World War for her readers. But the plot still moves in a slow, embarrassed fashion to include necessary elements such as evacuation, rationing, the black market and the Local Defence Volunteers. It only takes on any pace with the Dunkirk rescue scenes at the end. . . . The author's main point is the merging of class differences in the common cause: the sixth-former John (distinctly shadowy) accents and admires the young working-class Pat (distinctly caricatured). There was opportunity here for a much more delicate and observant book than Miss Walsh has written."

TLS p1154 N 30 '67 210w

WALSH, JOHN. Poe the detective; the curious circumstances behind The mystery of Marie Roget. 154p il $7.50 Rutgers univ. press

813 Poe, Edgar Allan—The mystery of Marie Roget 67-28416

Poe's novel The Mystery of Marie Roget "was deliberately based upon a real murder. . . . Poe claimed that in it, working solely from newspaper accounts, he succeeded in solving the real-life mystery that had baffled the police. . . . Walsh, a former newspaperman, . . . researched the circumstances of the real case—the death in 1841 of Mary Cecilia Rogers . . . [and claims to] disprove Poe's claim that he had solved the mystery." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

"[Walsh] here offers a fascinating chapter in the history of Poe as magazine opportunist. . . . [He claims] that Poe wished to enhance or vindicate [his fictional detective] Dupin's ratiocinative talents, following the story [Murders in the Rue Morgue], by having him solve a murder closely based upon current newspaper accounts of the mysterious death of a New York cigar clerk. . . . While Poe's story was being serialized, the case was solved. Poe delayed the third installment to make a few deft revisions in the text so as to implicate the fictional counterpart of the person responsible for Mary's death. (He revised the full text slightly for book publication.) The revisions were cited in an article by W. K. Wimsatt in 1941, but Walsh more fully accounts for them. The latter's findings might have been presented in an article. Much white space, several period illustrations, and the full 1845 text of Marie Roget help Walsh's material fill out a physically attractive book."

Choice 5:780 S '68 180w

"This is a short book, highly attractive in format and illustrations, devoted largely to recapping the killing of Miss Rogers and the creation of Mlle. Roget—familiar material, but very clearly and detailedly related. . . . It all hinges upon the curious incident of the January, 1843, installment of 'Marie' in the Ladies' Companion. I find Mr. Walsh's evidence overwhelming and his hypotheses persuasive. . . . This book is a noble tribute to what it rightly calls 'a classic performance in the annals of literary hugger-mugger.'" Anthony Boucher

N Y Times Bk R p40 F 11 '68 330w

Reviewed by Sergeant Cuff

Sat R 51:33 My 25 '68 40w

Va Q R 44:cliii autumn '68 260w

WALSH, JOHN. Strange harp, strange symphony; the life of Francis Thompson. 298p il $8.95 Hawthorn bks.

B or 92 Thompson, Francis 67-24650

A biography of the poet "who set out to be a Catholic priest, then abandoned everything for poetry, struggled all his adult life with drug addiction, and died in 1907 at the age of forty-eight." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

Choice 5:200 Ap '68 100w

Reviewed by Raymond Mortimer

Critic 26:82 Ap '68 1250w

"Mr Walsh, stalking his subject with something of the dedication and unperturbed pace of Thompson's own Hound (the book, and in this particular context it is a point in the author's favour, seems longer than actually it is) is never less than sensible and intelligent. That, in its turn, means that he is fair-minded, and so while as a seeker after truth, he indicts, if that is the word, the Meynells, and Wilfred in particular, for glossing over certain parts of the Thompson story and putting the emphasis on tuberculosis rather than laudanum, he never fails to give them all possible credit for so consistently keeping in working order the life line they generously threw to a genius in distress. . . . His is precisely the book to make those to whom Thompson is a shadowy figure look again at poetry which, in the course of a stanza or two, can swing from the magnificent to the meretricious."

Economist 226:52 F 17 '68 500w

"A scholarly [book], admirably documented and eminently readable. . . . While the familiar aspects of the poet's life are necessarily present . . . Mr. Walsh does try to illuminate the 'dark passages' in Thompson's career and to relate him to contemporary literary figures. This book is an essential purchase for college and university libraries, and for those larger libraries with a high rate of poetry circulation." Elizabeth Nelson

Library J 92:2761 Ag '67 130w

"Walsh strikingly elucidates his subject by a kind of tour-de-force of unity and analogy. His title, chapter-headings, and mottoes all come from [Shelley's] Alastor. . . . Passages from this poem fit surprisingly well on each chapter of the Thompson narrative, symbolizing both his spiritual and material progress. . . . Even those to whom the man and his writings are alike distasteful will be held by Mr. Walsh's delicate treatment, balanced judgment and enlightened handling of new sources."

TLS p398 Ap 18 '68 1100w

WALSH, JOHN. Time is short and the water rises; operation Gwamba; the story of the rescue of 10,000 animals from certain death in a South American rain forest; with Robert Gannon; foreword by Carlton E. Buttrick. 224p il col il maps $6.95 Dutton

639 Wild life—Conservation. Surinam—Description and travel 67-11380

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Choice 4:1270 Ja '68 100w

Reviewed by Jane Manthorne

Horn Bk 44:86 F '68 200w [YA]

TLS p67 Ja 13 '68 700w

WALSH, JOHN. The truants, and other poems for children; il. by Edward Ardizzone. 79p $2.95 Rand McNally

821 68-12945

This collection of narrative poems and short verse was first published in England in 1965. "Of the three . . . narrative poems one is about a lonely orphan boy, another about a girl who visits the ocean depths, and the third about two outcast children. . . . Ages nine to twelve." (Sat R)

"Fantasy and haunting beauty are but two of many qualities reflected in [this] collection. . . . There are poems to speak to every child, for what child has not had a sandwich snatched from his hand by a dog, been moved by a blind person's sense of touch and hearing, or wished to play truant?" M. M.

Horn Bk 44:435 Ag '68 160w

Reviewed by Steven Rybicki

Library J 93:[3310] S 15 '68 110w

"These poems will seem to some readers downright un-American. Settings aside (Brighton at the end of summer term, for instance), the verses address themselves to youthful sadness, loneliness, and even terror with a poignancy unfamiliar in American verse for children. The drawings . . . are sad too, haunting. . . . The poems are not at all difficult to follow, and perhaps their very strangeness can attract children fatigued with sweetness and light." Walker Gibson

N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p44 My 5 '68 150w

WALSH, JOHN—Continued

"Small, tender pictures echo the mood of most of the verse in this very satisfying collection. . . . There are flashes of humor in some of the shorter poems, but most of the selections are distinctive because they capture so skillfully a moment of thoughtfulness or delight. This is a particularly good book for reading aloud." Zena Sutherland
Sat R 51:31 J1 20 '68 90w

WALSH, S. PADRAIG. Anglo-American general encyclopedias: a historical bibliography. 1703-1967. 270p US & Canada $9.85; elsewhere $10.84 Bowker

030 Encyclopedias and dictionaries 67-25023

"In this retrospective work [the author] has collected more than 400 English-language encyclopedias, general in scope and historically significant. The titles are arranged alphabetically with citations taken from the title pages, and annotations describing the publishing history, antecedents, compilers, and (frequently) an evaluation. . . . Appended material includes . . . a forum on 'good' encyclopedias." (Choice) Chronology, Bibliography, Index of names, Index of publishers.

"This whole work is a credit to author and publisher. . . . As the only reference work in which this material is collected (Collison's Encyclopaedias: Their History Throughout the Ages [BRD 1965], is broad and selective while Walsh aims at complete English coverage), the book will be of great value to bibliographers and booksellers."

Choice 5:758 S '68 230w

"Teachers and students . . . will turn successfully to Walsh's contribution to the bibliographical and publishing history of a given encyclopedic data on editors, and the like.

At no point in the considerable text is specific authority given for any statement of fact or interpretation. Whether or not Walsh has been careful enough to warrant the blank check here demanded, will be known only after time has been spent checking sample details. . . . None of the individual annotations furnish intellectual or social background." S. L. Jackson

Library J 93:3763 O 15 '68 300w

WALSH, WILLIAM. Coleridge: the work and the relevance. 217p $6 Barnes & Noble

828 Coleridge, Samuel Taylor 67-4804

"A study that aims at defining Coleridge's modern relevance." (TLS)

Choice 4:1384 F '68 140w

"It is to be hoped that this book will reach 'the general reader,' for it is written with infectious enthusiasm, as well as from an extensive knowledge of Coleridge's writings. . . . In his chapter on Coleridge as poet, Professor Walsh is particularly appreciative of the meditative, autobiographical pieces, such as 'The Eolian Harp' . . . and pre-eminent in its power, 'Dejection'. . . . As a literary critic, his first-hand perceptiveness is emphasised, and the solid, human touches that counteract his inveterate bias towards metaphysics. In discussing Coleridge's treatment of abstract ideas and general theories, Mr Walsh's own usually lucid and lively style goes to pieces: the concluding chapter, too, is curiously lame. (The book, incidentally, contains far too many misprints, and some very peculiar punctuation—or, more precisely, lack of it.) On the whole, however, this is an engagingly readable piece of criticism."

Economist 223:xvi Ap 15 '67 280w

Reviewed by John Barrell

New Statesman 74:232 Ag 23 '67 250w

"[A] rather uneven book. Professor Walsh writes brilliantly on Coleridge's mind, his critical method, and his educational theory. In the section on his mind, he begins to develop the underlying theme of the whole study: the vitality and cohesion of consciousness that gives to all Coleridge wrote its special life-enhancing quality. It is this human centrality that Professor Walsh rightly chooses to stress.

In view of these positive achievements, it is regrettable that the account of the early poems, 'France: An Ode', and 'Christabel' should be so grudging and negative. The fact that Professor Walsh has found difficulty in teaching 'Christabel' to the young hardly seems a sufficient reason for castigating its 'Victorian namby-pambyness'. The sections on Coleridge's political theory and 'Coleridge and Others' are perfunctory. No reference is made to recent studies of Coleridge's political writings and the account is too brief to be useful to the general reader for whom this book is said to have been written."

TLS p596 J1 6 '67 490w

WALTON, GEORGE, jt. auth. Rome fell today. See Adleman, R. H.

WALTON, RICHARD J. The remnants of power: the tragic last years of Adlai Stevenson. 255p pl $5.95 Coward-McCann

973.92 Stevenson, Adlai Ewing. United Nations. U.S.—Foreign relations 68-23373

A former Voice of America correspondent at the United Nations offers an account of Stevenson's years as U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations [which] describes his efforts to reconcile his private principles with his obligation to defend a public policy with which he disagreed. The author also offers a picture of the relationship between U.S. foreign policy and the United Nations during this period. Bibliography, Index.

"[This is] a political tract, so highly colored by the author's views as to render doubtful even the plain statements of fact that it contains—if any. . . . The theory of this book is that Mr. Stevenson was repeatedly brought to the brink of resignation both by President Kennedy and by President Johnson, for pursuing policies in Cuba, the Dominican Republic and Vietnam that were not in conformity with the views of Mr. Walton and the 'intellectual leadership' of America with which he has no difficulty in identifying. This, according to Walton, is the 'tragedy' that brought Stevenson to an early death. . . . The fact that Stevenson's defense of American policy in South Vietnam was of a piece with his equally able defense of American policy in Korea—and often based on the same arguments—made no impression on Walton." J. R. Wiggins

Book World p4 O 20 '68 800w

"A saddening account of the tragic effect of the dissemblances and hypocrisies of diplomacy as practiced by the United States upon a man of integrity. [Walton maintains that Stevenson] was relegated to the post of advocate for policies that he had little or no part in forming and with which he did not agree. 'Stevenson . . . had to repeat endlessly statements he knew not to be true and justifications he believed indefensible.' The result was disastrous not only to Stevenson but to the United States. . . . Mr. Walton documents the foreign policy of the Kennedy and Johnson Administrations from the Bay of Pigs to the Vietnam War. . . . An important contribution to recent American history." R. W. Henderson

Library J 93:3147 S 15 '68 340w

Reviewed by Anthony Howard

New Repub 159:35 D 21 '68 1050w

"This interesting book . . . illuminates a fascinating corner of history and even more, the change that has taken place in our attitudes. . . . Stevenson's [position] at the United Nations . . . was a torturing job, and unquestionably it hastened Stevenson's death. . . . [Walton is] a Stevenson partisan. Though he is not above criticizing his hero, he does on occasion make the same point twice and the organization of his book is not beyond fault. On the other side, his description of Stevenson's last days, from the confrontation in New York by admirers and friends urging him to resign over Vietnam to his death on a London street, shows narrative power of a very high order." J. K. Galbraith

N Y Times Bk ■ p10 O 20 '68 1050w

WALTZ, KENNETH N. Foreign policy and democratic politics; the American and British experience [sponsored by the Inst. of war and peace studies, School of int. affairs, Columbia Univ. and The center for int. affairs, Harvard University]. 331p $7.50 Little

327 U.S.—Foreign relations. Great Britain—Foreign relations 66-28737

This book "examines the ways in which the internal politics of Britain and the United States affect their foreign policy. . . . It focuses on four specific cases: British military policy, American foreign aid, British and European integration, and public opinion and American foreign policy." (Library J)

"Professor Waltz, now of Brandeis University, has made not only a controversial but also an . . . imaginative and durable contribution to the study of comparative politics and international relations. . . . The case studies are intended to support theses developed in the earlier part of the book. Yet they could stand apart because of their inherent interest and because of the fresh and realistic style in which Waltz presents the policy issues. [He seeks] to establish two theses. The first is the superiority of the American to the British political system in dealing with foreign policy (and domestic policy as well). [The second] is the foreign policy capability of Western democratic governments in competition with authoritarian states. . . . [Has Waltz] demonstrated the superiority of the American system? More significantly, can he or anyone else demonstrate such a phenomenon? In rigorous, scientific terms, of course, the answer is no." L. D. Epstein

Am Pol Sci R 61:1176 D '67 850w

"This book is a very thoughtful and thought-provoking study of the difficulties and limitations of democracy in the field of international affairs. . . . The chapters on military policy, foreign aid, and Europe are case studies of considerable incisiveness well calculated to demonstrate the author's method of analysis and to document his conclusions. There is necessarily a good deal of armchair philosophizing in so broad a sweep, but there is also much solid analysis based upon a fine command of complex factual material. . . . In his closing reflections, the author very briefly delineates the contrast of democratic foreign policy with that of autocratic—he calls them authoritarian—states and rightly asserts that their disabilities and shortcomings are as great, if not greater. One might wish that this comparison might have been dealt with a bit more fully and in light of the considerable literature on the subject." C. J. Friedrich

Ann Am Acad 375:199 Ja '68 500w

"Many of the generalizations about the British political system that are accepted by students of government are challenged by this study. Dr. Waltz maintains that the Prime Minister is not a strong leader but rather places his concern for party unity above the public interest and thus makes the government unresponsive to the needs of the nation. Recommended for the college library." S. D. Nerbozo
Library J 92:1019 Mr 1 '67 180w

Reviewed by C. F. Hermann
World Pol 20:521 Ap '68 2600w

WANN, A. J. The president as chief administrator: a study of Franklin D. Roosevelt. 219p $6 Public affairs press

973.917 Roosevelt, Franklin Delano. U.S.—Politics and government—1933-1945 68-19331

"The purpose of this study, according to A. J. Wann, is 'to present what Roosevelt thought and did in regard to reorganizing and coordinating the administrative organization of the executive branch.' . . . To support this position Wann marshals . . . evidence covering Roosevelt's early experience in the navy department and as governor of New York and extending through the depression years and World War II. . . . [He describes] Roosevelt's emergency machinery to combat the depression: the Executive Council, the National Emergency Council, and the Industrial Emergency Council, all merged into a thirty-four member National Emergency Council in October 1934, and finally made a part of the Executive Office of the President in 1939." (J Am Hist)

"Wann, reluctant to fault Roosevelt, concludes that F.D.R. was a fine political administrator. At times, however, the facts, ably assembled in this study, appear to give support to the President's critics as much as to his admirers. The narrative moves along smoothly in spite of a tendency to quote unnecessarily and to repeat. The notes are excellent, both as support for the text and as a source of further information. . . . Useful addition to the literature, particularly for students in upper level courses."

Choice 5:679 J1 '68 240w

"Happily the book is better than the stated purpose. What Wann has done is to demonstrate that Roosevelt was a remarkable administrator, a much better administrator than most of his critics let on. . . . [Wann] thinks it was part of Roosevelt's administrative gift to create overlapping agencies with vague and conflicting authority, to put rivals together in the same agency, and deliberately to put two or more people on the same assignment. The author writes: 'In the experimental, improvised, and somewhat hectic programs of the New Deal, such competition helped to develop the kind of administrative attributes Roosevelt was seeking: bold initiative, eagerness to try new methods, energy, flexibility, and ingenuity.'" George Wolfskill

J Am Hist 55:424 S '68 400w

WARBURG, JAMES P. Western intruders; America's role in the Far East. 229p maps $5.75 Atheneum pubs.

327.73 U.S.—Foreign relations—East (Far East). Eastern question (Far East)

67-25478

Following a survey of the history of "early civilizations up to the time when East and West confronted each other, the author traces how European merchants, missionaries and empire-builders intruded upon Asia and how the United States participated in that enterprise. [The book includes] excerpts from the travel diary of the author's father, Paul M. Warburg, who visited Asia in 1893 . . . [and observations based on] the author's own recent trip to the Orient with a third generation of Warburgs." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

Choice 5:846 S '68 170w

Christian Century 84:1225 S 27 '67 20w

"[This book] is written by an amateur in the field of Far Eastern history and . . . addressed to a non-scholarly audience. The author had some assistance from scholars in the field; nevertheless, so many inaccuracies have remained in the text that it is doubtful that it can be of value at any level. . . . His discussion of United States policy is brief and elementary. . . . Readers who oppose the present policy of the United States in Asia will enjoy reading the final chapter. Other readers might profit from reading it. However, by the time the reader gets to the last chapter the author's scholarly credentials will have been so thoroughly undermined that it is doubtful he will be able to receive the author's views with confidence." R. A. Esthus

J Am Hist 54:912 Mr '68 400w

"Comparison of observations by the two generations of Warburgs furnishes a convenient context for a brief but fluent account of the history of the United States' presence in Asia. This presence Mr. Warburg finds was always imperialistic both in intention and in results. Inevitably, he concludes with a plea for unilateral withdrawal from Vietnam by the United States, a point he has made more effectively in The United States in the Post War World [BRD 1966]. Though not an essential purchase for subject collections in academic libraries, it is eminently suitable as a travel memoir for browsing the collection in many libraries." R. A. Gray

Library J 92:2791 Ag '67 300w

Reviewed by F. C. Jones
Pacific Affairs 41:418 fall '68 140w

WARD, BARBARA. The lopsided world. (Johns Hopkins univ. School of advanced int. studies, Washington, D.C. The Christian A. Herter lecture ser, 1965). 126p $3.95 Norton

338.91 Underdeveloped areas. Economic assistance 68-19328

A plea for economic aid by rich nations to poor ones. Following a description of the widening economic gap between the two, the "development of rich countries around the Atlantic is sketched as is the shift from mainly agricultural to modern economy, characterized by scientific and technical structure. . . . Obstacles in the way of the underdeveloped countries and relative neglect of them by rich countries is shown. In conclusion . . . the necessity for a change from strict self-interest of mankind on a purely rational basis to the age-old appeal of all great religions of world is pointed out." (Library J)

"I think Miss Ward assimilates the living conditions, the needs of a new developing nation faster than anyone else I know. Her long residence in and her close study of the poorer countries in Asia and Africa qualify her to speak as an authority, and the appeal which she makes in her new short book is addressed to the pocket nerve quite as much as to the heart." Edward Weeks

Atlantic 222:100 J1 '68 600w

Christian Century 85:821 Je 19 '68 20w

WARD, BARBARA—Continued

"A British economist with much experience in underdeveloped countries begins and ends with the undeniable fact that the Western world, including Japan, accounts for 20 per cent of the population, owns 80 per cent of the world's wealth and the remaining 80 per cent of the population owns 20 per cent of the wealth. . . . Miss Ward has a rare gift of combining genuine economic reasoning with persuasive, almost passionate appeal. Strongly recommended for the general reader and economist." H. H. Bernt

Library J 93:2482 Je 15 '68 160w

"The poor lands are the sources of primary products and are great potential markets. Barbara Ward . . . maintains that the failure of the rich governments to give 1 per cent of their GNP to the poor ones, and of their capitalists to invest a matching amount each year, is endangering the world's economic and political stability. Development is urgently needed, and it must be continuous and conform to plans worked out in agreement with the recipients. . . . It is interesting that both Miss Ward and Secretary [O.] Freeman [in World Without Hunger, BRD 1968] stress the necessity for balanced development, with an emphasis on agriculture for the present." C. A. Hogan

Sat R 51:23 Jl 20 '68 170w

WARD, HILEY, ed. Documents of dialogue. 525p $8.95 Prentice-Hall

262 Christian unity—History—Sources

66-22100

"The book makes available to the reader selected and edited 'primary sources' of modern ecumenism. Included are documents of the World Council of Churches, of recent popes, of religious conventions, of joint prayer efforts, as well as documents emerging out of difficult problem areas such as baptism, birth control, authority, mixed marriages, proselytism, schools, etc. Introductory material before each selection relates these contemporary documents of the last decade to earlier roots of the modern ecumenical movement in this century." (Choice) Glossary. Bibliography on Protestant-Roman Catholic dialogue from 1956-1966. Index.

"A comprehensive source book of ecumenical documents prepared by the eminently qualified religion writer of the Detroit Free Press. Ward, a divinity school graduate, reported all four sessions of the Second Vatican Council, and has attended nearly every major religious convention held in the U.S. and Canada in the past six years. . . . Each of the seven main sections has an ample list of references." Choice 4:858 O '67 150w

"Considered quantitatively, [this] is truly a magnum opus, a compendium of all sorts and conditions of ecumenical conference reports, minutes, letters, news items, etc. Each chapter is composed of hundreds of quotations strung together by editorial comment. But the very fecundity of documentation, however fascinating, is frustrating. The reader needs considerable patience to locate the important material since it is surrounded by much that is insignificant or even trivial. Despite one's appreciation for this wealth of data . . . he may be excused for asking: How does this book stimulate ecumenical dialogue? . . . Despite obvious virtues, [it] falls to be an incentive and guide to dialogue because of its overabundance of ecumenical reports and documents." J. R. Nelson

Christian Century 84:974 Jl 26 '67 340w

WARD, J. A. The search for form: studies in the structure of James's fiction. 228p $6 Univ. of N.C. press

813 James, Henry

67-23497

The author's thesis is that "James builds his novels from both the 'inside' and 'outside.' That is, his approach is a combination of the organic principle found in Emerson and Whitman—of a work evolving its own form from an initial germinal idea, and the Victorian novelist's method of imposing form externally. James is most effective, Professor Ward argues, when a balance is struck between these two principles. . . . [He goes on to] formally analyze works from James's early, middle, and later periods." (Library J) Index.

"[This] is Mr. J. A. Ward's second book-length study of the work of Henry James, his first being The Imagination of Disaster. . . .

It begins with two superb chapters, 'The Organic and the Scientific' and 'Picture and Action.' [Although] we freely accord Mr. Ward [his] general principles, we cannot yield as readily to his analyses of selected fictions. His observations are more frequently 'scientific' than 'organic.' He seizes upon pairing and balancing so avidly that his desire to find such relations sometimes leads him astray. . . . I do not wish to leave the impression that the analyses are largely faulty; there is much that makes good sense in them and many a telling insight. I do believe, however, that they should be more rigorous and self-critical." Oscar Cargill

Am Lit 40:92 Mr '68 500w

"[This is] the first book-length work devoted exclusively to studying James' theory and treatment of form. . . . Ward is especially successful in correcting the present overemphasis on James' predilection for 'organic' form. [His discussions of seven works by James] are subtle and substantial—the splendid discussion of The Princess Casamassima, for example, being not only cognizant of previous criticism but rich with new perceptions. A number of these chapters have previously appeared in scholarly publications; it is good to have them united here into such a satisfactory whole."

Choice 5:200 Ap '68 170w

"Professor Ward's clear and perceptive study gives us a greater understanding of the architecture of James's novels. Recommended for academic and larger libraries." Arnold Smithline

Library J 92:2780 Ag '67 200w

Va Q R 44:cix summer '68 160w

WARD, JOHN. Alain Resnais; or, The theme of time. 167p il $4.95 Doubleday

791.43 Resnais, Alain. Moving picture plays—History and criticism. Moving pictures—Production and direction 68-23755

The author begins his discussion of the French director's films 'and their recurrent themes of time and memory with a review of the philosophy of Henri Bergson. Each of the films is analyzed on the basis of what happens, what the action means, and how the director obtained his effects. The authors of the scripts are [also] studied.' (Library J) Filmography. This is Cinema World series number six.

"[This book] is particularly valuable because, as John Ward says, 'None of the films of Resnais is entirely self-explanatory' [and Ward] opens the way to understanding them." G. D. McDonald

Library J 93:4162 N 1 '68 90w

"[This] is intelligent, if somewhat heavy going. Heaviest at the start, when Mr. Ward gives us his theoretical framework in a summary of Bergson's ideas on time. Once this has been established, the book gives us some quite illuminating insights into Resnais's work, though its intrinsic importance is assumed perhaps a trifle too readily."

TLS p1082 S 26 '68 80w

WARD, MAISIE. Robert Browning and his world; 2v: v 1, The private face [1812-1861]. 335p $8.50 Holt

B or 92 Browning, Robert

67-19046

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Choice 5:200 Ap '68 200w

Reviewed by Alan Pryce-Jones

Commonweal 87:596 F 16 '68 1500w

Economist 229:59 N 2 '68 340w

Reviewed by J. C. Lobdell

Nat R 20:309 Mr 26 '68 200w

Reviewed by Naomi Lewis

New Statesman 77:20 Ja 3 '69 1050w

Reviewed by Anne Fremantle

Reporter 38:43 Ap 4 '68 600w

TLS p1189 O 24 '68 600w

WARD, MARION. The Du Barry inheritance. 199p il $6.95 Crowell

944.04 Du Barry, Jeanne (Bécu) Comtesse

68-11510

An account of the "theft of the Comtesse du Barry's magnificent collection of jewels and jewelry from her chateau at Louveciennes in January, 1791; the prompt discovery of the thieves and the loot in London; and the subsequent legal struggle to reclaim her property that engaged Mme. du Barry until her death (on the guillotine) in 1793 and, after that, the attention of her many creditors and her many heirs for years to come." (New Yorker) Index.

"Unfortunately, Marion Ward, ■ researcher for the Historical Manuscripts Commission in London, treats the events leading up to the stealing of Du Barry's jewels and the subsequent events in such a cold manner as to actually bore the reader. While this may not be a 'Diamond Necklace Affair,' I am sure that much more can be done with the Du Barry robbery. The author fails to show how the robbery took this courtesan out of obscurity and placed her once more in the limelight; the publicity of this robbery probably resulted in her being guillotined two years later. Probably, only the specialist in the field will be interested in this book." Judah Adelson

Library J 93:544 F 1 '68 130w

"A short but densely detailed account of a historical trifle. . . . The detail is genealogical, commercial, and legal, and although it is largely essential to an understanding of the matter, it makes for rather tiresome reading."

New Yorker 44:115 Je 15 '68 30w

"[Madame Du Barry's] is a very good story, and Miss Ward tells it in agreeable but not excessive detail. In the process she uncovers several fascinating characters from different levels of the cosmopolitan society of the period. This is a much more interesting book than most of those written about royal mistresses, because it is set in the world of affairs, not the overfamiliar atmosphere of court intrigue. Although the fate of Mme. Du Barry, her jewels, and her (very dissatisfied) heirs is utterly insignificant in comparison with the great events in which she was so uncomprehendingly involved, her story is the kind the historian wants to know about. . . . [The] personal details do not make for an important book, but in its limited way this is both a very readable and an interesting one."

TLS p707 Jl 4 '68 600w

WARD, R. GERARD, ed. American activities in the central Pacific, 1790-1870; a history, geography, and ethnography pertaining to American involvement and Americans in the Pacific taken from contemporary newspapers, etc.; introd. by Ernest S. Dodge. 8v v 1 set $296 Gregg press

910.03 Discoveries (in geography). Islands of the Pacific—Discovery and exploration. Explorers 66-28171

"This is the first of eight volumes covering the Central Pacific Islands Projects 1790-1870, initiated in 1940 by S. W. Boggs, geographer of the Department of State with the cooperation of the National Archives and with a pool of employees paid by the Works Projects Administration. The specific objective of this Massachusetts project was to gather 'further data from newspapers and log books concerning the visits of American seamen and whalers to islands of the Pacific Ocean' that might serve as a basis of legitimate claims by the United States to such groups not already preempted. . . . The book is devoted to 136 reports on islands ranging from Abaiang, with one, to Baker, with eighty, and in length from one sentence and an editor's note, to four pages." (J Am Hist)

Choice 5:544 Je '68 140w

"[This] is not a monograph, a treatise, ■ geography, ■ travel book, a picture book, or a volume of documents. Neither does the volume cover American activities in the Central Pacific from 1790 to 1879, which by no means were confined to the whaling and guano industries. Rather, it is a source book of American citizens' involvements—including shipwrecks—in those two activities. Since the purpose of an index is to expedite the location of material, the unique one in this volume would be more helpful if it cited exact pages and not reports. A tighter editorial job . . . would have shortened the book by some forty pages. Nevertheless, the publication of the eight volumes . . . should justify some of the expenditure of the Works Projects Administration and afford the staff of the project a sense of accomplishment." Merze Tate

J Am Hist 54:646 D '67 410w

"[This set will be] a major source on the history, geography, and ethnography of the Pacific Islands. . . . Recommended especially for specialists in the field and for historians."

F. J. Anderson

Library J 93:1479 Ap 1 '68 300w

"Professor Ward is to be highly commended for his work. . . . As an introduction to the entire undertaking, [the] Director of the Peabody Museum of Salem has written an essay on the Central Pacific area covering with great skill the history of the project, and using the word in its broadest sense, the geography. He has handled concisely the problems of the widely varied land formations, the coral atolls, the volcanic islands, the sand banks, and the continental masses; the climate, ranging from equatorial to polar; the tides and currents; the winds and storms; and finally a brief survey of the native peoples. . . . The publisher has provided facsimiles of eight full-size charts and five index charts to the details available in almost any world seaport from Admiralty agents. These together with text of volume I have created a special boxing problem, the only problem, in fact, not adequately answered. The box is entirely too flimsy to stand even the most careful handling for the eight proposed volumes." M. V. Brewington

New Eng Q 40:459 S '67 700w

WARD, RICHARD J., ed. The challenge of development, theory and practice. See The challenge of development, theory and practice

WARE, CAROLINE F. History of mankind v6. See History of mankind

WARING, M. W. The witnesses; a novel. 695p $7.95 Houghton

67-25687

A historical novel concerning "the events leading up to the Russian Revolution. The tale moves between a nobleman's estate, the group of revolutionary exiles in Switzerland and the palaces and hideouts of St. Petersburg. . . . It covers the period from 1903 to just after the establishment of the Bolshevik government. The link between these disparate settings is Max Dorrère, a young Russian from an . . . aristocratic family. . . . Max takes up with the revolutionary movement in Switzerland and leads a double life on his return to Russia. His involvement is more personal than ideological—he is in love with Inessa Armand. She tolerates his devotion whilst exploiting him for the cause." (New Statesman)

Reviewed by Oscar Handlin

Atlantic 220:40 N '67 550w

Reviewed by W. H. Schweder

Best Sell 27:283 O 15 '67 650w

Reviewed by A. E. Brooks

Library J 92:2813 Ag '67 110w

Reviewed by Alberta Hankenson

Library J 93:314 Ja 15 '68 120w [YA]

Reviewed by Gabriel Chanan

New Statesman 74:293 S 8 '67 330w

"[A] long and absorbing novel. . . . Earth-shaking characters move through these pages with astonishing lifelikeness. History and story are integrated superbly. Once again, we live grippingly through what must have been the most critical, productive and influential 15 years of this century. . . . The background events, which sometimes burst with explosive force into the foreground of the novel, are the Russo-Japanese war, World War I, the murder of Rasputin. . . . This is a story that could have been written 100 years ago, for it is full-bodied and proceeds at a leisurely pace. But the pace is sure. . . . A remarkably successful attempt to reduce, or perhaps rather to elevate, Marxism, Bolshevism, Menshevism, socialism and terrorism to flesh and blood, to man and woman, to John and Mary, to Vladimir, Paul and Inessa." W. G. Rogers

N Y Times BK R p66 O 22 '67 750w

"Miss Waring has not given us anything like a complete or convincing picture of the Russian revolution. . . . [She] shows us, with a good eye for surface detail, how the tendency towards modishness and away from rural simplicity had developed among the Russian aristocracy by 1903. . . . The remoteness of their concerns from the immediate needs of the Russian people, their devotion to the regiment, their worship of the Tsar, their ludicrous patriotism, all these are well conveyed. However, there is nothing in this novel even to suggest the deeper implications of the revolution. Miss Waring's prejudices are not always objectionable or even obvious. . . . What is objectionable is that [she] seems to believe that the revolution was brought off by a handful of unscrupulous, enigmatic conspirators. . . . The portraits of the Bolsheviks and Mensheviks are ■ lifeless as they are fanciful."

WARING, M. W.—Continued

TLS p793 S 7 '67 650w

WARING, MICHAEL. European brasses. See Bouquet, A. C.

WARMINGTON, ERIC H., ed. Great dialogues of Plato. See Plato

WARNER, ESTHER. The crossing fee; a story of life in Liberia. 303p $5 Houghton

916.6 Mano (African tribe). Liberia—Social life and customs 68-12781

Part one "is the account of [the author's] experiences living with the Mano tribe in Liberia [in the early nineteen forties]. . . . She details the bond of friendship between her and the single elder who spoke English and helped her break the barrier and participate in the life of the village. When the time came to leave, she promised to return and left with the intention of doing so within three months. As it turned out, it was twenty years before [she] returned. . . . Part Two of the book is her account of the changes that death, birth, roads, and war had brought. It is also an account of certain customs, rituals, and spiritual bonds which remained unchanged." (Best Sell)

"'The Crossing Fee' is the price that must be paid to the boatman to carry the spirit of the dead one across the river to join all the other dead spirits and in this book Esther Warner has been able to interpret the philosophy of the fee as the mores of the tribe come in conflict with the influence of the outer world. This is an honest and sensitive personal narration, bordering only slightly on the sentimental. The women of the tribe are not clearly drawn and consequently do not project ■ personalities. This is undoubtedly because of the language barrier since it was the men who learned to speak English and it was with a village elder that Esther Warner enjoyed rapport. [This] is a comfortable, armchair traveller's book." C. P. Collier

Best Sell 28:41 Ap 15 '68 550w

"I have read few books more interesting and real—real in the sense that it is possible here to believe that what Konsuo Niki and Yoda do and say is understood, or at least believed in, by Esther Warner and through her the reader also believes and understands. All too rarely does a writer go into Africa and come back with more than a bit of fluff, a diatribe against apartheid, or ■ passionate plea for understanding of a people about whom he knows little and who know him not at all. I believe Esther Warner knew and respected her great friend Konsuo and when he paid his 'crossing fee' we rejoice with her in the majesty of this tiny man." M. D. Herrick

Library J 93:182 Ja 15 '68 200w

Reviewed by Valeria Gregory

Library J 93:127 Ap 15 '68 140w [YA]

TLS p1142 O 10 '68 350w

WARNER, SYLVIA TOWNSEND. T. H. White; a biography. 352p il pl $6.50 Viking

B or 92 White, Terence Hanbury 68-73835

A study of the writer "from his childhood in India, through the tragedy of his parents' divorce, his years at public school and in the university in England, his teaching career, and his years in Ireland during World War II, to his final emergence as author of the bestselling The Once and Future King [BRD 1958]." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

"[This] shapeless and baggy book . . . is a grab-bag of bits and pieces from the subject's diaries, letters and notes, strung together on a raveled string. T. H. White's last book [America At Last, BRD 1965], was infinitely more revealing about the man than this rather pretentious one." William Ready

America 118:797 Je 22 '68 450w

Reviewed by Maurice Adelman
America 119:569 N 30 '68 100w

Reviewed by Phoebe Adams
Atlantic 221:124 Je '68 70w

Reviewed by T. L. Vince
Best Sell 28:80 My 15 '68 1000w
Economist 225:xi D 2 '67 430w

Reviewed by K. G. Jackson
Harper 236:89 My '68 420w

"[This is] an honest, detached, and unbiased biography . . . discerning, and . . . written with judgment and flair. . . . The picture which emerges is a rounded and engrossing one of a man with vast intellectual capabilities and wide interests (scholarship, flying, falconry, hunting, fishing, and sailing), a serious literary craftsman, a man whose distaste for an unsatisfactory mother left him with latent homosexual urgings which he resisted, and one whom sadness pursued through a life fully chronicled in journals, diaries, and letters. A first-rate biography for the shelves of both public and academic libraries." L. W. Griffin

Library J 93:544 F 1 '68 210w

Reviewed by Noel Annan
N Y Rev of Books 11:16 N 7 '68 1750w

"It is impossible not to feel that his was ■ heroic life: few men can have punished themselves for the nature of their being more mercilessly than White. . . . Brilliantly written, constantly witty and perceptive, and without a superfluous word, this book seems to me ■ small masterpiece which may well be read long after the writings of its subject have been forgotten." Walter Allen

N Y Times Bk R p1 Ap 21 '68 550w

New Yorker 44:202 N 2 '68 230w

Reviewed by Robert Maurer
Sat R 51:25 Je 15 '68 900w

Time 91:82 My 31 '68 1000w

"Miss Townsend Warner has the great advantage, for her present task, of having not met White, so that she writes without the tension which almost always rose in his friendships. Her book is understanding, sympathetic, shrewd, stringent and extremely well managed. It seems ironically fitting that the hideous fate, which White thought was always against him, should have been so kind in the end in the choice of his biographer."

TLS p1186 D 7 '67 1000w

Va Q R 44:clxi autumn '68 190w

WARNER, W. LLOYD, ed. The emergent American society; ed: W. Lloyd Warner; assistant eds: Darab B. Unwalla [and] John H. Trimm; auth: June M. Collins [and others]. 2v; v 1. Large-scale organization. $15 Yale univ. press

309.173 U.S.—Social conditions. Associations 67-13450

This "volume devotes six chapters to the large-scale industrial corporations, two chapters to national private associations (one dealing exclusively with 'big trade and business associations'), one chapter each to labor unions and religious organizations, two chapters to the big sweeps affecting education (one dealing with 'federal involvement in education'), and two chapters to the federal government. . . . The general thesis of the volume is that the United States has changed from a 'folk society' into one organized into large-scale structures, which give it basic form and dominate it. The concentration is in three 'polyopolises'—on the Atlantic coast . . . in the Great Lakes region R) and on the South California coast." (Yale Index.

Reviewed by Wolf Heydebrand
Am J Soc 74:194 S '68 1200w

"The simplest summary judgment of [this work] is that it is a non-book. . . . The book tells us little that is new or insightful about the emergent American society. Nothing binds one chapter to the next and no attempt at synthesis is made at the end. Nevertheless, there are materials which will interest students. Chapters 2, 3, 4, and 5, on the size, headquarters, expansion and interlocking directorates of large corporations, all of which were written by Warner, present considerable interesting information. . . . But most of the findings are left hanging, since the authors do not relate them to economic, political or any other kind of theory. Although the book is concerned with 'large organizations,' it never considers the question of whether size is conducive to or counter-indicative of economic efficiency, effective democracy, or any other standard." Eli Ginzberg

Am Soc R 32:1014 D '67 950w

"The text is primarily—roughly 75 per cent—descriptive and statistical. The analytical portion is limited to the Editor's Introduction . . . a case study of structural changes within the General Electric Company . . . and a psychological critique of 'Executive Personality'. The basic premise, as enunciated by the Editor, is that small organizations are obsolete. . . . This is a blueprint for the corporative state—a vision unsupported by any convincing evidence, either of its necessity or its merits. There is no reference to relevant research in history, politics, economics or law . . . to the voluminous legislative and judicial records; nor to the critiques of corporatism and fascism. Religious, labor, educational, social, and professional organizations are classed with private monopolistic corporations—merely because they are large and centrally directed—despite their fundamental difference in purpose and motivation." H. M. Gray

Ann Am Acad 375:234 Ja '68 480w

"Coordination is best among the several chapters which discuss correlations between corporate size (in terms of several criteria) internal organization, headquarters location, growth, and interlocking directorates. . . . Some chapters seem sketchy, mechanical, and oversimplified. Several of the chapters seem to have been written five years ago and inadequately revised. Where this book overlaps [J. G.] March's Handbook of Organizations [BRD 1967], the latter is superior."

Choice 4:1288 Ja '68 170w

"The book offers a superior, panoramic description of the United States as a 'Great Society' in the classic Graham Wallas sense of the term. With its forthcoming companion volume, to deal with 'the emergent processes related to the realignment and centralization of power in various kinds of nationwide hierarchical institutions,' it promises to become a monumental work. [However] there is clearly an economic bias here: the big city and state governments are neglected, as is the military establishment as such (except insofar as it is part of the federal bureaucracy), and the balance of chapters between economic and political organizations is of the order of three to one. . . . The book has 107 statistical tables and 37 charts to provide the basis for, and illustrate, the description of the United States as a congeries of large-scale organizations. The direct, factual conclusions are well drawn . . . but there is no meaningful interpretation [given]. . . . [Yet] anyone who wants to have a basic understanding of American society will have to examine this impressive volume."

A. M. Rose

Yale R 57:298 D '67 900w

WARRACK, JOHN. Carl Maria von Weber. 377p il pl $7.95 Macmillan (N Y)

780.924 Weber, Karl Maria Friedrich Ernst, Freiherr von 67-31200

"Studies of all Weber's operas—Silvana, Abu Hassan, Der Freischütz, Die Drei Pintos, Euryanthe, and Oberon—and all his orchestral compositions, are woven into a . . . narrative of the composer's life, thus presenting the man and his work in the context of a continuously developing theme." (Publisher's note) Annotated bibliography. Index.

"Although the name of Carl Maria von Weber is respected universally, information about his short life and his distinguished contributions to music has not been collected in one place until the publication of this illuminating biography. Weber's position as an influence on Wagner has always been known, but his actual artistic achievements in the early Romantic Period revealed here are concrete and fascinating. The music composed by Weber was as great as that of any composer in the first quarter of the 19th Century—excepting only Beethoven. This well-written, well-illustrated, well-printed, well-bound biography is highly recommended for its clear exposition of his life, his times, and the profile of his music."

Baird Hastings

Library J 93:2480 Je 15 '68 110w

Reviewed by Robert Jacobson
Sat R 51:42 D 21 '68 180w

"[Warrack] writes a prose capable of supporting a great deal of factual material brought together by arduous research and so justifies his method, which was intended to avoid the dichotomy of life and works . . . [However,] the reader finds that he has . . . to change gear in each chapter as he passes from narrative criticism . . . [and] it is not altogether easy, in spite of a comprehensive catalogue of works and a good index, to get a synoptic view of any particular species of composition. . . . [Nevertheless, the book is] a standard work on a neglected subject, is rich in human interest, is well proportioned and amply provided with musical and pictorial illustrations, and is written with that mixture of sympathy, insight and honest common sense that constitutes the best criticism."

TLS p453 My 2 '68 1150w

WARREN, SIDNEY, ed. The American president. 176p $4.95; pa $1.95 Prentice-Hall

353.03 Presidents—U.S. Executive power—U.S. 67-25927

"This book of readings is designed to provide for both the student and the layman a deeper understanding of the dimension, the complexity, and the subtleties of Presidential leadership. . . . The first section deals with the place of the Presidency in the Constitution and how it has evolved over the years. . . . The next section contains examples of how the office has been regarded by some of the men who have occupied it. In the third section, leading commentators view the office from the outside looking in. And in the final section, the Presidency is examined by means of official statements and policies that reflect the wide-ranging roles that both constitutional duty and historical circumstance have required the Chief Executive to perform." (Pref) Bibliography.

"The standard authorities such as Corwin, Neustadt, Rossiter, Koenig, and Burns are represented in the selections, and every essential aspect of the office is discussed in this brief volume. . . . Recommended for the college library."

Choice 5:410 My '68 90w

Reviewed by Larissa Rulofson

Library J 93:316 Ja 15 '68 60w [YA]

WARREN, SIDNEY. The battle for the presidency. 426p $7.95 Lippincott

329 Presidents—U.S.—Election 68-14134

In this study of presidential campaigns "I have selected the ten which I believe best illustrate significant aspects of presidential politics or whose results have had an impact on national affairs. In this descriptive and analytical study of those contests, I have explored such factors as the role of party and of party organization in electing a President, the changing pattern and style of presidential campaigns, the uses and abuses of campaign propaganda, the distortion or oversimplification of vital national issues, the influence of personality, the effects of money and the mass media, the merits and deficiencies of the primary system and the national convention, the politics and problems of the electoral college, and criteria for recruiting political leadership." (Pref) Bibliography. Index.

"Warren, author of the earlier [The] President as World Leader [BRD 1964, 1965] has produced a stimulating and sound piece of scholarship. His work compares favorably with . . . [N.] Polsby and [A.] Wildavsky's Presidential Elections [BRD 1964]. . . . The book will undoubtedly appeal to a large group of readers. [Its timeliness] should not overshadow its long-range usefulness as a perceptive contribution to the literature of Presidential and party literature. Well written and documented, this work will be required reading for students of American history and government."

Choice 5:1037 O '68 110w

"The author's emphasis is on contemporary politics, but one regrets that the period between 1860 and 1896, by no means unimportant in party development, is unrepresented. . . . There are some minor factual slips, but more regrettable are some oversights. . . . Quotations gleaned from many sources make for lively reading; and the analyses of presidential contributions to the American political story are perceptive. The jacket claims too much for the book's original approach and its blasting of 'long-enduring political myths,' but the general reader will find both interest and enlightenment in [these] accounts." E. H. Roseboom

J Am Hist 55:644 D '68 370w

WARREN, SIDNEY—Continued

"[This] examination of the battles for the Presidency is directed toward the nonscholar. . . . [The author] deals with personalities and issues throughout our history. Each chapter, with one exception pivots about what or whom he considers a major election or major figure. One half of the volume is devoted to the period from the New Deal to the present deal. . . . The bibliography is selective and sound. Selected bibliographies are easy to fault and this one ought to include J. Michener's Report of the County Chairman [BRD 1961] for Mr. Warren does give attention to the 1960 election. This is a good book for public holdings if a library needs something current; for other holdings it is a luxury, not a necessity." Jack Van Derhoof
Library J 93:2670 J1 '68 200w

Reviewed by Sumika Yamashita
Library J 93:3340 S 15 '68 140w [YA]

WARTOFSKY, MARX W. Conceptual foundations of scientific thought; an introduction to the philosophy of science. 560p $8.95 Macmillan (N Y)

501 Science—Philosophy 67-15542

In most of the volume the author "discusses various methods used in science and examines several basic concepts of the physical, biological, and social sciences. In shorter sections he deals with the birth of scientific thought and the relations of science to ethics and humanistic understanding." (Library J) Annotated chapter bibliographies. Index.

"The subtitle suggests a textbook, but in fact this is a discursive survey of the philosophy of science, with more attention to the fundamentals of philosophy than to those of science. Most undergraduates will find the level and the style of writing difficult, the comprehension of the entire book (whose coverage of issues in science and the philosophy of science is excellent) a considerable achievement. Undergraduate libraries should have it, but they should balance its highly theoretical, though elementary point of view with those of [E.] Schrödinger's What Is Life? [BRD 1945] and [A.] Einstein's The World as I See It [BRD 1934, 1935] on the one hand and of [J.] Watson's The Double Helix [; a personal account of the discovery of the structure of DNA, BRD 1963] on the other." Choice 5:984 O '68 120w

"Professor Wartofsky of Boston University has written a highly readable, informative, and stimulating book. . . . The lengthy appendixes cannot be ignored. The 60-page bibliography gives additional material for each chapter along with Mr. Wartofsky's comments. . . . Recommended for college, university, and large public libraries." L. J. Creek
Library J 93:2008 My 15 '68 110w

WARWICK, ALAN R. Let's look at prehistoric animals; il. by Norma Ost. 63p $275 Whitman, A.

560 Fossils—Juvenile literature. Extinct animals—Juvenile literature 67-26522

"The story of those strange and often grotesque creatures that populated the earth hundreds of millions of years ago." (p. 7) Index. "Grades five to six." (Library J)

"This book is so concerned with structural and anatomical details that it is likely to dull the interest children usually bring to books about prehistoric animals. The pronouncing index and chronology chart are useful, but the encyclopedia format makes the book hard to manage; the text is one long chapter without divisions. The drawings are pedestrian and flawed by family perspective." Rose Henningse
Library J 93:2117 My 15 '68 50w

"The title of this book illustrates all too aptly the procrustean nature of the 'series'. One thing that no one can do is to look at a prehistoric animal. Prehistoric animals can be discussed and studied in books and museums but not until p. 57 is there any suggestion that an attempt has been made at the reconstruction of a prehistoric animal which can be looked at. . . . It is extremely doubtful whether this type of illustration and general treatment is really suitable for scientific subjects, in which some indication of scale or some opportunities for observations should be included." TLS p465 My 25 '67 140w

WASIOLEK, EDWARD, ed. The Notebooks for The Idiot. See Dostoevsky, F.

WASSERMAN, E. R. The Random house guide to graduate study in the arts and sciences [by] E. R. Wasserman and E. E. Switzer. 361p $6.95 Random house; pa $1.95 Vintage
378.73 Colleges and universities—U.S.—Directories 67-2262

This book includes "a general discussion of the nature of graduate study, particularly at the doctoral level; a discipline-by-discipline rundown of graduate work, with lists of institutions offering the doctorate in each field; commentary on how to make application to graduate schools; a discussion of fellowships, assistantships and other financial aids, including a listing of the major ones; descriptions of the various educational testing programs, together with sample questions; and, finally, the graduate student's status with the draft." (Library J) Subject index. Index of graduate institutions.

"[This guide] does evaluate [colleges]. In the subject sections are tables of schools offering Ph.D. programs: those in boldface are rated tops by Allan Carter's American Universities and Colleges (9th ed., 1964) and single asterisks mean 'attractive' while double ones stand for 'extremely attractive.' Accompanying tabular matter cites number of awarded degrees 1960-65 and enrollments. . . . The authors have done a nice handbook for individuals not libraries. First of all, libraries have most of the guidance and statistical information . . . and will have better organized, more complete institutional facts from [American Council on Education], Peterson's or Viking's Guide to American Graduate Schools."

Choice 5:27 Mr '68 250w

Christian Century 84:1527 N 29 '67 60w

"This is the most complete compilation to date of material of interest to students planning to pursue graduate work. . . . Highly recommended for all students contemplating enrollment . . . and for all college and university personnel engaged in any way with graduate study." Jim Ranz

Library J 92:3028 S 15 '67 120w

WASSERMAN, PAUL, ed. Who's who in consulting. See Who's who in consulting

WATANABE, RUTH T. Introduction to music research. 237p $6.50 Prentice-Hall

780.01 Music—Research 67-20360

A librarian at the Eastman School of Music, University of Rochester, begins her book with an "apologia of music research. . . . Later chapters fall into three large sections: Chapters two through seven deal with the nature, resources, and use of libraries, the next eight with the preparation of a research paper, the last two with specific and typical music reference books, their scope, functions, and the information network which they form." (Music Lib Assn Notes) Chapter bibliographies. Index of proper names. Index of works and periodicals. Index of subjects.

"More than anything else, this is a 'practical handbook' for serious music students, primarily beginning graduate students. . . . Especially valuable is [the author's] discussion of periodicals. She also includes good advice about the process and etiquette of research. Each chapter is followed by an excellent bibliography representative of the kinds of materials discussed in that chapter." A. B. Skel

Library J 93:191 Ja 15 '68 130w

"The author knows what she is doing, which of course involves mainly a specific teaching function, and not necessarily the teaching of music research methods at all levels and to all areas of interest. The book helps the young graduate student in many other ways, patiently suggesting techniques, explaining, describing, organizing, guiding, and admonishing. It is essentially a 'how to do it' book, albeit a very good one. What gets done is not considered, although the student may pick up some suggestions, very faint but very clear and very sound, on what should not get done. . . . The teacher will be well advised to assure his students that to the research scholar mastery of the material in this book, while elementary, is nonetheless essential." D. W. Krummel

Music Lib Assn Notes 24:481 Mr '68 1250w

WATERFIELD, GORDON. Layard of Nineveh. 535p pl $10 Praeger

B or 92 Layard, Sir Austen Henry. Near East—History 68-16722

A biography of the English "adventurer, archaeologist, politician and diplomat . . . [who] was also a writer of ability and a connoisseur of Italian paintings [and who] . . . excavated [the] Assyrian antiquities at Nimrud and later at Nineveh." (Book World) "The main sources for the biography are the three hundred and forty volumes of Layard Papers in the Manuscript Room of the British Museum; letters in the possession of the Layard and Guest families and of Sir John Murray; Layard's own publications and thirteen volumes of the diary of his wife, Enid Guest, from 1869 to 1894. . . . The Layard Papers have been drawn on by specialists writing on Assyrian archaeology, on the Eastern Question, on Italian painting, and on banking, but much of the material used in this biography has not been previously published." (Introd) Bibliography. Index.

"The publishers are to be commended for the high, 19th-century standards employed in the production of this biography. The splendid type on exceptionally fine paper found in this book is so rare as to be almost unique [today.] There is also an excellent fold-out map. . . . Physically, the book is a pleasure to hold and to read." Byron Farwell

Book World p12 Je 9 '68 500w
Choice 5:1024 O '68 190w

"At 22 years of age [Layard] began a ride across the Middle East in search of adventure; ten years later he had uncovered the ancient Assyrian cities of Nimrud and Nineveh. . . . Waterfield, journalist and author, vividly portrays [this] utterly fascinating man. He writes with ease and clarity of both archaeology and diplomacy, and he draws extensively upon the huge collection of Sir Henry's manuscripts. A very scholarly biography which reads like an adventure story, this book cannot be too highly praised nor too generally recommended" R. R. Rea

Library J 93:1998 My 15 '68 90w

"An entertaining biography of a quarrelsome genius."

New Yorker 44:176 Ap 27 '68 130w

WATERS, F. W. The way in and the way out; science and religion reconciled. 280p $4.75 Oxford

215 Religion and science

This volume consists of "an account of the origins of modern science . . . followed by discussion of the nature of scientific knowledge, freedom, the case against and for belief in God, the topic of evolution, and the end of the conflict." (Choice)

"[This] is neither very original nor very profound. . . . The contribution of Galileo is misconceived, the account of scientific method reveals little understanding of what scientists actually do or what it means. The omission of names such as Schrodinger and De Broglie . . . suggests that Waters' knowledge of modern physics is at third or fourth hand. In the area of theology the omission of the name of Karl Barth is surprising. . . . The discussion of evolution and miracles is ambivalent to say the least. The book is much briefer than [I. G.] Barbour's Issues in Science and Religion [BRD 1967], but the brevity is at the expense of adequacy. There is an index of names but not of subjects."

Choice 5:1152 N '68 200w

"For Mr. Waters, both science and religion are concerned with the whole of reality. The essential difference between them is not a difference between the objects of their concern but a difference in the way they deal with those objects. He can be faulted on minor matters of fact, but his general approach is sound and illuminating."

TLS p757 J1 18 '628 220w

WATKINS, RALPH J. Expanding Ecuador's exports: a commodity-by-commodity study with projections to 1973; prepared by Surveys & res. corporation. 430p $15 Praeger

382 Ecuador—Commerce. Commercial products 66-15451

An "analysis of Ecuador's export potential conducted for the National Economic Planning and Coordination Board of that country. . . .

On the supply side, in order to arrive at projections of potential production for export, the study takes a . . . look at Ecuador's natural resource base for exports along with data relating to present and future domestic demand. Possibilities for further domestic processing of raw materials and aspects of the Ecuadorian legal structure most directly affecting export incentives are also examined. On the demand side, the study presents country-by-country projections of demand for Ecuadorian products. It also incorporates facts about production trends in other countries and projections of shifting trade and production opportunities resulting from the European and Latin-American movements toward economic integration." (Choice)

"[This] comprehensive examination of Ecuador's exports . . . is often repetitive and disorganized; but this does not detract from the invaluable information it contains. Although specific opportunities [for exports] are discussed, these will require more extensive evaluations before investment decisions for expanding capacity can be made. Mr. Watkins' work is an essential beginning. An extensive program is suggested for stimulating and augmenting Ecuador's exports. Other developing countries will benefit from the recommendations made." J. A. Hasson

Ann Am Acad 375:245 Ja '68 400w

"[Watkins'] conclusions are backed by an impressive collection of statistical data relating to the demand and supply outlook, both for commodities currently exported in significant amounts and for those that could become important sources of foreign exchange. . . . Overall, [he] has organized a great quantity of factual information with admirable competence. The arguments and conclusions are all expressed with excellent clarity and all supporting statistical data are conveniently included. Should be of interest both for its factual content and as a good example of a basic methodology for organizing information on a specific aspect of development planning."

Choice 4:1290 Ja '68 250w

WATKINSON, RAY. William Morris as designer. 90p il col il $16.50 Reinhold

745.4 Morris, William. Design, Decorative 67-24704

Following a biographical sketch and chapters on Morris's firm and precursors, the author discusses "stained glass, pattern design, and printing. In a final chapter on the Arts and Crafts Movement he offers an interpretation of Morris's theories of art with quotations from his writings and lectures, and [demonstrates] his influence on 20th-Century design. [The illustrations] occupy the second half of the book and are arranged in the same sequence as the chapter headings." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

Choice 5:478 Je '68 120w

"Recommended for larger collections and specifically for those collections in the field of applied design." Paul von Khrum

Library J 92:4495 D 15 '67 120w

Reviewed by Timothy Hilton

New Statesman 74:721 N 24 '67 450w

Reviewed by Lewis Mumford

N Y Rev of Books 10:8 My 23 '68 1550w

"There is an unmistakable firmness and authenticity about the way in which [Henderson] tackles the social background to Morris's activity. . . . [He] also gives a capable brief summary of Morris's position in art-history. What he does not give, and does not set out to give, is the poignant and occasionally hilarious detail of Morris's personal life and the almost day-by-day account of that life's slow decline which we find in [P. Henderson's William Morris, His Life, Work and Friends, BRD 1967]." John Russell

N Y Times Bk R p7 Ja 21 '68 700w

"[This] book is particularly valuable for the way in which [Morris's] work is set among that of his predecessors, contemporaries and successors. . . . It is not derogatory of Mr. Watkinson's informative and level-headed text to say that his book is perhaps most valuable for the ninety-one illustrations, of which twenty-six are in colour."

TLS p1108 N 23 '67 1100w

WATSON, ALAN. The law of persons in the later Roman Republic. 269p $12 Oxford 347 Law—Rome [68-720281]

The author attempts to examine "every text that can shed light on Roman law of this period concerning such questions as marriage, divorce, enslavement, manumission, and guardianship." (Choice)

"The present treatment has little continuity, a fact proclaimed by the author himself. It is rather an excellent reference manual that examines the primary evidence with great care. Suitable for legal and research libraries; the undergraduate will find it very technical. Latin texts are interpreted but not translated."

Choice 5:665 J1 '68 110w

"There is a formidable index of passages that testifies to the number and variety of ancient statements . . . illuminating the subject. But many of them are ambiguous or disputed, and Professor Watson has treated these fully, clearly, and in most cases successfully. The author has a knack for recognizing ad hoc situations, which are so common among the pragmatic Romans; and he therefore does not make the mistake of supposing that all legal statements on immediate problems by Roman writers contain principles always and everywhere applicable. This approach of course, improves the importance of this book for those specifically interested in the social, economic, and political aspects of Roman life."

Misprints are few and misstatements of fact fewer." F. C. Bourne

Class World 62:17 S '68 300w

WATSON, BURTON. tr. Basic writings of Mo Tzu, Hsün-Tzu, and Han Fei Tzu [prepared for the Columbia college program of trs. from the Oriental classics, Wm. Theodore de Bary, editor]. 135p $10 Columbia univ. press

181 Philosophy, Chinese 67-16170

The three translations collected in this volume were previously published in separate paperback editions. The translator has selected chapters from the philosophers's works, and provided introductory chapters. Indexes.

"The texts in this book are well chosen and the introductions are helpful to an understanding of the major tenets of each of these teachers. . . . As examples of ancient Chinese prose, the works of these three philosophers are remarkable for their lucid arguments, their eloquence and facility of expression, and the cogent, systematic presentation of their views. In this translation Professor Watson has deliberately reproduced the stylistic peculiarities of the original . . . [yet] he has succeeded in giving the readers an English version that is smooth and readable." Liu Wu-Chi

Sat R 50:61 Je 10 '67 600w

"Random checks against originals show [these translations] to be remarkably faithful. They are also elegantly expressed in straightforward modern English and provided only with notes that are useful. . . . All three of the original books are made up of self-contained chapters that tend, particularly in 'Mo Tzu', to overlap or repeat each other, so that by taking whole chapters Professor Burton Watson gives us the main points without irritating breaks in the argument. Although fuller English translations of all the books have been done before, this selection is so much more readable that it is a notable contribution to making ancient China better known."

TLS p9 Ja 4 '68 700w

WATSON, CHRISTOPHER SETON-. See Seton-Watson, C.

WATSON, J. WREFORD. North America: its countries and regions. 2d ed 881p pl maps $12 Praeger

917 North America—Description and travel 67-21753

This volume, originally published in England in 1963, "is really . . . a regional exercise in cultural geography—to show how, in spite of the very strong and persistent influences of the terrain, taken in its fullest sense, men of different cultures, with separate aims and separate means, have come to create marked regional differences in the development of the landscape, and thus have made their own distinctive interpretation of the natural scene." (Pref) "The U.S. is divided into four regions (North and Northeast, Midwest, West, and South); Canada . . . is partitioned into five regions (Atlantic and Gulf of St. Lawrence, Central Settled Canada, Southern Prairies, Southern British Columbia, and North). These divisions are preceded by discussions on the rise of nationalism and regionalism." (Choice) Bibliography. Index.

"A cultural-historical geographic approach follows the setting of an extensive and complete physical stage. North America is discussed both as a complete entity and in its individual regions. . . . This second edition includes few, but significant, changes. Statistics, especially of production, have been updated and the index has been revised. The most important revision deals with recent trends, particularly with regard to urban growth and the increase in tertiary economic activities. A total of 35 pages are given to Mexico, while Central America and the West Indies are completely ignored. A very good example of how a Canadian, and now a European, geographer sees North America."

Choice 5:867 S '68 160w

"Obviously well researched and advanced in presentation, and decidedly British in viewpoint, [this] must rate as the definitive work in its field . . . [and is] heartily recommended for public and academic libraries." H. R. Downey

Library J 93:1631 Ap 15 '68 100w

WATSON, JAMES D. The double helix: a personal account of the discovery of the structure of DNA. 226p il $5.95 Atheneum pubs.

574.8 DNA. Biochemistry—Research 68-16217

This book by the "winner with Francis Crick and Maurice Wilkins of the Nobel Prize for medicine and physiology in 1962, is [a] . . . personal, day-by-day account of how Watson, Crick and their collaborators in the years between 1951 and 1953 hit upon the 'double helix' model of the DNA (deoxyribonucleic acid) molecule, the fundamental genetical material." (America) Portions of this book were first published in The Atlantic Monthly.

Reviewed by J. F. Mulligan

America 118:296 Mr 2 '68 600w

Reviewed by Peter Farb

Book World p1 F 18 '68 950w

Reviewed by Eugene Rabinowitch

Bul Atomic Sci 24:27 D '68 1900w

Choice 5:368 My '68 180w

Reviewed by Philip Hefner

Christian Century 85:1065 Ag 21 '68 700w

"Professor Watson retells the race with the enthusiasm and the perspective of his youth. He's got it all—the excitement of the competition with its frustrations and plain hard intellectual work and his own roughhewn impressions of himself and his associates. These latter emerge as fallible humans with their peccadillos sharply etched. It's fascinating reading for it captures the flavor of first-rate science. But for some of the participants it's also a bit embarrassing. . . . Professor Watson could have softened all this. But, he says: ' . . . I have attempted to recreate my first impressions of the relevant events and personalities rather than present an assessment which takes into account many facts I have learned since the structure was found.' That's a valid literary aim, and Professor Watson succeeds admirably. He gives personal insight into one of the great scientific achievements of all time. His book should be taken in that spirit." R. C. Cowen

Christian Science Monitor p12 My 7 '68 450w

Reviewed by Peter Caws

Commentary 45:88 Je '68 2000w

Reviewed by T. L. Hayes

Commonweal 88:389 Je 14 '68 850w

Reviewed by R. T. Francoeur

Critic 26:81 Ap '68 1100w

Economist 227:65 My 18 '68 700w

Encounter 30:60 J1 '68 3000w

Reviewed by W. K. Beatty

Library J 93:986 Mr 1 '68 250w

Reviewed by C. L. Tefft

Library J 93:2136 My 15 '68 110w [YA]

"James Watson and Francis Crick both enjoy (I use the verb literally) the reputation of enfants terribles among their fellows in biology. Francis Crick likes the stress to be on the word terrible, of course, as any Englishman does. But James Watson is a child of America, the culture indifferently of the spoiled child and the child wonder, and he has never balked at the simple art of playing the enfant. The pleasure of this book about their collaboration is that it perfectly catches both attitudes. . . . [But] the book communicates the spirit of science as no formal account has ever done. . . . For example, it will bring home to the non-scientist how the scientific method really works; that we invent a model and then test its consequences, and that it is this conjunction of imagination and realism that constitutes the inductive method. . . . [Watson] expresses the open adventure of science. . . . This is a contemporary message that every reader ought to get from the book, and it gives it the force of a social document." J. Bronowski

Nation 206:381 Mr 18 '68 1900w

Reviewed by M. S. Gazzaniga
Nat R 20:455 My 7 '68 950w

Reviewed by Jerome Lettvin
Natur Hist 77:62 Je '68 1950w
New Statesman 75:654 My 17 '68 1500w

Reviewed by P. B. Medawar
N Y Rev of Books 10:3 Mr 28 '68 3200w

Reviewed by R. K. Merton
N Y Times Bk R p1 F 25 '68 3100w

Reviewed by Jeremy Bernstein
New Yorker 44:172 Ap 13 '68 5250w

"'Honest Jim,' as a colleague once called him, has told all in a frank, untechnical memoir that will destroy some laymen's illusions about the austerity of science and will also enrage some biologists. In fact, pre-publication protests from Crick and Wilkins persuaded Harvard to drop the book and give it to Atheneum. . . . For scientists, the helix couldn't have been a more dramatic event. For the layman who will find out about it through this book, the drama of the discovery would be deepened if Watson, a gifted popularizer, had included a brief scientific and historical appendix, making it even clearer why DNA galvanized the professionals. One hungers also for a sharper picture of Crick's contribution to the DNA model. His role is not slighted, only rendered a bit mysterious. But, of course, in human affairs, which is Watson's real subject, the truth is always hypothetical." R. A. Sokolov

Newsweek 71:88 F 26 '68 850w

"This book is being acclaimed as the Pepys diary of modern science. I cannot understand why. Samuel Pepys not only possessed a gift for dry precision in writing but his daily accounting of his life between the years 1659 and 1669 was a miniature etching of the great and small events experienced by the city of London during that period. . . . In terms of writing style, [Watson has] little of distinction. . . . Except for its prologue and epilogue (which are curiously different), The Double Helix is shallow and shrill. . . . [It] is a bleak recitation of bickering and personal ambition too intense to leave room for caring about the larger concerns of Pepys's modern counterparts. . . . What worries me about The Double Helix is the effect it may have on immature minds. . . . The more idealistic they are, the more they are needed in science, and the more negatively they will react to Watson's story. . . . Furthermore, [it] is so fragmentary and incomplete a mirror of the search for DNA structure that anyone who hopes to understand the true history of this enterprise must turn to other books, including Watson's own Molecular Biology of the Gene." John Lear

Sat R 51:36 Mr 16 '68 1700w

Reviewed by Erwin Chargaff
Science 159:1448 Mr 29 '68 2350w

Reviewed by André Lwoff
Sci Am 219:133 Jl '68 4000w
Time 91:98 F 23 '68 250w

Reviewed by Isaac Asimov
Va Q R 44:491 summer '68 1100w

Reviewed by Mary Ellmann
Yale R 57:631 summer '68 2000w

WATSON, SALLY. The hornet's nest. 246p $4.50; lib bdg $4.27 Holt

67-17721

"In this novel the author attempts to capture the spirit of the times in Scotland and America during the days preceding the American Revolution. It is the story of Ronald and Lauchlin McLeod who flee persecution on the Scottish Isle of Skye only to find some of the same prejudices in Williamsburg in 1773. While living with the Williamsburg Trepanors the young people are witness to the changing feelings of the Colonists towards the injustice of England. . . . Grades seven to nine." (Best Sell)

Best Sell 27:467 Mr 1 '68 100w

"Watson, author of . . . [this distinguished book] also was a royal sympathizer in her excellent book about the English Civil War, Lark [BRD 1965]. In her new story her talent has strengthened and matured; this is one of the best books for young people to come along in some time. I hope it will be widely read, for it has important things to say to us in the troubled and complicated days in which we, like her young heroes, find no easy or clear-cut answers. . . . Here, in a deft and subtle interplay of character and event, Miss Watson presents some of the incidents that led to the American Revolution. Her characters, both young highlanders and colonials, are very real in their confusion of loyalties." Madeleine L'Engle

Book World p35 (children's issue) My 5 '68 320w

Christian Science Monitor pB10 My 2 '68 180w

"Lighthearted, humorous, the story is nevertheless a convincing picture of Williamsburg at the beginning of the Revolution. Lauchlin is like no one but herself, but she is quite as engaging as the author's other heroines. The personalities of all the young people are individual, and each has some special appeal. If anyone can persuade reluctant girl readers that historical fiction can be good reading it is this author." R. H. V.

Horn Bk 44:183 Ap '68 260w

"This book is more about manners than muskets and will be taken up by girls, not boys. . . . The chatty and comfortable style tends to curdle whenever the cat, Haggis, has a passage to himself. Still, as a girls' story, this historical adventure is rather a treat." J. C. Thomson

Library J 93:311 Ja 15 '68 100w

Reviewed by Zena Sutherland
Sat R 51:41 My 11 '68 130w

WATSON-WILLIAMS, HELEN. André Gide and the Greek myth; a critical study. 200p $6.10 Oxford

843 Gide, André Paul Guillaume [67-88067]

"In turning her doctoral thesis into book-form [the author] has omitted her treatment of Gide's influence on later writers, while reshaping and expanding the critical discussion of his works to show how they trace the heroic search for self-understanding and self-expression." (TLS)

"This learned and most readable volume fills a conspicuous gap in studies on an author who, throughout his long career, demonstrated his admiration for Greek civilization. Since heretofore only short articles had been published in this general area, the present full length study of certain Gidian heroes will be the major critical analysis of the subject probably for some time to come. Watson-Williams' treatment of Gide's early works complements Vinio Rossi's recent work [André Gide: The Evolution of an Aesthetic, BRD 1967]. The lack of a bibliography of any sort in the present volume is a disappointment and a major deficiency in an otherwise admirable work of erudition."

Choice 5:350 My '68 120w

Economist 224:656 Ag 19 '67 400w

"The book demands to be considered on two levels. On the one hand it attempts to clarify the extent of Gide's lifelong interest in, and understanding of Hellenism, on the other it stands as a contribution to our understanding of Gide's own thought. . . . Although Miss Watson-Williams's fifth chapter is devoted to projects and theories of his major creative period between Le Roi Candaule of 1901 and Oedipe of 1931, these twenty pages cannot satisfactorily fill the space vacated by the inevitable exclusion of all his most successful works of fiction, from L'Immoraliste to Les Faux-Monnayeurs. Such omission means that, on the general interpretative level, there is again no real subject. . . . Miss Watson-Williams's appreciation of some of Gide's individual works, particularly his Prométhée mal enchainé and his magnificent Thésée, is often exciting and useful. Her work remains one of the more stimulating pieces of Gidian criticism of recent years." TLS p884 S 28 '67 440w

WATSON-WILLIAMS, HELEN—Continued

WATT, ALAN. The evolution of Australian foreign policy, 1938-1965. 387p $11.50 Cambridge

327.94 Australia—Foreign relations

[67-10782]

An Australian diplomat who "is now Director of the Australian Institute of International Affairs [gives an] account of the growth of his country's foreign policy since Munich. . . . The treatment is roughly chronological, from 1938 to 1966 (not 1965, as the title says), but breaks into two parts. Chapters 1 to 5 deal with the positions taken by successive governments and foreign ministers, while chapters 6 to 8 . . . consider Australian relations with Asia and the Commonwealth, and [evaluate the record]." (Economist) Bibliography. Index.

"From almost complete reliance upon Great Britain in the conduct of its foreign affairs Australia moved within three decades to the development of a full-fledged apparatus for the conduct of its international relations and a set of principles defining its basic national interests. . . . These are the facets of foreign policy the author is interested in demonstrating, either expressly or by implication. He does it well by choosing some major problems Australian governments have had to deal with and showing how they were handled. . . . This descriptive, temperate, and evaluative account, by emphasizing the process of the development of foreign policy, can provide useful lessons for many new states on how they might successfully integrate themselves into the international society." Werner Levi

Am Hist R 73:580 D '67 360w

"Although at times Watt could have enlarged upon the relationship between domestic events and foreign policy and upon the machinery of implementation, he does venture to unite personality with policy. Of great worth to the student are his syntheses and comments upon other literature in the field." Choice 5:545 Je '68 180w

"From a man with such a background, one might expect revelations; but Australia exerts an especially brutal control over officials who reveal things, and Sir Alan has confined himself to public sources, apart from the occasional hint of a whisper. . . . The author's need to find public sources for his statements sometimes leads him to quote others to an irritating extent. In the later chapters he conquers this urge, and says many sensible things on his own account. . . . The style is stilted, although the opinions are sound and the references accurate. 'Foreign policy' is narrowly interpreted. . . . Yet the book's virtues must be stressed. . . . There is a welcome awareness of the world circumstances in which Australian policies have had to be made. There are some unusually cool-headed assessments of current policy, especially on Vietnam." Economist 223:1026 Je 3 '67 550w

Reviewed by C. H. Grattan

Pacific Affairs 41:141 spring '68 120w

WATT, D. C. A history of the world in the twentieth century [by] D. C. Watt, Frank Spencer [and] Neville Brown. 864p maps col maps $12.50 Morrow

909.82 History, Modern—20th century

68-2211

This volume attempts "to weave together the histories of the separate states and areas so as to make one history of them. Inevitably this has imposed certain limitations on the scope of our study. Our history concentrates on the political events of the world since 1900. . . . Secondly, our history inevitably focuses more on the international aspects of world history, since it is in the relations between states that the stuff of a world history must soon be found. . . . Lastly, this book is written in the belief . . . that nationalism has too long made slaves of the historical profession. The historian now has to try to single out not those events which are peculiar to each political unit, but those common to them." (Pref) Bibliography. Statistical tables. Index.

Reviewed by C. L. Hohl

America 119:568 N 30 '68 40w

"Think of [this] as a reference volume; it is too fact-crowded and event-filled for paced reading."

Christian Century 85:487 Ap 17 '68 30w

"[The authors] do not entirely exclude economic, social and even literary, scientific and philosophical factors (Freud, Picasso, Einstein, Kafka) when they have influenced politics. The one subject almost entirely excluded is religion. . . . [Their] idea of pure, absolutely objective history . . . should mean a detachment, an unwillingness to make value judgments, which no historian could, or perhaps should, entertain. Fortunately for the wide ranging interest of their book the writers have made many exceptions to their general rule. . . . Dozens of value-judgments, implicit or explicit, could be quoted. . . . [This book] can be read through with pleasure; it is no mere work of reference. Each of the three authors has written a separate part. . . . They have organized their immense material with great skill."

TLS p151 F 15 '68 950w

WATT, D. C., jt. ed. Studies in international history. See Bourne, K.

WATTS, K. G. O., jt. auth. Symmetry. See Razzell, A. G.

WATTS WRITERS' WORKSHOP. From the ashes. See Schulberg, B., ed.

WAUGH, ALEC. My brother Evelyn, and other portraits [Eng title: My brother Evelyn & other profiles]. 340p il $6.95 Farrar, Straus B or 92 Authors, English. Waugh, Evelyn 67-22437

The British novelist and author of The Early Years of Alec Waugh (BRD 1963) presents "this memoir [which] offers a number of portrait-sketches of people—most of them eminent and all of them British—whom [the author met] . . . during a period of four decades [beginning with the 1920's]." (Library J) Some of these portraits have appeared in magazines.

Reviewed by Joseph Browne

America 118:236 F 17 '68 310w

Reviewed by R. C. Baxter

Best Sell 27:420 F 1 '68 850w

"[Waugh rolls out anecdotes] for us here like a good publisher over lunch—gregarious and tactful, gossipy but careful not to wound or alarm. The result has considerable charm and absolutely no significance. . . . The section on his younger brother Evelyn, although briefer than the title might lead one to hope, is certainly worth the cost of admission. . . . [The author] affords us, paradoxically, a rare and interesting look at Evelyn: very few people have ever managed to sound protective, unimpaired and even slightly sentimental about this satanic put-on artist. 'Basically he was gentle, warm and tender'—it gives one an almost vicious thrill to be let in on such scandals." Wilfrid Sheed

Book World p3 Ja 21 '68 600w

Reviewed by Serrell Hillman

Canadian Forum 47:261 F '68 1350w

Choice 5:628 Jl '68 160w

Reviewed by Pamela Marsh

Christian Science Monitor p13 Ja 25 '68 750w

Economist 225:411 O 28 '67 470w

"The portraits are not really fleshed out but are offered piecemeal—a dash of Edmund Gosse or Siegfried Sassoon here, a dollop of Hugh Walpole, Vyvyan Holland, or Somerset Maugham there. Most of the material is so pallid that it often seems as though Mr. Waugh were cleaning his desk between novels. Also, it is not to this book's advantage to come on it too soon after reading the first, and only, volume of Evelyn Waugh's autobiography. A Little Learning [BRD 1964] in which the great satirist reveals a humane affection and respect for his brother which is oddly unreciprocated in this book. Rather, the portrait of Evelyn is tainted by a big brother's bravado and egotism. This is mainly a collection of anecdotes, sometimes zesty, often not." R. J. Thompson

Library J 92:4406 D 1 '67 150w

Reviewed by C. H. Simonds

Nat R 20:408 Ap 23 '68 200w

Reviewed by Honor Tracy
New Repub 158:39 Mr 23 '68 1250w

Reviewed by V. S. Pritchett
New Statesman 74:879 D 22 '67 1050w

"[The book] has a chapter on the poet, journalist, editor and literary cricketer J. C. Squire. Squire has sunk, you might say, almost without trace. . . . Waugh brings his forgotten figures vividly back to life. He presents them with the skill of a long-practiced novelist, with justice, but also with charity and affection. He reveals himself as a very nice man. For most of us the most immediately interesting pieces here will probably be those on writers whose fame has survived—on Maugham, to whom he is characteristically generous, and above all, on Evelyn Waugh. . . . Alec Waugh's memoir of his brother is a valuable appendage to 'A Little Learning,' and it enhances subject and author alike. But it is in the re-creation of the actual feel of a specific time, to which Evelyn Waugh is a key figure, that the importance of this book lies." Walter Allen

N Y Times Bk R p6 Ja 14 '68 1200w

New Yorker 43:135 F 17 '68 80w

Reviewed by S. K. Oberbeck
Newsweek 71:90 Ja 22 '68 600w

Reviewed by Sarel Eimerl
Reporter 38:38 My 2 '68 900w

"[Waugh] has clearly found his métier as a diarist, a chronicler, and an observer of contemporary literary life, his prose style direct and unaffected, his tone of voice intimate and gossipy, his ear for anecdote just about perfect. To the criticism sometimes raised against him that these qualities are not of the highest literary order one can perfectly well reply that they need not be. Waugh can be read with great pleasure and amusement, and he is writing after all in a great tradition, the tradition of Pepys and Horace Walpole. . . . While [this book] is described by its author as not 'a sequel' to The Early Years, it is in fact very close in mood and manner to the best parts of that work. . . . Many of the figures whom Waugh introduces are minor, or less. . . . But never mind; they are so tellingly described, so chatily discussed, and so engagingly characterized that their own accomplishments are of secondary importance." Walter Guzzardi

Sat R 51:27 Ja 20 '68 1500w

TLS p1050 N 9 '67 550w

Va Q R 44:cxxi summer '68 90w

WAUGH, HILLARY. The con game. 216p $3.95
Doubleday

67-22448

In this novel "Police Chief Fred Fellows of Stockford, Conn., [is involved] in the fate of George and Deirdre Demarest and the $60,000 entrusted to them to bribe local officials in a land deal." (Library J)

Best Sell 27:396 Ja 1 '68 60w

Reviewed by M. K. Grant
Library J 92:4437 D 1 '67 30w

"[The title] seems to refer to an ingenious speculation in real-estate-plus-bribery; the slow, slogging researches of Police Chief Fred C. Fellows prove that it should have another interpretation. As usual Mr. Waugh understands the police problems of suburban Connecticut; and even more than usual, he succeeds in portraying a sharp-clawed, dog-eat-dog, suburban civilization." Anthony Boucher

N Y Times Bk p28 Ja 14 '68 60w

Reviewed by Sergeant Cuff
Sat R 51:52 F 24 '68 30w

TLS p833 Ag 1 '68 30w

WAXMAN, CHAIM ISAAC, comp. Poverty; power and politics. 330p $6.95 Grosset
330.9 Poverty. U.S.—Economic conditions

67-23788

The papers collected in this volume "represent a wide range of authors from Georg Simmel to Michael Harrington. The problem is analyzed historically, attempts at solution are described and criticized, proposals (such as the guaranteed annual income) are offered." (Sat R)

"Essays by Georg Simmel and Lewis Coser save the book from being mere journalism, but even so nothing new is said. . . . The editor has omitted the most meaningful criticism that comes from radicals, conservatives, and Black

Nationalists. The material is by and for liberals. No one here questions capitalism itself or discusses what Oscar Lewis called the 'culture of poverty.' The book is recommended for larger collections." Herman Elstein

Library J 93:3114 S 15 '68 120w

"Of all [these writers] the one who commands the most respect is Harrington [in his essay 'The Politics of Poverty.' . . . He wants the federal government to undertake projects that would not only provide needed jobs but would 'attack the environmental structure of poverty.' . . . Here, however, Harrington tends to be doctrinaire and somewhat shortsighted. . . . Those who have examined what is being done [by welfare departments], such writers as Richard Cloward, Nathan Glazer, Martin Rein and others . . . find the present hodge-podge grossly inadequate. . . . No one questions that 'welfare' and all that it signifies should be scrapped and replaced by some form of national income maintenance. One wishes that . . . [Waxman] had offered more on this subject." Paul Marx

New Repub 159:33 Jl 1 '68 380w

Reviewed by C. A. Hogan
Sat R 51:23 Jl 20 '68 170w

WEATHERBY, WILLIAM J. One of our priests is missing; a novel. 280p $4.95 Doubleday

68-11804

"Father Wilkins, pastor of an English street parish, longs for his earlier assignment to the African missions as he performs his routine duties. Besides the usual parish problems, he must cope with the gamut of race problems involving African students, West Indians—people of the street—and the monied few upon whom he must depend for support and unsolicited advice. He turns to whiskey. His colleagues are sent to missions, other parishes, rest homes, and one leaves the Church for marriage. Father Wilkins is replaced by a young man fresh from the seminary." (Library J)

Reviewed by W. B. Hill
America 118:623 My 4 '68 60w

Reviewed by W. H. Schweder
Best Sell 27:475 Mr 15 '68 450w

Reviewed by Neva White
Library J 93:773 F 15 '68 140w

"An extraordinary study of an old priest who, having spent his life in Africa, is now dying because of his transferral to a London slum parish. This moving book sheds light on the role of the priest and thoughtfully examines the inadequacy of old concepts in a modern situation as well as the problems and desperation of old age. Valuable for introspective young people, particularly those aimed toward the religious life. Some of the street scenes explore brutality and sexuality but they're not overly graphic and are essential to the plot." Susan Arthur

Library J 93:1822 Ap 15 '68 100w [YA]

"[The author] asks implicitly through the action some challenging moral questions without forcing the points. . . . [The novel is] finely written and shrewdly developed—and, of course, topical. The crises come over a bit strong: to be confronted with a homosexual killing and a suicide in a short space of time could have damaged stronger men than Wilkins, but the author's insights into moral imponderables excuse some of the dramatic licence." David Haworth

New Statesman 75:690 My 24 '68 140w

"From the opening pages of [the book], . . . the reminders of Greene in his middle years are too apparent to overlook. Many of the . . . scenes—the sparring between youth and age, the moments of understanding, the more numerous moments of failure to understand—evoke Powers's much defter presentations of routine life in a rectory. That the similarities demand recognition is a pretty good indication that Weatherby has lost the match. . . . What the author has of his own and what shows to best advantage, is a knowledge of the white man's reactions as he mixes [with other races]. . . . A number of the novel's incidents acquire impact and interest through the author's handling. . . . Probably the chief flaw is that, although Father Wilkins changes, he does not develop. . . . What the author offers in explanation is not enough to account for it." P. K. Cuneo

Sat R 51:44 Mr 23 '68 390w

TLS p697 Jl 4 '68 330w

WEAVER, JOHN D. Warren: the man, the court, the era. 406p $7.95 Little 347.9 Warren, Earl. U.S. Supreme Court
67-18105
For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Reviewed by A. T. Mason
Am Hist R 73:1263 Ap '68 2100w
Choice 5:410 My '68 130w
Economist 226:52 Mr 23 '68 500w
TLS p51 Ja 18 '68 1900w

WEAVER, WARREN. Science and Imagination; selected papers; with a foreword by George W. Beadle. 295p $5.95 Basic bks.

501 Science 67-28325
A collection of articles and addresses by a director of the Rockefeller Foundation from 1932 to 1959 who is also the author of Alice in Many Tongues (BRD 1965). In this book "are his comments on the nature of science, the place of science in society, the relationship between religion and science . . . and other topics that interest this scientist-humanist. He concludes with a section on Lewis Carroll." (Library J) Index.

Choice 5:1327 D '68 170w

"[Weaver's] dual role as scientist-statesman and popularizer won for him the Arches of Science Award as well as the UNESCO Kalinga Prize [for science writing]. Now, for the first time, [his] articles and addresses have been gathered together within a single volume. . . . [The author's] scientific colleagues have read these pieces in scholarly journals; now the general public will have easy access to them." George Basalla

Library J 92:4426 D 1 '67 200w

"The sections on the nature of scientific explanation and on the 'pageant of size' should help to resolve some of the difficulties that beginners in science and some more sophisticated scientists face in their thinking about science. . . . Two chapters, 'The theory of probability' and 'Communication,' deal with matters which may be unfamiliar to the general reader. The subjects are discussed with such lucidity, however, that anyone already familiar with them must constantly think, 'I wish I had been able to say that.' . . . The whole collection is written in clear and enjoyable prose." J. W. Wilson

Science 160:180 Ap 12 '68 1000w

WEBB, CONSTANCE. Richard Wright: a biography. 443p pl $8.95 Putnam

B or 92 Wright, Richard 68-12115

This biography of the author of Black Boy (BRD 1945) and Native Son (BRD 1940) is Miss Webb's first book. "It is a combination of personal reminiscence . . . and literary analysis . . . [based on] his diaries, letters, speeches, unpublished novels, and other material. . . . [The author] traces Wright's growth as a writer and man from his Mississippi boyhood—he was born in a wooden shack in Natchez in 1908—to his days in Chicago and New York and his years as an expatriate in Paris. She also records his travels, . . . his political beliefs and activities, and . . . the influences that shaped his writing. She discusses and analyzes his major works." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by J. J. McAleer
America 118:585 Ap 27 '68 600w

Reviewed by Oscar Handlin
Atlantic 221:130 Mr '68 600w

Reviewed by Max Steele
Book World p12 Je 9 '68 600w

Reviewed by Alan Levensohn
Christian Science Monitor p8 My 9 '68 1300w

Reviewed by Nelson Algren
Critic 26:66 Je '68 1700w

"A sympathetic biography which depends too much on the recollections of the subject to be accepted completely at face value. This is clearly demonstrated in the incidents which involve other living people with different points of view. To be fair, Miss Webb does give both versions when she can. She is so concerned with the heroic proportions of Wright, however, that the period when he embraced and later estranged himself from Communism is glossed over. This is, nonetheless, a fine biography of a major American literary figure which should be acquired by public, university, and college libraries." M. S. Byam

Library J 93:747 F 15 '68 210w

Reviewed by Robert Bone
N Y Times Bk R p10 Ap 7 '68 1100w
New Yorker 44:196 Ap 20 '68 60w

"[The author], a longtime friend of Wright's and his authorized biographer, has worked long and lovingly to restore the man and writer to us. She has, alas, failed. The book is chaotically organized, and absurdly inclusive—so that we learn, for example, which subway Wright took when he arrived in New York, as well as a variant version of that journey. Exposition of ideas is at best insecure, and at worst misleading. Critical perspectives of Wright's work are inadequate where they exist at all. But, astonishingly, Miss Webb's work is the only full-length biography of Wright. . . . This study will have to serve until the one we should have been waiting for comes along." Saul Maloff

Newsweek 71:92 Ap 1 '68 1000w

Reviewed by T. L. Gross
Sat R 51:43 Ap 13 '68 700w

"[The author], who was one of Wright's close white friends, gets most of [his conflicts] down, but she can scarcely improve on Wright's own well-known Black Boy, a relentless autobiographical rendering of poverty, starvation, humiliation and yearning. Biographer Webb, a former advertising copywriter and actress, is on fresher ground when she chronicles his years in the North. Much of the material is drawn from the last third of the Black Boy manuscript, which did not appear in the finished book. . . . [However, she] is hesitant to say outright that Wright was cynically used by the American Communist Party to rally Negro support. . . . [And], in dealing with [his] private life, the biography is extensive but guarded."

Time 91:82 Mr 22 '68 900w

WEBB, LESLEY. Children with special needs in the infants' school. 216p $7.25 Transatlantic

371.9 Problem children. Exceptional children. Education, Elementary. Kindergarten [67-113560]

"Case studies made on children at one school in England. The purpose is to show how teachers of regular classes can help meet the needs of children with special problems. The problems are divided into categories which include aggressiveness, withdrawal, anxiety, bizarre behavior, pilfering, immaturity, physical disabilities, cultural handicaps, and sexual worries. The severity of the problems ranges from mild cases handled wholly within the school to cases requiring extended psychotherapy." (Choice)

"The book is unusual in that it describes children found in an ordinary school situation. It may be discouraging to American teachers who are not likely to have at their disposal the outside resources which were available to the teachers of the school studied. Nevertheless, Webb gives some good insights into what can be done to help disturbed children in the classroom. [This] is written for a different purpose than the other books of case studies currently available, and will be helpful and satisfying for teachers interested in doing their best for all children."

Choice 5:537 Je '68 140w

"Once the reader has translated 'infants' school' to grades K-2, 'head' to principal, and 'schoolkeeper' to custodian, this compilation of case studies of young children and their learning problems in a typical English school could apply directly to any equivalent American school. . . . Wisely, the author cautions against taking any one case as a direct guide to action with another child. However, one working with school children under similar circumstances can't help but draw parallels with their own day-to-day experiences and perhaps find new approaches to supplying their children's needs."

W. J. Novak

Library J 93:2486 Je 15 '68 110w

WEBB, R. K. Modern England: from the eighteenth century to the present. 652p maps $12.50; pa $6.95 Dodd

942 Great Britain—History 68-16186

A synthesis of modern English history from the ascension of William and Mary to the present time. Bibliography. Index.

"History, of course, is not simply a record of change, but a study of continual development. . . . Prof. Webb's synthesis correctly appeals to the popular taste by emphasizing the theme of change. His decision to look for that change, especially the transition from oligarchy to democracy . . . serves to demonstrate the often neglected influence of the past on the present. . . . [His] text not only is clear, but is enhanced by verbal economy. . . . [His] commitment to a depiction of 'the people in power' as the 'principal stuff of history' serves well to balance the current proliferation of literature on minor aspects of history and to illustrate in the healthiest way the increased complexity of the problems confronting a democratic society's leadership." A. J. Hamilton

America 119:49 J1 20 '68 400w

Choice 5:859 S '68 150w

"[There are] very informative appendices on the British monarchy, nobility, church, and law. Professor Webb's opinions are not startlingly original, but he has produced a solid work of scholarship and reference, written in an entertaining and readable style."

New Yorker 44:115 Je 15 '68 90w

WEBB, ROBERT N. Hannibal; invader from Carthage. 134p $2.95 Watts, F.

B or 92 Hannibal—Juvenile literature

68-10512

"Beginning with the 'vow of hatred' toward the Romans which Hannibal took at the age of nine, this biography traces . . . how he kept his promise so well that the cry of 'Hannibal ad portas!' was still used centuries later by Roman mothers to frighten rebellious children. . . . Grades seven to nine." (Library J)

Best Sell 28:67 My 1 '68 70w

"The chapters are short, the historical background is clear and sound, and a small map is included. Frequent quotations from The Histories of Polybius and from Livy's The History of Rome give added feeling for the time and setting. This is the easiest to read and understand of the recent biographies of Hannibal and is similar in format and style to Webb's other biographies in the same series." E. P. Hawley

Library J 93:1334 Mr 15 '68 120w

WEBER, CARL JEFFERSON. Fore-edge painting; a historical survey of a curious art in book decoration. 223p il col il $20 Harvey house

096 Illumination of books and manuscripts 66-26931

"The present volume, begun as a revision of [A Thousand and One Fore-edge Paintings], is in effect a rewriting of the entire work. Concerned mainly with the period 1650-1850, with a carry-over into the present century, the book is a . . . survey of the art, mentioning its practitioners from Stephen and Thomas Lewis, the probable inventors, through Samuel Mearne, Taylor and Hessey, John Whitaker, and John T. Beer to Miss C. B. Currie and Vera Dutter in the 20th Century. . . . Professor Weber traces fore-edge decoration from the floral designs of the 17th Century to the landscapes of the 18th and succeeding Centuries; notes the utilization of religious scenes and scenes of action—shipwrecks, hunting, horsemanship . . . and considers 'amateur' paintings. Chinese fore-edge paintings, and the production of fore-edge paintings which are fraudulently represented as of an earlier age." (Library J)

"This informative, well-written, and well-illustrated book, alone in its field, will be of particular value to libraries which lack the 1949 volume. Unfortunately, the finding list of 1,001 fore-edge paintings, with locations, is not in the new edition." L. W. Griffin

Library J 92:1920 My 15 '67 260w

"This is a very old-fashioned performance. It would seem to have strayed from the early years of this century . . . and is written in the same style. . . . It contains quite an amount of information on fore-edge painting not to be found elsewhere, and illustrates a number of previously unpublished examples. It therefore has some documentary value. . . . [It] is not at all the kind of work which one expects nowadays from a professor or a curator of rare books, and . . . by its uncritical approach it gives a misleading account of the development—largely in England—of the practice [of fore-edge paintings]. The main difficulty has clearly been that the author knows little of the background to his subject. . . . The seeker after the truth about fore-edge painting would be well advised to treat every statement in the book with the same suspicion that he should accord to every painted fore-edge he meets."

TLS p538 Je 29 '67 1900w

WEBSTER, DAVID. Crossroad puzzlers; pub. for the Am. mus. of natural history. 127p il $3.50; lib bdg $4.25 Natural hist. press; for sale by Doubleday

793.7 Puzzles—Juvenile literature. Scientific recreations—Juvenile literature. Automobiles—Touring—Juvenile literature 67-19077

"Using a collection of 144 photographs taken round the nation's highways, the author poses questions that test the observation skills of young travelers. Such familiar sights as skid marks, highway signs, fire hydrants, and telephone wires are used to produce a series of brain-teasers. . . . Grades four to seven." (Library J)

"[These brain-teasers] must have been as much fun to create as to solve. (Luckily, the answers are given.) Bonus sections at the end include games to play while traveling and some science projects involving car accessories. A fine book for browsing." J. T. Gillespie

Library J 93:875 F 15 '68 100w

Reviewed by Betsy Wade

N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p51 N 5 '67 140w

"This is Sherlock Holmes on the highway, and a better scheme for teaching anyone how not only to see but also to observe and to seek order in his observations would be hard to find. The book is leavened with a few wry and cheerful jokes. . . . Altogether a work of an original and expert kind, the very ground matter of science, in the most commonplace of American contexts." Philip and Phyllis Morrison

Sci Am 217:153 D '67 180w

WEBSTER, JEAN. Daddy-Long-Legs; with new il. by Edward Ardizzone. 183p $3.95 Meredith 67-30959

Set in pre-World War I days, "the book is written in the form of letters from Jerusha Abbott (named from the bible and a tombstone . . . by hard-hearted Mrs Lippett from the John Grier Home) to her benefactor, an orphanage trustee she has never met. He sends her to college to be a writer, and wishes to be known as Mr John Smith. Jerusha calls herself Judy and John Smith Daddy Longlegs. She knows he is tall from the one glimpse she had of his backview, and she did see his shadow, all legs and arms, scrambling on a wall, looking just like an insect. He never replies to her letters—or at least she thinks he doesn't—but in the end . . . she discovers he has been an acquaintance for quite some time." (New Statesman) For first edition see BRD 1912. "Ages ten to fourteen." (Book World)

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin

Book World p12 Mr 17 '68 130w

"Daddy Longlegs is not really a children's book, yet I am certain that girls of 10 upwards would adore it. There is social comment; not the violent Dickens kind because in 1912 it wasn't necessary, but although fed and clothed properly, American orphans still had a bleak time." Gillian Freeman

New Statesman 74:608 N 3 '67 450w

Reviewed by Carolyn Heilbrun

N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p59 N 5 '67 50w

"[The book] will, it can be confidently predicted, win as many admirers as it did when it was first published. . . . Why? Because it has everything successful in the canon of romantic novels. . . . Nothing could be better for adolescent fancy than the generous, endowing pseudo-parent-romantic-hero encouraging independence, buying new dresses, providing holidays in the country. This is what every girl wants before the reality of the situation declares itself and the business of making real relationships begins.

WEBSTER, JEAN—Continued

Yet each letter shows the heroine's insight and pleases with her humour and zest. Girls longing for heroes and self-fulfilment will read this as avidly as their mothers did. Some will scoff at the mistiness of the sentiment but all library copies will be well-thumbed."

TLS p1086 N 24 '66 310w

WEBSTER, NOAH. On being American; selected writings, 1783-1828; ed. and with an introd. by Homer D. Babbidge, Jr. 184p $4.95 Praeger

917 U.S.—Civilization 67-20496

The "president of the University of Connecticut has written an introduction, comments before each selection, and an afterword to aid the reader in understanding Webster's thinking and to establish the milieu in which he wrote." (Library J) Bibliography.

"Obviously a labor of love, . . . this volume anthologizes a round dozen of Webster pieces. . . . The selections are sufficiently representative of the lexicographer's propaganda for American cultural as well as political independence. Unfortunately, the selections often have portions snipped out, and, without acknowledgement within the text, changes have been made in spelling and punctuation. . . . Recommended as a quasi-popular stopgap until some editor proffers a more scholarly and more fully representative choice from the enormous reaches of the Skeel and Carpenter Bibliography of the Writings of Noah Webster."

Choice 5:54 Mr '68 120w

"The selections, from the introduction to his first book, through his many calls for unity and more education, to the preface to his great dictionary, are well chosen to portray not only Webster, but one main stream of thought among the generation of our founding fathers. Of great value to all students of American culture, and essential for American libraries."

W. K. Bottorff

Library J 92:1930 My 15 '67 170w

"Although Babbidge devotes adequate space to Webster's linguistic accomplishments, the bulk of the selections show him in his role as publicist-at-large for the United States of America. Webster's political prose is, if uninspired, nonetheless historically significant. . . . His works are full of the rhetoric of freedom and democracy, yet smugly conservative and above all fervently nationalistic. . . . Today they are worth study only as a reflection of the revolutionary era and its aftermath. . . . In his directly political writings Webster revealed his conservatism clearly. . . . He was anything but a democrat. Babbidge's editorial comments are lucid and informative, but one lays the book aside with the feeling that in forgetting all but his name, his countrymen have done [Webster] no great injustice" J. A. Garraty

N Y Times Bk R p65 N 5 '67 950w

WEBSTER, T. B. L. The tragedies of Euripides. 316p $11.50 Barnes & Noble

882 Euripides [67-31961]

This survey includes "chronological discussion of Euripides' tragedies, including reconstructions of his lost plays. . . . Beginning with Euripides' relationship to and his influence on his contemporaries and his time, then following his development from his earliest plays to his last, [Webster] concludes with a discussion of Euripides' poetry, his dramatic craft, and his personal use of myth as compared to the mythical attitudes of his time." (Library J) Bibliography. Indexes.

"An important book. . . . It is not easy to read, and in dealing with 66 plays, Webster has been forced to be brief. In the attempt to see Euripides whole, his treatment of the fully preserved plays is consciously slight. In addition, the information concerning any single play tends to be rather disappointing. Nevertheless, the work has cumulative effect, and in the final chapter Webster is able to demonstrate more effectively than heretofore the astonishing variety of Euripides' art. Interpretations are down to earth; no effort is made to go beyond the evidence but there has been a great deal of effort to collect all the evidence. Allowance has been made for the Greekless reader, but not for the dilettante."

Choice 5:192 Ap '68 150w

Reviewed by J. E. Nyenhuis

Class World 61:404 J1 22 '68 250w

"This book is written," according to Mr. Webster, professor of Greek at University College, London, "in the belief that an attempt to describe all the tragedies of Euripides might be useful to students of ancient drama, both those who know Greek and the much larger number who study ancient drama in translation." . . . [The author] has accomplished this and more. His smooth, lucid writing does not limit readership to the most determined scholars. . . . Because of its scope and scholarly treatment, this book is recommended for public and academic libraries." M. B. Raines

Library J 92:4521 D 15 '67 180w

WEDECK, HARRY E., Jr. ed. Dictionary of the renaissance. See Schweitzer, F. M.

WEDGWOOD, C. V. The world of Rubens, 1577-1640. by C. V. Wedgwood and the editors of Time-Life books. 192p il col il $7.95 Time

B or 92 Rubens, Sir Peter Paul 67-27679

This is a chronological discussion of the life and works of the Baroque painter. The author portrays his personal life, as a Catholic, businessman, devotee of classical antiquity, and intimate of Europe's leading intellectuals. Chronology of artists. Annotated bibliography. Index.

"It is unfortunate . . . that the [book's] discussion of nonartistic matters is so heavily weighted towards political history—which admittedly is relevant since Rubens was a painter-diplomat (this is the main contribution of the book)—at the expense of developments in the sciences, the nonvisual arts, and other sociocultural phenomena. . . . The clearly written text, if sometimes naïve by art-historical standards, is accompanied by annoyingly repetitious notes on the plates. These illustrations (many in color) are better for their quantity than quality. . . . This volume can serve as a popular introduction to Rubens and to the political world about him, but not as a study for the serious student."

Choice 4:1374 F '68 150w

Library J 92:4278 N 15 '67 10w [YA]

"The plates of this monograph . . . form a significant selection from [Rubens's work]. . . . [This volume] maintains the high standards of text and illustrations of the preceding monographs on Leonardo [by R. Wallace, BRD 1967] and on Michelangelo in the same series." F. M. Wassermann

Library J 92:4142 N 15 '67 240w

WEEKES, MARK KINKEAD. See Kinkead-Weekes, M.

WEEKS, CHRISTOPHER. Job corps; dollars and dropouts. 241p $4.95 Little

309.2 U.S. Job Corps 67-18111

"The author, former member of the Job Corps administration, examines the precedents set for the present Corps by the Civilian Conservation Corps in the 1930's, [tells] the story of this particular branch of the war on poverty program [and] points out the difficulties of getting legislation through Congress." (Library J)

"Highly readable, sympathetic, political history of America's current Anti-Poverty Program, with particular emphasis on one of its branches, the Job Corps. Weeks uses his own experience in Job Corps administration in giving an almost day-by-day account of the events leading up to the passage of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964, and of the small successes and larger failures of the Job Corps during its first two years. The greatest value of the book is in its analysis of what we have learned from the war on poverty. . . . Suitable for all college levels and the general public."

Choice 4:1140 D '67 120w

"Mr. Weeks shows that Community Action Programs, Youth Opportunity Centers, State Employment Agencies work more in competition than in cooperation with each other. . . . This slim volume is not an apology for the failures of the Corps: in fact, Weeks is compelled to question the merit of its continued existence." J. W. Delonas

Library J 92:2173 Je 1 '67 230w

Reviewed by Helen Jacob

Library J 92:3214 S 15 '67 70w [YA]

WEEKS, EDWARD. Fresh waters; drawings by Walter Dower. 223p $7.95 Little 799.1 Fishing

67-23839

In 1938 the author was "introduced to fishing, in his words, as a reluctant beginner. He soon became a dedicated angler, and in Fresh Waters he recounts his experiences during three . . . decades of fishing for brown trout, brook trout, cutthroat, steelhead, and salmon. He describes his love of the rivers, reveals his admiration for the fighting fish, and introduces a host of . . . fishing companions." (Library J)

Reviewed by P. J. Earl

Best Sell 28:124 Je 15 '68 200w

"Because he was editor of Atlantic Monthly, [Weeks] has been able to draw upon a wealth of literary anecdotes with which to enrich his tales of fishing expeditions. . . . [This] is not a book in which the author tells the reader how one should fish, but why. Highly recommended for its entertaining writing about the outdoors, informative literary comment, and its many endearing insights into the secret life of a prominent American fisherman." W. C. Roselle

Library J 93:1015 Mr 1 '68 210w

"Fishing is the subject of the book, fishing in New England and New Brunswick, in Britain, Russia, Yugoslavia and on the Pacific Coast, big days and little days, wet days and sunny days, triumphs and disasters, all faithfully recorded. But literary overtones are all through it, in names and associations, in the editor's keen perceptions and his gentle prodding of guide or host or fellow angler toward the writing of a story or a book. There are people on every page. . . . Yet the real significance of the book is not in its fascinating glimpses of people, nor in its literary associations, nor even in its excellent accounts of fishing days on many waters. It is rather in the author's subtle account of his growing concern for the fresh waters that make his pleasure. . . . He has built his theme to carry one more clear warning that the time is growing late all over North America." Roderick Haig-Brown

N Y Times Bk R p8 Mr 24 '68 750w

Reviewed by Matthew Hodgson

Sat R 51:30 Ag 3 '68 450w

WEEKS, MARY ELVIRA. Discovery of the elements; completely rev. and new material added by Henry M. Leicester; il. collected by F. B. Danis. 7th ed 896p $12.50 Journal of chemical educ.

546 Chemical elements, Chemists 68-15217

In this revision Mr. Leicester has grouped the contents "of the narrative according to various common themes: the three major gases, the periodic-table predictions, the results of X-ray analysis, and so on." (Sci Am) For the fifth edition see BRD 1945.

"This definitive and unique work originated from a series of articles in the Journal of Chemical Education and thus suffered from episodic and irregular organization. . . . Leicester has corrected this shortcoming by rearranging the material and reducing the number of chapters. . . . He has made the work a true book, in spirit as well as in format. Virtually every page bears signs of his revision; he has missed no opportunity to update this standard work even in the smallest of details. Although he has added new material, he has succeeded in reducing a number of pages. A veritable treasury of documentation and citation from original sources, the book contains a fantastic number of references, and its well-chosen illustrations add to its utility." G. B. Kauffman

Science 162:110 O 4 '68 230w

"Better than ever for reference and for casual delighted reading, the book lacks only a small chapter on the zeroth element, the neutron." Sci Am 218:139 Je '68 120w

WEIDERT, WERNER. Private houses; an international survey [tr. by E. Rockwell]. 165p il $16 Praeger

728.6 Architecture, Domestic—Designs and plans 67-29466

This book "presents an international selection of homes in which the problems of particular families or groups and the potentials of specific sites are the main factors in design, rather than the need for maximum living space in a limited area." (Publisher's note)

"The book is really a collection of houses inspired directly or indirectly by the Bauhaus, and as such it reminds one of Weiskamp's book Beautiful Homes and Gardens of California [BRD 1966]. . . . The book seems already dated. . . . Here are, for example, almost none of the essays in sculptural forms, the Barnesian barns, or designs for an inner family life that we have come to think of as 'modern.' Flat roofs, steel posts, shining window-walls, and sparse furniture dominate the book."

Choice 5:478 Je '68 160w

"To a considerable extent this book on private houses perfectly fills the coffee-table bill. It is physically large in size (a quarto), beautifully bound, handsomely printed and filled with very good photographs. The text is insipid and like most of its kind should be ignored. . . . [Weidert] has presented us with only a fragment of the contemporary scene of domestic architecture. He has ignored a number of the most significant architectural figures of the day, Robert Venturi, Charles Moore, and Hans Hollein. . . . One may react negatively to such movements, but to ignore them is like burying one's head in sand." David Gebhard

Library J 93:540 F 1 '68 290w

WEIGAND, HERMANN J. Surveys and soundings in European literature; ed. by A. Leslie Willson. 360p $10 Princeton univ. press

809 Literature—History and criticism

66-10931

This collection of articles by the Sterling professor at Yale contains literary analyses ranging "from the Middle Ages and Shakespeare to Schiller, Goethe, Chamisso, Hauptmann, Thomas Mann, and Hermann Broch." (Choice) Bibliography of the writings of Hermann J. Weigand. Index

"This book is as welcome as it is encompassing. It bears witness to an extraordinarily intelligent and expansive mind. It comprises about one quarter of all Weigand's essays published in journals or contributed to books and festschriften. . . . There is not a single essay in which Weigand is not aware of both the immediate and the more remote context of his subject. The reading of these essays will delight scholars and critics of literature and those who have their minds made up to become scholars and critics. All German quotations are followed by serviceable translations."

Choice 4:536 Jl '67 130w

Reviewed by Heinrich Meyer

Mod Lang J 52:36 Ja '68 1550w

WEINBERGER, MARTIN. Michelangelo; the sculptor. 2v 404;407-428p $42.50 Columbia univ. press

730.945 Michelangelo Buonarroti. Sculpture, Italian 65-22158

This "study assigns a fundamental role to sculpture in Michelangelo's total achievement and evolution from his apprenticeship until his completion of the tomb of Julius II in 1545. Weinberger reexamines the evidence concerning Michelangelo's sculptural projects and attempts to reconstruct their original arrangement as well as the appearance and placement of a number of lost or unexecuted statues." (Choice) Volume two contains a Bibliography of works by Martin Weinberger; Index of works by Michelangelo, and general index.

"The fruit of a lifelong study of Michelangelo by a distinguished scholar and teacher. . . . Recommended for all art history libraries regardless of their previous holdings on this subject."

Choice 5:190 Ap '68 146w

"The late Dr. Weinberger of New York University's Institute of Fine Arts . . . has given the monumental subject of this book splendid treatment. It is a major work of scholarship and of prime importance. . . . Dr. Weinberger has followed Michelangelo's sculpture chronologically [and] studied the timeless masterpieces—the David, the Madonnas, the Slaves, the Medici Chapel, Moses, and the Tomb of Julius II—in a most detailed and scholarly manner. He has also reassembled historic descriptions, sketches, and copies of sculptured pieces to fathom Michelangelo's ultimate intentions for much of his unfinished work. The hundreds of black-and-white illustrations of drawings and sculpture that complement the text are clearly and crisply reproduced. . . . This important and authoritative work is highly recommended for art collections and academic libraries serving scholars in the humanities." W. J. Dane

Library J 92:4496 D 15 '67 240w

WEINER, DORA B. Raspail: scientist and reformer; with a chapter by Simone Raspail. 336p il $11 Columbia univ. press

B or 92 Raspail, Francois Vincent 68-19761

In this biography of the French biologist "an attempt has been made to analyze the thought of a man committed both to science and to politics; to assess the extent to which Raspail reasoned in politics like a scientific experimenter and allowed his political passions to determine his scientific thought." (Pref) Bibliography. Index.

"A well written, fascinating, and scholarly documentation of the political liberalism and scientific interests of one of France's greatest biologists, the founder of histochemistry. . . . [this study] includes the running story of Raspail's commitment to the poor and its relation to his scientific work. Depicted as a product of his time, the scientist is described over the spectrum from ignorance to genius, and from a diet and camphor faddist to an original thinker in science and on social problems. . . . Recommended for colleges and for science workers interested in public affairs." Choice 5:813 S '68 130w

"Raspail is presented sympathetically as a brilliant, often arrogant, man ahead of his time. Undoubtedly scientists reading this will ask for more details of his methods and research, while historians will ask the same for his political activities. However, it is difficult if not impossible to divorce the pure scientist from the political reformer and the author maintains a careful balance between the two. . . . Most academic and large public libraries can use this book." R. L. Hough

Library J 93:2480 Je 15 '68 170w

WEINER, MYRON. Party building in a new nation; the Indian national congress. 509p maps $12.50 Univ. of Chicago press

329.954 Indian National Congress. India—Politics and government—1947- 67-12150

In studies of five districts in India based on his 1961-62 field work, the author "portrays the texture of Indian local politics. He focuses on three essential aspects of party development: how the party has recruited and trained its members, how it has won elections, and how it has reconciled the interests and ambitions of its members to the needs of the party. Professor Weiner then relates local politics to India's national political development." (Publisher's note) Glossary. Annotated chapter bibliographies. Index.

"[This] report amply confirms Weiner's high status among the well-informed observers and interpreters of Indian society and politics. In overall perspective, however, a fascinating puzzle remains: Why has Weiner apparently been unwilling to join such men as Rajni Kothari, Gopal Krishna, W. H. Morris-Jones and George Rosen, who have ventured to conceptualize 'the Congress system' distinct from the party organization of the I.N.C., as the principal agent and vehicle of Indian political development? . . . In analyzing organization performance at the district level, the author employs an implicit functional approach. . . . The materials are relevant, penetrating, always fascinating. . . . In line with the professed purposes of the study, it would have been enlightening if the author's field studies had enabled him to construct more systematically the shape of the more likely alternatives to Congress party dominance at state and local levels." Avery Leiserson

Am Pol Sci R 62:584 Je '68 750w

"An important study by a leading authority on Indian politics. . . . [It] will be of value not only to all students of modern India, but also to those interested in the politics of developing nations. . . . Many statistical tables." Choice 5:267 Ap '68 80w

Economist 228:43 Ag 10 '68 750w

Reviewed by Michael Edwards

Encounter 31:77 N '68 1500w

WEINER, MYRON, ed. State politics in India. 520p maps $12.50 Princeton univ. press

352 State governments. India—Politics and government 67-16954

"Analyses of the political process in eight of the states of India." (Choice) Contents: Political development in the Indian States, by M. Weiner; Uttar Pradesh, by P. R. Brass; Madhya Pradesh, by W. Wilcox; Maharashtra, by

R. Joshi; Jammu and Kashmir, by B. Puri; West Bengal, by M. F. Franda; Rajasthan, by L. L. Shrader; Andhra Pradesh, by H. Gray; Punjab, by B. R. Nayar. Chapter bibliographies. Index.

"The book contains a great deal of information not readily available elsewhere, including useful data on elections. There is no comparable study; it will be of value to research students and to readers looking for a sound interpretation of modern Indian politics."

Choice 5:559 Je '68 80w

"[The symposium] is of great importance. . . . [Here we have] a series of substantial articles by competent students. . . . The general conclusions to be derived from a comparative study of this material are ably presented by Professor Weiner in his introduction. . . . As always in a symposium, the articles vary in quality. . . . Shrader's informative and well-written piece on Rajasthan might be selected for special commendation, but there are others that run it very close."

TLS p776 J1 25 '68 750w

WEINGARTEN, VIOLET. Mrs Beneker; ■ novel. 224p $4.50 Simon & Schuster

68-11020

"Enrolled in a class for the study of comparative religion, [the trim, middle-aged heroine] looks for the meaning of life while all around her life is running wild. Her son devotes his energies to civil rights marches instead of school, drags home one unsuitable girl after another, and conducts a low-grade war with his parents. Her daughter introduces a whole new concept of motherhood with such vitality and success that Mrs. B. feels like a relic. Her husband doesn't exactly wander, but his affection roves, and our heroine is forced to re-examine the modern institution of marriage. To top it off, her parents, of [a venerable] age are down in Miami swinging the circuit." (America)

"As at least one of [Mrs. Beneker's] problems is familiar to all those who have reached a certain ripeness, the story will be of relish to that cross section of the American public. Philosophers as well, accustomed to breezy words in ivory towers, may learn a thing or two from the way Mrs. B. faces the facts of 20th-century reality armed only with the Gospel of Camus and the Epistle of St. Freud. Heart high, sense of humor flying, she emerges game, lovable and thoroughly amusing. Mrs. Weingarten's familiarity with present-day life is awesome in scope. . . . She has a housewife's preoccupation with labels, a scholar's appreciation of scholarship. Sooner or later everybody who is anybody in this century finds reference in her book. In fifty years, readers may not understand what she is talking about, but for now, she tells it like it is." M. H. Wagner

America 118:200 F 10 '68 320w

Reviewed by Edward Weeks

Atlantic 221:129 Mr '68 350w

"This slight bit of writing is hardly a novel. The author states of Mrs Beneker: . . . 'She was tired of herself, deathly tired.' This summary of Mrs. Beneker's outlook at the time the reader meets her says all that need be said, in fact all that is said in this 224-page study of the typical middle class, middle-aged suburban housewife. . . . Nothing is going to happen to or for the countless number of women like Mrs. Beneker and readers will not pay much more attention to her than do the other characters with whom she is surrounded." Alice McCahill

Best Sell 27:444 F 15 '68 430w

"Although parts of this book have appeared in the Atlantic and the Saturday Evening Post, its heroine seems to have stepped out of the New Yorker. . . . [Mrs. Beneker] is the American woman today. The plot is slender, but the writing is fresh and the characters fully alive. Recommended for all women over 25." Marian Poller

Library J 93:97 Ja 1 '68 140w

"Mrs. Weingarten selects a veritable bouquet of middle-class hangups as the centerpiece of her novel, and arranges them with arresting freshness. . . . [She] doesn't attempt a diagnosis, but charts interesting symptoms of the mal de siècle, the worst of which is an excess of tolerance." Martin Levin

N Y Times BK R p37 Ja 28 '68 210w

Reviewed by Cecile Shapiro

Sat R 51:45 F 24 '68 270w

WEINGARTNER, CHARLES, Jr. auth. Linguistics. See Postman, N.

WEINGAST, DAVID E. We elect a president. 191p il $3.95; lib bdg $3.64 Messner

329 Politics, Practical. Presidents—U.S.—Election 68-27034

This book first published in 1962 and revised in 1968 surveys "the process of electing a President in the U.S. The history of presidential elections, the choice of candidates, the conventions, the voting, the electoral college [are examined]." (Best Sell) Glossary. Bibliography. Index.

"[The subject is] treated with clarity and interest. . . . This is a must for libraries of the high-school level upward, particularly if you missed the first edition."

Best Sell 28:174 J1 15 '68 80w

"[This] book gives an up-to-date account of the [mechanics of the American election.] . . . and explains the practical side of politics as well as the constitutional rules. . . . [It is] well suited to the candidates of tomorrow, providing they do their homework." R. C. Ber-genheim

Christian Science Monitor pB8 N 7 '68 120w

WEINREICH, URIEL. Modern English-Yiddish, Yiddish-English dictionary. 789p $18 McGraw; Yivo inst.

492.49 English language—Dictionaries—Yiddish. Yiddish language—Dictionaries—English 67-23848

This volume is intended "to furnish the advanced student of Yiddish with access to the language of modern cultivated usage; . . . to serve him as a guide to the correct and idiomatic employment of the language in speech, [in writing and reading. It] . . . is designed in the main for persons who have a firm grounding in English and at least a rudimentary command of Yiddish and are eager to broaden their mastery of Yiddish vocabulary and phraseology. Accordingly, the Yiddish rather than the English material has been phonetically and grammatically analyzed, and English glosses have been used, wherever appropriate, to specify semantic detail. Likewise, the 'Guidelines for Use of the Dictionary' has been presented in far more detail in English than in Yiddish." (Author's pref)

"With its projected revisions [this dictionary] is destined to be a vade mecum for users of Yiddish for years to come. . . . The guidelines for usage, far more extensive for the basically English-speaking user than for the Yiddish, is a model of clarity. The entries, on the whole, are succinct but adequate. The dictionary merits a place in every home where Yiddish is spoken. Libraries with a Jewish clientele and schools and colleges where Yiddish is taught cannot afford to be without it. The publishers of foreign-language dictionaries may learn a lot from the design and composition of this volume." Hyman Kublin

Library J 93:4282 N 15 '68 240w

"A first-class work satisfying both the standards of scholarship and the needs of laymen. . . . As one who works intermittently with Yiddish, and more or less fits the category of readers for whom this dictionary is intended. . . . I can testify that the book is a blessing. Mr. Weinreich provides at the outset a clearly written introduction not merely to the scheme of his dictionary but also to the central principles of Yiddish grammar. . . . Special attention is paid to those Yiddish words which are of Hebrew-Aramaic derivation, usually the most difficult for those of us raised on 'kitchen Yiddish.' . . . The dictionary itself is a source of instruction and delight." Irving Howe

N Y Times BK R p8 D 15 '63 950w

"[This book will] make new words and meanings clear to older speakers of Yiddish. There are more than 20,000 words in each part of this unique and scholarly work, and the format solves the tricky business of handling in a single line, sub-entries and all, languages whose printed characters run in opposite directions. The pronunciation chart is supplemented by diacritical marks and by the transliterations accompanying a large number of words of a special class." D. M. Glixon

Sat R 51:56 N 16 '68 120w

WEINSTEIN, GERALD, Jr. auth. The disadvantaged. See Fantini, M. D.

WEINSTEIN, JAMES. The corporate ideal in the liberal state, 1900-1918. 263p $7.50 Beacon press

320.9 U.S.—Politics and government—20th century. Industry and state—U.S. 68-12846

It is the author's thesis that "the social reforms we associate with the liberal state were formulated and developed under the aegis and supervision of . . . the . . . leaders of America's largest corporations and financial institutions." [The book discusses] the National Civic Federation . . . in connection with workmen's compensation and the Federal Trade Commission. . . . city commission and city manager forms of government, the 1912 Presidential campaign, the Commission on Industrial Relations, and the wartime government agencies of 1917 and 1918." (Library J)

"Despite the dubiousness of Weinstein's thesis, the book contains sufficiently valuable material, especially on the workmen's compensation and city manager movements, to warrant library purchase."

Choice 5:1217 N '68 180w

"This well-written book is partly based on information from unpublished papers of the period. Its main value lies less in the answers Mr. Weinstein provides than in the questions he raises. Recommended for the informed layman as well as the scholar." David Cooley

Library J 93:2253 Je 1 '68 180w

"The most important book written by a radical historian since publication of William A. Williams' Contours of American History [BRD 1962]. . . . Weinstein helps to shed false consciousness about the system's nature, and provides a tool for the possible creation of a revolutionary Socialist party that may challenge the social order of corporate capitalism." Ronald Radosh

Nation 207:149 Ag 26 '68 1200w

WEINSTEIN, JAMES. The decline of socialism in America, 1912-1925. 367p $10 Monthly review

329.8 Socialist party (U.S.). Socialism—U.S. 67-19258

The author contends, with "documentation, that—contrary to the traditional interpretation that socialism declined after 1912—it did not decline until 1919." (Choice) Bibliography. Index.

"Viewpoint is important in this study. Weinstein [is] sympathetic to the socialist movement. . . . Although persuasively documented, this study should be read with Daniel Bell, The End of Ideology [BRD 1960], whom Weinstein often criticizes for traditional interpretation as to when and why socialism declined. . . . Bell contends that external factors like Wilsonian liberalism help explain socialism's decline. Weinstein stresses internal party reasons."

Choice 5:261 Ap '68 190w

"Weinstein presents some new material at several points in this generally well-worked field and offers some new interpretations and different emphases as well. This book is carefully and widely researched; it is reasonable and balanced in its interpretations; and it is adequately written. Occasionally, however, Weinstein leaves the impression that his point is altogether new when careful reading of earlier works shows it not as different as he implies. Most of his new material is from newspapers, particularly local labor papers. He makes a real contribution when he gets into local history—he relates it always to the national socio-political scene—by reference to such sources as the Galesburg (Illinois) Labor News." D. A. Shannon

J Am Hist 55:176 Je '68 440w

"[Weinstein] demonstrates conclusively that instead of being destroyed by the World War I experience, as other accounts suggest, the party actually grew in strength in 1917 and 1918, and his substantial scholarship forces us to re-evaluate the S.P. in the 1912-19 era. . . . In a few areas, however, this work fails the reader. . . . The effectiveness of individual Socialists in public office undoubtedly played an important role in their eventual success or failure, yet this aspect of S.P. history Weinstein ignores." W. C. Pratt

Nation 206:216 F 12 '68 1450w

Reviewed by Christopher Lasch

N Y Rev of Books 11:14 S 12 '68 2400w

WEINSTEIN, MARK A. William Edmondstone Aytoun and the spasmodic controversy. (Yale univ. Yale studies in English) 238p $7.50 Yale univ. press

821 Aytoun, William Edmondstone. English poetry—History and criticism 68-13358

The author "focuses his attention on Aytoun's role in attacking and satirizing the Spasmodic school of poetry. He sees Aytoun as primarily responsible for arresting the critical acclaim which permitted such poets as Bailey, Smith, and Dobell to enjoy . . . popularity in the 1850's." (Choice)

"Weinstein has used previously unpublished materials, has read his text carefully, but shows little talent for significant generalization or any real grasp of the deeper issues involved in the Spasmodic controversy. His book is careful, modest, and dull."

Choice 5:963 O '68 120w

"Weinstein's book finds itself in the rather peculiar position of requiring us to weigh two unknown quantities . . . against each other. Why should we be interested in Aytoun? Because of the Spasmodics. Why should we be interested in the Spasmodics? Because of Aytoun. It is a shaky case. And as though dimly aware of this, Mr. Weinstein wavers backwards and forwards in his book, which starts as a biography of Aytoun, switches half way into a study of the Spasmodic school as such, and then drifts untidily into an epilogue recounting Aytoun's last decade. . . . [However,] it is worth sorting out . . . just what the Spasmodics stood for. . . . This Mr. Weinstein does quite clearly and well. . . . His book is useful, within its limits, but hardly inspiring."

TLS p852 Ag 8 '68 550w

WEINSTOCK, HERBERT. Rossini; a biography. 560p il $12.50 Knopf

B or 92 Rossini, Gioacchino Antonio

67-18622

This volume describes how Rossini "voluntarily retired from operatic composing at the age of thirty-seven while still at the height of his fame. [It] . . . explores the composer's 'enigmatic' withdrawal from the musical stage and . . . demonstrates that this precocious retirement by no means terminated Rossini's musical activities or indicated any slackening in his passion for music. During the last fifteen years of his life, Rossini's home in Paris became a place of pilgrimage for . . . the aspiring young composers of the day (as well as for statesmen, socialites, and dilettantes), and his weekly soirées musicales served as a . . . testing ground for new compositions, both his own and those of the rising generation. Early in life Rossini had met and discussed music with Beethoven; in his old age he was to exchange musical ideas with Wagner and Verdi." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. General index. Index of Rossini compositions.

Reviewed by Maurice Adelman
America 118:618 My 4 '68 100w

Reviewed by R. F. Young
Best Sell 27:421 F 1 '68 400w

"The picture that emerges . . . is a view thoroughly engaging and engrossing, but it is of Rossini seen from the vantage of his own time, rather than ours. Still, the Rossini who comes alive in these pages is a fascinating figure, and one who most modern admirers of The Barber of Seville probably never knew existed. . . . Weinstock, while leaving Rossini's own music pretty much untouched, gives a vivid picture of the social and musical milieu of Paris. . . . He goes into medical matters with clinical thoroughness, not always a delectable reading experience, since Rossini suffered from the effects of venereal disease much of his life. And he provides copious annotations, [and] lists of works . . . making his book an invaluable guide to Rossini's life and times, if not always to his music." Hubert Kupferberg

Book World p6 F 4 '68 750w

Choice 5:786 S '68 110w

"A number of letters and other documents that have surfaced since Francis Tey's biography [BRD 1934] enable Mr. Weinstock to document more fully the effect on Rossini's career of his relationship to the Spanish prima donna, Isabella Colbran. A physician's report, in the book's appendix, adds some new light on Rossini's middle-aged manic-depressiveness, and furnishes at least a possible explanation for his withdrawal from the operatic world. Mr. Weinstock's 'Rossini' is a work of thoroughgoing scholarship." Craig Stinson

Christian Science Monitor p11 F 1 '68 400w

"[The present book must] be regarded as the definitive study. Mr. Weinstock, historian and music critic, author of five biographical studies of composers, and contributor to Saturday Review and Opera, has been able to consult many sources unavailable to earlier biographers, and from these he has pieced together the fascinating story of the frequently enigmatic Rossini. Mr. Weinstock writes well. . . . Recommended for college and large public libraries." A. B. Skel

Library J 92:4406 D 1 '67 130w

"This is the most intelligent, accurate, and well-written account of Rossini's life in any language. . . . [However, it was] the nature of the theater for which he was composing, not Colbran's influence, [which] caused Rossini to write serious opera. . . . There are many factual errors concerning Rossini's works in both the main text and the list of compositions, errors perpetrated by several generations of biographers. . . . It is not that [Weinstock] is careless. On the contrary he uses existing accounts of the music well and with discretion. A critical examination of the Rossini canon and of the composer's artistic achievements, however, remains to be written."

Philip Gossett

Music Lib Assn Notes 25:26 S '68 1100w

Reviewed by Alfred Frankenstein
N Y Times Bk R p5 F 18 '68 1050w
TLS p990 S 12 '68 490w

WEINTRAUB, STANLEY. The last great cause; the intellectuals and the Spanish Civil War. 340p $8.50 Weybright & Talley

946.081 Spain—History—Civil War, 1936-1939. War in literature 68-12866

The author of Beardsley (BRD 1967) analyzes the motivations, experiences, and pertinent writings of the European and American literary personalities who became involved in the Spanish Civil War. He attempts to show "how the dismay of George Orwell and Arthur Koestler at the course of the war was later reflected in their respective works [and] . . . that the pattern of initial optimism followed by gradual disillusionment applied equally to the American intellectuals supporting the Loyalist cause. . . . He also devotes chapters to those few who stood aloof from the war, and to those, fewer still, who backed the Franco rebellion." (Library J) Index.

"[Prof. Weintraub's book] is at once both narrative and analytic, historical and literary. From these divergent streams, the author has fashioned a sound, exciting and deeply provocative study." J. M. Sánchez

America 118:446 Ap 6 '68 500w

"A pleasant book. . . . Intellectuals, however, are not confined to the literary world or to the English language, a factor Weintraub has chosen to overlook, despite his ambitious subtitle. Sustained analysis of the impact of the war on these intellectuals is regrettably absent. With the exception of a very few primary personalities, each 'intellectual' receives a few pages detailing his involvement in Spain and whatever literary product arose from his experience. Helpful as a guide to what is already well known and to what may not need to be known."

Choice 5:674 J1 '68 140w

Economist 228:47 Ag 3 '68 600w

"A book which illustrates well the influence of intellectuals upon history and vice versa. The Last Great Cause represents a considerable research effort and should prove useful to the literary historian. Recommended for public and university libraries." F. D. Campbell

Library J 93:1138 Mr 15 '68 300w

"[This] is a you-were-there approach. . . . In essence, the book is a latent biography. Weintraub finds clues to the work in the experiences of the Civil War: Rubashov of Darkness at Noon is Koestler in the Seville prison; The Fifth Column takes off from Hemingway's days at the Hotel Florida in Madrid. . . . But one wants a work of this kind to go beyond the 'readable'; one wants to know the convolutions of Moscow's attitudes and actions toward the anarchists, to know the deepest motivations of the American and British 'neutrality' while Hitler and Mussolini played with death, to be given some hint of the unrest in contemporary Spain." H. R. Wolf

Nation 206:834 Je 24 '68 500w

Reviewed by D. A. N. Jones

New Statesman 76:231 Ag 23 '68 1000w

"Mr. Weintraub calls the roll from an academic distance that in no way diminishes the vividness of the scene. . . . He re-creates the military campaigns as a necessary background to an understanding of the poetry and novels they inspired, and he comes to his task with the slightly awestruck, manqué attitude of a generation too young to have known the passions aroused by the war at first hand. The book is a fine blending of personal sympathy, even nostalgia, with detached observation. . . . Nothing that I know of [has been written] that so successfully combines the struggle itself with those who defined its hopes and lived to lament its failure." David Dempsey

N Y Times Bk R p38 My 12 '68 750w

New Yorker 44:111 Je 15 '68 90w

WEIR, ROSEMARY. Pyewacket; il. by Charles Pickard. 123p $3.25; lib bdg $3.19 Abelard-Schuman

Cats—Stories [67-19581]

"Cats from a row of aged and decaying houses, led by the terrible Pyewacket himself, decide to frighten off their owners and so have the houses to themselves, not realizing they are to be demolished anyway. The freedom they win isn't all they expect, in fact it's downright uncomfortable. The ideal solution, however, is at hand (a catfood factory overrun by rats)." (TLS) "Grades three to five." (Library J)

"Plots and schemes of a mischievous tomcat with a witch's family in his pedigree. . . . This is a sprightly comedy, with amusing characters." M. L. Birmingham

Commonweal 88:304 My 24 '68 60w

Reviewed by D. Y. Shaffer

Library J 93:297 Ja 15 '68 100w

"The story for 6 to 9's is ingenious, well-plotted and pretty funny. The cats talk only to one another." Richard Lockridge

N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p6 N 5 '67 100w

"The picture of decay, demolition, reconstruction is almost the best thing in the book, and the illustrations are splendid."

TLS p1153 N 30 '67 120w

WEISS, ALAN. High risk/high gain; a free-wheeling account of Peace Corps training. 254p $5.95 St Martins

309.2 U.S. Peace Corps 68-15012

This is a "firsthand report of the two to three months' training period during which volunteers are instructed . . . before taking up their assignments." (Sat R)

"Although the writing is vigorous and colorful, and the material basically interesting, the book is marred by Alan Weiss's childish resentment of any and all authority, and by his continual carping and criticizing. . . . The actual descriptions of the training sessions are interesting, although repetitive, and his vignettes of the trainees, although never kind, are often colorful. I do, however, object to the inclusion of certain sexual episodes and of the rather free use of four-letter vulgarities. They do nothing to advance the central theme, and jar the reader's sensibilities." Lola Dudley

Library J 93:2680 Jl '68 140w

"[Weiss] found training a bitter disappointment, a 'sick circus' afflicted by 'the greatest of American diseases: Playing-it-safe.' . . . Despite its anger [this] is a funny, attractive book. Weiss's method is descriptive, not analytic; his account has the narrative pace and brisk dialogue of a novel. It races through a landscape of incidents, trivial and significant. Weiss and his friends spend a lot of time observing girls (through a telescope) and pursuing them, with comically disastrous results. . . . Finally, in a furious interview with the 'Chief Field Assessment Officer,' Weiss raises disturbing questions about the Peace Corps and his relation to it. . . . As a critique the book has limited but genuine value. . . . I recommend [it] to those Peace Corps recruiters who are currently finding college students 'apathetic.' . . . [It] is not a systematic survey but the record of an experience. It is a convincing one." Steven Jervis

Sat R 51:40 Je 8 '68 700w

WEISS, HARVEY. Sailing small boats; phot. by Peter Barlow. 71p lib bdg $3.95 Scott, W.R.

797.1 Sailing—Juvenile literature. Boats and boating—Juvenile literature 67-21799

Beginning with an "explanation of historical background and the scientific principles underlying this form of transportation, the reader is drawn into a series of simple experiments [to] clarify the mysteries of flotation, stability, movement, control, and basic construction. Instructions are given for building a model sailboat which include nomenclature and the effects of rudder and set of sail. The next stage is the construction of a full-sized sailboat. . . . Grades seven to twelve." (Library J)

"This book should fill the growing need to supply youngsters with a well-planned introduction to the sport of sailing. . . . Many well chosen diagrams and photographs amplify the clearly written step-by-step procedures outlined. When boat prices are considered, enthusiastic young readers might well undertake the building of their own boats. This beautifully printed and illustrated volume should prove to be a valuable passport to an exciting pastime." Oscar Wright

Library J 93:310 Ja 15 '68 100w

Reviewed by Holger Lundbergh

N Y Times Bk R p26 Ap 7 '68 200w

WEISS, JONATHAN, jt. auth. Right & wrong. See Weiss, P.

WEISS, PAUL. Right & wrong; a philosophical dialogue between father and son [by] Paul Weiss and Jonathan Weiss. 210p $4.95 Basic bks.

170 Ethics 67-28506

This volume presents six dialogues between the Sterling professor of philosophy at Yale and his son, a practicing attorney. "In the first four dialogues they examine moral obligations in personal, family, social, and political relations. In the other two they explore 'the categories that underlie the whole,' that is, the role of moral obligation in the universe and in the domain of human law." (Library J) Index.

"[This] exchange is not structured tightly enough to qualify as a true philosophic dialogue . . . and it is not informally conversational enough to carry the average lay reader along its rather circuitous route. The book is of some value for the light it throws upon the view of Paul Weiss, but on the topic of law and morals students will find such works as Edmond Cahn, The Moral Decision [BRD 1955], Morris R. Cohen, Reason and Law [BRD 1950], and Sidney Hook, ed, Law and Philosophy [BRD 1965] more helpful."

Choice 5:510 Je '68 110w

Reviewed by Valeria Gregory

Library J 92:3877 O 15 '67 80w [YA]

"Neither participant is easy to satisfy, but both arrive at important areas of agreement. Commendably, each abstract concept which is introduced, is threshed out in terms of homely examples." William Gerber

Library J 92:4162 N 15 '67 120w

"In the thrust and parry of ideas in the intense examination of human behavior and aspiration, the dialogue between father and son illuminates the alternatives that confront human beings at every turn. . . . The Weisses invariably arrive at their humanistic, democratic conclusions via different routes. Trained in the adversary tactics of the law, Jonathan attacks an issue head on, testing limits and examining strategies of action. As a contemporary metaphysician, Paul attempts to fuse knowledge into a system of belief. . . . [This book] could have profited from ruthless editing. Still, the intellectual quality of the two men is a marvel of felicity."

Time 91:93 Ja 19 '68 750w

WEISS, PETER. Exile: a novel; trs: E. B. Garside, Alastair Hamilton [and] Christopher Levenson. 245p $5.95 Delacorte press 63-11669

The "first-person hero is a German-born half Jew who at 18 leaves his country to get away from the Nazis. . . . [The first section] dealing with [Peter's] most formative years, is rendered in a mist of Proustian reverie set off by the death of his father. Incidents of incestuous exploration with his sister, her sudden death, his adolescent impotence, his art student's vie-not-so-Bohème, [are included. In the second section, the narrator,] now in Sweden, is no longer an innocent freshman questing, but rather a jaded graduate detouring. He revolves in typical refugee circles, begins to bed down casually, regards paternity indifferently, soon marries carelessly." (Time) In two parts: I. Leavetaking, which was first published in German under the title Abschied von den Eltern; II. Vanishing Point, which was first published in German under the title Fluchtpunkt.

Reviewed by Phoebe Adams
Atlantic 222:106 J1 '68 50w

Reviewed by Frederic Morton
Book World p8 J1 7 '68 700w

"The reason [this] is more than the curious and stylistically bizarre confession of a sick mind [is that] like a number of other German novels of our time, it is simultaneously a personal expression and an allegory of what is happening to Germany, and to modern civilization, as the narrator himself grows to adulthood. There are complex threads: the narrator connects together his own neurosis and the malaise of his nation with music, the history of art, literature from Stendhal to Hemingway and Knut Hamsun. . . . This artistic decadent part of the novel reminds the reader of Thomas Mann; it is a kind of 'Doctor Faustus' in miniature. But it is a miniature of genius, like the tiny paintings of Dürer that are as impressive as the frieze of the Parthenon." Donald Heiney

Christian Science Mointor p13 J1 18 '68 700w

Reviewed by Jay Cantor
N Y Times Bk R p66 O 27 '68 360w

"Psychological penetration and a sense for sharp detail mark every page dealing with Weiss's early years and engage the reader almost against his will. . . . Some passages of Exile—a novel, a confession, and a memoir all in one—are painfully private and needlessly explicit, particularly when dealing with sex. The discussions of the author's favorite books also have a dilatory effect and are of purely academic interest. Beyond these reservations, the book is a brilliant restatement of the quest for maturity and a triumph over exile and alienation." J. P. Bauke

Sat R 51:24 Je 29 '68 800w

"[Incidents in the first section] are all presented with a quivering honesty. The second and final section . . . seems to lack the revelatory authority of Weiss's earlier disorders and sorrows. . . . Only in the novel's apocalyptic last scene, in which he finds his artistic torch, does [he] seem to recapture a literary fire. . . . But in his exultant rush to achieve the best possible world for his cosmopolitan self, he does not so much offer a rational resolution of his schizophrenic problems as a lyrical denial of them. Indeed, it is the very real and conflicting specifics in his past, arising out of his being at once German and Jewish, at once criminal and victim, that give his work its distinctive shape and validity—not his own vague if universal artistic longings."

Time 92:70 J1 5 '68 600w

WEISS, PIERO, comp. & ed. Letters of composers through six centuries; foreword by Richard Ellmann. 619p il $13.95 Chilton co.

920 Composers 67-28895

This collection of the correspondence of composers includes a "selection from the letters of French, German, Italian, and English composers . . . [extending] from Machault in the 14th Century to Schoenberg in the 20th. [The material is chronologically arranged]." (Library J) Index.

"Very similar to The Musician's World: Great Composers and Their Letters edited by [H.] Gal [BRD 1966]. Another similar book is the Norman and Shrifte collection, Letters of Composers [BRD 1946]. All three of these books share a similar format: chronological arrangement, pertinent introductory material to each letter (or composer), and explanatory footnotes to obscure references. Weiss has an advantage in the number of pre-Bach letters. He has, in addition, carefully edited his volume by retranslating some previously published letters and translating new letters for the first time into English. Although many of these letters can be found in existing scattered volumes, the Weiss and Gal books are convenient compendia suitable for the professional or layman. Both are well indexed and contain lists of sources. The Weiss must be singled out for excellent comments and notes at the conclusion of the book."

Choice 5:972 O '68 140w

"Translations are accurate, and Mr. Weiss's strict chronological approach is a revealing one. . . . The book is most valuable in its presentation of early material and contemporary letters. The brief notes are informative. Occasionally, the editor has chosen only extracts of letters, for reasons which are not clear. Recommended for the general reader." Baird Hastings

Library J 92:3644 O 15 '67 150w

WEISS, RENÉE KAROL, comp. A paper zoo: a collection of animal poems by modern American poets; pictures by Ellen Raskin. 38p $4.50 Macmillan (N Y)

811 Animals—Poetry—Juvenile literature 68-10124

"T. S. Eliot's 'Naming of Cats' and Marianne Moore's 'A Jellyfish' are among the 16 poems . . . that comprise this collection in picture-book format. . . . Grade two and up." (Library J)

Reviewed by Virginia Haviland

Book World p24 (children's issue) N 3 '68 140w

"Miss Weiss's selection is accompanied by orange and green illustrations in a consistent heavily patterned, art nouveau style combined with oversized child figures. Though some may find the illustrations monotonous, this excellent collection includes material rarely anthologized, a valuable addition to school and library poetry collections." Marjorie Lewis

Library J 93:3961 O 15 '68 100w

"It is pleasant to find Emily Dickinson included as a 'modern.' . . . Here every poem, except the first, a rather weak Cummings, is pure pleasure. . . . All ages will enjoy the sophisticated inventions of the illustrator who has made each page, text and drawing together, into a work of art." May Sarton

N Y Times Bk R p38 S 29 '68 110w

WEISSBACH, JURGEN, jt. auth. Two studies in the theology of Bonhoeffer. See Moltmann, J.

WELLESZ, EGON, ed. Studies in Eastern chant; v 1; general eds: Egon Wellesz and Miles Velimirović. 134p pl $8 Oxford

783.5 Church music 66-75827

Announced as Volume one in a series initiated "as a forum for writings on Byzantine music—both to assemble articles which might appear in periodicals not easily accessible to the musicologist and to publish those which because of their specialized nature might not find a place among more general Byzantine studies." (TLS) Index of musicians. Index of manuscripts.

"This series shows promise of being a significant contribution particularly because of the sterling reputation of the general editors as well as the contributors. It is intended as a complement to the Monumenta Musicae Byzantinae which will continue to publish more extensive studies. Lists of works by Wellesz and H. J. W. Tillyard, founders of Byzantine musicology, are valuable. . . . Copious musical examples, both in original notation and in transcription. The work is certainly of graduate level, but it can be of use for undergraduates in preparing special studies."

Choice 4:1253 Ja '68 160w

"The ten articles cover a wide range of topics, among them a systematic comparison of the Masoretic accents of the Hebrew Bible and the ekphonic neumes of the Greek Old Testament, essays on individual important manuscripts, and a discussion by C. A. Trypanis of the musical rendering of the early Kontakia. . . . The editor gives the history of a fourteenth-century manuscript . . . containing twenty-two Stichera (monostrophic hymns) for the feast of St. Athanasios. . . . The texts of these are given with notes on sources, possible attributions, and appearance in other manuscripts, with some musical transcriptions. . . . It is perhaps a pity, in a book which cannot fail to be of interest even to the non-specialist, that some of the more obscure technical terms are not very briefly explained, despite the numerous and excellent footnote references to other relevant works."

TLS p1184 D 22 '66 550w

WELLS, DONALD A. The war myth. 288p $6.95; pa $1.75; to libs & schools $5.58 Pegasus (N Y)

355.02 War

67-25500

This book traces Western philosophical, theological and institutional justifications of war from ancient times to the present day. The author attempts to define and examine the war system, placing particular emphasis on its relationship to the myths of Communism, the "domino theory," and the "free world." He considers the psychological, military and economic causes of war; and discusses possible cures for war. Chapter bibliographies. Index.

"Events today, one would think, would have completely unmasked the myth of war. But in sad fact this is not the case, and so [this book] provides a timely assist. . . . Aware of the complex character and roots of warfare, [Wells] can be duly critical without succumbing to single-factor determinisms or simplifications. His villain, if any, is the fatalism with which men resign themselves to war as though it were inevitable." Paul Peachey

Christian Century 85:486 Ap 17 '68 200w

"Mr. Wells has written an important and timely book that should stir each reader to serious reflection. [He] cuts through the semantic nonsense and the jabbering that surrounds our present discussion of war to deftly explore both its causes and conduct. Much of what he says is couched in religious terms, but it is all extremely interesting and important. His book is valuable for anyone who wants to deepen his thinking about this most serious subject." H. A. Ozmon

Library J 92:2791 Ag '67 100w

WELLS, H. G. The adventures of Tommy. unp col il $3.50; lib bdg $3.29 Knopf

67-19480

This story, written in 1898 for a little girl of the writer's acquaintance, concerns "a man 'so rich and proud that he wore diamonds for buttons and two gold watches jewelled in every hole and rings four or five on each finger.' He also wore such a rich, proud expression that he inadvertently stepped over a cliff into the ocean. Rescued by young Tommy, the humbled man set out in search of a suitable reward, a pet which proved to be an elephant. [See BRJ] 1929 for previous United States publication.] Ages five to nine." (Book World)

Reviewed by M. B. King

Book World p12 Ja 21 '68 150w

"Written as a diversion when the author was recuperating from an illness. . . . [this] will, perhaps, be of interest to adult librarians and patrons of large collections where it would offer an interesting comparison with the author's better-known works. In his autobiography, Wells describes the book as having an 'artless quaintness that pleased people . . . but the simple, rather pointless story . . . will have little relevancy or appeal for American children of the 1960's.'" Barbara Gibson

Library J 92:4247 N 15 '67 90w

"[This] is charming and, since it is Wells, rather tongue-in-cheek about morals." Carolyn Heilbrun

N Y Times Bk R pt 2. p59 N 5 '57 20w

Reviewed by Janet Malcolm

New Yorker 43:181 D 16 '67 30w

WELLS, TOBIAS. Dead by the light of the moon. 191p $3.95 Doubleday

67-22449

"Murder and mutilation of Boston spinster [Dorothea Lacey] during power failure send Detective Knute Severson and associates up and down staircases in hot pursuit." (Sat R)

Best Sell 27:371 D 15 '67 40w

Reviewed by M. K. Grant

Library J 92:4031 N 1 '67 70w

"Young Detective (third grade) Knute Severson, Division Two, Boston P. D., is developing gratifyingly as a series protagonist. In [this book] he copes with a particularly grisly killing during the great 1965 blackout of the Eastern seacoast; despite the shocking nature of the crime, his creator manages to sustain a nice light bright tone along with realistic police work—and a procedurally credible, if unorthodox, solution." Anthony Boucher

N Y Times Bk R p32 Ja 7 '68 50w

"Too many side dishes spoil the appetite here." Sergeant Cuff

Sat R 50:33 D 23 '67 30w

"This is Tobias Wells's third book about Detective Knute Severson of Boston, Mass., and still one cannot say more than that Mr. Wells is a promising writer. . . . [He] has still to learn how not to give his murderer away by the way he presents him; and if we can guess, the Boston police should not need to fall back on revelation by confession."

TLS p656 Je 20 '68 80w

WELLS-SCHON, GRETA. Portrait of Yahweh as a young God; or, How to get along with a God you don't necessarily like but can't help loving. 125p $4.95 Holt

211 God

68-14929

The author maintains that the theory that God must be entirely likable to be loved and worshipped is a mistake in reasoning. Returning to the Old Testament she found emerging from it the portrait of Yahweh as a young God, as alive and close to humanity as no other God. Bibliography.

"It would not occur to anyone to expect such a pleasantly confusing mutation of a book about a highly mutable God. Perhaps one should think of the chapters as meditations or apologies or stabs in the semidark. In any case, they deal with a virile and unpredictable God who, because man is made in his image, does not come on strong as an unflawed deity. But he is compelling, as is the author of this book—a devotee of his, as it were."

Christian Century 85:1020 Ag 14 '68 90w

Reviewed by A. A. Cohen

Commonweal 89:418 D 20 '68 330w

"The book is about the God hidden 'by piles and piles of theology.' It is not a total loss; the author is no boor. But her observations about getting along with a God 'you don't necessarily like but can't help loving' are more clever than serious. Still, Miss Wells-Schon knows classical history, the Old Testament and the Christian ethic. And she has a sense of humor; all credit for that."

Critic 27:101 O '68 110w

"[The author] is concerned that we Christians have seriously erred when we absorb the Hellenistic philosophic speculation that God is perfect and immutable. . . . Hence it is an error to require God to be better than we are, if we have been made by Him in His image; this error, she believes lies at the root of the 'God is Dead' theology. Needless to say, many Christians of all theological persuasions will disagree with her thesis. Nonetheless those who can rise above their convictions will enjoy, while differing, this lively account of her personal relationship with her God." Shildes Johnson

Library J 93:2878 Ag '68 150w

WELSH, JAMES J. The speech writing guide; professional techniques for regular and occasional speakers. 128p $5.95 Wiley

803.51 Public speaking. Rhetoric 68-19782

"Essentially, [this] is intended as a practical reference tool for writing a worthwhile speech—a speech noted for clarity, unity, and economy and one that has something to say to an audience. Guides for speech delivery are also included." (Pref) Directory of information sources. Bibliography. Index.

"Neither academic nor complex, [this guide] is specifically designed for business executives and for speech writers. Throughout, [Welsh]

WELSH, J. J.—Continued

contrasts those elements which serve oral expression with other elements more effective in writing. He uses many textual illustrations to demonstrate the principles recommended and provides good counsel on how to speak well. . . . His own style is a good example of the principles he enumerates; each chapter has one goal, each paragraph has one idea, each sentence is a complete unit. The net effect is sometimes a little choppy, but the style fits the purpose and the intended reader well. Mr. Welsh's guide should be a useful desk book for the inexperienced speech-maker." Jerrold Orne

Library J 93:1632 Ap 15 '68 170w

Reviewed by S. W. Little

Sat R 51:79 Je 8 '68 50w

WENDT, HERBERT. Before the deluge; tr. from the German by Richard and Clara Winston. 419p pl maps $6.95 Doubleday

560 Fossils. Naturalists 67-10355

The author traces the development of the science of paleontology from the time of Leonardo da Vinci to that of Dr. Louis Leakey. He discusses the contributions "of the many scientists, theologians, and amateurs [including] . . . Agricola, Lamarck, Buffon, Agassiz . . . [and] others—those who presented valid theories as well as those whose ideas were sooner or later proven to be incorrect." (Library J) Index. Originally published under the title Ehe die Sintflut kam.

"This book is an account of the romance and adventure in paleontology, a science well stocked with colorful characters and episodes. . . . [It] leans heavily on the sensational, the tragic, the comic. Nevertheless, it conveys a history of the science. . . . A delightfully written reference . . . with information garnered from many incompletely cited sources." Choice 5:1166 N '68 100w

"Some of the most fascinating reading is to be found in sections which deal with forgeries of fossils and those which cover the deluge theory and the 'stone seed' theory. The final section of the book is devoted to a history of research and discovery on the various geologic periods for which there are fossil remains. . . . This superb addition to the literature of the history of geology is highly recommended for nonspecialists and academic libraries." J. K. Luckner

Library J 93:2511 Je 15 '68 140w

"Children love dinosaurs and at least a few teen-agers will carry over sufficient interest to read this sketchy, lively history of paleontology. . . . Darwin plays a large part in the book, along with the less familiar Cuvier . . . and a host of amusing forgers, fossil-mongers and ignoramuses. Such a quantity of names are thrown out, in fact, that the book is badly in need of a bibliography or list of suggested readings. The translation reads smoothly, and there is a good selection of drawings and photographs." Collin Clark

Library J 93:2743 Jl '68 100w [YA]

WENNER, MANFRED W. Modern Yemen, 1918-1966. 257p $6.95 Johns Hopkins press

953 Yemen—History 67-12420

The author, a professor of political science at Wisconsin State University, "has divided his work into three basic parts, the first of which treats Arabia Felix, in which he describes the landscape and the people, and then traces the . . . road to independence through the period of World War I and immediately thereafter. Part II deals with internal developments under the Imams Yahya (1904-1948) and Ahmad (1948-1962). Part III is devoted to foreign policy and closes with an . . . analysis of the civil war in Yemen, which began in September 1962, with the advent of Imām al-Badr to the throne, and carries the story down to mid-1966." (Ann Am Acad) Bibliography. Index.

"This [is the] first study in the English language of modern Yemen with Yemeni civil war still in progress. . . . [Wenner] has found it essential to range far afield in a number of languages for the requisite source materials; the bibliography resulting from this search is one of the important features of the book. While the reader's attention may be diverted slightly by occasional imperfections in composition, the multitude of footnote citations attests the conscientiousness with which the sources have been combed in an effort to sift essentials from heterogeneous and sometimes conflicting accounts. . . . It seems not to have been [Wenner's] purpose to deal extensively with the international rivalry that has been manifested . . . since the creation of the Yemen Arab Republic in 1962, yet the book surely would have gained somewhat in significance had more attention been given to these international relationships." H. L. Hoskins

Am Hist R 73:866 F '68 450w

"A judicious and objective account of the government of Yemen. . . . It is in discussing the . . . conflict between the two Imams and the British . . . that the author's objectivity flags. [He follows] closely, though without acknowledgment, Harold Ingrams's demonstration [in The Yemen, BRD 1965] that the British were slow to realize the verbal ambiguities in the valid Arabic text of the Anglo-Yemeni treaty of 1934. . . . He refers without qualification to the Imam's 'legitimate rights' and relegates to a footnote the admission that there was 'some question' about their legality. . . . There are frequent discrepancies between the transliteration of place-names in the text and that used on the map . . . which has no scale of miles and does not illustrate the Yemeni territorial claims as well as the two-page map in the preface to Ingrams' [book]." George Kirk

Am Pol Sci R 62:647 Je '68 600w

"In attempting to unravel the tangled threads of the story [of modern Yemen, Professor Wenner] has rendered a very real service to Western students of the Middle East. . . . Like other observers, Professor Wenner has no clear-cut solutions. . . . [This is a most welcome] study of a very complicated and generally misunderstood problem. The Appendix contains a dynastic table and a well-selected bibliography of sources both in Arabic and in western European languages." H. N. Howard

Ann Am Acad 375:219 Ja '68 550w

Reviewed by H. S. Deighton

Engl Hist R 83:876 O '68 300w

"This well-written book . . . is recommended to any reader who is interested in finding the background story behind the news." David Shavit

Library J 92:2570 Jl '67 250w

TLS p502 My 16 '68 300w

WERKMEISTER, LUCYLE. A newspaper history of England, 1792-1793. 585p il $12.50 Univ. of Neb. press

914.2 Great Britain—History—1714-1837. English newspapers 67-13209

"The purpose of this volume is to view the world of 1792-1793 through the eyes of a contemporary reader of the London daily press. It will be followed by two other such volumes, each covering an additional two years, so that the study will finally encompass the period 1792-1797. . . . The newspapers consulted have been those in the Burney collection of the British Museum. . . . [The material is presented] under loose topical headings. . . . Factual background has been supplied from time to time for reasons of orientation." (Pref) Chronology. Annotated bibliography. Index.

"Werkmeister is trying to provide a new kind of history made up of the information current to contemporaries. She avoids dealing with correspondence and documents that were not generally known at the time, and tries to present the views of the various newspapers. Unfortunately, she is highly partisan and constantly editorializes through her text as an ardent Foxite. There is an excellent 92-page index, invaluable in a work of this type; . . . each chapter is well documented. As a handy reference for students of political, social, and literary history, it should be on the shelves of college libraries."

Choice 5:548 Je '68 150w

Reviewed by R. G. McInnis

Library J 93:1633 Ap 15 '68 240w

WERSBA, BARBARA. The dream watcher. 171p $3.95 Atheneum pubs.

68-28750

Albert Scully "had no friends, his school performance was shoddy, his parents were disappointed in him, and he liked all the wrong things—Shakespeare, gardening, collecting recipes, and foreign plays. . . . It wasn't until he met [eighty-year-old] Mrs. Woodfin that

Albert found a friend who thought he was an interesting and important human being. . . . They complement and comfort each other so that Albert for the first time feels confidence in the future and in his nonconformity." (Sat R) "Age twelve and up." (Commonweal)

"The author, with skill and compassion, has created a good, honest human being, an individualist who needs his dream and will have the strength, you feel sure, to be himself. She has written an unusual and very fine book about an extraordinary friendship, a book that is thoughtful, often funny and with a hero to remember." Polly Goodwin

Book World p18 (children's issue) N 1 '68 220w

"Rarely does an author manage to capture the suburban scene with the painful fidelity achieved here. . . . Readers will be reminded of The Catcher in the Rye [by J. D. Salinger, BRD 1951]. The theme is similar and the same bitter-sweet humor runs through it. But this is no imitation. It's an eloquent restatement of the old plea for the individual." L. P. Scanlon

Commonweal 89:288 N 22 '68 160w

Horn Bk 44:567 O '68 160w

Reviewed by S. A. Roth

Library J 93:[3328] S 15 '68 230w

"[This] is loaded with adult wisdom, but Miss Wersba weaves it smoothly into her overall creation. It is not a book that will appeal to everyone—and that is no mark against it. It well may serve as reassurance to young people like Albert, who worry so much that they are 'different.' . . . Miss Wersba has bravely undertaken the difficult stylistic accouterment of much quoted material from Shakespeare, Shaw, Rilke, Thoreau, and Wilfred Owen to underscore her points. Given the fantastical characters of Albert and Mrs. Woodfin, it all seems to work rather well." John Weston

N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p2 N 3 '68 1000w

Reviewed by Zena Sutherland

Sat R 51:69 N 9 '68 130w

WERSTEIN, IRVING. I accuse; the story of the Dreyfus case. 191p il $3.95; lib bdg $3.64 Messner

B or 92 Dreyfus, Alfred—Juvenile literature 67-21620

"On December 22, 1894, a French military court declared Captain Alfred Dreyfus guilty of selling military secrets to Germany . . . and sentenced [him] to life imprisonment in the . . . penal colony of Devil's Island. The Dreyfus Case seemed ended. But in reality it had only just begun. For in the decade to follow, the question of Alfred Dreyfus' guilt was to divide the . . . French nation into two bitterly opposing camps. . . . [This is] the story of the eventual vindication of Dreyfus and of those who risked all to aid him." (Publisher's note) Index. "Grades seven to ten." (Best Sell)

Best Sell 27:316 N 1 '67 60w

"This clearcut account . . . is written without fictionizing and in an uncondescending manner. The author makes clear the background of events and emotions and portrays the myriad characters involved, tracing the affair from its inception to its conclusion 12 years later. Although this work covers the same events and is written for approximately the same age group as the authoritative, more dramatic, and thought-provoking The Dreyfus Affair by Betty Schechter [BRD 1965], most libraries will wish to have both books on a subject of such far-reaching importance. Readers will turn to I Accuse for both enjoyment and research." Bernice Levine

Library J 92:3869 O 15 '67 70w

WERSTEIN, IRVING. The plotters; the New York conspiracy of 1741. 120p il lib bdg $3.63 Scribner

974.71 New York (City)—History—Juvenile literature. Negroes—New York (City)—Juvenile literature 67-15495

"Fear and superstition made New Yorkers hysterical after a hard winter, a terrible drought, and mysterious burglaries. When a wave of arson swept the city, the cry was raised that the slaves were plotting to overthrow their masters. In the panic a young indentured servant, Mary Burton, started a witch hunt that brought death or imprisonment to over a hundred innocent slaves and bondsmen." (Publisher's note) Index. "Grades seven to ten." (Best Sell)

Best Sell 27:107 Je 1 '67 100w

"Mr. Werstein has revived this now all-but-forgotten disgrace. By assessing the distressing incidents according to social mores of the present, however, he distorts the affair, for in those days, lamentably, slaves and indentured servants were regarded on the same level as cattle. However, even though this work is highly fictionalized, it is well written and researched and should, because it is the only juvenile book on the subject, be considered for purchase by all libraries to help round out the picture of New York in pre-Revolutionary-War days." Paul Sarnoff

Library J 92:2465 Je 15 '67 130w

"The details of how the 'plotters' were hanged, beaten or deported on insufficient evidence for nonexistent crimes provide a valuable corrective to the view of English New York taught in schools. Nevertheless, there is a certain shallowness to Irving Werstein's writing of history, and a disturbing lack of reference to his sources for specific facts and quotations. No doubt the events in 'The Plotters' happened, but . . . most readers will want to know more about why." L. M. Bensky

N Y Times Bk R p26 Ag 6 '67 150w

WERSTEIN, IRVING. This wounded land; the era of Reconstruction, 1865-1877. 176p $4.50 Delacorte press

973.8 Reconstruction—Juvenile literature 67-19766

"Opening with a view of the political, economic, and social structure of Southern society before the War, Mr. Werstein then traces the problems of Reconstruction through to their solution, from Lincoln's plans for rebuilding the South and reuniting the Union, through Johnson's policies, Grant's administration, and the election of Rutherford B. Hayes." (Publisher's note) Annotated bibliography. Index. "Grade nine and up." (Best Sell)

"A concise and well-written account."

Best Sell 28:174 Jl 15 '68 110w [YA]

"[Werstein] has achieved only a retelling of the old familiar story of Reconstruction. This of course does no disservice, but anyone who expects fulfillment of the author's promise to illuminate 'those phases of reconstruction days only infrequently exposed to light' . . . will be disappointed." P. M. Angle

Book World p30 (children's issue) My 5 '68 150w [YA]

"An interesting, well written book and an excellent choice to augment collections on American Negro history." Muriel Bart

Library J 93:4425 N 15 '68 140w [YA]

"The author is emphatic in condemning South and North, and deplores the lack of leadership that might have forestalled today's racial problems." Mel Watkins

N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p49 My 5 '68 90w

WERSTEIN, IRVING. The uprising of the Warsaw ghetto, November 1940-May 1943. 157p pl lib bdg $3.93 Norton

940.54 Warsaw—History—Juvenile literature. Jews in Poland—Juvenile literature. World War, 1939-1945—Poland—Juvenile literature 68-16566

This description of the resistance of the Jews of Warsaw begins in 1940. "By the end of 1940 the half-million population of the Ghetto had been sealed off and the . . . one-way journeys to the death camp of Treblinka had begun. . . . By July of 1942 Operation Reinhard was underway—the total destruction of the ghetto decreed by Hitler. But something was stirring there. . . . When Gen. Jürgen-Stroop . . . took command of the German troops in April of 1943, he found full-scale rebellion on his hands. But the end was inevitable." (N Y Times Bk R) Index. "Grades seven to ten." (Library J)

"Drawn from trial records, contemporary sources, and interviews, this vivid and accurate report shows both the collaborators and the heroes, the inhuman and the humane. While Mr. Werstein does not lift the guilt from the perpetrators of these atrocities, his ultimate judgment is directed less against the individuals than against the philosophy they served." R. W. Barber

Library J 93:1818 Ap 15 '68 100w

WERSTEIN, IRVING—Continued

"The ordeal of the Jews of Warsaw is told in sturdy, straightforward fashion. . . . [Although] few Jews survived to tell the tale, Mr. Werstein has been able to interview enough of their number to give his story a powerful immediacy." Burke Wilkinson

N Y Times Bk R p30 My 12 '68 220w
[YA]

WERTENBAKER, LAEL. The world of Picasso, 1881- . . . by Lael Wertenbaker and the eds. of Time-Life books. 190p il col il $7.95 Time

709.04 Picasso, Pablo 67-30587
An introduction to the work of Picasso. Bibliography. Index.

"Authoritatively and well written. . . . this reasonably priced volume is a recommended addition to private, public, and college libraries."

Choice 5:768 S '68 100w

"While not presenting any new material on Picasso, Mrs. Wertenbaker, an experienced journalist and well-known author, does convey a good understanding of Picasso's background, his literary and artistic milieu, and the close relationship between his art and his personal life. In general her well-researched book contains good stylistic analyses of the major periods of his work. But the section in which she deals with the differences between analytical and synthetic cubism is not clearly defined. The nonspecialist will certainly gain, in an enjoyable manner, a greater knowledge of Picasso, the man and the artist. . . . Excellent color plates, well-written text, and good bibliography. . . . Recommended for high school and public libraries." Jacqueline Sisson

Library J 93:1993 My 15 '68 150w

Library J 93:2553 Je 15 '68 10w [YA]

WERTHMAN, MICHAEL S., jt. ed. The history of popular culture. See Cantor, N. F.

WESSER, ROBERT F. Charles Evans Hughes; politics and reform in New York, 1905-1910. 366p il $8.50 Cornell univ. press

974.7 Hughes, Charles Evans. New York (State)—Politics and government 67-19029

"This study attempts an analysis of Hughes's early political career against the background of New York politics and reform—from his work as counsel for the gas and insurance investigations through his two terms as governor. . . . [The author analyzes] Hughes as a reformer and a political leader, emphasizing his progressive program and his efforts to implement it. Finally, an attempt is made to evaluate the Hughes administration from the standpoint of its actual contributions to progressive government and party reform." (Pref) Bibliography. Index.

"Throughout the book Wesser highlights the role that practical politics—intraparty and interparty, state level and national level—played in initiating, shaping, and deciding the outcome of the reform battles of the Hughes years. Indeed, this is the main lesson of the book, for it calls to our attention the degree to which progressivism owed its achievements to political exigencies and to the machinations of politicians, as well as to the reformist currents set in motion by the muckrakers, preachers, and social philosophers and scientists whose contributions have been dwelt on so much." J. J. Huthmacher

Am Hist R 73:1667 Je '68 450w

"This monograph, although narrow in scope, is an extremely valuable study. It reveals concisely why high-minded men sometimes fail in the realm of politics. By making judicious use of the papers of Hughes, and those associated with him politically, as well as utilizing the Roosevelt correspondence, the author presents a factual record of the period in question. The picture of Hughes that emerges is that of a legal-minded moralist who never completely understood the mechanics of professional politics. It was obvious from this fine work that Charles Evans Hughes was a good man who lacked the necessary requirements for statesmanship." F. H. Schapsmeier

Am Poi Sci 62:630 Je '68 750w

"[This book] contributes much to the historiography of the State from 1905 to 1910. With respect to depth and to objective analysis of the governorship, it is a better book than [M.J.] Pusey's Pulitzer Prize-winning biography of Hughes [BRD 1951]. Professor Wesser does not see leaders and factions in terms of black and white or 'right' and 'wrong.' . . . Also, the author examined primary source material yet unused in the assessment of Hughes and the period in New York. . . . [The book] makes for exciting reading. [Hughes'] 'David-like' struggle against the insurance and utility giants; his quick ascendancy to high office; his independence of the party organization; his confrontation with inept administrators; his forthright appeals to the public; and his absolute commitment to his programs gave the author an edge in writing a good biography." M. L. Fausold

Ann Am Acad 376:185 Mr '68 400w

Choice 5:553 Je '68 80w

"When his subject is dull, it is especially hard for the historian to avoid emulation. . . . [Hughes] simply refuses to come alive. . . . Wesser gives a skillful blow-by-blow account of Hughes' work as governor of New York [and] is not altogether unaware of Hughes' limitations. . . . [but] he refuses to place them more directly in the focus of his story. . . . In Wesser's version, Hughes always appears a champion even when he is an ignominious loser. . . . Perhaps Hughes' obtuseness infected the author himself. Wesser's account of Hughes' attitude toward the campaigns for social justice presents a final example of how to miss the point with both eyes open. It is probably true, says Wesser, that Hughes had not thought much about the poor. . . . [whereas] what was wrong with Hughes' attitude and style [was that] he never really regarded social reform as politically relevant." R. A. Abrams

J Am Hist 55:665 D '68 750w

TLS p1071 S 26 '68 450w

WESSON, ROBERT G. The imperial order. 547p $10 Univ. of Calif. press

321 Imperialism

67-11938

The author "examines the great imperial systems of the past that had concentrated power. Evidence from the Roman, Russian, Chinese, Turkish, Persian, Egyptian, Mogul, Inca, and other empires is used as a basis for discussing topics such as intellectual atmosphere, economic development, political control, social relations, and religious beliefs. Professor Wesson's thesis is that the degree to which political power dominates society is related to the presence of an opposing force. He also [attempts to] show that the misuse of power which follows naturally from its concentration leads to imperial decay." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

"This excessively repetitive study of empire suffers from drowning of its own scholarly weight. . . . It is a mine of information for those who know their history. They will, however, wonder why no mention is made of the British Empire, though several pages deal with the Hawaiian. . . . Despite the castigation of empires, Wesson states that 'the empire is not pure exploitation' and that there are 'elements of cooperation and mutuality.' He ends with the hope, however faint, that men may be able to find 'the right ground between needs for order and needs for freedom.' This wide-ranging work, I think, will prove of greater value to the cognoscenti than to the neophyte." Wallace Sokolsky

Ann Am Acad 375:200 Ja '68 450w

"The sweep of this study is broad the political history of man. . . . The chapters on intellectual and political failure and the one on 'Principles of Empire' are particularly stimulating. Recommended for the college library." S. D. Nerboso

Library J 92:2166 Je 1 '67 210w

WEST, D. J. The young offender. 333p $6.50; pa $1.45 Int. univ. press

364.36 Juvenile delinquency

67-7924

An "analysis of the English delinquency problem in both its historical and international perspectives. [The author] presents statistical data and examines all major sociological, biological, and psychological theories of delinquency. In addition he discusses a number of studies of delinquency prediction, prevention, and control and he describes the English penal system for dealing with young offenders. The book also includes discussions of female delinquency and the problems of sex, drugs, and violence among juveniles." (Library J)

"In a nicely balanced presentation, a distinctly lucid style appealing to undergraduates and concerned general readers, [West] covers such aspects of youthful crime as nature and extent of delinquency; backgrounds of offenders; latest psychological theories of causation; sex, drugs and violence; treatment and prevention. In some 'cautionary afterthoughts' on delinquency, he feels 'we have hardly got to the stage of stating the issues coherently, let alone resolving them.' . . . As did [D. M.] Downe in The Delinquent Solution [BRD 1967]. West examines important American works in the sociology of juvenile delinquency and weighs their validity against the facts of English experience and theories. Recommended for undergraduate libraries." (Choice 5:415 My '68 160w)

"An excellent review of delinquency literature and the problem in England. There are some instances in which too brief a summarization results in oversimplification of an individual's work, theory, or position." M. A. Forslund

Library J 92:4517 D 15 '67 210w

WEST, DAVID ALEXANDER. Reading Horace. 156p $5.75 Aldine pub.

874 Horace (Quintus Horatius Flaccus) [67-27402]

This book reminds us that we should "take Horace's words and metaphors in terms of what they meant in his time, opposed to what they might mean in ours. Illustrations [are] from specific passages in the Epistles and discussion of selected odes." (Choice)

"Lucid presentation; well documented, never pedantic. Particularly valuable is West's insight into the limitations of modern criticism. . . . Highly recommended."

Choice 4:1378 F '68 100w

"This book is worth owning. Slim, it suggests much, and most of the suggestions are both likely and beneficial. West's method is to read Horace with us, so to speak, drawing critically upon Latin usage, Roman practice, modern studies in imagery, and his own sensibilities. He respects the literal meaning of a work, is aware of the pitfalls in his methodology, is a touch breathless about its possibilities, tells us when he does not understand the point of an image . . . and withal has a winning enthusiasm and humor." J. P. Elder

Class World 61:411 J1 22 '68 210w

WEST, MORRIS L. The tower of Babel. 361p $5.95 Morrow

68-14801

"This novel begins with a mine explosion that kills an Israeli tractor operator, and comes to an end sometime in January, 1967. The rest of the book tells of a few days in the lives of five major characters as they create and react to the tensions of the Middle East during the period just before the six-day war. [They are] Jakov Baratz, Director of Israeli Military Intelligence; . . . Adom Ronen, Israel's man in Damascus; Safreddin, the Syrian director of security; . . . Nuri Chakry, a banker in Beirut; and . . . Idris Jarrah, a cynical but effective member of the [Palestine Liberation Front]." (America)

"West is a skilled popular novelist, and I feel had he been content to write a serious adventure story with a setting of politics in the Middle East, this would have been a less pretentious and more enjoyable book. As it is, however, his characters have the unfortunate tendency to ponder, at length, the meaning of love, war, money and religion. Since they are stock, popular novel types, their philosophical musings have a predictability and banality that numb the mind. A reader confronted with yet another passage in which Jakov Baratz, a good officer, but an excruciatingly dull thinker, ruminates upon the meaning of it all, can be forgiven for rooting for the Arabs. Despite good intentions, Morris West has created a literary split-level of babble." W. F. Gavin

America 118:296 Mr 2 '68 330w

Reviewed by Edward Weeks
Atlantic 221:124 Ap '68 800w

"The complexities of the economic, political, and even personal relationships in this novel cannot even be hinted at. A sparsely written novel, . . . there is action on every level of international intrigue, most plausibly asserted. The inevitable tragedies and hopes emerge. This is not a roman à clef, but after the Israeli 'reprisal' takes place, we are left with the historical fact, Dead Sea fruit to the thinking characters of the book, that the 1967 Middle East War is about to erupt. Minor characters are as sharply etched as the major characters are developed. But apart from the action, and the people, the most important element . . . is the magnificence of the all-pervasive historical and physical character of the land dominating its people. Mr. West has not written—those familiar with his work need no reassurance—merely a story of espionage and intrigue in the Middle East. He has written a novel that makes this time and place come alive." C. J. Maguire

Best Sell 27:456 Mr 1 '68 410w

Reviewed by Pamela Marsh
Christian Science Monitor p9 F 19 '68 340w

Reviewed by Nelson Algren
Critic 26:78 Ap '68 800w
Harper 236:106 Ap '68 120w

"Here Mr. West again seems to lance ulcers of intrigue and string-pulling. . . . The gallery is complex but each portrait is vivid and sharp. . . . There is indeed a tragic 'Babel' of malignancy and noncommunication, leading to torture, death, suicides, escapes. The network of actions pulses and tightens. . . . [West's] surgical characterizations leave no side 'clean'—all are scarred by existential tensions; yet the final scene, with its slogan 'Masada shall not fail again,' ends in a mood clearly pro-Israeli. While not a masterpiece, this timely novel is recommended for all libraries." B. W. Fuson

Library J 93:210 Ja 15 '68 230w

Reviewed by W. G. Rogers
N Y Times Bk R p36 Ap 7 '68 550w
Reviewed by Edward Wakin
Sat R 51:43 F 24 '68 410w

WESTERMANN, CLAUS. Basic forms of prophetic speech; tr. by Hugh Clayton White. 222p $5 Westminster press

224 Bible. O.T.—Prophets 67-10512

"The first third of the . . . volume is a survey of research on the prophets during the past 50 years, with special attention to judgment-speeches. . . . The remainder of the book . . . presents a form-critical analysis of judgment-speeches . . . [and] touches on many other aspects of prophetic activity." (Choice) This is a translation of Grundformen Prophetischer Rede, published in Germany in 1960.

Choice 5:796 S '68 160w

"[This work] marks the first major breakthrough in the extension of form critical methods to the prophetic literature of the Old Testament. . . . [The survey of previous research] both in quality and uniqueness, constitutes a major contribution. The work should not be thought of as definitive, but rather as a significant contribution to the continuing scholarly discussion of the literary problems inherent in the prophetic materials. The highly technical nature of the subject matter is made even more difficult by the labored English of the translation." R. V. Ritter

Library J 92:781 F 15 '67 220w

WESTIN, ALAN F. Privacy and freedom; foreword by Oscar M. Ruebhausen. 487p $10 Atheneum pubs.

323.44 Privacy, Right of. Eavesdropping 67-14335

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Reviewed by Robert Boguslaw
Am Soc R 33:173 F '68 1400w

Reviewed by O. K. Fraenkel
Ann Am Acad 337:196 My '68 470w
Choice 5:1045 O '68 240w

Reviewed by J. W. Carty
Christian Century 85:425 Ap 3 '68 500w

Reviewed by R. M. Fano
Sci Am 218:149 My '68 3000w

WESTLAKE, DONALD E. See Coe. T.

WESTOFF, CHARLES F. College women and fertility values, by Charles F. Westoff and Raymond H. Potvin. 237p $7.50 Princeton Univ. press

301.3 Fertility, Human. Students—U.S. 66-26589

The authors, sociologists at Princeton and at Catholic University, "have not examined the effects of education on Catholic women alone. . . . They have [also] analyzed the effects of various forms of college education and various differences in background on attitudes toward fertility of women of each of the principal American religious persuasions." (Foreword) Author index. Subject index.

"This is a good book. It attacks a real live sociological problem with a happy combination of imagination and rigor. . . . The criticism which will doubtless be leveled at this volume by students of fertility is that, in dealing with fertility desires rather than either expectations or actual performance, the study is limited in its ability to answer the question which prompted it: Why is there a distinctive relationship of education to actual fertility among certain Catholics? Even if further research makes this criticism stick, the book still deals impressively with the multiple relationship of religion, type of education, and values." Andrea Lyree

Am J Soc 73:645 Mr '68 750w

"Taken as a whole, the work is a substantial contribution to the social psychology of human fertility. For many readers, the substance may be hard to get hold of, but this is due largely to the level at which Westoff and Potvin are working. They assume familiarity with previous work in this and related fields, focus their attention on difficult, unanswered questions, and maintain standards for judging the adequacy of possible answers. Their area and style of work make simplicity (oversimplification?) difficult to come by. One of the most impressive features of the book is the general model of behavior which informs the analysis throughout and is stated explicitly in Chapter 7." T. K. Burch

Am Soc R 33:321 Ap '68 900w

"Unfortunately, practical considerations led to basing the evaluation on comparison of the attitudes of freshmen and seniors enrolled during the 1963-1964 academic year. However, the authors fully alert the reader to the possible risks inherent in the use of such a synthetic cohort in lieu of a longitudinal study of the same cohort of women at the beginning and end of their college careers. The volume is divided into two major parts. The first focuses on the effects of higher education on attitudes toward family size, family planning, marriage, and career. In these analyses, type of college, religion of students, and class status—freshman versus senior—are treated as key variables. . . . The second part of the book assesses the influence of social factors and beliefs on fertility values. . . . Hopefully, this well-designed, insightful, and well-reported study will lead . . . to projects which will test the new ideas generated by this analysis." Sidney Goldstein

Ann Am Acad 376:206 Mr '68 750w

"Another in the series of Princeton population studies, this one examines 15,000 women in 45 American colleges, in an effort to determine the effects of higher education on desired fertility. Westoff and Potvin found, as they did in earlier studies, that religious orientations play the major role in the process of fertility choice, even among the highly educated. An extremely well done book, and is a must for every library that wishes to be up on the much discussed question of population growth."

Choice 5:274 Ap '68 90w

WESTON, JOHN. Hail, hero! 215p $4.50 McKay 68-10866

"Karl Dixon returns from Yale to the family ranch in Arizona, spends 24 hours with friends and relatives, and then, despite his disapproval of American Vietnamese policy, takes off to join the Army. He is determined to face an enemy soldier, the man who would kill him, and see if he can love that man." (N Y Times BK R)

Reviewed by D. F. Sharpe

Best Sell 27:428 F 1 '68 470w

"John Weston has something to say. Some of it is concerned with destruction. . . . But what Mr. Weston is really writing about is the generation gap. . . . [He] is not even trying to be fair to the older generation—few fathers can be as brutish as Karl Dixon's. Nor does he need to adopt such earthiness to describe earthiness. In fact the casual language of amorality may cut off the audience who most needs to hear what [this book] has to say. But what Mr. Weston has done, done brilliantly, is to lend us the eyes of puzzled, troubled youth." Pamela Marsu

Christian Science Monitor p9 Ja 29 '68 470w

Reviewed by Earl Tannenbaum
Library J 92:4435 D 1 '67 170w

"At times, its lyrical style and poetic fantasizing make this book a more than ordinarily interesting interpretation of the reasons why today's young men fear and/or fight the draft. . . . Weston's talent for writing . . . will be even more obvious when he has mastered the development of characterization. Some well-informed and mature students, particularly hip young men, will be able to appreciate Hail, Hero's subtleties. Nevertheless, the book will present a selection problem to those YA collections where four-letter words and reading about unusual liaisons are thought to be detrimental to young adults." Carol Kalamaras

Library J 93:1335 Mr 15 '68 200w [YA]
Nation 206:484 Ap 8 '68 210w

"John Weston's prose is careful, balanced, occasionally lyrical but unnecessarily polite. . . . [The book] is intelligently put together—the themes intermingling nicely, the symbols. . . properly set. But one expects more from a serious writer. Passion rather than sentiment, people rather than types, music rather than geometry. 'Hail, Hero!' will undoubtedly be read and enjoyed by a great many people who would like to believe that the world is as warm, loving, simple and safe as Mr. Weston implies. Others will see the book as the latest example of a familiar tradition in the cultural life of America—marshmallow art." Frank Conroy

N Y Times Bk R p45 F 18 '68 950w

Reviewed by Joseph Haas

Sat R 51:31 Mr 2 '68 430w

Va Q R 44:xcvi summer '68 160w

WESTRUP, JACK, ed. Essays presented to Egon Wellesz. 188p il pl $14.40 Oxford

783.5 Choral music. Opera. Wellesz, Egon [66-67909]

This Festschrift in honor of the composer and musicologist consists of "sixteen articles dealing with Christian Chant and Opera—the two subjects with which Wellesz's name, as a scholar, is particularly associated." (TLS)

"These are all excellent articles which must be added promptly to the bibliography of their respective fields." Leonard Ellingwood

Music Lib Assn Notes 24:500 Mr '68 420w

"In common with many publications of this kind the Essays vary considerably in quality and interest. Some are anecdotal and reminiscent. . . . Others adopt the scholarly, up-to-the-knees-in-footnotes approach. . . . Certain foreign contributions belong to the category of the distinguished, among them that of the Catalan scholar Higinio Angles . . . and the Dutch musicologist J. Smits van Waesberghe, whose original was for some reason translated into German. . . . As it stands, certain features present a stumbling-block to the reader who wishes to make use of the music examples. . . . The sections dealing with opera offers some new and welcome material. . . . The one really valuable and original essay is Gerald Abraham's study of the operas of Alexander Serof, a little known Russian composer whose three extant works for the stage date from 1863-71."

TLS p302 Ap 13 '67 650w

WESTWOOD, GWEN. Narni of the desert; il. by Peter Warner. 93p $3.50 Rand McNally

68-11648

"Narni, the hero of this . . . story of a small boy's determination to be accepted as a man of the tribe, is a Bushman of the Kalahari desert, and he longs to hunt with the men and older boys to provide fresh meat during the drought season. His triumph in catching a huge tortoise, which could make a communal stew, is short lived, for it escapes. Praise and recognition are finally his when he leads the men of the village to the location of a majestic eland, a prize catch, which provides a feast for all . . . Grades three to six." (Library J)

"The matter-of-fact style is effective in describing the Bushmen and their desert environment." B. M. Adam

Library J 93:2117 My 15 '68 100w

"Another easy-to-read story, simply if somewhat stiffly told." Jean Fritz
 N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p30 My 5 '68 70w
 Reviewed by Zena Sutherland
 Sat R 51:38 My 11 '68 100w
 TLS p455 My 25 '67 90w

WESTWOOD, JENNIFER, ed. & tr. Medieval tales; il. by Pauline Baynes. 147p lib bdg $3.49 Coward-McCann
 398.2 Legends—Great Britain—Juvenile literature. Legends—France—Juvenile literature 68-15657

This is a collection of "sixteen tales from British and French medieval sources—from Chaucer, the Arthurian legends, and the chansons de gestes . . . [plus a chapter of explanatory notes] which discuss the origins and themes and define the categories of stories: romances, stories of knightly deeds, of love, and of magic, . . . animal fables, . . . and moral tales. [This volume was originally published in England in 1967.] Ages eleven to fourteen." (Book World)

Reviewed by Virginia Haviland
 Book World p16 Ag 18 '68 150w

"Some [of the stories] have been considerably abridged, especially 'Sir Gawain and the Green Knight' and 'The Death of Roland.' . . . Others stick close to the original text, especially the five stories from The Canterbury Tales. The varied collection, rich in direct narrative and dialogue, also contains episodes from Malory's Morte d'Arthur, the Mabinogian, and Aucassin and Nicolette. The line drawings are buoyantly medieval." P. H.

Horn Bk 44:416 Ag '68 120w

"[The] adaptations are well done, retaining a medieval feeling in the somewhat formal style without hindering the flow of the tales, some of which are highly suitable for storytelling." D. Y. Shaffer

Library J 93:1316 Mr 15 '68 120w

"[The author's] style is somewhat stilted. [She] is loyal, perhaps too loyal, to the letter, and somehow the spirit escapes out of the back door."

TLS p1159 N 30 '67 90w

WETMORE, WILLIAM. House of flesh; a novel. 374p $6.95 Little

68-14743

"The Townsends of Beekman County were highborn . . . with a name that stretched back as far as the country's history. They knew their place in society—at the top—and their role. All but unaffected by the Crash of '29, they endured, became richer and more ingrown . . . [and] they degenerated. This is the story of the Townsends and, in particular, of Carter Townsend." (Publisher's note)

Reviewed by J. J. McAleer
 Best Sell 28:93 My 15 '68 750w

"Wetmore has created what will probably be a best seller, unfortunately. Its popularity will be derived from its presentation of sex and degradation. . . . It is not a well told story: the flashback dominates and causes the reaction: Why use it at all? Why not tell it in a straightforward manner? The sex scenes are not presented as integral parts of the story. . . . In addition the early parts of the novel drag; in the whole novel only occasional scenes are interesting and well executed. Finally, the reader does not care about the people nor what happens to them."

Choice 5:963 O '68 210w

"Author and reader sympathize with Carter, son of a rich house where life is only ritual and perfectly functioning flesh. Mr. Wetmore uses strong episodes, sometimes appalling, sometimes hilarious, and crisp dialogue to trace the history of Carter and his family. . . . The ending [is] a bit too facile. Mr. Wetmore creates solid characters; unfortunately . . . the theme of a rich family falling apart is altogether too familiar. A disappointing book." Roberta Wassermann

Library J 93:1506 Ap 1 '68 180w

"Wetmore's novel is constructed around the doings at a disastrous suburban masquerade party. . . . Wetmore is good at evoking a social climate: the Townsends and their circle gabble at each other in a vein of small talk hideously like the real thing. And he is also skillful at sketching eccentric minor characters. . . . But his protagonist is only hazily realized. And by assigning to his pushy opposite number a spectrum of achievements including rape, masochism, embezzlement, wife beating and simple gaucherie, he renders him meaningless." Martin Levin

N Y Times Bk R p38 My 5 '68 140w

WEYBRIGHT, VICTOR. The making of a publisher; a life in the 20th century book revolution. 360p $6.75 Raynal & co.

655.4 Publishers and publishing. Paperback books 67-20750

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Economist 226:51 Mr 9 '68 550w

Reviewed by Arthur Marshall

New Statesman 75:486 Ap 12 '68 290w

TLS p524 My 23 '68 700w

WEYGANT, NOEMI. It's autumn! text and phot. by Sister Noemi Weygant. 63p $3.95 Westminster press

811

68-18782

Twenty-seven color photographs of nature in autumn are accompanied by poems inspired by the woods and fields pictured.

Reviewed by Ethna Sheehan

America 119:657 D 21 '68 30w

"[This book is] suitable for science-minded children of all ages. . . . The author has taken her camera and imagination into the woods and fields and returned with evocative, full-color photographs and accompanying poems in a joyous, modern style. Her invitation to explore the wonders of nature can be applied to all of science's mysteries." Julian May

Book World p34 (children's issue)
 N 3 '68 290w

"Though [the author's] poetic texts are less stunning, her photographs have a subtle coloring; they insinuate, do not try to overwhelm." Christian Century 85:1306 O 16 '68 50w

Reviewed by Barbara Gibson

Library J 93:4409 N 15 '68 70w

WEYL, NATHANIEL. The Jew in American politics. 375p $6.95 Arlington house

323.1 Jews in the U.S. Jews—Political and social conditions 68-13314

A study of Jewish political behavior in the United States from 1654 to the present. The author is persuaded "that the Jews, as a political force, are miscast in their liberal-to-radical role and that the time has come for them to assume their natural place in the ranks of conservatism. The political posture of present-day American Jewry, Weyl argues . . . 'has its deep roots in the religious, economic and political history of the Jewish people.'" (Publisher's note) Index .

"At once chauvinist and apologist in tone, the book makes use, selectively, of some scholarly sources, but much of its scholarship is superficial and the work contains many questionable generalizations. The interested reader might with more profit refer to [L.] Fuchs' The Political Behavior of American Jews [BRD 1956] or to [G.] Lenski's The Religious Factor [BRD 1962] for a more scholarly and analytical discussion of the Jew in American politics. Not recommended."

Choice 5:685 J1 '68 140w

"Weyl conducts readers on a rambling, sulking tour of American history. He is sullen about the fact that even though Jews in America are rich, they are not notably conservative and give right-wing groups trouble."

Christian Century 85:404 Mr 27 '68 40w

"[Jews] stubbornly refuse to follow the political voting patterns easily observed among other immigrant groups after they make the move from the City to the Suburb. That is, they refuse to shift their voting habits from Democrat to Republican. This problem disturbs Mr. Weyl, and his efforts to come to grips with it are made with a forthrightness and boldness one has come to expect from the author of The Creative Elite [BRD 1967] and The Geography of Intellect [BRD 1964]. . . . Many of [the author's] observations should be must reading for all who seek in the conservative ethos a way out of the moral debasement and cultural chaos now prevailing throughout much of Western civilization." Max Geltman

Nat R 20:458 My 7 '68 1550w

WEZEL, PETER. The naughty bird. unp col il $2.95 Follett

Birds—Stories 67-17801

This sequel to the author's The Good Bird (BKD 1966) is wordless. "Instead of the 'frames' of the comic, [Wezel] uses the width of double pages to tell this tale of how the bird . . . traps the cat in his cage." (Christian Science Monitor) "Preschool to kindergarten." (Library J)

"The pictures, large, clear, bright and full of elemental shapes and vital gestures, need no explanations. We have here, simply and pleasantly, the misadventures of one nondescript, obstreperous bird. Drawn in what looks like crayon, the book is splendid for non-readers as well as for the rest of us who rely perhaps too heavily on superfluous printed words." Richard Kluger

Book World pt 2, p7 (children's issue)
N 5 '67 70w

Reviewed by Pamela Marsh
Christian Science Monitor pB3 N 2
'67 90w

Horn Bk 44:55 F '68 90w

Reviewed by Elva Harmon
Library J 92:4607 D 15 '67 90w

"[This is] a chaotic charade with the bird escaping from his cage, cat and dog adding to the melee and the cat ending inside the cage. This is the opposite extreme from Mr. Wezel's earlier 'silent,' The Good Bird, which was a gentle, touching tableau." G. A. Woods
N Y Times Bk R p62 N 26 '67 280w

WHEELER, MARGARET. History was buried:
a source book of archaeology. rev ed 431p il
$10 Hart

913.03 Archeology 67-23615

This "anthology contains excerpts from the writings of . . . archaeologists arranged chronologically according to the civilizations covered. Included are Woolley on the excavations at Ur; Carter on Tutankamen's tomb; Allegro on the Dead Sea Scrolls; and many others. . . . Short explanatory notes are given at the beginning of each section." (Library J) Index.

"The essays convey a sense of archaeological moment and a feeling for events that rarely mark archaeological excavations. . . . For classroom use the book would require thoughtful collections of fact and perspective. For example, Breuil's account needs modification of dates. On the other hand, Kenyon's Jericho discoveries would take on added meaning if set in the perspective of developing agriculture and village life in the Near East. There are some notable lacks including the absence of essays on South African prehistory and on the New World apart from its high civilizations. Still the book should have general interest and is accompanied by excellent photographs. It is not intended for advanced students or professionals but it should offer pleasure to introductory students and casual readers."

Choice 5:248 Ap '68 170w

"[The selections in] this handsome anthology . . . provide interesting eyewitness reading. . . . Good for assignments as well as recreational reading." Regina Minudri

Library J 92:4640 D 15 '67 80w [YA]

WHEELER, STANTON, ed. Controlling delinquents; ed. by Stanton Wheeler with the editorial assistance of Helen MacGill Hughes. 332p $8.50 Wiley

364.4 Juvenile delinquency 67-26339

A study of the interaction between delinquents and organizations working with them. "The book is divided into three major parts. . . . [Part I examines] organized systems of delinquency control. . . . The problems that arise when delinquents meet agencies whose purpose is to detain or treat them from the main focus of interest of . . . Part II. . . . The chapters in Part III have, in common, a concern for on-going programs of casework and prevention in the community." (Intro) Name index. Subject index.

"Wheeler, sociologist with the Russell Sage Foundation. . . . presents research on delinquency control by a political scientist, a psychologist, an anthropologist, two social workers, and several sociologists. . . . The reported studies cover such topics as the effect of police professionalization on the handling of delinquents, the relationships between agencies of delinquency control, judicial ideology and disposition, . . . the delinquent's perception of law and the community, the relevance of legal assistance to casework . . . and the evaluation of detached worker programs. This book should be of interest to all persons concerned with problems of delinquency control." M. A. Forslund

Library J 92:4020 N 1 '67 210w

"Drawing on a variety of studies of delinquents and the people who deal with them in Boston, [the authors] produce some surprising findings. Sharp reversals of commonsense expectations appear, for instance, in the relations between professional ideologies about delinquency and professional practice. . . . Each conclusion rests on a base of quantified evidence, careful measurements of attitudes, behavior, or both. . . . [But] the trust that Wheeler and his colleagues place in quantification and precision turns out to be misplaced, for the various studies they report produce conclusions as tentative and lacking in a solid evidential foundation as the most impressionistic studies whose faults they are designed to avoid. . . . [This study's] most important feature is not the information [it] contains, but rather the evidence [it] gives of a radical reorientation in delinquency studies." H. S. Becker

Science 160:644 My 10 '68 650w

WHEELER, THOMAS GERALD. A fanfare for the stalwart. 191p $4.95 Phillips, S. G.

67-22813

A "young trumpeter, Alain Dieudonné, fleeing with Napoleon's army from Moscow in 1812 befriends a small French girl and her governess. After Alain's horse is shot in a skirmish, the three band together and start the long and heartbreaking trek back to Warsaw." (Library J) "Ages twelve to sixteen." (N Y Times Bk R)

"As Alain tells the tale in vivid detail the reader feels the intense cold, lack of food, and fear of attack along the corpse-strewn way. The end of the story is spiced with intrigue connected with the child's father. This is a superb picture of what the ordinary soldier endured on the disastrous retreat." Normakay Marthinson

Library J 92:3869 O 15 '67 100w

Reviewed by Barbara Willard
New Statesman 75:694 My 24 '68 70w

Reviewed by Henry Gilfond
N Y Times Bk R p36 O 15 '67 140w

"Wheeler offers a story which is a substantial contribution to historical understanding but which is still more a magnificent study of human suffering and endurance. . . . This is a good book, one firmly founded in truth and developed with integrity and understanding. Among all the mild and protective books with which our young are comforted today it is no bad thing to find one which deals unflinchingly with agony and hardship and death, showing as it does the triumph of the human spirit over every evil, including despair. The reader will not readily forget it."

TLS p580 Je 6 '68 230w

WHEELER-BENNETT, SIR JOHN W. A wreath to Clio; studies in British, American and German affairs. 225p $7.50 St Martins
908 Great Britain—History. U.S.—History—Civil War. Germany—History [67-15030]

In the first section of these studies the author's articles concern "British development and the present peculiarities of the system of government. . . . Three American studies are devoted to the Civil War period . . . [including a] biographical sketch of the Confederate general A. P. Hill . . . [and a] consideration of that century-old question, 'Why Gettysburg?' The section is concluded with a . . . contribution on Anglo-American diplomacy entitled, 'The Trent Affair: How the Prince Consort saved the United States.'" (Va Q R)

"Elegantly written, the book will be most useful to advanced undergraduate and graduate libraries."

Choice 5:1020 O '68 150w

Reviewed by Geoffrey Barraclough
New Statesman 74:686 N 17 '67 250w

"The unpublished essays, as well as being smaller in number, contain nothing as significant as the more important of the reprinted pieces. Three, being the Page-Barbour Lectures which Sir John delivered in the University of Virginia in 1966, survey the changing position of the Crown in Great Britain and of Great Britain in relation to the Empire and Commonwealth. They are . . . appropriate for their American audience, but as an introduction for English readers they are too slight to be valuable, and they will be found elementary by an English reader who is already tolerably well informed. . . . The historical imagination is not [the author's] strong suit. . . . [His work] is at its weakest when it leaves the strictly biographical path for wider themes . . . so that the life of George VI or even the portrait of the Kaiser easily surpasses in quality the new pieces on the history of the Confederacy."

TLS p1041 N 2 '67 500w

"The author, a distinguished British scholar, demonstrates his versatility in this admirable collection. . . . His essay on the Crown is written with the frank confession that he is a firm believer in the monarchy. . . . The most interesting essay in the German section deals with various episodes in the life of Kaiser Wilhelm II. The sympathetic and charitable treatment of the Kaiser is highlighted by an account of the author's visit with the ex-Emperor one week before the beginning of World War II. While most of the essays were previously published as articles or given as lectures, the entertaining and vivid style of writing makes this collection an outstanding example of history as literature."

Va Q R 44:lxv spring '68 200w

WHITE, A. N. SHERWIN-. See Sherwin-White, A. N.

WHITE, FLORENCE M. Your friend, the insect; il. by Alan E. Cober. 43p lib bdg $3.50 Knopf

595.7 Insects—Juvenile literature 68-11169

"Information on 10 insects, some as familiar as bees, and others, like Dobson flies and silkworms, less well known. . . . Grades one to three." (Library J)

"A loving introduction to the useful and beautiful qualities of some common insects. . . . An appealing text and elegant line drawings. This would be an instructive gift for some too-fastidious Miss Muffet." M. L. Birmingham

Commonweal 88:308 My 24 '68 50w

"The fine line sketches are attractive, but in many instances the insect being portrayed is obscured in flowers or foliage. There are many other books on this subject . . . which are better written, more informative and of greater appeal to this age level." E. T. Dobbins

Library J 93:1793 Ap 15 '68 80w

WHITE, FRED A. Ways of Aquitaine. 176p ■ maps $7.95 Norton

914.4 France—Description and travel, Aquitaine—Description and travel [68-94898]

The author of West of the Rhone (BRD 1964) "covers the southern tributaries of the Loire, the ridges of the Limousin, the valley of the Charente, and the Atlantic seaboard from the Loire estuary to Bordeaux." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

Economist 227:xv Ap 27 '68 230w

"[This is] a personal and detailed survey of an area in the southwest corner of France about which there is not too much information readily available. . . . The book is more than a travel guide though it certainly would be useful to travelers. It deals with history, geography and architecture, particularly of churches; there is disappointingly little about the people. The black-and-white photographs are good; there is a list of hotels, an index of places, and several good maps. The book is recommended for very large travel collections."

L W. Turpin

Library J 93:2656 Jl '68 150w

WHITE, G. EDWARD. The Eastern establishment and the Western experience; the West of Frederic Remington, Theodore Roosevelt, and Owen Wister. (Yale univ. Yale publication in Am. studies) 238p $6.75 Yale univ. press

917.8 The West. U.S.—Civilization 68-13931

The author "parallels the early family life and frontier experiences of [the three men] and concludes with the influence that each of them exerted in changing the Eastern Establishment's concept of the West as an uncivilized and savage place to one with an individualistic and democratic tradition." (Library J)

Choice 5:1364 D '68 150w

"An attractive book. . . . White has used the Wister papers, and he has followed the Rough Riders in the western press. His notes cover a variety of published materials, including some apparently beyond the scope of this book. He and the publisher might have attended more to details. . . . A few names, dates, and quotations are slightly awry. But this is a substantial addition to western historiography in dimensions that it ought more often to assume."

Earl Pomeroy

J Am Hist 55:660 D '68 430w

"By citing contemporary reviews of Wister's works, political commentary about Roosevelt, and the artistic position attained by Remington in his lifetime, [White] concludes that industrialization and urbanization had begun to disillusion many Easterners, and thus made them receptive to the non-industrial and near-pastoral West. The book is recommended to academic and research libraries." B. H. Holicky

Library J 93:2866 Ag '68 160w

"[White] seeks to show how personal maladjustments and prejudices led [these Easterners] to glorify the West and impress this unrealistic image upon the national mind. . . . [This] is all very interesting, except where the author's addiction to current psychoanalytical romanticism pallis, leaving one to surmise that as a wailing infant he was so frequently banished to the yard as to be left with a permanent distaste for grass, trees, and that inexcusably big sky."

Va Q R 44:clxix autumn '68 140w

WHITE, JANE. Proxy. 236p $4.95 Harcourt 63-12606

"Patch Bellamy, a 15-year-old English school-boy, is living with his possessive mother [Judith] while he recovers from a long illness. Though Patch is not entirely aware of it, he spends his recovery period escaping from his mother's grasp by offering her a proxy for himself in the person of his tutor [Fin]. While in the process of thus extricating himself, Patch relieves his conscience by giving the tutor a chance to escape, a chance which is not taken." (Library J)

"It is fortunate that the publishers provide [a] succinct analysis of the story, because the reader is hard pressed to do it for himself. The subtleties of the narrative hide the theme most effectively. Allowing for the differences one expects of English characterization Judith is a shadowy figure whose motivation appears strange and incomprehensible. Patch is seriously in need of definition as well. This is a lonely book with economy of time, space and character. . . . The objectionable parts of the story are many, based on the relationships of the adults as viewed by Patch. . . . There is very little to be said about the ability of the writer. She has established her reputation as a writer of plays and of another novel [Quarry, BRD 1967]; but it is questionable whether the subject content of this novel would be any more acceptable if the literary merit were higher. The combination of a poor story and poor writing equals nothing." L. G. Crane

Best Sell 28:94 My 15 '68 450w

"Jane White is excellent at portraying characters and describing places. Though about a teen-ager, this is a book for adult readers."

T. M. Wagenknecht

Library J 93:1506 Ap 1 '68 110w

Reviewed by Gillian Freeman

New Statesman 75:177 F 9 '68 100w

"The surface story is not particularly exciting or eventful. . . . One can imagine a certain type of class in contemporary literature having great fun explicating the levels of meaning. When Patch removes the Pre-Raphaelite painting of The Scapegoat from the wall of his study, does that indicate that he has refused the role? . . . In two hidden pools—one dirty and shallow, the other clear and bottomless—varieties of baptism occur. Just what initiation rites are taking place? In what way is this connected to Judith's constant aversion to water? . . . Among the more harmless games people play is symbol-hunting. . . . But as E. M. Forster sighed over forty years ago, 'Yes—oh, dear, yes—the novel tells a story. And if the story it tells is not a good one, all the talent, all the care, all the cribbing from The Golden Bough [by J. G. Frazer, BRD 1923] will not save it from being a rather elaborate puzzle.' Cecile Shapiro

WHITE, JANE—Continued

Sat R 51:80 Ap 20 '68 410w

WHITE, JON MANCHIP. Nightclimber. 256p
$5.95 Morrow 68-30866

The hero of this novel "first distinguished himself during his Cambridge days by his ability to return to his room after the gates were locked for the night by climbing up the side of the building. Twenty years later, he is in Spain, working industriously on a history of the court painters of Philip IV. . . . [He accepts a] proposition from a former classmate for a well-paid trip to Paris to prove that he has not lost his climbing skill. This is followed by a weird voyage to the Aegean with a delightful opera singer [and] an aging sculptor." (Library J)

"Through a series of close calls and hazardous leaps, the Nightclimber accomplishes a dangerous mission and finds himself in an extraordinary and unexpected love affair. Good."
Best Sell 28:338 N 15 '68 60w

Reviewed by M. K. Grant
Library J 93:3025 S 1 '68 130w

"This is an unorthodox tale, full of élan and coming to a finish that, if not too credible, is certainly spectacular." A. J. Hubin
N Y Times Bk R p75 N 24 '68 100w

"An excellent thriller: what a difference it makes when a thriller writer is master of an expertise that can be fully exploited. . . . The suspense is fine, the hero's endurance perhaps just beyond belief, and the most important mystery of all is restrainedly and properly left in the dark."
TLS p380 Ap 11 '68 100w

WHITE, LIONEL. The night of the rape. 186p
$3.95 Dutton 67-11384

In this novel "a vicious and brutal rape of a white woman [Gail Ferris] is committed in the Negro section of [a] Delaware town. Immediately fear grips the Negro inhabitants and anger rises in the white section, all of which is spurred on by a local chapter of the Ku Klux Klan. The police chief [Walt Cummins], an honest man, tries to solve the crime without being swayed by the emotions of either side." (Best Sell)

"Violence takes many forms in the story, including a lynching, before the real rapist is discovered. Several violent scenes vividly presented clearly bring out the way [some] people still think and live in this area of the United States."
Best Sell 27:390 Ja 1 '68 110w

Reviewed by M. K. Grant
Library J 92:4437 D 1 '67 50w

"[This is a] good novel. . . . [The author] and his Police Chief Walt Cummins are intelligent in handling both the criminological and the sociological problems, in a vigorous story free of preaching and underlining." Anthony Boucher
N Y Times Bk R p34 Ja 7 '68 100w

Reviewed by Sergeant Cuff
Sat R 51:36 Ja 27 '68 20w

WHITE, M. E. In the balance. 218p $4.95
Harper 67-28822

In this author's first novel, "Baylor Irish attends college in the San Francisco Bay area. She knows all the tricks of cheating herself of the richness that gaining a college degree could afford her. Her parents are comedians in the sense that they live for the show on the surface of life. Baylor becomes entangled in the lives of a Negro convict, a mentally ill young man, and finally with a Mexican truck driver, only to learn that her only hope in life is to remain a little crazy, to be unbalanced." (Library J)

"If the author intended to write another 'Candy' [BRD 1964] he certainly missed the point. The blithe spoof about sex that became a best seller is far superior to this weak volume. . . . Baylor Irish is always running away from something, but never heading toward anything. The author seems to feel that this is a faithful reflection of life in our society. . . . Pessimism in the face of challenge is moral cowardice and that's the major message of this drab novel." Charles Dollen

Best Sell 27:405 Ja 15 '68 370w

Reviewed by Robert Granat
Book World p16 Ja 21 '68 900w

"The whole story, so the publisher's note says, takes place in Baylor's mind as she sits in a dentist's chair. Nothing in the book makes this fact clear. Neither can we call the book a satire, nor look upon it as being funny, unless we are sick. Forgive me if I am harsh with this novel, but I like my fiction to have tone and body. I didn't care for the vacuous pile of words in this book." R. F. Cayton
Library J 92:4527 D 15 '67 220w

Reviewed by Sara Blackburn
Nation 206:314 Mr 4 '68 380w

Reviewed by Edmund White
New Repub 158:38 F 24 '68 900w

Reviewed by Mary Carter
N Y Times Bk R p50 Mr 24 '68 600w
New Yorker 43:134 F 17 '68 130w

"This eccentric first novel . . . [has as] its subject the depersonalization and disintegration of a young woman. . . . It recounts the hallucinated life of Baylor Irish, actress, masochist, fugitive, and eloquent narrator of her own story. Past and present alternate as distorted images of each other. The flashbacks are not clues to understanding the present. . . . The effect on the reader is like a haunting memory suffused with a sense of heartbreaking dislocation. The central and most brilliant episode is the making of an experimental film. . . . ostensible comedy, in which Baylor is cast as the heroine. . . . Miss White uses the movie in progress as a mirror for the story as a whole. Much of [the novel] has the movement and rhythm of a new-wave film. . . . This unique book is undeniably an event." Jonathan Baumbach

Sat R 50:26 D 30 '67 550w

TLS p1086 S 26 '68 190w

WHITE, PATRICIA. Cookies! sugar cookies and spice cookies, brownies and chocolate chips . . . 66 recipes, plus all the old baking secrets for making wonderful cookies. 88p il $2.95 Simon & Schuster

641.8 Cookery—Cookies 68-25757

This "book is divided into five categories: crisp cookies; soft cookies; filled cookies; bar cookies; meringues, macaroons, ladyfingers, shortbreads. . . . Directions include, just preceding the recipe, a list of cookie type, oven temperature, baking pan, baking time, quantity, and storage instructions." (Christian Science Monitor)

"[This is] perhaps directed to the teen-age cook. . . . There are 66 different recipes and they will prove their worth when tried."

Best Sell 28:299 O 15 '68 60w [YA]

Reviewed by Gloria Levitas
Book World p4 D 15 '68 10w
Christian Science Monitor p17 D 12 '68 80w

"The novice will learn how to mix and handle the dough; the experienced will learn to be creative and to vary basic recipes. Being 5½" x 5½" the book is a convenient size to use and to shelve. . . . This book is recommended to those who want a simple 'how-to-make' cookies reference." M. S. Veath
Library J 93:4298 N 15 '68 90w

Reviewed by Nika Hazelton
N Y Times Bk R p34 D 1 '68 80w

WHITE, PERCIVAL, Jr. auth. Food facts for young people. See Arnold, P.

WHITE, R. J., ed. Liberty, equality, fraternity. See Stephen, J. F.

WHITE, RALPH K. Nobody wanted war; misperception in Vietnam and other wars. 347p $5.95 Doubleday

355.02 War. Vietnamese Conflict, 1961-68-10553

The author "outlines the ways in which misperception of the enemy's attitudes led to war in 1914 and 1939 and how many of the same factors are at work on both sides in Vietnam. Only by trying to understand how the United States appears to the Vietnamese, he says, can we hope to adopt a realistic policy. . . . His solution, given in the appendix, is the adoption of a large-area holding policy rather than withdrawal or escalation." (Library J) This book is an expansion of an article published in the Journal of Social Issues in 1966. Bibliography. Index.

"Few books have been as helpful as this one in our task of appraising contemporary war and the Vietnamese conflict. It is complicated, fair-minded, original. White amply documents his thesis that misperception of potential enemies and misconception of one's own role help evoke the psychological escalation that produces war."

Christian Century 85:900 J1 10 '68 110w

Reviewed by Henrietta Buckmaster

Christian Science Monitor p7 O 24 '68 400w

"Amid the spate of writings on Vietnam, this book is unique in its approach and could be most important if the right people read it. . . . [The author] presents the probable effects of various policies, carefully defined, on such objectives as avoiding World War III, giving the South Vietnamese self-determination, and so on, in tabular form, so that others might draw different conclusions by weighting various factors differently. The style of the book is readable; the thinking is clear; and the book is a necessary purchase for public libraries and for any others that contain works on current history or foreign policy." C. E. Wadsworth

Library J 93:3569 O 1 '68 230w

WHITE, RAY LEWIS, ed. Return to Winesburg. See Anderson, S.

WHITE, ROBB. Surrender. 240p $3.50; lib bdg $4 Doubleday

66-7857

"The day immediately following Pearl Harbor and the surrender of the Philippine Islands to the Japanese are experienced by two homeless Filipino children [Juan and Juanita], an American civilian, and a Navy officer. . . . Grades eight to twelve." (Library J)

"[This] is an adventure yarn, pure and simple, but it's a superb one. . . . It has suspense, some wild action, much good characterization, arresting drama, and quite a bit of fine deadpan humor. Juan and Juanita MacGregor, the Filipino-American boy and girl on whom the story focuses, are awesome in their resourcefulness and courage. And they display an unflinching dignity and charm that, if perhaps doomed to go unperceived by most young readers, at least delighted this older one." Gerald Gottlieb

Book Week p14 Mr 19 '67 370w

"The reader needs a strong stomach as the author does not gloss over the horrors of war. The factual material and the story line never quite merge, but the information is useful and needed for young adult collections." Leora Oglesby

Library J 92:1333 Mr 15 '67 100w [YA]

"[This is] strongly reminiscent of old, grade-B war movies; not bad, but straight from the stockroom. . . . Juan and Juanita endure strafing, starvation and even the sniveling of an ugly American in the course of their flight from the Japanese. It is all very fast and violent and convincingly told. The trouble is, the outcome is everybody's guess." Robert Berkvist

N Y Times Bk R p30 Ja 8 '67 100w

TLS p258 Mr 14 '68 300w

WHITE, ROY. Sunset for Red Elk; il. by Victor Mays. 212p $3.75 Dodd

68-12301

"The Montana adventure of Timmy and Red Elk begins when an Indian approached Timmy's Uncle Joe and asked for help for the sick Red

Elk during the severe winter of 1904. After Red Elk recovers the boys become fast friends and share pleasant times with one another. In the conflict with the Callister gang Red Elk saves the family, then later offers his life for Timmy when he meets an attacking mountain lion." (Best Sell) "Grades five to seven." (Library J)

Best Sell 27:431 F 1 '68 110w

"This moving story [is] based on the author's boyhood recollections. . . . Indians and white men, good men and bad, all ring true against a colorful, authentic frontier background. Timmie and Red Elk are real boys whom young readers would like for friends." Polly Goodwin

Book World p12 My 26 '68 200w

"Becoming blood brothers, playing hookey, swapping breeches, visiting a Missoula carnival—based on the author's reminiscences of his boyhood—are the most credible and attractive episodes of the story. Tim's admiration for the Indian's sang-froid is unaffectedly evidenced in many instances before the latter's death. Not commensurate with the author's ability to lend authenticity to a past experience are the sketchily drawn supporting characters and alas, gun-battle-to-victory scenes. Despite such drawbacks, this title will serve as light reading fare because the author does all that is expected of writers of cowpoke fiction—he entertains." Susan Roth

Library J 93:2117 My 15 '68 130w

"This story of the friendship of two twelve-year-old boys has a colorful setting, good period detail, believable characterization, and action to spare. . . . A good Western adventure story, it has a sober ending, but is not sentimental." Zena Sutherland

Sat R 51:39 My 11 '68 90w

WHITE, STEPHEN. Should we now believe the Warren report? pref. by Walter Cronkite. 309p il $5.95 Macmillan (N Y)

973.922 Kennedy, John Fitzgerald—Assassination. U.S. President's Commission on the assassination of President Kennedy

68-22820

"In four one-hour programs in June 1967, CBS presented . . . [an] examination of the events surrounding the assassination of President Kennedy, and the report of the Warren Commission on the assassination. . . . [This book, based on that investigation, concludes that] . . . the Warren Report is solidly supported by the evidence. . . . [White describes experiments which] were conducted, some of them repeating the work of the Commission, while others were newly devised for the CBS investigation. . . . The complete transcript of the four TV programs appears in this volume." (Publisher's note) Index.

"It is especially the [after-effects of the assassination] which Mr. White had in mind as the main purpose of this work. . . . Many aspects of the criticism of the Report are discussed and undeniable weaknesses in it are pointed up. Mr. White emphasizes psychological factors in the reaction (conscious or sub-conscious) of the people to the Report. . . . This book will for some time be one of those works which will help towards clarification of the case. It is recommended for larger public and educational libraries." H. H. Bernt

Library J 93:2516 Je 15 '68 210w

Reviewed by Sergeant Cuff

Sat R 51:43 S 28 '68 70w

WHITE, T. H. The White/Garnett letters; ed. with a pref. by David Garnett. 318p $6.95 Viking

B or 92 Garnett, David

68-27294

"An exchange, covering some twenty-five years (1936 through 1962), between T. H. White and his oldest . . . friend and mentor. White and Garnett became acquainted by mail (as a result of a review by Garnett of one of White's novels), and since White lived much of his life away from England (first in Ireland and then in the Channel Islands), their friendship was largely epistolary. . . . [The letters] from a continuing conversation. . . . [on a] variety of subjects (field sports, the Hitler war, territorial aggression in ants, Damascus-steel gun barrels, bees, gardening, dogs, books, diseases, death, the Holy Ghost)." (New Yorker)

Reviewed by Phoebe Adams

Atlantic 222:150 O '68 30w

Reviewed by K. G. Jackson

Harper 237:110 O '68 240w

WHITE, T. H.—Continued

"David Garnett's edition of the . . . correspondence between T. H. White and himself is at once revealing, humorous, informative. . . The two were close friends, quarreling in their letters about each other's books, discussing hunting and fishing, literature, the war, mutual and personal friends, relatives, their plans for the future. White played the sportsman, Garnett, the scholar. In many respects, Garnett was White's anchor, a sensitive confidant, and a relief from the loneliness which constantly plagued him. . . As a revelation of both men, the new book should be in all respectable collections of English letters." L. W. Griffin

Library J 93:3786 O 15 '68 220w

"This is a most enjoyable book. It will be enjoyed because T. H. White could, on occasion, write like an angel and when he sits down to tell David Garnett about his dogs, his falcons, his opinions, his theories and his passions, he is at his best. . . Garnett's letters do not have the same kind of interest: he is too little of an egotist to magnify every detail of his daily life; he does not write with the same incredible pace and verve but he is, in his own way, a perfect match for his correspondent. He is sound where White is clever, wise where he is enthusiastic, level-headed where he is flighty and, when it comes to a discussion of White's novels, extremely penetrating and worthy of a good deal more attention than he received. Between them they provide the portrait of one very remarkable man. It is an excellent pendant to Sylvia Townsend Warner's biography [T. H. White, BRD 1968]." Quentin Bell

New Statesman 75:838 J1 21 '68 1100w

Reviewed by Noel Annan

N Y Rev of Books 11:16 N 7 '68 1650w

New Yorker 44:251 N 23 '68 110w

"[Miss Warner's] biography draws a far fuller portrait, revealing tensions and contradictions which are only, for the most part, hinted at in the letters. . . [White] saw himself as a great fisherman; . . . non-angling readers will get their creel-full in the first fifty pages. . . Mr. Garnett, as editor, chooses to play a modest part in the correspondence, and includes only those of his own letters which contain special news—the death of his wife, his second marriage, and a melodramatic illness and operation. . . [However, in his letters] White constructs a life more enjoyable and a personality more likeable than circumstances themselves had allowed him. The letters, in fact, are his most successful work of fiction—the humour more spontaneous, the reporting more immediate, the display less self-conscious and the central character more consistently interesting than anything in The Once and Future King [BRD 1958]." TLS p670 Je 27 '68 700w

WHITE, THEODORE H. Caesar at the Rubicon; a play about politics. 174p $5 Atheneum pubs.

812

67-25479

The author's aim in this play "is to explain the . . . transformation that occurred in Caesar's character just before he took over the Roman Empire. Here was a man who loved the law as a young man, yet by crossing the Rubicon, the river that divided military from civilian rule, Caesar ended the republic and became a dictator." (Library J) Bibliography.

Reviewed by Edward Weeks

Atlantic 221:108 My '68 1000w

Reviewed by J. M. Hamernick

Best Sell 28:81 My 15 '68 440w

Reviewed by Mark Strage

Book World p14 J1 14 '68 550w

"In prologue and epilogue, White points analogies: guerrillas, graft, entrenched Establishment, mobs, looting, burning, a paranoid dictator, assassination. A pity classicists are not playwrights, and this playwright-journalist . . . not a classicist: sixteen howlers in Latin and Greek, seventeen historical errors. Much graver is White's almost complete misunderstanding of Caesar and his time. For a modern political analyst, White is surprisingly naive in evaluating ancient sources. . . [He] misinterprets Caesar's will to 'reasonable, calculated, inflexible domination.' . . . Caesar, of all people, was not 'primitive.' . . . Like other dynasts, he aimed to make the res publica his res privata, efficiently and paternalistically run, but not free." Paul MacKendrick

Class World 62:13 S '68 390w

"The prologue and epilogue give the reader a careful analysis of the political situation in 49 B.C. [This] book is highly recommended for theater collections and for general readers." G. F. Dole

Library J 93:568 F 1 '68 230w

Reviewed by M. I. Finley

N Y Rev of Books 11:34 N 21 '68 1050w

"The three-act play itself is effective, at least on paper, as a kind of costume piece. It aims at something higher (after all, there is Shaw's 'Caesar and Cleopatra,' to go farther back in the genre); but it lacks the imaginative wit, to say nothing of dramatic style, that Shaw at his worst never quite loses. Mr. White's characters remain exactly that—characters, actors acting types. Too many of the episodes are stock. . . Mr. White is concerned with analogy: his Caesar is a double impersonation; his Rome is much Now as Then. . . [However, the author,] for all his political sophistication, is given to taking the stereotype for actuality. But the analogies are there, if you want to costume them and play with them." Dudley Fitts

N Y Times BK R p10 Ap 14 '68 850w

"White has chosen to treat Caesar mostly as a practitioner—and ultimately a victim—of politics. White has always been fascinated 'by the way men use other men to reach their goals.' In magazine pieces and in two books about The Making of the President [BRD 1960, 1964] he has pursued this preoccupation with a high degree of judgment and craftsmanship. . . Perhaps White would have been better advised to tell his political tale as a novel, for his play has little of true theatrical quality. Beyond that, [it] is faultless: it has White's usual lucidity of language, and his analysis of Caesar's political dilemma is intelligent and plausible." Time 91:102 Mr 29 '68 650w

WHITE, WILLIAM, ed. By-line: Ernest Hemingway. See Hemingway, E.

WHITESIDE, D. T., ed. The mathematical papers of Isaac Newton, v 1. See Newton, I.

WHITESIDE, D. T., ed. The mathematical papers of Isaac Newton, v2. See Newton, I.

WHITESIDE, THOMAS. Twiggy and Justin. 122p il $4.50 Farrar, Straus

B or 92 Hornby, Lesley. De Villeneuve, Justin 68-19009

"This is the story of the multimillion-dollar New York visit of Twiggy, (née Lesley Hornby), the . . . teen-age cockney model and her . . . young manager, Justin de Villeneuve (née Nigel Davies), about a year ago." (Harper) Nearly all the text appeared originally in The New Yorker.

"Manager Justin's reflections . . . are the strength of the book. Whiteside's observations are a straightforward chronicle of events witnessed and recorded, without benefit of analysis or interpretation. In the absence of a conflicting report, it is impossible to criticize the accuracy of the account. . . But Twiggy and Justin fails to recreate anything of the excitement generated by the visit, much less to account for it. Only fragments and details of the mechanisms of exploitation are described." Gail Kelly

Book World p4 My 5 '68 1200w

"Through all the brouhaha and sometimes violent adulation that followed them everywhere the author makes one feel a remarkable simplicity and natural poise on the part of both young people and an extraordinary business acuity on the part of the young manager. An account of Twiggy's posing for the photographer, Avedon, is both interesting and strangely touching. Whatever mark these two young paragons will leave on our decade, Mr. Whiteside has caught a sharp reflection of it here." K. G. Jackson

Harper 236:90 My '68 170w

"Whiteside's description of Twiggy and Justin in New York does more justice to his subjects than Twiggy's own autobiography. The press conference on arrival in New York, the rush of engagements, the belligerence of would-be exploiters of the Twiggy image, and the mobbing at B. Altman's department store portray in somewhat staggering detail the effects of the model's rapid rise to fame. Twiggy seems ingenuous instead of merely vapid. . . . The whole account makes an interesting exposé of the mechanics of propaganda in today's commercial world." A. J. M. Pedley

Library J 93:1471 Ap 1 '68 140w

Reviewed by Margot Hentoff

N Y Rev of Books 11:36 Jl 11 '68 1100w

"Whiteside's laconic chronicle . . . of the 7-week visit to New York last spring does not get under any skins but does sketch a somehow horrid and inhuman world of manipulators and promoters. We see Twiggy moving automatically before the camera, and we watch Justin wheel and deal to make the most of his 91-pound product, battle Madison Avenue's 'jiggery-pokery' and emerge triumphant with the victor's share of the proceeds." B. W.

N Y Times Bk R p38 My 26 '68 170w

WHITMAN, RUTH, comp. & tr. An anthology of modern Yiddish poetry. bilingual ed 141p $7.50; pa $2.95 October house

892.49 Yiddish poetry—Collections. Hebrew poetry—Collections 66-25551

A bilingual "selection of recent Jewish poetry, written in Yiddish in the U.S. and Poland, and Hebrew in Israel. The Yiddish poems are translated [into English and are preceded by an introduction]." (Choice)

"The introduction is too brief to be very helpful to the uninitiated, but the poems, in both languages, stand by themselves. . . . [A worthwhile collection but] smaller libraries, able to include only a limited representation of modern Hebrew literature, should start with The Modern Hebrew Poem Itself, which presents not only the Hebrew but also a translation, together with a literal account of the Hebrew, careful introductions, and critical notes and commentary."

Choice 4:1252 Ja '68 110w

"This is an expertly prepared collection of poems from an undeservedly slighted literature, whose high quality justifies worldwide notice. Perhaps this valuable, highly-readable volume may help stimulate more general interest in what some mistakenly consider a nearly dead language, superseded by its progenitor, Hebrew. . . . Well worth adding to large public and all academic library poetry collections." E. M. Oboler

Library J 92:245 Ja 15 '67 110w

"Miss Whitman [is] a first-rate poet in her own right and a gifted translator (of modern French and Greek poetry). . . . Most of the poets included [in this collection] are alive, happily, but old—and thereby hangs the tale." Jules Chametzky

Nation 205:436 O 30 '67 550w

"Modern Yiddish poetry is almost all of Yiddish poetry; as sometimes occurs, brevity is matched by brilliance of achievement. . . . Although the influence of Hebrew and of Russian poetry must be great here, I am most aware that Yiddish is, ironically, a sort of German. . . . Whitman has tried conscientiously to open a window on the text, and sometimes she comes near to succeeding; but reading English like this one would think that no poetry has been written in our language, only newspaper prose. The flatness is widespread, moreover. From none of the translations under consideration would one suspect that English had musical possibilities like those of Portuguese, Yiddish, Irish, and Scots. If Miss Whitman has hardly extended the range of the language, she has given us readable, accurate versions, and above all she has chosen well." Daryl Hine

Poetry 113:42 O '68 1300w

WHITEMORE, L. H. The man who ran the subways; the story of Mike Quill. 308p il $6.95 Holt

B or 92 Quill, Michael Joseph 68-12216

A biography of the Irishman who "came to New York on St. Patrick's Day in 1926, went down into the subways to work, and emerged finally . . . as the organizer of the IRT and BMT workers, and thousands more." (Library J) Index.

"Whitemore captures Quill; the shrewd Machiavellian union leader, skillful bargainer, and brash manipulator of public opinion. . . . [He] contributes little to clarifying Quill's relationship with the Communists. He relies too much on Quill's enemies, repeats too much hearsay and speculation, and is too superficial in treating Quill's relationship to the CIO and American Labor Party. Unfortunately, Whitemore uses no footnotes."

Choice 5:1004 O '68 170w

"An excellent biography. . . . If some complain there is not enough of Quill in this story, the answer is to be found in the stated fact that the TWU which he helped to found in 1934 during the dark days of the Depression was to become Mike Quill's life and, eventually, his monument. . . . Highly recommended for labor and biography collections." J. V. Brown

Library J 93:2232 Je 1 '68 370w

Reviewed by A. L. Hankenson

Library J 93:4430 N 15 '68 70w [YA]

"Utilizing a straightforward narrative style, Whitemore focuses largely on the struggle for union organization and recognition. His omission, therefore, of a brief description of the condition of the labor movement at that time is lamentable. . . . [This] is the external story of Michael Quill and the Transport Workers Union. Public records, newspaper accounts, and the like have been researched superficially and in some cases reproduced in the book virtually intact. The author's indiscriminate quoting, without evaluating the veracity of his source, is a disservice to the casual reader. But the Quill saga is so interesting that a mere compilation of little more than what we all read in the newspapers is consistently diverting. This biography, however, tells nothing of why Mike Quill did what he did and what he believed in. . . . [It] is dignified by its subject matter and even rendered important, at this time, because of its uniqueness. [But it] also represents a real achievement in the nonbiography, nonhistory, non-sense genre." Sean Callery

Sat R 51:34 Ag 6 '68 1200w

WHITEMORE, REED. Poems; new and selected. 116p $4 Univ. of Minn. press

811

67-22227

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Choice 5:200 Ap '68 150w

Reviewed by Michael Benedikt
Poetry 112:194 Je '68 1450w

TLS p388 Ap 18 '68 210w

WHO'S who in American politics, 1967-1968; ■ biographical directory of United States political leaders; ed. by Paul A. Theis and Edmund L. Henshaw. Jr. 748p US & Canada $25; elsewhere $27.50 Bowker

320.973 U.S.—Politics and government

67-25024

A directory of biographical data on 12,500 "current political figures who 'direct and influence American government at all levels.' Compiled by direct questionnaire, the information on each biographee includes party designation, past and present positions, date and place of birth, memberships, publications, legal residence, and mailing address." (Library J)

"Since Who's Who In American Politics reaches down almost to political grass roots, is generally accurate and handy, college and university libraries supporting political science instruction and public libraries with politically active or interested patrons must have it."

Choice 5:29 Mr '68 380w

"Users should note that a number of omissions not discovered until after printing made it necessary to include an addenda section at the end. Two appendixes give state delegations to the 90th Congress, and governors of the states. This addition to the list of specialized 'who's who' volumes have been prompted, undoubtedly, by the increased interest in political activity of recent years, and the data about strictly local or minor office holders and party officials is not easily available anywhere else. A new edition is planned in two years' time." F. O.

Col ■ Res Lib 29:67 Ja '68 170w

"A remarkably up-to-date, comprehensive source . . . [which] includes not only present office holders ranging from the United States President and his cabinet to the mayor of Woonsocket, R.I., but many other persons who either once held elective office (Richard Nixon), who ran but never won (William F. Buckley), or who never sought it (Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr.). There are omissions, but the number is small. . . . A survey of 200 entries in WWAP revealed less than one-fourth duplication with Who's Who in America and the regional who's whos published by Marquis. While WWAP could be improved by the addition of a geographical index, it is a unique and invaluable source of current information which should be in every reference collection." K. F. Kister

WHO'S who in American politics, 1967-1968—
Continued

Library J 92:4493 D 15 '67 160w

WHO'S who in consulting: a reference guide to professional personnel engaged in consultation for business, industry and government; managing ed: Paul Wasserman (and others). 395p $18 Cornell univ. Graduate school of business & public adm.

920 Business consultants. Government consultants 68-63122

This is a "biographical directory that supplements and is a sequel to [a] reference work by the same editor and publisher, Consultants and Consulting Organizations. . . . [It] identifies individuals and gives their education, experience, and fields of interest." (Choice) Subject index.

"About 5,000 consultants are . . . treated. Covering all consulting fields as it does, the present volume contains many omissions and editor Wasserman . . . admits this in his preface. But it is a start and a useful addition to the more specialized directories put out by American Management Association and American Institute of Consulting Engineers. . . . Librarians who are acquainted with the frequency of requests for biographical information will appreciate the new guide. They may even overlook its irritatingly small type face." Choice 5:936 O '68 160w

"The only cavil that this reviewer has with the volume is that, in spite of the cross index, the subject approach may be too limited, restricted as it is to the 136 subject fields. . . . This, however, is a minor objection to a book which satisfies a real reference need and describes the qualifications of the persons listed therein as its predecessor does not. . . . [This] is recommended for reference collections except the smallest ones." B. A. Robie
Library J 93:2470 Je 15 '68 300w

WHYTE, WILLIAM H. The last landscape. 376p $6.95 Doubleday

711 Regional planning. Metropolitan areas. City planning 67-15350

This "is a handbook for land-use decisions, outlining devices for securing open space, analyzing various development plans and proposing action for landscape and townscape. [The author's] argument that density is the key to bettering urban conditions is based on [his] view that 1) people do not mind being crowded if the environment is pleasant, and 2) more intense use can be made of city land by reclaiming what is being wasted." (America) Bibliography. Index.

"To preach that more people, not fewer, should live in our cities is just about tantamount to urban planning heresy. Yet William H. Whyte preaches this message, and does so with great conviction, occasional humor and plenty of practical suggestions. What makes Whyte's heresy so refreshing and at the same time so believable is that he obviously writes from the perspective of someone who views the scene as a resident and not simply as a planner. . . . As one who has been personally involved in many of the actions he describes, Whyte brings considerable practical experience to his suggestions. Though perhaps best known for the Organization Man [BRD 1956], which he wrote almost fifteen years ago, he has been active in working for open space and conservation legislation in several States. . . . A drawback to The Last Landscape—and one that the author admits at the outset—is that no account is taken of many crucial aspects of urbanization: pollution, slums, economic growth, political structures." P. J. Henriot
America 119:260 S 28 '68 700w

Reviewed by Donald Simon
Book World p4 S 8 '68 700w

Reviewed by Charles Abrams
N Y Times Bk R p50 N 10 '68 1200w

WIBBERLEY, LEONARD. The road from Toommi. 160p $3.95 Morrow

68-14806

When the narrator "writer Arthur Ledwidge reluctantly accepts a former school acquaintance's request to write a book about Toommi—a newly independent country in West Africa—he encounters a sordid gallery of white supremacists, opportunists, do-gooders, and misdirected African politicians. Shortly after he arrives in Toommi, what appears to be a Communist revolution occurs. Ledwidge thinks it is anti-white nationalism, but it becomes evident that the revolution was staged so that white supremacists could stage a counter revolution to regain political control." (Library J)

"[This] is one of those novels one would like to see succeed, because it has heart. But unfortunately it has too much heart and not enough skill. . . . [The] author of the popular The Mouse That Roared [BRD 1955] has written a short work that . . . seems more journal than novel. This is not bad in itself, and Wibberley's narrator makes enough comments of insight to keep the reader interested. But as the novel develops one is aware of its shadowy substance: the characters are thinly drawn, the events scattered, . . . and the mood is not sufficiently captivating. . . . A slam-bang, ostentatious conclusion . . . springs the novel into distorted shape. The event [Wibberley] selects is not unpardonable, but its execution is. It is handled quickly, facilely and obviously, and it makes the whole novel seem shallow. . . . The author seems not to have much faith in the reader, and he hammers his points into statements, not implications. The novel ultimately seems tired, and obvious, propaganda." F. A. Macklin
America 118:355 Mr 16 '68 280w

Reviewed by E. A. Dooley
Best Sell 27:444 F 15 '68 550w

"[Ledwidge] is led into his Toommi adventure so gradually, with such apparent casualness, that it seems he can withdraw at any moment. Just as inextricably is the reader enticed into this strange, partly amusing, partly deeply serious story, that is hardly a story at all. On the surface it tells of Ledwidge . . . [who] becomes so enamored of Africa (and when Mr. Wibberley writes about it, it is easy to see why) that even the brutal experiences of a revolution cannot drive him away. . . . It is [the] lure of another world that sets 'The Road From Toommi' apart and forces a sensitive reader to travel a very long way in a very short book. The world Mr. Wibberley writes about is the unidealized world of the African. He wants us to see it as 'an entirely different place. . . . In Africa, says Dr. Wall—and presumably Mr. Wibberley—'man will decide the course of his evolution—physical or spiritual. . . . Here he was born. Here he must be born again. He must go then to a dimension beyond Africa or disappear into the void of eternity.'" Pamela Marsh
Christian Science Monitor p9 Mr 7 '68 750w

Reviewed by R. G. McInnis
Library J 93:773 F 15 '68 190w [YA]

"The author recreates the sights, sounds and smells of Africa, and the story climax is not a solution—only another question. A thought-provoking book that's also gusty reading." Helen Jacob

Library J 93:2133 My 15 '68 100w [YA]

"[This] is a fable about nearly everything: racial conflict, the devaluation of life, the drift of civilization toward limbo. All of these global maladies are to be found in a slightly idyllic African nation. . . . Where it will all end neither Ledwidge nor his author professes to know; but both are concerned with the common denominator of universal inhumanity. This is an engaging parable, rich in atmosphere and all the wiser for posing hard questions without offering easy answers." Martin Levin

N Y Times Bk R p32 Mr 10 '68 140w

Reviewed by Charles Miller
Sat R 51:30 F 10 '68 350w

WICKER, ELMUS R. Federal reserve monetary policy, 1917-1933. 221p $5.95 Random house
332.4 Currency question—U.S. 67-10164

This is an account of "Federal Reserve policy making based on official Federal Reserve records and the personal papers and records of some of the leading personalities of the period. . . . It attempts to explain the art of monetary policy making ■ it was then understood by persons responsible for this policy. The limitations of their understanding of the impact of open market operations and rediscounting procedures, as well as their attachment to economic objectives not consistent with a more dynamic monetary policy, are singled out by Wicker as causes of the failure of monetary policy to perform more effectively." (Choice) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by B. H. Beckhart
Am Econ R 57:1372 D '67 1100w

"Very much an insider's book, it makes very little reference to the rest of the real economy. The exposition is sometimes slowed down by excessive reference to changes in such variables as excess reserves, borrowed reserves, etc., over very short periods of time, and no effort is made to relate them to the events in the economy at large. While Wicker's conclusions could have used more of a summary appraisal and evaluation of the entire period, the book lacks any theoretical structure about which to hang either this evaluation, or the narrative as a whole."

Choice 4:1145 D '67 180w

"[This] book adds substantially to an understanding of the economic reasoning back of many decisions of the Federal Reserve System. . . . Perhaps not intentionally, [Wicker makes the Federal Reserve Board] seem to play a larger role in the 1920s, and [Benjamin] Strong a smaller role, than is usually thought to have been the case. . . . [His] evidence and analysis are usually quite convincing. . . . [and he] brings out a number of appalling misconceptions." D. L. Kemmerer

J Am Hist 54:438 S '67 600w

WICKER, TOM. JFK and LBJ: the influence of personality upon politics. 297p $5 Morrow 973.92 Kennedy, John Fitzgerald, Johnson, Lyndon Baines. Presidents—U.S. U.S.—Politics and government—1961- 68-21130

The chief of the New York Times' Washington bureau offers his explanations for "President Kennedy's inability to push through Congress his domestic program and [President] Johnson's loss of consensus in relation to the Vietnam war." (Library J) Index.

Reviewed by F. K. Kelly
America 118:777 Je 15 '68 450w

"It is difficult in short space to do justice to the subtlety, the human and political insight, of this double portrait in Presidential frustration. One might say the same of its historical insight, with the minor caveat that Mr. Wicker's views about Southern Populism are one-sided and his views about the evils of Southern Reconstruction both one-sided and slightly antique. This minor flaw aside, he has found in these two contemporary Presidents who longed to acquit themselves well before history embodiments of the limits of the Presidency." E. M. Yoder

Book World p4 Je 30 '68 800w

Christian Century 85:728 My 29 '68 50w

Reviewed by S. R. Davis
Christian Science Monitor p11 Je 6 '68 900w

"Wicker admits that this is an imaginative, rather than a documentary narrative; he leaves the documentary to future historians. His imagination with his inside knowledge and a breezy, journalistic style make this book better than many previous ones about the two presidents. Recommended for public libraries." M. A. Hecker

Library J 93:1490 Ap 1 '68 130w

Reviewed by F. J. Donner
Nation 208:23 Ja 6 '69 750w

Reviewed by J. M. Burns
N Y Times Bk R p2 My 26 '68 1200w
New Yorker 44:145 Je 8 '68 110w

"Wicker is interested in that infinitely fascinating nexus, government of 'laws and of men,' the difference which the unpredictable human variable makes in the context of relatively inflexible institutions. But for [him] to make good on his lavish offer he would have to penetrate the façade of personality to the core, reveal the knot of impulse and motive beneath the visible manner. This he does not achieve. . . . Wicker is steadily persuasive but never surprising. Where he is best, where he is conspicuously among our best political journalists, is in his wonderfully astute and incomparably lucid accounts of the Congressional battles—over Federal aid to education, minimum wages, the composition of the House Rules Committee—that marked the Kennedy Administration, and of LBJ's problems." Saul Maloff

Newsweek 71:96 My 27 '68 850w

Reviewed by M. L. Coit
Sat R 51:28 Jl 13 '68 600w
Time 91:104 Je 7 '68 600w

WIEMER, RUDOLF OTTO. The good robber Willibald; drawings by Marie Marcks; tr. by Barbara Kowal Gollob. 65p $3.75 Atheneum pubs.

68-12233

This "picture book describes the adventures of a character who steps out of a picture book. 'Oh, that bad robber!' Manni's mother would say as she read it to Manni. But when Willibald recounts his adventures to the boy, it is quite clear that he has a heart of gold; much as he tries to be bad [he] . . . cannot help helping people." (Sat R) "Ages six to nine." (N Y Times Bk R)

Reviewed by C. F. Ruffin
Christian Science Monitor pB5 My 2 '68 90w

"This fantasy device [of a character stepping out of a picture book] is too babyish to appeal to children able to read the text themselves. Nor is the book well suited to reading aloud; the writing is simple to the point of being condescending and the dialogue is stilted, dull, and without humor. The seven adventures are flat, obvious, and predictable as, in each episode, the robber can't help showing that he is basically good at heart." Trevelyn Jones

Library J 93:1317 Mr 15 '68 70w

"Mr. Wiener succeeds in making kindness more appealing than mischief. More than that, he has Manni's mother point out how nice it would be if we could find that every person we think is bad is really good. Not a bad aura in which to finish a bedtime story." M. L. Bird

N Y Times Bk R p24 Je 16 '68 130w

"The book is a good choice for reading aloud to younger children, as well as for the independent reader." Zena Sutherland

Sat R 51:38 My 11 '68 90w

WIENER, ANTHONY J., jt. auth. The year 2000. See Kahn, H.

WIENER, FREDERICK BERNAYS. Civilians under military justice; the British practice since 1689, especially in North America. 346p $11.50 Univ. of Chicago press

344 Courts martial and courts of inquiry. Military law 67-25530

The author "chronicles military trials of civilians in the British service during the Seven Years War, the American Revolution, Wellington's campaigns, and during the nineteenth century. He concludes with the enactment and current impact of the Army and Air Force Acts of 1955, when Parliament first generally subjected civilians not on active service to military law. Nearly half of the text deals with the activities of the British Army in North America, particularly during the Revolutionary War. . . . [There are] biographies of all British Judge Advocates General from the Restoration to 1806, and brief sketches of their deputies in America. . . . A table listing all civilians tried by general courts-martial of the British Army during the American Revolution [is in an appendix]." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

"Wiener has written an authoritative and important book. It should prove of value both to the legal scholar and to American and British historians of the revolutionary period. For those who are, to a degree, familiar with the cases, Wiener's contribution is the depth and extensiveness of his study, bringing to light a great mass of significant material heretofore ignored or forgotten." C. G. Post

Am Hist R 73:1615 Je '68 600w
Choice 5:1020 O '68 110w

"What shortcomings there are (and in general they are minor) certainly do not relate to Mr. Wiener's research—mainly a Herculean examination of heretofore unmined primary sources both in England and America. The result is well worth the obviously considerable labors. . . . [New York during the American Revolution] was the scene of many encounters between civilians and military justice. Some of these encounters make fascinating reading. . . . Purely as an historical account, [this] is a worthwhile book." J. S. McAuliffe

WIENER, F. B.—Continued

New Eng Q 41:471 S '68 950w

WIESEL, ELIE. Legends of our time. 197p
$5.95 Holt

943.086 Jews—Persecutions 68-12217

"The volume includes short stories written in anecdotal form, autobiographical fragments, . . . introspective reportage, and two reflective essays—all in some way related to the destruction of European Jewry [written by the author of The Jews of Silence, BRD 1967, and other works]." (Sat R) Portions of this book have appeared in Commentary, Hadassah Magazine and Jewish Heritage.

"These reminiscences, reflections, and stories arise out of Mr. Wiesel's boyhood experiences in a Nazi concentration camp. There is no disputing the horror of what he endured. There is some question whether his eloquent but highly subjective writing can serve more than his private therapeutic purpose." Phoebe Adams

Atlantic 222:144 N '68 50w

"Although they have realistic backgrounds, these tales, like [the author's] novels, invoke overtones of mystery of folklore, of parable. . . . Writers like Wiesel are breathing fresh life into the fictionist's art. He has been exploring new ways of asking old questions; new ways of finding the commitment behind the shadows of alienation. This new book continues and expands his vision and his method. Using the strange and seemingly endless destiny of the Jew-as-victim as a means of exploring good and evil, these latter-day talmudic tales weave a spell that is at the same time oddly archaic, quite contemporary—and timeless. And there is at least one piece in this volume that is or will become a classic. It is 'The Last Return.'" Daniel Stern

Book World p9 O 20 '68 850w

Christian Century 85:1306 O 16 '68 30w

Reviewed by M. J. Bandler

Christian Science Monitor p9 N 21 '68 950w

"The 15 stories in the book, derived from [the author's] experience and embellished by his imagination, transport the reader to Wiesel's childhood in the town of Sighet, his parental home; the concentration camp; and the labyrinth of his experiences after liberation. Mr. Wiesel also takes the reader through a host of contemporary countries, including France, Spain, Germany, the Soviet Union, and Israel. . . . The narratives are written with Mr. Wiesel's characteristic sensitivity and lay stress on the uncertainty and mystery of life. . . . He weaves much philosophizing and moralizing into the book, not only with regard to the nature of the Jew, but with respect to the meaning and purpose of life itself." M. A. Cohen

Library J 93:3142 S 15 '68 160w

Reviewed by James Finn

New Repub 159:35 D 14 '68 1050w

Reviewed by Neal Ascherson

N Y Rev of Books 11:28 Ja 2 '69 650w

"What one is continually aware of . . . in reading these pieces is the blurring of conventional distinctions between fact and fiction, observation and invention, and this gives the book a peculiar strength though it is also a source of weakness in some individual sections. . . . The unspeakable furnaces of the Nazi death-machine consumed a whole world of human and divine values for [the author]; his entire literary effort has been a desperate search for humanly possible meanings in and after the historical nightmare that annihilated meaning. . . . The discussions here of individual and collective guilt . . . are written with quiet care and humility, out of a ruthlessly honest self-examination, with an unwavering vision of the complicated facts—in sum with precisely the spiritual fact that more fashionable writers on the Holocaust have lacked." Robert Alter

Sat R 51:31 O 19 '68 700w

WIESNER, WILLIAM. The tower of Babel.
unp col il $3.95; lib bdg $3.77 Viking

222 Babel, Tower of 68-16069

The biblical account of "King Nimrod's attempt to build a tower to Heaven, which angered God and resulted in the confusion of tongues, is retold . . . with interpretive comment taken from Hebrew Myths by Robert Graves and Raphael Patai [BRD 1964]. . . . Grades one to four." (Library J)

"The familiar Bible story [is] given a humorous, pointed interpretation by an author-artist of imagination. His clear colors and black outlines, his care with historical details and his ability to expand the story with pictures that add their own episodes quietly make the panorama exciting and fun to look at over and over again. . . . The picture book underlines a truth for all ages, but wisely does not rub it in." Anne Izard

Book World p7 (children's issue)
My 5 '68 110w

Reviewed by M. L. Birmingham

Commonweal 88:310 My 24 '68 40w

Horn Bk 44:313 Je '68 140w

"The stylized art forms of the ancient Fertile Crescent which Mr. Wiesner has adapted complement his usual style; the full-color illustrations, with soft, warm shades predominating, reflect perfectly the story's background of Near Eastern sumptuousness and the plot's ludicrous aspects which provided the illustrator an opportunity for restrained humor." Elva Harmon

Library J 93:1793 Ap 15 '68 130w

Reviewed by John Neufeld

N Y Times Bk R p17 S 1 '68 110w

Reviewed by Zena Sutherland

Sat R 51:36 My 11 '68 120w

WIGGINS, SAM P. The desegregation era in higher education. 106p il $3.75 McCutchan pub.

378.75 Segregation in education. Colleges and universities—Southern States 66-22161

"The General Education Board provided funds in late 1963 for a study of biracial higher education in the southern region. The author directed this study, with, as he reports, no imposed restrictions on scope, method, or interpretation. An early decision was to deal with 'three kinds of endemic problems confronting southern higher education . . . the problems associated with race, with poverty, and with substandard precollegiate education.' Thus the study's range extended far beyond desegregation and produced the larger of the two volumes, Higher Education in The South [BRD 1968]. A decision was made during conduct of the study to treat the subject of desegregation separately, and the [result was the volume under review]." (Am J Soc)

"The research procedures were loose and somewhat uncommon. Explicitly, there was no 'sanitary statistical sample.' (This is the author's expression, in quotation, and I believe he sees the lack of a definable sample as a desideratum, not a deficiency.) There is a list of forty-six colleges that were visited, but what happened during the visits is described only in vague outline. . . . Factual information is sporadic and uneven, and the [work] must be read as a set of policy recommendations and personal judgments, not a data book or research monograph. They are unlikely to be of serious value to research sociologists, with the important exception that some of the topics beg for sociological analysis. . . . On the other hand, some shrewd guesses and a considerable personal wisdom appear in these pages. The author is working in an area of immense importance to sociologists, and definitive work remains to be done all along the line. Though redundancy, digression, and opinion mar the manuscript, it will reward the attention of interested persons." E. Q. Campbell
Am J Soc 73:356 N '67 450w

"Chary of analysis, Wiggins remarks that quantitative desegregation is only a beginning. Southern higher education, well coordinated for initiating societal change and holding the promise of salutary example, responds but slowly, whether from 'desegregation weariness' or commitments that both help and hamper. What more can be said? Minor things irritate: a phraseology verging on sub-language, occasional errors that a good editor would have caught. . . . Wiggins emphasizes the current crisis in southern higher education; but it has been in crisis for a century. . . . Yet these introspections, forthright and even bold, idealistic but without practical, deserve careful attention. After all, the southern dilemma has long been an American dilemma." R. W. Haskins

J Am Hist 54:721 D '67 300w

WIGGINS, SAM P. Higher education in the South. 358p $6.40 McCutchan pub.

378.75 Colleges and universities—Southern States. Segregation in education 67-2455

"This Peabody survey of the South during 1964-1966 . . . [draws] upon work papers, questionnaires and interviews in forty-six institutions from community college to state university. . . . [The study] discusses the collegiate scene, the shaping forces, the types of institutions and 'the history of tomorrow.'" (J Am Hist) The "manuscript is developed around the following framework; one-party politics, rural dominance, racial separation. Protestantism, and poverty provide the historic settings for higher education in the region, and they must be understood if the nature and organization of higher education are to be understood. Of particular import is an inadequate system of primary and secondary education that compromises the task of college and university, a condition especially evident in the case of Negro youth and Negro colleges." (Am J Soc)

"There are chapters on the student, the professor, and the president, though it is difficult to see that anything distinctive, about either education or southerners, is being said. . . . Doubtlessly, the best section is Part III, entitled 'Some Shaping Forces,' which deals with the activities and impact of accrediting agencies, the national government, and private philanthropy. This is followed by overlapping but informative chapters on several types of college. . . . One of the difficulties is that the author is unable to decide whether there really is anything distinctive about southern higher education. . . . Hardly anything of what he describes is distinctive of southern higher education, and most can be applied as readily to the nation as to the South. On the other hand, some shrewd guesses and a considerable personal wisdom appear in these pages. The author is working in an area of immense importance to sociologists, and definitive work remains to be done all along the line." E. Q. Campbell
Am J Soc 73:356 N '67 450w

"This 'action-oriented' study of the present lacks an historical treatment of higher education, and the historian will be disappointed if not necessarily surprised at the paucity of documentation. The more significant the data, the more off the record, observes Wiggins; concern was less for 'scholarly respectability' than for 'an accurate perception of conditions.' Observations about the southern scene suggest fascinating leads for research. . . . Proposals including freshman faculties and 'Opportunity Colleges' are accompanied by advice for the givers and receivers." R. W. Haskins
J Am Hist 54:721 D '67 300w

WILBOURNE, WILLIAM W. The wheels. 366p $7.95 Macmillan (N Y)

343 Finno, Patrick G. Farnham, Margot. Trials 68-23646

"This is the story of an actual murder trial that took place in Connecticut [in 1966], complete with relevant abstracts from the trial transcripts and other documents. . . . [The author gives] the background of the people involved, an explanation and rationalization of legal procedures, and conversations." (Library J)

"This book is particularly interesting in that Mr. Wilbourne, who was one of the counsels for the defense, comments on the expertise of counsel, mistakes and coups in cross-examination and strategy, and the cranking wheels of justice. Here is a well-executed and necessarily fact-laden book that will keep the reader thinking of the meaning of justice long after he's finished reading it. For public, college, and law libraries." E. J. Bander
Library J 93:2685 J1 '68 150w

Reviewed by Sergeant Cuff
Sat R 51:43 S 28 '68 80w

WILCOX, DENNIS L. English language newspapers abroad; a guide to daily newspapers in 56 non-English-speaking countries. 243p $11.75 Gale res.

070.025 English newspapers—Directories 67-25558

"This directory lists 202 newspapers, 167 from Asia and Africa, the remainder from the Middle East, Central America, the Mediterranean and Pacific areas, Europe, and South America; most are published only in English though some are bilingual. The arrangement is alphabetical by country. Pertinent criteria include circulation and population figures, editorial and advertising content, format, date of establishment, and addresses of publishers." (Library J) Bibliography.

"Covers countries in which English is the official language but is spoken by a minority of the population. . . . The evaluative and descriptive comments . . . give type and extent of readership, some history, appearance, subjects covered and emphasized, etc.; these were derived from a variety of sources—monographs, articles, dissertations, reference works—as well as from the questionnaires sent to the managing editors. . . . [These] comments vary greatly in length (from none to over 500 words) in detail and in emphasis. Opinions on editorial policy, influence and readership seem well founded, with some quite incisive. A unique, useful reference work, especially important for libraries where there is much interest in the areas covered."

Choice 5:457 Je '68 200w

"Descriptive facts were obtained directly from the publishers by questionnaires. . . . The appendix indicates sources from which the compilation was made, and includes a list of those newspapers available on microfilm taken from George Schwegman's Newspapers on Microfilm. This is a convenient guide to the lesser-known newspapers of the world, about which very little has been written except for basic listings. For libraries with reference collections." S. J. Riccardi
Library J 93:1616 Ap 15 '68 170w

WILDASH, PHILIP. Birds of South Vietnam. 234p col pl $7.50 Tuttle

598 Birds—Vietnam 67-20953

This book lists "586 species, arranged by family; 25 color plates of 215 species, by Wildash, plus . . . ink drawings. . . . The species numbers in the text correspond with the systematic list. For each bird, there is given common name, scientific name, habits, distribution, and identification, including flight characteristics." (Choice) Glossary. Bibliography.

Choice 5:463 Je '68 180w

"This is the first field guide [to the area]. Philip Wildash is on the staff of the British embassy at Saigon. His identifications are brief, but to the point for field work, as are the descriptions of habits. But for some strange reason the size of the birds and their songs or calls are rarely given. Fewer than half the birds are illustrated, and the illustrations are sometimes a little on the fuzzy side. A dual numbering system of birds and illustrations is confusing. But despite these flaws, the book should be a godsend for field identification not only in South Vietnam, but in all of Southeast Asia." Walter Harding
Library J 93:1646 Ap 15 '68 130w

WILDMAN, ALLAN K. The making of a workers' revolution; Russian social democracy, 1891-1903. (Stanford Univ. Hoover inst. on war, revolution, and peace. Publication) 271p il $7.95 Univ. of Chicago press

329.947 Social democratic party (Russia) 67-25086

A survey which "focuses on the interaction during the 1890's between intellectuals and workers. The author uses memoirs, underground publications, and police sources covering numerous local situations to support his cross-section portrait of the social composition of the movement. He examines the differing motivations of worker and intelligentsia participants, the techniques of social action, especially of agitation, and the . . . tensions generated by the conflicting goals and attitudes of workers and intelligentsia. Two main themes emerge from Wildman's narrative: the mobilizing of the social forces which were to shape the Revolution of 1905, and the roots of the Bolshevik-Menshevik split. . . . This book is the second volume in a series, 'The History of Menshevism' [being published by the University of Chicago Press]. (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

WILDMAN, A. K.—Continued

"Although not the first to be published, this is actually the 'introductory' volume in the series. Wildman has produced a major scholarly achievement bringing to light important new information and offering a successful reinterpretation of his subject. . . . [He] establishes that the Marxists after 1896 (the year of the great St. Petersburg strike) actually did follow Martov's Ob agitatsi, and successfully at that, establishing close intelligentsia-worker cooperation. This is in sharp contrast to the conclusions of R. Pipes, Social Democracy and the St. Petersburg Labor Movement 1885-1897 [BRD 1964], and many others. . . . Although well written (the first chapter is an especially lucid summary of how Marxism came to Russia in the first place), this is not a book for the novice. . . . Still, [the] analysis is well presented and superbly documented. No library which supports work in European history should be without this book."

Choice 5:400 My '68 200w

"Wildman is concerned with the earliest phase of the movement, before the famous breach between Bolsheviks and Mensheviks. . . . [when] tensions developed between the leaders and their mass following, which Lenin sought to resolve with his idea that a disciplined conspiratorial party should serve as 'vanguard of the proletariat.' This theme, familiar enough in outline, Mr. Wildman handles with care and sensitivity. However, he seldom examines the broader implications of his material or questions the marxist assumptions upon which the Russian social democrats based their activities. . . . This is a work for the specialist."

Economist 226:51 My 30 '68 500w

"In addition to giving us a social history of the early Social-Democratic movement in Russia, Mr. Wildman offers a new interpretation of the extent of Marxist involvement in the labor strikes of 1900-1903. Although poorly organized, the book is recommended for research libraries." P. E. Leinbach

Library J 92:3640 O 15 '67 200w

WILDSMITH, BRIAN. Brian Wildsmith's fishes. unp col il $4.95; lib bdg $3.71 Watts, F.

Fishes—Juvenile literature 68-12046

The author explains in his foreword the origins of the various names that have been given to groups of fishes by fishermen, zoologists and poets. The main part of the book consists of illustrations of fishes, including a flock of dolphins, a hover of trout, a flotilla of swordfish. "Kindergarten to grade two." (Library J)

Reviewed by Anne Izard
Book World p4 (children's issue)
N 3 '68 80w

"There is a luminosity, a jewel-like glitter about [this book]. Fish move in groups with names Mr. Wildsmith finds irresistibly apt. He can show just how fitting it is to speak of 'a glide of flying fish,' a spread of sticklebacks, 'a leap of salmon,' in a marvelous recreation of splendor below the sea. Some of the kudos for the beauty of these illustrations, with each brush-stroke visible enough, every color fresh enough, to be new-painted, should go to the printer." Pamela Marsh

Christian Science Monitor pB2 N 7 '68 70w

Reviewed by L. P. Scanlon
Commonweal 89:285 N 22 '68 60w

"While [Wildsmith's] previous books in this vein have been acknowledged as stunningly beautiful by librarians and their reviewers, there has also been some brooding aloud and in print about the pricing of these less-than-40-paged books. The hard facts of printing costs dictate the prices of books in quality multi-color. Any rumble of reviewers or catalogue of librarians convinced that beautifully precise words with beautifully executed pictures are a language arts/visual aesthetic treat that small children should not miss can justify the expenditure of $4.95." L. N. Gerhardt

Library J 93:4713 D 15 '68 180w

"The introduction [is] useful, and word addicts of all ages will be pleased to read and reread [it]. . . . The illustrations [are] bright and sprightly, leaning a bit to the caricatured side. For my own taste, I would prefer them more anatomically defined; more naturally correct; more scientific. . . . Must the price be so steep? . . . $4.95 for a slim volume that contains only 15 group listings (even though these are lavishly doublespread) would seem likely to strain parents' and librarians' budgets to the breaking point." Eve Merriam

N Y Times Bk R p34 Ag 18 '68 150w
TLS p586 Je 6 '68 80w

WILDSMITH, BRIAN. Brian Wildsmith's wild animals. unp il col il $4.95 Watts, F.

599 Mammals—Juvenile literature. Animals—Pictures, illustrations, etc.—Juvenile literature 67-20869

"After a two-page introduction the text consists only of [collective terms] for each group [of animals illustrated], many of them archaic terms which seem to express the essential nature of each species. . . . Kindergarten to grade three." (Library J)

"[This] is a beautiful book and needs no introduction to anyone acquainted with the artist's recent Birds [BRD 1967]. A companion volume, it presents, in pictures that glow with color, vitality and humor, a splendid collection of animals in groups. Here, aptly named are a skulk of foxes, a shrewdness of apes, an ambush of tigers. . . . This brilliant, exciting book is a must for all Wildsmith fans." Polly Goodwin
Book World p16 F 25 '68 150w

Reviewed by P. M. Daltry
Christian Science Monitor p5 F 29 '68 150w [YA]

Horn Bk 44:171 Ap '68 110w

"It is the visual magnificence of the animals which dominates the book—the sinuous menace of 'a lepe of leopards,' the beguiling playfulness of 'a nursery of racoons' (sic), the flowing agility of 'a shrewdness of apes,' or the angular grace of 'a corps of giraffes.' This has more variety in design and more controlled use of color than some of Wildsmith's earlier books, and his glowing and witty images of wild fauna will surely leave a lasting impression on a child's mind." N. Y. Orr

Library J 93:286 Ja 15 '68 150w

"From the format it would seem that [this is] directed to nursery and kindergarten level. The illustrations [are] bright and sprightly, leaning a bit to the caricatured side. For my own taste, I would prefer them more anatomically defined; more naturally correct; more scientific, that is to say more beautiful. I wonder, did Mr. Wildsmith feel that he had to 'draw down' to the Saturday morning TV watchers association of classic cookie munchers and chocolate-milk swiggers? Another querulous query: Must the price . . . be so steep?" Eve Merriam

N Y Times Bk R p34 Ag 18 '68 150w

Reviewed by Zena Sutherland
Sat R 51:41 Ap 20 '68 80w

WILENSKY, HAROLD L. Organizational intelligence; knowledge and policy in government and industry. 226p $5.95 Basic bks.

658.4 Communication. Efficiency, Industrial 67-17540

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Reviewed by Louis Kriesberg
Am J Soc 73:644 Mr '68 650w

Reviewed by Amitai Etzioni
Am Soc R 33:131 F '68 950w
Choice 5:654 Jl '68 140w

Reviewed by Raymond Bauer
Pol Sci Q 83:487 S '68 650w

WILENTZ, JOAN STEEN. The senses of man; with more than 100 illustrations by the author. 340p $6.95 Crowell

152.1 Senses and sensation 68-11073

The author discusses how people see, hear, smell, taste and touch, as well as "the sense of self, of pain, of temperature, of balance. . . . The chapter on 'non-sense' deals with such topics as extrasensory perception, hallucinatory drugs, and synesthesia." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by R. B. Nordberg
Best Sell 28:192 Ag 1 '68 550w

"This fascinating account of current and older experimental and theoretical work on the senses, the nervous system, and the brain contains a vast amount of detailed information. Joan Wilentz . . . has a lively but not overly simple way of describing experimental work, primarily by the use of analogy and by making relationships with the reader's personal experience. . . . Although this book requires the reader's concentration and presumes some background, it is heartily recommended for public, college, and high school libraries." W. K. Beatty

Library J 93:1910 My 1 '68 130w

WILEY, W. L. The formal French. 317p il $6.75
Harvard univ. press

914.4 National characteristics, French.
France—Civilization 67-17322

In this study of sixteenth and seventeenth century styles, a professor of French at the University of North Carolina describes "the French Academy, its arguments, triumphs, and failures; manners and courtly ritual; the great classicists; the influence of women (such as Catherine de' Medici) and of clerics (such as Cardinal Richelieu); exotic dinners and exotic households; entrées and ceremonials and theatre and ballet; and the [formalism of Versailles]. . . . [Part] of the book is concerned with literature and literary criticism. . . . Such figures as Ronsard, Malherbe, Corneille, Bossuet, and Madame de Sévigné are quoted in translations made by the author." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

"The substance of Wiley's useful and enjoyable book deals with the period from Francis I to Louis XIV, and it illustrates nicely the subtle relationship between politics and culture under these great kings. His theme holds up well in discussing language, drama, architecture, and painting, but it becomes a burden the further away he gets from the heart of his subject where he frequently seems to be using whatever evidence comes to mind. . . . If Louis XV's fall from his horse symbolized the decline of formalism, what did it symbolize when Louis XIV fell from his? These criticisms do not invalidate the real merit of the book which is Wiley's successful bridging of the gap between politics and culture. Highly recommended for undergraduate libraries."

Choice 5:400 My '68 120w

"Professor Wiley's subject is . . . mainly concerned with literature, with rejection of the medieval and the vernacular, the increasing Latinization of the language, the adoption of classical or supposedly classical standards in the theatre and, rather tentatively and shakily, in verse. . . . On all this Professor Wiley is very good, and there are excellent chapters, with good illustrations, on the French formal garden and on that characteristic military or purely ceremonial exercise, the entrée. As a book on its narrow group of subjects, Professor Wiley's is well worth the study of undergraduates here and may suggest fruitful reflection to the British general reader."

TLS p1062 N 9 '67 350w

WILHELM, MARIA. For the glory of France: the story of the French resistance. 192p pl $3.95 Messner

940.54 World War, 1939-1945—Underground movements—Juvenile literature. World War, 1939-1945—France—Juvenile literature. France—History—German occupation, 1940-1945—Juvenile literature 68-14936

"The author goes through the general history of the resistance movement and the accomplishments of the various groups. The major role of Jean Moulin, who unified the forces, is given along with other heroes. The work of resistance included the dissemination of news, contact with the outside world, sabotage and active fighting by the Maquis. [Bibliography. Index.] Grades six to nine." (Best Sell)

Best Sell 28:67 My 1 '68 110w

"Although well qualified to write about both famous and little-known members of the Resistance, Mrs. Wilhelm has oversimplified the complex facts to the point where readers may be misled. . . . The struggle for power between Generals Giraud and de Gaulle is not clearly presented and a glossary of resistance organizations is a serious lack. This book will be useful only to readers who can bring to it a fair knowledge of European history." R. W. Barber

Library J 93:1818 Ap 15 '68 210w

"In excellent background chapters Mrs. Wilhelm shows how France took the long road to surrender. . . . Mrs. Wilhelm has done her homework well. There is a good deal of information about the organization of the underground, and an interesting chapter on the men and women of the Maquis—who preferred fighting in open country to 'the subtleties of information work, espionage or the clandestine press.' Informing the whole book is an awareness of the isolation of the brave." Burke Wilkinson

N Y Times Bk R p30 My 12 '68 220w

WILKIE, JAMES W. The Mexican revolution; federal expenditure and social change since 1910; with a foreword by Howard F. Cline. 337p $7.50 Univ. of Calif. press

309.172 Mexico—Appropriations and expenditures. Mexico—Social conditions 67-14442

Part I of this work is "an attempt to objectify the social and economic results of the Mexican Revolution through statistical analysis of Federal expenditures. How revenues actually have been spent by the various presidents as contrasted to the projected allocations reflects priorities and changing ideologies. . . . Part II is an investigation of social change, 1910-1960, by means of an 'Index of Poverty.' This is an attempt to measure directly, through data from six censuses, the results of policies identified in Part I. Professor Wilkie concludes that the decrease in the index since 1940 indicates that the Revolution, far from being over, has just begun to affect the masses." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by R. A. Potash

Am Hist R 73:1689 Je '68 650w

"Wilkie's historical approach to 'permanent revolution' or social change since the time of the Mexican Constitution of 1917 relates presidential power to the budgetary system. This intensively researched, stimulating, and concise analysis should be of particular interest to historians, political scientists, economists, and sociologists. It deserves to be ranked among the better topical studies of the Mexican Revolution."

Choice 5:401 My '68 170w

"Dr. Wilkie has devised an 'index of poverty' which helps to determine the rate and direction of social change. The approach is unique, and though subject to some reservations, represents perhaps the best method for examining social change in the Mexican context. In hands as capable as Dr. Wilkie's, the method results in a variety of significant conclusions. . . . He explores 'the percentage of population that is barefoot in Mexico' . . . illiteracy, use of Indian languages, urban populations without sewage disposal, deficient dietary standards, and gauges which do not require long periods of time to reflect changes in living standards. . . . The present era may well prove more important for Mexico than its 1910 revolution or, for that matter, any other event in its long history. For this reason, it is important for the United States to watch over the process of its closest Latin neighbor. . . . [This] book helps in this task." J. N. G.

Christian Science Monitor p9 Ja 9 '68 700w

"The fresh perspectives offered by the study will interest Mexicanists. The multi-disciplinary appeal of the contents, however, should attract a wider audience. For academic, research, and larger public libraries." F. L. Cinquemani

Library J 92:2173 Je 1 '67 140w

WILKINS, BURLEIGH TAYLOR. The problem of Burke's political philosophy. 262p $7.70 Oxford

320.01 Burke, Edmund [67-82612]

A study of Burke's thought on natural law, natural rights and human nature. "Wilkins' analysis of Burke's Inquiry into . . . the Sublime and Beautiful [concerns] . . . the relation between passion and reason. He concludes that the role of passion in Burke's thought has been overstated, and he qualifiedly classifies Burke as a rationalist both in aesthetics and politics. The last section, two-fifths of the book, discusses natural rights, not only the problem of rights and duties, but such others as the relations among history, positive law, and natural law. . . . The conclusion is that 'Burke's political philosophy was a conservative version of the natural law and not a denial of the natural law in the name of either history or utility." (Am Hist R) name index. Subject index.

WILKINS, B. T.—Continued

"Wilkins' awareness of the historical situation in which Burke found himself is most useful in this discussion. Wilkins seems momentarily to be arguing in a circle when discussing presumption and probability, but he extricates himself and in the end produces a satisfying analysis of what Burke meant by natural rights, civil rights, 'real' rights, and historic rights. . . . This admirable book is good tempered, thoughtful, sensible, clear, and concise. Perhaps it is too concise, for the resolutions of certain problems are sometimes a bit summary. . . . [The author's] moderation makes it likely that his statement of the theme of Burke's political philosophy will win preference over the earlier treatments of Burke and the natural law." C. B. Cone

Am Hist R 73:816 F '68 410w

"A well argued defense of the thesis that Burke believed in natural law, i.e. in knowable rights and duties of men as such, despite differences in culture, religion, geography, and history, authoritative because founded in a common human nature created by God and therefore reasonable and good. Wilkins attacks [L.] Strauss for distinguishing classical and Christian from modern natural law theories, stressing continuities between Burke, Locke, and Aquinas; shows Burke's ties to Hume on passion, custom, justice, and metaphysics; examines Burke's aesthetics to show that, while distrusting 'private' reason, . . . he saw reason as no mere slave of the passions but as sometimes an effective guide and capable of arriving at truth. . . . Valuable addition to the studies by . . . P. Stanlis [Edmund Burke and the Natural Law, [BRD 1958 and] F. [P.] Canavan [Political Reason of Edmund Burke, BRD 1960]."

Choice 5:206 Ap '68 210w

WILKINSON, DAVID. Malraux; an essay in political criticism. 224p $5.95 Harvard univ. press

848 Malraux, André

67-22875

This study is "an attempt to present the principal political themes in the development of the thought of André Malraux; to tease out of his works his philosophy of life in its evolution, in its final and complete form, and in comparison as well as in isolation." (Pref) Appendix: Systematic table of ideas. Bibliography. Index.

Choice 5:58 Mr '68 150w

"[The] assistant professor of political science at the University of California, Los Angeles, conscientiously and competently traces the political ideas of Malraux ■ these appear in his novels and influence his later career as art critic and French Minister of Cultural Affairs. Mr. Wilkinson's treatment of Malraux's belief in art as a means of salvation from life's tragic absurdity is less able than his tracing of Malraux's political ideas. . . . In the final chapter, Mr. Wilkinson analyzes the influences of Nietzsche, Hegel, and Camus on Malraux's thought. A plausible addition to the growing shelf of books about Malraux, but not a first purchase." Dorothy Curley

Library J 92:3042 S 15 '67 120w

"[This] is a useful contribution to the study of what is perhaps the least important aspect of M. Malraux's work: his thought. It is more than the essay in political criticism which the subtitle claims it to be: it covers most aspects of M. Malraux's development, and it is a pity that Mr. Wilkinson could not have read the Anti-mémoires before publishing his book. It is systematic and helpful in a difficult field. But M. Malraux is primarily an artist in action and sensibility, and his monuments are his novels and his works on the visual arts. . . . He scarcely gains by detailed analysis in the cold light of Anglo-Saxon's logic."

TLS p27 Ja 11 '63 150w

WILL, FREDERIC. Literature inside out; ten speculative essays. 136p $4 Western Reserve univ. press

801 Literature

66-16890

"Questions about the nature of literature are seen by Dr. Will to be inextricably tied to questions about the existential content of literature. . . . Both kinds of questions are developed and pursued in this book through ten interdependent essays, treating particular literary topics as illustrations, exempla, rather than as bound particulars." (Publisher's note)

"A rereading of the book's sources—Caroline Spurgeon, Maud Bodkin, Ernest Jones—would be more rewarding. No notes, no bibliography, no index, no bargain."

Choice 4:36 Mr '67 180w

"A most engaging essay in literary definition. Briefly, its point is that language is an instrument for 'naming' things, and formally, for creating fictions about them. The metaphor of the self working on both the ideal and the natural world, to bring them both within focus, is compellingly given." F. J. Hoffman

Poetry 111:204 D '67 230w

WILLARD, NANCY. Skin of grace; poems. 45p $3; pa $1.50 Univ. of Mo. press

811

67-26292

This first collection of poems by a young American was awarded the Devins Memorial Award for 1967. Some of these poems have appeared previously in such periodicals as Shepherd and The Yale Literary Magazine.

"A good first book of poems, clearly relevant to the human condition. What is more, they reveal Willard's competence with language, metaphor, image. . . . There are some flats, but there are more high places than flats, and from those high places we get some honest views of people. If [the poet] never does any better than the present volume, she will at least have written one good book. Considering her youth, there is no reason to suppose that she will not continue to develop as a writer. The book is recommended for libraries that are attempting to keep up with the younger poets."

Choice 5:963 O '68 160w

"[Nancy Willard] shows a strong feeling for individuals—grandmother, old soldiers, hunters—and the things of nature. . . . Women, [and] certainly not a few men, will enjoy [this] book."

Bill Katz
Library J 93:1905 My 1 '68 90w

WILLEMS, EMILIO. Followers of the new faith: culture change and the rise of Protestantism in Brazil and Chile. 290p $7.50 Vanderbilt univ. press

280 Protestant churches. Brazil—Social conditions. Chile—Social conditions 67-27517

In this study the author "assesses the influence of Protestantism from its introduction into Brazil and Chile in the early 1800s and analyzes its function as beneficiary—and agent—of . . . social and [psychological change]." (Publisher's note) Glossary. Bibliography. Index.

"Although [Willems] subscribes to the thesis that the growth of Protestantism in South America must be seen in the context of industrialization, internal migration, urbanization, and secularization, he largely neglects to relate the development of the Protestant churches to other types of social movements which can be seen as providing alternative responses to the same conditions. . . . A strong argument is made for the historical presence of various characteristics in both societies that were and are congruent with Protestant social forms and values. . . . As a whole, however, the book lacks a theoretical framework which could relate all the divergent empirical bits and conceptual pieces concerning discrete aspects of Latin-American Protestantism to the functions of religious pluralism within a context of structural differentiation and secularization." J. C. Crocker

Am J Soc 74:101 J1 '68 480w

"This sociologically sound study might bring cheers from those who enjoy Protestant statistical growth, laughter from cynics who see man as an economic being and Protestantism as a useful acquisition for aspirants, and the occasion for deep thought on the part of all who care about Christian and Latin American destiny."

Christian Century 85:24 Ja 3 '68 100w

"[The] professor of anthropology at Vanderbilt University is well known to all serious students of Latin America. His numerous books and articles in English, German, Spanish, and Portuguese have invariably offered a combination of substantive data and sharp analytical insights. His present study . . . is another such contribution to our knowledge of the South American world. . . . Dr. Willems makes it clear that the South American type of Protestant Christianity is quite close to folk Catholicism, thus making for an easy transition from one to the other. In brief, anyone who would like to understand the rather sensational progress of Protestantism in a traditionally Latin area will find a reliable interpretation in Professor Williams' book." Joseph Bram

Library J 93:1486 Ap 1 '68 200w

WILLIAMS, BRAD. The mysterious West [by] Brad Williams & Choral Pepper. 192p pl $5.95 World pub.

917.8 The West. Folklore—U.S. 67-24478

"The book includes such familiar puzzles as the Romans' possible visit to Arizona, the Phoenician writing on a stone in New Mexico, and the question of whether or not Francisco de Ulloa discovered California. The reader is asked to wonder what happened to Peg Leg Smith's gold, to Joaquin Murrieta and Mark Hopkins; . . . [he] goes to Headless Valley in Canada, pursues lost vessels up the Colorado, visits a few haunted houses and a ghost town, . . . and learns of the curse of Mission Santa Isabel near Yuma." (Library J)

"Western history and western lore do not always agree so anecdotes of the West do present some interesting mysteries. Unfortunately [this book] does only a pedestrian job at exploring these mysteries. . . . The sixteen pages of excellent photographs hardly redeem this book and they are gathered inconveniently into two sections. The lack of an index is also felt in a book of this nature. My honest opinion is that only friends of the authors and ultra-devotees of western America will find the book of any interest." Charles Dollen
Best Sell 27:377 D 15 '67 280w

"The authors have asked more questions than they can answer. However, it is pleasant reading and convenient, for [the authors] have gathered into one book many of the legends and hoaxes that have long been known to followers of the occult and curious. . . . The book is fun. But caution: don't take it seriously. Enjoy yourself." D. B. Nunis
Library J 92:3999 N 1 '67 250w

WILLIAMS, EDWARD J. Latin American Christian democratic parties. 305p $7.50 Univ. of Tenn. press

329.98 Political parties. Latin America—Politics 67-13159

"In addition to examining the theoretical foundations, the characteristics, and the organization of the movement, [the author] deals with its policies with respect to land reform, economic organization, the church, the military, international organizations, and other political movements. Various national parties whose base is Christian Democracy are studied." (Choice) Bibliography. Index.

"Probably the author himself would be the first to admit that his study is not definitive, that much more plowing could profitably be done. Nonetheless, the . . . book is an excellent, thoughtful, and comprehensive introduction to the subject. . . . [It] is based primarily on secondary materials available in the United States and Venezuela. It would have been improved had the author had an opportunity to observe at first hand the campaigning and elections, the conventions and candidates in Chile and other countries where Christian Democracy is active. That can wait on other students who will till the same field. And it cannot detract from a pioneering venture of outstanding merit." R. H. Fitzgibbon
Am Pol Sci R 62:279 Mr '68 450w

"The author's aim for this study is set forth explicitly: 'to describe and analyze the Latin American Christian Democratic parties.' His estimate of his undertaking is becomingly modest. His achievement is very considerable, indeed. The volume is the first book-length treatment of the subject. The picture is hence painted on a broad canvas and with necessarily wide strokes. Nonetheless, there is commendable attention to detail and documentation has been thorough. . . . The author wisely does not approach his topic on a country-by-country, purely descriptive basis. . . . [He] approaches [it] with sympathy, but he is nevertheless critical in his evaluation of evidence and in his attempt to present a balanced point of view. He makes a highly useful distinction, for example, between the Christian Democratic parties, . . . and the older, more traditional, and wholly conservative Catholic-oriented parties found in many Latin-American states." R. H. Fitzgibbon

Ann Am Acad 374:238 N '67 400w

"A book-length study of these Christian Democratic Parties has been long overdue and Williams . . . has produced a most valuable contribution."

Choice 4:1321 Ja '68 170w

"The author seems to be much better at research than at analysis and the book is largely a conscientious, if somewhat tedious, description of the programs and policies of the various Social Christian parties in the hemisphere. Unfortunately, it provides little information on the crucial question of the record of the Frei government now in power in Chile. Mr. Williams is, on the whole, sympathetic to the Christian Democratic parties, though he is quite skeptical about the chances of their achieving the oft-promised revolución en libertad. This is not a particularly rigorous or original book and is rather conservative in both ideology and methodology, but it does provide a valuable introduction to the subject." M. M. Hall

Commonweal 87:546 F 2 '68 130w

WILLIAMS, EMLYN. Beyond belief; a chronicle of murder and its detection. 346p $5.95 Random house

364.1 Murder. Brady, Ian. Hindley, Myra 68-14503

An account of the English Moors Murders case of 1966. The background of each victim and biographies of the two murderers, Ian Brady and Myra Hindley, are given. To provide a continuous narrative, the author has intermingled with the established facts of the case a surmised reconstruction of behavior, conversation and thoughts. Index.

Reviewed by Phoebe Adams
Atlantic 221:134 Mr '68 140w

Reviewed by Richard Boeth
Book World p14 Mr 3 '68 800w

Reviewed by K. G. Jackson
Harper 236:150 Mr '68 600w

"This is as grim and absorbing as the most violent thriller, and belongs on the same shelves as [Truman] Capote's In Cold Blood [BRD 1966]." M. K. Grant
Library J 93:574 F 1 '68 70w

"In narrating the dreadful tale, [Williams] interweaves three elements, fact, interpretation and surmise. [The facts] are here in plenty. . . . Interpretation accompanies each step of the separate journeys to the appointed meetings; but who can interpret minds so far warped off the norm? Surmise soon takes over. To my way of thinking, the book is overloaded with this third element. Some is to the point; some is gratuitous. . . . No doubt the talk is accurate; there is just too much of it. . . . I would not advocate suppressing Emlyn Williams's grisly tale, with its extended probings, factual and surmised, into the black abyss. But neither would I advise anyone to peruse it for pleasure." Lillian De La Torre

N Y Times Bk R p1 F 4 '68 1150w

New Yorker 44:184 Ap 13 '68 90w

Reviewed by R. A. Sokolov
Newsweek 71:84 Mr 4 '68 800w

Reviewed by Derek Morgan
Reporter 38:51 Ap 18 '68 1150w

Reviewed by Sergeant Cuff
Sat R 51:43 Mr 30 '68 40w

"If we had been allowed to accompany Mr. Williams along the course of his research, the book would have been more interesting. As it is, the complex story is woven from direct and indirect evidence and from speech, recorded, remembered or imaginatively invented. . . . It is not easy to separate surmise from deduction or hearsay; and his narrative is more verbose than it is coherent. Mr. Williams is a playwright with a gift for dialogue, Mancunian and Glaswegian, but without the economy of a novelist. This is a pity, because [he] has done a lot of research and devoted a lot of thought to explaining how this murderous conspiracy may have come about."

TLS p505 Je '67 1350w

WILLIAMS, EMMETT, ed. An anthology of concrete poetry. 342p $10 Something else
808.81 Poetry—Collections. Graphic arts
67-24980

This anthology "includes seventy-five poets from nineteen different countries, spanning not only the Atlantic and the Pacific but also the Iron Curtain. . . . Concrete poetry is a hybrid art, . . . a deviation from poetry, graphic design and typography alike into a hitherto little-cultivated area where these three arts mix." (TLS)

"Many of the poems have a startlingly beautiful pictorial effect. Some of them are wildly humorous and emotionally powerful. . . . One is struck by the variety of poems in this collection. . . . [It] is highly recommended to public, college, university, and good high school libraries wanting to keep up with the generation." Jerome Cushman

Library J 92:4422 D 1 '67 200w [YA]

Reviewed by Ronald Gross

N Y Times Bk R p4 F 25 '68 950w
Time 91:98 Ap 12 '68 90w

"The two solid anthologies [of concrete poetry] that have now appeared are alike in one respect only: that they show what a wide range of approaches the term now covers. Stephen Bann's Concrete Poetry . . . includes about a third as many poets as Mr. Williams's. . . . [Mr. Williams] 'would place the emphasis on poetry rather than on Concrete', and he includes certain graphic artists who feel the fascination of letters in a way quite ruled out by Mr. Bann's view that 'the Concrete Poet must fully accept the rigid, nonsensuous character of the printed word'. The major advantage of the Williams volume, however, is that it shows the work of Czechs, Scandinavians and Japanese as well as of a number of outstanding individuals omitted from the other volume, like Belloli, Gappmayr, Rot and Franz Mon. This more than makes up for inferior production, as also for such minor lapses as the fact that page references are frequently given but the pages are in the main not numbered."

TLS p193 F 29 '68 750w

WILLIAMS, FRANCES LEIGH. Plantation patriot: a biography of Eliza Lucas Pinckney. 181p pl maps $3.95 Harcourt

B or 92 Pinckney, Eliza (Lucas)—Juvenile literature
67-18869

"Major George Lucas moved his family from Antigua, to South Carolina in 1738. . . . When the major was recalled to his army post by the outbreak of hostilities between England and Spain, it was [his daughter] Eliza he left in charge. . . . Her greatest achievement was the successful cultivation of indigo and the manufacture of indigo dye, a commodity hitherto unavailable in the British colonies. . . . After her marriage to Charles Pinckney, a prominent lawyer, Eliza took an important place in colonial affairs and later in the affairs of the new nation. . . . [She] was honored as 'a great patriot' by George Washington himself." (Publisher's note) Bibliography, Index. "Grades six to ten." (Library J)

Reviewed by Patricia Boozer

Best Sell 27:363 D 1 '67 60w

"Fictionized from contemporary sources, this book skillfully reveals much about life in pre-Revolutionary South Carolina while focusing on the vivid character of Eliza herself. . . . Well-written, [this] . . . will be useful for supplementary reading in early American history." M. H. Edmonds

Library J 92:4267 N 15 '67 70w

"[This] draws a relentlessly gushy picture of life on a South Carolina indigo plantation . . . and anybody who is interested in indigo plantations in the late 18th century in South Carolina doubtless will find [the] book absorbing." D. B. Chidsey

N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p24 N 5 '67 60w

WILLIAMS, GERTRUDE (ROSENBLUM) LADY. The coming of the welfare state. 120p il $5 Humanities press

368.4 Insurance, Social. Public welfare.
Great Britain—Social conditions [67-87620]

"A brief history of the adoption of protective labor legislation and social security programs in Great Britain, followed by an . . . exploration of possible future developments in the field." (Choice)

"Williams brings to her task both experience as an active participant in the direction of a number of important public agencies and her unsurpassed skill at the simple exposition of complex materials. Since this is not really a work addressed to scholars, it is lacking in bibliography, documentation, and in contributions to theory. . . . While it contains virtually nothing that cannot be found elsewhere, the book has value as a succinct summary for the interested adult or student."

Choice 5:238 Ap '68 210w

"As an introduction to the historical development of Britain's social services [this account] should prove useful for sixth-formers or students at colleges of further education. Unfortunately, it is in some respects already out of date."

TLS p374 My 4 '67 80w

WILLIAMS, GORDON M. The man who had power over women. 319p $5.95 Stein & Day

67-15762

Set in London, this novel is about Peter Reaney, a public relations executive, who "leaves his wife as the book opens and moves in with his best friend [Val Pringle] and his wife [Jody]. While whirling about in the swirl of London's mod society, Reaney considers his abilities and his failures, and sandwiches in several drunks, sexual encounters, and examinations of conscience. It's all part of what he calls his 'crash course in experience.'" (Library J)

"[Williams] is unquestionably a writer of great talent, but he ignores the lush meadows and sets his sights upon the garbage dump. . . . Much of the novel is written with the stream-of-consciousness approach, a technique that Williams handles extremely well. When the author turns aside from Reaney's sexual exploits, he presents the reader with graphic pictures of the machinations of high pressure public relations, the hubbub and excitement of a soccer game, the grimmess and Dickens-like atmosphere of an inquest, and the fantasy world of the London hippies. . . . [But Reaney doesn't seem to realize] the futility of his existence. . . . Williams had the ability to drive this lesson home, but he failed to do so." B. J. McGurl

Best Sell 27:195 Ag 15 '67 450w

Reviewed by R. H. Donahugh

Library J 92:2437 Je 15 '67 110w

"The action covers a week in Reaney's life, a kind of P. R. Bloomsday. . . . [The best truths] are domestic and sexual. . . . [The] hero is a Harry Palmer of kitchen politics, an amoral comic spy, rather than a John Osborne character. He knows which side his bread is buttered on. . . . Mr. Williams, alas, like his hero, clearly admires the pop scene. His chief complaint is not against the system, but Reaney's failure to participate fully in it. . . . Despite the mush, despite an ultimate coziness, Mr. Williams's driving talent forces through what is, in effect, a string of vignettes with welcome, life-serving resonance." Clancy Sigal

N Y Times Bk R p57 S 10 '67 480w

New Yorker 43:98 Ag 26 '67 40w

Time 90:82 Ag 25 '67 380w

"There is a growing family of novels among [which] perhaps the most distinguished is [J. P. Donleavy's] The Ginger Man [BRD 1958]. The family's main characteristics are bulk, verbal gusto, a romantic iconoclasm and a flip irreverence, all of which sort oddly with an underlying sentimentality. [This novel] is the latest candidate for membership. . . . Williams certainly writes with gusto and he can be quite funny at times but the family weaknesses are there, the clichés both of expression and of situation and the facile sentimentality. But the book is seldom dull and there are one or two moments of convincing—and surprising—tenderness."

TLS p471 My 25 '67 230w

WILLIAMS, HELEN WATSON-. See Watson-Williams, H.

WILLIAMS, HUGO. All the time in the world. 279p $4.95 Chilton co.

910.4 Voyages and travels 68-10697

A young Englishman describes a two-year journey around the world through "the Middle East, India and Pakistan, Malaya, Thailand, Japan, Australia, and [the Pacific Islands]." (TLS)

"This is traveling the hard way. At least it would be hard for anyone who is not a male, 21 years of age, with unbounded stamina, unlimited curiosity and a fondness for his fellow man. The book is entertaining reading as one hitchhikes with the young author . . . [but it's] big drawback is the lack of a map. . . . Recommended for general libraries." E. L. Yonge

Library J 93:1482 Ap 1 '68 200w

"One of the most refreshing things about Mr. Williams's book is its complete lack of pretentiousness. When he does or says something foolish, or responds inadequately, he knows it and says so. . . . [He] is also a very funny writer in a casual off-hand way, with a certain wry and economical ruthlessness. . . . The world today, as Mr. Williams found, is full of young Europeans and Americans having a wanderjahr or two. One imagines that few of them have his sharpness of observation and skill in putting it down. He has not written a great travel book; such a book needs either a more dangerous grapple with adventure or a deeper sense of place than [this] offers. But he has achieved the end which he doubted: he has written about moving around and enjoying himself, and the bloom has not rubbed off his enjoyment."

TLS p200 Mr 9 '67 500w

WILLIAMS, JOHN A., comp. Beyond the angry black. rev ed 198p $5.50 Cooper sq.

810.8 Negroes in literature and art. U.S.—
Race relations 66-28491

Nineteen contributors discuss, in essays, poems and stories, "the Negro in the theater and in fiction, the prejudice within the Negro race, the terror of living in a segregated society, the pressures behind discrimination, and the hatred engendered by such discrimination. Represented are such writers as James Baldwin, John Howard Griffin, Shirley Jackson, Langston Hughes, and Richard Wright. . . . This collection is an expansion of a paperback published in 1962 [The Angry Black]." (Library J)

"Lots of anger and little hope permeate the pages of this welcome collection of writings about American Negro experience. (Seven of the writers are white.) There were no poems in the earlier edition. Those included here are all very good—especially Gwendolyn Brooks' 'Medgar Evers'—but there are too few. Where is Robert Hayden, or even LeRoi Jones? Williams, whose own short story, 'Navy Black,' is one of the best in this collection, has chosen his materials well. A good balance of critical writings, poems, and short stories."

Choice 4:678 S '67 170w

"All of [the contributors] write more vehemently on the subject than most and are affirmative at the same time that they are terrifying and stirring. . . . [The collection] is valuable for its expository and creative treatment of a problem that, as the editor's postscript says, troubles and threatens us all. Ideal for small and large school and public libraries." W. A. Smith

Library J 92:2427 Je 15 '67 110w

WILLIAMS, JOHN G. Christian faith and the space age [Eng title: The faith and the space age]. 123p $3.95 World pub.

215 Religion and science. Christianity.
Faith 67-24756

"An outgrowth of four talks on the British Broadcasting Corporation program 'Thinking Aloud,' this book [is concerned] with some of the outstanding problems that the spectacular achievements of contemporary science and technology present to Christian faith. . . . The author [attempts to] expose the deficiencies of many popularly held views of God . . . and discusses such topics as: the implications of life in other worlds; problems of space, time, and relativity; life after death; the menace of power; the moral breakdown in contemporary society; and the role of the Church in today's world. . . . [He concludes that the] insights and conquests of the Space Age have done nothing at all to affect in the slightest degree the fundamental truths of Christianity." (Publisher's note)

"Young people beyond junior age will have heard most of what this book says in about the same language. The theology is quite conservative and traditional and is not really brought to bear upon the issues raised by secularism and space exploration. So many topics are covered in a brief space that rather obvious generalizations abound. . . . This book would be relevant for students younger than college age."

Choice 5:978 O '68 100w [YA]

"Father John Williams, an Anglican priest, . . . attempts to restate religious fundamentals in imaginative terms more acceptable to the doubter bedazzled by a space age science. After discussing various 'barriers of belief' he outlines the essential doctrines of his church in elementary terms. This is a suitable text for young people." R. W. Henderson

Library J 93:2878 Ag '68 60w [YA]

WILLIAMS, LEA E. The future of the overseas Chinese in Southeast Asia. (Council on foreign relations. The U.S. and China in world affairs) 143p $5.50 McGraw

325.2 Chinese in Southeastern Asia 66-24481

This study "surveys the history of Chinese immigration into Southeast Asia and the present positions of power they hold there." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

"Director of the Center for East Asian Studies, Williams has had extensive experience in Singapore, Malaysia, and Indonesia and writes with affection and concern for the Chinese and Chinese-derived populations in the area. . . . The book is too short to permit Williams to do much more than state his assimilationist position. . . . To be fair, however, Williams . . . takes note of various impediments to assimilation, such as differences in religion and other divergences in culture. . . . His book might have been more useful had he constructed its bibliography a little differently, annotating it as a guide to the reader, who might then be able to further inform himself about such a thing as the differences between Hoklo, Hakka, Teochiu, Cantonese, and so forth. . . . Perhaps because of the brevity of the book, Williams occasionally makes sweeping statements that are easily challenged. . . . [But] given the shortness of his work and the complexity of his subject, [he] has done a good job. This book is not for specialists but . . . for someone who wants a quick, reliable, and informed introduction." Morton Fried

Ann Am Acad 374:247 N '67 900w

"Recommended for current events collections." Collin Clark

Library J 91:4965 O 15 '66 130w

WILLIAMS, LEONARD. Man and monkey; drawings by the author; photography by Lorna Pearce. 203p $5.95 Lippincott

599 Monkeys. Primates 68-19333

In this discussion of the inhabitants of a colony of South American woolly monkeys on the Cornish coast, "the author describes how the monkeys communicate, mate, rear their young, educate one another, cope with danger, and order the . . . social pattern of their lives." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

Christian Century 85:1220 S 25 '68 40w

"This tale of how [Williams'] colony was established could be of great interest to animal lovers. The description of the interactions between his family and his monkeys should attract readers of both animal stories . . . [and] natural history. Unfortunately it will not appeal to either. Mr. Williams approaches the reader with the damp and aloof ardor of a Victorian missionary. His systematic condescension to pet owners, scientists and people in general seems calculated to alienate all potential readers. His descriptions of the behavior of his colony of woolly monkeys is not without merit. It should be of interest to primatologists despite its superficiality. However, Mr. Williams' interest in making extensions from observations of monkey behavior to human social theory . . . seems calculated to demonstrate that his naïveté is boundless." Joseph Bossom

Library J 93:4158 N 1 '68 230w

Reviewed by J. Z. Young

N Y Rev of Books 11:37 N 21 '68 290w

"[This book] contains many interesting observations. . . . [The author] has no scientific training, but that is no reason for sneering at those who have; it would be illuminating if his book could be analysed by some of the ethologists whom he appears to despise. None the less, what he says about the conditions in which monkeys are kept in zoos is very much to the point."

TLS p1066 N 9 '67 300w

WILLIAMS, MARGARET, ed. & tr. The Pearl-poet. See The Pearl-poet

WILLIAMS, MASLYN. The East is Red: the view inside China. 266p $5.50 Morrow

915.1 China (People's Republic of China)—Description and travel 67-29845

An Australian journalist, author of Five Journeys From Jakarta (BRD 1966), describes his ten-week trip in China during which he visited Canton, Peking, Nanking, Shanghai and the interior cities of Loyang and Wuhan. Index.

Reviewed by John Israel

Book World p1 Mr 17 '68 100w

"With the proliferation of such travelogues as the reasoned work of Jules Roy or the journalism of Lisa Hobbs, Williams' book is both unnecessary to the informed and risky to the uninformed. A shoddy index reveals the publisher's eagerness to make this book available: the question is why?"

Choice 5:394 My '68 200w

"Throughout the book, Mr. Williams employs personal instead of statistical terms to describe his experience. Using officially assigned interpreters as straw men, he set up a position, and then proceeded to make his own suggestions about facts or situations. At times his sarcasms are very telling. Often, however the reader gets the feeling that Mr. Williams is questioning some of the practices of the Chinese Communists because he feels that he is expected to do so. . . . As it stands, the book is rather dry reading and not one that a library should spend its money on except to add to the completeness of an area." Wen Chao Chen

Library J 92:3420 O 1 '67 170w

Reviewed by N. J. Gallo

Nation 206:614 My 6 '68 40w

Reviewed by Owen Lattimore

New Statesman 76:758 N 29 '68 160w

"[A] naive book which adds nothing to our knowledge of China. . . . Williams was in China for ten weeks during 1966, although the exact dates are not given in his text. . . . It would have enhanced the utility of the book, and even given it a seriousness that it does not possess if Mr. Williams had been more specific; for the fact that he was in such and such a place at such and such a time might be compared with other accounts of the same location on the same date. . . . There are running portraits, never very penetrating, of Mr. Williams's guides, and the usual snapshot-like impressions and shallow interviews. The author is himself under no illusions about the nature of his book. On several occasions he calls attention to its faults and in anticipation of scholarly displeasure, refers to it as 'a rag-bag of partial facts, fragmentary information, and intuitive impressions.' He is an honest man," M. H. Fried

Sat R 51:37 F 10 '68 500w

WILLIAMS, MILLER. So long at the fair. 63p $3.95 Dutton

811

68-10795

A collection of poems by a teacher at Loyola University in New Orleans. The poems first appeared in various periodicals such as The American Scholar, Southern Humanities Review and The New York Times Book Review.

"[Williams's] attitude, which moves from solipsism in 'Who The Hell Is Ringing The Doorbell' to nihilism in 'Done To His Mistress,' often reduces his poems to topical observations. He uses common rhetorical forms infrequently, but makes use of contextual devices to achieve the dimensions of ambiguity and, on occasion, paradox. . . . Although in some of the poems he experiments with rhyme, he writes most in the easy, unrhymed rhythms of idiomatic speech." Walter Waring

Library J 92:4511 D 15 '67 200w

"I liked many poems in Miller Williams's first book, 'Circle of Stone' [BRD 1965] and [this] seems an even better collection. . . . [It] is strong in a new way, quirkish, a guided tour with little attention paid to other guided tours. It is manic with none of the orthodoxy of the maniacal we've become accustomed to in our age. . . . Reading a good Williams poem, of which there are a dozen or so in the book, is like finding a new animal in the snow." Jane Harriss

N Y Times Bk R p6 Ap 28 '68 300w

Reviewed by Michael Benedikt

Poetry 113:191 D '68 250w

Sat R 51:33 Je 1 '68 180w

Va Q R 44:cii summer '68 130w

"Williams is a poet who has entirely secured his own line and his own idiom—a manner closely modeled from the rhythms of Southern colloquial speech. He has a lively eye, wit, and an alert intelligence. His style is lean and spare, streamlined to add up a welter of fresh images and impressions at a remarkable velocity. . . . In a number of poems, mostly sketchier pieces in loose forms, Williams lets his structure go soft. . . . But in the best poems, the ones that start and finish the book ('A Note to God,' 'Weatherman,' 'The Caterpillar,' 'The Widow,' 'Sale') . . . the plain speech rhythms and diction store up light and easy beauties with the sort of magical bluntness and swiftness that we admire in the early Hemingway." Laurence Lieberman

Yale R 53:145 O '68 350w

WILLIAMS, NEVILLE. Elizabeth the first, queen of England [Eng title: Elizabeth, queen of England]. 388p pl $8.95 Dutton

B or 92 Elizabeth I, Queen of England

68-12449

This biography by the assistant keeper at the Public Record Office is "based on traditional sources plus original source material not heretofore available." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

Best Sell 28:82 My 15 '68 190w

Choice 5:1030 O '68 130w

"A careful and balanced interpretation of [Elizabeth's] reign and personality [which] avoids the psychoanalytical approach. . . . The real interest of the book lies in the numerous direct quotations from original documents. . . . [Yet] Mr. Williams's book is disappointing. His scholarship and erudition will make this biography a useful standard work, but it is not a great one. The style is flat and uninspired, and in this respect the life of the queen by Sir John Neale [BRD 1934], is still unsurpassed. Mr. Williams' . . . picture of Elizabeth and her reign fails to come to life." Economist 225:xiv D 2 '67 500w

"[This scholarly study] is to be listed among the fine biographies. . . . Mr. Williams's recognized debt to recent scholarship is balanced by his own basic research, and his learning is clothed in easy, well-paced prose. He emphasizes the marriage diplomacy so central to Elizabeth's reign; his biography is highly realistic, not romantic. . . . Every fine quality of this book commends it to public and academic libraries." R. R. Rea

Library J 93:747 F 15 '68 200w

Reviewed by Alberta Hankenson

Library J 93:1337 Mr 15 '68 200w [YA]

Reviewed by L. B. Smith

N Y Times Bk R p24 O 27 '68 700w

"The [book's] critical apparatus reveals that very little modern work of importance has been passed over. It also appears that the State Papers have been used to provide colourful and sometimes original detail. The passages on the domestic and court life of the queen . . . are the high point of the book. . . . Yet the structure and main content of the book are not calculated to reflect even the tendency, let alone the achievements, of Elizabethan studies in our time. . . . [Little of the] recent work on Elizabethan politics, administration and society, and particularly on the interaction of government with the governed . . . emerges from these pages. . . . [Moreover, Dr. Williams] seems to regard accuracy as a matter of minor importance in a work of this kind. . . . Where religion is concerned, admittedly not the author's strongest suit, error is piled upon error. . . . [Finally,] the index is very incomplete, and therefore deceptive."

TLS p56 Ja 18 '68 450w

Va Q R 44:clxiv autumn '68 140w

WILLIAMS, PHILIP M. The French parliament; politics in the Fifth Republic [Eng title: French Parliament (1958-1967)]. 136p $5.75 Praeger

944.083 France—Politics and government—1945- 67-30060

The author "presents an analysis of the French parliament in the context of the constitutional and political conditions of the Fifth Republic. . . . He considers the leadership of parliament, the relationship between the cabinet and parliament, the legislative process, the role of parliament in the budget . . . [and] the roles of the parliamentary majority and minority." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

"Mr. Williams finds the parliament of the Fifth Republic to be more efficient in performing its legislative task than its predecessors. . . . While he does not believe that the old regime can be revived, he concludes that the current situation, where the executive and administration have great autonomy in making decisions and popular criticism has difficulty in making itself heard through parliament, will not be easily reconciled. . . . This well-documented study is recommended for academic and all substantial collections." B. S. Viault

Library J 93:1002 Mr 1 '68 250w

"Williams has written an admirable guide to the working of parliament in the years 1958-67, which is at once lucid, learned, concise and perceptive. This is a book which can be thoroughly recommended to anyone who wishes to understand the part which parliament will . . . play in the . . . next few months. It is based on a mastery of the available sources and a close familiarity with the history and personalities of the period. The case studies of five bills on a variety of topics . . . are particularly illuminating. . . . One would like more biographical information about the leaders of parliament. . . . If any criticism can be made of Mr. Williams's book, it is simply that one would have liked more of it."

TLS p635 Je 20 '68 1100w

WILLIAMS, R. T., jt. auth. Greek oared ships. 900-322 B.C. See Morrison, J. S.

WILLIAMS, ROGER J. You are extraordinary. 252p il $5.95 Random house

155.2 Individuality 67-22625

This book cites "a variety of biological observations to support the argument that human beings are highly individual in their physical and mental makeup." (Nat R) Index.

"Man, or, rather, 'men,' as [Williams] prefers it, vary in their anatomical, physiological, mental, and spiritual makeups. He explores these areas in considerable detail. But he always comes back to his touchstone, the individual, each with his own peculiar approaches and reactions. He . . . stresses both the divine nature of man as an individual and the ever-present danger that man will overstep the allowable bounds of his relationships with others. This stimulating book should be in high school, college, public, and family libraries." W. K. Beatty

Library J 92:3430 O 1 '67 180w

"The book would make good reading for junior and senior high school students—a group that unfortunately still expects more from their environment than from themselves." M. Gazzaniga

Nat R 19:1437 D 26 '67 190w [YA]

WILLIAMS, VINNIE. Greenbones. 244p $5 Viking

67-11263

"Nin is a teen-aged traveling preacher in Georgia in the early part of this century. He wants desperately to have a formal education, but his mother [Doesticks] sees golden assets in his golden voice and forces him into the role of itinerant preacher. He eventually rebels and ventures out on his own to suffer for a time on a chain gang, among other things." (Library J)

"Mrs. Williams is a skilled writer; she writes with precision and with a careful simplicity which leaves lasting impressions in the mind of the reader. . . . [She succeeds] in portraying the seamy side of life without going beyond the bounds of good taste. . . . [However, this book] is not entertaining. It is not informative, except as it presents a picture of life in a very limited time and place. It is not stimulating. For all its qualities and the very skillful work on the part of the author, this reader is left with the feeling that he could have been better employed than in the reading." Alice McCahill
Best Sell 26:401 F 1 '67 750w

"[This novell] is permeated with local color quaintness, peopled by grotesque characters, and climaxed by ugly violence. Yet [it] finally impresses the reader with its unique charm, perhaps because of its two startlingly original main characters, perhaps because of the author's markedly individualistic style. [The central characters] undergo a delightfully ironic series of picaresque adventures. . . . Williams flavors her narrative with the wry folk wisdom of the characters expressed in their own pungent idiom. A must for libraries building collections of significant Southern literature."

Choice 4:838 O '67 160w

Reviewed by R. F. Cayton
Library J 92:258 Ja 15 '67 170w

Reviewed by R. W. Saal
N Y Times Bk R p46 Ap 11 '67 600w

WILLIAMS-ELLIS, AMABEL. Old world & new world fairy tales; retold by Amabel Williams-Ellis; il. by William Stobbs. 357p $4.95 Warner 398.2 Fairy tales. Folklore—Juvenile literature 67-18015

"A companion to Round the World Fairy Tales [BKD 1966], this collection begins in Britain and circles the globe through western Europe, West Africa, the West Indies, North America, China, Siam, etc. The compiler's notes give the story origins according to location with comments on each story. . . . Grades four to six." (Library J)

"The sources are varied, and most of the tales will not be in the average fairy tale collection since they are from . . . specialized adult books. The stories, retold in a smooth prose style, will appeal to various age levels." L. L. Clark
Library J 92:4256 N 15 '67 100w

Reviewed by M. F. O'Connell
N Y Times Bk R p38 D 10 '67 30w

"A fat, appetizing volume stuffed with a wide variety of enthralling stories from all parts of the world. Amabel Williams-Ellis is one of the best storytellers alive and this is a book to be kept and reread long after the days of reading aloud are over."

TLS p1089 N 24 '66 50w

WILLIAMSON, GEORGE. Six metaphysical poets; a reader's guide. 274p $5.50 Farrar, Straus

821 English poetry—History and criticism 67-11944

This volume includes "two chapters on Donne, one chapter each on Herbert, Crashaw, Cowley, Vaughan, and Marvel. . . . Two preliminary chapters . . . place the school in the British literary tradition and a concluding chapter . . . brings together such lesser figures as Cleveland, King, Rochester, and Butler." (Poetry) Bibliography. Index.

"[This] is a sensible synthesis of criticism and an excellent explication de texte. . . . Major themes, images, and ideas are explicated and interwoven from one body of work to the next. The text should become a vade mecum for initiates into the 17th Century and a refresher course for others. Highly recommended." M. I. Prochilo

Library J 92:2160 Je 1 '67 190w

"Most of the book is taken up with line-by-line paraphrases of the best known poems, a method Professor Williamson calls . . . 'the most economical way to explain prose meaning in a poem, to emphasize losses in poetic effect, and to expose relations of meter and syntax, or the musical order of a poem.' . . . [This] is of a higher order than the innumerable guides, outlines, and handbooks which flood the college bookstores and are obviously aimed at the student looking for a 'pony.' Still, one wonders what need an interested student working with an interested and informal teacher would have for such a book." Ernest Sandeen
Poetry 112:361 Ag '68 240w

WILLIAMSON, JOANNE S. To dream upon a crown; il. by Jacob Landau. 184p $4.95 Knopf 67-19483

The author has taken "the pieces of the story [of the Wars of the Roses] as they appear in Shakespeare's royal plays, and joined them together, adding in . . . prose, the necessary background." (Christian Science Monitor) Genealogy. Chronology. "Age twelve and up." (Commonweal)

"[A] disappointing entry into a field that deserves better treatment for young readers . . . very few [of whom] would get beyond the first few pages. . . . Adults with sufficient background might want to page through the book, but [it] is not for the high school reader."

Best Sell 27:361 D 1 '67 60w [YA]

"Those who are ready for it will find [this] reconstruction of the Wars of the Roses a splendid affair, replete with the clang of battle, the intrigue of Kings and a plethora of proud Dukes. . . . The teenager who sticks to it through a somewhat complicated maze of events will be richly rewarded." P. M.
Christian Science Monitor pB9 N 2 '67 170w [YA]

WILLIAMSON, J. S.—Continued

"England's Wars of the Roses are the context of Shakespeare's three-part Life and Death of King Henry the Sixth. The personages and issues concerned are puzzling for many American students, who rarely learn much about the bloody conflict that gave rise to the Tudor dynasty. Here is an interesting and well-constructed account of the period. The author frequently employs Shakespeare's eloquent dialog, but corrects some of his historical errors." M. L. Birmingham

Commonweal 87:183 N 10 '67 80w

"This author [has] . . . had the unhappy inspiration of marrying direct quotation from Shakespeare with her own flat, contemporary continuity. . . . The result is thoroughly schizoid. The history of Henry VI is dealt with in semi-fictional form, and all the unsavory characters say their pieces, word for word, from Shakespeare's drama." Betty Henderson

Library J 92:4629 D 15 '67 140w

Reviewed by Thomas Lask

N Y Times Bk R p26 F 11 '68 110w

Reviewed by Zena Sutherland

Sat R 51:51 F 24 '68 100w

WILLIS, PRISCILLA D. See Adams, M. S.

WILLMANN, JOHN B. The department of housing and urban development. 207p il $5.95 Praeger

353.85 U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. Urban renewal 67-24679

The author "describes the department's predecessor agencies in housing and urban affairs; the melding into the new department of existing agencies; and . . . the structure and workings of the department, including its relationships with Congress and with the powerful housing lobbies. Individual chapters deal with HUD's divisions for mortgage credit, housing assistance, metropolitan development, as well as the 'model cities' program." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

"A useful if somewhat turgid and unsophisticated history of the evolution of U.S. Federal involvement in the 'housing and community planning business' that culminated in HUD, as well as an analysis of the administrative structure of present programs, viewed primarily through organization chart 'theory' and non-critical official pronouncements. While the information presented is an essential beginning for students wishing to understand the involved scope of government participation in urban affairs, no student should be left in the Panglossian realm etched here. Cynical antidotes, however, may be found in [C.] Abrams' The City is the Frontier [BRD 1965, 1966], [S.] Greer's Urban Renewal and American Cities [BRD 1967], and M. Anderson's The Federal Bulldozer [BRD 1965]."

Choice 5:381 My '68 80w

"Mr. Willmann narrates the simple history of the development of this significant agency. . . . [He includes] a copy of the act known popularly as the Demonstration Cities Act [stating] . . . that the entire act and program is subject to change. He could have gone a bit deeper, but then HUD is a youthful agency with not too much history. This is HUD base book #1, and until a better one comes along, it is of value in the general reading collection." H. L. Roth

Library J 92:2799 Ag '67 80w

WILLMOTT, PETER. Adolescent boys of East London. 224p $6 Humanities press

301.43 Youth. London—Social conditions

66-67378

An examination "into the social background and family and community patterns of ordinary adolescent boys . . . between the ages of 14 and 20 who were members of households on the electoral register in 1964. . . . [The study is based on questionnaires and taped records. It attempts to show how the] youths lived their lives, what they felt about work, sex, school and youth organisations, including . . . their delinquent activities." (New Statesman) Bibliography.

"Thanks less to the study's cross tabulations than to its rich mine of quotations from interviews with some of the boys themselves, the book does have the utterly authentic feel of one of those sooty documentary-style movies about the English working class. . . . As ethnography, [it] is completely successful in that it provides a clear picture of a stable, urban, working-class neighborhood, and the lives which make it up. . . . If there is a weakness in this . . . [study] it is the author's relative lack of ambitiousness in interpreting his data boldly and in seeing the proverbial 'larger implications' of some of the things he reports. . . . I kept thinking about 'Alfie' while reading this book because [these boys] may become much like him in ten years." B. M. Berger

Am Soc R 33:141 F '68 2000w

"Publications by members of the Institute of Community Studies . . . are usually carried out with both technical competence and human sensitivity. This new study of the lives and interests of adolescent East-Enders is in line with its predecessors. . . . Considerable use was made of [the] more subjective data, not merely to illustrate statistically valid findings from questionnaire answers, but 'also to help in interpreting, in speculating, in trying to understand.' The result of all this is a very readable book which adds considerably to our knowledge of what it feels like to grow up in East London in the age of comparative affluence. . . . The well-known problems are once again documented for us." J. B. Mays

New Statesman 73:159 F 3 '67 700w

"Mr. Peter Willmott has proved himself elsewhere to be sensitive, competent and clear. . . . His new book is a disappointment. . . . Methodologically [it] is sensible, unpretentious and clear. . . . The boys, we are told, fall into three groups: contented proles; upwardly aspiring prospective emigrants from Bethnal Green; and rebels against parents, authority and steady jobs. Almost no social correlates are deduced for these groupings. . . . [It] is full of quotations. These are careful in syntax and flat. Perhaps they have lost in transcription, but they tell us almost nothing, and communicate no sense of inner life, growth, hope, or even failure. Very often in such studies the best in the published report is what the informants write or say, and the mosaic of voices conveys a pattern, a true sub-culture. This does not happen here."

TLS p312 Ap 13 '67 800w

WILLS, GARRY. Jack Ruby [by] Garry Wills and Ovid Demaris. 266p $5.95 New Am. lib.

B or 92 Ruby, Jack. Kennedy, John Fitzgerald—Assassination 67-29996

An expanded revision of two articles in Esquire. The authors working from taped interviews "recreate the day Jack Ruby woke, . . . drove downtown, parked his car illegally, walked over to the crowd and shot and killed Lee Harvey Oswald. . . . The authors move from jail to courtroom, catching the . . . atmosphere of Ruby's trial—[with] portraits of defense attorney Belli and prosecutor Alexander—and finally to the hospital room where Ruby died." (Publisher's note)

"If this book did nothing more than plumb Ruby's strange personality it would be open to the charge that it tells more about Ruby than anyone cares, or needs, to know. . . . But Ruby's act was important: it set important things in motion. The authors discuss these matters, too. . . . Admirable as they are, however, Wills and Demaris fail in one vital respect. They do not explain how one essentially unimportant man, Jack Ruby—caught up in the movement of history—could be so ill used by almost everyone and everything that touched him before he disappeared." J. R. Waltz

Book World p4 Ja 14 '68 1050w

"This book . . . leaves a bad taste in the mouth."

Christian Century 85:86 Ja 17 '68 50w

"A convincing attempt to prove that Jack Ruby's murder of Lee Harvey Oswald was not part of some sinister, conspiratorial plot. The murder is shown to be the almost inevitable outcome of a combination of coincidental circumstances and Ruby's character and life patterns. . . . The authors weave into the story interesting analyses of the character and power structure of Dallas, the minor plot resulting in the publication of an anti-Kennedy advertisement in the Morning News on the day of the assassination, and Melvin Belli's handling of Ruby's trial. This book answers a number of questions surrounding the Kennedy assassination. It deserves to be read widely." M. A. Forslund

Library J 92:4406 D 1 '67 210w

"The chapter 'The Communists or the John Birch Society or Both,' alone is worth the price of the book. But if you only read that you'd miss a small masterpiece, a vignette on Dallas, What It Is Like, and Who Runs It. . . . [The authors] have turned out a job of reportorial reconstruction that stands head and shoulders, in style as well as in content, above the dozens of other books that have been published about the events of November 22, 23 and 24, 1963." P. L. Buckley

Nat R 20:349 Ap 9 '68 1700w

Reviewed by Sergeant Cuff

Sat R 51:52 F 24 '68 40w

WILLS, GARRY. The second civil war; arming for Armageddon. 169p $4.95 New Am. lib.

323.1 Riots. U.S.—Race relations. U.S.—Moral conditions. Negroes—Moral and social conditions 68-23268

Concerned with the preparations for riot and riot control in the U.S., the author "talked to officials and ghetto dwellers in nine major cities and in smaller trouble-spots. . . . He attended black-power rallies in Cambridge, Maryland, and in Chicago . . . and talked to the head of the Malcolm X Society and to Milwaukee's Father Groppi, as well as to right-wing revolutionaries in California. [He attempts] to get the feel of both sides in the widening conflict signaled by 1967's riots." (Publisher's note) A portion of this book was first published in Esquire magazine.

"Wills warns that whites and blacks are on a collision course, which is caused primarily by white society and if not altered immediately can only lead to armed conflict. . . . Though one could criticize the overly literary style and general disorganization of this book, one can hardly escape its intended message. The author has pointedly dealt with the white armed camp seemingly oblivious to the black man's problems, as well as with the hatred within the Negro sector against that army of the establishment. . . . [He urges the nation] to drastically alter its racial attitudes." Andrew Buni

America 118:714 My 25 '68 300w

Choice 5:1055 O '68 90w

Reviewed by Alan Seaburg

Christian Century 85:1081 Ag 28 '68 140w

Reviewed by R. F. Kugler

Library J 93:2682 Jl '68 190w

"Wills's study comes close to being comprehensive. It's all there—Mace (the non-lethal chemical incapacitator), the Commandos (Father Groppi's storm troopers and also a line of armored police cars), Prevention and Control of Mobs and Riots (the 1967 manual), and lots more. . . . The documentation is packaged—though, alas, not indexed. The serious question remains what to do with it. Read it and sigh and sigh and have another smoke? . . . [The author] provides raw materials and not solutions. Just as well, for one sees that writing the book has moved him deeply. He is inside the situation and his subjective intensity communicates itself to the reader as an urgent plea for help, from all the conflicting forces involved. How do we get out of this? The documentation suggests what won't work." Richmond Crinkley

Nat R 20:557 Je 4 '68 1350w

"One of the most disturbing books yet to appear about blacks and whites in America. . . . [Wills] has gone far beyond the domestic arms race to delve into the forces in both the black and white communities that have gotten us where we are. . . . He concludes that we are becoming two nations, one white and one black, and that the two are on a collision course. But he also has the reporter's eye, the writer's ear and the artist's spirit to put down his findings in a marvelously effective form. . . . [He] has given a brilliant demonstration of how sensitive reporting can illuminate a field in a way that neither scholarship nor polemics can. . . . [His] book should be read by every white American." J. A. Lukas

N Y Times Bk R p10 Je 16 '68 600w

"A chilling description of a nation trapped on an escalator to cataclysm. . . . In spare, crisp prose whose understatement heightens its crackle [Wills] depicts the frantic race by police to lay in a massive array of anti-riot weapons. . . . Included are several carefully limned portraits of black militants such as Detroit's Richard Henry, who speculates about embattled American Negroes retiring to black enclaves until help comes from 'foreign alliances,' perhaps in the form of 'Chinese nuclear subs in the Gulf of Mexico.' . . . As he tours the urban tinderboxes, Wills explores the states of mind of individual men on both sides of the 'Second Civil War.' Ernest Dunbar

Sat R 51:26 Je 1 '68 600w

WILSON, ADRIAN. The design of books. 159p il $15 Reinhold

655.5 Book design. Book industries and trade 67-14162

"Written primarily for the contemporary book designer working either in a publishing house, printing plant, or as a freelancer, this book shows how to go about creating layouts for and implementing the production of many different kinds of books, including limited editions, trade books, encyclopedias, and reference books . . . [and] outlines the book designing processes from the manuscript stage through production. . . . Methods of type composition—whether metal, film, or computer—[are discussed] along with the major reproduction processes. There are chapters on the different types of paper, the sequence of elements in a book, design approaches, binding, jackets and paperback covers, trade book design, textbooks, and manuals." (Publisher's note) Index.

Reviewed by W. R. Eshelman

Col & Res Lib 29:443 S '68 700w

"The illustrations include preliminary layouts for the Nuremberg Chronicle, the earliest known set of book designs. Along with his 'how-to-do-it' text Mr. Wilson presents a graphic story of the development and manufacture of type and paper, accompanied by an explanation of printing and binding methods from Gutenberg to Xerox. . . . Graphic arts schools should find this a useful textbook; libraries, a good general reference." George Maas

Library J 93:540 F 1 '68 150w

"Mr. Wilson is a talented and versatile designer who has also shown himself to be an expert printer. . . . His attitude to the design of books is eclectic, cosmopolitan, craftsman-like and joyful. . . . Without implying that Mr. Wilson's illustrations are even more valuable than his text, it is right to give him special praise for displaying such a well-assorted and unhackneyed set of illustrations, by no means confined to his own work. The diverse assortment has one shining quality in common—the quality of vitality. . . . [A few] defects in presentation will no doubt be removed from subsequent editions. Mr. Wilson's book deserves a wide and sustained success because it delivers so much practical advice with such an endearing mixture of enthusiasm and enjoyment."

TLS p536 My 23 '68 800w

WILSON, ANGUS. No laughing matter. 496p $6.95 Viking

67-26185

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Choice 5:780 S '68 170w

Reviewed by John Thompson

Commentary 45:67 Ja '68 1200w

Reviewed by Eleanor Dienstag

Commonweal 87:695 Mr 8 '68 1200w

Reviewed by Liam Lenihan

Nation 206:512 Ap 15 '68 200w

Reviewed by Richard Mayne

Reporter 38:44 F 8 '68 2100w

Reviewed by Rachel Trickett

Yale R 57:446 Mr '68 900w

WILSON, CLIFTON E. Diplomatic privileges and immunities. 300p $8.50 Univ. of Ariz. press

341.7 Diplomatic and consular service. International law 66-20660

The author's purpose is "to find out what has been the impact of the political and ideological changes since World War II upon the traditional rules of diplomatic privileges and immunities. Following a discussion of theories justifying the granting of such immunities and privileges to diplomatic personnel, and their operation in practice, Mr. Wilson

WILSON, C. E.—Continued

... surveys the types of immunities granted ... and the categories of diplomatic personnel eligible for [them]. (Library J) Bibliography. Index of cases. General index.

"This volume combines elements of history, international law, and statecraft, which the author weaves into a serviceable fabric, enriched with illustrations, anecdotes, and extensive documentation. His sources range not only to diplomatic practice, conventional law, municipal legislation, judicial decisions, and the pronouncements of statesmen and publicists, but, as noted in his preface, he also surveyed some two hundred retired American diplomats for contributory information. ... Of greater interest and concern to the expert in international law and diplomacy and the sophisticated student of interstate relations than to the lay reader. This is attributable not to the fashion in which [Wilson] treats his subject, but rather to its technical and intricate content." Elmer Plischke

Ann Am Acad 378:148 J1 '68 440w

Choice 5:1045 O '68 150w

"Of special interest are the problems raised by the extensive increase since World War II of nondiplomatic personnel, such as military and information agents, the effects of 'cold war' conditions on nationals employed in diplomatic missions, and the application of the diplomatic immunities to these groups. Much of the book's usefulness to scholars, lawyers, and diplomats is in its extensive documentation, and worldwide scope. The book will have great value as a reference book to anyone dealing with this subject. Recommended to all academic and law libraries." David Shavit

Library J 93:195 Ja 15 '68 200w

WILSON, EDWARD. Edward Wilson's Birds of the Antarctic; ed. by Brian Roberts. 191p 11 col 11 maps $17.50 Humanities press

598 Birds—Antarctic regions 67-30848

Wilson was a member of Scott's two Antarctic expeditions. "Included in this volume are a summary of Wilson's life, extracts from his diaries, including his account of 'the worst journey in the world,' a bibliography of his writings and one of writings about him, and a list of manuscripts and pictures, most of them from the Scott Polar Research Institute at Cambridge, consulted by the editor. ... There are more than 300 [pictures] in 60 pages of color and 42 of monochrome." (Science)

"Not a handbook, since the four exciting excerpts from Wilson's journals do not summarize his observations of each species nor is present knowledge discussed. ... For libraries specializing in bird art, ornithology, or Antarcticiana, or for smaller libraries interested in all three."

Choice 5:645 J1 '68 110w

"Unfortunately the drawings are more of historical than aesthetic interest and the journal notes are somewhat perfunctory. The book will undoubtedly have some value to the specialist in Antarctic bird life, but the layman will find it of little particular interest." Walter Harding

Library J 93:764 F 15 '68 100w

"It was [Wilson's] genius for detail in recording places and events in his journals and letters that makes this volume more than just another handsome collection of bird paintings. For anyone who wants to share the rigors of painting, collecting, and observing birds in sub-zero temperatures—this book is highly recommended."

Natur Hist 77:71 Ap '68 100w

Reviewed by D. A. Bannerman

N Y Rev of Books 11:30 D 5 '68 1300w

Reviewed by A. L. Rand

Science 159:866 F 23 '68 500w

TLS p67 Ja 18 '68 1200w

WILSON, FRANCESCA M. Rebel daughter of a country house; the life of Eglantyne Jebb, founder of the Save the children fund. 228p pl $6 Hillary house

B or 92 Jebb, Eglantyne Mary. Save the Children Fund. London [67-93546]

This book recounts the activities of Miss Jebb who "rebelled against the conventional existence of a middle-class home-keeping daughter ... [and built up] an informed public opinion which enabled her to found ... the Save the Children Fund." (TLS)

"The first work to be written directly on Jebb ... this biography is eulogistic and chatty and rather slight. However, many interesting and significant people in British history cross its pages; the book is very readable; and it does ... give a clear portrait of this remarkable woman. Recommended for purchase by graduate libraries with good collections in British history and social welfare; not for normal undergraduate library use, unless there is a special collection in the area."

Choice 5:859 S '68 90w

"To the literature of autobiology Francesca Wilson has made a notable contribution. Here is a very distinguished maiden aunt herself cherished and encouraged by an older maiden aunt. ... [The Save the Children Fund is not] likely to be forgotten, though without Miss Wilson's book its founder might have been."

TLS p704 Ag 3 '67 360w

WILSON, JAMES. The works of James Wilson; ed. by Robert Green McCloskey. 2v 440:441-875p $17.50 Harvard univ. press

340.0924 Law—U.S. Political science

67-14344

The author was one of the original justices of the United States Supreme Court. In the introduction, the editor, a professor of history at Harvard, presents a "view of Wilson's personal career and character, of the nature of politics and ideas in his time, and of the evolving character of America in the years that followed. Wilson's Works are here reprinted in their entirety as published in 1804 under the editorship of his son. ... The major portion of the text consists of the 'Lectures on Law,' on the basis of which Wilson has been ranked among those who laid the foundation of the American common law. The remainder consists of a number of ... essays and speeches." (Publisher's note) Bibliographical glossary and index, both in volume two.

Choice 5:554 Je '68 180w

Reviewed by R. D. Brown

New Eng Q 41:318 Je '68 200w

"Wilson was not, as he should have been, an inheritor of fulfilled renown. [However,] the Works in part explain his obscurity and in part make it seem unjust and unintelligent. But the limitations of the Works are tied up with the extravagances of Wilson's character. ... [And] there are other weaknesses that may have hurt more than his rightly admiring editor allows for. ... His Lectures on Law [lack] the final polish, the conciseness, the acuteness that so ambitious a project called for. ... Then there are too many signs of haste; there is too much irrelevant and credulous learning. And some of the learning suggests a reliance on a far from infallible memory. ... [Nevertheless, this edition is a] learned and elegant monument."

TLS p200 F 29 '68 600w

"Among the Founding Fathers, [the author] was one of the most profound constitutional thinkers, a man of the first magnitude in the Constitutional Convention and a member of the first Supreme Court. ... Students of legal and constitutional history now have at hand a superbly edited collection of Wilson's legal work."

Va Q R 44:xxviii winter '68 100w

WILSON, LOUIS ROUND. Education and libraries; selected papers; ed. with a biographical sketch and commentary, by Maurice F. Tauber and Jerrold Orne. 344p $6 Shoe String

020 Library science

66-29419

This book is "a testimonial to Wilson, librarian and educator, published to mark the occasion of his 90th birthday which occurred in 1966."

"[It] is an assemblage of [his] essays grouped by subject and arranged chronologically. The emphasis is on his professional work described under several headings. The Library in the Social Order. School Libraries. College and University Libraries. Education for Librarianship and Publishing in the South." (Record)

"[A] very good book about a very great man. ... [The introduction] tells as much about the whole man as one can in short compass. The selected papers are well-chosen and speak for themselves. ... Taken together [this book and Maurice Tauber's Louis Round

Wilson: Librarian and Administrator, BRD 1967] make a substantial contribution to librarianship." R. R. Shaw

Library J 92:1808 My 1 '67 250w

"Anything Dean Wilson ever wrote for publication was carefully prepared, was important at the time, and has remained a significant contribution no matter how long ago it first appeared. A larger work, including all of the Wilson papers and reports . . . would be better than a selection; but a selection is certainly a more realistic venture, and better than no compilation at all—provided the selection is done carefully. That this selection was made with care is quite evident. Tauber and Orne have brought together a number of the best known or most frequently cited of LRW's papers. Also, they have chosen a few less familiar pieces, probably not known to most Wilson admirers, in order to present a balanced display of interests that are the basis of the book's organization. . . . Another reason this book is a valuable addition to our professional literature is the convenience it serves. Of the twenty-eight papers included in the compilation, one is published for the first time and six or eight are reprinted from publications that might be considered elusive." A. H. Horn

Library Q 37:396 O '67 850w

"Those concerned with the history of American higher education and librarianship in the last half century ought to know more than they do about Louis Round Wilson. [This book] makes it easy." Sidney Forman

Record 69:407 Ja '68 200w

WILSON, LOUISE. This stranger, my son; ■ mother's story. 247p $5.95 Putnam
616.89 Schizophrenia. Problem children
63-12105

"Tony was a beautiful baby but it soon became clear that he was going to be a difficult child. He was bad-tempered, fussy, and jealous of his brother and sisters; he dominated the family by his sulking and raging. Reluctantly admitting that his was no ordinary problem, the parents sought help for Tony. From one psychiatrist to another they went; all of the doctors agreed that the boy had a personality disorder but most of them felt that it was the parental pattern that needed changing. In despair, the Wilsons suffered from Tony's brutal hostility and constant demands for attention until their life was entirely disrupted. In the end they accepted the harsh truth: Tony was a paranoid schizophrenic and could never live at home." (Sat R)

Reviewed by J. A. Szuhay
Best Sell 28:10 Ap 1 '68 700w

Reviewed by C. C. Park
Book World p5 Mr 31 '68 700w

"Because of [Mrs. Wilson's] ceaseless emotion, as though she, not the child, were the patient, she seems unable to convey anything beyond what the reader would guess, given the fact of the child's behavior. While it is true that authorities on schizophrenia conflict, . . . medicine is not victimizing the schizophrenic, as Mrs. Wilson implies. . . . [This] book is [not] an artistic success. . . . [However, it] may give courage to other parents with similar problems." S. H. Poundstone

Library J 93:760 F 15 '68 180w

Reviewed by Barbara Wyden
N Y Times Bk R p38 My 26 '68 250w

"Because this true and harrowing story is told without self-pity or sentiment, it is the more moving a plea for understanding—a remarkable document of patience and love. For young adults." Zena Sutherland

Sat R 51:41 Ap 20 '68 130w [YA]

WILSON, MAB. Gems. (Studio bk) 168p il col il $8.95 Viking
736 Gems 67-19501

A book about precious stones, "where they are found; their natural characteristics; their beauty, scarcity, and relative values; the evolution of cuts; the place of gems in fashion and legend; and their designations as birthstones." (Publisher's note) Index.

"[The opening chapters] are enlivened by and fashions of, and gossip about, stones in jewelry. However, references to Moh's table of hardness and descriptions of the cuts given gems make her presentation sound technical. This book is for the layman who is curious about gems but does not want specific information. Elaborate color illustrations are only partially effective because the play of light on faceted stones cannot be reproduced. Miss Wilson's personal enthusiasm for the subject and her skill with words make for interesting reading, but the book is not needed in most libraries." Paul von Khrum

Library J 92:4144 N 15 '67 90w

Reviewed by D. M. Glixon
Sat R 51:49 My 18 '68 40w

"[The opening chapters] are enlivened by excursions into such matters as the lore of precious stones and their symbolism, the story of the smuggling of the Hanoverian crown jewels to England and the influence of fashion on the popularity of particular gems. . . . As befits a book on gems by Tiffany's Director of Publicity (although it appears that it was written before the author was appointed to this post) there is little to criticize. A crystallographer would not find the definition of the habit of a crystal as 'its unvarying form' completely satisfactory. . . . application of the adjective precious to one particular variety of topaz seems undesirable. . . . [but] these are minor points. The production is of a standard which the subject deserves, and the volume is a pleasure to handle."

TLS p816 Ag 1 '68 500w

WILSON, WOODROW. The papers of Woodrow Wilson; v3, 1884-1885; Arthur S. Link [and others] eds; sponsored by the Woodrow Wilson foundation and Princeton university. 648p il $15 Princeton univ. press

973.91 U.S.—History—1865-1898. U.S.—History—1898- (66-10880)

This is the third volume of the Princeton edition of The Papers of Woodrow Wilson. This volume carries "Wilson from the beginning of his second semester at The Johns Hopkins University to the eve of the receipt of his first copies of Congressional Government. . . . However, the major portion of this volume consists of the almost daily exchange of letters between Wilson and his fiancée, Ellen Louise Axson." (Introd) Index. For volumes one and two, covering the period 1856-1884, see BRD 1966 and 1967.

Reviewed by R. L. Beisner
Am Hist R 73:1658 Je '68 360w

"This third volume of Wilson's unfolding collected papers is probably unique among the writings of any major political figure in our history. To some degree, its theme and partial contents have already been displayed in The Priceless Gift: The Love Letters of Woodrow Wilson and Ellen Axson Wilson (BRD 1963). . . . Yet the editors have been well advised to reproduce them in full and to subject them to thorough scholarly implementation. . . . Others of Wilson's papers include careful notes on bi-metallism and reflections on the reality as well as the theory of constitutional government. . . . Wilson was a spokesman for large social forces; so much, at least, is clear in retrospect. Here we see them being nurtured by hopes, victories, ideals, and, above all, preparations." Louis Filler

Ann Am Acad 376:187 Mr '68 700w

Reviewed by A. B. Rollins
New Eng Q 41:445 S '68 750w

"The comprehensiveness of the record, the informed and unobtrusive annotation, and throughout, the meticulous scholarship, are unfalteringly sustained. . . . 'Congressional Government,' with its analysis of Congress, in Wilson's phrase, 'as the central and predominant power' of the Federal system of the United States, continues to be, eighty years after its original publication, a valuable book in its own right even if, as has frequently been noted, Wilson's own later exercise of Presidential power demonstrated that 'the central and predominant power' is not constant among the three branches of the Federal system but is subject to subtle shifts." F. C. Rosenberger

Va Q N 44:310 spring '68 600w

WINCKELMANS DE CLÉTY, CHARLES. The world of persons; with a foreword by Frederick C. Copleston; and a pref. by Jean Ladrière. 444p $8.50 Sheed

142 Phenomenology. Christianity 67-21905

This book "is divided into three principal parts: Discovering the Personal Field, Exploring the Human World and Reaching the Foundations. Dialectically, the whole work is an assertion of the claims of 'lived reality' against both realism and idealism, both 'scientific' positivism and 'metaphysical' spiritualism." (Commonweal) Father Winckelmans is a Belgian Jesuit who is a pastor in a Catholic community south of Calcutta. Index.

WINCKELMANS DE CLÉTY, CHARLES— Continued

"A doctoral study in the very best tradition of research, Winckelmans has . . . produced a work that is in its own right a superior philosophical study and which shows concretely how there can and cannot be a philosophic discipline labeled Christian. He shows man's existence as open to something not able to be subjected to rational analysis; he explores in depth and rigor this area of possible openness. The result is a full-scale philosophic analysis of the human condition in the broadest sense of that term. . . . Far beyond a mere introduction to phenomenology, Winckelmans' work is within the range of the serious undergraduate student of philosophy and is required for graduate students or professional philosophers. It organizes many areas of phenomenological research within one comprehensive study."

Choice 5:66 Mr '68 200w

"This book [is] a major and remarkable essay in the new-fashioned critical and speculative philosophy that has been called 'existential phenomenology.' . . . [Winckelmans] is, incidentally, deep versed in Indian thought and culture, and many of his own views seem to harmonize with motifs in the Indian religious and philosophical tradition. . . . [According to the author.] the 'unity-meaning' of the world is constituted by 'my life-act-realizing-itself-through-my-act-project' together with my membership 'in a community of persons coextensive with the whole created reality.' Critical readers, and this book deserves them, will of course want to ask how Father Winckelmans 'knows' many of the things he is so confident of. . . . They will want to know just what he does mean by 'the world' in the first place, or 'life-act,' or especially 'person.' . . . It is simply not made clear in the essay. . . . But it is for itself, as a work of philosophical anthropology and speculative cosmology that [this book] should be read. Many may find it has just the perspective they need for the kind of world they wish to help build." Walter Arnold

Commonweal 88:82 Ap 5 '68 2000w
TLS p402 Ap 18 '68 300w

WINCOR, RICHARD. Literary property. 154p $5 Potter, C.N.

340 Authors and publishers. Contracts 67-16524

The subject of this book is arrangement for the ownership, use and distribution of literary property in television, the theater, motion pictures and publishing. The author discusses "how to handle warranties, . . . the scope of rights, . . . how the writer's services shall be controlled, how payment shall be made, . . . who exercises control, who gets credit for what, and how assignments can be made." (Publisher's note) Glossary. Index.

"Mr. Wincor is well qualified to write on this subject; he is a graduate of Harvard Law School and a trustee of the Copyright Society of the United States. . . . His style is polished. His new book is highly recommended as an intelligent layman's guide to rights of authorship." J. B. Woy

Library J 93:204 Ja 15 '68 150w

"A highly readable, clearly set forth guide to the well ramified business practices in the communications industry, and of comfort and of value, I should imagine, to those on either end of a literary deal." S. W. Little

Sat R 50:95 N 11 '67 70w

WINETROUT, KENNETH. F. C. S. Schiller and the dimensions of pragmatism. (The John Dewey soc. Studies in educ. theory) 170p $5 Ohio state univ. press

144 Schiller, Ferdinand Canning Scott. Pragmatism 67-22738

A plea for "a reevaluation of historical pragmatism as the context within which a new 'dialogue' among the divergent contemporary philosophical movements can take place. Two theses are presented: first, that the major characteristics of both analytic philosophies and existentialisms were anticipated in the writings of the earlier pragmatists; second, that F. C. S.

Schiller was a truly major figure in the development of early pragmatism, equal to Peirce, James, and Dewey in influence, and that, as such his writings present a good focal point from which the dialogue can begin." (Choice) Index.

"Apart from the question of whether either thesis is adequately defended, the essay is valuable in the effort it makes to provide a much needed approach to an understanding and evaluation of the many divergent and apparently antagonistic movements in contemporary philosophy."

Choice 5:972 O '68 170w

"Declaring Schiller's continuing appeal to the university campus, Winetrouth throws his philosopher protagonist into comparisons and contrasts with others to argue three distinct concerns of pragmatism: 'the analytic as with Peirce, the reformist as with Dewey, and the existentialist as with James and Schiller.' Avoiding vulgarization Winetrouth verifies his contention that philosophy need not be dull. It is a fine piece, tastefully printed, bound, and jacketed." John Calam

Sat R 51:75 Je 15 '68 100w

WING, RICHARD L., jt. auth. Federal aid for schools, 1967-1968 guide. See Rowland, H. S.

WINGO, LOWDON, jt. ed. Issues in urban economics. See Perloff, H. S.

WINICK, CHARLES. The new people; desexualization in American life. 384p $7.50 Pegasus (N Y)

917 U.S.—Civilization. U.S.—Social life and customs. Sex (Psychology) 67-25508

In this "study of American behavior and the influences at work in today's society [the author] . . . warns us of 'a massive shift of human consciousness and its social expression.' We are the 'New People,' he says, whether we know it or not, and the changes in our lives that have come about in the 1960's may not bring about our extinction, but they could result in a 'new tone of life, a bitter, metallic existence, (which) may simply not be worth the price of enduring it.' Our arts, food, dress, furniture, social and sexual relations, and literature are all subjected to his . . . examination." (Library J)

"A bizarre, convoluted survey of contemporary American sexual mores as revealed through such popular modes of expression as literature, art, movies, television, dress, and sports. . . . [Winick] would do well to examine some of the more significant literature on sex customs which has appeared recently—e.g. the April 1966 issue of Journal of Social Issues entitled 'The Sexual Renaissance in America.' He would find, of course, that the real issue is sexual equality and freedom, and not sexual neutering. College libraries will survive without this bit of social science gabble."

Choice 5:1055 O '68 230w

"Not all readers will agree that the trends [Winick] notes must result in desexualization, but the evidence is strong. If, as he implies, the edge has been taken off all our hitherto strong appetites, then, probably, soon it won't matter if you can't tell the boys from the girls. A provocative book for all public and college libraries." E. T. Smith

Library J 93:202 Ja 15 '68 210w

"Are cats becoming more popular than dogs? . . . Why aren't there as many famous red-haired actresses as there used to be? Because red is the color of sex. Are men's gloves getting lighter and sleeker? Is women's luggage getting tougher and bulkier? . . . This litany of trivia is well-written and sprinkled with facts and insights of some interest. The phenomenal increase, for example, in 'unnatural' acts among married couples, or the evidence that TV is playing Scheherazade's role in blunting the lusts of its listeners. But the author has let his encyclopedic tastes (and too often his imagination) run away with him; the book as a whole is less than the sum of its interminable parts."

R. W. Stock

N Y Times Bk R p30 Je 30 '68 230w

WINN, CYRIL. Aristotle: his thought and its relevance today [by] Cyril Winn and Maurice Jacks. 114p il $4.50; pa $2.35 Barnes & Noble 370.1 Aristotle [67-80295]

"Aristotle's comments on ethics and on educational matters are . . . classified and summarized at the beginning of each chapter, then applied item by item to the contemporary educational scene in Great Britain." (Class World) Index.

"The title of the book is misleading. It does not present the thought of Aristotle generally but merely quotes some passages relevant to education from the Politics and the Nicomachean Ethics. It examines the applicability of Aristotle's (and also Plato's) ideas to the education of the young and to continuing education through adult life in our time. Aristotle laid emphasis on education for leisure. . . . What are we doing to help modern emancipated man make effective use of his leisure? . . . The problem is well known, but we need a reevaluation of Aristotle's conception of education for leisure in order to overcome the prejudice against it fostered by John Dewey. No formal bibliography. The notes do not indicate familiarity with the important scholarship in the areas covered, and there is little in the work that is profound, exciting, or original."

Choice 4:994 N '67 280w

"The summaries are brief but for the most part adequate. However, their zeal to demonstrate relevance has led the authors to a degree of specificity which has seemed excessive even to English reviewers, and which makes large parts of the book simply irrelevant for American readers. The authors' knowledge of British education seems thorough, their material from Aristotle seems to derive from the texts, but in other matters the readers are referred to rather elementary secondary sources."

J. H. Turner

Class World 61:405 J1 22 '68 130w

WINSTON, RICHARD, jt. auth. Charlemagne. See Horizon magazine

WINT, GUY. The third killer; meditations on a stroke; foreword by David R. Coddon. 223p $5 Abelard-Schuman

616.8 Apoplexy

67-13456

Mr. Wint is "an expert on Asian affairs, an active and typical product of the English professional classes . . . who suffered a cerebral haemorrhage just after his 50th birthday. His book is an account of his affliction and recovery, interspersed with reflections on other prominent victims of the same disease, on his past life as he recaptured it during the enforced leisure of his convalescence, on the whole new mental landscape which his condition exposed." (New Statesman)

"With profound perception, [the author] has been able to distill meaning from his personal disaster, recalling vividly the most sensitive areas of its physical, mental and emotional impact. Although many books have recently documented the problems peculiar to stroke victims, these meditations plumb a mind made infinitely lonely by illness and a soul caught in an agonizing spiritual dilemma. Recommended for medical and large public library collections." C. E. Luciol

Library J 92:4014 N 1 '67 90w

"An undiluted self-exposure might be unbearable to read, but [Wint] is notably at his best when most personal; his own verbal confusions ('chairhorse' for 'hedgehog') was one of the most persistently bizarre) are worth more than his attempts to discover common characteristics in famous stroke victims, and his experiences with faith-healers and astrologers than some rather low-keyed discussions on the age we live in. . . . As a whole, the book is morbidly readable; Mr Wint's intelligence and clarity, as well as his subject, hold one's attention to the end." Francis Hope

New Statesman 69:407 Mr 12 '65 750w

"[Wint] criticizes the medical profession for its failure to realize the need of a patient to know what has happened, for its apparent lack of interest in symptoms which are purely subjective phenomena and for its inability to give any idea of what the future may hold. It is curious that these same criticisms were made by an American sufferer from a stroke, Eric Hodgins, in a book called Episode [BRD 1964].

Mr. Wint, however, is on more debatable ground when he contrasts the activity of the American treatment of a stroke with the English attitude of 'it is kindest to leave him in peace', surely a somewhat rare approach to find in these days when so much emphasis is placed on the importance of physical medicine and rehabilitation. . . . This book contains some interesting descriptions of notable sufferers from strokes both in life and in fiction and will take a worthy place in the growing number of books written by sufferers on their own experiences."

TLS p167 Mr 1 '65 370w

WINTER, ELMER L. Women at work; every woman's guide to successful employment (a rev. ed. of A woman's guide to earning a good living). 350p $5.95; pa $1.95 Simon & Schuster

371.42 Woman—Employment. Occupations. Vocational guidance 67-10520

This book "covers the 'why's' of working, how to qualify, the seven working stages in a woman's life, how to obtain and get the most out of a job, an analysis of the most sought-after fields, . . . [and] a chapter on owning one's own business, franchising, self-employment, direct to consumer selling, and work for the physically handicapped." (Choice) Bibliography. For the original edition see BRD 1962.

"The book is significant in indicating current trends and allowing each woman to identify with others in her situation. Realistic and sound in approach, up-to-date, and refreshing because it is honest, it gives information desperately needed but it does not oversell or picture the world of work with rose-colored glasses. Should be excellent for college courses, adult classes, and for the bewildered woman who, for whatever reason seeks employment."

Choice 5:468 Je '68 160w

Reviewed by Marian Veath

Library J 92:1160 Mr 15 '67 150w

WINTERNITZ, EMANUEL. Musical instruments of the Western world; phot. by Lilly Stunzl. 259p $30 McGraw

781.9 Musical instruments

66-24889

"The book begins with an essay on the form and function of these instruments, and an essay on their historical aspects; this is followed by a history of collecting, notes on organological literature and the classification of instruments. . . . The body of the book is a descriptive catalogue of, or comments on, the instruments seen in the photographs, instruments which are 'pleasing to the eye as well as to the ear.' They range from a Gothic crecelle (a wheel-rattle used to replace the church bells at Passion time) to a mid-19th-century grand piano." (Mus Q) Bibliography. Index.

"The bulk of [the] book is made up of 100 photographs in color and black and white. . . . This is one of the most beautiful books I have ever seen, and it will be of great help for the student studying the history of musical instruments. Highly recommended for libraries with established music collections." A. B. Skei

Library J 92:3985 N 1 '67 120w

"Dr. Winternitz, custodian of the Crosby Brown Collection of Musical Instruments of the Metropolitan Museum of Art . . . has produced a book which is an art work itself, from the dust jacket depicting a hunting horn made of clay and adorned with gleaming faience in a beautiful blue and white Delft floral design, to the end papers reproducing eight 16th-century woodcuts by Tobias Stimmer. . . . [The photographs] are masterpieces not only of photography, but of composition as well. Some show several instruments grouped and staged, so to speak, in settings of furniture and draperies of exquisite taste, which emphasize the resplendent milieu for which these luxurious instruments were made. Another word of commendation must be accorded to the reproduction of these photographs. They are the last word in color printing. . . . In describing them the author, a rare polyhistorian, draws on his inexhaustible store of an intimate knowledge of history, literature, music, painting, carving, cabinet making, metal-work, and inventions in various fields. An amazing knowledge!" Egon Kenton

Mus Q 54:255 Ap '68 1400w

WINTERS, YVOR. Forms of discovery: critical & historical essays on the forms of the short poem in English. 377p $8.95 Swallow. A.
821 English poetry—History and criticism
66-30433

In the first chapter the late professor of English at Stanford University "examines the short poem as it was developed in the sixteenth century. . . . The second chapter is an . . . account of Charles Churchill (1731-1764), an attempt to establish him as a major poet. . . . The third chapter . . . is concerned with the mediocrity of the short poem in the Dark Ages, the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. The fourth chapter deals with Hardy, Bridges, T. Sturge Moore, and Yeats; the fifth, with Tuckerman, Emily Dickinson, and Stevens; the sixth, largely, with Mr. Cunningham. The last chapter glances at Pound, Williams, Miss Moore, Eliot, Allen Tate, E. A. Robinson, Adelaide Crapsey, Janet Lewis, Elizabeth Daryush, Alan Stephens, and Thom Gunn." (N Y Rev of Books) Some portions of this book have appeared previously in such publications as Poetry and The Southern Review. Index of poets and critics.

"[Winters'] devotion to the great poets of the past—and present—informs the volume. [He] prints an almost totally unknown 16th century sonnet by Mark Alexander Boyd (which Ezra Pound called 'the most beautiful sonnet in the language') simply so that it shall not perish from our literature. He remarks that, 'if Bridges survives, he will have my talent to thank as well as his own, and I might never have been born.' Though arrogant, the statement is true. Winters was one of the few critics with the ability to read through the 1,500-page collected works of an overproductive poet and pick out the half dozen good poems. He was one of the few critics with the temerity to trust his own judgment, for he knew that the significant history of poetry must deal with the great poems, not with the merely typical or familiar ones. . . . Despite the bitter irony of Winters' asides to the establishment, the book is really addressed to present Wintersians and to posterity. It scorns apology and explanation, and will, as Winters knew, win him no converts." Howard Kaye

New Repub 158:32 Mr ■ '68 300w

"There is no limit to the sublime fatuity of the provincial dominie, and you can print anything as literary criticism nowadays. The odd thing is that Mr. Winters is not always thus. His earlier work (collected as In Defence of Reason) [BRD 1947] contains some unsympathetic but powerful criticism of modernist poetry, and some fine things on American literature. Even in this volume there is a valuable long essay exploring the by-ways of 16th-century poetry. . . . But his method was never very sound, and a bad method inveterately pursued leads to progressively worse results. In Winters's eyes the only good poems are those that clearly enunciate propositions which he can understand and approve straight off, without effort, without surrender, and without imagination. . . . A further limitation is that the metre must go ti-tum ti-tum ti-tum. Winters has a bad ear for rhythm, but he is a great one for hunting out extra syllables and misplaced trochees. He has no conception of a poem as a whole: lines 1 to 7 are passable, there is a good bit at the end of stanza three, but stanza five is again deplorable, etc. By this procedure most poems naturally come out about beta query minus." Graham Hough

New Statesman 75:15 Ja 5 '68 800w

"It is difficult to be just to the book. Many paragraphs are painful to read, and would be tolerable only in an autobiography. . . . Over the past forty years, I am ready to believe, [Winters] has sustained injury and contempt from men who were not fit to tie his shoelaces. Now celebrated, he recalls every insult. . . . It is impossible to play Solomon to these occasions, beyond saying that it is a pity to see a man of Mr. Winters's stature so constantly exasperated. . . . I am sorry, for instance, that he abuses Thomas H. Johnson, the Editor of Emily Dickinson's poems, for what is at worst an error of judgment in the treatment of doubtful signs. Mr. Winters's own record is not impeccable: one page of the chapter on Mr. Cunningham contains five errors, makes a complete mess of a quoted poem and a mess only less complete of a passage in prose. . . . I am sorry, too, that Mr. Winters seems more interested in telling us, as Churchill said of Warburton, 'where Pope was wrong, where Shakespeare was not right' than in showing forth the good work." Denis Donoghue

N Y Rev of Books 10:22 F 29 '68 3000w

TLS p106 F 1 '68 2000w

WINTERTON, PAUL. See Garve, A.

WISBESKI, DOROTHY. The true story of Okee the otter. 136p il $3.75 Farrar, Straus
599 Otters—Juvenile literature 67-25679

The author of Okee; the Story of an Otter in the House (BRD 1964) presents "a shorter, simpler book, completely rewritten" for younger readers. Okee is a South American otter who was raised in the Wisbeskis' home in New Jersey. Mrs. Wisbeski, children's librarian at Bound Brook Memorial Library, tells about the care of the otter, his habits and play and how Okee and the family dog became friends. . . . Grades four to six." (Library J)

"Dorothy Wisbeski relates the adventures of a squirming, plucky, mischievous imp that for five years has turned her home into a circus. . . . The Wisbeskis, including the patient dog Trouper, soon learn they haven't acquired a pet; Okee has acquired them. The story is told in simple text and wonderful photographs." Book World p10 D 31 '67 180w

Reviewed by A. D. Schweibish
Library J 92:3857 O 15 '67 100w

WISE, DAVID. The espionage establishment [by] David Wise and Thomas B. Ross. 308p $5.95 Random house
327 Secret service. Spies 67-22644

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Economist 228:47 J1 27 '68 320w

Reviewed by Sumi Yamashita
Library J 92:897 F 15 '68 120w

Reviewed by Arthur Calder-Marshall
New Statesman 76:115 J1 26 '68 150w
TLS p863 Ag 15 '68 490w

WISE, L. F., ed. Kings, rulers and statesmen: comp. and ed. by L. F. Wise and E. W. Egan. 446p il $4.95; lib bdg $4.89 Sterling
920.02 Kings and rulers. Statesmen 67-16020

"Kings, rulers, and statesmen of all modern, most foreign, and many dependent states are in this book which is arranged alphabetically by country with page headings and . . . cross references; the text is supplemented by . . . 700 small black-and-white illustrations." (Library J)

"The chronology and biographical notes will enable stamp, coin, and other collectors to locate major statesmen of all ages in the chronology of their country, and the book may serve as a starting point for high school students and the general inquirer seeking rapid identification of historical names and dates of tenure in office. While data contained here are available in scattered other sources, this convenient compilation will serve the collector's specialized interests in home and school libraries and at telephone reference desks." P. R. Penland

Library J 93:1885 My 1 '68 110w

"Sweden begins with Egil in 500, Malawi with Jones in 1964, and Macedonia stops with Perseus in 163 B.C. Short historical notes supply essential details and explain such phenomena as the jumps in Israel's dates from 44 to 1099 and from 1244 to 1948. Portraits, works of art, stamps, and coins illustrate the book's 446 pages." D. M. Glixon

Sat R 50:38 N 18 '67 70w

Social Studies 59:236 O '68 60w

WISE, S. F. Canada views the United States: nineteenth-century political attitudes, by S. F. Wise and Robert Craig Brown; with an introd. by Richard A. Preston and a commentary by David M. Potter. 139p $4.95 Univ. of Wash. press

301.2 U.S.—Foreign opinion. Canada—Politics and government 67-28046

The introductory chapter of this study presents "the Canadian image of the United States today. . . . [Wise] provides a developmental account of Canadian opinion about [political activity in] the United States from 1812 to 1867, and Craig Brown does the same for the period 1867 to 1914. David Potter . . . operates as a 'control,' commenting on the work of Wise and Brown." (Am Hist R) Index.

"This research has demonstrated that . . . there was scarcely any evidence of a generous appreciation . . . on the part of Canadians toward their neighbors. All, or almost all, of the Canadian critique is made up of bitterness and hostility masking defensive attitudes. . . . Wise says that 'unquestionably' many Canadians were sympathetic to American institutions. But they do not appear in the record, for here we have only that 'politically effective minority,' whose articulate quality makes public opinion studies so insecure. This is a useful and an original work, and, though . . . from an American point of view provocative, surely the concluding pages . . . constitute the highlight of the book." G. S. Brown

Am Hist R 73:1683 Je '68 460w

Choice 5:1364 D '68 130w

"This small book derives from two papers read at . . . the American Historical Association [meeting in 1965]. . . . The book suffers from the restraints imposed upon it by its origins. It covers barely a century . . . and that very unevenly. . . . The dual authorship has its drawbacks. Where Wise generally elects to follow a narrative, Brown forsakes chronology and detailed examination of periodic controversy for an analytical treatment. . . . Both men are limited by their materials, and so the view of the habitant . . . is presented only by implication. . . . [Within these] constraints, however, Wise and Brown have made a solid, if minor, contribution to Canadian historical studies. . . . [These essays] demonstrate again the importance of the dynamic and threatening presence of the United States in the development of Canadian nationalism." Herbert Curry
J Am Hist 55:437 S '68 250w

WISE, WILLIAM. Killer smog; the world's worst air pollution disaster. 181p $5.95 Rand McNally

614 Air—Pollution 68-14638

An "account of London's smog episode of December 1952. . . . Three sections comprise the book: a brief introductory statement on the history of London's air pollution from the time of Elizabeth I; an hour-by-hour account of the deadly December smoggy period; and a short review of the aftermath and attempts to develop effective air pollution controls." (Choice) Bibliography.

"A journalistic account . . . in the tradition of George Stewart's Fire [BRD 1948] and Storm [BRD 1941]. Attention is focused primarily on sources of air pollution and its effects upon the people of London. It is written simply in almost a reportorial style. . . . For an informed general audience."

Choice 5:1168 N '68 70w

"[The author] draws on actual events and people, using fictionalized names, to dramatize the events, day by day. . . . He mentions the smogs of major American cities and stresses that a pollution tragedy of equal or greater proportions awaits many of our major cities if nothing is done to prevent it. The book contains little technical material to hinder the general reader, and is recommended for public libraries." S. M. Lewis

Library J 93:1155 Mr 15 '68 250w

Reviewed by Carol Tefft

Library J 93:2743 Jl '68 70w [YA]

WISE, WINIFRED E. Fanny Kemble: actress, author, abolitionist. 222p lib bdg $3.29 Putnam
B or 92 Kemble, Frances Anne—Juvenile literature 67-276

A biography of "the daughter of England's . . . noted theatrical family. [who] made her stage debut at the age of nineteen. . . . became the toast of both England and America. [married] . . . a slaveowner, and . . . [wrote] Journal of a Residence on a Georgian Plantation in 1838-9." (Publisher's note) "Grades six to eight." (Library J)

Reviewed by Henrietta Buckmaster

Christian Science Monitor pB9 My 4 '67 180w

"An interesting, well-written biography of a remarkable 19th-century Englishwoman. By skillfully weaving into the body of the text excerpts from Fanny's own writings, the author brings to life this brilliant, compassionate, and courageous woman." Lydia LaFleur

Library J 92:4635 D 15 '67 40w

WISE, WINIFRED E. Fray Junipero Serra and the California conquest. 184p il lib bdg $3.63 Scribner

B or 92 Serra, Junipero—Juvenile literature. Missions—Juvenile literature. California—History—Juvenile literature 67-24925

The story of the founder of the California missions and leader of the first colonization of the west coast. Glossary. Index. "Grade seven and up." (Library J)

Best Sell 27:431 F 1 '67 70w

"Fray Junipero Serra . . . was fortunate to have Fray Palou as a lifelong friend and companion in the missionary field, for Palou's biography of the strongwilled, farsighted priest is valuable source material. This book quotes heavily from Palou and, as a result, is . . . a scholarly presentation for young readers. . . . Since the author shares Palou's intense admiration for Serra, it is sometimes difficult to separate text from quotations. Because of the usage of primary material, this is an important book for libraries needing source material and, of course, especially useful for California libraries." Dorothy English

Library J 92:4629 D 15 '67 110w

WISEMAN, H. V., comp. Parliament and the executive: an analysis with readings. 271p $6.50 Humanities press

328.42 Great Britain. Parliament. Executive power—Great Britain. Great Britain—Politics and government [66-2631]

"A book of readings organized by the conventional topics: sovereignty of Parliament, collective and individual ministerial responsibility, dissolution, power of the Cabinet, role of the House of Commons, role of the opposition, party and Parliament, the private member, legislation, finance, questions, committees. The readings in each section are designed to convey historical as well as contemporary perspectives on each subject. . . . Wiseman's argument is that, inter alia, the 'decline of Parliament' question is wrongly considered against a shortlived and now mythical age of Parliamentary supremacy." (Choice)

"All the well-known authors are present, and those who are not represented in the readings, e.g. Crick, Mackintosh, make timely appearances in a necessarily schematic, but very cogent and pertinent introduction. . . . The advantages of this reader is that it departs from the strictly 'constitutional' approach, although the constitutional-institutional view prevails. The major disadvantage—methodological perspectives aside—is that 120 selections in 224 pages is too much. The book has scope, but no depth. Insofar as positions are stated and not argued, the book is most useful as a reference. . . . Given the absence of comparable collections on executive-legislative relations, Wiseman's book should be in most libraries serving undergraduate courses in comparative politics."

Choice 3:1183 F '67 200w

"[An] admirable and concise historical and critical study of the power shifts and procedural evolutions that have led to the present discontents. . . . [Wiseman's] introduction is supported by an anthology of extracts running from the great Blackstone to Mr. Michael Ryle, one of the present young clerks in the House of Commons, from such constitutional authorities as Dicey to such masters of parliamentary procedure as Lord Morrison of Lambeth and Lord Winterton."

TLS p255 Mr 31 '66 1250w

WISEMAN, THOMAS. Journey of a man. 329p $4.95 Doubleday

67-19093

This novel describes the experiences of a man in search of a purpose in life. "He had been thirteen when the Anschluss came—when, with his mother, he had begun the long flight to Switzerland, to France and, finally, to America. Now he is haunted by memories . . . of the docile way in which so many of his people—including his own father—went to their deaths. . . . [Peter Stellmann is] uncommitted to anything except his love for his wife, Marisa . . . whose eagerness for life he envies but cannot share. . . . [He] searches for the cure to the malaise, the fear, which is possessing him and destroying him. . . . A beautiful, amoral young English girl draws them into the dolce vita of

WISEMAN, THOMAS—Continued

Italian society. . . . [This journey through Vienna, Geneva and Rome] leads him to self-discovery." (Publisher's note)

"In general, the story is too slow-moving and the characters are too busy with self-analysis to generate any real enthusiasm for them. The only interesting parts of the volume are the flashbacks to the days of the Anschluss. . . . Some of the descriptions of Rome are also quite good. Otherwise, the story has little to recommend it. Most of it has been told before and by more capable hands. As happens so often in modern novels, sex and love are used as synonyms, and so a most valuable dimension in human personality is slighted. The characters are constantly haunted by a fear of death and pain. . . . All told, this is a mediocre volume with a few bright spots." Charles Dollen

Best Sell 27:284 O 15 '67 360w

"The reader never learns positively whether or not Peter is successful, but assumes he is from the final chapter. More than half the story is a flashback on Peter's former life. The details of his boyhood in Vienna, the summer home in the country, and the horror of being a Jew in Austria in 1938 are the best parts. Those parts dealing with his bachelor life in New York, with every sexual adventure carefully detailed, are not so good, and the story of the present is poorly written. . . . A commendable effort by Mr. Wiseman and we wish him better luck next time." S. L. Mott

Library J 92:3058 S 15 '67 220w

Reviewed by Martin Levin

N Y Times Bk R p62 O 8 '67 190w

"This is a novel that calls for the pruning hook. Much too often the dialogue is allowed to burble on into triviality and repetitiveness.

The parallelism between Stellmann's predicament (so to call it) and his father's much stickier one is laboured. And there are the usual orgies-in-close-up. A strong and deeply felt theme lurks here, but the bindweed of current cliché throttles the life out of it."

TLS p364 Ap 27 '67 220w

WISHY, BERNARD. The child and the Republic; the dawn of modern American child nurture. 205p il $6.95 Univ. of Pa. press

649 Children—Management. Child study

67-26223

Tracing the history of child nurture from 1830-1900, the author aims to show "the desire of American parents to instill the highest moral virtues in their children and at the same time prepare them for the hustling world of commerce [which] shows up generation after generation. This tug-of-war between morality and materialism, with the child at the center, is illustrated with quotations from contemporary child-rearing [theorists] . . . as well as with . . . excerpts from the popular children's literature of the day." (N Y Times Bk R) Bibliography. Index.

"On a remarkably interesting subject, Mr. Wishy has written a brilliant survey—almost a model for a university press book: witty as well as scholarly, neither an act of specialization nor of oversimplification. He has had the persistence and the sensitivity to make visible, in the end, the breathtaking and rather awful hope every American parent conceals in his heart: That 'the innocent child, properly raised,' will redeem the American dream." Melvin Maddocks

Christian Science Monitor p5 D 28 '67 800w

Reviewed by T. L. Smith

J Am Hist 55:393 S '68 650w

"This history comfortably demonstrates that the American 'identity crisis' is not a creation of the 1960's. Its roots lie far back, when parents and theorists first started debating over children and what should be made of them in our society."

N Y Times Bk R p40 Ap 21 '68 200w

Reviewed by John Calam

Sat R 51:56 J1 20 '68 120w

Va Q R 44:cxxxii summer '68 120w

WISKEMANN, ELIZABETH. The Europe I saw. 255p $4.95 St Martins

940.5 Europe—Politics and government. Europe—Civilization 68-22152

The author recounts her travels as a "student-turned-journalist, as a historian watching and describing history being made—through Germany, . . . Austria, central and eastern Europe in the thirties; in Switzerland during the war; in Italy and Hungary afterwards." (Economist) Index.

"Miss Wiskemann combines the always rare qualities of warmth and humaneness unmarred by sentimentality. . . . [Her book] is immensely instructive, yet written in an unassuming and understated manner. Only once does she occupy center stage: when, in 1936, she was arrested by the Gestapo and expelled from Germany."

. . . Her book includes conversations with Adam von Trott zu Solz of the German resistance, and a Nazi baroness; Thomas Masaryk, the founder of the Czech Republic, and Konrad Henlein, the leader of the Sudeten Germans; Bernard Berenson and an Italian maid. This seemingly casual chronicle is a capsule history of Nazi-infested Europe from 1930 to the post-war years. . . . [and] is an uncommonly satisfying book." Peter Jacobson

Book World p16 O 27 '68 750w

"[The author] worked alongside that small and remarkable band of especially British correspondents who really knew the countries they wrote from, the people and the places as well as the politics, the history, the culture and the ways of life. She wrote, as she writes and remembers now, with lucidity and understanding. Yet, for all this, she does not really bring out what went wrong and why."

Economist 226:42 F 10 '68 270w

"[The author] blends the product of meticulous scholarly research with information and insights that no documentary source could provide. . . . She not only 'saw' Europe but, equally important, listened and felt. . . . The pages devoted to Switzerland are among the best. . . . The variety of experience and range of acquaintance in this book are astounding. . . . It is sad that at times [the] narrative has to turn into something near to a bare string of names, and that many of her vivid portraits are sketched in so tantalizing few lines."

TLS p226 Mr 7 '68 1150w

WISKEMANN, ELIZABETH. Undeclared war. 2d ed 332p $7.50 St Martins

940.5 Germany—Foreign relations. Europe—Politics—1914-1945 67-16191

This book was originally published under the title Prologue to War (BRD 1940). It "was written in the summer of 1939 just before Hitler's attack on Poland. The author has now added a new introduction explaining how she came to write the book, and dealing with one or two aspects of conditions before the war on which her views have changed in the light of subsequent experience." (Economist)

"[The first edition] was not published until after Hitler's invasion of Poland and by October the entire question was academic. The book was hardly noticed. Miss Wiskemann . . . has revised the original edition to a small degree, but only by correcting some few technical errors and mistakes. Her 1967 preface reaffirms most of her earlier claims and impressions. The book is worthwhile as an interesting contemporary account of pre-war events in Europe. . . . [However] once again the book is somewhat outdated." J. L. Earl

Best Sell 27:297 N 1 '67 300w

Choice 4:1308 Ja '68 170w

Economist 224:795 S 2 '67 60w

"Miss Wiskemann's book [is] . . . a continuation of her Czechs and Germans [BRD 1967]. . . . It is a picture of a Europe overawed by the German titan, and Miss Wiskemann shows how easy it was for the Germans after their Munich triumph to penetrate into eastern Europe. . . . The few brief months in 1939 dealt with by Miss Wiskemann have been much disregarded by historians and we must be very grateful that a second edition of [this work] has now appeared."

TLS p208 F 29 '68 390w

WIT, DANIEL. Thailand: another Vietnam? 205p maps $4.95 Scribner

959.3 Thailand 68-17358

The author suggests that "Thailand doesn't have to become another Vietnam, but it may, and he has written 191 pages of history, description, and comment to make the point that unless the Thai governmental machine can in time bring about what he considers the necessary adjustments and reforms to put Thailand definitely into the second half of the twentieth century, the Communist insurgency, sponsored by mainland China and North Vietnam, may succeed." (Sat R) Bibliography. Index.

"Wit has prepared the best recent study for anyone interested in learning about Thailand's future. He has examined the revolutionary challenge to the Thai state, the factors that motivate the social, political, and military leadership, the chances of change directed from the top, and has offered an evaluation of the efforts by the Thai leadership to provide change."

Choice 5:1370 D '68 100w

"Wit answers his title's question vaguely. . . . He asks for minimization of communist violence and for internal developments which would produce a strong and independent Thailand. We wonder."

Christian Century 85:723 My 29 '68 30w

Reviewed by Collin Clark

Library J 93:2667 J1 '68 90w

"Wit's answer to the question posed in the title of his book is not as categorical as some would like, but it is probably not far from the truth. . . . [It] is a serious account of what we are up against in our attempt to help the developing nations of Southeast Asia maintain their independence and political stability, meet their economic and social needs more adequately, and create conditions whereby the people can have a greater voice in government. Dr. Wit deals almost exclusively with the problems of the Thai themselves. . . . However, it is impossible for one aware of the hundreds of millions of dollars [the United States] have spent on military and economic aid to read this book without wondering whether the complexities in dealing with these very attractive people in this transitional period of their history have been adequately understood." J. M. Allison

Sat R 51:29 Je 15 '68 1150w

WIT, H. C. D. DE. Plants of the world; v2, The higher plants; tr. by A. J. Pomerans. 340p il col il $17.50 Dutton

581 Plants

(66-25815)

With this continuation of Plants of the World: The Higher Plants I (BRD 1967), "Professor de Wit, who teaches plant taxonomy at Wageningen (Agricultural University) in Holland completes his presentation of 261 plant families and about 4500 species arranged in systematic botanical order. He gives information about where the plants grow, how they increase, their uses as drugs, poisons, foods, and for other purposes, and includes much lore and superstition about them. In volume II he begins with the Myrtales in the Dicotyledons, completes the Dicotyledons with the Compositae and then presents the Monocotyledons from the Alismataceae to the Typhaceae." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

Choice 5:328 My '68 160w

"[This volume] equals in every way the excellent standards of its predecessor. Superb reproductions of fine photographs illustrate and illuminate a splendid text. Together, the two volumes provide a survey of the flowering plants of the world in language easily understood by intelligent laymen. These volumes . . . should prove of particular value to gardeners, nature students, teachers of biology and botany, conservationists, and all concerned with the human environment. . . . This superb book is most highly recommended." Elizabeth Hall

Library J 93:91 Ja 1 '68 180w

WITHERS, CARL, comp. A world of nonsense; strange and humorous tales from many lands; il. by John E. Johnson. 118p $4.50; lib bdg $3.97 Holt

398.2 Folklore—Juvenile literature 68-11838

"From 17 cultures, Withers has chosen 50 folk tales, the criterion for inclusion being their pure nonsense. Tall tales, lying contests, and numbskull stories are represented, some familiar in theme, . . . some unfamiliar in themselves but echoing well-known variants. . . . Grades four to seven." (Library J)

"Much of the humor has a subtlety which gears the book to a slightly older audience than [M.] Leach's Noodles, Nitwits and

Numbskulls [BRD 1962]. There is much here for the storyteller, all of it as faithful to the original versions as possible." Dorothy Gunzenhauser

Library J 93:2117 My 15 '68 140w

"The collector defines these folk tales as sharing 'a humorous and sometimes very strange quality of exaggeration.' They come from all parts of the world—Iceland, Mali, East Texas—and show that it's human nature to get a laugh out of absurdity. . . . The crazy stories, plus the enlightening notes and comments, make the book interesting and entertaining." Jerome Beatty

N Y Times Bk R p24 Ag 25 '68 180w

WITTENBERG, RUDOLPH M. The troubled generation; toward understanding and helping the young adult. 192p $4.95 Assn. press

155.5 Youth. Adjustment (Psychology)

67-10933

"The book is addressed to parents and people working with this age group. Wittenberg, psychoanalyst and consultant to youth agencies, builds the book around case study descriptions of six young adults. Other parts deal with obstacles to understanding by adults and a description of the post adolescents' psychological and social-historical world. . . . The last section is on ways of working with troubled youth." (Choice)

"[A] description of post adolescents' problems and how adults may help has been a neglected topic. No comparable general treatment . . . is known. . . . [This] book applies the work of Freud and Erikson in a clear and interesting way that would be understandable and acceptable to most people. It is uncertain how college students would respond: whether they would read it and what they would think if they did. Given the proper introduction and the chance to talk it over, this book would be useful for the college student."

Choice 5:128 Mr '68 200w

"The [book's] focus is not on the typical post-adolescent but on those having such difficulty moving into adulthood that they are in need of professional treatment. . . . [Dr. Wittenberg] stresses that before young adults can be helped they must recognize that they have a problem, be ready to do something about it, and establish a relationship with someone who can help them. He has little to say about the difficult problem of helping young adults to recognize their problems so that they can begin to proceed toward rehabilitation." M. A. Forslund

Library J 92:1948 My 15 '67 200w

WITTGENSTEIN, LUDWIG. Letters from Ludwig Wittgenstein; with a Memoir [by] Paul Engelmann [tr. by L. Furtmüller; ed. by B. F. McGuinness]. 150p $5 Horizon press

193 Philosophy, Modern

68-14711

This book reproduces fifty-four letters from Wittgenstein to Engelmann spanning the years 1916-1937. Both the original German and the English are included. The memoir describes "the young Wittgenstein . . . [and deals] with religious questions and Wittgenstein's literary and musical tastes. In chapter 4 [are observations on] the Tractatus." (Publisher's note) Index.

"Though Paul Engelmann's profession was architecture, he devoted considerable time and interest to philosophy and literature. His friendship with Wittgenstein seems to have been very close. . . . His account of Wittgenstein's relations with the intellectual circle at Olmütz affords the researcher many personal glimpses unavailable elsewhere. Mr. Engelmann's brief interpretation of some themes of the Tractatus are also valuable, primarily because they are based upon conversations with Wittgenstein. . . . [Most of the letters] are quite short and reveal little except the moods of the philosopher, but a few of the longer letters contain material of philosophical significance. . . . [This little book] deserves a place in comprehensive philosophy collections." J. K. Amrhein

Library J 93:2502 Je 15 '68 150w

"The letters which comprise this volume, and the recollections which follow them . . . are almost entirely empty of interest. . . . Engelmann's little history gives us no more of the man than they do. . . . Engelmann's preoccupied with himself. He is full of wind-up, but has little pitch, and his discussions of the Tractatus, though he mentions some unarguably important things, are incomplete, vague, and misleading. . . . Nevertheless, [he] is right to call attention to the moral and aesthetic side of the Tractatus, for these things have not received the attention they deserve." W. H. Gass

WITTGENSTEIN, LUDWIG—Continued

New Repub 158:29 Je 22 '68 1300w
 TLS p1024 S 12 '68 380w

WITTGENSTEIN, LUDWIG. Zettel; ed. by G. E. M. Anscombe and G. H. von Wright; tr. by G. E. M. Anscombe. $6.95 Univ. of Calif. press
 193 Philosophy 67-17113

"The Zettel, as the editors explain, was derived from 'a collection of fragments made by Wittgenstein himself and left by him in a file-box.' Of the items that the editors were able to date, the earliest was composed in 1929, the latest in 1948. The bulk of the material, however, was taken from typescripts dictated by Wittgenstein between 1945 and 1948." (Yale R) The collection is gathered here in the original German with facing pages of English translation.

"The editors have put together . . . a remarkably cohesive book. Anscombe's translation repeats the high quality achieved in [Wittgenstein's] Philosophical Investigations [BRD 1954]. . . . This volume, together with the recent publication of Philosophische Bemerkungen in German, serves as an extension of the Investigations in both form and content. . . . The work is in keeping with his aim, expressed in the Investigations, not 'to spare other people the trouble of thinking, but if possible to stimulate someone to thoughts of his own.' He provides stimulation—and frustration—in his explorations into issues of mind, mathematics, and language, with some delightfully terse remarks about the thoughts of others. . . . One of the more important volumes in the Wittgenstein literature and a most desirable library acquisition. Good editorial notes correlating specific slips to other works."

Choice 5:66 Mr '68 200w

"If [Wittgenstein] was not the greatest philosopher of our age, he was the most significant. He founded (inadvertently) and disowned (with glaring, insulted eyes) two major philosophies. . . . It is only Wittgenstein's writing in the middle of his career that gives one fits—the part that gave birth (to his regret) to linguistic analysis, philosophy's darkest night. The early work—the Tractatus—is lucid and powerful. The newly discovered Zettel can only be compared to the fragments of Heraclitus. Indeed, Wittgenstein admired all his life the epigrams of the acid-tongued Lichtenberg, and felt that thought was basically perception. . . . It is clear that the Zettel are a return to the manner of the Tractatus, back to the archaic period of philosophy, back before the talkative charm of Socrates. . . . The more we read Wittgenstein the more we feel that he is before Heraclitus, that he deliberately began an infinite recession (in order, of course, to go forward when he found a footing)." Guy Davenport

Nat R 20:249 Mr 12 '68 950w

"Although Wittgenstein worked over this material . . . he left no indication of his ultimate purpose in making this collection. Given these facts, there is surely a risk involved in publishing these fragments. It will give prominence to ideas whose exact status in Wittgenstein's thought is simply unknown and (heaven help us) may even foster a myth of Wittgenstein's esoteric teachings. But these worries are more than cancelled by the overriding fact that the Zettel contains writing of the very highest philosophical quality. Furthermore, much of this material will help to illuminate just those regions of Wittgenstein's thought that have previously been most difficult to understand. . . . Although the editors should be commended for publishing this important material, the edition itself contains some serious flaws. No index is provided. . . . More seriously, the editors have given no indication of Wittgenstein's own organization of the material nor have they supplied dates for passages that can be so identified. The upshot of these omissions is that the text is simply useless for scholarly studies of the development of Wittgenstein's thought." Yale R 57:VIII O '67 850w

WITTIG, GLENN R., Jr. ed. Radical theology: phase two. See Christian, C. W.

WODEHOUSE, P. G. Do butlers burgle banks? 191p $4.50 Simon & Schuster

68-22974

"This novel concerns Horace Appleby, 'a bogus butler who sets out to burgle a Worcestershire bank [to save it from ruin].' (Time)

Reviewed by W. B. Hill

America 119:564 N 30 '68 50w

Best Sell 28:210 Ag 15 '68 250w

Reviewed by M. K. Grant

Library J 93:3583 O 1 '68 20w

Reviewed by Martin Levin

N Y Times Bk R p31 Ag 4 '68 130w

"Which came first, P. G. Wodehouse or the English butler? Wodehouse's publishers confess they are not even certain whether he is 87 years old and has written a million books, or a million years old and has written 87 books. . . . Connoisseurs of the old master's brand of daffy brouhaha will savor [this novel] to the last page. For those who don't trust any writer over 80—well, maybe they should sample a little vintage Wodehouse first, like a whiff of Carry On, Jeeves! [BRD 1927], or the tiniest dollop of Love Among the Chickens." Time 92:72 Ag 16 '68 110w

"With one fairly important reservation, this is the best Wodehouse novel of the present decade, above all because it seems the most spontaneous. Though the setting and apparatus are close to those of the other books . . . the entire cast is for once unfamiliar. Possibly as a result of this the reader never feels that the author is straining to be funny. . . . The reservation concerns the ending, which is untidy and incomplete. Otherwise it is a strikingly neat plot, which would (and no doubt will) make a first-rate comic film. . . . The organization of the various entrances and exits and twists and turns of the story is as brilliant as anything the author has done. The writing is so fresh as to suggest that he thoroughly enjoyed himself. The suggestion is infectious." TLS p1097 O 3 '68 220w

WOJCIECHOWSKA, MAIA. A single light. 149p $3.50; to libs & schools $3.27 Harper

67-19625

"Until she was fifteen, the girl had nothing. Born deaf and dumb, she lived without love; her mother was dead and her father despised her, and the superstitious people of her Andalusian village thought the girl no better than an animal. Only one thing she had loved, a baby she had taken care of—so it was no wonder that when the girl found a statue of a Child hidden behind the church altar, she felt this was her own secret baby to cherish. . . . Ages twelve to fifteen." (Sat R)

"[The novel] concludes with a miracle of understanding and regeneration which some readers may find a little too pat. Maia Wojciechowska's message of love and understanding is somewhat impaired by didacticism and oversimplification. And yet, although her new book is not entirely successful, it is a far better one than most, which are less ambitious and do succeed." Edward Fenton

Book World p22 (children's issue) My 1 '68 270w

Horn Bk 44:331 Je '68 230w

Reviewed by Bernice Levine

Library J 93:2738 J1 '68 100w

"I read [this book] twice, to see whether it was as fine as it seemed. It was even better. Basically a parable, [it is] a message of love and need. . . . The overtones in [the novel] defy synopsis. The finale, in the hands of a less skillful craftsman, could have seemed overdone, even spurious. Here, it is both austere and moving. The whole tale moves and flows, like life. Hope for the future of man is its essence." J. R. Tunis

N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p3 My 5 '68 500w

"The story is wonderfully convincing, its somber yet tender mood sustained—up to a point. With the second theme [of the statue] the book becomes fragmented, the mood broken: an American comes searching for the statue and, when the girl runs away with it, he precipitates a mercenary and ugly riot in which the villagers, who had hoped the statue would bring tourists and prosperity, commit murder." Zena Sutherland

Sat R 51:42 My 11 '68 170w

WOJCIECHOWSKA, MAIA. Tuned out; a novel. 125p $3.50 Harper

68-24335

This novel by the author of the 1965 Newbery Medal prizewinner Shadow of a Bull (BRD 1964, 1965) is set in New York in the summer of 1967 and is concerned with drug addiction among young people. Sixteen-year-old Jim "is horrified to learn that his brother has been taking LSD and marijuana; after he tries the latter, Jim is all the more determined that he must make Kevin quit. . . . The boys' parents have no idea of what's going on until Kevin is taken to a hospital after Jim, alone with his brother, has witnessed the agony of a bad trip. . . . Ages twelve to sixteen." (Sat R)

Reviewed by Ethna Sheehan

America 119:656 D 21 '68 170w

Best Sell 28:326 N 1 '68 110w [YA]

Reviewed by Robert Cross

Book World p13 D 29 '68 260w

"Maia Wojciechowska is definitely on the side of those who believe the teenage novel should do more than offer an hour or so's light entertainment. [This] is a tough troubling book, its terror for adults as well as children heightened by Miss Wojciechowska's considerable skill. To witness, as readers of this book must do, a boy struggling with a beloved older brother in the throes of a 'trip' so bad he loses his mind, is horribly unforgettable. The author is equally skillful in showing exactly the state of thought that might lead a youngster to drug experimentation." P. M.

Christian Science Monitor pB12 N 7 '68 150w [YA]

"[The] despair of the drug scene is conveyed in this excellent book without romance or sensation. . . . The journal tells more about Kevin's story. It reveals much about the family and about the complex relationship between the two boys. The author is so skillful that the narrator's own ambivalence and anger is effectively expressed, sometimes through subtle changes in the journal's style. The book offers no pat resolution." L. P. Scanlon

Commonweal 89:289 N 22 '68 190w

Reviewed by Jane Manthorne

Horn Bk 44:714 D '68 190w

Reviewed by C. H. Simonds

Nat R 20:1280 D 17 '68 110w

"[This is a] highly personalized story. . . . Nothing is fudged up; the sadder parts of the drug scene are left out (the sexual indiscretion common among female users, for example), but the essential story is told. . . . The story is vivid enough to need no moralizing. . . . The father and mother, as Jim sees them, don't come off too well. . . . I would not agree that [this book] should be a ready-reference work for parents [but] it is certainly worthwhile reading for young people." A. M. Feagles

N Y Times Bk R p42 N 24 '68 600w [YA]

Reviewed by Zena Sutherland

Sat R 51:70 N 9 '68 110w

WOLCOTT, CAROLYN, Jr. auth. Religions around the world. See Wolcott, L.

WOLCOTT, LEONARD. Religions around the world, by Leonard and Carolyn Wolcott. 191p col il $4.95 Abingdon

291 Religions—Juvenile literature 67-17382

"The authors outline the history, basic tenets, customs, and important personalities of the major world faiths. . . . The last chapter presents the emerging faiths in Asia and Africa, recent religions, such as Mormonism, humanism, and Christian Science, and discusses the 'substitute religions'—racism, nationalism, communism, etc. . . . A comparative chart outlines the basic beliefs of each faith on such questions as sin, salvation, etc. [Glossary. Index.] Grades five to seven." (Library J)

"Written in a pedestrian manner, this is a simple and objective account. Aimed at a younger audience than other similar works, [it] emphasizes the various creeds and so will supplement and precede . . . [L.] Baker's World Faiths [BRD 1966], the recent Story of World Religions by [K.] Savage [BRD 1967], as well as the Life magazine books on the great religions." F. L. McClure

Library J 92:3858 O 15 '67 110w

Reviewed by D. M. Glixon

Sat R 51:64 My 18 '68 40w

WOLDERING, IRMGARD. Gods, men & pharaohs; the glory of Egyptian art [tr. by Ann E. Keep] [Eng title: The arts of Egypt]. 275p 249il col il col maps $25 Abrams

709.32 Art, Egyptian

67-26468

This book, by the curator of the Kestner Museum in Hanover, consists of three sections: four chapters on the "principal phases of Egyptian art history (the Old, Middle, and New Kingdoms) and . . . [a] survey of the art of the Late Period continuing well into the art of Roman Egypt; a catalog of selected pieces representing every type and phase of Egyptian art, and the plates which accompany both the textual chapters and the catalog." (Library J)

"Another deluxe picture book designed for the general reader. . . . Although more copiously illustrated with good large color plates, there is little else to differentiate this work from [L.] Woldering's The Art of Egypt [BRD 1964], also a translation from the German. The numbering of the plates is confusing and not well integrated with the text. The appendix contains a catalogue of 102 small black-and-white illustrations each with short commentary, good bibliography, chronological table, three simplified maps, and an adequate index. Recommended for its fine color plates."

Choice 5:770 S '68 100w

"In addition to the more well-known pieces, numerous less famous and infrequently pictured pieces are represented. There is no question that Dr. Woldering's book will be a welcome addition to any library." A. R. Schulman

Library J 93:981 Mr 1 '68 250w

WOLF, CHARLES. United States policy and the third world; problems and analysis [by] Charles Wolf, Jr. 204p $5.75 Little

327.73 U.S.—Foreign relations. Economic assistance. Military assistance 67-14078

"Mr. Wolf, senior economist at the RAND Corporation, uses data from the corporation's research and from other sources to analyze the connections between political, economic, and military problems and policies. In Part I he discusses insurgency and counterinsurgency, the use and limitations of nuclear deterrence, and the value of the Third World. Mr. Wolf sees much less likelihood of general war developing in Asia than in Europe. Part II . . . [uses] available quantitative data to test some hypotheses in Latin America, Vietnam, and Iran. Mr. Wolf puts forward the idea that decisions to meet military vulnerabilities and threats can be improved by considering the 'non-military effects of various alternatives.'" (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

"Some books manage to be controversial, others stimulating or maybe maddening. Charles Wolf's is all these three in one. . . . Probably the most challenging and provocative part of this work is to be found in the section on insurgency and counter-insurgency. On the whole, this book leaves the reader perplexed by its imaginative reassessment of some popular tabus and scholarly theses, while laboring the reader with persistency on points where the arguments end before their full exploration. There is plenty of excellent data and analysis included, but one wonders if to such a military-political analysis there isn't really more political than alluded to." Arpad von Lazar

Am Pol Sci R 62:244 Mr '68 600w

"An analysis of U.S. relations with the less developed countries, from the American national interest or 'value' point of view. . . . Wolf uses the pragmatic approach. His style is concise; his scenarios are well defined—even though he realizes their limitations. Part One is probably more useful to undergraduates who are interested in the nation developing process. Recommended."

Choice 4:1321 Ja '68 130w

J Pol Econ 76:160 Ja '68 210w

Reviewed by E. P. Stickney

Library J 92:1941 My 15 '67 190w

WOLF, DEBORAH. Voices from the love generation. See Wolf, L., ed.

WOLF, JOHN B. Louis XIV. 678p pl maps $12.50 Norton

B or 92 Louis XIV, King of France

67-20618

Professor Wolf has based this biography "on Louis' own documents, his diaries, decrees, and

WOLF, J. B.—Continued

... letters from the archives at Vincennes. . . . He [attempts to] present the king as he appeared to his ministers, his diplomats, and his soldiers, rather than to the gossips of his court." (Publisher's note) List of principal personages. Bibliography. Index.

"Despite an occasional awkwardness, this is a credible and fascinating portrait of [a] much-maligned monarch. . . . Louis' letters and dispatches reveal a man of genuine modesty. . . . Prof. Wolf's understanding extends even to Madame de Maintenon and Mazarin. In his narrative, both royal mistress and cardinal emerge as sympathetic human beings. . . . Particularly intriguing is the book's picture of the king as soldier and war minister. . . . [Prof. Wolf's] humility is in keeping with the unobtrusive character of his scholarship. Together, they make this biography a considerable achievement." Michael Cuddihy

America 118:382 Mr 23 '68 600w

Reviewed by C. M. Greene

Christian Science Monitor p12 Ap 25 '68 800w

Economist 228:49 Jl 27 '68 420w

"John Wolf, professor of history at the University of Minnesota, covers every aspect of Louis XIV's life—his youth and education, family, daily routines, court functions, religious observances, love affairs, ministers, and policies. . . . His style is readable, though marred by repetition and occasional mannerisms. Most academic, public, and some school libraries can use this book." Dorothy Sinclair

Library J 93:182 Ja 15 '68 150w

Reviewed by Peter Gay

New Repub 158:34 My 25 '68 1300w

Reviewed by C. B. A. Behrens

N Y Rev of Books 10:31 Je 20 '68 1450w

"[This] is a sound work whose commendable seriousness of tone is rarely compromised by any flights of the imagination or needless outbursts of humor. The reader who comes to it in an attentive frame of mind will be rewarded, for he will learn much about Louis XIV and his reign. . . . that he would not easily find elsewhere. . . . Mr. Wolf has chosen to give more stress to Louis's diplomacy and to the wars which were its implement than to the more familiar life at court. His pages on the War of the Spanish Succession (1701-1714) are of impressive substance and should recommend the adoption of his book by the history department at West Point as well as by other American institutions of learning." Stanley Loomis

N Y Times Bk R p7 Mr 24 '68 800w

New Yorker 43:139 Mr 30 '68 100w

"This massive study of almost 700 pages, copiously documented and replete with details, while vivid as a portrait, deliberately subordinates portraiture to institutional structure and development. From his boyhood and youth through the fifty-five years of his personal rule, the king is presented mostly in his public life. . . . The great worth of this definitive study [is that] . . . it judges Louis XIV by the standards of his own age. . . . To be sure, there are occasional intimations of special pleading, particularly concerning wars and diplomacy. While the author sometimes overpowers the reader with the weight of details, he fails to tell much about the 20,000,000 Frenchmen under Louis's rule. These reservations apart, Louis XIV is a work of major significance." Leo Gershoy

Sat R 51:38 Mr 23 '68 600w

WOLF, LEONARD, ed. Voices from the love generation; ed. and with an introd. and epilogue by Leonard Wolf in collaboration with Deborah Wolf. 283p il $6.95 Little

301.43 Youth. U.S.—Social conditions 68-17274

"A series of 15 interviews with participants in the [hippie] movement, the insiders who are the makers of its short history. Here, the hippie businessman sounds like his 'straight' counterpart. Some of those interviewed have found a home in the movement and claim 'this place is God-fingered.' . . . Others say, 'When the street prophecy [acid] proved false, I became very aware of it and that's why I became like dissident.'" (Library J)

"Against the variety of thinking represented in this book, much of it neither startling nor original, there is the experience in drugs, sex, and a search for reality and love. The movement, I believe, will have its greatest relevance in seeking, not in the experience. It will expand and also set limits for the freedom of youth in the future. This is good. This is what the Love Generation is doing for us all. The book is recommended for public, college, university, and modern high school libraries." Jerome Cushman

Library J 93:1912 My 1 '68 160w [YA]

"Wolf's modestly presented volume . . . humanizes the subject somewhat. . . . [His] observations, in his introduction and epilogue, constitute some of the clearest and most level-headed commentary on the nature of the beast currently available." Robert Stone

N Y Times Bk R p18 O 13 '68 600w

"Wolf has tried and essentially succeeded in giving the outsider a fair sampling of the varieties of hippie experience. He talks to Ron Thelin, a founding father of the Haight-Ashbury community and of the now-famous Psychedelic Shop. And he tapes Shirley Wise, a dissident hippie who dropped out of the Haight and back into school. Some of Wolf's subjects do espouse the philosophy of love and non-interference (doing your thing) that hippies are supposed to believe in. Others are simply incoherent. . . . Each of them has made an adjustment to what Wolf calls 'an event of profound implication.' . . . [The book, however,] shows, without meaning to, how difficult it is to pin down just what the 'implication' or implications of the event are." R. A. Sokolov

Newsweek 71:92F Je 3 '68 450w

WOLFBEIN, SEYMOUR L. Occupational information; a career guidance view. 146p $3.95 Random house

331 Labor supply. U.S.—Economic conditions 68-10844

This "book is an overview of the economic—employment picture. It discusses the manpower future, industrial scene, population trends, growth of automation, the factors of education and migration, the question of poverty and unemployment." (Choice) Chapter bibliographies. Index.

"Written by perhaps the most noted authority in the field, this book projects in clear style the trends in occupational areas through 1975 and does so in the light of relevant statistics from the 20th century. . . . It is quite current, well written, designed for students going into the world of work, for counselors working with students on the high school, junior college, and college levels. It is read easily because of clarity of style and selective use of significant figures. Wolfbein manifests an excellent and far reaching grasp of the broad areas under discussion."

Choice 5:1017 O '68 180w

"Behind this nebulous title are analyses of a myriad of statistics. . . . Although this type of book becomes obsolete in a few years, this one is recommended because Mr. Wolfbein enhances the digestibility of the statistics with his smooth prose and good organization." M. P. Jaquish

Library J 93:2235 Je 1 '68 100w

WOLFE, BERTRAM D. The bridge and the abyss; the troubled friendship of Maxim Gorky and V. I. Lenin. (Stanford Univ. Hoover inst. on war, revolution and peace. Publication) 180p il $5.95 Praeger

B or 92 Gorky, Maxim. Lenin, Vladimir Il'ich 67-27953

In this study the author has chosen to limit himself "to the years of Gorky's most creative period, to appraise his stature as a writer by selecting that part of his work which stands up as literature, and to throw some fresh light on his character in the years of his freedom by examining [his] friendship with Lenin." (Foreword) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by S. W. Page

Am Hist R 73:1584 Je '68 200w

Reviewed by Alexander Rabinowitch

Ann Am Acad 378:152 Jl '68 500w

Reviewed by J. H. Billington

Book World p4 N 5 '67 240w

"An unusual and perceptive study, by a well-known authority on Soviet affairs. . . . The complexity of both men, their virtues and shortcomings are vividly expressed in Wolfe's superb prose. He presents facets of both men which have not been well explored. . . . Recommended both for undergraduates and graduate students and especially for libraries with collections on Soviet history and literature."

Choice 5:116 Mr '68 120w

"In this attempt to gain a better understanding of Gorky as man and artist, and also to shed fresh light on Lenin. Mr. Wolfe . . . cuts through the fog of Soviet legend and myth concerning the true nature of [their] relationship. This book will interest students of Soviet history and of Gorky. Recommended for academic and large public libraries." A. S. Birkos

Library J 92:3640 O 15 '67 230w
Reviewed by Dan Levin
Nation 206:382 Mr 18 '68 450w

"Mr. Wolfe's depiction of the differences between these two giants of their time is graphic and absorbing. . . . The nature of the regard that bound them together is less easily demonstrated, but its existence is implicit in the regularity of their quarrels, and it gives their strange relationship its interest and its drama." New Yorker 43:111 F 3 '68 180w

"Mr. Wolfe has written an instructive and readable account, which would have been still more impressive if the shades of black and white had not been laid on quite so heavily. The relation between the two men included far more ambiguities, and far more warmth on both sides, than Mr. Wolfe's simplified picture allows. He has rather spoiled a promising and fascinating subject by using it as a chapter in his long-standing vendetta against Lenin's ghost."

TLS p724 J1 11 '68 390w

WOLFE, SAMUEL, jt. auth. Doctor's strike.
See Badgley, R. F.

WOLFE, TOM. The electric kool-aid acid test.
416p $5.95 Farrar, Straus

B or 92 Kesey, Ken. LSD 68-13008

The author of the Kandy-kolored Tangerine-flake Streamline Baby (BRD 1965, 1966) offers a portrait of the novelist Ken Kesey and the West Coast "Merry Pranksters" during a several years pursuit of the LSD experience and development of psychedelia.

Reviewed by Phoebe Adams
Atlantic 222:134 S '68 30w

Reviewed by J. J. Murray
Best Sell 28:239 S 15 '68 440w

Reviewed by Karl Shapiro
Book World p1 Ag 18 '68 950w

Reviewed by Peter Meinke
Christian Century 85:1545 D 4 '68 310w

Reviewed by Roderick Nordell
Christian Science Monitor p13 S 26 '68 360w

Reviewed by Paul West
Commonweal 89:413 D 20 '68 550w

"Tom Wolfe is a painstaking reporter of our cultural outer frontier who writes in a style spectacular and entertaining. . . . Much in this book is obscure, much is humorous, how much is fact and how much is Mr. Wolfe's skillful development from facts is seldom clear. In his quest for maximum color and absolute realism he makes the clever people of this new world use the same course, conversational obscenities of the old, dull squares. Recommended, but with the above reservation for those with a special interest and for general readers." F. N. Jones

Library J 93:2839 Ag '68 160w

Reviewed by Marcia Keller
Library J 93:4430 N 15 '68 200w [YA]

"[Wolfe has] come as close as seems possible, with words, at re-creating the entire mental atmosphere of a scene in which one's understanding is based on feeling rather than verbalization. His book . . . is nonfiction told as experimental fiction; it is a genuine feat and a landmark in reporting style. . . . One finishes the book, wondering: who was Ken Kesey? . . . Somehow, Wolfe's amazing gifts of perception fell short of capturing Kesey. . . . Couldn't the book have done without Wolfe's ineffective poetry, been 100 pages shorter? Yes . . . but you get excited reading this history. Its words reach as close to the feverishness of the thing itself as possible." Joel Lieber

Nation 207:282 S 23 '68 1200w

"The best work Wolfe has done, and certainly the most profound and insightful book that has been written about the psychedelic life.

[Wolfe] has elicited a history of the spread of LSD from 1960 (when Kesey and others got their first jolts in lab experiments) to 1967, when practically any kid with five dollars could buy some kind of trip or other.

Furthermore, Wolfe has brought to his reportage a sense of historical perspective, and, more important, a willingness to let accuracy take the place of the hysterical imprecations that have passed for reportage in most magazine articles and books on the subject. . . . [The book is essential] for anyone who wishes to understand the profound implications of the white, middle-class 'psychic' changes occurring across our social landscape." Lawrence Dietz

Nat R 20:865 Ag 27 '68 850w

Reviewed by Jack Richardson
New Repub 159:30 S 28 '68 850w

Reviewed by Margot Hentoff
N Y Rev of Books 11:20 Ag 22 '68 800w

"[This] is a celebration of psychedelia, of all its sounds and costumes, colors and fantasies. Wolfe, like [Norman] Mailer, participates instead of merely reporting. And it is Wolfe's involvement, as it was Mailer's involvement [in The Armies of the Night, BRD 1968], that makes his book so successful, just as (inexorably) such involvement created some flaws. At times, Wolfe seems to be as indiscriminate an observer as a wide-angle camera panning back and forth across crowded rooms. At times, he dollies in for closeups of characters or incidents whose significance is never determined. And at other times he piles elaboration upon elaboration until reality is buried under illusions of evaluation. . . . Wolfe has written a marvelous book about a man I suspect is not so marvelous; and my reservations about this book stem from my feeling that some of Kesey's dazzle-dust still lingers in Wolfe's eyes." C. D. B. Bryan

N Y Times Bk R p1 Ag 18 '68 950w

Reviewed by Jack Kroll
Newsweek 72:84 Ag 26 '68 330w

Reviewed by Robert Scholes
Sat R 51:37 Ag 24 '68 480w
Time 92:98 S 6 '68 470w

WOLFE, TOM. The pump house gang. 309p il
$5.95 Farrar, Straus

309.173 U.S.—Social life and customs. U.S.—Civilization 67-10922

The author of The Kandy-Kolored Tangerine-Flake Streamline Baby (BRD 1965) reports on the way we live now. He discusses an elite group of California surfers (The Pump House Gang), topless dancers, motorcyclists, teen-age London society girls, pop art collectors, New York social climbers, and other topics. This material has been revised since it was previously published in newspapers and magazines in New York and London.

Reviewed by L. M. Savary
America 119:136 Ag 31 '68 550w

Reviewed by Phoebe Adams
Atlantic 222:134 S '68 30w

Reviewed by J. J. Murray
Best Sell 28:339 S 15 '68 440w

Reviewed by Karl Shapiro
Book World p1 Ag 18 '68 950w

Reviewed by Peter Meinke
Christian Century 85:1545 D 4 '68 310w

Reviewed by Roderick Nordell
Christian Science Monitor p13 S 26 '68 360w

Reviewed by Paul West
Commonweal 89:413 D 20 '68 550w
Critic 27:101 O '68 130w

"Mr. Wolfe's subjects extend the range of his earlier writings on status dropouts, teen-age fashions, cultural frontier types. Several are relatively serious estimates—of Marshal McLuhan in 'What If He Is Right?' and of Hugh Hefner in 'King of the Status Dropouts.' Others are lighter and some hilariously humorous . . . but all are presented in Mr. Wolfe's free-flowing, colorful, Joycean, quote-slang, repetitive, cult or class jargon with literary and other reverberations. If [the author] were less urgent about using the coarse, old style latrine language of the square world, this book could be highly recommended without even that reservation." F. N. Jones

Library J 93:2839 Ag '68 240w

Reviewed by Lawrence Dietz
Nat R 20:865 Ag 27 '68 800w

Reviewed by Jack Richardson
New Repub 159:30 S 28 '68 850w

"In the two-year interval since the last of them appeared, much has changed and these essays seem shrunken, devitalized versions of themselves. . . . The phenomena which in the old days had set Wolfe to gasping are, today, either helplessly familiar or already vanished. . . . Other journalists appropriated his style because it was so easy to do. . . . Now Wolfe no longer owned his style which, divorced from its novelty, revealed its roots as romantic sports columnist newspaperese. And writing of the status problems of the mid-Atlantic man, the fleeting youth of golden surfers, or the life of a London dolly, he unexpectedly recalls Dorothy Parker's 'Big Blonde.' So often the tough, ironic chic of one era becomes the cheap sentiment of the next. But what really lays Wolfe low is his misjudgment of the nature of the times he documents." Margot Hentoff

WOLFE, TOM—Continued

N Y Rev of Books 11:20 Ag 22 '68 800w

"[There is] a lingering rhetorical 'so what?' that one asks oneself after reading some of the pieces, simply because, no matter how fresh a treatment an unrefreshing subject is given, one still remains bored. . . . And yet, Tom Wolfe manages somehow to imbue them all with a semblance of life, no matter how depressing they may seem. The best piece in this collection is 'Bob and Spike,' . . . a devastating caricature of New York society and its art world. . . . Unfortunately, however, [this book] isn't really much more than a remake, a 'Son of Kandy-Kolored.' It's good enough, but not in the same league as 'The Electric Kool-Aid Acid Test' [BRD 1968]." C. D. B. Bryan

N Y Times Bk R pl Ag 18 '68 950w

"Among journalists, Wolfe is a genuine poet; what makes him so good is his ability to get inside, to not merely describe (although he is a superb reporter) but to get under the skin of a phenomenon and transmit its metabolic rhythm. In George Orwell's phrase, Wolfe writes from inside the whale. . . . Wolfe is one of the few writers of any sort who have truly caught the seeping miasma of madness that is drifting over the modern world. But he does this not in the cold, bright, heartless fake way of most absurdity-mongering journalists, but by seizing in a brilliant ritual of language the dissonances and occlusions that rack the proto-plasms and the polity of mid-century America. . . . He creates the most vivid, most pertinent possible dimension of his subject." Jack Kroll

Newsweek 72:84 Ag 26 '68 330w

Reviewed by Robert Scholes

Sat R 51:37 Ag 24 '68 480w

Time 92:98 S 6 '68 470w

WOLFENSTEIN, E. VICTOR. The revolutionary personality; Lenin, Trotsky, Gandhi. 330p $7.50 Princeton Univ. press

155.2 Lenin, Vladimir Il'ich, Trotsky, Leon, Gandhi, Mohandas Karamchand 67-11035

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Reviewed by A. P. Mendel

Am Hist R 73:1103 Ap '68 600w

Reviewed by A. A. Rogow

Am Pol Sci R 62:604 Je '68 1850w

Reviewed by Bruce Mazlish

Encounter 31:46 S '68 5950w

WOLFF, KURT H., ed. The critical spirit; essays in honor of Herbert Marcuse; ed. by Kurt H. Wolff and Barrington Moore, Jr; with the assistance of Heinz Lubasz, Maurice R. Stein and E. V. Walter. 436p $12.50 Beacon press

108 Philosophy. Industry and state, Marcuse, Herbert 67-24890

"The essays in this volume are grouped into 'The Political Concerns of Philosophy,' 'Art, Literature, and Society,' 'Industrial Society and Its Plight,' and 'Marcuse as Teacher.'" (Library J) Marcuse bibliography.

"There is much evidence in this book to suggest that the 'critical spirit,' in the Marcusean sense, is not one of scientific evaluation of evidence but rather an emotional compulsion to interpret all social facts as evidence of the pending total 'bankruptcy' of the existing society. . . . Several of the essays repeat arguments well worn in the thirties; the themes of the Academic New Left are largely identical with their Old Left predecessors. . . . The dominant style of the book might be called 'New Prophetic'; it is oracular, hortatory, self-righteous, never self-sceptical, especially so in the methodological and philosophical essays. . . . It is the animus again of German Marxism against the liberal democratic republic. The 'critical spirit' is potentially the New Irrationalism." L. S. Feuer

Am Soc R 33:465 Je '68 1650w

"The essays in this collection . . . are diverse and of unequal quality and interest. There is no attempt at thematic organization in the introduction, which is choppy and vague even in sketching the structure of the book. . . . The whole volume should be read for insight into the Continental influence on American social thought as it has been articulated in scholarship, and the complicated diffusion of the Marxist heritage, symbolized by the work of Marcuse himself."

Choice 5:1119 N '68 220w

"The reader can only feel jealous of the editors who have brought out the worthy set of exciting essays found in this volume. . . . Some of these essays, of course, are mere dogmatic bagatelles, some are expostulations, some are both, but several will become minor classics. Some rise to great heights of ardor and insight—Wolff's plea in 'Beginning: in Hegel and Today' for a more humanly founded ontology in this catastrophic time; Seeley's exposition of the profoundly differing but usually unnoted effect of 'because' and 'in order to' explanations, in his 'Thirty Nine Articles Toward a Theory of Social Theory'; and Moore's hope, in 'The Society Nobody Wants,' that we can make some moves at last toward 'a decent society' by ceasing to blame either Capitalism or Communism for all the ills of life." J. M. Perreault

Library J 92:3044 S 15 '67 180w

Reviewed by Andrew Hacker

N Y Times Bk R pl Mr 10 '68 600w

"Professional philosophers have shown little interest in Herbert Marcuse. This collection of twenty-four essays in his honor reflects this: among its contributors we find more social scientists and historians than philosophers. . . . Few of the contributors indulge in fantasies or utopian hopes; yet few are willing to accept the present situation. The book bears out Barrington Moore's observation that 'there is a sense in the air, especially among the young, that Marxism and liberalism have in good measure ceased to provide explanations of the world.' . . . Max Horkheimer may well be right when he argues that Schopenhauer is more relevant to the modern situation than Hegel. . . . One would like to hear Marcuse's reply. And not only in this case would one like to see the conversation begun in this volume continue and grow. The issues are too significant for neglect."

Yale R 57:XXII D '67 850w

WOLFF, MICHAEL. Prison: the penal institutions of Britain; prisons, borstals, detention centres, attendance centres, approved schools and remand homes. 303p $8 Barnes & Noble

365 Prisons—Great Britain 68-96624

An account of "what the places are like, who runs them, who are sent there, how the time is spent." (TLS)

"Though not the penologist's cup of tea, an informative book that acquaints readers with British penal establishments that serve youth, juveniles, and adults. . . . Based largely on Wolff's observations, the book includes excerpts from official government reports, limited statistics, and an occasional reference to research studies. His conclusions are impressionistic. . . . The appendix includes a complete list, by type, of all British and Scottish establishments. Of use to high schools, junior colleges, and correctional workers."

Choice 5:654 J1 '68 160w [YA]

Reviewed by C. H. Rolph

New Statesman 74:852 D 15 '67 230w

"Mr. Wolff deals in detail with detention centres, attendance centres, approved schools and remand homes as well, thus providing an accurate and up-to-date guide to the total penal structure. . . . His suggestions for improvement are brief and practical, and he indulges in no flights of penological theory. . . . What is most notable about the book is the fairness of its reporting. . . . The writing is distinguished and never dull. . . . No one can any longer complain that there is not available an accurate guide to English penal institutions. Mr. Wolff provides the evidence. Only rarely does he interpret it, but when he does so it is with the authority that comes from knowledge and evident concern."

TLS p1194 D 7 '67 1300w

WOLFF, ROBERT JAY. Feeling blue. unp il lib bdg $3.44 Scribner

701.8 Color—Juvenile literature 68-12522

A "picture story of a primary color . . . [in which] everyday examples [are translated] into . . . abstract images to illustrate . . . [the] text." (Publisher's note) "Kindergarten to grade two." (Library J)

"Bright, imaginative, stimulating, and fun." M. L. Birmingham

Commonweal 88:309 My 24 '68 10w

Horn Bk 44:443 Ag '68 30w

"[The] bold, geometrically simple illustrations catch and hold the eye. As information, however, [this] is only intermittently successful. . . . The statement that 'Blue can do many things other colors cannot do, for instance, . . . [make] yellow turn green' is apt to be misleading to children who don't know that other colors can also be mixed to produce a completely different one. There's also the rather pointless introduction of 'bluestockings' and 'bluenoses.' However, as a primary lesson in contemporary art, there is the visual excitement of seeing alternating bars of bright blue and red 'fight each other.'" M. A. Dorsey

Library J 93:1793 Ap 15 '68 100w

WOLFF, ROBERT JAY. Seeing red. unp il lib bdg $3.44 Scribner

701.8 Color—Juvenile literature 67-24052

A simple presentation in full-color illustration of the varieties of reds—"magenta, crimson, scarlet, vermilion—[which] goes on to enumerate some of the color's visual and emotional qualities. . . . Kindergarten to grade two." (Library J)

Reviewed by Jean Baron

Book World p12 Ag 11 '68 50w

Reviewed by M. L. Birmingham

Commonweal 88:309 My 24 '68 10w

"The artist's conception of the color is expressed through the imaginative use of vivid square, circular, and triangular shapes, and through a brief and lively text. The words and images combine to stimulate the reader's imagination as well as to create an effect of aesthetic achievement." S. D. L.

Horn Bk 44:195 Ap '68 80w

"Graphically, [this book] by a well-known abstract artist [is] a delight. . . . However, there is an utterly confusing spread on red's opacity ('You can see right through red sometimes/and sometimes you can't) and the book closes perpetuating the myth that 'bulls see red.'" M. A. Dorsey

Library J 93:1793 Ap 15 '68 100w

WOLFGANG, MARVIN E. The subculture of violence; towards an integrated theory in criminology [by] Marvin E. Wolfgang [and] Franco Ferracuti. 387p $11.50 Barnes & Noble

364.2 Crime and criminals. Violence. Murder [67-94390]

"An American sociologist and an Italian clinical psychologist . . . have collaborated to produce an integrated sociopsychological theory of crimes of violence. Their major thesis asserts that violence is an expression of social norms constituting a subculture of violence which legitimizes violence as a means of dealing with altercations or threats. The major evidence in support of the theory consists of the marked variation in rates of violent crime by region, social class, and ethnic status." (Choice) Index. First published in Italian under the title Il Comportamento violento.

"In addition to a heuristically auspicious theory, the authors provide a discourse on the nature of criminology as a discipline which almost convinced this reviewer of the autonomy of the study of crime. But for all their zeal, the authors do not manage to establish that a separate discipline can be claimed where only the subject matter can be bounded, but concepts and methods must be drawn from the basic social sciences. . . . There is, indeed, a body of knowledge about crime. The authors demonstrate it with a diligence which simultaneously enlightens and astonishes the reader. . . . As a survey, [this] is a model of its kind, beyond the stamina of most scholars. . . . Here is a theory for exploration by the social scientist and a program of action for the social planner. If the authors can make themselves heard amid the din of riot guns and molotov cocktails, their book will testify to the practical value of their great learning." J. P. Conrad

Ann Am Acad 376:197 Mr '68 850w

"[The authors are] both internationally known criminologists. . . . The chief value of the work lies in its comprehensive documented survey of the international literature of crime generally, and crimes of violence in particular, and in its review of major theoretical issues concerning crime causation. For the advanced undergraduate and graduate student."

Choice 5:565 Je '68 120w

TLS p963 S 12 '68 850w

WOLLIN, GOESTA, jt. auth. The ever-changing sea. See Ericson, D. B.

WOLPERT, STANLEY A. Morley and India, 1906-1910. 299p $6.95 Univ. of Calif. press

954.03 Morley of Blackburn, John Morley, 1st Viscount. India—Politics and government 67-14118

A study of the struggle between the British Secretary of State for India and the Indian Viceroy regarding the former's attempt to liberalize the Indian government. Based on a collection of more than 40 volumes and manuscripts "opened" for scholarly research in 1959 and including Viceroy Minto's letters and telegrams to Morley from India. Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by R. I. Crane

Am Hist R 73:883 F '68 800w

"[This book] is in effect a reply to Lady Minto's picture of her husband [in India: Minto and Morley, BRD 1935] as a wise statesman, harried and embarrassed by an irascible, ir-resolute, and vain Secretary of State. . . . I think one can say that the case for Morley as the real inspirer of the reforms is proved as is the case for Minto's reluctance to move far and his subordination to the views of the bureaucracy. But in doing this, Mr. Wolpert has swung rather far against Minto. . . . Morley's wisdom, patience, and management are by contrast also apt to be a little overdone. . . . [Nevertheless, this is] a very able work, full of incisive thought and imaginative insight. . . . The book is not only very readable but impressive in its scholarship and penetrating in its interpretation." Percival Spear

Ann Am Acad 376:165 Mr '68 500w

"Wolpert judiciously clarifies a tangled web of events. He describes with great dramatic tension the conflict between Morley, who respected the aspirations of the Indian National Congress, and the conservative bureaucrats in India who preferred to repress Hindu agitation. . . . Wolpert sees the British role as a capitulation to Muslim interests plus the failure to deal judiciously with Hindu extremism, because of England's international preoccupations and the economic self-interest of her Indian empire. Important addition to all collections on South Asia and on imperialism and nationalism."

Choice 5:394 My '68 250w

"Wolpert has already made valuable contributions to the history of India by his studies on Tilak and Gokhale [BRD 1963] and by his examination of the factors leading up to Gandhi's assassination in Nine Hours to Rama [BRD 1962]. . . . [In this book] his strictures upon men and events will administer a shock—sometimes salutary, but not infrequently unjustified—to British readers. This attitude arises in part from the author's deep sympathy with Morley's outlook, and in part from his own identification with the aims and aspirations of Indian nationalism, as interpreted by outstanding Hindu leaders such as Gokhale. He rather tends to dismiss with scant courtesy the Muslim outlook; and this is perhaps the one defect in an interesting exposition of Morley's ideas."

TLS p249 Mr 14 '68 500w

WOLTERS, O. W. Early Indonesian commerce; a study of the origins of Srivijaya. 404p maps $8.75 Cornell univ. press

382 Srivijaya (kingdom). Indonesia—Commerce. Trade routes 66-13478

"Srivijaya, the powerful maritime and trading empire which emerged in southeastern Sumatra towards the end of the seventh century, played an important role in Asian commerce for centuries. Professor Wolter's work delineates the origins of this Sumatran empire and examines the circumstances which influenced the development of trans-Asian trade in the early centuries of the Christian era. . . . Professor Wolters seeks to reconstruct the historical geography of the area in the centuries preceding the rise of Srivijaya. He considers the effect of trade on the different coasts and sketches the development of the favoured trading routes before the seventh century." (Publisher's note) Glossary of Chinese characters. Glossary of Chinese texts. Bibliography. Index.

WOLTERS, O. W.—Continued

Reviewed by Amry Vandenbosch
Am Hist R 73:888 F '68 400w

"Specialists will not be disappointed, for Wolters' careful analysis of wide-ranging sources (mostly Chinese dynastic, mercantile, and pharmacological records) and his judicious appraisal of the locus and patterns of early Southeast Asian commerce are characteristic of the highest scholarly traditions. Many of Wolters' broader conclusions have already been incorporated in the revised [1964] edition of D. G. E. Hall's A History of South-East Asia [BRD 1956], since Hall borrowed heavily from Wolters' dissertation. For the general reader and undergraduate library, therefore, it would be best to allow Hall's more general history to suffice on the subject of Srivijaya. Wolters' book is pleasantly and precisely written, but the subject matter is specialized and the arguments complex."

Choice 4:1303 Ja '68 200w

"Professor Wolters is now at Cornell in the United States; but his book is based on work done at the School of Oriental and African Studies in London. Before turning his hand to scholarship, moreover, Professor Wolters was for almost two decades a member of the Malayan Civil Service. . . . He brings to his research [a] quality of pragmatic understanding of how things actually work in Asia. . . . All the evidence, archaeological, epigraphical and literary which [he] examines, shows that the economic basis of this [Srivijaya] lay in its control of the sea lane, from China to the Indian Ocean through the Malacca Strait. The question that particularly concerns [him] is how did such a state arise in the first place. The answer lies in the nature of maritime trade between China and the west which created a demand for some kind of entrepot in the region of the Malacca Strait between the monsoon systems of the Indian Ocean and the South China Sea. This trade. . . . Professor Wolters examines minutely."

TLS p136 F '68 400w

WONDRISKA, WILLIAM. Mr. Brown and Mr. Gray. 39p col il $3.95; lib bdg $3.59 Holt

Pigs—Stories 68-11826

In this picture book "the King, who is a horse, stumps his subjects, Mr. Brown and Mr. Gray, [two pigs,] with the age-old puzzler: What is happiness? He gives each pig an island, the means to do what he wants, and a year to solve the problem." (Book World) "Kindergarten to grade two" (Library J)

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin

Book World p12 S 1 '68 160w

Reviewed by P. M. Daltry

Christian Science Monitor pB2 My 2 '68 80w

"[The pigs'] unstated discovery is, in effect, that 'money can't buy happiness,' coupled with the assumption so popular in juvenile books that a self-sufficient rural life is idyllic. The pictures, typical of the author/illustrator's work, are spare, sophisticated pen-and-ink cartoons with dramatic splashes of color; they also, like the story, are oversimplified." E. S. Cullen

Library J 93:2731 J1 '68 120w

"Mr. Wondriska handles this allegory deftly and handsomely in his illustrations. Where other artists might splash away with line and color he offers subtle, controlled charm. Despite all the human attributes his pigs are never people, yet the parallels are always present, always clear. And Mr. Wondriska lets the reader make up his own mind on the evidence." G. A. Woods

N Y Times Bk R p34 Ap 21 '68 220w

WOOCK, ROGER R., Jr. ed. Man against poverty: World War III. See Blaustein, A. I.

WOOD, DOROTHY CARRICO, ed. This nation: the spirit of America in songs, speeches, poems, and documents; il. by J. W. McDaniel. 175p $4.95; lib bdg $4.61 World pub.

810.8 American literature—Collections. Patriotic poetry 67-23350

This volume of patriotic writings deals with "the 'Promise of America' in words of . . . statesmen; praise of our heroes and of the spirit of America by . . . poets, speechmakers, and historians; and counsel for the future expressed by our leaders of yesterday and today. Interwoven are concern for human rights and freedoms, and . . . expressions of American dreams, duties, and challenges." (Horn Bk) Index.

"A handsome volume. . . . The selections, made by a former children's librarian who knows the value of such an anthology, are presented in well-organized sections." V. H. Horn Bk 44:186 Ap '68 100w

"The words of famous men in American history are indiscriminately mixed in with those of persons unknown or little known. Authors are not identified, selections are not dated and secondary sources not distinguished from primary ones; these are serious flaws. A few omissions are notable. . . . The fact that many of these selections are worthy and the prose quotations generally hard to find elsewhere may lead librarians to consider purchase of this book, though they must be aware that children will need help in using it. . . . Grades five to eight." M. R. Sive

Library J 93:891 F 15 '68 200w

WOOD, JAMES PLAYSTED. Mr. Jonathan Edwards. 166p $4.50 Seabury

B or 92 Edwards, Jonathan—Juvenile literature 68-14084

"In this biography of the 18th Century minister, theologian and philosopher, the author describes the main events and discusses the achievements of Edwards' life and the development and character of his mind, thought, and beliefs. [Bibliography. Index.] Grades eight to ten." (Library J)

"The author presents the life story of the eighteenth-century. New England theologian as an exciting chapter in American history. Edwards' religious theories pose a . . . problem since they do not lend themselves readily to interpretation on an elementary level. The author succeeds, quoting Edwards frequently and showing how the circumstances of his life and the tenor of his times influenced the development of his thought. A man greatly maligned until recent times is interpreted for children, with sympathy and understanding." M. M.

Horn Bk 44:436 Ag '68 180w

"Wood's hallmarks as a biographer for young people are accuracy and thought-provoking analysis, qualities which distinguish this stimulating introduction to the work of one of America's earliest profound thinkers and offer a deeper understanding of the life and problems of Edwards' times. This is the first juvenile biography of a subject not likely to have immediate appeal to average teen-agers. . . . [It] is good supplementary reading." Bernice Levine

Library J 93:[3300] S 15 '68 130w

WOOD, JAMES PLAYSTED. Spunkwater. spunkwater! a life of Mark Twain. 182p il $3.95 Pantheon bks.

B or 92 Clemens, Samuel Langhorne—Juvenile literature 68-12659

A "presentation of the career, the temperament, and the literary accomplishments of . . . Samuel Langhorne Clemens [alias Mark Twain]. . . . The title is part of an incantation used by Tom Sawyer to cure warts." (Horn Bk) Chronology. Bibliography. "Grades six to nine." (Best Sell)

"Young readers will enjoy this portrait of the creator of Tom Sawyer, Huck Finn and other heroes of the Mississippi. Unfortunately only a small part of the work is reserved for Clemens' youth. But the details of his home life and growth into a leading literary figure are not uninteresting. The picture that emerges is favorable, but the author does not hesitate to point out some of the unfavorable aspects of Clemens' character, including his violent temper and dislike for certain people and things. The volume will make fine background reading for young people before they pick up more critical studies of Clemens."

Best Sell 28:195 Ag 1 '68 110w

"It is to Mr. Wood's credit that he presents Twain in all his orneriness as well as lovability. Underlying the biographer's decision to write, not a 'young people's book' but a serious book for young people, is a commendable implicit respect for his audience. Wood apparently believes that they can stand meeting genuine, complex human beings. Twain himself might well have agreed." B. A. Weisberger

Book World p13 Ag 4 '68 400w

Reviewed by Paul Heins

Horn Bk 44:436 Ag '68 250w

"For Mark Twain . . . there exist popular adult biographies accessible and understandable to young teens. Therefore it is reasonable to expect this book to condense and discuss the continuing literary debate about Twain as an American writer. But Wood dismisses [this] out of hand. . . . He does not measure Twain's books against . . . other regional writers of the period; nor does he adequately explore Twain's political, religious and philosophical evolution, aside from the simplistic connection of Twain's deepening latter-day cynicism to his personal setbacks. The writing is choppy and repetitive, Wood's use of short declarative sentences failing to engage interest or encourage speculation. It's his least effective, most redundant book for supplementing English courses at the early high school level." L. N. Gerhardt

Library J 93:3988 O 15 '68 190w

Reviewed by G. W. Allen

N Y Times Bk II p22 Je 23 '68 60w

WOOD, JAMES PLAYSTED. Sunnyside; a life of Washington Irving; il. by Antony Saris. 182p $3.95 Pantheon bks.

B or 92 Irving, Washington—Juvenile literature 67-20224

The author "is mainly concerned with detailing the relationship between the circumstances of Irving's later life and the sunny side of life which Irving presented in his writing. [Chronology. Bibliography.] Ages twelve to sixteen." (Book World)

Best Sell 27:431 F 1 '68 100w

"[This] approaches adult literary biography in that it combines literary criticism with a history of the man. [It] makes an excellent transition between juvenile biography and mature biography. . . . A convincing and lucid account—just the type of literary biography which provokes the senior high reader to high-level explorations of the imaginative." Alan Madsen

Book World p12 Mr 17 '68 150w [YA]

"This book, characterized by the simple sentence and an oversimple concept of biography, is not for college students. . . . Although Wood wisely steers a middle course with regard to Irving's politics, in most other respects his book appears to stereotype Irving's life for the young people's market."

Choice 5:56 Mr '68 200w

Reviewed by M. L. Birmingham

Commonweal 88:302 My 24 '68 100w [YA]

"An accurate, documented life of America's first man of letters, enhanced by fine pen-and-ink sketches. Though the attractive format is apparently designed to lure the youngest, the literary style will have greater appeal to older readers. Some fascinating moments emerge, but the discursive passages diminish the book's appeal; while the author does give insight into Irving's character, he does so more by description than through incidents in the narrative. Passages from Irving's works and journals also add to the accuracy of the portrayal. . . . A good purchase for libraries in need of a work on a level between Anya Seton's Washington Irving [BRD 1961] and standard adult works." Bernice Levine

Library J 93:891 F 15 '68 150w [YA]

WOOD, PLAYSTED. See Wood, J. P.

WOOD, ROBERT L. Across the Olympic Mountains; the Press expedition, 1889-90. 220p il maps $5.95 Univ. of Wash. press; Mountaineers

796.5 Press Exploring Expedition. Olympic Mountains. Mountaineering 67-13110

"The original account of the first group to cross the Olympic Mountains appeared in the July 16, 1890 issue of the Seattle Post, which sponsored the expedition. Using this account, which included the narratives of James H. Christie, the expedition leader, and Charles A. Barnes, the historian, Wood has attempted 'to interpret the Press Expedition (six men, four dogs, and two mules) within the light of present-day knowledge . . . but to retain the spirit of the time.'" (Choice)

"The excellent photographs, some of which were original expedition photographs saved by Barnes when the raft was wrecked, vividly recall this journalistic adventure. The simple maps, drawn by the author, who was an editor of The Mountaineer Bulletin, attempt to show the routes of the explorers. This little known episode in Washington history is not mentioned in the standard Northwest histories."

Choice 4:1315 Ja '68 150w

"Wood, a well-known Northwestern mountaineer and a man of literary talent, has adroitly juxtaposed the droll words of the explorers with his own narrative. The result is a wholly engrossing adventure story out of which emerges a jolly, optimistic innocence of the pioneer spirit facing the sublime innocence of the wilderness. This book is Americana at its truest—and best. For any library." Anita Nygaard

Library J 92:2570 J1 '67 180w

WOOD, ROBIN. Howard Hawks. 200p il $4.95 Doubleday

791.43 Hawks, Howard. Moving picture plays—History and criticism 68-23754

An analysis of the work of an American film director who "made his first film in 1926. His latest is El Dorado [made in 1966]. . . . Wood here discusses the themes and attitudes of the films and their stress on . . . courage, endurance, responsibility and a stoic attitude towards death." (Publisher's note) Filmography. This is Cinema World series number seven.

"[This volume is] attractive in format, and interesting. . . . [The author] follows the 'auteur' theory of film criticism, with Hawks considered as the author of everything found in his films. Mr. Wood's treatment is stimulating but he imposes meanings, parallels, and patterns which are sometimes hard to accept." G. D. McDonald

Library J 93:4162 N 1 '68 90w

"Wood is quickly selective with Hawks and tends (disastrously) to be grimly humourless about this director, in whose work humour plays such a central role; his dismissal of The Big Sleep in particular points up the limitations of his approach."

TLS p1032 S 26 '68 80w

WOOD, STEPHEN B. Constitutional politics in the progressive era; child labor and the law. 320p $10 Univ. of Chicago press

331.3 Child labor—U.S. 67-25525

A study of the judicial process as shown in "the campaign during the progressive era to establish federal child labor legislation. The history of that campaign . . . illustrates what S. B. Wood calls 'the deeply political processes by which constitutional law is formed.' The story begins with the rise of the social justice movement and efforts to employ national authority to achieve police power purposes, and ends with the invalidation of the second federal Child Labor Law in 1922." (Publisher's note) Index.

"[The author] does not adequately explain the forces responsible for the passage of the two Federal child labor laws . . . adopted under the Wilson administration. . . . The book is primarily a study of the constitutional arguments, pro and con, presented in the debates in Congress and the litigation in the courts, and an analysis of the Supreme Court decisions invalidating both measures. Wood's sympathies lie with the champions of Federal legislation, and he does not always give the other side its due. Nevertheless, his study is an important contribution to our understanding of American constitutional development in the 20th century."

Choice 5:867 S '68 170w

"Precise exegesis and shrewd aperçus characterize Wood's study—whether it is in the appraisal of the temper of the court, to use P. Freund's phrase; or the analysis of judicial opinion and court conferences; . . . or the evaluation of judicial opinion in . . . three child-labor cases, which so prefigured the early New Deal court and which also did deadly execution to social welfare and social justice legislation on the altar of a theory of the Union. Historians are indebted to Wood for this complex and impressive study of the legislative and judicial history of the child-labor movement. He has filled a great gap in the knowledge of the period . . . [and] has written a book which is the model of its kind." Milton Cantor

WOOD, S. B.—Continued

J Am Hist 55:415 S '68 650w

WOOD, WILLIAM A. Electronic journalism. 17bp $5 Columbia univ. press

384.55 Television broadcasting. Reporters and reporting 67-25305

A professor of journalism at Columbia University considers television to be "the most important single news source for the general public. . . . [The author discusses] regular news programming, live news coverage, in-depth studies, the 'editorial' . . . [and] television journalists. He also presents a behind-the-scenes view of news production." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

"Professor Wood . . . attempts a balanced assessment of the accomplishments, problems, and prospects of television news and public affairs programs. Instead, employing a prose style riven by stock phrases, he produces a panegyric. . . . The worst lacuna [in this book] is the author's reluctance to place the programs in context. . . . Surely this jumble of reality and invention, annihilation and salesmanship has an impact on viewers that is different from other media? Moreover, television is foremost a means of selling products; yet it is difficult to recall, while reading Professor Wood's frequent ingenuous citations of television executives' rhetoric, that he is describing what the institution's former CBS news director Fred Friendly called 'the profit machine.'" D. L. Paletz

Am Pol Sci R 62:640 Je '68 330w

Choice 5:938 O '68 80w

"Here is a timely summary of the state of news broadcasting in America. Mr. Wood focuses on television news 'where, if any place, television rates good marks. . . . [He] has much of importance to say, but says much of it awkwardly. However, the topical nature of the subject makes his book an acceptable addition to large journalism and/or television collections.'" R. A. Hamm

Library J 92:2777 Ag '67 110w

WOODHOUSE, MARTIN. Bush baby; a novel [Eng title: Rock baby]. 251p $4.95 Coward-McCann

68-17571

"Bush Baby is an automatic seismograph . . . that can be parachuted into any area to monitor earth tremors and, by so doing, detect underground nuclear explosions. . . . One of the devices seems to have been tampered with may be sending false data. Gils Yeoman . . . is forced into finding the erratic Bush Baby and fixing it. Along the way, he gets involved with a mysterious laser crystal and a band of Albanians who want the crystal for nuclear experiments. Amanda Gayle, a pretty, young bomb demolition expert provides the romantic interest." (Library J)

"Dull. Lovers of the lesser Ian Fleming and Len Deighton creations will not find $4.95 well spent. Even paperback will not prove rewarding." C. J. Maguire

Best Sell 28:162 Jl 15 '68 300w

Reviewed by Jane Manthorne
Horn Bk 44:449 Ag '68 140w

Reviewed by M. K. Grant
Library J 93:1923 My 1 '68 90w

Reviewed by Regina Minudri
Library J 93:2740 Jl '68 130w [YA]

"Yeoman strikes me as closer to life size than the average professional; he doesn't like intelligence work, he's at least two parts coward, and he ends up on his ear in hand-to-hand combat with a woman. . . . Woodhouse plays [the plot] . . . on the light side, and treats us to a pleasant and intriguing tale." A. J. Hubin

N Y Times Bk R p24 Jl 7 '68 120w

Reviewed by Zena Sutherland
Sat R 51:33 Je 15 '68 110w [YA]

"Though it is just as clever to bring a rabbit a second time out of a hat, we are inevitably less impressed; and this diminution of surprise at Mr. Woodhouse's startling, cheerful ingenuity must be allowed for. Accepting it, we can accept Rock Baby as being as clever—or nearly as clever—as Tree Frog [BRD 1966, in which Gils Yeoman first appeared], which was by far the best thriller of its season. . . . Again, this time plot-wise, a Balchin comparison is unavoidable, but Mr. Woodhouse has a pleasing vein of self-mocking absurdity which Balchin never sought. The more forceful comparison is with another excellent thriller writer. . . . Ian Jefferies, whose hero had just the same brand of attractive, bloody-minded intelligence as this one. Second time round and all, [this] is a splendidly enjoyable book."

TLS p669 Je 27 '68 160w

WOODMAN, HAROLD D. King cotton &amp; his retainers; financing &amp; marketing the cotton crop of the South, 1800-1925. 386p il $9.75 Univ. of Ky. press

338.1 Cotton manufacture and trade 67-29337

In this "study of the cotton factorage system of the Old South and the post-Civil War crop lien system, Mr. Woodman reveals not only the economic intricacies of the systems, but also their far-ranging effects on Southern political and social life. The cotton factor is here displayed . . . as a struggling entrepreneur dependent even in ante bellum days upon Northern capital to finance the planting and marketing of the cotton crop." (Publisher's note) Annotated bibliography. Index.

"Woodman corrects some of the errors of Alfred Holt Stone who wrote perceptively about cotton factorage in the early 20th century, fleshes out the heretofore skeleton outline of the cotton middleman—factor, banker, and merchant—and views the whole cotton trade from the better vantage point of longer perspective than previous historians possessed. This is an important book that will quickly find a place in economic history literature. Woodman's style is refreshing in that a layman or general historian can read and rapidly absorb his interpretations obviously based on shrewd use of a variety of sources. . . . Every university library will probably want it."

Choice 5:385 My '68 170w

"Although cotton has occupied a central place in the economic life both of the Old and the New South, little attention has been paid by historians to the factors and middlemen who marketed and to a large degree financed the growing of the crop. To this neglected aspect of southern history, Harold Woodman has made a valuable contribution. [This] is a study based on a thorough and critical examination of the primary sources, including interesting court records. . . . [and it] presents a very lucid and objective account of the role of the factor in selling the cotton crop, providing plantation supplies, and acting as a 'banker, bookkeeper, and friend.'" Clement Eaton

J Am Hist 55:147 Je '68 420w

Va Q R 44:cxiii summer '68 180w

WOODRING, PAUL. The higher learning in America: a reassessment. 236p $6.95 McGraw-Hill

378.1 Colleges and universities—U.S. Education, Higher 68-16493

A "professor of psychology at Western Washington State College discusses . . . the private liberal arts college, the university, the newer state colleges, and the burgeoning community and junior colleges. He describes . . . the 6,000,000 students in college today—their needs, their anxieties, and their unrest. . . . [He also discusses] the opportunities and prospects of the faculty, the frustrations of the administrators, and the changing power structure." (Library J) Bibliography.

"Without the profundity of Veblen's book by this title [BRD 1919, this book] . . . offers a convenient survey of the whole spectrum of American colleges and universities in 1968. Couched in the conventional wisdom of Main Street, it is rather pontifical; if not middle-aged, it is certainly middle-class. For whom would this book be enlightening? Perhaps for an older generation of high school and small college graduates whose children are attending university; for students and faculty at some of the more conservative and denominational colleges; maybe for teachers and students in small-town high schools and junior colleges.

There are better and more interesting books in the field: . . . but none has so broad a 'coverage.' "

Choice 5:1346 D '68 170w

Christian Century 85:728 My 29 '68 30w

"[This] book is a highly useful collection of essays by the former education editor of the Saturday Review. It is quite up-to-date and, even better, quite perspicacious about the campus revolution and the revolutionary situations which are developing on many campuses not yet heard from. . . . I can recommend it particularly to parents who are utterly baffled about what they've been reading in the newspapers." Arnold Beichman

Christian Science Monitor p7 Je 20 '68 350w

"A superbly argued, excellently written presentation of higher education in America today—its historical antecedents, its present state, its problems, and its probable lines of future development. . . . Mr. Woodring advances perceptive and realistic proposals for many of the most pressing problems—who and how many shall go to college; who should pay; what pattern of degrees should be established; and who will teach the undergraduates. As one of the best discussions of American higher education today, this volume is enthusiastically recommended for all serious readers and should certainly be in any library where there is even a slight interest in education." Jim Ranz

Library J 93:2485 Je 15 '68 150w

Reviewed by F. M. Hechinger

N Y Times Bk R p6 Je 23 '68 1150w

"The university's neglect of undergraduate teaching and the faculty's desertion of liberal education in favor of specialized research are the recurring charges upon which Mr. Woodring argues for reform. . . . In the section, 'Students of a New Era,' the tone approaches caution, which may be a useful corrective at a time of wild speculation concerning the national student unrest. That Woodring chose to understate youth's reactions, fitting them into historical context and indulging just a bit in avuncular head-patting, may detract from the book's current effectiveness. . . . Of great service, on the other hand, are the passages describing the different kinds of colleges together with their supporting structures and subcultures. . . . A question that undercuts them all—how to pay for it—is not undertaken. . . . In the discussion on undergraduate liberal education, Woodring puts down his pipe and sharpens his pencil. His prescription comes close to that of [R. M.] Hutchins in The Higher Learning [BRD 1936]." Louis Benezet

Sat R 51:74 Je 15 '68 850w

TLS p1213 O 31 '68 1250w

WOODRUFF, WILLIAM. Impact of Western man; a study of Europe's role in the world economy, 1750-1960. 375p $8.50; text ed $6 St Martins

382 Economic conditions. Civilization, Occidental 66-17299

Following an introductory chapter, the author "traces the course of European expansion and imperialism from the voyages of Columbus and Vasco da Gama to the mid-twentieth century. Then follow chapters devoted to European emigration, foreign investment, the diffusion of technology, the 'conquest of distance,' . . . and international commerce. Each of these chapters is accompanied by a tabular appendix which presents in summary form the principal statistical and some other factual information relevant to its subject. In a short 'epilogue' [Woodruff] presents his ideas on the philosophical implications of the story." (Am Econ R) Annotated bibliography. Index.

"This is a story of epic proportions. Few other than authors of textbooks have dared attempt to tell it. Even segments of the story have their pitfalls. . . . The principal contribution of the book is that it brings together in one place a great deal of the factual information relevant to the subject of European expansion in the last two centuries. Unfortunately, since the author relied almost exclusively on secondary sources, some of the information is incorrect, contradictory, outdated, or otherwise misleading. . . . The tables relating to foreign investment are especially misleading. . . . Moreover, the estimates of investment (and of foreign commerce in Chapter VII) are garnered uncritically from a variety of sources with little attempt to systematize or reconcile their differences. Professor Woodruff has not succeeded in reconciling in his own mind the precise outlines and limitations of his subject." R. E. Cameron

Am Econ R 57:1346 D '67 1050w

"This very useful book begins inauspiciously with two introductory chapters on 'The Impact of European Ideas in the World' and 'The Course of Empire.' The first is a hodgepodge of confused and confusing generalizations; the second, a summary of European empire building and a rehash of the various theories concerning the dynamics of imperialism. . . . [But there are] invaluable statistical data in the chapters that follow. . . . While some of this material is well known, much of it, including the cost of inland transport in selected countries between 1800 and 1960, eighty years' freight rates from 1869 to 1949, and emigration to Siberia during the years 1850-1930 (this last data being supplied by the USSR Academy of Science), is not familiar. . . . Students of world history will find this a most useful reference work and can look forward to a forthcoming companion study of the 'external impact' of the United States." L. S. Stavrianos

Am Hist R 73:440 D '67 400w

"Some readers may quibble with Woodruff's opinions, for, at times, the work appears to be an apology for imperialism and the role of Christianity in world economic development. But a closer reading shows the approach is more balanced one, especially in the well written 'Epilogue.' A welcome addition to library collections of economic history and economic development, as well as a most valuable statistical and historical supplementary text for students of European international economic influence."

Choice 5:102 Mr '68 240w

Reviewed by Keith Eubank

Library J 92:1487 Ap 1 '67 190w

WOODS, SHADRACH. Candilis, Josic, Woods; building for people; introd. by Jürgen Jodicke (tr. by James C. Palmes). 226p il col il $20 Praeger

724.9 Architecture, Modern—20th century

67-29465

One of the three partners in a French architectural firm "demonstrates some of the views and working methods they have developed. Their works, illustrated by . . . photographs, plans, and drawings, are presented under the main divisions of housing, ancillaries of housing—such as schools and recreation areas—and urban planning, fitting . . . the general equipment of cities together. The book is divided into four sections, so the same project is treated from several approaches—function, architectural elements, the pattern of housing units within a building or development, and the overall form of the social structure, whether building or city." (Publisher's note) Text, notes, captions in English, French and German. Subject index.

"To a careful reader [this book] is a source of intellectual delight; to those who just want to thumb through its pages, as the overwhelming majority of architectural book users do, it might become a source of misunderstandings and even frustrations. . . . Here are the titles of the . . . chapters: 1. Articulation of function; 2. Articulation of the limits of space; 3. Articulation of volumes and spaces; 4. Articulation of public and private domains. . . . The organization of the book does not rely on descriptions of individual projects. The same projects can be found in several sections serving different purposes—conveying different ideas. As was said before, this organization of the book is a source of delight for a careful reader. It forces you into being intellectually alive!" Jerzy Soltan

Arch Forum 129:74 D '68 2000w

"Woods, a partner in the Paris firm of Candilis-Josic-Woods, presents . . . a complete and needed record of the firm's activities between 1949-63. Written material includes a note on the team's history and philosophy by Jürgen Jodicke and periodic broad statements of approach by the author, most of which are dry and stiffly jargonese. The message of the book is felt most strongly in the illustrations. However, the photographs, though clear, lack variety; and sketches and plans are often too pale, suggesting copies of originals rather than restatements for the purposes of publication. . . . In word and illustration the book does not excite the reader and thus fails to convince him of the impact which this architectural firm has made in the field of mass housing."

Choice 5:1126 N '68 140w

WOODS, SHADRACH—Continued

"As Joedicke explains in his foreword, these [architects] have . . . advanced from Le Corbusier's preoccupation with form to buildings and towns 'conceived as a framework and generator of human activities,' seeing their task as interpreting the ideas of the common man. The more than 400 photographs, plans, and drawings contained here, with their skimpy captions, unfortunately tell us at once too much and too little about this vital new approach to make this book as instructive as it ought to be. For serious architecture and city planning collections." Wolf Von Eckardt
Library J 93:1470 Ap 1 '68 190w

WOODWARD, C. VANN, ed. The comparative approach to American history. 370p $6.50 Basic bks.

973 U.S.—History 68-11202

A collection of twenty-four essays read "for the Voice of America by leading American historians. These historians compare particular periods or movements in America with parallel ones in other societies." (Choice) Annotated chapter bibliographies. Index.

"The essays are interpretive, without footnotes . . . and are suitable for the general reader. Comparative history is attracting more scholarly attention as this volume attests, but with varying success. Thus the essay on the Enlightenment by Peter Gay is quite illuminating while Ernest R. May's comparison of America's Cold War with pax romana or pax britannica is less so, as he admits. The best comparisons are of specific institutions and movements that are historically contemporary." Choice 5:261 Ap '68 130w

"The editor of the volume and the contributor of two admirable general essays has done extremely well in his selection of scholars and themes. . . . Except in one or two cases, the writers have made comparison of some sort the focus of attention. . . . In several cases [these] procedures have resulted in the correction of generalizations and interpretations widely accepted. . . . With the exception of a few articles, especially Cochran's, we are not taken very far on the road to the point at which we clearly see how the comparative method can be a tool for establishing hypotheses, for gathering new evidence to test them, for reformulating and retesting them. In other words, these historians are probably representative of the profession in being reluctant to try to adapt experimental logic to situations where actual experimentation is impossible. To say this is not, however, to downgrade the fresh insights, the correction of established generalizations, and the suggestive clues for further research that make this volume . . . truly important." Merle Curti
J Am Hist 55:371 S '68 1150w

"Despite some unevenness in the approach to the topic and the organization of the different essays, this is still a valuable and refreshing contribution to American historiography. Intended for the serious student, the book is highly recommended for college and large public libraries." Elmer Johnson
Library J 93:77 Ja 1 '68 150w

WOODWARD, G. W. O. The dissolution of the monasteries. 186p pl $5.95 Walker & co.

271 Monasticism and religious orders. England—Church history 67-13243

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Reviewed by W. H. Dunham
Am Hist R 73:472 D '67 360w

Reviewed by G. R. Elton
Engl Hist R 83:394 Ap '68 280w

Reviewed by B. L. Beer
Social Studies 59:134 Mr '68 370w

WOODWARD, SIR LLEWELLYN. Great Britain and the War of 1914-1918. 610p maps $13.50 Barnes & Noble

940.3 European War, 1914-1918—Great Britain 67-111146

A professor emeritus of the Institute for Advanced Study in Princeton presents a history of Great Britain's involvement in the first World War terminating with a description of the peace settlement with Germany. In addition to descriptions of operations on the Western front there are "chapters on other theatres in which British troops were engaged, accounts of the naval operations and the war in the air, and a . . . treatment of the administrative aspects of the war, particularly of the evolution of the Supreme Command. . . . [Other chapters describe] production, shipping, labor problems, rationing, and finance." (Reporter)

Choice 5:859 S '68 120w

"In his interesting autobiographical introduction the author describes this book as a combination of the essential facts and a running commentary. . . . The description is accurate and well judged. Sir Llewellyn has made no attempt to add to the existing mass of information, or to modify it, by research in the official British archives that have recently become available for these years. His references even to recent writings on the first world war by other historians—and they have been plentiful—are infrequent. A little is lost in consequence . . . [but] this book could hardly be bettered as a survey based on selection from existing accounts and adjudication between them. . . . The author's running commentary [is characterized by] wit, clarity and mature and independent judgment. . . . For those to whom the first world war will be new ground, it is likely for some time to be the best introduction available."

Economist 225:633 N 11 '67 400w

Reviewed by Norman Horrocks

Library J 93:2238 Je 1 '68 180w

"Woodward had (and still has) little respect for the military establishment with which Britain started the war. . . . [This is an] enormously rich and comprehensive book. It is, first of all, a history of the fighting. . . . On the domestic side, there are some notable omissions . . . but these are more than offset by the thoroughness with which the author has dealt with party politics in England and problems of economic mobilization." G. A. Craig
Reporter 38:49 Ap 18 '68 1500w

TLS p1182 D 7 '67 800w

WOOLF, S. J., jt auth. Italian public enterprise. See Posner, M.V.

WOOLLEY, CATHERINE. See Thayer, J.

WOOTTON, GRAHAM. Workers, unions and the state. 173p $6 Schocken

331 Labor unions. Labor and laboring classes—Great Britain 67-12612

"While drawing upon previous studies of a social-analytic nature, this book is a . . . philosophical treatise on the concept of civil virtue as it affects and is affected by the relations between labor and the community as represented by government. Wootton contends that the individual must be conceptualized within his many social groups, including the trade union, each having some claim upon his allegiance. [The] notion that these claims are ordered hierarchically with political obligation at the summit is rejected. Instead a more complex schema of accommodating claims around a focus of civic obligation is offered. Attention is directed toward the interactive relationship of man as worker and man as unionist." (Choice) Indexes of names and of subjects.

"[The author,] an Oxford University specialist in the sociology of politics, is uniquely equipped for his task with an impressive background in philosophy, social psychology, industrial relations, and organization theory. The book is more clearly written than most worthwhile contributions in the field. . . . A book for the scholar, not the undergraduate or layman."

Choice 4:1417 F '68 190w

"The premises of this book . . . have a respectable pedigree; and the broad prescription for man's improvement with which it ends would certainly have been applauded by J. S. Mill (who admittedly is quoted in aid). But it is not clear that Dr Wootton has added much of value to the orthodox diagnosis of the problem; and his proposed remedies seem to provide little basis for political, still less for industrial action. . . . Is [the union] in any sense a recognisable community, maintaining common ends and interests among leaders, officials and mass membership alike? If this is really what Dr Wootton is saying, more proof is needed than he provides."

Economist 221:1145 D 10 '66 490w

Reviewed by Harry Johnson

New Statesman 73:15 Ja 6 '67 190w

"Dr. Wootton examines [an] inherent disease of industry in some detail to show that the unconstructive attitude of trade unions to the national interest is nothing but a reflection of their member's inevitable states of mind. He argues that industrial relations could be improved and workers' loyalties widened to serve the community if they had more say in the nature and conduct of their work. . . . Up to this point the book contains important food for thought in industry but after that the social theorist is more in evidence than the social scientist. In three somewhat sketchy chapters Dr. Wootton claims that the attainment of 'civic virtue' implies not only the changes he has proposed for industry but also a new approach to education and political systems. . . . Challenging as such ideas may be, they need much greater elaboration and supporting evidence than Dr. Wootton offers here."

TLS p1155 D 8 '66 550w

WORLAND, STEPHEN THEODORE. Scholasticism and welfare economics. 298p il $7.50 Univ. of Notre Dame press

330.1 Welfare economics. Scholasticism 67-12123

"In this book the Associate Professor of Economics at the University of Notre Dame endeavours to show that an important relationship exists between the way in which scholasticism and modern welfare economics approach the same basic question in social philosophy, namely what 'ethical value' should be attributed to economic activity and what is the ground or source of such ethical value." (Economist)

Reviewed by R. L. Porter
Am Econ R 58:978 S '68 750w
Choice 5:534 Je '68 180w

"Professor Worland's attempt is well-meant. But anyone interested in the history of ideas will at once recognise here another example of the ever-present temptation to establish intellectual links between doctrines of different ages in order to underpin older theories, to which, for one reason or another, one is attached with a 'scientific' rationalisation derived from modern analysis. Like so many other attempts of this kind, Professor Worland leaves one highly unsatisfied—unless, that is, the reader shares his original preconception. The 'linking' that is attempted here is at many points rather laboured (a somewhat long-winded style does not help); and one must, in the end, doubt whether the attempt is really worth while."

Economist 226:37 Ja '68 420w

"This is a scholarly book which puts new light on welfare economics and gives a good survey of the historical antecedents of welfare theory, and the applications of positive economics to normative ideas. It should appeal to readers interested in seeing the relations that exist between religious or moral ends and the applications of economic theories. A considerable familiarity with economic theory and scholastic philosophy is presupposed on the part of the reader. Recommended primarily to university and college libraries and to libraries with a highly educated clientele or extensive sections on economics." R. W. Haseltine

Library J 92:570 F 1 '67 230w

The WORLD book encyclopedia. 20v il col il maps col maps $179-$190 Field enterprises

031 Encyclopedias and dictionaries 68-10013

"A general encyclopedia for home, school, and library use. . . . Bibliographies, grouped alphabetically by author and usually divided into separate sections for young and older readers, appear at the end of selected articles. . . . The Reading and Study Guide, which previously occupied volume 20, is now a separate, paperback supplement to the 20 volumes of the encyclopedia. It classifies into 44 categories the topics in the encyclopedia, referring to subjects and illustrations." (Booklist and S B B) For reviews of the 1963 edition see BRD 1963.

"Comparison of the 1963 and 1968 editions confirms that social studies and science articles have been given proportionately the most revision attention during the five-year period. . . . The continuing addition of superior illustrations is an outstanding feature. . . . Arrangement of articles is alphabetical, word by word. . . . Biographical coverage continues to be generally strong. However, Negroes in America and Africa should have been given more attention. . . . The style of writing is simple and direct; the vocabulary is suited to the intended audience. . . . The set is durably and attractively bound. . . . [The] 1968 edition is a practical and well-designed reference tool that will serve the needs of elementary and secondary school students and will also be useful for home reference. Accuracy, up-to-dateness, clear illustrations, language appropriate to the intended audience, superior organization, and careful editing make the content of this encyclopedia easily accessible to fifth grade through adult readers. It is recommended for purchase by public, elementary, and secondary school libraries. Libraries with the 1963 or earlier editions should replace them with the 1968 edition."

Booklist and S B ■ 65:369 D 1 '68 2900w

WORLDMARK encyclopedia of the nations; ed. and publisher: Moshe Y. Sachs. 3d ed 5v il maps col maps $59.95 Worldmark press

910.3 Geography—Dictionaries. History—Dictionaries. United Nations 67-13728

This encyclopedia is a guide to the geographic, historical, political, social and economic status of all nations, their international relationships and the United Nations system. Contents: v 1, United Nations; v2, Africa; v3, Americas; v4, Asia and Australasia; v5, Europe. Bibliographies. For reviews of the second edition see BRD 1964.

"The two previous editions of this title were reviewed favorably and recommended. . . . Examination of the current edition discloses no major changes in editorial policy, arrangement, range and extent of content, and format from the second edition published in 1963. The content has been found to have been extensively updated."

Booklist and S B B 65:376 D 1 '68 60w

"Seven new nations raise to 141 the number that receive the full treatment: first the outward symbols such as map, flag, and money, and then the interior factors under fifty subject headings. . . . Extensive revisions take the history and statistics through March 1967. A thorough job, the work of a worldwide team of experts." D. M. Glixon

Sat R 50:38 N 18 '67 100w

WORTMAN, RICHARD. The crisis of Russian populism. 221p $6.50 Cambridge

947.08 Russia—Politics and government. Russia—Intellectual life [67-12849]

"The first part of the book relates the rise of Populist values in the 1860's and 1870's to the changing character of Russian society. . . . [The author discusses] writers on peasant life—Engel'gardt, Uspenskii, and Zlatovratskii, . . . the Narodnik economic writings of Daniel'son and Vorontsov, and . . . a few lesser figures. [He] is particularly concerned with the complexities of the changing relationship between the intelligentsia and the peasantry." (Am Hist R) Bibliography. Index.

"[Wortman] relies heavily upon, while managing to avoid the pitfalls of, the relatively untried and hazardous techniques of psychological analysis. . . . [He] taps a rich store of material in the stories, publicistic writings, letters, and autobiographical fragments of his three chief figures. He exploits this material with a rare sensitivity, portraying concretely and movingly the dramatic wreck of Populist illusions. . . . Imaginatively conceived, lucidly organized, and gracefully written, this slim volume decidedly clarifies the disintegration of Populism; it also contributes to our understanding of the rise of Russian Marxism. More than that, the insights it provides may encourage other scholars to focus upon Russian history . . . some of the fruitful concepts and techniques of the social sciences." S. H. Baron

Am Hist R 73:1581 Je '68 500w

"The sources of the populist vision, as well as its confrontation with reality, are very well analyzed. While no substitute for [F.] Venturi, Roots of Revolution [BRD 1961], this book is an excellent complement to it. [It is] based on primary materials (including archival) and abreast of the best scholarship (including recent Soviet work). . . . No library which supports work in Russian or intellectual history (for this is a first-rate study in the pathology of an ideology) should be without this book."

Choice 5:675 J1 '68 200w

"Wortman is perhaps a little severe on Vorontsov. . . . The book is, however, a useful contribution to our knowledge of the last years of the narodnik movement, and is written in a clear and straightforward style, marred only by an occasional lapse into clichés . . . and by some fearful neologisms." TLS p128 F 8 '68 470w

WORTMAN, RICHARD—Continued

WRAITH, R. E. Guggisberg. 342p pl $6.75 Oxford

B or 92 Guggisberg, Sir Frederick Gordon [67-81063]

A biography of the governor of the Gold Coast after World War I, who was responsible for 'the creation of Achimota as an educational establishment . . . the construction of a deep-water harbour at Takoradi . . . and the Korle Bu Hospital at Accra. . . . He is remembered today by the people of Ghana as the best governor of colonial days.' (TLS)

"Guggisberg was not a standard colonial governor, and this is not a standard gubernatorial biography. It is more nearly an appreciation of the man than a study of his official acts and influence. Written before the recent opening of the Colonial Office records into the 1920's, it wisely avoids subjects that can only be treated fully when these records are available. As a result, it makes no claim to be definitive, nor to deal with the history of the Gold Coast during Guggisberg's governorship between 1919 and 1927. Guggisberg's personality and springs of action nevertheless come through clearly in a well-written and enjoyable book. . . . Perhaps [its] chief service will be to recall what colonial rulers thought they were doing only a few decades ago." P. D. Curtin

Am Hist R 73:873 F '68 350w

"The book, well written and even quite delightful at times, is a valuable study for any serious student of the British Empire in Africa or Ghana. It is possible that it could become a standard work among the handful of fine biographies about important British colonial officials. . . . Among a host of recent books on Ghana, this is one of the best and most scholarly."

Choice 4:1301 Ja '68 170w

Reviewed by J. D. Hargreaves

Engl Hist R 83:878 O '68 410w

TLS p597 J1 6 '67 750w

WRENN, CHARLES LESLIE. Word and symbol; studies in English language. 197p $4.75 Barnes & Noble

400 English language [67-101981]

This collection includes essays on such topics as "Saxons and Celts in South-west Britain," a concern with Irish thought in England, "Standard" Old English, a concern with establishing the proper dialect for initial studies, . . . [and] 'On the Continuity of English Poetry.' " (Choice)

"[The selections], all but one reprints from 1933-58, . . . contain an unpretentious style and a preface helpful in establishing the purpose of the essays and footnotes supply a bibliography. There is not a work comparable to this."

Choice 5:630 J1 '68 140w

"Wrenn argues effectively that a sound knowledge of language is indispensable to the student of literature . . . [and] that the study of language is incomplete if no account is taken of its aesthetic qualities as revealed in literary texts."

TLS p728 J1 11 '68 440w

WRIGHT, DAVID MCCORD. The trouble with Marx; introd. by Gottfried Haberler. 192p $5 Arlington house

335.4 Communism 67-18505

The author examines "Marx's theories from an economist's viewpoint. He discusses the confusion that exists between bureaucracy and the Marxist idea of the state; the class struggle; Marx's labor theory of value; his theory of the falling rate of profit; the theory of imperialism; Marx's prediction of the movement of history; the practical working of Marxist theory as a means of guiding a country; the role of capitalist incomes as guides and incentives to growth; social democracy versus

Leninist-Marxism, and other . . . articles of Marxist belief." (Library J)

"[This is a] crude, hardly recognizable, caricature of Marx's ideas. . . . The organization is illogical and sometimes imperceptible as Wright jumps in one paragraph from philosophical concepts to economics and back to philosophy. . . . It is hard to isolate a specific argument, not only because they flow together, but because his attacks are largely by innuendo or are red herrings thrown at straw men. Furthermore, he reserves his strongest attacks for non-Marxist social democrats, Keynesians, and all other 'planners' who would subtly lead society away from pure capitalism." H. J. Sherman

Am Econ R 58:568 Je '68 800w

"By taking no account of any of the newer interpretations of Marxism, Wright has succeeded in offering us a decidedly trivial book. . . . [He] shows such a total misunderstanding of what Marx meant by 'the withering away of the state,' that one is forced to wonder whether [he] has read any significant part of the corpus of Marx literature. The arguments presented in the book are for the most part 60 years out of date, and derive from a politically conservative point of view."

Choice 5:410 My '68 200w

"Those readers leaning emotionally towards Marxism may feel irritated by what Professor Wright has to say, but for the uncommitted it is interesting to read a critical examination of Marxism, excluding the certitude usually employed in such discussions. Certainly, the book should read as critically as Marxism itself is criticized. Recommended for the well-informed reader." W. L. Morin

Library J 92:3649 O 15 '67 170w

Reviewed by A. G. Meyer

Social Studies 59:283 N '68 300w

WRIGHT, DAVID TYLDEN. See Tylden-Wright, D.

WRIGHT, FRANK LLOYD. The Japanese print; an interpretation. 144p col pl $30 Horizon press

769 Color prints, Japanese 67-66202

This volume contains the architect's various writings about Japanese prints published between 1912 and 1943, as well as thirty-two color plates selected from Wright's collection. Bibliography.

Choice 5:479 Je '68 120w

"The longest article is Wright's beautifully clear interpretation of prints. Other selections include his introductions to a 1917 exhibit at the Arts Club of Chicago, and to the Anderson Gallery catalog for the famous 1927 sale of his own Japanese prints. . . . The color reproduction meets with varying degrees of success. The writing is of considerable importance because it contains clues to the aesthetic of the great architect. It will also prove fascinating to those interested in Japanese prints. The book is handsomely produced, but because of the price it is recommended only for large art collections." W. J. Dane

Library J 93:746 F 15 '68 200w

"A reader with any knowledge of the subject will wonder whether the resurrection of these devotional texts was at all necessary. Although Wright was one of America's earliest and greatest collectors of Japanese prints (Ukiyoe), he tended in these writings to use them more as texts for his sermons on the superior culture of Japan than for the purpose of discussing them as prints. Ever eager to correct his fellow Americans, he wrote such essays in the pretentious manner of the 19th-century sage who has been forced into a spiritual retreat by his uncouth countrymen. . . . Even though the reader may learn little about the prints, he may enjoy the book itself with its superb plates and handsome layout and typography." Gordon Washburn

N Y Times Bk R p5 D 24 '67 300w

WRIGHT, H. E., jt. ed. Pleistocene extinctions. See Martin, P. S.

WRIGHT, HELEN, jt. ed. Anthropology. See Rapport, S.

WRIGHT, J. LEITCH. William Augustus Bowles; director general of the Creek nation, by J. Leitch Wright, Jr. 211p $6.95 Univ. of Ga. press

B or 92 Bowles, William Augustus. Creek Indians 67-27143

This biography recounts the life of "an 18th-century Marylander who became a loyalist during the Revolutionary War, served in Florida, and later devoted his career to an effort to establish an independent Creek state in the old Southwest." (Choice) Bibliography. Index.

"[This is] a graceful and useful biography. . . . Wright has recovered an amazing amount of detail on Bowles and presents his story attractively. The main scholarly value of the book is its commentary on the political development of the Southwest and the role of the Indian territory in European diplomacy. Recommended for all libraries as a readable and fascinating book."

Choice 5:1217 N '68 140w

Reviewed by H. E. Smith

Library J 93:2481 Je 15 '68 140w

WRIGHT, JAMES. Shall we gather at the river. 58p $4; pa $2 Wesleyan univ. press

811

68-27545

"The poems in this new collection are [the author's] own choice of his most meaningful writing since [the publication of The Branch Will not Break, BRD 1963]." (Publisher's note) Most of the poems were first published in such journals as Chelsea, Hudson Review, New Yorker and Poetry.

"Some of the poetic images clearly illuminate [Wright's] feelings of alienation. . . . Other images are often not very clear. . . . His best poems are about his father and his home, and of his realization that when down to the last raw kernel of his existence, life is really very precious to him. The poems as a whole do evoke a mood, and communicate his experiences. They are poems that grow on the reader; they do not reveal themselves in one or two readings." Estelle Benedict

Library J 93:3145 S 15 '68 120w

"[This] new book hardly suggests the gifts [Wright] displayed not so long ago. But the emergence into freer lines and freer speech need imply no repudiation of the exquisite poems he wrote in more traditional styles. One gain in the recent work is obvious: his vocabulary is closer to actual American speech, and his grim fantasies have a corresponding strength. At the same time he has begun to voice a degree of pathos that shatters his own dignity but is profoundly touching. In fact, the omnipresence of despair in these poems takes us painfully beyond the normal definitions of literature."

TLS p1172 O 17 '68 150w

WRIGHT, JAMES E. The Galena lead district; federal policy and practice. 1824-1847 [pub] for the Univ. of Wis. Dept. of history. 148p il $3.25 State hist. soc. of Wis.

355.008 U.S.—Public lands. U.S.—Economic policy. Mines and mineral resources—U.S. 67-63182

This work "describes the government policy of public ownership and leasing of the lead mines in the Fever River region of Wisconsin and Illinois." (J Am Hist) Bibliography. Index.

"This short, well-written volume provides an interesting addition to the literature on public land policy between 1807 and 1847. Previous studies have given only perfunctory treatment to the application of the federal leasing system of the lead ore lands, the subject of this study. . . . [The work] is well researched and based on a wide range of sources. The student of mining history, as well as of land policy, will find this local history study well worth the reading." L. T. Ellis

Am Hist R 73:913 F '68 300w

"This book has the characteristics of most doctoral dissertations—detailed and dull. . . . There are ten illustrations and two maps, one of which shows the location of twenty-five public lead mines. The documentation is impressive, the index is detailed, and the comprehensive bibliography lists all pertinent primary and secondary materials." J. H. Krenkel

J Am Hist 54:654 D '67 300w

WRIGHT, LOUIS B. The American heritage history of the thirteen colonies. See American heritage

WRIGHT, LOUIS B., ed. Everyday life in the age of enterprise, 1865-1900. See Walker, R. H.

WRIGHT, M. A. The business of business; private enterprise and public affairs; with a foreword by Erwin D. Canham. 168p $5.95 McGraw

650.01 Industry and state—U.S. 67-30659

"This is a collection of 13 speeches delivered at diverse meetings by [the] chairman of the board of Humble Oil & Refining Company and ex-president of the United States Chamber of Commerce. His speeches depict today's 'new capitalism' in action, indicating corporate awareness of latter-day social and economic problems. His topics range from public affairs to environmental pollution." (Library J)

"While it is not at all surprising that the subject matter is wide and varied, it is the tone which is impressive: a positive, constructive, and active role for business in solving some of the social problems besetting modern America, particularly those in the 'public sector.' . . . Although Wright does not offer specific solutions, he does raise some very interesting questions for all concerned businessmen to consider seriously. In many ways the content resembles that of [L.] Hodges' The Business Conscience [BRD 1963], but unlike Hodges it does not consider the personal behavior of businessmen, which, to some, remains the biggest problem currently facing business."

Choice 5:534 Je '68 180w

"This is a good quote book for bankers and businessmen who have to make speeches before local boards of trade and other groups. Recommended only for large business collections." Paul Sarnoff

Library J 93:749 F 15 '68 130w

WRIGHT, NATHAN. Let's work together [by] Nathan Wright, Jr. 271p $4.95 Hawthorn bks. 301.451 Negroes. U.S.—Race relations

68-30707

"Based on the thesis that before black and white can work together they must each work out their own problems, this book is concerned with three main areas: those problems which the white people need to deal with; those which the black people must solve for themselves; and those which involve cooperation and unity. In each case, Dr. Wright lists the problems, discusses them and offers . . . solutions." (Publisher's note) Index.

Reviewed by W. L. Lucey

America 119:562 N 30 '68 70w

"This volume is a rational appraisal of 'Black Power'. It underlines the need of the black population in the United States to be proud of their blackness and to unite for black power regardless of social class differentiation. To the whites, the message is a request for support, chiefly in financial terms and in really equal opportunities for power, economic and political. . . . Dr. Wright points out most of the areas of problems and discrimination. What he misses, I believe, is that power is also lacking to the lower class whites. . . . On the one hand, [he] denounces the myth of black omniscience; while on the other he promotes the myth of universal black honesty in his defense of Powell. . . . Yet despite these objections, this book must be read by whites if they wish to be knowledgeable about our black brothers." J. J. Conlin

Best Sell 28:272 O 1 '68 490w

Christian Century 85:1220 S 25 '68 50w

Reviewed by Jane Manthorne

Horn Bk 44:715 D '68 160w

"Dr. Wright, who was chairman of the 1967 National Conference on Black Power and is a moderate among black activists, has not written a Pollyanna call for unity as his title might suggest, but rather . . . a hardheaded delineation of areas in which the white liberal and black militant might each work independently and occasionally together toward the common end of a just society. There are some suggestions—such as black control of education for blacks and whites—which will shock new thoughts into even the most experienced liber-

WRIGHT, NATHAN—Continued

al. . . . This is a good book for adults concerned with the present racial crisis in the United States." Edward Margolies
Library J 93:2840 Ag '68 160

"Wright now stands among the advocates of Black Power. . . . [He] maintains that what whites can do to help the black man in his struggle is first of all to recognize their guilt, their responsibility for the oppression of black men in American society. . . . The book, characterized by the style and clichés of a preacher's sermons and homilies, is thin in content. Its explication of the concepts of Black Power and Black Consciousness offers nothing that is not already widely known. [It] does, however, lucidly summarize the major ideas of the reformist (as opposed to the revolutionary) version of the concepts of Black Consciousness and Black Power." August Meier

Sat R 51:40 S 21 '68 750w

WRIGHT, NATHAN. Ready to riot [by] Nathan Wright, Jr. 148p $4.95 Holt

301.451 Negroes—Moral and social conditions. U.S.—Race relations. Newark, New Jersey—Race relations 68-12218

Describing the City of Newark as an example of urban blight, the author, a minister and a sociologist, presents an "appeal aimed principally at white business leaders, which marshalls . . . statistics about black deprivation, joblessness, and political impotence. It is a plea to the white power structure of Newark to change its ways." (New Repub)

Reviewed by Andrew Buni
America 118:713 My 25 '68 350w
Choice 5:1233 N '68 150w

"[The] executive director of the department of urban work of the Episcopal diocese of Newark, New Jersey . . . explains why all our urban centers are ready to explode. Much that he has to say about the desperate and hopeless masses is familiar, but his insistence on the need for black leadership, economic and political power and black equity and excellence is especially significant when one realizes that here is a thoughtful black churchman who is as militant as the young people in the streets of Detroit and Newark." Alan Seaburg

Christian Century 85:1081 Ag 28 '68 140w

"Much of this material is familiar: corrupt and apathetic city administrations, economics, exploitation, racism, a fleeing white middle class, an exodus of business and industries, a rapid influx of Southern migrants badly educated and badly prepared for urban life, and so on. Mr. Wright documents his case with a variety of illustrations and statistics and feels that the only way to stop the deterioration of the cities is to give the newcomers a solid economic and political stake in the preservation of their new homes. A first-rate intensive case history of a dying city." Edward Margolies

Library J 93:2638 Jl '68 200w

Reviewed by Simon Lazarus
New Repub 158:37 Je 8 '68 430w

"Clearly intended to shock, . . . the rhetoric of black power shouts from almost every page. . . . [The book] never seems to be sure what it is. . . . [The author] seems to be writing a racial portrait of his city. Unhappily, the portrait never comes alive. The reader must wade through arid pages of statistics, percentages, charts and graphs. . . . The book is too much a polemical tract to be a work of scholarship, too dry and statistical to be a vital piece of reporting, and simply too late to be an original statement." J. A. Lukas

N Y Times Bk R p10 Je 16 '68 500w
New Yorker 44:64 Jl 6 '68 80w

Reviewed by Ernest Dunbar
Sat R 51:26 Je 1 '68 240w

Reviewed by Zena Sutherland
Sat R 51:37 O 19 '68 110w [YA]

WRIGHT, ROBERT. Combat and command. See Douglas of Kirtleside, S., 1st Baron

WRIGHTSON, PATRICIA. A racecourse for Andy; il. by Margaret Horder [Eng title: "I own the racecourse!"]. 156p $3.50 Harcourt 68-11507

"Mentally retarded Andy 'buys' the local racetrack from a bottlepicker. Convinced that he is the owner, no amount of logic can persuade Andy that he isn't. . . . Grades four to six." (Library J)

"The understanding of human nature that the author, an Australian, displayed in two earlier books, The Feather Star [BRD 1963] and Down to Earth [BRD 1965], again is manifest in her sensitive, probing portrayal of Andy and his friends. And she handles their unusual and moving relationship with one another with delicacy and understatement in a story that has very real value for today's young readers." Polly Goodwin

Book World p3 (children's issue) My 5 '68 260w

Horn Bk 44:326 Je '68 220w

"A good plot and an attractive format. . . . The characters are well drawn and realistically handled, although not many children like Andy are lucky enough to have a core of such solicitous friends among their contemporaries. This book is, on the whole, subtler, less mature, and without the universal appeal of Don't Take Teddy [by B. Friis-Baastad, BRD 1967]. Because of the book's slow pace and its racetrack setting, which will be alien to many American children, especially to fourth- and fifth-graders, its audience will be limited." M. A. Emery

Library J 93:1806 Ap 15 '68 110w

"This outstanding story . . . has no aura of sentimentality, no obtrusive message; it is poignant just because of the simple acceptance of Andy by both adults and children. They do not tolerate him, they like and protect him. A distinguished book." Zena Sutherland

Sat R 51:40 My 11 '68 120w

TLS p583 Je 6 '68 300w

WU, EUGENE, jt. auth. Contemporary China. See Berton, P.

WU, YUAN-LI. The spatial economy of Communist China: a study on industrial location and transportation, by Yuan-Li Wu with H. C. Ling and Grace Hsiao Wu. (Stanford Univ. Hoover inst. on war, revolution, and peace. Publication) 367p maps $10 Praeger

330.951 China (People's Republic of China)—Economic conditions. China (People's Republic of China)—Industries. Transportation 67-20739

This book "examines two interrelated . . . aspects of Communist China's economic development—locational policy and the development and use of transportation facilities. . . . [The author] traces the features of China's spatial structure before the Communist takeover and the manner in which this pattern has been altered." (Publisher's note) Index of place names. Index.

"The author of two earlier works in the area (The Economy of Communist China, [BRD 1966] and The Steel Industry in Communist China), Yuan-li presents a detailed and tedious (to the non-specialist) examination of the location of industry in China under planning using voluminous pre-1959 and sketchy 1959-63 data. . . . Curiously, there is no discussion of Chinese topography or raw material location. A much more lucid presentation of changes in the transportation industry is available in Kang Chao's The Construction Industry in Communist China. Recommended only for graduate collections in economics and Asian studies."

Choice 5:1188 N '68 180w

"This is a highly specialized work written for those leaders who are knowledgeable in Chinese studies and in nation building. . . . Although [the author] has made no new or startling discoveries, he has succeeded in putting some valuable materials together in a fashion that is convenient and understandable. Professor Wu's book will be useful for academic and special libraries. It will also be useful for government employees." Wen Chao Chen

Library J 93:1872 My 1 '68 120w

WUELLNER, WILHELM H. The meaning of "fishers of men." 256p $6.95 Westminster press

220.6 Bible—Criticism, interpretation, etc. Christian art and symbolism. Jesus Christ—Parables 67-12012

This study of a "metaphor in Mark 1: 16ff. opens with a description of the fishing industry in New Testament times. . . . Examination of the 'fishers' metaphor in Hellenistic and Judaic sources follows. . . . [Finally] Wuellner analyzes the 'fishing' figure in the New Testament [and reaches three] conclusions: (1) 'fishers of men' represents the many-sided character of Jesus' ministry with his disciples; (2) especially in Mark, the term applies only to Peter and the Twelve; (3) the church's diverse interpretations of 'men-fishing' have their origin in the ministry of Jesus." (Choice) Subject index. Index of modern authors. Scripture index.

"[A] meticulous study. . . . Wuellner discredits the common notion of Palestinian fishermen as simple, poor, uneducated folk by showing Jesus' fisher-disciples to have been in a relatively lucrative enterprise, hence in a higher social, economic, and cultural stratum than normally assumed. Oddly, these observations play no significant role in the remainder of the study. . . . Essentially a theological assessment of Jesus' mission and activity, approached through the 'fishers of men' pericope. There is no comparable work in recent criticism. Fully and carefully documented, the book is for the specialist. College, university, and theological libraries should acquire it."

Choice 5:212 Ap '68 230w

"Wuellner, associate professor of New Testament at the Graduate Theological Union (Berkeley) and the Pacific School of Religion, has seized upon an interesting and relatively unexplored subject. . . . He scrutinizes relevant Biblical and non-Biblical material, for example, the Biblical and pre-Christian literature dealing with fishing and fishermen, the abrupt ending of Mark, and so on. Although some will differ with his conclusions, his approach is very stimulating." Shiides Johnson

Library J 92:1837 My 1 '67 170w

WURMBRAND, RICHARD. Christ in the communist prisons; ed. by Charles Foley. 255p $5
Coward-McCann

B or 92 Persecution. Prisons—Rumania.
Communism and religion 68-11879

The author "is a Rumanian Jewish convert to Christianity who became a Lutheran pastor. When Russian Communists took over Rumania, [he] would not be silenced, and he was thrown into prison. This [is a] biographical account of his . . . years in Communist prisons [until his release in 1964]." (Library J)

"[The author] has appeared before at least one Senate Committee in Washington. . . . Very interesting accounts are given of the 'brain-washings' that often resulted in 'confessions' by some of his fellow prisoners. His life with other clergymen is very revealing; even in prison denominational differences did not always disappear. He reports that he was offered a bishopric if he would 'cooperate' with the state but he refused. Through it all he seems to have maintained only a desire to carry the Christian message to his tormentors. This seems to be the story of an honest man. . . . I wonder, [however,] how he can still recall every sentence in conversations that took place, for example, in 1948, 1949, 1950. Perhaps I am merely quibbling. If only one-tenth of the book were factual it would be a devastating indictment of everything communistic." Paul Kiniry

Best Sell 27:437 F 15 '68 750w

"Efforts to break [the author's] indomitable spirit failed in spite of the most harrowing, obscene, inhuman torture, physical and mental. . . . His prison conversations and ingenuous arguments against atheism touch on many religious problems, and he often spices them with an amazing sense of humor. His story is one of the triumph of faith over fearful odds, a revelation of the annihilative attitude of Communism toward religion, and powerful evidence that the persecution of early Christians is more than paralleled today in Communist countries. Recommended for public libraries." R. W. Henderson

Library J 93:85 Ja 1 '68 170w

WYCKOFF, GENE. The image candidates; American politics in the age of television. 274p $6.95 Macmillan (N Y)

329 Television in politics. Elections—U.S.
68-13207

A writer and producer in radio, films and television presents "an analysis of the impact of television on politics. . . . based largely on personal experience. . . . [He maintains] that television in the hands of an expert may be the decisive factor in a political campaign. Among the campaigns he reviews are the Nixon presidential campaign in 1960; the New Hampshire, Oregon, and California presidential primaries in 1964; the mayoralty campaign in New York City in 1961 and Rockefeller's gubernatorial campaign in 1966." (Library J) Index.

Reviewed by W. L. Lucey

America 118:612 My 4 '68 110w

Reviewed by R. C. Bergenheim

Christian Science Monitor p9 My 9 '68
500w

Reviewed by Neil Compton

Commentary 46:26 D '68 1050w

"[Wyckoff asserts that] in the future the experts will create the 'image candidate' and it will become difficult if not impossible to get behind the facade. This book should be essential for all candidates and their campaign managers in this election year. It is also highly recommended for the thoughtful citizen." Salvatore Nerboso

Library J 93:561 F 1 '68 300w

"Although he is gloomy about television's impact on politics, Wyckoff devotes much of his book to an engaging recitation of his 'adventures as an image specialist.' . . . What the television viewer hears, Wyckoff says, is infinitely less important than what he sees, so that the worst mistake a candidate can make is to stand before the camera and 'talk to the people.' . . . [This book] is good fun, and valuable too, for the insight it provides into the mind of the image-makers. I think Wyckoff is less persuasive when he peers into the future. . . . [However,] like many political technicians [the author] overrates the importance of his specialty. . . . I think too that [he] underrates the degree to which images are based on political reality." Patrick Anderson

New Repub 158:32 Ap 27 '68 750w

Reviewed by Robert Sherrill

N Y Times Bk R p14 My 26 '68 600w

Reviewed by L. L. L. Golden

Sat R 51:32 Ap 0 '68 450w

WYDEN, BARBARA, jt. auth. Growing up straight. See Wyden, P.

WYDEN, BARBARA, jt. auth. How the doctors diet. See Wyden, P.

WYDEN, PETER. Growing up straight; what every thoughtful parent should know about homosexuality, by Peter and Barbara Wyden; introd. by Stanley F. Yolles. 256p $6.95 Stein & Day 301.41 Homosexuality. Parent and child.

Child study 68-17324

Peter Wyden is executive editor of The Ladies Home Journal, and his wife, Barbara, is woman's editor of The New York Times Magazine. "They describe the early signs of homosexuality, taking care to distinguish between occasional harmless adolescent experimentation and the more serious unfolding of a lifelong pattern. And they suggest a number of steps parents can take to prevent the disorder. They note that certain home climates and parental attitudes have been found to be harmful, and that the fear of the opposite sex which can develop during the tense early dating experiences in adolescence may be a factor." (Introd) Index.

Reviewed by Robert Coles

Book World p4 Ag 18 '68 1050w

"The reluctant but increasing willingness to discuss the problem of homosexuality in our society has inspired little study of its origins in the individual. The Wydens' research supplies this information in a very sensible and honest book in which they have assembled reports and recommendations from many doctors and psychiatrists who have treated homosexuals and their parents. . . . [The Wydens] warn against needless emphasis, even stating that their book could be harmful if it inspires parental probing when it isn't necessary. They say the most important question is, 'Is the child really loved?' Public libraries should purchase their book." J. B. Lopez

Library J 93:2671 J1 '68 240w

"A great deal of relevant psychological and sociological data have been amassed in the past few years. Peter and Barbara Wyden's book reports most of the data and will go a long way toward remedying the public information gap.

WYDEN, PETER—Continued

The authors chose to aim their book at that battered target, the 'thoughtful parent,' but it could more profitably be required reading for all those in the 'helping professions,' who are themselves so helplessly naive and nervously moralistic about homosexuality. . . . The authors have managed the difficult task of being informative and comprehensive without being either sensational or boring. There is a clear presentation of all that is known about the tortuous psychological path to male homosexuality. . . . The Wydens are less compelling in their discussions of female homosexuality, but this accurately reflects the state of our knowledge." A. A. Stone

N Y Times Bk R p18 S 22 '68 230w

WYDEN, PETER. How the doctors diet [by] Peter and Barbara Wyden. 258p $4.95 Trident press

613.2 Diet. Weight control 68-18318

The authors asked a number of doctors "to describe how they keep fit. . . . Over the years these doctors have made substantial changes in their living habits—the food they eat, what they drink, how much they smoke, and how much they work and sleep. They've made these changes . . . because they want to be healthier and live longer." (Publisher's note) Index.

"The book is written by a husband-and-wife team; he is executive editor of the Ladies Home Journal and author of The Overweight Society [BRD 1965]. She is woman's editor of the New York Times Magazine. They interviewed 89 leading doctors on how they keep fit, and have come up with some very readable and enlightening sketches. This book is written with a popular rather than a scientific approach and should be in all collections serving the general public." N. L. White

Library J 93:1152 Mr 15 '68 120w

"Pick your doctor—from one who lives it up on weekends and pays during the week, to another who eats only one meal a day, Lucullan dinner—yet you'll find all of them practice exemplary will power (call it self-denial). Writing with enthusiasm, empathy and some bright twists of phrase (calculated to twist your arm, of course), the Wydens sum up with a 'dozen strategic secrets' for weight watching as the doctors do it."

N Y Times Bk R p41 My 11 '68 140w

WYETH, ANDREW. Andrew Wyeth [by] Richard Meryman. 165p il $75 Houghton

759.13 67-18254

The artist "specified the 17" x 13" size and had the proofs corrected to his satisfaction before the edition was printed. . . . The watercolors and temperas, some with preparatory drawings on facing pages, are arranged in ten sections dealing with the people and scenes in Chadds Ford, Pennsylvania, and Cushing, Maine." (Library J)

"His publishers persuaded the artist and his wife, Betsy, to select the drawings, studies, and paintings (121 in full color) which best display the scope of Wyeth's mastery; they agreed to have the binding hand-stitched so that the pages would lie flat. . . . We think of Andrew Wyeth as essentially an outdoor painter, but there is an elusive association with the place or the person he portrays not always conveyed by the title of the picture, and in ten chapters bounding the circumference of the artist's world Richard Meryman, sometimes in the artist's word and more often in his own, has given us the insight which enlarges our appreciation. . . . A surpassingly beautiful book." Edward Weeks

Atlantic 222:134 D '68 950w

"Some pictures are shown for the first time and some have never before been published—many are from Mrs. Wyeth's personal collection. A number of the unpublished works, I suspect, are the wonderfully free and abstract watercolor or ink studies for paintings. They reveal unusual insights into Wyeth's method of painting as well as his way of thinking about art. . . . This is no biography, but the man is here. . . . Timelessness is a quality of his work and of him. Like his other strong qualities—compassion, a profound love for nature, simplicity—it emerges in the pictures, in the artist's own quoted words, and in Meryman's evocative text." Robert Morton

Book World p5 O 27 '68 1100w

Harper 237:130 D '68 180w

"This [is a] splendid example of fine art publishing. . . . The page size and shape allow room for appreciation of the unique atmosphere that permeates [Wyeth's] work, and the gravure reproductions are excellent; however, those who expect them to reveal great riches and luminosity in the earth tones may be disappointed in some areas to find a curious opacity and flatness." Judith Putnam

Library J 93:4643 D 15 '68 200w

Reviewed by R. A. Sokolov
Newsweek 72:94 D 16 '68 140w
Time 92:102 N 29 '68 50w

WYKES-JOYCE, jt. ed. Art in Israel. See Tam-muz, B.

WYLIE, LAURENCE, ed. Chanzeaux; a village in Anjou; ed. by Laurence Wylie [and others]. 383p pl maps $8.95 Harvard univ. press
914.4 Chanzeaux, France. France—Social life and customs 66-18258

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Reviewed by S. T. Freeman
Am Anthropol 70:126 F '68 950w

Reviewed by J. R. Pitts
Am Soc R 33:331 Ap '68 650w

Reviewed by William Wrage
Mod Lang J 52:223 Ap '68 650w

Reviewed by Leslie Derfler
Social Studies 59:86 F '68 340w

WYLIE, PHILIP. The magic animal. 358p $5.95 Doubleday

901.9 Civilization, Modern 68-10583

Looking back at what he describes as "the accumulated prejudices that have ruled human conduct for more than 2,000 years . . . [the author] argues that 'civilized' man's mounting depredations on his natural environment, his blind worship of superstition, his willed ignorance of the fundamental laws of biology, ecology, chemistry, and physics, have left him . . . unfit to live in the twentieth century." (Publisher's note)

"It is easy enough to pick flaws in Mr. Wylie's arguments and his choice of words with highly unusual meanings. It is also easy to deplore his emotional presentation where science and logic are at stake. His selection of authorities also is not beyond criticism. But this is too easy and too much at stake. . . . Mr. Wylie has done some thinking . . . and he does expose in a dramatic way some of the evils of our generation. For discriminating readers with enough background to make the kind of judgments this treatise requires, this book might arouse interest in learning or, at least, seriously asking themselves the question: What would make this a better world for us and our posterity?" W. H. Schweder

Best Sell 28:53 My 1 '68 700w

"[Mr. Wylie] here masses a host of pertinent and impertinent crotchets to give the lie to such wide-ranging modern totems as behaviorism, organized religion, existentialism, television, overpopulation, natural law, sexual repression, GNP-worship, big cars, and McLuhanism. He has a talent for ruffling the dovescotes that is by turns maddening, meaningful, and charming. In the main, this controversial book will be admired by masochistic college undergraduates." R. J. Thompson

Library J 93:1012 Mr 1 '68 200w

"[Wylie, author of A Generation of Vipers, BRD 1942] not only takes our mass society seriously; he tries to talk, or shout, to it in its own language. . . . There isn't anything wrong with what he says. It's the way he says it that gets him snooted. . . . [This book] is a kind of ecological jeremiad. Some of it may sound a little cranky, but it is in fact mostly quite sound stuff. . . . Wylie has been much taken with the recently revived theory that mankind is inherently aggressive . . . [but] he is ultimately unable to account for human self-destructiveness. . . . He is in the unfortunate position of one who sees flames crawling over the proscenium and cries 'Fire!' in a crowded theater. And the audience applauds politely—and goes on eating its popcorn." Kenneth Rexroth

N Y Times Bk R p14 Ag 11 '68 800w

"It is far easier to discover what Philip Wylie is against than what he is for, what he hates than what he likes or respects. He is much more full of spit and venom than of sweetness and light. And when Mr. Wylie dislikes anything he doesn't know when to stop. What Wylie hates and imprecates most of all is religion. . . . [Moreover] not since Plato banned Homer and the poets from his Utopia has there been such a purging of dangerous literature [as in this book]. Wylie often writes as if he were [a prophet]. He castigates. He abuses. But he also often employs a journalistic, chummy style, offensively patronizing. . . . Essentially, Mr. Wylie is a social critic; the trouble is that he writes as if he were unique in discovering the ills of his time." M. R. Konvitz
Sat R 51:24 Ap 6 '68 1000w
Time 91:128 My 10 '68 290w

WYND, OSWALD. Sumatra seven zero. 215p
$4.50 Harcourt

68-12608

Clint McFay of British intelligence "is recalled from his voluntary retirement in the peaceful English countryside to undertake a hazardous assignment. The owner of a ruby mine in interior Burma has died, details of his death not clearly determined. His stepdaughter, the heiress to his considerable fortune, is missing. Mission: find the girl, and the truth." (Publisher's note)

Best Sell 28:265 O 1 '68 110w

"A biting mixture of exotic intrigue." A. L. Rosenzweig

Book World p14 S 8 '68 180w

Reviewed by M. K. Grant

Library J 93:2900 Ag '68 130w

"Wynd is among the really good thriller writers who take Asia for their field. . . . [What is refreshing is that] there is virtually no stx. To everyone but those who demand the last, this book will appeal for sustained interest and originality of invention."

TLS p656 Je 20 '68 140w

WYNDETTE, OLIVE. Islands of destiny: a history of Hawaii. 296p pl $6 Tuttle

996.9 Hawaii—History

68-11080

This "is a history of our 50th state from what is known of its early Polynesian origin to its annexation to the United States and the appointment of Sanford B. Dole as first governor in 1900." (Library J) Glossary. Chronology. Bibliography. Index.

"Islands has little to offer; it is poorly edited and neither scholarly enough to warrant close study nor well written enough to peruse enjoyably. Recommended instead are Ralph S. Kuykendall's trilogy, The Hawaiian Kingdom (BRD 1939, 1968) for the serious student and Gerrit P. Judd's Hawaii, an Informal History for the general reader."

Choice 5:1026 O '68 60w

Christian Century 85:656 My 15 '68 40w

"[This is an] attractive, well-written book. . . . The 20th Century is telescoped into an insufficient epilogue. . . . in which Olive Wyndette fails to mention important events of the current decade. . . . Although historically correct, with an adequate bibliography, the book does contain inadequate references to the vital role played by the Orientals in Hawaii's multi-racial history. Its handsome hopsack binding is unique, but without additional protection it is not suitable for heavy library service. The book is for public libraries serving general readers interested in the early history of Hawaii."

J. C. Parker

Library J 93:2865 Ag '68 150w

WYNNE, GREVILLE. Contact on Gorky Street [Eng title: The man from Moscow]. 222p pl $4.95 Atheneum pubs.

327 Spies. Penkovsky, Oleg Vladimirovich
68-12549

"In May 1963 the world press focused on Russian Colonel Oleg Penkovsky who was convicted in Moscow of espionage and sentenced to death. Standing trial with him was British businessman, Greville Wynne, sentenced to eight years imprisonment as a self-confessed 'contact' man with the Western intelligence services. . . . [Now the author] outlines his training, the building of a cover story, and . . . details of his imprisonment and treatment at Russian hands before he returned to Britain in exchange for a Russian spy." (Library J)

Reviewed by D. F. Lawler

Best Sell 27:464 Mr 1 '68 290w

Reviewed by Robert Brown

Book World p3 Ja 14 '68 800w

"It was surely a little rash of the publisher to write in his blurb that this book 'outstrips the most extravagant invention of fiction.' It strengthens the reader's suspicion, already planted by Foreign Office disavowals and Mr Wynne's own conduct at his trial in Moscow, that the hero never was a British agent in the full sense of the word. The original version of the story—the small business man acting as a contact, detected and brought to trial as a spy—was more convincing and did Mr Wynne more credit. Indeed, that part of it which survives in this book, the account of his arrest and ordeals as a prisoner of the Russians, is still highly readable."

Economist 224:1000 S 16 '67 270w

"Although this book is admittedly not the full account of the affair (we are never likely to get this), Mr. Wynne does go into much more detail than has ever been the custom in the British Secret Service. He had the assistance of a professional writer in setting down this really exciting story that reflects his personal courage. In view of the general publicity given to the Penkovsky trial and the excerpt appearing in the August Reader's Digest, this book is likely to be much in demand and deservedly so."

Norman Horrocks

Library J 92:4425 D 1 '67 240w

Reviewed by Janet Hellerich

Library J 93:2553 Je 15 '68 100w [YA]

Reviewed by Harry Schwartz

N Y Times Bk R p33 Ja 21 '68 460w

New Yorker 43:136 F 17 '68 220w

Time 91:96 F 23 '68 420w

"[This] is very well written indeed and can be read through at a sitting with pleasure, both from the vigorous clarity of the style and the skill of the composition. . . . It is an achievement to have made so excellent a book from an experience so harrowing; there is no false note of self-pity or heroics, and a tranquil realization that the result was worth the suffering."

TLS p811 S 14 '67 800w

Y

YABLONSKY, LEWIS. The hippie trip. 368p
$6.95 Pegasus (N Y)

301.43 Youth—U.S.

68-21035

This study of the hippie phenomenon "was done during the last two years. [The author, who is a sociologist,] visited all the major hippie centers and colonies from Haight-Ashbury to Greenwich Village. He attended pot parties, group LSD trips, love-ins, and he taped group discussions and conversations with leaders and members of tribes and pads. He tried pot and even made one LSD trip himself to understand better the 'insights' described by his friends who had taken many trips." (Library J)

"This book is feeble sociology on several counts. . . . [Hippies] lack coherent social structure—and such conceits as the conventional, mystical, three-part order Yablonsky attributes to hippieland in his zeal for sociological rigor are a ridiculous simplification. At worst, his conceptual grid masks social facts crucial to an understanding of hippies, especially the marginality and transience of the population. . . . Unfortunately [Yablonsky's interviews fail because he] . . . tries to obtain 'typical' views, rather than to elicit those particular experiences and opinions that would differentiate his subjects and give them human texture and reality. . . . The temptation to play the role of archetypal hippie for the tourist is irresistible. It looks very much as if Yablonsky recorded reactions to himself and the scene his presence created." Gail Kelly

Book World p4 Jl 21 '68 550w

"This is [a] disturbing report: abuse of some drugs has created mental health problems of epidemic proportions. VD rates are way up, and so on; but there are also positive effects. Some of the value and attitude changes the movement is producing may well become constructive additions to our society. An excellent scientific contribution for sociologists and an excitingly written review for the general reader, the book is highly recommended for special and general collections." George Adelman

YABLONSKY, LEWIS—Continued

Library J 93:2638 J1 '68 350w

YACHTING world handbook [ed. by] D. Phillips-Birt; il. by Colin Mudie; with chapters by Mary Blewitt [and others] rev. by A. D. G. Gunn [and others; pub] in collaboration with the staff of Yachting world. 361p $10 St Martins

797.1 Yachts and yachting 67-20507

This handbook "defines terms, illustrates sails and tackle, demonstrates ship-handling under sail, gives the basis of dead reckoning, analyzes the Beaufort scale, lists international racing schools, recommends morphia for ulcer and tomato sauce for enlivening bully-beef fritters." (Sat R) Bibliography. Index.

"Besides Phillips-Birt, other well-known yachting experts have contributed chapters. . . . The book was produced in collaboration with the staff of Yachting World, which itself deserves more attention from libraries. This handbook is attractive and very useful, attempting to cover the basics in a wide range of subjects related to yachting: racing rules, navigation, class boats, sails, deck rigging—all those subjects the beginner needs a clear path into and the average sailor needs a better understanding of. Only a reviewer will read a handbook through, but every sailor who reads will want to browse in this worthwhile book—and many will want to buy it for use at sea and in the armchair." Karl Nyren
Library J 93:2255 Je 1 '68 120w

Reviewed by D. M. Glixon
Sat R 51:63 My 18 '68 50w

YAFA, STEPHEN H. Paxton Quigley's had the course. 195p $4.50 Lippincott

68-10620

This first novel is about a fraternity boy who, having affairs with three Bennington girls at the same time, is consequently locked up in the attic of a women's dormitory by these girls for rotating sexual encounters every four hours. Subsisting on a diet of wheat germ and strawberry yogurt, Quigley relates the tale of how this situation came to be.

Best Sell 27:477 Mr 15 '68 30w

"The telling falls far short of its possibilities and becomes less than comedy. And so this . . . novel becomes an extremely boring turn-about variation on a theme by Fowles. . . . Most of the book suffers from lack of inspiration and misdirected ability. Libraries—even academic ones—will find little here to encourage interest." C. D. Pipes
Library J 92:4527 D 15 '67 200w

"Like a fraternity prank, the nature of the action quickly alters from cute to horrific, resulting in a small tragedy. The change, while it gives a certain interest to the novel—art imitating life—demands that the reader spend his time discovering the subject matter rather than the author's and his own points of view toward it—a definite weakness, but the only one in the book. Mr. Yafa is a writer of real talent and possesses an impressive and compassionate imagination; he has his own characters and prose style that at its best is neither cute nor mawkish. . . . [A] lyrical narrative of first love and early squalor."

Nation 206:484 Ap 8 '68 200w

Reviewed by Martin Levin
N Y Times Bk R p41 Ja 14 '68 50w

Reviewed by Susan Lardner
New Yorker 44:189 Ap 20 '68 300w

YAFFE, JAMES. The American Jews. 338p $7.95 Random house

301.451 Jews in the U.S. 68-28553

The author of Nobody Does You Any Favors (BRD 1966) attempts "to portray and explain the 'split personality,' . . . of the contemporary American Jew. He sees . . . evidence of this split personality in the current tendency to describe the American Jew both as having found a society in which he feels completely at home and as a person who is essentially 'alienated' from that society. The book attempts 'to account for this paradox, to show that it arises from certain deep contradictions within the American Jew,' and to explore the effects of these contradictions upon the organized Jewish community." (Sat R) Bibliography. Index.

"Yaffe, a novelist of modest accomplishment, has even more modest credentials for a book about American Jews. . . . [He] is an outsider who put his book together mostly with information skewed and distorted from interviews with 200 Jewish insiders. . . . What he doesn't get wrong, he makes boring. Besides not knowing 'those oddly-shaped Hebrew letters,' Yaffe is innocent of Jewish history, customs, and traditions, and none of his two hundred informants appears to have introduced him to the mysteries of Judaism as practiced in the synagogue. [Some] mistakes and misreadings . . . no doubt could have been corrected, had Yaffee or his editor bothered, but nothing, I fear, could have been done about his misunderstandings of events and trends. The real trouble with Yaffee is that he is a modern man, ca. 1923 or 1878. He has gone to college and he knows that Judaism, especially in its Orthodox modes, is absurd." L. S. Dawidowicz
Commentary 46:88 D '68 1250w

Reviewed by H. M. Kapenstein
Library J 93:3150 S 15 '68 100w

Reviewed by F. Y. Blumenfeld
Newsweek 72:112B N 11 '68 650w

"[This book] is a skillfully accomplished work, and in interesting fashion it mirrors the author's notion of the Jewish split personality, for it is both caustic and compassionate, filled with quiet anger and an eagerness to understand and forgive. Above all, it is honest, thoroughly honest, a clear, clean window onto the contemporary American Jewish world. The book is marred by tiny errors that are perhaps indicative of the author's weak Jewish background. . . . Yet the flaws shade into insignificance because of the intense sincerity of the work as a whole. The author is far better at describing than explaining the split personality he takes as his questionable thesis. . . . It is difficult to understand and appreciate fully what it means to be an American Jew unless one also understands fully the essential nature of the Jewish tradition. That seems to me to be Mr. Yaffe's plight." Chaim Potok
Sat R 51:33 D 7 '68 500w

YAMADA, SENTA. The principles and practice of aikido, by Senta Yamada and Alex Macintosh. 126p il $6.95 Arco

796.8 Aikido 67-12790

This book "describes some of the background and history of AIKIDO together with chapters and illustrations on posture, movement, balance, initiative, exercise, etiquette, attack and defense, and fifteen basic techniques, fifteen variations and self-defense applications." (Publisher's note)

"Essentially this book presents a modification of the aikido made familiar by the Uye-shiba and Thoei texts. [It discusses] basic techniques, emphasizing defenses against blows, and . . . variations, employing the same general techniques against rear chokes, wrist grasps, etc. Many of these moves are identical with those in the standard system, but there is a greater emphasis on blows and less on the use of centrifugal force and its sudden reversal. Little attention is paid to the esoteric ki or the one spot. A few pages are devoted to standard self-defense techniques. The method is simpler than the better known techniques and appears to have much to recommend it."

Choice 4:1412 F '68 110w

"[Aikido is] primarily a discipline, and incidentally a means of self-defense. . . . BBC newsman Alex Macintosh studied aikido under Senta Yamada, of the London Judo Society. Their detailed, large-format volume should serve as an introduction and continuing textbook in the sport. . . . Recommended for public libraries that need self-defense materials and for all sports collections." W. C. Allen
Library J 92:2173 Je 1 '67 120w

YAMAMURA, Kōzō. Economic policy in post-war Japan; growth versus economic democracy. (Calif. Univ. Center for Japanese and Korean studies. Publications) 226p $6.95 Univ. of Calif. press

330.952 Japan—Economic policy 67-29726

The author "examines the initial policy of the Supreme Command of the Allied Powers in Japan toward cartels, monopoly, labor, taxes, and other . . . economic factors and traces the modification or reversal of this policy under an unfettered Japanese government. He feels the Japanese emphasis on growth and capital accumulation at the expense of economic democracy has been successful in establishing Japan's present position among industrial nations. He also feels that the policy should be redirected now for important social purposes." (Library J)

"It is a pleasure to welcome Professor Koza Yamamura into the exclusive Sour Grapes . . . Club of Western and Westernized economists faulting Japan's postwar economic miracle. . . . Yamamura's monograph stems from a doctoral thesis in industrial economics, so that its primary stress is on issues like industrial structure, concentration and monopoly. . . . [A merit is the] extensive sampling from Japanese sources, including the emotional left-wing writers not usually deemed worthy of translation. Offsetting this merit, Yamamura omits some recent Western literature . . . considering only contemporary American writers on Japan's industrial structure. . . . There is a good index, and the bibliography is rich in Japanese sources. The University of California Press, however, gets poor marks for editorial efficiency, having left Yamamura's English marred by occasional traces of Eigo and Japlish." M. Bronfenbrenner

Am Econ R 58:987 S '68 700w
Choice 5:1342 D '68 170w

"[The author] did his research both in the United States and in Japan, using Japanese archives and interviews. His style is clear and incisive; a large portion of the book can be read easily by the noneconomist. The discussion of the Zaibatsu, for example, is of interest to other disciplines. The book is important on a scholarly level to a study of postwar Japan." Muriel Weins

Library J 92:4408 D 1 '67 190w

"While the central importance of the growth objective in Japan's economic policy cannot be questioned, in some respects Yamamura tends to overstate his case. . . . Most generally, it may be asked whether Yamamura does not attribute too much to government policy. . . . Nonetheless, while [he] does not give detailed attention to fiscal and monetary controls and foreign trade regulations, he provides a thorough and often penetrating discussion of major aspects of Japanese post-war economic policy. His analysis is especially interesting because throughout he keeps important economic welfare considerations clearly in view." Eugene Rotwein

Pacific Affairs 41:436 fall '68 300w

YARNOLD, G. D. The moving image; science and religion, time and eternity. 234p $2.50 Humanities press

215 Eternity. Religion and science [66-75164]

"The theme is the nature of 'time' and its differentiation from 'eternity.' [The author] is a British Anglican clergyman who is at the same time a lecturer, university professor, and research scientist dealing with the 'borderland where science, philosophy, and theology meet.'" (Choice)

"This book could well be studied in conjunction with the exhaustive recent work in this field edited by J. T. Fraser, The Voices of Time [BRD 1966]. Obviously, this is not an easy volume to read. . . . For example, [Fraser's] most telling elucidation grows out of the implications of philosophical 'existentialism,' scientific 'space-time continuum' and 'simultaneity' concepts, and theological Christological interpretations. Yarnold is at his best in his clarifying differentiations between 'everlasting time' and 'timeless eternity.' College students searching for a clearer understanding of the 'time' problem will find Yarnold's contribution rewarding."

Choice 4:1370 F '68 180w

"Though [Yarnold's] book is in the no man's land where science, philosophy and religion meet, it is more theological than anything else. Here is a thoughtful discussion of what is meant by creation (whether once-for-all or continuous), of the compatibility or otherwise between God's foreknowledge and man's freedom, of the qualitative distinction between the eternal and the merely everlasting, and of the possibility of revelation of the eternal. This is a quiet and persuasive book with much sound learning concealed between its pages. Perhaps Mr. Yarnold does not pay sufficient attention to the revolution achieved by Kant in our notions of space and time, and he leaves the reader a little uncertain how literally his phrases about time 'imposed' on phenomena are to be taken. But though he has no startling new theory to propound, he treats themes of perennial interest refreshingly."

TLS p70 Ja 26 '67 380w

YASTRZEMSKI, CARL. Yaz [by] Carl Yastrzemski with Al Hirshberg. 183p il $4.95 Viking

B or 92 Boston. Baseball club (American League) 68-18115

This life-story begins by focusing on Yastrzemski's feelings "during the last two days of the [1967] season. Then he goes back to his boyhood as a potato farmer on eastern Long Island; his rewarding family life; his father's negotiations for the $115,000 bonus the Red Sox finally paid to sign him; his two years at Notre Dame; his courtship and marriage; his minor-league experiences; his early years on troubled Red Sox teams; and, finally, the events of 1967." (N Y Times Bk R)

"Sports fans, even those who do not like the Red Sox, will enjoy this volume. The author, with the help of Al Hirshberg, traces his short career to give an entertaining and at times inspiring account. The wholesomeness of his family life is evident, as is the long desire for a college education which he achieved when he finally received his degree from Merrimack College. While stories of present-day baseball stars are usually romanticized, this book seems to offer a clear picture of the working of the major leagues. . . . Grades eight to ten."

Best Sell 28:115 Je 1 '68 90w

Reviewed by Ray Robinson

Book World p12 My 12 '68 300w

Reviewed by Marian Trahan

Library J 93:2743 J1 '69 70w [YA]

"A simple, straightforward biography with flashes of surprising insight. . . . It is all concise, frank, light without seeking humor for its own sake, and quite enlightening about one young man's viewpoint and his peculiar world." Leonard Koppett

N Y Times Bk R p14 Je 16 '68 330w

YAUKEY, GRACE SYDENSTRICKER. See Spencer, C.

YEATS, W. B. Running to paradise; an introd. sel. by Kevin Crossley-Holland; il. by Judith Valpy. 93p $4.50 Macmillan (N Y) 821 68-24108

"This selection of 47 poems represents various aspects and themes prevalent in Yeats' work, including nationalism, magic, love, and old age. The introduction . . . gives biographical information and traces . . . some of the influences on Yeats' poetry. [Index of first lines.] Grades seven to ten." (Library J)

"[This] collection chosen for children has a biographical introduction that stirs anticipation. . . . Ink drawings, sometimes only small decorations, help to set the book's moods of mystery, wonder, and yearning." Virginia Haviland

Book World p24 (children's issue) N 3 '68 90w

"Attractive in format, with pleasing line drawings, the introductory collection of familiar poems . . . may serve as an extension for awakened interest in the poet." Julia Losinski

Library J 93:3988 O 15 '68 80w

"Poetry is a private pleasure. . . . On that account a book 'introducing' poetry comes at once under suspicion. . . . Mr. Crossley-Holland refers to Yeats as Willy. . . . [He] introduces (for the young—and it would be atrocious enough for the old) in this style: 'he was the unquestioned leader of the Anglo-Irish literary revival that included amongst its numbers J. M. Synge, AE, Lady Gregory and many others.' [If he] has the sense to include 'The Wild Swans at Coole,' he also falsifies Yeats with inferior poems which he must believe to be in special tune with the yonge fresshe folkes. . . . [A] selection such as [this] barbered to a special taste, [is a] falsification of [the] poet."

TLS p1146 N 30 '67 400w

YGLESIAS, JOSE. In the fist of the revolution; life in a Cuban country town. 307p $5.95
Pantheon bks.

917.291 Mayari, Cuba—Social life and customs. Cuba—Social conditions 68-12935

The author spent three months in the spring of 1967 in the town of Mayari, Oriente Province, Cuba. He tells "of the everyday people and situations in a small town under Fidel Castro's government—how townspeople respond to the new life. [He] attempts to relate this new life—social equalization, common education, public works projects, and so on; he reports both the grumblings and the praise." (Library J)

Reviewed by Ronald Steel
Book World p7 Ag 18 '68 190w
Choice 5:1211 N '68 120w

"Although clearly sympathetic to the changes taking place in Cuba today, Mr. Yglesias is far from an uncritical observer. . . . The essential value of [his book is that] it gives an understanding of the strong support for Castro in Mayari, a place that is probably quite typical of many another small country town on the island. Brought up in the United States with a Cuban mother, and speaking Spanish with a Cuban flavor, Mr. Yglesias, moreover, is better prepared than most outside observers to probe behind the façade of a country town, to probe into 'the fist of the revolution.' His book is a useful document in the story of that revolution." J. N. Goodsell

Christian Science Monitor p9 Jl 2 '68 1000w

Economist 229:54 D 14 '68 550w

"[The author] presents no conclusions but any reader can deduce that life in Castro Cuba isn't at all bad. . . . Well written and reminiscent of the author's The Golden Land [BRD 1967] in style, this informal narrative should be read by all Americans interested in grassroots Cuba." Bruce Keeney

Library J 93:2509 Je 15 '68 190w

Reviewed by D. J. Marriss
New Repub 159:25 Jl 20 '68 750w

Reviewed by Mervyn Jones
New Statesman 76:804 D 6 '68 180w

"The dearth of information on the quality of [revolutionary] developments make [this] book . . . the kind of social reporting on the Cuban Revolution that has long been missing. Mr. Yglesias is an honest and experienced reporter who, though sympathetic, refuses to be drugged by revolutionary rhetoric. He focuses carefully on the character of life . . . and on the essential quality of the Cuban people that has remained nicely intact through the convulsions of the past decade. . . . [One wishes, however, that he] had probed more deeply into many things, and given us a richer and more detailed picture of the origins and nature of change. . . . His writing often lapses, for lack of penetration, into a thinness of texture . . . that independent reporting on Cuba should easily be able to avoid." Norman Gall

N Y Times Bk R p3 Jl 14 '68 2000w
New Yorker 44:110 Je 15 '68 190w

"Given the author's eagerness to be confirmed in his faith [in the Cuban revolution], how can one be sure that the ugly aspects of the picture are not moderated, or that he made any real effort to investigate the repressive institutions whose activities he occasionally mentions? Putting aside such . . . suspicions, the case Mr. Yglesias makes for the success of the Cuban Revolution is a strong one." Selden Rodman

Sat R 51:41 Je 8 '68 1000w

YGLESIAS, JOSE. An orderly life. 242p $5.95
Pantheon bks.

68-20893

"Rafe's Cuban family immigrated to the United States when he was a boy, and the novel details the forming of his character and life-style over a period which spans the leftist fever of the Thirties and Forties to the week of President Kennedy's assassination. . . . Rafe at forty is a successful executive in a big New York pharmaceutical house, with a wife and children comfortably stashed in the suburbs. . . . [He] runs into Jerry, the best friend of his leftist college days, now separated from his wife Gloria. We cut back to the early political friendships; to the War, and the . . . leave Rafe spent with Gloria when he was almost engaged to his wife Betty." (Book World)

"Mr. Yglesias does scenes of blathering conversation and grimy drinking parties well, but he and his narrator seem to have no opinion of any of the action—except that in bed, which the narrator clearly approves. An objective reader may observe that there is rather too much of it, too repetitiously." Phoebe Adams
Atlantic 222:150 O '68 80w

"It's hard not to like Rafe, who narrates his own American success story with a gutsy, amoral grace. While it's undeniably entertaining to be in [his] company—he is such a knowing, relaxed and utterly plausible hedonist—one pays a certain price: Rafe's life is made of layered, careless betrayals, handled in the novel with an inflexibly lightweight irony. But no judgments are otherwise passed, and one misses them. . . . [The sequence with Gloria,] the long, stylish detailing of their lovemaking is really quite fine; the high-voltage sex is the book's most striking feature. One begins to suspect that the political ideology (dry) and the business intrigue (wooden) are in the book mainly as concessions to decency. I think the book is exceedingly intelligent, readable and lazy. But Rafe, even if exasperating is an authentic and vital creation." Lucy Rosenthal
Book World p20 S 29 '68 330w

"The story seems contrived to display an inordinate number of explicit descriptions of sex and other juicy aspects of the infighting for corporate success, to such a degree that it might be of greater interest to a sociologist than to the general public. . . . Mr. Yglesias does know [his characters] and makes them real but they are not appealing. This must be classed as a novel of adventure, one of those in our time whose success as a drugstore paperback and a candidate for an art-movie theme we may deplore but we do assure. This book would be a certain target for the anti-pornography brigades." Jerrold Orne

Library J 93:3023 S 1 '68 200w

New Yorker 44:212 O 12 '68 130w

YOSHIDA, SHIGERU. Japan's decisive century, 1867-1967. 110p il $4.95 Praeger

952.03 Japan—History—1867-1945. Japan—History—Allied occupation, 1945-1952. Japan—History—1952- 67-22296

"The emergence of Japan from feudal isolation, its rise to an empire, the loss of that empire in total defeat, and its second rising to world power in 100 years is summarized by [the late] ex-Prime Minister of Japan." (Library J)

"Useful personal assessment of Japan's progress in the last 100 years. . . . Some perceptive comments on the Meiji era. Tends to ignore or gloss over the unpleasant aspects of Japan's foreign relations from late 19th century to 1945 (no discussion at all of World War II). The real value of this essay, which is only slightly revised from its first appearance as an article in the 1967 Britannica Book of the Year, resides in Yoshida's comments on the policies and events of the post-war period. These are based on [the author's] personal experiences as Premier in dealing with the occupation authorities. . . . Recommended for general collections on Japan."

Choice 5:669 Jl '68 160w

"[Yoshida] writes briefly of the successes and failures of the Occupation, but always from a basically pro-American viewpoint. The brevity of the book detracts from its importance, since many significant issues are simply mentioned, and not discussed. It is of obvious interest, however, to any student of Japanese affairs." Muriel Weins

Library J 92:2571 Jl '67 130w

"It is gratifying that before he died [Yoshida] should have completed his own interpretation of Japan's history during the 100 years since the Meiji Restoration of 1867-68. For this survey is a work of great merit. Every page bears the imprint of a powerful mind. It is no wonder that this veteran's advice was influential until the end of his days. When Yoshida discusses what he calls 'the troubled backdrop of change' characteristic of his country in the 1860s, he can visualize that state of affairs with painful clarity, since he faced a similar situation himself after Japan's surrender. . . . But what will be of greater interest to most readers are Yoshida's views on Japan's economic resurgence in the past fifteen years."

TLS p818 Ag 1 '68 900w

YOSHIKAWA, KŌJIRŌ. An introduction to Sung poetry; tr. by Burton Watson. 191p il $7 Harvard univ. press

895.1 Chinese poetry—History and criticism
67-14347

"Professor Yoshikawa surveys the shih poets of the Sung dynasty (A.D. 906-1280) and compares them with such T'ang masters as Tu Fu and Po Chu-i, already well-known in the West, in order to demonstrate that although they inherited a form which was technically perfected, the Sung poets could produce masterpieces which were quite different though equally compelling. In particular, he contrasts T'ang preoccupation with sorrow as the only constant element in human existence with a more philosophical acceptance of it, under the Sung, as one among many facets of everyday life." (TLS) Bibliography. Originally published in Japan in 1962 entitled Sōshi gaisetsu.

"The present work not only bridges the gaps in our knowledge but also compares favorably with similar works in the Chinese language for its systematic account, the clarity of its presentation, and its penetrating criticism. . . . Sung poetry [is] difficult to translate, and even an experienced translator of Chinese poetry like Watson sometimes fails to do justice to the original poems, whatever sparks of poetry they may have. Except for this reservation, the book is to be recommended to the general reader, and it should be required reading for serious students of Chinese literature. It contains a finding list for the Chinese works cited but is without an index and bibliography—a regrettable omission."

Choice 4:1390 F '68 230w

"The principal characteristics of Sung poetry which Professor Yoshikawa names—narrative tendencies, concern for daily life, concern for social and political conditions, interest in philosophical ideas and deliberate choice of unpoetic words for diction—agree with the accepted views on China. . . . [However] his judgment that the complete break with past poetry in regard to poetry of despair did not happen till the Sung period seems to this reviewer open to question. . . . Professor Yoshikawa tries to do justice to both T'ang and Sung poetry in his comparisons of the two. Unfortunately, much of his critical evaluation of individual T'ang poets has the effect of lessening the glory and greatness of T'ang poetry as a whole. It is almost superfluous to heap praises on a work of such an outstanding scholar as Professor Yoshikawa. His book accomplishes its purpose in ably introducing its readers to Sung poetry. It is well prepared and Dr. Watson's translation is delightful." Li Chi

Pacific Affairs 41:99 spring '68 1000w

Reviewed by R. E. Teele
Poetry 112:283 J1 '68 360w

TLS p9 Ja 4 '68 220w

"So much has appeared in English regarding the glories of T'ang poetry, however inadequately it may have been translated, that it is high time that some competent authority provided the background against which the poems of Ou-yang Hsiu, Wang An-shih, Su Tung-p'o, Lu Yu, and others of the subsequent dynasty could be put in proper perspective. The cultural achievement of the three hundred years of Northern and Southern Sung is generally thought of in this country in terms of its painting. Here is a work by an outstanding authority, in excellent translation by Dr. Burton Watson, which shows another side of the remarkable genius of the men of the Sung Dynasty."

Va Q R 43:clxvi autumn '67 120w

YOST, CHARLES. The insecurity of nations; international relations in the twentieth century; pub. for the Council on for. relations. 276p $6.50 Praeger

909.82 History, Modern—20th century
68-11324

In the first part, the author, who was deputy permanent representative to the United Nations from 1961 to 1966, "discusses the underlying causes of national insecurity, such as the rancor of human nature (Freud), imperfect economic and governmental systems, and the recent political situation in Europe and East Asia. He touches upon such topics as peaceful coexistence, the United States-Soviet confrontations in Berlin and Cuba, causes and consequences of the Korean War, and the Vietnam situation. In the final part of the book Mr. Yost provides some answers to the question of how international security could be gradually achieved." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

Choice 5:1045 O '68 190w

"For order and security in the world [the author] considers a united Europe and the admission of Red China into the United Nations as essential; for the underdeveloped countries he advocates a system of priorities with the problem of population explosion first on the list, and finally, he recommends a supranational government. The book should appeal to those of liberal persuasion, and to human reason more than to emotion. But whether or not one agrees or disagrees with Mr. Yost's thesis, the book is worth reading." Victor Novak

Library J 93:88 Ja 1 '68 200w

Reviewed by Ronald Steel

N Y Rev of Books 11:3 S 12 '68 750w

"[This is a] penetrating analysis of recent international relations. . . . Yost indicts his colleagues in order to challenge them, not to condemn them. His is a challenge also to the wider community of concerned scientists, intellectuals, and artists to help in fashioning . . . a transformed international society, and practical strategies for its attainment. . . . He wisely refrains from presenting a blueprint of the world political system that will have to supplant the present system. . . . [Yost is concerned] to set our long-range sights in the right direction, and to challenge us to work today on more immediate objectives, but definitely as steps toward that constantly clarifying goal further ahead." Seyorn Brown

Sat R 51:46 Mr 23 '68 1000w

"[In his conclusion] Mr. Yost falls back on the preservation of the existing international system by a reformed and strengthened United Nations. It is a disappointingly conventional conclusion to a book which seems constantly to promise more than it can perform."

TLS p271 Mr 14 '68 900w

YOUNG, ALFRED F. The democratic Republicans of New York; the origins, 1763-1797; pub. for the Inst. of early Am. hist. and culture at Williamsburg, Virginia. 636p maps $12.25 Univ. of N.C. press

329.3 Democratic party. New York (State)—Politics and government
67-23493

"This book is an attempt to re-examine the Democratic-Republican movement as a whole by an intensive study of one state, New York. . . . In the present volume I deal primarily with the origins and growth of the movement. . . . A second volume will carry the Republicans through the testing in the administration of John Adams, from 1797 through 1801 and beyond." (Pref) Annotated bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by J. M. Sosin
Am Hist R 73:1624 Je '68 460w

Reviewed by M. J. Daur
Am Pol Sci R 62:594 Je '68 1100w

Reviewed by J. B. Sanders
Ann Am Acad 378:173 J1 '68 450w

"A massive volume designed to fill the gap in the monographic literature between E. W. Spaulding's New York in the Critical Period, 1781-1789 [BRD 1932] and D. R. Fox's The Decline of Aristocracy in the Politics of New York, 1801-1840 [BRD 1920]. It offers an important reinterpretation of the ground covered by Spaulding, utilizing the better monographic research done in the past decade on New York in the Confederation period. . . . This volume supplies definitive answers to questions about the impact of national on state politics and about the sources of growing party divisions in the politics of the 1790's. For factual information presented in digestible format it has no rival and probably will have none in the future, and for this reason alone every library should possess a copy. But the questions it considers are essentially those that have been raised by others, and it has not been as successful as could be wished in pointing out original approaches to the period."

Choice 4:1440 F '68 170w

Reviewed by Morton Borden
J Am Hist 54:879 Mr '68 400w

"[This] is on the face of it a twice-told-tale, but so much new material has been considered at so great length and so effectively that it is in many senses a new story. Gone is the old concept of the emergence of a simple two-party operation. In its place there is a kaleidoscope of constantly shifting elements of various shapes, sizes, and colors. . . . This is a long book but it is a skilful synthesis and deserves careful study, for so much of our political analysis is too brief to be revealing." R. F. Nichols

Va Q ■ 44:146 winter '68 600w

YOUNG, BOB. Forged in silver; the story of the Comstock Lode, by Bob & Jan Young. 190p il $3.95 Messner

979.3 Comstock Lode, Nevada—Juvenile literature. Silver mines and mining—Juvenile literature 68-14937

"The first major silver mine in America was the now famous but exhausted Comstock Lode in Nevada. The authors retell the story of its discovery and of the rush for riches that followed, in and around Virginia City. A frontispiece map and a few line drawings illustrate the book. [Glossary of mining terms. Bibliography. Index.] Grades six to ten." (Best Sell)

Best Sell 28:67 My 1 '68 50w

"Instead of layering facts, the authors make skillful use of flashbacks, and they anticipate as well as follow up characters and events. . . . Generous use of anecdotes and occasional expressions like 'a jack rabbit would have to carry lunch across those barren acres to survive' enliven even further what—given the times, the places and characters—could scarcely fail to be spirited history." M. I. Purucker

Library J 93:2126 My 15 '68 150w

YOUNG, BOB. Simón Bolívar; the George Washington of South America, by Bob and Jan Young; il. by Don Lambo. 176p $3.95 Hawthorn bks.

B or 92 Bolívar, Simón—Juvenile literature. South America—History—Juvenile literature 68-13200

A biography of the "statesman, patriot and revolutionary leader [who] liberated Venezuela, Colombia, Ecuador and Peru from Spain, and was the first president of Venezuela, Colombia, and Peru." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index. "Grade seven to ten." (Best Sell)

Best Sell 28:174 J1 15 '68 80w

"The Youngs keep fictionizing to a minimum in their story of Bolívar's life and achievements and do not gloss over his less admirable traits. In spite of some minor inaccuracies, this is a clear, unbiased account that will fill a need in library collections." Laurie Dudley

Library J 93:1818 Ap 15 '68 80w

YOUNG, JAMES HARVEY. The medical messiahs; a social history of health quackery in twentieth-century America. 460p il $9 Princeton univ. press

615 Quacks and quackery 67-21031

A professor of history at Emory University "examines quackery and self-dosage against a broader background of social history, science, marketing and government. [He draws upon] material from the archives of the regulatory agencies (the Food and Drug Administration, the Federal Trade Commission, and the Post Office Department) and from the files of private organizations concerned with opposing quackery (The American Medical Association, the American Cancer Society, the Arthritis Foundation, [and] the National Better Business Bureau." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by O. E. Anderson

Am Hist R 73:1665 Je '68 340w

"Young has conceived of his subject in the broadest possible terms. Thus he relates the concurrent rise of modern medicine alongside quackery and self medication and interprets the later two in terms of their relations to trends in science, marketing, and government. . . . The result is a major contribution to American social history that belongs in every college and university library. The book is further enhanced by its very readable qualities."

Choice 5:375 My '68 200w

"This is a fine companion to Mr. Young's earlier book, The Toadstool Millionaires [BRD 1962]. With an abundance of footnotes, and several pages in which he discusses his sources, he manages to give both an historical starting point for further research and entertaining reading for those who seek only a little medical diversion. Mr. Young's book should be of special interest in the light of current Congressional Investigations, and Food and Drug Administration testing of favorite remedies. A necessary purchase for medical public health, and large public libraries." C. M. Brosky

Library J 93:1009 Mr 1 '68 100w

N Y Times Bk R p32 F 11 '68 200w

Reviewed by Saul Benison

Science 160:643 My 10 '68 1300w

"Mr. Young has sought to recount the progress of . . . groups and other crusading agencies and reformers against pseudo-medical nonsense and outright health frauds since the passage of the Pure Food and Drugs Act of 1906. . . . It is an account, at times interesting, at times tedious, of the legal battles to outlaw 'cures' for disorders ranging from cancer to lost manhood. It is perhaps more significant in calling to attention new developments in pharmacologic and health practices in this country, developments which are a long way from conclusion. . . . Mr. Young points out the difficulty in drawing the line between the dishonest and the fringe operator, the crackpot and the sincerely misguided, the natural course of disease and the effect of a remedy on a hypochondriac. While scholarly throughout, the anecdotal and philosophical portions of the book make better reading than the chronologic listing of legal actions." J. M. Morris

Yale R 57:428 Mr '68 2000w

YOUNG, JAN, jt. auth. Forged in silver. See Young, B.

YOUNG, JAN, jt. auth. Simón Bolívar. See Young, B.

YOUNG, JORDAN M. The Brazilian revolution of 1930 and the aftermath. 156p $6 Rutgers univ. press

981 Brazil—History. Brazil—Politics and government 66-25171

"Two background chapters precede those which discuss the political and military aspects of the Revolution. Subsequent chapters treat the rule of Getúlio Vargas from 1930 to 1945 and evaluate the past 20 years." (Library J) Annotated bibliography. Index.

"Students of Brazil will inevitably compare Young's book with Thomas Skidmore's more intensive study [Politics in Brazil 1930-1964, BRD 1967, 1968] covering the same period. . . . The two are complementary in the sense that Young concentrates on the Vargas period . . . while Skidmore's main emphasis is on the post-Vargas period. Young's . . . account is predominantly factual and while much of it is based on secondary sources, a rich increment was obtained from interviews with such key figures as Osvaldo Aranha and General Góes Monteiro among others. . . . Despite the author's cautious interpretations, the brevity of the study inevitably magnifies interpretation through the selection of subjects for comment. . . . Young's book is a fine contribution to the burgeoning literature in English on Brazil. One can raise some questions of emphasis or omission, however." R. T. Daland

Am Pol Sci R 62:282 Mr '68 500w

"Economic factors, such as the coffee economy and recurring threats of inflation, are well handled, as is the ever present struggle between the former slaveholding areas of the north and the complex and increasingly industrialized states of the south. . . . [Young] makes excellent use of personal interviews and correspondence. The distinguished diplomat Osvaldo Aranha read portions of the manuscript. . . . Highly recommended for any collection dealing with modern Brazil."

Choice 44:1308 Ja '68 230w

"[This is] a mixture between a detailed account of the Revolution and a general summary of Brazilian history. . . . [Mr. Young] uses both English and Brazilian sources. One wishes, however, that he had either confined himself to the Revolution or written a general text. Despite its structural imbalance, the book will interest libraries specializing in Latin America and could serve as an introduction to contemporary Brazil." H. A. Spalding

Library J 92:1931 My 15 '67 140w

YOUNG, KENNETH T. Negotiating with the Chinese Communists: the United States experience, 1953-1967. (Council on for. relations. The U.S. and China in world affairs) 461p $10.95 McGraw

327.73 U.S.—Foreign relations—China (People's Republic of China). China (People's Republic of China)—Foreign relations—U.S. 67-28088

"This book is the story of United States negotiations and contacts with the People's Republic of China since the Korean armistice of July 1953." (Pref) Index.

Reviewed by V. S. Kearney
America 118:605 My 4 '68 200w

"[This volume] is an important addition to our skeletal record of post-1949 Sino-American relations. A patient diplomat attuned to the subtler nuances of Peking's rhetoric, Young argues that the talks are a valuable channel of communication and should be continued. He remains, nonetheless, firmly committed to the official Washington Weltanschauung, which sees the United States as a 'vigorously dynamic world-oriented' power providing 'the primary strategic restraint' on an irrational, bellicose and expansionistic China." John Israel
Book World p4 Mr 17 '68 200w

Choice 5:1022 O '68 100w

"There is a sense throughout that, although US foreign policy has its imperfections, the real hurdle has been China's unreasonableness. . . . While Mr. Young does have a good chapter on U.S. attitudes toward China . . . he makes little attempt to show the emotional and political biases of our negotiators . . . [or] to evaluate the legitimacy of American or Chinese demands. . . . Like Castiglione writing a renaissance guide for the successful courtier, Mr. Young has written a very competent and lengthy manual explaining the game of 'negotiating with the Chinese,' and how through minor innovation we might expect to do somewhat better at it without altering the rules of the game in any basic way." O. H. Schell
Commonweal 89:90 O 18 '68 800w

"[Young] describes carefully and thoroughly the Chinese style of negotiating in what he terms the 'unique kind of "adversary" diplomacy which must be experienced to be understood.' He is particularly careful not to get ahead of his reader in his explanation of the devious, sometimes inscrutable maneuvers of Chinese Communist foreign policy, and thoughtfully includes among his appendices one identifying the major Chinese and American personalities who have endured the Warsaw meetings between the two nations over the past 15 years. This is a basic and important book not only because Mr. Young describes the diplomatic history of our post-1948 relations with mainland China, but because he exposes the tremendous gulf in culture, politics, style, and mores separating the most powerful from the most populous nation in the world." R. F. Delaney
Library J 93:88 Ja 1 '68 300w

Reviewed by N. J. Gallo
Nation 206:614 My 6 '68 100w

"[The author who is] now president of the Asia Society served as Deputy United States Representative at the Panmunjom talks in 1953-54 to arrange the Political Conference on Korea after the armistice agreement. From 1961-1963, he was Ambassador to Thailand. His book focuses on the Sino-American Ambassadorial talks, starting first at Geneva in 1955 and since 1958 at Warsaw. By mutual agreement, these talks were kept private and confidential and the official record is still secret. Mr. Young purportedly bases his account on public or published records. But his personal knowledge of the talks as an official of the State Department, and informal consultation with his former colleagues who took part in the process of negotiation, have undoubtedly enabled him to analyze the published materials with an unusually firm grasp of their meaning and the issues at stake. Thus his book contains the most detailed, specific, and reliable account to date of these talks from the American point of view." Tang Tsou
N Y Times Bk R p3 Mr 31 '68 1550w

Reviewed by Eric Britter
Sat R 51:29 My 11 '68 550w

YOUNG, LOUISE B., ed. Population in perspective. 460p il $10; pa $4.95 Oxford

301.3 Population 68-17620

In this collection of readings the editor's purpose is to trace the evolution of modern concepts in the field. She includes the work of "demographers, economists, anthropologists, biologists and physiologists, philosophers and churchmen, novelists and poets. . . . [The book begins with Malthus's celebrated Essay on the Principle of Population, and ranges up to reports of the most recent biological and sociological research. . . . [The first part] concentrates on the biological [factors]. . . . Later sections explore the . . . social, [religious, political] and economic factors. . . . [The concluding section is entitled 'Prospects for the future.']" (Publisher's note) Index.

"Editorial skill is needed to weave writings from [a number of] sources into one volume and achieve unity. As science editor, [The book] brings excellent skills to the task. [The book] remains what it is, however: well coordinated excerpts from 65 different sources. A reasonable level of unity is achieved through arranging the selections both chronologically and topically into four areas. . . . The one unique feature is Young's inclusion of the writings of philosophers, novelists, and poets, e.g. James Thurber's The Last Flower; [A Parable in Pictures, BRD 1939.] and Dostoevsky's The Grand Inquisitor (from The Brothers Karamazov). This lends a broadly humanistic breadth to her work, absent in similar collections. The intended audience (readers new to the population problem) probably would have difficulty in understanding population in perspective if armed only with this volume. Excellent biographies of contributors." Choice 5:1179 N '68 150w

"Ideal for a textbook or for study conferences, this gigantic sourcebook tackles the gigantic problem of overpopulation. It includes modern classics on the subject. One-fourth of the book deals with religious-social factors: Richard M. Fagley, James A. Pike, two popes [and] Julian Huxley . . . are among its contributors."

Christian Century 85:594 My 1 '68 50w

"It is no exaggeration to say that [Malthus's] contribution . . . is much the most distinguished in the book; but there are many other notable contributions in a volume that makes absorbing reading about the most pressing problem of the age. . . . Every contributor has something to say that is worth pondering over."

TLS p1221 O 31 '68 550w

YOUNG, ORAN R. The intermediaries; third parties in international crises; pub. for the Princeton center of int. studies. 427p $10 Princeton univ. press

341.6 International relations. Intervention (International law) 66-26590

The author "seeks to 'outline at least the rudiments of a general theory of third-party intervention' in international crises of all sorts. Focusing primarily but not exclusively on the potential of the U.N., he . . . advances the thesis that the U.N.'s intermediary role may be more important in the future—even in conflicts between major powers." (Choice) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by D. W. Wainhouse
Am Pol Sci R 62:1018 S '68 700w

"[Young's] research is extensive, and concrete examples give added weight to his arguments. His prose, while readable, is often repetitive and inelegant."

Choice 5:685 J1 '68 120w

"A hard book to read, even in small doses. This is regrettable, because Young's basic study is sound and deeply researched. . . . The infinite variety of crises, ranging from superpower confrontations to brush-fires in which neither (or at most one) is involved, is thoroughly examined. So are the problems of uprising and violence deriving from post-colonial conditions. The author also analyzes the interventions and mediations carried on by such bodies outside the U.N. as NATO and the Organization of American States. Here I think he overlooks factors of importance. . . . Mr. Young offers no solutions to recurrent international crises; this was never his purpose." Leslie Roberts
Sat R 50:40 Ag 12 '67 850w

YOUNG, PERCY M. Britten. 68p il $3.50; 11b bdg $3.27 White

B or 92 Britten, Benjamin—Juvenile literature 68-14885

"Dr. Young not only makes an . . . assessment of Britten's work and development as a composer, but gives a . . . portrait of Britten the man. . . . He shows Britten as heir to a musical tradition stretching back to the Elizabethan and Jacobean composers, and points out the similarities between Britten and the great Purcell. . . . Musical examples, from A Ceremony of Carols, Peter Grimes, War Requiem, and other works, help the reader to an appreciation of Britten's style." (Publisher's note) Index. "Grades seven to nine." (Library J)

YOUNG, P. M.—Continued

"Young's presentation is imaginative, interlacing factual material with Britten's philosophy of music composition. . . . [The illustrations] complement the text admirably." B. L. Glatz

Christian Science Monitor pB10 My 2 '68 190w

"This account of Benjamin Britten's music, his background, and his rapid rise to fame includes brief descriptions of his more important works. . . . Mr. Young has a knack for presenting music history, music appreciation, and biographical data in a lively and appealing style that can offer young musicians new insights into why and how music develops." Don Phillips

Library J 93:1818 Ap 15 '68 80w

"It is good that young readers should be reminded by Dr. Young just how much this composer has done for them. But his argument lacks the clarity and shape found in Imogen Holst's simpler study of the composer [Britten, BRD 1966]. In particular Dr. Young emphasizes Britten's Englishness at the start of the story, instead of showing how an out-and-out cosmopolitan very gradually came to feel the sap that flows up from native roots. And as so often with Dr. Young, detailed phraseology (no less than the larger design) again reveals the unself-critical speed at which he writes."

TLS p1095 N 24 '66 110w

YOUNG, PERCY M. A history of British music. 641p $15 Norton

780.942 Music, British—History and criticism 67-9236

"The former director of music at Wolverhampton College of Technology . . . [describes] music as it is interwoven in the social and ecclesiastical history of the British Isles. [With] names, dates, music examples, and so forth, Mr Young guides the reader through the influences of the Celts, Alcuin and his teachings, the Paris school of Leonin and Perotin, the Elizabethan and Handelian periods, the Bach-Abel concerts, and down to the mass culture via BBC radio and the gramophone." (Library J)

"This work is adequately indexed for places, persons, music examples, and so on, but contains no bibliography. Mr. Young's book is invaluable despite his tendency to cover too much; yet he planned the subject extremely well." W. M. Liebenow

Library J 93:191 Ja 15 '68 200w

"Histories of music, rightly, concentrate on composition, but the special feature of Dr. Young's history is that it also ranges over performance, education, scholarship, and the social and literary backgrounds to all such diverse ramifications of the art. . . . Indeed the weight of sheer fact is such that it puts a strain on his narrative: strings of names faithfully annotated at the foot of the page, . . . and frequent parentheses, however informative, show the malign influence of the doctoral thesis. The book however is not a thesis but rather a textbook . . . to which writers of theses will certainly resort for its wealth of detail . . . that testify to the thoroughness of his research. The price paid for these virtues is a lack of elegance, though not of pungency."

TLS p159 F 15 '68 2000w

YOUNG, PERCY M. Keyboard musicians of the world; il. with photos, and musical examples. 184p $4.50 Abelard-Schuman

786 Musical instruments—Juvenile literature. Musicians—Juvenile literature 68-12337

This is a "history of keyboard instruments and the famous musicians who have composed for them and performed upon them. . . . [The] information on musicians concerns their compositions and styles, with occasional anecdotes. [Index.] Grade eight and up." (Library J)

"This may be something of a specialist's book for those . . . interested in piano and organ, but it is an informative and well presented introduction to . . . the development of the keyboard instruments. . . . The illustrations are well selected, there are several musical notations illustrative of the keyboard music, and a discography and index make this valuable for addition to the high-school library."

Best Sell 28:158 J1 1 '68 90w

"The author ranges so freely through this great mass of material that readers with no background in the subject may only feel confused. [The book's] only appeal or usefulness will be to dedicated students with considerable knowledge of an interest in music theory and technique. . . . The writing style is hurried and suffers from frequent asides or parenthetical information adding to the confusion. The illustrations are interesting." M. A. Wentroth

Library J 93:13330 S 15 '68 150w

YOUNGSON, A. J. Overhead capital: a study in development economics. 192p $6.75 Aldine pub.

332.67 Economics. Economic development. Underdeveloped areas [67-113283]

The author's attempt to define the "concept 'overhead capital' leads directly to the general set of problems facing poor countries seeking economic growth. According to Youngson, overhead capital is not in any sense an operational concept, but is 'facilitating investment which promotes innovation.'" (Choice) Bibliography. Index.

"The way in which the author combines his empirico-historical observations with equilibrium analysis is not always fully convincing, at least not to this reviewer. However, the wealth of references to the experiences with overhead capital projects in various parts of the world gives the study an element of realism and relevance which is sometimes absent in other studies of this important topic." K. W. Kapp

Ann Am Acad 378:204 J1 '68 600w

"Youngson approaches the study of development economics in a unique way. [He] is a noted English economist who writes well but tends toward over-discussion of sometimes minor points. The book is comprehensible to undergraduates, yet most will find their limited reading time better spent on a more general text. . . . [The] book will be very useful for graduate and undergraduate research papers dealing with overhead capital."

Choice 5:657 J1 '68 120w

YOUNGSON, ALEXANDER JOHN. The making of classical Edinburgh: 1750-1840. 338p il p1 maps $10 Aldine pub.

724 Edinburgh—Historic houses, etc. Architecture—History [67-83395]

The author's "concern is with the planning and building of New Town, or classical, or Georgian Edinburgh as it is variously called. He explores the motives and needs that brought about this huge project, tells what is known about the architects and builders (among them Craig, Adam, and Playfair), and describes the laying out of the streets and the putting up of the buildings." (Library J) Index.

Reviewed by S. A. Burrell

Am Hist R 73:1151 Ap '68 500w

"[This volume] reveals a stunning collection of pictures. . . . When such effective illustrations have been supplied it seems ungrateful to complain. Nevertheless, more architectural plans would help. Many buildings and site groupings cannot be visualized adequately from the descriptions. Some aerial photographs would help too. By relying entirely on contemporary maps, reproduced at such small scale that street names cannot be read, those unfamiliar with Edinburgh will have difficulty with orientation. . . . [But the book contains] important insights into urban development processes. It does for planned unit development very much what Sam Bass Warner's indispensable Streetcar Suburbs [BRD 1963] does for unplanned laissez-faire marketplace city building." Roger Montgomery

Arch Forum 128:54 Mr '68 1050w

"Youngson, a professor of economics at the University of Edinburgh, makes no attempt to relate architectural styles to a European context and only in passing places urban forms within a broader context, but this does not weaken the book. The growth of Edinburgh which is, after all, appropriate for the subject. Beautiful new photographs, especially done for the book, and contemporary maps, prints, and drawings complement the text. Original documentary sources have been used and incorporated into the text, producing a book at once scholarly and exceedingly well written."

Choice 4:669 S '67 170w

Economist 221:1396 D 31 '66 550w

"Few cities have as many books written about them as does Edinburgh. Most of them scarcely do the city justice, but some, like the present one, . . . are outstandingly fine. . . . The list of expenditures for the most parts of the project are a feature that gives an insight into the times. Thus, if inclined, one could find out approximately how much this famous and beautiful old city cost. The illustrations, which include many full-blod photographs by Edwin Smith, are of high quality. Recommended for most collections." Peter Gellatly

Library J 92:1931 My 15 '67 170w

Reviewed by Nicholas Taylor

New Statesman 72:884 D 9 '66 1650w

"Inasmuch as Professor Youngson is describing one of the great architectural achievements of the world, the absence of even an attempt to assess it architecturally (apart from the abortive comparison with Nancy) is staggering; and the wild attempt to put in a flimsy background of architectural history at the end most unwise. . . . And even though a description of the architecture was not . . . the sole function of the book, it is so important a part of any account of 'the making of classical Edinburgh' that the omission is inexcusable. On the social side Professor Youngson is much better, though he has a regrettable tendency to substitute anecdote for explanation: one would like to see some issues discussed much farther. . . . As a work of history, therefore, Professor Youngson's book is only a partial success. As a work of scholarship it is further weakened by an inadequate and inaccurate index, and by the absence of any bibliography, of any comparative chronology, and, astonishingly, of any means of identifying the many abbreviations."

TLS p600 J1 6 '67 1050w

YURICK, SOL. The bag. 476p $6.95 Trident press

68-18318

The "central figure, Sam Miller, is a novelist, living in the agony of a youthful idealism that has been burned out of his grasp by the searing voltage of mid-century events. When his new novel is greeted with joy by his publisher, who congratulates him on blending art with commercial success, Miller is nauseated, refuses to publish, and retreats to a job with the Welfare Department. . . . His experience in the department is the pivot for a montage of events and characters. . . . disgorged by the modern metropolis—black nationalists; slumlords; bohemia, both esthetic and political; the collision of the races socially, psychically and sexually; . . . liberals, junkies, psychiatrists, politicians, businessmen, cops, carnivores and computers, all flailing about for identity and power." (Newsweek)

"The plot of the novel serves chiefly as a device whereby the author can indulge his taste for lurid and fundamentally pointless descriptions of the schemes, crimes and atrocities which fill the lives of Sam Miller's new circle of acquaintances. No perversion is overlooked. . . . the list of tasteless and artless scenes is staggering. . . . Perhaps Yurick might be vindicated if his literary hash could be called a true picture of the New Left; yet the very segment of society which Yurick proposes to expose is an elusive subject. And the several months which have passed since the author completed the novel have wrought significant changes upon the nature of the newest Left-leaning activists and activities." J. B. Salomon

Best Sell 28:145 J1 1 '68 650w

Choice 5:1313 D '68 130w

Reviewed by Thomas Miller

Commonweal 89:30 O 4 '68 900w

Reviewed by Edward Margolies

Library J 93:2022 My 15 '68 90w

Reviewed by Martin Tucker

Nation 206:28 J1 8 '68 950w

"The trouble is that [Yurick's novel] is always asserting the observed, the real, that which is, and then doubling back with images out of literature or Hollywood, and the life of the work is in the real and the death of it in the literature. . . . Time and again, the tic to describe goes off and invariably becomes Literature, as Yurick stops. . . . really feeling and begins to posture, and, worst of all, stops thinking and asserts, asserts, asserts. . . . This is a work of great energy and passion, an accurate depiction of the sociology of the contemporary despair, that suffers from its reductionism of all to one particularity, one obsession, one ideology, and one issue. It's a potpourri of failures posing as a novel of ideas." R. M. Elman

N Y Times Bk R p4 My 19 '68 1500w

"These are very bad times, and Yurick treats the novel as a gospel to shape those times into a deep, rattling message of peril. He is one of the rare writers who can synthesize the claims of art and of social feeling and thought. Despite a few touches of apocalyptic sentimentality (the slumlord with culture, the white Jewish welfare worker who is cleansed of spiritual sludge in the giant black embrace of one of his clients) this book is possibly the most powerful, intelligent and balanced novel in several years about our diseased, embattled and explosive cities." Jack Kroll

Newsweek 71:92A Je 17 '68 450w

Reviewed by Haskel Frankel

Sat R 51:26 J1 20 '68 400w

YZERMANS, VINCENT A., ed. American participation in the Second Vatican council. 684p $16.50 Sheed

262.5 Vatican Council, 2d 67-13766

"This volume contains the text of the spoken interventions [of the American bishops] arranged according to the 16 conciliar documents. In his historical introduction Monsignor Yzermans also makes . . . use of the written interventions, and he describes the history of each document." (Library J)

Choice 5:1320 D '68 170w

Reviewed by Creighton Lacy

Christian Century 85:558 Ap 24 '68 120w

"[Msgr. Yzermans] wisely warns against making his book the sole basis for evaluating American participation in the Council. Even with this limitation, conclusions can be safely drawn from [it]. . . . [Although] essentially a Council book, it offers oblique, ancillary clues to what the state of the Church was in certain key population centers of the United States. . . . The interventions of Cardinal Spellman have a special fascination. . . . One of the intriguing aspects of Yzermans' book is the reevaluation it makes possible of American interventions in the light of historical developments. Some interventions, like Bishop Gruka's on racial discrimination, assume a significance that was unappreciated at time of delivery. . . . [Some] like Cardinal O'Boyle's on the same topic are as indicting now as ever. . . . [The introductions to each part] are informative and perceptive. . . . What are questionable are the commentaries that conclude each of the sixteen chapters. . . . The reader has read their likes before." John Deedy

Critic 26:72 D '67-Ja '68 1500w

"This is excellent background reading for students of the conciliar documents and is recommended for all larger collections on the Council." W. C. Heiser

Library J 92:4421 D 1 '67 120w

Z

ZAEHNER, R. C., ed. & tr. Hindu scriptures; sel. tr. and introduced by R. C. Zaehner. (Everyman's lib) 328p $2.25 Dutton

294.5 Hinduism [67-70067]

This volume contains religious statements from the "Rig Veda, Atharva Veda, Upanishads and Bhagavad Gita. The selection is made and translated . . . by the Spalding Professor of Eastern Religions at the University of Oxford." (Pacific Affairs) Glossary of names.

"Zaehner has produced a very useful volume.

[It is] readable without losing the spirit of the original. . . . The sobriety in selection is evident in the elimination of repetitive passages and the technical details of rituals and sacrificial formulas. Lengthy treatises of the Upanishads are wisely pruned without sacrificing significant themes. The book remedies a major handicap of similar selections in the field, being neither too unwieldy nor too limited. Critically used, the book is a handy volume with adequate material for both undergraduate and graduate studies on Hinduism. Replaces the 1938. Everyman edition edited and translated by [N.] Macnicol."

Choice 4:1128 D '67 140w

ZAEHNER, R. C.—Continued

"[Professor Zaehner has] translated with an uncommon clarity. . . . Unfortunately, the texts translated fail to convey the range and diversity of Hindu religious thought. It is as though a volume of Christian texts was prepared including the Bible, St. Augustine and St. Thomas Aquinas but leaving out St. Francis, Luther and the whole range of sectarian and modern writing." B. M. Morrison
Pacific Affairs 40:204 spring-summer '67
100w

ZAGONA, SALVATORE V., ed. Studies and issues in smoking behavior. 263p $7.50 Univ. of Ariz. press

301.1 Smoking 67-28650

This volume has been developed primarily from research reports and symposium discussions at the 1966 National Research Conference on Smoking Behavior. The papers are divided into five sections: Factors contributing to the effectiveness of communications; Intervention processes; Cessation processes; Personal characteristics of smoker; and Evaluation and summary. Bibliography. Materials on smoking for public use. Index.

"In brief, this volume presents a number of papers on various aspects of smoking. What is seriously lacking is a chapter or so bringing together the many discrete findings, detailing their differences and inconsistencies, reconciling the conflicts, and commenting on how they extend, modify, or contradict current theory on behavior change. . . . [Another serious deficiency is] the lack of a sociological approach. . . . These lacks are serious. Nevertheless, the orientation of papers in the volume represents only the first steps in applying social science to understanding a vital public health problem. These first steps have been worth-while." Saxon Graham
Am Soc R 33:480 Je '68 700w

"A very valuable collection for all concerned about public health problems; and it also serves to illustrate vividly the role of theory in dictating approaches to measurement, manipulation, and interpretation of behavior. . . . As a case-book in social psychology and motivation, the collection will be useful in undergraduate courses. . . . Most of the papers are clearly and simply written, and the symposia are easy to follow. Over 50 contributors are listed. . . . Highly recommended."
Choice 4:1412 F '68 160w

"In the 20 papers, six symposia, and two 'overviews,' the participants cover a wide variety of topics ranging from highly specialized research [to practical methods]. . . . The symposia also explore more than superficially the ethical problems of research. . . . The 21-page bibliography is followed by a useful list (with some annotations) . . . which includes books, films, and display materials; sources and prices are given for most of these. Extremely useful in public, academic, and medical libraries." W. K. Beatty

Library J 92:4170 N 15 '67 200w

ZAGORIA, DONALD S. Vietnam triangle: Moscow, Peking, Hanoi. 286p $6.95; pa $1.95 Pergasus (N Y)

959.7 Vietnamese Conflict, 1961-. Vietnam (Democratic Republic, 1946-)—Foreign relations 67-25501

A "representative of the RAND school of political analysis, Zagoria . . . appraises the divergent positions of Moscow, Peking, and to a lesser extent Hanoi and the National Liberation Front on the Viet-Nam War. . . . Inferential judgments are drawn from a careful reading and collation of what the author deems revealing speeches and public statements by representative spokesman." (Choice) Index.

"Zagoria's book is a scholarly work which is easy and pleasant to read. . . . The main purpose of the work [is] admirably carried out. . . . While admitted disadvantages are noted by the author, one cannot but help be impressed by the way in which he has handled the materials. What could have been a dull, lifeless work turns out to be rather fascinating and dynamic in both scope and approach." G. G. Bauroth

Am Pol Sci R 62:685 Je '68 450w

"From Moscow's perspective the Viet-Nam war is depicted as peripheral to the Soviet's larger global interests. Peking's fairly restrained Viet-Nam policy is interpreted as an important aspect of the acute factional struggles of the Cultural Revolution. . . . A stimulating book, but not all of its parts hang together. The extensive appendices of factual summaries and documents are a hodge-podge and apparently included to fill out Zagoria's own rather brief analysis."

Choice 5:267 Ap '68 200w

"The book appears to be a spin-off from a longer, fuller study. For while Professor Zagoria's analysis of the tangles of inter-Communist fears and rivalries is highly illuminating, his conclusions about future American policy on the war are brief and hardly as convincing. In appendices, taking up half the book's pages, he provides a chronology from 1964 to 1967 of Sino-Soviet relationships, charts of the North Vietnam government and party organizations, and five significant Communist documents. . . . Recommended for academic and research libraries." Paul Bixler

Library J 92:4513 D 15 '67 160w

"An awkward attempt to view the policies of the major forces involved in Vietnam. The title is misleading and confusing in that the book actually deals with a five-sided interpretation of policies followed by Moscow, Peking, Washington, Hanoi and the National Liberation Front. While it is informative, Vietnam Triangle gives the impression of being put together in a contrived and piecemeal fashion." N. J. Gallo

Nation 206:614 My 6 '68 60w

Reviewed by P. J. Honey

Pacific Affairs 41:446 fall '68 230w

Reviewed by C. W. Yost

Sat R 51:30 My 11 '68 430w

ZAHNISER, MARVIN R. Charles Cotesworth Pinckney, founding father; pub. for the Inst. of early Am. hist. and culture at Williamsburg, Virginia. 295p $7.50 Univ. of N.C. press
B or 92 Pinckney, Charles Cotesworth

67-28010

An account of the career of the "soldier, constitution maker, diplomat, and statesman [who was] . . . minister to France in 1796, [and] . . . Federalist candidate for Vice-President in 1800 and for President in 1804 and 1808." (Am Hist R) Note on sources. Index.

"Zahniser fails to present an intelligible view of the South Carolina oligarchy; nor is there a clear-cut interpretation of Pinckney's character. . . . [He] was an inordinately dull man and hampers the biographer who would bring him to life. Despite its failings, this biography does provide a long-needed summary of Pinckney's life. The available sources and secondary works have been consulted, and where there are gaps in the record the author has constructed the events as they might have happened. The volume will prove a good source for those who seek to know an epoch and its principal events in relation to one of its chief characters. . . . It is unfortunate that the book does not provide an understanding of the man." J. E. Hendricks

Am Hist R 73:1626 Je '68 430w

Choice 5:1217 N '68 210w

"There are interesting facts regarding Pinckney's religion, his social life, and his law practice. But one is left guessing about the extent and nature of the property he held, the size and layout of his plantation, his behavior as an owner of slaves, and the nature of his other business interests. If many of the essential records were unavailable, there surely exist enough clues for some discussion of these matters. Zahniser has drawn a most convincing portrait of Pinckney's personal and political character." Robert McColley

J Am Hist 55:122 Je '68 440w

ZALD, MAYER N., ed. Organizing for community welfare; ed. with an introd. by Mayer N. Zald. 316p $7.95 Quadrangle bks.

361.8 Social work

67-12356

These papers "attempt to link the findings of sociology with the everyday problems of community welfare. . . . [They discuss] urban education, care for the mentally ill, illegitimacy, adolescent culture, welfare dependency, and the structure of welfare organizations, [looking] . . . beyond immediate proposals to the broad context of social action. . . . By considering the limits and dilemmas of past policies and approaches, the authors are able to identify specific levers for change, or ways of reshaping organizations to achieve social values." (Publisher's note) Bibliography.

"For those of us in public health and related fields who are faced with the responsibility of planning and implementing innovative programs for communities which are becoming more urbanized and complex in structure, the book offers valuable information and interesting views. In order to be effective, we must interact with various types of individuals and organizations, so it is necessary to increase our knowledge of why they exist and how they operate. Social science can give us some of these answers, as evidenced by Mr. Zald's essay in which he gives a thorough analysis of community organization agencies. One paper on the metropolitan school systems vividly depicts the crisis in public education. . . . Another paper assembles and interprets data concerning our unique American system of allocation of services to the mentally ill. . . . This very excellent group of papers gives the reader greater insight as to the scope and diversity of factors operative in poverty, illegitimacy, and other problems which have plagued our new society." F. M. Georges

Am J Pub Health 58:993 My '68 300w

Choice 5:691 J1 '68 100w

"These six essays originated in a curriculum development grant. . . . They represent an effort to bring out in the open some of the contradictions and perplexities that are part of the condition of the applied social sciences. The essays examine some of the problems of society and attempt to identify them. What exactly is the problem of illegitimacy? Is it possible that it is rather a part of the problem of the changing concepts of legitimacy? What is the field of responsibility of education? What is the method and purpose of community organization procedures? The writers attempt to explain to the interested reader some of the difficulties underlying the making of policy decisions." Sophie Mitrisin

Library J 92:1846 My 1 '67 130w

ZALESKI, EUGÈNE. Planning reforms in the Soviet Union, 1962-1966; an analysis of recent trends in economic organization and management; tr. by Marie-Christine MacAndrew and G. Warren Nutter. 203p $6 Univ. of N.C. press

338.947 Russia—Economic policy 67-17035

The "French economist with the Centre National de la Recherche Scientifique in Paris pictures recent important changes in the Soviet organizational scheme. After a brief introduction he outlines administrative reforms of the central agencies and discusses . . . the idea of continuous planning concurrent with the 'traditional' five-to-seven-year-plans. He devotes the bulk of this work to various proposals for reforms and to their adherents and critics. M. Zaleski concludes with descriptions of the basic reforms initiated by the Central Committee of the Party and by the U.S.S.R. Council of Ministers in October 1965 and of the price reforms of October 1966." (Library J) Indexes of names and of subjects.

Reviewed by Peter Wiles

Am Econ R 58:995 S '68 750w

"The explanations offered for the problems and motives of economic reform are more or less standard, but it is extremely useful to have available this comprehensive and coherent survey. . . . A few elements in Zaleski's treatment seem distinctive and it is interesting to look for the special viewpoint [of] a man with his uniquely extensive knowledge of the whole history of Soviet organizational evolution. . . . One such element is his patient consideration of the details of official explanations and rationalizations for any administrative change. [His] treatment shows how useful this tedious work is. A second distinctive feature . . . is a detailed exploration of the roles of the republican Councils of Ministers and the republican Gosplans. . . . This book shows the important role of the lower level planning organs. . . . Third, Zaleski devotes much attention to the idea of continuous planning as one of the widely discussed reforms, though this emphasis is less easy to agree with. . . . Finally, [he] always considers the question of the rank of an official heading an agency—say, whether certain officials within Gosplan are given the assimilated rank of minister. This is one example of his general sensitivity to political issues in economic reorganization which is one of the strong features of the book." Robert Campbell

Am Pol Sci ■ 62:656 Je '68 650w

"As indicated in the title, this very detailed, thoroughly documented (Russian sources only) book concentrates on organizational and managerial aspects of the government. The translation is good. Appeal is limited to specialists of Soviet economy and government, but for these it is of real value." H. H. Bernt

Library J 92:2393 Je 15 '67 150w

TLS p1345 N 28 '68 420w

ZANGER, JACK. The Brooks Robinson story. 192p il $3.50; lib bdg $3.34 Messner

796.357 Robinson, Brooks. Baseball—Biography 67-21612

"An account of the life of the Baltimore Orioles' third-baseman, [whose] career parallels the rise of the Baltimore team which reentered the American League in 1954. . . . Grades seven to ten." (Library J)

"[This will] have limited appeal for the young reader unless he is an avid baseball fan." Edward Doyle

Best Sell 27:312 N 1 '67 90w

"Despite some weird football situations in the first 44 pages (the author describes Robinson's exploits as a junior high football player as though the terminology and rules of today were exactly the same in 1951), [this] emerges as a readable account of . . . the most Valuable Player award winner of 1964." J. A. Bollas

Library J 92:4632 D 15 '67 90w

ZARNOWITZ, VICTOR. An appraisal of short-term economic forecasts [pub. for] Nat. bur. of economic research. 144p $5 Columbia univ. press

338.54 Economic forecasting 66-28826

"The first report of N.B.E.R.'s work concerning the accuracy of selected predictions of aggregate economic variables. Eight sets of forecasts, produced by independent forecasting groups purposely unidentified, are analyzed regarding their accuracy in predicting turning points and levels of and changes in G.N.P., industrial production and consumption, investment and government expenditures for 1953-63, and various sub-periods. Accuracy is measured by the closeness of predicted values to actual values which emerge from the economy." (Choice) Index.

"This book should not be viewed merely as a historical record of the performance of particular forecasters. Rather the study should be considered as providing some valuable information for determining how forecasting techniques can be improved. Zarnowitz indicates that (1) the use of anticipation data improves the forecasts and (2) expert knowledge of particular sectors improves the projections of activity in these areas. Neither result is surprising, but both have implications for the development of forecasting procedures and the establishment of groups which make predictions. These findings plus Zarnowitz's competent handling of the statistical material make this a study which all economists who are interested in forecasting should read." H. O. Stekler

Am Econ R 57:1360 D '67 450w

"This study is essential for anyone interested in prediction by aggregative economic models, and is readily understandable by undergraduates. Recommended for library purchase."

Choice 5:536 Je '68 100w

ZARUBICA, MLADIN. Scutari; a novel. 311p $4.95 Farrar, Straus

67-15016

"From the moment American businessman Urosh Gore emplanes for Paris . . . he is an unwitting cog in a plan which sends him beyond Paris to his Yugoslavian homeland and on to Communist Albania [where attempts are made to kill him as he strives to penetrate a Chinese Communist missile base]." (Horn Bk)

"The prose is flat and frightfully awkward. 'Scutari' is so incredibly improbable, both in characterization and plot that one simply cannot accept the story as even passable hammock reading. All the old themes are reworked here in the most implausible and unimaginative fashion and, as a result, the novel is extremely disappointing." P. A. Doyle

Best Sell 27:221 S 1 '67 420w

ZARUBICA, MLADIN—Continued

"The characterization of Gore, and especially his capacity for loving no fewer than three women in a few days, is slightly ridiculous, but only a minor flaw in a first-rate spy tale. Compensating for the weak romantic element is the authenticity of Yugoslavia and Albania, with their brooding backdrop of aloof, mystical mountains, and the blue magnificence of Lake Scutari. In a breathless sequence of disguises, stratagems, and near-captures, Gore penetrates the innermost secrets of an Albanian missile installation; and his companion, the reader finds himself looking over his shoulder in fear of betrayal." Jane Manthorne

Horn Bk 43:771 D '67 130w [YA]

"Yugoslavia is a popular setting for political suspense novels and this is one of the best. Written by a Yugoslav, it expresses the fierce love of freedom and pride of family in authentic characters. Scutari is a lake dividing the boundary of Albania and Yugoslavia, a boundary which has been a source of trouble for centuries." Edith Shumaker

Library J 92:2437 Je 15 '67 130w

Reviewed by E. A. Morse

Library J 93:314 Ja 15 '68 120w [YA]

Reviewed by Sergeant Cuff

Sat R 50:62 N 25 '67 40w

ZATKO, JAMES J., comp. The valley of silence; Catholic thought in contemporary Poland. 391p il $10.50 Univ. of Notre Dame press

230 Theology. Catholic Church in Poland
67-12125

"The 'central theme of society, man, and religion' runs through this anthology of contemporary Catholic thought in Poland, the 'valley of silence' of the title. . . . Except for Cardinal Wyszyński, the authors are professors at the Catholic University of Lublin." (Library J)

"Any collection of essays by contemporary Polish scholars that is published in English is significant simply because of the scarcity of such anthologies. . . . The high quality of the treatises readily refutes the title by demonstrating that the Polish Catholic intellectual is far from silent. . . . [But] the essays vary so widely in style and subject matter, from a homiletic treatment of Christian morality by Cardinal Stefan Wyszyński to a carefully annotated discussion of the sources of Chaucer's 'The Friar's Tale' by Przemysław Mroczkowski, that the book lacks a coherent theme, and this makes it difficult to specify the audience for which it is intended." J. J. Kulczycki

America 117:486 O 28 '67 550w

Choice 4:1400 F '68 220w

"The subjects cover a wide range of disciplines, including not only religion, philosophy, and history, but also literature, law, economics, sociology, education, and art. . . . The contribution by Jan Turowski, 'Man and Society,' shines like a beacon in its proclamation of human freedom. Because of the diverse subjects assembled in this volume, it may be overlooked by scholars seeking exhaustive studies of particular topics. It will nevertheless be needed in Polonica collections." C. E. Zakrzewski

Library J 92:1496 Ap 1 '67 120w

ZEI, ALKI. Wildcat under glass; tr. from the Greek by Edward Fenton. 177p maps $4.50 Holt

68-11835

"The story re-creates island life in a [Greek] town where German prewar control and an active freedom movement affect the lives of children related to freedom workers and sympathizers. Problems arise during the girls' happy summer on Lamagari and deepen on their return to the Pythagoras Private School with its pro-Nazi head. Little Melissa serves as message bearer for actively involved Cousin Niko, who must finally flee to Spain; sister Myrto innocently joins the young Legionnaires, proud to be named a leader; Father fears for his job at the bank; and scholarly Grandfather and other relatives look on helplessly.

The title derives from a glass-encased stuffed wildcat which from time to time holds messages and serves as symbol of the freedom movement." (Horn Bk) First published in Greek

under the title To Kaplani Tis Vitrinas. "Grades five to seven." (Library J)

"In a swiftly moving story, very real characters and the anxieties and problems that beset them create excitement, suspense and often pathos. No reader can fail to respond to the underlying theme: the historic longing of the Greek people for liberty and human dignity. A book with deep meaning for young people today." Polly Goodwin

Book World p14 J1 28 '68 140w

"A superbly told story, translated by one who knows the land and the language so well that the writing lacks any feeling of translation. . . . The writing is rich in characterization, convincing in its incidents, and totally rewarding for the reader in its vivid theme of the meaning of freedom and democracy." V. H.

Horn Bk 44:326 Je '68 190w

"In the light of recent events in Greece, this is a stunning and important book. Though the story is set in the 1930's, its theme is timeless, as Zei shows accurately a nation's reactions to a Fascist takeover in the microcosm of passionate family strife. . . . All of this is related in a wonderfully understated, understanding manner, which will allow readers to sort out the truth as the book's young heroine does." J. C. Thomson

Library J 93:1806 Ap 15 '68 240w

Reviewed by James Forman

N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p12 My 5 '68
190w

Reviewed by Zena Sutherland

Sat R 51:41 My 11 '68 150w

ZEITLIN, M. A., jt. ed. Unamuno: creator and creation. See Rubia Barcia, J.

ZEITLIN, MAURICE. Revolutionary politics and the Cuban working class. 306p $8.50 Princeton univ. press

320.97291 Labor and laboring classes—Cuba.
Communism—Cuba 67-12350

The author attempts through "interviews with Cuban workers to explore their attitudes toward the Cuban revolution. . . . [He seeks to show the influence that] variations in age, skill, race, mobility, economic security, size of plant, political generation, and education have on the attitudes and behavior of the workers." (Publisher's note) Index.

Reviewed by Frank Bonilla

Am J Soc 74:85 J1 '68 550w

"The study was conducted, and the book written, in a sociological framework, but the jargon of the discipline is not oppressively intruded in the volume. It is not a book that will make any best-seller lists, but it is a sympathetically and soberly drawn account of a cross-section of Cuban worker reactions to many aspects of the Fidelista politico-social earthquake in Cuba. . . . The analysis is an honest one, and the author expresses gratitude that he was allowed such free access to those he wished to interview. Dr. Guevara was nobody's fool, however, and one may wonder—cynically—if the freedom of research would have been so generously granted had not the minister been convinced that the resulting analysis would have been basically sympathetic." R. H. Fitzgibbon

Ann Am Acad 378:179 J1 '68 320w

Choice 5:860 S '68 190w

"By studying a working-class revolution still in progress, Zeitlin has produced the first book to apply empirical methods and theory of sociology to a systematic inquiry into the differing responses of workers to a social revolution. Without losing scientific objectivity, Zeitlin, who teaches sociology at the University of Wisconsin, brings to life the local situations and beliefs, in historical perspective and in the economic present. Specialists will appreciate the tables; the general reader will be informed through this well-written and timely study of the Cuban paradox and tragedy. Suitable for public and academic libraries." F. E. Kidder

Library J 93:195 Ja 15 '68 140w

"Although neither a sociologist nor a pollster, I wonder if a sample of 210 is large enough for statistical purposes since when it is broken down into categories the sub-samples are tiny. For instance, in one table sixteen women are cited and percentages solemnly recorded as 62, 12 and 25, when only ten, two and four women are represented. Yet I believe that Zeitlin's sometimes unorthodox conclusions are generally sound not so much because of their statistical basis but because he is a skilled and uncommonly perceptive observer who has done staggering research . . . in the literature of the field."

R. J. Walton

Nation 207:55 J1 22 '68 410w

ZELAYETA, ELENA. Elena's favorite foods; California style; decorations by Janet Anderson. 310p $5.95 Prentice-Hall

641.5 Cookery—California 67-22994

This cookbook contains recipes which are regional specialties using ingredients from California, including pine nuts, kumquats, abalone, papaya and other foods.

Reviewed by Gloria Levitas

Book World p6 D 17 '67 60w

"This is a delightful cookbook. Every other recipe is one you will want to try immediately. Most of them are simple; there are only a few with more complicated directions. . . . The book includes a special section on barbecuing, and one on wild game that takes in wild duck, pheasant and venison. Otherwise, the sections on appetizers, desserts, vegetables, salads, and so on are standard. The appeal for the reader is in the simple but different twist that Elena Zelayeta gives to all her recipes. A recommended purchase." L. B. Saunders

Library J 92:3421 O 1 '67 120w

ZEMAN, KAMIL. See Olbracht, I.

ZENKOVICH, V. P. Processes of coastal development; ed. by J. A. Steers, assisted by Cuchlaine A. M. King; tr. by D. G. Fry. 738p il maps $37.50 Interscience

551.3 Submarine geology 68-3065

This is a "study of shoreline and coastal processes on a worldwide basis. . . . The contents include hydrodynamics of the shoreline, factors governing material displacement and abrasion, subshore and suprashore slope, evolution, and effects of sedimentation, rivers, wind, tides, storms, etc. Further research needs are discussed." (Choice) Originally published in Moscow in 1962.

"A comprehensive in-depth study . . . by one of the most qualified scientists in physical geography and geomorphology. Zenkovich makes full use of his background and experience with Soviet studies and brings international flavor to this compilation, such as a special bibliography on Soviet studies. . . . The format of the book is excellent; the illustrations are abundant and clear."

Choice 5:822 S '68 110w

"Of the 1105 references, as many as two-thirds are Soviet contributions. Although this feature is a bonus to Western scientists, the reader will be annoyed by the author's fond comparison between Soviet and non-Soviet contributions, in which the former are usually favored. . . . The book is essentially concerned with coastal morphology, and, understandably the treatment is qualitative. It would have captured a wider circle of readers had it been more generous with topics relating to dynamics. . . . The book reveals some interesting aspects of the Soviet school of coastal morphology. . . . The book is recommended for a graduate-level reading course in physical geography as well as for libraries of geography, geology, and coastal engineering." C. J. Sonu

Science 162:112 O 4 '68 600w

ZERWICK, CHLOE. The Cassiopeia affair [by] Chloe Zerwick and Harrison Brown. 235p $4.50 Doubleday

68-10575

"Dr. Max Gaby is the eminent scientist who reports the reception of the message from Cassiopeia 3579 to the President, who then calls a special summit conference on disarmament. All is proceeding well until certain people who fear peace succeed in undermining confidence in Gaby, who dies of a stroke. All negotiations cease, and the status quo of the cold war continues. Later, in China, another scientist receives a strange signal." (Library J)

Reviewed by Jane Wilson

Bul Atomic Sci 24:28 S '68 420w

"[Readers] who are undiscouraged by the inevitable affairs springing up among the personnel of the Redo Valley Observatory Complex will find excitement at last when the plot moves into the political world. Hanky-panky in government high circles in this book at least, far more compelling than news from the far-off stars." Pamela Marsh

Christian Science Monitor p9 F 14 '68 240w

Reviewed by P. E. Edlund

Library J 92:4527 D 15 '67 130w

"Despite certain predictable characters and events, this is a taut story of what might happen if the earth were to receive a message from outer space. . . . It's sure and certain for SF fans." Regina Minudri

Library J 93:1822 Ap 15 '68 100w [YA]

"Well written and strung on a framework of solid scientific knowledge, [the book] moves smoothly from the lab to the conference table, from the firesides of Washington to the studies of Peking and Moscow and the mountains of Tibet, where it finally rests comfortably. With all elements accounted for, the book is just an adapter's pen away from the screen. . . . Sex interest: unbrilliant Dionysian secretary with a heart o' gold who calls everyone 'sweetie' but bags a brilliant British scientist anyway. Interest interest: discovery, power politics, world-wide locale, etc. Though not a mind-stretcher like the science fiction of Arthur Clarke, [this novel] nevertheless provides high-stepping sophisticated entertainment." Naid Sofian

Sat R 51:29 My 25 '68 270w

TLS p1346 N 28 '68 70w

ZETTERBAUM, MARVIN. Tocqueville and the problem of democracy. 185p $5.75 Stanford univ. press

321.8 Tocqueville, Alexis Charles Henri Maurice Clérel de. Democracy 67-13664

The author maintains that "Tocqueville's central concern in Democracy in America [was] the problem of reconciling the demands of justice, of equal rights for all men, with the demands of excellence. Tocqueville's attempt to solve this problem by formulating measures wholly consistent with democratic drives and principles is traced by the author. The measures in question include not only the use of local institutions, an independent judiciary, and freedom of association, but also such quasi-political forces as religion and the spirit of commerce." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

"In four connected [articles] at once informative, difficult, and challenging, Zetterbaum, a political scientist, attempts to fix the theoretical structure of Tocqueville's philosophy and to demonstrate its final failure, [arguing] that Tocqueville was more calculating and less neutral than he pretended. . . . Zetterbaum makes some interesting observations, which should spark a lively debate. But by lumping together Tocqueville's pronouncements in the two halves of his Democracy, and, indeed, over thirty years of a varied experience, he creates a theoretical doctrine for Tocqueville so heartless as to remind one of Machiavelli and Rousseau. . . . According to Zetterbaum, Tocqueville's understanding of democratic man was 'based largely on Rousseau'. . . . [This is a] doctrine that would, I believe, have caused Tocqueville the gravest of misgivings. . . . Zetterbaum seems well acquainted with the literature." G. W. Pierson

Am Hist R 73:830 F '68 500w

"Professor Zetterbaum correctly emphasizes the fact that Tocqueville saw that Equality—equality of conditions—was the most powerful social force behind what we rather loosely call democracy. . . . [He] does an excellent job of analyzing the problem of determinism and inevitability in Tocqueville's work. Of great importance here, he shows how Tocqueville probably masked his moral preferences behind the intellectual screen of transcendental determinism. This then is an excellent book. . . . [However,] there is no work on Tocqueville, including the book here reviewed, which has been able to clarify 'what Tocqueville really meant.' He said what he meant, and above all else, was crystal clear." E. D. Baltzell

Ann Am Acad 375:232 Ja '68 400w

Choice 5:1194 N '68 120w

Reviewed by Marvin Meyers

J Am Hist 54:887 Mr '68 700w

Reviewed by J. C. Lobdell

Nat R 19:1033 S 19 '67 300w

ZEVIN, JACK, jt. auth. Creative encounters in the classroom. See Massialas, B. G.

ZIEROLD, NORMAN. Three sisters in black. 240p il $5.95 Little

364.15 Murder. Trials. Snead, Ocey Wardlaw Martin 68-24240

The author presents an account of events preceding the death of a young woman and of the trial of three women accused of the crime. "On the evening of November 29, 1909 the body of Ocey Snead, a beautiful, emaciated young woman, was found in a house in East Orange, New Jersey. The body was discovered in a bathtub with only enough water to cover the face; an autopsy disclosed a large amount of morphine in the blood. Indicted for her murder were her mother, Mrs. Caroline Martin, and her mother's two sisters, Mrs. Mary Snead and Virginia Wardlaw." (Publisher's note)

Reviewed by R. B. Nordberg
Best Sell 28:308 N 1 '68 550w

"[In this book as in his earlier, Little Charley Ross, America's First Kidnapping for Ransom, BRD 1967, the author] has resurrected a fascinating but largely forgotten criminal case. . . . In relating the history of this case Mr. Zierold is adept at interspersing statements by police, lawyers, judges, the accused and others with his own connecting exposition. In the end many questions concerning the death of Ocey Snead and the actions of [the sisters] remain an enigma. Nevertheless, this is a book that crime buffs will not want to miss." M. A. Forslund

Library J 93:3017 S 1 '68 180w

"A conscientious chronicle of a dreary crime—or was it an accident?—quite lacking in style. . . . The whole lamentable affair possesses no inherent charm to inspire its chronicler; and to it he has brought no extraneous fascination of suspense, insight, lively prose style or play of fancy. . . . Liberal quotations from the daily press, which in those days favored a rhetoric both turgid and lumpish, with small respect for fact and no aptitude for artistic invention, contributes little to shed light on the scene. . . . The passing of the dismal Wardlaw clan did, as Zierold remarks, leave ambiguities unresolved; nor does his book dispose of them." Lillian de la Torre

N Y Times Bk R p28 O 20 '68 700w

Reviewed by Sergeant Cuff
Sat R 51:58 N 30 '68 40w

ZILINSKY, URSULA. Middle ground. 192p $4.95 Lippincott

68-24140

This novel "deals with a homosexual concentration-camp inmate in Austria, who finds an intermediate status by falling in love with the commandant. Tyl Von Pankow, an arrogant Prussian 17-year-old, is arrested on the athletic field of his school one day in 1942 and sent to the slave labor camp, . . . where he becomes the orderly of kindly General von Svestrom." (N Y Times Bk R)

"This is definitely not an ordinary book. . . . Tyl von Pankow emerges as an intelligent, sensitive and disturbed person whose rational thoughts seldom make any dent on his emotions. (But he is more human for this flaw.) Svestrom is a question mark—he is undoubtedly the most realized character in the book (this because the reader sees him, and everyone else for that matter through Tyl's eyes) but remains strangely distant from all. . . . It is a powerful and disturbing work. The theme of homosexuality may be distasteful to many but it is handled with the grace of a trained athlete—sure, positive and without excess. The secondary characters, of which Karel Killian, leader of the Communist block of prisoners, is the most important, are drawn with the same sense of balance and strength. Perhaps, after all, this is really a novel of survival." L. C. Schneider
Best Sell 28:240 S 15 '68 600w

"Sometimes Zilinsky, author of Before the Glory Ended [BRD 1967], writes with great skill and insight, but there is a disappointing flatness, a matter of factness, a superficiality that makes the plot seem distant and unreal. Characters are more types than people—the reader never gets inside them. Tyl's self-discovery as Jew and homosexual receive too little attention. This book may offend the conservative reader but it is recommended for the very large fiction collection." W. C. Robinson
Library J 93:2693 J1 '68 250w

Reviewed by Martin Levin
N Y Times Bk R p31 Ag 25 '68 170w
New Yorker 44:212 O 12 '68 110w

ZILLMAN, DONALD N., jt. auth. The American university in summer. See Schoenfeld, C. A.

ZILVERSMIT, ARTHUR. The first emancipation; the abolition of slavery in the North. 262p $6.95 Univ. of Chicago press

301.45 Slavery in the U.S. Negroes 67-15954
For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Reviewed by T. E. Drake
Am Hist R 73:1237 Ap '68 650w

Reviewed by M. L. Dillon
J Am Hist 54:873 Mr '68 600w

Reviewed by L. W. Towner
New Eng Q 41:145 Mr '68 330w

ZIM, HERBERT S. Corals; il. by René Martin. 63p maps $2.95; lib bdg $2.94 Morrow

593 Corals—Juvenile literature 66-16402

The author "discusses the facts available about coral animals and tells us what theories have been developed to explain how coral reefs and atolls form." (Publisher's note) Index. "Grades three to five." (Library J)

"Coral animals that look like flowering plants are depicted in drawings of photographic clarity and supplemented by readable text in Dr. Zim's latest science book. The varied shapes and interesting patterns of coral are shown and their life habits [explained.]" Gladys Conklin
Library J 91:5242 O 15 '66 60w

TLS p1164 N 30 '67 60w

ZIM, HERBERT S. Waves; il. by René Martin. 62p $2.95; lib bdg $2.94 Morrow

551.4 Ocean waves—Juvenile literature 67-21734

This "account of ocean waves, [describes] their origin, physical characteristics, and the natural forces that modify them, such as wind and the contours of the shore and ocean bottom. The author discusses techniques that scientists use to measure waves and programs they have developed to handle the vast amounts of sand that are continually being shifted along the shore. [Index.] Grades three to four." (Library J)

Reviewed by E. F. Grave
Library J 92:4619 D 15 '67 100w

"The facts, approved by staff at the Institute of Oceanography, are hardly likely to be in dispute. The book is intended for the 'older junior pupil' and is a conscientious attempt to meet his needs: there is no contents page, . . . the text is well spaced, there is an illustration on each page, the sentences are short. The subject chosen is a narrow one and the author covers it methodically, but in the end the weight of facts is too oppressive, and we yearn for some indication, in illustrations or text, of the excitement of the moving ocean." TLS p1128 O 3 '68 110w

ZIMBARDO, ROSE A., jt. ed. Tolkien and the critics. See Isaacs, N. D.

ZIMMER, PAUL. The ribs of death. 72p $4.95; pa $1.95 October house

811 67-18851

A first book of poems by the sales manager of the University of Pittsburgh press. Some of these poems have appeared previously in such publications as Virginia Quarterly Review, Prairie Schooner and Yankee.

"Both the theme and style of [these] poems are traditional. In fact, the poet draws heavily on classical allusions and the ballad form. Most of his references are to modern trials and tribulations, but the poems may be enjoyed without much effort at relating them to the atomic age. For example, 'First Mate Joseph Conrad,' will appeal to anyone who enjoys sailing or simply watching the sea. The poem probably has deeper philosophical meaning, but Mr. Zimmer handles his material so skillfully that reading it requires little real effort on the part of the reader. This is a good first collection, and should have wide appeal, particularly for those who take a dim view of modern, free verse." Bill Katz

Library J 93:2009 My 15 '68 140w

"The language is alive; words dance and play, bring the joy with the tears. The poems are as totally real as they are imaginatively artificial. Proteus, not Dedalus, is Zimmer's old father, for he shifts shape and voice as easily as he seems never to lose hold of the essence of things, the one true subject of all poetry. Whether in the section concerned with Wanda, Phineas, Alphonse, and Lord Fluting or in the very ribs of death, Zimmer is a poet of real elegance and hard vision. The ribs of death are the solid structure and the string of jokes at the heart of us all. [This] is a brilliant book by a poet of real stature."

Va Q R 44:ciii summer '68 180w

ZIMMERMAN, FRANKLIN B. Henry Purcell, 1659-1695; his life and times. 429p pl $15 St Martins

B or 92 Purcell, Henry 67-14079

For descriptive note, review excerpts and other review citations see BRD 1967.

Choice 5:353 My '68 140w

Reviewed by H. L. Clarke

Mus Q 54:379 J1 '68 2250w

N Y Times Bk R p18 F 25 '68 180w

ZINKIN, TAYA. India and her neighbours; il. by Biman Mullick. 96p col il col maps $4.95; lib bdg $3.71 Watts. F.

915.4 India—Juvenile literature. Asia, Southern—Juvenile literature 67-26380

This volume "describes the history, topography and social background of India, Pakistan, Nepal, Ceylon and Burma." (TLS) Index. "Ages eight to ten." (Christian Science Monitor)

"Faced with such teeming multiplicity, . . . this book's main function must be to stimulate interest and goodwill. This it does, enjoyably. . . . History, geography, and legend are interwoven; the caste system is explained very simply indeed; Gautama Buddha and his teachings are dealt with in pleasant and improbable simplicity, Hinduism is mentioned; and the enormous, rich and violent tapestry of ages is sketched in delicate little watercolors of words. . . . Modern India and its cities are handled broadly, lightly. . . . In 28 cheerful preposterously skimpy pages Pakistan, Nepal, the Himalayas, Ceylon, and Burma are indicated much as a forest is indicated by one leaf. Yet a leaf is not without wonders and messages. Neither is this book." N. M.

Christian Science Monitor pB9 N 7 '68 170w

"The complex story is told vividly by Taya Zinkin and strikingly illustrated by an Indian graphic designer. . . . One small fault: the map of India gives no indication of its longitude and latitude or of the sub-continent's relationship with other countries."

TLS p1164 N 30 '67 70w

ZISTEL, ERA. The dangerous year; il. by John Schoenherr. 105p $2.95 Random house Skunks—Stories 67-24688

"The author traces a family of skunks from their birth through their becoming orphans and the . . . perils of their first year. . . . Grades four to six." (Library J)

Book World p15 F 11 '68 160w

Reviewed by M. L. Birmingham

Commonweal 88:307 My 24 '68 30w

"With great sympathy that does not sacrifice realism, the author . . . [provides a] large quantity of information about skunk habits, . . . skillfully interwoven with the absorbing story. The black and white drawings are superb." A. D. Schweibish

Library J 92:358 O 15 '67 60w

Reviewed by Lorus and Margery Milne

N Y Times Bk R pt 2, p43 N 5 '67 140w

"How pleasant it is to read a book about animals in which there is no sentimentality and no slightest trace of human behavior; how interesting it is that this direct, low-keyed narrative speaks more effectively of the author's affection for wildlife than some of the sweetest stories ever told." Zena Sutherland

Sat R 51:51 F 24 '68 110w

ZOHAR, MICHAEL BAR-. See Bar-Zohar, M.

ZOLBROD, LEON M. Takizawa Bakin. 162p $3.95 Twayne

B or 92 Bakin, Takizawa 67-12269

A biography of "one of the foremost writers of the late Tokugawa period in Japan [who contributed] to the development of the historical romance." (Library J)

"Professor Zolbrod has admirably unraveled the complex personality of Bakin and singled out the drives which impelled him to seek fame and fortune . . . but he is somewhat less successful in explaining why Bakin was the kind of writer he was and chose to be. . . . This study is a boon for devotees of Japanese and comparative literature." Hyman Kublin

Library J 93:70 Ja 1 '68 150w

"The great length of the best known of [Bakin's novels], their didacticism and morality . . . their constant allusions to incidents and figures in Buddhist, Chinese, and Japanese history, legend, and literature, and their prolix and complex style must have broken the spirit of more than one western student and, to judge from the paucity of well annotated editions in Japanese, of many native scholar too. The author of this work has . . . performed a valuable service in providing a detailed account of the life of Bakin, and in bringing this rather forbidding literary figure to life as a man of his time. He has assiduously gathered together the relevant facts from a wide variety of sources, and has shown that many aspects of the novels are derived from experiences in the author's life. The approach throughout is to establish the facts of Bakin's personal history and to introduce mentions of the literary works within this biographical framework." P. G. O'Neill

Pacific Affairs 41:291 summer '68 400w

ZOLL, DONALD ATWELL. The twentieth century mind; essays on contemporary thought. 152p $5 La. state univ. press

917.3 U.S.—Civilization. Philosophy, American 67-13892

Reflections on American society in which the author, a professor of political science, criticizes "the politician, the creative artist, the academician [and] the professional malcontent. . . . He [also] examines the relationship of religion and education, the 1964 Goldwater campaign and its implications for conservatism, the artist as academician, . . . the behavioral school of political science, and the contradictions implicit in recent civil disobedience movements." (Publisher's note) The chapter entitled The Artist as Academician appeared in the Midwest Quarterly.

"Those essays which are most impressive deal with topics of lesser professional interest to practicing political scientists. This comment is particularly true of Zoll's suggestive and well-written discussion of 'The Artist as Academician' and of his title essay, which is generally provocative and thoughtful. . . . [On] more narrowly 'political' topics, the quality of his efforts seems to fall off markedly, at points to no more than the level of haughty polemic. . . . When Zoll discards this polemical vein he generally provides meaty, interesting arguments. The problem is that he does not discard it often enough." J. P. Johnston

Am Pol Sci R 62:259 Mr '68 950w

"The 20th-century mind turns out to be the author's, and it is one filled with discontent. Unfortunately, he lacks any realistic conceptual framework within which to place his disputes with aspects of contemporary American life. He is mad at social dissenters, political behaviorists, and the quality of American culture. He sets up his opponents and he knocks them down; but what he says is without any relation to the ways social and political institutions operate and, having defined his abstractions to his own measurements, he has no difficulty arguing his points because he is merely tilting with himself. His nostalgia for conservatism, incidentally, is better expressed in J. Hart's The American Dissent [BRD 1966], and Hart is an English professor. Not recommended for any library."

Choice 4:1231 Ja '68 150w

Christian Century 83:345 Mr 15 '67 70w

ZORACH, WILLIAM. Art is my life; the autobiography of William Zorach. 205p 85ll $10.95 World pub.

B or 92

67-12900

This is the sculptor's "account of his personal and artistic life. Family life, creative life, teaching life are interwoven here with some kernels of the [author's] own observations and opinions about sculpture, artists, economics, galleries, museums, patrons." (Publishers' Weekly) Index.

"Zorach has earned the right to entitle his autobiography Art Is My Life; indeed, the book is documentation of that prerogative. It is far from dexterously written and it is flawed by the artist's intense and unquestioned commitment to romantic assumptions, despite his avowed interest in the Cubists. The book is important primarily because of the insights it affords into this particular artist's temperament, aesthetic values, and unbending dedication to sculpture as a form capable of embodying and evoking human emotions."

Choice 5:617 J1 '68 90w

"With his first exhibition of sculpture in 1930 at the Downtown Gallery, New York, William Zorach was established as one of the great sculptors of this century. His story, which is told simply and colorfully, is one of hardships, joys and achievements in a life dedicated to art. This book . . . belongs in every art collection, and in biography collections. Discriminating Young Adult collections will be enriched." K. T. Willis

Library J 92:3035 S 15 '67 190w [YA]

ZUCKER, HERBERT. Problems of psychotherapy. 194p $5.95 Free press

616.89 Psychotherapy

67-19235

"The author presents an overview of the field and discusses methodology, clinical interviewing, the case history, interpretation, resistance, dreams, and psychotherapeutic aims and outcomes. . . . Designed to close the gap between academic instruction and actual clinical work [this book] presents specific clinical methods for the implementation of the experiential approach." (Publisher's note) Index.

Reviewed by R. A. Clark

Ann Am Acad 337:213 My '68 420w

"The orientation is in the psychoanalytic tradition and is based upon Zucker's premise that 'experience is the preferred approach to give direction to the theories and practices of psychotherapy.' Consequently, empirical studies are only infrequently (if ever) referred to. . . . Each chapter is illustrated with Zucker's relevant experiences. He is an adjunct professor of psychology and training analyst at New York University and writes with a warm and flowing style. . . . The book should be found interesting and easy reading."

Choice 5:413 My '68 150w

ZUKOFSKY, LOUIS. "A" 1-12. 267p $4.95 Doubleday

811

67-23819

This book "is part of a long poem which [Zukofsky] began in 1927, to be completed in 24 movements. [He] writes 'in a sense the poem is an autobiography: the words are my life. The form of the poem is organic—that is, involved in history and a life that has found by contrast to history something like perfection in the music of J. S. Bach.'" (Publisher's note) Parts of this work have appeared in various literary periodicals such as Poetry, The New Review and New Directions.

"This is the third book in the 'Paris Review Editions Series.' . . . Mr. Zukofsky's 'poem of life,' of which "A" 1-12 is a portion, is a very respectable selection for the first volume of poetry in the series. . . . [The book] is partly a poetic response to the times. Though it records the spirit of the 1930's and 1940's, it is more than a social document and stands as a kind of poetic diary. Those parts written in the 1930's voice the pain of the poor, those from the early 1940's register the pain, injustice, and brutality of war. Zukofsky's style is difficult to categorize although he has been associated with the Objectivists of the 1930's, William Carlos Williams, Charles Reznikoff, and others. The poem is often difficult, but valuable reading." Duane Schneider

Library J 93:87 Ja 1 '68 320w

Reviewed by Denis Donoghue

N Y Rev of Books 10:16 Ap 25 '68 1400w

"Zukofsky began [this poem-in-progress] about 1927 with a formal plan. . . . The eloquence, around and under the words, of some structure that holds them in their relation; the poem as testimony to difficulties overcome; these principles permeate Zukofsky's poetic."

But would anyone discover . . . that "A"-9, for five strophes and coda . . . not only adapts from Das Kapital (Everyman edition) the phrases it sets to this tune, but also governs the distribution of 'n' and 'r' sounds according to the formula for a conic section? Almost certainly not. . . . [This poet's fondness] for mathematic form parallels Bach's, who is often invoked in "A" as the active presiding spirit. Some structural principles, corresponding, say, to the parts of a sonata, we can discern without difficulty. . . . Some of the poem's facts are public—the Great Depression, the labors of Marx; some are private—the death of the poet's father, which is the principal episode of "A"-12. They interact endlessly, intersecting and counterplaying on the plane not of myth but of language." Hugh Kenner

Poetry 111:112 N '67 3400w

Reviewed by S. F. Morse

Va Q R 44:507 summer '68 170w

ZUPKO, RONALD EDWARD. A dictionary of English weights and measures: from Anglo-Saxon times to the nineteenth century. 224p $10 Univ. of Wis. press

389 Weights and measures—Dictionaries

68-14038

"The dictionary identifies the specific dimensions of standard weights and measures used in any given period of English history; and it delineates the approximate dimensions of many measuring units which were never standardized. . . . Appendixes define the terms that are used to describe the weights and measures in the entries and list the principal laws that regulated and standardized these units." (Publisher's note) Annotated bibliography.

Economist 229:ii N 9 '68 550w

"Unquestionably the most complete dictionary of its type dealing with English weights and measures. [this] will be particularly useful for those reading economic documents of the Middle Ages or early modern period. A great deal of the material in this dictionary has been drawn from the Oxford English Dictionary, but there is new material as well. University and research libraries should purchase this book." H. L. Adelson

Library J 93:3121 S 15 '68 110w

"Historians of economics or of science will find the book indispensable to their understanding; the general reader cannot fail to find it by turns touching, amusing and illuminating. . . . The writing is clear and direct, and the whole design is simple, attractive and usable. . . . Zupko and his editors have made something lively out of an esoteric Ph.D. thesis. Let us raise them a toast in a mutchkin of brown Milwaukee ale (two mutchkins equals one choppin; two choppins equals one stoup, or 1.707 liters)." Sci Am 219:142 O '68 250w

Subject and Title Index

TO AUTHOR ENTRIES, MARCH 1968—FEBRUARY 1969

"A" 1-12. Zukofsky, L. (Mr '68)

Aardvarks

Poetry

Juvenile literature

Nash, O. Cruise of the Aardvark. (Mr '68)

Abbreviations

Dictionaries

De Sola, R. Abbreviations dictionary [new rev & enl int ed]. (Ap '68)

Abbreviations dictionary [new rev & enl int ed]. De Sola, R. (Ap '68)

Abilities, Inc.

Viscardi, H. Abilities story. (My '68)

Abilities story. Viscardi, H. (My '68)

Ability grouping in education

Beggs, D. W., ed. Nongraded schools in action. (S '68)

Abolitionists

Lerner, G. Grimké sisters from South Carolina. (Ap '68)

Aborigines in the economy. Sharp, I. G., ed. (Ag '68)

Abortion

Smith, D. T., ed. Abortion and the law. (Mr '68)

Abortion and the law. Smith, D. T., ed. (Mr '68)

About Britain. Harris, K. (O '68)

Above ground. Ludwig, J. (S '68)

Above the law. Boyd, J. (My '68)

Abraham Bisno, union pioneer. Bisno, A. (S '68)

Abuse of power. Draper, T. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Academic freedom

Gorovitz, S., ed. Freedom and order in the university. (My '68)

Academic revolution. Jencks, C. (Ag '68)

Academy of sciences of the U.S.S.R.

Graham, L. R. Soviet academy of sciences and the communist party, 1927-1932. (Ag '68)

Accessories after the fact. Meagher, S. (Ap '68)

Accidents

Greenbank, A. Book of survival. (My '68)

Iskrant, A. P. Accidents and homicide. (O '68)

Prevention

Juvenile literature

Bendick, J. Emergency book. (Mr '68)

Longman, H. Watch out! (O '68)

Accidents and homicide. Iskrant, A. P. (O '68)

Accounting

Briloff, A. J. Effectiveness of accounting communication. (N '68)

Ijiri, Y. Foundations of accounting measurement. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Acculturation

VanStone, J. W. Eskimos of the Nushagak River. (Ag '68)

Accused. Morgulas, J. (Mr '68)

Ace of spies. Lockhart, R. B. (Ap '68)

Acosta, Uriel

Uriel Acosta: A specimen of human life. (N '68)

Across the Olympic Mountains. Wood, R. L. (Ap '68)

Across the Pacific. Iriye, A. (Mr '68)

Acting on the word. Häring, B. (N '68)

Actions speak louder. Mahoney, J. D. (O '68)

Actors and actresses

Burton, H., ed. Great acting. (S '68)

Acts of the apostles. Bible. New Testament. Acts. (Ap '68)

Adam, William

Ginter, D. E., ed. Whig organization in the general election of 1790. (Je '68)

Adams, Abigail (Smith)

Portraits

Oliver, A. Portraits of John and Abigail Adams. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Adams, James Luther

Robertson, D. B., ed. Voluntary associations. (Mr '68)

Adams, John

Portraits

Oliver, A. Portraits of John and Abigail Adams. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Adams, John Quincy

Falkner, L. President who wouldn't retire. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Adamson, George

Adamson, G. Lifetime with lions. (O '68)

Adaptation (Biology)

Alland, A. Evolution and human behavior. (My '68)

Campbell, B. G. Human evolution. (Ap '68)

Milne, L. J. Patterns of survival. (S '68)

Addams, Jane

Farrell, J. C. Beloved lady: a history of Jane Addams' ideas on reform and peace. (S '68)

Addison tradition. Morressy, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Aden

Little, T. South Arabia. (S '68)

Description and travel

Nizan, P. Aden, Arabie. (O '68)

Aden, Arabie. Nizan, P. (O '68)

Adjustment (Psychology)

Lifton, R. J. Death in life. (Ap '68)

Wittenberg, R. M. Troubled generation. (My '68)

Administration; v 1 of The British patent system. Boehm, K. (Ap '68)

Administration of the Scottish frontier, 1513-1603. Rae, T. I. (Ag '68)

Administration of United States foreign policy through the United Nations. Bishop, D. G. (Ag '68)

Administrative problems in Pakistan. Birkhead, G. S., ed. (Mr '68)

Admirals lobby. Davis, V. (Je '68)

Adolescence

Arnstein, H. S. Your growing child and sex. (Mr '68)

Fremon, S. S. Children and their parents. (N '68)

Group for the advancement of psychiatry. Normal adolescence: its dynamics and impact. (Ag '68)

MacLennan, B. W. Group counseling and psychotherapy with adolescents. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Rubin, I., ed. Sex in the adolescent years: new directions in guiding and teaching youth. (Ag '68)

Adolescent boys of East London. Willmott, P. (Je '68)

Adolescents and morality. Eppel, E. M. (Mr '68)

Adoption

Braithwaite, E. R. Paid servant. (Je '68)

Adult education

Titmus, C. J. Adult education in France. (Ag '68)

Adult education in France. Titmus, C. J. (Ag '68)

Adult health. Reynolds, F. W. (My '68)

Advancing South. Maddox, J. G. (N '68)

Adventure and adventurers

Manley, S., ed. High adventure. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Adventure at Astoria, 1810-1814. Franchère, G. (Je '68)

Adventures of Li Chi. Evans, H. (S '68)

Adventures of Tommy. Wells, H. G. (Ap '68)

Adventures with a straw. Milgrom, H. (Ap '68)

Adversity and grace. Scott, N. A., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Advertising

Backman, J. Advertising and competition. (Mr '68)

Baker, S. S. Permissible lie. (O '68)

Bauer, R. A. Advertising in America. (N '68)

History

Sutphen, D. Mad old ads. (Mr '68)

Juvenile literature

Foster, G. A. Advertising: ancient market place to television. (Mr '68)

Advertising—Continued

Law and regulations

Alexander, G. J. Honesty and competition. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Advertising: ancient market place to television. Foster, G. A. (Mr '68)

Advertising and competition. Backman, J. (Mr '68)

Advertising in America. Bauer, R. A. (N '68)

Advice to a young wife from an old mistress. Drury, M. (D '68)

Aerial photography. See Photography, Aerial

Aerobics. Cooper, K. H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Aerodynamics

Freeman, M. When air moves. (N '68)

Von Kármán, T. Wind and beyond. (Ag '68)

(1967 Annual)

Juvenile literature

Corbett, S. What makes a plane fly? (Ag '68)

Aeronautics

History

Juvenile literature

Becker, B. Dreams and realities of the conquest of the skies. (Mr '68)

Rosenbaum, R. A., ed. Best book of true aviation stories. (Je '68)

Safety measures

Allward, M. Safety in the air. (Ag '68)

Aeronautics, Commercial

Burkhardt, R. Federal aviation administration. (N '68)

Aeronautics, Military

Davis, B. Billy Mitchell affair. (1967, 1968 Annual)

History

Foulois, B. D. From the Wright brothers to the astronauts. (O '68)

Van Deurs, G. Wings for the fleet. (Ap '68)

Aesthetics. See Esthetics

Aesthetics of Robert Schumann. Brown, T. A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Affair with freedom. Brennan, W. J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Affectionately. T. S. Eliot, Levy, W. T. (N '68)

Affirmation. Guillén, J. (O '68)

Affluence and the French worker in the Fourth Republic. Hamilton, R. F. (My '68)

Afghan wars

Norris, J. A. First Afghan war, 1838-1842. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

al-Afghānī, Jamāl al-Dīn

Kedourie, E. Afghani and 'Abduh. (Ag '68)

Afghani and 'Abduh. Kedourie, E. (Ag '68)

Afghanistan

Politics and government

Griffiths, J. C. Afghanistan. (Ag '68)

Afghanistan. Griffiths, J. C. (Ag '68)

Africa

Chilcote, R. H. Portuguese Africa. (S '68)

Hodder, B. W., ed. Africa in transition. (O '68)

Antiquities

Clark, J. D., comp. Atlas of African prehistory. (Ag '68)

Bibliography

Duignan, P. Handbook of American resources for African studies. (Mr '68)

Church history

Forman, C. W., ed. Christianity in the non-Western world. (My '68)

Civilization

Juvenile literature

Vlahos, O. African beginnings. (Mr '68)

Commerce

Okigbo, P. N. C. Africa and the common market. (Ap '68)

Description and travel

Heminway, J. H. Imminent rains. (N '68)

Mountjoy, A. B. Africa: a new geographical survey. (Mr '68)

Economic conditions

Hance, W. A. African economic development [rev ed]. (Ap '68)

Hazlewood, A., ed. African integration and disintegration. (Ag '68)

Okigbo, P. N. C. Africa and the common market. (Ap '68)

History

Gabel, C., ed. Reconstructing African culture history. (O '68)

Gifford, P., ed. Britain and Germany in Africa: imperial rivalry and colonial rule. (Ag '68)

MacGregor-Hastie, R. Africa. (D '68)

Oliver, R., ed. Middle age of African history. (N '68)

Juvenile literature

Pine, T. S. Africans knew. (Ap '68)

Maps

Clark, J. D., comp. Atlas of African prehistory. (Ag '68)

Politics

Fanon, F. Toward the African revolution. (Mr '68)

Hazlewood, A., ed. African integration and disintegration. (Ag '68)

Kaunda, K. D. Humanist in Africa. (Ap '68)

Kirkman, W. P. Unscrambling an empire. (Ag '68)

Mazrui, A. A. Towards a pax Africana. (Mr '68)

Meynaud, J. Trade unionism in Africa. (My '68)

Nyerere, J. K. Freedom and unity. (Mr '68)

Spiro, H. J., ed. Patterns of African development. (Je '68)

Religion

Blyden, E. W. Christianity, Islam and the Negro race. (My '68)

Africa, East

Antiquities

Kirkman, J. S. Men and monuments of the East African coast. (Je '68)

Description and travel

Kirkman, J. S. Men and monuments of the East African coast. (Je '68)

Spencer, H. Way to Rehema's house. (Mr '68)

History

Kirkman, J. S. Men and monuments of the East African coast. (Je '68)

Relations (general) with Europe

Haight, M. V. J. European powers and South-East Africa [rev 2d ed]. (Je '68)

Africa, French West

History

Hargreaves, J. D. West Africa: the former French states. (Ap '68)

Africa, North

History

Berque, J. French North Africa. (Mr '68)

Africa, South

Drury, A. "Very strange society." (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Description and travel

Kahn E. J. Separated people. (Ag '68)

Economic conditions

Horwitz, R. Political economy of South Africa. (My '68)

Foreign relations

United States

Hance, W. A., ed. Southern Africa and the United States. (S '68)

Native races

Horwitz, R. Political economy of South Africa. (My '68)

Politics and government

Carter, G. M. South Africa's Transkei. (My '68)

Davenport, T. R. H. Afrikaner bond. (Ap '68)

Felt, E. African opposition in South Africa. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Hance, W. A., ed. Southern Africa and the United States. (S '68)

Munger, E. S. Afrikaner and African nationalism. (S '68)

Paton, A. Long view. (Ag '68)

Race relations

Brown, D. Against the world. (Ag '68)

Cole, E. House of bondage. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Drury, A. "Very, strange society." (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Kahn, E. J. Separated people. (Ag '68)

Laurence, J. Seeds of disaster. (N '68)

Paton, A. Long view. (Ag '68)

Social conditions

- Brown, D. Against the world. (Ag '68)
 Carstens, P. Social structure of a Cape Coloured reserve. (Je '68)
 Cole, E. House of bondage. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Africa, Southwest

- Carroll, F. South West Africa & the United Nations. (S '68)

Race relations

- Molnar, T. South West Africa. (Ag '68)

Africa, Sub-Saharan*Foreign relations*United States

- Emerson, R. Africa and United States policy. (My '68)

Politics

- Gann, L. H. Burden of empire. (S '68)

Africa, West*Economic conditions

- Peterec, R. J. Dakar and West African economic development. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

History

- Forde, D., ed. West African kingdoms in the nineteenth century. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Africa. MacGregor-Hastie, R. (D '68)
 Africa: a geographical study. Eng title of: Africa: a new geographical survey. Mountjoy, A. B. (Mr '68)
 Africa: a new geographical survey. Mountjoy, A. B. (Mr '68)
 Africa and the common market. Okigbo, P. N. C. (Ap '68)
 Africa and United States policy. Emerson, R. (My '68)
 Africa in modern literature. Tucker, M. (My '68)
 Africa in transition. Hodder, B. W., ed. (O '68)
 Africa: the politics of unity. Wallerstein, I. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 African art. Meauzé, P. (O '68)
 African beginnings. Vlahos, O. (Mr '68)
 African betrayal. Darlington, C. F. (My '68)
 African economic development [rev ed]. Hance, W. A. (Ap '68)
 African elephants. Beebe, B. F. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 African integration and disintegration. Hazlewood, A., ed. (Ag '68)

African literature*History and criticism

- Tucker, M. Africa in modern literature. (My '68)
 African miniatures. Plass, M. W. (Ap '68)
 African National Congress
 Felt, E. African opposition in South Africa. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 African newspapers
 Ainslie, R. Press in Africa. (S '68)
 African opposition in South Africa. Felt, E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual) African poetry

Collections

- Doob, L. W., ed. Ants will not eat your fingers. (Mr '68)

Juvenile literature

- Doob, L. W., ed. Crocodile has me by the leg. (Je '68)
 African village folktales. Kaula, E. M. (O '68)
 Africans knew. Pine, T. S. (Ap '68)
 Afrikaner and African nationalism. Munger, E. S. (S '68)
 Afrikaner Bond
 Davenport, T. R. H. Afrikaner bond. (Ap '68)
 After cars crash: the need for legal and insurance reform. Keeton, R. E. (Ag '68)
 After experience. Snodgrass, W. D. (Je '68)
 After the assassination. Sparrow, J. (Je '68)
 After the Irish renaissance. Hogan, R. (My '68)
 Afternoon light. Menzies, R. G. (Ag '68)
 Again Korea. Burchett, W. G. (Ag '68)
 Against the world. Brown, D. (Ag '68)
 Age and employment
 Brennan, M. J. Economics of age. (O '68)
 Age like this, 1920-1940; v 1 of The collected essays, journalism and letters of George Orwell. Orwell, G. D. (D '68)
 Age of courts and kings. Erlanger, P. (Ag '68)
 Age of humanism, 1540-1630; v4 of New Oxford history of music. (S '68)
 Age of Plantagenet and Valois. Fowler, K. (Je '68)
 Age of the grand tour. (Mr '68)
 Age of wonder. Eng title of: The three suitors. Jones, R. (My '68)

Aged*Dwellings

- Garvin, R. M. Where they go to die: the tragedy of America's aged. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Medical care

- Reynolds, F. W. Adult health. (My '68)
 Ages of life. Milne, L. J. (O '68)
 Aggressiveness (Psychology)
 Frank, J. D. Sanity and survival. (Ap '68)
 Montagu, M. F. A., ed. Man and aggression. (D '68)
 Storr, A. Human aggression. (O '68)
 Agnon, Samuel Joseph
 Band, A. J. Nostalgia and nightmare. (S '68)
 Agnon, Shmuel Yosef. See Agnon, S. J.
 Agrarian history of England and Wales, v4. (Ap '68)
 Agricultural administration
 Baldwin, S. Poverty and politics. (N '68)
 McGovern, G., ed. Agricultural thought in the twentieth century. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Agricultural research service. Moore, E. G. (My '68)
 Agricultural thought in the twentieth century. McGovern, G., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual) Agricultural trends in India, 1891-1947: output, availability, and productivity. Blyn, G. (Mr '68)

Agriculture

- Freeman, O. L. World without hunger. (S '68)

Economic aspects

- Blyn, G. Agricultural trends in India, 1891-1947: output, availability, and productivity. (Mr '68)
 McGovern, G., ed. Agricultural thought in the twentieth century. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Smith, T. L. Colombia. (Ag '68)

United States

- Matusow, A. J. Farm policies and politics in the Truman years. (Mr '68)

Research

- Moore, E. G. Agricultural research service. (My '68)

Study and teaching

- Convention of friends of agricultural education in 1871. Early view of the land-grant colleges. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Egypt

- Saab, G. S. Egyptian agrarian reform: 1952-1962. (Mr '68)

Europe, Eastern

- Karcz, J. F., ed. Soviet and East European agriculture. (Je '68)

Great Britain

- Agrarian history of England and Wales, v4. (Ap '68)

India

- Blyn, G. Agricultural trends in India, 1891-1947: output, availability, and productivity. (Mr '68)

Mexico

- Stakman, E. C. Campaigns against hunger. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Russia

- Karcz, J. F., ed. Soviet and East European agriculture. (Je '68)

United States

- Heady, E. O. Primer on food, agriculture, and public policy. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 McGovern, G., ed. Agricultural thought in the twentieth century. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Agriculture, Cooperative
 Larkin, M. Hand of Mordechai. (O '68)
 Nissenson, H. Notes from the frontier. (Je '68)
 Agriculture and state
 Heady, E. O. Primer on food, agriculture, and public policy. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Karcz, J. F., ed. Soviet and East European agriculture. (Je '68)
 McGovern, G., ed. Agricultural thought in the twentieth century. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Matusow, A. J. Farm policies and politics in the Truman years. (Mr '68)
 Saab, G. S. Egyptian agrarian reform: 1952-1962. (Mr '68)
 Ahmed Ben Bella. Merle, R. (Ap '68)
 Aikido
 Yamada, S. Principles and practice of aikido. (Ap '68)

Aims and methods of Soviet planning. Bor. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual) Ainslie's complete guide to thoroughbred racing. Ainslie, T. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Air*Juvenile literature

Sootin, H. Long search. (O '68)

Pollution

Goldman, M. I., ed. Controlling pollution. (Mr '68)
 Ridker, R. G. Economic costs of air pollution. (Ag '68)
 Wise, W. Killer smog. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

Kavaler, L. Dangerous air. (Mr '68)

Air pilots

Sims, E. H. Greatest aces. (Ag '68)
 Aircraft of the Royal air force since 1918 [4th rev ed]. Thetford, O. (Ag '68)

Airplanes

Barnes, C. H. Shorts aircraft since 1900. (My '68)

Models

Mander, J. Great international paper airplane book. (My '68)
 Thetford, O. Aircraft of the Royal air force since 1918 [4th rev ed]. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

Lopshire, R. Beginner's guide to building and flying model airplanes. (Ap '68)

Airplanes, Military

Thetford, O. Aircraft of the Royal air force since 1918 [4th rev ed]. (Ag '68)

Airport. Hailey, A. (Je '68)

Airports*Juvenile literature

Bagwell, R. This is an airport. (Ag '68)

Airships*Juvenile literature

Richards, N. Giants in the sky. (Ap '68)
 Akademika nauk SSSR. See Academy of sciences of the U.S.S.R.
 Akamba stories. Mbiti, J. S., ed. & tr. (Mr '68)
 Akedah
 Spiegel, S. Last trial. (Ag '68)
 Alain Resnais, or The theme of time. Ward, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Alarms and hopes. Harris, F. R. (S '68)

Alaska

Roberts, D. Mountain of my fear. (Je '68)
 Short, W. This raw land. (Ag '68)
 VanStone, J. W. Eskimos of the Nushagak River. (Ag '68)

History

Sherwood, M. B., comp. Alaska and its history. (Mr '68)
 Alaska and its history. Sherwood, M. B., comp. (Mr '68)

Alaska Railroad

Fitch, E. M. Alaska railroad. (Ag '68)

Albania

Skendi, S. Albanian national awakening, 1878-1912. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Albanian national awakening, 1878-1912. Skendi, S. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Albert, consort of Victoria, Queen of Great Britain

Ames, W. Prince Albert and Victorian taste. (Je '68)

Albert, Herman W.

Albert, H. W. Odyssey of a desert prospector. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Albertina graphic collection. See Vienna. Albertina

Alchemists. Cummings, R. (Ap '68)

Alchemy*History

Burland, C. A. Arts of the alchemists. (Je '68)

Juvenile literature

Cummings, R. Alchemists. (Ap '68)

Alcoholism

Clinebell, H. J. Understanding and counseling the alcoholic [rev & enl ed]. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Alcott, Louisa May

Juvenile literature

Fisher, A. We Alcotts. (D '68)
 Meigs, C. Invincible Louisa [Alcott centennial ed]. (D '68)

Alcott family*Juvenile literature

Fisher, A. We Alcotts. (D '68)

Aldous Huxley [new & rev ed]. Atkins, J. (S '68)

Aleichem, Sholom. See Rabinowitz, S.

Alexander Woolcott: the man who came to dinner. Hoyt, E. P. (O '68)

Alexandra, consort of Nicholas II, Emperor of Russia

Massie, R. K. Nicholas and Alexandra. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Alexiad of the Princess Anna Comnena. Comnena, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Alexius I Comnenus, Emperor of the East
 Comnena, A. Alexiad of the Princess Anna Comnena. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Algebra; v3 of The mathematical papers of Sir William Rowan Hamilton. Hamilton, W. R. (S '68)

Algeria*History

Bocca, G. Secret army. (O '68)

O'Ballance, E. Algerian insurrection, 1954-62. (Ap '68)

Politics and government

Fanon, F. Toward the African revolution. (Mr '68)

Merle, R. Ahmed Ben Bella. (Ap '68)

Algerian insurrection, 1954-62. O'Ballance, E. (Ap '68)

Algiers Motel incident. Hersey, J. (O '68)

Algonquin wits. Drennan, R. E., ed. (O '68)

Alienation. See Social psychology

Alienation of reason. Kolakowski, L. (Je '68)

al-Khuwārizmī, Muhammad Ibn Mūsā

Ibn al-Muthannā, A. Ibn al-Muthannā's commentary on the astronomical tables of al-Khwārizmī. (Ap '68)

All and sundry. Cane, M. (Ag '68)

All for one. Schneiderman, R. (Ag '68)

All kinds of seals. Kohn, B. (O '68)

All leads negative. Alding, P. (Ap '68)

All the abandoned children. Constable, G. (Mr '68)

All the little animals. Hamilton, W. (N '68)

All the silver pennies. Thompson, B. J., ed. (Mr '68)

All the things we were. Tanner, L. (My '68)

All the time in the world. Williams, H. (Je '68)

All things considered. Roche, P. (O '68)

Allagash. Dietz, L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Allagash River

Dietz, L. Allagash. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Allahabad, University, Agricultural Institute

Hess, G. R. Sam Higginbottom of Allahabad. (My '68)

Alliance for progress

Rogers, W. D. Twilight struggle. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Alligators*Stories

McClung, R. M. Black Jack. (My '68)

Alliluyev, Sergei

Alliluyeva, A. Alliluyev memoirs. (Ag '68)

Alliluyev memoirs. Alliluyeva, A. (Ag '68)

Alliluyeva, Anna

Alliluyeva, A. Alliluyev memoirs. (Ag '68)

Allusions in Ulysses. Thornton, W. (My '68)

Almanach de Gotha

Diesbach, G. de. Secrets of the Gotha. (Ag '68)

Almedingen, Martha Edith von

Almedingen, E. M. Tomorrow will come. (D '68)

Along the roads of the new Russia. Koningsberger, H. (D '68)

Alphabetary. Ciardi, J. (Ap '68)

Alphabet

National foundation for educational research in England and Wales. i.t.a. symposium. (D '68)

Alphabet book. Peppé, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Alphabet books

Bruce, L. M. Space ABC. (Je '68)

Fuller, C. L., ed. Beasts. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Peppé, R. Alphabet book. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Pienkowski, J. Annie, Bridget and Charlie. (Ap '68)

Alternatives to violence. Bernstein, S. (Ag '68)

Aluminum

Brubaker, S. Trends in the world aluminum industry. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Always on Sunday. Harris, M. D. (O '68)

Amadeus VI, Count of Savoy

Cox, E. L. Green Count of Savoy. (O '68)

- Amateur astronomer's glossary. Moore, P. (S '68)
- Ambassadors. See Diplomats
- America
- Antiquities
- Deuel, L., comp. Conquistadors without swords. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Discovery and exploration
- Chapman, W. Golden dream. (Je '68)
- Chapman, W. Search for El Dorado. (Ap '68)
- Landström, B. Columbus. (Je '68)
- Foreign relations
- Germany
- Frye, A. Nazi Germany and the American hemisphere, 1933-1941. (Ap '68)
- America before the Revolution, 1725-1775. Vaughan, A. T. (Ap '68)
- America cooks. Seranne, A., ed. (Mr '68)
- America forever new. Brewton, S., comp. (Ag '68)
- America in the sixties. Berman, R. (Ag '68)
- America in the twentieth century. Adams, D. K. (My '68)
- America is in danger. LeMay, C. E. (Ag '68)
- America we lost. Pei, M. (N '68)
- American activities in the central Pacific, 1790-1870, v. 1. Ward, R. G., ed. (Mr '68)
- American album. Jensen, O. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- American approach to the Arab world. Badeau, J. S. (S '68)
- American art since 1900. Rose, B. (Ap '68)
- American building. Condit, C. W. (Ag '68)
- American Catholic thought on social questions. Abell, A. I., ed. (N '68)
- American challenge. Servan-Schreiber, J. J. (S '68)
- American crisis in Vietnam. Hartke, V. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- American daguerreian art. Rinhart, F. (Ap '68)
- American disciples of Marx: from the age of Jackson to the progressive era. Herreshoff, D. (Ap '68)
- American drama
- Collections
- Gassner, J., ed. Best plays of the early American theatre. (Mr '68)
- History and criticism
- Grimsted, D. Melodrama unveiled. (N '68)
- American empire. Riencourt, A. de. (N '68)
- American far right. Redekop, J. H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- American fiction
- History and criticism
- Fiedler, L. A. Return of the vanishing American. (Ag '68)
- Hall, J. Lunatic giant in the drawing room. (S '68)
- Hoffman, F. J. Art of Southern fiction. (Ag '68)
- Karolides, N. J. Pioneer in the American novel, 1900-1950. (Je '68)
- Leavis, F. R. Anna Karenina, and other essays. (Ag '68)
- Madden, D., ed. Tough guy writers of the thirties. (O '68)
- Noble, D. W. Eternal Adam and the new world garden. (My '68)
- American Field Service
- Machol, L. Gianna. (Mr '68)
- American fiscal policy. Thurow, L. C., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- American genius: the life of Ernest Orlando Lawrence. Childs, H. (Ag '68)
- American heritage history of colonial antiques. American heritage. (Mr '68)
- American heritage history of the thirteen colonies. American heritage. (Mr '68)
- American imperialism. May, E. R. (N '68)
- American Indian mythology. Marriott, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- American Indian painting of the Southwest and Plains areas. Dunn, D. (S '68)
- American Jews. Yaffe, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- American Library Association
- Holley, E. G. Raking the historic coals. (N '68)
- American life in the 1840s. Bode, C., ed. (Je '68)
- American literary anthology/1. (Ag '68)
- American literary revolution, 1783-1837. Spiller, R. E., ed. (Ag '68)
- American literature
- Brophy, B. Fifty works of English and American literature we could do without. (Ap '68)
- Gilbert, J. B. Writers and partisans: a history of literary radicalism in America. (S '68)
- Gohdes, C., ed. Essays on American literature in honor of Jay B. Hubbell. (Je '68)
- Jones, H. M. Belief and disbelief in American literature. (Mr '68)
- PHELPS, R., ed. Literary life. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Rubin, L. D. Curious death of the novel. (Ag '68)
- Bibliography
- Gohdes, C. Literature and theater of the states and regions of the U.S.A. (Mr '68)
- Collections
- Jones, L., ed. Black fire. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Judd, G. P., ed. Hawaiian anthology. (Mr '68)
- Manley, S., ed. High adventure. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Salzman, J., ed. Years of protest. (Ap '68)
- Schulberg, B., ed. From the ashes. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Wood, D. C., ed. This nation. (Je '68)
- History and criticism
- Cooperman, S. World War I and the American novel. (Je '68)
- Donoghue, D. Ordinary universe. (N '68)
- Fiedler, L. A. Return of the vanishing American. (Ag '68)
- Fletcher, I., ed. Romantic mythologies. (Ag '68)
- Levin, D. In defense of historical literature. (Mr '68)
- Madden, D., ed. Proletarian writers of the thirties. (O '68)
- Martin, J. Harvests of change: American literature, 1865-1914. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Miller, P. Nature's nation. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Ruland, R. Rediscovery of American literature. (Mr '68)
- Schorer, M. World we imagine. (O '68)
- Scott, N. A., ed. Adversity and grace. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Stewart, R. Regionalism and beyond. (O '68)
- Van Nostrand, A. D. Everyman his own poet. (D '68)
- Bibliography
- McNamee, L. F., ed. Dissertations in English and American literature. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Iowa
- Bio-bibliography
- Paluka, F. Iowa authors: a bio-bibliography of sixty native writers. (Ag '68)
- New York (State)
- Callow, J. T. Kindred spirits. (O '68)
- American Medical Association
- Rayack, E. Professional power and American medicine. (N '68)
- American musical theater. Engel, L. (Ap '68)
- American occupational structure. Blau, P. M. (S '68)
- American participation in the Second Vatican Council. Yzermans, V. A., ed. (Mr '68)
- American party systems. Chambers, W. N., ed. (S '68)
- American piety: the nature of religious commitment. Stark, R. (D '68)
- American poetry
- Hayden, R., ed. Kaleidoscope. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Collections
- Brewton, S., comp. America forever new. (Ag '68)
- Carroll, P., ed. Young American poets. (N '68)
- Cole, W., ed. Sea, ships and sailors. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Juvenile literature
- Poetry society of London. Pattern of poetry. (Ag '68)
- History and criticism
- Waggoner, H. H. American poets. (Ag '68)
- 20th century
- Bio-bibliography
- Kherdian, D. Six poets of the San Francisco renaissance: portraits and checklists. (S '68)
- History and criticism
- Dickey, J. Babel to Byzantium. (S '68)
- American poets. Waggoner, H. H. (Ag '68)
- American political system in transition. Lazer, H. (Mr '68)

- American president. Warren, S., ed. (Ag '68)
 American printer, 1787-1825. Silver, R. G. (O '68)
 American Revolution and the British press, 1775-1783. Lutnick, S. (N '68)
 American science in the age of Jackson. Daniels, G. H. (Ag '68)
 American sculpture of the sixties. Tuchman, M., ed. (Mr '68)
 American secretaries of state and their diplomacy. v17. Bemis, S. F., ed. (Ag '68)
 American serfs. Good, P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 American sociology. Parsons, T., ed. (D '68)
 American space exploration. Shelton, W. (Ag '68)
 American story. Gould, B. (S '68)
 American symphony orchestra. Swoboda, H., ed. (Ap '68)
 American system. Grodzins, M. (Mr '68)
 American take-over of Britain. McMillan, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 American tall-tale animals. Stoutenberg, A. (D '68)
 American Telephone and Telegraph Company Goulden, J. C. Monopoly. (O '68)
 American theology in the liberal tradition. Averill, L. J. (Ag '68)
 American university. Barzun, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual) American university in summer. Schoenfeld, C. A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 American wit and humor
 Bissell, R. How many miles to Galena? (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Drennan, R. E., ed. Algonquin wits. (O '68)
- History and criticism
 Bier, J. Rise and fall of American humor. (My '68)
- Juvenile literature
 Clark, D. A. Jokes, puns, and riddles. (S '68)
 Americans and the French. Brinton, C. (Je '68)
 Americans in foreign countries
 Dunbar, E., ed. Black expatriates. (Ap '68)
 Americans in the Near East
 Finnie, D. H. Pioneers east. (My '68)
 America's forgotten priests—what they are saying. Fichter, J. H. (My '68)
 America's immigrants. Hoff, R., comp. (Ap '68)
 America's political dilemma. Dietze, G. (N '68)
 America's stake in Asia. Middleton, I. (Je '68)
 America's Vietnam policy. Herman, E. S. (Ag '68)
 Among the people: encounters with the poor. Deutscher, I., ed. (D '68)
- Amphibia
- Stories
 Chenery, J. Toad hunt. (Ap '68)
 Amphitryon. See Giraudoux, J. Plays. (Mr '68)
 Amram, David
 Amram, D. Vibrations. (D '68)
 Amsterdam. Rijksmuseum
 Meijer, E. R. Rijksmuseum, Amsterdam. (Ap '68)
 Amulet. Rakosi, C. (N '68)
 Amusements
 Meyer, J. Big book of family games. (Ag '68)
 Schwartz, A. Rainy day book. (D '68)
- Analysis (Philosophy)
 Cornman, J. W. Metaphysics, reference, and language. (Ap '68)
 Skolimowski, H. Polish analytical philosophy. (D '68)
- Analytical chemistry. See Chemistry, Analytic
 Analytical methods in banking. Cohen, K. J., ed. (Mr '68)
- Anarchism and anarchists
 Avrich, P. Russian anarchists. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Lang, O. Pa Chin and his writings. (Je '68)
- Juvenile literature
 Jacker, C. Black flag of anarchy. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Anarchists in love. Eng title of: The anarchy of love. Spencer, C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Anarchy of love. Spencer, C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Anatole France. Tylden-Wright, D. (Mr '68)
 Anatomy, Comparative
 Portmann, A. Animal forms and patterns. (Ap '68)
- Juvenile literature
 Cosgrove, M. Bone for bone. (D '68)
 Anatomy of diplomacy. Briggs, E. (S '68)
 Anatomy of swearing. Montagu, A. (Mr '68)
- Anatomy of Wall Street. Rolo, C. J., ed. (D '68)
 Anchor Bible, v31. See Bible. New Testament. Acts. Acts of the apostles. (Ap '68)
 Anchor of mercy. MacOrlan, P. (My '68)
 Ancient China. Schafer, E. H. (S '68)
 Ancient Crete. Matt, L. von. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual) Ancient fleets; bk 1 of War at sea. Southworth, J. V. D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual) Ancient Greek literature in its living context. Baldry, H. C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Ancient Maya. Burland, C. A. (Mr '68)
 Ancient medicine. Edelstein, L. (N '68)
 Ancient peoples and places series:
 Colledge, M. A. R. Parthians. (S '68)
 Davidson, H. R. E. Pagan Scandinavia. (Je '68)
 Hagen, A. Norway. (My '68)
 Henderson, I. Picts. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Shinnie, P. L. Meroe. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Ancient Rome. Haywood, R. M. (D '68)
 Ancient world [3d ed.]. Caldwell, W. E. (Mr '68)
 Ancient world. Garbini, G. (Mr '68)
 . . . and other dirty stories. King, L. L. (D '68)
 And other stories. O'Hara, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 André Gide and the Greek myth. Watson-Williams, H. (Ag '68)
 Andrew Brown and cypress lumbering in the Old Southwest. Moore, J. H. (Mr '68)
 Andrew Johnson: tailor from Tennessee. Crane, W. D. (My '68)
 Andrews, Roy Chapman
- Juvenile literature
 Archer, J. Science explorer. (Ag '68)
 Andrews, Stephen Pearl
 Stern, M. B. Pantarch. (D '68)
 Andy all year round. Merriam, E. (Mr '68)
 Angel of Appalachia: Martha Berry. Myers, E. P. (Je '68)
 Anglo-American cataloging rules. (Ap '68)
 Anglo-American criminal justice. Karlen, D. (N '68)
 Anglo-American general encyclopedias, 1703-1967. Walsh, S. P. (D '68)
 Anglo-Saxon poetry
- History and criticism
 Creed, R. P., ed. Old English poetry. (S '68)
 Anglo-Saxon saints and heroes. Albertson, C., ed. & tr. (Ap '68)
 Anglo-Soviet relations, 1917-1921, v2. Ullman, R. H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Angoulême, Marie Thérèse Charlotte, Duchesse d'
- Juvenile literature
 Desmond, A. C. Marie Antoinette's daughter. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Animal communication
 Borgese, E. M. Language barrier: beasts and men. (Ag '68)
 Burkhardt, D. Signals in the animal world. (S '68)
 Lilly, J. C. Mind of the dolphin. (Je '68)
 Animal faith and spiritual life. Santayana, G. (S '68)
 Animal forms and patterns. Portmann, A. (Ap '68)
 Animal Intelligence
 Graven, J. Non-human thought. (S '68)
 Lilly, J. C. Mind of the dolphin. (Je '68)
 Animal kitabu. Hallet, J. P. (Je '68)
 Animal locomotion
- Juvenile literature
 Gibson, D. How fast can it go? (Mr '68)
 Animal societies. Chauvin, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Animal twilight. Cloudsley-Thompson, J. L. (Ag '68)
- Animals
 Trefflich, H. Jungle for sale. (My '68)
- Habits and behavior
 Barnett, S. A. Instinct and intelligence. (My '68)
 Bastock, M. Courtship. (My '68)
 Borgese, E. M. Language barrier: beasts and men. (Ag '68)
 Chauvin, R. Animal societies. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Durrell, J. Beasts in my bed. (Mr '68)
 Errington, P. L. Of predation and life. (D '68)
 Moore, S. Biological clocks and patterns. (D '68)
 Morris, D., ed. Primate ethology. (Je '68)

Juvenile literature

- Bauer, E. My adventures with African animals. (N '68)
 Hopf, A. L. Earth's bug-eyed monsters. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

- Russell, S. P. Which is which? (Mr '68)

Pictures, illustrations, etc.

- Ennion, E. A. R. Tracks. (Ag '68)
 Reich, H. Animals of many lands. (Mr '68)

Juvenile literature

- Wildsmith, B. Brian Wildsmith's wild animals. (My '68)

Poetry

Juvenile literature

- Barry, R. Animals around the world. (D '68)
 Fisher, A. We went looking. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Lear, E. Edward Lear's The Scroobious Pip. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Nash, O. Cruise of the Aardvark. (Mr '68)
 Reed, G., comp. Out of the ark. (N '68)
 Weiss, E. K., comp. Paper zoo. (D '68)

Stories

- Brown, M. Neighbors. (Mr '68)
 Kaula, E. M. African village folktales. (O '68)
 Leach, M. How the people sang the mountains up. (Mr '68)
 Lifton, B. J. Many lives of Chio and Goro. (Ag '68)
 Rees, E. Brer Rabbit and his tricks. (Ag '68)
 Scheer, G. F., ed. Cherokee animal tales. (Ag '68)
 Stoutenburg, A. American tall-tale animals. (D '68)

Treatment

- Morse, M. Ordeal of the animals. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Africa

- Hallet, J. P. Animal kitabu. (Je '68)

Africa, East

- Sweeney, R. C. H. Scurrying bush. (Mr '68)

Juvenile literature

- Bauer, E. My adventures with African animals. (N '68)

Asia, Central

Juvenile literature

- Osmond, E. Animals of Central Asia. (N '68)

Latin America

- Dorst, J. South America and Central America. (My '68)

Louisiana

Juvenile literature

- Eckert, A. W. Bayou backwaters. (N '68)

United States

Juvenile literature

- Grossman, S. Struggle for life in the animal world. (Mr '68)

Animals, Mythical

- Clair, C. Unnatural history. (Mr '68)

Juvenile literature

- McHargue, G. Beasts of never. (O '68)

Animals, Prehistoric. See Fossils

- Animals. Burton, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Animals around the world. Barry, R. (D '68)

Animals in art

- Jettmar, K. Art of the Steppes. (N '68)
 Varty, K. Reynard the Fox. (O '68)

Juvenile literature

- Fuller, C. L., ed. Beasts. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Animals of Australia. Poignant, A. (Ag '68)
 Animals of Central Asia. Osmond, E. (N '68)

- Animals of many lands. Reich, H. (Mr '68)
 Animals that changed the world. Davis, P. D. C. (Ag '68)

Animism

- Spiro, M. E. Burmese supernaturalism. (N '68)

- Ann Aurelia and Dorothy. Carlson, N. S. (Ag '68)

- Anna Karenina, and other essays. Leavis, F. R. (Ag '68)

- Annie, Bridget and Charlie. Pienkowski, J. (Ap '68)

- Annotated Sherlock Holmes, 2v. Doyle, A. C. (Ag '68)

- Anonymous apostle. Hosie, S. W. (S '68)
 Another Helen. Kauffmann, L. (Je '68)

Anselm, Saint, Abb. of Canterbury

- Hick, J., ed. Many-faced argument. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Answer, Larner, J. (Je '68)

- Answer back. Finkel, D. (O '68)

Antarctic regions

Juvenile literature

- Sebastian, L. South Pole. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Anteater named Arthur. Waber, B. (Mr '68)

Anteaters

Stories

- Waber, B. Anteater named Arthur. (Mr '68)

- Anthology of Chinese verse. Frodsham, J. D., comp. (Mr '68)

- Anthology of concrete poetry. Williams, E., ed. (My '68)

- Anthology of modern Hebrew poetry, 2v. Fenueli, S. Y., comp. (My '68)

- Anthology of modern Yiddish poetry [bilingual ed.]. Whitman, R., comp. & tr. (Ag '68)

- Anthropologists in the field. Jongmans, D. G., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Anthropology

- Bresler, J. B., ed. Human ecology. (Je '68)
 Cole, T. Democritus and the sources of Greek anthropology. (S '68)

- Conference on recent anthropological studies of myth and totemism. School of Oriental and African studies, 1964. Structural study of myth and totemism. (Ag '68)

- Epstein, A. L., ed. Craft of social anthropology. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Farb, P. Man's rise to civilization as shown by the Indians of North America from primeval times to the coming of the industrial state. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Fried, M., ed. War: the anthropology of armed conflict and aggression. (D '68)

- Jongmans, D. G., ed. Anthropologists in the field. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Lévi-Strauss, C. Scope of anthropology. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Montagu, M. F. A., ed. Culture. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Rapport, S., ed. Anthropology. (Ag '68)

History

- Harris, M. Rise of anthropological theory. (N '68)

Philosophy

- Adler, M. J. Difference of man and the difference it makes. (Mr '68)

Anti-communist movements

- Jones, J. H. Minutemen. (D '68)

- Anti-memoirs. Malraux, A. (D '68)

Anti-Nazi movement

- Deutsch, H. C. Conspiracy against Hitler in the twilight war. (S '68)

- Antipope (Peter de Luna, 1342-1423). Glasfurd, A. (Ap '68)

Antisemitism. See Jewish question

- Antiworlds [bilingual ed rev.]. Voznesensky, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Antonio in love. Berto, G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Ants

- Costello, D. F. World of the ant. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Newman, L. H. Ants from close up. (Ap '68)

- Sudd, J. H. Introduction to the behavior of ants. (My '68)

Juvenile literature

- Myrick, M. Ants are fun. (Ag '68)

- Ross, E. S. Ants [new ed.]. (Ap '68)

- Selsam, M. E. Questions and answers about ants. (Ap '68)

- Ants are fun. Myrick, M. (Ag '68)

- Ants from close up. Newman, L. H. (Ap '68)

- Ants will not eat your fingers. Doob, L. W., ed. (Mr '68)

- Anxiety and affluence: 1945-1965. May, E. R., ed. (Mr '68)

- Anything but the truth. McGaffin, W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Apache Indians

- Thrapp, D. L. Conquest of Apacheria. (Ap '68)

Apes

- Reynolds, V. Apes. (Ap '68)

Apollo project

- Bergaust, E. Murder on pad 34. (N '68)

Apologetics

- Cunningham, R. B. C. S. Lewis: defender of the faith. (S '68)

- Pineas, R. Thomas More and Tudor polemics. (N '68)

- Apologia pro vita sua. Newman, J. H. (N '68)
- Apoplexy
Wint, G. Third killer. (Ag '68)
- Appleseed, Johnny. See Chapman, J.
- Application of an input-output framework to a community economic system. Hamnston, F. K. (My '68)
- Applied basic textiles. Linton, G. E. (Ap '68)
- Appointment on the moon. Lewis, R. S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Apportionment (Election law)
Dixon, R. G. Democratic representation. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Lee, C. B. T. One man, one vote. (N '68)
- Appraisal of short-term economic forecasts. Zarnowitz, V. (O '68)
- Apprentices
Marshall, F. R. Negro and apprenticeship. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Approach of war, 1938-1939. Thorne, C. (Ap '68)
- Approach to Paterson. Peterson, W. S. (Ag '68)
- Approaches in linguistic methodology. Rauch, I., ed. (Ap '68)
- Approaches to modern Chinese history. Feuerwerker, A. (Mr '68)
- Approaches to the history of Spain. Vicens Vives, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Aquitaine
Description and travel
White, F. Ways of Aquitaine. (S '68)
- Arab-Israeli dilemma. Khouri, F. J. (N '68)
- Arab-Jewish relations. See Jewish-Arab relations
- Arab Legion
Vatikiotis, P. J. Politics and the military in Jordan. (Mr '68)
- Arabia, Southern
Politics
Little, T. South Arabia. (S '68)
- Arabs
History
Glubb, J. Lost centuries. (Je '68)
- Arabs and the Sudan: from the seventh to the early sixteenth century. Hasan, Y. F. (Ag '68)
- Arabs in the Sudan
Hasan, Y. F. Arabs and the Sudan: from the seventh to the early sixteenth century. (Ag '68)
- Arbitration, Industrial
Blackman, J. L. Presidential seizure in labor disputes. (My '68)
- Arbitration, International
Gordenker, L. UN secretary-general and the maintenance of peace. (Ap '68)
Miller, L. B. World order and local disorder. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Archaeologia mundi series:
Soustelle, J. Mexico. (Mr '68)
- Archaeological discoveries in the Holy Land. Archaeological institute of America. (Ag '68)
- Archaeology A-Z. Palmer, G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Archaic Greece. Eng title of: Art of archaic Greece. Homann-Wedeking, E. (N '68)
- Archeologists
Poole, L. Men who dig up history. (Ag '68)
- Archeology
Belenitsky, A. Central Asia. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Daniel, G. Man discovers his past. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Poole, L. Men who dig up history. (Ag '68)
Rackl, H.-W. Diving into the past. (O '68)
Wheeler, M. History was buried [rev ed]. (Ag '68)
- Dictionaries
Palmer, G. Archaeology A-Z. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Juvenile literature
Cleator, P. E. Exploring the world of archaeology. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Freeman, M. B. Finding out about the past. (Ag '68)
- Arches National Monument
Abbey, E. Desert solitaire. (Je '68)
- Archetypes of the family in literature. Armens, S. M. (Mr '68)
- Architects
Besset, M. New French architecture. (N '68)
See also
Holland, H.
- Architectural heritage of Newport, Rhode Island, 1640-1915 [2d ed rev]. Downing, A. F. (N '68)

Architecture

- Composition, proportion, etc.
Banham, R. New brutalism: ethic or aesthetic? (My '68)
- Designs and plans
Besset, M. New French architecture. (N '68)
- Dictionaries
Harris, J. Illustrated glossary of architecture, 850-1830. (S '68)
- History
Fraser, D., ed. Essays presented to Rudolf Wittkower on his sixty-fifth birthday. (My '68)
Nellist, J. B. British architecture and its background. (My '68)
Youngson, A. J. Making of classical Edinburgh: 1750-1840. (Ag '68)
- Juvenile literature
Klein, H. A. Great structures of the world. (N '68)
- Architecture, American
Andrews, W. Architecture in Chicago & mid-America. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Andrews, W. Architecture in Michigan. (N '68)
Downing, A. F. Architectural heritage of Newport, Rhode Island, 1640-1915 [2d ed rev]. (N '68)
Forman, H. C. Old buildings, gardens, and furniture in Tidewater Maryland. (Je '68)
- Juvenile literature
Devlin, H. To grandfather's house we go. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Architecture, Baroque
Charpentrat, P. Living architecture. (S '68)
- Architecture, Domestic
Bardeschi, M. D. Italian villas today. (N '68)
Bunting, B. Houses of Boston's Back Bay. (Ag '68)
- Designs and plans
Weidert, W. Private houses. (O '68)
- Juvenile literature
Devlin, H. To grandfather's house we go. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Architecture, English
Stoll, R. Architecture and sculpture in early Britain. (Ap '68)
Stroud, D. Henry Holland. (Mr '68)
- History
Nellist, J. B. British architecture and its background. (My '68)
- Architecture, Finnish
Richards, J. M. Guide to Finnish architecture. (S '68)
- Architecture, Gothic
Martindale, A. Gothic art. (My '68)
- Architecture, Islamic
Grube, E. J. World of Islam. (Mr '68)
Landau, R. Morocco. (My '68)
- Architecture, Israeli
Tammuz, B., ed. Art in Israel. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Architecture, Italian
Galardi, A. New Italian architecture. (Ag '68)
- Architecture, Japanese
Kultermann, U. New Japanese architecture [rev ed]. (N '68)
- Architecture, Medieval
Kidson, P. Medieval world. (Ag '68)
Stoll, R. Architecture and sculpture in early Britain. (Ap '68)
- Architecture, Modern
20th century
Aregger, H. Highrise building and urban design. (Je '68)
Banham, R. New brutalism: ethic or aesthetic? (My '68)
Besset, M. New French architecture. (N '68)
Dahinden, J. New trends in church architecture. (Ag '68)
Donat, J., ed. World architecture 4. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Galardi, A. New Italian architecture. (Ag '68)
Kultermann, U. New Japanese architecture [rev ed]. (N '68)
Stone, E. D. Recent & future architecture. (Ag '68)
Von Eckardt, W. Place to live. (My '68)
Woods, S. Candilis, Josic, Woods. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Architecture, Romanesque
 Oursel, R. Living architecture: Romanesque. (S '68)
 Stoll, R. Architecture and sculpture in early Britain. (Ap '68)
- Architecture, Russian
 Alpatov, M. W. Art treasures of Russia. (Ag '68)
- History
 Kornilovich, K. Arts of Russia. (Ag '68)
- Architecture, Spanish
 Pita Andrade, J. M. Treasures of Spain from Altamira to the Catholic kings. (Ap '68)
- Architecture and sculpture in early Britain.
 Stoll, R. (Ap '68)
- Architecture in Chicago & mid-America.
 Andrews, W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Architecture in Michigan.
 Andrews, W. (N '68)
- Architecture of Colen Campbell.
 Stutchbury, H. E. (O '68)
- Archives
 Posner, E. Archives & the public interest. (O '68)
- Archives & the public interest.
 Posner, E. (O '68)
- Arctic regions
 Mowat, F. Polar passion. (Ap '68)
 Neatby, L. H. Conquest of the last frontier. (Mr '68)
- Arcturus the hunting hound.
 Kazakov, Y. (O '68)
- Ardennes, Battle of the, 1944-1945
 Nobécourt, J. Hitler's last gamble. (Mr '68)
- Arena theater
 Joseph, S. Theatre in the round. (N '68)
- Aretino, Pietro
 Aretino, P. Letters of Pietro Aretino. (Mr '68)
- Arezzo (Province)
Politics and government
 Barnes, S. H. Party democracy. (Ap '68)
- Argentine economy.
 Ferrer, A. (Ag '68)
- Argentine Republic
Economic conditions
 Ferrer, A. Argentine economy. (Ag '68)
- Arid lands.
 Hills, E. S., ed. (Mr '68)
- Aristocrat.
 Richter, C. (D '68)
- Aristocrats.
 Perrott, R. (N '68)
- Aristotle
 Winn, C. Aristotle: his thought and its relevance today. (O '68)
- Aristotle: his thought and its relevance today.
 Winn, C. (O '68)
- Arithmetic
 Clark, F. Speed math. (S '68)
- Juvenile literature
 Oxenbury, H. Numbers of things. (D '68)
- Poetry
Juvenile literature
 O'Neill, M. Take a number. (N '68)
- Armada, 1588
Juvenile literature
 Hodges, C. W. Spanish armada. (My '68)
- Armed prophet.
 Eng title of: Ben Gurion: the armed prophet. Bar-Zohar, M. (D '68)
- Armenia
 Hovannisian, R. G. Armenia on the road to independence, 1918. (Ag '68)
- Armenia on the road to independence, 1918.
 Hovannisian, R. G. (Ag '68)
- Armies
 Hanning, H. Peaceful uses of military forces. (S '68)
- Armies of the night.
 Mailer, N. (Ag '68)
- Arms and armor
 Calder, N., ed. Unless peace comes. (O '68)
 Latham, J. W. British military swords. (Mr '68)
- Moore, W. Weapons of the American Revolution and accoutrements.
 (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Robinson, H. R. Oriental armour.
 (Ag '68)
- Snodgrass, A. M. Arms and armour of the Greeks.
 (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Arms and armour of the Greeks.
 Snodgrass, A. M. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Arms control and the Atlantic alliance.
 Deutsch, K. W. (N '68)
- Arms of Krupp, 1587-1968.
 Manchester, W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Army and the fifth republic.
 Menard, O. D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Army of love.
 Blason, R. (In The lost legions). (Mr '68)
- Army of the heartland.
 Connelly, T. L. (Je '68)
- Army of the Republic.
 Ralston, D. B. (Je '68)
- Arnold, Benedict
Juvenile literature
 Lomask, M. Beauty and the traitor. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Arnold, Margaret (Shippen) (Mrs. Benedict Arnold)
Juvenile literature
 Lomask, M. Beauty and the traitor. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Arrow of God.
 Achebe, C. (Mr '68)
- Art
 Holst, N. von. Creators, collectors, and connoisseurs. (Mr '68)
- Catalogs
 Miller, A. E. H., comp. Military drawings and paintings in the collection of Her Majesty the Queen, v 1. (Ag '68)
- Collections
See also
 Guggenheim, Peggy, collection
- Dictionaries
 Barron, J. N. Language of painting. (N '68)
- Forgeries
See Forgery of works of art
- Galleries and museums
 Bazin, G. Museum age. (Je '68)
- History
 Ames, W. Prince Albert and Victorian taste. (Je '68)
 Fraser, D., ed. Essays presented to Rudolf Wittkower on his sixty-fifth birthday, 2v. (My '68)
 Rosenblum, R. Transformations in late eighteenth century art. (Ap '68)
- Juvenile literature
 Barr, B. Wonders, warriors, and beasts abounding. (Mr '68)
 Grigson, G. More Shapes and stories. (Mr '68)
- Philosophy
 Feldman, E. B. Art as image and idea. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Gilson, E. Forms and substances in the arts. (Ap '68)
 Kahler, E. Disintegration of form in the arts. (Ag '68)
 Malraux, A. Museum without walls. (N '68)
 Read, H. Art and society. (Mr '68)
- Psychology
 Kellogg, R. Psychology of children's art. (Mr '68)
 Malraux, A. Museum without walls. (N '68)
 Read, H. Art and alienation. (Mr '68)
 Sweeney, J. J. Vision and image. (D '68)
- Art, Abstract
 Rickey, G. Constructivism. (Je '68)
- Art, African
 Beier, U. Contemporary art in Africa. (S '68)
- Catalogs
 Duignan, P. Handbook of American resources for African studies. (Mr '68)
- Art, American
History
 Art in America (periodical). Artist in America. (Mr '68)
 Rose, B. American art since 1900. (Ap '68)
- Art, Ancient
 Garbini, G. Ancient world. (Mr '68)
 Meer, F. van der. Early Christian art. (N '68)
- Piotrovskii, B. B. Urartu.
 (My '68)
- Art, Asia, Southeastern
See Art, Southeastern Asian
- Art, Baroque
 Sitwell, S. Baroque and rococo. (S '68)
- Art, Buddhist
 Munsterberg, H. Chinese Buddhist bronzes. (Mr '68)
- Art, Byzantine
 Inan, J. Roman and early Byzantine portrait sculpture in Asia minor. (Mr '68)
- Art, Chinese
 Arts of China, v 1. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Buhot, J. Chinese and Japanese art. (Ap '68)
 Lanman, E. Chinese portraiture. (Mr '68)
 Lin, Y., comp. Chinese theory of art. (Ap '68)
 Loehr, M. Chinese landscape woodcuts. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Art, Cretan
Higgins, R. Minoan and Mycenaean art. (Ag '68)
- Art, Egyptian
Woldering, I. Gods, men & pharaohs. (N '68)
- Art, Eskimo. See Eskimos—Art
- Art, Etruscan
Juvenile literature
Glubok, S. Art of the Etruscans. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Art, European
Martindale, A. Gothic art. (My '68)
- Art, Finnish
Rácz, I. Art treasures of medieval Finland. (Ag '68)
Rácz, I. Early Finnish art. (Ap '68)
- Art, Flemish
Koch, R. A. Joachim Patinir. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Art, French
History
Kraus, H. Living theatre of medieval art. (Ag '68)
- Art, Greek
Becatti, G. Art of ancient Greece and Rome, from the rise of Greece to the fall of Rome. (S '68)
Homann-Wedeking, E. Art of archaic Greece. (N '68)
Schefold, K. Art of classical Greece. (Je '68)
- Juvenile literature
Price, C. Made in ancient Greece. (Mr '68)
- Art, Indonesian
Holt, C. Art in Indonesia. (Ag '68)
- Art, Irish
Henry, F. Irish art during the Viking invasions (800-1020 A.D.) (S '68)
- Art, Islamic
Grube, E. J. World of Islam. (Mr '68)
- Art, Israeli
Tammuz, B., ed. Art in Israel. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Art, Italian
Elmerl, S. The world of Giotto. (Ap '68)
Murray, L. High renaissance. (Mr '68)
- Art, Japanese
Buhot, J. Chinese and Japanese art. (Ap '68)
Rosenfeld, J. Japanese arts of the Heian period. 794-1185. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Swann, P. C. Art of Japan. (Ag '68)
Ueda, M. Literary and art theories in Japan. (S '68)
- Art, Medieval
Egbert, V. W. Mediaeval artist at work. (N '68)
Kidson, P. Medieval world. (Ag '68)
Kraus, H. Living theatre of medieval art. (Ag '68)
Martindale, A. Gothic art. (My '68)
Palol, P. de. Early medieval art in Spain. (O '68)
Rácz, I. Art treasures of medieval Finland. (Ag '68)
Varty, K. Reynard the Fox. (O '68)
- Art, Modern
Calas, N. Peggy Guggenheim collection of modern art. (Ag '68)
- Art, Mycenaean
Higgins, R. Minoan and Mycenaean art. (Ag '68)
- Art, Near Eastern
Garbini, G. Ancient world. (Mr '68)
- Art, Oriental
Auboyer, J. Oriental world. (Mr '68)
- Art, Pictish
Henderson, I. Picts. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Art, Polynesian
Dodd, E. Pictorial peregrination through the shapely and harmonious, often enigmatical, sometimes shocking realms of Polynesian art. v 1. (Ap '68)
- Art, Primitive
Grand, P. M. Prehistoric art. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Leroi-Gourhan, A. Treasures of prehistoric art. (My '68)
Lommel, A. Shamanism. (O '68)
Rácz, I. Early Finnish art. (Ap '68)
Rockefeller, M. C. Asmat of New Guinea. (O '68)
Ucko, P. J. Palaeolithic cave art. (O '68)
See also
Indians of North America—Art
- Art, Renaissance
Chastel, A. Crisis of the Renaissance, 1520-1600. (O '68)
Murray, L. High renaissance. (Mr '68)
- Juvenile literature
Jacobs, D. Master painters of the Renaissance. (N '68)
- Art, Rococo
Sitwell, S. Baroque and rococo. (S '68)
- Art, Roman
Becatti, G. Art of ancient Greece and Rome, from the rise of Greece to the fall of Rome. (S '68)
Inan, J. Roman and early Byzantine portrait sculpture in Asia minor. (Mr '68)
Vermeule, C. C. Roman Imperial art in Greece and Asia Minor. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Art, Russian
Alpatov, M. W. Art treasures of Russia. (Ag '68)
Sjekocho, P. Unofficial art in the Soviet Union. (Ag '68)
- History
Kornilovich, K. Arts of Russia. (Ag '68)
- Art, Scythian
Jettmar, K. Art of the Steppes. (N '68)
- Art, Southeastern Asian
Rawson, P. Art of Southeast Asia. (N '68)
- Art, Spanish
Palol, P. de. Early medieval art in Spain. (O '68)
- History
Pita Andrade, J. M. Treasures of Spain from Altamira to the Catholic kings. (Ap '68)
Art and alienation. Read, H. (Mr '68)
Art & glory. Champney, F. (N '68)
Art and politics of Thomas Nast. Keller, M. (Ag '68)
- Art and religion
Lommel, A. Shamanism. (O '68)
Art and science of color. Hellman, H. (Ag '68)
- Art and society
Kraus, H. Living theatre of medieval art. (Ag '68)
Read, H. Art and alienation. (Mr '68)
Read, H. Art and society. (Mr '68)
Art and society. Read, H. (Mr '68)
- Art and technology
Burnham, J. Beyond modern sculpture. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Art and the seafarer. Hansen, H. J., ed. (D '68)
Art as image and idea. Feldman, E. B. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Art criticism
O'Doherty, B. Object and idea. (Mr '68)
Rosenberg, J. On quality in art. (Je '68)
Art in Indonesia. Holt, C. (Ag '68)
Art in Israel. Tammuz, B., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Art industries and trade
Norway
Hauglid, R., ed. Native art of Norway. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Art is my life. Zorach, W. (S '68)
- Art objects
Lister, R. Great works of craftsmanship. (O '68)
- Dictionaries
Goodwin, M. Pocket dictionary of collector's terms. (Ag '68)
- Art of ancient Greece and Rome, from the rise of Greece to the fall of Rome. Becatti, G. (S '68)
Art of Ancient Mexico. Glubok, S. (O '68)
Art of archaic Greece. Homann-Wedeking, E. (N '68)
Art of Chinese landscape painting. De Silva, A. (Ag '68)
Art of classical Greece. Schefold, K. (Je '68)
Art of diplomacy. Bailey, T. A. (Ag '68)
Art of Japan. Swann, P. C. (Ag '68)
Art of magic. Hunt, D. (Je '68)
Art of making bead flowers and bouquets. Nathanson, V. (Je '68)
Art of making soufflés. Reipert, F. L. (Mr '68)
Art of North America. Haberland, W. (N '68)
Art of Oscar Wilde. San Juan, E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Art of Pennsylvania Dutch cooking. Heller, E. E. (Ag '68)
Art of salad making. Truax, C. (N '68)
Art of Sinclair Lewis. Dooley, D. J. (Je '68)
Art of Southeast Asia. Rawson, P. (N '68)
Art of Southern fiction. Hoffman, F. J. (Ag '68)
Art of the Etruscans. Glubok, S. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Art of the Kwakiutl Indians, and other Northwest Coast tribes. Hawthorn, A. (Je '68)
Art of the Steppes. Jettmar, K. (N '68)

Art of the world series:

- De Silva, A. Art of Chinese landscape painting. (Ag '68)
 Haberland, W. Art of North America. (N '68)
 Homann-Wedeking, E. Art of archaic Greece. (N '68)
 Jettmar, K. Art of the Steppes. (N '68)
 Schefold, K. Art of classical Greece. (Je '68)
 Swann, P. C. Art of Japan. (Ag '68)
 Art of Victorian prose. Levine, G., ed. (N '68)
 Art of W. C. Fields. Everson, W. K. (Ap '68)
 Art, science, and history in the renaissance. Singleton, C. S., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Art treasures of medieval Finland. Rácz, I. (Ag '68)
 Art treasures of Russia. Alpatov, M. W. (Ag '68)
Arthur, King
 Ashe, G. Quest for Arthur's Britain. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Malory, T. King Arthur and his knights. (N '68)
 Saklatvala, B. Arthur: Roman Britain's last champion. (Mr '68)

Juvenile literature

- Finkel, G. Watch fires to the north. (Ag '68)
 Arthur Miller, dramatist. Murray, E. (S '68)
 Arthur: Roman Britain's last champion. Saklatvala, B. (Mr '68)

Artificial flowers

- Nathanson, V. Art of making bead flowers and bouquets. (Je '68)
 Artificial traveler. Fine, W. (O '68)
 Artist in America. Art in America (periodical). (Mr '68)

Artist type. Glanville, B. (Je '68)*Artists

- Egbert, V. W. Mediaeval artist at work. (N '68)
 Gruen, J. Close-up. (Ag '68)
 Read, H. Art and alienation. (Mr '68)
See also Painters; also
 Bartlett, J. R.
 Beardsley, A. V.
 Cassatt, M.
 Chagall, M.
 Cimabue, G.
 Copley, J. S.
 Ernst, M.
 Escher, M. C.
 Evergood, P.
 Giotto di Bondone
 Gottlieb, A.
 Hokusai
 Ingres, J.
 Klee, P.
 Lear, E.
 Marca-Relli, C.
 Mucha, A. M.
 Picasso, P.
 Poussin, N.
 Soyer, R.
 Trumbull, J.

Artists, African

- Beier, U. Contemporary art in Africa. (S '68)

Artists, American

- Art in America (periodical). Artist in America. (Mr '68)
 Callow, J. T. Kindred spirits. (O '68)

Artists, Russian

- Sjeklocha, P. Unofficial art in the Soviet Union. (Ag '68)

Artists' materials

- Massey, R. Formulas for painters. (S '68)

Arts and crafts

- Seyd, M. Designing with string. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Arts of China, v 1. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Arts of Egypt. Eng title of: Gods, men & pharaohs. Woldering, I. (N '68)
 Arts of Russia. Kornilovich, K. (Ag '68)
 Arts of the alchemists. Burland, C. A. (Je '68)
 Arts v. science. Ross, A. S. C., ed. (Ag '68)

Artaud, Etienne

- Rickards, C. Man from Devil's Island. (D '68)

Arundel, Thomas

- Aston, M. Thomas Arundel. (Ag '68)
 Aryanization of the Jewish state. Selzer, M. (Mr '68)

As a tale that is told. MacIver, R. M. (Ag '68)

- As I please. 1943-1945: v3 of The collected essays, journalism and letters of George Orwell. Orwell, G. (D '68)

As I remember. Timoshenko, S. P. (Ag '68)*Ashanti

- Dupuis, J. Journal of a residence in Ashantee [2d ed]. (Mr '68)

Asia*Boundaries

- Lamb, A. Asian frontiers. (Ag '68)

Church history

- Forman, C. W., ed. Christianity in the non-Western world. (My '68)

Description and travel

- Lattimore, O., ed. Silks, spices and empire. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Robinson, H. Monsoon Asia. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Salisbury, C. Y. Asian diary. (Je '68)

Foreign relations*United States

- Greene, F. U.S. policy and the security of Asia. (Ag '68)
 Middleton, D. America's stake in Asia. (Je '68)
 Reischauer, E. O. Beyond Vietnam: the United States and Asia. (1967, 1968 Annual)

History

- Levenson, J. R., ed. European expansion and the counter-example of Asia, 1300-1600. (N '68)

Bibliography

- Case, M. H. South Asian history, 1750-1950. (Ag '68)

Asia, South*Economic conditions

- Myrdal, G. Asian drama, 3v. (Je '68)

Asia, Southeastern*Antiquities

- Rawson, P. Art of Southeast Asia. (N '68)

Civilization

- Kunstadter, P., ed. Southeast Asian tribes, minorities, and nations. 2v. (Ag '68)

Commerce

- Huh, K.-M. Japan's trade in Asia. (Ag '68)

Description and travel*Juvenile literature

- Henderson, L. Vietnam and countries of the Mekong. (Je '68)

Economic conditions

- Myrdal, G. Asian drama, 3v. (Je '68)

Foreign relations*China (Peoples Republic of China)

- McCabe, R. K. Storm over Asia. (Ap '68)

History

- McCabe, R. K. Storm over Asia. (Ap '68)

Juvenile literature

- Henderson, L. Vietnam and countries of the Mekong. (Je '68)

Politics

- Pye, L. W. Southeast Asia's political systems. (N '68)

Asia, Southern*Juvenile literature

- Zinkin, T. India and her neighbours. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Officials and employees, etc.

- Braibanti, R., ed. Asian bureaucratic systems emergent from the British Imperial tradition. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Asia Minor*Antiquities

- Levick, B. M. Roman colonies in Southern Asia Minor. (Ap '68)

- Lloyd, S. Early highland peoples of Anatolia. (O '68)

Civilization

- Lloyd, S. Early highland peoples of Anatolia. (O '68)

- Asian bureaucratic systems emergent from the British imperial tradition. Braibanti, R., ed. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

- Asian diary. Salisbury, C. Y. (Je '68)

- Asian drama, 3v. Myrdal, G. (Je '68)

- Asian frontiers. Lamb, A. (Ag '68)

- Asian PEN anthology. Jose, F. S., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Asmat

- Rockefeller, M. C. Asmat of New Guinea. (O '68)

- Asmat of New Guinea. Rockefeller, M. C. (O '68)

- Aspects of antiquity. Finley, M. I. (Ag '68)

- Aspects of educational technology. Programmed learning conference, 1966. (Mr '68)

- Aspects of language. Bolinger, D. (O '68)
 Aspects of the French revolution. Cobban, A. (D '68)
 Assassination of D'Arcy McGee. Slattery, T. P. (O '68)
 Assassins (Ismailites)
 Lewis, B. Assassins. (Je '68)
 Assassins. Lewis, B. (Je '68)
 Asses and mules
- Stories
- Papas. No mules. (Ag '68)
- Associations
 Robertson, D. B., ed. Voluntary associations. (Mr '68)
 Warner, W. L., ed. Emergent American society, v 1. (Mr '68)
- Research
- Vroom, V. H., ed. Methods of organizational research. (Je '68)
- Astoria, Oregon
 Franchère, G. Adventure at Astoria, 1810-1814. (Je '68)
- Astrology
 Gauquelin, M. Cosmic clocks. (N '68)
- Astronautics
 Shelton, W. American space exploration. (Ag '68)
- Dictionaries
- McGraw-Hill encyclopedia of space. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Juvenile literature
- Hendrickson, W. B. What's going on in space? (Ag '68)
- Russia
- Shelton, W. Soviet space exploration. (D '68)
- United States
- Bergaust, E. Murder on pad 34. (N '68)
 Kash, D. E. Politics of space cooperation. (Ag '68)
- History
- Lewis, R. S. Appointment on the moon. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Astronauts
 Shelton, W. American space exploration. (Ag '68)
 Shelton, W. Soviet space exploration. (D '68)
- Astronomers
 Richardson, R. S. Star lovers. (Ap '68)
- Juvenile literature
- Pickering, J. S. Famous astronomers. (Je '68)
- Astronomical instruments
 Lovell, B. Story of Jodrell Bank. (S '68)
- Astronomical observatories
 Lovell, B. Story of Jodrell Bank. (S '68)
- Astronomy
 Corliss, W. R. Mysteries of the universe. (S '68)
 Ibn al-Muthannā, A. Ibn al-Muthannā's commentary on the astronomical tables of al-Khwārizmī. (Ap '68)
 Odishaw, H., ed. Earth in space. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Dictionaries
- Moore, P. Amateur astronomer's glossary. (S '68)
- History
- Richardson, R. S. Star lovers. (Ap '68)
- Astrophysics
 Fowler, W. A. Nuclear astrophysics. (My '68)
 Kurth, R. Introduction to stellar statistics. (D '68)
 Odishaw, H., ed. Earth in space. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Asymmetric typography. Tschichold, J. (Je '68)
- At ease in Zion. Spain, R. B. (Ap '68)
 At ease: stories I tell to friends. Eisenhower, D. D. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- At night. Ressler, P. (Ap '68)
- At the piano—Ivor Newton. Newton, I. (D '68)
- Athens, Georgia
 Coleman, K. Confederate Athens. (N '68)
- Athletes
- Juvenile literature
- Fox, L. Little men in sports. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Atlantic economic cooperation. Aubrey, H. G. (S '68)
- Atlantic salmon: a vanishing species? Netboy, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Atlantis
- Juvenile literature
- Chapin, H. Search for Atlantis. (O '68)
- Atlas of African prehistory. Clark, J. D., comp. (Ag '68)
 Atlas of typeforms. Sutton J. (D '68)
- Atlases
 Clark, J. D., comp. Atlas of African prehistory. (Ag '68)
 Geographical projects. Hammond panoramic world atlas. (Ap '68)
 Oxford regional economic atlas: United States & Canada. (O '68)
 The Times (London). Times atlas of the world [comprehensive ed]. (D '68)
- Atmosphere, Upper
 Craig, R. A. Edge of space. (N '68)
- Atomic bomb
 Feis, H. Atomic bomb and the end of World War II [rev ed]. (Mr '68)
- History
- Irving, D. German atomic bomb. (Ag '68)
- Juvenile literature
- American heritage. History of the atomic bomb. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Psychological effect
- Lifton, R. J. Death in life. (Ap '68)
- Research
- Irving, D. German atomic bomb. (Ag '68)
- Atomic bomb and the end of World War II [rev ed]. Feis, H. (Mr '68)
 Atomic debates. Brock, W. H., ed. (N '68)
- Atomic energy
- Research
- Irving, D. German atomic bomb. (Ag '68)
- Atomic light: lasers—what they are and how they work. Nehrlich, R. B. (Ag '68)
- Atomic warfare
 Harkabi, Y. Nuclear war and nuclear peace. (Mr '68)
 Atomists (1805-1933). Schonland, B. (N '68)
- Atoms
 Brock, W. H., ed. Atomic debates. (N '68)
 Cohen, B. L. Heart of the atom. (Ag '68)
- Juvenile literature
- Leeds, R. D. Introducing the atom. (My '68)
- Atoms and madams. Thórðarson, A. (In Haugen, E., ed. Fire and ice). (Ap '68)
- Atonement
 Büchler, A. Studies in sin and atonement in the Rabbinic literature of the first century. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Attic stamnos. Philippaki, B. (Ag '68)
- Attitude (Psychology)
 Kirscht, J. P. Dimensions of authoritarianism: a review of research and theory. (Ap '68)
 Persistence and change: Bennington college and its students after twenty-five years. (Ag '68)
- Auctions
 Cassady, R. Auctions and auctioneering. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Auctions and auctioneering. Cassady, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Augustine, Saint, Bp. of Hippo
 Brown, P. Augustine of Hippo. (1967. 1968 Annual)
- Augustine of Hippo. Brown, P. (1967. 1968 Annual)
- Auschwitz (Concentration camp)
 Delbo, C. None of us will return. (Ag '68)
- Austen, Jane
 Southam, B. C., ed. Jane Austen: the critical heritage. (O '68)
- Mansfield Park
- Fleishman, A. Reading of Mansfield Park. (N '68)
- Australia
- Biography
- Dictionaries
- Australian dictionary of biography, v2. (Ag '68)
- Church history
- Barrett, J. That better country. (Ag '68)
 Suttor, T. L. Hierarchy and democracy in Australia, 1788-1870. (My '68)
- Description and travel
- Béchervaise, J. M. Australia, world of difference. (S '68)
- Economic conditions
- Burroughs, P. Britain and Australia, 1831-1855. (O '68)
 Sharp, I. G., ed. Aborigines in the economy. (Ag '68)

Foreign relations

Watt, A. Evolution of Australian foreign policy, 1938-1965. (Ap '68)

Immigration and emigration

Macmillan, D. S. Scotland and Australia, 1788-1850: emigration, commerce and investment. (Ag '68)

Native races

Bates, D. Passing of the aborigines [2d ed]. (D '68)

Politics and government

Menzies, R. Central power in the Australian Commonwealth. (Ag '68)

Religion

Barrett, J. That better country. (Ag '68)

Social conditions

Sharp, I. G., ed. Aborigines in the economy. (Ag '68)

Australia, world of difference. Béchervaise, J. M. (S '68)

Australian aboriginal portraits. Mountford, C. P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Australian birds. Hill, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Australian dictionary of biography, v2. (Ag '68)

Austria

Politics and government

Feuerlicht, R. S. Desperate act. (S '68)

Authentic teacher. Moustakas, C. (Ap '68)

Authority

Pye, L. W. Spirit of Chinese politics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Authority of the Old Testament. Bright, J. (My '68)

Authors

Arendt, H. Men in dark times. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Authors, American

Gilbert, J. B. Writers and partisans: a history of literary radicalism in America. (S '68)

Paluka, F. Iowa authors: a bio-bibliography of sixty native writers. (Ag '68)

Authors, English

Croft-Cooke, R. Feasting with panthers. (Je '68)

Nichols, J. Literary anecdotes of the eighteenth century. (S '68)

Sheavyn, P. Literary profession in the Elizabethan age [2d ed rev]. (D '68)

Waugh, A. My brother Evelyn, and other portraits. (Mr '68)

Authors and publishers

Macmillan & company, limited. Letters to Macmillan. (O '68)

Wincor, R. Literary property. (Ap '68)

Authorship

Erdman, D. V., ed. Evidence for authorship. (Ap '68)

Autism

Park, C. C. Siege. (Mr '68)

Autobiography of a runaway slave. Montejo, E. (N '68)

Autobiography of Bertrand Russell, 1872-1914. Russell, B. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Autobiography of Bertrand Russell, 1914-1944, v2. Russell, B. (Ag '68)

Autobiography of Emanuel Carnevali. Carnevali, E. (Ap '68)

Autobiography of W. E. B. DuBois. DuBois, W. E. B. (My '68)

Autobiography of William Stout of Lancaster, 1665-1752. Stout, W. (Ap '68)

Automata. See Robots

Automated educational systems. Haga, E., ed. (Ag '68)

Automated language processing. Borko, H. ed. (N '68)

Automated state. MacBride, R. (Ap '68)

Automation

Sackman, H. Computers, system science, and evolving society. (O '68)

Economic aspects

MacBride, R. Automated state. (Ap '68)

Social aspects

MacBride, R. Automated state. (Ap '68)

Automobile. Hill, F. E. (My '68)

Automobile drivers

Purdy, K. W. Young people and driving. (Mr '68)

Automobiles

See also names of makes, e.g. Rolls-Royce automobile

History

Bugatti, L. Bugatti story. (Mrs '68)

Classic cars in Profile, 2v. (Ap '68)

Hill, F. E. Automobile. (My '68)

Juvenile literature

Buehr, W. Automobiles. (D '68)

Touring*Juvenile literature

Webster, D. Crossroad puzzlers. (My '68)

Automobiles. Buehr, W. (D '68)

Awakened eye. Parmenter, R. (Ag '68)

Awakening of the Greek historical spirit. Starr, C. G. (Ag '68)

Ayers Rock

Mountford, C. P. Ayers Rock. (Ag '68)

Aytoun, William Edmondstone

Weinstein, M. A. William Edmondstone Aytoun and the spasmodic controversy. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Ayub Khan, Mohammad

Ayub Khan, M. Friends not masters. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Azione cattolica italiana. See Catholic action

Ba Maw, U

Ba Maw. Breakthrough in Burma. (Ag '68)

Bābā, 'Arūj, called Barbarossa I, dey of Algiers

Bradford, E. Sultan's admiral. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Babbitts and bohemians. Stevenson, E. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Babel, Tower of

Wiesner, W. Tower of Babel. (Ag '68)

Babel to Byzantium. Dickey, J. (S '68)

Baboons

Kummer, H. Social organization of hamadryas baboons. (O '68)

Bachelorette cookbook. Tai, P. (O '68)

Back country. Snyder, G. (Ag '68)

Back roads to far towns. Matsuo, B. (S '68)

Back to back. Baker, L. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Baden-Powell of Gilwell, Robert Stephenson Smyth Baden-Powell, 1st Baron

Juvenile literature

Freedman, R. Scouting with Baden-Powell. (Ap '68)

Baeck, Leo

Friedlander, A. H. Leo Baeck. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Baez, Joan

Baez, J. Daybreak. (N '68)

Bag. Yurick, S. (S '68)

Bailey, Pearl

Bailey, P. Raw Pearl. (N '68)

Bakin, Takizawa

Zolbrod, L. M. Takizawa Bakin. (N '68)

Balakirev, Miliĭ Aleksĕevich

Garden, E. Balakirev. (S '68)

Balance of payments

Maintaining and restoring balance in international payments. (Je '68)

Baldrige, Letitia

Baldrige, L. Of diamonds and diplomats. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Baldwin, James

Eckman, F. M. Furious passage of James Baldwin. (Mr '68)

Balkan Peninsula*Politics

MacKenzie, D. Serbs and Russian panslavism, 1875-1878. (Je '68)

Ballad of the burglar of Babylon. Bishop, E. (S '68)

Ballads, American

Lomax, A., comp. Hard-hitting songs for hard-hit people. (Mr '68)

Silber, I., ed. Songs of the great American West. (Mr '68)

Ballads, English*Juvenile literature

Manning-Sanders, R. Stories from the English and Scottish ballads. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Ballads, Scottish*Juvenile literature

Manning-Sanders, R. Stories from the English and Scottish ballads. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Ballet*Handbooks, manuals, etc.

Terry, W. Ballet companion. (O '68)

Ballet companion. Terry, W. (O '68)

Ballets*Stories, plots, etc.*Juvenile literature

Untermeyer, L. Tales from the ballet. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Ballin, Albert

Cecil, L. Albert Ballin. (Ap '68)

Ballinger, Richard Achilles

Penick, J. Progressive politics and conservation. (N '68)

Balloon man. Armstrong, C. (Ag '68)

Ballots and fence rails. Evans, W. M. (Mr '68)

Bands (Music)

Simon, G. T. Big bands. (Mr '68)

Bank of England

Giuseppi, J. Bank of England. (Mr '68)

Bank of England. Giuseppi, J. (Mr '68)

Banks and banking

Cohen, K. J., ed. Analytical methods in banking. (Mr '68)

Pontecorvo, G., ed. Issues in banking and monetary analysis. (Ag '68)

Egypt

Kardouche, G. K. U.A.R. in development. (Je '68)

Great Britain

Kellett, R. Merchant banking arena. (O '68)

Baptists

Armstrong, O. K. Indomitable Baptists. (Mr '68)

Bourdeaux, M. Religious ferment in Russia. (Ag '68)

Estep, W. R. Baptists and Christian unity. (Ag '68)

Spain, K. B. At ease in Zion. (Ap '68)

Missions

Potts, E. D. British Baptist missionaries in India, 1793-1837. (N '68)

Baptists and Christian unity. Estep, W. R. (Ag '68)

Barbarossa. See Bābā, 'Arūj; Khair al-Dīn

Barber, Red. See Barber, W. L.

Barber, Walter Lanier

Barber, R. Rhubarb in the catbird seat. (Ag '68)

Bargaining for health. Munts, R. (O '68)

Barlach, Ernst

Chick, E. M. Ernst Barlach. (S '68)

Barnard, Christiaan Neethling

Hawthorne, P. Transplanted heart. (Ag '68)

Baron Delvig's Northern flowers, 1825-1832.

Mersereau, J. (N '68)

Baroque and rococo. Sitwell, S. (S '68)

Baroque theatre. Baur-Heinhold, M. (Je '68)

Barrington, Sir Jonah

Barrington, J. Ireland of Sir Jonah Barrington. (Ag '68)

Barry, Hürlimann, B. (S '68)

Bartlett, John Russell

Hine, R. V. Bartlett's West. (N '68)

Bartlett's West. Hine, R. V. (N '68)

Barton, Bernard

Barton, B. Literary correspondence of Bernard Barton. (Mr '68)

Baseball

Barber, R. Rhubarb in the catbird seat. (Ag '68)

Cepeda, O. My ups and downs in baseball. (Ag '68)

Grimm, C. Jolly Cholly's story: Baseball, I love you! (O '68)

McSweeney, B. Impossible dream. (O '68)

Marichal, J. Pitcher's story. (Je '68)

Robinson, F. My life is baseball. (Ag '68)

See also

Little league baseball

Biography

Zanger, J. Brooks Robinson story. (Mr '68)

Juvenile literature

Bauer, H. Championship baseball. (S '68)

Froman, R. Baseball-istics. (Ap '68)

Miers, E. S. Baseball. (Mr '68)

Baseball. Miers, E. S. (Mr '68)

Baseball-istics. Froman, R. (Ap '68)

Bashful billionaire. Gerber, A. B. (Ap '68)

Basic forms of prophetic speech. Westermann, C. (N '68)

Basic modern philosophy of religion. Ferré, F. (Je '68)

Basic writings of Mo Tzu, Hsün-Tzu, and Han Fei Tzu. Watson, B., ed. (Mr '68)

Basque story cock book. Rogers, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Bastard war. Barker, A. J. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Basutoland. See Lesotho

Bat book. Kohn, B. (Ap '68)

Bath and Wells (Diocese)

History

Hembry, P. M. Bishops of Bath and Wells, 1540-1640. (Ap '68)

Bathtub physics. Ruchlis, H. (Ap '68)

Bats*Juvenile literature

Kohn, B. Bat book. (Ap '68)

Battered child. Helfer, R. E., ed. (D '68)

Battle for Iwo Jima. Leckie, R. (Mr '68)

Battle for the presidency. Warren, S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Battle of Aughrim. Murphy, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Battle of Cambrail. Cooper, B. (N '68)

Battle of Kohima. Swinson, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Battle of Majuba Hill. Ransford, O. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Battle of St George Without. McNeill, J. (Je '68)

Battle of Toulouse. Cabanis, J. (Je '68)

Battlefield. Mayne, W. (Mr '68)

Bayeux*Economic conditions

Huften, O. H. Bayeux in the late eighteenth century. (D '68)

Social conditions

Huften, O. H. Bayeux in the late eighteenth century. (D '68)

Bayeux in the late eighteenth century. Huften, O. H. (D '68)

Bayou backwaters. Eckert, A. W. (N '68)

Beachcomber's handbook. Euell Gibbons'. Gibbons, E. (Mr '68)

Beaconsfield, Benjamin Disraeli, 1st Earl of Blake, R. Disraeli. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Beadwork

Nathanson, V. Art of making bead flowers and bouquets. (Je '68)

Beagle Expedition, 1831-1836

Darwin, C. R. Darwin and Henslow. (Ap '68)

Beam of malice. Hamilton, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Beard, Charles Austin

Hofstadter, R. Progressive historians. (D '68)

Beardsley, Aubrey Vincent

Beardsley, A. Aubrey Beardsley. (Ap '68)

Bears

Leslie, R. F. Bears and I. (O '68)

Juvenile literature

George, J. C. Moon of the bears. (Mr '68)

Stories

Janice. Little Bear's Thanksgiving. (My '68)

Minarik, E. H. Kiss for Little Bear. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Mure, E. Story of the three bears. (My '68)

Bears and I. Leslie, R. F. (O '68)

Beasts. Fuller, C. L., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Beasts in my bed. Durrell, J. (Mr '68)

Beasts of never. McHargue, G. (O '68)

Beat of the city. Brinsmead, H. F. (Je '68)

The Beatles

Davies, H. Beatles: the authorized biography. (D '68)

Fast, J. Beatles. (N '68)

Beaufre, André

Beaufre, A. 1940: the fall of France. (Je '68)

Beauharnais, Eugène de, Prince d'Eichstätt

Oman, C. Napoleon's viceroy. (D '68)

Beautiful blue jay, and other tales of India. Spellman, J. W., ed. (Mr '68)

Beautiful junk. Madian, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Beauty, Personal. See Grooming, Personal

Beauty and the traitor. Lomask, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Beauty Beast. Kantor, M. (My '68)

Beauty of the world. Eng title of: Settled in chambers. Tracy, H. (Je '68)

Beautiful ones are not yet born. Armah, A. K. (N '68)

Bechuanaland. See Botswana

Becker scandal. Delmar, V. (Je '68)

Bees

Frisch, K. von. Dance language and orientation of bees. (My '68)

Juvenile literature

Teale, E. W. Bees [new ed]. (Ag '68)

Bees [new ed]. Teale, E. W. (Ag '68)

Beethoven, Ludwig van

Juvenile literature

Sadie, S. Beethoven. (Mr '68)

Before and after. Seabrook, I. D. (Ag '68)

Before the deluge. Wendt, H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Before you were a baby. Showers, P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Beggars to king. Duckat, W. (S '68)

Beginner's guide to building and flying model airplanes. Lopshire, R. (Ap '68)

Beginnings of Russian industrialization, 1800-1860. Blackwell, W. L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Behan, Brendan

Jeffs, R. Brendan Behan: man and showman. (Je '68)

Behavior

Mandelbaum, B. Choose life. (D '68)

Behavior of ants. An introduction to the.

Sudd, J. H. (My '68)

Behind Japan's surrender. Brooks, L. (S '68)

Behind the scenes in a film studio. Grey, E. (Ag '68)

Behind the shield. Niederhoffer, A. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Being, becoming and behavior. Matson, F. W., ed. (O '68)

Being geniuses together, 1920-1930 [rev ed]. McAlmon, R. (Ag '68)

Béla Kun and the Hungarian Soviet Republic.

Tökés, R. L. (Ap '68)

Belief and disbelief in American literature.

Jones, H. M. (Mr '68)

Belief today. Rahner, K. (Ap '68)

Believing humanism: my testament, 1902-1965.

Buber, M. (Je '68)

Bell, George Kennedy Allen, Bp.

Jasper, R. C. D. George Bell, Bishop of

Chichester. (Ag '68)

Les belles images. Beauvoir, S. de. (My '68)

Bellini, Giovanni

Robertson, G. Giovanni Bellini. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Bellow, Saul

Clayton, J. J. Saul Bellow: in defense of man.

(S '68)

Malin, I., comp. Saul Bellow and the critics.

(Mr '68)

Opdahl, K. M. Novels of Saul Bellow. (Je '68)

Beloved lady: a history of Jane Addams' ideas on reform and peace. Farrell, J. C. (S '68)

Ben Bella, Ahmed

Merle, R. Ahmed Ben Bella. (Ap '68)

Ben Bella. Eng title of: Ahmed Ben Bella.

Merle, R. (Ap '68)

Ben-Gurion, David

Bar-Zohar, M. Ben Gurion: the armed proph-

et. (D '68)

Ben Jonson's 'dotages.' Champion, L. S. (N '68)

Ben Suc, Vietnam

Schell, J. Village of Ben Suc. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Benchmarks. Friendly, H. J. (Mr '68)

Bending the bow. Duncan, R. (S '68)

Beneath the hill. Curry, J. L. (D '68)

Beneath the wheel. Hesse, H. (D '68)

Benedict XIII (Pedro de Luna) antipope

Glasfurd, A. Antipope (Peter de Luna, 1342-

1423). (Ap '68)

Benevolent bean. Keys, M. (Ag '68)

Benítez, Manuel

Collins, L. Or I'll dress you in mourning.

(Ag '68)

Benjamin Franklin and nature's God. Aldridge,

A. O. (Ag '68)

Bennington College

Persistence and change: Bennington college and its students after twenty-five years.

(Ag '68)

Bentham, Jeremy

Bentham, J. Correspondence of Jeremy

Bentham, 2v. (S '68)

Beowulf

Irving, E. B. Reading of Beowulf. (O '68)

Berlin

Description

Brett-Smith, R. Berlin: '45: the grey city.

(Mr '68)

Berlin, Battle of, 1945

Chuikov, V. I. Fall of Berlin. (Ap '68)

Kuby, E. Russians and Berlin, 1945. (S '68)

Berlin, Museum Dahlem

Redslob, E., ed. Berlin-Dahlem gallery. (N '68)

Berlin-Dahlem gallery. Redslob, E., ed. (N '68)

Berlin: '45: the grey city. Brett-Smith, R. (Mr '68)

Berlin: the wall is not forever. Dulles, E. L.

(1967, 1968 Annual)

Berlin wall (1961-)

Dulles, E. L. Berlin: the wall is not forever.

(1967, 1968 Annual)

Bernard, Claude

Claude Bernard and experimental medicine.

(Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

Tarshis, J. Claude Bernard. (D '68)

Bernard Shaw and the theater in the nineties.

Fromm, H. (Ag '68)

Bernhardt, Sarah

Knepler, H. Gilded stage. (D '68)

Bernstein, Leonard

Gruen, J. Private world of Leonard Bernstein.

(Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Berry, Jean de France, duc de

Meiss, M. French painting in the time of Jean

de Berry, 2v. (Ag '68)

Berry, Martha McChesney

Juvenile literature

Myers, E. P. Angel of Appalachia: Martha

Berry. (Je '68)

Berry Schools, Mount Berry, Georgia

Myers, E. P. Angel of Appalachia: Martha

Berry. (Je '68)

Berryman's sonnets. Berryman, J. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Bertolt Brecht: his life, his art, and his times.

Ewen, F. (Mr '68)

Bertrand Russell and the British tradition in philosophy. Pears, D. F. (My '68)

Bertrand Russell: philosopher of the century.

Schoenman, R., ed. (Mr '68)

Best American short stories, 1967. (D '68)

Best book of true aviation stories. Rosenbaum,

R. A., ed. (Je '68)

Best of Myles. O'Brien, F. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Best plays of the early American theatre.

Gassner, J., ed. (Mr '68)

Best regards to Aida. Heinsheimer, H. W.

(D '68)

Bethlehem, Pennsylvania

History

Gollin, G. L. Moravians in two worlds. (Ap '68)

Betrayal. Corson, W. R. (S '68)

Between blue and blue. Eng title of: The blue flowers. Queneau, R. (My '68)

Between oceans. Goedicke, P. (S '68)

Bevington, Helen

Bevington, H. Book &amp; a love affair. (N '68)

Beyond alienation. Becker, E. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Beyond belief. Williams, E. (Ap '68)

Beyond birth control. Callahan, S. (N '68)

Beyond Broadway. Novick, J. (O '68)

Beyond eagle and swastika 2v. Tauber, K. P.

(Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Beyond equality. Montgomery, D. (S '68)

Beyond ideology. Germino, D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Beyond left &amp; right. Kostelanetz, R., ed

(D '68)

Beyond modern sculpture. Burnham, J. (Ja '69)

(1968 Annual)

Beyond the angry black [rev ed]. Williams,

J. A., comp. (Je '68)

Beyond the dictionary in French. Eng title of:

Cassell's Beyond the dictionary in French.

Levieux, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Beyond Vietnam: the United States and Asia.

Reischauer, E. O. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Bhartrihari: poems. Bhartrihari. (Ap '68)

Bhutan

Karan, P. P. Bhutan. (N '68)

Bible

Garrison, W. Strange facts about the Bible.

(Ag '68)

Antiquities

Duckat, W. Beggar to king. (S '68)

Criticism, interpretation, etc.

Swanston, H. F. G. Community witness.

(My '68)

Wuellner, W. H. Meaning of "fishers of men."

(Ag '68)

Dictionaries

Smith, W. New Smith's Bible dictionary.

(Ap '68)

Evidences, authority, etc.

Bryant, R. H. Bible's authority today.

(O '68)

Bible—Continued

Geography

Aharoni, Y. Macmillan Bible atlas. (Ja '69)
(1968 Annual)

History

Frank, H. T. Bible through the ages. (Ag '68)

History of Biblical events

Aharoni, Y. Macmillan Bible atlas. (Ja '69)
(1968 Annual)

Reading

Chiffot, T. G. Water in the wilderness. (N '68)

Bible. Old Testament

Dell'Isola, F., ed. Old Testament for everyman. (S '68)

Criticism, interpretation, etc.

Bright, J. Authority of the Old Testament. (My '68)

Dentan, R. C. Knowledge of God in ancient Israel. (Ag '68)

Eichrodt, W. Theology of the Old Testament, v2. (My '68)

Miskotte, K. H. When the gods are silent. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Prophets

Westermann, C. Basic forms of prophetic speech. (N '68)

Stories

Juvenile literature

Klink, J. L. Bible for children, v 1. (Ja '69)
(1968 Annual)

Southall, I. Sword of Esau. (Ag '68)

Bible. Old Testament. Genesis

Hunt, I. World of the patriarchs. (Mr '68)

Bible. Old Testament. Deuteronomy

Commentaries

Nicholson, E. W. Deuteronomy and tradition. (Mr '68)

Bible. Old Testament. Esther

Criticism, interpretation, etc.

Bickerman, E. Four strange books of the Bible. (Je '68)

Bible. Old Testament. Ecclesiastes

Criticism, interpretation, etc.

Bickerman, E. Four strange books of the Bible. (Je '68)

Bible. Old Testament. Lamentations

Commentaries

Raphael, C. Walls of Jerusalem. (Je '68)

Bible. Old Testament. Daniel

Criticism, interpretation, etc.

Bickerman, E. Four strange books of the Bible. (Je '68)

Bible. Old Testament. Jonah

Criticism, interpretation, etc.

Bickerman, E. Four strange books of the Bible. (Je '68)

Bible. Old Testament. Pentateuch

Bible. Old Testament. Pentateuch. William Tyndale's Five books of Moses called the Pentateuch. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Bible. New Testament

Bible. New Testament. New Testament of the Jerusalem Bible. (Mr '68)

Manson, W. Jesus and the Christian. (N '68)

Criticism, interpretation, etc.

Funk, R. W. Language, hermeneutic, and Word of God. (Ag '68)

Bible. New Testament. Acts

Commentaries

Bible. New Testament. Acts. Acts of the apostles. (Ap '68)

Bible. New Testament. Romans

Commentaries

Bible. New Testament. Romans. Letter of Paul to the Romans. (Mr '68)

Bible. New Testament. Galatians

Commentaries

Bible. New Testament. Galatians. Letter of Paul to the Galatians. (Mr '68)

Bible. New Testament. Epistles

Commentaries

Leaney, A. R. C. Letters of Peter and Jude. (My '68)

Bible for children, v 1. Klink, J. L. (Ja '69)
(1968 Annual)

Bible story of the creation. Jones, M. A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Bible through the ages. Frank, H. T. (Ag '68)

Bible's authority today. Bryant, R. H. (O '68)

Bibliography

Downs, R. B., ed. Bibliography. (Je '68)

Joint committee on bibliographical services to history. Bibliography and the historian. (N '68)

Bibliography

Duckles, V., comp. Music reference and research materials [2d ed.]. (Ap '68)

Bibliography and the historian. Joint committee on bibliographical services to history. (N '68)

Bibliography of American natural history. Meisel, M. (N '68)

Bibliography of Arthur Waley. Johns, F. A. (O '68)

Bidault, Georges

Bidault, G. Resistance. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Bierce, Ambrose

O'Connor, R. Ambrose Bierce. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Big bands. Simon, G. T. (Mr '68)

Big book of family games. Meyer, J. (Ag '68)

Big machine. Jungk, R. (N '68)

Big pile of dirt. Clymer, E. (D '68)

"Big victory great task." Vo nguyen Giap. (Je '68)

Big wayward girl. Phillips, H. L. (D '68)

Big yellow balloon. Fenton, E. (My '68)

Biggest house in the world. Lionni, L. (Ag '68)

Bill of rights. Fribourg, M. G. (Ap '68)

Bill of rites, a bill of wrongs, a bill of goods. Morris, W. (My '68)

Billy Mitchell affair. Davis, B. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Bimby. Burchard, P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Bingham, George Caleb

Bloch, E. M. George Caleb Bingham, 2v. (S '68)

Bio-bibliography of Langston Hughes, 1902-1967. Dickinson, D. C. (My '68)

Biochemistry

Research

Watson, J. D. Double helix. (My '68)

Biographical dictionary of republican China. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Biographical dictionary of republican China, v2. (N '68)

Biography

Dictionaries

Launay, A. J., comp. Dictionary of contemporaries. (D '68)

Biography (as a literary form)

Dorey, T. A., ed. Latin biography. (S '68)

Biography (individual)

Abshire, D. M. South rejects a prophet. (S '68)

Adamson, G. Lifetime with lions. (O '68)

Albert, H. W. Odyssey of a desert prospector. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Alliluyeva, A. Alliluyev memoirs. (Ag '68)

Almendinger, E. M. Tomorrow will come. (D '68)

Ames, W. Prince Albert and Victorian taste. (Je '68)

Amram, D. Vibrations. (D '68)

Anderson, C. G. James Joyce and his world. (My '68)

Andrews, A. Splendid pauper. (N '68)

Aretino, P. Letters of Pietro Aretino. (Mr '68)

Armstrong, W. H. Organs for America. (N '68)

Ashe, G. Gandhi. (S '68)

Astin, A. E. Scipio Aemilianus. (Ag '68)

Aston, M. Thomas Arundel. (Ag '68)

Austin, N. F. Biography of Thomas Wolfe. (S '68)

Axelrad, J. Philip Freneau, champion of democracy. (Mr '68)

Ayub Khan, M. Friends not masters. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Ba Maw. Breakthrough in Burma. (Ag '68)

Baez, J. Daybreak. (N '68)

Bailey, P. Raw Pearl. (N '68)

Baine, R. M. Robert Munford. (My '68)

Baldrige, L. Of diamonds and diplomats. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Baltzer, F. Theodor Boveri. (Ag '68)

Bar-Zohar, M. Ben Gurion: the armed prophet. (D '68)

Barber, R. Rhubarb in the catbird seat. (Ag '68)

Barnwell, W. H. In Richard's world. (S '68)

Barrington, J. Ireland of Sir Jonah Barrington. (Ag '68)

- Bart, B. F. Flaubert. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Bartlett, C. J. Castlereagh. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Barton, B. Literary correspondence of Bernard Barton. (Mr '68)
 Bate, W. J. Coleridge. (S '68)
 Beaufre, A. 1940: the fall of France. (Je '68)
 Beckingsale, B. W. Burghley: Tudor statesman, 1520-1598. (Je '68)
 Bellori, G. P. Lives of Annibale & Agostino Carracci. (O '68)
 Bemis, S. F., ed. American secretaries of state and their diplomacy, v17. (Ag '68)
 Bentham, J. Correspondence of Jeremy Bentham, 2v. (S '68)
 Beyington, H. Book & a love affair. (N '68)
 Bidault, G. Resistance. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Billington, M. L. Thomas P. Gore. (Mr '68)
 Bishop, J. Day Kennedy was shot. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Bisno, A. Abraham Bisno, union pioneer. (S '68)
 Blake, R. Disraeli. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Bloch, E. M. George Caleb Bingham, 2v. (S '68)
 Blossom, T. Nariño: hero of Colombian independence. (Ap '68)
 Boak, D. André Malraux. (O '68)
 Boase, T. S. R. St Francis of Assisi. (N '68)
 Boney, F. N. John Letcher of Virginia. (Mr '68)
 Bowra, C. M. Memories, 1898-1939. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Boyarsky, B. Rise of Ronald Reagan. (Ag '68)
 Boyd, J. Above the law. (My '68)
 Bradford, E. Sultan's admiral. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Bragdon, H. W. Woodrow Wilson, the academic years. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Brata, S. My God died young. (D '68)
 Breisach, E. Caterina Sforza. (Ap '68)
 Breitman, G. Last year of Malcolm X. (Mr '68)
 Brodie, F. M. Devil drives (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Brooke, R. Letters of Rupert Brooke. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Brown, M. L. Comte de Chambord. (Ag '68)
 Brown, P. Augustine of Hippo. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Bugatti, L. Bugatti story. (Mr '68)
 Buisseret, D. Sully and the growth of centralized government in France, 1598-1610. (N '68)
 Burgess, G. H. O. Eccentric ark. (O '68)
 Burke, E. Correspondence of Edmund Burke, v6. (My '68)
 Butler, I. Great duchess. (Ag '68)
 Butter, P. H. Edwin Muir: man and poet. (Ap '68)
 Byrnes, R. F. Pobedonostsev. (N '68)
 Caesar, G. Incredible detective. (N '68)
 Cameron, J. Point of departure. (Ap '68)
 Campbell, J. K. Colonel Francis W. Parker: the children's crusader. (Ag '68)
 Campbell, T. F. Daniel E. Morgan, 1877-1949. (Ap '68)
 Cane, M. All and sundry. (Ag '68)
 Carmichael, J. Karl Marx: the passionate logician. (Ap '68)
 Carnevali, E. Autobiography of Emanuel Carnevali. (Ap '68)
 Carter, S. Cyrus Field: man of two worlds. (Ap '68)
 Carvajal, L. de. Enlightened. (Je '68)
 Carver, P. L. Life of a poet. (Je '68)
 Cecil, L. Albert Ballin. (Ap '68)
 Cepeda, O. My ups and downs in baseball. (Ag '68)
 Chaliapin, F. I. Chaliapin. (Ap '68)
 Champney, F. Art & glory. (N '68)
 Chapman, G. W. Edmund Burke. (Ag '68)
 Chick, E. M. Ernst Barlach. (S '68)
 Chidsey, D. B. Great conspiracy. (Ag '68)
 Childs, H. American genius: the life of Ernest Orlando Lawrence. (Ag '68)
 Chögyam Trungpa. Born in Tibet. (Ag '68)
 Churchill, R. S. Winston S. Churchill: companion volume, v 1 (pts 1,2). (Mr '68)
 Churchill, R. S. Winston S. Churchill, v2. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Cleaver, E. Soul on ice. (My '68)
 Cleveland, M. Charles Percy: strong new voice from Illinois. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Coe, C. Young man in Vietnam. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Cohn, R. McCarthy. (Ag '68)
 Cole, H. Christophe: king of Haiti. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Cole, M., ed. Fogie: the life of Elsie Fogerty C.B.E. (S '68)
 Collins, L. Or I'll dress you in mourning. (Ag '68)
 Collis, M. Raffles. (Ap '68)
 Connelly, M. Voices offstage. (D '68)
 Conrad, E. Billy Rose, Manhattan primitive. (Ap '68)
 Conroy, F. Stop-time. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Cox, E. L. Green Count of Savoy. (O '68)
 Craig, E. Gordon Craig. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Crocker, L. G. Jean-Jacques Rousseau, v 1. (D '68)
 Crofut, W. Troubadour. (Ag '68)
 Crompton, M. Shelley's dream women. (Mr '68)
 Crowe, C. George Ripley. (D '68)
 Crozier, B. Franco. (Je '68)
 Curran, C. P. James Joyce remembered. (Ag '68)
 Dana, R. H. Journal of Richard Henry Dana, 3v. (O '68)
 Darwin, C. R. Darwin and Henslow. (Ap '68)
 Davenport, M. Too strong for fantasy. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Davies, S. Reverend Samuel Davies abroad. (Ag '68)
 Davis, B. Billy Mitchell affair. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Davis, K. S. Politics of honor. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Davis, N. P. Lawrence and Oppenheimer. (N '68)
 Davis, T. John Nash, the Prince Regent's architect. (Mr '68)
 De Beer, G. Gibbon and his world. (Je '68)
 Dego, G. Moravia. (Ag '68)
 Delmar, V. Becker scandal. (Je '68)
 Demarquez, S. Manuel de Falla. (N '68)
 Dempsey, D. Triumphs and trials of Lotta Crabtree. (O '68)
 Descharnes, R. Auguste Rodin. (Ap '68)
 Dessain, C. S. John Henry Newman. (My '68)
 Destler, C. M. Roger Sherman and the independent oil men. (Je '68)
 Detzer, K. Myself when young. (Je '68)
 Dickens, H. Films of Marlene Dietrich. (D '68)
 Dickinson, D. C. Bio-bibliography of Langston Hughes, 1902-1967. (My '68)
 Dobie, J. F. Some part of myself. (Je '68)
 Dolin, A. Sleeping ballerina. (N '68)
 Donaldson, F. Evelyn Waugh. (My '68)
 Dooley, D. J. Art of Sinclair Lewis. (Je '68)
 Dorn, J. H. Washington Gladden. (Ag '68)
 Douglas of Kirtleside, S. Combat and command. (Mr '68)
 Dowson, E. Letters of Ernest Dowson. (S '68)
 Drost, W. H. David Snedden and education for social efficiency. (S '68)
 Drury, C. M. William Anderson Scott, "no ordinary man." (Ag '68)
 DuBois, W. E. B. Autobiography of W. E. B. DuBois. (My '68)
 Dugger, R. Dark star. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Dulles, J. W. F. Vargas of Brazil. (Mr '68)
 Dumas, E. R. Cagliostro. (My '68)
 Dunbar, J. Peg Woffington and her world. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Dupre, H. Two brothers in the French revolution: Robert and Thomas Lindet. (O '68)
 Durrell, J. Beasts in my bed. (Mr '68)
 Eckman, F. M. Furious passage of James Baldwin. (Mr '68)
 Ehrenburg, I. Post-war years, 1945-1954. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Ehrenpreis, I. Swift: the man, his works, and the age. v2. (Je '68)
 Elmerl, S. The world of Glotto. (Ap '68)
 Eisenhower, D. D. At ease: stories I tell to friends. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Eisner, J. M. William Morris Lelserson. (Ap '68)
 Emanuel, J. A. Langston Hughes. (Ap '68)
 Evers, Mrs Medgar. For us, the living. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Everson, W. K. Art of W. C. Fields. (Ap '68)
 Ewen, F. Bertolt Brecht: his life, his art, and his times. (Mr '68)
 Falkner, L. President who wouldn't retire. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Falkner, M. C. Falkners of Mississippi. (Mr '68)
 Farnsworth, B. William C. Bullitt and the Soviet Union. (Mr '68)
 Farrell, J. C. Beloved lady: a history of Jane Addams' ideas on reform and peace. (S '68)
 Farrington, B. What Darwin really said. (Ag '68)
 Fay, B. Louis XVI; or, The end of a world. (Ag '68)
 Fielding, D. Those remarkable Cunards. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Fischel, W. J. Ibn Khaldūn in Egypt. (My '68)
 Fisher, S. G. Philadelphia perspective. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Fletcher, W. C. Nikolai. (Ag '68)
 Flexner, J. T. George Washington: in the American Revolution (1775-1783). (Je '68)

Biography (Individual)—Continued

- Folejewski, Z. Maria Dąbrowska. (N '68)
 Ford, H., ed. Nancy Cunard: brave poet, indomitable rebel, 1896-1965. (N '68)
 Forester, C. S. Long before forty. (O '68)
 Foster, M. Joyce Cary. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Foulois, B. D. From the Wright brothers to the astronauts. (O '68)
 Frady, M. Wallace. (N '68)
 Franchère, G. Adventure at Astoria, 1810-1814. (Je '68)
 Frewin, L. Dietrich: the story of a star. (Mr '68)
 Friedlander, A. H. Leo Baeck. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Frisch, K. von. Biologist remembers. (My '68)
 Frischauer, W. Onassis. (S '68)
 Frye, R. M. Shakespeare's life and times. (Mr '68)
 Gallagher, J. P. Scarlet Pimpernel of the Vatican. (Je '68)
 Garden, E. Balakirev. (S '68)
 Garfield, J. A. Diary of James A. Garfield, v 1-2 [annot ed]. (Ap '68)
 Garrett, E. J. Many voices. (Ag '68)
 Gay, T. James W. Marshall: the discoverer of California gold. (S '68)
 Gerber, A. B. Bashful billionaire. (Ap '68)
 Gérin, W. Charlotte Brontë. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Ghosh, S. Gandhi's emissary. (S '68)
 Gibson, W. Mass for the dead. (Je '68)
 Gilbert, M. Winston Churchill. (N '68)
 Gilboa, Y. A. Confess! confess! (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Ginzburg, E. S. Journey into the whirlwind. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Gittings, R. John Keats. (O '68)
 Gittleman, E. Jones Very. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Glasfurd, A. Antipope (Peter de Luna, 1342-1423). (Ap '68)
 Gogol, N. Letters of Nikolai Gogol. (Ap '68)
 Gollancz, V. Reminiscences of affection. (D '68)
 Goran, M. Story of Fritz Haber. (My '68)
 Gottlieb, P. R. Nine lives of Billy Rose. (Ag '68)
 Gould, B. American story. (S '68)
 Granit, R. Charles Scott Sherrington. (Ag '68)
 Grant, D. Fortunate slave. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Grant, J. Ross, The New Yorker and me. (My '68)
 Grant, U. S. Papers of Ulysses S. Grant, v 1. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Greenbaum, E. S. Lawyer's job: in court, in the Army, in the office. (Ap '68)
 Gregory, J. Sam Houston with the Cherokees, 1829-1833. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Grimaldi, J. Memoirs of Joseph Grimaldi. (S '68)
 Grimm, C. Jolly Cholly's story: Baseball, I love you! (O '68)
 Grohmann, W. Paul Klee. (My '68)
 Gruen, J. Private world of Leonard Bernstein. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Guevara, E. Episodes of the revolutionary war. (O '68)
 Guevara, E. Reminiscences of the Cuban revolutionary war. (Je '68)
 Guevara, E. Venceremos! (Ag '68)
 Gunn, P. My dearest Augusta. (N '68)
 Guthrie, W. Bound for glory. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Gutman, R. W. Richard Wagner. (Je '68)
 Haas, J. Carl Sandburg. (Je '68)
 Haight, G. S. George Eliot. (D '68)
 Haldane, C. Queen of hearts. (O '68)
 Hamby, W. B. Ambroise Paré. (N '68)
 Hancock, W. K. Smuts, v2. (O '68)
 Hanson, L. Renoir: the man, the painter, and his world. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hanson, R. P. C. Saint Patrick. (Ag '68)
 Harding, J. Sacha Guitry: the last boulevardier. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hareven, T. K. Eleanor Roosevelt: an American conscience. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Harmon, R. L. Susanna, mother of the Weisleys. (Je '68)
 Harris, L. Only to God. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Harris, M. D. Always on Sunday. (O '68)
 Harris, T. G. Romney's way. (Ap '68)
 Hart, H. H. Marco Polo, Venetian adventurer [new ed]. (Ag '68)
 Havighurst, W. Alexander Spotswood. (Je '68)
 Hayes, H. On reflection. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hazlitt, M. Journal of Margaret Hazlitt. (N '68)
 Heinsheimer, H. W. Best regards to Aida. (D '68)
 Hemingway, E. By-line: Ernest Hemingway. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Henderson, P. William Morris. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Herzen, A. My past and thoughts, 4v. (S '68)
 Hess, G. R. Sam Higginbottom of Allahabad. (My '68)
 Hetherington, J. Melba. (Je '68)
 Hills, G. Franco: the man and his nation. (My '68)
 Hofer, P. Edward Lear as a landscape draughtsman. (Je '68)
 Hoffman, W. S. Loser. (Ag '68)
 Holloway, J. London childhood. (My '68)
 Holmes, K. L. Ewing Young: master trapper. (S '68)
 Holmes, P. Trials of Dr. Coppolino. (Ag '68)
 Holroyd, M. Lytton Strachey: a critical biography, 2v. (Je '68)
 Hooker, J. R. Black revolutionary. (Mr '68)
 Horizon magazine. Charlemagne. (Ag '68)
 Hosie, S. W. Anonymous apostle. (S '68)
 Howard, T. Christ the tiger. (Ap '68)
 Howell, R. Sir Philip Sidney. (N '68)
 Hoyt, E. P. Alexander Woolcott: the man who came to dinner. (O '68)
 Hsu, K.-Y. Chou En-lai: China's gray eminence. (My '68)
 Huntley, C. Generous years. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hutchison, H. F. King Henry V. (Mr '68)
 Huxley, E. Love among the daughters. (N '68)
 Huxley, G. Victorian duke. (My '68)
 Huxley, L. A. This timeless moment. (O '68)
 Hyde, H. M. Lord Reading. (Ag '68)
 Ignotus, P. Paradox of Maupassant. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Inouye, D. K. Journey to Washington. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Jacoby, A. Señor Kon-Tiki. (Mr '68)
 Jasper, R. C. D. George Bell, Bishop of Chester. (Ag '68)
 Jeffares, A. N. W. B. Yeats, man and poet. (Ag '68)
 Jeffs, R. Brendan Behan: man and showman. (Je '68)
 Jennings, D. Barbara Hutton. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Jewett, S. O. Letters [enl & rev ed]. (D '68)
 Johnson, A. Papers of Andrew Johnson, v 1. (Je '68)
 Johnson, C. W. Winthrop Murray Crane: a study in Republican leadership, 1892-1920. (O '68)
 Johnson, H. Fulbright: the dissenter. (O '68)
 Jones, C. W. Listen, pilgrim. (Je '68)
 Jones, E. S. Song of ascents. (O '68)
 Josephson, M. Infidel in the temple. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Jullian, P. Prince of aesthetes: Count Robert de Montesquiou, 1855-1921. (Ap '68)
 Kamehameha IV. Journal of Prince Alexander Liholiho. (O '68)
 Kazantzakis, H. Nikos Kazantzakis. (D '68)
 Kearney, J. R. Anna Eleanor Roosevelt. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Keller, M., comp. Theodore Roosevelt. (Ag '68)
 Kemp, S. Sir Francis Dashwood: an eighteenth century independent. (Mr '68)
 Kennan, G. F. Memoirs, 1925-1950. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Kennedy, M. Portrait of Elgar. (N '68)
 Kent, L. A. Mrs Appleyard and I. (O '68)
 Kohler, J. Luce: his Time, Life, and Fortune. (My '68)
 Kohner, F. Kiki of Montparnasse. (Mr '68)
 Kramer, J. Instant replay. (N '68)
 Krock, A. Memoirs. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Kuper, J. Child of the holocaust. (Ag '68)
 Labarge, M. W. Saint Louis: Louis IX, most Christian King of France. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Lacouture, J. Ho Chi Minh. (S '68)
 Lacy, C. Frank Mason North. (Ap '68)
 Laing, M. Next Kennedy. (Ap '68)
 Landström, B. Columbus. (Je '68)
 Lang, O. Pa Chin and his writings. (Je '68)
 Larson, A. Eisenhower: the President nobody knew. (D '68)
 Leary, T. High priest. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Lehmann, J. Nest of tigers. (N '68)
 Lehmann, R. Swan in the evening. (Je '68)
 Lerner, G. Grimbé sisters from South Carolina. (Ap '68)
 Levant, O. Unimportance of being Oscar. (O '68)
 Levy, W. T. Affectionately, T. S. Eliot. (N '68)
 Lewis, C. S. Letters to an American lady. (O '68)
 Lewis, W. M. One man's education. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Ley-Piscator, M. Piscator experiment. (Ag '68)

- Lincoln, E. Kennedy and Johnson. (My '68)
 Linderman, F. B. Montana adventure. (N '68)
 Link, A. S., ed. Woodrow Wilson. (N '68)
 Lipski, J. Diplomat in Berlin, 1933-1939. (Ag '68)
 Lister, F. C. Earl Morris & Southwestern archaeology. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Lockhart, R. B. Ace of spies. (Ap '68)
 Logan, D. Reluctant prophet. (O '68)
 Longaker, J. M. Ernest Dowson [3d ed]. (S '68)
 Lowell, R., ed. Randall Jarrell, 1914-1965. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Lutyens, M. Millais and the Ruskins. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Lynch, H. R. Edward Wilmot Blyden: Pan-Negro patriot, 1832-1912. (Ag '68)
 McAlmon, R. Being geniuses together, 1920-1930 [rev ed]. (Ag '68)
 McAvoy, T. T. Father O'Hara of Notre Dame, the cardinal-archbishop of Philadelphia. (N '68)
 McConkey, J. Crossroads. (Ap '68)
 McCoy, D. R. Landon of Kansas. (Mr '68)
 MacDiarmid, H. Company I've kept. (Je '68)
 McGill, F. T. Channing of Concord. (Je '68)
 McGovern, J. Martin Bormann. (O '68)
 Maciver, R. M. As a tale that is told. (Ag '68)
 Mackay, M. Violent friend. (Ag '68)
 Mackenzie, A. Exploring the Northwest territory. (Je '68)
 MacMaster, R. E. Danilevsky. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Macmillan, H. Blast of war, 1939-1945. (Mr '68)
 McMullin, E., ed. Galileo: man of science. (N '68)
 Maisky, I. Memoirs of a Soviet ambassador. (Ag '68)
 Malraux, A. Anti-memoirs. (D '68)
 Mangione, J. Passion for Sicilians. (D '68)
 Manvell, R. Ellen Terry. (Ag '68)
 Marichal, J. Pitcher's story. (Je '68)
 Marshall-Cornwall, J. Napoleon as military commander. (Ag '68)
 Massie, R. K. Nicholas and Alexandra. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Mayer, M. Emory Buckner. (Ag '68)
 Mayfield, S. Constant circle. (N '68)
 Mazo, E. Nixon. (O '68)
 Meacham, H. M. Caged panther. (Je '68)
 Menzies, R. G. Afternoon light. (Ag '68)
 Merle, R. Ahmed Ben Bella. (Ap '68)
 Meyer, H. N. Colonel of the black regiment. (My '68)
 Meyer, M. C. Mexican rebel. (Ap '68)
 Milukov, P. Political memoirs, 1905-1917. (Ag '68)
 Milosz, C. Native realm. (N '68)
 Mitford, N. Madame de Pompadour. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Montejo, E. Autobiography of a runaway slave. (N '68)
 Moody, R. Horse of a different color. (D '68)
 Moore, C. Silent star. (My '68)
 Moore, J. People on Second Street. (N '68)
 Moore, R. J. Sir Charles Wood's Indian policy, 1853-66. (Mr '68)
 Morison, S. E. "Old Bruin": Commodore Matthew C. Perry, 1794-1858. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Morris, W. North toward home. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Morrison, J. L. W. J. Cash: Southern prophet. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Moser, D. Pied piper of Tucson. (Mr '68)
 Moser, H. J. Heinrich Schütz. (Ap '68)
 Mowrer, E. A. Triumph and turmoil. (N '68)
 Mucha, J. Alphonse Mucha. (O '68)
 Muggerridge, K. Beatrice Webb. (Ag '68)
 Muller, H. J. Adlai Stevenson. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Munby, A. N. L. Portrait of an obsession. (My '68)
 Murray, D. Charles Percy of Illinois. (Je '68)
 Mwase, G. S. Strike a blow and die. (Ag '68)
 Myrdal, J. Confessions of a disloyal European. (Ag '68)
 Nagera, H. Vincent Van Gogh. (Je '68)
 Nash, G. D., ed. Franklin Delano Roosevelt. (Ag '68)
 Newton, I. At the piano—Ivor Newton. (D '68)
 Newton, I. Correspondence of Isaac Newton, v4. (Mr '68)
 Nichols, R. F. Historian's progress. (O '68)
 Nicolson, H. Diaries and letters; v3, The later years, 1945-1962. (S '68)
 Noguchi, I. Isamu Noguchi: a sculptor's world. (Ag '68)
 Norman, C. Case of Ezra Pound. (O '68)
 O'Connor, R. Ambrose Bierce. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 O'Connor, R. Lost revolutionary. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Odlinga, O. Not yet uhuru. (My '68)
 Oliver, A. Portraits of John and Abigail Adams. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Oman, C. Napoleon's viceroy. (D '68)
 Osborn, G. C. Woodrow Wilson. (N '68)
 Ouellette, F. Edgard Varèse. (O '68)
 Page, B. Philby conspiracy. (Ag '68)
 Painter, G. D. André Gide [rev & enl ed]. (Ag '68)
 Paoli, P. Determined to live. (O '68)
 Parmet, H. S. Aaron Burr. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Pasternak, B. Letters to Georgian friends. (Ag '68)
 Paul VI. Pope. Pope speaks. (Je '68)
 Payne, R. Marx. (Ag '68)
 Peabody, M. L. To be young was very heaven. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Pendleton, E. Letters and papers of Edmund Pendleton, 1734-1803, 2v. (Je '68)
 Penfield, W. Difficult art of giving. (Mr '68)
 Pernoud, R. Eleanor of Aquitaine. (Je '68)
 Petite, I. Life on tiger mountain. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Philby, K. My silent war. (Ag '68)
 Picon, G. Ingres. (My '68)
 Pocock, H. R. S. Conquest of Chile. (Je '68)
 Podhoretz, N. Making it. (Mr '68)
 Pommer, H. F. Emerson's first marriage. (Je '68)
 Pound, E. Pound/Joyce. (Mr '68)
 Pritchett, V. S. Cab at the door. (Je '68)
 Purcell, W. G. St Croix Trail country. (Ap '68)
 Quintana, R. Oliver Goldsmith. (Je '68)
 Randall, A. R. Sixty years a Fenman. (Ap '68)
 Read, D. Cobden and Bright. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Ready, W. Tolkien relation. (D '68)
 Reck, M. Ezra Pound. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Reich, W. Reich speaks out on Freud. (Je '68)
 Reid, B. L. Man from New York. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Reid, J. M. Traveller extraordinary. (O '68)
 Reinhold, H. A. H. A. R. the autobiography of Father Reinhold. (Ap '68)
 Restif de la Bretonne, N. E. Monsieur Nicolas. (Mr '68)
 Rickards, C. Man from Devil's Island. (D '68)
 Ridley, J. John Knox. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Ridolfi, R. Life of Francesco Guicciardini. (O '68)
 Rigby, T. H., ed. Stalin. (Ap '68)
 Robinson, F. My life is baseball. (Ag '68)
 Rojo, R. My friend Ché. (D '68)
 Romilly, J. Romilly's Cambridge diary, 1832-42. (My '68)
 Roosevelt, F. D. Roosevelt and Frankfurter. (Mr '68)
 Rorem, N. Music and people. (D '68)
 Rose, A. Memoirs of a heterosexual. (My '68)
 Roskolenko, H. Terrorized. (D '68)
 Ross, W. S. Last hero: Charles A. Lindbergh. (My '68)
 Roy, J. Trial of Marshal Pétain. (My '68)
 Russ, M. Happy hunting ground. (Je '68)
 Russell, B. Autobiography of Bertrand Russell, 1872-1914. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Russell, B. Autobiography of Bertrand Russell, 1914-1944, v2. (Ag '68)
 Russell, J. Max Ernst: life and work. (Je '68)
 Ryskind, A. H. Hubert. (O '68)
 St Clair, W. Lord Elgin and the marbles. (My '68)
 Sampson, A. Macmillan. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Sandburg, C. Letters of Carl Sandburg. (D '68)
 Sandulescu, J. Donbas. (Je '68)
 Sarton, M. Plant dreaming deep. (Ap '68)
 Sassoon, V. Sorry I kept you waiting, madam. (Ag '68)
 Scarisbrick, J. J. Henry VIII. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Schaap, D. R. F. K. (My '68)
 Schaffner, N. E. Fabulous Toby and me. (Ag '68)
 Schapiro, L. Lenin: the man, the theorist, the leader. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Schickel, R. Disney version. (Ag '68)
 Schisgall, O. Magic of mergers. (Ag '68)
 Schmied, W. Tobey. (Ap '68)
 Schneiderman, R. All for one. (Ag '68)
 Seager, A. Glass house. (D '68)
 Seroff, V. Sergei Prokofiev: a Soviet tragedy. (O '68)
 Seton, J. M. By a thousand fires. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Seton, M. Panditji. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Sewell, W. G. I stayed in China. (Ag '68)

Biography (Individual)—Continued

- Shannon, W. V. Heir apparent. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Shaw, A. Sinatra. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Sheaffer, L. O'Neill: son and playwright. (D '68)
- Sheldon, E. K. Thomas Sheridan of Smock-Alley. (Mr '68)
- Sherbo, A. Christopher Smart, scholar of the university. (Mr '68)
- Sherrill, R. Drugstore liberal. (O '68)
- Shulman, I. Valentino. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Sidey, H. Very personal presidency. (O '68)
- Silone, I. Emergency exit. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Silverberg, R. Light for the world. (My '68)
- Simon, E. Luther alive. (Ag '68)
- Slattery, T. P. Assassination of D'Arcy McGee. (O '68)
- Smith, E. E. Young Stalin. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Solmi, A. Fellini. (D '68)
- Sparrow, J. Mark Pattison and the idea of a university. (O '68)
- Speaight, K. Life of Teilhard de Chardin. (My '68)
- Spears, E. Picnic basket. (O '68)
- Sprague, R. George Elliot. (Ag '68)
- Sprigge, E. Jean Cocteau: the man and the mirror. (Je '68)
- Stallman, R. W. Stephen Crane. (O '68)
- Starkie, E. Flaubert: the making of the master. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Staudé, J. K. Max Scheler, 1874-1928. (My '68)
- Steinberg, A. Sam Johnson's boy. (O '68)
- Stern, M. B. Pantarch. (D '68)
- Stout, W. Autobiography of William Stout of Lancaster, 1665-1752. (Ap '68)
- Strauss, R. Richard Strauss & Romain Rolland: correspondence. (D '68)
- Stroud, D. Henry Holland. (Mr '68)
- Stuckenschmidt, H. H. Maurice Ravel. (Ag '68)
- Sturt, G. Journals of George Sturt, 1890-1927, 2v. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Symonds, J. A. Letters of John Addington Symonds, v 1. (My '68)
- Teilhard de Chardin, P. Letters to two friends, 1926-1952. (Ag '68)
- Thomas, G. Few selected exits. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Thomas, J. L., ed. John C. Calhoun. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Thomas, L. First President Johnson. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Thompson, R. W. Churchill and the Montgomery myth. (Ag '68)
- Thoms, H. Jared Eliot, minister, doctor, scientist, and his Connecticut. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Timoshenko, S. P. As I remember. (Ag '68)
- Tomkins, C. Eric Hoffer. (D '68)
- Torres, C. Camilo Torres: his life and his message. (D '68)
- Trattner, W. I. Homer Folks, pioneer in social welfare. (S '68)
- Trotsky, L. Stalin [new ed.]. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Troyat, H. Tolstoy. (Ap '68)
- Tugwell, R. G. Grover Cleveland. (Ag '68)
- Turnbull, A. Thomas Wolfe. (Ap '68)
- Twain, M. Selected Mark Twain-Howells letters, 1872-1910. (Mr '68)
- Twiggy, Twiggy. (D '68)
- Tyack, D. B. George Ticknor and the Boston Brahmins. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Tyden-Wright, D. Anatole France. (Mr '68)
- Ullman, J. R. Straight up. (O '68)
- Uriel Acosta: A specimen of human life. (N '68)
- Valentine, A. Lord North, 2v. (Je '68)
- Van Deusen, G. G. William Henry Seward. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Vandevort, E. Leopard tamed. (Ag '68)
- Van Voris, J. Constance de Markievicz in the cause of Ireland. (Mr '68)
- Vergara, J. Love and pasta. (O '68)
- Vickery, W. N. Pushkin: death of a poet. (D '68)
- Von Kármán, T. Wind and beyond. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Wagenknecht, E. John Greenleaf Whittier. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Wagenknecht, E. Mark Twain [3d ed.]. (Ap '68)
- Wagenknecht, E. Personality of Chaucer. (O '68)
- Wagner, H. R. Life and writings of Bartolomé de las Casas. (Ap '68)
- Waife-Goldberg, M. My father, Sholom Aleichem. (My '68)
- Walker, F. Hugo Wolf [2d enl ed.]. (D '68)
- Walpole, H. Horace Walpole's correspondence with Sir Horace Mann, v7-8. (Je '68)
- Walsh, J. Strange harp, strange symphony. (Ap '68)
- Walton, R. J. Remnants of power. (D '68)
- Ward, M. Robert Browning and his world, v 1. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Warner, S. T. T. H. White. (Je '68)
- Warrack, J. Carl Maria von Weber. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Waterfield, G. Layard of Nineveh. (Ag '68)
- Watkinson, R. William Morris as designer. (Mr '68)
- Watson, J. D. Double helix. (My '68)
- Waugh, A. My brother Evelyn, and other portraits. (Mr '68)
- Weaver, J. D. Warren: the man, the court, the era. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Webb, C. Richard Wright: a biography. (My '68)
- Wedgwood, C. V. World of Rubens, 1577-1640. (Ap '68)
- Weiner, D. B. Raspail: scientist and reformer. (N '68)
- Weinstock, H. Rossini. (Ap '68)
- Weybright, V. Making of a publisher. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- White, T. H. White/Garnett letters. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Whiteside, T. Twiggy and Justin. (Ag '68)
- Whittemore, L. H. Man who ran the subways. (O '68)
- Williams, N. Elizabeth the first, queen of England. (Je '68)
- Wills, G. Jack Ruby. (Ap '68)
- Wilson, F. M. Rebel daughter of a country house. (N '68)
- Wilson, W. Papers of Woodrow Wilson, v3. (Je '68)
- Wolf, J. B. Louis XIV. (My '68)
- Wolfe, B. D. Bridge and the abyss. (Mr '68)
- Wraith, R. E. Guggisberg. (Ap '68)
- Wright, J. L. William Augustus Bowles. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Wurmbrand, R. Christ in the communist prisons. (My '68)
- Yastrzemski, C. Yaz. (Ag '68)
- Zahniser, M. R. Charles Cotesworth Pinckney, founding father. (O '68)
- Zimmerman, F. B. Henry Purcell, 1659-1695. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Zolbrod, L. M. Takizawa Bakin. (N '68)
- Zorach, W. Art is my life. (S '68)

Juvenile literature

- Abodaher, D. J. Warrior on two continents, Thaddeus Kosciuszko. (S '68)
- Apsler, A. Iron chancellor: Otto von Bismarck. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Archer, J. Science explorer. (Ag '68)
- Archer, J. World citizen: Woodrow Wilson. (Mr '68)
- Bailey, R. E. Fight for Royal Gorge. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Bayne-Jardine, C. C. Mussolini and Italy. (Ag '68)
- Bishop, C. H. Mozart. (Ag '68)
- Cheney, C. Incredible Deborah. (My '68)
- Colman, H. Career in medical research. (S '68)
- Columbia broadcasting system, incorporated, CBS news, Lenin and Trotsky. (Ag '68)
- Coolidge, O. George Bernard Shaw. (S '68)
- Crane, W. D. Andrew Johnson: tailor from Tennessee. (My '68)
- Crawford, D. King's astronomer: William Herschel. (Ag '68)
- Desmond, A. C. Marie Antoinette's daughter. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Dolan, E. F. William Crawford Gorgas: warrior in white. (Ag '68)
- Douty, E. M. Forten the sailmaker. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Esterer, A. K. Discoverer of X ray, Wilhelm Conrad Röntgen. (O '68)
- Fleming, T. J. First in their hearts. (Ag '68)
- Foster, J. Napoleon's marshal. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Freedman, R. Scouting with Baden-Powell. (Ap '68)
- Gimpel, H. J. Napoleon. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Grant, M. P. Alice Hamilton: pioneer doctor in industrial medicine. (Je '68)
- Greenfeld, H. Marc Chagall. (My '68)
- Hardwick, R. Charles Richard Drew. (Ap '68)
- Harrison, W. C. Dr William Harvey and the discovery of circulation. (Mr '68)
- Hautzig, E. Endless steppe. (Ag '68)
- Horizon magazine, Charles Darwin and The origin of species. (Ag '68)
- Household, G. Prisoner of the Indies. (Ag '68)
- Hoyt, E. P. Leland Stanford. (Ag '68)
- Israel, C. E. Five ships West. (Mr '68)
- Joseph, J. Peter the Great. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Kelen, B. Gautama Buddha in life and legend. (Mr '68)
- King, M. Mary Baker Eddy: child of promise. (N '68)
- Kyle, E. Great ambitions. (Je '68)
- Levine, I. E. Oliver Cromwell. (Mr '68)
- Lomask, M. Beauty and the traitor. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Manley, S. My heart's in the heather. (Ag '68)
- Meigs, C. Invincible Louisa [Alcott centennial ed]. (D '68)
- Meltzer, M. Langston Hughes. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Meyer, E. P. That remarkable man: Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. (Mr '68)
- Miers, E. S. That Lincoln boy. (Ag '68)
- Miner, L. S. Industrial genius: Samuel Slater. (Je '68)
- Myers, E. P. Angel of Appalachia: Martha Berry. (Je '68)
- Orrmont, A. Diplomat in warpaint: Chief Alexander McGillivray of the Creeks. (Je '68)
- Peters, R. Debut at the Met. (Mr '68)
- Place, M. T. Frontiersman. (Mr '68)
- Raboff, E. Paul Klee. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Ripley, E. Copley. (Mr '68)
- Ripley, E. Hokusai. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Rockwell, A. Glass, stones & crown. (Ag '68)
- Rothkopf, C. Z. Leo Tolstoy. (Ag '68)
- Sadie, S. Beethoven. (Mr '68)
- Schultz, P. H. Sir Walter Scott: wizard of the North. (Je '68)
- Severn, B. Mr Chief Justice: Earl Warren. (N '68)
- Smaridge, N. Master mariner. (Mr '68)
- Smith, F. S. Stanley, African explorer. (Ag '68)
- Spencer, C. Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Chinese Republic. (Mr '68)
- Stoutenburg, A. Listen America. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Styles, S. Mallory of Everest. (D '68)
- Syme, R. Captain John Paul Jones. (Ag '68)
- Syme, R. Garibaldi. (Je '68)
- Tarshis, J. Claude Bernard. (D '68)
- Webb, R. N. Hannibal. (Ag '68)
- Werstein, I. I accuse. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Williams, F. L. Plantation patriot. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Wise, W. E. Fanny Kemble: actress, author, abolitionist. (Mr '68)
- Wise, W. E. Fray Junipero Serra and the California conquest. (Ap '68)
- Wood, J. P. Mr Jonathan Edwards. (N '68)
- Wood, J. P. Spunkwater, spunkwater! (O '68)
- Wood, J. P. Sunnyside. (My '68)
- Young, B. Simón Bolívar. (S '68)
- Young, P. M. Britten. (Ag '68)
- Biography (Collective)
- Adams, M. S. Six to break even. (Ap '68)
- Albertson, C., ed. & tr. Anglo-Saxon saints and heroes. (Ap '68)
- Anderson, P. Presidents' men. (D '68)
- Arendt, H. Men in dark times. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Australian dictionary of biography, v2. (Ag '68)
- Basset, B. English Jesuits: from Campion to Martindale. (D '68)
- Biographical dictionary of republican China, v 1. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Biographical dictionary of republican China, v2. (N '68)
- Birmingham, S. "Our crowd." (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Blackwood, J. H. House on College avenue. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Brown, P. Chathamites. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Burton, H., ed. Great acting. (S '68)
- Canning, J., ed. 100 great kings, queens and rulers of the world. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Cannon, P. Presidents' cookbook. (Ag '68)
- Cirker, H., ed. Dictionary of American portraits. (Ag '68)
- Clark, R. W. Huxleys. (Ag '68)
- Claypoole, J. Letter book: London and Philadelphia, 1681-1684. (Ag '68)
- Cocteau, J. My contemporaries. (N '68)
- Cookridge, E. H. From Battenberg to Mountbatten. (Ap '68)
- Croft-Cooke, R. Feasting with panthers. (Je '68)
- David, J., ed. Growing up black. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Davies, H. Beetles: the authorized biography. (D '68)
- Faber, D. Mothers of American Presidents. (N '68)
- Falconi, C. Popes in the twentieth century. (Je '68)
- Fast, J. Beetles. (N '68)
- Freeman, T. W. Geographer's craft. (Ag '68)
- Fremantle, A. Pilgrimage to people. (Ap '68)
- Gauld, A. Founders of psychical research. (D '68)
- Gruen, J. Close-up. (Ag '68)
- Hofstadter, R. Progressive historians. (D '68)
- Jackson, S. Sassoons. (Ag '68)
- Kedourie, E. Afghani and 'Abduh. (Ag '68)
- Knepler, H. Gilded stage. (D '68)
- Lafin, J. Women in battle. (O '68)
- Launay, A. J., comp. Dictionary of contemporaries. (D '68)
- Lehane, B. Quest of three abbots. (Ag '68)
- Lunacharsky, A. V. Revolutionary silhouettes. (D '68)
- Manchester, W. Arms of Krupp, 1587-1968. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Marples, M. Romantics at school. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Mayo, C. W. Mayo: the story of my family and my career. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Mitchell, D. Fighting Pankhursts. (Mr '68)
- Paulson, R. E. Radicalism & reform. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Pedley, A., comp. They looked like this (Europe). (Ag '68)
- Pochmann, R. F. Triple Ridge Farm. (Je '68)
- Poole, L. Men who dig up history. (Ag '68)
- Rice, T. T. Czars and czarinas of Russia. (O '68)
- Richardson, R. S. Star lovers. (Ap '68)
- Rogers, W. G. Ladies bountiful. (My '68)
- Sauter, V. G. Nightmare in Detroit. (N '68)
- Schonberg, H. C. Great conductors. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Snellgrove, D. L., ed. & tr. Four lamas of Dolpo, v 1. (My '68)
- Stein, M. L. Under fire. (Ag '68)
- Weiss, P., comp. & ed. Letters of composers through six centuries. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Who's who in consulting. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Wolfenstein, E. V. Revolutionary personality. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Juvenile literature
- Archer, J. Dictators. (Ag '68)
- Archer, J. Unpopular ones. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Berry, E. Men who changed the map, A.D. 400 to 1914. (N '68)
- Briggs, P. Men in the sea. (N '68)
- Churchill, W. Heroes of history. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Cottrell, L. Great leaders of Greece and Rome. (My '68)
- Lunsheath, P. Giants of electricity. (My '68)
- Fisher, A. We Alcotts. (D '68)
- Fox, L. Little men in sports. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Friedman, R. Freedom builders. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Gaddis, V. H. Wide world of magic. (My '68)
- Heuman, W. Famous coaches. (Ag '68)
- Johnston, J. Special bravery. (Mr '68)
- Jones, G. Where the wind blew free. (Je '68)
- Lamb, B. P. Nehrus of India. (My '68)
- McGiffin, L. Yankee Doodle dandies. (Ap '68)
- Pickering, J. S. Famous astronomers. (Je '68)
- Posell, E. Z. Russian composers. (Ag '68)
- Rich, J. Women behind men of medicine. (Mr '68)
- Rosenbaum, R. A., ed. Best book of true aviation stories. (Je '68)
- Selvin, D. F. Champions of labor. (Je '68)
- Sterne, E. G. They took their stand. (Ag '68)
- Biography of Thomas Wolfe. Austin, N. F. (S '68)
- Biological clocks and patterns. Moore, S. (D '68)
- Biological control systems
- Kalmus, H., ed. Regulation and control in living systems. (O '68)
- Biological time bomb. Taylor, G. R. (N '68)
- Biological warfare
- Clarke, R. Silent weapons. (Ag '68)
- Hersh, S. M. Chemical and biological warfare. (Ag '68)
- Biologist remembers. Frisch, K. von. (My '68)
- Biology
- Pagel, W. William Harvey's biological ideas. (Ag '68)
- Dictionaries
- Gray, P. Dictionary of the biological sciences. (Ap '68)
- History
- Gasking, E. B. Investigations into generation, 1651-1828. (N '68)
- Mazzeo, J. A. Design of life. (My '68)
- Periodicity
- Moore, S. Biological clocks and patterns. (D '68)

Biology—Continued

Research

- Taylor, G. R. Biological time bomb. (N '68)
 Biology of the striped skunk. Verts, B. J. (N '68)
 Bio-medical telemetry. Mackay, R. S. (N '68)

Birds

- Hanzák, J. Pictorial encyclopedia of birds. (Ag '68)
 Rand, A. L. Ornithology. (Ap '68)
 Terres, J. K. Flashing wings: the drama of bird flight. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

- Cromer, R. Miracle of flight. (D '68)

Migration

- Eastwood, E. Radar ornithology. (Ag '68)

Pictures, illustrations, etc.

- Gould, J. Birds of Australia, 2v in 1. (Mr '68)
 Hanzák, J. Pictorial encyclopedia of birds. (Ag '68)

Protection

- McMillan, I. Man and the California condor. (O '68)

Stories

- Wezel, P. Naughty bird. (Mr '68)

Antarctic regions

- Wilson, E. Edward Wilson's Birds of the Antarctic. (Je '68)

Australia

- Gould, J. Birds of Australia, 2v in 1. (Mr '68)
 Hill, R. Australian birds. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

New Zealand

- Buller, W. L. Buller's birds of New Zealand. (Mr '68)

Ontario

- Lawrence, L. de K. Lovely and the wild. (Ag '68)

Vietnam

- Wildash, P. Birds of South Vietnam. (O '68)
 Birds of Australia, 2v in 1. Gould, J. (Mr '68)
 Birds of Britain. Green, J. d. (Mr '68)
 Birds of New Zealand. Buller's. Buller, W. L. (Mr '68)
 Birds of South Vietnam. Wildash, P. (O '68)
 Birds of the Antarctic. Edward Wilson's. Wilson, E. (Je '68)

Birmingham, England

Social conditions

- Rex, J. Race, community and conflict. (Mr '68)

Birth control

- Ekner, G. Contraception vs. tradition. (Ap '68)
 Birth of our power. Serge, V. (Ag '68)
 Birth of the nation. Schlesinger, A. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual) Birthday for Frances. Hoban, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Bishop, Elizabeth

- Stevenson, A. Elizabeth Bishop. (Ag '68)
 Bishops of Bath and Wells, 1540-1640. Hembry, P. M. (Ap '68)

Bismarck, Otto, Fürst von

Juvenile literature

- Apsler, A. Iron chancellor: Otto von Bismarck. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Bisno, Abraham

- Bisno, A. Abraham Bisno, union pioneer. (S '68)

Bitter and the sweet. Olbracht, I. (Ap '68)

Bitter greetings. Carper, J. (Ap '68)

Black, Hugo Lafayette

- Hugo Black and the Supreme court. (Ag '68)
 Black Chicago. Spear, A. H. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Black expatriates. Dunbar, E. ed. (Ap '68)

- Black fire. Jones, L. ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Black flag of anarchy. Jacker, C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Black flags in Vietnam. McAleavy, H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Black history: a reappraisal. Drimmer, M., ed. (D '68)

Black Jack. McClung, R. M. (My '68)

Black magic. Hughes, L. (Ap '68)

Black music. Jones, L. (My '68)

Black Muslims

- Breitman, G. Last year of Malcolm X. (Mr '68)

Black on black. Adoff, A. ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Black power. Carmichael, S. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Black power and white Protestants. Hough, J. C. (Ag '68)

Black power U.S.A. Bennett, J. (Ag '68)

Black rage. Grier, W. H. (D '68)

Black revolutionary. Hooker, J. R. (Mr '68)

Black skin, white masks. Fanon, F. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Black snow. Bulgakov, M. (Je '68)

Black war. Turnbull, C. (Mr '68)

Blacking factory &amp; Pennsylvania gothic. Sheed, W. (N '68)

Blackmail machine. Holman, F. (D '68)

Blade of light. Carpenter, D. (Ap '68)

Blair, Eric. See Orwell, G.

Blake, William

Altizer, T. J. J. New apocalypse: the radical Christian vision of William Blake. (Ap '68)

Beer, J. Blake's humanism. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Concordances

- Erdman, D. V., ed. Concordance to the writings of William Blake, 2v. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Blake's humanism. Beer, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Blast of war. 1939-1945. Macmillan, H. (Mr '68)

Blessed McGill. Shrake, E. (Ag '68)

Blockade-runners. Horner, D. (Ag '68)

Blood

Vroman, L. Blood. (Ap '68)

Circulation

Juvenile literature

- Harrison, W. C. Dr William Harvey and the discovery of circulation. (Mr '68)

Blood sport. Francis, D. (My '68)

Bloodline. Gaines, E. J. (N '68)

Bloomsday book. Blamires, H. (Ag '68)

Blue estuaries. Bogan, L. (D '68)

Blue flowers. Queneau, R. (My '68)

Blue Juniata: collected poems. Cowley, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Blue swallows. Nemerov, H. (Ap '68)

Blyden, Edward Wilmot

Lynch, H. R. Edward Wilmot Blyden: Pan-Negro patriot, 1832-1912. (Ag '68)

B'nai b'rith

Bisgyer, M. Challenge and encounter. (N '68)

Boats and boating

History

Juvenile literature

- Carse, R. Early American boats. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

Weiss, H. Sailing small boats. (Je '68)

Bobby Kennedy and the new politics. Kimball, P. (Ag '68)

Bodkin, Midwood, B. (Je '68)

Body. Benedikt, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Body. Smith, A. (D '68)

Body fluids

Juvenile literature

Brooks, S. M. Sea inside us: water in the life processes. (N '68)

Body rags. Kinnell, G. (Ap '68)

Boer War, 1880-1881. See Transvaal—History —War of 1880-1881

Bogey man. Plimpton, G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Bolívar, Simón

Juvenile literature

Young, B. Simón Bolívar. (S '68)

Bolivia

History

Guevara, E. Complete Bolivian diaries of Ché Guevara. (N '68)

Boll weevil. Boll weevil (folk song). (My '68)

Bolshevik revolution. Foner, P. S. (Ag '68)

Bon voyage. Coward, N. (O '68)

Bond. Borel, J. (N '68)

Bonds

Malkiel, B. G. Term structure of interest rates. (Mr '68)

Bone for bone. Cosgrove, M. (D '68)

Bonhoeffer, Dietrich

Kuhns, W. In pursuit of Dietrich Bonhoeffer. (Ap '68)

Moltmann, J. Two studies in the theology of Bonhoeffer. (Ag '68)

Book &amp; a love affair. Bevington, H. (N '68)

Book collecting

Munby, A. N. L. Portrait of an obsession. (My '68)

Book design

Wilson, A. Design of books. (Ag '68)

Book industries and trade

Wilson, A. Design of books. (Ag '68)

Book of Christmas. Sansom, W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Book of common prayer*History

Kemp, S. Sir Francis Dashwood: an eighteenth century independent. (Mr '68)

Book of days. Malcolm Boyd. Boyd, M. (S '68)

Book of masques. (Ag '68)

Book of mermaids. Manning-Sanders, R. (Ag '68)

Book of model beauty. Eileen Ford's. Ford, E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Book of peace. Goudge, E. (O '68)

Book of pearls. Dickinson, J. Y. (N '68)

Book of survival. Greenbank, A. (My '68)

Book of the Continental soldier. Peterson, H. L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Book of the giraffe. Spinage, C. A. (O '68)

Book of wizards. Manning-Sanders, R. (Mr '68)

Book reviews

Curley, D. N., comp. Modern Romance literatures. (Ap '68)

Darling, R. L. Rise of children's book reviewing in America, 1865-1881. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Bookman's progress. Powell, L. C. (N '68)

Bookmobiles

Brown, E. F. Bookmobiles and bookmobile service. (Mr '68)

Bookmobiles and bookmobile service. Brown, E. F. (Mr '68)

Books

Cunha, G. D. M. Conservation of library materials. (O '68)

Juvenile literature

Bartlett, S. Books: a book to begin on. (Je '68)

Books: a book to begin on. Bartlett, S. (Je '68)

Books and reading

Carlson, W. H. In a grand and awful time. (N '68)

Fader, D. N. Hooked on books: program & proof [new ed.]. (D '68)

Powell, L. C. Bookman's progress. (N '68)

Best books

Hackett, A. P. 70 years of best sellers, 1895-1965. (Ap '68)

Borden, Lizzie Andrew

De Mille, A. Lizzie Borden. (Ag '68)

Bormann, Martin

McGovern, J. Martin Bormann. (O '68)

Born female. Bird, C. (O '68)

Born in Tibet. Chögyam Trungpa. (Ag '68)

Bosco, Glanna

Machol, L. Glanna. (Mr '68)

Boston*Historic houses, etc.

Bunting, B. Houses of Boston's Back Bay. (Ag '68)

Intellectual life

Tyack, D. B. George Ticknor and the Boston Brahmins. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Police

Lane, R. Policing the city, Boston, 1822-1885. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Poor

Pavenstedt, E., ed. Drifters. (N '68)

Public schools

Kozol, J. Death at an early age. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Social life and customs

Peabody, M. L. To be young was very heaven. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Boston. Baseball club (American League)

McSweeney, B. Impossible dream. (O '68)

Yastrzemski, C. Yaz. (Ag '68)

Boston and Albany Railroad

Salsbury, S. State, the investor, and the railroad. (Ag '68)

Boston capitalists and Western railroads. Johnson, A. M. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Botany

Dostál, R. On integration in plants. (Ag '68)

Experiments*Juvenile literature

Stone, A. H. Plants are like that. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

Klein, R. M. Discovering plants. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Rocky Mountain region

Harrington, H. D. Edible native plants of the Rocky Mountains. (S '68)

Russia

Shetler, S. G. Komarov botanical institute. (N '68)

Seychelles

Sauer, J. D. Plants and man on the Seychelles coast. (Ap '68)

Botswana*History

Stevens, R. P. Lesotho, Botswana, & Swaziland. (Je '68)

Bound for glory. Guthrie, W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Bounties

Baker, L. Guaranteed society. (N '68)

Bourgeois, Groethuysen, B. (Ap '68)

Boveri, Theodor

Baltzer, F. Theodor Boveri. (Ag '68)

Bowles, William Augustus

Wright, J. L. William Augustus Bowles. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Bowmanville break. Shelley, S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Bowra, Sir Cecil Maurice

Bowra, C. M. Memories, 1898-1939. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Boxers

Lensen, G. A. Russo-Chinese War. (Ag '68)

Boy Scouts*Juvenile literature

Freedman, R. Scouting with Baden-Powell. (Ap '68)

Boy who could make himself disappear. Platt, K. (D '68)

Boy who could sing pictures. Leichman, S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Boyle, Kay

McAlmon, R. Being geniuses together, 1920-1930 [rev ed.]. (Ag '68)

Boys and sex. Pomeroy, W. B. (Ag '68)

Brady, Ian

Williams, E. Beyond belief. (Ap '68)

Brain

Konorski, J. Integrative activity of the brain. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Neurosciences: a study program [2d ed.]. (D '68)

Diseases*See also*Apoplexy

Brain drain. Adams, W., ed. (O '68)

Brain-injured child in home, school, and community. Cruickshank, W. M. (Mr '68)

Brains Trust. Tugwell, R. G. (O '68)

Brancusi, Constantin

Geist, S. Brancusi. (N '68)

Brasses

Bouquet, A. C. European brasses. (Je '68)

Brata, Sasthi

Brata, S. My God died young. (D '68)

Brave Japanese. Harrison, K. (Ag '68)

Brave little goat of Monsieur Séguin. Daudet, A. (S '68)

Brave soldier Janosh. Ambrus, V. G. (Mr '68)

Bravo Stravinsky. Craft, R. (Ap '68)

Brazil*Economic conditions

Prado, C. Colonial background of modern Brazil. (My '68)

Economic policy

Daland, R. T. Brazilian planning. (Je '68)

History

Burns, E. B., ed. Perspectives on Brazilian history. (Je '68)

Poppino, R. E. Brazil. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Prado, C. Colonial background of modern Brazil. (My '68)

Young, J. M. Brazilian revolution of 1930 and the aftermath. (Ap '68)

Politics and government

Daland, R. T. Brazilian planning. (Je '68)

Dulles, J. W. F. Vargas of Brazil. (Mr '68)

Skidmore, T. E. Politics in Brazil, 1930-1964. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Young, J. M. Brazilian revolution of 1930 and the aftermath. (Ap '68)

Brazil—Continued

Social conditions

- Prado, C. Colonial background of modern Brazil. (My '68)
 Willems, E. Followers of the new faith. (Je '68)
 Brazil, Poppino, R. E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Brazilian planning. Daland, R. T. (Je '68)
 Brazilian revolution of 1930 and the aftermath. Young, J. M. (Ap '68)
 Brazilian poetry

History and criticism

- Nist, J. Modernist movement in Brazil. (Ap '68)
 Bread—and roses. Meltzer, M. (Ap '68)
 Breakthrough in Burma. Ba Maw. (Ag '68)
 Brecht, Bertolt
 Ewen, F. Bertolt Brecht: his life, his art, and his times. (Mr '68)
 Brendan, Saint
 Lehane, B. Quest of three abbots. (Ag '68)
 Brer Rabbit and his tricks. Rees, E. (Ag '68)
 Brian Wildsmith's fishes. Wildsmith, B. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Brian Wildsmith's Wild animals. Wildsmith, B. (My '68)
 Bridge and the abyss. Wolfe, B. D. (Mr '68)
 Bridges

Juvenile literature

- Gramet, C. Highways across waterways. (My '68)
 Brief against death. Smith, E. (N '68)
 Bright, John
 Read, D. Cobden and Bright. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Bring larks and heroes. Keneally, T. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Britain and Australia, 1831-1855. Burroughs, P. (O '68)
 Britain and Germany in Africa: imperial rivalry and colonial rule. Gifford, P., ed. (Ag '68)
 Britain and the balance of power in North America, 1815-1908. Bourne, K. (S '68)
 Britain and the rise of Communist China. Porter, B. (Ap '68)
 Britain and the Russian Civil War; v2 of Anglo-Soviet relations, 1917-1921. Ullman, R. H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Britain in the century of total war: war, peace and social change, 1900-1967. Marwick, A. (O '68)
 Britain since 1918. Gilbert, B. B. (D '68)
 Britain's economic prospects. Caves, R. E. (D '68)
 British architecture and its background. Nellist, J. B. (My '68)
 British Baptist missionaries in India, 1793-1837. Potts, E. D. (N '68)
 British broadcasting and the Danish resistance movement, 1940-1945. Bennett, J. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 British Broadcasting Corporation
 Bennett, J. British broadcasting and the Danish resistance movement, 1940-1945. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 British Columbia

Description and travel

- Leslie, R. F. Bears and I. (O '68)
 British empire before the American revolution, v13. Gipson, L. H. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 British Honduras

History

- Clegern, W. M. British Honduras. (Ap '68)
 British Honduras. Clegern, W. M. (Ap '68)
 British in Africa
 Gifford, P., ed. Britain and Germany in Africa: imperial rivalry and colonial rule. (Ag '68)
 British in France
 Pakenham, S. Sixty miles from England. (Mr '68)
 British in India
 Hutchins, F. G. Illusion of permanence. (Je '68)
 British India, 1772-1947. Edwardes, M. (Ag '68)
 British military swords. Latham, J. W. (Mr '68)
 British patent system, v 1. Boehm, K. (Ap '68)
 British policy in the Far East, 1937-1941. Eng title of: Retreat from China. Clifford, N. R. (Ag '68)
 British politics in the age of Anne. Holmes, G. (My '68)
 Britten, Benjamin

Juvenile literature

- Young, P. M. Britten. (Ag '68)

Broken seal. Farago, L. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Brontë, Anne
 Craik, W. A. Brontë novels. (D '68)
 Brontë, Charlotte
 Craik, W. A. Brontë novels. (D '68)
 Gérin, W. Charlotte Brontë. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Brontë, Emily Jane
 Craik, W. A. Brontë novels. (D '68)
 Brontë novels. Craik, W. A. (D '68)

Bronzes
 Munsterberg, H. Chinese Buddhist bronzes. (Mr '68)
 Pope-Hennessy, J. Essays on Italian sculpture. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Brooke, Rupert
 Brooke, R. Letters of Rupert Brooke. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Brooks Robinson story. Zanger, J. (Mr '68)
 Brother of the hero. Kassil, L. (O '68)

Brown, Andrew
 Moore, J. H. Andrew Brown and cypress lumbering in the Old Southwest. (Mr '68)
 Brown Rabbit: her story. Morse, E. (Ap '68)
 Browning, Elizabeth (Barrett)

Bibliography

Texas. University. Humanities research center. Catalogue of the Browning collection. (Ag '68)

Browning, Robert
 Blackburn, T. Robert Browning: a study of his poetry. (Mr '68)
 Collins, T. J. Robert Browning's moral-aesthetic theory, 1833-1855. (Mr '68)
 Ward, M. Robert Browning and his world, v 1. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Bibliography

Texas. University. Humanities research center. Catalogue of the Browning collection. (Ag '68)

Bruce, James
 Reid, J. M. Traveller extraordinary. (O '68)
 Brussels. Musées royaux d'art et d'histoire
 Hulst, R. A. d'. Royal museum, Brussels. (Ag '68)

Buckland, Francis Trevelyan
 Burgess, G. H. O. Eccentric ark. (O '68)
 Buckle, Henry Thomas

The history of civilization in England

Droysen, J. G. Outline of the principles of history. (N '68)

Buckner, Emory Roy
 Mayer, M. Emory Buckner. (Ag '68)

Buddha and Buddhism
 Chögyam Trungpa. Born in Tibet. (Ag '68)
 Graham, A. Conversations: Christian and Buddhist. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Spiro, M. E. Burmese supernaturalism. (N '68)

Juvenile literature

Kelen, B. Gautama Buddha in life and legend. (Mr '68)

Buddhist art. See Art, Buddhist

Budget

China (People's Republic of China)
 Ecklund, G. N. Financing the Chinese government budget. (D '68)

Bugatti, Ettore
 Bugatti, L. Bugatti story. (Mr '68)

Bugatti story. Bugatti, L. (Mr '68)

Building

Condit, C. W. American building. (Ag '68)
 Building the human. Johann, R. O. (Ag '68)
 Bull beneath the walnut tree. Hewett, A. (Ap '68)

Buller's birds of New Zealand. Buller, W. L. (Mr '68)

Bullfights

Collins, L. Or I'll dress you in mourning. (Ag '68)

Bullitt, William Christian

Farnsworth, B. William C. Bullitt and the Soviet Union. (Mr '68)

Buñuel, Luis

Durgnat, R. Luis Bunuel. (O '68)

Burden of empire. Gann, L. H. (S '68)

Burden of proof. Barlow, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Burden of race. Osofsky, G. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Bureaucracy and rural development in Malaysia. Ness, G. D. (Je '68)

- Burghley, William Cecil, 1st Baron
Beckingsale, B. W. Burghley: Tudor statesman, 1520-1598. (Je '68)
Burghley: Tudor statesman, 1520-1598. Beckingsale, B. W. (Je '68)
Burglar. Brophy, B. (N '68)
Buried treasure
Gentry, C. Killer mountains. (D '68)
Burke, Edmund
Burke, E. Correspondence of Edmund Burke, v6. (My '68)
Chapman, G. W. Edmund Burke. (Ag '68)
Wilkins, B. T. Problem of Burke's political philosophy. (Ag '68)
Burma
Bixler, N. Burmese journey. (Ag '68)
Tinker, H. Union of Burma [4th ed.]. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
History
Ba Maw. Breakthrough in Burma. (Ag '68)
Htin Aung, M. History of Burma. (N '68)
Religion
Spiro, M. E. Burmese supernaturalism. (N '68)
Burmese journey. Bixler, N. (Ag '68)
Burmese supernaturalism. Spiro, M. E. (N '68)
Burn then, little lamp. Banister, M. (D '68)
Burning candle. Kay, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Burning glass. Behrman, S. N. (O '68)
Burning plain. Rulfo, J. (N '68)
Burns, William John
Caesar, G. Incredible detective. (N '68)
Burr, Aaron
Chidsey, D. B. Great conspiracy. (Ag '68)
Parnet, H. S. Aaron Burr. (1967, 1968 Annual)
Burton, Sir Richard Francis
Brodie, F. M. Devil drives. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Bush baby. Woodhouse, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Business
Maynard, H. B., ed. Handbook of business administration. (My '68)
Business and government. See Industry and state
Business and social change. Oates, J. F. (N '68)
Business consultants
Who's who in consulting. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Business cycles
McGee, L. R. Income and employment in the Southeast. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Business ethics
Baker, S. S. Permissible lie. (O '68)
Baumhart, R. Honest profit. (O '68)
Paradise, S. I. Detroit industrial mission. (N '68)
Business of business. Wright, M. A. (O '68)
Business of murder. Lustgarten, E. (S '68)
By a thousand fires. Seton, J. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
By-line: Ernest Hemingway. Hemingway, E. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
By prescription only [2d ed revl. Mintz, M. (Ap '68)
By reason or force. Burr, R. N. (Je '68)
By star and compass. Coggins, J. (Ap '68)
Byron, George Gordon Noel Byron, 6th Baron Buxton, J. Byron and Shelley. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Gleckner, R. F. Byron and the ruins of paradise. (Je '68)
Gunn, P. My dearest Augusta. (N '68)
Fiction
Prokosch, F. Missolonghi manuscript. (Ap '68)
Byron and Shelley. Buxton, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Byron and the ruins of paradise. Gleckner, R. F. (Je '68)
Byzantine Empire
Brand, C. M. Byzantium confronts the West, 1180-1204. (N '68)
Comnena, A. Alexiad of the Princess Anna Comnena. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
International congress of Byzantine studies, 1966. Proceedings, 5-10 September, 1966. (O '68)
Spellos, T. Pictorial history of Greece. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Vryonis, S. Byzantium and Europe. (1967, 1968 Annual)
History
Jenkins, R. Byzantium. (1967, 1968 Annual)
MacLagan, M. City of Constantinople. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Byzantium. Jenkins, R. (1967, 1968 Annual)
Byzantium and Europe. Vryonis, S. (1967, 1968 Annual)
Byzantium confronts the West, 1180-1204. Brand, C. M. (N '68)
CAB-Intersec. Walker, D. (Je '68)
C D B! Steig, W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
C.I.D. room. Eng title of: All leads negative. Alding, P. (Ap '68)
C. S. Lewis: defender of the faith. Cunningham, R. S. (S '68)
C. Wright Mills and The power elite. Domhoff, G. W., comp. (S '68)
Cab at the door. Pritchett, V. S. (Je '68)
Cabell, James Branch
Tarrant, D. James Branch Cabell. (O '68)
Cabin fever. Godsey, E. (My '68)
Cables, Submarine
Carter, S. Cyrus Field: man of two worlds. (Ap '68)
Cables to the ace. Merton, T. (S '68)
Cabot, Godfrey Lowell
Harris, L. Only to God. (1967, 1968 Annual)
Cadres, bureaucracy, and political power, in communist China. Barnett, A. D. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Caesar, Caius Julius
Gelzer, M. Caesar: politician and statesman. (S '68)
Caesar at the Rubicon. White, T. H. (Je '68)
Caged panther. Meacham, H. M. (Je '68)
Cagliostro, Alessandro, conte di, originally Giuseppe Balsamo
Dumas, F. R. Cagliostro. (My '68)
Cagliostro. Dumas, F. R. (My '68)
Cain
Matthews, H. Primal curse. (Ag '68)
Cairo Genizah
Goitein, S. D. Mediterranean society. v. 1. (Ag '68)
Calendar of love. Brown, G. M. (S '68)
Calendar of the Roman republic. Michels, A. K. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Calendars
Michels, A. K. Calendar of the Roman republic. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Calhoun, John Caldwell
Thomas, J. L., ed. John C. Calhoun. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
California
Civilization
McWilliams, C., ed. California revolution (O '68)
Climate
Edinger, J. G. Watching for the wind. (Ap '68)
Description and travel
Bronson, W. How to kill a golden state. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Garnier, P. Medical journey in California. (N '68)
History
Gentry, C. Last days of the late, great state of California. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Kirsch, R. West of the West. (Ap '68)
Roske, R. J. Everyman's Eden. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Juvenile literature
Dowdell, D. Sierra Nevada. (N '68)
Wise, W. E. Fray Junipero Serra and the California conquest. (Ap '68)
Politics and government
Hill, G. Dancing bear. (S '68)
Phillips, H. L. Big wayward girl. (D '68)
California. University
Gardner, D. P. California oath controversy. (1967, 1968 Annual)
California grape strike. See Delano, California—Strike, 1865-
California oath controversy. Gardner, D. P. (1967, 1968 Annual)
California revolution. McWilliams, C., ed. (O '68)
Call of the valley. Avery, G. (Ag '68)
Cambodia
Foreign relations
Leifer, M. Cambodia. (N '68)
Cambodia. Leifer, M. (N '68)
Cambrai, Battle of, 1917
Cooper, B. Battle of Cambrai. (N '68)
Cambridge, England. University
Rothblatt, S. Revolution of the dons. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Cambridge history of later Greek and early medieval philosophy. Armstrong, A. H., ed. (Mr '68)
Cameron, James
Cameron, J. Point of departure. (Ap '68)
Campaigns against hunger. Stakman, E. C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Campbell, Colen. See Campbell, Colin

Campbell, Colin
Stutchbury, H. E. Architecture of Colen Campbell. (O '68)

Campus 1980. Eurich, A. C., ed. (N '68)

Camus, Albert

Camus, A. Lyrical and critical essays. (D '68)

Canada

Civilization

Julien, C. Canada: Europe's last chance. (O '68)

Defenses

McLin, J. B. Canada's changing defense policy, 1957-1963. (Mr '68)

Preston, R. A. Canada and "imperial defense." (Je '68)

Directories

McGraw-Hill directory and almanac of Canada, 1967, v2. (Ag '68)

Foreign relations

Julien, C. Canada: Europe's last chance. (O '68)

United States

Craig, G. M. United States and Canada. (S '68)

History

Fraser, B. Search for identity. (Ap '68)

Graham, G. S. Concise history of Canada. (S '68)

Sources

MacKirdy, K. A., ed. Changing perspectives in Canadian history. (S '68)

To 1763 (New France)

Harris, R. C. Seigniorial system in early Canada. (Ag '68)

Maps

Oxford regional economic atlas: United States & Canada. (O '68)

Military policy

McLin, J. B. Canada's changing defense policy, 1957-1963. (Mr '68)

Politics and government

Corbett, E. M. Quebec confronts Canada. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Engelmann, F. C. Political parties and the Canadian social structure. (N '68)

Fraser, B. Search for identity. (Ap '68)

Julien, C. Canada: Europe's last chance. (O '68)

Schwartz, M. A. Public opinion and Canadian identity. (Je '68)

Smiley, D. V. Canadian political nationality. (Ap '68)

Trudeau P. E. Federalism and the French Canadians. (D '68)

Wise, S. F. Canada views the United States. (N '68)

Canada and "imperial defense." Preston, R. A. (Je '68)

Canada: Europe's last chance. Julien, C. (O '68)

Canada views the United States. Wise, S. F. (N '68)

Canada's changing defense policy, 1957-1963. McLin, J. B. (Mr '68)

Canada's North. Phillips, R. A. J. (Ap '68)

Canadian Invasion, 1775-1776

Chidsey, D. B. War in the North. (Ap '68)

Canadian literature

Bio-bibliography

Story, N. Oxford companion to Canadian history and literature. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Dictionaries

Story, N. Oxford companion to Canadian history and literature. (1967, 1968 Annual)

History and criticism

Egoff, S. Republic of childhood. (O '68)

Canadian Northwest. See Northwest, Canadian

Canadian poetry

Collections

Smith, A. J. M., comp. Modern Canadian verse in English and French. (Je '68)

Canadian political nationality. Smiley, D. V. (Ap '68)

Canal. Liss, S. B. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Canals

Klette, I. J. From Atlantic to Pacific. (Ap '68)

Cancer

Favata, B. V. Nature of life and cancer. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Lilienfeld, A. M. Cancer epidemiology: methods of study. (O '68)

Paoli, P. Determined to live. (O '68)

Sutton, M. Cancer explained. (S '68)

Cancer epidemiology: methods of study. Lilienfeld, A. M. (O '68)

Cancer explained. Sutton, M. (S '68)

Cancer ward. Solzhenitsyn, A. I. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Candilis, Josic, Woods, S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Cane, Melville

Cane, M. All and sundry. (Ag '68)

Cannibals. Brasselle, K. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Canon law. See Ecclesiastical law

Canterbury, England

History

Urry, W. Canterbury under the Angevin kings. (Ag '68)

Canterbury under the Angevin kings. Urry, W. (Ag '68)

Capital

International economic association. Capital movements and economic development. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Kirzner, I. M. Essay on capital. (Je '68)

Capital movements and economic development. International economic association. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Capitalism

Dobb, M. H. Papers on capitalism, development and planning. (S '68)

Kelso, L. O. How to turn eighty million workers into capitalists on borrowed money. (Ag '68)

Sombart, W. Luxury and capitalism. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

Ellis, H. B. Ideals and ideologies. (S '68)

Capitalism and nationalism in prewar Japan. Marshall, B. K. (Je '68)

Capitalists and financiers

Lundberg, F. Rich and the super-rich. (O '68)

Marshall, B. K. Capitalism and nationalism in prewar Japan. (Je '68)

Caplan, Harry

Wallach, L., ed. Classical tradition. (Ag '68)

Captain John Paul Jones. Syme, R. (Ag '68)

Cárdenas, Lázaro

Ashby, J. C. Organized labor and the Mexican revolution under Lázaro Cárdenas. (O '68)

Cardinal Moran and the A.L.P. Ford, P. (Ap '68)

Cardinals (Birds)

Juvenile literature

McClung, R. M. Redbird. (O '68)

Career in medical research. Colman, H. (S '68)

Careers and opportunities in engineering. Pollack, P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Careers in computer programming. Barnett, L. (D '68)

Cargo of eagles. Allingham, M. (My '68)

Caribbean area

Race relations

Hoetink, H. Two variants in Caribbean race relations. (S '68)

Carlyle, Thomas

LaValley, A. J. Carlyle and the idea of the modern. (Ag '68)

Carlyle and the idea of the modern. LaValley, A. J. (Ag '68)

Carnal myth. Dahlberg, E. (S '68)

Carnegie, Andrew

Hacker, L. M. World of Andrew Carnegie: 1865-1901. (My '68)

Carnegie Institution of Washington

Haskins, C. P., ed. Search for understanding. (Ag '68)

Carnevali, Emanuel

Carnevali, E. Autobiography of Emanuel Carnevali. (Ap '68)

Caroline Amella Elizabeth, consort of George IV, King of Great Britain

Fulford, R. Trial of Queen Caroline. (Je '68)

Carracci, Agostino

Bellori, G. P. Lives of Annibale & Agostino Carracci. (O '68)

Carracci, Annibale

Bellori, G. P. Lives of Annibale & Agostino Carracci. (O '68)

Cartoons and caricatures

- Hess, S. Ungentlemanly art. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Keller, M. Art and politics of Thomas Nast. (Ag '68)
 Milenkovich, M. M. View from Red Square. (Ap '68)

Carvajal, Luis de

Carvajal, L. de. Enlightened. (Je '68)

Cary, Joyce

Foster, M. Joyce Cary. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Casas, Bartolomé de las, Bp.

Wagner, H. R. Life and writings of Bartolomé de las Casas. (Ap '68)

Case against Congress. Pearson, D. (O '68)

Case for Ezra Pound. Norman, C. (O '68)

Case for Israel. Gervasi, F. (Ag '68)

Case for the angels. Lambert, G. (O '68)

Case in nullity. Berckman, E. (S '68)

Case of need. Hudson, J. (D '68)

Case of the giggles, 2v. Cole, W., comp. (Ag '68)

Casey, Stewart, R. (Ag '68)

Cash, Wilbur Joseph

Morrison, J. L. W. J. Cash: Southern prophet. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Cassatt, Mary

Cassatt, M. Graphic art of Mary Cassatt. (N '68)

Cassell's Beyond the dictionary in French. Levieux, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Cassiopeia affair. Zerwick, C. (Ag '68)

Caste

De Reuck, A., ed. Caste and race. (O '68)

De Vos, G. Japan's invisible race. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Fürer-Haimendorf, C. von, ed. Caste and kin in Nepal, India and Ceylon. (Mr '68)

Caste and kin in Nepal, India and Ceylon. Fürer-Haimendorf, C. von, ed. (Mr '68)

Caste and race. De Reuck, A., ed. (O '68)

Castlereagh, Robert Stewart, Viscount. See Londonderry, R. S.

Castlereagh, Bartlett, C. J. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Castles

Boase, T. S. R. Castles and churches of the crusading kingdom. (Ap '68)

Castles and kingdoms of the crusading kingdom. Boase, T. S. R. (Ap '68)

Castro, Fidel

Meneses, E. Fidel Castro. (D '68)

Suárez, A. Cuba: Castroism and communism, 1959-1966. (Mr '68)

Cat book. Besser, M. (Mr '68)

Cat that joined the club. Thayer, J. (Mr '68)

Cataloging

Anglo-American cataloging rules. (Ap '68)

Moving pictures

Steele, R. Cataloging and classification of cinema literature. (D '68)

Cataloging and classification of cinema literature. Steele, R. (D '68)

Catalogue of Rembrandt's etchings, 2v in 1. Hind, A. M. (S '68)

Catalogue of the Browning collection. Texas. University. Humanities research center. (Ag '68)

Catch me a wind. Hubbell, P. (Ag '68)

Catechisms

New catechism; Catholic faith for adults. (Mr '68)

Cather, Willa Sibert

Schroeter, J., ed. Willa Cather and her critics. (Mr '68)

Catherine II, Empress of Russia

Dukes, P. Catherine the Great and the Russian nobility. (N '68)

Catherine the Great and the Russian nobility. Dukes, P. (N '68)

Catholic action

Poggi, G. Catholic action in Italy. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Catholic action in Italy. Poggi, G. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Catholic Church

Adolfs, R. Grave of God. (Mr '68)

Baum, G. Credibility of the church today. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Cavallari, A. Changing Vatican. (D '68)

Colaanni, J. F., ed. Married priests & married nuns. (D '68)

Cornell, T. C., ed. Penny a copy. (N '68)

Davis, C. Question of conscience. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Derrick, C. Trimming the ark. (Mr '68)

Franck, F. Exploding church. (O '68)

Haughton, R. Dialogue: the state of the church today. (D '68)

Houtart, F. Eleventh hour. (N '68)

Hoyt, R. G., ed. Issues that divide the church. (Ap '68)

Kennedy, E. C. Fashion me a people. (Je '68)

Molnar, T. Ecumenism or new reformation? (D '68)

Murphy, F. X. Synod '67. (Ag '68)

O'Dea, T. F. Catholic crisis. (N '68)

O'Neill, D. P. Priest in crisis. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Roche, D. J. Catholic revolution. (D '68)

Scarpati, R. Hope or hindrance? (Mr '68)

Sloyan, G. S., ed. Secular priest in the new church. (Je '68)

Tavard, G. H. Pilgrim church. (Mr '68)

Anecdotes, facetiae, satire, etc.

Frisbie, R. Who put the bomb in Father Murphy's chowder? (Je '68)

Doctrinal and controversial works

Cunneen, S. Sex: female; Religion; Catholic. (S '68)

Moore, S. God is a new language. (Mr '68)

New catechism; Catholic faith for adults. (Mr '68)

Newman, J. H. Apologia pro vita sua. (N '68)

Rahner, K. Theological investigations, v3. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Surtz, E. L. Works and days of John Fisher. (N '68)

Education

See Church and education

History

Falconi, C. Popes in the twentieth century. (Je '68)

Relations

Lapide, P. E. Three popes and the Jews. (Je '68)

Relations (diplomatic)

Parmiter, G. de C. King's great matter. (My '68)

Reuter, F. T. Catholic influence on American colonial policies, 1898-1904. (Mr '68)

Catholic Church in Australia

Suttor, T. L. Hierarchy and democracy in Australia, 1788-1870. (My '68)

Catholic Church in Europe

Lee, J. M., ed. Catholic education in the Western world. (Ag '68)

Catholic Church in France

Groethuysen, B. Bourgeois. (Ap '68)

Catholic Church in Mexico

Costeloe, M. P. Church wealth in Mexico. (S '68)

Catholic Church in Poland

Zatko, J. J., comp. Valley of silence. (Je '68)

Catholic Church in the United States

Abell, A. I., ed. American Catholic thought on social questions. (N '68)

Colaanni, J. Catholic left. (N '68)

Cunneen, S. Sex: female; Religion; Catholic. (S '68)

Ellis, J. T. Essays in seminary education. (S '68)

Fichter, J. H. America's forgotten priests—what they are saying. (My '68)

Greeley, A. M. Changing Catholic college. (S '68)

Greeley, A. M. Uncertain trumpet. (S '68)

Lee, J. M., ed. Catholic education in the Western world. (Ag '68)

Moran, G. Vision and tactics. (D '68)

Reuter, F. T. Catholic influence on American colonial policies, 1898-1904. (Mr '68)

Shuster, G. N. Catholic education in a changing world. (Ap '68)

History

Greeley, A. M. Catholic experience. (My '68)

Catholic crisis. O'Dea, T. F. (N '68)

Catholic education in a changing world. Shuster, G. N. (Ap '68)

Catholic education in the Western world. Lee, J. M., ed. (Ag '68)

Catholic experience. Greeley, A. M. (My '68)

Catholic influence on American colonial policies, 1898-1904. Reuter, F. T. (Mr '68)

Catholic left. Colaanni, J. (N '68)

Catholic revolution. Roche, D. J. (D '68)

Catholics in college. Trent, J. W. (Je '68)

Catholics in England

Basset, B. English Jesuits: from Campion to Martindale. (D '68)

Catholics in the United States

Abell, A. I., ed. American Catholic thought on social questions. (N '68)

Trent, J. W. Catholics in college. (Je '68)

Catiline, Lucius Sergius

Hutchinson, L. Conspiracy of Catiline. (Mr '68)

Cats*Juvenile literature

Besser, M. Cat book. (Mr '68)

Stories

- Peet, B. Jennifer and Josephine. (Ag '68)
 Thayer, J. Cat that joined the club. (Mr '68)
 Weir, R. Pyewacket. (Ag '68)
 Cat's pajamas & Witch's milk. De Vries, P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Cattle towns. Dykstra, R. R. (Ag '68)
 Cattle trade

Kansas

- Dykstra, R. R. Cattle towns. (Ag '68)
 Caught in the act. Lee, J. (Ag '68)
 Causes of the industrial revolution in England. Hartwell, R. M., ed. (S '68)
 Cavalier of old South Carolina. Simms, W. G. (Mr '68)
 Cave drawings
 Lerol-Gourhan, A. Treasures of prehistoric art. (My '68)
 Ucko, P. J. Palaeolithic cave art. (O '68)
 Cavern. Anouilh, J. (My '68)

Caves

- Bogli, A. Luminous darkness. (My '68)
 Caxton's Aesop. Aesop. (Ag '68)
 Cebuano sorcery. Lieban, R. W. (Ag '68)

Celibacy

- Colaanni, J. F., ed. Married priests & married nuns. (D '68)
 Frein, G. H., ed. Celibacy: the necessary option. (S '68)
 Oraison, M. Celibate condition and sex. (Je '68)
 Schillebeeckx, E. Celibacy. (Ag '68)
 Celibacy: the necessary option. Frein, G. H., ed. (S '68)
 Celibate condition and sex. Oraison, M. (Je '68)
 Celtic realms. Dillon, M. (My '68)

Celts

- Dillon, M. Celtic realms. (My '68)
 Celts, Catholics & copperheads. Hernon, J. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Censorship

- Boyer, P. S. Purity in print. (N '68)
 Kuh, R. H. Foolish figleaves? (Mr '68)
 Censorship of the movies. Randall, R. S. (D '68)
 Center. Alsop, S. (Ag '68)
 Central Asia. Allworth, E., ed. (Mr '68)
 Central Asia. Belenitsky, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Central Intelligence Agency. See United States. Central Intelligence Agency

Central power in the Australian Commonwealth. Menzies, R. (Ag '68)

Centurion. Treece, H. (My '68)

Century of Dutch manuscript illumination. Delaisé, L. M. J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Cepeda, Orlando

Cepeda, O. My ups and downs in baseball. (Ag '68)

Ceramics. See Pottery

Ceramics in the modern world. Chandler, M. (N '68)

Certain slant of light. Rickett, F. (S '68)

Cervantes Saavedra, Miguel de

Don Quixote

Predmore, R. L. World of Don Quixote. (Ag '68)

Ceylon*Politics and government

Kearney, R. N. Communalism and language in the politics of Ceylon. (N '68)

Chagall, Marc*Juvenile literature

Greenfeld, H. Marc Chagall. (My '68)

Chain (Ship)*Juvenile literature

- Bixby, W. Seawatchers. (N '68)
 Chaliapin, Feodor Ivanovitch
 Chaliapin, F. I. Chaliapin, F. I. (Ap '68)
 Challenge and encounter. Bisgyer, M. (N '68)
 Challenge . . . and response. Quanbeck, W. A., ed. (Ag '68)
 Challenge for a throne. Hamilton, F. (Ap '68)
 Challenge of development, theory and practice. (Ap '68)
 Challenge to the court. Newby, I. A. (Ap '68)
 Challenges to collective bargaining. American assembly. (Mr '68)
 Chamberlin, Edward Hastings
 Kuenne, R. E., ed. Monopolistic competition theory: studies in impact. (Je '68)

Chambord, Henri Charles Ferdinand Marie Dieudonné d'Artois, duc de Bordeaux, comte de Brown, M. L. Comte de Chambord. (Ag '68)
 Chameleons

Juvenile literature

- Hess, L. Remarkable chameleon. (S '68)
 Champions of labor. Selvin, D. F. (Je '68)
 Championship baseball. Bauer, H. (S '68)
 Change of skin. Fuentes, C. (Ap '68)
 Changeless order. Koslow, A., ed. (S '68)
 Changing American economy. Coleman, J. R., ed. (Ap '68)
 Changing Catholic college. Greeley, A. M. (S '68)
 Changing landscape. Rand, C. (Je '68)
 Changing organizations. Bennis, W. G. (Mr '68)
 Changing perspectives in Canadian history. MacKirdy, K. A., ed. (S '68)
 Changing Vatican. Cavallari, A. (D '68)

Channel Islands

Uttley, J. Short history of the Channel Islands. (Mr '68)

Channing, William Ellery

McGill, F. T. Channing of Concord. (Je '68)
 Channing of Concord. McGill, F. T. (Je '68)

Chanzeaux, France

- Wylie, L., ed. Chanzeaux. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Chanzeaux. Wylie, L., ed. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Chaos or community? Eng title of: Where do we go from here? King, M. L. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Chaplain looks at Vietnam. O'Connor, J. J. (O '68)

Chapman, John*Juvenile literature

- Hunt, I. Trail of apple blossoms. (Ag '68)
 Characters and characteristics in literature
 Briggs, K. M. Fairies in English tradition and literature. (Ag '68)
 Ellmann, M. Thinking about women. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Karolides, N. J. Pioneer in the American novel, 1900-1950. (Je '68)
 Charisma and factionalism in the Nazi Party. Nyomarkay, J. (Ap '68)

Charlemagne*Juvenile literature

- Horizon magazine. Charlemagne. (Ag '68)
 Charlemagne. Horizon magazine. (Ag '68)
 Charles Booth's London. Booth, C. (Ap '68)
 Charles Darwin and The origin of species. Horizon magazine. (Ag '68)
 Charles Dickens as serial novelist. Coolidge, A. C. (Ap '68)
 Charles Percy: strong new voice from Illinois. Cleveland, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Charles Percy of Illinois. Murray, D. (Je '68)
 Charles Umlauf, sculptor. Umlauf, C. (Ag '68)

Charleston*Race relations

- Barnwell, W. H. In Richard's world. (S '68)
 Charlie Pocock and the princess. Beardmore, G. (D '68)
 Charlie Pocock's Indian bride. Eng title of: Charlie Pocock and the princess. Beardmore, G. (D '68)
 Chas. Addams Mother Goose. (Ap '68)
 Chathamites. Brown, P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Chaucer, Geoffrey

- Jordan, R. M. Chaucer and the shape of creation. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Wagenknecht, E. Personality of Chaucer. (O '68)

The Canterbury tales

Hoffman, R., L. Ovid and the Canterbury tales. (Ap '68)

Contemporary England

Hussey, M., comp. Chaucer's world. (Ap '68)

Juvenile literature

- Serraillier, I. Chaucer and his world. (Ag '68)
 Chaucer and his world. Serraillier, I. (Ag '68)
 Chaucer and the shape of creation. Jordan, R. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Chaucer's world. Hussey, M., comp. (Ap '68)
 Che Guevara speaks. Guevara, E. (Ag '68)
 Chemical and biological warfare. Hersh, S. M. (Ag '68)

Chemical elements

Weeks, M. E. Discovery of the elements [7th ed.]. (D '68)

Juvenile literature

- Ley, W. Discovery of the elements. (O '68)
 Chemical warfare
 Clarke, R. Silent weapons. (Ag '68)
 Hersh, S. M. Chemical and biological warfare. (Ag '68)

Chemicals from fermentation. Hahn, P. A. (N '68)

Chemistry
Knight, D. M., comp. Classical scientific papers: chemistry. (D '68)

History

Goran, M. Story of Fritz Haber. (My '68)
Leicester, H. M., ed. Source book in chemistry, 1900-1950. (N '68)
Multhaupt, R. P. Origins of chemistry. (Mr '68)

Chemistry, Analytic
Szabadvary, F. History of analytical chemistry. (Ap '68)

Chemistry, Technical
Hahn, P. A. Chemicals from fermentation. (N '68)

Chemistry as a profession
Alexander, G. Silica and me. (N '68)

Chemists
Weeks, M. E. Discovery of the elements [7th ed.]. (D '68)

Cherokee animal tales. Scheer, G. F., ed. (Ag '68)

Cherokee Indians

Legends

Juvenile literature

Scheer, G. F., ed. Cherokee animal tales. (Ag '68)

Chesapeake and Delaware Canal
Gray, R. D. National waterway. (S '68)

Cheyenne Indians
Bent, G. Life of George Bent. (S '68)
Stands In Timber, J. Cheyenne memories. (O '68)

Cheyenne memories. Stands In Timber, J. (O '68)

Chicago

Race relations

Spear, A. H. Black Chicago. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Chicago crime book. Halper, A., ed. (Mr '68)
Chicken Ten Thousand. Jackson, J. (D '68)

Chihuahua, Mexico (State)
Lister, F. C. Chihuahua, storehouse of storms. (Ap '68)

Chihuahua, storehouse of storms. Lister, F. C. (Ap '68)

Child and the Republic. Wishy, B. (Je '68)

Child labor

United States

Wood, S. B. Constitutional politics in the progressive era. (N '68)

Child mental status examination. Goodman, J. D. (Ag '68)

Child of the holocaust. Kuper, J. (Ag '68)

Child psychiatry
Goodman, J. D. Child mental status examination. (Ag '68)

Child study

Baldwin, A. L. Theories of child development. (My '68)

Beck, J. How to raise a brighter child. (My '68)

Brearley, M. Guide to reading Piaget. (My '68)

Burton, L. Vulnerable children. (D '68)

Coles, R. Children of crisis. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Deutsch, M. Disadvantaged child. (N '68)

Landreth, C. Early childhood. (Je '68)

LeShan, E. J. Conspiracy against childhood. (My '68)

Maynard, O. Children and dance and music. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Pines, M. Revolution in learning. (Mr '68)

Wishy, B. Child and the Republic. (Je '68)

Wyden, P. Growing up straight. (N '68)

Child welfare

Braithwaite, E. R. Paid servant. (Je '68)

Helfer, R. E., ed. Battered child. (D '68)

Childbirth

Liley, H. M. I. Modern motherhood. (Je '68)

Children

Employment

See Child labor

Management

Beck, J. How to raise a brighter child. (My '68)

Hesse, E. How to raise a superkid. (S '68)

Jones, M. M. Guiding your child from 2 to 5. (S '68)

LeShan, E. J. Conspiracy against childhood. (My '68)

Wishy, B. Child and the Republic. (Je '68)

Nutrition

McWilliams, M. Nutrition for the growing years. (My '68)

Children and dance and music. Maynard, O. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Children and their parents. Fremon, S. S. (N '68)

Children as artists

Kellogg, R. Psychology of children's art. (Mr '68)

Children as authors

Lewis, R., comp. Wind and the rain. (Ag '68)

Children at the gate. Banks, L. R. (Ag '68)

Children in literature and art

Juvenile literature

Eicke, E. What's your name? (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Children in the United States

Juvenile literature

Gemming, E. Huckleberry Hill. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Children in Tibet

Murphy, D. Tibetan foothold. (S '68)

Children of crisis. Coles, R. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Children of the ark. Gray, R. (Ag '68)

Children of the house. Fairfax-Lucy, B. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Children with reading problems. Natchez, G., ed. (N '68)

Children with special needs in the infants' school. Webb, L. (O '68)

Children's literature

Darling, R. L. Rise of children's book reviewing in America, 1865-1881. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Hürlimann, B. Three centuries of children's books in Europe. (D '68)

Bibliography

Egoff, S. Republic of childhood. (O '68)

Smith, J. S. Critical approach to children's literature. (Ap '68)

Sutherland, Z., comp. History in children's books. (Ap '68)

History and criticism

Egoff, S. Republic of childhood. (O '68)

Smith, J. S. Critical approach to children's literature. (Ap '68)

Children's literature (Individual titles). See Juvenile literature

Children's plays

L'Engle, M. Journey with Jonah. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Smith, M. R. 7 plays & how to produce them. (D '68)

Children's poetry

Armour, R. Dozen dinosaurs. (Mr '68)

Armour, R. Odd old mammals. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Barry, R. Animals around the world. (D '68)

Bennett, R. Day is dancing. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Bennett, R. Songs from around a toadstool table. (Ag '68)

Bishop, E. Ballad of the burglar of Babylon. (S '68)

Blake, W. Grain of sand. (D '68)

Blegvad, L. One is for the sun. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Boudin, J. Miranda's music. (D '68)

Bramblett, E., ed. Shoots of green. (Ag '68)

Clare, J. Wood is sweet. (N '68)

Cole, W., comp. Case of the giggles, 2v. (Ag '68)

Doob, L. W. Crocodile has me by the leg. (Je '68)

Dunning, S., comp. Reflections on a gift of watermelon pickle. (Ap '68)

Fisher, A. We went looking. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Fraser, K. Stilts, somersaults, and headstands. (Ag '68)

Hubbell, P. Catch me a wind. (Ag '68)

Johnson, D. Cloud of summer. (Mr '68)

Larrick, N., ed. On city streets. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Lawrence, D. H. D. H. Lawrence: poems selected for young people. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Lawrence, J. Harriet and the promised land. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Lear, E. Edward Lear's The Scroobious Pip. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Lewis, C. Poems of earth and space. (Ap '68)

Little, J. When the pie was opened. (Ag '68)

Children's poetry—Continued

- McCord, D. Every time I climb a tree. (Mr '68)
 McGee, B., comp. Jump-rope rhymes. (D '68)
 Montgomerie, N. One, two, three. (S '68)
 Moore, J. T. Cinnamon seed. (Mr '68)
 Nash, O. Cruise of the Aardvark. (Mr '68)
 O'Neill, M. Take a number. (N '68)
 Schatz, L. Whiskers, my cat. (My '68)
 Serrailier, I. Robin in the greenwood. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Smith, J., comp. My kind of verse. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Smith, W. J. Mr Smith & other nonsense. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Starbird, K. Pheasant on route seven. (D '68)
 Thompson, B. J., ed. All the silver pennies. (Mr '68)
 Vries, L. de. Little wide-awake. (Mr '68)
 Walsh, J. Truants. (O '68)
 Weiss, R. K., comp. Paper zoo. (D '68)
 Yeats, W. B. Running to paradise. (D '68)
 Child's world, 6v Irev edl. (Ag '68)

Chile

Foreign relations

- Burr, R. N. By reason or force. (Je '68)

History

- Burr, R. N. By reason or force. (Je '68)
 Pocock, H. R. S. Conquest of Chile. (Je '68)

Juvenile literature

- May, C. P. Chile. (N '68)

Politics and government

- Collier, S. Ideas and politics of Chilean independence, 1808-1833. (S '68)
 Gross, L. Last, best hope: Eduardo Frei & Chilean democracy. (Mr '68)

Social conditions

- Willems, E. Followers of the new faith. (Je '68)

Chilembwe, John

- Mwase, G. S. Strike a blow and die. (Ag '68)

Chillingworth, William

- Orr, R. R. Reason and authority. (N '68)

Chimpanzees

- Lawick-Goodall, J. van. My friends, the wild chimpanzees. (Mr '68)

Chin, Pa. See Li, F.-K.

China

Antiquities

- Schafer, E. H. Ancient China. (S '68)

Biography

- Biographical dictionary of republican China. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Biographical dictionary of republican China, v2. (N '68)

Civilization

- Dawson, R. Chinese chameleon. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Loewe, M. Everyday life in early Imperial China. (N '68)
 Schafer, E. H. Ancient China. (S '68)

Commerce

- McCormick, T. J. China market. (Ag '68)

Description and travel

- Frillmann, P. China. (O '68)
 Nagel's encyclopedia-guide [to] China. (N '68)
 Schafer, E. H. Vermilion bird. (My '68)

Foreign relations

- Franke, W. China and the West. (Ag '68)

France

- Eastman, L. E. Throne and mandarins. (My '68)

Russia

- Sladkovskii, M. I. History of economic relations between Russia and China. (Ag '68)

United States

- Varg, P. A. Making of a myth: the United States and China, 1879-1912. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Vietnam

- McAleavy, H. Black flags in Vietnam. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Historical geography

Maps

- Herrmann, A. Historical atlas of China [new ed]. (Mr '68)

History

- Feuerwerker, A. Approaches to modern Chinese history. (Mr '68)
 Fu, L.-S., ed. & tr. Documentary chronicle of Sino-Western relations (1644-1820), 2v. (Ag '68)
 Loewe, M. Records of Han administration. 2v. (N '68)
 Schafer, E. H. Vermilion bird. (My '68)
See also
 Boxers

Juvenile literature

- Appel, B. Why the Chinese are the way they are. (Ag '68)
 Scott, J. China, the hungry dragon. (Mr '68)
 Spencer, C. Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Chinese Republic. (Mr '68)

Taiping rebellion, 1850-1864

- Shih, V. Y. C. Taiping ideology. (O '68)

Republic, 1912-1949

- Houn, F. W. Short history of Chinese communism. (My '68)
 Snow, E. Red star over China [rev & enl edl. (O '68)

1949-

- Houn, F. W. Short history of Chinese communism. (My '68)

1949—Sources

- Chen, T. H. E., ed. Chinese Communist regime. (My '68)

History, Naval

- Rawlinson, J. L. China's struggle for naval development, 1839-1895. (Ap '68)

Intellectual life

- Markham, J. W. Voices of the Red giants. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

- Myron, R. Two faces of Asia. (Ap '68)

Politics and government

- Folsom, K. E. Friends, guests, and colleagues. (N '68)

Republic, 1912-1949

- Lang, O. Pa Chin and his writings. (Je '68)

Relations (general) with foreign countries

- Fu, L.-S., ed. & tr. Documentary chronicle of Sino-Western relations (1644-1820), 2v. (Ag '68)

Relations (general) with the United States

- Iriye, A. Across the Pacific. (Mr '68)

Religion

- Smith, D. H. Chinese religions. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

China (People's Republic of China)

- China quarterly. China under Mao: politics takes command. (Ag '68)
 Han, S. China in the year 2001. (Ap '68)
 Karol, K. S. China. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Mackerras, C. China observed. (O '68)
 Marcuse, J. Peking papers. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Sewell, W. G. I stayed in China. (Ag '68)
 Van Slyke, L. P. Enemies and friends. (O '68)

Bibliography

- Berton, P. Contemporary China. (N '68)

Description and travel

- Gelder, S. Memories for a Chinese granddaughter. (Ag '68)
 Moravia, A. Red book and the Great Wall. (N '68)
 Williams, M. East is Red: the view inside China. (Je '68)

Economic conditions

- Donnithorne, A. China's economic system. (Mr '68)
 Wu, Y.-L. Spatial economy of Communist China. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Economic policy

- Ecklund, G. N. Financing the Chinese government budget. (D '68)
 Miyashita, T. Currency and financial system of mainland China. (Mr '68)

Foreign relations

- Lall, A. How Communist China negotiates. (Je '68)

Asia, Southeastern

- McCabe, R. K. Storm over Asia. (Ap '68)

Great Britain

Porter, B. Britain and the rise of Communist China. (Ap '68)

India

Rowland, J. History of Sino-Indian relations. (Ag '68)

United States

Chen, L. C. Formosa, China, and the United Nations. (S '68)
Young, K. T. Negotiating with the Chinese Communists: the United States experience, 1953-1967. (My '68)

Industries

Wu, Y.-L. Spatial economy of Communist China. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Intellectual life

Goldman, M. Literary dissent in Communist China. (Mr '68)

Juvenile literature

Appel, B. Why the Chinese are the way they are. (Ag '68)

Law

See Law—China (People's Republic of China)

Politics and government

Barnett, A. D. Cadres, bureaucracy, and political power in communist China. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Chen, T. H. E., ed. Chinese Communist regime. (My '68)
Granqvist, H. Red Guard. (Je '68)
Hsu, K.-Y. Chou En-lai: China's gray eminence. (My '68)
Mao, T. T. Quotations from chairman Mao Tse-tung. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Pye, L. W. Spirit of Chinese politics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Townsend, J. R. Political participation in Communist China. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Social conditions

Liu, W. T., ed. Chinese society under communism. (D '68)

Statistics

Chen, N.-R. Chinese economic statistics. (Mr '68)

China (People's Republic of China). Army
George, A. L. Chinese communist army in action. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual) Gittings, J. Role of the Chinese army. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Griffith, S. B. Chinese people's liberation army. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

China (Porcelain). See Pottery

China. Frillmann, P. (O '68)
China. Karol, K. S. (1967, 1968 Annual)
China and the West. Franke, W. (Ag '68)
China cloud. Ryan, W. L. (D '68)
China in the year 2001. Han, S. (Ap '68)
China market. McCormick, T. J. (Ag '68)
China observed. Mackerras, C. (O '68)
China, the hungry dragon. Scott, J. (Mr '68)
China under Mao: politics takes command. China quarterly. (Ag '68)
China's economic system. Donnithorne, A. (Mr '68)

China's struggle for naval development, 1839-1895. Rawlinson, J. L. (Ap '68)

Chinese and Japanese art. Buhot, J. (Ap '68)

Chinese Buddhist bronzes. Munsterberg, H. (Mr '68)

Chinese carved jades. Hansford, S. H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Chinese chameleon. Dawson, R. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Chinese communist army in action. George, A. L. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Chinese Communist regime. Chen, T. H. E., ed. (My '68)

Chinese cookbook. Waldo, M. (O '68)

Chinese cookbook. Jim Lee's. Lee, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Chinese economic statistics. Chen, N.-R. (Mr '68)

Chinese fiction*History and criticism

Hsia, C. T. Classic Chinese novel. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Chinese in Southeastern Asia

Williams, L. E. Future of the overseas Chinese in Southeast Asia. (Mr '68)

Chinese in the United States

Ryan, W. L. China cloud. (D '68)

Juvenile literature

Chu, D. Passage to the Golden Gate. (Ap '68)

Chinese knight-errant. Liu, J. J. Y. (O '68)
Chinese landscape painting in the caves of Tunhuang. Eng title of: Art of Chinese landscape painting. De Silva, A. (Ag '68)
Chinese landscape woodcuts. Loehr, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Chinese literature

Thiele, M. R. None but the nightingale. (O '68)

History and criticism

Johns, F. A. Bibliography of Arthur Waley. (O '68)

Chinese mind. Moore, C. A., ed. (Mr '68)

Chinese painting techniques. Cameron, A. S. (Ap '68)

Chinese people's liberation army. Griffith, S. B. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Chinese poetry*Collections

Frodsham, J. D., comp. Anthology of Chinese verse. (Mr '68)

Mackintosh, D., comp. Collection of Chinese lyrics. (S '68)

History and criticism

Yoshikawa, K. Introduction to Sung poetry. (Mr '68)

Chinese portraiture. Lancman, E. (Mr '68)

Chinese religions. Smith, D. H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Chinese society under communism. Liu, W. T., ed. (D '68)

Chinese theory of art. Lin, Y., comp. (Ap '68)

Chios (Island)

Argenti, P. P. Occupation of Chios by the Germans and their administration of the island. (My '68)

Chocolate cookbook. Kaufman, W. I. (Ag '68)

Chögyam Trungpa

Chögyam Trungpa. Born in Tibet. (Ag '68)

Choice of action. Burnier, M. A. (O '68)

Choose life. Mandelbaum, B. (D '68)

Choral music

Westrup, J., ed. Essays presented to Egon Wellesz. (My '68)

Les choses. Perec, G. (Ag '68)

Chou, En-lai

Hsu, K.-Y. Chou En-lai: China's gray eminence. (My '68)

Chou En-lai: China's gray eminence. Hsu, K.-Y. (My '68)

Christ. Guignebert, C. (O '68)

Christ in the communist prisons. Wurmbrand, R. (My '68)

Christ the tiger. Howard, T. (Ap '68)

Christian antiquities

Meer, F. van der. Early Christian art. (N '68)

Christian art and symbolism

Meer, F. van der. Early Christian art. (N '68)

Wuellner, W. H. Meaning of "fishers of men." (Ag '68)

Christian biography

Lehane, B. Quest of three abbots. (Ag '68)

Christian Crusade

Redekop, J. H. American far right. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Christian ethics

Capon, R. F. Offering of uncles. (Mr '68)

Cox, H., ed. Situation ethics debate. (Ag '68)

Fletcher, J. Moral responsibility. (Ap '68)

Groff, W. F. Shaping of modern Christian thought. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Guardini, R. Virtues. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Keeling, M. Morals in a free society. (O '68)

Long, E. L. Survey of Christian ethics. (Ag '68)

O'Brien, W. V. Nuclear war, deterrence, and morality. (Ag '68)

Oraison, M. Morality for our time. (D '68)

Dictionaries

Macquarrie, J., ed. Dictionary of Christian ethics. (Je '68)

Christian existentialist. Häring, B. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Christian faith and the space age. Williams, J. G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Christian life

Harkness, G. Disciplines of the Christian life. (Ap '68)

Jones, C. W. Listen, pilgrim. (Je '68)

Rahner, K. Belief today. (Ap '68)

Christian tradition in modern British verse drama. Spanos, W. V. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Christian unity

- Bea, A. Peace among Christians. (D '68)
 Estep, W. R. Baptists and Christian unity. (Ag '68)
 Neill, S. Church and Christian union. (S '68)
 Swidler, L. J., ed. Ecumenism, the spirit, and worship. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

History*Sources

- Ward, H., ed. Documents of dialogue. (Mr '68)

Christianity

- Brockway, A. R. Secular saint. (S '68)
 Cox, H. G. On not leaving it to the snake. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Forman, C. W., ed. Christianity in the non-Western world. (My '68)
 Galloway, A. D. Faith in a changing culture. (N '68)
 Gay, P. Enlightenment: an interpretation. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Houghton, R. Why be a Christian? (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Howard, T. Christ the tiger. (Ap '68)
 Kuhns, W. In pursuit of Dietrich Bonhoeffer. (Ap '68)
 Manson, W. Jesus and the Christian. (N '68)
 Maritain, J. Peasant of the Garonne. (My '68)
 Rauschenbusch, W. Righteousness of the kingdom. (D '68)
 Towne, A. Excerpts from the diaries of the late God. (N '68)
 Williams, J. G. Christian faith and the space age. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Winckelmans de Cléty, C. World of persons. (Je '68)

Origin

See Church history—Primitive and early church

Philosophy

- Buri, F. How can we still speak responsibly of God? (Je '68)
 Buri, F. Thinking faith. (Je '68)
 Feuerbach, L. Essence of faith according to Luther. (Mr '68)
 Häring, B. Christian existentialist. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 LeFevre, P., ed. Philosophical resources for Christian thought. (O '68)
 Teilhard de Chardin, P. Letters to two friends, 1926-1952. (Ag '68)

Christianity and economics

- Groethuysen, B. Bourgeois. (Ap '68)

Christianity and other religions

- Cragg, K. Christianity in world perspective. (N '68)
 Eckardt, A. R. Elder and younger brothers. (Ag '68)
 Graham, A. Conversations: Christian and Buddhist. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Laeuchli, S., ed. Mithraism in Ostia. (N '68)

Christianity and politics

- Niebuhr, R. Faith and politics. (D '68)

Christianity in education. (My '68)

- Christianity in the non-Western world. Forman, C. W., ed. (My '68)

- Christianity in world perspective. Cragg, K. (N '68)

- Christianity, Islam and the Negro race. Blyden, E. W. (My '68)

- Christians in contemporary Russia [2d rev and augmented ed.]. Struve, R. (Ag '68)

Christmas

- Sansom, W. Book of Christmas. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Christmas plays*Juvenile literature

- Miller, K. Saint George. (Je '68)

Christmas poetry

- Seymour, W. K., comp. Happy Christmas. (D '68)

Christmas stories

- Baker, L. N. O children of the wind and pines. (Mr '68)
 Seymour, W. K., comp. Happy Christmas. (D '68)

Christology. See Jesus ChristChristophe, Henri, King of Haiti

- Cole, H. Christophe: king of Haiti. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

- Christophe: king of Haiti. Cole, H. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

- Chronicle and political papers. Edward VI, King of England. (Mr '68)

- Chronicle and political papers of King Edward VI. Eng title of: Chronicle and political papers. Edward VI, King of England. (Mr '68)

- Chronicles of Negro protest. Chambers, B., ed. (O '68)

Chronology, Historical

- Bickerman, E. J. Chronology of the ancient world. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Launay, A. J., comp. Dictionary of contemporaries. (D '68)
 Chronology of the ancient world. Bickerman, E. J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual) Chrysalis. Behn, H. (Je '68)

Church

- Robertson, D. B., ed. Voluntary associations. (Mr '68)

- Ruether, R. R. Church against itself (Je '68)

- Church against itself. Ruether, R. R. (Je '68)

- Church and Christian union. Neill, S. (S '68)

Church and education

- Christianity in education. (My '68)
 Lee, J. M., ed. Catholic education in the Western world. (Ag '68)
 Shuster, G. N. Catholic education in a changing world. (Ap '68)
 Trent, J. W. Catholics in college. (Je '68)

Church and labor

- Paradise, S. I. Detroit industrial mission. (N '68)

Church and race problems

- Hough, J. C. Black power and white Protestants. (Ag '68)
 Millea, T. V. Ghetto fever. (Ag '68)

Church and social problems

- Abell, A. I., ed. American Catholic thought on social questions. (N '68)
 Adolfs, R. Grave of God. (Mr '68)
 Clebsch, W. A. From sacred to profane America: the role of religion in American history. (Ag '68)
 Cornell, T. C., ed. Penny a copy. (N '68)
 Georgetown university colloquium on the church in the modern world, 1966. Church in the world. (Ap '68)
 Poggi, G. Catholic action in Italy. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Raines, R. A. Secular congregation. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Rauschenbusch, W. Righteousness of the kingdom. (D '68)
 Spain, R. B. At ease in Zion. (Ap '68)

Church and state

- Danielou, J. Prayer as a political problem. (Ap '68)
 Frend, W. H. C. Martyrdom and persecution in the early church. (Ag '68)
 Georgetown university colloquium on the church in the modern world, 1966. Church in the world. (Ap '68)
 Morgan, E. S. Roger Williams. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Regan, R. J. Conflict and consensus. (Mr '68)
 Church and state in Canada
 Norman, E. R. Conscience of the state in North America. (N '68)

Church and state in Mexico

- Costeloe, M. P. Church wealth in Mexico. (S '68)

Church and state in Russia

- Bourdeaux, M. Religious ferment in Russia. (Ag '68)
 Conquest, R., ed. Religion in the U.S.S.R. (Ag '68)
 Struve, N. Christians in contemporary Russia [2d rev and augmented ed.]. (Ap '68)

Church and state in the United States

- Beaver, R. P. Church, state, and the American Indians. (Je '68)
 Norman, E. R. Conscience of the state in North America. (N '68)

- Church and the second sex. Daly, M. (Ag '68)

- Church and war. See War and religion

Church architecture

- Dahinden, J. New trends in church architecture. (Ag '68)

Church history*Primitive and early church

- Frend, W. H. C. Martyrdom and persecution in the early church. (Ag '68)
 Guignebert, C. Christ. (O '68)
 McKenna, M. L. Women of the church. (Mr '68)
 Schonfield, H. J. Those incredible Christians. (O '68)

Middle Ages

- Leff, G. Heresy in the later middle ages: the relation of heterodoxy to dissent, c. 1250-c. 1450, 2v. (Ag '68)

Modern period

- Altholz, J. L. Churches in the nineteenth century. (Je '68)
 Daniel-Rops, H. Our brothers in Christ, 1870-1959. (N '68)

- Church in the way. Dittes, J. E. (N '68)
 Church in the world. Georgetown university colloquium on the church in the modern world, 1966. (Ap '68)
 Church made relevant. Riga, P. J. (Ag '68)
 Church music
 Le Huray, P. Music and the reformation in England, 1549-1660. (N '68)
 Robertson, A. Requiem. (S '68)
 Wellesz, E., ed. Studies in Eastern chant, v 1. (Ap '68)

History and criticism

- Hutchings, A. Church music in the nineteenth century. (My '68)
 Church music in the nineteenth century. Hutchings, A. (My '68)
 Church of England
 Allison, C. F. Rise of moralism. (Ag '68)
 Hemby, P. M. Bishops of Bath and Wells, 1540-1640. (Ap '68)
 Pittenger, W. N. Reconceptions in Christian thinking, 1817-1967. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Church of the Brethren
 Eller, V. Kierkegaard and radical discipleship. (Ag '68)
 Church renewal
 Colaizzi, J. Catholic left. (N '68)
 Holmes, W. A. Tomorrow's church. (Ag '68)
 Houtart, F. Eleventh hour. (N '68)
 O'Dea, T. F. Catholic crisis. (N '68)
 Raines, R. A. Secular congregation. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Church, state, and the American Indians. Beaver, R. P. (Je '68)
 Church wealth in Mexico. Costeloe, M. P. (S '68)
 Church work
 Dittes, J. E. Church in the way. (N '68)
 Moore, J. People on Second Street. (N '68)
 Churches
 Davies, J. G. Secular use of church buildings. (N '68)

Palestine

- Boase, T. S. R. Castles and churches of the crusading kingdom. (Ap '68)
 Churches and states: the religious institution and modernization. American universities field staff. (D '68)
 Churches in the nineteenth century. Altholz, J. L. (Je '68)
 Churchill, Sir Winston Leonard Spencer
 Churchill, R. S. Winston S. Churchill: companion volume, v 1 (pts 1,2). (Mr '68)
 Churchill, R. S. Winston S. Churchill, v2. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Churchill, W. Churchill: his paintings. (Mr '68)
 Gilbert, M. Winston Churchill. (N '68)
 Thomson, G. M. Vote of censure. (Ag '68)

Drama

- Hochhuth, R. Soldiers. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Churchill and the Montgomery myth. Thompson, R. W. (Ag '68)
 Churchill: his paintings. Churchill, W. (Mr '68)
 Cicero on moral obligation. Cicero, M. T. (My '68)

Cimabue, Giovanni

- Battisti, E. Cimabue. (Ap '68)
 Circumference and circumstance. Sherwood, W. R. (Ag '68)

Cities and towns

- Beaujeu-Garnier, J. Urban geography. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Beresford, M. New towns of the middle ages. (Ag '68)
 Fortune (periodical). Negro and the city. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Gottmann, J., ed. Metropolis on the move. (Je '68)
 Mumford, L. Urban prospect. (Ag '68)
 Schuchter, A. White power, black freedom. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Civic improvement

- Lowe, J. R. Cities in a race with time. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

- Pitt, V. Let's find out about the city. (Ag '68)

Africa

- Miner, H., ed. City in modern Africa. (N '68)

Canada

Juvenile literature

- May, C. P. Great cities of Canada. (Je '68)

Europe

- Rörig, F. Medieval town. (Je '68)

Near East

- Lapidus, I. M. Muslim cities in the later middle ages. (1967, 1968 Annual)

United States

- Davis, A. F. Spearheads for reform. (Ag '68)
 Frieden, B. C., ed. Urban planning and social policy. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Glaab, C. N. History of urban America. (Mr '68)
 Liston, R. A. Downtown. (Ag '68)
 Perloff, H. S., ed. Issues in urban economics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Cities and towns, Ruined, extinct, etc.

Juvenile literature

- Boyd, M. Silent cities. (Ag '68)
 Silverberg, R. Ghost towns of the American West. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Cities in a race with time. Lowe, J. R. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Citizen's dissent. Lane, M. (S '68)
 Citizenship
 Hess, R. D. Development of political attitudes in children. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

- Kennedy, J. F. John F. Kennedy talks to young people. (N '68)
 City in modern Africa. Miner, H., ed. (N '68)
 City of Constantinople. MacLagan, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 City of gold and lead. Christopher, J. (Mr '68)
 City of the West: Emerson, America, and urban metaphor. Cowan, M. H. (Je '68)

City planning

- Aregger, H. Highrise building and urban design. (Je '68)
 Benevolo, L. Origins of modern town planning. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Buder, S. Pullman. (Ap '68)
 Eldredge, H. W., ed. Taming megalopolis, 2v. (Je '68)
 Mayer, A. Urgent future. (My '68)
 Mumford, L. Urban prospect. (Ag '68)
 Von Eckardt, W. Place to live. (My '68)
 Whyte, W. H. Last landscape. (D '68)

Great Britain

- Reynolds, D. J. Economics, town planning and traffic. (S '68)

United States

- Berry, B. J. L., ed. Goals for urban America. (Je '68)
 Faltermayer, E. K. Redoing America. (N '68)
 Kulski, J. E. Land of urban promise. (Ap '68)
 Lowe, J. R. Cities in a race with time. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Schwartz, A. Old cities & new towns. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Washington, D. C.

- Reps, J. W. Monumental Washington. (Mr '68)

Ciudad Guayana, Venezuela

Social conditions

- Peattie, L. R. View from the barrio. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Civics. See Citizenship

Civil defense

- Roberts, A., ed. Civilian resistance as a national defense. (N '68)

Civil disobedience. See Government, Resistance to

Civil engineering

- Condit, C. W. American buildings. (Ag '68)

Dictionaries

- Nelson, A. Dictionary of applied geology. (S '68)

Juvenile literature

- Klein, H. A. Great structures of the world. (N '68)

Civil rights

- Dorsen, N. Frontiers of civil liberties. (D '68)
 Knight, H. V. With liberty and justice for all. (Mr '68)
 Raphael, D. D., ed. Political theory and the rights of man. (Ag '68)
 Samuel, H. D., ed. Toward a better America. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

- Morsbach, M. Negro in American life. (Ap '68)

- Sterne, E. G. They took their stand. (Ag '68)

Civil rights commission, 1957-1965. Dulles, F. R. (N '68)

Civil rights, the Constitution, and the courts. Cox, A. (Mr '68)

Civil service

Examinations

Spaulding, R. M. Imperial Japan's higher civil service examinations. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Asia, Southern

Braibanti, R., ed. Asian bureaucratic systems emergent from the British imperial tradition. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Japan

Spaulding, R. M. Imperial Japan's higher civil service examinations. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

United States

Krislov, S. Negro in federal employment. (Mr '68)

Civil War books, v 1. Nevins, A., ed. (Mr '68)

Civilian resistance as a national defense. Roberts, A., ed. (N '68)

Civilians under military justice. Wiener, F. B. (D '68)

Civilization

Becker, E. Structure of evil. (O '68)

Kahler, E. Out of the labyrinth. (S '68)

McLuhan, M. Through the vanishing point. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

History

Cantor, N. F., ed. History of popular culture. (S '68)

Civilization, American

Wagley, C. Latin American tradition. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Civilization, Ancient

Caldwell, W. E. Ancient world [3d ed.]. (Mr '68)

Finley, M. I. Aspects of antiquity. (Ag '68)

Garbini, G. Ancient world. (Mr '68)

Juvenile literature

Cleator, P. E. Exploring the world of archaeology. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Civilization, Christian

Dawson, C. Formation of Christendom. (Ag '68)

Civilization, Greek

Andrewes, A. Greeks. (Mr '68)

Lévéque, P. Greek adventure. (D '68)

Spelios, T. Pictorial history of Greece. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Starr, C. G. Awakening of the Greek historical spirit. (Ag '68)

Dictionaries

Praeger encyclopedia of ancient Greek civilization. (Ap '68)

Juvenile literature

Price, C. Made in ancient Greece. (Mr '68)

Civilization, Islamic

Lapidus, I. M. Muslim cities in the later middle ages. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Civilization, Medieval

Dawson, C. Formation of Christendom. (Ag '68)

Duckett, E. Death and life in the tenth century. (Je '68)

Rörig, F. Medieval town. (Je '68)

Juvenile literature

Horizon magazine. Charlemagne. (Ag '68)

Rowling, M. Everyday life in medieval times. (Ag '68)

Serrailier, I. Chaucer and his world. (Ag '68)

Pictures, Illustrations, etc.

Hussey, M., comp. Chaucer's world. (Ap '68)

Civilization, Modern

Aron, R. Progress and disillusion. (D '68)

Chase, S. Most probable world. (Ap '68)

Cowles, V. 1913: an end and a beginning. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Duffus, R. L. Tomorrow's news. (S '68)

Ellul, J. Critique of the new commonplaces. (Ag '68)

Frye, N. Modern century. (N '68)

History of mankind, v6. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Montagu, A. Man observed. (Ag '68)

Sykes, G. Cool millennium. (Mr '68)

Waelder, R. Progress and revolution. (O '68)

Wylie, P. Magic animal. (Je '68)

Civilization, Mycenaean

McDonald, W. A. Progress into the past. (Ap '68)

Juvenile literature

Baumann, H. Lion gate and labyrinth. (Ag '68)

Civilization, Occidental

Glacken, C. J. Traces on the Rhodian shore. (Ap '68)

Woodruff, W. Impact of Western man. (Mr '68)

Civilization, Roman

Giannelli, G. World of ancient Rome. (Mr '68)

Cinnamon seed. Moore, J. T. (Mr '68)

Claimant. Alpert, H. (Je '68)

Clairvoyance

Logan, D. Reluctant prophet. (O '68)

Clans and clan system

Moncreiffe of that ilk, I. Highland clans. (Ap '68)

Clark, George Kitson. See Kitson Clark, G. S. R.

Clark, George Rogers

Derleth, A. Vincennes: portal to the West. (N '68)

Class conflict, slavery, and the United States

Constitution. Lynd, S. (Ag '68)

Class distinction. See Social classes

Classic cars in Profile, 2v. (Ap '68)

Classic Chinese novel. Hsia, C. T. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Classical education

Ascham R. Schoolmaster (1570). (Ag '68)

Classical Greece. Eng title of: Art of classical Greece. Schefold, K. (Je '68)

Classical literature

Wallach, L., ed. Classical tradition. (Ag '68)

Classical scientific papers: chemistry. Knight, D. M., comp (D '68)

Classical sculpture. Hanfmann, G. M. A. (My '68)

Classical tradition. Wallach, L., ed. (Ag '68)

Classicism (Art)

Rosenblum, R. Transformations in late eighteenth century art. (Ap '68)

Classics in linguistics. Hayden, D. E., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Classification

Books

Cunningham, E. Classification for medical literature. (Ap '68)

Steele, R. Cataloging and classification of cinema literature. (D '68)

Classification, Decimal

Dewey, M. Dewey decimal classification and relative index, v2 [17th ed rev.]. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Classification for medical literature. Cunningham, E. (Ap '68)

Classroom grouping for teachability. Thelen, H. A. (Ap '68)

Classrooms on Main Street. Clark, H. F. (Ap '68)

Claude Bernard and experimental medicine. (Ag '68)

Claypoole family

Claypoole, J. Letter book; London and Philadelphia, 1681-1684. (Ag '68)

Cleaver, Eldridge

Cleaver, E. Soul on ice. (My '68)

Clemens, Samuel Langhorne

Twain, M. Selected Mark Twain-Howells letters, 1872-1910. (Mr '68)

Wagenknecht, E. Mark Twain [3d ed.]. (Ap '68)

The Innocents abroad

Ganzel, D. Mark Twain abroad. (D '68)

Juvenile literature

Wood, J. P. Spunkwater, spunkwater! (O '68)

Clergy

Fichter, J. H. America's forgotten priests—what they are saying. (My '68)

Greeley, A. M. Uncertain trumpet. (S '68)

Matthews, S. G. Night pastors. (Mr '68)

O'Neill, D. P. Priest in crisis. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Sloyan, G. S., ed. Secular priest in the new church. (Je '68)

Cleveland, Grover

Tugwell, R. G. Grover Cleveland. (Ag '68)

Cleveland

Condon, G. E. Cleveland, the best kept secret. (Je '68)

Politics and government

Campbell, T. F. Daniel E. Morgan, 1877-1949. (Ap '68)

Cleveland, the best kept secret. Condon, G. E. (Je '68)

Cliff dwellers and cliff dwellings*Juvenile literature

Marcus, R. B. First book of the cliff dwellers. (Ag '68)

Climate of violence. Fowlie, W. (Mr '68)
Climax of Rome. Grant, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Clinic habit. Lambert, C. (O '68)
Cloak of competence. Edgerton, R. B. (Ag '68)

Clocks and watches
Daniels, G. English & American watches. (Je '68)

Mody, N. H. N. Japanese clocks. (O '68)

History

Bruton, E. Clocks and watches, 1400-1900. (Je '68)

Clocks and watches, 1400-1900. Bruton, E. (Je '68)

Close-up. Gruen, J. (Ag '68)
Closed corporation. Ridgeway, J. (D '68)

Clothing and dress

Cunnington, P. Occupational costume in England, from the eleventh century to 1914. (Je '68)

Cloud of summer. Johnson, D. (Mr '68)
Cloud with the silver lining. Palmer, C. E. (Mr '68)

Coaching (Athletics)*Biography*Juvenile literature

Heuman, W. Famous coaches. (Ag '68)

Cobden, Richard
Read, D. Cobden and Bright. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Cobden and Bright. Read, D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Cocksure. Richler, M. (Je '68)
Cocteau, Jean
Sprigge, E. Jean Cocteau: the man and the mirror. (Je '68)

Codebreakers. Kahn, D. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Coe, Charles
Coe, C. Young man in Vietnam. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Cohn, Roy
Cohn, R. McCarthy. (Ag '68)

Coins

Taxay, D. Illustrated history of U.S. commemorative coinage. (Ap '68)

United States. National gallery of art. Renaissance medals: from the Samuel H. Kress collection at the National gallery of art [rev & enl]. (My '68)

Juvenile literature

Rosenfeld, S. Story of coins. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Cold (Disease)
Adams, J. M. Viruses and colds. (Ag '68)

Cold war. See World politics

Coleridge, Samuel Taylor
Adair, P. M. Waking dream. (O '68)

Bate, W. J. Coleridge. (S '68)
Walsh, W. Coleridge: the work and the relevance. (Ap '68)

Coleridge: the work and the relevance. Walsh, W. (Ap '68)

Collin, Jean Claude Marie
Hosie, S. W. Anonymous apostle. (S '68)

Collected essays. journalism and letters of George Orwell. 4v. Orwell, G. (D '68)

Collected poems, 1915-1967. Burke, K. (S '68)

Collected poems, 1967. Jennings, E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Collected poems, 1924-1955. Seferis, G. (Ap '68)

Collected poems of Dilys Laing. Laing, D. (Mr '68)

Collected poems of Kenneth Patchen. Patchen, K. (D '68)

Collected poems: 1. Spark, M. (Ag '68)

Collected stories: 1. Spark, M. (D '68)

Collecting Victorian porcelain. Reynolds, E. (Ag '68)

Collection of Chinese lyrics. Mackintosh, D., comp. (S '68)

Collective bargaining
American assembly. Challenges to collective bargaining. (Mr '68)

Pierson, F. C. Unions in postwar America. (Je '68)

Roberts, B. C. Collective bargaining in African countries. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Collective bargaining in African countries. Roberts, B. C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Collectors and collecting

Bazin, G. Museum age. (Je '68)

Grant, J. Pillage of art. (N '68)

Holst, N. von. Creators, collectors, and connoisseurs. (Mr '68)

Collector's choice of porcelain and faience. Berges, R. (O '68)

College student's guide to career planning. Endicott, F. S. (Ag '68)

College women and fertility values. Westoff, C. F. (Ag '68)

Colleges and universities
Brown, D. G. Mobile professors. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Convention of friends of agricultural education in 1871. Early view of the land-grant colleges. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Gorovitz, S., ed. Freedom and order in the university. (My '68)

Hannah, H. W. Legal base for universities in developing countries. (Ag '68)

Southern States

Wiggins, S. P. Desegregation era in higher education. (Ag '68)

Wiggins, S. P. Higher education in the South. (Ag '68)

United States

Barzun, J. American university. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Eurich, A. C., ed. Campus 1980. (N '68)

Greeley, A. M. Changing Catholic college. (S '68)

Jencks, C. Academic revolution. (Ag '68)

Ridgeway, J. Closed corporation. (D '68)

Schoenfeld, C. A. American university in summer. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Woodring, P. Higher learning in America: a reassessment. (O '68)

Directories

Livesey, H. B. Guide to American graduate schools. (My '68)

Wasserman, E. R. Random house guide to graduate study in the arts and sciences. (Mr '68)

Collier's encyclopedia with bibliography and index, 24v. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Collins, William
Carver, P. L. Life of a poet. (Je '68)

Collision in Brussels. Newhouse, J. (Je '68)

Colombia*Economic conditions

Vanek, J. Estimating foreign resource needs for economic development. (Mr '68)

History

Blossom, T. Narifio: hero of Colombian independence. (Ap '68)

Politics and government

Dix, R. H. Colombia. (N '68)

Torres, C. Camilo Torres: his life and his message. (D '68)

Social conditions

Smith, T. L. Colombia. (Ag '68)

Colombia. Dix, R. H. (N '68)

Colombia. Smith, T. L. (Ag '68)

Colonel Francis W. Parker: the children's crusader. Campbell, J. K. (Ag '68)

Colonel of the black regiment. Meyer, H. N. (My '68)

Colonel Sun. Markham, R. (Ag '68)

Colonial background of modern Brazil. Prado, C. (My '68)

Colonies in transition, 1660-1713. Craven, W. F. (Ag '68)

Colonization
Burroughs, P. Britain and Australia, 1831-1855. (O '68)

Color
Chevreul, M. E. Principles of harmony and contrast of colors and their applications to the arts. (S '68)

Juvenile literature

Emberley, E. Green says go. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Hellman, H. Art and science of color. (Ag '68)

Wolff, R. J. Feeling blue. (Ag '68)

Wolff, R. J. Seeing red. (Ag '68)

Colour of blood. MacBeth, G. (Mr '68)

Color of man
Juvenile literature

Cohen, R. Color of man. (S '68)

Color of man. Cohen, R. (S '68)

Color prints, Japanese
Kawakita, M. Contemporary Japanese prints. (Ap '68)

Wright, F. L. Japanese print. (My '68)

- Columba, Saint
Lehane, B. Quest of three abbots. (Ag '68)
- Columbanus, Saint
Lehane, B. Quest of three abbots. (Ag '68)
- Columbia University forum anthology. Spackman, P., ed. (O '68)
- Columbus, Christopher
Landström, B. Columbus. (Je '68)
- Columbus. Landström, B. (Je '68)
- Combat and command. Douglas of Kirtleside, S. (Mr '68)
- Come along with me. Jackson, S. (N '68)
- Come down the mountain. Smith V. (O '68)
- Come into the garden. Maud. Coward, N. (In his Suite in three keys). (Mr '68)
- Come to the party. Scott, H. (My '68)
- Comedy
Kerr, W. Tragedy and comedy. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Comet in Moominland. Jansson, T. (Ag '68)
- Comets
Juvenile literature
Knight, D. C. Comets. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Comets. Knight, D. C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Comeuppance of Emile the drummer. Kin, M. (Ag '68)
- Coming close. Chasin, H. (D '68)
- Coming of the Italian-Ethiopian war. Baer, G. W. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Coming of the welfare state. Williams, G. R. (Ag '68)
- Coming revolution in medicine. Rutstein, D. D. (My '68)
- Commager, Henry Steele
Hyman, H. M., ed. Freedom and reform. (Ap '68)
- Commander. Henriques, R. (My '68)
- Commedia dell'arte
Oreglia, G. Commedia dell'arte. (N '68)
- Commentary on the documents of Vatican II, v 1. (Ag '68)
- Commerce
Lloyd, P. J. International trade problems of small nations. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- MacBean, A. I. Export instability and economic development. (Mr '68)
- Pen, J. Primer on international trade. (Ag '68)
- Commercial policy
Balassa, B. Studies in trade liberalization. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Balassa, B. Trade liberalization among industrial countries: objectives and alternatives. (My '68)
- Burenstam Linder, S. Trade and trade policy for development. (Ag '68)
- Commercial products
Watkins, R. J. Expanding Ecuador's exports. (My '68)
- Committee. Goodman, W. (Je '68)
- Common Market. See European Economic Community
- Commonwealth and protectorate. Roots, I. (Mr '68)
- Commonwealth of learning. Commager, H. S. (S '68)
- Commonwealth of Nations
Morris, J. Pax Britannica. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Communalism and language in the politics of Ceylon. Kearney, R. N. (N '68)
- Communauté de Taizé. See Taizé Community
- Communicating for leadership. De Mare, G. (S '68)
- Communication
Ainslie, R. Press in Africa. (S '68)
- Bowman, W. J. Graphic communication. (N '68)
- DeMare, G. Communicating for leadership. (S '68)
- Lerner, D., ed. Communication and change in the developing countries. (Je '68)
- Markham, J. W. Voices of the Red giants. (Ag '68)
- Miller, G. A. Psychology of communication. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Rucker, B. W. First freedom. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Smith, A. G., ed. Communication and culture. (Je '68)
- Stephenson, W. Play theory of mass communication. (O '68)
- Wilensky, H. L. Organizational intelligence. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- See also
Telecommunication
- Communication (Theology)
Funk, R. W. Language, hermeneutic, and Word of God. (Ag '68)
- Moore, S. God is a new language. (Mr '68)
- Communication and culture. Smith, A. G., ed. (Je '68)
- Communication and change in the developing countries. Lerner, D., ed. (Je '68)
- Communism
Impact of the Russian Revolution, 1917-1967. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Lefebvre, H. Sociology of Marx. (Ag '68)
- Marx, K. Writings of the young Marx on philosophy and society. (S '68)
- Sartre, J. P. Communists and peace. 2pts in 1. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Sylvester, A. Living with communism. (Ap '68)
- Townsend, J. R. Political participation in Communist China. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Wright, D. M. Trouble with Marx. (O '68)
- Bibliography
Lachs, J. Marxist philosophy. (O '68)
- History
Gruber, H. International communism in the era of Lenin. (Ap '68)
- Juvenile literature
Ellis, H. B. Ideals and ideologies. (S '68)
- Philosophy
Jaworskyj, M., ed. & tr. Soviet political thought. (S '68)
- China
Houn, F. W. Short history of Chinese communism. (My '68)
- Mackerras, C. China observed. (O '68)
- Mao, T. T. Quotations from chairman Mao Tse-tung. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Meisner, M. Li Ta-chao and the origins of Chinese Marxism. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Snow, E. Red star over China [rev & enl ed]. (O '68)
- Van Slyke, L. P. Enemies and friends. (O '68)
- China (People's Republic of China)
Treadgold, D. W., ed. Soviet and Chinese communism. (Ap '68)
- Cuba
Guevara, E. Venceremos! (Ag '68)
- Suárez, A. Cuba: Castroism and communism, 1959-1966. (Mr '68)
- Zeitlin, M. Revolutionary politics and the Cuban working class. (O '68)
- Europe, Eastern
Staar, R. F. Communist regimes in Eastern Europe: an introduction. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Italy
Silone, I. Emergency exit. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Tarrow, S. G. Peasant communism in southern Italy. (Je '68)
- Latin America
Debray, R. Revolution in the revolution? (Mr '68)
- Russia
Deutscher, I. Unfinished revolution, Russia, 1917-1967. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- 50 years of Soviet power. (Je '68)
- Jaworskyj, M., ed. & tr. Soviet political thought. (S '68)
- Sartre, J. P. Ghost of Stalin. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Tompkins, S. R. Triumph of Bolshevism. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Treadgold, D. W., ed. Soviet and Chinese communism. (Ap '68)
- Vladimirov, L. Russians. (D '68)
- Thailand
Lomax, L. E. Thailand: the war that is, the war that will be. (Ap '68)
- Turkey
Harris, G. S. Origins of communism in Turkey. (S '68)
- United States
Herreshoff, D. American disciples of Marx: from the age of Jackson to the progressive era. (Ap '68)
- Rusher, W. A. Special counsel. (O '68)
- Yugoslavia
Shoup, P. Communism and the Yugoslav national question. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Communism and literature
Markham, J. W. Voices of the Red giants. (Ag '68)

Communism and religion

- Wurmbrand, R. Christ in the communist prisons. (My '68)
 Communism and the Yugoslav national question. Shoup, P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Communist countries

- Müller, K. Foreign aid programs of the Soviet Bloc and Communist China. (Ag '68)
 Sawyer, C. A. Communist trade with developing countries, 1955-65. (Je '68)

Description and travel

- Kane, R. S. Eastern Europe A to Z. (Ag '68)
 Communist International
 Braunthal, J. History of the International. v2. (Ap '68)

Communist party (China)

- Barnett, A. D. Cadres, bureaucracy, and political power in communist China. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Granqvist, H. Red Guard. (Je '68)

Communist party (France)

- Sartre, J. P. Communists and peace. 2pts in 1. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Communist party (Hungary)

- Tökés, R. L. Béla Kun and the Hungarian Soviet Republic. (Ap '68)

Communist party (Italy)

- Tarrow, S. G. Peasant communism in southern Italy. (Je '68)

Communist party (Russia)

- Armstrong, J. A. Ideology, politics, and government in the Soviet Union [rev ed]. (Ap '68)

- Graham, L. R. Soviet academy of sciences and the communist party, 1927-1932. (Ag '68)

- Kolkowicz, R. Soviet military and the communist party. (My '68)

- Mickiewicz, E. P. Soviet political schools. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Communist party (Turkey)

- Harris, G. S. Origins of communism in Turkey. (S '68)

- Communist regimes in Eastern Europe: an introduction. Staar, R. F. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Communist trade with developing countries, 1955-65. Sawyer, C. A. (Je '68)

Communists

- Lunacharsky, A. V. Revolutionary silhouettes. (D '68)

- Communists and peace. 2pts in 1. Sartre, J. P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Community action against poverty. Brager, G. A., ed. (O '68)

Community and school

- Crain, R. L. Politics of school desegregation. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Community witness. Swanston, H. F. G. (My '68)

- Companion guide to Yugoslavia. Cuddon, J. A. (D '68)

- Company I've kept. MacDiarmid, H. (Je '68)

- Comparative approach to American history. Woodward, C. V., ed. (Ag '68)

- Comparative government. See Political science

- Comparative political development. Field, G. L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Comparative political systems. Cohen, R., ed. (My '68)

- Comparative studies and educational decision. King, E. J. (D '68)

Competition

- Kuene, R. E., ed. Monopolistic competition theory: studies in impact. (Je '68)

- Competitive interference and twentieth century diplomacy. Cottam, R. W. (My '68)

- Complete swindler. Hancock, R. (My '68)

- Complete bean cookbook. Bennett, V. (Ag '68)

- Complete Bolivian diaries of Ché Guevara. Guevara, E. (N '68)

- Complete book of pasta. Scott, J. D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Complete communicants (Winter lightly). Bergman, I. (In his A film trilogy). (Ap '68)

- Complete guide to thoroughbred racing. Ainslie's. Ainslie, T. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Complete medical guide [rev ed]. Miller, B. F. (Ap '68)

- Complete novels of Stephen Crane. Crane, S. (My '68)

- Complete plays. 2v. Racine, J. (D '68)

- Complete poems of Marianne Moore. Moore, M. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

- Complete prose tales of Alexandr Sergeyevitch Pushkin. Pushkin, A. S. (Ap '68)

- Complete science course for young experimenters. (Mr '68)

- Completeness in science. Schlegel, R. (Je '68)

Composers

- Weiss, P., comp. & ed. Letters of composers through six centuries. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

See also

- Amram, D.
 Britten, B.
 Dvořák, A.
 Elgar, E. W.
 Falla, M. de
 Mozart, J. C. W. A.
 Prokofieff, S.
 Purcell, H.
 Ravel, M.
 Rossini, G. A.
 Schütz, H.
 Stravinsky, I. F.
 Wagner, R.
 Weber, K. M. F. E., Freiherr von

Composers, American*See also

- Bernstein, L.

Composers, English

- Le Huray, P. Music and the reformation in England, 1549-1660. (N '68)

Composers, Russian*Juvenile literature

- Posell, E. Z. Russian composers. (Ag '68)

Composition (Art)

- Feldman, E. B. Art as image and idea. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Gilson, E. Forms and substances in the arts. (Ap '68)

- Rickey, G. Constructivism. (Je '68)

- Sweeney, J. J. Vision and image (D '68)

Composition (Music)

- Perle, G. Serial composition and atonality [2d ed rev & enl]. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Russo, W. Jazz composition and orchestration. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Schoenberg, A. Fundamentals of musical composition. (O '68)

Compton family

- Blackwood, J. R. House on College avenue. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Computational analysis of present-day American English. Kucera, H. (O '68)

- Computer in American education. Bushnell, D. D., ed. (Ag '68)

- Computers, system science and evolving society. Sackman, H. (O '68)

Comstock Lode, Nevada*Juvenile literature

- Young, B. Forged in silver. (Ag '68)

- Comte de Chambord. Brown, M. L. (Ag '68)

- Con game. Waugh, H. (O '68)

Concentration camps

- Kitagawa, D. Issei and nisei. (Mr '68)

- Mucha, J. Living and partly living. (D '68)

See also

- Auschwitz (Concentration camp)

- Concept and quality. Pepper, S. C. (N '68)

- Concept of ideology. Lichtheim, G. (1967, 1968 Annual)

- Concept of philosophy. Newell, R. W. (N '68)

- Concept of representation. Pitkin, H. F. (Ag '68)

- Concept of willing. Lapsley, J. N., ed. (Ag '68)

Concepts in Western thought series:

- McGill, V. J. Idea of happiness. (My '68)

- Conceptual foundations of scientific thought. Wartofsky, M. W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Concerns of a citizen. Romney, G. (Je '68)

- Concise history of Canada. Graham, G. S. (S '68)

- Concise history of Russian literature, v 1. Lindstrom, T. S. (Mr '68)

- Concordance to the writings of William Blake, 2v. Erdman, D. V., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Concrete God. James, R. E. (D '68)

- Concrete judasbird. Mathews, F. X. (O '68)

- Concrete wilderness. Couffer, J. (Mr '68)

- Condition of Republicanism. Thimmesch, N. (S '68)

- Condition pink. Cooley, L. F. (Ap '68)

Condors

- McMillan, I. Man and the California condor. (O '68)

Conducting

- Schonberg, H. C. Great conductors. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Conductors (Music)

- Schonberg, H. C. Great conductors. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

See also

- Bernstein, L.

- Confederate Athens. Coleman, K. (N '68)

Confederate States of America*History, Military

Connelly, T. L. Army of the heartland. (Je '68)

Politics and government

Amlund, C. A. Federalism in the Southern Confederacy. (My '68)
Ringold, M. S. Role of the state legislatures in the Confederacy. (Ap '68)

Confederate States of America, Army

Connelly, T. L. Army of the heartland. (Je '68)

Confess! confess! Gilboa, Y. A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Confessions of a disloyal European. Myrdal, J. (Ag '68)

Confessions of Nat Turner. Styron, W. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Conflict and consensus. Regan, R. J. (Mr '68)

Congo (Democratic Republic)

Lefever, E. W. Uncertain mandate. (My '68)

History

Balandier, G. Daily life in the kingdom of the Kongo. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Politics and government

Tshombe, M. My fifteen months in government. (S '68)

Congress and the citizen-soldier. Levantrosser, W. F. (O '68)

Congressional conservatism and the New Deal. Patterson, J. T. (Mr '68)

Congressional insurgents and the party system, 1909-1916. Holt, J. (My '68)

Congressional process. Froman, L. A. (Ag '68)

Congreve, William

Van Voris, W. H. Cultivated stance. (O '68)

Connecticut*History

Bushman, R. L. From Puritan to Yankee. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Social conditions

Bushman, R. L. From Puritan to Yankee. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Connelly, Marc

Connelly, M. Voices offstage. (D '68)

Connoisseur's cookbook. Carrier, R. (Ap '68)

Conquest of Apacheria. Thrapp, D. L. (Ap '68)

Conquest of Chile. Pocock, H. R. S. (Je '68)

Conquest of energy. Harrison, G. R. (Ja '69)

Conquest of the last frontier. Neatby, L. H. (Mr '68)

Conquistadors without swords. Deuel, L., comp. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Conrad, Joseph

Fleishman, A. Conrad's politics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Rosenfield, C. Paradise of snakes. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

Smaridge, N. Master mariner. (Mr '68)

Conrad's politics. Fleishman, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Conroy, Frank

Conroy, F. Stop-time. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Conscience in America. Schlissel, L., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Conscience of James Joyce. O'Brien, D. (Ag '68)

Conscience of the state in North America. Norman, E. R. (N '68)

Conscientious objectors

American Friends service committee. The draft? (Ag '68)

Schlissel, L., ed. Conscience in America. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Conservation of library materials. Cunha, G. D. M. (O '68)

Conservatism

Erdman, H. L. Swatantra party and Indian conservation. (N '68)

Evans, M. S. Future of conservatism. (S '68)

Guttmann, A. Conservative tradition in America. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Patterson, J. T. Congressional conservatism and the New Deal. (Mr '68)

Conservative party (Great Britain)

Nordlinger, E. A. Working-class Tories. (N '68)

Conservative party (New York)

Mahoney, J. D. Actions speak louder. (O '68)

Conservative tradition in America. Guttmann, A. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Conspiracy against childhood. LeShan, E. J. (My '68)

Conspiracy against Hitler in the twilight war.

Deutsch, H. C. (S '68)

Conspiracy of Catiline. Hutchinson, L. (Mr '68)

Conspirators. Haggard, W. (O '68)

Constance. Clapp, P. (Ag '68)

Constance de Markievicz in the cause of Ireland.

Van Voris, J. (Mr '68)

Constant circle. Mayfield S. (N '68)

Constantinople. See Istanbul

Constellation. Hodges, M., ed. (S '68)

Constitutional history

Vile, M. J. C. Constitutionalism and the separation of powers. (Ap '68)

United States

See United States—Constitutional history

Constitutional politics in the progressive era.

Wood, S. B. (N '68)

Constitutionalism and the separation of powers. Vile, M. J. C. (Ap '68)

Constructivism. Rickey, G. (Je '68)

Consul of Florence. Eng title of: The man who saved Florence. Tutaev, D. (Mr '68)

Consumer credit. See Credit

Consumer protection

Mowbray, A. Q. Thumb on the scale. (Mr '68)

Consumers union report on life insurance. Consumer reports. (Ag '68)

Consumption (Economics)

Juster, F. T. Household capital formation and financing, 1897-1962. (Mr '68)

Contact lost. Hamre, L. (Mr '68)

Contact on Gorky Street. Wynne, G. (Mr '68)

Contagion and contagious diseases

Andrewes, C. H. Natural history of viruses. (Ap '68)

Containment and revolution. Horowitz, D., ed. (Mr '68)

Contemporary art in Africa. Beler, U. (S '68)

Contemporary change in traditional societies. Sv. Steward, J. H., ed. (N '68)

Contemporary China. Berton, P. (N '68)

Contemporary England, 1914-1964. Medicott, W. N. (Ap '68)

Contemporary Japanese prints. Kawakita, M. (Ap '68)

Contemporary sculpture techniques. Baldwin, J. (Ap '68)

Contemporary theology and psychotherapy. Oden, T. C. (Ap '68)

Contemporary world 1914/present. McNeill, W. H. (N '68)

Content analysis (Communication)

Budd, R. W. Content analysis of communications. (S '68)

Content analysis of communications. Budd, R. W. (S '68)

Contest over Japan. Fels, H. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Contexts of Dryden's thought. Harth, P. (Ag '68)

Continuing journey. MacLeish, A. (Ap '68)

Continuities in the study of social conflict. Coser, L. A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Contraception vs. tradition. Egner, G. (Ap '68)

Contracts

Wincor, R. Literary property. (Ap '68)

Controlling delinquents. Wheeler, S., ed. (Ag '68)

Controlling pollution. Goldman, M. I., ed. (Mr '68)

Conversations: Christian and Buddhist. Graham, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Conversations in Japan. Riesman, D. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Conversations with Henry Brandon. Brandon, H. (Ag '68)

Cookery

Anderson, J. Food is more than cooking. (D '68)

Cannon, P. New New can-opener cookbook. (Ag '68)

Erickson, C. Freezer cookbook. (O '68)

Farm journal. Cooking for company. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Froud, N. World book of hors-d'oeuvre and salads. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Greenberg, C. A. Day before cookbook. (Ag '68)

Horizon cookbook and illustrated history of eating and drinking through the ages. (D '68)

Paris, R. G. Gourmet cooking for one, or more. (O '68)

Robbins, A. R. Seven-Ingredients cookbook. (D '68)

Rubin, E. Doctor's wife's thinking thin cookbook. (My '68)

Seranne, A., ed. America cooks. (Mr '68)

Tal, P. Bachelorette cookbook. (O '68)

- Verdon, R. White House chef cookbook. (Mr '68)
- Waldo, M. International encyclopedia of cooking. 2v. (Mr '68)
- See also*
- Salads
- Beans
- Bennett, V. Complete bean cookbook. (Ag '68)
- Keys, M. Benevolent bean. (Ag '68)
- Cheese
- Froud, N. World book of egg and cheese dishes. (Ag '68)
- Chocolate
- Kaufman, W. I. Chocolate cookbook. (Ag '68)
- Cookies
- White, P. Cookies! (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Curry
- Collins, R. P. World of curries. (Ag '68)
- Dictionaries
- Arkin, F. Cook's companion. (Ag '68)
- Eggs
- Beinert, F. L. Art of making soufflés. (Mr '68)
- Froud, N. World book of egg and cheese dishes. (Ag '68)
- Flowers
- MacNicol, M. Flower cookery. (Ap '68)
- Pasta
- Scott, J. D. Complete book of pasta. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Sauces
- Oliver, R. Wine and food society's guide to classic sauces and their preparation. (O '68)
- California
- Zelayeta, E. Elena's favorite foods. (Mr '68)
- Georgia
- Sibley, C. Place called Sweet Apple. (Mr '68)
- New England
- Campbell, M. M. New England butt'ry shelf cookbook. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Texas
- Fehrenbach, L. Pedernales country cookbook. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Cookery, American
- Cannon, P. Presidents' cookbook. (Ag '68)
- Heller, E. E. Art of Pennsylvania Dutch cooking. (Ag '68)
- Heth, E. H. Country kitchen cook book. (Ag '68)
- Smith, M. Entertaining in the White House. (My '68)
- Cookery, Basque
- Rogers, A. Basque story cook book. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Cookery, Canadian
- Robotti, F. D. French cooking in the new world. (Mr '68)
- Cookery, Chinese
- Lee, J. Jim Lee's Chinese cookbook. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Ma, N. C. Mrs Ma's favorite Chinese recipes. (O '68)
- Waldo, M. Myra Waldo's Chinese cookbook. (O '68)
- Cookery, Creole
- Robotti, F. D. French cooking in the new world. (Mr '68)
- Stanforth, D. New Orleans restaurant cookbook. (Mr '68)
- Cookery, English
- Manders, O. S. Mrs Manders' cook book. (O '68)
- Cookery, French
- Child, J. French chef cookbook. (Je '68)
- Cookery, Greek
- Skoura, S. Greek cook book. (Mr '68)
- Cookery, Hawaiian
- Gibbons, E. Euell Gibbons' Beachcomber's handbook. (Mr '68)
- Cookery, Indic
- Vithaldas, Y. Yogi cook book. (Je '68)
- Cookery, International
- Carrier, R. Connoisseur's cookbook. (Ap '68)
- Field, M. Michael Field's Culinary classics and improvisations. (N '68)
- House and garden (periodical). House & garden's new cook book. (Mr '68)
- Howe, R. Wine and food society's guide to soups. (S '68)
- Spunt, G. Memoirs & menus. (Ap '68)
- Trader Vic's Pacific Island cookbook. (Ag '68)
- Cookery, Italian
- Scott, J. D. Complete book of pasta. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Cookery, Mennonite
- Heller, E. E. Art of Pennsylvania Dutch cooking. (Ag '68)
- Cookery, Swedish
- Bjorn, T. F. Home has a heart. (D '68)
- Cookery, Vietnamese
- Miller, J. N. H. Vietnamese cookery. (Ag '68)
- Cookies! White, P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Cooking for company. Farm journal. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Cooking for family campers. Newman, J. (O '68)
- Cook's companion. Arkin, F. (Ag '68)
- Cool millennium. Sykes, G. (Mr '68)
- Cooper, James Fenimore
- Dekker, G. James Fenimore Cooper: the American Scott. (S '68)
- Copley, John Singleton
- Juvenile literature
- Ripley, E. Copley. (Mr '68)
- Coppolino, Carl Anthony
- Holmes, P. Trials of Dr. Coppolino. (Ag '68)
- MacDonald, J. D. No deadly drug. (D '68)
- Coptic sculpture, 300-1300. Beckwith, J. (Ap '68)
- Copyright
- Bugbee, B. W. Genesis of American patent and copyright law. (Ag '68)
- Gipe, G. A. Copyright and the machine nearer to the dust. (Mr '68)
- Copyright and the machine nearer to the dust. Gipe, G. A. (Mr '68)
- Coral reefs and Islands
- Roedelberger, F. A. Wildlife of the South Seas. (Ap '68)
- Corals
- Juvenile literature
- Zim, H. S. Corals. (Mr '68)
- Corals. Zim, H. S. (Mr '68)
- Corder index. Raine, R. (Mr '68)
- El Cordobés. See Benítez, M.
- Corduroy. Freeman, D. (Ag '68)
- Corn
- Juvenile literature
- Elting, M. Mysterious grain. (Ap '68)
- Corporate ideal in the liberal state, 1900-1918. Weinstein, J. (D '68)
- Corporate management in a world of politics. Brayman, H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Corporation law
- Berle, A. A. Modern corporation and private property [rev ed]. (N '68)
- Corporations
- Berle, A. A. Modern corporation and private property [rev ed]. (N '68)
- Kaufmann, C. B. Man incorporate. (Ap '68)
- McKay, E. A. Macmillan job guide to American corporations. (Ap '68)
- Correspondence of Edmund Burke, v6. Burke, E. (My '68)
- Correspondence of Isaac Newton, v4. Newton, I. (Mr '68)
- Correspondence of Jeremy Bentham, 2v. Bentham, J. (S '68)
- Corruption (in politics)
- Boyd, J. Above the law. (My '68)
- Cosmic clocks. Gauquelin, M. (N '68)
- Cosmicomics. Calvino, I. (N '68)
- Cosmos of Arthur Holly Compton. Compton, A. H. (My '68)
- Costs of economic growth. Mishan, E. J. (My '68)
- Costume
- Adams, J. D. Naked we came. (Mr '68)
- Cunnington, P. Occupational costume in England, from the eleventh century to 1914. (Je '68)
- Rubens, A. History of Jewish costume. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Taylor, J. It's a small, medium and outsize world. (Mr '68)
- Cotton manufacture and trade
- Woodman, H. D. King cotton & his retainers. (O '68)
- Cotton versus conscience. Brauer, K. J. (Ap '68)
- Counseling
- Freeman, H. A. Counseling in the United States. (My '68)
- MacLennan, B. W. Group counseling and psychotherapy with adolescents. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Counseling in the United States. Freeman, A. H. (My '68)
 Count me gone. Johnson, A. (D '68)
 Counterfeiters. Kenner, H. (Je '68)
 Country kitchen cook book. Heth, E. H. (Ag '68)

Country life

Georgia

Sibley, C. Place called Sweet Apple. (Mr '68)

Wisconsin

Purcell, W. G. St Croix Trail country. (Ap '68)

Country life pocket dictionary of collector's terms. Eng title of: Pocket dictionary of collector's terms. Goodwin, M. (Ag '68)
 Course. Huff, R. (My '68)
 Course of Irish history. Moody, T. W., ed. (Ap '68)

Court life. See Courts and courtiers

Courts

New York (State)

Dolbeare, K. M. Trial courts in urban politics. (N '68)

Singapore

Djamour, J. Muslim matrimonial court in Singapore. (Je '68)

United States

Blumberg, A. S. Criminal justice. (Ap '68)
 Heller, L. B. Do you solemnly swear? (My '68)
 James, H. Crisis in the courts. (Ag '68)

Courts and courtiers

Beattie J. M. English court in the reign of George I. (Ag '68)

Courts martial and courts of inquiry

Wiener, F. B. Civilians under military justice. (D '68)

Courtship. Bastock, M. (My '68)

Covenants. Stock, R. (My '68)

Covering the court. Laney, A. (N '68)

Coward, Tiede, T. (N '68)

Crabtree, Lotta

Dempsey, D. Triumphs and trials of Lotta Crabtree. (O '68)

Cradle of civilization. Kramer, S. N. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Craft of diplomacy. Busk, D. (My '68)

Craft of social anthropology. Epstein, A. L., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Craig, Edward Gordon

Craig, E. Gordon Craig. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Craig, Gordon. See Craig, E. G.

Crane, Hart

Leibowitz, H. A. Hart Crane. (Ag '68)

Lewis, R. W. B. Poetry of Hart Crane. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Bibliography

Lohf, K. A., comp. Literary manuscripts of Hart Crane. (Je '68)

Crane, Stephen

Stallman, R. W. Stephen Crane. (O '68)

Crane, Winthrop Murray

Johnson, C. W. Winthrop Murray Crane: a study in Republican leadership, 1892-1920. (O '68)

Cranes (Birds)

Hyde, D. O. Sandy. (Ag '68)

Crayon drawing

Pluckrose, H. Introducing crayon techniques. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Creation

Neville, R. C. God the creator. (Ag '68)

Overman, R. H. Evolution and the Christian doctrine of creation. (D '68)

Juvenile literature

Jones, M. A. Bible story of the creation. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Creation (Literary, artistic, etc.)

Arieti, S. Intrapsychic self. (S '68)

Creative encounters in the classroom. Mas-sialas, B. G. (Ag '68)

Creative rubbings. Andrew, L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Creators, collectors, and connoisseurs. Holst, N. von. (Mr '68)

Creatures of Arcadia, and creatures of a day. Eliot, A. (Mr '68)

Credibility of divine existence. Smith, N. K. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual) Credibility of the church today. Baum, G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Credit

Juster, F. T. Household capital formation and financing, 1897-1962. (Mr '68)

Creek frontier, 1540-1783. Corkran, D. H. (Mr '68)

Creek Indians

Corkran, D. H. Creek frontier, 1540-1783. (Mr '68)

Wright, J. L. William Augustus Bowles. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

Orrmont, A. Diplomat in warpaint: Chief Alexander McGillivray of the Creeks. (Je '68)

The creep. Frank, J. (Ap '68)

Crete

Antiquities

Hawkes, J. Dawn of the gods. (D '68)

Matt, L. von. Ancient Crete. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

Baumann, H. Lion gate and labyrinth. (Ag '68)

Cricket winter. Holman, F. (My '68)

Crime and criminals

Block, E. B. Fabric of guilt. (O '68)

Menninger, K. Crime of punishment. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Moscow, A. Merchants of heroin. (D '68)

Wolfgang, M. E. Subculture of violence. (S '68)

Identification

Thorwald, J. Crime and science. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Chicago

Halper, A., ed. Chicago crime book. (Mr '68)

Florida

Messick, H. Syndicate in the sun. (S '68)

United States

Cipes, R. M. Crime war. (S '68)

Evans, M. S. Lawbreakers. (My '68)

The West

Juvenile literature

Rennert, V. P. Western outlaws. (O '68)

Crime and publicity. Friendly, A. (Ag '68)

Crime and science. Thorwald, J. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Crime of punishment. Menninger, K. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Crime war. Cipes R. M. (S '68)

Crimean War, 1853-1856

Anderson, O. Liberal state at war. (Ag '68)

Criminal investigation

Block, E. B. Fabric of guilt. (O '68)

Orbaan, A. Dogs against crime. (My '68)

Thorwald, J. Crime and science. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Turner, W. W. Invisible witness: the use and abuse of the new technology of crime investigation. (S '68)

Juvenile literature

Deming, R. Police lab at work. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Hynd, A. Great crime busters. (Ap '68)

Criminal justice. Blumberg, A. S. (Ap '68)

Criminal law

Blumberg, A. S. Criminal justice. (Ap '68)

Cohen, J. A. Criminal process in the People's Republic of China, 1949-1963. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Goldstein, A. S. Insanity defense. (Je '68)

Karlen, D. Anglo-American criminal justice. (N '68)

Menninger, K. Crime of punishment. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Criminal process in the People's Republic of China, 1949-1963. Cohen, J. A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Crisis at St John's. Scimecca, J. (N '68)

Crisis in credibility. Ladd, B. (My '68)

Crisis in print. Graham, H. D. (Ag '68)

Crisis in the courts. James, H. (Ag '68)

Crisis now. Gavin, J. M. (My '68)

Crisis of Russian populism. Wortman, R. (O '68)

Crisis of the Negro intellectual. Cruse, H. (Mr '68)

Crisis of the Renaissance, 1520-1600. Chastel, A. (O '68)

Crisis of the seventeenth century Trevor-Roper, H. R. (Je '68)

Critical approach to children's literature. Smith, J. S. (Ap '68)

Critical historian. Kitson Clark, G. (Mr '68)

Critical reputation of F. Scott Fitzgerald. Bryer, J. R. (S '68)

Critical spirit. Wolff, K. H., ed. (Mr '68)

Criticism

- Krieger, M. Play and place of criticism. (N '68)
 Tynan, K. Tynan right & left. (Mr '68)
 Critics of society. Bottomore T. B. (Ag '68)
 Critique of the new commonplaces. Ellul, J. (Ag '68)
 Crocodile has me by the leg. Doob, L. W., ed. (Je '68)
 Croker papers, 1808-1857 [new and abr ed]. Croker, J. W. (Mr '68)
 Cromwell, Oliver

Juvenile literature

- Levine, I. E. Oliver Cromwell. (Mr '68)
 Cross, Mary Ann (Evans)
 Haight, G. S. George Eliot. (D '68)
 Sprague, R. George Eliot. (Ag '68)

Middlemarch

- Hardy, B., ed. Middlemarch. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Cross-cultural approaches. Ford, C. S., ed. (Ag '68)
 Cross-cultural summary. Textor, R. B., comp. (O '68)
 Crossing fee. Warner, E. (Je '68)
 Crossroad puzzlers. Webster, D. (My '68)
 Crossroads. McConkey, J. (Ap '68)
 Crows

Stories

- Huxley, A. Crows of Pearblossom. (Ap '68)
 Crows of Pearblossom. Huxley, A. (Ap '68)
 Cruelty to children, Prevention of. See Child welfare
 Cruise of the Aardvark. Nash, O. (Mr '68)

Cryptography

- Farago, L. Broken seal. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Gordon, C. H. Forgotten scripts. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Kahn, D. Codebreakers. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual) Crystals of life. Kraske, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Cuba*Economic policy

- Boorstein, E. Economic transformation of Cuba. (S '68)

Foreign relations*United States

- Lazo, M. Dagger in the heart. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Plank, J., ed. Cuba and the United States. (Je '68)

History

- Franqui, C. Twelve. (Ag '68)
 Guevara, E. Che Guevara speaks. (Ag '68)
 Guevara, E. Episodes of the revolutionary war. (O '68)
 Meneses, E. Fidel Castro. (D '68)
 Ruiz, R. E. Cuba. (O '68)

1959-

- Guevara, E. Reminiscences of the Cuban revolutionary war. (Je '68)
 Plank, J., ed. Cuba and the United States. (Je '68)

Politics and government

- Ruiz, R. E. Cuba. (O '68)
 Suárez, A. Cuba: Castroism and communism, 1959-1966. (Mr '68)

Social conditions

- Ruiz, R. E. Cuba. (O '68)
 Yglesias, J. In the fist of the revolution. (O '68)

- Cuba. Ruiz, R. E. (O '68)
 Cuba and the United States. Plank, J., ed. (Je '68)

- Cuba: Castroism and communism, 1959-1966. Suárez, A. (Mr '68)
 Culinary classics and improvisations Michael Field's. Field, M. (O '68)
 Cultivated stance. Van Voris, W. H. (O '68)

Cultural relations

- Crofut, W. Troubadour. (Ag '68)
 Culturally disadvantaged: a bibliography and keyword-out-of-context (KWOC) index. Booth, R. E., comp. (Mr '68)

Culture

- Gorer, G. Danger of equality. (Je '68)
 Silberg, R. Devolution of the people. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Steward, J. H., ed. Contemporary change in traditional societies, 3v (N '68)
 Culture. Montagu, M. F. A., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Culture and consciousness. Levitas, G. B., ed. (S '68)

- Culture and poverty. Valentine, C. A. (D '68)

- Culture vultures. Levy, A. (N '68)

- Cunard, Maude Alice (Burke) Lady Fielding, D. Those remarkable Cunards. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Cunard, Nancy Fielding, D. Those remarkable Cunards. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Ford, H., ed. Nancy Cunard: brave poet, indomitable rebel, 1896-1965. (N '68)

Cuneiform inscriptions

- Gordon, C. H. Forgotten scripts. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Curiosities

- Godwin, J. This baffling world. (S '68)
 Curious death of the novel. Rubin, L. D. (Ag '68)

- Curious raccoons. Hess, L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Curious world of Frank Buckland. Eng title of: The eccentric ark. Burgess, G. H. O. (O '68)

- Curling. Boles, R. (Ag '68)

- Currency and financial system of mainland China. Miyashita, T. (Mr '68)

Currency question*Great Britain

- Hawtreay, R. Incomes and money. (O '68)

United States

- Nugent, W. T. K. Money question during reconstruction. (O '68)

- Rickenbacker, W. F. Death of the dollar. (D '68)

- Wicker, E. R. Federal reserve monetary policy, 1917-1933. (Mr '68)

Cuzco, Peru

- Brundage, B. C. Lords of Cuzco. (O '68)

Cybernetics

- Crosson, F. J., ed. Philosophy and cybernetics. (Je '68)

- Cyclical fluctuations in the exports of the United States since 1879. Mintz, I. (N '68)

- Cypress lumbering in the Old Southwest. Andrew Brown and. Moore, J. H. (Mr '68)

- Cyrus Field: man of two worlds. Carter, S. (Ap '68)

- Czars and czarinas of Russia. Rice, T. T. (O '68)

Czechoslovak Republic*Economic conditions

- Sik, O. Plan and market under socialism. (N '68)

History*Sources

- Kennan, G. F. From Prague after Munich. (Ag '68)

- D. H. Lawrence: poems selected for young people. Lawrence, D. H. (1967, 1968 Annual)

DNA

- Sullivan, N. Message of the genes. (Ag '68)

- Watson, J. D. Double helix. (My '68)

Dąbrowska, Maria (Szumska)

- Folejewski, Z. Maria Dąbrowska. (N '68)

- Daddy-Long-Legs. Webster, J. (Ag '68)

- Dagger in the heart. Lazo, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Daguerreotype

- Rinhart, F. American daguerreian art. (Ap '68)

Dahlberg, Edward

- Billings, H. Edward Dahlberg. (O '68)

- Daily life in the kingdom of the Kongo. Balandier, G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Dakar, Senegal

- Peterec, R. J. Dakar and West African economic development. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Dakar and West African economic development. Peterec, R. J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Damages. Howard, R. (D '68)

Damascus

- Thubron, C. Mirror to Damascus. (Ap '68)

Dana, Richard Henry

- Dana, R. H. Journal of Richard Henry Dana, 3v. (O '68)

- Dance encyclopedia [rev & enl ed]. Chujoy, A., ed. (Ag '68)

- Dance language and orientation of bees. Frisch, K. von. (My '68)

- Dance of Genghis Cohn. Gary, R. (O '68)

- Dance through the ages. Sorell, W. (O '68)

Dancing

Sorell, W. Dance through the ages. (O '68)

Dictionaries

Chujoy, A., ed. Dance encyclopedia [rev & enl ed]. (Ag '68)

Study and teaching

Maynard, O. Children and dance and music. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

India

Singha, R. Indian dances. (N '68)

Dancing bear. Hill, G. (S '68)

Danger of equality. Gorer, G. (Je '68)

Dangerous air. Kavalier, L. (Mr '68)

Dangerous year. Zistel, E. (Je '68)

Daniel Defoe and middle-class gentility. Shinagel, M. (O '68)

Danilevsky, Nicholas Iakovlevich

MacMaster, R. E. Danilevsky. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Dante Alighieri

Dante Alighieri. Dante's lyric poetry, 2v. (S '68)

Dictionaries

Toynbee, P. J. Dictionary of proper names and notable matters in the works of Dante [new ed]. (O '68)

The divine comedy

Bergin, T. G. Perspectives on The divine comedy. (Mr '68)

Dante's lyric poetry, 2v. Dante Alighieri. (S '68)

Dark as the grave wherein my friend is laid. Lowry, M. (O '68)

Dark birds. Meyers, B. (O '68)

Dark star. Dugger, R. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Dark venture. Beyer, A. W. (O '68)

Darwin, Charles Robert

Darwin, C. R. Darwin and Henslow. (Ap '68)

Farrington, B. What Darwin really said. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

Horizon magazine. Charles Darwin and The origin of species. (Ag '68)

Darwin and Henslow. Darwin, C. R. (Ap '68)

Davenport, Marcia

Davenport, M. Too strong for fantasy. (1967, 1968 Annual)

David Hicks on decoration. Hicks, D. (Ag '68)

David Snedden and education for social efficiency. Drost, W. H. (S '68)

Davies, Samuel

Davies, S. Reverend Samuel Davies abroad. (Ag '68)

Dawn of medicine. Silverberg, R. (My '68)

Dawn of the gods. Hawkes, J. (D '68)

Dawn of zoology. Ley, W. (D '68)

Day before cookbook. Greenberg, C. A. (Ag '68)

Day I met a lion. Kantor, M. (My '68)

Day is dancing. Bennett, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Day Kennedy was shot. Bishop, J. (Ja '69)

Day of St Anthony's fire. Fuller, J. G. (N '68)

Day of the feast. Lane, M. (D '68)

Day of the scorpion. Scott, P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Day Tuk became a hunter & other Eskimo stories. Melzack, R. (Ag '68)

Day we got drunk on cake. Trevor, W. (Mr '68)

Daybreak. Baez, J. (N '68)

Days of fire. Katz, S. (Ag '68)

Days of the steamboats. Ewen, W. H. (Mr '68)

Dead by the light of the moon. Wells, T. (Mr '68)

Dead end school. Coles, R. (Ag '68)

Dead woman of the year. Pentecost, H. (Ap '68)

Deadly craft. Hoyt, E. P. (Ag '68)

Death

Foss, M. Death, sacrifice, and tragedy. (Ap '68)

Death and life in the tenth century. Duckett, E. (Je '68)

Death and the Dutch uncle. Moyes, P. (Ja '69)

Death at an early age. Kozol, J. (Ag '68)

Death in life. Lifton, R. J. (Ap '68)

Death of a democracy. Rousseas, S. (Ap '68)

Death of Adolf Hitler. Bezymenski, L. (N '68)

Death of an army. Farrar-Hockley, A. (Ag '68)

Death of God theology. See Radical theology

Death of the dollar. Rickenbacker, W. F. (D '68)

Death on the installment plan; tr. by Ralph

Manheim. Celine, L. F. (Ag '68)

Death, sacrifice, and tragedy. Foss, M. (Ap '68)

Debris. Brower, B. (Mr '68)

Debts, Public*Great Britain

Dickson, P. G. M. Financial revolution in England. (My '68)

Debut at the Met. Peters, R. (Mr '68)

Decade later: a follow-up of Social class and mental illness. Myers, J. K. (S '68)

Decembrist movement. Raeff, M. (Mr '68)

Decisions for a decade. Kennedy, E. M. (D '68)

Decline of Rome. Vogt, J. (Ag '68)

Decline of socialism in America, 1912-1925.

Weinstein, J. (Ag '68)

Decoration and ornament

Landau, R. Morocco. (My '68)

Decoration and ornament, Architectural

Bunting, B. Houses of Boston's Back Bay. (Ag '68)

Decoration and ornament, English

Gilliatt, M. English style in interior decoration. (Mr '68)

Decoration and ornament, French

Verlet, P. Eighteenth century in France. (Ap '68)

Decoration and ornament, Irish

Curran, C. P. Dublin decorative plasterwork of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. (Je '68)

Decoration and ornament, Japanese

Oka, H. How to wrap five eggs. (O '68)

Deep, deep freeze. Garner, W. (N '68)

Deep-sea photography. Hersey, J. B., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Deep South. Caldwell, E. (Je '68)

Defending ancient springs. Raine, K. (Ag '68)

Defense of the realm. Rosecrance, R. N. (O '68)

Defoe, Daniel

Shinagel, M. Daniel Defoe and middle-class gentility. (O '68)

DeFord. Shetzline, D. (Ag '68)

De Gaulle's foreign policy, 1944-1946. DePorte, A. W. (S '68)

Degeneration of our presidential election. Abels, J. (Ag '68)

De Grazia paints the Yaqui Easter. De Grazia, T. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Delano, California*Strike, 1965-

Dunne, J. G. Delano. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Delano. Dunne, J. G. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Delicious plums of King Oscar the Bad. Schreiter, R. (Mr '68)

Delinquency research. Hirschi, T. (N '68)

Delmar, Vifia (Croter)

Delmar, V. Becker scandal. (Je '68)

Delmonico's

Thomas, L. Delmonico's. (Ap '68)

Democracy

Barnes, S. H. Party democracy. (Ap '68)

Dietze, G. America's political dilemma. (N '68)

Hyneman, C. S. Popular government in America. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Zetterbaum, M. Tocqueville and the problem of democracy. (My '68)

Democracy and the student left. Kennan G. F. (N '68)

Democratic party

Bailey, T. A. Democrats vs. Republicans. (S '68)

Goodman, J. S. Democrats and labor in Rhode Island, 1952-1962. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Young, A. F. Democratic Republicans of New York. (Ap '68)

History

Burner, D. Politics of provincialism. (Ag '68)

Prince, C. E. New Jersey's Jeffersonian Republicans. (Mr '68)

Democratic representation. Dixon, R. G. (Ja '69)

(1968 Annual)

Democratic Republicans of New York. Young, A. F. (Ap '68)

Democratic revolution in the West Indies. Bell, W., ed. (Je '68)

Democrats and labor in Rhode Island, 1952-1962.

Goodman, J. S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Democrats vs. Republicans. Bailey, T. A. (S '68)

Democritus

Cole, T. Democritus and the sources of Greek anthropology. (S '68)

Democritus and the sources of Greek anthropology. Cole, T. (S '68)

Demography

Beaujeu-Garnier, J. Geography of population. (My '68)

- Demon and the dove. Van Kaam, A. (Ap '68)
 Deoxyribonucleic acid. See DNA
 Department. Brace, G. W. (D '68)
 Department of housing and urban development. Willmann, J. B. (Ag '68)
 Department of Justice. Huston, L. A. (Ag '68)
 Desegregation era in higher education. Wiggins, S. F. (Ag '68)
 Desert solitaire. Abbey, E. (Je '68)
Deserts
 Abbey, E. Desert solitaire. (Je '68)
 Hills, E. S., ed. Arid lands. (Mr '68)
 Deserts of Libya. Tobino, M. (In The lost legions). (Mr '68)
Design, Decorative
 Watkinson, R. William Morris as designer. (Mr '68)
Design, Industrial
 Hughes, G. Modern silver, throughout the world, 1880-1967. (Mr '68)
 Design of books. Wilson, A. (Ag '68)
 Design of life. Mazzeo, J. A. (My '68)
 Designing with string. Seyd, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Desoxyribonucleic acid. See DNA
 Desperate act. Feuerlicht, R. S. (S '68)
 Determined to live. Paoli, P. (O '68)
Deterrence
 Harkabi, Y. Nuclear war and nuclear peace. (Mr '68)
Detroit
Police
 Hersey, J. Algiers Motel incident. (O '68)
Riots
 Hersey, J. Algiers Motel incident. (O '68)
 Lee, A. M. Race riot, Detroit 1943. (D '68)
 Sauter, V. G. Nightmare in Detroit. (N '68)
Detroit Industrial Mission
 Paradise, S. I. Detroit industrial mission. (N '68)
Detzer, Karl
 Detzer, K. Myself when young. (Je '68)
 Deuteronomy and tradition. Nicholson, E. W. (Mr '68)
 Development and administration of the New York State law against discrimination. Higbee, J. A. (N '68)
 Development of economic analysis. Rima, I. H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Development of modern surgery. Cartwright, F. F. (Je '68)
 Development of political attitudes in children. Hess, R. D. (Ag '68)
 Development projects observed. Hirschman, A. O. (Ag '68)
 Development strategy in Thailand. Muscat, R. J. (Mr '68)
Deviant behavior
 Polsky, N. Hustlers, beats, and others. (1967, 1968 Annual)
Devil
 Kluger, R. S. Satan in the Old Testament. (Ag '68)
 Devil drives. Brodie, F. M. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
De Villeneuve, Justin
 Whiteside, T. Twiggy and Justin. (Ag '68)
 Devil's Island. See Iles du Salut
 Devolution of the people. Silberg, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Devotional literature
 Malania, F. Quantity of a hazel nut. (My '68)
 Dewey decimal classification and relative index, v2 [17th ed rev]. Dewey, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
The Dial (periodical)
 Joost, N. Years of transition: the Dial, 1912-1920. (My '68)
 Dial, 1912-1920: years of transition. Joost, N. (My '68)
Dialectical materialism
 Jaworskyj, M., ed. & tr. Soviet political thought. (S '68)
 Jordan, Z. A. Evolution of dialectical materialism. (Je '68)
 Laszlo, E., ed. Philosophy in the Soviet Union. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Bibliography
 Lachs, J. Marxist philosophy. (O '68)
 Dialogue between theology and psychology. Hornans, P., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Dialogue: the state of the church today. Haughton, R. (D '68)
 Dialogue with Erik Erikson. Evans, R. I. (Ag '68)
 Dialogues with the devil. Caldwell, T. (N '68)
 Diamonds bid. Rathbone, J. (Mr '68)
 Diaries and letters; v3. The later years, 1945-1962. Nicolson, H. (S '68)
 Diary of James A. Garfield, v 1-2 [annot ed]. Garfield, J. A. (Ap '68)
Dickens, Charles
 Coolidge, A. C. Charles Dickens ■ serial novelist. (Ap '68)
 Monod, S. Dickens the novelist. (Ag '68)
 Price, M., ed. Dickens. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Juvenile literature
 Kyle, E. Great ambitions. (Je '68)
 Dickens the novelist. Monod, S. (Ag '68)
Dickinson, Emily
 Franklin, R. W. Editing of Emily Dickinson. (Ap '68)
 Sherwood, W. R. Circumference and circumstance. (Ag '68)
Dictators
Juvenile literature
 Archer, J. Dictators. (Ag '68)
 Dictators. Archer, J. (Ag '68)
 Dictionary-catalogue of operas and operettas. 2v. Towers, J. (My '68)
 Dictionary of acronyms & abbreviations. Pugh, E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Dictionary of American portraits. Cirker, H., ed. (Ag '68)
 Dictionary of applied geology. Nelson, A. (S '68)
 Dictionary of Christian ethics. Macquarrie, J., ed. (Je '68)
 Dictionary of contemporaries. Launay, A. J., comp. (D '68)
 Dictionary of English weights and measures. Zupko, R. E. (D '68)
 Dictionary of geography. Moore, W. G. (Ap '68)
 Dictionary of Indian history. Bhattacharya, S. (S '68)
 Dictionary of inventions and discoveries. Carter, E. F. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Dictionary of political science and law. Heiman, R. (Ap '68)
 Dictionary of proper names and notable matters in the works of Dante [new ed]. Toynbee, P. J. (O '68)
 Dictionary of quotations. Evans, B., ed. (Je '68)
 Dictionary of selected forms in classical Japanese literature. Morris, I. I. (Ag '68)
 Dictionary of sociology. Mitchell, G. D., ed. (S '68)
 Dictionary of the biological sciences. Gray, P. (Ap '68)
 Dictionary of the renaissance. Schweitzer, F., ed. (Je '68)
 Dictionary of Yiddish slang & idioms. Kogos, F. (Ag '68)
 Dido, queen of Carthage. Marlowe, C. (S '68)
Dieppe
History
 Pakenham, S. Sixty miles from England. (Mr '68)
Diet
 Rubin, E. Doctor's wife's thinking thin cookbook. (My '68)
 Wyden, P. How the doctors diet. (Ag '68)
Dietrich, Marlene
 Dickens, H. Films of Marlene Dietrich. (D '68)
 Frewin, L. Dietrich: the story of a star. (Mr '68)
 Dietrich: the story of a star. Frewin, L. (Mr '68)
 Difference of man and the difference it makes. Adler, M. J. (Mr '68)
 Different kind of country. Dasmann, R. F. (Ag '68)
 Difficult art of giving. Penfield, W. (Mr '68)
 Dilemmas of social reform. Marris, P. (N '68)
 Dimensions of authoritarianism: a review of research and theory. Kirscht, J. P. (Ap '68)
Dinosaurs
 Colbert, E. H. Men and dinosaurs. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Juvenile literature
 Craig, M. J. Dinosaurs and more dinosaurs. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Poetry
Juvenile literature
 Armour, R. Dozen dinosaurs. (Mr '68)
 Dinosaurs and more dinosaurs. Craig, M. J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Diplomacy
 Bailey, T. A. Art of diplomacy. (Ag '68)
 Kertesz, S. D. Quest for peace through diplomacy. (Ag '68)
 Queller, D. E. Office of ambassador in the middle ages. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Diplomat in Berlin, 1933-1939. Lipski, J. (Ag '68)

- Diplomat in warpaint: Chief Alexander McGillivray of the Creeks. Orrmont, A. (Je '68)
- Diplomat looks back. Einstein, L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Diplomatic and consular service
 Busk, D. Craft of diplomacy. (My '68)
 Tully, A. White tie and dagger. (Ap '68)
 Wilson, C. E. Diplomatic privileges and immunities. (N '68)
- Diplomatic corps under Charles II & James II. Lachs, P. S. (Ag '68)
- Diplomatic privileges and immunities. Wilson, C. E. (N '68)
- Diplomats
 Einstein, L. Diplomat looks back. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Queller, D. E. Office of ambassador in the middle ages. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Direction North. Sykes, J. (My '68)
- Dirty story. Ambler, E. (Mr '68)
- Disadvantaged. Fantini, M. D. (Je '68)
- Disadvantaged child. Deutsch, M. (N '68)
- Disarmament
 Baldwin, W. L. Structure of the defense market, 1955-1964. (O '68)
 Benoit, E., ed. Disarmament and world economic interdependence. (Mr '68)
 Berman, H. J. Disarmament inspection under Soviet law. (S '68)
 Deutsch, K. W. Arms control and the Atlantic alliance. (N '68)
 Stone, J. J. Strategic persuasion. (Je '68)
 Universities-National bureau committee for economic research. Issues in defense economics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Disarmament and world economic interdependence. Benoit, E., ed. (Mr '68)
- Disarmament inspection under Soviet law. Berman, H. J. (S '68)
- Discipline of power. Ball, G. W. (Je '68)
- Disciplines of the Christian life. Harkness, G. (Ap '68)
- Discourse of the contests and dissensions between the nobles and the commons in Athens and Rome. Swift, J. (Ag '68)
- Discoverer of X ray. Wilhelm Conrad Röntgen. Esterer, A. K. (O '68)
- Discoveries (in geography)
 Ward, R. G., ed. American activities in the central Pacific, 1790-1870, v 1. (Mr '68)
- Juvenile literature
 Moore, P. Exploring the world. (N '68)
- Discovering insects. Blough, G. O. (Ap '68)
- Discovering plants. Blough, G. O. (Mr '68)
- Discovering plants. Klein, R. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Discovering Tut-ankh-Amen's tomb. Glubok, S. (N '68)
- Discovery (Ship)
 Hardy, A. Great waters. (My '68)
- Discovery of abundance. Fox, D. M. (N '68)
- Discovery of grounded theory. Glaser, B. G. (S '68)
- Discovery of the elements. Ley, W. (O '68)
- Discovery of the elements [7th ed.]. Weeks, M. E. (D '68)
- Discrimination
 Berger, M. Equality by statute [rev ed.]. (S '68)
 Fanon, F. Black skin, white masks. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Higbee, J. A. Development and administration of the New York State law against discrimination. (N '68)
 Nolen, C. H. Negro's image in the South. (Mr '68)
 Sherwin-White, A. N. Racial prejudice in Imperial Rome. (O '68)
- Discrimination in education
 Kozol, J. Death at an early age. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Swanson, B. E. Struggle for equality. (Mr '68)
- Discrimination in employment
 Mayhew, L. H. Law and equal opportunity. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Discrimination in housing
 Mayhew, L. H. Law and equal opportunity. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Disease, pain, & sacrifice. Bakan, D. (S '68)
- Diseases
Juvenile literature
 Brooks, S. M. Sea inside us: water in the life processes. (N '68)
- Diseases, Industrial. See Occupational diseases
- Disintegration of form in the arts. Kahler, E. (Ag '68)
- Disney, Walt
 Schickel, R. Disney version. (Ag '68)
- Disney version. Schickel, R. (Ag '68)
- Disraeli, Benjamin, 1st Earl of Beaconsfield. See Beaconsfield, B. D.
- Disraeli, Blake, R. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Dissemination of health information. Feldman, J. J. (Ag '68)
- Dissent and dogma. Arnold, M. (O '68)
- Dissenter's guide to foreign policy. Howe, I., ed. (D '68)
- Dissenting academy. Roszak, T., ed. (Je '68)
- Dissertations in English and American literature. McNamee, L. F., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Dissolution of the monasteries. Woodward, G. W. O. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Distributive justice. Rescher, N. (Mr '68)
- Disturbance on Berry Hill. Fenwick, E. (Je '68)
- Divination
 Ebon, M. Prophecy in our time. (My '68)
- Diving into the past. Rackl, H.-W. (O '68)
- Diving vehicles
Juvenile literature
 Coggins, J. Hydrospace. (Mr '68)
- Divorce
 Metz, C. V. Divorce and custody for men. (Je '68)
 O'Neill, W. L. Divorce in the progressive era. (S '68)
 Waller, W. W. Old love and the new. (O '68)
- Laws and regulations
 Djamour, J. Muslim matrimonial court in Singapore. (Je '68)
- Divorce and custody for men. Metz, C. V. (Je '68)
- Divorce in the progressive era. O'Neill, W. L. (S '68)
- Dix, Morgan
 Swanberg, W. A. Rector and the rogue. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Dixon, Billy
Juvenile literature
 Place, M. T. Frontiersman. (Mr '68)
- Do butlers burgle banks? Wodehouse, P. G. (D '68)
- Do-gooders. Grossman, A. (D '68)
- Do you solemnly swear? Heller, L. B. (My '68)
- Dobie, James Frank
 Dobie, J. F. Some part of myself. (Je '68)
- Doctor among the addicts. Hentoff, N. (N '68)
- Doctor Dolittle. Lofting, H. (My '68)
- Doctor shortage. Fein, R. (Mr '68)
- Dr Swift; v2 of Swift: the man, his works, and the age. Ehrenpreis, I. (Je '68)
- Dr William Harvey and the discovery of circulation. Harrison, W. C. (Mr '68)
- Doctors and state medicine. Forsyth, G. (Je '68)
- Doctors' strike. Badgley, R. F. (O '68)
- Doctor's wife's thinking thin cookbook. Rubin, E. (My '68)
- Documentary chronicle of Sino-Western relations (1644-1820), 2v. Fu, L.-S., ed. & tr. (Ag '68)
- Documents of dialogue. Ward, H., ed. (Mr '68)
- Dodd, Thomas Joseph
 Boyd, J. Above the law. (My '68)
- Dogs
 See also
 St Bernard dogs
- Juvenile literature
 Bethell, J. How to care for your dog. (My '68)
- Stories
 Beatty, J. Witch dog. (Ag '68)
 Cole, W., comp. Man's funniest friend. (Mr '68)
 Griffiths, H. Léon. (Je '68)
 Morey, W. Kävik the wolf dog. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Training
 Orbaan, A. Dogs against crime. (My '68)
- Dogs against crime. Orbaan, A. (My '68)
- Dolci, Danilo
 Mangione, J. Passion for Sicilians. (D '68)
- Dolphin crossing. Walsh, J. P. (Mr '68)
- Dolphins
 Lilly, J. C. Mind of the dolphin. (Je '68)
- Domesday book
 Finn, R. W. Domesday studies. (O '68)
- Domesday studies. Finn, R. W. (O '68)
- Domestic animals
History
Juvenile literature
 Davis, P. D. C. Animals that changed the world. (Ag '68)

Domestic relations

Fisher, E. O. Help for today's troubled marriages. (O '68)

Dominican Republic*Foreign relations*United States

Hammarskjöld forum, 9th, New York, May 2, 1966. Dominican Republic crisis, 1965. (Ap '68)

History

Hammarskjöld forum, 9th, New York, May 2, 1966. Dominican Republic crisis, 1965. (Ap '68)

Logan, R. W. Haiti and the Dominican Republic. (N '68)

Dominican Republic crisis, 1965. Hammarskjöld forum, 9th, New York, May 2, 1966 (Ap '68)

Don Juan, or The love of geometry. Frisch, M. (In his Three plays). (Ag '68)

Donbas, Sandulescu, J. (Je '68)

Donne, John
Andreasen, N. J. C. John Donne. (S '68)

Dorak affair. Pearson, K. (My '68)

Dostoevsky, Fyodor Mikhailovich
Masaryk, T. G. Spirit of Russia, v3. (Ag '68)

Mochulsky, K. Dostoevsky. (Ap '68)

Double helix. Watson, J. D. (My '68)

Douglas, Stephen Arnold
Heckman, R. A. Lincoln vs. Douglas. (S '68)

Douglas of Kirtleside, William Sholto Douglas, 1st Baron
Douglas of Kirtleside, S. Combat and command. (Mr '68)

Doves. See Pigeons

Down the wild river north. Helmericks, C. (S '68)

Downstairs at Ramsey's. Leigh, J. (My '68)

Downtown. Liston, R. A. (Ag '68)

Dowson, Ernest Christopher
Dowson, E. Letters of Ernest Dowson. (S '68)

Longaker, J. M. Ernest Dowson [3d ed.]. (S '68)

Dozen dinosaurs. Armour, R. (Mr '68)

Draft? American Friends service committee. (Ag '68)

Draft. Tax, S., ed. (My '68)

Draft riot, 1863
McCague, J. Second rebellion: the story of the New York City draft riots of 1863. (O '68)

Drama
See also
French drama

Catalogs

Hunter, F. J., comp. Guide to the theatre and drama collections at the University of Texas. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

History and criticism

Bentley, E. Theatre of commitment. (Mr '68)

Fromm, H. Bernard Shaw and the theater in the nineties. (Ag '68)

Kernan, A. B., ed. Modern American theater. (Ap '68)

Kott, J. Theatre notebook. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Rahill, F. World of melodrama. (Ap '68)

Wager, W., ed. Playwrights speak. (Mr '68)

Drama of Fiji. Coulter, J. W. (Ap '68)

Dramas
Anouilh, J. Cavern. (My '68)

Brophy, B. Burglar. (N '68)

Coward, N. Suite in three keys. (Mr '68)

Drexler, R. Line of least existence, and other plays. (Ap '68)

Dryden, J. Works of John Dryden, v9. (Ap '68)

Fitzmaurice, G. Plays of George Fitzmaurice, v 1. (My '68)

Friel, B. Lovers. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Frisch, M. Three plays. (Ag '68)

Giraudoux, J. Plays. (Mr '68)

Haugen, E., ed. Fire and ice. (Ap '68)

Heller, J. We bombed in New Haven. (N '68)

Hochhuth, R. Soldiers. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Kawatake, M. Love of Izayoi & Seishin. (Ap '68)

Marcus, F. Killing of Sister George. (Mr '68)

Marlowe, C. Dido, queen of Carthage; and, The massacre at Paris. (S '68)

Miller, A. Price. (S '68)

Mishima, Y. Madame de Sade. (Ag '68)

Molière, J. B. P. Tartuffe. (O '68)

Nestroy, J. Three comedies. (Ag '68)

Orzel, N., ed. Eight plays from off-off Broadway. (Ap '68)

Racine, J. Complete plays, 2v. (D '68)

Sartre, J. P. Trojan women (Euripides). (S '68)

Shepard, S. Five plays. (S '68)

Volodin, A. Five evenings. (Ap '68)

White, T. H. Caesar at the Rubicon. (Je '68)

See also

One-act plays

Dramatic craftsmanship of Moreto. Casa, F. P. (Ap '68)

Dramatic fantasies; v 1 of The plays of George Fitzmaurice. Fitzmaurice, G. (My '68)

Dramatists
Wager, W., ed. Playwrights speak. (Mr '68)

See also

Connolly, M.

Drawing
History

Mendelowitz, D. M. Drawing. (Mr '68)

Drawing. Mendelowitz, D. M. (Mr '68)

Drawings
Mendelowitz, D. M. Drawing. (Mr '68)

Drawings, European
Rosenberg, J. On quality in art. (Je '68)

Miller, A. E. H., comp. Military drawings and paintings in the collection of Her Majesty the Queen, v 1. (Ag '68)

Catalogs

Benesch, O. Master drawings in the Albertina. (My '68)

Dream watcher. Wersba, B. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Dreams
Beradt, C. Third Reich of dreams. (S '68)

Juvenile literature

Kettelkamp, L. Dreams. (Ag '68)

Dreams. Kettelkamp L. (Ag '68)

Dreams and deeds. LeVine, R. A. (Mr '68)

Dreams and realities of the conquest of the skies. Becker, B. (Mr '68)

Drew, Charles Richard
Juvenile literature

Hardwick, R. Charles Richard Drew. (Ap '68)

Dreyfus, Alfred
Juvenile literature

Werstein, I. I accuse. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Drifters. Pavenstedt, E., ed. (N '68)

Dropouts
Schreiber, D., ed. Profile of the school dropout. (Je '68)

Drowning, the dancing. Nilssen, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Drug scene. Louria, D. B. (N '68)

Drugs
Mintz, M. By prescription only [2d ed revl. (Ap '68)

Modell, W. Drugs. (O '68)

Proger, S., ed. Medicated society. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Surface, W. Poisoned ivy. (O '68)

Drugstore liberal. Sherrill, R. (O '68)

Drumbeat. Pope, D. (Je '68)

Drummer Hoff. (Ap '68)

Dryden, John
Harth, P. Contexts of Dryden's thought. (Ag '68)

Duality of human existence. Bakan, D. (Ag '68)

Du Barry, Jeanne (Bécu) Comtesse
Ward, M. Du Barry inheritance. (S '68)

Du Barry inheritance. Ward, M. (S '68)

Dublin decorative plasterwork of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. Curran, C. P. (Je '68)

DuBois, William Edward Burghardt
DuBois, W. E. B. Autobiography of W. E. B. DuBois. (My '68)

Dulles, John Foster
Bemis, S. F., ed. American secretaries of state and their diplomacy, v17. (Ag '68)

Dunderhead war. Baker, B. (Ap '68)

Dunkard. Selden, G. (O '68)

Dunkers. See Church of the Brethren

Durban, Natal
Race relations

Dickie-Clark, H. F. Marginal situation. (Ap '68)

Dürer, Albrecht
Russell, F. World of Dürer, 1471-1528. (S '68)

Durkheim, Emile
Douglas, J. D. Social meanings of suicide. (N '68)

Durkheim, Pareto, Weber; v2 of Main currents in sociological thought. Aron, R. (Je '68)

Durrell, Gerald Malcolm
Durrell, J. Beasts in my bed. (Mr '68)

- Durrell, Jacqueline
Durrell, J. Beasts in my bed. (Mr '68)
- Durrell, Lawrence
Fraser, G. S. Lawrence Durrell: a critical study. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Duse, Eleonora
Knepler, H. Gilded stage. (D '68)
"Dutch catechism." See New catechism
Dutch in Java [reissue]. Day, C. (My '68)
- Dvořák, Antonín
Hughes, G. Dvořák. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Dying: an introduction. Sissman, L. E. (O '68)
- Dynamic psychology of religion. Pruyser, P. W. (N '68)
- Dynamics of compliance. Johnson, R. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Dynamics of growth in New England's economy, 1870-1964. Eisenmenger, R. W. (Mr '68)
- EDUNET. (Mr '68)
- Earl Morris & Southwestern archaeology. Lister, F. C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Early American boats. Carse, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Early childhood. Landreth, C. (Je '68)
- Early Christian and Byzantine political philosophy. 2v. Dvornik, F. (Ag '68)
- Early Christian art. Meer, F. van der. (N '68)
- Early Christian doctrine of God. Grant, R. M. (Mr '68)
- Early education. Conference on pre-school education, Chicago, 1966. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Early Finnish art. Rácz, I. (Ap '68)
- Early highland peoples of Anatolia. Lloyd, S. (O '68)
- Early Indonesian commerce. Wolters, O. W. (My '68)
- Early jazz. Schuller, G. (Ag '68)
- Early medieval art in Spain. Palol, P. de. (O '68)
- Early Netherlandish painting, v 1. Friedländer, M. J. (Ap '68)
- Early Rousseau. Einaudi, M. (O '68)
- Early Vasas. Roberts M. (N '68)
- Early view of the land-grant colleges. Convention of friends of agricultural education in 1871. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Earth
- Juvenile literature
Matthews, W. H. Story of the earth. (S '68)
Petrie, J. Earth. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Earth. Petrie, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Earth in space. Odishaw, H., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Earth's bug-eyed monsters. Hopf, A. L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- East (Far East)
- Economic conditions
Kirby, E. S. Economic development in East Asia. (S '68)
- Foreign relations
Great Britain
Clifford, N. R. Retreat from China. (Ag '68)
- East and West
Levenson, J. R., ed. European expansion and the counter-example of Asia, 1300-1600. (N '68)
- East is Red: the view inside China. Williams, M. (Je '68)
- Easter
De Grazia, T. De Grazia paints the Yaqui Easter. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Eastern churches
Dick, I. What is the Christian Orient? (My '68)
- History
Daniel-Rops, H. Our brothers in Christ, 1870-1959. (N '68)
- Eastern establishment and the Western experience. White, G. E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Eastern Europe A to Z. Kane, R. S. (Ag '68)
- Eastern Europe in transition. International conference on world politics, 1965. (Ap '68)
- Eastern question (Far East)
Warburg, J. P. Western intruders. (Je '68)
- Eatherly, Claude Robert
Dugger, R. Dark star. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Eavesdropping
Spindel, B. B. Ominous ear. (O '68)
Westin, A. F. Privacy and freedom. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Eccentric ark. Burgess, G. H. O. (O '68)
- Ecclesiastical law
Blecher, J. E., ed. Law for liberty, the role of law in the church today. (D '68)
- Eclipse. Moorehead, A. (Ag '68)
- Ecology
Bresler, J. B., ed. Human ecology. (Je '68)
British ecological society. Light as an ecological factor. (Ap '68)
Clark, L. R. Ecology of insect populations in theory and practice. (Ap '68)
Errington, P. L. Of predation and life. (D '68)
Hall, E. T. Hidden dimension. (Ag '68)
Milne, L. J. Patterns of survival. (S '68)
- Juvenile literature
Darling, L. Place in the sun. (D '68)
Grossman, S. Struggle for life in the animal world. (Mr '68)
Raskin, E. Pyramid of living things. (My '68)
- Ecology of insect populations in theory and practice. Clark, L. R. (Ap '68)
- Econometrics. See Economics, Mathematical
- Economic aspects of oil conservation regulation. Lovejoy, W. F. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Economic assistance
Baldwin, D. A. Economic development and American foreign policy, 1943-62. (Ap '68)
Campos, R. de O. Reflections on Latin American development. (N '68)
Glick, E. B. Peaceful conflict. (N '68)
Hirschman, A. O. Development projects observed. (Ag '68)
Müller, K. Foreign aid programs of the Soviet Bloc and Communist China. (Ag '68)
O'Leary, M. K. Politics of American foreign aid. (O '68)
Ward, B. Lopsided world. (O '68)
Wolf, C. United States and the third world. (Ap '68)
- Economic assistance, Domestic
Donovan, J. C. Politics of poverty. (S '68)
Green, C. Negative taxes and the poverty problem. (S '68)
Larner, J., ed. Poverty: views from the left. (O '68)
Scheibla, S. Poverty is where the money is. (O '68)
Seligman, B. B. Permanent poverty. (O '68)
- Economic basis of American civilization. Clough, S. B. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Economic conditions
International economic association. Capital movements and economic development. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Lévy, J.-P. Economic life of the ancient world. (Ag '68)
Nash, M. Primitive and peasant economic systems. (Ag '68)
Roll, E. World after Keynes. (O '68)
Solo, R. A. Economic organizations and social systems. (Ap '68)
Woodruff, W. Impact of Western man. (Mr '68)
- Economic costs of air pollution. Ridker, R. G. (Ag '68)
- Economic development
Adelman, I. Society, politics & economic development. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Aron, R. Industrial society. (1967, 1968 Annual)
Bradford, A. Oakland's not for burning. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Challenge of development, theory and practice. (Ap '68)
Denison, E. F. Why growth rates differ. (Ag '68)
Dobb, M. H. Papers on capitalism, development and planning. (S '68)
Hirschman, A. O. Development projects observed. (Ag '68)
Kindleberger, C. P. Europe's postwar growth. (Mr '68)
Mishan, E. J. Costs of economic growth. (My '68)
Morris, B. R. Economic growth and development. (Ap '68)
Singh, D. B. Economics of development. (Mr '68)
- Universities-National bureau committee for economic research. National economic planning. (Ap '68)
Youngson, A. J. Overhead capital. (N '68)
- Economic development and American foreign policy, 1943-62. Baldwin, D. A. (Ap '68)
- Economic development in communist Rumania. Montias, J. M. (N '68)
- Economic development in East Asia. Kirby, E. S. (S '68)
- Economic development of the North Atlantic community. Dillard, D. (N '68)
- Economic evaluation of urban renewal. Rothenberg, J. (My '68)
- Economic failure, alienation, and extremism. Aiken, M. (D '68)

Economic forecasting

- Zarnowitz, V. Appraisal of short-term economic forecasts. (O '68)
 Economic foundations; v 1 of Mediterranean society. Goitein, S. D. (Ag '68)
 Economic growth and development. Morris, B. R. (Ap '68)

- Economic history. See Economic conditions
 Economic history of Western Europe, 1945-1964. Postan, M. M. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Economic impact of TVA. (O '68)
 Economic life of the ancient world. Lévy, J. -P. (Ag '68)

- Economic models. See Economics, Mathematical
 Economic organizations and social systems. Solo, R. A. (Ap '68)

- Economic policies toward less developed countries. Johnson, H. G. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Economic policy

- Hayek, F. A. Studies in philosophy, politics and economics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 International economic association. Capital movements and economic development. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Johnson, H. G. Economic policies toward less developed countries. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Komiya, R., ed. Postwar economic growth in Japan. (Mr '68)
 Mishan, E. J. Costs of economic growth. (My '68)
 Muscat, R. J. Development strategy in Thailand. (Mr '68)
 Universities-National bureau committee for economic research. National economic planning. (Ap '68)
 Economic policy in postwar Japan. Yamamura, K. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Economic problems of housing. International economic association. (D '68)
 Economic reforms in Eastern Europe. Gamar-nikow, M. (N '68)
 Economic systems. Grossman, G. (O '68)
 Economic transformation of Cuba. Boorstein, E. (S '68)

Economics

- Grossman, G. Economic systems. (O '68)
 Leontief, W. Essays in economics. (Mr '68)
 Roll, E. World after Keynes. (O '68)
 Solo, R. A. Economic organizations and social systems. (Ap '68)
 Steuart, J. Inquiry into the principles of political economy, 2v. (N '68)
 Youngson, A. J. Overhead capital. (N '68)

History

- Andreano, R. L., ed. New views on American economic development. (Je '68)
 Marshall, H. D. Great economists. (Ag '68)
 Meek, R. L. Economics and ideology and other essays. (S '68)
 Mitchell, W. C. Types of economic theory, v 1. (Je '68)
 Rima, I. H. Development of economic analysis. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Robinson, J. Economics. (Je '68)
 Shackle, G. L. S. Years of high theory. (Ag '68)

Economics, Mathematical

- Baligh, H. H. Vertical market structures. (Ag '68)
 Hardt, J. P., ed. Mathematics and computers in Soviet economic planning. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Harmston, F. K. Application of an input-output framework to a community economic system. (My '68)
 Stern, R. M. Foreign trade and economic growth in Italy. (My '68)
 Economics. Robinson, J. (Je '68)
 Economics and ideology and other essays. Meek, R. L. (S '68)
 Economics of age. Brennan, M. J. (O '68)
 Economics of crisis; war, politics, and the dollar. Janeway, E. (Ap '68)
 Economics of development. Singh, D. B. (Mr '68)
 Economics of outdoor recreation. Clawson, M. (Mr '68)
 Economics, town planning and traffic. Reynolds, D. J. (S '68)

Ecuador*Commerce

- Watkins, R. J. Expanding Ecuador's exports. (My '68)

Politics and government

- Phelan, J. L. Kingdom of Quito in the seventeenth century. (N '68)
 Ecumenical light on the renewal of religious community life; Taizé. Heijke, J. (Mr '68)

- Ecumenism or new reformation? Molnar, T. (D '68)

- Ecumenism, the spirit, and worship. Swidler, L. J., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Eddy, Mary (Baker)

Juvenile literature

- King, M. Mary Baker Eddy: child of promise. (N '68)
 Edge, Stegner, P. (Ap '68)
 Edge of friendliness. Ringer, B. B. (Ag '68)
 Edge of space. Craig, R. A. (N '68)
 Edge of two worlds. Jones, W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Edible native plants of the Rocky Mountains. Harrington, H. D. (S '68)

Edinburgh*Historic houses, etc.

- Youngson, A. J. Making of classical Edinburgh: 1750-1840. (Ag '68)

Edinburgh, University

- Horn, D. B. Short history of the University of Edinburgh, 1556-1889. (D '68)

Edison, Thomas Alva

- Silverberg, R. Light for the world. (My '68)
 Editing of Emily Dickinson. Franklin, R. W. (Ap '68)

- Editor's treasury. Mayes, H. R., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Educating for leisure-centered living. Brightbill, C. K. (Ap '68)

Education

- Avery, G., ed. School remembered. (Ag '68)
 Brickman, W. W., ed. Educational imperatives in a changing culture. (D '68)
 Hutchins, R. M. Learning society. (Ag '68)
 King, E. J. Comparative studies and educational decision. (D '68)

Alms and objectives

- Ascham, R. Schoolmaster (1570). (Ag '68)
 Elam, S., ed. Educational requirements for the 1970's. (My '68)
 Ross, A. S. C., ed. Arts v. science. (Ag '68)

Curricula

- Ross, A. S. C., ed. Arts v. science. (Ag '68)

Electronic data processing

- Bushnell, D. D., ed. Computer in American education. (Ag '68)
 Haga, E., ed. Automated educational systems. (Ag '68)

Experimental methods

- Graham, P. A. Progressive education: from Arcady to Academe. (S '68)
 Heinemann, R. B. Fourth R. (Ap '68)
 Massialas, B. G. Creative encounters in the classroom. (Ag '68)

Philosophy

- Arnstine, D. Philosophy of education. (Mr '68)
 Becker, E. Beyond alienation. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Peters, R. S. Ethics and education. (Mr '68)
 Schwebel, M. Who can be educated? (D '68)
 Tolstoy, L. Tolstoy on education. (Je '68)

France

- Titmus, C. J. Adult education in France. (Ag '68)

Great Britain

- Christianity in education. (My '68)
 Koerner, J. D. Reform in education. (Ag '68)
 Ross, A. S. C., ed. Arts v. science. (Ag '68)
 Rothblatt, S. Revolution of dons. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Latin America

- Lipset, S. M., ed. Elites in Latin America. (Ap '68)

Near East

- Qubain, F. I. Education and science in the Arab world. (Je '68)

Russia

- Noah, H. J. Financing Soviet schools. (Ag '68)

Southern States

- Bullock, H. A. History of Negro education in the South. (Je '68)

Turkey

- Kazamias, A. M. Education and the quest for modernity in Turkey. (Je '68)

Education—Continued

United States

- Beggs, D. W., ed. Nongraded schools in action. (S '68)
- Commager, H. S. Commonwealth of learning. (S '68)
- Dentler, R. A. Urban R's: race relations as the problem in urban education. (Ag '68)
- Gardner, J. W. No easy victories. (O '68)
- Hess, R. D. Development of political attitudes in children. (Ag '68)
- Koerner, J. D. Reform in education. (Ag '68)
- Leonard, G. B. Education and ecstasy. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- McClellan, J. E. Toward an effective critique of American education. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Roberts, J. I., ed. School children in the urban slum. (My '68)
- Schreiber, D., ed. Profile of the school dropout. (Je '68)
- Schwebel, M. Who can be educated? (D '68)
- Unfinished journey. (N '68)
- Education, Elementary
- Holt, J. How children learn. (Mr '68)
- Webb, L. Children with special needs in the infants' school. (O '68)
- Education, Higher
- Barzun, J. American university. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Eurich, A. C., ed. Campus 1980. (N '68)
- Improving college teaching. (My '68)
- Jencks, C. Academic revolution. (Ag '68)
- Roszak, T., ed. Dissenting academy. (Je '68)
- Salydain, K. G. Universities and the life of the mind. (Ap '68)
- Sparrow, J. Mark Pattison and the idea of a university. (O '68)
- Trent, J. W. Catholics in college. (Je '68)
- Woodring, P. Higher learning in America: ■ reassessment. (O '68)
- Education, Preschool. See Nursery schools
- Education, Secondary
- Massialas, B. G. Creative encounters in the classroom. (Ag '68)
- Richardson, E. Environment of learning. (N '68)
- Education, Theological. See Theology—Study and teaching
- Education and ecstasy. Leonard, G. B. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Education and libraries. Wilson, L. R. (Ap '68)
- Education and science in the Arab world. Quabain, F. I. (Je '68)
- Education and television. See Television in education
- Education and the quest for modernity in Turkey. Kazamias, A. M. (Je '68)
- Education, culture and the emotions. Bantock, G. H. (S '68)
- Education for living. Kellaway, G. P. (Ap '68)
- Education of the disadvantaged. Passow, A. H., ed. (N '68)
- Educational imperatives in a changing culture. Brickman, W. W., ed. (D '68)
- Educational psychology
- Arnstine, D. Philosophy of education. (Mr '68)
- Bantock, G. H. Education, culture and the emotions. (S '68)
- Kellaway, G. P. Education for living. (Ap '68)
- Komisar, B. P., ed. Psychological concepts in education. (N '68)
- Sarason, S. B. Psychology in community settings. (Ap '68)
- Educational requirements for the 1970's. Elam, S., ed. (My '68)
- Educational sociology
- Hansen, D. A., ed. On education—sociological perspectives. (N '68)
- Kellaway, G. P. Education for living. (Ap '68)
- Lawton, D. Social class, language and education. (D '68)
- Rogers, D. 110 Livingston Street. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Educational television. See Television in education
- Edward Lear as a landscape draughtsman. Hoffer, P. (Je '68)
- Edward Lear's The Scroobious Pip. Lear, E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Edward Wilmot Blyden: Pan-Negro patriot, 1832-1912. Lynch, H. R. (Ag '68)
- Edward Wilson's Birds of the Antarctic. Wilson, E. (Je '68)
- Edwardian turn of mind. Hynes, S. (S '68)
- Edwards, Jonathan
- Carse, J. Jonathan Edwards & the visibility of God. (S '68)
- Juvenile literature
- Wood, J. P. Mr Jonathan Edwards. (N '68)

- Edwin Muir: man and poet. Butter, P. H. (Ap '68)
- Effectiveness of accounting communication. Briloff, A. J. (N '68)
- Efficiency, Industrial
- De Mare, G. Communicating for leadership. (S '68)
- Wilensky, H. L. Organizational intelligence. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Egypt

Antiquities

Juvenile literature

- Glubok, S. Discovering Tut-ankh-Amen's tomb. (N '68)

Description and travel

- Johnson, I. Yankee sails the Nile. (Ag '68)

Economic conditions

- Mead, D. C. Growth and structural change in the Egyptian economy. (Je '68)

Economic policy

- Kardouche, G. K. U.A.R. in development. (Je '68)

History

- Blaxland, G. Egypt and Sinai. (S '68)
- Collins, R. O. Egypt & the Sudan. (Ap '68)
- Holt, P. M. Political and social change in modern Egypt. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Tignor, R. L. Modernization and British colonial rule in Egypt, 1882-1914. (Mr '68)

Intervention, 1956

- Blaxland, G. Egypt and Sinai. (S '68)
- Calvocoressi, P. Suez ten years after. (S '68)

Juvenile literature

- Asimov, I. Egyptians. (Ag '68)
- Egypt and Sinai. Blaxland, G. (S '68)
- Egypt & the Sudan. Collins, R. O. (Ap '68)
- Egyptian agrarian reform: 1952-1962. Saab, G. S. (Mr '68)
- Egyptians. Asimov, I. (Ag '68)
- Ehrenburg, Ilya
- Ehrenburg, I. Post-war years, 1945-1954. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Eight lines and under. Cole, W., ed. (Je '68)
- Eight plays from off-off Broadway. Orzel, N., ed. (Ap '68)
- 1897 Sears Roebuck catalogue. Sears, Roebuck and company. (N '68)
- 1867: Disraeli, Gladstone and revolution. Cowling, M. (My '68)
- Eighteenth century
- Holtman, R. B. Napoleonic revolution. (S '68)
- Eighteenth century. Bréhier, E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Eighteenth century in France. Verlet, P. (Ap '68)
- Eileen Ford's Book of model beauty. Ford, E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Eisenhower, Dwight David
- Ambrose, S. E. Eisenhower and Berlin, 1945. (Ap '68)
- Eisenhower, D. D. At ease: stories I tell to friends. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Larson, A. Eisenhower: the President nobody knew. (D '68)
- Eisenhower and Berlin, 1945. Ambrose, S. E. (Ap '68)
- Eisenhower: the President nobody knew. Larson, A. (D '68)
- Elder and younger brothers. Eckardt, A. R. (Ag '68)
- Elderberry bush. Gates, D. (My '68)
- El Dorado
- Chapman, W. Golden dream. (Je '68)
- Chapman, W. Search for El Dorado. (Ap '68)
- Eldredge, Laurence Howard
- Eldredge, L. H. Trials of a Philadelphia lawyer. (S '68)
- Eleanor of Aquitaine, consort of Henry II, King of England
- Pernoud, R. Eleanor of Aquitaine. (Je '68)
- Eleanor Roosevelt: an American conscience. Hareven, T. K. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Elections
- Lipset, S. M., ed. Party systems and voter alignments: cross-national perspectives. (My '68)
- Rae, D. W. Political consequences of electoral laws. (S '68)
- Great Britain
- Lloyd, T. General election of 1880. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Pelling, H. Social geography of British elections, 1885-1910. (O '68)
- Pulzer, P. G. J. Political representation and elections. (My '68)

- Rose, R. Influencing voters. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Vincent, J. R. Pollbooks. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- United States
- Wyckoff, G. Image candidates. (Je '68)
- Juvenile literature*
- Lindop, E. First book of elections. (Ag '68)
- Schwartz, A. People's choice. (S '68)
- Electoral college. See Presidents—United States—Election
- Electric industries
- Silverberg, R. Light for the world. (My '68)
- Electric kool-aid acid test. Wolfe, T. (O '68)
- Electric power distribution
- Silverberg, R. Light for the world. (My '68)
- Electricity
- Juvenile literature*
- Dunsheath, P. Giants of electricity. (My '68)
- Hellman, H. Light and electricity in the atmosphere. (S '68)
- Electronic computers
- Sackman, H. Computers, system science and evolving society. (O '68)
- Juvenile literature*
- Fischer, G. Your career in computers. (S '68)
- Electronic data processing
- Borko, H., ed. Automated language processing. (N '68)
- Myers, C. A., ed. Impact of computers on management. (Mr '68)
- Juvenile literature*
- Fischer, G. Your career in computers. (S '68)
- Electronic journalism. Wood, W. A. (S '68)
- Electronics
- Juvenile literature*
- Morgan, B. Electrons at work. (Ag '68)
- Electrons at work. Morgan, B. (Ag '68)
- Elegiac mode. Potts, A. F. (N '68)
- Elements of physics. Kaempffer, F. A. (Ap '68)
- Elena's favorite foods. Zelayeta, E. (Mr '68)
- Elephant who liked to smash small cars. Merrill, J. (Ag '68)
- Elephants
- Juvenile literature*
- Beebe, B. F. African elephants. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Stories
- Britt, D. Emperor's big gift. (D '68)
- Merrill, J. Elephant who liked to smash small cars. (Ag '68)
- Eleventh hour. Houtart, F. (N '68)
- Elgar, Sir Edward William, 1st Bart. Kennedy, M. Portrait of Elgar. (N '68)
- Elgin, Thomas Bruce, 7th Earl of St Clair, W. Lord Elgin and the marbles. (My '68)
- Eliot, George. See Cross, M. A. E.
- Elliot, Jared
- Thoms, H. Jared Elliot, minister, doctor, scientist, and his Connecticut. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Ellot, Thomas Stearns
- Levy, W. T. Affectionately, T. S. Eliot. (N '68)
- Elites in Latin America. Lipset, S. M., ed. (Ap '68)
- Elizabeth I, Queen of England
- Williams, N. Elizabeth the first, queen of England. (Je '68)
- Elizabeth, queen of England. Eng title of: Elizabeth the first, queen of England. Williams, N. (Je '68)
- Elizabeth the first, queen of England. Williams, N. (Je '68)
- Elizabethan narrative verse. Alexander, N., ed. (S '68)
- Embroidery
- Lilow, I. Introducing machine embroidery. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Embryology
- Juvenile literature*
- Showers, P. Before you were a baby. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Emerald and Nancy. Eng title of: Those remarkable Cunards. Fielding, D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Emergence of Japan as a world power, 1895-1925. Kajima, M. (Mr '68)
- Emergence of modern industrial society, earliest times to 1900; v 1 of Technology in Western civilization. Kranzberg, M., ed. (Mr '68)
- Emergence of Moscow, 1304-1359. Fennell, J. L. I. (Ag '68)
- Emergence of the New South, 1913-1945. Tindall, G. B. (My '68)
- Emergence of Victorian consciousness. Levine, G., ed. (Ap '68)
- Emergency book. Bendick, J. (Mr '68)
- Emergency exit. Silone, I. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Emergent American society, v 1. Warner, W. L., ed. (Mr '68)
- Emerson, Ellen Louisa (Tucker)
- Pommer, H. F. Emerson's first marriage. (Je '68)
- Emerson, Ralph Waldo
- Cowan, M. H. City of the West: Emerson, America, and urban metaphor. (Je '68)
- Harding, W. Emerson's library. (Mr '68)
- Pommer, H. F. Emerson's first marriage. (Je '68)
- Emerson's first marriage. Pommer, H. F. (Je '68)
- Emerson's library. Harding, W. (Mr '68)
- Emily Post book of etiquette for young people. Post, E. L. (Ap '68)
- Eminent domain. Ellmann, R. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Emory Buckner. Mayer, M. (Ag '68)
- Emperor's big gift. Britt, D. (D '68)
- Empire of things. Mountzoures, H. L. (O '68)
- Empire on the Platte. Crabb, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Empiricism and ethics. Monro, D. H. (Ap '68)
- Enamel and enameling
- Bates, K. F. Enamelist. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Enamelist. Bates, K. F. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Encounter between Christianity and science. Bube, R. H., ed. (O '68)
- Encounters. Melfi, L. (Ag '68)
- Encyclopedia Canadiana, 10v [centennial ed]. (Mr '68)
- Encyclopedia of etiquette. Miller, L. (Ap '68)
- Encyclopaedia of Ireland. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Encyclopedia of Latin-American history [rev ed]. Martin, M. R. (N '68)
- Encyclopedia of psychoanalysis. (N '68)
- Encyclopedia of world literature in the 20th century, v 1. (Ag '68)
- Encyclopedias and dictionaries
- Collier's encyclopedia with bibliography and index, 24v. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Encyclopedia Canadiana, 10v [centennial ed]. (Mr '68)
- International encyclopedia of the social sciences, 17v. (N '68)
- Martin, M. R. Encyclopedia of Latin-American history [rev ed]. (N '68)
- Merit students encyclopedia, 20v. (D '68)
- Walsh, S. P. Anglo-American general encyclopedias, 1703-1967. (D '68)
- World book encyclopedia, 20v. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Juvenile literature*
- Child's world, 6v [rev ed]. (Ag '68)
- Illustrated world encyclopedia. (S '68)
- Encyclopaedic dictionary of physics, 9v; supplementary v 1 and 2. (Ag '68)
- End of a mission. Böhl, H. (Je '68)
- End of me. Hayes, A. (Je '68)
- End of obscenity. Rembar, C. (Ag '68)
- End of the rug. Llewellyn, R. (N '68)
- End of the Third Reich. Eng title of: The fall of Berlin. Chulikov, V. I. (Ap '68)
- Enderby. Burgess, A. (Ag '68)
- Endless night. Christie, A. (My '68)
- Endless steppe. Hautzig, E. (Ag '68)
- Enemies and friends. Van Slyke, L. P. (O '68)
- Energy. See Force and energy
- Energy and engines. Halacy, D. S. (S '68)
- Energy into power. Sterland, E. H. (Je '68)
- Engineering as a profession
- Juvenile literature*
- Pollack, P. Careers and opportunities in engineering. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Engines
- Juvenile literature*
- Halacy, D. S. Energy and engines. (S '68)
- England
- Church history*
- Woodward, G. W. O. Dissolution of the monasteries. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Description and travel*
- Oakes, G. W. Turn left at the pub. (N '68)
- Race relations*
- Braithwaite, E. R. Paid servant. (Je '68)

England—Continued

Social life and customs

- Bryant, A. Set in a silver sea. (S '68)
 Levine, G., ed. Emergence of Victorian consciousness. (Ap '68)
 England and the Fronde. Knachel, P. A. (Ag '68)
 English, v 1. Cantor, N. F. (Ap '68)
 English. Frost, D. (Ap '68)
 English & American watches. Daniels, G. (Je '68)
 English ceramics. Fisher, S. W. (O '68)
 English court in the reign of George I. Beattie, J. M. (Ag '68)
 English drama
 Long, J. H., ed. Music in English renaissance drama. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Taylor, J. R. Rise and fall of the well-made play. (Mr '68)

History and criticism

- Brown, J. R., ed. Modern British dramatists. (S '68)
 Frost, D. L. School of Shakespeare. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Miner, E., ed. Restoration dramatists. (Ap '68)
 Spanos, W. V. Christian tradition in modern British verse drama. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 English fiction

History and criticism

- Colby, R. A. Fiction with a purpose. (Ap '68)
 Hall, J. Lunatic giant in the drawing room. (S '68)
 Leavis, F. R. Anna Karenina, and other essays. (Ag '68)
 Marshall, W. H. World of the Victorian novel. (My '68)
 Paulson, R. Satire and the novel in eighteenth-century England. (Mr '68)
 Rabinovitz, R. Reaction against experiment in the English novel, 1950-1960. (Ag '68)
 Sandison, A. Wheel of empire. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 English Jacobins. Cone, C. B. (N '68)
 Basset, B. (D '68)
 English Jesuits: from Campion to Martindale.

English language

- Chatman, S., ed. Essays on the language of literature. (Ag '68)
 Pei, M., ed. Language today. (O '68)
 Richards, I. A. So much nearer. (Ag '68)
 Wagner, G. On the wisdom of words. (Ag '68)
 Wrenn, C. L. Word and symbol. (O '68)

Dictionaries

- Harcourt Brace intermediate dictionary. (Ag '68)

Latin

- Follett world-wide Latin dictionary. (My '68)

Yiddish

- Kogos, F. Dictionary of Yiddish slang & idioms. (Ag '68)
 Weinreich, U. Modern English-Yiddish. Yiddish-English dictionary. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

History

- Gordon, I. A. Movement of English prose. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Tucker, S. I. Protean shape. (Mr '68)

Homonyms

Juvenile literature

- Longman, H. Would you put your money in a sand bank? (O '68)

Rhetoric

See Rhetoric

Study and teaching

- Holbrook, D. Exploring word. (Ap '68)
 Postman, N. Linguistics. (Mr '68)

Synonyms and antonyms

- Funk & Wagnalls modern guide to synonyms and related words. (Ag '68)

Word frequency

- Kučera, H. Computational analysis of present-day American English. (O '68)
 English language newspapers abroad. Wilcox, D. L. (O '68)

English literature

- Brophy, B. Fifty works of English and American literature we could do without. (Ap '68)
 Holloway, J. J. Widening horizons in English verse. (Ap '68)
 Phelps, R., ed. Literary life. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Bio-bibliography

- Harvey, P., ed. Oxford companion to English literature [4th ed revl. (My '68)]

Collections

- Collier, J. P., ed. Illustrations of early English popular literature. (Ap '68)
 Judd, G. P., ed. Hawaiian anthology. (Mr '68)
 Manley, S., ed. High adventure. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Dictionaries

- Harvey, P., ed. Oxford companion to English literature [4th ed revl. (My '68)]

History and criticism

- Donoghue, D. Ordinary universe. (N '68)
 Erdman, D. V., ed. Evidence for authorship. (Ap '68)
 Fletcher, I., ed. Romantic mythologies. (Ag '68)
 Gordon, I. A. Movement of English prose. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Levine, G., ed. Art of Victorian prose. (N '68)
 Rowse, A. L. English spirit [rev edl. (O '68)
 Schorer, M. World we imagine. (O '68)
 Sheavyn, P. Literary profession in the Elizabethan age [2d ed revl. (D '68)
 Sussman, H. L. Victorians and the machine. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Bibliography

- McNamee, L. F., ed. Dissertations in English and American literature. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

English newspapers

- Werkmeister, L. Newspaper history of England, 1792-1793. (O '68)

Directories

- Wilcox, D. L. English language newspapers abroad. (O '68)

English poetry

Collections

- Alexander, N., ed. Elizabethan narrative verse. (S '68)
 Cole, W., ed. Sea, ships and sailors. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Gardner, B., ed. Up the line to death. (Mr '68)
 Goudge, E. Book of peace. (O '68)

Juvenile literature

- Poetry society of London. Pattern of poetry. (Ag '68)

History and criticism

- Baker, W. E. Syntax in English poetry, 1870-1930. (N '68)
 Buxton, J. Tradition of poetry. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Gérard, A. S. English romantic poetry. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Knight, G. W. Poets of action. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Potts, A. F. Elegiac mode. (N '68)
 Raine, K. Defending ancient springs. (Ag '68)
 Weinstein, M. A. William Edmondstone Aytoun and the spasmodic controversy. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Williamson, G. Six metaphysical poets. (N '68)
 Winters, Y. Forms of discovery. (My '68)

20th century

History and criticism

- Dickey, J. Babel to Byzantium. (S '68)
 English prose literature
 Levine, G., ed. Emergence of Victorian consciousness. (Ap '68)
 English romantic poetry. Gérard, A. S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 English spirit [rev edl. Rowse, A. L. (O '68)
 English style in interior decoration. Gilliat, M. (Mr '68)
 Engraved gems. Boardman, J. (D '68)
 Engravings

Juvenile literature

- Fuller, C. L., ed. Beasts. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Engravings, Japanese
 Kawakita, M. Contemporary Japanese prints. (Ap '68)

Enigmas. See Curiosities

- Enlarged Devil's dictionary. Bierce, A. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

- Enlightened. Carvajal, L. de. (Je '68)

Enlightenment

- Gay, P. Enlightenment: an interpretation. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Hertzberg, A. French enlightenment and the Jews. (S '68)

- Enlightenment: an interpretation. Gay, P. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Enter Gambia. Rice, B. (Mr '68)
- Enterprise & empire. Rabb, T. K. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Enterprising Scot. Jackson, W. T. (N '68)
- Entertainers
Hughes, L. Black magic. (Ap '68)
- Entertaining
Montandon, P. How to be a party girl. (N '68)
- Smith, M. Entertaining in the White House. (My '68)
- Entertaining in the White House. Smith, M. (My '68)
- Environment of learning. Richardson, E. (N '68)
- Environmental science services administration. Popkin, R. (Ag '68)
- Environments out there. Asimov, I. (Ag '68)
- Ephraim ben Jacob, of Bonn
The akedah
Spiegel, S. Last trial. (Ag '68)
- Epic poetry
Steadman, J. M. Milton and the renaissance hero. (My '68)
- Epicurus
Farrington, B. Faith of Epicurus. (S '68)
- Epirus
Hammond, N. G. L. Epirus. (Mr '68)
- Episodes of the revolutionary war. Guevara, E. (O '68)
- Epitaph for kings. Gramont, S. de. (My '68)
- Equality
Stephen, J. F. Liberty, equality, fraternity. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Equality by statute [rev ed]. Berger, M. (S '68)
- Equilibrism. Buffington, R. (N '68)
- Ergotism
Fuller, J. G. Day of St Anthony's fire. (N '68)
- Erikson, Erik Homburger
Evans, R. I. Dialogue with Erik Erikson. (Ag '68)
- Ernest Hemingway and the pursuit of heroism. Gurko, L. (D '68)
- Ernst, Max
Russell, J. Max Ernst: life and work. (Je '68)
- Errant knights. Hebden, M. (D '68)
- Errors
Cohen, D. Myths of the space age. (N '68)
- Escapes
Sandulescu, J. Donbas. (Je '68)
- Eschatology
Moltmann, J. Theology of hope. (Ap '68)
- Escher, Maurits Cornelis
Escher, M. C. Graphic work of M. C. Escher [new ed]. (My '68)
- Eskimo masks: art and ceremony. Ray, D. J. (Mr '68)
- Eskimo prints. Houston, J. (Ap '68)
- Eskimos
VanStone, J. W. Eskimos of the Nushagak River. (Ag '68)
- Art
Houston, J. Eskimo prints. (Ap '68)
- Ray, D. J. Eskimo masks: art and ceremony. (Mr '68)
- Juvenile literature
Comock, Story of Comock the Eskimo. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Melzack, R. Day Tuk became a hunter & other Eskimo stories. (Ag '68)
- Religion and mythology
Ray, D. J. Eskimo masks: art and ceremony. (Mr '68)
- Eskimos of the Nushagak River. VanStone, J. W. (Ag '68)
- Especially sisters. Powell, F. (Mr '68)
- Espionage. See Spies
- Espionage establishment. Wise, D. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Essay on capital. Kirzner, I. M. (Je '68)
- Essays
Arnold, M. Dissent and dogma. (O '68)
- Aron, R. Industrial society. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Barrington, J. Ireland of Sir Jonah Barrington. (Ag '68)
- Beebe, L. Lucius Beebe reader. (Mr '68)
- Bentley, E. Theatre of commitment. (Mr '68)
- Carlson, W. H. In a grand and awful time. (N '68)
- Christian, C. W., ed. Radical theology: phase two. (Ap '68)
- Cicero, M. T. On old age; and, On friendship. (My '68)
- Clifford, J. L., ed. Man versus society in eighteenth-century Britain. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Croll, M. W. Style, rhetoric, and rhythm. (Ag '68)
- Dahrendorf, R. Essays in the theory of society. (S '68)
- Erdman, D. V., ed. Evidence for authorship. (Ap '68)
- Fingarette, H. On responsibility. (N '68)
- Francis, R. Satirical rogue on poetry. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Frye, N. Modern century. (N '68)
- Galloway, A. D. Faith in a changing culture. (N '68)
- Harris, S. J. Leaving the surface. (O '68)
- Kahler, E. Out of the labyrinth. (S '68)
- King, L. L. . . . and other dirty stories. (D '68)
- Komisar, B. P., ed. Psychological concepts in education. (N '68)
- Krieger, M. Play and place of criticism. (N '68)
- Laszlo, E., ed. Philosophy in the Soviet Union. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Lee, W. S., comp. Maine. (N '68)
- Levine, G., ed. Art of Victorian prose. (N '68)
- Lynd, S. Class conflict, slavery, and the United States Constitution. (Ag '68)
- MacLeish, A. Continuing journey. (Ap '68)
- McMullin, E., ed. Galileo: man of science. (N '68)
- Manson, W. Jesus and the Christian. (N '68)
- Matlaw, R. E., ed. Tolstoy. (Ap '68)
- Meek, R. L. Economics and ideology and other essays. (S '68)
- Moore, C. A., ed. Indian mind. (Je '68)
- Morris, W. Bill of rites, a bill of wrongs, a bill of goods. (My '68)
- Orwell, G. Collected essays, journalism and letters of George Orwell, 4v. (D '68)
- Plank, J., ed. Cuba and the United States. (Je '68)
- Powell, L. C. Bookman's progress. (N '68)
- Priestley, J. B. Essays of five decades. (D '68)
- Rand, C. Changing landscape. (Je '68)
- Reck, R. D., ed. Explorations of literature. (Ag '68)
- Richards, I. A. So much nearer. (Ag '68)
- Rowse, A. L. English spirit [rev ed]. (O '68)
- Rubin, L. D. Curious death of the novel. (Ag '68)
- Schoenman, R., ed. Bertrand Russell: philosopher of the century. (Mr '68)
- Schorer, M. World we imagine. (O '68)
- Shapiro, K. To abolish children. (O '68)
- Smith, W. H., ed. Horace Walpole. (My '68)
- Spackman, W. M. On the decay of humanism. (O '68)
- Stroup, T. B., ed. Humanities and the understanding of reality. (Je '68)
- Tolstoy, L. Tolstoy on education. (Je '68)
- Unfinished journey. (N '68)
- Westrup, J., ed. Essays presented to Egon Wellesz. (My '68)
- Will, F. Literature inside out. (Mr '68)
- Wilson, L. R. Education and libraries. (Ap '68)
- Wolff, K. H. ed. Critical spirit. (Mr '68)
- Wrenn, C. L. Word and symbol. (O '68)
- Essays and speeches. Jenkins, R. (Je '68)
- Essays in economics. Leontief, W. (Mr '68)
- Essays in monetary economics. Johnson, H. G. (S '68)
- Essays in self-destruction. Shneidman, E. S., ed. (D '68)
- Essays in seminary education. Ellis, J. T. (S '68)
- Essays in the theory of society. Dahrendorf, R. (S '68)
- Essays of five decades. Priestley, J. B. (D '68)
- Essays on American literature in honor of Jay B. Hubbell. Gohdes, C., ed. (Je '68)
- Essays on Italian sculpture. Pope-Hennessy, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Essays on reform, 1967. Crick, B., ed. (N '68)
- Essays on the language of literature. Chatman, S., ed. (Ag '68)
- Essays presented to Egon Wellesz. Westrup, J., ed. (My '68)
- Essays presented to Rudolf Wittkower on his sixty-fifth birthday, 2v. Fraser, D., ed. (My '68)
- Essence of faith according to Luther. Feuerbach, L. (Mr '68)
- Essence of security. McNamara, R. S. (N '68)
- Essence of T. H. Huxley. Huxley, T. H. (S '68)
- Essex, England
Economic conditions
Finn, R. W. Domesday studies. (O '68)

Esthetics

- Gurney, E. Power of sound. (Ap '68)
 Holst, N. von. Creators, collectors, and connoisseurs. (Mr '68)
 Kahler, E. Disintegration of form in the arts. (Ag '68)
 Langer, S. K. Mind: an essay on human feeling, v 1. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Schiller, F. On the aesthetic education of man. (O '68)
 Ueda, M. Literary and art theories in Japan. (S '68)
 Estimating foreign resource needs for economic development. Vanek, J. (Mr '68)

Eta

- De Vos, G. Japan's invisible race. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

- Etched in arsenic. Christie, T. L. (My '68)

Etchings

- Hind, A. M. Catalogue of Rembrandt's etchings, 2v in 1. (S '68)

- Eternal Adam and the new world garden. Noble, D. W. (My '68)

Eternity

- Yarnold, G. D. Moving image. (Ap '68)

Ethics

- Banner, W. A. Ethics: an introduction to moral philosophy. (S '68)
 Cicero, M. T. Cicero on moral obligation. (My '68)
 Cox, H. G. On not leaving it to the snake. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Monro, D. H. Empiricism and ethics. (Ap '68)
 Mowrer, O. H. ed. Morality and mental health. (Ag '68)
 Niebuhr, R. Faith and politics. (D '68)
 Peters, R. S. Ethics and education. (Mr '68)
 Weiss, P. Right & wrong. (Ap '68)
 See also

Responsibility*Dictionaries

- Macquarrie, J., ed. Dictionary of Christian ethics. (Je '68)

History

- Bourke, V. J. History of ethics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Ethics, Chinese

- Eberhard, W. Guilt and sin in traditional China. (My '68)

- Ethics: an introduction to moral philosophy. Banner, W. A. (S '68)

- Ethics and education. Peters, R. S. (Mr '68)

Ethiopia*Description and travel

- Reid, J. M. Traveller extraordinary. (O '68)
 Ethiopian painting in the late middle ages and during the Gondar dynasty. Leroy, J. (S '68)
 Ethiopian painting in the late middle ages and under the Gondar dynasty. Eng title of: Ethiopian painting in the late middle ages and during the Gondar dynasty. Leroy, J. (S '68)

- Ethnic minorities in the Soviet Union. Goldhagen, E. ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Ethnographic atlas. Murdock, G. P. (N '68)

Ethnology

- Epstein, A. L., ed. Craft of social anthropology. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Ford, C. S., ed. Cross-cultural approaches. (Ag '68)
 Murdock, G. P. Ethnographic atlas. (N '68)
 Pinney, R. Vanishing tribes. (D '68)
 Textor, R. B., comp. Cross-cultural summary. (O '68)

Australia

- Mountford, C. P. Australian aboriginal portraits. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Sharp, I. G., ed. Aborigines in the economy. (Ag '68)

Kenya

- Adamson, J. Peoples of Kenya. (Mr '68)

Nigeria

- Plotnicov, L. Strangers to the city. (N '68)

Ethnomusicology*Bibliography

- Gillis, F., comp. Ethnomusicology and folk music. (My '68)
 Ethnomusicology and folk music. Gillis, F., comp. (My '68)

Etiquette

- Ostrander, S. Etiquette, etc. (Ag '68)

Dictionaries

- Miller, L. Encyclopedia of etiquette. (Ap '68)

Juvenile literature

- Barclay, J. Young people's guide to manners. (Ag '68)
 Post, E. L. Emily Post book of etiquette for young people. (Ap '68)

- Etiquette, etc. Ostrander, S. (Ag '68)

Eton College

- McConnell, J. D. R. Eton—how it works. (N '68)

- Eton—how it works. McConnell, J. D. R. (N '68)

- Etruscan cities and Rome. Scullard, H. H. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Etruscans

- Scullard, H. H. Etruscan cities and Rome. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

- Euell Gibbons' Beachcomber's handbook. Gibbons, E. (Mr '68)

Eugenics

- Osborn, F. Future of human heredity. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Euripides

- Webster, T. B. L. Tragedies of Euripides. (Ag '68)

Adaptations

- Sartre, J. P. Trojan women (Euripides). (S '68)

Europe*Biography

- Pedley, A., comp. They looked like this (Europe). (Ag '68)

Civilization

- Hay, D. Europe in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. (Mr '68)
 Milosz, C. Native realm. (N '68)
 Nizan, P. Aden, Arabie. (O '68)
 Wiskemann, E. Europe I saw. (D '68)

Description and travel

- Kane, R. S. Eastern Europe A to Z. (Ag '68)
 Pounds, N. J. G. Europe and the Soviet Union [2d ed.]. (Mr '68)

Guide books

- Rand, A. Ski guide to Europe. (Ag '68)

Views

- Age of the grand tour. (Mr '68)

Economic conditions

- Dillard, D. Economic development of the North Atlantic community. (N '68)
 Kindleberger, C. P. Europe's postwar growth. (Mr '68)

1789-1900

- Droz, J. Europe between revolutions, 1815-1848. (Ag '68)

1945-

- Denison, E. F. Why growth rates differ. (Ag '68)
 Postan, M. M. Economic history of Western Europe, 1945-1964. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Foreign relations*1945-

- Lerche, C. O. Last chance in Europe. (Mr '68)

Historical geography

- Smith, C. T. Historical geography of Western Europe before 1800. (Ag '68)

History

- Aston, M. Fifteenth century: the prospect of Europe. (Ag '68)
 Levenson, J. R., ed. European expansion and the counter-example of Asia, 1300-1600. (N '68)

476-1492

- Froissart, J. Froissart's chronicles; tr. by John Jolliffe. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hay, D. Europe in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. (Mr '68)

1492-1789

- McNair, P. Peter Martyr in Italy: an anatomy of apostasy. (Ag '68)
 Trevor-Roper, H. R. Crisis of the seventeenth century. (Je '68)

1789-1900

- Delderfield, R. F. Imperial sunset. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Delderfield, R. F. Retreat from Moscow. (Ap '68)
 Droz, J. Europe between revolutions, 1815-1848. (Ag '68)
 McManners, J. Lectures on European history, 1789-1914: men, machines, and freedom. (Ag '68)
 Palmer, A. Napoleon in Russia. (Mr '68)
 Sutherland, J. Men of Waterloo. (Je '68)

20th century

- McManners, J. Lectures on European history, 1789-1914: men, machines, and freedom. (Ag '68)

Intellectual life

Lichtheim, G. Concept of ideology. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Schenk, H. G. Mind of the European romantics. (Mr '68)

Politics*19th century

Anderson, E. N. Political institutions and social change in continental Europe in the nineteenth century. (N '68)

1914-1945

Wiskemann, E. Undeclared war [2d ed]. (Je '68)

1918-1945

Toscano, M. Origins of the pact of steel. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

1945-

France, Germany and the Western alliance. (Mr '68)

Lerche, C. O. Last chance in Europe. (Mr '68)

Politics and government

Wiskemann, E. Europe I saw. (D '68)

Relations (general) with Africa, East

Haight, M. V. J. European powers and South-East Africa [rev 2d ed]. (Je '68)

Relations (general) with the United States

Servan-Schreiber, J. J. American challenge. (S '68)

Social conditions

Droz, J. Europe between revolutions, 1815-1848. (Ag '68)

Stearns, P. N. European society in upheaval. (Mr '68)

Social life and customs*Juvenile literature

Rowling, M. Everyday life in medieval times. (Ag '68)

Europe, Eastern*Economic policy

Gamarnikow, M. Economic reforms in Eastern Europe. (N '68)

Foreign relations*United States

American assembly. United States and Eastern Europe. (Ag '68)

Politics

International conference on world politics, 1965. Eastern Europe in transition. (Ap '68)

Ionescu, G. Politics of the European communist states. (Ap '68)

Staar, R. F. Communist regimes in Eastern Europe: an introduction. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Europe and the Soviet Union [2d ed]. Pounds, N. J. G. (Mr '68)

Europe between revolutions, 1815-1848. Droz, J. (Ag '68)

Europe I saw. Wiskemann, E. (D '68)

Europe in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. Hay, D. (Mr '68)

Europe overseas: phases of imperialism. Betts, R. F. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

European brasses. Bouquet, A. C. (Je '68)

European Common Market. See European Economic Community

European common market and the world. Feld, W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

European Economic Community

Clark, W. H. Politics of the common market. (Mr '68)

Feld, W. European common market and the world. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Kumar, D. India and the European Economic Community. (My '68)

Newhouse, J. Collision in Brussels. (Je '68)

Okigbo, P. N. C. Africa and the common market. (Ap '68)

European expansion and the counter-example of Asia, 1300-1600. Levenson, J. R., ed. (N '68)

European federation

Clark, W. H. Politics of the common market. (Mr '68)

European Organization for Nuclear Research

Jungk, R. Big machine. (N '68)

European powers and South-East Africa [rev 2d ed]. Haight, M. V. J. (Je '68)

European society in upheaval. Stearns, P. N. (Mr '68)

European War, 1914-1918*Aerial operations

Douglas of Kirtleside, S. Combat and command. (Mr '68)

Juvenile literature

Lawson, D., ed. Great air battles. (Ag '68)

Campaigns and battles*Turkey and the Near East

Barker, A. J. Bastard war. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Causes

Fischer, F. Germany's aims in the first World War. (My '68)

Geiss, I., ed. July, 1914. (O '68)

Diplomatic history

Geiss, I., ed. July 1914. (O '68)

Influence and results

Mayer, A. J. Politics and diplomacy of peace-making. (Ap '68)

Naval operations

Stumpf, R. War, mutiny and revolution in the German navy. (O '68)

Personal narratives

Spears, E. Picnic basket. (O '68)

Stumpf, R. War, mutiny and revolution in the German navy. (O '68)

Poetry

Gardner, B., ed. Up the line to death. (Mr '68)

Territorial questions

Louis, W. R. Great Britain and Germany's lost colonies, 1914-1919. (Ap '68)

Germany

Fischer, F. Germany's aims in the first World War. (My '68)

Mishark, J. W. Road to revolution. (Ag '68)

Great Britain

Woodward, L. Great Britain and the War of 1914-1918. (Je '68)

United States

Churchill, A. Over here! (S '68)

Europeans in South Africa

Brown, D. Against the world. (Ag '68)

Europe's postwar growth. Kindleberger, C. P. (Mr '68)

Eva Trout. Bowen, E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Evangelistic work

Jones, E. S. Song of ascents. (O '68)

Evans, Sir Arthur John

Juvenile literature

Baumann, H. Lion gate and labyrinth. (Ag '68)

Evening at Rossini's in Beau-Sejour (Passy) 1858. Michotte, E. (With his Richard Wagner's visit to Rossini (Paris 1860). (N '68)

Ever-changing sea. Ericson, D. B. (Ag '68)

(1967 Annual)

Everest, Mount

Juvenile literature

Styles, S. Mallory of Everest. (D '68)

Evergood, Philip

Evergood, P. Graphic work of Philip Evergood. (Ap '68)

Evergreen review reader, 1957-1967. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Evers, Medgar Wiley

Evers, Mrs Medgar. For us, the living. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Every man's brother. Lewis, N. (S '68)

Every second year. Jones, C. O. (N '68)

Every time I climb a tree. McCord, D. (Mr '68)

Everyday faith. Rahner, K. (D '68)

Everyday life in early Imperial China. Loewe, M. (N '68)

Everyday life in medieval times. Rowling, M. (Ag '68)

Everyday life in the age of enterprise, 1865-1900. Walker, R. H. (My '68)

Everyman his own poet. Van Nostrand, A. D. (D '68)

Everyman's Eden. Roske, R. J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Everything changes. Howell, R. R. (Ag '68)

Everything to live for. Horgan, P. (N '68)

Evidence for authorship. Erdman, D. V., ed. (Ap '68)

Evil. (My '68)

Evolution

- Alland, A. Evolution and human behavior. (My '68)
 Broms, A. Thus life began. (N '68)
 Campbell, B. G. Human evolution. (Ap '68)
 De Camp, L. S. Great monkey trial. (Mr '68)
 Overman, R. H. Evolution and the Christian doctrine of creation. (D '68)

Juvenile literature

- Horizon magazine. Charles Darwin and The origin of species. (Ag '68)
 Evolution and human behavior. Alland, A. (My '68)
 Evolution and the Christian doctrine of creation. Overman, R. H. (D '68)
 Evolution of Australian foreign policy, 1938-1965. Watt, A. (Ap '68)
 Evolution of dialectical materialism. Jordan, Z. A. (Je '68)
 Evolution of national insurance in Great Britain. Gilbert, B. B. (S '68)
 Exaggerations [sic] of Peter Prince. Katz, S. (N '68)

Excavations (Archeology)

- Ashe, G. Quest for Arthur's Britain. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Rackl, H.-W. Diving into the past. (O '68)

America

- Deuel, L., comp. Conquistadors without swords. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Israel*Juvenile literature

- Pearlman, M. Zealots of Masada. (Mr '68)
 Exceptional children
 Cruickshank, W. M. Brain-injured child in home, school, and community. (Mr '68)
 Ellingson, C. Shadow children. (Ag '68)
 Heinemann, R. B. Fourth R. (Ap '68)
 Webb, L. Children with special needs in the infants' school. (O '68)
 Excerpts from the diaries of the late God. Towne, A. (N '68)

Executive power*Great Britain

- Wiseman, H. V., comp. Parliament and the executive. (Mr '68)

United States

- Blackman, J. L. Presidential seizure in labor disputes. (My '68)
 Jackson, C. Presidential vetoes, 1792-1945. (O '68)
 Warren, S., ed. American president. (Ag '68)

Exercise

- Cooper, K. H. Aerobics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Exercise hoodwink. Procter, M. (Mr '68)
 Exhibitionist. Sutton, H. (Mr '68)
 Exile. Jones, M. (Mr '68)
 Exile. Weiss, P. (O '68)

Existentialism

- Olafson, F. A. Principles and persons. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Phenomenology and existentialism. (S '68)
 Exodus (Middle High German poem)
 Green, D. H. Millstätter Exodus. (Ap '68)
 Expanding Ecuador's exports. Watkins, R. J. (My '68)
 Expanding society. Kitson Clark, G. S. R. (O '68)
 Expansion and American Indian policy, 1783-1812. Horsman, R. (Je '68)
 Expansion and coexistence. Ulam, A. B. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Expedition of Humphrey Clinker. Smollett, T. (Mr '68)
 Expensive people. Oates, J. C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Experience of literature. Trilling, L. (Je '68)

- Experiment. Catling, P. S. (Ap '68)
 Experiments in form. Isle, W. (D '68)
 Experts. Freidin, S. (S '68)
 Exploding church. Franck, F. (O '68)
 Explorations of literature. Reck, R. D., ed. (Ag '68)

Explorers

- Chapman, W. Search for El Dorado. (Ap '68)
 Severin, T. Explorers of the Mississippi. (My '68)
 Ward, R. G., ed. American activities in the central Pacific, 1790-1870, v 1. (Mr '68)

Juvenile literature

- Moore, P. Exploring the world. (N '68)
 Explorers of the Mississippi. Severin, T. (My '68)

Exploring the Northwest territory. Mackenzie, A. (J '68)

- Exploring the world. Moore, P. (N '68)
 Exploring the world of archaeology. Cleator, P. E. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Exploring word. Holbrook, D. (Ap '68)
 Export instability and economic development. MacBean, A. I. (Mr '68)

Express service

- Moody, R. Stagecoach West. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Expressionism (Art)

- Hofmann, W. Expressionist watercolors, 1905-1920. (Mr '68)
 Expressionist watercolors, 1905-1920. Hofmann, W. (Mr '68)

Extinct animals

- Martin, P. S., ed. Pleistocene extinctions. (O '68)

Juvenile literature

- Warwick, A. R. Let's look at prehistoric animals. (D '68)

Extrasensory perception

- Logan, D. Reluctant prophet. (O '68)
 McCreery, C. Science, philosophy, and ESP. (S '68)
 Eyes in the fishbowl. Snyder, Z. K. (Ag '68)
 Eyewitness. Katz, W. L. (Mr '68)

F. C. S. Schiller and the dimensions of pragmatism. Winetrou, K. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)*Fables

- Aesop. Caxton's Aesop. (Ag '68)
 Fabric of guilt. Block, E. B. (O '68)
 Fabulators. Scholes, R. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Fabulous Toby and me. Schaffner, N. E. (Ag '68)
 Face of South Vietnam. Brelis, D. (Ap '68)
 Face of the deep. Hanna, C. B. (My '68)
 Faces of power. Brown, S. (N '68)
 Faces of the frontier. Bjorklund, L. F. (My '68)
 Facing God. Quiery, W. H. (Mr '68)
 Fads, follies and delusions of the American people. Sann, P. (My '68)
 Fair liberty was all his cry. Jeffares, A. N., ed. (Ag '68)

Fair use (Copyright)

- Gipe, G. A. Copyright and the machine nearer to the dust. (Mr '68)

Fairies

- Briggs, K. M. Fairies in English tradition and literature. (Ag '68)
 Fairies in English tradition and literature. Briggs, K. M. (Ag '68)
 Fairies in tradition and literature. Eng title of: Fairies in English tradition and literature. Briggs, K. M. (Ag '68)

Fairy tales

- Alexander, L. High king. (Je '68)
 Anderson, L. Two hundred rabbits. (Ag '68)
 Garner, A. Moon of Gomerath. (Ag '68)
 Green, K. Leprechaun tales. (Je '68)
 Grimm, J. Jorinda and Joringel. (S '68)
 Haviland, V. Favorite fairy tales told in Japan. (Mr '68)
 Ishii, M. Issun Boshi, the Inchling. (My '68)
 Leichman, S. Boy who could sing pictures. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Manning-Sanders, R. Book of mermaids. (Ag '68)
 Manning-Sanders, R. Glass man and the golden bird. (D '68)
 Russell, S. P. Mushmen. (D '68)
 Story of Prince Ivan, the firebird, and the gray wolf. (O '68)
 Ungerer, T. Zeralda's ogre. (Mr '68)
 Williams-Ellis, A. Old world & new world fairy tales. (Mr '68)

Faith

- Burl, F. How can we still speak responsibly of God? (Je '68)
 Burl, F. Thinking faith. (Je '68)
 Feuerbach, L. Essence of faith according to Luther. (Mr '68)
 Rahner, K. Belief today. (Ap '68)
 Williams, J. G. Christian faith and the space age. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Faith and philosophy. Richmond, J. (Ag '68)*Faith and politics. Niebuhr, R. (D '68)*Faith and reason

- Farrer, A. Faith and speculation. (Ag '68)
 Faith and speculation. Farrer, A. (Ag '68)
 Faith and the space age. Eng title of: Christian faith and the space age. Williams, J. G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Faith in a changing culture. Galloway, A. D. (N '68)*Faith of Epicurus. Farrington, B. (S '68)

- Falkner, Murry C.
Falkner, M. C. Falkners of Mississippi. (Mr '68)
- Falkner family
Falkner, M. C. Falkners of Mississippi. (Mr '68)
- Falkners of Mississippi*. Falkner, M. C. (Mr '68)
- Fall and rise of modern Italy*. Hughes, S. (Ap '68)
- Fall from grace*. Viorst, M. (Ag '68)
- Fall of Berlin*. Chuikov, V. I. (Ap '68)
- Fall of the hermit kingdom*. Choi, W. (Ap '68)
- Fall of the Incas*. Glubok, S. (Ap '68)
- Fall River Legend* (Ballet)
De Mille, A. Lizzie Borden. (Ag '68)
- Falla, Manuel de
Demarquez, S. Manuel de Falla. (N '68)
- Familiar medical quotations*. Strauss, M. B. (Jm '69) (1968 Annual)
- Familiar quotations* [14th ed rev & enl]. Bartlett, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Familiar trees of America*. Grimm, W. C. (Ap '68)
- Families of the slums*. Minuchin, S. (S '62)
- Family
Geiger, H. K. Family in Soviet Russia. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Handel, G., comp. Psychosocial interior of the family. (Ap '68)
- Lacey, W. K. Family in classical Greece. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Madan, T. N. Family and kinship. (Je '68)
- Minuchin, S. Families of the slums. (S '68)
- Parkinson, C. N. Mrs Parkinson's law. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Family and kinship*. Madan, T. N. (Je '68)
- Family in classical Greece*. Lacey, W. K. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Family in Soviet Russia*. Geiger, H. K. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Family life education
Fisher, E. O. Help for today's troubled marriages. (O '68)
- Family social welfare*. Feldman, F. L. (N '68)
- Family social work*. See Social case work
- Famine. Creasey, J. (My '68)
- Famine on the wind*. Carefoot, G. L. (My '68)
- Famous American humorous poets*. Allen, E. S. (N '68)
- Famous astronomers*. Pickering, J. S. (Je '68)
- Famous coaches*. Heuman, W. (Ag '68)
- Famous monster tales*. Davenport, B., comp. (Je '68)
- Famous Verdi operas*. Hughes, S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Fanfare for the stalwart*. Wheeler, T. G. (S '68)
- Fanny Kemble: actress, author, abolitionist*. Wise, W. E. (Mr '68)
- Fan's notes*. Exley, F. (D '68)
- Fantasy furniture*. Simpson, T. (O '68)
- Far North/Africa/Indonesia/Melanesia/Australia: v 1 of The unwritten song*. Trask, W. R., ed. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Farm life
Indiana
Adams, M. S. Six to break even. (Ap '68)
- Washington (State)
Petite, I. Life on tiger mountain. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Wisconsin
Pöchmann, R. F. Triple Ridge Farm. (Je '68)
- Farm policies and politics in the Truman years*. Matusow, A. J. (Mr '68)
- Farnham, Margot
Wilbourne, W. W. Wheels. (N '68)
- Farther shores of politics*. Thayer, G. (Mr '68)
- Farther vision*. Koenig, A. E., ed. (My '68)
- Fascism
Eisenberg, D. Re-emergence of fascism. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Europe
Carsten, F. L. Rise of fascism. (Mr '68)
- Germany
See National socialism
- Fashion
Taylor, J. It's a small, medium and outsize world. (Mr '68)
- Trahey, J., ed. Harper's bazaar. (Ap '68)
- Fashion me ■ people*. Kennedy, E. C. (Je '68)
- Fate and fatalism
Cahn, S. M. Fate, logic, and time. (Ag '68)
- Fate, logic, and time*. Cahn, S. M. (Ag '68)
- Father O'Hara of Notre Dame, the cardinal-archbishop of Philadelphia*. McAvoy, T. T. (N '68)
- Faulkner, William
Backman, M. Faulkner: the major years. (Mr '68)
- Falkner, M. C. Falkners of Mississippi. (Mr '68)
- Meriwether, J. B., ed. Lion in the garden: interviews with William Faulkner, 1926-1962. (D '68)
- Faulkner family*. See Falkner family
- Faulkner: the major years*. Backman, M. (Mr '68)
- Favorite fairy tales told in Japan*. Haviland, V. (Mr '68)
- Feast*. Noll, B. (S '68)
- Feasting with panthers*. Croft-Cooke, R. (Je '68)
- Federal aid for schools, 1967-1968 guide*. Rowland, H. S. (D '68)
- Federal aid to education*
Meranto, P. Politics of federal aid to education in 1965. (N '68)
- Rowland, H. S. Federal aid for schools, 1967-1968 guide. (D '68)
- Federal aviation administration*. Burkhardt, R. (N '68)
- Federal government
Amlund, C. A. Federalism in the Southern Confederacy. (My '68)
- Grodzins, M. American system. (Mr '68)
- Menzies, R. Central power in the Australian Commonwealth. (Ag '68)
- Trudeau, P. E. Federalism and the French Canadians. (D '68)
- Federal reserve monetary policy, 1917-1933*. Wicker, E. R. (Mr '68)
- Federal Theatre Project
Mathews, J. De H. Federal theatre, 1935-1939. (Mr '68)
- Federal theatre, 1935-1939*. Mathews, J. De H. (Mr '68)
- Federalism and the French Canadians*. Trudeau, P. E. (D '68)
- Federalism in the Southern Confederacy*. Amlund, C. A. (My '68)
- Fédération de l'éducation nationale
Clark, J. M. Teachers and politics in France. (Je '68)
- Feeling blue*. Wolff, R. J. (Ag '68)
- Félix, Elisa Rachel
Knepler, H. Gilded stage. (D '68)
- Fellini, Federico
Solmi, A. Fellini. (D '68)
- Fencing
Hobbs, W. Stage fight. (Ag '68)
- Fens, England
Randell, A. R. Sixty years a Fenman. (Ap '68)
- Fermentation
Hahn, P. A. Chemicals from fermentation. (N '68)
- Ferns
Juvenile literature
Kohn, B. Ferns: plants without flowers. (N '68)
- Ferns: plants without flowers*. Kohn, B. (N '68)
- Fertility, Human
Westoff, C. F. College women and fertility values. (Ag '68)
- Few selected exits*. Thomas, G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Fiction
Stevick, P., ed. Theory of the novel. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Fiction (Books about)
History and criticism
Doyle, A. C. Annotated Sherlock Holmes, 2v. (Ag '68)
- Giddings, R. Tradition of Smollett. (Ap '68)
- Rubin, L. D. Teller in the tale. (S '68)
- Scholes, R. Fabulators. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Fiction (classified according to subject)*
Abortion
Hudson, J. Case of need. (D '68)
- Actors and actresses
Friedman, S. Haunted woman. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Sagan, F. Heart-keeper. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Spark, M. Public image. (N '68)
- Sutton, H. Exhibitionist. (Mr '68)
- Adolescence
Baker, E. Penny wars. (O '68)
- Bradford, R. Red sky at morning. (Ag '68)
- Duhrssen, A. Memoir of an aged child. (Mr '68)
- Green, G. To Brooklyn with love. (Ap '68)

Fiction—Adolescence—Continued

Hesse, H. Beneath the wheel. (D '68)
 Mazor, J. Washington and Baltimore. (N '68)
 Rosenberg, J. Sudina. (Ap '68)
 Sheed, W. Blacking factory & Pennsylvania gothic. (N '68)

Adventure

Cameron, I. Lost ones. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Kessel, J. Horsemen. (Ag '68)
 Peake, M. Gormenghast trilogy, 3v. (Mr '68)
 Portis, C. True grit. (O '68)
 White, J. M. Nightclimber. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Advertising

Beauvoir, S. de. Les belles images. (My '68)
 Meade, E. Golden geese. (Ag '68)

Air pilots

Smith, F. E. Killing for the hawks. (Ap '68)

Airports

Hailey, A. Airport. (Je '68)

Alcoholism

Lowry, M. Dark as the grave wherein my friend is laid. (O '68)

Alienation

Bawden, N. Grain of truth. (D '68)
 Bowen, E. Eva Trout. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 De Vries, P. Cat's pajamas & Witch's milk. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Dunphy, J. Nightmovers. (Je '68)
 Lambert, G. Case for the angels. (O '68)
 Nossack, H. E. Impossible proof. (Je '68)
 Oë, K. Personal matter. (O '68)
 Olsen, P. Shadow of me. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Pryce-Jones, D. Stranger's view. (Ag '68)
 Rogers, T. Pursuit of happiness. (O '68)
 Sainz, G. Gazapo! (O '68)
 Sharp, A. Wind shifts. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Allegories

Baldwin, M. Miraclejack. (Ag '68)
 Bulgakov, M. Master and Margarita; tr. from the Russian by Michael Glenny. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Bulgakov, M. Master and Margarita; tr. from the Russian by Mirra Ginsburg. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Frayn, M. Very private life. (N '68)
 Gary, R. Dance of Genghis Cohn. (O '68)
 Neugeboren, J. Listen, Ruben Fontanez. (Ag '68)
 Nilssen, J. Drowning, the dancing (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Ambition

Ballard, P. Man who stole a university. (Ap '68)

Americans in Mexico

Blanc, S. Rose window. (Je '68)
 Brown, H. Quiet place to work. (Ag '68)

Animals

Hamilton, W. All the little animals. (N '68)

Dogs

Coleman, L. King. (Je '68)
 Mannix, D. P. Fox and the hound. (My '68)
 Stranger, J. Rex. (Ag '68)

Elephants

Durrell, G. Rosy is my relative. (Ag '68)

Foxes

Mannix, D. P. Fox and the hound. (My '68)

Horses

Kessel, J. Horsemen. (Ag '68)

Antisemitism

Behrman, S. N. Burning glass. (O '68)
 Fuks, L. Mr Theodore Mundstock. (My '68)
 Gary, R. Dance of Genghis Cohn. (O '68)
 Peyrefitte, R. Jews. (D '68)

Aristocracy

Richter, C. Aristocrat. (D '68)

Art dealers

Sims, G. Last best friend. (Je '68)

Artists

Davis, L. J. Whence all but he had fled. (Ap '68)
 Davis, O. Last of the Greeks. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Asians in Africa

Theroux, P. Fong and the Indians. (N '68)

Atomic bomb

Clark, R. Queen Victoria's bomb. (My '68)

Authors

Blake, N. Private wound. (Ag '68)
 Brown, H. Quiet place to work. (Ag '68)
 Cabanis, J. Battle of Toulouse. (Je '68)
 Duffy, M. Paradox players. (N '68)
 Kerouac, J. Vanity of Dulooz. (My '68)
 Lowry, M. Dark as the grave wherein my friend is laid. (O '68)
 Sagan, F. Heart-keeper. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Sukenick, R. Up. (O '68)
 Weiss, F. Exile. (O '68)

Autobiographical novels

Borel, J. Bond. (N '68)
 Exley, F. Fan's notes. (D '68)
 Henriques, R. Commander. (My '68)
 Kerouac, J. Vanity of Dulooz. (My '68)
 Serge, V. Birth of our power. (Ag '68)
 Sukenick, R. Up. (O '68)
 Weiss, F. Exile. (O '68)

Baseball

Coover, R. Universal Baseball Association, inc. J. Henry Waugh, prop. (S '68)

Biographical novels

Byron, George Gordon Noel
 Byron, 6th Baron

Prokosch, F. Missolonghi manuscript. (Ap '68)

Joan, Queen of Sicily

Haycraft, M. C. My lord brother the Lion heart. (Ag '68)

McGill, Peter Hermano

Shrake, E. Blessed McGill. (Ag '68)

Pilate, Pontius

Maler, P. L. Pontius Pilate. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Richard I, King of England

Haycraft, M. C. My lord brother the Lion heart. (Ag '68)

Turner, Nat

Styron, W. Confessions of Nat Turner. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Bohemianism

Katz, S. Exaggggerations [sic] of Peter Prince. (N '68)

Boys

Coleman, L. King. (Je '68)
 Rothberg, A. Song of David Freed. (Ap '68)
 Sheed, W. Blacking factory & Pennsylvania gothic. (N '68)

Bureaucracy

Griffin, G. Occupying power. (N '68)

Buried treasure

Gordon, D. Golden oyster. (N '68)

Business

Ballard, P. Man who stole a university. (Ap '68)
 Gilbert, M. Overdrive. (Je '68)
 Yglesias, J. Orderly life. (D '68)

Cancer

Mortimer, P. My friend says it's bulletproof. (Ag '68)

Catholic faith

Bickham, J. M. Shadowed faith. (O '68)

Character studies

Hitchman, J. Meeting for burial. (D '68)

Chemists

Asimov, I. Whiff of death. (Ag '68)

Children, Stories about

Godden, R. Kitchen Madonna. (Mr '68)
 Oates, J. C. Expensive people. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Vesaas, T. Palace of ice. (N '68)

Christianity

Langguth, A. J. Jesus Christs. (My '68)

City life

Frank, J. The creep. (Ap '68)
 Yurick, S. Bag. (S '68)

Civilization

Achebe, C. Arrow of God. (Mr '68)

Clergy

Tarr, H. Heaven help us! (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Weatherby, W. J. One of our priests is missing. (Ag '68)

College life

- Asimov, I. Whiff of death. (Ag '68)
 Ballard, P. Man who stole a university. (Ap '68)
 Brace, G. W. Department. (D '68)
 Lerner, J. Answer. (Je '68)
 McInerney, R. Jolly Rogerson. (Je '68)
 Morressy, J. Addison tradition. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Spacks, B. Sophomore. (Je '68)
 Yafa, S. H. Paxton Quigley's had the course. (Je '68)

Communitistic communities

See Fiction—Cooperative societies

Concentration camp survivors

- Zilinsky, U. Middle ground. (D '68)

Concentration camps

- Alpert, H. Claimant. (Je '68)

Conscience

- Armah, A. K. Beautiful ones are not yet born. (N '68)
 Keneally, T. Bring larks and heroes. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Nilssen, J. Drowning, the dancing. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Cooperative societies

- Solzhenitsyn, A. I. Cancer ward. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Corruption (in politics)

- Armah, A. K. Beautiful ones are not yet born. (N '68)
 Barlow, J. Burden of proof. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Drury, A. Preserve and protect. (N '68)
 Stewart, R. Casey. (Ag '68)
 Stone, R. Hall of mirrors. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Country life

- Coleman, L. King. (Je '68)
 Hamilton, W. All the little animals. (N '68)
 Lovelace, E. Schoolmaster. (D '68)

Courage

- Davis, P. Seasons of heroes. (Ap '68)
 Tiede, T. Coward. (N '68)

Crime and criminals

- Barlow, J. Burden of proof. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Ellin, S. Valentine estate. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Lewis, N. Every man's brother. (S '68)
 Simenon, G. Move. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Tack, A. Top steal. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Death

- Hamilton, W. All the little animals. (N '68)
 Stern, D. Suicide academy. (D '68)
 Vesaas, T. Palace of ice. (N '68)

Depressions

- Green, G. To Brooklyn with love. (Ap '68)

Devil

- Bulgakov, M. Master and Margarita; tr. from the Russian by Michael Glenny. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Bulgakov, M. Master and Margarita; tr. from the Russian by Mirra Ginsburg. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Caldwell, T. Dialogue with the devil. (N '68)

Diaries (stories in diary form)

- Desnoes, E. Inconsolable memories. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Diplomatic life

- Buckmaster, H. Lion in the stone. (S '68)
 Viertel, J. Monkey on a string. (Ag '68)

Disappearances

- Serling, R. J. President's plane is missing. (N '68)

Disasters

- Ramuz, C. F. Terror on the mountain. (Je '68)

Divorce

- Berckman, E. Case in nullity. (S '68)

Dramatists

- O'Hara, J. Instrument. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Drug trade

- Lathen, E. Stitch in time. (N '68)

English in Asia

- Slimming, J. Pepper garden. (Je '68)

English in India

- Scott, P. Day of the scorpion. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Epidemics

- Black, L. Outbreak. (S '68)

Escapes

- Davis, D. S. God speed the night. (D '68)
 Shelley, S. Bowmanville break. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Eskimos

- Cameron, I. Lost ones. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Ethics

- Barlow, J. Love chase. (My '68)
 DeMott, B. Married man. (D '68)
 Hall, J. B. Mayo Sergeant. (Mr '68)
 Richler, M. Cocksure. (Je '68)
 Weston, J. Hail, hero! (Ap '68)

Europeans in Africa

- Achebe, C. Arrow of God. (Mr '68)

Euthanasia

- Oë, K. Personal matter. (O '68)

Evangelists

- Crews, H. Gospel singer. (My '68)
 Williams, V. Greenbones. (Mr '68)

Executives

- Cozzens, J. G. Morning noon and night. (N '68)
 Hawley, C. Hurricane years. (N '68)

Exiles

- Somerlott, R. Flamingos. (Ap '68)

Experimental forms

- Barth, J. Lost in the funhouse. (N '68)
 Cohen, M. Self-devoted friend. (Ag '68)
 Katz, S. Exaggerations [sic] of Peter Prince. (N '68)
 Kosinski, J. Steps. (D '68)
 Orlovitz, G. Milkbottle, H. (Ap '68)
 Read, P. P. Game in heaven with Tussy Marx. (Mr '68)
 Rosenkrantz, L. Talk. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Simon, C. Histoire. (O '68)
 White, M. E. In the balance. (Ap '68)

Extortion

- Gilbert, A. Visitor. (My '68)
 Pentecost, H. Dead woman of the year. (Ap '68)
 Vermandel, J. G. So long at the Fair. (Je '68)

Fables

- Galbraith, J. K. Triumph. (Je '68)
 Langguth, A. J. Jesus Christs. (My '68)

Faith cure

- Crews, H. Gospel singer. (My '68)

Family chronicles

- Davis, P. Seasons of heroes. (Ap '68)
 Hunt, J. Grey Horse legacy. (N '68)
 Leroux, E. One for the devil. (Ag '68)
 Spencer, C. Anarchy of love. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Spencer, C. Tyranny of love. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Wilson, A. No laughing matter. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Wiseman, T. Journey of a man. (Mr '68)

Family life

- Banister, M. Burn then, little lamp. (D '68)
 Donoso, J. This Sunday. (Ap '68)
 Maloff, S. Happy families. (O '68)

Fantasies

- Beagle, P. S. Last unicorn. (Je '68)
 Calvino, I. Cosmicomics. (N '68)
 Constable, G. Imaginocrats. (Je '68)
 Fine, W. Artificial traveler. (O '68)
 Gary, R. Dance of Genghis Cohn. (O '68)
 Katz, S. Exaggerations [sic] of Peter Prince. (N '68)
 Lieber, J. Move! (O '68)
 Onetti, J. C. Shipyard. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Peake, M. Gormenghast trilogy, 3v. (Mr '68)
 Stoppard, T. Lord Malquist & Mr Moon. (Je '68)
 Themerson, S. Tom Harris. (Ag '68)
 Tolkien, J. R. R. Smith of Wootton Major. (Mr '68)

Farm life

- Reeve, F. D. Red machines. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Stranger, J. Rex. (Ag '68)

Fathers and daughters

- Maloff, S. Happy families. (O '68)
 Sutton, H. Exhibitionist. (Mr '68)

Fiction—Continued

Fathers and sons

Kessel, J. Horsemen. (Ag '68)
 Sanford, J. $300 man. (My '68)

Fear

Lowry, M. Dark ■ the grave wherein my friend is laid. (O '68)

Football

Exley, F. Fan's notes. (D '68)

Fraud

Francis, D. Blood sport. (My '68)

Friends, Society of

Hitchman, J. Meeting for burial. (D '68)

Frontier and pioneer life

Culp, J. H. Whistle in the wind. (D '68)

Future, Stories of the

Frayn, M. Very private life. (N '68)

Ghosts

Davies, L. P. Reluctant medium. (Ap '68)

Good and evil

Grossman, A. Do-gooders. (D '68)
 Hamilton, A. Beam of malice. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Kim, R. E. Innocent. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Kosinski, J. Steps. (D '68)
 Lane, M. Day of the feast. (D '68)
 Mackay, S. Old crow. (My '68)
 Simenon, G. Move. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Gothic romances

Caird, J. Perturbing spirit. (Ap '68)
 McCarthy, C. Outer dark. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Midwood, B. Bodkin. (Je '68)
 Murdoch, I. Nice and the good. (Mr '68)

Great Britain. Navy

Kent, A. To glory we steer. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Pope, D. Drumbeat. (Je '68)

Greeks In the United States

Mountzoures, H. L. Empire of things. (O '68)

Grocers and grocery trade

Theroux, P. Fong and the Indians. (N '68)

Guardian and ward

Bowen, E. Eva Trout. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Guilt

Alpert, H. Claimant. (Je '68)
 Bawden, N. Grain of truth. (D '68)
 Friedman, S. Haunted woman. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Maugham, R. Second window. (D '68)
 Morgulas, J. Accused. (Mr '68)
 Rosenberg, J. Sudina. (Ap '68)

Heart attacks

Hawley, C. Hurricane years. (N '68)

Hipples

Larner, J. Answer. (Je '68)
 Ross, S. Hang-up. (Je '68)

Historical novels

Bulgaria

Donchev, A. Time of parting. (Ag '68)

Crusades

Haycraft, M. C. My lord brother the Lion heart. (Ag '68)

Great Britain

Johnson, P. H. Survival of the fittest. (Ag '68)
 Pope, D. Drumbeat. (Je '68)
 Stubbs, J. My grand enemy. (My '68)

India

Scott, P. Day of the scorpion. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Ireland

Holland, C. Kings in winter. (S '68)

Italy

Pratolini, V. Metello. (O '68)

Malaysia

Slimming, J. Pepper garden. (Je '68)

New York (City)

Stewart, R. Casey. (Ag '68)

Rome (Empire)

Maler, P. L. Pontius Pilate. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Russia

Balter, B. Goodbye, boys. (Je '68)
 Solzhenitsyn, A. I. First circle. (D '68)
 Waring, M. W. Witnesses. (Je '68)

Russia—Revolution, 1917-1921

Hardman, R. Fifteen flags. (D '68)
 Serge, V. Birth of our power. (Ag '68)

Southwest

Shrake, E. Blessed McGill. (Ag '68)

United States

Culp, J. H. Whistle in the wind. (D '68)

United States—1815-1861

Kantor, M. Beauty Beast. (My '68)

United States—Civil War

Davis, P. Seasons of heroes. (Ap '68)

Viet Nam

Tiede, T. Coward. (N '68)

Virginia

Davis, P. Seasons of heroes. (Ap '68)

West

Portis, C. True grit. (O '68)

World War, 1939-1945

Griffin, G. Occupying power. (N '68)
 Henriques, R. Commander. (My '68)
 Johnson, P. H. Survival of the fittest. (Ag '68)
 MacLean, A. Where eagles dare. (Ag '68)
 Russ, M. War memorial. (O '68)
 Shelley, S. Bowmanville break. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Wagner, G. Sands of valor. (Ap '68)
 Wiseman, T. Journey of a man. (Br '68)
 Zilinsky, U. Middle ground. (D '68)

Homosexuality

Baldwin, J. Tell me how long the train's been gone. (O '68)
 Campbell, M. Lord dismiss us. (Mr '68)
 Kirkwood, J. Good times/bad times. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Lambert, G. Case for the angels. (O '68)
 Mishima, Y. Forbidden colors. (Ag '68)
 Rosenthal, I. Sheep. (My '68)
 Vidal, G. Myra Breckinridge. (My '68)
 Zilinsky, U. Middle ground. (D '68)

Horror

Carter, A. Magic toyshop. (My '68)
 Davenport, B. comp. Famous monster tales. (Je '68)

Hospitals and sanitoriums

Solzhenitsyn, A. I. Cancer ward. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

House boats

Duffy, M. Paradox players. (N '68)

Humor

Barlow, J. Love chase. (My '68)
 Beagle, P. S. Last unicorn. (Je '68)
 Beardmore, G. Charlie Pocock and the princess. (D '68)
 Bradford, R. Red sky at morning. (Ag '68)
 Caird, J. Perturbing spirit. (Ap '68)
 Carvic, H. Picture Miss Seeton. (O '68)
 Cendrars, B. To the end of the world. (S '68)
 Cooley, L. F. Condition pink. (Ap '68)
 Deaux, G. Superworm. (Ag '68)
 De Vries, P. Cat's pajamas & Witch's milk. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Durrell, G. Rosy is my relative. (Ag '68)
 Gary, R. Dance of Genghis Cohn. (O '68)
 Gates, N. Hush Hush Johnson. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Grossman, A. Do-gooders. (D '68)
 Guareschi, G. Husband in boarding school. (Ap '68)
 Haase, J. Me and the arch kook Petulia. (My '68)
 Hebdon, M. Errant knights. (D '68)
 Keating, H. R. F. Inspector Ghote caught in meshes. (Ap '68)
 Lanning, G. Green corn moon. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Leigh, J. Downstairs at Ramsey's. (My '68)
 Malerba, L. Serpent. (Ag '68)
 Queneau, R. Blue flowers. (My '68)
 Richler, M. Cocksure. (Je '68)
 Rider, A. Hilltop in hazard. (Ag '68)

Servadio, G. Melinda. (O '68)
 Slavitt, D. Rochelle. (Mr '68)
 Smithies, R. H. R. Shoplifter. (O '68)
 Spacks, B. Sophomore. (Je '68)
 Stephens, E. C. Turn in the dark wood. (Ag '68)
 Stoppard, T. Lord Malquist & Mr Moon. (Je '68)
 Tarr, H. Heaven help us! (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Theroux, P. Fong and the Indians. (N '68)
 Troop, R. Innocent greed. (D '68)
 Vidal, G. Myra Breckinridge. (My '68)
 Williams, G. M. Man who had power over women. (Je '68)
 Wodehouse, P. G. Do butlers burgle banks? (D '68)

Hunting

Brower, B. Debris. (Mr '68)

Idealism

Jones, M. Exile. (Mr '68)

Imaginary kingdoms

Peake, M. Gormenghast trilogy, 3v. (Mr '68)

Incest

Cela, C. J. Mrs. Caldwell speaks to her son. (S '68)
 McCarthy, C. Outer dark. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Indians of North America

Culp, J. H. Whistle in the wind. (D '68)
 Momaday, N. S. House made of dawn. (S '68)
 Shrake, E. Blessed McGill. (Ag '68)

Individualism

Stifter, A. Limestone. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Inheritance and succession

Davidson, L. Making good again. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Guareschi, G. Husband in boarding school. (Ap '68)

Insanity

Cela, C. J. Mrs Caldwell speaks to her son. (S '68)
 Exley, F. Fan's notes. (D '68)
 Malliol, W. Sense of dark. (O '68)
 Stegner, P. Edge. (Ap '68)

Institutional life

Midwood, B. Bodkin. (Je '68)

Intellectuals

Borden, W. Superstoe. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hentoff, N. Onwards! (S '68)

International intrigue

Ambler, E. Dirty story. (Mr '68)
 Canning, V. Python project. (S '68)
 Garner, W. Deep, deep freeze. (N '68)
 Lathen, E. Murder against the grain. (Mr '68)
 Le Carré, J. Small town in Germany. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Llewellyn, R. End of the rug. (N '68)
 MacInnes, H. Salzburg connection. (N '68)
 Moyes, P. Death and the Dutch uncle. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Raine, R. Corder index. (Mr '68)
 Raine, R. Night of the hawk. (Ag '68)
 Thomas, L. Orange Wednesday. (Ap '68)
 Walker, D. CAB-Intersec. (Je '68)
 West, M. L. Tower of Babel. (My '68)
 Wynd, O. Sumatra seven zero. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Zarubica, M. Scutari. (Mr '68)
 Zerwick, C. Cassiopeia affair. (Ag '68)

International relations

Galbraith, J. K. Triumph. (Je '68)

Interracial marriage

See Fiction—Miscegenation

Irish in the United States

Stewart, R. Casey. (Ag '68)

Islands

Griffin, G. Occuping power. (N '68)

Jews and Jewish life

Agnon, S. Y. Guest for the night. (Je '68)
 Kaufmann, M. S. Thy daughter's nakedness. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Morgulas, J. Accused. (Mr '68)
 Olbracht, I. Bitter and the sweet. (Ap '68)
 Rothberg, A. Song of David Freed. (Ap '68)
 Singer, I. B. Séance. (D '68)
 Tarr, H. Heaven help us! (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Jews in Austria

Wiseman, T. Journey of a ~~man~~. (Mr '68)

Jews in Czechoslovakia

Fuks, L. Mr Theodore Mundstock. (My '68)
 Olbracht, I. Bitter and the sweet. (Ap '68)

Jews in Poland

Agnon, S. Y. Guest for the night. (Je '68)

Jews in the United States

Rothberg, A. Song of David Freed. (Ap '68)

Journalists

Baldwin, M. Miraclejack. (Ag '68)
 Maugham, R. Second window. (D '68)

Juvenile delinquency

Creasey, J. So young to burn. (Je '68)
 Samuels, G. People vs. Baby. (My '68)

Kidnapping

Benchley, N. Welcome to Xanadu. (O '68)
 Canning, V. Python project. (S '68)
 Shulman, M. Kill 3. (Ap '68)

Ku Klux Klan

Huie, W. B. Klansman. (Ag '68)

LSD

Armstrong, C. Balloon man. (Ag '68)

Labor and laboring classes

Pratolini, V. Metello. (O '68)

Law and lawyers

Tracy, H. Settled in chambers. (Je '68)

Legends and folktales

Donchev, A. Time of parting. (Ag '68)

Lesbianism

Kilpatrick, S. Ladies' Close. (Ag '68)

Literary life

Johnson, P. H. Survival of the fittest. (Ag '68)

Locality

Aegean Islands

Stewart, J. I. M. Vanderlyn's kingdom. (Je '68)

Afghanistan

Kessel, J. Horsemen. (Ag '68)

Africa

Maugham, R. Second window. (D '68)
 Roland, N. Great One. (S '68)
 Wibberley, L. Road from Tooml. (My '68)

Africa (Ghana)

Armah, A. K. Beautiful ones are not yet born. (N '68)

Africa (Nigeria)

Achebe, C. Arrow of God. (Mr '68)

Africa (Rhodesia)

Davis, J. G. Hold my hand I'm dying. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Africa, East

Theroux, P. Fong and the Indians. (N '68)

Africa, North

Lost legions. (Mr '68)
 Raine, R. Night of the hawk. (Ag '68)

Africa, South

Leroux, E. One for the devil. (Ag '68)

Alabama

Huie, W. B. Klansman. (Ag '68)

Algeria (Algiers)

Sillitoe, A. Tree on fire. (O '68)

Arctic regions

Cameron, I. Lost ones. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Arizona

Weston, J. Hail, hero! (Ap '68)

Asia

Bassett, J. Sky suspended. (N '68)

Asia, Central

Solzhenitsyn, A. I. Cancer ward. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Asia, Southeastern

Ford, D. Incident at Muc Wa. (Ap '68)

Fiction—Locality—Continued

Asia, Southwestern

Rider, A. Hilltop in hazard. (Ag '68)

Australia

Courtier, S. H. Murder's burning. (N '68)

Australia (Sydney)

McShane, M. Ill met by a fish shop on George Street. (Ag '68)

Austria (Salzburg)

MacInnes, H. Salzburg connection. (N '68)

Austria (Vienna)

Wiseman, T. Journey of a man. (Mr '68)

Austro-Hungarian border

Luard, N. Warm and golden war. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Brazil

Rosa, J. G. Third bank of the river. (D '68)

Bulgaria

Donchev, A. Time of parting. (Ag '68)

Burma

Wynd, O. Sumatra seven zero. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

California

Cooley, L. F. Condition pink. (Ap '68)
Dewey, T. B. King-killers. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Hall, J. B. Mayo Sergeant. (Mr '68)

Lambert, G. Case for the angels. (O '68)

Macdonald, R. Instant enemy. (My '68)

Sanford, J. $300 man. (My '68)

Stegner, P. Edge. (Ap '68)

Vance, J. H. Pleasant Grove murders. (Ag '68)

California (Hollywood)

Palmer, S. Rook takes knight. (D '68)

Sagan, F. Heart-keeper. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Vidal, G. Myra Breckinridge. (My '68)

California (Los Angeles)

Armstrong, C. Balloon man. (Ag '68)

Linington, E. Something wrong. (Ap '68)

Ross, S. Hang-up. (Je '68)

Canada

Shelley, S. Bowmanville break. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Canada (Montreal)

Vermandel, J. G. So long at the Fair. (Je '68)

Caribbean area

Kent, A. To glory we steer. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Chile

Donoso, J. This Sunday. (Ap '68)

China

Evans, H. Adventures of Li Chi. (S '68)

Colombia

García Márquez, G. No one writes to the colonel. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Connecticut

Fenwick, E. Disturbance on Berry Hill. (Je '68)

Waugh, H. Con game. (O '68)

Cuba

Desnoes, E. Inconsolable memories. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Czechoslovakia (Prague)

Fuks, L. Mr Theodore Mundstock. (My '68)

Delaware

White, L. Night of the rape. (Ap '68)

Denmark (Copenhagen)

Raine, R. Corder index. (Mr '68)

East Prussia

Kirst, H. H. Wolves. (O '68)

England

Aird, C. Most contagious game. (D '68)

Alding, P. All leads negative. (Ap '68)

Barlow, J. Love chase. (My '68)

Byatt, A. S. Game. (My '68)

Campbell, M. Lord dismiss us. (Mr '68)

Carvic, H. Picture Miss Seeton. (O '68)

Celine, L. F. Death on the installment plan; tr. by Ralph Manheim. (Ag '68)

Clinton-Baddeley, V. C. My foe outstretch'd beneath the tree. (N '68)

Davies, L. P. Grave matter. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Davis, O. Last of the Greeks. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Duffy, M. Paradox players. (N '68)

Durrell, G. Rosy is my relative. (Ag '68)

Garve, A. Long short cut. (Je '68)

Gilbert, M. Overdrive. (Je '68)

Gilliatt, P. State of change. (Je '68)

Henriques, R. Commander. (My '68)

Johnson, P. H. Survival of the fittest. (Ag '68)

Kilpatrick, S. Ladies' Close. (Ag '68)

Maugham, R. Second window. (D '68)

Munro, J. Money that money can't buy. (N '68)

Murdoch, I. Nice and the good. (Mr '68)

Naipaul, V. S. Flag on the island. (Je '68)

Peters, E. Grass-widow's tale. (O '68)

Procter, M. Exercise hoodwink. (Mr '68)

Raphael, F. Orchestra & beginners. (My '68)

Sillitoe, A. Tree on fire. (O '68)

Smith, F. E. Killing for the hawks. (Ap '68)

Tack, A. Top steal. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Trevor, W. Day we got drunk on cake. (Mr '68)

Troop, R. Innocent greed. (D '68)

Weatherby, W. J. One of our priests is missing. (Ag '68)

White, J. Proxy. (Ag '68)

Wodehouse, P. G. Do butlers burgle banks? (D '68)

England (provincial and rural)

Aird, C. Henrietta who? (S '68)

Davies, L. P. Reluctant medium. (Ap '68)

Golding, W. Pyramid. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Powell, A. From a view to a death. (Je '68)

Taylor, E. Wedding group. (Je '68)

England (Cornwall)

Hamilton, W. All the little animals. (N '68)

England (Cumberland)

Stranger, J. Rex. (Ag '68)

England (Devonshire)

Haggard, W. Conspirators. (O '68)

England (Essex)

Allingham, M. Cargo of eagles. (My '68)

England (London)

Baldwin, M. Miraclejack. (Ag '68)

Balfour, J. Medicine men. (Je '68)

Barlow, J. Burden of proof. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Bawden, N. Grain of truth. (D '68)

Beardmore, G. Charlie Pocock and the princess. (D '68)

Black, L. Outbreak. (S '68)

Burke, J. Gossip truth. (Ag '68)

Carter, A. Magic toyshop. (My '68)

Creasey, J. So young to burn. (Je '68)

Durrell, L. Tunc. (Je '68)

Fennerton, W. Lucifer cell. (Ag '68)

Figes, E. Winter journey. (Ag '68)

Gilbert, A. Visitor. (My '68)

Glanville, B. Artist type. (Je '68)

Godden, R. Kitchen Madonna. (Mr '68)

Jones, B. Murder has no friends. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Keating, H. R. F. Inspector Ghote hunts the peacock. (N '68)

Marric, J. J. Gideon's river. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Marric, J. J. Gideon's wrath. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Sharp, A. Wind shifts. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Shulman, M. Kill 3. (Ap '68)

Sims, G. Last best friend. (Je '68)

Spencer, C. Tyranny of love. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Stoppard, T. Lord Malquist & Mr Moon. (Je '68)

Tracy, H. Settled in chambers. (Je '68)

Williams, G. M. Man who had power over women. (Je '68)

Wilson, A. No laughing matter. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

England (Sussex)

Spencer, C. Anarchy of love. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Europe

Garner, W. Deep, deep freeze. (N '68)

Houghton, T. First season. (Mr '68)

Llewellyn, R. End of the rug. (N '68)

Pryce-Jones, D. Stranger's view. (Ag '68)

Themerson, S. Tom Harris. (Ag '68)

Weiss, P. Exile. (O '68)

France

- Borel, J. Bond. (N '68)
 Cadell, E. Mrs Westerby changes course. (My '68)
 Celine, L. F. Death on the installment plan; tr. by Ralph Manheim. (Ag '68)
 Japrisot, S. Lady in the car with glasses and a gun. (Mr '68)
 Queneau, R. Blue flowers. (My '68)
 Simenon, G. Move. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Simon, C. Histoire. (O '68)
 Thomas, L. Good children don't kill. (O '68)
 Trevor, E. Place for the wicked. (D '68)

France (provincial and rural)

- Cabanis, J. Battle of Toulouse. (Je '68)
 Davis, D. S. God speed the night. (D '68)
 Duras, M. L'Amante anglaise. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

France (Paris)

- Beauvoir, S. de. Les belles images. (My '68)
 Cendrars, B. To the end of the world. (S '68)
 Perec, G. Les choses. (Ag '68)
 Peyrefitte, R. Jews. (D '68)
 Simenon, G. Maigret's pickpocket. (D '68)
 White, J. M. Nightclimber. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Georgia

- Caldwell, E. Miss Mamma Aimee. (Ag '68)
 Coleman, L. King. (Je '68)
 Crews, H. Gospel singer. (My '68)
 Williams, V. Greenbones. (Mr '68)

Germany

- Alpert, H. Claimant. (Je '68)
 Böll, H. End of a mission. (Je '68)
 Davidson, L. Making good again. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Gary, R. Dance of Genghis Cohn. (O '68)
 Herburger, G. Monotonous landscape. (Ag '68)
 MacLean, A. Where eagles dare. (Ag '68)
 Raine, R. Corder index. (Mr '68)
 Shaw, B. Nazi hunter. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Thomas, L. Orange Wednesday. (Ap '68)
 Zilinsky, U. Middle ground. (D '68)

Germany (Berlin)

- Nabokov, V. King, queen, knave. (Ag '68)

Germany (Bonn)

- Le Carré, J. Small town in Germany. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Greece

- Lost legions. (Mr '68)
 Markham, R. Colonel Sun. (Ag '68)
 White, J. M. Nightclimber. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Greece (Athens)

- Durrell, L. Tunc. (Je '68)

Hungary

- Ottlik, G. School at the frontier. (Mr '68)

Hungary (Budapest)

- Dery, T. Portuguese princess. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Illinois

- Hailey, A. Airport. (Je '68)

Illinois (Chicago)

- Farrell, J. T. New Year's eve/1929. (S '68)

India

- Brown, J. D. Glimpse of a stranger. (Ag '68)
 Scott, P. Day of the scorpion. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

India (Bombay)

- Keating, H. R. F. Inspector Ghote caught in meshes. (Ap '68)

Indian Ocean

- Diment, A. Great spy race. (Ag '68)

Indiana

- Rickett, F. Certain slant of light. (S '68)

Ireland

- Blake, N. Private wound. (Ag '68)
 Boyle, P. Like any other man. (Ag '68)
 Holland, C. Kings in winter. (S '68)

Israel

- Banks, L. R. Children at the gate. (Ag '68)
 Hesky, O. Time for treason. (Je '68)
 Levin, M. Gore and Igor. (Ap '68)

Italy

- Buzzati, D. Larger than life. (Ag '68)
 Pavese, C. Selected works of Cesare Pavese. (Je '68)
 Volponi, P. Worldwide machine. (Mr '68)

Italy (Florence)

- Pratolini, V. Metello. (O '68)

Italy (Milan)

- Graham, W. Night journey. (My '68)

Italy (Rome)

- Malerba, L. Serpent. (Ag '68)
 Spark, M. Public image. (N '68)
 Wiseman, T. Journey of a man. (Mr '68)

Italy (Venice)

- Berto, G. Antonio in love. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Highsmith, P. Those who walk away. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Japan

- Mishima, Y. Forbidden colors. (Ag '68)
 Ryan, M. G. Japan's first modern novel: Uki-guno of Futabatei Shimei. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Kentucky

- Stuart, J. Mr Gallion's school. (Je '68)

Korea

- Kim, R. E. Innocent. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Malliol, W. Sense of dark. (O '68)

Latin America

- Galbraith, J. K. Triumph. (Je '68)

Long Island

- Friedman, S. Haunted woman. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Lathen, E. Stitch in time. (N '68)

Louisiana

- Gaines, E. J. Of love and dust. (Ap '68)

Louisiana (New Orleans)

- Stone, R. Hall of mirrors. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Malaysia

- Slimming, J. Pepper garden. (Je '68)

Maryland (Baltimore)

- Mazor, J. Washington and Baltimore. (N '68)

Massachusetts

- Boles, R. Curling. (Ag '68)

Massachusetts (Boston)

- Bellamy, E. Looking backward, 2000-1887. (Mr '68)
 Brace, G. W. Department. (D '68)
 Hudson, J. Case of need. (D '68)
 Kaufmann, M. S. Thy daughter's nakedness. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Mirabelli, E. Way in. (O '68)
 Wells, T. Dead by the light of the moon. (Mr '68)

Mediterranean area

- Gordon, D. Golden oyster. (N '68)
 Griffin, G. Occupying power. (N '68)

Mexico

- Blanc, S. Rose window. (Je '68)
 Brown, H. Quiet place to work. (Ag '68)
 Fuentes, C. Change of skin. (Ap '68)
 Lowry, M. Dark as the grave wherein my friend is laid. (O '68)
 Rulfo, J. Burning plain. (N '68)
 Somerlott, R. Flamingos. (Ap '68)

Mexico (Mexico City)

- Sainz, G. Gazapo! (O '68)

Middle East

- West, M. L. Tower of Babel. (My '68)

Minnesota

- Nilssen, J. Drowning, the dancing. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Morocco (Tangier)

- Lane, M. Day of the feast. (D '68)
 Mrabet, M. Love with a few hairs. (Je '68)

Netherlands

- Freeling, N. Strike out where not applicable. (Ag '68)

New England

- Cozzens, J. G. Morning noon and night. (N '68)
 Fenwick, E. Goodbye, Aunt Elva. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Kumin, M. Passions of Uxport. (Ag '68)
 Mountzoures, H. L. Empire of things. (O '68)
 Updike, J. Couples. (Je '68)

New Hampshire

- Kirkwood, J. Good times/bad times. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Fiction—Locality—Continued

New Jersey

- Gates, N. Hush Hush Johnson. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Morressy, J. Addison tradition. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

New Mexico

- Benchley, N. Welcome to Xanadu. (O '68)
 Bradford, R. Red sky at morning. (Ag '68)

New York (City)

- Baldwin, M. Miraclejack. (Ag '68)
 Brasselle, K. Cannibals. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Cassill, R. V. La vie passionnée of Rodney Buckthorne. (O '68)
 Charles-Roux, E. To forget Palermo. (S '68)
 Coe, T. Murder among children. (Je '68)
 Couffer, J. Concrete wilderness. (Mr '68)
 DeMott, B. Married man. (D '68)
 Eberhart, M. G. Woman on the roof. (My '68)
 Goldman, W. No way to treat a lady. (Je '68)
 Grossman, A. Do-gooders. (D '68)
 Hayes, A. End of me. (Je '68)
 Lieber, J. Move! (O '68)
 Maloff, S. Happy families. (O '68)
 Neugeboren, J. Listen, Ruben Fontanez. (Ag '68)
 O'Hara, J. Instrument. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Olsen, P. Shadow of me. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Pentecost, H. Dead woman of the year. (Ap '68)
 Potts, J. Trash stealer. (O '68)
 Stephens, E. C. Turn in the dark wood. (Ag '68)
 Sukenick, R. Up. (O '68)
 Yglesias, J. Orderly life. (D '68)
 Yurick, S. Bag. (S '68)

New York (City) (Brooklyn)

- Dunphy, J. Nightmovers. (Je '68)
 Green, G. To Brooklyn with love. (Ap '68)

New York (City) (Greenwich Village)

- Baxt, G. Parade of cockeyed creatures. (D '68)
 Chambers, R. Moth in a rag shop. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Davis, L. J. Whence all but he had fled. (Ap '68)

New York (City) (Harlem)

- Baldwin, J. Tell me how long the train's been gone. (O '68)
 Samuels, G. People vs. Baby. (My '68)

New York (City) (Lower East Side)

- Shetzline, D. DeFord. (Ag '68)

New York (City) (suburbs)

- Weingarten, V. Mrs Beneker. (Ap '68)

New York (State)

- Baker, E. Penny wars. (O '68)
 Exley, F. Fan's notes. (D '68)
 Midwood, B. Bodkin. (Je '68)
 Rosenkrantz, L. Talk. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Wetmore, W. House of flesh. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

New Zealand

- Jay, S. Sleepers can kill. (O '68)

Norway

- Vesaas, T. Palace of ice. (N '68)

Oklahoma

- Humphrey, W. Time and a place. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hunt, J. Grey Horse legacy. (N '68)

Outer space

- Zerwick, C. Cassiopeia affair. (Ag '68)

Pennsylvania

- Horgan, P. Everything to live for. (N '68)
 Richter, C. Aristocrat. (D '68)

Pennsylvania (Philadelphia)

- Boyer, D. Sidelong glances of a pigeon kicker. (O '68)
 Orlovitz, G. Milkbottle H. (Ap '68)

Poland

- Agnon, S. Y. Guest for the night. (Je '68)

Russia

- Balter, B. Goodbye, boys. (Je '68)
 Kazakov, Y. Arcturus the hunting hound. (O '68)
 Lost legions. (Mr '68)
 Olyesha, Y. Love. (Je '68)

- Pilnyak, B. Tale of the unextinguished moon. (Je '68)
 Solzhenitsyn, A. I. First circle. (D '68)
 Tarsis, V. Pleasure factory. (My '68)
 Waring, M. W. Witnesses. (Je '68)

Russia (Moscow)

- Bulgakov, M. Black snow. (Je '68)
 Bulgakov, M. Heart of a dog. (S '68)
 Bulgakov, M. Master and Margarita; tr. from the Russian by Michael Glenny. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Bulgakov, M. Master and Margarita; tr. from the Russian by Mirra Ginsburg. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Scotland

- Brown, G. M. Calendar of love. (S '68)
 Caird, J. Murder scholastic. (Je '68)
 Caird, J. Perturbing spirit. (Ap '68)

Siberia

- Hardman, R. Fifteen flags. (D '68)
 Lengyel, J. From beginning to end. (Je '68)

Sicily

- Charles-Roux, E. To forget Palermo. (S '68)

South America

- Onetti, J. C. Shipyard. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

South Dakota

- Reeve, F. D. Red machines. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Spain

- Cela, C. J. Mrs Caldwell speaks to her son. (S '68)
 Hebden, M. Errant knights. (D '68)
 Lee, J. Caught in the act. (Ag '68)

Spain (Barcelona)

- Serge, V. Birth of our power. (Ag '68)

Sweden

- Lang, M. Wreath for the bride. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Sjöwall, M. Roseanna. (O '68)

Switzerland

- Raine, R. Night of the hawk. (Ag '68)
 Ramuz, C. F. Terror on the mountain. (Je '68)
 Walker, D. CAB-Intersec. (Je '68)

Tennessee

- Jones, M. Exile. (Mr '68)

Texas

- Culp, J. H. Whistle in the wind. (D '68)
 Humphrey, W. Time and a place. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Murray, E. P. Passion players. (Ag '68)

Trinidad

- Lovelace, E. Schoolmaster. (D '68)

Turkey

- Rathbone, J. Diamonds bid. (Mr '68)

Turkey (Istanbul)

- Durrell, L. Tunc. (Je '68)

United States

- Balchin, N. Kings of infinite space. (S '68)
 Carpenter, D. Blade of light. (Ap '68)
 Drury, A. Preserve and protect. (N '68)
 Hills, P. C., ed. How we live. (O '68)
 Hunter, E. Last summer. (O '68)
 Johnson, S. Presidential plot. (O '68)
 Jones, J. Ice-cream headache. (S '68)
 Jones, L. Tales. (Mr '68)
 Kauffmann, L. Another Helen. (Je '68)
 Kelly, R. Scorpions. (Mr '68)
 Lanning, G. Green corn moon. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

United States (middlewestern)

- Fine, W. Artificial traveler. (O '68)

United States (southern)

- Gaines, E. J. Bloodline. (N '68)
 Kantor, M. Beauty Beast. (My '68)
 McCarthy, C. Outer dark. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Rosenberg, J. Sudina. (Ap '68)

United States (southwestern)

- Bickham, J. M. Shadowed faith. (O '68)
 Momaday, N. S. House made of dawn. (S '68)
 Shrake, E. Blessed McGill. (Ag '68)

United States (western)

Francis, D. Blood sport. (My '68)
 Portis, C. True grit. (O '68)
 Schaefer, J. Short novels of Jack Schaefer.
 (N '68)
 White, M. E. In the balance. (Ap '68)

Vermont

O'Hara, J. Instrument. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Vietnam

Halberstam, D. One very hot day. (S '68)

Virginia

Banister, M. Burn then, little lamp. (D '68)

Wales

Jones, R. Three suitors. (My '68)
 Lewis, N. Every man's brother. (S '68)

Washington, D.C.

Johnson, S. Presidential plot. (O '68)
 Knebel, F. Vanished. (Ap '68)
 Mazor, J. Washington and Baltimore. (N '68)
 Serling, R. J. President's plane is missing.
 (N '68)
 Zarubica, M. Scutari. (Mr '68)

West Indies

Naipaul, V. S. Flag on the island. (Je '68)

West Virginia (White Sulphur Springs)

Meade, E. Golden geese. (Ag '68)

Yugoslavia

Woodhouse, M. Bush baby. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Zarubica, M. Scutari. (Mr '68)

Loneliness

Dunphy, J. Nightmovers. (Je '68)
 Frank, J. The creep. (Ap '68)
 Jones, M. Exile. (Mr '68)
 Kellogg, M. Tell me that you love me, Junie Moon. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Kilpatrick, S. Ladies' Close. (Ag '68)

Love stories

Balchin, N. Kings of infinite space. (S '68)
 Balter, B. Goodbye, boys. (Je '68)
 Banister, M. Burn then, little lamp. (D '68)
 Berto, G. Antonio in love. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Blake, N. Private wound. (Ag '68)
 Cadell, E. Mrs Westerby changes course. (My '68)
 Davis, J. G. Hold my hand I'm dying. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Duhrssen, A. Memoir of an aged child. (Mr '68)
 Eberhart, M. G. Woman on the roof. (My '68)
 Haase, J. Me and the arch kook Petulia. (My '68)
 Haycraft, M. C. My lord brother the Lion heart. (Ag '68)
 Kantor, M. Beauty Beast. (My '68)
 Kauffmann, L. Another Helen. (Je '68)
 Kellogg, M. Tell me that you love me Junie Moon. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Lane, M. Day of the feast. (D '68)
 Leigh, J. Downstairs at Ramsey's. (My '68)
 Murdoch, I. Nice and the good. (Mr '68)
 Sharp, A. Wind shifts. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Spencer, C. Anarchy of love. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Tarsis, V. Pleasure factory. (My '68)

Loyalty

Davis, P. Seasons of heroes. (Ap '68)

Madness

Malerba, L. Serpent. (Ag '68)

Marriage

Bawden, N. Grain of truth. (D '68)
 Beauvoir, S. de. Les belles images. (My '68)
 Cozzens, J. G. Morning noon and night. (N '68)
 DeMott, B. Married man. (D '68)
 De Vries, P. Cat's pajamas & Witch's milk. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Kauffmann, L. Another Helen. (Je '68)
 Kumin, M. Passions of Uxport. (Ag '68)
 Mrabet, M. Love with a few hairs. (Je '68)
 Nabokov, V. King, queen, knave. (Ag '68)
 O'Brien, E. Girls in their married bliss. (Ap '68)
 Raphael, F. Orchestra & beginners. (My '68)
 Updike, J. Couples. (Je '68)

Mental illness

Lewis, N. Every man's brother. (S '68)
 Stevens, W. Gunner. (S '68)
 Viertel, J. Monkey on a string. (Ag '68)

Mentally handicapped

Carpenter, D. Blade of light. (Ap '68)
 Hamilton, W. All the little animals. (N '68)

Middle age

Cozzens, J. G. Morning noon and night. (N '68)
 Hayes, A. End of me. (Je '68)
 McInerney, R. Jolly Rogerson. (Je '68)

Middle classes

Beauvoir, S. de. Les belles images. (My '68)
 Weingarten, V. Mrs Beneker. (Ap '68)

Migrant labor

Reeve, F. D. Red machines. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Military education

Ottlik, G. School at the frontier. (Mr '68)

Millionaires

Bowen, E. Eva Trout. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Wetmore, W. House of flesh. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Miscegenation

Viertel, J. Monkey on a string. (Ag '68)
 Weatherby, W. J. One of our priests is missing. (Ag '68)

Missions, Medical

Rider, A. Hilltop in hazard. (Ag '68)

Monasteries

Hesse, H. Narcissus and Goldmund. (Ag '68)

Mothers and sons

Borel, J. Bond. (N '68)
 Oates, J. C. Expensive people. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Raphael, F. Orchestra & beginners. (My '68)
 Taylor, E. Wedding group. (Je '68)
 White, J. Proxy. (Ag '68)
 Williams, V. Greenbones. (Mr '68)

Mountains

Ramuz, C. F. Terror on the mountain. (Je '68)

Murder

Aird, C. Henrietta who? (S '68)
 Aird, C. Most contagious game. (D '68)
 Caird, J. Murder scholastic. (Je '68)
 Clinton-Baddeley, V. C. My foe outstretch'd beneath the tree. (N '68)
 Davies, L. P. Grave matter. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Duras, M. L'Amante anglaise. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Eberhart, M. G. Woman on the roof. (My '68)
 Farrington, F. Little game. (N '68)
 Fenwick, E. Disturbance on Berry Hill. (Je '68)
 Gilbert, A. Visitor. (My '68)
 Goldman, W. No way to treat a lady. (Je '68)
 Hudson, J. Case of need. ('68)
 Johnson, E. R. Silver Street. (O '68)
 Lang, M. Wreath for the bride. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Lathen, E. Stitch in time. (N '68)
 Lee, J. Caught in the act. (Ag '68)
 Leroux, E. One for the devil. (Ag '68)
 Linington, E. Policeman's lot. (D '68)
 Macdonald, R. Instant enemy. (My '68)
 Oates, J. C. Expensive people. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Shulman, M. Kill 3. (Ap '68)
 Simenon, G. Maigret's pickpocket. (D '68)
 Smithies, R. H. R. Shoplifter. (O '68)
 Stubbs, J. My grand enemy. (My '68)
 Trevor, E. Place for the wicked. (D '68)
 Vance, J. H. Pleasant Grove murders. (Ag '68)
 Wells, T. Dead by the light of the moon. (Mr '68)

Mystery and detective stories

Aird, C. Most contagious game. (D '68)
 Alding, P. All leads negative. (Ap '68)
 Asimov, I. Whiff of death. (Ag '68)
 Barlow, J. Burden of proof. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Baxt, G. Parade of cockeyed creatures. (D '68)
 Black, L. Outbreak. (S '68)
 Blanc, S. Rose window. (Je '68)
 Burke, J. Gossip truth. (Ag '68)
 Caird, J. Murder scholastic. (Je '68)
 Canning, V. Python project. (S '68)
 Carvic, H. Picture Miss Seeton. (O '68)
 Chambers, R. Moth in a rag shop. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Christie, A. Endless night. (My '68)
 Clinton-Baddeley, V. C. My foe outstretch'd beneath the tree. (N '68)

Fiction—Mystery and detective stories—Cont.

- Coe, T. Murder among children. (Je '68)
 Courtier, S. H. Murder's burning. (N '68)
 Creasey, J. So young to burn. (Je '68)
 Davies, L. P. Grave matter. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Davies, L. P. Reluctant medium. (Ap '68)
 Dewey, T. B. King-killers. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Doyle, A. C. Annotated Sherlock Holmes, 2v. (Ag '68)
 Duras, M. L'Amante anglaise. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Ellin, S. Valentine estate. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Freeling, N. Strike out where not applicable. (Ag '68)
 Garve, A. Long short cut. (Je '68)
 Gilbert, A. Visitor. (My '68)
 Goldinan, W. No way to treat a lady. (Je '68)
 Gruber, F. Gold gap. (S '68)
 Haggard, W. Conspirators. (O '68)
 Hesky, O. Time for treason. (Je '68)
 Japrisot, S. Lady in the car with glasses and a gun. (Mr '68)
 Johnson, E. R. Silver Street. (O '68)
 Jones, B. Murder has no friends. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Keating, H. R. F. Inspector Ghote caught in meshes. (Ap '68)
 Keating, H. R. F. Inspector Ghote hunts the peacock. (N '68)
 Lang, M. Wreath for the bride. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Lathen, E. Murder against the grain. (Mr '68)
 Lathen, E. Stitch in time. (N '68)
 Linington, E. Policeman's lot. (D '68)
 Linington, E. Something wrong. (Ap '68)
 Marric, J. J. Gideon's river. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Marric, J. J. Gideon's wrath. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Moyes, P. Death and the Dutch uncle. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Munro, J. Money that money can't buy. (N '68)
 Palmer, S. Rook takes knight. (D '68)
 Peters, E. Grass-widow's tale. (O '68)
 Potts, J. Trash stealer. (O '68)
 Procter, M. Exercise hoodwink. (Mr '68)
 Raddall, T. H. Footsteps on old floors. (Je '68)
 Rathbone, J. Diamonds bid. (Mr '68)
 Simenon, G. Maigret and the headless corpse. (Je '68)
 Simenon, G. Maigret's pickpocket. (D '68)
 Sims, G. Last best friend. (Je '68)
 Sjöwall, M. Roseanna. (O '68)
 Thomas, L. Good children don't kill. (O '68)
 Vance, J. H. Pleasant Grove murders. (Ag '68)
 Vermandel, J. G. So long at the Fair. (Je '68)
 Waugh, H. Con game. (O '68)
 Wells, T. Dead by the light of the moon. (Mr '68)
 White, L. Night of the rape. (Ap '68)

Mysticism

- Baldwin, M. Miraclejack. (Ag '68)
 Brown, J. D. Glimpse of a stranger. (Ag '68)

Narcotic habit

- Lambert, G. Case for the angels. (O '68)
 Lerner, J. Answer. (Je '68)
 Rosenthal, I. Sheepier. (My '68)
 Samuels, G. People vs. Baby. (My '68)

National socialism

- Davidson, L. Making good again. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Kirst, H. H. Wolves. (O '68)
 Shaw, B. Nazi hunter. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Nature

- Couffer, J. Concrete wilderness. (Mr '68)

Nazis

See Fiction—National socialism

Negroes

- Baldwin, J. Tell me how long the train's been gone. (O '68)
 Boles, R. Curling. (Ag '68)
 Gaines, E. J. Bloodline. (N '68)
 Jones, L. Tales. (Mr '68)
 Mazor, J. Washington and Baltimore. (N '68)
 Nilssen, J. Drowning, the dancing. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Viertel, J. Monkey on a string. (Ag '68)

Nuns

- Davis, D. S. God speed the night. (D '68)

Occult sciences

- Calrd, J. Perturbing spirit. (Ap '68)

Old age

- Detre, J. Happy ending. (Mr '68)
 Figes, E. Winter journey. (Ag '68)
 Jones, R. Three suitors. (My '68)
 Mannes, M. They. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Orphans

- Banks, L. R. Children at the gate. (Ag '68)
 Coleman, L. King. (Je '68)

Oxford. University

- Stewart, J. I. M. Vanderlyn's kingdom. (Je '68)

Parables

- Mackay, S. Old crow. (My '68)

Parent and child

- Renard, J. Poil de Carotte. (Mr '68)

Parodies

- Murray, E. P. Passion players. (Ag '68)

Paternity

- Buck, P. S. New year. (Ag '68)

Patriotism

- Cooley, L. F. Condition pink. (Ap '68)

Peasant life

- Rulfo, J. Burning plain. (N '68)

Penal colonies

- Keneally, T. Bring larks and heroes. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Personality, Disorders of

- Bowen, E. Eva Trout. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Farrington, F. Little game. (N '68)
 Mathews, F. X. Concrete judasbird. (O '68)
 Sagan, F. Heart-keeper. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Sheed, W. Blacking factory & Pennsylvania gothic. (N '68)
 Vidal, G. Myra Breckinridge. (My '68)

Petroleum industry and trade

- Johnston, R. Wrecking of Offshore Five. (Ag '68)

Philosophical stories

- Balchin, N. Kings of infinite space. (S '68)
 Ruzzati, D. Larger than life. (Ag '68)
 Donchev, A. Time of parting. (Ag '68)
 Herburger, G. Monotonous landscape. (Ag '68)
 Langguth, A. J. Jesus Christs. (My '68)
 Malerba, L. Serpent. (Ag '68)
 Peake, M. Gormenghast trilogy, 3v. (Mr '68)
 Sanford, J. $300 man. (My '68)
 Shetzline, D. DeFord. (Ag '68)
 Tarsis, V. Pleasure factory. (My '68)
 Themerson, S. Tom Harris. (Ag '68)
 Volponi, P. Worldwide machine. (Mr '68)
 White, M. E. In the balance. (Ap '68)
 Wiseman, T. Journey of a man. (Mr '68)

Physically handicapped

- Kellogg, M. Tell me that you love me, Junie Moon. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Physicians

- Balfour, J. Medicine men. (Je '68)
 Olsen, P. Shadow of me. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Rider, A. Hilltop in hazard. (Ag '68)

Picaresque novels

- Boyer, D. Sidelong glances of a pigeon kicker. (O '68)
 Durrell, G. Rosy is my relative. (Ag '68)
 Kelly, R. Scorpions. (Mr '68)
 Servadio, G. Melinda. (O '68)

Plantation life

- Gaines, E. J. Of love and dust. (Ap '68)
 Kantor, M. Beauty Beast. (My '68)

Poets

- Burgess, A. Enderby. (Ag '68)

Politics

- Blake, N. Private wound. (Ag '68)
 Borden, W. Superstoe. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Drury, A. Preserve and protect. (N '68)
 Hentoff, N. Onwards! (S '68)
 Johnson, E. Presidential plot. (O '68)
 Knebel, F. Vanished. (Ap '68)
 Serling, R. J. President's plane is missing. (N '68)

Poverty

- Jones, R. Three suitors. (My '68)

Prejudices and antipathies

- Banks, L. R. Children at the gate. (Ag '68)
 Mackay, S. Old crow. (My '68)
 Rickett, F. Certain slant of light. (S '68)

Prisons and prisoners

Lengyel, J. From beginning to end. (Je '68)
Solzhenitsyn, A. I. First circle. (D '68)

Prostitutes

Gover, R. J C saves. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Johnson, E. R. Silver Street. (O '68)

Psychological stories

Behrman, S. N. Burning glass. (O '68)
Benchley, N. Welcome to Xanadu. (O '68)
Boyle, P. Like any other man. (Ag '68)
Celine, L. F. Death on the installment plan;
tr. by Ralph Manheim. (Ag '68)
Constable, G. All the abandoned children.
(Mr '68)
Duras, M. L'Amante anglaise. (Ja '69) (1968
Annual)
Fuentes, C. Change of skin. (Ap '68)
Glanville, B. Artist type. (Je '68)
Hesse, H. Narcissus and Goldmund. (Ag '68)
Ludwig, J. Above ground. (S '68)
Mathews, F. X. Concrete judasbird. (O '68)
Moore, B. I am Mary Dunne. (O '68)
Price, R. Love and work. (Ag '68)
Stegner, P. Edge. (Ap '68)
Stone, R. Hall of mirrors. (1967, 1968 Annual)
Trevor, E. Place for the wicked. (D '68)

Public relations

Spark, M. Public image. (N '68)

Publishers and publishing

Charles-Roux, E. To forget Palermo. (S '68)
Jones, R. Three suitors. (My '68)

Quakers

See Fiction—Friends, Society of

Race problems

Boles, R. Curling. (Ag '68)
Davis, J. G. Hold my hand I'm dying. (Ja '69)
(1968 Annual)
Gover, R. J C saves. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Huie, W. B. Klansman. (Ag '68)
Jones, L. Tales. (Mr '68)
Mazor, J. Washington and Baltimore. (N '68)
Stone, R. Hall of mirrors. (1967, 1968 Annual)
Viertel, J. Monkey on a string. (Ag '68)
Weatherby, W. J. One of our priests is miss-
ing. (Ag '68)
White, L. Night of the rape. (Ap '68)
Wibberley, L. Road from Tooml. (My '68)

Rape

Huie, W. B. Klansman. (Ag '68)
Hunter, E. Last summer. (O '68)
Slavitt, D. Rochelle. (Mr '68)

Religion

Fine, W. Artificial traveler. (O '68)
Weatherby, W. J. One of our priests is miss-
ing. (Ag '68)

Rescues

Johnston, R. Wrecking of Offshore Five. (Ag
'68)

Revenge

Brower, B. Debris. (Mr '68)
Davies, L. P. Reluctant medium. (Ap '68)
Sanford, J. $300 man. (My '68)
Shaw, B. Nazi hunter. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Revolution

Galbraith, J. K. Triumph. (Je '68)
Kim, R. E. Innocent. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Read, P. P. Gain in heaven with Tussy
Marx. (Mr '68)
Serge, V. Birth of our power. (Ag '68)
Sillitoe, A. Tree on fire. (O '68)
Waring, M. W. Witnesses. (Je '68)

Romans à clef

Bulgakov, M. Black snow. (Je '68)

Salesmen and salesmanship

Russ, M. War memorial. (O '68)

Satire

Borden, W. Superstoe. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Boyer, D. Sidelong glances of a pigeon kicker.
(O '68)
Bulgakov, M. Heart of a dog. (S '68)
Bulgakov, M. Master and Margarita; tr. from the Russian by Michael Glenny. (Ag '68)
(1967 Annual)
Bulgakov, M. Master and Margarita; tr. from the Russian by Mirra Ginsburg. (Ag '68)
(1967 Annual)
Burgess, A. Enderby. (Ag '68)
Catling, P. S. Experiment. (Ap '68)
Constable, G. Imaginocrats. (Je '68)
Cooley, L. F. Condition pink. (Ap '68)
Coover, R. Universal Baseball Association,
inc. J. Henry Waugh, prop. (S '68)

Diment, A. Great spy race. (Ag '68)
Evans, H. Adventures of Li Chi. (S '68)
Gover, R. J C saves. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Grossman, A. Do-gooders. (D '68)
Kelly, R. Scorpions. (Mr '68)
Langguth, A. J. Jesus Christs. (My '68)
Leigh, J. Downstairs at Ramsey's. (My '68)
Levin, M. Gore and Igor. (Ap '68)
Olyesha, Y. Love. (Je '68)
Perutz, K. Mother is a country. (Ag '68)
Powell, A. From a view to a death. (Je '68)
Queneau, R. Blue flowers. (My '68)
Richler, M. Cocksure. (Je '68)
Rogers, T. Pursuit of happiness. (O '68)
Roland, N. Great One. (S '68)
Servadio, G. Melinda. (O '68)
Shulman, M. Kill 3. (Ap '68)
Stephens, E. C. Turn in the dark wood. (Ag
'68)

Tarsis, V. Pleasure factory. (My '68)
Theroux, P. Fong and the Indians. (N '68)
Thomas, L. Orange Wednesday. (Ap '68)
Tracy, H. Settled in chambers. (Je '68)
Troop, R. Innocent greed. (D '68)
Vidal, G. Myra Breckinridge. (My '68)
Vonnegut, K. Welcome to the monkey house.
(N '68)

White, M. E. In the balance. (Ap '68)

School life

Campbell, M. Lord dismiss us. (Mr '68)
Hesse, H. Beneath the wheel. (D '68)
Kirkwood, J. Good times/bad times. (Ja '69)
(1968 Annual)
Ottlik, G. School at the frontier. (Mr '68)
Raphael, F. Orchestra & beginners. (My '68)
Stuart, J. Mr Gallion's school. (Je '68)

Science fiction

Balchin, N. Kings of infinite space. (S '68)
Buzzati, D. Larger than life. (Ag '68)
Calvino, I. Cosmicomics. (N '68)
Creasey, J. Famine. (My '68)
Frayn, M. Very private life. (N '68)
Joseph, M. K. Hole in the zero. (Ag '68)
Mannes, M. They. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Vonnegut, K. Welcome to the monkey house.
(N '68)
Zerwick, C. Cassiopeia affair. (Ag '68)

Scientists

Catling, P. S. Experiment. (Ap '68)
Durrell, L. Tunc. (Je '68)

Sculptors

Hesse, H. Narcissus and Goldmund. (Ag '68)

Sea stories

Bassett, J. Sky suspended. (N '68)
Johnston, R. Wrecking of Offshore Five. (Ag
'68)
Kent, A. To glory we steer. (Ja '69) (1968
Annual)
Pope, D. Drumbeat. (Je '68)

Servants

Wodehouse, P. G. Do butlers burgle banks?
(D '68)

Sex problems

Baldwin, J. Tell me how long the train's been gone. (O '68)
Berckman, E. Case in nullity. (S '68)
Brown, H. Quiet place to work. (Ag '68)
Caldwell, E. Miss Mamma Aimee. (Ag '68)
Catling, P. S. Experiment. (Ap '68)
Cendrars, B. To the end of the world.
(S '68)
Fine, W. Artificial traveler. (O '68)
Kaufmann, M. S. Thy daughter's nakedness.
(Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Leigh, J. Downstairs at Ramsey's. (My '68)
Murray, E. P. Passion players. (Ag '68)
Rosenkrantz, L. Talk. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Sainz, G. Gazapo! (O '68)
Spencer, C. Anarchy of love. (Ja '69) (1968
Annual)
Spencer, C. Tyranny of love. (Ja '69) (1968
Annual)
Stephens, E. C. Turn in the dark wood. (Ag
'68)
Uddike, J. Couples. (Je '68)
Wetmore, W. House of flesh. (Ja '69) (1968
Annual)
White, M. E. In the balance. (Ap '68)
Yafa, S. H. Paxton Quigley's had the course.
(Je '68)

Short stories

Andrić, I. Pasha's concubine. (O '68)
Eartheine, D. Unspeakable practices, unnatural acts. (Ag '68)
Bellow, S. Mosby's memoirs. (D '68)
Best American short stories. 1967. (D '68)
Brown, G. M. Calendar of love. (S '68)
Coward, N. Bon voyage. (O '68)
Dery, T. Portuguese princess. (Ja '69) (1968
Annual)

Fiction—Short stories—Continued

- Doyle, A. C. Annotated Sherlock Holmes. 2v. (Ag '68)
 Elliott, G. P. Hour of last things. (S '68)
 Ellison, H. Love ain't nothing but sex misspelled. (D '68)
 Gaines, E. J. Bloodline. (N '68)
 García Márquez, G. No one writes to the colonel. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Gass, W. H. In the heart of the heart of the country. (Je '68)
 Godden, R. Gone. (O '68)
 Hamilton, A. Beam of malice. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Herburger, G. Monotonous landscape. (Ag '68)
 Humphrey, W. Time and a place. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Jackson, S. Come along with me. (N '68)
 Jones, J. Ice-cream headache. (S '68)
 Jones, L. Tales. (Mr '68)
 Kazakov, Y. Arcturus the hunting hound. (O '68)
 Lengyel, J. From beginning to end. (Je '68)
 Mazon, J. Washington and Baltimore. (N '68)
 Mountzoures, H. L. Empire of things. (O '68)
 Naipaul, V. S. Flag on the island. (Je '68)
 O'Hara, J. And other stories. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Olbracht, I. Bitter and the sweet. (Ap '68)
 Pilnyak, B. Tale of the unextinguished moon. (Je '68)
 Pushkin, A. S. Complete prose tales of Alexander Sergeyevitch Pushkin. (Ap '68)
 Raddall, T. H. Footsteps on old floors. (Je '68)
 Rosa, J. G. Third bank of the river. (D '68)
 Rulfo, J. Burning plain. (N '68)
 Schaefer, J. Short novels of Jack Schaefer. (N '68)
 Sheed, W. Blacking factory & Pennsylvania gothic. (N '68)
 Singer, I. B. Séance. (D '68)
 Spark, M. Collected stories: 1. (D '68)
 Steele, M. Where she brushed her hair. (Je '68)
 Stifter, A. Limestone. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Trevor, W. Day we got drunk on cake. (Mr '68)
 Vonnegut, K. Welcome to the monkey house. (N '68)

Sisters

- Byatt, A. S. Game. (My '68)

Ski and sking

- Houghton, T. First season. (Mr '68)

Slavery

- Kantor, M. Beauty Beast. (My '68)
 Styron, W. Confessions of Nat Turner. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Slum life

- Beardmore, G. Charlie Pocock and the princess. (D '68)

Small town life

- Balter, B. Goodbye, boys. (Je '68)
 Lanning, G. Green corn moon. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Rickett, F. Certain slant of light. (S '68)

Social classes

- Ryan, M. G. Japan's first modern novel: Ukigumo of Futabatel Shimel. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Social problems

- Bellamy, E. Looking backward, 2000-1887. (Mr '68)
 Hawley, C. Hurricane years. (N '68)
 Hudson, J. Case of need. (D '68)
 Jones, L. Tales. (Mr '68)
 Murray, E. P. Passion players. (Ag '68)
 Yurick, S. Bag. (S '68)

Soldiers

- Halberstam, D. One very hot day. (S '68)
 Henriques, R. Commander. (My '68)
 Sanford, J. $300 man. (My '68)
 Tiede, T. Coward. (N '68)

Space flight

- Balchin, N. Kings of infinite space. (S '68)
 Johnson, S. Presidential plot. (O '68)

Spies

- Deighton, L. Horse under water. (Mr '68)
 Diment, A. Great spy race. (Ag '68)
 Garner, W. Deep, deep freeze. (N '68)
 Gates, N. Hush Hush Johnson. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Graham, W. Night journey. (My '68)
 Haggard, W. Conspirators. (O '68)
 Jay, S. Sleepers can kill. (O '68)
 Llewellyn, R. End of the rug. (N '68)

- MacLean, A. Where eagles dare. (Ag '68)
 Markham, R. Colonel Sun. (Ap '68)
 West, M. L. Tower of Babel. (My '68)
 Woodhouse, M. Bush baby. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Wynd, O. Sumatra seven zero. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Spinsters

- Richter, C. Aristocrat. (D '68)

Stream of consciousness

- Delbanco, N. Grasse, 3/23/66. (S '68)
 DeMott, B. Married man. (D '68)
 Desnoes, E. Inconsolable memories. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Strikes and lockouts

- Pratolini, V. Metello. (O '68)

Submarines

- Deighton, L. Horse under water. (Mr '68)

Suburban life

- Fenwick, E. Disturbance on Berry Hill. (Je '68)
 Kauffmann, L. Another Helen. (Je '68)
 Kumin, M. Passions of Uxport. (Ag '68)
 Oates, J. C. Expensive people. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Smithies, R. H. R. Shoplifter. (O '68)
 Tarr, H. Heaven help us! (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Troop, R. Innocent greed. (D '68)
 Updike, J. Couples. (Je '68)
 Weingarten, V. Mrs Beneker. (Ap '68)

Suicide

- Brown, J. D. Glimpse of a stranger. (Ag '68)
 Horgan, P. Everything to live for. (N '68)
 Perutz, K. Mother is a country. (Ag '68)
 Spark, M. Public image. (N '68)
 Stern, D. Suicide academy. (D '68)

Supernatural phenomena

- Jackson, S. Come along with me. (N '68)

Superstitions

- Mrabet, M. Love with a few hairs. (Je '68)

Surgeons

- Rider, A. Hilltop in hazard. (Ag '68)

Surrealistic stories

- Queneau, R. Blue flowers. (My '68)

Survival

- Dery, T. Portuguese princess. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Suspense

- Allingham, M. Cargo of eagles. (My '68)
 Ambler, E. Dirty story. (D '68)
 Armstrong, C. Balloon man. (Ag '68)
 Berckman, E. Case in nullity. (S '68)
 Blake, N. Private wound. (Ag '68)
 Cadell, E. Mrs Westerby changes course. (My '68)
 Caird, J. Perturbing spirit. (Ap '68)
 Carter, A. Magic toyshop. (My '68)
 Deighton, L. Horse under water. (Mr '68)
 Eberhart, M. G. Woman on the roof. (My '68)
 Ellin, S. Valentine estate. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Farrington, F. Little game. (N '68)
 Fennerton, W. Lucifer cell. (Ag '68)
 Fenwick, E. Disturbance on Berry Hill. (Je '68)
 Fenwick, E. Goodbye, Aunt Elva. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Francis, D. Blood sport. (My '68)
 Garner, W. Deep, deep freeze. (N '68)
 Gordon, D. Golden oyster. (N '68)
 Hailey, A. Airport. (Je '68)
 Hamilton, A. Beam of malice. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hebdon, M. Errant knights. (D '68)
 Highsmith, P. Those who walk away. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Jay, S. Sleepers can kill. (O '68)
 Johnson, S. Presidential plot. (O '68)
 Lee, J. Caught in the act. (Ag '68)
 Luard, N. Warm and golden war. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 MacInnes, H. Salzburg connection. (N '68)
 MacLean, A. Where eagles dare. (Ag '68)
 McShane, M. Ill met by a fish shop on George Street. (Ag '68)
 Marric, J. J. Gideon's river. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Marric, J. J. Gideon's wrath. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Pentecost, H. Dead woman of the year. (Ap '68)
 Raine, R. Corder index. (Mr '68)
 Raine, R. Night of the hawk. (Ag '68)
 Ross, S. Hang-up. (Je '68)

Serling, R. J. President's plane is missing. (N '68)
 Shaw, B. Nazi hunter. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Shelley, S. Bowmanville break. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Shulman, M. Kill 3. (Ap '68)
 Themerson, S. Tom Harris. (Ag '68)
 Thomas, L. Good children don't kill. (O '68)
 Trevor, E. Place for the wicked. (D '68)
 White, J. M. Nightclimber. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Zarubica, M. Scutari. (Mr '68)

Symbolism

Beagle, P. S. Last unicorn. (Je '68)

Teachers

Brace, G. W. Department. (D '68)
 Clinton-Baddeley, V. C. My foe outstretch'd beneath the tree. (N '68)
 Lovelace, E. Schoolmaster. (D '68)
 Morressy, J. Addison tradition. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Neugeboren, J. Listen, Ruben Fontanez. (Ag '68)
 Perutz, K. Mother is a country. (Ag '68)
 Stuart, J. Mr Gallion's school. (Je '68)

Technique

Surmelian, L. Techniques of fiction writing. (D '68)

Television

Brasselle, K. Cannibals. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Terrorism

Slimming, J. Pepper garden. (Je '68)

Theater and stage life

Behrman, S. N. Burning glass. (O '68)
 Bulgakov, M. Black snow. (Je '68)
 Cendrars, B. To the end of the world. (S '68)
 Murray, E. P. Passion players. (Ag '68)
 O'Hara, J. Instrument. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Thieves

Procter, M. Exercise hoodwink. (Mr '68)

Translated stories

Böll, H. End of a mission. (Je '68)

Afrikaans

Leroux, E. One for the devil. (Ag '68)

Bulgarian

Donchev, A. Time of parting. (Ag '68)

French

Beauvoir, S. de. Les belles images. (My '68)
 Celine, L. F. Death on the installment plan; tr. by Ralph Manheim. (Ag '68)
 Cendrars, B. To the end of the world. (S '68)
 Charles-Roux, E. To forget Palermo. (S '68)
 Gary, R. Dance of Genghis Cohn. (O '68)
 Perec, G. Les choses. (Ag '68)
 Renard, J. Poil de Carotte. (Mr '68)
 Serge, V. Birth of our power. (Ag '68)
 Simon, C. Histoire. (O '68)

German

Herburger, G. Monotonous landscape. (Ag '68)
 Hesse, H. Beneath the wheel. (D '68)
 Hesse, H. Narcissus and Goldmund. (Ag '68)
 Kirst, H. H. Wolves. (O '68)
 Stifter, A. Limestone. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Weiss, P. Exile. (O '68)

Hungarian

Dery, T. Portuguese princess. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Italian

Buzzati, D. Larger than life. (Ag '68)
 Guareschi, G. Husband in boarding school. (Ap '68)
 Malerba, L. Serpent. (Ag '68)
 Pavese, C. Selected works of Cesare Pavese. (Je '68)
 Servadio, G. Melinda. (O '68)
 Volponi, P. Worldwide machine. (Mr '68)

Japanese

Oë, K. Personal matter. (O '68)
 Ryan, M. G. Japan's first modern novel: Ukigumo of Futabatei Shimei. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Oriental

Jose, F. S., ed. Asian PEN anthology. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Portuguese

Grossman, W. L. Modern Brazilian short stories. (Mr '68)

Russian

Balter, B. Goodbye, boys. (Je '68)
 Bulgakov, M. Heart of a dog. (S '68)
 Kazakov, Y. Arcturus the hunting hound. (O '68)
 Pilnyak, B. Tale of the unextinguished moon. (Je '68)
 Pushkin, A. S. Complete prose tales of Alexandr Sergeyevitch Pushkin. (Ap '68)
 Solzhenitsyn, A. I. First circle. (D '68)

Serbo-Croat

Andrić, I. Pasha's concubine. (O '68)

Spanish

Fuentes, C. Change of skin. (Ap '68)
 Garcia Márquez, G. No one writes to the colonel. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Onetti, J. C. Shipyard. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Rulfo, T. Burning plain. (N '68)
 Sainz, G. Gazapo! (O '68)

Swedish

Lang, M. Wreath for the bride. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Trials

Böll, H. End of a mission. (Je '68)
 Nossack, H. E. Impossible proof. (Je '68)

Unfinished novels

Pushkin, A. S. Complete prose tales of Alexandr Sergeyevitch Pushkin. (Ap '68)

United Nations

Buckmaster, H. Lion in the stone. (S '68)

United States. Army

Myrer, A. Once an eagle. (N '68)

United States. Marine Corps

Malliol, W. Sense of dark. (O '68)
 Russ, M. War memorial. (O '68)

Utopias

Bellamy, E. Looking backward, 2000-1887. (Mr '68)
 Stewart, J. I. M. Vanderlyn's kingdom. (Je '68)

Vengeance

See Fiction—Revenge

Veterans

Russ, M. War memorial. (O '68)

Vigilance committees

Dewey, T. B. King-killers. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Violence

Brown, H. Quiet place to work. (Ag '68)
 Donchev, A. Time of parting. (Ag '68)
 Drury, A. Preserve and protect. (N '68)
 Fine, W. Artificial traveler. (O '68)
 Huile, W. B. Klansman. (Ag '68)
 Hunter, E. Last summer. (O '68)
 Jones, M. Exile. (Mr '68)
 Kelly, R. Scorpions. (Mr '68)
 Macdonald, R. Instant enemy. (My '68)
 Sanford, J. $300 man. (My '68)
 Shraake, E. Blessed McGill. (Ag '68)
 Stone, R. Hall of mirrors. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Thomas, L. Orange Wednesday. (Ap '68)
 White, L. Night of the rape. (Ap '68)
 White, M. E. In the balance. (Ap '68)

Voyages and travels

Detre, J. Happy ending. (Mr '68)
 Kessel, J. Horsemen. (Ag '68)
 Mortimer, P. My friend says it's bulletproof. (Ag '68)

War

Bassett, J. Sky suspended. (N '68)
 Dery, T. Portuguese princess. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Ford, D. Incident at Muc Wa. (Ap '68)
 Halberstam, D. One very hot day. (S '68)
 Hardman, R. Fifteen flags. (D '68)
 Malliol, W. Sense of dark. (O '68)
 Russ, M. War memorial. (O '68)
 Smith, F. E. Killing for the hawks. (Ap '68)
 Stevens, W. Gunner. (S '68)
 Tiede, T. Coward. (N '68)

Wealth

Donoso, J. This Sunday. (Ap '68)
 Hall, J. B. Mayo Sergeant. (Mr '68)
 Horgan, P. Everything to live for. (N '68)
 Perec, G. Les choses. (Ag '68)

Widows

Dunphy, J. Nightmovers. (Je '68)

Fiction—Continued

Women

- Beauvoir, S. de. Les belles images. (My '68)
 Kaufmann, M. S. Thy daughter's nakedness. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Moore, B. I am Mary Dunne. (O '68)
 O'Brien, E. Girls in their married bliss. (Ap '68)

World War, 1939-1945

- Lost legions*. (Mr '68)

Writers

- Price, R. Love and work. (Ag '68)

Youth

- Balter, B. Goodbye, boys. (Je '68)
 Barlow, J. Love chase. (My '68)
 Davis, L. J. Whence all but he had fled. (Ap '68)
 Golding, W. Pyramid. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Hayes, A. End of me. (Je '68)
 Horgan, P. Everything to live for. (N '68)
 Hunter, E. Last summer. (O '68)
 Kerouac, J. Vanity of Duluo. (My '68)
 Kumin, M. Passions of Uxport. (Ag '68)
 Macdonald, R. Instant enemy. (My '68)
 Mathews, F. X. Concrete judasbird. (O '68)
 Rogers, T. Pursuit of happiness. (O '68)
 Sainz, G. Gazapo! (O '68)
 Sukenick, R. Up. (O '68)
 Weston, J. Hail, hero! (Ap '68)
 Fiction of E. M. Forster. Thomson, G. H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Fiction of Nathanael West. Reid, R. (O '68)
 Fiction with a purpose. Colby, R. A. (Ap '68)
 Fiddler of High Lonesome. Turkle, B. (O '68)
 Field, Cyrus West
 Carter, S. Cyrus Field: man of two worlds. (Ap '68)
 Field guide to the mammals of Britain and Europe. Brink, F. H. van den. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Field guide to wildflowers of Northeastern and North-Central North America. Peterson, R. T. (Ag '68)
 Fielding, Henry
 Irwin, M. Henry Fielding, the tentative realist. (Mr '68)
 Fields, William Claude
 Everson, W. K. Art of W. C. Fields. (Ap '68)
 Fields of force, 1919-1950: v2 of Smuts. Hancock, W. K. (O '68)
 Fifteen flags. Hardman, R. (D '68)
 Fifteenth century: the prospect of Europe. Aston, M. (Ag '68)
 Fifth ace. Voznesensky, A. (With his Anti-worlds) (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Fifty works of English and American literature we could do without. Brophy, B. (Ap '68)
 50 years of Soviet power. (Je '68)
 Fight for Royal Gorge. Bailey, R. E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Fighting Pankhursts. Mitchell, D. (Mr '68)
 Figure in the door. Gregor, A. (Je '68)
 Fiji Islands
 Coulter, J. W. Drama of Fiji. (Ap '68)
 Fille de joie. (O '68)
 Film makers on film making. Geduld, H. M., ed. (Mr '68)
 Film 67/68. Schickel, R., ed. (D '68)
 Film trilogy. Bergman, I. (Ap '68)
 Filmgoer's companion [2d ed rev & enl]. Halliwell, L. (Ag '68)
 Films and feelings. Durnat, R. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Films of Marlene Dietrich. Dickens, H. (D '68)
 Finance
 Johnson, H. G. Essays in monetary economics. (S '68)
 Lyon, B. Medieval finance. (O '68)
 Japan
 Komiya, R., ed. Postwar economic growth in Japan. (Mr '68)
 United States
 Blum, J. M. From the Morgenthau diaries. v3. (My '68)
 Keso, L. O. How to turn eighty million workers into capitalists on borrowed money. (Ag '68)
 Thurow, L. C., ed. American fiscal policy. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Financial revolution in England. Dickson, P. G. M. (My '68)
 Financing Soviet schools. Noah, H. J. (Ag '68)
 Financing the Chinese government budget. Ecklund, G. N. (D '68)
 Finding out about the past. Freeman, M. B. (Ag '68)

Finland

- Hall, W. Finns and their country. (S '68)

Antiquities

- Rácz, I. Early Finnish art. (Ap '68)

Description and travel

- Sykes, J. Direction North. (My '68)
 Finno, Patrick G.
 Wilbourne, W. W. Wheels. (N '68)
 Finns and their country. Hall, W. (S '68)
 Fire and ice. Haugen, E., ed. (Ap '68)
 Fire down below. Armstrong, W. (Ag '68)
 Firearms
 Russell, C. P. Firearms, traps, & tools of the mountain men. (Ag '68)
 Firearms industry and trade
 Engelmann, B. Weapons merchants. (D '68)
 Firearms, traps, & tools of the mountain men. Russell, C. P. (Ag '68)
 Firebringer. Untermyer, L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Fires
 Armstrong, W. Fire down below. (Ag '68)
 Fires in the in-basket. Leacacos, J. P. (N '68)
 First Afghan war, 1838-1842. Norris, J. A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 First aid in illness and injury
 Greenbank, A. Book of survival. (My '68)
 Juvenile literature
 Bendick, J. Emergency book. (Mr '68)
 First American ambassador to Guinea. Morrow, J. H. (N '68)
 First book of elections. Lindop, E. (Ag '68)
 First book of fruits. Beck, B. L. (Ap '68)
 First book of Hungary. Csicsery-Rónay, I. (Mr '68)
 First book of the cliff dwellers. Marcus, R. B. (Ag '68)
 First book of the founding of the republic. Morris, R. B. (Ag '68)
 First circle. Solzhenitsyn, A. I. (D '68)
 First emancipation. Zilvermit, A. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 First fifty years. Grey, I. (Mr '68)
 First freedom. Rucker, B. W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 First frontier: life in colonial America. Miller, J. C. (N '68)
 First in their hearts. Fleming, T. J. (Ag '68)
 First President Johnson. Thomas, L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 First season. Houghton, T. (Mr '68)
 First song. Rosenfeld, S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Fisher, John Saint, Bp.
 Surtz, E. L. Works and days of John Fisher. (N '68)
 Fisher, Sidney George
 Fisher, S. G. Philadelphia perspective. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Fishes
 Juvenile literature
 Earle, O. L. Strange fishes of the sea. (S '68)
 Wildsmith, B. Brian Wildsmith's fishes. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Fishing
 Weeks, E. Fresh waters. (My '68)
 Juvenile literature
 Kinney, J. What does the tide do? (Ap '68)
 Malaya
 Firth, R. W. Malay fishermen [2d rev ed]. (Je '68)
 Fitzgerald, Francis Scott Key
 Bibliography
 Bryer, J. R. Critical reputation of F. Scott Fitzgerald. (S '68)
 The great Gatsby
 Lockridge, E. H., ed. Twentieth century interpretations of The great Gatsby. (S '68)
 Five-day course in thinking. De Bono, E. (Ag '68)
 Five evenings. Volodin, A. (Ap '68)
 Five plays. Shepard, S. (S '68)
 Five ships West. Israel, C. E. (Mr '68)
 Flag on the island. Naipaul, V. S. (Je '68)
 Flambards. Peyton, K. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Flamingos. Somerlott, R. (Ap '68)
 Flashing wings: the drama of bird flight. Terres, J. K. (Ag '68)
 Flaubert, Gustave
 Bart, B. F. Flaubert. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Starkie, E. Flaubert: the making of the master. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Fledgling. Tomerlin, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Fletcher, Joseph Francis*Situation ethics

Cox, H., ed. Situation ethics debate. (Ag '68)

Flight

Terres, J. K. Flashing wings: the drama of bird flight. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

Corbett, S. What makes a plane fly? (Ag '68)

Cromer, R. Miracle of flight. (D '68)

Olschewski, A. We fly. (My '68)

Flight of the Doves. Macken, W. (O '68)

Floating and sinking. Branley, F. M. (Ap '68)

Floral art in the church. Inman, J. (N '68)

Florence*Commerce

Mallett, M. E. Florentine galleys in the fifteenth century. (Ag '68)

History

Tutaev, D. Man who saved Florence. (Mr '68)

Florentine galleys in the fifteenth century.

Mallett, M. E. (Ag '68)

Florida*History

Douglas, M. S. Florida: the long frontier. (S '68)

Florida: the long frontier. Douglas, M. S. (S '68)

Flower arrangement

Inman, J. Floral art in the church. (N '68)

Flower cookery. MacNicol, M. (Ap '68)

Flowers*United States

Rickett, H. W. Wild flowers of the United States, v2, 2pts. (Mr '68)

Flying saucers

Edwards, F. Flying saucers—here and now! (My '68)

Klass, P. J. UFOs—identified. (My '68)

Sanderson, I. T. Uninvited visitors. (My '68)

Flying saucers—here and now! Edwards, F. (My '68)

Focus on Judith Wright. Scott, W. N. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Focus the bright land. Frierhood, E. H. (Mr '68)

Fogerty, Anna Elizabeth. See Fogerty, E.

Fogerty, Elsie

Cole, M., ed. Fogle: the life of Elsie Fogerty C.B.E. (S '68)

Fogle: the life of Elsie Fogerty C.B.E. Cole M., ed. (S '68)

Folk art, American

Laliberte, N. Wooden images. (Ap '68)

Folk art, Norwegian

Hauglid, R., ed. Native art of Norway. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Folk religion in Japan. Hori, I. (O '68)

Folk song abecedary. Leisy, J. F. (Ap '68)

Folk song in England. Lloyd, A. L. (S '68)

Folk songs

Crofut, W. Troubadour. (Ag '68)

Knudsen, L., ed. Lullabies from around the world. (Je '68)

Leisy, J. F. Folk song abecedary. (Ap '68)

Trask, W. R., ed. Unwritten song, v 1. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Trask, W. R., ed. Unwritten song, v2. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

United States

Lomax, A., comp. Hard-hitting songs for hard-hit people. (Mr '68)

Silber, I., ed. Songs of the great American West. (Mr '68)

Juvenile literature

Attaway, W. Hear America singing. (N '68)

Boll weevil (folk song). Boll weevil. (My '68)

Folk songs, English*History and criticism

Lloyd, A. L. Folk song in England. (S '68)

Folklore*Juvenile literature

Domanska, J. Look, there is a turtle flying. (S '68)

Leach, M. How the people sang the mountains up. (Mr '68)

Manning-Sanders, R. Book of wizards. (Mr '68)

Williams-Ellis, A. Old world &amp; new world fairy tales. (Mr '68)

Withers, C. World of nonsense. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Africa*Juvenile literature

Dayrell, E. Why the sun and the moon live in the sky. (Ag '68)

Kaula, E. M. African village folktales. (O '68)

Africa, East*Juvenile literature

Heady, E. B. When the stones were soft. (O '68)

Chile

Pino-Saavedra, Y., ed. Folktales of Chile. (Je '68)

China*Juvenile literature

Mosel, A. Tikki Tikki Tembo. (Je '68)

England*Juvenile literature

Manning-Sanders, R. Stories from the English and Scottish ballads. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Germany*Juvenile literature

Grimm, J. Jorinda and Joringel. (S '68)

Hungary*Juvenile literature

Ambrus, V. G. Brave soldier Janosh. (Mr '68)

Manning-Sanders, R. Glass man and the golden bird. (D '68)

India*Juvenile literature

Rockwell, A. Stolen necklace. (Ag '68)

Spellman, J. W. ed. Beautiful blue jay, and other tales of India. (Mr '68)

Ireland*Juvenile literature

Green, K. Leprechaun tales. (Je '68)

Pilkington, F. M. Shamrock and spear. (Ag '68)

Japan*Juvenile literature

Hayiland, V. Favorite tales told in Japan. (Mr '68)

Lifton, B. J. One-legged ghost. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Kenya

Mbiti, J. S., ed. &amp; tr. Akamba stories. (Mr '68)

Lithuania*Juvenile literature

Rudolph, M. Magic sack. (Je '68)

Nigeria*Juvenile literature

Courlander, H. Olode the hunter, and other tales from Nigeria. (Je '68)

Russia*Juvenile literature

Brown, M. Neighbors. (Mr '68)

Nathan, D. Month brothers. (Mr '68)

Story of Prince Ivan, the firebird, and the gray wolf. (O '68)

Scandinavia*Juvenile literature

Little Tuppen. (S '68)

Scotland*Juvenile literature

Manning-Sanders, R. Stories from the English and Scottish ballads. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Turkey

Walker, W. S. Tales alive in Turkey. (Mr '68)

Juvenile literature

Walker, B. K., comp. Once there was and twice there wasn't. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

United States

Williams, B. Mysterious West. (Mr '68)

Juvenile literature

Rees, E. Brer Rabbit and his tricks. (Ag '68)

Stoutenburg, A. American tall-tale animals. (D '68)

Vietnam

Sun, R. Q., comp. Land of seagull and fox. (S '68)

Folklore, Celtic*Juvenile literature

Jacobs, J. Hudden and Dudden and Donald O'Neary. (N '68)

Folklore, Eskimo*Juvenile literature

Melzack, R. Day Tuk became a hunter & other Eskimo stories. (Ag '68)

Folklore, Flemish*Juvenile literature

Kin, M. Comeuppance of Emile the drummer. (Ag '68)

Folklore, Inca*Juvenile literature

Rockwell, A. Good llama. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Folklore, Indian

Marriott, A. American Indian mythology. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Folklore, Jewish*Juvenile literature

Singer, I. B. Mazel and Shlimazel. (Mr '68)

Folklore, Negro

Jackson, B., ed. Negro and his folklore in nineteenth-century periodicals. (N '68)

Juvenile literature

Rees, E. Brer Rabbit and his tricks. (Ag '68)

Folks, Homer

Trattner, W. I. Homer Folks, pioneer in social welfare. (S '68)

Folktales of Chile. Pino-Saavedra, Y., ed. (Je '68)

Follett world-wide Latin dictionary. (My '68)

Followers of the new faith. Willems, E. (Je '68)

Fong and the Indians. Theroux, P. (N '68)

Food

Bates, M. Gluttons and libertines. (Ap '68)

Sebrell, W. H. Food and nutrition. (Ap '68)

Juvenile literature

Arnold, P. Food facts for young people. (N '68)

Food, Frozen

Erickson, C. Freezer cookbook. (O '68)

Food and nutrition. Sebrell, W. H. (Ap '68)

Food facts for young people. Arnold, P. (N '68)

Food is more than cooking. Anderson, J. (D '68)

Food supply

Freeman, O. L. World without hunger. (S '68)

Foolish figleaves? Kuh, R. H. (Mr '68)

Football

Kramer, J. Instant replay. (N '68)

Starr, Quarterbacking. (Ap '68)

Summerall, P. Kicking to win. (N '68)

See also

Soccer

History*Juvenile literature

Miers, E. S. Football. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

Unitas, J. Playing pro football to win. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Football. Miers, E. S. (Ag '68)

Footnotes and headlines. Corita, Sister. (Mr '68)

Footsteps on old floors. Raddall, T. H. (Je '68)

For a bitter season. Garrett, G. (S '68)

For gardens and other places. Judson, S. S. (Ag '68)

For richer, for poorer. Hanson, K. (O '68)

For the glory of France. Wilhelm, M. (Ag '68)

For the love of money. Knight, J. A. (Ag '68)

For us, the living. Evers, Mrs. Medgar. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Forbidden colors. Mishima, Y. (Ag '68)

Force and energy

Harrison, G. R. Conquest of energy. (Ja '69)

(1968 Annual)

Sterland, E. G. Energy into power. (Je '68)

Force, order, and justice. Osgood, R. E. (S '68)

Ford, John

Stavig, M. John Ford and the traditional moral order. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Fore-edge painting. Weber, C. J. (Mr '68)

Foreign aid programs of the Soviet Bloc and Communist China. Müller, K. (Ag '68)

Foreign economic relations. See International economic relations

Foreign policy and democratic politics. Waltz, K. N. (Mr '68)

Foreign trade and economic growth in Italy. Stern, R. M. (My '68)

Foreman: forgotten man of management. Patten, T. H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Foremen

Patten, T. H. Foreman: forgotten man of management. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Forest fires*Juvenile literature

Milne, L. Phoenix forest. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Forester, Cecil Scott

Forester, C. S. Long before forty. (O '68)

Forests and forestry*Juvenile literature

Milne, L. Phoenix forest. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Forged in silver. Young, B. (Ag '68)

Forgery! Bentley, P. (S '68)

Forgery of works of art

Kilbracken, J. R. G. Van Meegeren: master forger. (S '68)

Forgotten scripts. Gordon, C. H. (Ja '69)

(1968 Annual)

Form and thought in Herodotus. Immerwahr, H. R. (O '68)

Formal French. Wiley, W. L. (Ag '68)

Formation of Christendom. Dawson, C. (Ag '68)

Formosa. See Taiwan

Formosa, China, and the United Nations. Chen, L. C. (S '68)

Forms and substances in the arts. Gilson, E. (Ap '68)

Forms of discovery. Winters, Y. (My '68)

Formulas for painters. Massey, R. (S '68)

Forster, Edward Morgan

Kelvin, N. E. M. Forster. (O '68)

Thomson, G. H. Fiction of E. M. Forster. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Fort Wayne, Indiana

Detzer, K. Myself when young. (Je '68)

Forten, James

Juvenile literature

Douty, E. M. Forten the sailmaker. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Forten the sailmaker. Douty, E. M. (Ja '69)

(1968 Annual)

Fortification

Athearn, R. G. Forts of the Upper Missouri. (Ap '68)

Forts of the Upper Missouri. Athearn, R. G. (Ap '68)

Fortunate slave. Grant, D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Fossils

Colbert, E. H. Men and dinosaurs. (Ja '69)

(1968 Annual)

Wendt, H. Before the deluge. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

Matthews, W. H. Wonders of fossils. (Ag '68)

Warwick, A. R. Let's look at prehistoric animals. (D '68)

Foulois, Benjamin D.

Foulois, B. D. From the Wright brothers to the astronauts. (O '68)

Foundations of accounting measurement. Ijiri, Y. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Founders of psychical research. Gauld, A. (D '68)

Four lamas of Dolpo, v 1. Snellgrove, D. L., ed. & tr. (My '68)

Four strange books of the Bible. Bickerman, E. (Je '68)

Fourth R. Heinemann, R. B. (Ap '68)

Fox and the hound. Mannix, D. P. (My '68)

Fox of Mauln. Eng title of: The wolves. Kirst, H. H. (O '68)

Foxes*Stories

Hutchins, P. Rosie's walk. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Fragmented metropolis: Los Angeles, 1850-1930. Fogelson, R. M. (Ag '68)

Fragments of a journal. Ionesco, E. (N '68)

France, Anatole

Tylden-Wright, D. Anatole France. (Mr '68)

France

Church history

Kingdon, R. M. Geneva and the consolidation of the French Protestant movement, 1564-1572. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Civilization

Brinton, C. Americans and the French. (Je '68)

Denieul-Cormier, A. Time of glory. (My '68)

Nourissier, F. French. (O '68)

Wiley, W. L. Formal French. (Ag '68)

- Description and travel
 Kamehameha IV. Journal of Prince Alexander Liholiho. (O '68)
 White, F. Ways of Aquitaine. (S '68)
- Foreign relations
 DePorte, A. W. De Gaulle's foreign policy, 1944-1946. (S '68)
- China
 Eastman, L. E. Throne and mandarins. (My '68)
- Great Britain
 Knachel, P. A. England and the Fronde. (Ag '68)
- United States
 Brinton, C. Americans and the French. (Je '68)
- History
 Harvey, D. J. France since the revolution. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- To 1328
 Labarge, M. W. Saint Louis: Louis IX, most Christian King of France. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- House of Valois, 1328-1589
 Denieul-Cormier, A. Time of glory. (My '68)
- Bourbons, 1589-1789
 Gramont, S. de. Epitaph for kings. (My '68)
- Revolution, 1789-1799
 Carlson, M. Theatre of the French revolution. (Mr '68)
 Cobban, A. Aspects of the French revolution. (D '68)
 Dupre, H. Two brothers in the French revolution: Robert and Thomas Lindet. (O '68)
 Ferrero, G. Two French revolutions, 1789-1796. (Je '68)
- 1799-1815
 Delderfield, R. F. Imperial sunset. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- 1814-1940
 Beaufre, A. 1940: the fall of France. (Je '68)
- German occupation, 1940-1945—
 Juvenile literature
 Wilhelm, M. For the glory of France. (Ag '68)
- History, Military
 Bankwitz, P. C. F. Maxime Weygand and civil-military relations in modern France. (N '68)
- Intellectual life
 Hughes, H. S. Obstructed path. (Ap '68)
- Local government
 See Local government
- Politics and government
 Bidault, G. Resistance. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Harvey, D. J. France since the revolution. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Menard, O. D. Army and the fifth republic. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- 1799-1914
 Ralston, D. B. Army of the Republic. (Je '68)
 Richardson, N. French prefectural corps, 1814-1830. (Mr '68)
- 20th century
 MacRae, D. Parliament, parties and society in France. (My '68)
- 1945-
 Williams, P. M. French parliament. (O '68)
- Social life and customs
 Verlet, P. Eighteenth century in France. (Ap '68)
 Wylie, L., ed. Chanzeaux. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- France. Army
 Bankwitz, P. C. F. Maxime Weygand and civil-military relations in modern France. (N '68)
 Menard, O. D. Army and the fifth republic. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Ralston, D. B. Army of the Republic. (Je '68)
 France, Germany and the Western alliance. (Mr '68)
 France since the revolution. Harvey, D. J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Franchère, Gabriel
 Franchère, G. Adventure at Astoria, 1810-1814. (Je '68)
- Francis Ferdinand, Archduke of Austria
 Feuerlicht, R. S. Desperate act. (S '68)
- Francis of Assisi, Saint
 Boase, T. S. R. St Francis of Assisi. (N '68)
- Franco Bahamonde, Francisco
 Crozier, B. Franco. (Je '68)
 Hills, G. Franco: the man and his nation. (My '68)
 Snellgrove, L. E. Franco and the Spanish Civil War. (N '68)
 Franco. Crozier, B. (Je '68)
 Franco and the Spanish Civil War. Snellgrove, L. E. (N '68)
 Franco: the man and his nation. Hills, G. (My '68)
- Frank, Leo Max
 Dinnerstein, L. Leo Frank case. (Ag '68)
 Frank M. Chapman in Florida. Chapman, F. M. (Ap '68)
- Frankfurter, Felix
 Roosevelt, F. D. Roosevelt and Frankfurter. (Mr '68)
- Franklin, Benjamin
 Aldridge, A. O. Benjamin Franklin and nature's God. (Ag '68)
 Franklin, B. Papers of Benjamin Franklin. v 11. (D '68)
- Franz Ferdinand, Archduke of Austria. See Francis Ferdinand, Archduke of Austria
- Fraud
 Hancock, R. Compleat swindler. (My '68)
 Fray Junipero Serra and the California conquest. Wise, W. E. (Ap '68)
- Free trade and protection
 Balassa, B. Studies in trade liberalization. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Free will and determinism
 Cahn, S. M. Fate, logic, and time. (Ag '68)
 Lamont, C. Freedom of choice affirmed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Lapsley, J. N., ed. Concept of willing. (Ag '68)
- Freedmen's bureau in South Carolina, 1865-1872. Abbott, M. (S '68)
- Freedom (Theology)
 Osborn, R. T. Freedom in modern theology. (Ap '68)
 Freedom and order in the university. Gorovitz, S., ed. (My '68)
 Freedom and reform. Hyman, H. M., ed. (Ap '68)
 Freedom and unity. Nyerere, J. K. (Mr '68)
 Freedom builders. Friedman, R. (Ja '69)
 Freedom in modern theology. Osborn, R. T. (Ap '68)
 Freedom of choice affirmed. Lamont, C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Freedom of the press
 Association of the bar of the City of New York. Special committee on radio, television, and the administration of justice. Freedom of the press and fair trial. (Mr '68)
 Cox, A. Civil rights, the Constitution, and the courts. (Mr '68)
 Nelson, H. L., ed. Freedom of the press from Hamilton to the Warren court. (Ag '68)
 Schulte, H. F. Spanish press, 1470-1966. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Freedom of the press and fair trial. Association of the bar of the City of New York. Special committee on radio, television, and the administration of justice. (Mr '68)
 Freedom of the press from Hamilton to the Warren court. Nelson, H. L., ed. (Ag '68)
- Freezer cookbook. Erickson, C. (O '68)
- Frei Montalva, Eduardo
 Gross, L. Last, best hope: Eduardo Frei & Chilean democracy. (Mr '68)
- French. Nourissier, F. (O '68)
- French Canada: pictures and stories of old Quebec. Boswell, H. (Mr '68)
- French-Canadians
 Corbett, E. M. Quebec confronts Canada. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Trudeau, P. E. Federalism and the French Canadians. (D '68)
- French chef cookbook. Child, J. (Je '68)
- French cooking in the new world. Robotti, F. D. (Mr '68)
- French drama
 History and criticism
 Knowles, D. French drama of the inter-war years, 1918-39. (D '68)
 French drama of the interwar years, 1918-39. Knowles, D. (D '68)
 French enlightenment and the Jews. Hertzberg, A. (S '68)

French in Indochina

McAleavy, H. Black flags in Vietnam. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

French language*Dictionaries*English

Levieux, M. Cassell's Beyond the dictionary in French. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

French literature*History and criticism

Camus, A. Lyrical and critical essays. (D '68)
Fowle, W. Climate of violence. (Mr '68)

French North Africa. Berque, J. (Mr '68)
French painting in the time of Jean de Berry, 2v. Meiss, M. (Ag '68)

French parliament. Williams, P. M. (O '68)

French poetry*History and criticism

Balakian, A. Symbolist movement. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
French prefectural corps, 1814-1830. Richardson, N. (Mr '68)

French watercolors of the 20th century. Daulte, F. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Freneau, Philip Morin

Axelrad, J. Philip Freneau, champion of democracy. (Mr '68)

Fresh water biology

Hutchinson, G. E. Treatise on limnology, v2. (Mr '68)

Reid, G. K. Pond life. (My '68)

Juvenile literature

Lubell, W. In a running brook. (Ag '68)

Fresh waters. Weeks, E. (My '68)

Freud, Sigmund

Brome, V. Freud and his early circle. (Ap '68)
Reich, W. Reich speaks out on Freud. (Je '68)

Roazen, P. Freud: political and social thought. (S '68)

Freud and his early circle. Brome, V. (Ap '68)
Freud: political and social thought. Roazen, P. (S '68)

Frewen, Moreton

Andrews, A. Splendid pauper. (N '68)

Friends, Society of

Doherty, R. W. Hicksite separation. (O '68)

Juvenile literature

Elgin, K. Quakers. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Friends and enemies. Mitchison, N. (Ag '68)

Friends, guests, and colleagues. Folsom, K. E. (N '68)

Friends not masters. Ayub Khan, M. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Frisch, Karl von

Frisch, K. von. Biologist remembers. (My '68)

Frogs

Porter, G. World of the frog and the toad. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

Hawes, J. Why frogs are wet. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Froissart's chronicles; tr. by John Jolliffe. Froissart, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

From a view to a death. Powell, A. (Je '68)

From Atlantic to Pacific. Klette, I. J. (Ap '68)

From Battenberg to Mountbatten. Cookridge, E. H. (Ap '68)

From beginning to end. Lengyel, J. (Je '68)

From little acorns. Palmer, B. I. (N '68)

From Frague after Munich. Kennan, G. F. (Ag '68)

From Puritan to Yankee. Bushman, R. L. (1967, 1968 Annual)

From radical left to extreme right. Muller, R. H., ed. (My '68)

From sacred to profane America: the role of religion in American history. Clebsch, W. A. (Ag '68)

From shadowy types to truth. Madsen, W. G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

From the ashes. Schulberg, B., ed. (1967, 1968 Annual)

From the ashes of Christianity. Irion, M. J. (Je '68)

From the beginnings to Chekhov; v 1 of A concise history of Russian literature. Lindstrom, T. S. (Mr '68)

From the great deep. Ryals, C. de L. (Ag '68)

From the Morgenthau diaries, v3. Blum, J. M. (My '68)

From the Wright brothers to the astronauts. Foulois, B. D. (O '68)

From under the earth: America's metals, fuels, and minerals. Smith, H. E. (My '68)

Fronde

Knachel, P. A. England and the Fronde. (Ag '68)

Frontier against slavery. Berwanger, E. H. (N '68)

Frontier and pioneer life

Karolides, N. J. Pioneer in the American novel, 1900-1950. (Je '68)

Nash, R. Wilderness and the American mind. (Mr '68)

Juvenile literature

Bjorklund, L. F. Faces of the frontier. (My '68)

Alaska

Short, W. This raw land. (Ag '68)

Kansas

Dykstra, R. R. Cattle towns. (Ag '68)

The West

Albert, H. W. Odyssey of a desert prospector. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Fisher, V. Gold rushes and mining camps of the early American West. (N '68)

Hofstadter, R. Turner and the sociology of the frontier. (Ag '68)

Lewis, M., ed. Mining frontier. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

McDermott, J. F., ed. Frontier re-examined. (Ap '68)

Russell, C. P. Firearms, traps, & tools of the mountain men. (Ag '68)

Smith, D. A. Rocky Mountain mining camps. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

Jones, G. Where the wind blew free. (Je '68)

Frontier re-examined. McDermott, J. F., ed. (Ap '68)

Frontiers of civil liberties. Dorsen, N. (D '68)

Frontiersman. Place, M. T. (Mr '68)

Frontiersmen in blue. Utley, R. M. (Je '68)

Fruit*Juvenile literature

Beck, B. L. First book of fruits. (Ap '68)

Fujiwara Telka's Superior poems of our time. Fujiwara, T. (Mr '68)

Fulbright, James William

Johnson, H. Fulbright: the dissenter. (O '68)

Fulbright: the dissenter. Johnson, H. (O '68)

Fun with your fingers. Helfman, H. (S '68)

Fundamentals of musical composition. Schoenberg, A. (O '68)

Fungi

Findlay, W. P. K. Wayside and woodland fungi. (O '68)

Funk & Wagnalls modern guide to synonyms and related words. (Ag '68)

Fur-bearing animals

Caras, R. A. North American mammals. (Ap '68)

Fur trade

Anderson, W. M. Rocky Mountain journals of William Marshall Anderson: the West in 1834. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Franchère, G. Adventure at Astoria, 1810-1814. (Je '68)

Mackenzie, A. Exploring the Northwest territory. (Je '68)

Russell, C. P. Firearms, traps, & tools of the mountain men. (Ag '68)

Furious passage of James Baldwin. Eckman, F. M. (Mr '68)

Furniture

Simpson, T. Fantasy furniture. (O '68)

Furniture, American

American heritage. American heritage history of colonial antiques. (Mr '68)

Forman, H. C. Old buildings, gardens, and furniture in Tidewater Maryland. (Je '68)

Furniture, French

Verlet, P. Eighteenth century in France. (Ap '68)

Future as nightmare. Hillegas, M. R. (Mr '68)

Future of conservatism. Evans, M. S. (S '68)

Future of Germany. Jaspers, K. (Ap '68)

Future of human heredity. Osborn, F. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Future of the overseas Chinese in Southeast Asia. Williams, L. E. (Mr '68)

Futurism (Art)

Martin, M. W. Futurist art and theory, 1909-1915. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Futurist art and theory, 1909-1915. Martin, M. W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

GI diary. Parks, D. (Ag '68)

Gabon

Darlington, C. F. African betrayal. (My '68)
Gabrielle and Selena. Desbarats, P. (Ag '68)
Gaelic lexicon for Finnegans wake, and glossary for Joyce's other works. O Hehir, B. (Ag '68)

Gaelic literature

See also

Poetry—Collections
Galena lead district. Wright, J. E. (My '68)
Galilei, Galileo
McMullen, E., ed. Galileo: man of science.
(N '68)

Galileo: man of science. McMullin, E., ed. (N
'68)

Gallows songs. Morgenstern, C. (Je '68)

Gambia

Rice, B. Enter Gambia. (Mr '68)

Gambling

Comstock, A. Traps for the young. (S '68)
Hoffman, W. S. Loser. (Ag '68)

Gambling with truth. Levi, I. (Ag '68)

Game. Byatt, A. S. (My '68)

Game in heaven with Tussy Marx. Read, P. P.
(Mr '68)

Games

Meyer, J. Big book of family games. (Ag '68)
Schwartz, A. Rainy day book. (D '68)

Gandhi, Indira (Nehru)

Juvenile literature

Lamb, B. P. Nehrus of India. (My '68)
Gandhi, Mohandas Karamchand
Ashe, G. Gandhi. (S '68)
Ghosh, S. Gandhi's emissary. (S '68)
Horsburgh, H. J. N. Non-violence and agres-sion. (O '68)
Wolfenstein, E. V. Revolutionary personality.
(1967, 1968 Annual)
Gandhi's emissary. Ghosh, S. (S '68)
Gannett, Deborah (Sampson)

Juvenile literature

Cheney, C. Incredible Deborah. (My '68)
Gardening
Harshbarger, G. F. McCall's garden book.
(My '68)

Gardens

Forman, H. C. Old buildings, gardens, and furniture in Tidewater Maryland. (Je '68)

Poetry

Juvenile literature

Bramblett, E., ed. Shoots of green. (Ag '68)
Garfield, James Abram
Garfield, J. A. Diary of James A. Garfield,
v 1-2 [annot ed]. (Ap '68)
Garibaldi, Giuseppe

Juvenile literature

Syme, R. Garibaldi. (Je '68)
Garibaldi, Syme, R. (Je '68)
Garland for Jake Zeitlin, on the occasion of his 65th birthday & the anniversary of his 40th year in the book trade. Edelstein,
J. M., ed. (S '68)

Garnett, David

White, T. H. White/Garnett letters. (Ja '69)
(1968 Annual)

Garrett, Eileen Jeanette

Garrett, E. J. Many voices. (Ag '68)

Gas, Natural

Cooper, B. North Sea oil—the great gamble.
(S '68)

Gaulle, Charles André Joseph Marie de
DePorte, A. W. De Gaulle's foreign policy,
1944-1946. (S '68)

Gautama Buddha. See Buddha and Buddhism
Gautama Buddha in life and legend. Kelen, B.
(Mr '68)

Gay world Hoffman, M. (D '68)

Gazapo! Sainz, G. (O '68)

Gems

Wilson, M. Gems. (Ag '68)

Collections

Boardman, J. Engraved gems. (D '68)
General election of 1880. Lloyd, T. (Ja '69)
(1968 Annual)
General Jewish workers' league in Lithuania,
Poland and Russia
Johnpoll, B. K. Politics of futility. (Je '68)
General physics. Landau, L. D. (Ja '69) (1968
Annual)

Generals

Juvenile literature

McGiffin, L. Yankee Doodle dandies. (Ap '68)
Generous years. Huntley, C. (Ja '69) (1968
Annual)
Genesis of American patent and copyright law.
Bugbee, B. W. (Ag '68)

Génet, Jean

Coe, R. N. Vision of Jean Genet. (N '68)
Jacobsen, J. Ionesco and Génet. (D '68)

Genetics

Alland, A. Evolution and human behavior.
(My '68)

Engel, L. New genetics. (O '68)

Geneva and the consolidation of the French
Protestant movement, 1564-1572. Kingdon,
R. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Geographers

Freeman, T. W. Geographer's craft. (Ag '68)

Geographer's craft. Freeman, T. W. (Ag '68)

Geography

Chorley, R. J., ed. Models in geography. (S
'68)

Freeman, T. W. Geographer's craft. (Ag '68)

Dictionaries

Worldmark encyclopedia of the nations, 5v
[3d ed]. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Pictures, illustrations, etc.

See Views

Geography, Commercial

Jones, E. Human geography [rev ed]. (Je '68)

Geography, Economic. See Geography, Commercial

Geography of population. Beaujeu-Garnier, J.
(My '68)

Geology

Shimer, J. A. This changing earth. (Ja '69)
(1968 Annual)

Dictionaries

Nelson, A. Dictionary of applied geology.
(S '68)

Juvenile literature

Matthews, W. H. Story of the earth. (S '68)

Geology, Stratigraphic

Rankama, K., ed. Quaternary v2. (N '68)

Geomorphology

Russell, R. J. River plains and sea coasts.
(Ag '68)

Geophysics

Odishaw, H., ed. Earth in space. (Ja '69)
(1968 Annual)

George Bell, Bishop of Chichester. Jasper,
R. C. D. (Ag '68)

George Ticknor and the Boston Brahmins.
Tyack, D. B. (1967, 1968 Annual)

German-Americans. O'Connor, R. (O '68)

German & Jew: the life and death of Sigmund
Stein. Dickinson, J. K. (My '68)

German army and the Nazi party, 1933-1939.
O'Neill, R. J. (Ap '68)

German atomic bomb. Irving, D. (Ag '68)

German economic policy in Spain during the Spanish civil war, 1936-1939. Harper, G. T.
(Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

German literature

History and criticism

Salmon, P. Literature in medieval Germany.
(Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

German revolution of 1918. Ryder, A. J. (Ap '68)

Germans in Africa

Gifford, P., ed. Britain and Germany in Africa: imperial rivalry and colonial rule.
(Ag '68)

Germans in the United States

O'Connor, R. German-Americans. (O '68)

Germany

Church history

Chrisman, M. U. Strasbourg and the reform.
(Ap '68)

Colonies

Louis, W. R. Great Britain and Germany's lost colonies, 1914-1919. (Ap '68)

Foreign relations

Fischer, F. Germany's aims in the first
World War (My '68)
McSherry, J. E. Stalin, Hitler, and Europe,
v 1. (Ag '68)

Wiskemann, E. Undeclared war [2d ed]. (Je '68)

America

Frye, A. Nazi Germany and the American hemisphere, 1933-1941. (Ap '68)

Germany—Foreign relations—ContinuedItaly

Toscano, M. Origins of the pact of steel. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Poland

Lipski, J. Diplomat in Berlin, 1933-1939. (Ag '68)

Spain

Harper, G. T. German economic policy in Spain during the Spanish civil war, 1936-1939. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

United States

Friedländer, S. Prelude to downfall: Hitler and the United States, 1939-1941. (Mr '68)

History

Wheeler-Bennett, J. W. Wreath to Clio. (O '68)

1740-1815

Mann, G. History of Germany since 1789. (Ag '68)

1866-

Röhl, J. C. G. Germany without Bismarck. (My '68)

20th century

Dahrendorf, R. Society and democracy in Germany. (Mr '68)

Mann, G. History of Germany since 1789. (Ag '68)

1918-1933

Gay, P. Weimar culture. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Ryder, A. J. German revolution of 1918. (Ap '68)

1933-1945

Deutsch, H. C. Conspiracy against Hitler in the twilight war. (S '68)

Levin, N. Holocaust. (My '68)

McGovern, J. Martin Bormann. (O '68)

1945-

Schütz, W. W. Rethinking German policy. (O '68)

Allied occupation, 1945-1955

Brett-Smith, R. Berlin '45: the grey city. (Mr '68)

Intellectual life

Gay, P. Weimar culture. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Politics and government

Mishark, J. W. Road to revolution. (Ag '68)

Ramm, A. Germany, 1789-1919. (S '68)

1866-

Cecil, L. Albert Ballin. (Ap '68)

Röhl, J. C. G. Germany without Bismarck. (My '68)

1933-1945

O'Neill, R. J. German army and the Nazi party, 1933-1939. (Ap '68)

1933-1945—Juvenile literature

Elliott, B. J. Hitler and Germany. (O '68)

1945-

Flannery, H. W. Which way Germany? (Ag '68)

Tauber, K. P. Beyond eagle and swastika, 2v. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Social conditions

Dahrendorf, R. Society and democracy in Germany. (Mr '68)

Germany (Democratic Republic)

Dornberg, J. Other Germany. (O '68)

Politics and government

Vall, F. A. Quest for a united Germany. (Mr '68)

Germany (Federal Republic)

Jaspers, K. Future of Germany. (Ap '68)

Foreign relations

Hanrieder, W. F. West German foreign policy, 1949-1963. (Mr '68)

Politics and government

Schoenbaum, D. Spiegel affair. (Ag '68)

Vall, F. A. Quest for a united Germany. (Mr '68)

Germany. Air Force

Bekker, C. Luftwaffe war diaries. (Ag '68)

Germany. Army

O'Neill, R. J. German army and the Nazi party, 1933-1939. (Ap '68)

Germany. Navy

Stumpf, R. War, mutiny and revolution in the German navy. (O '68)

Germany, 1789-1919. Ramm, A. (S '68)

Germany without Bismarck. Röhl, J. C. G. (My '68)

Germany's aims in the first World War. Fischer, F. (My '68)

Gertrude Stein and the present. Stewart, A. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Getting with politics. Hoopes, R. (S '68)

Gettysburg, Battle of, 1863

Coddington, E. B. Gettysburg campaign. (S '68)

Gettysburg campaign. Coddington, E. B. (S '68)

Ghana

Smith, E. Where to, black man? (Ap '68)

Social conditions

Birmingham, W. B., ed. Study of contemporary Ghana, v2. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Ghetto fever. Millea, T. V. (Ag '68)

Ghetto rebellion to black liberation. Lightfoot, C. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Ghosh, Sudhir

Ghosh, S. Gandhi's emissary. (S '68)

Ghost front. Bonham, F. (Ag '68)

Ghost in the machine. Koestler, A. (Ap '68)

Ghost of Stalin. Sartre, J. P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Ghost towns of the American West. Silverberg, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Giacomo Joyce. Joyce, J. (Ag '68)

Gianna. Machol, L. (Mr '68)

Giants in the sky. Richards, N. (Ap '68)

Giants of electricity. Dunsheath, P. (My '68)

Gibbon, Edward

De Beer, G. Gibbon and his world. (Je '68)

Gibbon and his world. De Beer, G. (Je '68)

Gibson, William

Gibson, W. Mass for the dead. (Je '68)

Gide, André. Paul Gulliaume

Painter, G. D. André Gide [rev & enl ed]. (Ag '68)

Watson-Williams, H. André Gide and the Greek myth. (Ag '68)

Gideon's river. Marric, J. J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Gideon's wrath. Marric, J. J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Gielgud, Sir John

Sterne, R. L. John Gielgud directs Richard Burton in Hamlet. (D '68)

Gilbert before Sullivan. Gilbert, W. S. (Mr '68)

Gilboa, Jehoshua A. See Gilboa, Y. A.

Gilboa, Yehoshua A.

Gilboa, Y. A. Confess! confess! (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Gilded bat. Gorey, E. (Mr '68)

Gilded stage. Knepler, H. (D '68)

Ginzburg, Eugenia Semyonovna

Ginzburg, E. S. Journey into the whirlwind. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Giono, Jean

Redfern, W. D. Private world of Jean Giono. (Ag '68)

Giotto di Bondone

Eimerl, S. World of Giotto. (Ap '68)

Gipsy Moth circles the world. Chichester, F. (My '68)

Gipsy Moth IV (Ketch)

Chichester, F. Gipsy Moth circles the world. (My '68)

Giraffes

Spinage, C. A. Book of the giraffe. (O '68)

Girls in their married bliss. O'Brien, E. (Ap '68)

Glacial epoch

Juvenile literature

May, J. They lived in the ice age. (Mr '68)

Glaciers

Agassiz, L. Studies on glaciers. (N '68)

Frstrup, B. Greenland ice cap. (My '68)

Gladden, Washington

Dorn, J. H. Washington Gladden. (Ag '68)

Glass house. Seager, A. (D '68)

Glass man and the golden bird. Manning-Sanders, R. (D '68)

Glass painting and staining

Chagall, M. Jerusalem windows [rev ed]. (Ag '68)

Glass, stones & crown. Rockwell, A. (Ag '68)

Glass trumpet. Waddington, M. (Ap '68)

Gleanings. Roth, C. (Ag '68)

Glimpse of a stranger. Brown, J. D. (Ag '68)

Glorious struggle. Hirschfeld, B. (My '68)

Gluttons and libertines. Bates, M. (Ap '68)

Goals for urban America. Berry, B. J. L., ed. (Je '68)

Goats

Stories

Daudet, A. Brave little goat of Monsieur Séguin. (S '68)

God

Bowie, W. R. Where you find God. (Mr '68)
 Burl, F. How can we still speak responsibly of God? (Je '68)
 Dentan, R. C. Knowledge of God in ancient Israel. (Ag '68)
 Durandeaux, J. Living questions to dead Gods. (D '68)
 Farrer, A. Faith and speculation. (Ag '68)
 Grant, R. M. Early Christian doctrine of God. (Mr '68)
 Hick, J., ed. Many-faced argument. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 James, R. E. Concrete God. (D '68)
 Neville, R. C. God the creator. (Ag '68)
 Plantinga, A. God and other minds. (Je '68)
 Wels-Schon, G. Portrait of Yahweh as a young God. (O '68)

God and history in early Christian thought. Patterson, L. G. (Mr '68)

God and myself. Graef, H. (S '68)

God and other minds. Plantinga, A. (Je '68)

God is a new language. Moore, S. (Mr '68)

God speed the night. Davis, D. S. (D '68)

God the creator. Neville, R. C. (Ag '68)

Godard, Jean Luc

Roud, R. Jean-Luc Godard. (Ap '68)

Gods

Patal, R. Hebrew goddess. (Je '68)

Gods, men & pharaohs. Woldering, I. (N '68)

Goethe, Johann Wolfgang von

Gray, R. Goethe: a critical introduction. (D '68)

Goethe: a critical introduction. Gray, R. (D '68)

Goetz, Karl

Kienast, G. W. Medals of Karl Goetz. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Gogh, Vincent van

Nagera, H. Vincent Van Gogh. (Je '68)

Gogol', Nikolai Vasil'evich

Gogol, N. Letters of Nikolai Gogol. (Ap '68)

Go-Kyo principles of judo. Geesink, A. (N '68)

Gold

Green, T. World of gold. (Ag '68)

Hinshaw, R., ed. Monetary reform and the price of gold. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Gold gap. Gruber, F. (S '68)

Gold mines and mining

Fisher, V. Gold rushes and mining camps of the early American West. (N '68)

Gold rushes and mining camps of the early American West. Fisher, V. (N '68)

Golden age. Getty, J. P. (Ag '68)

Golden age of toys. Remise, J. (S '68)

Golden dream. Chapman, W. (Je '68)

Golden gate. Stefánsson, D. (In Haugen, E., ed. Fire and ice). (Ap '68)

Golden geese. Meade, E. (Ag '68)

Golden oyster. Gordon, D. (N '68)

"Golden times." Pike, E. R. (Ap '68)

Golding, William Gerald

Kinkead-Weekes, M. William Golding. (S '68)

Goldsmith, Oliver

Quintana, R. Oliver Goldsmith. (Je '68)

Goldwater, Barry Morris

Kessel, J. H. Goldwater coalition. (D '68)

Lokos, L. Hysteria 1964. (Ag '68)

Goldwater coalition. Kessel, J. H. (D '68)

Goldweights

Plass, M. W. African miniatures. (Ap '68)

Goleniewski, Michal

Richards, G. Imperial agent. (My '68)

Goleniewski-Romanov case. See Richards, G. Imperial agent. (My '68)

Golf

Plimpton, G. Bogey man. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Stanley, L. T. Golf with your hands. (Ag '68)

Golf with your hands. Stanley, L. T. (Ag '68)

Gollancz, Victor

Gollancz, V. Reminiscences of affection. (D '68)

Gone. Godden, R. (O '68)

Good and evil

Caldwell, T. Dialogues with the devil. (N '68)

Evil. (My '68)

Kluger, R. S. Satan in the Old Testament. (Ag '68)

Good children don't kill. Thomas, L. (O '68)

Good llama. Rockwell, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Good night. Veronica. Trez, D. (Ag '68)

Good robber Willibald. Wiemer, R. O. (S '68)

Good times/bad times. Kirkwood, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Goodbye, Aunt Elva. Fenwick, E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Goodbye, boys. Balter, B. (Je '68)

Goodbye, but listen. McCloskey, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Gore, Thomas Pryor

Billington, M. L. Thomas P. Gore. (Mr '68)

Gore and Igor. Levin, M. (Ap '68)

Gorgas, William Crawford

Juvenile literature

Dolan, E. F. William Crawford Gorgas: warrior in white. (Ag '68)

Gorky, Arshile

Gorky, A. Arshile Gorky. (O '68)

Gorky, Maxim

Borras, F. M. Maxim Gorky the writer. (S '68)

Wolfe, B. D. Bridge and the abyss. (Mr '68)

Gormenghast; v2 of Gormenghast trilogy. Peake, M. (Mr '68)

Gormenghast trilogy, 3v. Peake, M. (Mr '68)

Gospel singer. Crews, H. (My '68)

Gossip to the grave. Eng title of: Gossip truth.

Burke, J. (Ag '68)

Gossip truth. Burke, J. (Ag '68)

Gothic art. Martindale, A. (My '68)

Gothic politics in the deep South. Sherrill, R. (Ag '68)

Gottlieb, Adolph

Doty, R. Adolph Gottlieb. (N '68)

Gould, Beatrice Blackmar

Gould, B. American story. (S '68)

Gould, Bruce

Gould, B. American story. (S '68)

Gourmet cooking for one, or more. Paris, R. G. (O '68)

Governing nature. Murphy, E. F. (Mr '68)

Government, Resistance to

Thoreau, H. D. Variorum Civil disobedience. (O '68)

Tolstoy, L. Tolstoy's writings on civil disobedience and nonviolence. (Je '68)

See also

Passive resistance to government

Government and revolution in Vietnam. Duncanson, D. J. (Je '68)

Government consultants

Who's who in consulting. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Government in science. Manning, T. G. (N '68)

Government ownership

Birkhead, G. S., ed. Administrative problems in Pakistan. (Mr '68)

Posner, M. V. Italian public enterprise. (Ag '68)

Governmental investigations

Cohn, R. McCarthy. (Ag '68)

Goodman, W. Committee. (Je '68)

Grace notes in American history. Levy, L. S. (S '68)

Grain of sand. Blake, W. (D '68)

Grain of truth. Bawden, N. (D '68)

Grand Canyon

Fletcher, C. Man who walked through time. (Ap '68)

Grandeur of England and the Atlantic community. Eng title of: The stronger community.

Catlin, G. E. G. (Mr '68)

Grant, Ulysses Simpson

Grant, U. S. Papers of Ulysses S. Grant, v 1. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Graphic art of Mary Cassatt. Cassatt, M. (N '68)

Graphic arts

Bowman, W. J. Graphic communication. (N '68)

Williams, E., ed. Anthology of concrete poetry. (My '68)

Graphic communication. Bowman, W. J. (N '68)

Graphic work of M. C. Escher [new ed]. Escher, M. C. (My '68)

Graphic work of Philip Evergood. Evergood, P. (Ap '68)

Grass-widow's tale. Peters, E. (O '68)

Grasse, 3/23/66. Delbanco, N. (S '68)

Grave matter. Davies, L. P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Grave of God. Adolfs, R. (Mr '68)

Gravitation

Bergmann, P. G. Riddle of gravitation. (S '68)

Great acting. Burton, H. (S '68)

Great age of sail. Jobé, J., ed. (Mr '68)

Great air batties. Lawson, D., ed. (Ag '68)

Great ambitions. Kyle, E. (Je '68)

Great brain. Fitzgerald, J. D. (Ap '68)

Great Britain

Antiquities

- Ashe, G. Quest for Arthur's Britain. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Rivet, A. L. F., ed. Iron age in Northern Britain. (My '68)

Architecture

See Architecture, English

Church history

- Aston, M. Thomas Arundel. (Ag '68)
 Hart, A. T. Man in the pew, 1558-1660. (Ag '68)

Civilization

- Arnold, R. Social history of England, 55 B.C. to A.D. 1215. (Mr '68)
 Cantor, N. F. English, v 1. (Ap '68)
 Clifford, J. L., ed. Man versus society in eighteenth-century Britain. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Frost, D. English. (Ap '68)
 Harris, K. About Britain. (O '68)
 Hynes, S. Edwardian turn of mind. (S '68)
 Ideas and institutions of Victorian Britain. (Ag '68)
 Levine, G., ed. Emergence of Victorian consciousness. (Ap '68)

Colonies

- Braibanti, R., ed. Asian bureaucratic systems emergent from the British imperial tradition. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Burroughs, P. Britain and Australia, 1831-1855. (O '68)
 Gipson, L. H. British empire before the American revolution, v13. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Kirkman, W. P. Unscrambling an empire. (Ag '68)
 McIntyre, W. D. Imperial frontier in the tropics, 1865-75. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Morris, J. Pax Britannica. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Commerce

- Rabb, T. K. Enterprise & empire. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Courts and courtiers

See Courts and courtiers

Defenses

- Preston, R. A. Canada and "imperial defense." (Je '68)
 Rosecrance, R. N. Defense of the realm. (O '68)

Description and travel

- Davies, S. Reverend Samuel Davies abroad. (Ag '68)
 Harris, K. About Britain. (O '68)
 Kamehameha IV. Journal of Prince Alexander Liholiho. (O '68)

Diplomatic and consular service

- Busk, D. Craft of diplomacy. (My '68)
 Lachs, P. S. Diplomatic corps under Charles II & James II. (Ag '68)

Economic conditions

- Caves, R. E. Britain's economic prospects. (D '68)
 Hartwell, R. M., ed. Causes of the industrial revolution in England. (S '68)
 Hill, C. Reformation to industrial revolution. (Ag '68)
 Hobsbaum, E. J. Industry and empire. (N '68)
 Levine, A. L. Industrial retardation in Britain, 1880-1914. (My '68)
 McMillan, J. American take-over of Britain. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Robinson, J. Economics. (Je '68)

Economic policy

- Caves, R. E. Britain's economic prospects. (D '68)
 Dickson, P. G. M. Financial revolution in England. (My '68)
 Hawtrey, R. Incomes and money. (O '68)

Foreign relations

- Catlin, G. E. G. Stronger community. (Mr '68)
 Horn, D. B. Great Britain and Europe in the eighteenth century. (Ap '68)
 Howard, C. Splendid isolation. (Ag '68)
 Lachs, P. S. Diplomatic corps under Charles II & James II. (Ag '68)
 Louis, W. R. Great Britain and Germany's lost colonies, 1914-1919. (Ap '68)
 Northedge, F. S. Troubled giant. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Waltz, K. N. Foreign policy and democratic politics. (Mr '68)

China (People's Republic of China)

- Porter, B. Britain and the rise of Communist China. (Ap '68)

East (Far East)

- Clifford, N. R. Retreat from China. (Ag '68)

France

- Knachel, P. A. England and the Fronde. (Ag '68)

Russia

- Ullman, R. H. Anglo-Soviet relations, 1917-1921, v2. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

United States

- Bourne, K. Britain and the balance of power in North America, 1815-1908. (S '68)
 Merk, F. Oregon question. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Perkins, B. Great rapprochement. (D '68)

History

- Arnold, R. Social history of England, 55 B.C. to A.D. 1215. (Mr '68)
 Bryant, S. Set in a silver sea. (S '68)
 Rabb, T. K. Enterprise & empire. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Rowse, A. L. English spirit [rev ed]. (O '68)
 Webb, R. K. Modern England. (O '68)
 Wheeler-Bennett, J. W. Wreath to Clio. (O '68)

To 1066

- Albertson, C., ed. & tr. Anglo-Saxon saints and heroes. (Ap '68)
 Ashe, G. Quest for Arthur's Britain. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Kirby, D. P. Making of early England. (Ag '68)
 Saklatvala, B. Arthur: Roman Britain's last champion. (Mr '68)

Norman period 1066-1154

- Davis, R. H. C. King Stephen, 1135-1154. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Lancaster and York, 1399-1485

- Hamilton, F. Challenge for a throne. (Ap '68)

Tudors, 1485-1603

- Bridenbaugh, C. Vexed and troubled Englishmen, 1590-1642. (Ag '68)
 Edward VI, King of England. Chronicle and political papers. (Mr '68)
 Parmiter, G. de C. King's great matter. (My '68)

Stuarts, 1603-1714

- Bridenbaugh, C. Vexed and troubled Englishmen, 1590-1642. (Ag '68)

Civil War and Commonwealth, 1642-1660

- Howell, R. Newcastle upon Tyne and the Puritan Revolution. (Mr '68)
 Knachel, P. A. England and the Fronde. (Ag '68)
 Roots, I. Commonwealth and protectorate. (Mr '68)

1714-1837

- Brown, P. Chathamites. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Gipson, L. H. British empire before the American revolution, v13. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Werkmeister, L. Newspaper history of England, 1792-1793. (O '68)

1714-1837—Sources

- George III, King of Great Britain. Later correspondence of George III, v3-4. (O '68)

19th century

- Bentley, N. Victorian scene. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Croker, J. W. Croker papers, 1808-1857 [new & abr ed]. (Mr '68)
 Hartwell, R. M., ed. Causes of the industrial revolution in England. (S '68)
 Hobsbawm, E. J. Industry and empire. (N '68)
 Levine, G., ed. Emergence of Victorian consciousness. (Ap '68)
 Morris, J. Pax Britannica. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Seminar on the theory of economic change, University of Edinburgh, 1965. Social theory and economic change. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

19th century—Sources

- Pike, E. R. "Golden times." (Ap '68)

20th century

- Gilbert, B. B. Britain since 1918. (D '68)
 Kirkman, W. P. Unscrambling an empire. (Ag '68)
 Marwick, A. Britain in the century of total war: war, peace and social change, 1900-1967. (O '68)
 Medlicott, W. N. Contemporary England, 1914-1964. (Ap '68)

History, Military

- Bond, B., ed. Victorian military campaigns. (Ag '68)

History, Naval

- Graham, G. S. Great Britain in the Indian Ocean. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Industries

- Levine, A. L. Industrial retardation in Britain, 1880-1914. (My '68)

History

- Hobsbawm, E. J. Industry and empire. (N '68)

Intellectual life

- Fyvel, T. R. Intellectuals today. (Ag '68)
 Himmelfarb, G. Victorian minds. (Je '68)
 Nicolson, H. Diaries and letters; v3, The later years, 1945-1962. (S '68)

Military policy

- Rosecrance, R. N. Defense of the realm. (O '68)

Moral conditions

- Leach, E. Runaway world? (O '68)

Politics and government

- Beattie, J. M. English court in the reign of George I. (Ag '68)
 Cantor, N. F. English. v 1. (Ap '68)
 Ginter, D. E., ed. Whig organization in the general election of 1790. (Je '68)
 Hill, C. Reformation to industrial revolution. (Ag '68)
 Holmes, G. British politics in the age of Anne. (My '68)
 Kemp, S. Sir Francis Dashwood: an eighteenth century independent. (Mr '68)
 Lloyd, T. General election of 1880. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Nordlinger, E. A. Working-class Tories. (N '68)
 Pulzer, P. G. J. Political representation and elections. (My '68)
 Schoenfeld, M. P. Restored House of Lords. (My '68)
 Wiseman, H. V., comp. Parliament and the executive. (Mr '68)

Tudors, 1485-1603

- Rae, T. I. Administration of the Scottish frontier, 1513-1603. (Ag '68)

1714-1837

- Bartlett, C. J. Castlereagh. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Cone, C. B. English Jacobins. (N '68)
 O'Gorman, F. Whig party and the French revolution. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

19th century

- Anderson, O. Liberal state at war. (Ag '68)
 Cowling, M. 1867: Disraeli, Gladstone and revolution. (My '68)
 Vincent, J. R. Pollbooks. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

1837-1901

- Kitson Clark, G. S. R. Expanding society. (O '68)

20th century

- Chester, L. Zinoviev letter. (Ag '68)
 Fairlie, H. Life of politics. (Ag '68)
 Jenkins, R. Essays and speeches. (Je '68)
 Jenkins, R. Mr Balfour's poodle. (O '68)
 Macmillan, H. Blast of war, 1939-1945. (Mr '68)
 Nicolson, H. Diaries and letters; v3, The later years, 1945-1962. (S '68)
 Thomson, G. M. Vote of censure. (Ag '68)

1945-

- Crick, B., ed. Essays on reform, 1967. (N '68)

Relations (general) with India

- Hutchins, F. G. Illusion of permanence. (Je '68)
 Swinson, A. North-West frontier. (Je '68)

Religion

- Martin, D. Sociology of English religion. (S '68)
 Smith, W. S. London heretics, 1870-1914. (Je '68)

Social conditions

- Bridenbaugh, C. Vexed and troubled Englishmen, 1590-1642. (Ag '68)
 Bryant, A. Set in a silver sea. (S '68)
 Davies, H. Other halves. (Ag '68)
 Hill, C. Reformation to industrial revolution. (Ag '68)
 Hilton, R. H. Medieval society. (S '68)
 Leach, E. Runaway world? (O '68)
 Lubove, R., ed. Social welfare in transition. (My '68)
 Marwick, A. Britain in the century of total war: war, peace and social change, 1900-1967. (O '68)
 Pike, E. R. "Golden times." (Ap '68)
 Rothblatt, S. Revolution of the dons. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Williams, G. R. Coming of the welfare state. (Ag '68)

Social life and customs

- Bentley, N. Victorian scene. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hart, A. T. Man in the pew, 1558-1660. (Ag '68)
 Perrott, R. Aristocrats. (N '68)

Social policy

- Gilbert B. B. Evolution of national insurance in Great Britain. (S '68)
 Great Britain and Europe in the eighteenth century. Horn, D. B. (Ap '68)
 Great Britain and Germany's lost colonies, 1914-1919. Louis, W. R. (Ap '68)
 Great Britain and the War of 1914-1918. Woodward, L. (Je '68)
 Great Britain. Army

Military life

- Baynes, J. Morale. (O '68)
 Great Britain. Army. Cameronians (Scottish Rifles) 2nd Battalion
 Baynes, J. Morale. (O '68)
 Great Britain in the Indian Ocean. Graham, G. S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Great Britain. Ministry of Health
 Forsyth, G. Doctors and state medicine. (Je '68)
 Great Britain. Naval Intelligence Division
 McLachlan, D. Room 39. (O '68)
 Great Britain. Parliament
 Wiseman, H. V., comp. Parliament and the executive. (Mr '68)
 Great Britain. Parliament. House of Lords
 Schoenfeld, M. P. Restored House of Lords. (My '68)
 Great Britain. Royal Air Force
 Thetford, O. Aircraft of the Royal air force since 1918 [4th rev ed.]. (Ag '68)
 Great cities of Canada. May, C. P. (Je '68)
 Great conductors. Schonberg, H. C. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Great conspiracy. Chidsey, D. B. (Ag '68)
 Great crime busters. Hynd, A. (Ap '68)
 Great dialogues of Plato [rev ed.]. Plato. (Ap '68)
 Great duchess. Butler, I. (Ag '68)
 Great economists. Marshall, H. D. (Ag '68)
 Great films. Crowther, B. (Mr '68)
 Great interiors. Grant, I., ed. (Ap '68)
 Great international paper airplane book. Mander, J. (My '68)
 Great leaders of Greece and Rome. Cottrell, L. (My '68)
 Great monkey trial. De Camp, L. S. (Mr '68)
 Great One. Roland, N. (S '68)
 Great rage of Philip Hotz. Frisch, M. (In his Three plays). (Ag '68)
 Great rapprochement. Perkins, B. (D '68)
 Great rebellion: 1642-1660. Eng title of: Commonwealth and protectorate. Roots, I. (Mr '68)
 Great revolt and its leaders. Beals, C. (N '68)
 Great society? Gross, B. M., ed. (Ag '68)
 Great society reader. Gettleman, M. E., ed. (Mr '68)
 Great spy race. Diment, A. (Ag '68)
 Great structures of the world. Klein, H. A. (N '68)
 Great terror. Conquest, R. (D '68)
 Great true spy stories. Dulles, A., ed. (My '68)
 Great waters. Hardy, A. (My '68)
 Great works of craftsmanship. Lister, R. (O '68)
 Greater London. Martin, J. E. (Ap '68)
 Greatest aces. Sims, E. H. (Ag '68)
 Greatest gamble. Hansson, P. (Mr '68)
 Greatest treason. Thompson, L. (Ag '68)

Greece*Antiquities

- Hawkes, J. Dawn of the gods. (D '68)
 McDonald, W. A. Progress into the past. (Ap '68)
 Morrison, J. S. Greek oared ships, 900-322 B.C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Parke, H. W. Oracles of Zeus. (D '68)
 Philippaki, B. Attic stamnos. (Ag '68)
 Snodgrass, A. M. Arms and armour of the Greeks. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

- Price, C. Made in ancient Greece. (Mr '68)

Biography*Juvenile literature

- Cottrell, L. Great leaders of Greece and Rome. (My '68)

History

- Lévêque, P. Greek adventure. (D '68)
 Spellos, T. Pictorial history of Greece. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Sources

- Bruce, I. A. F. Historical commentary on the 'Hellenica oxyrhynchia.' (S '68)

Religion

- Parke, H. W. Oracles of Zeus. (D '68)

Social life and customs

- Lacey, W. K. Family in classical Greece. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Greece, Medieval, 323-1453. See Byzantine Empire

- Greece, Modern

Description and travel

- Beer, E. S. Marvelous Greece. (My '68)

Views

- Kerényi, C. Greece in color [new ed]. (My '68)

History

- Spellos, T. Pictorial history of Greece. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

German occupation, 1940-1945

- Argenti, P. P. Occupation of Chios by the Germans and their administration of the island. (My '68)

Politics and government

- Rousseas, S. Death of a democracy. (Ap '68)
 Greece in color [new ed]. Kerényi, C. (My '68)
 Greek adventure. Lévêque, P. (D '68)
 Greek Church. See Orthodox Eastern Church
 Greek cook book. Skoura, S. (Mr '68)

Greek literature*History and criticism

- Baldry, H. C. Ancient Greek literature in its living context. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual) Greek oared ships, 900-322 B.C. Morrison, J. S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Greek Orthodox church. Constantelos, D. J. (Ap '68)
 Greek papyri. Turner, E. G. (O '68)
 Greek philosophical terms. Peters, F. E. (O '68)

Greek poetry*Collections

- Greek anthology. Selections from the Greek anthology. (D '68)
 Greek pottery in the bronze age. Lacy, A. D. (Ag '68)
 Greek terracottas. Higgins, R. A. (My '68)
 Greeks. Andrewes, A. (Mr '68)
 Green Bay, Wisconsin. Football club (National League)
 Kramer, J. Instant replay. (N '68)
 Green children. Crossley-Holland, K. (S '68)
 Green corn moon. Lanning, G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Green Count of Savoy. Cox, E. L. (O '68)
 Green says go. Emberley, E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Green thumb book of indoor gardening. Abraham, G. (Mr '68)
 Greenaway, K. Kate Greenaway treasury. (My '68)

Greenbaum, Edward S.

- Greenbaum, E. S. Lawyer's job: In court, in the Army, in the office. (Ap '68)

- Greenbones. Williams, V. (Mr '68)

Greenland*Discovery and exploration

- Frstrup, B. Greenland ice cap. (My '68)
 Greenland ice cap. Frstrup, B. (My '68)
 Greensleeves. McGraw, E. J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Greenwich Village, New York (City)

- Delaney, E. T. New York's Greenwich Village. (D '68)

Gregg, Alan

- Penfield, W. Difficult art of giving. (Mr '68)
 Grey Horse legacy. Hunt, J. (N '68)

Grieve, Christopher Murray

- MacDarmid, H. Company I've kept. (Je '68)

Grimaldi, Joseph

- Grimaldi, J. Memoirs of Joseph Grimaldi. (S '68)

Grimké, Angelina Emily

- Lerner, G. Grimké sisters from South Carolina. (Ap '68)

Grimké, Sarah Moore

- Lerner, G. Grimké sisters from South Carolina. (Ap '68)

- Grimké sisters from South Carolina. Lerner, G. (Ap '68)

Grimm, John Charles

- Grimm, C. Jolly Cholly's story: Baseball I love you! (O '68)

Grooming, Personal

- Ford, E. Ellen Ford's Book of model beauty. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Group counseling and psychotherapy with adolescents. MacLennan, B. W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Growing up black. David, J., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Growing up straight. Wyden, P. (N '68)

Growth

- Arnstein, H. S. Your growing child and sex. (Mr '68)

- Milne, L. J. Ages of life. (O '68)

- Growth and structural change in the Egyptian economy. Mead, D. C. (Je '68)

- Guaranteed society. Baker, L. (N '68)

Guatemala*Description and travel

- Rodman, S. Guatemala traveler. (O '68)

History

- Rodman, S. Guatemala traveler. (O '68)

Dictionaries

- Moore, R. E. Historical dictionary of Guatemala. (S '68)

- Guatemala traveler. Rodman, S. (O '68)

- Guerillas. Campbell, A. (Ag '68)

Guerrilla warfare

- Campbell, A. Guerillas. (Ag '68)

- Debray, R. Revolution in the revolution? (Mr '68)

- Guevara, E. Complete Bolivian diaries of Ché Guevara. (N '68)

- Guest for the night. Agnon, S. Y. (Je '68)

- Guevara, Che. See Guevara, E.

Guevara, Ernesto

- Guevara, E. Complete Bolivian diaries of Ché Guevara. (N '68)

- Guevara, E. Episodes of the revolutionary war. (O '68)

- Guevara, E. Reminiscences of the Cuban revolutionary war. (Je '68)

- Guevara, E. Venceremos! (Ag '68)

- Rojas, R. My friend Ché. (D '68)

Guggenheim, Peggy, collection

- Calas, N. Peggy Guggenheim collection of modern art. (Ag '68)

Guggenheim family

- Hoyt, E. P. Guggenheims and the American dream. (S '68)

- Guggenheims and the American dream. Hoyt, E. P. (S '68)

Guggisberg, Sir Frederick Gordon

- Wraith, R. E. Guggisberg. (Ap '68)

Guiana

- Waddell, D. A. G. West Indies & the Guianas. (N '68)

Guicciardini, Francesco

- Ridolfi, R. Life of Francesco Guicciardini. (O '68)

- Guide to American graduate schools. Livesey, H. B. (My '68)

- Guide to art museums in the United States. Christensen, E. O. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Guide to Finnish architecture. Richards, J. M. (S '68)

- Guide to gymnastics. Musker, F. F. (O '68)

- Guide to modern medical care. Klotz, S. D. (Ag '68)

- Guide to Negro history in America. Drotning, P. T. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Guide to opportunities for education, training, and research in the sciences. Field, S. (Ag '68)

- Guide to reading Piaget. Brearley, M. (My '68)

- Guide to the laser. Fishlock, D., ed. (Ag '68)

Guide to the theatre and drama collections at the University of Texas. Hunter, F. J., comp. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Guiding your child from 2 to 5. Jones, M. M. (S '68)
Guilt and sin in traditional China. Eberhard, W. (My '68)

Guinea
Morrow, J. H. First American ambassador to Guinea. (N '68)

Guiteau, Charles Julius
Rosenberg, C. E. Trial of the assassin Guiteau. (O '68)

Guityry, Sacha
Harding, J. Sacha Guityry: the last boulevardier. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Gulliver's troubles; or, The setting of American foreign policy. Hoffmann, S. (S '68)

Gunner, Stevens, W. (S '68)

Gurion, David Ben-. See Ben-Gurion, D.

Gurney, Edmund
Gauld, A. Founders of psychical research. (D '68)

Guthrie, Woody
Guthrie, W. Bound for glory. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Gymnastics
Musker, F. F. Guide to gymnastics. (O '68)

H. A. R. the autobiography of Father Reinhold. Reinhold, H. A. (Ap '68)

H. L. Mencken's Smart set criticism. Mencken, H. L. (N '68)

Haber, Fritz
Goran, M. Story of Fritz Haber. (My '68)

Hadassah-University Medical Center, Jerusalem. Synagogue

Chagall M. Jerusalem windows [rev ed]. (Ag '68)

Hagia Sophia. Kähler, H. (Ap '68)

Hall, hero! Weston, J. (Ap '68)

Hair
Sassoon, V. Sorry I kept you waiting, madam. (Ag '68)

Haiti
Cole, H. Christophe: king of Haiti. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

History
Logan, R. W. Haiti and the Dominican Republic. (N '68)

Haiti and the Dominican Republic. Logan, R. W. (N '68)

Halifax, Charles Wood, 1st Viscount
Moore, R. J. Sir Charles Wood's Indian policy, 1853-66. (Mr '68)

Hall-marks
Flynt, H. N. Heritage foundation collection of silver. (O '68)

Hall of mirrors. Stone, R. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Hallucinogenic drugs
Leary, T. High priest. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Leary, T. Politics of ecstasy. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Masters, R. E. L. Psychedelic art. (N '68)

Hals, Frans
Descargues, P. Hals. (S '68)

Hamburg-American Lines
Cecil, L. Albert Ballin. (Ap '68)

Hamilton, Alice
Juvenile literature

Grant, M. P. Alice Hamilton: pioneer doctor in industrial medicine. (Je '68)

Hamish Hamilton book of heroes. Eng title of: William Mayne's book of heroes. Mayne, W., ed. (Ag '68)

Hammering. Eng title of: An innocent greed. Troop, R. (D '68)

Hammond panoramic world atlas. Geographical projects. (Ap '68)

Hand
Sorell, W. Story of the human hand. (Je '68)

Hand of Mordechai. Larkin, M. (O '68)

Handbook of American resources for African studies. Duignan, P. (Mr '68)

Handbook of business administration. Maynard, H. B., ed. (My '68)

Handbook of living primates. Napier, J. R. (Je '68)

Handbook of music terms. Grant P. (S '68)

Handbook of new nations. Percy, G. E. (Ag '68)

Handbook of physics [2d ed]. Condon, E. U., ed. (O '68)

Handbook of world history. Dunner, J., ed. (Ag '68)

Handicraft
Juvenile literature

Helfman, H. Fun with your fingers. (S '68)

Hands that help. Dodge, B. S. (Mr '68)

Hang-up. Ross, S. (Je '68)

Hannibal
Juvenile literature

Webb, R. N. Hannibal. (Ag '68)

Hannibal. Webb, R. N. (Ag '68)

Happening at Lourdes. Neame, A. (My '68)

Happiness
Getty, J. P. Golden age. (Ag '68)

McGill, V. J. Idea of happiness. (My '68)

Happy Christmas. Seymour, W. K., comp. (D '68)

Happy ending. Detre, J. (Mr '68)

Happy families. Maloff S. (O '68)

Happy hunting ground. Russ, M. (Je '68)

Happy lion's holiday. Eng title of: Happy lion's vacation. Fatio, L. (Ap '68)

Happy lion's vacation. Fatio, L. (Ap '68)

Harbors
Carse, R. Ports of call. (Mr '68)

Harcourt Brace intermediate dictionary. (Ag '68)

Hard-hitting songs for hard-hit people. Lomax, A., comp. (Mr '68)

Hard hours. Hecht, A. (Mr '68)

Hard travellin'. Allsop, K. (My '68)

Hardenburg, Walter Ernest
Collier, R. River that God forgot. (Je '68)

Hardy, Thomas
Howe, I. Thomas Hardy. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Lerner, L., ed. Thomas Hardy and his readers. (O '68)

Hargis, Billy James
Redekop, J. H. American far right. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Harlem, New York (City)
Riot, 1964

Nelson, T. Torture of mothers. (O '68)

Harlin, John
Ullman, J. R. Straight up. (O '68)

Harnack, Adolf von
Pauck, W. Harnack and Troeltsch. (N '68)

Harnack and Troeltsch. Pauck, W. (N '68)

Harper encyclopedia of science [rev ed]. (Je '68)

Harper, firm, publishers, New York
Exman, E. House of Harper. (Ap '68)

Harper's bazaar. Trahey, J., ed. (Ap '68)

Harriet and the promised land. Lawrence, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Harry S. Truman and the Russians, 1945-1953. Druks, H. (Ap '68)

Hartshorne, Charles
James, R. E. Concrete God. (D '68)

Harvest of Russian children's literature. Morton, M., ed. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Harvest of the sea. Bardach, J. (My '68)

Harvesters' vase. O'Gorman, N. (Je '68)

Harvests of change: American literature, 1865-1914. Martin, J. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Harvey, William
Pagel, W. William Harvey's biological ideas. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature
Harrison, W. C. Dr William Harvey and the discovery of circulation. (Mr '68)

Hatch and grow. Green I. (Ag '68)

Haunted woman. Friedman, S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Hautzig, Esther (Rudomin)
Juvenile literature

Hautzig, E. Endless steppe. (Ag '68)

Have I ever lied to you? Buchwald, A. (Je '68)

Hawaii: music in its history. Hausman, R. L. (D '68)

Hawaiian anthology. Judd, G. P., ed. (Mr '68)

Hawaiian Islands
Judd, G. P., ed. Hawaiian anthology. (Mr '68)

Description and travel
Gibbons, E. Euell Gibbons' Beachcomber's handbook. (Mr '68)

History
Kuykendall, R. S. Hawaiian kingdom. (N '68)

Wyndette, O. Islands of destiny. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature
Hausman, R. L. Hawaii: music in its history. (D '68)

- Hawaiian kingdom. Kuykendall, R. S. (N '68)
 Hawks, Howard
 Wood, R. Howard Hawks. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hawkweed. Goodman, P. (Mr '68)
 Hawthorne, Nathaniel
 Tharpe, J. Nathaniel Hawthorne: identity and knowledge. (O '68)
 Hayes, Helen
 Hayes, H. On reflection. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hayes, Rutherford Birchard

Juvenile literature

- Robinson, L. Stolen election. (N '68)
 Hazlitt, Margaret
 Hazlitt, M. Journal of Margaret Hazlitt. (N '68)
 Health education
 Feldman, J. J. Dissemination of health information. (Ag '68)
 Health manpower in a developing economy: Taiwan, a case study in planning. Baker, T. D. (N '68)
 Health resorts, spas, etc.
 Jones, B. M. Health-seekers in the Southwest, 1817-1900. (Ag '68)
 Health-seekers in the Southwest, 1817-1900. Jones, B. M. (Ag '68)
 Hear America singing. Attaway, W. (N '68)
 Hear your heart. Showers, P. (Ag '68)
 Heart
 Hawthorne, P. Transplanted heart. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

- Showers, P. Hear your heart. (Ag '68)
 Heart-keeper. Sagan, F. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Heart of a dog. Bulgakov, M. (S '68)
 Heart of the atom. Cohen, B. L. (Ag '68)
 Heaven help us! Tarr, H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hebrew goddess. Patai, R. (Je '68)
 Hebrew people. Kamm, J. (Ag '68)
 Hebrew poetry

Collections

- Penueli, S. Y., comp. Anthology of modern Hebrew poetry, 2v. (My '68)
 Whitman, R. comp. & tr. Anthology of modern Yiddish poetry [bilingual ed.]. (Ag '68)
 Hegel, Georg Wilhelm Friedrich
 Fackenheim, E. L. Religious dimension in Hegel's thought. (N '68)
 Heinsheimer, Hans Walter
 Heinsheimer, H. W. Best regards to Aida. (D '68)
 Heir apparent. Shannon, W. V. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Helland, Helland. (Je '68)
 Helium
 Seibel, C. W. Helium. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hell or high water. Sheldon, W. (Ag '68)
 Hellenica oxyrhynchia
 Bruce, I. A. F. Historical commentary on the 'Hellenica oxyrhynchia.' (S '68)
 Help for today's troubled marriages. Fisher, E. O. (O '68)
 Helpful microorganisms. Lapedes, D. N. (N '68)
 Helter-skelter. Moyes, P. (Ag '68)
 Hemingway, Ernest
 Gurko, L. Ernest Hemingway and the pursuit of heroism. (D '68)
 Hemingway, E. By-line: Ernest Hemingway. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Bibliography

- Hanneman, A. Ernest Hemingway. (S '68)
 Henrietta who? Aird, C. (S '68)
 Henry V, King of England
 Hutchison, H. F. King Henry V. (Mr '68)
 Henry VIII, King of England
 Parmiter, G. de C. King's great matter. (My '68)
 Scarisbrick, J. J. Henry VIII. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Henry Fielding, the tentative realist. Irwin, M. (Mr '68)
 Henry V. Eng title of: King Henry V. Hutchison, H. F. (Mr '68)
 Henry James: the critical heritage. Gard, R., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Henryson, Robert
 MacQueen, J. Robert Henryson. (Ag '68)
 Henslow, John Stevens
 Darwin, C. R. Darwin and Henslow. (Ap '68)
 Heraldry
 Franklyn, J. Heraldry. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Here comes Thursday! Bond, M. (Je '68)

Heredity

- Engel, L. New genetics. (O '68)
 Osborn, F. Future of human heredity. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Sullivan, N. Message of the genes. (Ag '68)

Heresies and heretics

- Leff, G. Heresy in the later middle ages: the relation of heterodoxy to dissent, c. 1250-c. 1450, 2v. (Ag '68)
 Heresy in the later middle ages: the relation of heterodoxy to dissent, c. 1250-c. 1450, 2v. Leff, G. (Ag '68)

Heritage foundation collection of silver. Flynt, H. N. (O '68)

- Hermann Hesse: his mind and art. Boulby, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Hermeneutics

- Kitagawa, J. M., ed. History of religions. (Ap '68)

Herodotus

- Immerwahr, H. R. Form and thought in Herodotus. (O '68)

Heroes

Juvenile literature

- Churchill, W. Heroes of history. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Heroes of history. Churchill, W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Heroic Mexico. Johnson, W. W. (N '68)
 Heroin
 Moscow, A. Merchants of heroin. (D '68)
 Herrnhut, Germany

History

- Golln, G. L. Moravians in two worlds. (Ap '68)

Herschel, Sir William

Juvenile literature

- Crawford D. King's astronomer: William Herschel. (Ag '68)

Herzen, Alexander

- Herzen, A. My past and thoughts. 4v. (S '68)

Hesse, Hermann

- Boulby, M. Hermann Hesse: his mind and art. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Heyerdahl, Thor

- Jacoby, A. Señor Kon-Tiki. (Mr '68)
 Hicksite separation. Doherty, R. W. (O '68)
 Hidden dimension. Hall, E. T. (Ag '68)
 Hidden Shakespeare. Jameson, T. (S '68)
 Hierarchy and democracy in Australia, 1788-1870. Suttor, T. L. (My '68)

Hieroglyphics

- Gordon, C. H. Forgotten scripts. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Higginbottom, Sam

- Hess, G. R. Sam Higginbottom of Allahabad. (My '68)

Higginson, Thomas Wentworth

- Meyer, H. N. Colonel of the black regiment. (My '68)

- High adventure. Manley, S., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- High energy physics. Hellman, H. (D '68)

- High house. Arundel, H. (N '68)

- High king. Alexander, L. (Je '68)

- High on the walls. Pickard, T. (O '68)

- High priest. Leary, T. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- High renaissance. Murray, L. (Mr '68)

- High risk/high gain. Weiss, A. (O '68)

High schools

- Nordstrom, C. Society's children: a study of resentment in the secondary school. (My '68)

- High times and hard times. Harris, G. W. (S '68)

- Higher education in the South. Wiggins, S. P. (Ag '68)

- Higher learning in America: a reassessment. Woodring P. (O '68)

- Highland clans. Moncreiffe of that Ilk, I. (Ap '68)

- Highrise building and urban design. Aregger, H. (Je '68)

- Highways across waterways. Gramet, C. (My '68)

- Hilltop in hazard. Rider, A. (Ag '68)

Hindley, Myra

- Williams, E. Beyond belief. (Ap '68)

- Hindu scriptures. Zaehner, R. C., ed. & tr. (Mr '68)

Hindu sects

See also

Sahajiyā

- Hindu tradition. Embree, A. T., ed. (Mr '68)

Hinduism

- Embree, A. T., ed. Hindu tradition. (Mr '68)
 Singer, M., ed. Krishna: myths, rites, and attitudes. (Je '68)
 Zaehner, R. C., ed. & tr. Hindu scriptures. (Mr '68)

Hine, Lewis Wickes

- Gutman, J. M. Lewis W. Hine and the American social conscience. (S '68)

Hippie trip. Yablonsky, L. (O '68)Hiroshima*Bombardment, 1945

- Lifton, R. J. Death in life. (Ap '68)
 Marx, J. L. Seven hours to zero. (N '68)
 His toy, his dream, his rest. Berryman, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Histoire, Simon, C. (O '68)
 Historian's progress. Nichols, R. F. (O '68)
 Historical atlas of China [new ed]. Herrmann, A. (Mr '68)
 Historical atlas of music. Collaer, P. (S '68)
 Historical commentary on the 'Hellenica oxyrhynchia.' Bruce I. A. F. (S '68)
 Historical consciousness. Lukacs, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Historical dictionary of Guatemala. Moore, R. E. (S '68)
 Historical geography of Western Europe before 1800. Smith, C. T. (Ag '68)
 Historical letters. Lavrov, P. (Ap '68)
 Historical scholarship in the United States. Holt, W. S. (My '68)

Historiography

- Burns, E. B., ed. Perspectives on Brazilian history. (Je '68)
 Droysen, J. G. Outline of the principles of history. (N '68)
 Elton, G. R. Practice of history. (O '68)
 Gabel, C., ed. Reconstructing African culture history. (O '68)
 Gipson, L. H. British empire before the American revolution, v13. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Holt, W. S. Historical scholarship in the United States (My '68)
 Joint committee on bibliographical services to history. Bibliography and the historian. (N '68)
 Kitson Clark, G. Critical historian. (Mr '68)
 Levin, D. In defense of historical literature. (Mr '68)
 Starr, C. G. Awakening of the Greek historical spirit. (Ag '68)

History*Dictionaries

- Dunner, J., ed. Handbook of world history. (Ag '68)
 Worldmark encyclopedia of the nations, 5v [3d ed]. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Philosophy

- Durant, W. Lessons of history. (O '68)
 Gunnell, J. G. Political philosophy and time. (O '68)
 Lichtheim, G. Concept of ideology. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Lukacs, J. Historical consciousness. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Stover, R. Nature of historical thinking. (Mr '68)

Study and teaching

- Krug, M. M. History and the social sciences. (Je '68)
 Roucek, J. S., ed. Teaching of history. (Ap '68)

History (Theology)

- Balthasar, H. U. von. Theological anthropology. (N '68)
 Patterson, L. G. God and history in early Christian thought. (Mr '68)

History, Ancient

- Bickerman, E. J. Chronology of the ancient world. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Caldwell, W. E. Ancient world [3d ed]. (Mr '68)

History, Modern

- Bourne, K., ed. Studies in international history. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Krieger, L., ed. Responsibility of power. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

20th century

- Eisenberg, D. Re-emergence of fascism. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 McNeill, W. H. Contemporary world 1914/present. (N '68)
 Mayer, A. J. Politics and diplomacy of peace-making. (Ap '68)
 Mowrer, E. A. Triumph and turmoil. (N '68)
 Murrow, E. R. In search of light. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Mydans, C. Violent peace. (Ag '68)

- Overseas press club of America. How I got that story. (Ap '68)
 Sanger, R. H. Insurgent era. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Seabury, P. Rise and decline of the cold war. (Je '68)
 Stone, I. F. In a time of torment. (Mr '68)
 Watt, D. C. History of the world in the twentieth century. (Je '68)
 Yost, C. Insecurity of nations. (My '68)
 History and philosophy of the metaphysical movements in America. Judah, J. S. (Ap '68)
 History and the social sciences. Krug, M. M. (Je '68)
 History in children's books. Sutherland, Z., comp. (Ap '68)
 History of analytical chemistry. Szabadváry, F. (Ap '68)
 History of Anglo-Latin literature, 597-1066 v 1. Bolton, W. F. (S '68)
 History of British music. Young, P. M. (My '68)
 History of Burma. Htin Aung, M. (N '68)
 History of Christian thought [2d rev ed]. Tillich, P. (D '68)
 History of economic relations between Russia and China. Sladkovskii, M. I. (Ag '68)
 History of ethics. Bourke, V. J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 History of four-footed beasts and serpents and insects, 3v. Topsell, E. (Mr '68)
 History of Germany since 1789. Mann, G. (Ag '68)
 History of Greek and Roman philosophy. Hackney, J. (Mr '68)
 History of human society series:
 Andrewes, A. The Greeks. (Mr '68)
 History of Jewish costume. Rubens, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 History of mankind, v6. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 History of medieval Ireland. Otway-Ruthven, A. J. (N '68)
 History of Negro education in the South. Bullock, H. A. (Je '68)
 History of politics and society to 1760; v 1 of The English. Cantor, N. F. (Ap '68)
 History of popular culture. Cantor, N. F., ed. (S '68)
 History of Protestantism, v 1. Léonard, É. G. (Ag '68)
 History of religions. Kitagawa, J. M., ed. (Ap '68)
 History of Russian music. Seaman, G. R. (O '68)
 History of serpents; v2 of The history of four-footed beasts and serpents and insects. Topsell, E. (Mr '68)
 History of Sino-Indian relations. Rowland J. (Ag '68)
 History of Sumatra [3d ed]. Marsden, W. (Mr '68)
 History of the adventures of Joseph Andrews and of his friend Mr Abraham Adams. See Fielding, H. Joseph Andrews. (Mr '68)
 History of the atomic bomb. American heritage. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 History of the cold war. Fontaine, A. (Ag '68)
 History of the International, v2. Braunthal, J. (Ap '68)
 History of the Jesuits. Eng title of: The Jesuits. Hollis, C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 History of the Pulitzer prize plays. Toohey, J. L. (O '68)
 History of the Royal academy, 1768-1968. Hutchison, S. C. (N '68)
 History of the Santee Sioux. Meyer, R. W. (N '68)
 History of the Second Seminole War, 1835-1842. Mahon, J. K. (N '68)
 History of the Spanish stage. Shergold, N. D. (Mr '68)
 History of the United States of America during the administrations of Jefferson and Madison [abr]. Adams, H. (My '68)
 History of the world in the twentieth century. Watt, D. C. (Je '68)
 History of urban America. Glaab, C. N. (Mr '68)
 History of warfare. Montgomery of Alamein, B. L. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual) History was buried [rev ed]. Wheeler, M. (Ag '68)
 Hitchcock, Alfred Joseph
 Truffaut, F. Hitchcock. (Mr '68)
 Hitler, Adolf
 Bezymenski, L. Death of Adolf Hitler. (N '68)
 Deutsch, H. C. Conspiracy against Hitler in the twilight war. (S '68)
 Friedländer, S. Prelude to downfall: Hitler and the United States, 1939-1941. (Mr '68)

Hitler, Adolf—Continued*Juvenile literature

- Elliott, B. J. Hitler and Germany. (O '68)
 Hitler and Germany. Elliott, B. J. (O '68)
 Hitler's last gamble. Nobécourt, J. (Mr '68)

Ho Chi Minh

- Lacouture, J. Ho Chi Minh. (S '68)

Hoffer, Eric

- Tomkins, C. Eric Hoffer. (D '68)

Hoffman, William S.

- Hoffman, W. S. Loser. (Ag '68)

Hokusai*Juvenile literature

- Ripley, E. Hokusai. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hokusai. Ripley, E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Holborn, Halo
 Krieger, L., ed. Responsibility of power. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hold my hand I'm dying. Davis, J. G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hole in the zero. Joseph, M. K. (Ag '68)

Holland, Henry

- Stroud, D. Henry Holland. (Mr '68)

Holloway John

- Holloway, J. London childhood. (My '68)

Holmes, Oliver Wendell*Juvenile literature

- Meyer, E. P. That remarkable man: Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. (Mr '68)
 Holocaust. Levin, N. (My '68)
 Holy terror. Mauriac, F. (My '68)
 Home book of Irish humor. McCarthy, J., ed. (Ag '68)
 Home free. Johnston, G. (My '68)
 Home has a heart. Bjorn, T. F. (D '68)
 Home is the North. Morey, W. (Mr '68)
 Home of the learned man. Kosa, J., ed. (D '68)
 Homer. Odyssey of Homer. (Mr '68)
 Homer. Folks, pioneer in social welfare. Trattner, W. L. (S '68)
 Homosexual behavior among males. Churchill, W. (My '68)

Homosexuality

- Churchill, W. Homosexual behavior among males. (My '68)
 Hoffman, M. Gay world. (D '68)
 Wyden, P. Growing up straight. (N '68)
 Honest profit. Baumhart, R. (O '68)
 Honesty and competition. Alexander, G. J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Hong Kong

- Hughes, R. Hong Kong. (Je '68)

Hook, Sidney

- Kurtz, P., ed. Sidney Hook and the contemporary world. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hooked on books: program & proof [new ed.]. Fader, D. N. (D '68)

Hope

- Moltmann, J. Theology of hope. (Ap '68)

- Hope or hindrance? Scarpati, R. (Mr '68)

Hopkins, Constance*Juvenile literature

- Clapp, P. Constance. (Ag '68)
 Horace (Quintus Horatius Flaccus)
 West, D. A. Reading Horace (O '68)
 Horace Walpole's correspondence with Sir Horace Mann, v7-8. Walpole, H. (Je '68)
 Horizon cookbook and illustrated history of eating and drinking through the ages. (D '68)

Hornby, Lesley

- Twiggy Twiggy. (D '68)
 Whiteside, T. Twiggy and Justin. (Ag '68)

- Hornet's nest. Watson, S. (Ag '68)

- Horse of a different color. Moody, R. (D '68)

Horse racing

- Ainslie, T. Ainslie's complete guide to thoroughbred racing. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Downey, F., ed. Races to the swift. (Mr '68)

- Horse talk. Johnson, P. (Ap '68)

- Horse under water. Deighton, L. (Mr '68)

Horsemanship*Juvenile literature

- Johnson, P. Horse talk. (Ap '68)

- Horsemen. Kessel, J. (Ag '68)

Horses*Juvenile literature

- Johnson, P. Horse talk. (Ap '68)
 May, J. Horses. (Ag '68)

Stories

- Burningham, J. Humbert, Mister Firkin & the Lord Mayor of London. (Ag '68)
 Smith, V. Come down the mountain. (O '68)

- Horses. May, J. (Ag '68)

Hospitals

- Duff, R. S. Sickness and society. (O '68)
 Sussman, M. B. Walking patient: a study in outpatient care. (Ag '68)

United States

- Somers, H. M. Medicare and the hospitals. (My '68)
 Ullmann, L. P. Institution and outcome. (Je '68)

- Hotbed of tranquility. Hays, B. (S '68)

- Houghton library, 1942-1967. Houghton library. (Mr '68)

- Hour of last things. Elliott, G. P. (S '68)

- House & garden's new cook book. House and garden (periodical). (Mr '68)

- House made of dawn. Momaday, N. S. (S '68)

- House of bondage. Cole, E. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

- House of Dies Drear. Hamilton, V. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- House of flesh. Wetmore, W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- House of Harper. Exman, E. (Ap '68)

- House on College avenue. Blackwood, J. R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

House plants

- Abraham, G. Green thumb book of indoor gardening. (Mr '68)

- Elbert, G. House plants. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Household capital formation and financing, 1897-1962. Juster, F. T. (Mr '68)

- Houses of Boston's Back Bay. Bunting, B. (Ag '68)

Housing

- International economic association. Economic problems of housing. (D '68)

- Rex, J. Race, community and conflict. (Mr '68)

Houston, Samuel

- Gregory, J. Sam Houston with the Cherokees, 1829-1833. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- How can we still speak responsibly of God? Buri, F. (Je '68)

- How children learn. Holt, J. (Mr '68)

- How Communist China negotiates. Lall, A. (Je '68)

- How fast can it go? Gibson, D. (Mr '68)

- How I got that story. Overseas press club of America. (Ap '68)

- How it happened here. Brownlow, K. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- How many miles to Galena? Bissell, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- How nations behave. Henkin, L. (N '68)

- How the doctors diet. Wyden, P. (Ag '68)

- How the people sang the mountains up. Leach, M. (Mr '68)

- How to be a party girl. Montandon, P. (N '68)

- How to care for your dog. Bethell, J. (My '68)

- How to coach, manage, and play Little league baseball. Einstein, C. (Ag '68)

- How to kill a golden state. Bronson, W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- How to raise a brighter child. Beck, J. (My '68)

- How to raise a superkid. Hesse, E. (S '68)

- How to ski the new French way. Joubert, G. (Ap '68)

- How to turn eighty million workers into capitalists on borrowed money. Kelso, L. O. (Ag '68)

- How to wrap five eggs. Oka, H. (O '68)

- How we choose a president [rev ed.]. Gray, L. L. (Ag '68)

- How we live. Hills, P. C., ed. (O '68)

Howard, Thomas

- Howard, T. Christ the tiger. (Ap '68)

- Howard Hawks. Wood, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Howells, William Dean

- McMurray, W. Literary realism of William Dean Howells. (Mr '68)

- Twain, M. Selected Mark Twain-Howells letters, 1872-1910. (Mr '68)

Hsieh Ling-yün

- Frodsham, J. D. Murmuring stream. 2v. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Hsin-hsing, Taiwan

- Gallin, B. Hsin Hsing, Taiwan: a Chinese village in change. (Ag '68)

- Hsin Hsing, Taiwan: a Chinese village in change. Gallin, B. (Ag '68)

Hubbard, Elbert

- Champney, F. Art & glory. (N '68)

Hubbell, Jay Broadus

- Gohdes, C., ed. Essays on American literature in honor of Jay B. Hubbell. (Je '68)

- Huckleberry Hill. Gemming, E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Hudden and Dudden and Donald O'Neary. Jacobs, J. (N '68)
- Huddersfield, England. Spring Grove School Burgin, T. Spring Grove: the education of immigrant children. (Ap '68)
- Hudibras. Butler, S. (N '68)
- Huecorio
Belshaw, M. Village economy: land and people of Huecorio. (Ap '68)
- Hughes, Charles Evans
Wesser, R. F. Charles Evans Hughes. (O '68)
- Hughes, Howard Robard
Gerber, A. B. Bashful billionaire. (Ap '68)
- Hughes, Langston
Dickinson, D. C. Bio-bibliography of Langston Hughes, 1902-1967. (My '68)
- Emanuel, J. A. Langston Hughes. (Ap '68)
- Juvenile literature
Meltzer, M. Langston Hughes. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Hugo Black and the Supreme court. (Ag '68)
- Huguenots
Kingdon, R. M. Geneva and the consolidation of the French Protestant movement, 1564-1572. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Human aggression. Storr, A. (O '68)
- Human body in equipment design. Damon, A. (Je '68)
- Human documents of the Victorian golden age. Eng title of: "Golden times." Pike, E. R. (Ap '68)
- Human ecology. Bresler, J. B., ed. (Je '68)
- Human engineering
Damon, A. Human body in equipment design. (Je '68)
- Human evolution. Campbell, B. G. (Ap '68)
- Human geography [rev ed]. Jones, E. (Je '68)
- Human guinea pigs. Pappworth, M. H. (My '68)
- Human heart laid bare. Restif de la Bretonne. N. E. See his Monsieur Nicolas. (Mr '68)
- Human organization: its management and value. Likert, R. (O '68)
- Human poems. Vallejo, C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Human relations
Chapman, A. H. Put-offs and come-ons. (O '68)
- Moustakas, C. Authentic teacher. (Ap '68)
- Nordstrom, C. Society's children: a study of resentment in the secondary school. (My '68)
- Richardson, E. Environment of learning. (N '68)
- Swanson, B. E. Struggle for equality. (Mr '68)
- Human sexuality. McCary, J. L. (Ap '68)
- Humanist in Africa. Kaunda, K. D. (Ap '68)
- Humanities
Crane, R. S. Idea of the humanities. 2v. (Je '68)
- Stroup, T. B., ed. Humanities and the understanding of reality. (Je '68)
- Humanities and the understanding of reality. Stroup, T. B., ed. (Je '68)
- Humbert, Mister Firkin & the Lord Mayor of London. Burningham, J. (Ag '68)
- Hummingbird and the hawk. Padden, R. C. (Je '68)
- Hummingbirds
Pictures, illustrations, etc.
Scheithauer, W. Hummingbirds. (Mr '68)
- Hummingbirds. Scheithauer, W. (Mr '68)
- Humor
Adler, B., comp. & ed. Letters to the editor. (My '68)
- Hays, B. Hotbed of tranquility. (S '68)
- Kishon, E. Unfair to Goliath. (Ag '68)
- Linkletter, A. Oops! or, Life's awful moments. (Ap '68)
- Nash, O. There's always another windmill. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Taylor, J. It's a small, medium and outsize world. (Mr '68)
- Humorists
Bier, J. Rise and fall of American humor. (My '68)
- Juvenile literature
Allen, E. S. Famous American humorous poets. (N '68)
- Humphrey, Hubert Horatio
Ryskind, A. H. Hubert. (O '68)
- Sherrill, R. Drugstore liberal. (O '68)
- Humphry Clinker. The expedition of. Smollett, R. (Mr '68)
- Hundred Years' War, 1339-1453
Fowler, K. Age of Plantagenet and Valois. (J '68)
- Froissart, J. Froissart's chronicles; tr. by John Jolliffe. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Hungary
History
Revolution 1918-1919
Tökés, R. L. Béla Kun and the Hungarian Soviet Republic. (Ap '68)
- Revolution, 1956
Sartre, J. P. Ghost of Stalin. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Juvenile literature
Csicsery-Rónay, I. First book of Hungary. (Mr '68)
- Hunting
Africa, East
Cloudsley-Thompson, J. L. Animal twilight. (Ag '68)
- Huntley, Chet
Huntley, C. Generous years. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Hurrah, we're outward bound! (O '68)
- Hurricane years. Hawley, C. (N '68)
- Husband in boarding school. Guareschi, G. (Ap '68)
- Hush Hush Johnson. Gates, N. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Hush little baby. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Husserl, Edmund
Ricoeur, P. Husserl: an analysis of his phenomenology. (S '68)
- Husserl: an analysis of his phenomenology. Ricoeur, P. (S '68)
- Hustlers, beats, and others. Polsky, N. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Hutterian brethren. Bennett, J. W. (S '68)
- Hutterite brethren
Bennett, J. W. Hutterian brethren. (S '68)
- Hutton, Barbara
Jennings, D. Barbara Hutton. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Huxley, Aldous Leonard
Atkins, J. Aldous Huxley [new & rev ed]. (S '68)
- Huxley, L. A. This timeless moment. (O '68)
- Huxley, Elspeth
Huxley, E. Love among the daughters. (N '68)
- Huxley family
Clark, R. W. Huxleys. (Ag '68)
- Huxleys. Clark, R. W. (Ag '68)
- Hydra, Greece
Michaelides, C. E. Hydra: a Greek island town. (N '68)
- Hydra: a Greek island town. Michaelides, C. E. (N '68)
- Hydrospace. Coggins, J. (Mr '68)
- Hygiene
Juvenile literature
Gramet, C. Your health and you. (S '68)
- Hygiene, Sexual. See Sexual hygiene
- Hypnotism
Stearn, J. Search for the girl with the blue eyes. (O '68)
- Hysteria 1964. Lokos, L. (Ag '68)
- i.t.a. symposium. National foundation for educational research in England and Wales. (D '68)
- I accuse. Werstein, I. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- I am Mary Dunne. Moore, B. (O '68)
- I am the darker brother. Adoff, A., ed. (Ag '68)
- I love a Roosevelt. Roosevelt, P. P. (Ap '68)
- "I own the racecourse!" Eng title of: Racecourse for Andy. Wrightson, P. (O '68)
- I saw a ship a-sailing. Mother Goose. (Je '68)
- I stayed in China. Sewell, W. G. (Ag '68)
- Iberia. Michener, J. A. (Je '68)
- Ibn al-Muthannā's commentary on the astronomical tables of al-Khwārizmī. Ibn al-Muthannā, A. (Ap '68)
- Ibn Khaldūn
Fischel, W. J. Ibn Khaldūn in Egypt. (My '68)
- Ibn Khaldūn in Egypt. Fischel, W. J. (My '68)
- Ibsen, Henrik
Grene, D. Reality and the heroic pattern. (N '68)
- Ice-cream headache. Jones, J. (S '68)
- Ice palace. Eng title of: Palace of ice. Vesaas, T. (N '68)
- Iceland
History
Guthmundsson, B. Origin of the Icelanders. (Ap '68)
- Idea of happiness. McGill, V. J. (My '68)

- Idea of progress in classical antiquity. Edelstein, L. (S '68)
- Idea of the humanities, 2v. Crane, R. S. (Je '68)
- Ideals and ideologies. Ellis, H. B. (S '68)
- Ideals and realities of Islam. Nasr, S. H. (S '68)
- Ideas and institutions of Victorian Britain. (Ag '68)
- Ideas and politics of Chilean independence, 1808-1833. Collier, S. (S '68)
- Identity. Erikson, E. H. (Je '68)
- Identity theory of mind. Australasian association of philosophy. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Ideology, politics, and government in the Soviet Union [rev ed]. Armstrong, J. A. (Ap '68)
- Iles du Salut
Rickards, C. Man from Devil's Island. (D '68)
- Ill met by a fish shop on George Street. McShane, M. (Ag '68)
- Illiteracy
Jeffries, Sir C. Illiteracy. (Ag '68)
- Illumination of books and manuscripts
Delaissé, L. M. J. Century of Dutch manuscript illumination. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Ipsiroglu, M. S. Painting and culture of the Mongols. (Mr '68)
- Leroy, J. Ethiopian painting in the late middle ages and during the Gondar dynasty. (S '68)
- Meiss, M. French painting in the time of Jean de Berry, 2v (Ag '68)
- Weber, C. J. Fore-edge painting. (Mr '68)
- Illusion of permanence. Hutchins, F. G. (Je '68)
- Illusions. Maurois, A. (D '68)
- Illustrated glossary of architecture, 850-1830. Harris, J. (S '68)
- Illustrated history of U.S. commemorative coinage. Taxay, D. (Ap '68)
- Illustrated world encyclopedia. (S '68)
- Illustrations of early English popular literature. Collier, J. P., ed. (Ap '68)
- Illustrious immigrants. Fermi, L. (Je '68)
- I'm really dragged but nothing gets me down. Hentoff, N. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Image candidates. Wyckoff, G. (Je '68)
- Imagination and the growth of science. Taylor, A. M. (Ap '68)
- Imagination's new beginning: theology and modern literature. Hoffman, F. J. (Ag '68)
- Imaginocrats. Constable, G. (Je '68)
- Immigrants' influence on Wilson's peace policies. O'Grady, J. P., ed. (N '68)
- Immigration and emigration
Adams, W., ed. Brain drain. (O '68)
- Panagopoulos, E. P. New Smyrna. (Ap '68)
- Imminent rains. Heminway, J. H. (N '68)
- Impact of computers on management. Myers, C. A., ed. (Mr '68)
- Impact of television. Belson, W. A. (My '68)
- Impact of the Russian Revolution, 1917-1967. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Impact of Western man. Woodruff, W. (Mr '68)
- Imperial agent. Richards, G. (My '68)
- Imperial collection of Audubon animals. Audubon, J. J. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Imperial frontier in the tropics, 1867-75. McIntyre, W. D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Imperial Japan's higher civil service examinations. Spaulding, R. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Imperial order. Wesson, R. G. (My '68)
- Imperial sunset. Deiderfeld, R. F. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Imperialism
Belsner, R. L. Twelve against empire. (Je '68)
- Betts, R. F. Europe overseas: phases of imperialism. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Gann, L. H. Burden of empire. (S '68)
- May, E. R. American imperialism. (N '68)
- Wesson, R. G. Imperial order. (My '68)
- Impossible dream. McSweeney, B. (O '68)
- Impossible proof. Nossack, H. E. (Je '68)
- Impossible revolution? Killian, L. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Improbable kangaroo and other Australian animals. Eng title of: Animals of Australia. Poignant, A. (Ag '68)
- Improving college teaching. (My '68)
- Improvised news. Shibutani, T. (Mr '68)
- In a grand and awful time. Carlson, W. H. (N '68)
- In a running brook. Lubell, W. (Ag '68)
- In a time of torment. Stone, I. F. (Mr '68)
- In-between Miya. Uchida, Y. (Mr '68)
- In defense of freedom. Rink, P. (Ag '68)
- In defense of historical literature. Levin, D. (Mr '68)
- In defense of neutral rights. Billingsley, E. B. (Je '68)
- In front of your nose, 1945-1950; v4 of The collected essays, journalism and letters of George Orwell. Orwell, G. (D '68)
- In glad thanksgiving. Masfield, J. (S '68)
- In our time. Douglas, P. H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- In pursuit of Dietrich Bonhoeffer. Kuhns, W. (Ap '68)
- In retreat. Hobsbaum, P. (O '68)
- In Richard's world. Barnwell, W. H. (S '68)
- In search of an audience. Morison, B. G. (N '68)
- In search of light. Murrow, E. R. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- In the balance. White, M. E. (Ap '68)
- In the fist of the revolution. Yglesias, J. (O '68)
- In the heart of the heart of the country. Gass, W. H. (Je '68)
- In the Mecca. Brooks, G. (N '68)
- In the name of America. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- In the park. Hautzig, E. (S '68)
- In the service of man. Casserley, J. V. L. (Ap '68)
- In the shadow of the steeple. Eng title of: Deep South, pt 1. Caldwell, E. (Je '68)
- In the wake of the sea-serpents. Heuvelmans, B. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Incas
Brundage, B. C. Lords of Cuzco. (O '68)
- Juvenile literature
Glubok, S. Fall of the Incas. (Ap '68)
- Inchon, Korea
Sheldon, W. Hell or high water. (Ag '68)
- Incident at Boris Gleb. Copp, D. S. (My '68)
- Incident at Muc Wa. Ford, D. (Ap '68)
- Income
Green, C. Negative taxes and the poverty problem. (S '68)
- Palmer, E. Z. Meaning and measurement of the national income, and of other social accounting aggregates. (Mr '68)
- Income and employment in the Southeast. McGee, L. R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Incomes and money. Hawtrey, R. (O '68)
- Inconsolable memories. Desnoes, E. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Incredible Deborah. Cheney, C. (My '68)
- Incredible detective. Caesar, G. (N '68)
- Incredible victory. Lord, W. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Independent Africa. Gower, L. C. B. (Ag '68)
- Independent regulatory commissions
Cary, W. L. Politics and the regulatory agencies. (Mr '68)
- Indexing
Pings, V. M. Plan for indexing the periodical literature of nursing. (Mr '68)
- India
Civilization
Basham, A. L. Wonder that was India [3d rev ed]. (S '68)
- Gopal, R. Linguistic affairs of India. (My '68)
- Defenses
Kavic, L. J. India's quest for security: defence policies, 1947-1965. (Je '68)
- Description and travel
Hobbs, L. India, India. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Hürlimann, M. India. (S '68)
- Discovery and exploration
Figueroa, M. F. de. Spaniard in the Portuguese Indies. (N '68)
- Economic conditions
Johnson, W. A. Steel industry of India. (Ap '68)
- Singh, D. B. Economics of development. (Mr '68)
- Economic policy
Kumar, D. India and the European Economic Community. (My '68)
- Singh, D. B. Economics of development. (Mr '68)
- Foreign relations
Kumar, D. India and the European Economic Community. (My '68)
- China (People's Republic of China)
Rowland, J. History of Sino-Indian relations. (Ag '68)
- Pakistan
Sharma, B. L. Kashmir story. (S '68)
- History
Basham, A. L. Wonder that was India [3d rev ed]. (S '68)
- Edwardes, M. British India, 1772-1947. (Ag '68)
- Ghosh, S. Gandhi's emissary. (S '68)
- Moore, R. J. Sir Charles Wood's Indian policy, 1853-66. (Mr '68)
- Swinson, A. North-West frontier. (Je '68)

Dictionaries

Bhattacharya, S. Dictionary of Indian history. (S '68)

Intellectual life

Gopal, R. Linguistic affairs of India. (My '68)

Juvenile literature

Myron, R. Two faces of Asia. (Ap '68)
Zinkin, T. India and her neighbours. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Politics and government

Moore, R. J. Sir Charles Wood's Indian policy, 1853-66. (Mr '68)
Rudolph, L. I. Modernity of tradition. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Weiner, M. ed. State politics in India. (O '68)
Wolpert, S. A. Morley and India, 1906-1910. (Je '68)

Juvenile literature

Lamb, B. P. Nehrus of India. (My '68)

1947-

Weiner, M. Party building in a new nation. (O '68)

Relations (general) with Great Britain

Hutchins, F. G. Illusion of permanence. (Je '68)

Religion

Ahmad, A. Islamic modernism in India and Pakistan, 1857-1964. (N '68)

Social conditions

Hobbs, L. India, India. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Social life and customs

Brata, S. My God died young. (D '68)
India. Hürlimann, M. (S '68)
India and her neighbours. Zinkin, T. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
India and the European Economic Community. Kumar, D. (My '68)
India, India. Hobbs, L. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Indian art in South America. Dockstader, F. J. (Ag '68)
Indian costumes. Hofsinde, R. (Ag '68)
Indian dances. Singha, R. (N '68)
Indian emperor, Dryden, J. (In his Works of John Dryden). (Ap '68)
Indian heritage of America. Josephy, A. M. (N '68)
Indian mind. Moore, C. A., ed. (Je '68)
Indian National Congress
Weiner, M. Party building in a new nation. (O '68)
Indian Ocean
Graham, G. S. Great Britain in the Indian Ocean. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Indian thought. Damodaran, K. (S '68)
Indians

Antiquities

Deuel, L., comp. Conquistadors without swords. (1967, 1968 Annual)

History

Josephy, A. M. Indian heritage of America. (N '68)

Origin

Huddleston, L. E. Origins of the American Indians. (N '68)

Indians of MexicoArt

Soustelle, J. Mexico. (Mr '68)

Juvenile literature

Glubok, S. Art of ancient Mexico. (O '68)

Indians of North America

Farb, P. Man's rise to civilization as shown by the Indians of North America from primeval times to the coming of the industrial state. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Steiner, S. New Indians. (Ap '68)
See also
Apache Indians
Cheyenne Indians
Creek Indians
Iroquois Indians
Kwakiutl Indians
Navaho Indians
Santee Indians

Antiquities

Haberland, W. Art of North America. (N '68)
See also
Mounds and mound builders

Art

Dunn, D. American Indian painting of the Southwest and Plains areas. (S '68)
Grant, C. Rock art of the American Indian. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Haberland, W. Art of North America. (N '68)
Hawthorn, A. Art of the Kwakiutl Indians, and other Northwest Coast tribes. (Je '68)

CaptivitiesJuvenile literature

Jones, G. Where the wind blew free. (Je '68)

Costume and adornmentJuvenile literature

Hofsinde, R. Indian costumes. (Ag '68)

Government relations

Beaver, R. P. Church, state, and the American Indians. (Je '68)
Horsman, R. Expansion and American Indian policy, 1783-1812. (Je '68)
Kelly, L. C. Navajo Indians and federal Indian policy, 1900-1935. (N '68)
Steiner, S. New Indians. (Ap '68)
See also
Santee Indians

Legends

Marriott, A. American Indian mythology. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

Jagendorf, M. A. Kwi-na the eagle, and other Indian tales. (Ag '68)
Scheer, G. F., ed. Cherokee animal tales. (Ag '68)

Missions

Beaver, R. P. Church, state, and the American Indians. (Je '68)
Point, N. Wilderness kingdom. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Pictures, illustrations, etc.

Point, N. Wilderness kingdom. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Religion and mythology

Catlin, G. O-kee-pa: a religious ceremony, and other customs of the Mandans [centennial ed.]. (Ap '68)

Sign languageJuvenile literature

Amon, A. Talking hands. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Wars

Thrapp, D. L. Conquest of Apacheria. (Ap '68)
See also
King Philip's War, 1675-1676

Canada

Mackenzie, A. Exploring the Northwest territory. (Je '68)

North Carolina

Lawson, J. New voyage to Carolina. (O '68)

Oklahoma

Irving, W. Tour on the prairies. (Je '68)

The West

Simonin, L. L. Rocky Mountain West in 1867. (J '68)

Indians of South AmericaArt

Dockstader, F. J. Indian art in South America. (Ag '68)

Peru

Lanning, E. P. Peru before the Incas. (O '68)

Antiquities

Ubbelohde-Doering, H. On the royal highways of the Inca. (Mr '68)
India's quest for security: defence policies, 1947-1965. Kavic, L. J. (Je '68)
Indic languages
Gopal, R. Linguistic affairs of India. (My '68)
Individuality
Williams, R. J. You are extraordinary. (Mr '68)
Individuality in pain and suffering. Petrie, A. (Mr '68)
Indomitable Baptists. Armstrong, O. K. (Mr '68)
Indonesia
Commerce
Wolters, O. W. Early Indonesian commerce. (My '68)

Indonesia—Continued

History

- Hughes, J. Indonesian upheaval. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Juvenile literature

- Smith, D. C. Land and people of Indonesia. (Ag '68)

Politics and government

- Hughes, J. Indonesian upheaval. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Indonesian upheaval. Hughes, J. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Indus rivers. Michel, A. A. (My '68)
- Industrial diseases. See Occupational diseases
- Industrial dualism in Japan. Broadbridge, S. (Mr '68)
- Industrial genius: Samuel Slater. Miner, L. S. (Je '68)

Industrial management

- Aguilar, F. J. Scanning the business environment. (Ag '68)
- Brayman, H. Corporate management in a world of politics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Jay, A. Management and Machiavelli. (Ap '68)
- Thompson, J. D. Organizations in action. (Je '68)

Industrial relations

- Gordon, R. A., ed. Toward a manpower policy. (S '68)
- Korman, G. Industrialization, immigrants, and Americanizers. (Ap '68)
- Marshall, B. K. Capitalism and nationalism in prewar Japan. (Je '68)
- Mouzelis, N. P. Organisation and bureaucracy. (D '68)
- Parker, S. R. Sociology of industry. (O '68)
- Industrial retardation in Britain, 1880-1914. Levine, A. L. (My '68)

- Industrial revolution. See Great Britain—History—19th century; Industry—History

- Industrial society. Aron, R. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Industrial Workers of the World

- Renshaw, P. Wobblies. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Industrialization

- Steward, J. H., ed. Contemporary change in traditional societies, 3v. (N '68)
- Industrialization, immigrants, and Americanizers. Korman, G. (Ap '68)

Industry

History

- Seminar on the theory of economic change, University of Edinburgh, 1965. Social theory and economic change. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Industry and empire. Hobsbawm, E. J. (N '68)
- Industry and state
- Brayman, H. Corporate management in a world of politics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Marshall, B. K. Capitalism and nationalism in prewar Japan. (Je '68)
- Wolff, K. H., ed. Critical spirit. (Mr '68)

Italy

- Posner, M. V. Italian public enterprise. (Ag '68)

United States

- Ambrose, S. E., ed. Institutions in modern America. (Ag '68)
- Weinstein, J. Corporate ideal in the liberal state, 1900-1918. (D '68)
- Wright, M. A. Business of business. (O '68)
- Inequality of states. Vital, D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Infallibility of the laity. Femiano, S. B. (S '68)
- Infants
- Liley, H. M. I. Modern motherhood. (Je '68)
- Infidel in the temple. Josephson, M. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Inflation (Finance)
- Sheahan, J. Wage-price guideposts. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Influencing voters. Rose, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Information services

- Symposium for information workers, Liverpool school of librarianship, 1966. Information work today. (Ag '68)

Information storage and retrieval systems

- Cox, N. S. M., ed. Organization and handling of bibliographic records by computer. (S '68)
- EDUNET. (Mr '68)
- Joint committee on bibliographical services to history. Bibliography and the historian. (N '68)
- Loosjes, T. P. On documentation of scientific literature. (My '68)

- Information work today. Symposium for information workers, Liverpool school of librarianship, 1966. (Ag '68)

- Ingres, Jean Auguste Dominique
- Ingres, J. A. D. Ingres centennial exhibition, 1867-1967. (N '68)

- Picon, G. Ingres. (My '68)
- Ingres centennial exhibition, 1867-1967. Ingres, J. A. D. (N '68)

Inheritance and succession

- Obeysesekere, G. Land tenure in village Ceylon. (My '68)

Inheritance and transfer tax

- Jantscher, G. R. Trusts and estate taxation. (Mr '68)

- Innocent, Kim, R. E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Innocent greed. Troop, R. (D '68)

- Inouye, Daniel K.

- Inouye, D. K. Journey to Washington. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Inquiry into the principles of political economy, 2v. Steuart, J. (N '68)

Inquisition

- Carvajal, L. de. Enlightened. (Je '68)

Insanity

- Farmer, R. A. Rights of the mentally ill. (S '68)
- Goldstein, A. S. Insanity defense. (Je '68)
- Rosenberg, C. E. Trial of the assassin Guiteau. (O '68)

- Insanity defense. Goldstein, A. S. (Je '68)

- Insearch. Hillman, J. (Ap '68)

- Insect masquerades. Simon, H. (D '68)

Insects

- Clark, L. R. Ecology of insect populations in theory and practice. (Ap '68)
- Evans, H. E. Life on a little-known planet. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Sweeney, R. C. H. Scurrying bush. (Mr '68)

Habits and behavior

- Frisch, K. von. Dance language and orientation of bees. (My '68)

Juvenile literature

- Blough, G. O. Discovering insects. (Ap '68)
- Bush, G. S. Strange world of insects. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Green, I. Hatch and grow. (Ag '68)
- Knight, D. C. Let's find out about insects. (Je '68)
- Simon, H. Insect masquerades. (D '68)
- White, F. M. Your friend, the insect. (S '68)
- Insecurity of nations. Yost, C. (My '68)
- Inside story of steel wages and prices, 1959-1967. McManus, G. J. (My '68)
- Inside the gate. Lawrence, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Inspector Ghote caught in meshes. Keating, H. R. F. (Ap '68)
- Inspector Ghote hunts the peacock. Keating, H. R. F. (N '68)
- Instant enemy. Macdonald, R. (My '68)
- Instant replay. Kramer, J. (N '68)
- Instinct and intelligence. Barnett, S. A. (My '68)
- Institution and outcome. Ullmann, L. P. (Je '68)

- Institutions in Modern America. Ambrose, S. E., ed. (Ag '68)

- Instrument. O'Hara, J. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

- Instrument of Thy peace. Paton, A. (My '68)

Instrumentation and orchestration

- Russo, W. Jazz composition and orchestration. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Instruments of popular music. Fox, L. M. (S '68)

Insurance, Automobile

- Keeton, R. E. After cars crash: the need for legal and insurance reform. (Ag '68)

Insurance, Health

- Badgley, R. F. Doctors' strike. (O '68)
- Munts, R. Bargaining for health. (O '68)
- Somers, H. M. Medicare and the hospitals. (My '68)

Insurance, Life

- Consumer reports. Consumers union report on life insurance. (Ag '68)

- Oates, J. F. Business and social change. (N '68)

- Reynolds, G. S. Mortality merchants. (Ag '68)

Insurance, Social

- Eckstein, O., ed. Studies in the economics of income maintenance. (Mr '68)

- Gilbert, B. B. Evolution of national insurance in Great Britain. (S '68)

- Lubove, R. Struggle for social security. (N '68)

- Rosenthal, A. H. Social programs of Sweden. (Ag '68)

- Williams, G. R. Coming of the welfare state. (Ag '68)

- Insurgent era. Sanger, R. H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Integrative activity of the brain. Konorski, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Intellect
Brearley, M. Guide to reading Plaget. (My '68)
- Intellectual in politics. MacDonald, H. M., ed. (Ap '68)
- Intellectual origins of American radicalism. Lynd, S. (O '68)
- Intellectuals and McCarthy: the radical specter. Rogin, M. P. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Intellectuals today. Fyvel, T. R. (Ag '68)
- Intelligibility and the philosophy of nothingness. Nishida, K. (Ag '68)
- Interest and usury
Malkiel, B. G. Term structure of interest rates. (Mr '68)
- Interior decoration
Gilliat, M. English style in interior decoration. (Mr '68)
Hicks, D. David Hicks on decoration. (Ag '68)
- History
- Grant, I., ed. Great interiors. (Ap '68)
- Juvenile literature
- Hautzig, E. Redecorating your room for practically nothing. (Je '68)
- Intermediaries. Young, O. R. (O '68)
- Intermezzo. See Giraudoux, J. Plays. (Mr '68)
- Internal security
Gardner, D. P. California oath controversy. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- International, The
Braunthal, J. History of the International, v2. (Ap '68)
- International communism in the era of Lenin. Gruber, H. (Ap '68)
- International cooperation
Kash, D. E. Politics of space cooperation. (Ag '68)
Lauffer, L. Israel and the developing countries: new approaches to cooperation. (N '68)
- International economic institutions. Meerhaeghe, M. A. G. van. (Ag '68)
- International economic relations
Aubrey, H. G. Atlantic economic cooperation. (S '68)
Balassa, B. Trade liberalization among industrial countries: objectives and alternatives. (My '68)
Clement, M. O. Theoretical issues in international economics. (Mr '68)
Huh, K.-M. Japan's trade in Asia. (Ag '68)
Johnson, H. G. Economic policies toward less developed countries. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Meerhaeghe, M. A. G. van. International economic institutions. (Ag '68)
Müller, K. Foreign aid programs of the Soviet Bloc and Communist China. (Ag '68)
Pen, J. Primer on international trade. (Ag '68)
Sladkovskii, M. I. History of economic relations between Russia and China. (Ag '68)
Vanek, J. Estimating foreign resource needs for economic development. (Mr '68)
- International education
Machol, L. Gianna. (Mr '68)
- International encyclopedia of cooking. 2v. Waldo, M. (Mr '68)
- International encyclopedia of the social sciences. 17v. (N '68)
- International law
Henkin, L. How nations behave. (N '68)
In the name of America. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Lawyers committee on American policy towards Vietnam. Consultative council. Vietnam and international law. (N '68)
Murty, B. S. Propaganda and world public order. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Ramundo, B. A. Peaceful coexistence. (Ja '68)
Wilson, C. E. Diplomatic privileges and immunities. (N '68)
- International organization
Holcombe, A. N. Strategy of peace in a changing world. (My '68)
- International relations
Ball, G. W. Discipline of power. (Je '68)
Cottam, R. W. Competitive interference and twentieth century diplomacy. (My '68)
Henkin, L. How nations behave. (N '68)
Osgood, R. E. Force, order, and justice. (S '68)
Renouvin, P. Introduction to the history of international relations. (O '68)
Vital, D. Inequality of states. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Young, O. R. Intermediaries. (O '68)
- International Socialist Congress
Braunthal, J. History of the International, v2. (Ap '68)
- International trade problems of small nations. Lloyd, P. J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Intervention (International law)
Young, O. R. Intermediaries. (O '68)
- Intervention and revolution. Barnett, R. J. (N '68)
- Interviews with film directors. Sarris, A. (Ap '68)
- Into His splendid light. Boulwood, A. (S '68)
- Intrapsychic self. Arletti, S. (S '68)
- Introducing crayon techniques. Pluckrose, H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Introducing machine embroidery. Lillow, I. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Introducing screen printing. Kinsey, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Introducing surface printing. Green, P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Introducing textile printing. Proud, N. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Introducing the atom. Leeds, R. D. (My '68)
- Introduction to lake biology and the limnoplankton: v2 of A treatise on limnology. Hutchinson, G. E. (Mr '68)
- Introduction to music research. Watanabe, R. T. (My '68)
- Introduction to political theory. Friedrich, C. J. (Mr '68)
- Introduction to stellar statistics. Kurth, R. (D '68)
- Introduction to Sung poetry. Yoshikawa, K. (Mr '68)
- Introduction to the behavior of ants. Sudd, J. H. (My '68)
- Introduction to the history of international relations. Renouvin, P. (O '68)
- Introduction to Tolstoy's writings. Simmons, E. J. (O '68)
- Introduction to twentieth century music [2d ed]. Hansen, P. S. (Ap '68)
- Introduction to William James. Reck, A. J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Introductions to German literature, v 1. See Salmon, P. Literature in medieval Germany. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Inventions
Dictionaries
Carter, E. F. Dictionary of inventions and discoveries. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Investigations into generation, 1651-1828. Gas-king, E. B. (N '68)
- Investments
Jackson, W. T. Enterprising Scot. (N '68)
McMillan, J. American take-over of Britain. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Rickenbacker, W. F. Death of the dollar. (D '68)
Rolo, C. J., ed. Anatomy of Wall Street. (D '68)
Smith, A. Money game. (Ag '68)
- Invisible Louisa [Alcott centennial ed]. Meigs, C. (D '68)
- Invisible witness: the use and abuse of the new technology of crime investigation. Turner, W. W. (S '68)
- Ionesco, Eugène
Jacobsen, J. Ionesco and Genêt. (D '68)
Ionesco and Genêt. Jacobsen, J. (D '68)
- Ionides, Constantine Alexander, collection
Boardman, J. Engraved gems. (D '68)
- Iowa authors: a bio-bibliography of sixty native writers. Paluka, F. (Ag '68)
- Iran
Antiquities
Lukonin, V. G. Persia II. (Ag '68)
- Economic policy
- Baldwin, G. B. Planning and development in Iran. (S '68)
- History
- Kazemzadeh, F. Russia and Britain in Persia, 1864-1914. (Ag '68)
Lukonin, V. G. Persia II. (Ag '68)
- Politics and government
- Keddie, N. R. Religion and rebellion in Iran. (Je '68)
- Iraq
Antiquities
Oates, D. Studies in the ancient history of Northern Iraq. (D '68)
- Ireland
Encyclopaedia of Ireland. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Church history
- Lehane, B. Quest for three abbots. (Ag '68)

Ireland—Continued

Civilization

Connery, D. S. Irish. (Ag '68)

Description and travel

Tracy, H. Mind you, I've said nothing! (O '68)

History

Edwards-Rees, D. Ireland's story. (Je '68)
 Moody, T. W., ed. Course of Irish history. (Ap '68)
 Otway-Ruthven, A. J. History of medieval Ireland. (N '68)

Social life and customs

Barrington, J. Ireland of Sir Jonah Barrington. (Ag '68)
 Ireland of Sir Jonah Barrington. Barrington, J. (Ag '68)
 Ireland's story. Edwards-Rees, D. (Je '68)

Irgun Zvai Leumi

Katz, S. Days of fire. (Ag '68)
 Irish. Connery, D. S. (Ag '68)
 Irish art during the Viking invasions (800-1020 A.D.) Henry, F. (S '68)

Irish drama

Collections

Hogan, R., ed. Seven Irish plays, 1946-1964. (S '68)

History and criticism

Hogan, R. After the Irish renaissance. (My '68)

Irish poetry

Collections

Carney, J., comp. & tr. Medieval Irish lyrics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Irish wit and humor

McCarthy, J., ed. Home book of Irish humor. (Ag '68)

Iron age

Hagen, A. Norway. (My '68)
 Rivet, A. L. F., ed. Iron age in Northern Britain. (My '68)
 Iron age in Northern Britain. Rivet, A. L. F., ed. (My '68)
 Iron chancellor: Otto von Bismarck. Apsler, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual) Iron doors between. Summers, J. L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Iron industry and trade

Juvenile literature

Clarke, M. S. Pioneer iron works. (D '68)
 Ironclads of Cambrai. Eng title of: The battle of Cambrai. Cooper, B. (N '68)

Iroquois Indians

Reaman, G. E. Trail of the Iroquois Indians. (Ag '68)
 Irrational journey. Rothschild, P. de. (S '68)
 Irving, Washington

Juvenile literature

Wood, J. P. Sunnyside. (My '68)

Islam

Ahmad, A. Islamic modernism in India and Pakistan, 1857-1964. (N '68)
 Blyden, E. W. Christianity, Islam and the Negro race. (My '68)
 Nasr, S. H. Ideals and realities of Islam. (S '68)

Islam and state

Ahmad, A. Islamic modernism in India and Pakistan, 1857-1964. (N '68)
 Bennigsen, A. Islam in the Soviet Union. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Kedourie, E. Afghani and 'Abduh. (Ag '68)
 Islam in the Soviet Union. Bennigsen, A. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Islamic countries

Goitein, S. D. Mediterranean society, v 1. (Ag '68)

Politics

Ahmad, A. Islamic modernism in India and Pakistan, 1857-1964. (N '68)
 Islamic modernism in India and Pakistan, 1857-1964. Ahmad, A. (N '68)
 Island. Chekhov, A. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual) Islands of destiny. Wyndette, O. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Islands of the Pacific

Discovery and exploration

Ward, R. G., ed. American activities in the central Pacific, 1790-1870, v 1. (Mr '68)

Israel

Meeker, O. Israel. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Nissenson, H. Notes from the frontier. (Je '68)

Anecdotes, facetiae, satire, etc.

Kishon, E. Unfair to Goliath. (Ag '68)

Antiquities

Archaeological institute of America. Archaeological discoveries in the Holy Land. (Ag '68)

Description and travel

Dickson, M. Israeli interlude. (Ap '68)

Foreign relations

Avnery, U. Israel without Zionists. (D '68)

History

Gervasi, F. Case for Israel. (Ag '68)
 Gruber, R. Israel on the seventh day. (S '68)
 Katz, S. Days of fire. (Ag '68)
 Latour, A. Resurrection of Israel. (Ag '68)
 Robinson, D., ed. Under fire. (Ag '68)
 Samuel, M. Light on Israel. (Ag '68)

Politics and government

Fein, L. J. Israel. (S '68)
 Israel and the developing countries: new approaches to cooperation. Laufer, L. (N '68)
 Israel-Arab War, 1948-1949
 Azcarate, P. de. Mission in Palestine, 1948-1949. (My '68)
 Larkin, M. Hand of Mordechai. (O '68)
 Israel-Arab War, 1956. See Sinai Campaign, 1956
 Israel-Arab War, 1967
 Byford-Jones, W. Lightning war. (N '68)
 Churchill, R. S. Six day war. (Je '68)
 Dayan, D. Strike first! (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Draper, T. Israel and world politics. (Ag '68)
 Gruber, R. Israel on the seventh day. (S '68)
 Kimche, D. Sandstorm. (N '68)
 Laqueur, W. Road to Jerusalem. (Ag '68)
 MacLeish, R. Sun stood still. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Personal narratives

Bondy, R., ed. Mission survival. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Israel and world politics. Draper, T. (Ag '68)
 Israel on the seventh day. Gruber, R. (S '68)
 Israel: politics and people. Fein, L. J. (S '68)
 Israel without Zionists. Avnery, U. (D '68)
 Israeli interlude. Dickson, M. (Ap '68)
 Issei and nisei. Kitagawa, D. (Mr '68)
 Issues in banking and monetary analysis. Pontecorvo, G., ed. (Ag '68)
 Issues in defense economics. Universities-National bureau committee for economic research. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Issues in urban economics. Perloff, H. S., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Issues of national security in the 1970's. Jordan, A. A., ed. (Ag '68)
 Issues that divide the church. Hoyt, H. G., ed. (Ap '68)
 Issun Boshil, the Inchling. Ishii, M. (My '68)

Istanbul

History

MacLagan, M. City of Constantinople. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Istanbul. St Sophia
 Kähler, H. Hagia Sophia. (Ap '68)
 Italian fiction

History and criticism

Pacifici, S. Modern Italian novel: from Manzoni to Svevo. (S '68)
 Italian public enterprise. Posner, M. V. (Ag '68)
 Italian villas today. Bardeschi, M. D. (N '68)
 Italians in the United States
 Machol, L. Gianna. (Mr '68)
 Italo-Ethiopian War, 1935-1936
 Baer, G. W. Coming of the Italian-Ethiopian war. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Italy

Dobrin, A. Italy. (O '68)

Commerce

Stern, R. M. Foreign trade and economic growth in Italy. (My '68)

Description and travel

Juvenile literature

Bartlett, V. Let's visit Italy. (N '68)

Economic conditions

Saville, L. Regional economic development in Italy. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

1946-

Stern, R. M. Foreign trade and economic growth in Italy. (My '68)

Foreign relations

Germany

Toscano, M. Origins of the pact of steel. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

History

Grindrod, M. Italy. (N '68)
Hughes, S. Fall and rise of modern Italy. (Ap '68)

1815-1915

Seton-Watson, C. Italy from liberalism to fascism, 1870-1925. (Je '68)

1815-1915—Juvenile literature

Syme, R. Garibaldi. (Je '68)

1914-1946

Seton-Watson, C. Italy from liberalism to fascism, 1870-1925. (Je '68)

1914-1946—Juvenile literature

Bayne-Jardine, C. C. Mussolini and Italy. (Ag '68)

Politics and government

DiRenzo, G. J. Personality, power, and politics. (N '68)

Hughes, S. Fall and rise of modern Italy. (Ap '68)

Italy. Grindrod, M. (N '68)
Italy from liberalism to fascism, 1870-1925.

Seton-Watson, C. (Je '68)
It's a small, medium and outsize world. Taylor, J. (Mr '68)

It's all done with mirrors. Gluck, I. D. (N '68)
It's autumn. Weygant, N. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Iwo Jima, Battle of, 1945

Juvenile literature

Leckie, R. Battle for Iwo Jima. (Mr '68)

J C saves. Gover, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

JFK and LBJ. Wicker, T. (Ag '68)

J. F. Powers. Hagopian, J. V. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Jack London and the Klondike. Walker, F. (Mr '68)

Jackson, Stonewall. See Jackson, T. J.

Jackson, Thomas Jonathan

Selby, J. Stonewall Jackson as military commander. (N '68)

Jacksonian aristocracy. Miller, D. T. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Jacob and the robbers. Reidel, M. (Ap '68)

Jacobean and Caroline stage. Bentley, G. E. (N '68)

Jade

Hansford, S. H. Chinese carved jades. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

James, Henry

Gard, R., ed. Henry James: the critical heritage. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Isle, W. Experiments in form. (D '68)

McCarthy, H. T. Henry James. (O '68)

Ward, J. A. Search for form. (Je '68)

James, William

Linschoten, H. On the way toward a phenomenological psychology. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Reck, A. J. Introduction to William James. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

James Fenimore Cooper: the American Scott. Dekker, G. (S '68)

James Fenimore Cooper: the novelist. Eng title of: James Fenimore Cooper: the American Scott. Dekker, G. (S '68)

James Joyce and his world. Anderson, C. G. (My '68)

James Joyce remembered. Curran, C. P. (Ag '68)

Jane Austen: the critical heritage. Southam, B. C., ed. (O '68)

Japan

Civilization

Beny, R. Japan in color. (My '68)

Riesman, D. Conversations in Japan. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Commerce

Huh, K.-M. Japan's trade in Asia. (Ag '68)

Commercial policy

Hollerman, L. Japan's dependence on the world economy. (Ag '68)

Description and travel

Beny, R. Japan in color. (My '68)

Matsuo, B. Back roads to far towns. (S '68)

Van der Post, L. Portrait of Japan. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Economic conditions

Broadbridge, S. Industrial dualism in Japan. (Mr '68)

Dempster, P. Japan advances. (My '68)

Komlya, R., ed. Postwar economic growth in Japan. (Mr '68)

Economic development

Hollerman, L. Japan's dependence on the world economy. (Ag '68)

Economic policy

Yamamura, K. Economic policy in postwar Japan. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Foreign relations

Korea

Choi, W. Fall of the hermit kingdom. (Ap '68)

United States

Farago, L. Broken seal. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Koginos, M. T. Panay incident. (O '68)

Neu, C. E. Uncertain friendship. (Ag '68)

History

Cole, W. Kyoto in the Momoyama period. (My '68)

Nish, I. Short history of Japan. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

1867-1945

Kajima, M. Emergence of Japan as a world power, 1895-1925. (Mr '68)

Yoshida, S. Japan's decisive century, 1867-1967. (O '68)

Allied occupation, 1945-1952

Feis, H. Contest over Japan. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Yoshida, S. Japan's decisive century, 1867-1967. (O '68)

1952-

Yoshida, S. Japan's decisive century, 1867-1967. (O '68)

Officials and employees

Spaulding, R. M. Imperial Japan's higher civil service examinations. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Politics and government

Cole, A. B. Socialist parties in postwar Japan. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Mitchell, R. H. Korean minority in Japan. (N '68)

Relations (general) with the United States

Iriye, A. Across the Pacific. (Mr '68)

Religion

Hori, I. Folk religion in Japan. (O '68)

Social conditions

De Vos, G. Japan's invisible race. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Japan advances. Dempster, P. (My '68)

Japan: from the Jōmon to the Tokugawa period. Eng title of: The art of Japan. Swann, P. C. (Ag '68)

Japan in color. Beny, R. (My '68)

Japanese arts of the Heian period, 794-1185. Rosenfield, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Japanese clocks. Mody, N. H. N. (O '68)

Japanese in the United States

Kitagawa, D. Issel and nisel. (Mr '68)

Japanese language

Miller, R. A. Japanese language. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Morris, I. I. Dictionary of selected forms in classical Japanese literature. (Ag '68)

Japanese literature

History and criticism

Johns, F. A. Bibliography of Arthur Waley. (O '68)

Ueda, M. Literary and art theories in Japan. (S '68)

Japanese poetry

Collections

Baron, V. O., ed. Seasons of time. (Ag '68)

Fujiwara, T. Fujiwara Telka's Superior poems of our time. (Mr '68)

Japanese print. Wright, F. L. (My '68)

Japan's decisive century, 1867-1967. Yoshida, S. (O '68)

Japan's dependence on the world economy. Hollerman, L. (Ag '68)

Japan's first modern novel: Ukigumo of Futabatei Shimei. Ryan, M. G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Japan's invisible race. De Vos, G. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Japan's trade in Asia. Huh, K.-M. (Ag '68)
- Jared Eliot, minister, doctor, scientist, and his Connecticut. Thoms, H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Jarrell, Randall
Lowell, R., ed. Randall Jarrell, 1914-1965. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Java
Politics and government
Day, C. Dutch in Java [reissue]. (My '68)
- Jay, John
Morris, R. B. John Jay, the nation, and the court. (S '68)
- Jazz composition and orchestration. Russo, W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Jazz music
Jones, L. Black music. (My '68)
Keepnews, O., comp. Pictorial history of jazz [new rev ed.]. (Ap '68)
Rose, A. New Orleans jazz. (O '68)
Schuller, G. Early jazz. (Ag '68)
Simon, G. T. Big bands. (Mr '68)
Jealous mistress. Traver, R. (Ap '68)
Jean-Jacques Rousseau, v I. Crocker, L. G. (D '68)
- Jeanneret-Gris, Charles Édouard
Le Corbusier. Le Corbusier 1910-65. (Mr '68)
- Jebb, Eglantyne Mary
Wilson, F. M. Rebel daughter of a country house. (N '68)
- Jefferson, Thomas
Kaplan, L. S. Jefferson and France. (1967, 1968 Annual)
Jefferson and France. Kaplan, L. S. (1967, 1968 Annual)
Jennifer and Josephine. Peet, B. (Ag '68)
- Jersey City
Poor
Moore, J. People on Second Street. (N '68)
- Jerusalem
Antiquities
Kenyon, K. M. Jerusalem. (Ag '68)
Description
Views
Boudet, J., ed. Jerusalem. (Ap '68)
History
Boudet, J., ed. Jerusalem. (Ap '68)
Kollek, T. Jerusalem. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Jerusalem. Boudet, J., ed. (Ap '68)
Jerusalem. Kenyon, K. M. (Ag '68)
Jerusalem. Kollek, T. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Jerusalem Bible. See Bible. New Testament.
New Testament of the Jerusalem Bible. (Mr '68)
Jerusalem windows [rev ed.]. Chagall, M. (Ag '68)
Jesse Stuart's Kentucky. Clarke, M. W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Jesuits
Basset, B. English Jesuits: from Campion to Martindale. (D '68)
Hollis, C. Jesuits. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Point, N. Wilderness kingdom. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Jesus. Anderson, H., ed. (Ap '68)
- Jesus and the Christian. Manson, W. (N '68)
- Jesus Christ
Anderson, H., ed. Jesus. (Ap '68)
Borsch, F. H. Son of Man in myth and history. (S '68)
Craddock, F. B. Pre-existence of Christ in the New Testament. (N '68)
Harold, P. Shining stranger. (S '68)
Pannenberg, W. Jesus—God and man. (O '68)
Ritschl, D. Memory and hope. (Je '68)
- Divinity
Brown, R. E. Jesus: God and man. (Ap '68)
- Messiahship
Riggan, G. A. Messianic theology and Christian faith. (Mr '68)
- Parables
Funk, R. W. Language, hermeneutic, and Word of God. (Ag '68)
Wuellner, W. H. Meaning of "fishers of men." (Ag '68)
- Jesus, Society of. See Jesuits
- Jesus Christs. Langzuth, A. J. (My '68)
- Jesus: God and man. Brown, R. E. (Ap '68)
- Jesus—God and man. Pannenberg, W. (O '68)
- Jet streams. Reiter, E. R. (Ag '68)
- Jets from orange. Ghose, Z. (O '68)
- Jew and his family. Kaplan, B. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Jew in American politics. Weyl, N. (Ag '68)
- Jeweler's eye. Buckley, W. F. (S '68)
- Jewett, Sarah Orne
Jewett, S. O. Letters [enl & rev ed.]. (D '68)
- Jewish-Arab relations
Arnoni, M. S. Rights and wrongs in the Arab-Israeli conflict. (S '68)
Avnery, U. Israel without Zionists. (D '68)
Khouri, F. J. Arab-Israeli dilemma. (N '68)
Mehdi, M. T. Peace in the Middle East. (Mr '68)
- Jewish identity on the suburban frontier.
Sklare, M. (My '68)
- Jewish literature
Gersh, H. Sacred books of the Jews. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Jewish question
Dinnerstein, L. Leo Frank case. (Ag '68)
Eckardt, A. R. Elder and younger brothers. (Ag '68)
Katz, S., ed. Negro and Jew. (My '68)
Mehdi, M. T. Peace in the Middle East. (Mr '68)
Seiden, M. I. Paradox of hate. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Jews
History
Baron, S. W. Social and religious history of the Jews. v 11-12 [2d ed rev & enl.]. (My '68)
Roth, C. Gleanings. (Ag '68)
Tamarin, A. H. Revolt in Judea: the road to Masada. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Juvenile literature
Kamm, J. Hebrew people. (Ag '68)
Pearlman, M. Zealots of Masada. (Mr '68)
Persecutions
Levin, N. Holocaust. (My '68)
Morse, A. D. While six million died. (Ap '68)
Wiesel, E. Legends of our time. (D '68)
Political and social conditions
Baron, S. W. Social and religious history of the Jews. v 11-12 [2d ed rev & enl.]. (My '68)
Bisgyer, M. Challenge and encounter. (N '68)
Weyl, N. Jew in American politics. (Ag '68)
Social life and customs
Birmingham, S. "Our crowd." (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Kahn, R. Passionate people. (Ag '68)
Kaplan, B. Jew and his family. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Jews. Peyrefitte, R. (D '68)
- Jews in Europe
Levin, N. Holocaust. (My '68)
Roth, C. Gleanings. (Ag '68)
- History
Juvenile literature
Kamm, J. Hebrew people. (Ag '68)
- Jews in France
History
Hertzberg, A. French enlightenment and the Jews. (S '68)
- Jews in Germany
Dickinson, J. K. German & Jew: the life and death of Sigmund Stein. (My '68)
- Intellectual life
Meyer, M. A. Origins of the modern Jew. (Ag '68)
- Jews in Islamic countries
Goitein, S. D. Mediterranean society, v 1. (Ag '68)
- Jews in Israel
Selzer, M. Aryanization of the Jewish state. (Mr '68)
- Jews in Mexico
Carvajal, L. de. Enlightened. (Je '68)
- Jews in New York (City)
Birmingham, S. "Our crowd." (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Jews in Poland
Johnpoll, B. K. Politics of futility. (Je '68)
Kuper, J. Child of the holocaust. (Ag '68)
- Juvenile literature
Werstein, I. Uprising of the Warsaw ghetto, November 1940-May 1943. (S '68)
- Jews in the Czechoslovak Republic
Kennan, G. F. From Prague after Munich. (Ag '68)

Jews in the United States

- Kahn, R. Passionate people. (Ag '68)
 Leichter, H. J. Kinship and casework. (S '68)
 Ringer, B. B. Edge of friendliness. (Ag '68)
 Sklare, M. Jewish identity on the suburban frontier. (My '68)
 Weyl, N. Jew in American politics. (Ag '68)
 Yaffe, J. American Jews. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Jim Lee's Chinese cookbook. Lee, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Joan, Queen of Sicily*Fiction

- Haycraft, M. C. My lord brother the Lion heart. (Ag '68)
Job ben Solomon
 Grant, D. Fortunate slave. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Job Corps. See United States. Job Corps
 Job corps. Weeks, C. (Mr '68)
 Job's daughter. Untermeyer, J. S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Joe Lane of Oregon. Hendrickson, J. E. (Mr '68)
 John F. Kennedy talks to young people. Kennedy, J. F. (N '68)
 John Ford and the traditional moral order. Stavig, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 John Foster Dulles; v17 of American secretaries of state and their diplomacy. Bemis, S. F., ed. (Ag '68)
 John Gielgud directs Richard Burton in Hamlet. Sterne, R. L. (D '68)
 John Howard Griffin reader. Griffin, J. H. (Ag '68)
 John Jay, the nation, and the court. Morris, R. B. (S '68)
 John Letcher of Virginia. Boney, F. N. (Mr '68)
 John Locke; prophet of common sense. Jeffreys, M. V. C. (My '63)
 John Nash, the Prince Regent's architect. Davis, T. (Mr '68)
 John Ruskin and aesthetic thought in America, 1840-1900. Stein, R. B. (O '68)
Johnson, Andrew
 Johnson, A. Papers of Andrew Johnson, v 1. (Je '68)
 Thomas, L. First President Johnson. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

- Crane, W. D. Andrew Johnson: tailor from Tennessee. (My '68)
Johnson, Lyndon Baines
 Lincoln, E. Kennedy and Johnson. (My '68)
 Sidey, H. Very personal presidency. (O '68)
 Steinberg, A. Sam Johnson's boy. (O '68)
 Wicker, T. JFK and LBJ. (Ag '68)
Johnson, Samuel
 Sachs, A. Passionate intelligence. (Je '68)
 Johnstown, Pennsylvania

Flood

- McCullough, D. G. Johnstown flood. (Je '68)
 Johnstown flood. McCullough, D. G. (Je '68)
 Jokes, puns, and riddles. Clark, D. A. (S '68)
 Jolly Cholly's story: Baseball, I love you! Grimm, C. (O '68)
 Jolly Rogerson. McInerney, R. (Je '68)
Jonah, the prophet

Drama

- L'Engle, M. Journey with Jonah. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Jonathan Edwards & the visibility of God. Carse, J. (S '68)
 Jonathan Swift as a Tory pamphleteer. Cook, R. I. (N '68)
Jones, Christopher William
 Jones, C. W. Listen, pilgrim. (Je '68)
Jones, Eli Stanley
 Jones, E. S. Song of ascents. (O '68)
Jones, John Paul

Juvenile literature

- Syme, R. Captain John Paul Jones. (Ag '68)
Jonson, Ben
 Champion, L. S. Ben Jonson's 'dotages'. (N '68)

Jordan*Antiquities

- Archaeological institute of America. Archaeological discoveries in the Holy Land. (Ag '68)

Politics and government

- Vatikiotis, P. J. Politics and the military in Jordan. (Mr '68)
 Jorinda and Joringel. Grimm, J. (S '68)

Jos, Nigeria*Social life and customs

- Plotnicov, L. Strangers to the city. (N '68)
 Joseph Andrews. Fielding, H. (Mr '68)
 Journal of a residence in Ashantee [2d ed]. Dupuis, J. (Mr '68)
 Journal of a residence in Tristan da Cunha. Earle, A. (With his Narrative of a residence in New Zealand). (Ag '68)
 Journal of Margaret Hazlitt. Hazlitt, M. (N '68)
 Journal of Prince Alexander Liholiho, Kamehameha IV. (O '68)
 Journal of Richard Henry Dana, 3v. Dana, R. H. (O '68)
Journalism
 Fisher, P. L., ed. Race and the news media. (Mr '68)
 Friendly, A. Crime and publicity. (Ag '68)
 Hohenberg, J. News media: a journalist looks at his profession. (O '68)

Political aspects

- Freidin, S. Experts. (S '68)
 Graham, H. D. Crisis in print. (Ag '68)
 McGaffin, W. Anything but the truth. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Markham, J. W. Voices of the Red giants. (Ag '68)
Journalism, Scientific
 Kriegbaum, H. Science and the mass media. (Ap '68)

Journalists

- Stein, M. L. Under fire. (Ag '68)
 Journals of George Sturt, 1890-1927, 2v. Sturt, G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Journey into politics. Lindsay, J. V. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Journey into the whirlwind. Ginzburg, E. S. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Journey inward, journey outward. O'Connor, E. (Mr '68)
 Journey of a man. Wiseman, T. (Mr '68)
 Journey to Washington. Inouye, D. K. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Journey with Jonah. L'Engle, M. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Journeyman. Mandelbaum, A. (S '68)
 Joy. Schutz, W. C. (Ag '68)

Joyce, James

- Anderson, C. G. James Joyce and his world. (My '68)
 Curran, C. P. James Joyce remembered. (Ag '68)
 O'Brien, D. Conscience of James Joyce. (Ag '68)
 Pound, E. Pound/Joyce. (Mr '68)

Finnegans wake

- Bonheim, H. Lexicon of the German in Finnegans wake. (Je '68)
 O Hehir, B. Gaelic lexicon for Finnegans wake, and glossary for Joyce's other works. (Ag '68)

A portrait of the artist as a young man*Concordances

- Hancock, L. Word index to James Joyce's Portrait of the artist. (Mr '68)

Ulysses

- Blamires, H. Bloomsday book. (Ag '68)
 Thornton, W. Allusions in Ulysses. (My '68)
 Joys of Yiddish. Rosten, L. (D '68)

Judaism

- Albright, W. F. Yahweh and the Gods of Canaan. (N '68)
 Buber, M. On Judaism. (My '68)
 Büchler, A. Studies in sin and atonement in the Rabbinic literature of the first century. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Eckardt, A. R. Elder and younger brothers. (Ag '68)
 Meyer, M. A. Origins of the modern Jew. (Ag '68)
 Rubenstein, R. L. Religious imagination. (S '68)
 Uriel Acosta: A specimen of human life. (N '68)

History

- Baron, S. W. Social and religious history of the Jews, v 11-12 [2d ed rev & enl]. (My '68)
 Vriezen, T. C. Religion of ancient Israel. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual) Judicial error. See Justice, Administration of Judo
 Geesink, A. Go-Kyo principles of judo. (N '68)
 Geesink, A. My championship judo. (Ap '68)

- Judson, Sylvia Shaw
Judson, S. S. For gardens and other places. (Ag '68)
- Juggernaut. Mackintosh, M. (S '68)
- July, 1914. Geiss, I. ed. (O '68)
- Jump-rope rhymes. McGee, B., comp. (D '68)
- Jung, Carl Gustav
Bennet, E. A. What Jung really said. (Ap '68)
- Bertine, E. Jung's contribution to our time. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Hanna, C. B. Face of the deep. (My '68)
- Jungle. Borten, H. (Ag '68)
- Jungle for sale. Trefflich, H. (My '68)
- Jung's contribution to our time. Bertine, E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Jury
Juvenile literature
Bloomstein, M. J. Verdict. (Ag '68)
- Just like the resurrection. Beer, P. (O '68)
- Justice
Bodenheimer, E. Treatise on justice. (My '68)
- Justice, Administration of
Blumberg, A. S. Criminal justice. (Ap '68)
- Cicourel, A. V. Social organization of juvenile justice. (Ag '68)
- Conquest, R., ed. Justice and the legal system in the U.S.S.R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Dinnerstein, L. Leo Frank case. (Ag '68)
- Frasca, J. Mulberry tree. (Ag '68)
- Friendly, A. Crime and publicity. (Ag '68)
- James, H. Crisis in the courts. (Ag '68)
- Karlen, D. Anglo-American criminal justice. (N '68)
- Leng, S. C. Justice in Communist China. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Justice and the legal system in the U.S.S.R. Conquest, R., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Justice in Communist China. Leng, S. C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Justin Martyr, Saint
Barnard, L. W. Justin Martyr. (Ap '68)
- Juvenile delinquency
Cicourel, A. V. Social organization of juvenile justice. (Ag '68)
- Donovan, F. R. Wild kids. (Mr '68)
- Hirschi, T. Delinquency research. (N '68)
- Shaw, O. L. Youth in crisis. (Mr '68)
- West, D. J. Young offender. (Ag '68)
- Wheeler, S., ed. Controlling delinquents. (Ag '68)
- Juvenile literature (Individual titles)
Abodaher, D. J. Warrior on two continents. Thaddeus Kosciuszko. (S '68)
- Adoff, A., ed. I am the darker brother. (Ag '68)
- Alexander, A. Poet's eye. (My '68)
- Alexander, L. High king. (Je '68)
- Allen, E. You can't say what you think. (D '68)
- Allen, E. S. Famous American humorous poets. (N '68)
- Almedingen, E. M. Young Mark. (Ag '68)
- Ambrus, V. G. Brave soldier Janosh. (Mr '68)
- American heritage. History of the atomic bomb. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Amon, A. Talking hands. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Anderson, J. Pai-pai pig. (Mr '68)
- Anderson, L. Two hundred rabbits. (Ag '68)
- Appel, B. Why the Chinese are the way they are. (Ag '68)
- Apser, A. Iron chancellor: Otto von Bismarck. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Archer, J. Dictators. (Ag '68)
- Archer, J. Science explorer. (Ag '68)
- Archer, J. Unpopular ones. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Archer, J. World citizen: Woodrow Wilson. (Mr '68)
- Ardizzone, E. Little girl and the tiny doll. (My '68)
- Armour, R. Dozen dinosaurs. (Mr '68)
- Armour, R. Odd old mammals. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Armstrong, R. Mutineers. (S '68)
- Arnold, P. Food facts for young people. (N '68)
- Arthur, R. M. Requiem for a princess. (Mr '68)
- Arundel, H. High house. (N '68)
- Asimov, I. Egyptians. (Ag '68)
- Asimov, I. Near East. (Ag '68)
- Asimov, I. Stars. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Attaway, W. Hear American singing. (N '68)
- Avery, G. Call of the valley. (Ag '68)
- Bacon, M. Sophia Scrooby preserved. (D '68)
- Bagwell, R. This is an airport. (Ag '68)
- Bailey, R. E. Fight for Royal Gorge. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Baker, B. Dunderhead war. (Ap '68)
- Baker, L. N. O children of the wind and pines. (Mr '68)
- Barclay, J. Young people's guide to manners. (Ag '68)
- Barr, B. Wonders, warriors, and beasts abounding. (Mr '68)
- Barry, K. Animals around the world. (D '68)
- Bartlett, S. Books: a book to begin on. (Je '68)
- Bartlett, V. Let's visit Italy. (N '68)
- Barlos-Höppner, B. Storm over the Caucasus. (D '68)
- Bauer, E. My adventures with African animals. (N '68)
- Bauer, H. Championship baseball. (S '68)
- Baumann, H. Lion gate and labyrinth. (Ag '68)
- Bayne-Jardine, C. C. Mussolini and Italy. (Ag '68)
- Beatty, J. Witch dog. (Ag '68)
- Beck, B. L. First book of fruits. (Ap '68)
- Becker, B. Dreams and realities of the conquest of the skies. (Mr '68)
- Beebe, R. F. African elephants. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Behn, H. Chrysalis. (Je '68)
- Bendick, J. Emergency book. (Mr '68)
- Bennett, R. Day is dancing. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Bennett, R. Songs from around a toadstool table. (Ag '68)
- Bentley, P. Forgery! (S '68)
- Berry, E. Men who changed the map, A.D. 400 to 1914. (N '68)
- Besser, M. Cat book. (Mr '68)
- Bethell, J. How to care for your dog. (My '68)
- Beyer, A. W. Dark venture. (O '68)
- Bielawski, J. G. My country, U.S.A. (Mr '68)
- Bishop, C. H. Mozart. (Ag '68)
- Bishop, E. Ballad of the burglar of Babylon. (S '68)
- Bixby, W. Seawatchers. (N '68)
- Bjorklund, L. F. Faces of the frontier. (My '68)
- Blake, W. Grain of sand. (D '68)
- Blegvad, L. One is for the sun. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Bloomstein, M. J. Verdict. (Ag '68)
- Blough, G. O. Discovering insects. (Ap '68)
- Blough, G. O. Discovering plants. (Mr '68)
- Boll weevil (folk song). Boll weevil. (My '68)
- Bond, M. Here comes Thursday! (Je '68)
- Bonham, F. Ghost front. (Ag '68)
- Borten, H. Jungle. (Ag '68)
- Boswell, H. French Canada: pictures and stories of old Quebec. (Mr '68)
- Boudin, J. Miranda's music. (D '68)
- Boyd, M. Silent cities. (Ag '68)
- Bramblett, E., ed. Shoots of green. (Ag '68)
- Brand, C. Nurse Matilda goes to town. (Ag '68)
- Branley, F. M. Floating and sinking. (Ap '68)
- Briggs, P. Men in the sea. (N '68)
- Brink, C. R. Winter cottage. (O '68)
- Brinsmead, H. F. Beat of the city. (Je '68)
- Britt, D. Emperor's big gift. (D '68)
- Brooks, S. M. Sea inside us: water in the life processes. (N '68)
- Brown, M. Neighbors. (Mr '68)
- Brown, P. Other side of the street. (Ap '68)
- Brown, R. Saturday in Pudney. (Ag '68)
- Bruce, L. M. Space ABC. (Je '68)
- Buehr, W. Automobiles. (D '68)
- Bull, A. Wayland's keep. (Ap '68)
- Burchard, P. Bimby. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Burchard, P. Stranded. (O '68)
- Burland, C. A. Ancient Maya. (Mr '68)
- Burningham, J. Humbert, Mister Firkin & the Lord Mayor of London. (Ag '68)
- Burton, H. No beat of drum. (Mr '68)
- Burton, M. Animals. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Bush, G. S. Strange world of insects. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Campbell, H. Why not join the Giraffes? (S '68)
- Carlisle, N. True book of rivers. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Carlson, N. S. Ann Aurella and Dorothy. (Ag '68)
- Carse, R. Early American boats. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Carse, R. Ocean challenge. (Ap '68)
- Chapin, H. Search for Atlantis. (O '68)
- Chas. Addams Mother Goose. (Ap '68)
- Chenery, J. Toad hunt. (Ap '68)
- Cheney, C. Incredible Deborah. (My '68)
- Chester, M. Relativity. (My '68)
- Child's world, 6v [rev ed]. (Ag '68)
- Christgau, A. E. Laugh peddler. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Christopher, J. City of gold and lead. (Mr '68)
- Chu, D. Passage to the Golden Gate. (Ap '68)
- Churchill, W. Heroes of history. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Clapp, P. Constance. (Ag '68)
 Clare, J. Wood is sweet. (N '68)
 Clark, D. A. Jokes, puns, and riddles. (S '68)
 Clarke, M. S. Pioneer iron works. (D '68)
 Cleary, B. Mitch and Amy. (O '68)
 Cleary, B. Ramona the pest. (S '68)
 Cleator, P. E. Exploring the world of archaeology. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Cleaver, V. Lady Ellen Grae. (D '68)
 Clemons, E. Waves, tides, and currents. (Mr '68)
 Clymer, E. Big pile of dirt. (D '68)
 Coggins, J. By star and compass. (Ap '68)
 Coggins, J. Hydrospace. (Mr '68)
 Cohen, R. Color of man. (S '68)
 Cohn, A. Wonderful world of paper. (S '68)
 Cole, W., comp. Case of the giggles, 2v. (Ag '68)
 Cole, W., comp. Man's funniest friend. (Mr '68)
 Coles, R. Dead end school. (Ag '68)
 Colman, H. Career in medical research. (S '68)
 Columbia broadcasting system, incorporated. CBS News. Lenin and Trotsky. (Ag '68)
 Columbia broadcasting system, incorporated. CBS News. Trial at Nuremberg. (Ag '68)
 Comock, Story of Comock the Eskimo. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Complete science course for young experimenters. (Mr '68)
 Cooke, D. C. Vietnam: the country, the people. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Coolidge, O. George Bernard Shaw. (S '68)
 Coombs, C. Motorcycling. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Corbett, S. What makes a plane fly? (Ag '68)
 Cosgrove, M. Bone for bone. (D '68)
 Cottrell, L. Great leaders of Greece and Rome. (My '68)
 Courlander, H. Olode the hunter, and other tales from Nigeria. (Je '68)
 Cowie, L. W. Reformation. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Craig, M. J. Dinosaurs and more dinosaurs. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Crane, W. D. Andrew Johnson: tailor from Tennessee. (My '68)
 Crawford, D. King's astronomer: William Herschel. (Ag '68)
 Cresswell, H. Piemakers. (S '68)
 Cromer, R. Miracle of flight. (D '68)
 Crossley-Holland, K. Green children. (S '68)
 Csicsery-Rónay, I. First book of Hungary. (Mr '68)
 Cummings, R. Alchemists. (Ap '68)
 Curry, J. L. Beneath the hill. (D '68)
 D'Amelio, D. Taller than Bandai Mountain. (N '68)
 Darling, L. Place in the sun. (D '68)
 Daudet, A. Brave little goat of Monsieur Séguin. (S '68)
 Davis, P. D. C. Animals that changed the world. (Ag '68)
 Dayrell, E. Why the sun and the moon live in the sky. (Ag '68)
 DeForest, C. B. Prancing pony. (Ag '68)
 Deming, R. Police lab at work. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Desbarats, P. Gabrielle and Selena. (Ag '68)
 Desmond, A. C. Marie Antoinette's daughter. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Devlin, H. To grandfather's house we go. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Dodge, B. S. Hands that help. (Mr '68)
 Dolan, E. F. William Crawford Gorgas: warrior in white. (Ag '68)
 Domanska, J. Look, there is a turtle flying. (S '68)
 Doob, L. W., ed. Crocodile has me by the leg. (Je '68)
 Douglass, F. Mind and heart of Frederick Douglass. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Douty, E. M. Forten the sailmaker. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Dowdell, D. Sierra Nevada. (N '68)
 Drummer Hoff. (Ap '68)
 Dunning, S., comp. Reflections on a gift of watermelon pickle. (Ap '68)
 Dunsheath, P. Giants of electricity. (My '68)
 Duvoisin, R. Missing milkman. (S '68)
 Earle, O. L. Strange fishes of the sea. (S '68)
 Eckert, A. W. Bayou backwaters. (N '68)
 Eckert, A. W. King snake. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Eicke, E. What's your name? (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Elgin, K. Quakers. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Ellentuck, S. Sunflower as big as the sun. (Ag '68)
 Elliott, B. J. Hitler and Germany. (O '68)
 Ellis, H. B. Ideals and ideologies. (S '68)
 Elting, M. Mysterious grain. (Ap '68)
 Emberley, E. Green says go. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Erdoes, R. Peddlers and vendors around the world. (N '68)
 Erdoes, R. Policemen around the world. (S '68)
 Esterer, A. K. Discoverer of X ray, Wilhelm Conrad Röntgen. (O '68)
 Estes, E. Lollipop princess. (My '68)
 Ets, M. H. Talking without words. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Everts, H. G. Smugglers' road. (S '68)
 Ewen, W. H. Days of the steamboats. (Mr '68)
 Faber, D. Petticoat politics. (Je '68)
 Fairfax-Lucy, B. Children of the house. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Fatio, L. Happy lion's vacation. (Ap '68)
 Feagles, A. M. Me, Cassie. (O '68)
 Fenton, E. Big yellow balloon. (My '68)
 Finkel, G. Watch fires to the north. (Ag '68)
 Fischer, G. Your career in computers. (S '68)
 Fisher, A. We Alcotts. (D '68)
 Fisher, A. We went looking. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Fisher, L. Never try Nathaniel. (O '68)
 Fisher, L. E. Peddlers. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Fitzgerald, J. D. Great brain. (Ap '68)
 Fleming, T. J. First in their hearts. (Ag '68)
 Floethe, L. L. Thousand and one Buddhas. (Mr '68)
 Foreman, M. Two giants. (Mr '68)
 Foster, G. A. Advertising: ancient market place to television. (Mr '68)
 Foster, J. Napoleon's marshal. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Fox, L. Little men in sports. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Fox, L. M. Instruments of popular music. (S '68)
 Fraser, K. Stilts, somersaults, and headstands. (Ag '68)
 Freedman, R. Scouting with Baden-Powell. (Ap '68)
 Freeman, D. Corduroy. (Ag '68)
 Freeman, M. When air moves. (N '68)
 Freeman, M. B. Finding out about the past. (Ag '68)
 Freschet, B. Little woodcock. (Mr '68)
 Friedman, R. Freedom builders. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Friermood, E. H. Focus the bright land. (Mr '68)
 Frolov, V. What it's all about. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Froman, R. Baseball-istics. (Ap '68)
 Fuller, C. L., ed. Beasts. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Gaddis, V. H. Wide world of magic. (My '68)
 Garfield, L. Mister Corbett's ghost. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Garner, A. Moon of Gomrath. (Ag '68)
 Garner, A. Owl service. (N '68)
 Gates, D. Elderberry bush. (My '68)
 Gemming, E. Huckleberry Hill. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 George, J. C. Moon of the bears. (Mr '68)
 George, J. C. Moon of the owls. (Mr '68)
 George, J. C. Moon of the salamanders. (Mr '68)
 Gibson, D. How fast can it go? (Mr '68)
 Gilbert, W. S. W. S. Gilbert's A song to sing. O! (O '68)
 Gimpel, H. J. Napoleon. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Glubok, S. Art of ancient Mexico. (O '68)
 Glubok, S. Art of the Etruscans. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Glubok, S. Discovering Tut-ankh-Amen's tomb. (N '68)
 Glubok, S. Fall of the Incas. (Ap '68)
 Gordon, G. N. On-the-spot reporting. (Mr '68)
 Gramet, C. Highways across waterways. (My '68)
 Gramet, C. Your health and you. (S '68)
 Grant, M. P. Alice Hamilton: pioneer doctor in industrial medicine. (Je '68)
 Graves, R. Two wise children. (Mr '68)
 Gray, L. L. How we choose a president [rev ed.]. (Ag '68)
 Gray, R. Children of the ark. (Ag '68)
 Green, I. Hatch and grow. (Ag '68)
 Green, K. Leprechaun tales. (Je '68)
 Greenfeld, H. Marc Chagall. (My '68)
 Griffiths, H. León. (Je '68)
 Grigson, G. More Shapes and stories. (Mr '68)
 Grimm, J. Jorinda and Joringel. (S '68)
 Grossman, S. Struggle for life in the animal world. (Mr '68)
 Halacy, D. S. Energy and engines. (S '68)
 Halacy, D. S. Science and serendipity. (Ap '68)
 Hall-Quest, O. Old New Orleans, the Creole city. (D '68)
 Hamilton, V. House of Dies Drear. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature—Continued

- Hamre, L. Contact lost. (Mr '68)
 Harcourt Brace intermediate dictionary. (Ag '68)
 Hardwick, R. Charles Richard Drew. (Ap '68)
 Harrison, W. C. Dr William Harvey and the discovery of circulation. (Mr '68)
 Hausman, R. L. Hawaii: music in its history. (D '68)
 Hautzig, E. Endless steppe. (Ag '68)
 Hautzig, E. In the park. (S '68)
 Hautzig, E. Redecorating your room for practically nothing. (Je '68)
 Haviland, V. Favorite fairy tales told in Japan. (Mr '68)
 Hawes, J. Ladybug, ladybug, fly away home. (Mr '68)
 Hawes, J. Why frogs are wet. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hawkinson, J. Pastels are great! (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Headington, C. Orchestra and its instruments. (N '68)
 Heady, E. B. When the stones were soft. (O '68)
 Heatter, B. Sea dreamers. (O '68)
 Helfman, E. S. Signs and symbols around the world. (My '68)
 Helfman, H. Fun with your fingers. (S '68)
 Hellman, H. Art and science of color. (Ag '68)
 Hellman, H. High energy physics. (D '68)
 Hellman, H. Light and electricity in the atmosphere. (S '68)
 Henderson, L. Vietnam and countries of the Mekong. (Je '68)
 Hendrickson, W. B. What's going on in space? (Ag '68)
 Hentoff, N. I'm really dragged but nothing gets me down. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hess, L. Curious raccoons. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hess, L. Remarkable chameleon. (S '68)
 Heuman, W. Famous coaches. (Ag '68)
 Hewett, A. Bull beneath the walnut tree. (Ap '68)
 Hildick, E. W. Louie's lot. (D '68)
 Hirschfeld, B. Glorious struggle. (My '68)
 Hirschfeld, B. Vital link. (D '68)
 Hoban, R. Birthday for Frances. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hodges, C. W. Spanish armada. (My '68)
 Hodges, M. ed. Constellation. (S '68)
 Hofsinde, R. Indian costumes. (Ag '68)
 Hogner, D. C. Weeds. (Ag '68)
 Holman, F. Blackmail machine. (D '68)
 Holman, F. Cricket winter. (My '68)
 Hoopes, R. Getting with politics. (S '68)
 Hopf, A. L. Earth's bug-eyed monsters. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Horizon magazine. Charlemagne. (Ag '68)
 Horizon magazine. Charles Darwin and The origin of species. (Ag '68)
 Horizon magazine. Russia in revolution. (My '68)
 Howell, R. R. Everything changes. (Ag '68)
 Hoyt, E. P. Deadly craft. (Ag '68)
 Hoyt, E. P. Leland Stanford. (Ag '68)
 Hoyt, E. P. Tragic commodore. (Mr '68)
 Hubbell, P. Catch me ■ wind. (Ag '68)
 Hunt, D. Art of magic. (Je '68)
 Hunt, I. Trail of apple blossoms. (Ag '68)
 Hunter, K. Soul Brothers and Sister Lou. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hunter, M. Pistol in Greenyards. (Ag '68)
 Hunter, M. Thomas and the warlock. (Mr '68)
 Hürlimann, B. Barry. (S '68)
 Hush little baby. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hutchins, P. Rosie's walk. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Huxley, A. Crows of Pearblossom. (Ap '68)
 Hynd, A. Great crime busters. (Ap '68)
 Illustrated world encyclopedia. (S '68)
 Ishii, M. Issun Boshi, the Inchling. (My '68)
 Israel, C. E. Five ships West. (Mr '68)
 Jacker, C. Black flag of anarchy. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Jackson, J. Chicken Ten Thousand. (D '68)
 Jackson, J. Missing Melinda. (Je '68)
 Jackson, J. Tessie. (Ag '68)
 Jacobs, D. Master painters of the Renaissance. (N '68)
 Jacobs, J. Hudden and Dudden and Donald O'Neary. (N '68)
 Jacobs, L. SST plane of tomorrow. (Mr '68)
 Jagendorf, M. A. Kwi-na the eagle, and other Indian tales. (Ag '68)
 Janice. Little Bear's Thanksgiving. (My '68)
 Jansson, T. Comet in Moominland. (Ag '68)
 Jansson, T. Moominpappa at sea. (Ag '68)
 Johnson, A. Count me gone. (D '68)
 Johnson, E. W. Love and sex in plain language [rev ed.]. (S '68)
 Johnson, P. Horse talk. (Ap '68)
 Johnston, J. Special bravery. (Mr '68)
 Jones, A. Sail, Calypso! (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Jones, G. Where the wind blew free. (Je '68)
 Jones, M. A. Bible story of the creation. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Jones, W. Edge of two worlds. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Joseph, J. Peter the Great. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Kainz, L. C. Portraits and personalities. (D '68)
 Kamm, J. Hebrew people. (Ag '68)
 Kassil, L. Brother of the hero. (O '68)
 Kastner, J. Sleep. (O '68)
 Kaula, E. M. African village folktales. (O '68)
 Kaula, E. M. Land and people of Rhodesia. (My '68)
 Kavalier, L. Dangerous air. (Mr '68)
 Kay, M. Burning candle. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Kay, M. Masha. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Kelen, E. Gautama Buddha in life and legend. (Mr '68)
 Kelen, E. Stamps tell the story of the United Nations. (O '68)
 Kennedy, J. F. John F. Kennedy talks to young people. (N '68)
 Kettelkamp, L. Dreams. (Ag '68)
 Kettelkamp, L. Song, speech, and ventriloquism. (Ap '68)
 Kin, M. Comeuppance of Emile the drummer. (Ag '68)
 King, M. Mary Baker Eddy: child of promise. (N '68)
 Kinney, J. What does the tide do? (Ap '68)
 Klein, H. A. Great structures of the world. (N '68)
 Klein, R. M. Discovering plants. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Klink, J. L. Bible for children, v 1. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Knight, D. C. Comets. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Knight, D. C. Let's find out about insects. (Je '68)
 Kohn, B. All kinds of seals. (O '68)
 Kohn, B. Bat book. (Ap '68)
 Kohn, B. Ferns: plants without flowers. (N '68)
 Kohn, B. Raccoons. (O '68)
 Kraske, R. Crystals of life. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Kyle, E. Great ambitions. (Je '68)
 Lamb, B. P. Nehru of India. (My '68)
 Lapedes, D. N. Helpful microorganisms. (N '68)
 Larrick, N., ed. On city streets. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Larson, J. R. Silkspinnners. (Ap '68)
 Laurence. Village in Normandy. (O '68)
 Lawrence, D. H. D. H. Lawrence: poems selected for young people. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Lawrence, J. Harriet and the promised land. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Lawrence, J. Soviet Russia. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Lawrence, M. Inside the gate. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Lawson, D., ed. Great air battles. (Ag '68)
 Lawson, J. Spring rider. (D '68)
 Leach, M. How the people sang the mountains up. (Mr '68)
 Lear, E. Edward Lear's The Scroobious Pip. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Leckie, R. Battle for Iwo Jima. (Mr '68)
 Leeds, R. D. Introducing the atom. (My '68)
 Leichman, S. Boy who could sing pictures. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Levine, I. E. Oliver Cromwell. (Mr '68)
 Levinger, J. S. Secrets of the nucleus. (Ag '68)
 Lewis, C. Poems of earth and space. (Ap '68)
 Lewis, R., ed. Out of the earth I sing. (Je '68)
 Lewis, R., comp. Wind and the rain. (Ag '68)
 Lexau, J. M. Rooftop mystery. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Lexau, J. M. Striped ice cream. (O '68)
 Ley, W. Discovery of the elements. (O '68)
 Lieberg, O. W. Wonders of magnets and magnetism. (Je '68)
 Lifton, B. J. Many lives of Chio and Goro. (Ag '68)
 Lifton, B. J. One-legged ghost. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Linde, G. White stone. (Je '68)
 Lindemann, E. Water animals for your microscope. (Ap '68)
 Lindop, E. First book of elections. (Ag '68)
 Lionni, L. Biggest house in the world. (Ag '68)
 Liss, H. Mighty Mekong. (Je '68)
 Little, J. When the pie was opened. (Ag '68)
 Little prayer. (Je '68)
 Little Tuppen. (S '68)

- Livingston, M. C., ed. Tune beyond us. (Ag '68)
- Lofting, H. Doctor Dolittle. (My '68)
- Lomask, M. Beauty and the traitor. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- London Bridge is falling down! II. by Peter Spier. (Ap '68)
- Longman, H. Watch out! (O '68)
- Longman, H. Would you put your money in a sand bank? (O '68)
- Lopshire, R. Beginner's guide to building and flying model airplanes. (Ap '68)
- Lord, B. Monster's visit. (Ag '68)
- Lubell, W. In a running brook. (Ag '68)
- McClung, R. M. Black Jack. (My '68)
- McClung, R. M. Redbird. (O '68)
- McCord, D. Every time I climb a tree. (Mr '68)
- McCoy, J. J. Swans. (Ap '68)
- McGee, B., comp. Jump-rope rhymes. (D '68)
- McGiffin, L. Yankee Doodle dandies. (Ap '68)
- McGinley, P., comp. Wonders and surprises. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- McGraw, E. J. Greensleeves. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- McHargue, G. Beasts of never. (O '68)
- Macken, W. Flight of the Doves. (O '68)
- McNeill, J. Battle of St George Without. (Je '68)
- McOrlan, P. Anchor of mercy. (My '68)
- McPherson, J. M. Marching toward freedom: the Negro in the Civil War, 1861-1865. (Ag '68)
- Maddock, R. Pit. (Ag '68)
- Madian, J. Beautiful junk. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Manley, S. My heart's in the heather. (Ag '68)
- Manning-Sanders, R. Book of mermaids. (Ag '68)
- Manning-Sanders, R. Book of wizards. (Mr '68)
- Manning-Sanders, R. Glass man and the golden bird. (D '68)
- Manning-Sanders, R. Stories from the English and Scottish ballads. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Marcus, R. B. First book of the cliff dwellers. (Ag '68)
- Mason, H. M. Texas rangers. (Mr '68)
- Matthews, W. H. Story of the earth. (S '68)
- Matthews, W. H. Wonders of fossils. (Ag '68)
- Mauriac, F. Holy terror. (My '68)
- May, C. P. Chile. (N '68)
- May, C. P. Great cities of Canada. (Je '68)
- May, J. Horses. (Ag '68)
- May, J. They lived in the ice age. (Mr '68)
- Mayne, W. Battlefield. (Mr '68)
- Mayne, W., ed. William Mayne's book of heroes. (Ag '68)
- Mehta, R. Ramu. (Je '68)
- Meigs, C. Invincible Louisa [Alcott centennial ed]. (D '68)
- Meltzer, M. Langston Hughes. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Melzack, R. Day Tuk became a hunter & other Eskimo stories. (Ag '68)
- Merriam, E. Andy all year round. (Mr '68)
- Merrill, J. Elephant who liked to smash small cars. (Ag '68)
- Meyer, E. P. That remarkable man: Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. (Mr '68)
- Miers, E. S. Baseball. (Mr '68)
- Miers, E. S. Football. (Ag '68)
- Miers, E. S. That Lincoln boy. (Ag '68)
- Milgrom, H. Adventures with a straw. (Ap '68)
- Miller, J. C. First frontier: life in colonial America. (N '68)
- Miller, K. Saint George. (Je '68)
- Milne, L. Phoenix forest. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Minarik, E. H. Kiss for Little Bear. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Miner, L. S. Industrial genius: Samuel Slater. (Je '68)
- Mitchison, N. Friends and enemies. (Ag '68)
- Montgomerie, N. One, two, three. (S '68)
- Moore, J. T. Cinnamon seed. (Mr '68)
- Moore, P. Exploring the world. (N '68)
- Morey, W. Home is the North. (Mr '68)
- Morey, W. Kāvīk the wolf dog. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Morgan, B. Electrons at work. (Ag '68)
- Morris, R. B. First book of the founding of the republic. (Ag '68)
- Morsbach, M. Negro in American life. (Ap '68)
- Morse, E. Brown Rabbit: her story. (Ap '68)
- Mosel, A. Tikki Tikki Tembo. (Je '68)
- Mother Goose. I saw a ship a-sailing. (Je '68)
- Mother Goose. To market! to market! (Ag '68)
- Mure, E. Story of the three bears. (My '68)
- Myers, E. P. Angel of Appalachia: Martha Berry. (Je '68)
- Myrick, M. Ants are fun. (Ag '68)
- Myron, R. Two faces of Asia. (Ap '68)
- Nash, O. Cruise of the Aardvark. (Mr '68)
- Nathan, D. Month brothers. (Mr '68)
- Neal, H. E. Money. (Mr '68)
- Nehrich, R. B. Atomic light: lasers—what they are and how they work. (Ag '68)
- Neville, E. C. Traveler from a small kingdom. (Ag '68)
- Norton, A. Octagon magic. (S '68)
- Norton, A. Operation time search. (Mr '68)
- Olschewski, A. We fly. (My '68)
- O'Neill, M. Take a number. (N '68)
- Orriant, A. Diplomat in warpaint: Chief Alexander McGillivray of the Creeks. (Je '68)
- Osmond, E. Animals of Central Asia. (N '68)
- Ottley, R. Rain comes to Yamboorah. (O '68)
- Oxenbury, H. Numbers of things. (D '68)
- Paine, R. M. Looking at sculpture. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Palmer, C. E. Cloud with the silver lining. (Mr '68)
- Papas, No mules. (Ag '68)
- Pearlman, M. Zealots of Masada. (Mr '68)
- Peet, B. Jennifer and Josephine. (Ag '68)
- Peppé, R. Alphabet book. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Perez, N. A. Strange summer in Stratford. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Peters, K. Your book of tape recording. (D '68)
- Peters, R. Debut at the Met. (Mr '68)
- Petrie, J. Earth. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Peyton, K. M. Flambards. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Pilkington, F. M. Shamrock and spear. (Ag '68)
- Pickering, J. S. Famous astronomers. (Je '68)
- Pienkowski, J. Annie, Bridget and Charlie. (Ap '68)
- Pilkington, F. M. Shamrock and spear. (Ag '68)
- Pine, T. S. Africans knew. (Ap '68)
- Pitt, V. Let's find out about the city. (Ag '68)
- Pizer, V. World ocean. (My '68)
- Place, M. T. Frontiersman. (Mr '68)
- Place, M. T. Yukon. (Mr '68)
- Platt, K. Boy who could make himself disappear. (D '68)
- Poetry society of London. Pattern of poetry. (Ag '68)
- Polgreen, J. Stars tonight. (Mr '68)
- Poling, J. Man who saved Robinson Crusoe. (Je '68)
- Pollack, P. Careers and opportunities in engineering. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Polland, M. To tell my people. (D '68)
- Posell, E. Z. Russian composers. (Ag '68)
- Post, E. L. Emily Post book of etiquette for young people. (Ap '68)
- Powell, F. Especially sisters. (Mr '68)
- Price, C. Made in ancient Greece. (Mr '68)
- Raboff, E. Paul Klee. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Raskin, E. Pyramid of living things. (My '68)
- Razzell, A. G. Symmetry. (Ag '68)
- Reed, G., comp. Out of the ark. (N '68)
- Rees, E. Brer Rabbit and his tricks. (Ag '68)
- Reesink, M. Two windmills. (Mr '68)
- Reeves, J. Rhyming Will. (S '68)
- Reidel, M. Jacob and the robbers. (Ap '68)
- Rennert, V. P. Western outlaws. (O '68)
- Ressner, P. At night. (Ap '68)
- Rich, J. Women behind men of medicine. (Mr '68)
- Rich, L. D. Star Island boy. (O '68)
- Richards, N. Giants in the sky. (Ap '68)
- Richter, C. Over the blue mountain. (Ap '68)
- Rink, P. In defense of freedom. (Ag '68)
- Rinkoff, B. Member of the gang. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Ripley, E. Copley. (Mr '68)
- Ripley, E. Hokusai. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Robinson, B. On the beat. (D '68)
- Robinson, L. Stolen election. (N '68)
- Rockwell, A. Glass, stones & crown. (Ag '68)
- Rockwell, A. Good llama. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Rockwell, A. Stolen necklace. (Ag '68)
- Ronan, C. A. Meaning of sound. (S '68)
- Rosenbaum, R. A., ed. Best book of true aviation stories. (Je '68)
- Rosenfeld, S. First song. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Rosenfeld, S. Story of coins. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Ross, E. S. Ants [new ed]. (Ap '68)
- Ross, F. Transportation of tomorrow. (N '68)
- Rothkopf, C. Z. Tolstoy. (Ag '68)
- Rowling, M. Everyday life in medieval times. (Ag '68)
- Rublowsky, J. Music in America. (Mr '68)
- Ruchlis, H. Bathtub physics. (Ap '68)

Juvenile literature—Continued

- Rudolph, M. Magic sack. (Je '68)
 Russ, L. Over the hills and far away. (Ag '68)
 Russell, S. P. Mushmen. (D '68)
 Russell, S. F. Which is which? (Mr '68)
 Sachs, M. Veronica Ganz. (Ag '68)
 Sacks, R. Magnets. (Ag '68)
 Sadie, S. Beethoven. (Mr '68)
 Sandelin, G., ed. 1776: journals of American independence. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Sarnoff, P. Wall Street careers. (N '68)
 Sasek, M. This is the United Nations. (O '68)
 Saunders, F. W. Machines for you. (My '68)
 Schaefer, J. Mavericks. (Ap '68)
 Schatz, L. Whiskers, my cat. (My '68)
 Scheer, G. F., ed. Cherokee animal tales. (Ag '68)
 Schneider, L. Long life to you. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Schreiter, R. Delicious plums of King Oscar the Bad. (Mr '68)
 Schultz, P. H. Sir Walter Scott: wizard of the North. (Je '68)
 Schwartz, A. People's choice. (S '68)
 Scott, J. China, the hungry dragon. (Mr '68)
 Scott, J. A. Settlers on the Eastern shore, 1607-1750. (My '68)
 Scovel, M. To lay a hearth. (N '68)
 Sebastian, L. South Pole. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Selden, G. Dunkard. (O '68)
 Selsam, M. E. Maple tree. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Selsam, M. E. Questions and answers about ants. (Ap '68)
 Selvin, D. F. Champions of labor. (Je '68)
 Serrailier, I. Chaucer and his world. (Ag '68)
 Serrailier, I. Robin in the greenwood. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Severn, B. Mr Chief Justice: Earl Warren. (N '68)
 Shecter, B. Partouche plants a seed. (Je '68)
 Sherlock, P. Land and people of the West Indies. (My '68)
 Showers, P. Before you were a baby. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Showers, P. Hear your heart. (Ag '68)
 Silverberg, R. Dawn of medicine. (My '68)
 Silverberg, R. Ghost towns of the American West. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Silverberg, R. World of the ocean depths. (Ag '68)
 Simon, H. Insect masquerades. (D '68)
 Singer, I. B. Mazel and Shlimazel. (Mr '68)
 Smaridge, N. Master mariner. (Mr '68)
 Smith, D. C. Land and people of Indonesia. (Ag '68)
 Smith, F. S. Stanley, African explorer. (Ag '68)
 Smith, H. E. From under the earth: America's metals, fuels, and minerals. (My '68)
 Smith J., comp. My kind of verse. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Smith, M. R. 7 plays & how to produce them. (D '68)
 Smith, V. Come down the mountain. (O '68)
 Sootin, H. Long search. (O '68)
 Soule, G. Sea rescue. (Mr '68)
 Southhall, I. Sword of Esau. (Ag '68)
 Spellman, J. W., ed. Beautiful blue jay, and other tales of India. (Mr '68)
 Spence, E. Switherby pilgrims. (Je '68)
 Spencer, C. Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Chinese Republic. (Mr '68)
 Stambler, I. Worlds of sound. (Mr '68)
 Starbird, K. Pheasant on route seven. (D '68)
 Stearns, M. Story of New England. (Mr '68)
 Steger, H. U. Travelling to Tripiti. (Ag '68)
 Steig, W. C D B! (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Steig, W. Roland the minstrel pig. (N '68)
 Stephens, W. M. Octopus lives in the ocean. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Sterne, E. G. They took their stand. (Ag '68)
 Stolz, M. Wonderful, terrible time. (Mr '68)
 Stone, A. H. Plants are like that. (Ag '68)
 Storey, M. Pauline. (Mr '68)
 Story of Prince Ivan, the firebird, and the gray wolf. (O '68)
 Stoutenburg, A. American tall-tale animals. (D '68)
 Stoutenburg, A. Listen America. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Styles, S. Mallory of Everest. (D '68)
 Summers, J. L. Iron doors between. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Suskind, R. Men in armor. (Je '68)
 Syme, R. Captain John Paul Jones. (Ag '68)
 Syme, R. Garibaldi. (Je '68)
 Tarshis, J. Claude Bernard. (D '68)
 Teale, E. W. Bees [new ed.]. (Ag '68)
 Thayer, J. Cat that joined the club. (Mr '68)
 Thompson, B. J., ed. All the silver pennies. (Mr '68)
 Tomerlin, J. Fledgling. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Townsend, J. R. Pirate's Island. (Ag '68)
 Treece, H. Centurion. (My '68)
 Treece, H. Windswept city. (Je '68)
 Tresselt, A. Legend of the willow plate. (Ag '68)
 Trez, D. Good night, Veronica. (Ag '68)
 Turkle, B. Fiddler of High Lonesome. (O '68)
 Uchida, Y. In-between Miya. (Mr '68)
 Ungerer, T. Zeraida's ogre. (Mr '68)
 Unitas, J. Playing pro football to win. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Untermeyer, L. Firebringer. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Untermeyer, L. Tales from the ballet. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Verne, J. Long vacation. (Ap '68)
 Vlahos, O. African beginnings. (Mr '68)
 Vries, L. de. Little wide-awake. (Mr '68)
 Waber, B. Anteatore named Arthur. (Mr '68)
 Walden, A. E. Spy who talked too much. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Walker, B. K., comp. Once there was and twice there wasn't. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Walker, R. H. Everyday life in the age of enterprise, 1865-1900. (My '68)
 Walsh, J. Truants. (O '68)
 Walsh, J. P. Dolphin crossing. (Mr '68)
 Warwick, A. R. Let's look at prehistoric animals. (D '68)
 Watson, S. Hornet's nest. (Ag '68)
 Webb, R. N. Hannibal. (Ag '68)
 Webster, D. Crossroad puzzlers. (My '68)
 Webster, J. Daddy-Long-Legs. (Ag '68)
 Weir, R. Pyewacket. (Ag '68)
 Weiss, H. Sailing small boats. (Je '68)
 Wells, H. G. Adventures of Tommy. (Ap '68)
 Wersba, B. Dream watcher. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Werstein, I. I accuse. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Werstein, I. Plotters. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Werstein, I. This wounded land. (O '68)
 Werstein, I. Uprising of the Warsaw ghetto, November 1940-May 1943. (S '68)
 Westwood, G. Narni of the desert. (Ag '68)
 Westwood, J., ed. & tr. Medieval tales. (O '68)
 Wezel, P. Naughty bird. (Mr '68)
 Wheeler, T. G. Fanfare for the stalwart. (S '68)
 White, F. M. Your friend, the insect. (S '68)
 White, R. Sunset for Red Elk. (Ag '68)
 White, R. Surrender. (Je '68)
 Wiemer, R. O. Good robber Willibald. (S '68)
 Wildsmith, B. Brian Wildsmith's fishes. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Wildsmith, B. Brian Wildsmith's wild animals. (My '68)
 Wilhelm, M. For the glory of France. (Ag '68)
 Williams, F. L. Plantation patriot. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Williams-Ellis, A. Old world & new world fairy tales. (Mr '68)
 Williamson, J. S. To dream upon a crown. (Mr '68)
 Wisbeski, D. True story of Okee the otter. (Mr '68)
 Wise, W. E. Fanny Kemble: actress, author, abolitionist. (Mr '68)
 Wise, W. E. Fray Junipero Serra and the California conquest. (Ap '68)
 Withers, C. World of nonsense. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Wojciechowska, M. Single light. (S '68)
 Wojciechowska, M. Tuned out. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Wolcott, L. Religions around the world. (Ag '68)
 Wolff, R. J. Feeling blue. (Ag '68)
 Wolff, R. J. Seeing red. (Ag '68)
 Wondriska, W. Mr. Brown and Mr. Gray. (N '68)
 Wood, J. P. Mr Jonathan Edwards. (N '68)
 Wood, J. P. Spunkwater, spunkwater! (O '68)
 Wood, J. P. Sunnyside. (My '68)
 Wrightson, P. Racecourse for Andy. (O '68)
 Yeats, W. B. Running to paradise. (D '68)
 Young, B. Forged in silver. (Ag '68)
 Young, B. Simón Bolívar. (S '68)
 Young, P. M. Britten. (Ag '68)
 Young, P. M. Keyboard musicians of the world. (N '68)
 Zel, A. Wildcat under glass. (S '68)
 Zim, H. S. Corals. (Mr '68)
 Zim, H. S. Waves. (D '68)
 Zinkin, T. India and her neighbours. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Zistel, E. Dangerous year. (Je '68)

Mystery stories

- Bonham, F. Mystery of the fat cat. (N '68)
 L'Engle, M. Young unicorns. (Ag '68)
 Moyes, P. Helter-skelter. (Ag '68)
 Snyder, Z. K. Eyes in the fishbowl. (Ag '68)
 Juvenile literature (Collective)
 Morton, M., ed. Harvest of Russian children's literature. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Weiss, R. K., comp. Paper zoo. (D '68)

- Kafka, Franz
 Albères, R. M. Kafka: the torment of man. (N '68)
Kafka: the torment of man. Albères, R. M. (N '68)
Kaleidoscope. Hayden, R., ed. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Kamehameha IV, King of the Hawaiian Islands
 Kamehameha IV. Journal of Prince Alexander Liholiho. (O '68)
- Kanchenjunga
 Tucker, J. Kanchenjunga. (Ag '68)
- Kangaroos
 Breeden, S. Life of the kangaroo. (Ap '68)
- Kangchenjunga. See Kanchenjunga
- Kansas
 Politics and government
 McCoy, D. R. Landon of Kansas. (Mr '68)
- Kansas City, Missouri
 Politics and government
 Dorsett, L. W. Pendergast machine. (N '68)
- Kant, Immanuel
 Heidegger, M. What is a thing? (S '68)
 Critique of pure reason
 Gram, M. S., ed. & tr. Kant: disputed questions. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual) Kant: disputed questions. Gram, M. S., ed. & tr. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Karimojong, Uganda
 Dyson-Hudson, N. Karimojong politics. (S '68)
- Karimojong politics. Dyson-Hudson, N. (S '68)
- Karl Marx: the passionate logician. Carmichael, J. (Ap '68)
- Karsh portfolio. Karsh, Y. (Mr '68)
- Kashmir
 Politics and government
 Sharma, B. L. Kashmir story. (S '68)
 Social life and customs
 Madan, T. N. Family and kinship. (Je '68)
- Kashmir story. Sharma, B. L. (S '68)
- Kate Greenaway treasury. Greenaway, K. (My '68)
- Kate, Simon's London: places & pleasures. Simon, K. (N '68)
- Katz, Shmuel
 Katz, S. Days of fire. (Ag '68)
- Kaunda, Kenneth David
 Kaunda, K. D. Humanist in Africa. (Ap '68)
- Kävik the wolf dog. Morey, W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Kazantzakis, Nikos
 Kazantzakis, H. Nikos Kazantzakis. (D '68)
- Keats, John
 Gittings, R. John Keats. (O '68)
- Kemble, Frances Anne
 Juvenile literature
 Wise, W. E. Fanny Kemble: actress, author, abolitionist. (Mr '68)
- Kennan, George
 Kennan, G. F. Memoirs, 1925-1950. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Kennedy, John Fitzgerald
 Ions, E. S. Politics of John F. Kennedy. (Ag '68)
 Lincoln, E. Kennedy and Johnson. (My '68)
 Wicker, T. JFK and LBJ. (Ag '68)
- Assassination
 Bishop, J. Day Kennedy was shot. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Lane, M. Citizen's dissent. (S '68)
 Meagher, S. Accessories after the fact. (Ap '68)
 Sparrow, J. After the assassination. (Je '68)
 Thompson, J. Six seconds in Dallas. (Ap '68)
 White, S. Should we now believe the Warren report? (N '68)
 Wills, G. Jack Ruby. (Ap '68)
- Kennedy, Robert Francis
 Kimball, P. Bobby Kennedy and the new politics. (Ag '68)
 Laing, M. Next Kennedy. (Ap '68)
 Schaap, D. R. F. K. (My '68)
 Shannon, W. V. Heir apparent. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Kennedy and Johnson. Lincoln, E. (My '68)
- Kent, Louise Andrews
 Kent, L. A. Mrs Appleyard and I. (O '68)
- Kentucky
 History
 Clark, T. D. Kentucky: land of contrast. (Je '68)
- Kentucky: land of contrast. Clark, T. D. (Je '68)
- Kenya
 Roberts, J. S. Land full of people. (Je '68)
 History
 MacPhee, A. M. Kenya. (O '68)
 Politics and government
 Odinga, O. Not yet uhuru. (My '68)
 Social life and customs
 Adamson, J. Peoples of Kenya. (Mr '68)
- Kenya. MacPhee, A. M. (O '68)
- Kesey, Ken
 Wolfe, T. Electric kool-aid acid test. (O '68)
- Key, David McKendree
 Abshire, D. M. South rejects a prophet. (S '68)
- Keyboard musicians of the world. Young, P. M. (N '68)
- Keys to Lolita. Proffer, C. R. (Ag '68)
- Keystone Film Company
 Lahue, K. C. Kops and custards. (O '68)
- Khair al-Din, called Barbarossa II, dey of Algiers
 Bradford, E. Sultan's admiral. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Kicking to win. Summerall, P. (N '68)
- Kierkegaard, Søren Aabye
 Eller, V. Kierkegaard and radical discipleship. (Ag '68)
 Kierkegaard, S. Søren Kierkegaard's journals and papers, v 1. (Ap '68)
 Thompson, J. Lonely labyrinth. (Ap '68)
- Kierkegaard and radical discipleship. Eller, V. (Ag '68)
- Kievan Christianity: the tenth to the thirteenth centuries; v 1 of The Russian religious mind [reissue]. Fedotov, G. P. (Mr '68)
- Kiki of Montparnasse. Kohner, F. (Mr '68)
- Kill 3. Shulman, M. (Ap '68)
- Killer mountains. Gentry, C. (D '68)
- Killer smog. Wise, W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Killing for the hawks. Smith, F. E. (Ap '68)
- Killing of Sister George. Marcus, F. (Mr '68)
- Kindergarten
 Webb, L. Children with special needs in the infants' school. (O '68)
- Kindred spirits. Callow, J. T. (O '68)
- Kinds of affection. Miles, J. (D '68)
- King, Coleman, L. (Je '68)
- King Arthur and his knights. Malory, T. (N '68)
- King cotton & his retainers. Woodman, H. D. (O '68)
- King Henry V. Hutchison, H. F. (Mr '68)
- King-killers. Dewey, T. B. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- King Philip's War, 1675-1676
 Burke, C. T. Puritans at bay. (Mr '68)
- King, queen, knave. Nabokov, V. (Ag '68)
- King snake. Eckert, A. W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- King Stephen, 1135-1154. Davis, R. H. C. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Kingdom of art: Willa Cather's first principles and critical statements, 1893-1896. Cather, W. (Mr '68)
- Kingdom of God
 Schweitzer, A. Kingdom of God and primitive Christianity. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Kingdom of God and primitive Christianity. Schweitzer, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Kingdom of Quito in the seventeenth century. Phelan, J. L. (N '68)
- Kings and rulers
 Dvornik, F. Early Christian and Byzantine political philosophy, 2v. (Ag '68)
 Wise, L. F., ed. Kings, rulers and statesmen. (Ag '68)
 Biography
 Canning J., ed. 100 great kings, queens and rulers of the world. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Juvenile literature
 Barry, E. Men who changed the map, A.D. 400 to 1914. (N '68)
- King's astronomer: William Herschel. Crawford, D. (Ag '68)
- King's flute. Palamas, K. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- King's great matter. Parmiter, G. de C. (My '68)
- Kings in winter. Holland, C. (S '68)
- Kings of infinite space. Balchin, N. (S '68)
- Kings, rulers and statesmen. Wise, L. F., ed. (Ag '68)
- Kinship
 Leichter, H. J. Kinship and casework. (S '68)
 Madan, T. N. Family and kinship. (Je '68)
- Kinship and casework. Leichter, H. J. (S '68)

Kiss for Little Bear. Minarik, E. H. (Ja '69)
(1968 Annual)
Kiss kiss bang bang. Kael, P. (Je '68)
Kitchen Madonna. Godden, R. (Mr '68)

Kites
Hart, C. Kites. (Ap '68)

Kitson Clark, George Sidney Roberts
Ideas and institutions of Victorian Britain. (Ag '68)

Klansman, Huile, W. B. (Ag '68)

Klee, Paul
Grohmann, W. Paul Klee. (My '68)

Juvenile literature

Raboff, E. Paul Klee. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Kleist, Heinrich von
Gearey, J. Heinrich von Kleist. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Knights and knighthood
Liu, J. J. Y. Chinese knight-errant. (O '68)

Juvenile literature

Suskind, R. Men in armor. (Je '68)

Knowledge, Sociology of
Connolly, W. E. Political science & ideology. (Je '68)

Knowledge, Theory of
Locke, D. Perception and our knowledge of the external world. (Ag '68)

Knowledge and power. Lakoff, S. A., ed. (Ap '68)

Knowledge and the future of man. Ong, W. J., ed. (My '68)

Knowledge of God in ancient Israel. Dentan, R. C. (Ag '68)

Knox, John
Ridley, J. John Knox. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Kohima. Eng title of: The battle of Kohima. Swinson, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Kohima, Battle of, 1944
Swinson, A. Battle of Kohima. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Kokoschka, Oskar
Schmalenbach, F. Oskar Kokoschka. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Komarov botanical institute. Shetler, S. G. (N '68)

Kon in springtime. Connor, T. (S '68)

Kon-Tiki Expedition, 1947
Jacoby, A. Señor Kon-Tiki. (Mr '68)

Kops and custards. Lahue, K. C. (O '68)

Korai, Richter, G. M. A. (D '68)

Korea

Foreign relations

Japan

Choi, W. Fall of the hermit kingdom. (Ap '68)

United States

Cho, S. S. Korea in world politics, 1940-1950. (My '68)

History

Cho, S. S. Korea in world politics, 1940-1950. (My '68)

Choi, W. Fall of the hermit kingdom. (Ap '68)

Korea (Democratic People's Republic)
Burchett, W. G. Again Korea. (Ag '68)

Korea in world politics, 1940-1950. Cho, S. S. (My '68)

Korean-English dictionary. Martin, S. E. (O '68)

Korean language

Dictionaries

English

Martin, S. E. Korean-English dictionary. (O '68)

Korean minority in Japan. Mitchell, R. H. (N '68)

Korean War, 1950-1953
Burchett, W. G. Again Korea. (Ag '68)
George, A. L. Chinese communist army in action. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Heinl, R. D. Victory at high tide. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Ridgway, M. B. Korean War. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Sheldon, W. Hell or high water. (Ag '68)

Korean War. Ridgway, M. B. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Koreans in Japan
Mitchell, R. H. Korean minority in Japan. (N '68)

Kościuszko, Tadeusz Andrzej Bonaventura

Juvenile literature

Abodaher, D. J. Warrior on two continents. Thaddeus Kosciuszko. (S '68)

Kramer, Jerry
Kramer, J. Instant replay. (N '68)

Kraus, Karl
Field, F. Last days of mankind. (Ag '68)
Krishna: myths, rites, and attitudes. Singer, M., ed. (Je '68)

Krock, Arthur
Krock, A. Memoirs. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Krupp family
Manchester, W. Arms of Krupp, 1587-1968. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Krupp'sche Gusstahlfabrik, Essen
Manchester, W. Arms of Krupp, 1587-1968. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Ku Klux Klan (1915- )
Jackson, K. T. Ku Klux Klan in the city, 1915-1930. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Ku Klux Klan in the city, 1915-1930. Jackson, K. T. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Kuac, Moses
Vandevort, E. Leopard tamed. (Ag '68)

Kun, Béla
Tökés, R. L. Béla Kun and the Hungarian Soviet Republic. (Ap '68)

Kuper, Jack. See Kuperblum, J.

Kuperblum, Jankele
Kuper, J. Child of the holocaust. (Ag '68)

Kwakiutl ethnography. Boas, F. (My '68)

Kwakiutl Indians
Boas, F. Kwakiutl ethnography. (My '68)
Hawthorn, A. Art of the Kwakiutl Indians, and other Northwest Coast tribes. (Je '68)

Kwi-na the eagle, and other Indian tales. Jagendorf, M. A. (Ag '68)

Kyoto

Juvenile literature

Floethe, L. L. Thousand and one Buddhas. (Mr '68)

Kyoto in the Momoyama period. Cole, W. (My '68)

LSD

Abramson, H. A., ed. Use of LSD in psychotherapy and alcoholism. (Mr '68)

DeBold, R. C., ed. LSD, man & society. (Ag '68)

Wolfe, T. Electric kool-aid acid test. (O '68)

LSD, man & society. DeBold, R. C., ed. (Ag '68)

Labor and laboring classes

Parker, S. R. Sociology of industry. (O '68)

Romualdi, S. Presidents and peons. (N '68)

See also

Child labor

Education

Hoos, I. R. Retraining the work force. (S '68)

Africa

Meynaud, J. Trade unionism in Africa. (My '68)

Cuba

Zeitlin, M. Revolutionary politics and the Cuban working class. (O '68)

France

Hamilton, R. F. Affluence and the French worker in the Fourth Republic. (My '68)

Sartre, J. P. Communists and peace, 2 pts in 1. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Great Britain

Wootton, G. Workers, unions and the state. (Ap '68)

London

Booth, C. Charles Booth's London. (Ap '68)

Milwaukee

Korman, G. Industrialization, immigrants, and Americanizers. (Ap '68)

New York (State)

Miller, D. T. Jacksonian aristocracy. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Russia

Conquest, R., ed. Soviet nationalities policy in practice. (Ap '68)

Southern States

Marshall, F. R. Labor in the South. (O '68)

United States

Gordon, R. A., ed. Toward a manpower policy. (S '68)

Meltzer, M. Bread—and roses. (Ap '68)

Labor in the South. Marshall, F. R. (O '68)

Labor party (Australia)

Ford, P. Cardinal Moran and the A.L.P. (Ap '68)

Labor supply

- Blau, P. M. American occupational structure. (S '68)
 Ginzberg, E. Manpower strategy for the metropolis. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Kindleberger, C. P. Europe's postwar growth. (Mr '68)
 Maddox, J. G. Advancing South. (N '68)
 Wolfbein, S. L. Occupational information. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Labor turnover

- Brown, D. G. Mobile professors. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Labor unions

- Ashby, J. C. Organized labor and the Mexican revolution under Lázaro Cárdenas. (O '68)
 Bisno, A. Abraham Bisno, union pioneer. (S '68)
 Goodman, J. S. Democrats and labor in Rhode Island, 1952-1962. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Marshall, F. R. Labor in the South. (O '68)
 Meynaud, J. Trade unionism in Africa. (My '68)
 Montgomery, D. Beyond equality. (S '68)
 Munts, R. Bargaining for health. (O '68)
 Pierson, F. C. Unions in postwar America. (Je '68)
 Romualdi, S. Presidents and peons. (N '68)
 Schneiderman, R. All for one. (Ag '68)
 Wootton, G. Workers, unions and the state. (Ap '68)

Juvenile literature

- Selvin, D. F. Champions of labor. (Je '68)
 Ladies bountiful. Rogers, W. G. (My '68)
 Ladies' Close. Kilpatrick, S. (Ag '68)
 Lady Ellen Grae. Cleaver, V. (D '68)
 Lady in the car with glasses and a gun. Japrisot, S. (Mr '68)

Ladybirds*Juvenile literature

- Hawes, J. Ladybug, ladybug, fly away home. (Mr '68)
 Ladybug, ladybug, fly away home. Hawes, J. (Mr '68)

Laity

- Femiano, S. D. Infallibility of the laity. (S '68)

Lamaism

- Snellgrove, D. L., ed. & tr. Four lamas of Dolpo, v 1. (My '68)
 L'Amante anglaise. Duras, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Lanced in light. Rubin, L. (S '68)

Land

- Agrarian history of England and Wales, v4. (Ap '68)
 Land and people of Indonesia. Smith, D. C. (Ag '68)
 Land and people of Rhodesia. Kaula, E. M. (My '68)
 Land and people of the West Indies. Sherlock, P. (My '68)
 Land boomers. Cannon, M. (Ap '68)
 Land full of people. Roberts, J. S. (Je '68)
 Land of seagull and fox. Sun, R. Q., comp. (S '68)
 Land of urban promise. Kulski, J. E. (Ap '68)

Land tenure

- Burroughs, P. Britain and Australia, 1831-1855. (O '68)
 Harris, R. C. Seigneurial system in early Canada. (Ag '68)
 Obeyesekere, G. Land tenure in village Ceylon. (My '68)
 Raj, J. Mutiny and British land policy in North India, 1856-1868. (Ap '68)
 Saab, G. S. Egyptian agrarian reform: 1952-1962. (Mr '68)
 Smith, T. L. Colombia. (Ag '68)
 Land tenure in village Ceylon. Obeyesekere, G. (My '68)

- Landform studies from Australia and New Guinea. Jennings, J. N., ed. (S '68)

Landmarks of the world's art series:

- Garbini, G. Ancient world. (Mr '68)
 Grube, E. J. World of Islam. (Mr '68)
 Kidson, P. Medieval world. (Ag '68)

Landon, Alfred Mossman

- McCoy, D. R. Landon of Kansas. (Mr '68)
 Landon of Kansas. McCoy, D. R. (Mr '68)

Landscape painting

- De Silva, A. Art of Chinese landscape painting. (Ag '68)
 Loehr, M. Chinese landscape woodcuts. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Lane, Joseph

- Hendrickson, J. E. Joe Lane of Oregon. (Mr '68)

Lane, Mark*Rush to Judgment

- Lane, M. Citizen's dissent. (S '68)
Language and languages
 Bolinger, D. Aspects of language. (O '68)
 Chatman, S., ed. Essays on the language of literature. (Ag '68)
 Hayden, D. E., ed. Classics in linguistics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 High, D. M. Language, person, and belief. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Kearney, R. N. Communalism and language in the politics of Ceylon. (N '68)
 Lawton, D. Social class, language and education. (D '68)
 Leroy, M. Main trends in modern linguistics. (O '68)
 McIntosh, A. Patterns of language. (Mr '68)
 Pel, M., ed. Language today. (O '68)
 Pel, M. What's in a word? (Ag '68)
 Postman, N. Linguistics. (Mr '68)
 Rauch, I., ed. Approaches in linguistic methodology. (Ap '68)
 Revzin, I. I. Models of language. (Ag '68)

Dictionaries

- Parlett, D. S. Short dictionary of languages. (Ag '68)

Electronic data processing

- Borko, H., ed. Automated language processing. (N '68)

History

- Robins, R. H. Short history of linguistics. (O '68)

Juvenile literature

- Hautzig, E. In the park. (S '68)

Philosophy

- Ong, W. J. Presence of the Word. (Mr '68)

Psychology

- Edinburgh university conference on psycholinguistics, 1966. Psycholinguistics papers. (Ap '68)

- Language and style in Milton. Emma, R. D., ed. (O '68)
 Language and thought in Sophocles. Long, A. A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Language barrier: beasts and men. Borgese, E. M. (Ag '68)
 Language, hermeneutic, and Word of God. Funk, R. W. (Ag '68)
 Language of painting. Barron, J. N. (N '68)
 Language, persons, and belief. High, D. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Language today. Pel, M., ed. (O '68)
 Lansdowne, William Petty, 1st Marquis of Brown, P. Chathamites. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Large-scale organization; v 1 of The emergent American society. Warner, W. L., ed. (Mr '68)
 Larger than life. Buzzati, D. (Ag '68)

Lasers

- Fishlock, D., ed. Guide to the laser. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

- Nehrich, R. B. Atomic light: lasers—what they are and how they work. (Ag '68)
 Last best friend. Sims, G. (Je '68)
 Last, best hope: Eduardo Frei & Chilean democracy. Gross, L. (Mr '68)
 Last chance in Europe. Lerche, C. O. (Mr '68)
 Last days of mankind. Field, F. (Ag '68)
 Last days of the late, great state of California. Gentry, C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Last ditch. Lampe, D. (Ag '68)
 Last great cause. Weintraub, S. (Je '68)
 Last hero: Charles A. Lindbergh. Ross, W. S. (My '68)
 Last landscape. Whyte, W. H. (D '68)
 Last of the Greeks. Davis, O. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Last reflections on a war. Fall, B. B. (Mr '68)
 Last summer. Hunter, E. (O '68)
 Last three popes and the Jews. Eng title of: Three popes and the Jews. Lapide, P. E. (Je '68)
 Last trial. Spiegel, S. (Ag '68)
 Last unicorn. Beagle, P. S. (Je '68)
 Last year of Malcolm X. Breitman, G. (Mr '68)
 Late medieval Scots poetry. Scott, T., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Late Roman studies. Coster, C. H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Latent image. Newhall, B. (Je '68)
 Later correspondence of George III, v3-4. George III, King of Great Britain. (O '68)
 Later years, 1945-1962; v3 of Diaries and letters. Nicolson, H. (S '68)

Latin America

- Lipset, S. M., ed. Elites in Latin America. (Ap '68)
 Martin, M. R. Encyclopedia of Latin-American history [rev. ed.]. (N '68)

Bibliography

- Bayitch, S. A. Latin America and the Caribbean. (N '68)

Civilization

- Franco, J. Modern culture of Latin America: society and the artist. (Mr '68)
 Wagley, C. Latin American tradition. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Description and travel

- Hyde, D. Troubled continent. (Ap '68)

Economic policy

- Anderson, C. W. Politics and economic change in Latin America. (Ap '68)
 Campos, R. de O. Reflections on Latin American development. (N '68)

Foreign relations*United States

- Slater, J. OAS and United States foreign policy. (My '68)

Politics

- Alba, V. Nationalists without nations. (N '68)
 Anderson, C. W. Politics and economic change in Latin America. (Ap '68)
 Andreski, S. Parasitism and subversion. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Campos, R. de O. Reflections on Latin American development. (N '68)
 Debray, R. Revolution in the revolution? (Mr '68)
 Lambert, J. Latin America. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Romualdi, S. Presidents and peons. (N '68)
 Veliz, C., ed. Politics of conformity in Latin America. (S '68)
 Williams, E. J. Latin American Christian democratic parties. (Ap '68)

Relations (general) with the United States

- Rogers, W. D. Twilight struggle. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Social conditions

- Andreski, S. Parasitism and subversion. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Hyde, D. Troubled continent. (Ap '68)
 Lambert, J. Latin America. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Veliz, C., ed. Politics of conformity in Latin America. (S '68)
Latin America. Lambert, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Latin America and the Caribbean. Bayitch, S. A. (N '68)
Latin American Christian democratic parties. Williams, E. J. (Ap '68)
Latin American literature
 Franco, J. Modern culture of Latin America: society and the artist. (Mr '68)
Latin American tradition. Wagley, C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Latin biography. Dorey, T. A., ed. (S '68)
Latin language

Dictionaries*English

- Follett world-wide Latin dictionary. (My '68)

Latin literature

- Bolton, W. F. History of Anglo-Latin literature, 597-1066, v 1. (S '68)

Latin poetry*Dictionaries

- Swanson, D. C. Names in Roman verse. (O '68)

History and criticism

- Mendell, C. W. Latin poetry. (N '68)
Latin poetry. Mendell, C. W. (N '68)
Laugh peddler. Christgau, A. E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Law

- Traver, R. Jealous mistress. (Ap '68)

Dictionaries

- Heimanson, R. Dictionary of political science and law. (Ap '68)

Africa

- Gower, L. C. B. Independent Africa. (Ag '68)

China (People's Republic of China)

- Cohen, J. A. Criminal process in the People's Republic of China, 1949-1963. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Great Britain*See also

Poor law—Great Britain

Rome

- Crook, J. Law and life of Rome. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Watson, A. Law of persons in the later Roman Republic. (D '68)

Russia

- Berman, H. J. Disarmament inspection under Soviet law. (S '68)
 Conquest, R., ed. Justice and the legal system in the U.S.S.R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Uganda

- Goldschmidt, W. Sebel law. (N '68)

United States

- Berle, A. A. Three faces of power. (Je '68)
 Brennan, W. J. Affair with freedom. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Dolbeare, K. M. Trial courts in urban politics. (N '68)
 Farmer, R. A. Rights of the mentally ill. (S '68)
 Friendly, H. J. Benchmarks. (Mr '68)
 Goldstein, A. S. Insanity defense. (Je '68)
 Wilson, J. Works of James Wilson, 2v. (Je '68)
Law and equal opportunity. Mayhew, L. H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Law and life of Rome. Crook, J. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Law as a profession
 Eldredge, L. H. Trials of a Philadelphia lawyer. (S '68)
 Heller, L. B. Do you solemnly swear? (My '68)

Law enforcement

- Cipes, R. M. Crime war. (S '68)
Law for liberty, the role of law in the church today. Biechler, J. E., ed. (D '68)
Law of persons in the later Roman Republic. Watson, A. (D '68)
Law of the sea. Alexander, L. M., ed. (S '68)
Lawbreakers. Evans, M. S. (My '68)

Lawrence, Ernest Orlando

- Childs, H. American genius: the life of Ernest Orlando Lawrence. (Ag '68)
 Davis, N. P. Lawrence and Oppenheimer. (N '68)
 Lawrence and Oppenheimer. Davis, N. P. (N '68)

- Lawrence Durrell: a critical study. Fraser, G. S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Lawyer and his community. Handler, J. F. (Ag '68)

Lawyers

- Gower, L. C. B. Independent Africa. (Ag '68)
 Handler, J. F. Lawyer and his community. (Ag '68)
Lawyer's job: in court, in the Army, in the office. Greenbaum, E. S. (Ap '68)

- Layard, Sir Austen Henry
 Waterfield, G. Layard of Nineveh. (Ag '68)
 Layard of Nineveh. Waterfield, G. (Ag '68)

Leadership

- Lipset, S. M., ed. Elites in Latin America. (Ap '68)

League of Nations

- Dexter, B. Years of opportunity: the League of nations, 1920-1926. (N '68)

Lear, Edward

- Hofer, P. Edward Lear ■ a landscape draughtsman. (Je '68)

Learning and scholarship

- Black, M., ed. Morality of scholarship. (Je '68)
 Kampf, L. On modernism. (O '68)
 Kosa, J., ed. Home of the learned man. (D '68)

- MacDonald, H. M., ed. Intellectual in politics. (Ap '68)

- Learning society. Hutchins, R. M. (Ag '68)
 Learning to read. Chall, J. (Ap '68)

Leary, Timothy Francis

- Leary, T. High priest. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Leaving the surface. Harris, S. J. (O '68)

Lebanon*Description and travel

- Sykes, J. Mountain Arabs. (D '68)

Politics and government

- Suleiman, M. W. Political parties in Lebanon. (My '68)

- Le Corbusier. See Jeanneret-Gris, C. E.
 Le Corbusier, 1910-65. Le Corbusier. (Mr '68)
 Lectures on European history, 1789-1914; men, machines, and freedom. McManners, J. (Ag '68)

- Lectures on the essence of religion. Feuerbach, L. (Ag '68)
- Le Despencer, Francis Dashwood, 15th Baron Kemp, B. Sir Francis Dashwood: an eighteenth century independent. (Mr '86)
- Legal base for universities in developing countries. Hannah, H. W. (Ag '68)
- Legend of the willow plate. Tresselt, A. (Ag '68)
- Legends
- Juvenile literature
- Untermeyer, L. Firebringer. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- China
- Juvenile literature
- Tresselt, A. Legend of the willow plate. (Ag '68)
- France
- Juvenile literature
- Westwood, J., ed. & tr. Medieval tales. (O '68)
- Great Britain
- Juvenile literature
- Westwood, J., ed. & tr. Medieval tales. (O '68)
- Ireland
- Juvenile literature
- Pilkington, F. M. Shamrock and spear. (Ag '68)
- Legends of our time. Wiesel, E. (D '68)
- Legislative bodies
- Main, J. T. Upper house in revolutionary America, 1763-1788. (O '68)
- Ringold, M. S. Role of the state legislatures in the Confederacy. (Ap '68)
- Lehmann, Rosamond
- Lehmann, R. Swan in the evening. (Je '68)
- Leigh, Augusta
- Gunn, P. My dearest Augusta. (N '68)
- Leigh-Mallory, George Herbert
- Juvenile literature
- Styles, S. Mallory of Everest. (D '68)
- Leiserson, William Morris
- Eisner, J. M. William Morris Leiserson. (Ap '68)
- Leisure
- Brightbill, C. K. Educating for leisure-centered living. (Ap '68)
- Leisure class
- Sombart, W. Luxury and capitalism. (Ag '68)
- Lenin, Vladimir Il'ich
- Gruber, H. International communism in the era of Lenin. (Ap '68)
- Schapiro, L. Lenin: the man, the theorist, the leader. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Wolfe, B. D. Bridge and the abyss. (Mr '68)
- Wolfenstein, E. V. Revolutionary personality. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Juvenile literature
- Columbia broadcasting system incorporated. CBS News. Lenin and Trotsky. (Ag '68)
- Lenin and Trotsky. Columbia broadcasting system, incorporated. CBS News. (Ag '68)
- Lenin: the man, the theorist, the leader. Schapiro, L. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Leo Frank case. Dinnerstein, L. (Ag '68)
- Leon, Griffiths, H. (Je '68)
- Leopard tamed. Vandevort, E. (Ag '68)
- Leopards in the temple. Galler, D. (D '68)
- Leprechaun tales. Green, K. (Je '68)
- Lesotho
- History
- Stevens, R. P. Lesotho, Botswana, & Swaziland. (Je '68)
- Lesotho, Botswana, & Swaziland. Stevens, R. P. (Je '68)
- Lessons of history. Durant, W. (O '68)
- Letcher, John
- Boney, F. N. John Letcher of Virginia. (Mr '68)
- Let's find out about insects. Knight, D. C. (Je '68)
- Let's find out about the city. Pitt, V. (Ag '68)
- Let's look at prehistoric animals. Warwick, A. R. (D '68)
- Let's look at puppets. Philpott, A. R. (Ag '68)
- Let's visit Italy. Bartlett, V. (N '68)
- Let's work together. Wright, N. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Letter book: London and Philadelphia, 1681-1684. Claypoole, J. (Ag '68)
- Letter of Paul to the Galatians. Bible. New Testament. Galatians. (Mr '68)
- Letter of Paul to the Romans. Bible. New Testament. Romans. (Mr '68)
- Letters [enl & rev ed]. Jewett, S. O. (D '68)
- Letters and papers of Edmund Pendleton, 1734-1803, 2v. Pendleton, E. (Je '68)
- Letters from Ludwig Wittgenstein. Wittgenstein, L. (O '68)
- Letters from Mesopotamia. Oppenheim, A. L., ed & tr. (O '68)
- Letters from Peking. Jenner, D. (Ap '68)
- Letters of Carl Sandburg. Sandburg, C. (D '68)
- Letters of composers through six centuries. Weiss, P., comp. & ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Letters of Ernest Dowson. Dowson, E. (S '68)
- Letters of John Addington Symonds, v 1. Symonds, J. A. (My '68)
- Letters of Nikolai Gogol. Gogol, N. (Ap '68)
- Letters of Peter and Jude. Leaney, A. R. C. (My '68)
- Letters of Pietro Aretino. Aretino, P. (Mr '68)
- Letters of Rupert Brooke. Brooke, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Letters on wave mechanics. (Je '68)
- Letters to an American lady. Lewis, C. S. (O '68)
- Letters to Georgian friends. Pasternak, B. (Ag '68)
- Letters to Macmillan. Macmillan & company, limited. (O '68)
- Letters to Philip: on how to treat a woman. Shedd, C. W. (My '68)
- Letters to the editor. Adler, B., comp. & ed. (My '68)
- Letters to two friends, 1926-1952. Teilhard de Chardin, P. (Ag '68)
- Levant, Oscar
- Levant, O. Unimportance of being Oscar. (O '68)
- Lévi-Strauss, Claude
- Conference on recent anthropological studies of myth and totemism. School of Oriental and African studies, 1964. Structural study of myth and totemism. (Ag '68)
- Levittown, New Jersey
- Gans, H. J. Levittowners. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Levittowners. Gans, H. J. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Levy, William Turner
- Levy, W. T. Affectionately. T. S. Eliot. (N '68)
- Lewis, Clive Staples
- Cunningham, R. B. C. S. Lewis: defender of the faith. (S '68)
- Lewis, C. S. Letters to an American lady. (O '68)
- Lewis, Sinclair
- Dooley, D. J. Art of Sinclair Lewis. (Je '68)
- Lewis, Wilmarth Sheldon
- Lewis, W. M. One man's education. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Lewis W. Hine and the American social conscience. Gutman, J. M. (S '68)
- Lexicon of the German in Finnegans wake. Bopheim, H. (Je '68)
- Li, Fei-kan
- Lang, O. Pa Chin and his writings. (Je '68)
- Li, Hung-chang
- Folsom, K. E. Friends, guests, and colleagues. (N '68)
- Li, Ta-chao
- Meisner, M. Li Ta-chao and the origins of Chinese Marxism. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Li Ta-chao and the origins of Chinese Marxism. Meisner, M. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Libel and academic freedom. Rose, A. M. (O '68)
- Libel and slander
- Rose, A. M. Libel and academic freedom. (O '68)
- Liberal state at war. Anderson, O. (Ag '68)
- Liberalism
- Gettleman, M. E., ed. Great society reader. (Mr '68)
- Kaufman, A. S. Radical liberal. (Je '68)
- Liberia
- Social life and customs
- Warner, E. Crossing fee. (Je '68)
- Liberty
- Stephen, J. F. Liberty, equality, fraternity. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Liberty, equality, fraternity. Stephen, J. F. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Libraries
- Automation
- Cox, N. S. M., ed. Organization and handling of bibliographic records by computer. (S '68)
- South Carolina
- Moore, J. H., ed. Research materials in South Carolina. (N '68)

Libraries, Children's

Gross, E. H. Public library service to children. (O '68)

Libraries, College and university

Shores, L., ed. Library-college. (Je '68)

Library Association

Palmer, B. I. From little acorns. (N '68)

Library-college. Shores, L., ed. (Je '68)

Library of Congress. See United States. Library of Congress

Library science

Carlson, W. H. In a grand and awful time. (N '68)

Palmer, B. I. From little acorns. (N '68)

Wilson, L. R. Education and libraries. (Ap '68)

Library surveys

Line, M. B. Library surveys. (Ag '68)

Tauber, M. F., ed. Library surveys (Ag '68)

Lice. Merwin, W. S. (Ap '68)

Lichen symbiosis. Almadjian, V. (D '68)

Lichens

Ahmadjian, V. Lichen symbiosis. (D '68)

Life*Origin

Bernal, J. D. Origin of life. (S '68)

Broms, A. Thus life began. (N '68)

Life (Biology)

Milne, L. J. Ages of life. (O '68)

Life and thought in the early middle ages.

Hoyt, R. S., ed. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Life and writings of Bartolomé de las Casas.

Wagner, H. R. (Ap '68)

Life, death, and the doctor. Lasagna, L. (Ag '68)

Life of a poet. Carver, P. L. (Je '68)

Life of Francesco Guicciardini. Ridolfi, R. (O '68)

Life of George Bent. Bent, G. (S '68)

Life of politics. Fairlie, H. (Ag '68)

Life of prairies and plains. Allen, D. L. (Ap '68)

Life of Teilhard de Chardin. Spealght, R. (My '68)

Life of the kangaroo. Breeden, S. (Ap '68)

Life on a little-known planet. Evans, H. E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Life on tiger mountain. Petite, I. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Life Science series:

Modell, W. Drugs. (O '68)

Life with Queen Victoria. Mallet, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Lifetime with lions. Adamson, G. (O '68)

Light

British ecological society. Light as an ecological factor. (Ap '68)

Light affliction. Eng title of: A hilltop in hazard. Rider, A. (Ag '68)

Light and electricity in the atmosphere. Hellman, H. (S '68)

Light around the body. Bly, R. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Light as an ecological factor. British ecological society. (Ap '68)

Light for the world. Silverberg, R. (My '68)

Light on Israel. Samuel, M. (Ag '68)

Light under islands. Squires, R. (O '68)

Lightning*Juvenile literature

Hellman, H. Light and electricity in the atmosphere. (S '68)

Lightning war. Byford-Jones, W. (N '68)

Like any other man. Boyle, P. (Ag '68)

Limestone. Stifter, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Limits of power. McCarthy, E. J. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Lincoln, Abraham

Heckman, R. A. Lincoln vs. Douglas. (S '68)

Portion of that field. (Ap '68)

Juvenile literature

Miers, E. S. That Lincoln boy. (Ag '68)

Lincoln, George Arthur

Jordan, A. A., ed. Issues of national security in the 1970's. (Ag '68)

Lincoln vs. Douglas. Heckman, R. A. (S '68)

Lindbergh, Charles Augustus

Ross, W. S. Last hero: Charles A. Lindbergh. (My '68)

Linderman, Frank Bird

Linderman, F. B. Montana adventure. (N '68)

Lindet, Robert

Dupre, H. Two brothers in the French revolution: Robert and Thomas Lindet. (O '68)

Lindet, Thomas

Dupre, H. Two brothers in the French revolution: Robert and Thomas Lindet. (O '68)

Lindsay, John Vliet

Pilat, O. Lindsay's campaign. (My '68)

Lindsay's campaign. Pilat, O. (My '68)

Line of least existence, and other plays. Drexler, R. (Ap '68)

Linguistic affairs of India. Gopal, R. (My '68)

Linguistic analysis. See Analysis (Philosophy)

Linguistics. See Language and languages

Linguistics. Postman, N. (Mr '68)

Lion gate and labyrinth. Baumann, H. (Ag '68)

Lion in the garden: interviews with William Faulkner, 1926-1962. Meriwether, J. B., ed. (D '68)

Lion in the stone. Buckmaster, H. (S '68)

Lions

Adamson, G. Lifetime with lions. (O '68)

Stories

Fatio, L. Happy lion's vacation. (Ap '68)

Lions' mouths. Brownjohn, A. (O '68)

Lipchitz, Jacques

Van Bork, B. Jacques Lipchitz: the artist at work. (Ap '68)

Lipski, Józef

Lipski, J. Diplomat in Berlin, 1933-1939. (Ag '68)

Liquor and anti-liquor in Virginia, 1619-1919.

Pearson, C. C. (O '68)

Liquor problem

Pearson, C. C. Liquor and anti-liquor in Virginia, 1619-1919. (O '68)

Listen America. Stoutenburg, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Listen, pilgrim. Jones, C. W. (Je '68)

Listen, Ruben Fontanez. Neugeboren, J. (Ag '68)

Listen to the warm. McKuen, R. (Mr '68)

Literary and art theories in Japan. Ueda, M. (S '68)

Literary anecdotes of the eighteenth century.

Nichols, J. (S '68)

Literary correspondence of Bernard Barton.

Barton, B. (Mr '68)

Literary dissent in Communist China. Goldman, M. (Mr '68)

Literary life. Phelps, R., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Literary manuscripts of Hart Crane. Lohf, K. A., comp. (Je '68)

Literary profession in the Elizabethan age [2d ed revl. Sheavyn, P. (D '68)

Literary property. Wincor, R. (Ap '68)

Literary realism of William Dean Howells.

McMurray, W. (Mr. '68)

Literature

Kampf, L. On modernism. (O '68)

Sypher, W. Literature and technology. (O '68)

Will, F. Literature inside out. (Mr '68)

Bio-bibliography

Encyclopedia of world literature in the 20th century, v 1. (Ag '68)

Harvey, P., ed. Oxford companion to English literature [4th ed revl. (My '68)

Collections

Downey, F., ed. Races to the swift. (Mr '68)

Mayes, H. R., ed. Editor's treasury. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Sussman, A. Magic of walking. (Mr '68)

Trilling, L. Experience of literature. (Je '68)

Dictionaries

Encyclopedia of world literature in the 20th century, v 1. (Ag '68)

Harvey, P., ed. Oxford companion to English literature [4th ed revl. (My '68)

History and criticism

Armens, S. M. Archetypes of the family in literature. (Mr '68)

Benson, F. R. Writers in arms. (Ap '68)

Chatman, S., ed. Essays on the language of literature. (Ag '68)

Curley, D. N., comp. Modern Romance literatures. (Ap '68)

Encyclopedia of world literature in the 20th century, v 1. (Ag '68)

Hoffman, F. J. Imagination's new beginning: theology and modern literature. (Ag '68)

Krieger, M. Play and place of criticism. (N '68)

Mencken, H. L. H. L. Mencken's Smart set criticism. (N '68)

Panichas, G. A., ed. Mansions of the spirit. (O '68)

Reck, R. D., ed. Explorations of literature. (Ag '68)

- Troy, W. William Troy: selected essays. (Ag '68)
- Van Kaam, A. Demon and the dove. (Ap '68)
- Weigand, H. J. Surveys and soundings in European literature. (Je '68)
- Literature, Comparative
- Matthews, H. Primal curse. (Ag '68)
- Literature, Immoral
- Comstock, A. Traps for the young. (S '68)
- Literature, Modern
- History and criticism
- Poulet, G. Metamorphoses of the circle. (Ag '68)
- Literature and history
- Benson, F. R. Writers in arms. (Ap '68)
- Crane, R. S. Idea of the humanities, 2v. (Je '68)
- Levin, D. In defense of historical literature. (Mr '68)
- Literature and technology. Sypher, W. (O '68)
- Literature and theater of the states and regions of the U.S.A. Gohdes, C. (Mr '68)
- Literature in medieval Germany. Salmon, P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Literature inside out. Will, F. (Mr '68)
- Literature of eighteenth-century Russia, 2v. Segel, H. B., ed. & tr. (My '68)
- Literature of the world in English translation, v2. Lewanski, R. C., comp. (My '68)
- Little, Malcolm. See Malcolm X
- Little Bear's Thanksgiving. Janice. (My '68)
- Little game. Farrington, F. (N '68)
- Little girl and the tiny doll. Ardizzzone, E. (My '68)
- Little Johnny's confession. Patten, B. (Ag '68)
- Little league baseball
- Einstein, C. How to coach, manage, and play Little league baseball. (Ag '68)
- Little men in sports. Fox, L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Little prayer. (Je '68)
- Little primer of Tu Fu. Hawkes, D. (Mr '68)
- Little Tuppen. (S '68)
- Little wide-awake. Vries, L. de. (Mr '68)
- Little woodcock. Freschet, B. (Mr '68)
- Lives of Annibale & Agostino Carracci. Bellori, G. P. (O '68)
- Living and partly living. Mucha, J. (D '68)
- Living architecture. Charpentrat, P. (S '68)
- Living architecture: Romanesque. Oursel, R. (S '68)
- Living plants of the world. Milne, L. (Mr '68)
- Living questions to dead Gods. Durandeaux, J. (D '68)
- Living theatre of medieval art. Kraus, H. (Ag '68)
- Living with communism. Sylvester, A. (Ap '68)
- Lizzie Borden. De Mille, A. (Ag '68)
- Llamas
- Stories
- Rockwell, A. Good llama. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Lobbying
- Davis, V. Admirals lobby. (Je '68)
- Local government
- Richardson, N. French prefectoral corps, 1814-1830. (Mr '68)
- Locke, John
- Jeffreys, M. V. C. John Locke: prophet of common sense. (My '68)
- Lodge, Henry Cabot
- Miller, W. J. Henry Cabot Lodge. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Logic, Symbolic and mathematical
- Lewis, W. D. Mathematics makes sense. (My '68)
- Logic of special relativity. Prokhovnik, S. J. (N '68)
- Logical epic. Burden, D. H. (Ag '68)
- Lolsy, Alfred Firmin
- Ratté, J. Three modernists: Alfred Loisy, George Tyrrell, William L. Sullivan. (Ap '68)
- Lollipop princess. Estes, E. (My '68)
- London, Jack
- Walker, F. Jack London and the Klondike. (Mr '68)
- London
- Commerce
- Claypoole, J. Letter book: London and Philadelphia, 1681-1684. (Ag '68)
- Description
- Guide books
- Halasz, P. Swinger's guide to London. (My '68)
- Simon, K. Kate Simon's London: places & pleasures. (N '68)
- History
- Bell, A. D. London in the age of Dickens. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Industries
- Martin, J. E. Greater London. (Ap '68)
- Moral conditions
- Eppel, E. M. Adolescents and morality. (Mr '68)
- Poor
- Booth, C. Charles Booth's London. (Ap '68)
- Davies, H. Other halves. (Ag '68)
- Social conditions
- Booth, C. Charles Booth's London. (Ap '68)
- Parker, T. People of the streets. (O '68)
- Willmott, P. Adolescent boys of East London. (Je '68)
- London Bridge is falling down! il. by Peter Spier. (Ap '68)
- London childhood. Holloway, J. (My '68)
- London heretics, 1870-1914. Smith, W. S. (Je '68)
- London in the age of Dickens. Bell, A. D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- London, Royal Academy of Arts
- Hutchison, S. C. History of the Royal academy, 1768-1968. (N '68)
- Londonderry, Robert Stewart, 2d Marquis of
- Bartlett, C. J. Castlereagh. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Loneliest campaign. Ross, I. (Je '68)
- Loneliness and love. Kerken, L. vander. (Ap '68)
- Lonely labyrinth. Thompson, J. (Ap '68)
- Lonesome cities. McKuen, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Long before forty. Forester, C. S. (O '68)
- Long life to you. Schneider, L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Long search. Sootin, H. (O '68)
- Long short cut. Garve, A. (Je '68)
- Long vacation. Verne, J. (Ap '68)
- Long view. Paton, A. (Ag '68)
- Long watch. Smart, C. A. (Ag '68)
- Look around the estate. Amis, K. (O '68)
- Look out, Whitey! Black power's gon' get your mama! Lester, J. (S '68)
- Look, there is a turtle flying. Domanska, J. (S '68)
- Looking ahead. Sarnoff, D. (Ag '68)
- Looking at sculpture. Paine, R. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Looking backward, 2000-1887. Bellamy, E. (Mr '68)
- Lopsided world. Ward, B. (O '68)
- Lord dismiss us. Campbell, M. (Mr '68)
- Lord Elgin and the marbles. St Clair, W. (My '68)
- Lord Malquist & Mr Moon. Stoppard, T. (Je '68)
- Lord North, 2v. Valentine, A. (Je '68)
- Lord Reading. Hyde, H. M. (Ag '68)
- Lords of Cuzco. Brundage, B. C. (O '68)
- Los Angeles
- History
- Fogelson, R. M. Fragmented metropolis: Los Angeles, 1850-1930. (Ag '68)
- Poor
- Jacobs, P. Prelude to riot. (Ap '68)
- Riots, 1965
- Conot, R. Rivers of blood, years of darkness. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Loser. Hoffman, W. S. (Ag '68)
- Losers. Friel, B. (In his Lovers). (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Losey, Joseph
- Losey, J. Losey on Losey. (Ap '68)
- Losey on Losey. Losey, J. (Ap '68)
- Lost centuries. Glubb, J. (Je '68)
- Lost in the funhouse. Barth, J. (N '68)
- Lost legions. (Mr '68)
- Lost ones. Cameron, I. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Lost revolutionary. O'Connor, R. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Louie's lot. Hildick, E. W. (D '68)
- Louis IX, Saint, King of France
- Labarge, M. W. Saint Louis: Louis IX, most Christian King of France. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Louis XIV, King of France
- Wolf, J. B. Louis XIV. (My '68)
- Louis XVI, King of France
- Fay, B. Louis XVI; or The end of a world. (Ag '68)
- Louis XVI; or, The end of a world. Fay, B. (Ag '68)

Louisiana

History

Juvenile literature

- Hall-Quest, O. Old New Orleans, the Creole city. (D '68)
- Lourdes
Neame, A. Happening at Lourdes. (My '68)
- Love
Drury, M. Advice to a young wife from an old mistress. (D '68)
Kerken, L. vander. Loneliness and love. (Ap '68)
Ryan, M. P. Love and sexuality. (Je '68)
- Love (Theology)
Cox, H., ed. Situation ethics debate. (Ag '68)
Love, Olyesha, Y. (Je '68)
Love affairs and wedding bells. Nestroy, J. (In his Three comedies). (Ag '68)
Love ain't nothing but sex misspelled. Ellison, H. (D '68)
Love among the daughters. Huxley, E. (N '68)
Love and pasta. Vergara, J. (O '68)
Love and sex in plain language [rev ed]. Johnson, E. W. (S '68)
Love and sexuality. Ryan, M. P. (Je '68)
Love and work. Price, R. (Ag '68)
Love chase. Barlow, J. (My '68)
Love letters from Asia. Hochman, S. (Ag '68)
Love, love at the end. Berrigan, D. (Je '68)
Love of Izayoi & Seishin. Kawatake, M. (Ap '68)
Love with a few hairs. Mrabet, M. (Je '68)
Lovely and the wild. Lawrence, L. de K. (Ag '68)
- Lovers. Friel, B. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Loyalty oaths. See Internal security
- Lucan (Marcus Annaeus Lucanus)
Morford, M. P. O. Poet Lucan. (My '68)
Lucanus, Marcus Annaeus. See Lucan
- Luce, Henry Robinson
Kobler, J. Luce: his Time, Life, and Fortune. (My '68)
Luce: his Time, Life, and Fortune. Kobler, J. (My '68)
- Lucifer cell. Fennerton, W. (Ag '68)
- Lucius Beebe reader. Beebe, L. (Mr '67)
- Luftwaffe war diaries. Bekker, C. (Ag '68)
- Lullabies
Hush little baby. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Knudsen, L., ed. Lullabies from around the world. (Je '68)
Lullabies from around the world. Knudsen, L., ed. (Je '68)
- Lumber and lumbering
Moore, J. H. Andrew Brown and cypress lumbering in the Old Southwest. (Mr '68)
- Luminous darkness. Bögli, A. (My '68)
- Luna, Pedro de. See Benedict XIII
- Lunatic giant in the drawing room. Hall, J. (S '68)
- Luther, Martin
Feuerbach, L. Essence of faith according to Luther. (Mr '68)
Iserloh, E. Theses were not posted. (N '68)
Pelikan, J. Spirit versus structure. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Simon, E. Luther alive. (Ag '68)
Luther alive. Simon, E. (Ag '68)
- Luxury and capitalism. Sombart, W. (Ag '68)
- Lyrical poems. Howard, C., ed. (Ag '68)
- Lyrical and critical. Eng title of: Lyrical and critical essays. Camus, A. (D '68)
- Lyrical and critical essays. Camus, A. (D '68)
- Lysergic acid diethylamide. See LSD

McAlmon, Robert

- McAlmon, R. Being geniuses together, 1920-1930 [rev ed]. (Ag '68)
- McCall's garden book. Harshbarger, G. F. (My '68)
- McCarthy, Joseph Raymond
Cohn, R. McCarthy. (Ag '68)
Rogin, M. P. Intellectuals and McCarthy: the radical specter. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- McConkey, James
McConkey, J. Crossroads. (Ap '68)
- MacDiarmid, Hugh. See Grieve, C. M.
- McGee, Thomas D'Arcy
Slattery, T. P. Assassination of D'Arcy McGee. (O '68)
- McGill, Peter Hermano

Fiction

- Shrake, E. Blessed McGill. (Ag '68)

McGillivray, Alexander

Juvenile literature

- Orrmont, A. Diplomat in warpaint: Chief Alexander McGillivray of the Creeks. (Je '68)
- McGraw-Hill directory and almanac of Canada, 1967, v2. (Ag '68)
- McGraw-Hill encyclopedia of space. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Machinery
Sterland, E. G. Energy into power. (Je '68)
- Juvenile literature*
Saunders, F. W. Machines for you. (My '68)
Machines for you. Saunders, F. W. (My '68)
- MacIver, Joanne
Stearn, J. Search for the girl with the blue eyes. (O '68)
- MacIver, Robert Morrison
MacIver, R. M. As a tale that is told. (Ag '68)
- Mackenzie, Sir Alexander
Mackenzie, A. Exploring the Northwest territory. (Je '68)
- McLuhan, Herbert Marshall
Rosenthal, R., ed. McLuhan: pro & con. (N '68)
Stearn, G. E., ed. McLuhan: hot and cool. (1967. 1968 Annual)
McLuhan, Marshall. See McLuhan, H. M.
McLuhan: hot & cool. Stearn, G. E., ed. (1967. 1968 Annual)
McLuhan: pro & con. Rosenthal, R., ed. (N '68)
- Macmillan, Harold
Macmillan, H. Blast of war, 1939-1945. (Mr '68)
Sampson, A. Macmillan. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Macmillan & company, limited
Macmillan & company, limited. Letters to Macmillan. (O '68)
Macmillan Bible atlas. Aharoni, Y. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Macmillan job guide to American corporations. McKay, E. A. (Ap '68)
- Macramé
Harvey, V. I. Macramé: the art of creative knotting. (Ag '68)
Macramé: the art of creative knotting. Harvey, V. I. (Ag '68)
- Mad old ads. Sutphen, D. (Mr '68)
- Madagama, Ceylon
Obeyesekere, G. Land tenure in village Ceylon. (My '68)
- Madame de Pompadour. Mitford, N. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Madame de Sade. Mishima, Y. (Ag '68)
- Made in ancient Greece. Price, C. (Mr '68)
- Madness in society. Rosen, G. (N '68)
- Madness in sports. Beisser, A. B. (Mr '68)
- Magellan, Ferdinand
- Juvenile literature*
Israel, C. E. Five ships West. (Mr '68)
- Magic
- Juvenile literature*
Gaddis, V. H. Wide world of magic. (My '68)
Hunt, D. Art of magic. (Je '68)
Magic animal. Wylie, P. (Je '68)
Magic circle of Walden. Anderson, C. R. (Je '68)
Magic of mergers. Schisgall, O. (Ag '68)
Magic of walking. Sussman, A. (Mr '68)
Magic sack. Rudolph, M. (Je '68)
Magic toyshop. Carter, A. (My '68)
- Magicians
- Juvenile literature*
Gaddis, V. H. Wide world of magic. (My '68)
- Magnetism
- Juvenile literature*
Lieberg, O. S. Wonders of magnets and magnetism. (Je '68)
- Magnets
- Juvenile literature*
Lieberg, O. W. Wonders of magnets and magnetism. (Je '68)
Sacks, R. Magnets. (Ag '68)
Magnets. Sacks, R. (Ag '68)
- Mahdi
Farwell, B. Prisoners of the Mahdi. (Ap '68)
- Malgret and the headless corpse. Simenon, G. (Je '68)
- Malgret's pickpocket. Simenon, G. (D '68)

Mall-order business*Catalogs

Sears, Roebuck and company. 1897 Sears Roebuck catalogue. (N '68)

Main currents in sociological thought, v2. Aron, R. (Je '68)

Main trends in modern linguistics. Leroy, M. (O '68)

Maine

Lee, W. S., comp. Maine. (N '68)

Description and travel

Dietz, L. Allagash. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Maintaining and restoring balance in international payments. (Je '68)

Maisky, Ivan Mikhallovich

Maisky, I. Memoirs of a Soviet ambassador. (Ag '68)

Maize. See Corn

Major peace treaties of modern history 1648-1967. Israel, F. L., ed. (Ag '68)

Majuba Hill, Battle of, 1881

Ransford, O. Battle of Majuba Hill. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Make-up, Theatrical

Perrottet, P. Practical stage make-up. (O '68)

Making good again. Davidson, L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Making it. Podhoretz, N. (Mr '68)

Making of a myth: the United States and China, 1879-1912. Varg, P. A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Making of a publisher. Weybright, V. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Making of a workers' revolution. Wildman, A. K. (Je '68)

Making of classical Edinburgh: 1750-1840. Youngson, A. J. (Ag '68)

Making of early England. Kirby, D. P. (Ag '68)

Making of the University of Michigan, 1817-1967. Peckham, H. H. (Je '68)

Malabar, India

Das Gupta, A. Malabar in Asian trade, 1740-1800. (Ag '68)

Commerce

Das Gupta, A. Malabar in Asian trade, 1740-1800. (Ag '68)

Malabar in Asian trade, 1740-1800. Das Gupta, A. (Ag '68)

Maladjusted boys. Eng title of: Youth in crisis. Shaw, O. L. (Mr '68)

Malawi*Race relations

Mwase, G. S. Strike a blow and die. (Ag '68)

Malay fishermen [2d rev ed]. Firth, R. W. (Je '68)

Malaya*Politics and government

Roff, W. R. Origins of Malay nationalism. (Mr '68)

Malaysia*Economic policy

Ness, G. D. Bureaucracy and rural development in Malaysia. (Je '68)

History*Sources

Gullick, J. M. Malaysia and its neighbours. (Ag '68)

Malaysia and its neighbours. Gullick, J. M. (Ag '68)

Malcolm Boyd's Book of days. Boyd, M. (S '68)

Malcolm X

Breitman, G. Last year of Malcolm X. (Mr '68)

Mallory, George Herbert Leigh-. See Leigh-Mallory, G. H.

Mallory of Everest. Styles, S. (D '68)

Malpractice. See Medicine--Practice

Malraux, André

Boak, D. André Malraux. (O '68)

Malraux, A. Anti-memoirs. (D '68)

Malraux, C. Memoirs. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Wilkinson, D. Malraux. (Ap '68)

Malraux, Clara Goldschmidt

Malraux, C. Memoirs. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Malta*History

Blouet, B. Short history of Malta. (O '68)

Politics and government

Doble, E. Malta's road to independence. (O '68)

Malta's road to independence. Doble, E. (O '68)

Mammals

Brink, F. H. van den. Field guide to the mammals of Britain and Europe. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Caras, R. A. North American mammals. (Ap '68)

Lyne, G. Marsupials and monotremes of Australia. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Rue, L. L. Pictorial guide to the mammals of North America. (Ap '68)

Juvenile literature

Burton, M. Animals. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Wildsmith, B. Brian Wildsmith's wild animals. (My '68)

Pictures, illustrations, etc.

Audubon, J. J. Imperial collection of Audubon animals. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Mammals, Fossil*Juvenile literature

Armour R. Odd old mammals. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Man

Adler, M. J. Difference of man and the difference it makes. (Mr '68)

Becker, E. Structure of evil. (O '68)

Greene, T. A. Modern man in search of manhood. (Ag '68)

Marcel, G. Problematic man. (Ap '68)

Montagu, A. Man observed. (Ag '68)

Morris, D. Naked ape. (Mr '68)

Influence of environment

Bresler, J. B., ed. Human ecology. (Je '68)

Dasmann, R. F. Different kind of country. (Ag '68)

Origin and antiquity

Campbell, B. G. Human evolution. (Ap '68)

Man (Theology)

Balthasar, H. U. von. Theological anthropology. (N '68)

Johann, R. O. Building the human. (Ag '68)

Man, Prehistoric

Berciu, D. Romania. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Clark, G. Stone age hunters. (Mr '68)

Man against poverty: World War III. Blaustein, A. I., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Man and aggression. Montagu, M. F. A., ed. (D '68)

Man and monkey. Williams, L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Man and the California condor. McMillan, I. (O '68)

Man and the cosmos. Calder, R. (Ag '68)

Man and the movies. Robinson, W. R., ed. (Ap '68)

Man discovers his past. Daniel, G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Man from Devil's Island. Rickards, C. (D '68)

Man from Moscow. Eng title of: Contact on Gorky Street. Wynne, G. (Mr '68)

Man from New York. Reid, B. L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Man full of nothing. Nestroy, J. (In his Three comedies). (Ag '68)

Man in the pew, 1558-1660. Hart, A. T. (Ag '68)

Man in the trap. Baker, E. F. (N '68)

Man incorporate. Kaufmann, C. B. (Ap '68)

Man observed. Montagu, A. (Ag '68)

Man versus society in eighteenth-century Britain. Clifford, J. L., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Man who had power over women. Williams, G. M. (Je '68)

Man who ran the subways. Whittemore, L. H. (O '68)

Man who saved Florence. Tutaev, D. (Mr '68)

Man who saved Robinson Crusoe. Poling, J. (Je '68)

Man who stole a university. Ballard, P. (Ap '68)

Man who walked through time. Fletcher, C. (Ap '68)

Management

Bowers, R. V., ed. Studies on behavior in organizations. (Mr '68)

Likert, R. Human organization: its management and value. (O '68)

Maynard, H. B., ed. Handbook of business administration. (My '68)

Vickers, G. Towards a sociology of management. (O '68)

Dictionaries

Pugh, E. Dictionary of acronyms & abbreviations. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Management and Machiavelli. Jay, A. (Ap '68)

Manley, Seon*Juvenile literature

Manley, S. My heart's in the heather. (Ag '68)

Mann, Sir Horace

Walpole, H. Horace Walpole's correspondence with Sir Horace Mann, v7-8. (Je '68)

Bibliography

- King, C. S. Horace Mann 1796-1859. (Ag '68)
 Manners and customs
 Bates, M. Gluttons and libertines. (Ap '68)
 Mano (African tribe)
 Warner, E. Crossing fee. (Je '68)
 Manpower strategy for the metropolis. Ginzberg, E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Le Mans

Church history*Sources

- Goffart, W. Le Mans forgeries. (Ap '68)
 Le Mans forgeries. Goffart, W. (Ap '68)
 Man's funniest friend. Cole, W., comp. (Mr '68)
 Man's rise to civilization as shown by the Indians of North America from primeval times to the coming of the industrial state. Farb, P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Mansions of the spirit. Panichas, G. A., ed. (O '68)
 Manuscripts
 Turner, E. G. Greek papyri. (O '68)
 Many-faced argument. Hick, J., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Many lives of Chio and Goro. Lifton, B. J. (Ag '68)
 Many voices. Garrett, E. J. (Ag '68)
 Mao, Tse-tung
 Han, S. China in the year 2001. (Ap '68)
 Snow, E. Red star over China [rev & enl ed]. (O '68)
 Maoris
 Metge, J. Maoris of New Zealand. (N '68)
 Maoris of New Zealand. Metge, J. (N '68)
 Maple

Juvenile literature

- Selsam, M. E. Maple tree. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Maple tree. Selsam, M. E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Marca-Relli, Conrad
 Agee, W. C. Marca-Relli. (Ag '68)
 Marching toward freedom: the Negro in the Civil War, 1861-1865. McPherson, J. M. (Ag '68)
 Marco Polo, Venetian adventurer [new ed]. Hart, H. H. (Ag '68)
 Marcuse, Herbert
 Wolff, K. H., ed. Critical spirit. (Mr '68)
 Marginal situation. Dickie-Clark, H. F. (Ap '68)
 Marguerite de Valois, consort of Henry IV, King of France
 Haldane, C. Queen of hearts. (O '68)
 Marichal, Juan
 Marichal, J. Pitcher's story. (Je '68)
 Marie Antoinette's daughter. Desmond A. C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Marine animals

Collection and preservation

- Rudloe, J. Sea brings forth. (Ag '68)
 Marine biology
 Hardy, A. Great waters. (My '68)

Juvenile literature

- Lindemann, E. Water animals for your microscope. (Ap '68)
 Silverberg, R. World of the ocean depths. (Ag '68)
 Marine geology. See Submarine geology
 Marine resources
 Bardach, J. Harvest of the sea. (My '68)

Juvenile literature

- Pizer, V. World ocean. (My '68)
 Marital tensions. Dicks, H. V. (Je '68)
 Maritime law
 Alexander, L. M., ed. Law of the sea. (S '68)
 Mark Pattison and the idea of a university. Sparrow, J. (O '68)
 Mark Tobey. Eng title of: Tobey. Schmied, W. (Ap '68)
 Mark Twain abroad. Ganzel, D. (D '68)
 Mark Van Doren: 100 poems. Van Doren, M. (Mr '68)
 Marketing
 Baligh, H. H. Vertical market structures. (Ag '68)
 Mulvihill, D. F., ed. Price policies and practices. (Ag '68)
 Markievicz, Constance Georgina (Gore-Booth) Countess de
 Van Voris, J. Constance de Markievicz in the cause of Ireland. (Mr '68)

Marlborough, Sarah (Jennings) Churchill, Duchess of

Butler, I. Great duchess. (Ag '68)

Maronites

Sykes, J. Mountain Arabs. (D '68)

Marriage

- Callahan, S. Beyond birth control. (N '68)
 Dicks, H. V. Marital tensions. (Je '68)
 Drury, M. Advice to a young wife from an old mistress. (D '68)
 Fisher, E. O. Help for today's troubled marriages. (O '68)
 Lederer, W. J. Mirages of marriage. (N '68)
 Packard, V. Sexual wilderness. (N '68)
 Parkinson, C. N. Mrs Parkinson's law. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Shedd, C. W. Letters to Philip: on how to treat a woman. (My '68)

Laws and regulations

- Djamour, J. Muslim matrimonial court in Singapore. (Je '68)
 Marriage customs and rites
 Hanson, K. For richer, for poorer. (O '68)
 Married man. DeMott, B. (D '68)
 Married priests & married nuns. Colaianni, J. F., ed. (D '68)
 Marshall, James Wilson
 Gay, T. James W. Marshall: the discoverer of California gold. (S '68)
 Martin Du Gard, Roger
 Schalk, D. L. Roger Martin du Gard. (Mr '68)
 Martyr, Peter
 McNair, P. Peter Martyr in Italy: an anatomy of apostasy. (Ag '68)
 Martyrdom and persecution in the early church. Frend, W. H. C. (Ag '68)
 Marvelous Greece. Beer, E. S. (My '68)
 Marx, Karl
 Acton, H. B. What Marx really said. (Mr '68)
 Avineri, S. Social and political thought of Karl Marx. (S '68)
 Carmichael, J. Karl Marx: the passionate logician. (Ap '68)
 Lefebvre, H. Sociology of Marx. (Ag '68)
 Payne, R. Marx. (Ag '68)

Bibliography

- Lachs, J. Marxist philosophy. (O '68)
 Marxism. See Communism
 Marxist philosophy. Lachs, J. (O '68)
 Mary Baker Eddy: child of promise. King, M. (N '68)

Maryland*Historic houses, etc.

- Forman, H. C. Old buildings, gardens, and furniture in Tidewater Maryland. (Je '68)
 Masaccio, Tommaso Guidi
 Berti, L. Masaccio. (Ag '68)
 Masada, Israel

Juvenile literature

- Pearlman, M. Zealots of Masada. (Mr '68)
 Masha, Kay, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Masks (Plays)
 Book of masques. (Ag '68)
 Demaray, J. G. Milton and the masque tradition. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Masks (sculpture)
 Ray, D. J. Eskimo masks: art and ceremony. (Mr '68)
 Masks. Brathwaite, E. (N '68)
 Masques (Plays). See Masks (Plays)
 Mass for the dead. Gibson, W. (Je '68)
 Massachusetts

Politics and government

- Brauer, K. J. Cotton versus conscience. (Ap '68)
 Massachusetts. Commission Against Discrimination
 Mayhew, L. H. Law and equal opportunity. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Massachusetts Institute of Technology
 Stratton, J. A. Science and the educated man. (Je '68)
 Massacre at Paris. Marlowe, C. (With his Dido, queen of Carthage). (S '68)
 Master and Margarita; tr. from the Russian by Michael Glenny. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Master and Margarita; tr. from the Russian by Mirra Ginsburg. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Master drawings in the Albertina. Benesch, O. (My '68)
 Master mariner. Smaridge, N. (Mr '68)
 Master painters of the Renaissance. Jacobs, D. (N '68)
 Materialist theory of the mind. Armstrong, D. M. (N '68)

Materials

Scientific American (periodical). Materials. (Ag '68)

Mathematical linguistics. See Language and languages

Mathematical papers of Isaac Newton, v 1. Newton, I. (Mr '68)

Mathematical papers of Isaac Newton, v2. Newton, I. (O '68)

Mathematical papers of Sir William Rowan Hamilton, v3. Hamilton, W. R. (S '68)

Mathematician's apology. Hardy, G. H. (Je '68)

Mathematics

Fuchs, W. R. Mathematics for the modern mind. (Je '68)

Hardy, G. H. Mathematician's apology. (Je '68)

Lewis, W. D. Mathematics makes sense. (My '68)

Sharp, E. Parent's guide to more new math. (Mr '68)

History

Hamilton, W. R. Mathematical papers of Sir William Rowan Hamilton, v3. (S '68)

Newton, I. Mathematical papers of Isaac Newton, v 1. (Mr '68)

Newton, I. Mathematical papers of Isaac Newton, v2. (O '68)

Study and teaching

Adler, I. Mathematics and mental growth. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Mathematics and computers in Soviet economic planning. Hardt, J. P., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Mathematics and mental growth. Adler, I. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Mathematics for the modern mind. Fuchs, W. R. (Je '68)

Mathematics makes sense. Lewis, W. D. (My '68)

Maupassant, Guy de

Ignotus, P. Paradox of Maupassant. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Mauritania

Gerteiny, A. G. Mauritania. (S '68)

Mavericks. Schaefer, J. (Ap '68)

Maxim Gorky the writer. Borras, F. M. (S '68)

Maxime Weygand and civil-military relations in modern France. Bankwitz, P. C. F. (N '68)

Maxims. See Proverbs

Maya world. Benson, E. P. (Ag '68)

Mayari, Cuba

Social life and customs

Yglesias, J. In the fist of the revolution. (O '68)

Mayas

Benson, E. P. Maya world. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

Burland, C. A. Ancient Maya. (Mr '68)

Maybrick, Florence Elizabeth (Chandler)

Christie, T. L. Etched in arsenic. (My '68)

Mayo, Charles W.

Mayo, C. W. Mayo: the story of my family and my career. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Mayo family

Mayo, C. W. Mayo: the story of my family and my career. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Mayo Sergeant. Hall, J. B. (Mr '68)

Mayo: the story of my family and my career. Mayo, C. W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Mazel and Shlimazel. Singer, I. B. (Mr '68)

Me and the arch kook Petulia. Haase, J. (My '68)

Me, Cassie. Feagles, A. M. (O '68)

Meaning and measurement of the national income, and of other social accounting aggregates. Palmer, E. Z. (Mr '68)

Meaning of "fishers of men." Wuellner, W. H. (Ag '68)

Meaning of murder. Brophy, J. (My '68)

Meaning of sound. Ronan, C. A. (S '68)

Medals

Kienast G. W. Medals of Karl Goetz. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

United States. National gallery of art. Renaissance medals: from the Samuel H. Kress collection at the National gallery of art [rev & enl]. (My '68)

Medals of Karl Goetz. Kienast G. W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Medical care

Fein, R. Doctor shortage. (Mr '68)

Klotz, S. D. Guide to modern medical care. (Ag '68)

Reynolds, F. W. Adult health. (My '68)

Rutstein, D. D. Coming revolution in medicine. (My '68)

Somers, H. M. Medicare and the hospitals. (My '68)

Medical care, Prepaid

Munts, R. Bargaining for health. (O '68)

Medical economics

Fein, R. Doctor shortage. (Mr '68)

Medical ethics

Pappworth, M. H. Human guinea pigs. (My '68)

Medical journey in California. Garnier, P. (N '68)

Medical jurisprudence

Farmer, R. A. Rights of the mentally ill. (S '68)

Polier, J. W. Rule of law and the role of psychiatry. (D '68)

Rosenberg, C. E. Trial of the assassin Guiteau. (O '68)

Medical licensing in America, 1650-1695. Shryock R. H. (Ag '68)

Medical messiahs. Young, J. H. (My '68)

Medicare and the hospitals. Somers, H. M. (My '68)

Medicated society. Proger, S., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Medicine

Baker, T. D. Health manpower in a developing economy: Taiwan, a case study in planning. (N '68)

Klotz, S. D. Guide to modern medical care. (Ag '68)

Lasagna, L. Life, death, and the doctor. (Ag '68)

Rutstein, D. D. Coming revolution in medicine. (My '68)

Strauss, M. B. Familiar medical quotations. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Biography*Juvenile literature

Rich, J. Women behind men of medicine. (Mr '68)

History

Edelstein, L. Ancient medicine. (N '68)

Garnier, P. Medical journey in California. (N '68)

Juvenile literature

Silverberg, R. Dawn of medicine. (My '68)

Juvenile literature

Schneider, L. Long life to you. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Laws and regulations

Shryock, R. H. Medical licensing in America, 1650-1695. (Ag '68)

Practice

Duff, R. S. Sickness and society. (O '68)

Kramer, C. Negligent doctor. (O '68)

Research

Pappworth, M. H. Human guinea pigs. (My '68)

Taylor, G. R. Biological time bomb. (N '68)

Juvenile literature

Colman, H. Career in medical research. (S '68)

Medicine, Experimental. See Medicine—Research

Medicine, Popular

Miller, B. F. Complete medical guide [rev ed]. (Ap '68)

Medicine, State

Badgley, R. F. Doctors' strike. (O '68)

Hodgkinson, R. G. Origins of the National health service. (N '68)

Shryock, R. H. Medical licensing in America, 1650-1695. (Ag '68)

Medicine and religion

Belgum, D., ed. Religion and medicine. (S '68)

Medicine as a profession

Juvenile literature

Colman, H. Career in medical research. (S '68)

Dodge, B. S. Hands that help. (Mr '68)

Medicine-man

See also

Shamanism

Medicine men. Balfour, J. (Je '68)

Medieval and renaissance Pistoia. Herlihy, D. (Mr '68)

Medieval armchair travels. Henisch, B. A. (Ap '68)

Mediaeval artist at work. Egbert, V. W. (N '68)

Medieval finance. Lyon, B. (O '68)

Medieval imprint. Morrall, J. B. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual) Medieval Irish lyrics. Carney, J., comp. & tr. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual) Medieval society. Hilton, R. H. (S '68)
 Medieval tales. Westwood, J., ed. & tr. (O '68)
 Medieval town. Rörig, F. (Je '68)
 Medieval world. Kidson, P. (Ag '68)

Meditations
 Boultonwood, A. Into His splendid light. (S '68)
 Paton, A. Instrument of Thy peace. (My '68)
 Rahner, K. Everday faith. (D '68)
 Mediterranean society. v 1. Goitein, S. D. (Ag '68)
 Mediterranean strategy in the Second World War. Howard, M. (Ag '68)

Medlicott, William Norton
 Bourne, K., ed. Studies in international history. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Meegeren, Han van
 Kilbracken, J. R. G. Van Meegeren: master forger. (S '68)

Meeting for burial. Hitchman, J. (D '68)

Mekong Valley

Juvenile literature

Liess, H. Mighty Mekong. (Je '68)
 Melba, Dame Nellie, originally Helen Porter Mitchell
 Hetherington, J. Melba. (Je '68)
 Melinda. Servadio, G. (O '68)

Mellaart, James
 Pearson, K. Dorak affair. (My '68)
 Melodrama unveiled. Grimsted, D. (N '68)
 Member of the gang. Rinkoff, B. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Memoir of an aged child. Duhrssen, A. (Mr '68)
 Memoirs. Krock, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Memoirs. Malraux, C. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Memoirs & menus. Spunt, G. (Ap '68)
 Memoirs, 1925-1950. Kennan, G. F. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Memoirs of a heterosexual. Rose, A. (My '68)
 Memoirs of a Soviet ambassador. Maisky, I. (Ag '68)

Memoirs of Joseph Grimaldi. Grimaldi, J. (S '68)

Memories, 1898-1939. Bowra, C. M. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Memories for a Chinese grand-daughter. Gelder, S. (Ag '68)

Memory

Luria, A. R. Mind of a mnemonist. (Je '68)

Memory and hope. Ritschl, D. (Je '68)

Men and dinosaurs. Colbert, E. H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Men and monuments of the East African coast. Kirkman, J. S. (Je '68)

Men in armor. Suskind, R. (Je '68)

Men in dark times. Arendt, H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Men in the sea. Briggs, P. (N '68)

Men of Waterloo. Sutherland, J. (Je '68)

Men who changed the map, A.D. 400 to 1914. Berry, E. (N '68)

Men who dig up history. Poole, L. (Ag '68)

Mencken, Henry Louis

Mayfield, S. Constant circle. (N '68)

Mensuration

Koyré, A. Metaphysics and measurement. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Mental illness

Felix, R. H. Mental illness. (My '68)

McNeil, E. B. Quiet furies. (Je '68)

Mowrer, O. H., ed. Morality and mental health. (Ag '68)

Myers, J. K. Decade later: a follow-up of Social class and mental illness. (S '68)

Rosen, G. Madness in society. (N '68)

Mental tests

Goodman, J. D. Child mental status examination. (Ag '68)

Rosenthal, R. Pygmalion in the classroom. (N '68)

Mentally handicapped

Carlson, B. W. Recreation for retarded teenagers and young adults. (N '68)

Edgerton, R. B. Cloak of competence. (Ag '68)

Viscardi, H. Abilities story. (My '68)

Mentally ill

Care and treatment

Myers, J. K. Decade later: a follow-up of Social class and mental illness. (S '68)

Ullmann, L. P. Institution and outcome. (Je '68)

Menus

Horizon cookbook and illustrated history of eating and drinking through the ages. (D '68)

Menzies, Sir Robert Gordon

Menzies, R. G. Afternoon light. (Ag '68)

Merchant banking arena. Kellett, R. (O '68)

Merchant marine

United States

Juvenile literature

Carse, R. Ocean challenge. (Ap '68)

Merchants of heroin. Moscow, A. (D '68)

Mergers, Industrial. See Trusts, Industrial

Merit students encyclopedia, 20v. (D '68)

Merleau-Ponty, Maurice

Rabil, A. Merleau-Ponty: existentialist of the social world. (Mr '68)

Merleau-Ponty: existentialist of the social world. Rabil, A. (Mr '68)

Meroe

Shinnie, P., L. Meroe. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Mesa Verde National Park

Juvenile literature

Marcus, R. B. First book of the cliff dwellers. (Ag '68)

Mesopotamia

Antiquities

Oates, D. Studies in the ancient history of Northern Iraq. (D '68)

Civilization

Kramer, S. N. Cradle of civilization. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Oppenheim, A. L., ed. & tr. Letters from Mesopotamia. (O '68)

History

Oates, D. Studies in the ancient history of Northern Iraq. (D '68)

Mesopotamian campaign, 1914-1918. See European War, 1914-1918—Campaigns and battles—Turkey and the Near East

Message of the genes. Sullivan, N. (Ag '68)

Messianic theology and Christian faith. Riggan, G. A. (Mr '68)

Metal industry and trade

Granick, D. Soviet metal-fabricating and development. (Je '68)

Metamorphoses of the circle. Poulet, G. (Ag '68)

Metaphysics

Judah, J. S. History and philosophy of the metaphysical movements in America. (Ap '68)

Pepper, S. C. Concept and quality. (N '68)

Polis, E. Whitehead's metaphysics. (N '68)

Metaphysics and measurement. Koyré, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Metaphysics, reference, and language. Cornman, J. W. (Ap '68)

Metello, Pratolini, V. (O '68)

Meteorology

Barrett, E. C. Viewing weather from space. (Je '68)

Reiter, E. R. Jet streams. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

Hellman, H. Light and electricity in the atmosphere. (S '68)

Meteorology in aeronautics

Barrett, E. C. Viewing weather from space. (Je '68)

Methodist Church

Pilkington, J. P. Methodist publishing house, v 1. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Methodist Publishing House

Pilkington, J. P. Methodist publishing house, v 1. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Methods for experimental social innovation. Fairweather, G. W. (My '68)

Methods of organizational research. Vroom, V. H., ed. (Je '68)

Metropolis on the move. Gottmann, J., ed. (Je '68)

Metropolitan America. Campbell, A. K. (S '68)

Metropolitan areas

Eldredge, H. W., ed. Taming megalopolis, 2v. (Je '68)

Gottmann, J., ed. Metropolis on the move. (Je '68)

Whyte, W. H. Last landscape. (D '68)

Metropolitan finance

Campbell, A. K. Metropolitan America. (S '68)

Mexican rebel. Meyer, M. C. (Ap '68)

Mexican revolution. Wilkie, J. W. (Mr '68)

Mexicans. Alba, V. (Mr '68)

Mexico

Antiquities

Soustelle, J. Mexico. (Mr '68)

Juvenile literature

Glubok, S. Art of ancient Mexico. (O '68)

Appropriations and expenditures

Willkie, J. W. Mexican revolution. (Mr '68)

Description and travel

Grossmann, R. Mexico: the land, the art, and the people. (Ag '68)
 Lincoln, J. One man's Mexico. (Ag '68)
 Reich, H., ed. Mexico. (D '68)

Economic conditions

Belshaw, M. Village economy: land and people of Huecorio. (Ap '68)
 Cole, W. E. Steel and economic growth in Mexico. (My '68)

History

Alba, V. Mexicans. (Mr '68)
 Ashby, J. C. Organized labor and the Mexican revolution under Lázaro Cárdenas. (O '68)
 Cumberland, C. C. Mexico. (N '68)
 Johnson, W. W. Heroic Mexico. (N '68)
 Padden, R. Hummingbird and the hawk. (Je '68)

Industries

Cole, W. E. Steel and economic growth in Mexico. (My '68)

Social conditions

Willkie, J. W. Mexican revolution. (Mr '68)
 Mexico. Cumberland, C. C. (N '68)
 Mexico. Reich, H., ed. (D '68)
 Mexico. Soustelle, J. (Mr '68)
 Mexico: the land, the art, and the people. Grossmann, R. (Ag '68)

Mice

Stories

Bond, M. Here comes Thursday! (Je '68)
 Shecter, B. Partouche plants a seed. (Je '68)
 Michael Field's Culinary classics and improvisations. Field, M. (N '68)
 Michelangelo Buonarroti
 Weinberger, M. Michelangelo, 2v. (Ag '68)

Michigan

Historic houses, etc.

Andrews, W. Architecture in Michigan. (N '68)

Michigan. University

Peckham, H. H. Making of the University of Michigan, 1817-1967. (Je '68)

Microorganisms

Juvenile literature

Lapedes, D. N. Helpful microorganisms. (N '68)

Microscope and microscopy

Juvenile literature

Lindemann, E. Water animals for your microscope. (Ap '68)

Middle age of African history. Oliver, R., ed. (N '68)

Middle Ages

Beresford, M. New towns of the middle ages. (Ag '68)
 Hay, D. Europe in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. (Mr '68)
 Hoyt, R. S., ed. Life and thought in the early middle ages. (1967, 1968 Annual) Morrall, J. B. Medieval imprint. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Queller, D. E. Office of ambassador in the middle ages. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

History

Lyon, B. Medieval finance. (O '68)
 Pullan, B., ed. Sources for the history of medieval Europe from the mid-eighth to the mid-thirteenth century. (Ag '68)
 Middle Ages: the thirteenth to the fifteenth centuries; v2 of The Russian religious mind. Fedotov, G. P. (Mr '68)

Middle classes

Groethuysen, B. Bourgeois. (Ap '68)

Middle East. See Near East

Middle ground. Zilinsky, U. (D '68)

Middlemarch. Hardy, B., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Midrash

Commentaries

Raphael, C. Walls of Jerusalem. (Je '68)
 Midway, Battle of, 1942
 Lord, W. Incredible victory. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Mighty Mekong. Liss, H. (Je '68)

Military art and science

Calder, N., ed. Unless peace comes. (O '68)
 Montgomery of Alamein. B. L. M. History of warfare. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Military assistance

Wolf, C. United States and the third world. (Ap '68)

Military drawings and paintings in the collection of Her Majesty the Queen, v 1. Miller, A. E. H., comp. (Ag '68)

Military half. Schell, J. (O '68)

Military history

Montgomery of Alamein. B.L.M. History of warfare. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Mydans, C. Violent peace. (Ag '68)

Military law

Wiener, F. B. Civilians under military justice. (D '68)

Military occupation

See also
 Germany—History—Allied occupation, 1945-1955

Military policy

Glick, E. B. Peaceful conflict. (N '68)
 Harkabi, Y. Nuclear war and nuclear peace. (Mr '68)

Military service, Compulsory

American Friends service committee. The draft? (Ag '68)

Carper, J. Bitter greetings. (Ap '68)
 Marmion, H. A. Selective service: conflict and compromise. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Tax, S., ed. Draft. (My '68)

Military uniforms. See Uniforms, Military

Military uniforms in color. Kannik, P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Miliukov, Paul. See Milfukov, Pavel Nikolaevich

Milfukov, Pavel Nikolaevich

Miliukov, P. Political memoirs, 1905-1917. (Ag '68)

Milkbottle H. Orlovitz, G. (Ap '68)

Mill, John Stuart

Stephen, J. F. Liberty, equality, fraternity. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Millais, Sir John Everett, Bart.

Lutyens, M. Millais and the Ruskins. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Millais and the Ruskins. Lutyens, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Millennium

Tuveson, E. L. Redeemer nation. (D '68)

Miller, Arthur

Murray, E. Arthur Miller, dramatist. (S '68)

Miller, Henry

Gordon, W. A. Mind and art of Henry Miller. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Mills, Charles Wright

The power elite

Domhoff, G. W., comp. C. Wright Mills and The power elite. (S '68)

Millstätter Exodus. Green, D. H. (Ap '68)

Milton, John

Demaray, J. G. Milton and the masque tradition. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Madsen, W. G. From shadowy types to truth. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Patrides, C. A. Milton and the Christian tradition. (Ag '68)

Steadman, J. M. Milton and the renaissance hero. (My '68)

Paradise lost

Burden, D. H. Logical epic. (Ag '68)

Emma, R. D., ed. Language and style in Milton. (O '68)

Fish, S. E. Surprised by sin: the reader in Paradise lost. (Ap '68)

Shumaker, W. Unpremeditated verse: feeling and perception in Paradise lost. (Ag '68)

Milton and the Christian tradition. Patrides, C. A. (Ag '68)

Milton and the masque tradition. Demaray, J. G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Milton and the renaissance hero. Steadman, J. M. (My '68)

Milwaukee

Social conditions

Korman, G. Industrialization, immigrants, and Americanizers. (Ap '68)

Mind: an essay on human feeling, v 1. Langer, S. K. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Mind and art of Henry Miller. Gordon, W. A. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Mind and body

- Armstrong, D. M. Materialist theory of the mind. (N '68)
 Australasian association of philosophy. Identity theory of mind. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Langer, S. K. Mind: an essay on human feeling, v 1. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Mind and heart of Frederick Douglass. Douglass, F. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Mind of a mnemonist. Luria, A. R. (Je '68)
 Mind of India. Gerber, W., ed. (Ag '68)
 Mind of the dolphin. Lilly, J. C. (Je '68)
 Mind of the European romantics. Schenk, H. G. (Mr '68)
 Mind you, I've said nothing! Tracy, H. (O '68)
 Mines and mineral resources

Arizona

- Gentry, C. Killer mountains. (D '68)

United States

- Albert, H. W. Odyssey of a desert prospector. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Wright, J. E. Galena lead district. (My '68)

Juvenile literature

- Smith, H. E. From under the earth: America's metals, fuels, and minerals. (My '68)

The West

- Lewis, M., ed. Mining frontier. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Miniature painting

- Meiss, M. French painting in the time of Jean de Berry, 2v. (Ag '68)

Mining engineering*Dictionaries

- Nelson, A. Dictionary of applied geology. (S '68)

- Mining frontier. Lewis, M., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Minnesota Theatre Company, Minneapolis

- Morison, B. G. In search of an audience. (N '68)

- Minoan and Mycenaean art. Higgins, R. (Ag '68)

Minorities

- Blalock, H. M. Toward a theory of minority-group relations. (O '68)

- Goldhagen, E., ed. Ethnic minorities in the Soviet Union. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Kunstadter, P., ed. Southeast Asian tribes, minorities, and nations, 2v. (Ag '68)

- Minutemen. Jones, J. H. (D '68)

- Miracle of flight. Cromer, R. (D '68)

- Miracle of the Met. Eaton, Q. (S '68)

- Miraclejack. Baldwin, M. (Ag '68)

- Mirages of marriage. Lederer, W. J. (N '68)

- Miranda's music. Boudin, J. (D '68)

- Mirror of the century. Pound, R. (Je '68)

- Mirror to Damascus. Thubron, C. (Ap '68)

Mirrors

- Gluck, I. D. It's all done with mirrors. (N '68)

- Miss Mamma Aimee. Caldwell, E. (Ag '68)

- Missing Melinda. Jackson, J. (Je '68)

- Missing milkman. Duvoisin, R. (S '68)

- Mission in Palestine, 1948-1952. Azcarate, P. de. (My '68)

- Mission survival. Bondy, R., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Missions*Juvenile literature

- Wise, W. E. Fray Junipero Serra and the California conquest. (Ap '68)

Serampore, India

- Potts, E. D. British Baptist missionaries in India, 1793-1837. (N '68)

Sudan

- Vandevort, E. Leopard tamed. (Ag '68)

Mississippi River*Discovery and exploration

- Severin, T. Explorers of the Mississippi. (My '68)

Mississippi Valley*History

- Nasatir, A. P. Spanish war vessels on the Mississippi, 1792-1796. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Missolonghi manuscript. Prokosch, F. (Ap '68)

Missouri*Politics and government

- Mering, J. V. Whig party in Missouri. (Ag '68)

Missouri River

- Athearn, R. G. Forts of the Upper Missouri. (Ap '68)

- Mr Balfour's poodle. Jenkins, R. (O '68)
 Mr Brown and Mr Gray. Wondriska, W. (N '68)

- Mr Chief Justice: Earl Warren. Severn, B. (N '68)

- Mister Corbett's ghost. Garfield, L. (Ja '69)

- (1968 Annual)

- Mr Gallion's school. Stuart, J. (Je '68)

- Mr Jonathan Edwards. Wood, J. P. (N '68)

- Mr Smith & other nonsense. Smith, W. J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Mr Theodore Mundstock. Fuks, L. (My '68)

- Mrs Appleyard and I. Kent, L. A. (O '68)

- Mrs Beneker. Weingarten, V. (Ap '68)

- Mrs Caldwell speaks to her son. Cela, C. J. (S '68)

- Mrs Mander's cook book. Manders, O. S. (O '68)

- Mrs Ma's favorite Chinese recipes. Ma, N. C. (O '68)

- Mrs Parkinson's law. Parkinson, C. N. (Ja '69)

- (1968 Annual)

- Mrs Westerby changes course. Cadell, E. (My '68)

- Mitch and Amy. Cleary, B. (O '68)

- Mitchell, Helen Porter. See Melba, N.

- Mitchell, William

- Davis, B. Billy Mitchell affair. (1967, 1968 Annual)

- Mithraism in Ostia. Laeuchli, S., ed. (N '68)

- Mobile professors. Brown, D. G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Models in geography. Chorley, R. J., ed. (S '68)

- Models of language. Revzin, I. I. (Ag '68)

- Modern American theater. Kernan, A. B., ed. (Ap '68)

- Modern Brazilian short stories. Grossman, W. L. (Mr '68)

- Modern British dramatists. Brown, J. R., ed. (S '68)

- Modern Canadian verse in English and French. Smith, A. J. M., comp. (Je '68)

- Modern century. Frye, N. (N '68)

- Modern corporation and private property [rev ed]. Berle, A. A. (N '68)

- Modern culture of Latin America: society and the artist. Franco, J. (Mr '68)

- Modern England. Webb, R. K. (O '68)

- Modern English-Yiddish-English dictionary. Weinreich, U. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Modern humanistic psychotherapy. Burton, A. (S '68)

- Modern Italian novel: from Manzoni to Svevo. Pacifici, S. (S '68)

- Modern man in search of manhood. Greene, T. A. (Ag '68)

- Modern motherhood. Lilley, H. M. I. (Je '68)

- Modern physics. Eng title of: Physics for the modern man. Fuchs, W. R. (Ap '68)

- Modern Romance literatures. Curley, D. N., comp. (Ap '68)

- Modern silver, throughout the world, 1880-1967. Hughes, G. (Mr '68)

- Modern Yemen, 1918-1966. Wenner, M. W. (My '68)

- Modernism

- Ratté, J. Three modernists: Alfred Loisy, George Tyrrell, William L. Sullivan. (Ap '68)

- Modernism (Art)

- Masters, R. E. L. Psychedelic art. (N '68)

- O'Doherty, B. Object and idea. (Mr '68)

- Pellegrini, A. New tendencies in art. (Ag '68)

- Poggioli, R. Theory of the avant-garde. (N '68)

- Read, H. Art and alienation. (Mr '68)

- Modernist movement in Brazil. Nist, J. (Ap '68)

- Modernity of tradition. Rudolph, L. I. (Ja '69)

- (1968 Annual)

- Modernization and British colonial rule in Egypt, 1882-1914. Tignor, R. L. (Mr '68)

- Molecular biology

- Allen, J. M., ed. Molecular organization and biological function. (S '68)

- Molecular organization and biological function. Allen, J. M., ed. (S '68)

- Monasticism and religious orders

- Berkery, P. J. Restructuring religious life. (Ag '68)

- Colaizzi, J. F., ed. Married priests & married nuns. (D '68)

- Häring, B. Acting on the word. (N '68)

- Kennedy, E. C. Fashion me a people. (Je '68)

- Woodward, G. W. O. Dissolution of the monasteries. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

- See also

- Tatze Community

- Monasticism and religious orders for women

- Evoy, J. J. Real woman in the religious life. (Ap '68)

- Valentine, M. H. Post-conciliar nun. (O '68)

- Monday, 21 October 1805. Ribbons, I. (Ja '69)

- (1968 Annual)

Monetary reform and the price of gold. Hinchshaw, R., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Monetary theory and policy. Thorn, R. S., ed. (Ap '68)

Money

Blum, J. M. From the Morgenthau letters, v3. (My '68)
 Johnson, H. G. Essays in monetary economics. (S '68)
 Knight, J. A. For the love of money. (Ag '68)
 Pontecorvo, G., ed. Issues in banking and monetary analysis. (Ag '68)
 Thorn, R. S., ed. Monetary theory and policy. (Ap '68)

History

Nugent, W. T. K. Money and American society, 1865-1880. (N '68)

Juvenile literature

Neal, H. E. Money. (Mr '68)

Money. Neal, H. E. (Mr '68)
 Money and American society, 1865-1880. Nugent, W. T. K. (N '68)
 Money game. Smith, A. (Ag '68)
 Money question during reconstruction. Nugent, W. T. K. (O '68)
 Money that money can't buy. Munro, J. (N '68)

Mongoose

Hinton, H. E. Mongooses. (My '68)
 Monkey on a string. Viertel, J. (Ag '68)

Monkeys

Williams, L. Man and monkey. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Stories

Rockwell, A. Stolen necklace. (Ag '68)

Monopolies

Kuennen, R. E., ed. Monopolistic competition theory: studies in impact. (Je '68)
 Monopolistic competition theory: studies in impact. Kuennen, R. E., ed. (Je '68)
 Monopoly. Goulden, J. C. (O '68)
 Monotonous landscape. Herburger, G. (Ag '68)
 Monroe doctrine

Juvenile literature

Rink, P. In defense of freedom. (Ag '68)
 Monsieur Nicolas. Restif de la Bretonne, N. E. (Mr '68)
 Monsoon Asia. Robinson, H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Monster's visit. Lord, B. (Ag '68)
 Montana adventure. Linderman, F. B. (N '68)
 Montejo, Esteban
 Montejo, E. Autobiography of a runaway slave. (N '68)
 Montesquiou-Fezansac, Robert, comte de
 Julian, P. Prince of aesthetes: Count Robert de Montesquiou, 1855-1921. (Ap '68)
 Montgomery of Alamein, Bernard Law Montgomery, 1st Viscount
 Thompson, R. W. Churchill and the Montgomery myth. (Ag '68)
 Montgomery legend. Eng title of: Churchill and the Montgomery myth. Thompson, R. W. (Ag '68)
 Month brothers. Nathan, D. (Mr '68)
 Montini, Giovanni Battista. See Paul VI, Pope
 Monumental brasses. See Brasses
 Monumental Washington. Reys, J. W. (Mr '68)
 Monuments
 Krythe, M. R. What so proudly we hail. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Moody, Ralph
 Moody, R. Horse of a different color. (D '68)
 Moominpappa at sea. Jansson, T. (Ag '68)

Moon

Juvenile literature

Dayrell, E. Why the sun and the moon live in the sky. (Ag '68)

Photographs

Alter, D. Pictorial guide to the moon [rev & enl ed.]. (Ap '68)
 Moon of Gomrath. Garner, A. (Ag '68)
 Moon of the bears. George, J. C. (Mr '68)
 Moon of the owls. George, J. C. (Mr '68)
 Moon of the salamanders. George, J. C. (Mr '68)
 Moore, Colleen
 Moore, C. Silent star. (My '68)
 Moral and political tradition of Rome. Earl, D. (My '68)
 Moral responsibility. Fletcher, J. (Ad '68)
 Morale
 Baynes, J. Morale. (O '68)
 Morality and mental health. Mowrer, O. H., ed. (Ag '68)

Morality for our time. Oraison, M. (D '68)
 Morality of scholarship. Black, M., ed. (Je '68)
 Morals in a free society. Keeling, M. (O '68)
 Moran, Patrick Francis, Cardinal
 Ford, P. Cardinal Moran and the A.L.P. (Ap '68)

Moravia, Alberto. See Pincherle, A.

Moravia. Dego, G. (Ag '68)

Moravians

Gollin, G. L. Moravians in two worlds. (Ap '68)
 Moravians in two worlds. Gollin, G. L. (Ap '68)

More, Sir Thomas, Saint

Pineas, R. Thomas More and Tudor polemics. (N '68)

More Shapes and stories. Grigson, G. (Mr '68)
 More silver pennies. Thompson, B. J., ed. (In her All the silver pennies). (Mr '68)

Moreto y Cavana, Agustin

Casa, F. P. Dramatic craftsmanship of Moreto. (Ap '68)

Morgan, Daniel Edgar

Campbell, T. F. Daniel E. Morgan, 1877-1949. (Ap '68)

Morgenthau, Henry

Blum, J. M. From the Morgenthau diaries, v3. (My '68)

Morley and India, 1906-1910. Wolpert, S. A. (Je '68)

Morley of Blackburn, John Morley, 1st Viscount
 Wolpert, S. A. Morley and India, 1906-1910. (Je '68)

Mormons and Mormonism

Hansen, K. J. Quest for empire. (Mr '68)
 Morning noon and night. Cozzens, J. G. (N '68)
 Morocco. Landau, R. (My '68)

Morphology. See Anatomy, Comparative

Morris, Earl Halstead

Lister, F. C. Earl Morris & Southwestern archaeology. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Morris, William

Henderson, P. William Morris. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Watkinson, R. William Morris as designer. (Mr '68)

Morris, Willie

Morris, W. North toward home. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Mortality merchants. Reynolds, G. S. (Ag '68)

Mosaics

Kähler, H. Hagia Sophia. (Ap '68)
 Oakeshott, W. Mosaics of Rome. (Ag '68)
 Mosaics of Rome. Oakeshott, W. (Ag '68)
 Mosby's memoirs. Bellow, S. (D '68)

Moscow

History

Fennell, J. L. I. Emergence of Moscow, 1304-1359. (Ag '68)

Most contagious game. Aird, C. (D '68)

Most probable world. Chase, S. (Ap '68)

Moth in a rag shop. Chambers, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Mother is a country. Perutz, K. (Ag '68)

Mothers

Biography

Faber, D. Mothers of American Presidents. (N '68)

Mothers of American Presidents. Faber, D. (N '68)

Motion pictures from the Library of Congress paper print collection, 1894-1912. Niver, K. R. (Ap '68)

Motivation (Psychology)

LeVine, R. A. Dreams and deeds. (Mr '68)

Motorcycles

Juvenile literature

Coombs, C. Motorcycling. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Motorcycling. Coombs, C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Mott, Newcomb

Copp, D. S. Incident at Boris Gleb. (My '68)

Mound builders of ancient America. Silverberg, R. (O '68)

Mounds and mound builders

Silverberg, R. Mound builders of ancient America. (O '68)

Mount Huntington

Roberts, D. Mountain of my fear. (Je '68)

Mountain Arabs. Sykes, J. (D '68)

Mountain climbing. See Mountaineering

Mountain of my fear. Roberts, D. (Je '68)

Mountaineering

Roberts, S. Mountain of my fear. (Je '68)

Ullman, J. R. Straight up. (O '68)

Wood, R. L. Across the Olympic Mountains. (Ad '68)

Mountaineering—Continued

History

- Styles, S. On top of the world. (Ag '68)
- Mountbatten family
Cookridge, E. H. From Battenberg to Mountbatten. (Ap '68)
- Move! Lieber, J. (O '68)
- Move. Simenon, G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Movement of English prose. Gordon, I. A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Moving image. Gessner, R. (D '68)
- Moving image. Yarnold, G. D. (Ap '68)
- Moving picture industry
Balshofer, F. J. One reel a week. (Ag '68)
- Schickel, R. Disney version. (Ag '68)
- Moving picture photography
Balshofer, F. J. One reel a week. (Ag '68)
- Moving picture plays
Bergman, I. Film trilogy. (Ap '68)

History and criticism

- Crist, J. Private eye, the cowboy and the very naked girl. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Gessner, R. Moving image. (D '68)
- Kael, P. Kiss kiss bang bang. (Je '68)
- Robinson, W. R., ed. Man and the movies. (Ap '68)
- Simon, J. Private screenings. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Ward, J. Alain Resnais, or The theme of time. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Wood, R. Howard Hawks. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Moving pictures
Bazin, A. What is cinema? (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Brownlow, K. How it happened here. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Crowther, B. Great films. (Mr '68)
- Durgnat, R. Films and feelings. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Durgnat, R. Luis Bunuel. (O '68)
- Schickel, R., ed. Film 67/68. (D '68)
- Society of motion picture and television engineers. Technological history of motion pictures and television. (D '68)
- Truffaut, F. Hitchcock. (Mr '68)

Bibliography

- Niver, K. R. Motion pictures from the Library of Congress paper print collection, 1894-1912. (Ap '68)

Biography

- Dickens, H. Films of Marlene Dietrich. (D '68)
- Halliwell, L. Filmgoer's companion [2d ed rev & enl]. (Ag '68)

Catalogs

- Hunter, F. J., comp. Guide to the theatre and drama collections at the University of Texas. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Censorship

- Randall, R. S. Censorship of the movies. (D '68)

Dictionaries

- Halliwell, L. Filmgoer's companion [2d ed rev & enl]. (Ag '68)

History

- Brownlow, K. Parade's gone by. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Lahue, K. C. Kops and custards. (O '68)

Production and direction

- Finler, J. W. Stroheim. (O '68)
- Geduld, H. M., ed. Film makers on film making. (Mr '68)
- Gessner, R. Moving image. (D '68)
- Graham, P., comp. New wave. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Grey, E. Behind the scenes in a film studio. (Ag '68)
- Kael, P. Kiss kiss bang bang. (Je '68)
- Losey, J. Losey on Losey. (Ap '68)
- Nowell-Smith, G. Luchino Visconti. (Ap '68)
- Robinson, W. R., ed. Man and the movies. (Ap '68)
- Roud, R. Jean-Luc Godard. (Ap '68)
- Sarris, A. Interviews with film directors. (Ap '68)
- Ward, J. Alain Resnais, or, The theme of time. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Mowrer, Edgar Ansel
Mowrer, E. A. Triumph and turmoil. (N '68)
- Mozart, Johann Chrysostom Wolfgang Amadeus

Juvenile literature

- Bishop, C. H. Mozart. (Ag '68)

Mucha, Alphonse Marie

- Mucha, J. Alphonse Mucha. (O '68)
- Muhammad 'Abduh
Kedourie, E. Afghani and 'Abduh. (Ag '68)
- Muir, Edwin
Butter, P. H. Edwin Muir: man and poet. (Ap '68)
- Mulberry tree. Frasca, J. (Ag '68)
- Munford, Robert
Baine, R. M. Robert Munford. (My '68)
- Munich

Description

- Larsen, E. Munich. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Munich. Larsen, E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Munich four-power agreement, 1938-
Kennan, G. F. From Prague after Munich. (Ag '68)
- Thompson, L. Greatest treason. (Ag '68)
- Municipal government

United States

- Perloff, H. S., ed. Issues in urban economics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Munroe, J. Spencer

Juvenile literature

- Colman, H. Career in medical research. (S '68)

Mural painting and decoration

- Leroy, J. Ethiopian painting in the late middle ages and during the Gondar dynasty. (S '68)
- Murbach, E. Painted Romanesque ceiling of St Martin in Zillis. (Ag '68)

Murder

- Brophy, J. Meaning of murder. (My '68)
- Christie, T. L. Etched in arsenic. (My '68)
- Halper, A., ed. Chicago crime book. (Mr '68)
- Holmes, P. Trials of Dr. Coppelino. (Ag '68)
- Lustgarten, E. Business of murder. (S '68)
- MacDonald, J. D. No deadly drug. (D '68)
- Moser, D. Pied piper of Tucson. (Mr '68)
- Williams, E. Beyond belief. (Ap '68)
- Wolfgang, M. E. Subculture of violence. (S '68)
- Zierold, H. Three sisters in black. (D '68)
- Murder against the grain. Lathen, E. (Mr '68)
- Murder among children. Coe, T. (Je '68)
- Murder has no friends. Jones, B. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Murder on pad 34. Bergaust, E. (N '68)

- Murder scholastic. Caird, J. (Je '68)

- Murder's burning. Courtier, S. H. (N '68)

- Murmuring stream, 2v. Frodsham, J. D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Museum age. Bazin, G. (Je '68)

- Museum without walls. Malraux, A. (N '68)

- Museums and education. Larrabee, E., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Museums and schools

- Larrabee, E., ed. Museums and education. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Museums of Paris. Charmet, R. (S '68)

- Mushmen, Russell, S. P. (D '68)

Music

Analysis, appreciation

- Blume, F. Renaissance and baroque music. (D '68)
- Gurney, E. Power of sound. (Ap '68)
- Hansen, P. S. Introduction to twentieth century music [2d ed]. (Ap '68)
- Hoffer, C. R. Understanding of music. (S '68)
- Meyer, L. B. Music, the arts, and ideas. (S '68)
- New York Times. New York Times guide to listening pleasure. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Robertson, A. Requiem. (S '68)
- Roem, N. Music and people. (D '68)

Anecdotes, facetiae, satire, etc.

- Heinsheimer, H. W. Best regards to Aida. (D '68)

Bibliography

- Duckles, V., comp. Music reference and research materials [2d ed]. (Ap '68)

Discography

- New York Times. New York Times guide to listening pleasure. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

History and criticism

- Blume, F. Renaissance and baroque music. (D '68)
- Boulez, P. Notes of an apprenticeship. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Collaer, P. Historical atlas of music. (S '68)
- Hansen, P. S. Introduction to twentieth century music [2d ed]. (Ap '68)

- Hutchings, A. Church music in the nineteenth century. (My '68)
- Le Huray, P. Music and the reformation in England, 1549-1660. (N '68)
- Malm, W. P. Music cultures of the Pacific, the Near East, and Asia. (N '68)
- Meyer, L. B. Music, the arts, and ideas. (S '68)
- New Oxford history of music, v4. (S '68)
- Plantinga, L. B. Schuman [sic] as critic. (My '68)
- Philosophy
- Epperson, G. Musical symbol. (N '68)
- Meyer, L. B. Music, the arts, and ideas. (S '68)
- Psychology
- Gurney, E. Power of sound. (Ap '68)
- Research
- Watanabe, R. T. Introduction to music research. (My '68)
- Study and teaching
- Maynard, O. Children and dance and music. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Terminology
- Grant, P. Handbook of music terms. (S '68)
- Music, American
- History and criticism
- Levy, L. S. Grace notes in American history. (S '68)
- Juvenile literature
- Rublowsky, J. Music in America. (Mr '68)
- Music, Asian
- Malm, W. P. Music cultures of the Pacific, the Near East, and Asia. (N '68)
- Music, British
- History and criticism
- Young, P. M. History of British music. (My '68)
- Music, English
- History and criticism
- Long, J. H., ed. Music in English renaissance drama. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Music, European
- Blume, F. Renaissance and baroque music. (D '86)
- Music, Hawaiian
- Juvenile literature
- Hausman, R. L. Hawaii: music in its history. (D '68)
- Music, Popular (Songs, etc.)
- Levy, L. S. Grace notes in American history. (S '68)
- Rublowsky, J. Popular music. (S '68)
- Music, Russian
- History and criticism
- Seaman, G. R. History of Russian music. (O '68)
- Music, Sacred. See Church music
- Music, Slavic
- History and criticism
- Abraham, G. Slavonic and romantic music. (O '68)
- Music and people. Rorem, N. (D '68)
- Music and the musician in Jean-Christophe. Sices, D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Music and the reformation in England, 1549-1660. Le Huray, P. (N '68)
- Music cultures of the Pacific, the Near East, and Asia. Malm, W. P. (N '68)
- Music in America. Rublowsky, J. (Mr '68)
- Music in English renaissance drama. Long, J. H., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Music reference and research materials [2d ed]. Duckles, V., comp. (Ap '68)
- Music, the arts, and ideas. Meyer, L. B. (S '68)
- Musical Instruments
- Winternitz, E. Musical instruments of the Western world. (Ag '68)
- Juvenile literature
- Fox, L. M. Instruments of popular music. (S '68)
- Headington, C. Orchestra and its instruments. (N '68)
- Young, P. M. Keyboard musicians of the world. (N '68)
- Musical instruments of the Western world. Winternitz, E. (Ag '68)
- Musical revues, comedies, etc.
- Engel, L. American musical theater. (Ap '68)
- Gilbert, W. S. Gilbert before Sullivan. (Mr '68)
- Musical symbol. Epperson, G. (N '68)
- Musicians
- Newton, I. At the piano—Ivor Newton. (D '68)
- See also
- Composers
- Juvenile literature
- Young, P. M. Keyboard musicians of the world. (N '68)
- Portraits
- Keepnews, O., comp. Pictorial history of jazz [new rev ed]. (Ap '68)
- Musicians, American
- Jones, L. Black music. (My '68)
- Rose, A. New Orleans jazz. (O '68)
- Simon, G. T. Big bands. (Mr '68)
- Swoboda, H., ed. American symphony orchestra. (Ap '68)
- Musket and the cross. Edmonds, W. D. (My '68)
- Muslim cities in the later middle ages. Lapidus, I. M. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Muslim matrimonial court in Singapore. Djamour, J. (Je '68)
- Muslims in Russia
- Bennigsen, A. Islam in the Soviet Union. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Mussolini, Benito
- Juvenile literature
- Bayne-Jardine, C. C. Mussolini and Italy. (Ag '68)
- Mussolini and Italy. Bayne-Jardine, C. C. (Ag '68)
- Mustang, Nepal
- Description and travel
- Peissel, M. Mustang, the forbidden kingdom. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Mustang, the forbidden kingdom. Peissel, M. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Mutineers. Armstrong, R. (S '68)
- Mutiny and British land policy in North India, 1856-1868. Raj, J. (Ap '68)
- My adventures with African animals. Bauer, E. (N '68)
- My brother Evelyn, and other portraits. Waugh, A. (Mr '68)
- My brother Evelyn & other profiles. Eng title of: My brother Evelyn and other portraits. Waugh, A. (Mr '68)
- My championship judo. Geesink, A. (Ap '68)
- My contemporaries. Cocteau, J. (N '68)
- My country right or left, 1940-1943; v2 of The collected essays, Journalism and letters of George Orwell. Orwell, G. (D '68)
- My country, U.S.A. Bielawski, J. G. (Mr '68)
- My dearest Augusta. Gunn, P. (N '68)
- My father, Shalom Aleichem. Waife-Goldberg, M. (My '68)
- My fifteen months in government. Tshombe, M. (S '68)
- My foe outstretch'd beneath the tree. Clinton-Baddeley, V. C. (N '68)
- My friend Ché. Rojo, R. (D '68)
- My friend says it's bulletproof. Mortimer, P. (Ag '68)
- My friends, the wild chimpanzees. Lawick-Goodall, J. van. (Mr '68)
- My God died young. Brata, S. (D '68)
- My grand enemy. Stubbs, J. (My '68)
- My heart's in the heather. Manley, S. (Ag '68)
- My kind of verse. Smith, J., comp. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- My life & my views. Born, M. (S '68)
- My life is baseball. Robinson, F. (Ag '68)
- My lord brother the Lion heart. Haycraft, M. (Ag '68)
- My past and thoughts. 4v. Herzen, A. (S '68)
- My silent war. Philby, K. (Ag '68)
- My ups and downs in baseball. Cepeda, O. (Ag '68)
- Myers, Frederic William Henry
- Gauld, A. Founders of psychical research. (D '68)
- Myra Breckinridge. Vidal, G. (My '68)
- Myra Waldo's Chinese cookbook. Waldo, M. (O '68)
- Myrdal, Jan
- Myrdal, J. Confessions of a disloyal European. (Ag '68)
- Myself when young. Detzer, K. (Je '68)
- Mysteries of the universe. Corliss, W. R. (S '68)
- Mysterious grain. Elting, M. (Ap '68)
- Mysterious West. Williams, B. (Mr '68)
- Mystery of the fat cat. Bonham, F. (N '68)
- Mystery of the supernatural. Lubac, H. de. (Ag '68)

- Mysticism
Dimock, E. C. Place of the hidden moon. (Je '68)
- Myth, religion, and mother right, Bachofen, J. J. (Je '68)
- Mythology, Classical
Bachofen, J. J. Myth, religion, and mother right. (Je '68)
- Mythology, Greek
Eliot, A. Creatures of Arcadia, and creatures of ■ day. (Mr '68)
- Mythology, Jewish
Patai, R. Hebrew goddess. (Je '68)
- Myths of the space age. Cohen, D. (N '68)
- NAACP, v 1. Kellogg, C. F. (Mr '68)
- NATO and the range of American choice. Fox, W. T. R. (Je '68)
- NPD. See National democratic party (Germany [Federal Republic])
- Nabokov, Vladimir Vladimirovich
Dembo, L. S., ed. Nabokov: the man and his work. (Ag '68)
- Lolita
Proffer, C. R. Keys to Lolita. (Ag '68)
- Nabokov: the man and his work. Dembo, L. S., ed. (Ag '68)
- Nabokov's congeries. Nabokov, V. (D '68)
- Nagel's encyclopaedia-guide [to] China. (N '68)
- Naked ape. Morris, D. (Mr '68)
- Naked we came. Adams, J. D. (Mr '68)
- Names
Dictionaries
Swanson, D. C. Names in Roman verse. (O '68)
- Names in Roman verse. Swanson, D. C. (O '68)
- Nancy Cunard: brave poet, indomitable rebel, 1896-1965. Ford, H., ed. (N '68)
- Napoleon I, Emperor of the French
Delderfield, R. F. Imperial sunset. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Holtman, R. B. Napoleonic revolution. (S '68)
- Marshall-Cornwall, J. Napoleon as military commander. (Ag '68)
- Sutherland, J. Men of Waterloo. (Je '68)
- Invasion of Russia, 1812
Delderfield, R. F. Retreat from Moscow. (Ap '68)
- Juvenile literature
Gimpel, H. J. Napoleon. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Napoleon as military commander. Marshall-Cornwall, J. (Ag '68)
- Napoleon in Russia. Palmer, A. (Mr '68)
- Napoleonic revolution. Holtman, R. B. (S '68)
- Napoleonic Wars. See Europe—History—1789-1900
- Napoleon's marshal. Foster, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Napoleon's viceroy. Oman, C. (D '68)
- Narcissus and Goldmund. Hesse, H. (Ag '68)
- Narcotic habit
Endore, G. Synanon. (S '68)
- Hentoff, N. Doctor among the addicts. (N '68)
- Louria, D. B. Drug scene. (N '68)
- Surface, W. Poisoned ivy. (O '68)
- Narcotics
Moscow, A. Merchants of heroin. (D '68)
- Nariño, Antonio
Blossom, T. Nariño: hero of Colombian independence. (Ap '68)
- Nariño: hero of Colombian independence. Blossom, T. (Ap '68)
- Narni of the desert. Westwood, G. (Ag '68)
- Narrative of a residence in New Zealand. Earle, A. (Ag '68)
- Nash, John
Davis, T. John Nash, the Prince Regent's architect. (Mr '68)
- Nast, Thomas
Keller, M. Art and politics of Thomas Nast. (Ag '68)
- Nathaniel Hawthorne: identity and knowledge. Tharpe, J. (O '68)
- National Association for the Advancement of Colored People
Kellogg, C. F. NAACP, v 1. (Mr '68)
- National characteristics, American
Cooke, A. Talk about America. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Hofstadter, R., ed. Turner and the sociology of the frontier. (Ag '68)
- Rose, A. M. Power structure. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Schlesinger, A. M. Birth of the nation. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Somkin, F. Unquiet eagle. (N '68)
- National characteristics, English
Frost, D. English. (Ap '68)
- National characteristics, French
Nourissier, F. French. (O '68)
- Wiley, W. L. Formal French. (Ag '68)
- National characteristics, Irish
Connery, D. S. Irish. (Ag '68)
- Tracy, H. Mind you, I've said nothing! (O '68)
- National characteristics, Israeli
Selzer, M. Aryanization of the Jewish state. (Mr '68)
- National characteristics, Latin American
Andreski, S. Parasitism and subversion. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- National characteristics, Nigerian
LeVine, R. A. Dreams and deeds. (Mr '68)
- National democratic party (Germany [Federal Republic])
Long, W. New Nazis of Germany. (O '68)
- National economic planning. Universities—National bureau committee for economic research. (Ap '68)
- National health service. See Medicine, State
- National socialism
Burden, H. T. Nuremberg party rallies: 1923-39. (Ap '68)
- Long, W. New Nazis of Germany. (O '68)
- McGovern, J. Martin Bormann. (O '68)
- National socialist party (Germany)
Nyomarkay, J. Charisma and factionalism in the Nazi Party. (Ap '68)
- O'Neill, R. J. German army and the Nazi party, 1933-1939. (Ap '68)
- National waterway. Gray, R. D. (S '68)
- Nationalism
Alba, V. Nationalists without nations. (N '68)
- Kaunda, K. D. Humanist in Africa. (Ap '68)
- Kohn, H. Prelude to nation-states. (O '68)
- Mazrui, A. A. Towards a pax Africana. (Mr '68)
- Minogue, K. R. Nationalism. (Ag '68)
- Munger, E. S. Afrikaner and African nationalism. (S '68)
- Roff, W. R. Origins of Malay nationalism. (Mr '68)
- Schwartz, M. A. Public opinion and Canadian identity. (Je '68)
- Skendi, S. Albanian national awakening, 1878-1912. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Tauber, K. P. Beyond eagle and swastika, 2v. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Nationalists without nations. Alba, V. (N '68)
- Native art of Norway. Hauglid, R., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Native realm. Milosz, C. (N '68)
- Native sons. Margolies, E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Natural gas. See Gas.
- Natural history
Juvenile literature
Raskin, E. Pyramid of living things. (My '68)
- Atlantic States
Rudloe, J. Sea brings forth. (Ag '68)
- Australia
Béchervaise, J. M. Australia, world of difference. (S '68)
- China
Schafer, E. H. Vermilion bird. (My '68)
- Florida
Chapman, F. M. Frank M. Chapman in Florida. (Ap '68)
- Florida keys
Sanger, M. B. World of the great white heron. (Mr '68)
- Great Plains
Allen, D. L. Life of prairies and plains. (Ap '68)
- Kentucky
Harm, R. Ray Harm nature sketchbook. (Ag '68)
- Latin America
Dorst, J. South America and Central America. (My '68)
- North Carolina
Lawson, J. New voyage to Carolina. (O '68)
- United States
Bibliography
Meisel, M. Bibliography of American natural history. (N '68)

Natural history of viruses. Andrewes, C. H. (Ap '68)

Natural law. See Civil rights

Natural resources

Murphy, E. F. Governing nature. (Mr '68)
Penick, J. Progressive politics and conservation. (N '68)

California

Bronson, W. How to kill a golden state. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

United States

Munzer, M. E. Pockets of hope. (Mr '68)
Murphy, E. F. Governing nature. (Mr '68)

Natural theology

Hartshorne, C. Natural theology for our time. (Ag '68)

Natural theology for our time. Hartshorne, C. (Ag '68)

Naturalists

Ley, W. Dawn of zoology. (D '68)
Wendt, H. Before the deluge. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Nature

Glacken, C. J. Traces on the Rhodian shore. (Ap '68)

Nature in literature

Glacken, C. J. Traces on the Rhodian shore. (Ap '68)

Nature in miniature. Headstrom, R. (Ag '68)

Nature in poetry

Baron, V. O., ed. Seasons of time. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

Bramblett, E., ed. Shoots of green. (Ag '68)
Clare, J. Wood is sweet. (N '68)
Lewis, R., comp. Wind and the rain. (Ag '68)

Nature of historical thinking. Stover, R. (Mr '68)

Nature of life and cancer. Favata, B. V. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Nature of political inquiry. Frohock, F. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Nature sketchbook. Ray Harm. Harm, R. (Ag '68)

Nature study

Juvenile literature

Borten, H. Jungle. (Ag '68)
Lubell, W. In a running brook. (Ag '68)

United States

Headstrom, R. Nature in miniature. (Ag '68)
Seton, J. M. By a thousand fires. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Nature's nation. Miller, P. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Naughty bird. Wezel, P. (Mr '68)

Navaho Indians

Kelly, L. C. Navajo Indians and federal Indian policy, 1900-1935. (N '68)

Navajo Indians and federal Indian policy, 1900-1935. Kelly, L. C. (N '68)

Navajo wildlands. Jett, S. C. (S '68)

Naval art and science

Morrison, J. S. Greek oared ships, 900-322 B.C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Naval history

Southworth, J. V. D. War at sea, bk 1. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Navigation

History

Jobé, J., ed. Great age of sail. (Mr '68)

Juvenile literature

Coggins, J. By star and compass. (Ap '68)

Nazi Germany and the American hemisphere, 1933-1941. Frye, A. (Ap '68)

Nazi hunter. Shaw, B. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Nazi party (Germany). See National socialist party (Germany)

Near East

Description and travel

Finnie, D. H. Pioneers east. (My '68)

Foreign relations

Badeau, J. S. American approach to the Arab world. (S '68)

History

Waterfield, G. Layard of Nineveh. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

Asimov, I. Near East. (Ag '68)

Near East. Asimov, I. (Ag '68)

Nebraska

History

Crabb, R. Empire on the Platte. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Negative taxes and the poverty problem. Green, C. (S '68)

Neglected war. Eng title of: The bastard war. Barker, A. J. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Negligent doctor. Kramer, C. (O '68)

Negotiating with the Chinese Communists: the United States experience, 1953-1967. Young, K. T. (My '68)

Negro. Redding, S. (Ag '68)

Negro actors

Hughes, L. Black magic. (Ap '68)

Negro almanac. Ploski, H. A., ed. (Ag '68)

Negro American. Fishel, L. H., ed. (Ag '68)

Negro and apprenticeship. Marshall, F. R. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Negro and his folklore in nineteenth-century periodicals. Jackson, B., ed. (N '68)

Negro and Jew. Katz, S., ed. (My '68)

Negro and the city. Fortune (periodical). (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Negro art

Meauzé, P. African art. (O '68)

Negro authors

Adoff, A., ed. Black on black. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Margolies, E. Native sons. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Schulberg, B., ed. From the ashes. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Negro in American life. Morsbach, M. (Ap '68)

Negro in federal employment. Krislov, S. (Mr '68)

Negro in Virginia politics, 1902-1905. Buni, A. (Je '68)

Negro literature

Jones, L., ed. Black fire. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Schulberg, B., ed. From the ashes. (1967, 1968 Annual)

History and criticism

Margolies, E. Native sons. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Negro musicians

Jones, L. Black music. (My '68)

Negro poetry

Brooks, G. In the Mecca. (N '68)
Hayden, R., ed. Kaleidoscope. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Juvenile literature

Adoff, A., ed. I am the darker brother. (Ag '68)

Negro revolution. Goldston, R. (Ag '68)

Negroes

Adoff, A., ed. Black on black. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Carmichael, S. Black power. (Ag '68) 1967 Annual

Cleaver, E. Soul on ice. (My '68)

Cruse, H. Crisis of the Negro intellectual. (Mr '68)

Cruse, H. Rebellion or revolution? (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Dunbar, E., ed. Black expatriates. (Ap '68)

Gregory, D. Shadow that scares me. (Ap '68)

Grier, W. H. Black rage. (D '68)

Hough, J. C. Black power and white Protestants. (Ag '68)

Jones, L. Black music. (My '68)

Katz, S., ed. Negro and Jew. (My '68)

Killian, L. M. Impossible revolution? (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Lester, J. Look out, Whitey! Black power's gon' get your mama! (S '68)

Lightfoot, C. M. Ghetto rebellion to black liberation. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Marx, G. T. Protest and prejudice. (Ap '68)

Ploski, H. A., ed. Negro almanac. (Ag '68)

Schuchter, A. White power, black freedom. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Stone, C. Tell it like it is. (Ap '68)

Wright, N. Let's work together. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Zilversmit, A. First emancipation. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Biography

David, J., ed. Growing up black. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

Johnston, J. Special bravery. (Mr '68)

Civil rights

Berger, M. Equality by statute [rev ed]. (S '68)

Chambers, B., ed. Chronicles of Negro protest. (O '68)

Cox, A. Civil rights, the Constitution, and the courts. (Mr '68)

DuBois, W. E. B. Autobiography of W. E. B. DuBois. (My '68)

Negroes—Civil rights—Continued

- Evers, Mrs. Medgar. For us, the living. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Fisher, P. L., ed. Race and the news media. (Mr '68)
 Jacobs, P. Prelude to riot. (Ap '68)
 Killian, L. M. Impossible revolution? (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 King, M. L. Where do we go from here: chaos or community? (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Lincoln, C. E. Sounds of the struggle: persons and perspectives in civil rights. (Ap '68)
 Sterling, D. Tear down the walls! (D '68)

Economic conditions

- Fortune (periodical). Negro and the city. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Education

- Bullock, H. A. History of Negro education in the South. (Je '68)
 Damerell, R. G. Triumph in a white suburb. (Ap '68)
 Herndon, J. Way it spozed to be. (My '68)
 Kohl, H. 36 children. (Mr '68)
 Kozol, J. Death at an early age. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Rogers, D. 110 Livingston Street. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Employment

- Ferman, L. A., ed. Negroes and jobs. (N '68)
 Krislov, S. Negro in federal employment. (Mr '68)
 Marshall, F. R. Negro and apprenticeship. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Mayhew, L. H. Law and equal opportunity. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

History

- Bennett, L. Black power U.S.A. (Ag '68)
 Chambers, B., ed. Chronicles of Negro protest. (O '68)
 Drimmer, M., ed. Black history: a reappraisal. (D '68)
 Drotning, P. T. Guide to Negro history in America. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Fager, C. E. White reflections on black power. (My '68)
 Fishel, L. H., ed. Negro American (Ag '68)
 Goldston, R. Negro revolution. (Ag '68)
 Jordan, W. D. White over black. (Je '68)
 Katz, W. L. Eyewitness. (Mr '68)
 Osofsky, G. Burden of race. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Redding, S. Negro. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

- McPherson, J. M. Marching toward freedom: the Negro in the Civil War, 1861-1865. (Ag '68)
 Morsbach, M. Negro in American life. (Ap '68)

Housing

- Mayhew, L. H. Law and equal opportunity. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

- Hardwick, R. Charles Richard Drew. (Ap '68)

Moral and social conditions

- Chambers, B., ed. Chronicles of Negro protest. (O '68)
 Willis, G. Second civil war. (Ag '68)
 Wright, N. Ready to riot. (O '68)

Politics and suffrage

- Buni, A. Negro in Virginia politics, 1902-1905. (Je '68)

Segregation

- Grier, W. H. Black rage. (D '68)
 Newby, I. A. Challenge to the court. (Ap '68)
 Seabrook, I. D. Before and after. (Ag '68)

Chicago

- Millea, T. V. Ghetto fever. (Ag '68)
 Spear, A. H. Black Chicago. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Detroit

- Hersey, J. Algiers Motel incident. (O '68)
 Lee, A. M. Race riot, Detroit 1943. (D '68)
 Sauter, V. G. Nightmare in Detroit. (N '68)

Los Angeles

- Conot, R. Rivers of blood, years of darkness. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

New York (City)

- Nelson, T. Torture of mothers. (O '68)

Juvenile literature

- Werstein, I. Plotters. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Newark, New Jersey

- Hayden, T. Rebellion in Newark. (Mr '68)

Philadelphia

- Du Bois, W. E. B. Philadelphia Negro. (O '68)

South Carolina

- Barnwell, W. H. In Richard's world. (S '68)

Southern States

- Bullock, H. A. History of Negro education in the South. (Je '68)
 Nolen, C. H. Negro's image in the South. (Mr '68)
 Seabrook, I. D. Before and after. (Ag '68)

Tennessee

- Graham, H. D. Crisis in print. (Ag '68)

Virginia

- Buni, A. Negro in Virginia politics, 1902-1905. (Je '68)
 Negroes and jobs. Ferman, L. A., ed. (N '68)
 Negroes in Africa
 Blyden, E. W. Christianity, Islam and the Negro race. (My '68)
 Mwase, G. S. Strike a blow and die. (Ag '68)
 Negroes in France
 Fanon, F. Black skin, white masks. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Negroes in literature and art
 Williams, J. A., comp. Beyond the angry black [rev ed.]. (Je '68)
 Negro's image in the South. Nolen, C. H. (Mr '68)

Nehru, Jawaharlal

- Seton, M. Panditji. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

- Lamb, B. P. Nehrus of India. (My '68)
 Nehru, Motilal

Juvenile literature

- Lamb, B. P. Nehrus of India. (My '68)
 Nehrus of India. Lamb, B. P. (My '68)
 Neighbors. Brown, M. (Mr '68)
 Neolithic cultures to the T'ang dynasty: v 1 of Arts of China. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Nervous system
 Grant, R. Charles Scott Sherrington. (Ag '68)
 Neurosciences: a study program [2d ed.]. (D '68)
 Nest of tigers. Lehmann, J. (N '68)

Netherlands*Colonies

- Day, C. Dutch in Java [reissue]. (My '68)
 Neurophysiology. See Nervous system
 Neurosciences: a study program [2d ed.]. (D '68)
 Neuroses
 McNeil, E. B. Quiet furies. (Je '68)
 Neutra, Richard Joseph
 Neutra, R. Richard Neutra: buildings and projects, 1961-66. (Je '68)
 Never again. Parmet, H. S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Never try Nathaniel. Fisher, L. (O '68)
 Neville, Mary Cheney

Juvenile literature

- Neville, E. C. Traveller from a small kingdom. (Ag '68)
 New American commonwealth. Heren, L. (Ap '68)
 New Americans. Neidle, C. S. (N '68)
 New and selected poems. Garrigue, J. (Je '68)
 New and selected poems. Scott, W. T. (D '68)
 New apocalypse: the radical Christian vision of William Blake. Altizer, T. J. J. (Ap '68)
 New brahmans. Klaw, S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 New brutalism: ethic or aesthetic? Banham, R. (My '68)
 New catechism; Catholic faith for adults. (Mr '68)
 New Deal. Leuchtenburg, W. E., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 New England

Economic conditions

- Eisenmenger, R. W. Dynamics of growth in New England's economy, 1870-1964. (Mr '68)

Juvenile literature

- Gemming, E. Huckleberry Hill. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Stearns, M. Story of New England. (Mr '68)
 New England butt'ry shelf cookbook. Campbell, M. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

New French architecture. Besset, M. (N '68)
 New genetics. Engel, L. (O '68)
 New Guinea (Territory)

Commerce

Harding, T. G. Voyagers of the Vitiaz Strait. (N '68)
 New Indians. Steiner, S. (Ap '68)
 New Italian architecture. Galardi, A. (Ag '68)
 New Japanese architecture [rev ed]. Kultermann, U. (N '68)
 New Jersey

Politics and government

Prince, C. E. New Jersey's Jeffersonian Republicans. (Mr '68)
 New Jersey's Jeffersonian Republicans. Prince, C. E. (Mr '68)
 New language of politics. Safire, W. L. (O '68)
 New media and education. Rossi, P. H., ed. (Ag '68)
 New Mexico

Description and travel

Hammond, G. P. Rediscovery of New Mexico, 1580-1594. (Ap '68)

History

Hammond, G. P. Rediscovery of New Mexico, 1580-1594. (Ap '68)

Politics and government

Holmes, J. E. Politics in New Mexico. (Je '68)
 New Nazis of Germany. Long, W. (O '68)
 New New can-opener cookbook. Cannon, P. (Ag '68)
 New Orleans

History

Juvenile literature

Hall-Quest, O. Old New Orleans, the Creole city. (D '68)
 New Orleans jazz. Rose, A. (O '68)
 New Orleans restaurant cookbook. Stanforth, D. (Mr '68)
 New Oxford history of music, v4. (S '68)
 New people. Winick, C. (S '68)
 New politics. Perry, J. M. (Ag '68)
 New rhetorics. Steinmann, M., ed. (Ap '68)
 New Rumania. Fischer-Galati, S. (My '68)
 New sculpture. Kultermann, U. (N '68)
 New Smith's Bible dictionary. Smith, W. (Ap '68)
 New Smyrna. Panagopoulos, E. P. (Ap '68)
 New South Wales, Australia

Politics and government

Loveday, P. Parliament factions and parties. (Ag '68)
 New tendencies in art. Pellegrini, A. (Ag '68)
 New Testament of the Jerusalem Bible. Bible. New Testament. (Mr '68)
 New towns of the middle ages. Beresford, M. (Ag '68)
 New trends in church architecture. Dahinden, J. (Ag '68)
 New trends in table setting. Staley, L. (D '68)
 New views on American economic development. Andreano, R. L., ed. (Je '68)
 New voyage to Carolina. Lawson, J. (O '68)
 New wave. Graham, P., comp. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 New worlds ahead. Hampden, J., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 New year. Buck, P. S. (Ag '68)
 New Year's eve/1929. Farrell, J. T. (S '68)
 New York (City)
 Callow, J. T. Kindred spirits. (O '68)

Economic conditions

Ginzberg, E. Manpower strategy for the metropolis. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

History

McCague, J. Second rebellion: the story of the New York City draft riots of 1863. (O '68)

Juvenile literature

Werstein, I. Plotters. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Police

Black, A. D. People and the police. (D '68)
 Klein, H. T. Police. (Ag '68)
 Nelson, T. Torture of mothers. (O '68)
 Radano, G. Walking the beat. (Ag '68)

Politics and government

Eisenstein, L. Stripe of Tammany's tiger. (My '68)
 Pilat, O. Lindsay's campaign. (My '68)

Poor

Brager, G. A., ed. Community action against poverty. (O '68)

Public schools

Kohl, H. 36 children. (Mr '68)
 Rogers, D. 110 Livingston Street. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Swanson, B. E. Struggle for equality. (Mr '68)
 New York (City). Board of Education
 Rogers, D. 110 Livingston Street. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 New York (City). Metropolitan Opera
 Eaton, Q. Miracle of the Met. (S '68)
 New York (State)

Politics and government

Katz, S. N. Newcastle's New York. (N '68)
 Lee, C. B. T. One man, one vote. (N '68)
 Mahoney, J. D. Actions speak louder. (O '68)
 Shannon, W. V. Heir apparent. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Wesser, R. F. Charles Evans Hughes. (O '68)
 Young, A. F. Democratic Republicans of New York. (Ap '68)

Social life and customs

Miller, D. T. Jacksonian aristocracy. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 New York Times guide to listening pleasure. New York Times. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 New York's Greenwich Village. Delaney, E. T. (D '68)

New Zealand

Civilization

Rowe, J. W. New Zealand. (N '68)

Description and travel

Arnold, T. New Zealand letters of Thomas Arnold the younger. (My '68)
 Earle, A. Narrative of a residence in New Zealand, [and] Journal of a residence in Tristan da Cunha. (Ag '68)
 New Zealand. Rowe, J. W. (N '68)
 New Zealand letters of Thomas Arnold the younger. Arnold, T. (My '68)
 Newark, New Jersey

Race relations

Wright, N. Ready to riot. (O '68)

Riots

Hayden, T. Rebellion in Newark. (Mr '68)
 Newcastle-upon-Tyne

History

Howell, R. Newcastle upon Tyne and the Puritan Revolution. (Mr '68)
 Newcastle upon Tyne and the Puritan Revolution. Howell, R. (Mr '68)
 Newcastle's New York. Katz, S. N. (N '68)
 Newfoundland

History

Chadwick, S. J. Newfoundland. (Ag '68)
 Newfoundland. Chadwick, S. J. (Ag '68)
 Newman, John Henry, Cardinal
 Dessain, C. S. John Henry Newman. (My '68)
 Femiano, S. D. Infallibility of the laity. (S '68)
 Graef, H. God and myself. (S '68)
 Hollis, C. Newman and the modern world. (Je '68)
 Newman, J. H. Apologia pro vita sua. (N '68)
 Newman and the modern world. Hollis, C. (Je '68)

Newport, Rhode Island

Downing, A. F. Architectural heritage of Newport, Rhode Island, 1640-1915 [2d ed rev]. (N '68)

News media: a journalist looks at his profession. Hohenberg, J. (O '68)

Newspaper history of England, 1792-1793. Werkmeister, L. (O '68)

Newspapers

Rucker, B. W. First freedom. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Schulte, H. F. Spanish press, 1470-1966. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

See also

African newspapers
 English newspapers
 Newton, Sir Isaac
 Newton, I. Correspondence of Isaac Newton, v4. (Mr '68)
 Newton, Ivor
 Newton, I. At the piano—Ivor Newton. (D '68)
 Next Kennedy. Laing, M. (Ap '68)

Ney, Michel, Duc D'Elchingen, Prince De La Moskowa

Juvenile literature

- Foster, J. Napoleon's marshal. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Nice and the good. Murdoch, I. (Mr '63)
 Nicholas II, Emperor of Russia
 Massie, R. K. Nicholas and Alexandra. (Ag '68) (19A67 Annual)
 Richards, G. Imperial agent. (My '68)
 Nicholas and Alexandra. Massie, R. K. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Nichols, Roy Franklin
 Nichols, R. F. Historian's progress. (O '68)
 Nicoll, Allardyce
 Book of masques. (Ag '68)
 Nicolson, Harold
 Nicolson, H. Diaries and letters; v3. The later years, 1945-1962. (S '68)

Nigeria

Schwarz, W. Nigeria. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Economic conditions

Helleiner, G. K. Peasant agriculture, government, and economic growth in Nigeria. (Ap '68)

Economic policy

Okigbo, P. N. C. Africa and the common market. (Ap '68)

Social life and customs

- LeVine, R. A. Dreams and deeds. (Mr '68)
 Night flight to Hanoi. Berrigan, D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Night journey. Graham, W. (My '68)
 Night of the hawk. Raine, R. (Ag '68)
 Night of the rape. White, L. (Ap '68)
 Night pastors. Matthews, S. G. (Mr '68)
 Nightclimber. White, J. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Nightmare in Detroit. Sauter, V. G. (N '68)
 Nightmovers. Dunphy, J. (Je '68)
 Nightwalker. Kinsella, T. (O '68)
 Nikolai, Metropolitan of Krutitsy and Kolomna
 Fletcher, W. C. Nikolai. (Ag '68)
 Nikolai. Fletcher, W. C. (Ag '68)
 Nin, Anaïs
 Evans, O. Anaïs Nin. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Nine lives of Billy Rose. Gottlieb, P. R. (Ag '68)
 1940: the fall of France. Beaufre, A. (Je '68)
 1913: an end and a beginning. Cowles, V. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 1913: the defiant swan song. Eng title of: 1913: an end and a beginning. Cowles, V. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 99th hour. Price, D. O., ed. (My '68)
 Nitric acid
 Chilton, T. H. Strong water. (N '68)
 Nixon, Richard Milhous
 Mazo, E. Nixon. (O '68)
 No beat of drum. Burton, H. (Mr '68)
 No deadly drug. MacDonald, J. D. (D '68)
 No easy victories. Gardner, J. W. (O '68)
 No laughing matter. Wilson, A. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 No mules. Papas. (Ag '68)
 No one writes to the colonel. García Márquez, G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 No way to treat a lady. Goldman, W. (Je '68)

Nobility

- Diesbach, G. de Secrets of the Gotha. (Ag '68)
 Dukes, P. Catherine the Great and the Russian nobility. (N '68)
 Perrott, R. Aristocrats. (N '68)

Nobody wanted war. White, R. K. (D '68)

Noguchi, Hideyo

Juvenile literature

- D'Amelio, D. Taller than Bandai Mountain. (N '68)
 Noguchi, Isamu
 Noguchi, I. Isamu Noguchi: a sculptor's world. (Ag '68)
 None but the nightingale. Thiele, M. R. (O '68)
 None of us will return. Delbo, C. (Ag '68)
 Non-graded schools. See Ability grouping in education
 Nongraded schools in action. Beggs, D. W., ed. (S '68)
 Non-human thought. Graven, J. (S '68)
 Nonsense verses
 Smith, W. J. Mr Smith & other nonsense. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Non-violence and aggression. Horsburgh, H. J. N. (O '68)
 Non-violent resistance. See Passive resistance to government

Norfolk, England

Economic conditions

- Finn, R. W. Domesday studies. (O '68)
 Normal adolescence: its dynamics and impact. Group for the advancement of psychiatry (Ag '68)

Normandy

Description and travel

Juvenile literature

- Laurence. Village in Normandy. (O '68)
 North, Frank Mason
 Lacy, C. Frank Mason North. (Ap '68)
 North, Frederick, 2d Earl of Guilford
 Valentine, A. Lord North, 2v. (Je '68)
 North America

Description and travel

Watson, J. W. North America: its countries and regions [2d ed]. (N '68)

Politics

Lipset, S. M. Revolution and counterrevolution. (O '68)

Social conditions

- Lipset, S. M. Revolution and counterrevolution. (O '68)
 North America. Eng title of: Art of North America. Haberland, W. (N '68)
 North America: its countries and regions [2d ed]. Watson, J. W. (N '68)
 North American mammals. Caras, R. A. (Ap '68)
 North Atlantic region

Politics

- Catlin, G. E. G. Stronger community. (Mr '68)
 North Atlantic Treaty Organization
 Deutsch, K. W. Arms control and the Atlantic alliance. (N '68)
 Fox, W. T. R. NATO and the range of American choice. (Je '68)
 North Carolina

Description and travel

Lawson, J. New voyage to Carolina. (O '68)

History, Local

- Evans, W. M. Ballots and fence rails. (Mr '68)
 North Pole
 Kuralt, C. To the top of the world. (Ag '68)
 North Sea
 Cooper, B. North Sea oil—the great gamble. (S '68)
 North Sea oil—the great gamble. Cooper, B. (S '68)
 North toward home. Morris, W. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 North-West frontier. Swinson, A. (Je '68)
 Northern California's water industry. Bain, J. S. (Mr '68)

Northmen

Viking. (Ag '68)

Northwest, Canadian

Description and travel

- Helmericks, C. Down the wild river north. (S '68)
 Mackenzie, A. Exploring the Northwest territory. (Je '68)
 Phillips, R. A. J. Canada's North. (Ap '68)
 Northwest, Old
 Derleth, A. Vincennes: portal to the West. (N '68)
 Northwest, Pacific
 Merk, F. Oregon question. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Norway

Antiquities

Hagen, A. Norway. (My '68)

History

German occupation, 1940-1945

- Hansson, P. Greatest gamble. (Mr '68)
 Norway. Hagen, A. (My '68)
 Norwegian contributions to American studies. v 1. Americana Norvegica. (Mr '68)
 Nostalgia and nightmare. Band, A. J. (S '68)
 Not for glory—who are today's great teachers? Burke, W. J. (My '68)
 Not so rich ■■■ you think. Stewart, G. R. (Mr '68)
 Not yet uhuru. Odinga, O. (My '68)
 Notebooks for The idiot. Dostoevsky, Fyodor (Ag '68)

- Notebooks of Dylan Thomas. Thomas, D. (Mr '68)
- Notes from the frontier. Nissenson, H. (Je '68)
- Notes of an apprenticeship. Boulez, P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Novels of Saul Bellow. Opdahl, K. M. (Je '68)
- Nuclear astrophysics. Fowler, W. A. (My '68)
- Nuclear physics
- Cohen, B. L. Heart of the atom. (Ag '68)
- Conference on the mathematical theory of elementary particles, 1965. Proceedings. (Mr '68)
- Jungk, R. Big machine. (N '68)
- Livingston, M. S. Particle physics. (N '68)
- History
- Childs, H. American genius: the life of Ernest Orlando Lawrence. (Ag '68)
- Davis, N. P. Lawrence and Oppenheimer. (N '68)
- Schonland, B. Atomists (1805-1933). (N '68)
- Juvenile literature
- Hellman, H. High energy physics. (D '68)
- Levinger, J. S. Secrets of the nucleus. (Ag '68)
- Nuclear war and nuclear peace. Harkabi, Y. (Mr '68)
- Nuclear war deterrence, and morality. O'Brien, W. V. (Ag '68)
- Nuer (African tribe)
- Vandevort, E. Leopard tamed. (Ag '68)
- Numbers of things. Oxenbury, H. (D '68)
- Nuns. See Monasticism and religious orders for women
- Nuremberg party rallies: 1923-39. Burden, H. T. (Ap '68)
- Nuremberg trial of major German war criminals, 1945-1946
- Juvenile literature
- Columbia broadcasting system, incorporated. CBS News. Trial at Nuremberg. (Ag '68)
- Nurse Matilda goes to town. Brand, C. (Ag '68)
- Nursery rhymes
- Chas Addams Mother Goose. (Ap '68)
- DeForest, C. B. Prancing pony. (Ag '68)
- Drummer Hoff. (Ap '68)
- Hurrah, we're outward bound! (O '68)
- London Bridge is falling down! II. by Peter Spier. (Ap '68)
- Montgomerie, N. One, two, three. (S '68)
- Mother Goose. I saw a ship a-sailing. (Je '68)
- Mother Goose. To market! to market! (Ag '68)
- Nursery schools
- Conference on pre-school education, Chicago, 1966. Early education. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Nurses and nursing
- Pinks, V. M. Plan for indexing the periodical literature of nursing. (Mr '68)
- Nursing homes
- Garvin, R. M. Where they go to die: the tragedy of America's aged. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Nutrition
- Sebrell, W. H. Food and nutrition. (Ap '68)
- Juvenile literature
- Arnold, P. Food facts for young people. (N '68)
- Nutrition for the growing years. McWilliams, M. (My '68)
- Nyswander, Marie
- Hentoff, N. Doctor among the addicts. (N '68)
- O children of the wind and pines. Baker, L. N. (Mr '68)
- the chimneys. Sachs, N. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- OAS and United States foreign policy. Slater, J. (My '68)
- Oakland, California
- Social conditions
- Bradford, A. Oakland's not for burning. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Oakland's not for burning. Bradford, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Object and idea. O'Doherty, B. (Mr '68)
- Objective: Egypt. Eng title of: Egypt and Sinai. Blaxland, G. (S '68)
- Obscenity (Law)
- Kuh, R. H. Foolish figleaves? (Mr '68)
- Rembar, C. End of obscenity. (Ag '68)
- Obstructed path. Hughes, H. S. (Ap '68)
- Occult sciences
- Dumas, F. R. Cagliostro. (My '68)
- Occupation of Chios by the Germans and their administration of the island. Argenti, P. P. (My '68)
- Occupational careers. Slocum, W. L. (Je '68)
- Occupational costume in England, from the eleventh century to 1914. Cunningham, P. (Je '68)
- Occupational diseases
- Juvenile literature
- Grant, M. P. Alice Hamilton: pioneer doctor in industrial medicine. (Je '68)
- Occupational information. Wolfbein, S. L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Occupational retraining
- Hoos, I. R. Retraining the work force. (S '68)
- Occupations
- Duckat, W. Beggar to king. (S '68)
- McKay, E. A. Macmillan job guide to American corporations. (Ap '68)
- Winter, E. L. Women at work. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Occupying power. Griffin, G. (N '68)
- Ocean
- Ericson, D. B. Ever-changing sea. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Ocean challenge. Carse, R. (Ap '68)
- Ocean waves
- Juvenile literature
- Clemons, E. Waves, tides, and currents. (Mr '68)
- Zim, H. S. Waves. (D '68)
- Oceanographers
- Juvenile literature
- Briggs, P. Men in the sea. (N '68)
- Oceanography
- Bardach, J. Harvest of the sea. (My '68)
- Briggs, P. Water: the vital essence. (My '68)
- Ericson, D. B. Ever-changing sea. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Hersey, J. B., ed. Deep-sea photography. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Turekian, K. K. Oceans. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Juvenile literature
- Briggs, P. Men in the sea. (N '68)
- Clemons, E. Waves, tides, and currents. (Mr '68)
- Pizer, V. World ocean. (My '68)
- Silverberg, R. World of the ocean depths. (Ag '68)
- Research
- Juvenile literature
- Bixby, W. Seawatchers. (N '68)
- Coggins, J. Hydrospace. (Mr '68)
- Oceans. Turekian, K. K. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Octagon magic. Norton, A. (S '68)
- Octopus
- Juvenile literature
- Stephens, W. M. Octopus lives in the ocean. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Octopus lives in the ocean. Stephens, W. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Odd old mammals. Armour, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Odinga, Odinga
- Odinga, O. Not yet uhuru. (My '68)
- Odyssey: a new verse tr. by Albert Cook Homer. (Ap '68)
- Odyssey of a desert prospector. Albert, H. W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Odyssey of Homer. Homer. (Mr '68)
- Of diamonds and diplomats. Baldrige, L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Of love and dust. Gaines, E. J. (Ap '68)
- Of predation and life. Errington, P. L. (D '68)
- Offering of uncles. Capon, R. F. (Mr '68)
- Office of ambassador in the middle ages. Queller, D. E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- O'Flaherty, Hugh Joseph
- Gallagher, J. P. Scarlet Pimpernel of the Vatican. (Je '68)
- O'Hara, John Francis, Cardinal
- McAvoy, T. T. Father O'Hara of Notre Dame, the cardinal-archbishop of Philadelphia. (N '68)
- Oil companies and governments. Eng title of: Politics and world oil economics [rev. ed.] Hartshorn, J. E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Oil: the biggest business. Tugendhat, C. (N '68)
- Oil wells. See Petroleum

- O-kee-pa: a religious ceremony, and other customs of the Mandans [centennial ed]. Catlin, G. (Ap '68)
- Oklahoma
Description and travel
Irving, W. Tour on the prairies. (Je '68)
- Old age
Milne, L. J. Ages of life. (O '68)
- "Old Bruin": Commodore Matthew C. Perry, 1794-1858. Morison, S. E. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Old buildings, gardens, and furniture in Tidewater Maryland. Forman, H. C. (Je '68)
- Old cities & new towns. Schwartz, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Old crowd. Mackay, S. (My '68)
- Old English poetry. Creed, R. P., ed. (S '68)
- Old love and the new. Waller, W. W. (O '68)
- Old New Orleans, the Creole city. Hall-Quest, O. (D '68)
- Old table silver. Brunner, H. (Mr '68)
- Old Testament for everyman. Dell'Isola, F., ed. (S '68)
- Old Testament with songs and plays; v 1 of Bible for children. Klink, J. L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Old world & new world fairy tales. Williams-Ellis, A. (Mr '68)
- Olode the hunter, and other tales from Nigeria. Courlander, H. (Je '68)
- Olympic Mountains
Wood, R. L. Across the Olympic Mountains. (Ap '68)
- Oman
History
Landen, R. G. Oman since 1856. (N '68)
- Oman since 1856. Landen, R. G. (N '68)
- Ombudsman
American assembly. Ombudsmen for American government? (N '68)
- Ombudsmen for American government? American assembly. (N '68)
- Ominous ear. Spindel, B. B. (O '68)
- On being American. Webster, N. (My '68)
- On city streets. Larrick, N., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- On decoration. David Hicks. Hicks, D. (Ag '68)
- On documentation of scientific literature. Loosjes, T. P. (My '68)
- On education—sociological perspectives. Hansen, D. A., ed. (N '68)
- On friendship. Cicero, M. T. (With his On old age). (My '68)
- On integration in plants. Dostál, R. (Ag '68)
- On Judaism. Buber, M. (My '68)
- On modernism. Kampff, L. (O '68)
- On not leaving it to the snake. Cox, H. G. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- On old age. Cicero, M. T. (My '68)
- On quality in art. Rosenberg, J. (Je '68)
- On reflection. Hayes, H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- On responsibility. Fingarette, H. (N '68)
- On social organization and social personality. Thomas, W. I. (Mr '68)
- On the aesthetic education of man. Schiller, F. (O '68)
- On the beat. Robinson, B. (D '68)
- On the decay of humanism. Spackman, W. M. (O '68)
- On the origin of springs. Perrault, P. (Ag '68)
- On the outskirts of hope. Dawson, H. (N '68)
- On the royal highways of the Inca. Ubbelohde-Doering, H. (Mr '68)
- On-the-spot reporting. Gordon, G. N. (Mr '68)
- On the way toward a phenomenological psychology. Linschoten, H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- On the wisdom of words. Wagner, G. (Ag '68)
- On top of the world. Styles, S. (Ag '68)
- Onassis, Aristotle Socrates
Frischauer, W. Onassis. (S '68)
- Once an eagle. Myrer, A. (N '68)
- Once there was and twice there wasn't. Walker, B. K. comp. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Ondine. See Giraudoux, J. Plays. (Mr '68)
- One-act plays
Melfi, L. Encounters. (Ag '68)
- Juvenile literature
Estes, E. Lollipop princess. (My '68)
- One, chilly Siberian morning. Botting, D. (D '68)
- One for the devil. Leroux, E. (Ag '68)
- One heartbeat away. Bayh, B. (O '68)
- One hundred and one. Tagore, R. (Je '68)
- 110 Livingston Street. Rogers, D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- 100 great kings, queens and rulers of the world. Canning, J., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- 100 poems. Van Doren, M. (Mr '68)
- One is for the sun. Blegvad, L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- One-legged ghost. Lifton, B. J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- One man, one vote. Lee, C. B. T. (N '68)
- One man's education. Lewis, W. M. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- One man's Mexico. Lincoln, J. (Ag '68)
- One of our priests is missing. Weatherby, W. J. (Ag '68)
- One reel a week. Balshofer, F. J. (Ag '68)
- One, two, three. Montgomerie, N. (S '68)
- One very hot day. Halberstam, D. (S '68)
- O'Neill, Eugene Gladstone
Sheaffer, L. O'Neill: son and playwright. (D '68)
- O'Neill: son and playwright. Sheaffer, L. (D '68)
- Onions and roses. Miller, V. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Only by public consent. Golden, L. L. L. (Ap '68)
- Only to God. Harris, L. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Ontology
Marcel, G. Presence and immortality. (Ap '68)
- Neville, R. C. God the creator. (Ag '68)
- See also
God
Onwards! Hentoff, N. (S '68)
- Oops! or, Life's awful moments. Linkletter, A. (Ap '68)
- Opera
Westrup, J., ed. Essays presented to Egon Wellesz. (My '68)
- Opera news book of Traviata. Merklings, F., ed. (Ag '68)
- Operas
Dictionaries
Towers, J. Dictionary-catalogue of operas and operettas, 2v. (My '68)
- History and criticism
Merklings, F., ed. Opera news book of Traviata. (Ag '68)
- Stories, plots, etc.
Hughes, S. Famous Verdi operas. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Operation time search. Norton, A. (Mr '68)
- Operettas
Dictionaries
Towers, J. Dictionary-catalogue of operas and operettas, 2v. (My '68)
- Oppenheimer, Julius Robert
Davis, N. P. Lawrence and Oppenheimer. (N '68)
- Optics
Gluck, I. D. It's all done with mirrors. (N '68)
- Or I'll dress you in mourning. Collins, L. (Ag '68)
- Oracles
Parke, H. W. Oracles of Zeus. (D '68)
- Oracles of Zeus. Parke, H. W. (D '68)
- Orange Wednesday. Thomas, L. (Ap '68)
- Orators. Auden, W. H. (D '68)
- Orchestra
Swoboda, H., ed. American symphony orchestra. (Ap '68)
- Juvenile literature
Headington, C. Orchestra and its instruments. (N '68)
- Orchestra & beginners. Raphael, F. (My '68)
- Orchestra and its instruments. Headington, C. (N '68)
- Ordeal of the animals. Morse, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Order and change. Moore, W. E. (O '68)
- Order and chaos. Angrist, S. W. (Mr '68)
- Orderly life. Yglesias, J. (D '68)
- Ordinary universe. Donoghue, D. (N '68)
- Ordnance
Baldwin, W. L. Structure of the defense market, 1955-1964. (O '68)
- Oregon
Description and travel
Franchère, G. Adventure at Astoria, 1810-1814. (Je '68)
- History
Franchère, G. Adventure at Astoria, 1810-1814. (Je '68)
- Politics and government
Hendrickson, J. E. Joe Lane of Oregon. (Mr '68)
- Oregon question. Merk, F. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Organ
Armstrong, W. H. Organs for America. (N '68)

- Organisation and bureaucracy. Mouzelis, N. P. (D '68)
- Organisation de l'armée secrète
Bocca, G. Secret army. (O '68)
- Organization and handling of bibliographic records by computer. Cox, N. S. M., ed. (S '68)
- Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development
Aubrey, H. G. Atlantic economic cooperation. (S '68)
- Organization of American States
Slater, J. OAS and United States foreign policy. (My '68)
- Organizational intelligence. Wilensky, H. L. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Organizations in action. Thompson, J. D. (Jm '68)
- Organized labor and the Mexican revolution under Lázaro Cárdenas. Ashby, J. C. (O '68)
- Organizing for community welfare. Zald, M. N., ed. (Ag '68)
- Organs for America. Armstrong, W. H. (N '68)
- Oriental armour. Robinson, H. R. (Ag '68)
- Oriental ceramics discovered in the Philippines. Locsin, L. (N '68)
- Oriental poetry
Collections
Jose, F. S., ed. Asian PEN anthology. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Oriental world. Auboyer, J. (Mr '68)
- Origin of life. Bernal, J. D. (S '68)
- Origin of the Icelanders. Guthmundsson, B. (Ap '68)
- Original Rubaiyyat of Omar Khayyām. Omar Khayyām. (Ag '68)
- Origins of American diplomacy: the international history of Angloamerica, 1492-1763. Savelle, M. (O '68)
- Origins of American politics. Bailyn, B. (Ag '68)
- Origins of chemistry. Multhaupt, R. P. (Mr '68)
- Origins of communism in Turkey. Harris, G. S. (S '68)
- Origins of Malay nationalism. Roff, W. R. (Mr '68)
- Origins of modern town planning. Benevolo, L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Origins of the American Indians. Huddleston, L. E. (N '68)
- Origins of the Fifth amendment. Levy, L. W. (O '68)
- Origins of the modern Jew. Meyer, M. A. (Ag '68)
- Origins of the National health service. Hodgkinson, R. G. (N '68)
- Origins of the pact of steel. Toscano, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Origins of the war with Mexico. Price, G. W. (N '68)
- Origins of World War II, 1933-1939; v 1 of Stalin, Hitler, and Europe. McSherry, J. E. (Ag '68)
- Ornithology. Rand, A. L. (Ap '68)
- Orozco, Pascual
Meyer, M. C. Mexican rebel. (Ap '68)
- Orthodox Eastern Church
Constantelos, D. J. Greek Orthodox church. (Ap '68)
- Orthodox Eastern Church, Russian
Fedotov, G. P. Russian religious mind, 2v. (Mr '68)
- Orwell, George
Orwell, G. Collected essays, journalism and letters of George Orwell, 4v. (D '68)
- Oskar Kokoschka. Schmalenbach, F. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Ostia, Italy
Antiquities
Laeuchli, S., ed. Mithraism in Ostia. (N '68)
- Other Germany. Dornberg, J. (O '68)
- Other half. Eng title of: The other halves. Davies, H. (Ag '68)
- Other halves. Davies, H. (Ag '68)
- Other side of the street. Brown, P. (Ap '68)
- "Other" State Department. Beichman, A. (N '68)
- Otters
Juvenile literature
Wisbeski, D. True story of Okee the otter. (Mr '68)
- Oudh
Raj, J. Mutiny and British land policy in North India, 1856-1868. (Ap '68)
- Our brothers in Christ, 1870-1959. Daniel-Rops, H. (N '68)
- Our children's burden. Mack, R. W., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- "Our crowd." Birmingham, S. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Our lord Don Quixote; v3 of Selected works. Unamuno y Jugo, M. de. (D '68)
- Our next president. Baker, R. (Je '68)
- Our own worst enemy. Lederer, W. J. (S '68)
- Out loud. Mitchell, A. (O '68)
- Out of the ark. Reed, G., comp. (N '68)
- Out of the earth I sing. Lewis, R., ed. (Je '68)
- Out of the labyrinth. Kahler, E. (S '68)
- Outbreak. Black, L. (S '68)
- Outdoor cookery
Newman, J. Cooking for family campers. (O '68)
- Outdoor life
Gibbons, E. Euell Gibbons' Beachcomber's handbook. (Mr '68)
- Outdoor recreation
Clawson, M. Economics of outdoor recreation. (Mr '68)
- Outer dark. McCarthy, C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Outer space
Asimov, I. Environments out there. (Ag '68)
- Exploration
Clarke, A. C. Promise of space. (S '68)
- Shelton, W. Soviet space exploration. (D '68)
- Dictionaries
McGraw-Hill encyclopedia of space. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Outlaws. See Robbers and outlaws
- Outline of the principles of history. Droysen, J. G. (N '68)
- Over here! Churchill, A. (S '68)
- Over the blue mountain. Richter, C. (Ap '68)
- Over the hills and far away. Russ, L. (Ag '68)
- Overdrive. Gilbert, M. (Je '68)
- Overhead capital. Youngson, A. J. (N '68)
- Ovid (Publius Ovidius Naso)
Hoffman, R. L. Ovid and the Canterbury tales. (Ap '68)
- Ovid and the Canterbury tales. Hoffman, R. L. (Ap '68)
- Owl service. Garner, A. (N '68)
- Owls
Juvenile literature
George, J. C. Moon of the owls. (Mr '68)
- Oxford companion to Canadian history and literature. Story, N. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Oxford companion to English literature [4th ed revl. Harvey, P., ed. (My '68)
- Oxford regional economic atlas: United States & Canada. (O '68)
- Oxford, University
Leff, G. Paris and Oxford universities in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries. (Ag '68)
- Sparrow, J. Mark Pattison and the idea of a university. (O '68)
- Pa Chin and his writings. Lang, O. (Je '68)
- Pacific area
Discovery and exploration
Frills, H. R., ed. Pacific basin. (Ap '68)
- Pacific basin. Frills, H. R., ed. (Ap '68)
- Pacifism
Finn, J. Protest: pacifism and politics. (My '68)
- Packaging
Oka, H. How to wrap five eggs. (O '68)
- Bibliography
Jones, G. Packaging. (My '68)
- Laws and regulations
Mowbray, A. Q. Thumb on the scale. (Mr '68)
- Packard Motor Car Company
Aiken, M. Economic failure, alienation, and extremism. (D '68)
- Pact of steel. Origins of the. Toscano, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Padmore, George
Hooker, J. R. Black revolutionary. (Mr '68)
- Pagan Scandinavia. Davidson, H. R. E. (Je '68)
- Pai-pai pig. Anderson, J. (Mr '68)
- Paid servant. Braithwaite, E. R. (Je '68)
- Pain
Petrie, A. Individuality in pain and suffering. (Mr '68)
- Painted Romanesque ceiling of St Martin in Zillis. Murbach, E. (Ag '68)

PaintersSee also*

Bellini, G.
Bingham, G. C.
Gogh, V. van
Hals, F.
Ingres, J. A. D.
Kokoschka, O.
Masaccio, T. G.
Pattnir, J. de
Raphael
Renoir, P. A.
Rubens, P. P.
Wyeth, A.

Painters, American

Pinckney, P. A. Painting in Texas. (N '68)

See also

Bingham, G. C.
Gorky, A.

Painters, British

Bell, Q. Victorian artists. (My '68)

Painters, Dutch

Friedländer, M. J. Early Netherlandish painting, v 1. (Ap '68)

Painters, English. See Painters, BritishPainters, French

Blunt, A. Nicolas Poussin, 2v. (Ap '68)

Painters, Indian (American Indian). See Indians of North America—ArtPainters, Italian*Juvenile literature

Jacobs, D. Master painters of the Renaissance. (N '68)

Painting

Cameron, A. S. Chinese painting techniques. (Ap '68)

Dictionaries

Barron, J. N. Language of painting. (N '68)

History

Jaffé, H. L. C., ed. 20,000 years of world painting. (S '68)

Philosophy

McLuhan, M. Through the vanishing point. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Study and teaching

Cooke, H. L. Painting lessons from the great masters. (S '68)

Technique

Cooke, H. L. Painting lessons from the great masters. (S '68)

Painting, British

Bell, Q. Victorian artists. (My '68)

Painting, Chinese

Cameron, A. S. Chinese painting techniques. (Ap '68)

De Silva, A. Art of Chinese landscape painting. (Ag '68)

Painting, Dutch

Friedländer, M. J. Early Netherlandish painting, v 1. (Ap '68)

Painting, English. See Painting, BritishPainting, Ethiopian

Leroy, J. Ethiopian painting in the late middle ages and during the Gondar dynasty. (S '68)

Painting, French

Daulte, F. French watercolors of the 20th century. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Painting, Greek

Philippaki, B. Attic stamnos. (Ag '68)

Painting, Indian (American Indian). See Indians of North America—ArtPainting, Italian

Robertson, G. Giovanni Bellini. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

Jacobs, D. Master painters of the Renaissance. (N '68)

Painting, Mongolian

Ipsiroglu, M. S. Painting and culture of the Mongols. (Mr '68)

Painting and culture of the Mongols. Ipsiroglu, M. S. (Mr '68)

Painting in Texas. Pinckney, P. A. (N '68)

Painting lessons from the great masters. Cooke, H. L. (S '68)

Paintings

Jaffé, H. L. C., ed. 20,000 years of world painting. (S '68)

Catalogs

Redslob, E. ed. Berlin-Dahlem gallery. (N '68)

Paintings, American

Pinckney, P. A. Painting in Texas. (N '68)

Paintings, English

Churchill, W. Churchill: his paintings. (Mr '68)

Paintings, European

Miller, A. E. H., comp. Military drawings and paintings in the collection of Her Majesty the Queen, v 1. (Ag '68)

Paintings, Flemish

Hulst, R. A. d'. Royal museum, Brussels. (Ag '68)

Paintings, French

Blunt, A. Nicolas Poussin, 2v. (Ap '68)

Paintings, Italian

Bellori, G. P. Lives of Annibale & Agostino Carracci. (O '68)

Pakistan*Constitutional history

Schuler, E. A. Public opinion and constitution making in Pakistan, 1958-1962. (Ap '68)

Economic conditions

Papanek, G. F. Pakistan's development. (Ag '68)

Economic policy

Papanek, G. F. Pakistan's development. (Ag '68)

Foreign relations*India

Sharma, B. L. Kashmir story. (S '68)

Politics and government

Ayub Khan, M. Friends not masters. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Birkhead, G. S., ed. Administrative problems in Pakistan. (Mr '68)

Sayed, K. B. Political system of Pakistan. (Je '68)

Schuler, E. A. Public opinion and constitution making in Pakistan, 1958-1962. (Ap '68)

Religion

Ahmad, A. Islamic modernism in India and Pakistan, 1857-1964. (N '68)

Pakistan's development. Papanek, G. F. (Ag '68)

Palace of ice. Vesaas, T. (N '68)

Palaeolithic cave art. Ucko, P. J. (O '68)

Paleontology. See Fossils

Palestine*History

Latour, A. Resurrection of Israel. (Ag '68)

Religion

Albright, W. F. Yahweh and the Gods of Canaan. (N '68)

Palmer, William Jackson*Juvenile literature

Bailey, R. E. Fight for Royal Gorge. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Palmistry

Sorell, W. Story of the human hand. (Je '68)

Pan-Africanism

Hooker, J. R. Black revolutionary. (Mr '68)

Wallerstein, I. Africa: the politics of unity. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Panama*Foreign relations*United States

Liss, S. B. Canal. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Panama Canal

Klette, I. J. From Atlantic to Pacific. (Ap '68)

Panay (Gunboat)

Koginos, M. T. Panay incident. (O '68)

Panay incident. Koginos, M. T. (O '68)

Panditji, Seton, M. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Pankhurst, Dame Christabel

Mitchell, D. Fighting Pankhursts. (Mr '68)

Pankhurst, Emmeline (Goulden)

Mitchell, D. Fighting Pankhursts. (Mr '68)

Pankhurst, Estelle Sylvia

Mitchell, D. Fighting Pankhursts. (Mr '68)

Pankhurst family

Mitchell, D. Fighting Pankhursts. (Mr '68)

Pan-Slavism

MacKenzie, D. Serbs and Russian pan-slavism, 1875-1878. (Je '68)

Pantarch, Stern, M. B. (D '68)

Panther & the lash. Hughes, L. (N '68)

Paoli, Pia

Paoli, P. Determined to live. (O '68)

Papacy

- Glasfurd, A. Antipope (Peter de Luna, 1342-1423). (Ap '68)
 Nichols, P. Politics of the Vatican. (Je '68)

Paper crafts

- Mander, J. Great international paper airplane book. (My '68)

Paper making and trade*Juvenile literature

- Cohn, A. Wonderful world of paper. (S '68)

Paper work. See Paper crafts

- Paper zoo. Weiss, R. K., comp. (D '68)

Paperback books

- Weybright, V. Making of a publisher. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

- Papers of Andrew Johnson, v 1. Johnson, A. (Je '68)

- Papers of Benjamin Franklin, v 11. Franklin, B. (D '68)

- Papers of John C. Calhoun, v3. Calhoun, J. C. (Je '68)

- Papers of Ulysses S. Grant, v 1. Grant, U. S. (1967, 1968 Annual)

- Papers of Woodrow Wilson, v3. Wilson, W. (Je '68)

- Papers on capitalism, development and planning. Dobb, M. H. (S '68)

Papyrus manuscripts. See Manuscripts

- Parade of cockeyed creatures. Baxt, G. (D '68)
 Parade's gone by. Brownlow, K. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Paradise of snakes. Rosenfield, C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Paradox of hate. Seiden, M. I. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Paradox of Maupassant. Ignout, P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Paradox players. Duffy, M. (N '68)

- Parasitism and subversion. Andreski, S. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Paré, Ambroise

- Hamby, W. B. Ambroise Paré. (N '68)

Parent and child

- Fremon, S. S. Children and their parents. (N '68)

- Wyden, P. Growing up straight. (N '68)

- Parent's guide to more new math. Sharp, E. (Mr '68)

Paris*Galleries and museums

- Charmet, R. Museums of Paris. (S '68)

Intellectual life

- McAlmon, R. Being geniuses together, 1920-1930 [rev ed]. (Ag '68)

- Paris and Oxford universities in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries. Leff, G. (Ag '68)

Paris, Université

- Leff, G. Paris and Oxford universities in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries. (Ag '68)

Parker, Francis Wayland

- Campbell, J. K. Colonel Francis W. Parker: the children's crusader. (Ag '68)

Parks*Juvenile literature

- Hautzig, E. In the park. (S '68)

- Parliament and the executive. Wiseman, H. V., comp. (Mr '68)

- Parliament factions and parties. Loveday, P. (Ag '68)

- Parliament, parties and society in France. MacRae, D. (My '68)

Parodies

- Crews, F. Patch commission. (O '68)

Parrington, Vernon Louis

- Hofstadter, R. Progressive historians. (D '68)

Parsons, Talcott

- Mitchell, W. Sociological analysis and politics. (Mr '68)

Parthia

- Colledge, M. A. R. Parthians. (S '68)

- Parthians. Colledge, M. A. R. (S '68)

- Parti Communiste Français. See Communist party (France)

- Particle physics. Livingston, M. S. (N '68)

Partisan review

- Gilbert, J. B. Writers and partisans: a history of literary radicalism in America. (S '68)

- Partouche plants a seed. Shecter, B. (Je '68)

- Party building in a new nation. Weiner, M. (O '68)

- Party democracy. Barnes, S. H. (Ap '68)

- Party leaders in the House of Representatives. Ripley, R. B. (N '68)

- Party systems and voter alignments: cross-national perspectives. Lipset, S. M., ed. (My '68)

- Pasha's concubine. Andrić, I. (O '68)

- Passage to the Golden Gate. Chu, D. (Ap '68)

- Passing of the aborigines [2d ed]. Bates, D. (D '68)

- Passion for Sicilians. Mangione, J. (D '68)

- Passion players. Murray, E. P. (Ag '68)

- Passionate intelligence. Sachs, A. (Je '68)

- Passionate people. Kahn, R. (Ag '68)

- Passions of Uxport. Kumin, M. (Ag '68)

Passive resistance to government

- Feit, E. African opposition in South Africa. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Horsburgh, H. J. N. Non-violence and aggression. (O '68)

- Roberts, A., ed. Civilian resistance as a national defense. (N '68)

- Tolstoy, L. Tolstoy's writings on civil disobedience and non-violence. (Je '68)

Pastel drawing*Juvenile literature

- Hawkinson, J. Pastels are great! (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Pastels are great! Hawkinson, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Pasternak, Boris Leonidovich

- Pasternak, B. Letters to Georgian friends. (Ag '68)

Pastoral psychology. See Psychology, Pastoral*Pastoral work

- Dittes, J. E. Church in the way. (N '68)

- Kennedy, G. Seven worlds of the minister. (Je '68)

- Matthews, S. G. Night pastors. (Mr '68)

- Patch commission. Crews, F. (O '68)

Patents

- Boehm, K. British patent system, v 1. (Ap '68)

- Bugbee, B. W. Genesis of American patent and copyright law. (Ag '68)

Pater, Walter Horatio

- Monsman, G. C. Pater's portraits. (Ag '68)

- Pater's portraits. Monsman, G. C. (Ag '68)

- Paths of the planets. Tricker, R. A. R. (Ag '68)

Patients. See Sick*Patinir, Joachim de

- Koch, R. A. Joachim Patinir. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Patrick, Saint

- Hanson, R. P. C. Saint Patrick. (Ag '68)

Patriotic poetry

- Wood, D. C., ed. This nation. (Je '68)

Patten, Simon Nelson

- Fox, D. M. Discovery of abundance. (N '68)

- Pattern of poetry. Poetry society of London. (Ag '68)

- Patterns of African development. Spiro, H. J., ed. (Je '68)

- Patterns of language. McIntosh, A. (Mr '68)

- Patterns of religious commitment, v 1. See American piety: the nature of religious commitment. Stark, R. (D '68)

- Patterns of survival. Milne, L. J. (S '68)

Pattison, Mark

- Sparrow, J. Mark Pattison and the idea of a university. (O '68)

Paul VI (Giovanni Battista Montini) Pope

- Paul VI, Pope. Pope speaks. (Je '68)

- Pauline. Storey, M. (Mr '68)

- Pax Americana. Steel, R. (1967, 1968 Annual)

- Pax Britannica. Morris, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Paxton Quigley's had the course. Yafa, S. H. (Je '68)

Peace

- Cox, A. M. Prospects for peacekeeping. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Frank, J. D. Sanity and survival. (Ap '68)

- Gordenker, L. UN secretary-general and the maintenance of peace. (Ap '68)

- Holcombe, A. N. Strategy of peace in a changing world. (My '68)

- Report from Iron Mountain on the possibility and desirability of peace. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

- Peace among Christians. Bea, A. (D '68)

- Peace Corps experience. Hoopes, R., ed. (My '68)

- Peace in the Middle East. Mehdi, M. T. (Mr '68)

- Peaceful coexistence. Ramundo, B. A. (Je '68)

- Peaceful conflict. Glick, E. B. (N '68)

- Peaceful uses of military forces. Hanning, H. (S '68)

- Pearl is a hardened sinner. Kiesel, S. (Ag '68)

- Pearl-poet: his complete works. (Ap '68)

Pearls

- Dickinson, J. Y. Book of pearls. (N '68)
 Peasant agriculture, government, and economic growth in Nigeria. Helleiner, G. K. (Ap '68)
 Peasant communism in southern Italy. Tarrow, S. G. (Je '68)
 Peasant of the Garonne. Maritain, J. (My '68)
Peasantry
 Belshaw, M. Village economy: land and people of Huecorto. (Ap '68)
 Tarrow, S. G. Peasant communism in southern Italy. (Je '68)
 Peddler and other domestic matters. Summers, H. (O '68)
 Peddlers. Fisher, L. E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Peddlers and peddling*Juvenile literature

- Erdoes, R. Peddlers and vendors around the world. (N '68)
 Fisher, L. E. Peddlers. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Peddlers and vendors around the world. Erdoes, R. (N '68)
 Pedernales country cookbook. Fehrenbach, L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual) Peg Woffington and her world. Dunbar, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Peggy Guggenheim collection of modern art. Calas N. (Ag '68)
Péguy, Charles Pierre
 Schmitt, H. A. Charles Péguy. (Mr '68)

Peking*Description

- Jenner, D. Letters from Peking. (Ap '68)
 Peking papers. Marcuse, J. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Penal colonies

- Chekhov, A. Island. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Penance

- Häring, B. Shalom: peace. (Ap '68)

Pendergast, James

- Dorsett, L. W. Pendergast machine. (N '68)

Pendergast, Thomas Joseph

- Dorsett, L. W. Pendergast machine. (N '68)

Pendergast machine. Dorsett, L. W. (N '68)*Pendleton, Edmund

- Pendleton, E. Letters and papers of Edmund Pendleton, 1734-1803, 2v. (Je '68)

Penguins

- Sparks, J. Penguins. (Ap '68)

Penkovsky, Oleg Vladimirovich

- Wynne, G. Contact on Gorky Street. (Mr '68)

Pennsylvania*History*Sources

- Claypoole, J. Letter book: London and Philadelphia, 1681-1684. (Ag '68)

Politics and government

- Evans, F. B. Pennsylvania politics, 1872-1877: a study in political leadership. (My '68)
 Pennsylvania politics, 1872-1877: a study in political leadership. Evans, F. B. (My '68)
 Penny a copy. Cornell, T. C., ed. (N '68)
 Penny wars. Baker, E. (O '68)
 People and the police. Black, A. D. (D '68)
 People of the streets. Parker, T. (O '68)
 People on Second Street. Moore, J. (N '68)
 People specialists. Herman, S. M. (N '68)
 People vs. Baby. Samuels, G. (My '68)
 People's choice. Schwartz, A. (S '68)
 Peoples of Kenya. Adamson, J. (Mr '68)
 People's President. Peirce, N. R. (Ag '68)
 Pepper garden. Slimming, J. (Je '68)

Perception

- Gibson, J. J. Senses considered as perceptual systems. (Ap '68)
 Hall, E. T. Hidden dimension. (Ag '68)
 Langer, S. K. Mind: an essay on human feeling, v 1. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Locke, D. Perception and our knowledge of the external world. (Ag '68)
 Parmenter, R. Awakened eye. (Ag '68)
 Perception and our knowledge of the external world. Locke, D. (Ag '68)

Percy, Charles Harting

- Cleveland, M. Charles Percy: strong new voice from Illinois. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Murray, D. Charles Percy of Illinois. (Je '68)

Perfect solution to absolutely everything.

- Hoppe, A. (D '68)

Performing arts

- Gruen, J. Close-up. (Ag '68)

- Holt, C. Art in Indonesia. (Ag '68)

Periodicals*Bibliography

- Moore, J. H., ed. Research materials in South Carolina. (N '68)

- Permanent poverty. Seligman, B. B. (O '68)

- Permissible lie. Baker, S. S. (O '68)

Perry, Matthew Calbraith

- Morison, S. E. "Old Bruin": Commodore Matthew C. Perry 1794-1858. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Perry, Oliver Hazard*Juvenile literature

- Hoyt, E. P. Tragic commodore. (Mr '68)

Persecution

- Freund, W. H. C. Martyrdom and persecution in the early church. (Ag '68)

- Wurmbrand, R. Christ in the communist prisons. (My '68)

Persia. See Iran

- Persia II. Lukonin, V. G. (Ag '68)

- Persistence and change: Bennington college and its students after twenty-five years. (Ag '68)

- Person. Lidz, T. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Personal matter. Oë, K. (O '68)

Personalism

- Häring, B. Christian existentialist. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Personality

- Diggory, J. C. Self-evaluation: concepts and studies. (Je '68)

- DiRenzo, G. J. Personality, power, and politics. (N '68)

- Erikson, E. H. Identity. (Je '68)

- Kirscht, J. P. Dimensions of authoritarianism: a review of research and theory. (Ap '68)

- Lidz, T. Person. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Petrie, A. Individuality in pain and suffering. (Mr '68)

- Van Kaam, A. Demon and the dove. (Ap '68)

- Personality of Chaucer. Wagenknecht, E. (O '68)

- Personality, power, and politics. DiRenzo, G. J. (N '68)

Personnel management

- Herman, S. M. People specialists. (N '68)

- Perspectives on Brazilian history. Burns, E. B., ed. (Je '68)

- Perspectives on economic growth. Heller, W. W., ed. (O '68)

- Perspectives on the Court. Freedman, M. (Je '68)

- Perspectives on The divine comedy. Bergin, T. G. (Mr '68)

- Perspectives on the South: agenda for research. Thompson, E. T., ed. (S '68)

- Perturbing spirit. Caird, J. (Ap '68)

Peru*Antiquities

- Lanning, E. P. Peru before the Incas. (O '68)
 Ubbelohde-Doering, H. On the royal highways of the Inca. (Mr '68)

History

- Brundage, B. C. Lords of Cuzco. (O '68)

Juvenile literature

- Glubok, S. Fall of the Incas. (Ap '68)

- Peru before the Incas. Lanning, E. P. (O '68)

- Pétain, Henri Philippe Bénoni Omer

- Roy, J. Trial of Marshal Pétain. (My '68)

Peter I, the Great, Emperor of Russia*Juvenile literature

- Joseph, J. Peter the Great. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Peter Kapitsa on life and science. Kapitsa, P. (N '68)

- Peter Martyr in Italy: an anatomy of apostasy. McNair, P. (Ag '68)

Peters, Roberta*Juvenile literature

- Peters, R. Debut at the Met. (Mr '68)

Petite, Irving

- Petite, I. Life on tiger mountain. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Petroglyphs

- Grant, C. Rock art of the American Indian. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

- Newcomb, W. W. Rock art of Texas Indians. (Ap '68)

Petroleum

- Cooper, B. North Sea oil—the great gamble. (S '68)

Petroleum industry and trade

- Destler, C. M. Roger Sherman and the independent oil men. (Je '68)
 Hartshorn, J. E. Politics and world oil economics [rev ed]. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual) Lovejoy, W. F. Economic aspects of oil conservation regulation. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Tugendhat, C. Oil: the biggest business. (N '68)

Petronius Arbiter*Satyricon

- Sullivan, J. P. Satyricon of Petronius. (O '68)
 Petticoat politics. Faber, D. (Je '68)

Pewter

- Bedford, J. Pewter. (Ap '68)

Phagan, Mary

- Dinnerstein, L. Leo Frank case. (Ag '68)
 Pheasant on route seven. Starbird, K. (D '68)

Phenicians

- Moscatti, S. World of the Phoenicians. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Phenomenology

- Linschoten, H. On the way toward a phenomenological psychology. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Phenomenology and existentialism. (S '68)
 Ricoeur, P. Husserl: an analysis of his phenomenology. (S '68)
 Schutz, A. Phenomenology of the social world. (O '68)
 Winckelmans de Cléty, C. World of persons. (Je '68)

Phenomenology and existentialism. (S '68)

- Phenomenology of the social world. Schutz, A. (O '68)

Phenomenology of willing and motivation and other phaenomenologica. Pfänder, A. (Je '68)*Philadelphia*History

- Fisher, S. G. Philadelphia perspective. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Philadelphia Negro. Du Bois, W. E. B. (O '68)
 Philadelphia perspective. Fisher, S. G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Philby, Harold Adrian Russell
 Cookridge, E. H. Third man. (Ag '68)
 Page, B. Philby conspiracy. (Ag '68)
 Philby, K. My silent war. (Ag '68)

Philby, Kim. See Philby, H. A. R.*Philby conspiracy. Page, B. (Ag '68)

- Philby: the spy who betrayed a generation. Eng title of: The Philby conspiracy. Page, B. (Ag '68)

Philip Freneau, champion of democracy. Axelrad, J. (Mr '68)*Philips, Miles*Juvenile literature

- Household, G. Prisoner of the Indies. (Ag '68)
 Phillips, Sir Thomas, Bart
 Munby, A. N. L. Portrait of an obsession. (My '68)
 Philosophical resources for Christian thought. LeFevre, P., ed. (O '68)

Philosophy

- Armstrong, D. M. Materialist theory of the mind. (N '68)
 Huxley, T. H. Essence of T. H. Huxley. (S '68)
 James, W. Writings of William James. (Ag '68)
 Kierkegaard, S. Søren Kierkegaard's journals and papers, v 1. (Ap '68)
 Marcel, G. Presence and immortality. (Ap '68)
 Newell, R. W. Concept of philosophy. (N '68)
 Nishida, K. Intelligibility and the philosophy of nothingness. (Ag '68)
 Santayana, G. Animal faith and spiritual life (S '68)
 Smith, N. K. Credibility of divine existence. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Teilhard de Chardin, P. Writings in time of war. (O '68)
 Wittgenstein, L. Zettel. (My '68)
 Wolff, K. H., ed. Critical spirit. (Mr '68)

History

- Bréhier, E. Eighteenth century. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Parker, F. H. Story of Western philosophy. (Ap '68)
Philosophy, American
 Miller, P. Nature's nation. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Tuveson, E. L. Redeemer nation. (D '68)
 Zoll, D. A. Twentieth century mind. (Je '68)

Philosophy, Ancient

- Armstrong, A. H., ed. Cambridge history of later Greek and early medieval philosophy. (Mr '68)
 Edelstein, L. Idea of progress in classical antiquity. (S '68)
 O'Brien, M. J. Socratic paradoxes and the Greek mind. (N '68)
 Parker, G. F. Short account of Greek philosophy from Thales to Epicurus. (Ag '68)
 Plato. Great dialogues of Plato [rev ed]. (Ap '68)

Dictionaries

- Peters, F. E. Greek philosophical terms. (O '68)

History

- Hackney, J. History of Greek and Roman philosophy. (Mr '68)

Philosophy, British

- Smith, W. S. London heretics, 1870-1914. (Je '68)

Philosophy, Chinese

- Moore, C. A., ed. Chinese mind. (Mr '68)
 Watson, B., tr. Basic writings of Mo Tzu, Hsün-Tzu, and Han Fei Tzu. (Mr '68)

Philosophy, Greek. See Philosophy, Ancient*Philosophy, Indian (East Indian). See Philosophy, Indic*Philosophy, Indic

- Damodaran, K. Indian thought. (S '68)
 Gerber, W., ed. Mind of India. (Ag '68)
 Moore, C. A., ed. Indian mind. (Je '68)

Philosophy, Japanese

- Nishida, K. Intelligibility and the philosophy of nothingness. (Ag '68)

Philosophy, Medieval

- Armstrong, A. H., ed. Cambridge history of later Greek and early medieval philosophy. (Mr '68)

Philosophy, Modern

- Bachelard, G. Philosophy of no. (D '68)
 Bréhier, E. Eighteenth century. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Cioran, E. M. Temptation to exist. (Ag '68)
 Kurtz, P., ed. Sidney Hook and the contemporary world. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Pfänder, A. Phenomenology of willing and motivation and other phaenomenologica. (Je '68)
 Wittgenstein, L. Letters from Ludwig Wittgenstein. (O '68)

History

- Gay, P. Enlightenment: an interpretation. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Philosophy, Polish

- Skolimowski, H. Polish analytical philosophy. (D '68)

Philosophy, Russian

- Laszlo, E., ed. Philosophy in the Soviet Union. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Philosophy and cybernetics. Crosson, F. J., ed. (Je '68)*Philosophy and religion

- Fackenheim, E. L. Religious dimension in Hegel's thought. (N '68)
 LeFevre, P., ed. Philosophical resources for Christian thought. (O '68)

Philosophy in the Soviet Union. Laszlo, E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)*Philosophy of education. Arnstine, D. (Mr '68)*Philosophy of no. Bachelard, G. (D '68)*Phoenicians. See Phenicians*Phoenix forest. Milne, L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)*Phoenix II. Lawrence, D. H. (S '68)*Photography*Exhibitions

- Lyons, N., ed. Toward a social landscape. (Ag '68)

History

- Newhall, B. Latent image. (Je '68)
 Rinhart, F. American daguerrean art. (Ap '68)

Portraits

- Karsh, Y. Karsh portfolio. (Mr '68)

Photography, Aerial

- Reich, H. World from above. (O '68)

Photography, Artistic

- Caponigro, P. Paul Caponigro. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Cartier-Bresson, H. World of Henri Cartier-Bresson. (D '68)
 Karsh, Y. Karsh portfolio. (Mr '68)
 Lyons, N., ed. Toward a social landscape. (Ag '68)

Photography, Journalistic

- Spina, T. Press photographer. (O '68)

Photography, Submarine

Hersey, J. B., ed. Deep-sea photography. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Physical fitness

Cooper, K. H. Aerobics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Physical geography*Dictionaries

Moore, W. G. Dictionary of geography. (Ap '68)

Australia

Jennings, J. N., ed. Landform studies from Australia and New Guinea. (S '68)

New Guinea

Jennings, J. N., ed. Landform studies from Australia and New Guinea. (S '68)

Physically handicapped*Rehabilitation

Roth, J. A. Rehabilitation for the unwanted. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Viscardi, H. Abilities story. (My '68)

Physicians

Badgley, R. F. Doctors' strike. (O '68)

Fein, R. Doctor shortage. (Mr '68)

Lasagna, L. Life, death, and the doctor. (Ag '68)

Shryock, R. H. Medical licensing in America, 1650-1695. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

Hardwick, R. Charles Richard Drew. (Ap '68)

Physics

Condon, E. U., ed. Handbook of physics [2d ed.]. (O '68)

Fuchs, W. R. Physics for the modern mind. (Ap '68)

Gerholm, T. R. Physics and man. (S '68)

Kaempffer, F. A. Elements of physics. (Ap '68)

Koslow, A., ed. Changeless order. (S '68)

Landau, L. D. General physics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Scott, W. T. Erwin Schrödinger. (My '68)

Dictionaries

Encyclopaedic dictionary of physics, 9v; supplementary v 1 and 2. (Ag '68)

Experiments*Juvenile literature

Branley, F. M. Floating and sinking. (Ap '68)

Juvenile literature

Froman, R. Baseball-istics. (Ap '68)

Ruchlis, H. Bathtub physics. (Ap '68)

Physics and man. Gerholm, T. R. (S '68)

Physics for the modern man. Fuchs, W. R. (Ap '68)

Physiology

Claude Bernard and experimental medicine. (Ag '68)

Smith, A. Body. (D '68)

Juvenile literature

Gramet, C. Your health and you. (S '68)

Schneider, L. Long life to you. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Piaget, Jean

Brearley, M. Guide to reading Piaget. (My '68)

Picasso, Pablo

Daix, P. Picasso: the blue and rose periods. (Mr '68)

Penrose, R. Sculpture of Picasso. (Je '68)

Picasso, P. Picasso drawings. (Je '68)

Picasso, P. Picasso: recent etchings, lithographs, and linoleum cuts. (Mr '68)

Wertebaker, L. World of Picasso, 1881-. (N '68)

Picasso drawings. Picasso, P. (Je '68)

Picasso: graphic works, 1955-1965. Eng title of: Picasso: recent etchings, lithographs, and linoleum cuts. Picasso, P. (Mr '68)

Picasso: recent etchings, lithographs, and linoleum cuts. Picasso, P. (Mr '68)

Picasso: the blue and rose periods. Daix, P. (Mr '68)

Picnic basket. Spears, E. (O '68)

Pictorial encyclopedia of birds. Hanzák, J. (Ag '68)

Pictorial encyclopedia of railways. Ellis, H. (O '68)

Pictorial guide to the mammals of North America. Rue, L. L. (Ap '68)

Pictorial guide to the moon [rev & enl ed.]. Alter, D. (Ap '68)

Pictorial history of Greece. Spelios, T. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Pictorial history of jazz [new rev ed.]. Keepnews, O., comp. (Ap '68)

Pictorial peregrination through the shapely and harmonious, often enigmatical, sometimes shocking realms of Polynesian art. v 1. Dodd, E. (Ap '68)

Picts

Henderson, I. Picts. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Picts. Henderson, I. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Picture Miss Seeton. Carvic, H. (O '68)

Picture-writing

Grant, C. Rock art of the American Indian. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Newcomb, W. W. Rock art of Texas Indians. (Ap '68)

Pied piper of Tucson. Moser, D. (Mr '68)

Piemakers. Cresswell, H. (S '68)

Pigeons

Goodwin, D. Pigeons and doves of the world. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Pigeons and doves of the world. Goodwin, D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Pigmentation. See Color of man

Pigs*Stories

Anderson, J. Pai-pai pig. (Mr '68)

Shecter, B. Partouche plants a seed. (Je '68)

Steig, W. Roland the minstrel pig. (N '68)

Wondriska, W. Mr. Brown and Mr. Gray. (N '68)

Pilate, Pontius*Fiction

Maier, P. L. Pontius Pilate. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Pilgrim church. Tavard, G. H. (Mr '68)

Pilgrimage to people. Fremantle, A. (Ap '68)

Pilgrimage to Russia. Margulies, S. R. (N '68)

Pillage of art. Grant, J. (N '68)

Pillow book of Sei Shōnagon. 2v. Sei Shōnagon. (My '68)

Pincherle, Alberto

Dego, G. Moravia. (Ag '68)

Pinchot, Gifford

Penick, J. Progressive politics and conservatism. (N '68)

Pinckney, Charles Cotesworth

Zahniser, M. R. Charles Cotesworth Pinckney, founding father. (O '68)

Pinckney, Eliza (Lucas)

Juvenile literature

Williams, F. L. Plantation patriot. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Pine Barrens*Description and travel

McPhee, J. Pine Barrens. (O '68)

Pine Barrens. McPhee, J. (O '68)

Pioneer in the American novel, 1900-1950. Karolides, N. J. (Je '68)

Pioneer iron works. Clarke, M. S. (D '68)

Pioneer life. See Frontier and pioneer life

Pioneers east. Finnie, D. H. (My '68)

Pirate's Island. Townsend, J. R. (Ag '68)

Piscator, Erwin

Ley-Piscator, M. Piscator experiment. (Ag '68)

Piscator experiment. Ley-Piscator, M. (Ag '68)

Pistoia*History

Herlihy, D. Medieval and renaissance Pistoia. (Mr '68)

Social conditions

Herlihy, D. Medieval and renaissance Pistoia. (Mr '68)

Pistol in Greenyards. Hunter, M. (Ag '68)

Pistols

Neal, R. J. Smith and Wesson, 1857-1945. (Mr '68)

Pit. Maddock, R. (Ag '68)

Pitcairn Island

Silverman, D. Pitcairn Island. (Ag '68)

Pitcher's story. Marichal, J. (Je '68)

Pitlandjara (Australian tribe)

Mountford, C. P. Ayers Rock. (Ag '68)

Pitt, William, 1st Earl of Chatham

Brown, P. Chathamites. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Place called Sweet Apple. Sibley, C. (Mr '68)

Place for the wicked. Trevor, E. (D '68)

Place in the sun. Darling, L. (D '68)

Place of light. Hanawalt, L. L. (S '68)

Place of the hidden moon. Dimock, E. C. (Je '68)

Place to live. Von Eckardt, W. (My '68)

Pialsted Polar Expedition, 1967

- Kuralt, C. To the top of the world. (Ag '68)
 Plan and market under socialism. Sik, O. (N '68)
 Plan for indexing the periodical literature of nursing. Pings, V. M. (Mr '68)
 Planning and development in Iran. Baldwin, G. B. (S '68)
 Planning reforms in the Soviet Union, 1962-1966. Zaleski, E. (O '68)
 Plans for an orderly apocalypse. Gross, H. (N '68)

Plant diseases

- Carefoot, G. L. Famine on the wind. (My '68)

Plant dreaming deep. Sarton, M. (Ap '68)

Plantation patriot. Williams, F. L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Planters and pioneers. Rouse, P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Plants

- Milne, L. Living plants of the world. (Mr '68)
 Wit, H. C. D. de. Plants of the world, v2. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

- Blough, G. O. Discovering plants. (Mr '68)
 Stone, A. H. Plants are like that. (Ag '68)

Plants, Edible

- Harrington, H. D. Edible native plants of the Rocky Mountains. (S '68)
 Plants and man on the Seychelles coast. Sauer, J. D. (Ap '68)
 Plants are like that. Stone, A. H. (Ag '68)
 Plants of the world, v2. Wit, H. C. D. de. (Ag '68)

Plato
 Gunnell, J. G. Political philosophy and time. (O '68)
 O'Brien, M. J. Socratic paradoxes and the Greek mind. (N '68)

Platte River

- Crabb, R. Empire on the Platte. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Play and place of criticism. Krieger, M. (N '68)
 Play theory of mass communication. Stephenson, W. (O '68)

Playing pro football to win. Unitas, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Plays; v9 of The works of John Dryden. Dryden, J. (Ap '68)

Plays. Giraudoux, J. (Mr '68)

Plays of George Fitzmaurice, v 1. Fitzmaurice, G. (My '68)

Playwrights speak. Wager, W., ed. (Mr '68)

Pleasant Grove murders. Vance, J. H. (Ag '68)

Pleasure factory. Tarsis, V. (My '68)

Pleistocene extinctions. Martin, P. S., ed. (O '68)

Plotinus

Rist, J. M. Plotinus: the road to reality. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Plotinus: the road to reality. Rist, J. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Plots against presidents. Potter, J. M. (O '68)

Plotters. Werstein, I. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Pobedonostsev, Konstantine Petrovich

Byrnes, R. F. Pobedonostsev. (N '68)

Pobedonostsev. Byrnes, R. F. (N '68)

Pocket dictionary of collector's terms. Goodwin, M. (Ag '68)

Pocket mirror. Frame, J. (My '68)

Pockets of hope. Munzer, M. E. (Mr '68)

Podhoretz, Norman

Podhoretz, N. Making it. (Mr '68)

Poe, Edgar Allen*The mystery of Marie Roget

Walsh, J. Poe the detective. (N '68)

Poe the detective. Walsh, J. (N '68)

Poems. Hawthorne, N. (Je '68)

Poems. Whittemore, R. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Poems and antipoeems. Parra, N. (D '68)

Poems for people who don't read poems. Enzenberger, H. M. (O '68)

Poems of Doctor Zhivago. Pasternak, B. (Ap '68)

Poems of earth and space. Lewis, C. (Ap '68)

Poems of Gerard Manley Hopkins [4th ed]. Hopkins, G. M. (Mr '68)

Poems of John Cleveland. Cleveland, J. (Ap '68)

Poems of St. John of the Cross [rev ed]. John of the Cross, Saint. (N '68)

Poems of Samuel Taylor Coleridge. Coleridge, S. T. (Mr '68)

Poems of Tibullus. Tibullus, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Poems 3. Dugan, A. (Mr '68)

Poet in the making. Eng title of: The notebooks of Dylan Thomas. Thomas, D. (Mr '68)

Poet Lucan. Morford, M. P. O. (My '68)

Poetry

Francis, R. Satirical rogue on poetry. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

McLuhan, M. Through the vanishing point. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Collections

Carney, J., comp. & tr. Medieval Irish lyrics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Cole, W., ed. Eight lines and under. (Je '68)

Hayden, R., ed. Kaleidoscope. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Howard, C., ed. Lyric poems. (Ag '68)

Williams, E., ed. Anthology of concrete poetry. (My '68)

See also

African poetry—Collections

American poetry—Collections

Canadian poetry—Collections

Chinese poetry—Collections

English poetry—Collections

Patriotic poetry

Scottish poetry—Collections

Juvenile literature

Bennett, R. Songs from around a toadstool table. (Ag '68)

Bramblett, E., ed. Shoots of green. (Ag '68)

Dunning, S., comp. Reflections on a gift of watermelon pickle. (Ap '68)

Larrick, N., ed. On city streets. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Lewis, R., ed. Out of the earth I sing. (Je '68)

Lewis, R., comp. Wind and the rain. (Ag '68)

Livingston, M. C., ed. Tune beyond us. (Ag '68)

McGinley, P., comp. Wonders and surprises. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Poetry society of London. Pattern of poetry. (Ag '68)

Reed, G., comp. Out of the ark. (N '68)

Smith, J., comp. My kind of verse. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Thompson, B. J., ed. All the silver pennies. (Mr '68)

Vries, L. de. Little wide-awake. (Mr '68)

History and criticism*Juvenile literature

Behn, H. Chrysalis. (Je '68)

Juvenile literature

Alexander, A. Poet's eye. (My '68)

Poetry (Individual)

Adler, L. Traveling out. (Mr '68)

Amis, K. Look round the estate. (O '68)

Antoninus, Brother. Rose of solitude. (Mr '68)

Auden, W. H. Orators. (D '68)

Beer, P. Just like the resurrection. (O '68)

Benedikt, M. Body. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Berryman, J. Berryman's sonnets. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Berryman, J. His toy, his dream, his rest. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Berryman, J. Short poems. (Je '68)

Bhartrihari. Bhartrihari: poems. (Ap '68)

Biermann, W. Wire harp. (O '68)

Blake, W. Songs of innocence and of experience. (Mr '68)

Bly, R. Light around the body. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Bogan, L. Blue estuaries. (D '68)

Bradstreet, A. Works of Anne Bradstreet. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Brathwaite, E. Masks. (N '68)

Brooks, G. In the Mecca. (N '68)

Brownjohn, A. Lions' mouths. (O '68)

Burke, K. Collected poems, 1915-1967. (S '68)

Butler, S. Hudibras. (N '68)

Chasin, H. Coming close. (D '68)

Clardi, J. Alphabestary. (Ap '68)

Cleveland, J. Poems of John Cleveland. (Ap '68)

Cohen, L. Selected poems, 1956-1968. (O '68)

Coleridge, S. T. Poems of Samuel Taylor Coleridge. (Mr '68)

Connor, T. Kon in springtime. (S '68)

Cowley, M. Blue Juniata: collected poems. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Creeley, R. Words. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Dale, P. Storms. (O '68)

Dana, R. Some versions of silence. (Ap '68)

Dugan, A. Poems 3. (Mr '68)

Duncan, R. Bending the bow. (S '68)

Eberhart, R. Shifts of being. (O '68)

Ekelöf, G. Selected poems. (Ap '68)

Enzensberger, H. M. Poems for people who don't read poems. (O '68)

Finkel, D. Answer back. (O '68)

Frame, J. Pocket mirror. (My '68)

Frodsham, J. D. Murmuring stream, 2v. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Poetry—Continued

- Galler, D. Leopards in the temple. (D '68)
 Garrett, G. For a bitter season. (S '68)
 Garrigue, J. New and selected poems. (Je '68)
 Ghose, Z. Jets from orange. (O '68)
 Ginsberg, A. T.V. baby poems. (O '68)
 Godsey, E. Cabin fever. (My '68)
 Goedicke, P. Between oceans. (S '68)
 Goodman, P. Hawkweed. (Mr '68)
 Gregor, A. Figure in the door. (Je '68)
 Gross, H. Plans for an orderly apocalypse. (N '68)
 Guillén, J. Affirmation. (O '68)
 Gunn, T. Touch. (Ag '68)
 Harrison, K. Points in a journey. (O '68)
 Hawkes, D. Little primer of Tu Fu. (Mr '68)
 Hawthorne, N. Poems. (Je '68)
 Hecht, A. Hard hours. (Mr '68)
 Heland, Heland. (Je '68)
 Hobsbaum, P. In retreat. (O '68)
 Hochman, S. Love letters from Asia. (Ag '68)
 Hoffman, D. Striking the stones. (O '68)
 Honig, E. Spring journal: poems. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hopkins, G. M. Poems of Gerard Manley Hopkins (14th ed.). (Mr '68)
 Howard, R. Damages. (D '68)
 Huff, R. Course. (My '68)
 Hughes, L. Panther & the lash. (N '68)
 Jennings, E. Collected poems, 1967. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 John of the Cross, Saint. Poems of St. John of the Cross [rev ed.]. (N '68)
 Johnston, G. Home free. (My '68)
 Kiesel, S. Pearl is a hardened sinner. (Ag '68)
 Kinnell, G. Body rags. (Ap '68)
 Kinsella, T. Nightwalker. (O '68)
 Laing, D. Collected poems of Dilys Laing. (Mr '68)
 MacBeth, G. Colour of blood. (Mr '68)
 McCloskey, M. Goodbye, but listen. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 McKuen, R. Listen to the warm. (Mr '68)
 McKuen, R. Lonesome cities. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Mandelbaum, A. Journeyman. (S '68)
 Martial. Sixty poems of Martial. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Masefield, J. In glad thanksgiving. (S '68)
 Matsuo, B. Back roads to far towns. (S '68)
 Merton, T. Cables to the ace. (S '68)
 Merwin, W. S. Lice. (Ap '68)
 Meyers, B. Dark birds. (O '68)
 Miles, J. Kinds of affection. (D '68)
 Miller, H. R. Wind southerly. (Mr '68)
 Miller, V. Onions and roses. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Mitchell, A. Out loud. (O '68)
 Moore, M. Complete poems of Marianne Moore. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Morgan, E. Second life. (O '68)
 Morgenstern, C. Gallows songs. (Je '68)
 Murphy, R. Battle of Aughrim. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Nash, O. Santa go home. (Mr '68)
 Nash, O. There's always another windmill. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Nemerov, H. Blue swallows. (Ap '68)
 Neruda, P. Twenty poems. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Neruda, P. We are many. (O '68)
 Noll, B. Feast. (S '68)
 O'Gorman, N. Harvesters' vase. (Je '68)
 Olson, C. Selected writings of Charles Olson. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Palamas, K. King's flute. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Parra, N. Poems and antipodes. (D '68)
 Pasternak, B. Poems of Doctor Zhivago. (Ap '68)
 Pasternak, B. Sister my life. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Patchen, K. Collected poems of Kenneth Patchen. (D '68)
 Patten, B. Little Johnny's confession. (Ag '68)
 Pearl-poet: his complete works. (Ap '68)
 Peters, R. L. Songs for a son. (Ap '68)
 Pickard, T. High on the walls. (O '68)
 Quintus of Smyrna. War at Troy. (S '68)
 Rakosi, C. Amulet. (N '68)
 Robson, W. W. Signs among us. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Roche, P. All things considered. (O '68)
 Rubin, L. Lanced in light. (S '68)
 Rukeyser, M. Speed of darkness. (O '68)
 Sachs, N. O the chimneys. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Scott, W. T. New and selected poems. (D '68)
 Seferis, G. Collected poems, 1924-1955. (Ap '68)
 Shapiro, K. Selected poems. (O '68)
 Sissman, L. E. Dying: an introduction. (O '68)
 Snodgrass, W. D. After experience (Je '68)
 Snyder, G. Back country. (Ag '68)
 Spark, M. Collected poems: 1. (Ag '68)
 Squires, R. Light under islands. (O '68)
 Stock, R. Covenants. (My '68)
 Strand, M. Reasons for moving. (O '68)
 Summers, H. Peddler and domestic matters. (O '68)
 Tagore, R. One hundred and one. (Je '68)
 Tarn, N. Where Babylon ends. (O '68)
 Thomas, D. Notebooks of Dylan Thomas. (Mr '68)
 Tibullus, A. Poems of Tibullus. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Tuenolsky, K. What if—? (N '68)
 Untermeyer, J. S. Job's daughter. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Vallejo, C. Human poems. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Van Doren, M. Mark Van Doren: 100 poems. (Mr '68)
 Voznesensky, A. Antiworlds [bilingual ed rev.]. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Waddington, M. Glass trumpet. (Ap '68)
 Walker, T. Solitaires. (Mr '68)
 Weygant, N. It's autumn! (Ja '69) (1968 Annual) Whittemore, R. Poems. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Willard, N. Skin of grace. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Williams, M. So long at the fair. (Je '68)
 Wright, J. Shall we gather at the river. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Zimmer, P. Ribs of death. (S '68)
 Zukofsky, L. "A" 1-12. (Mr '68)
- Poetry (Collective)
 Trask, W. R., ed. Unwritten song, v 1. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Poetry of Hart Crane. Lewis, R. W. B. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Poetry of the Faerie queene. Alpers, P. J. (N '68)
- Poets, American
 Kherdian, D. Six poets of the San Francisco renaissance: portraits and checklists. (S '68)
- Juvenile literature
 Allen, E. S. Famous American humorous poets. (N '68)
- Poets, English
 Marples, M. Romantics at school. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Poet's eye. Alexander, A. (My '68)
- Poets of action. Knight, G. W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Poil de Carotte. Renard, J. (Mr '68)
- Point of departure. Cameron, J. (Ap '68)
- Points in a journey. Harrison, K. (O '68)
- Poisoned ivy. Surface, W. (O '68)
- Poland
Foreign relations
Germany
 Lipski, J. Diplomat in Berlin, 1933-1939. (Ag '68)
- Polar expeditions. See North Pole
- Polar passion. Mowat, F. (Ap '68)
- Polaris missile strike. Kuenne, R. E. (Mr '68)
- Poles in Siberia
Juvenile literature
 Hautzig, E. Endless steppe. (Ag '68)
- Police
 Black, A. D. People and the police. (D '68)
 Klein, H. T. Police. (Ag '68)
 Radano, G. Walking the beat. (Ag '68)
- Juvenile literature
 Erdoes, R. Policemen around the word. (S '68)
 Robinson, B. On the beat. (D '68)
- United States
 Bordua, D. J., ed. Police: six sociological essays. (My '68)
 Niederhoffer, A. Behind the shield. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Turner, W. W. Police establishment. (Ag '68)
- Police establishment. Turner, W. W. (Ag '68)
- Police lab at work. Deming, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Police: six sociological essays. Bordua, D. J., ed. (My '68)
- Policeman's lot. Linington, E. (D '68)
- Policemen around the world. Erdoes, R. (S '68)
- Policing the city, Boston, 1822-1885. Lane, R. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Polish analytical philosophy. Skolimowski, H. (D '68)
- Political and social change in modern Egypt. Holt, P. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Political anthropology. Swartz, M. J., ed. (Ap '68)

- Political beliefs of Americans. Free, L. A. (My '68)
- Political consequences of electoral laws. Rae, D. W. (S '68)
- Political economy of South Africa. Horwitz, R. (My '68)
- Political institutions and social change in continental Europe in the nineteenth century. Anderson, E. N. (N '68)
- Political memoirs, 1905-1917. Miliukov, P. (Ag '68)
- Political mobilization. Nettl, J. P. (Ag '68)
- Political participation in Communist China. Townsend, J. R. (1967 1968 Annual)
- Political parties
Chambers, W. N., ed. American party systems. (S '68)
Engelmann, F. C. Political parties and the Canadian social structure. (N '68)
Epstein, L. D. Political parties in Western democracies. (S '68)
Lipset, S. M., ed. Party systems and voter alignments: cross-national perspectives. (My '68)
Loveday, P. Parliament factions and parties. (Ag '68)
Rae, D. W. Political consequences of electoral laws. (S '68)
Suleiman, M. W. Political parties in Lebanon. (My '68)
Thayer, G. Farther shores of politics. (Mr '68)
Williams, E. J. Latin American Christian democratic parties. (Ap '68)
- Political parties and the Canadian social structure. Engelmann, F. C. (N '68)
- Political parties in Lebanon. Suleiman, M. W. (My '68)
- Political parties in Western democracies. Epstein, L. D. (S '68)
- Political philosophy and time. Gunnell, J. G. (O '68)
- Political philosophy of Rousseau. Masters, R. D. (N '68)
- Political principles of Robert A. Taft. Kirk, R. (Je '68)
- Political representation and elections. Pulzer, P. G. J. (My '68)
- Political representation and elections in Britain. Eng title of: Political representation and elections. Pulzer, P. G. J. (My '68)
- Political representation in England and the origins of the American republic. Pole, J. R. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Political science
Ake, C. Theory of political integration. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Anderson, T. Russian political thought. (Ap '68)
Barnes, S. H. Party democracy. (Ap '68)
Cohen, R., ed. Comparative political systems. (My '68)
Connolly, W. E. Political science & ideology. (Je '68)
Dvornik, F. Early Christian and Byzantine political philosophy, 2v. (Ag '68)
Field, G. L. Comparative political development. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Friedrich, C. J. Introduction to political theory. (Mr '68)
Frohock, F. M. Nature of political inquiry. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Germino, D. Beyond ideology. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Gunnell, J. G. Political philosophy and time. (O '68)
Hess, R. D. Development of political attitudes in children. (Ag '68)
Lindenfeld, F., ed. Reader in political sociology. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Lynd, S. Intellectual origins of American radicalism. (O '68)
Nettl, J. P. Political mobilization. (Ag '68)
Swartz, M. J., ed. Political anthropology. (Ap '68)
Wilson, J. Works of James Wilson, 2v. (Je '68)
See also
The State
- Dictionaries
Heimanson, R. Dictionary of political science and law. (Ap '68)
- Philosophy
Kaunda, K. D. Humanist in Africa. (Ap '68)
Lavrov, P. Historical letters. (Ap '68)
- Research
Dye, T. R. Politics, economics, and the public. (Mr '68)
Political science & ideology. Connolly, W. E. (Je '68)
Political system of Pakistan. Sayeed, K. B. (Je '68)
Political theory and the rights of man. Raphael, D. D., ed. (Ag '68)

Politics, Practical

- Baus, H. M. Politics battle plan. (Je '68)
Eisenstein, L. Stripe of Tammany's tiger. (My '68)
Fairlie, H. Life of politics. (Ag '68)
MacDonald, H. M., ed. Intellectual in politics. (Ap '68)
Perry, J. M. New politics. (Ag '68)
Pulzer, P. G. J. Political representation and elections. (My '68)
Rose, A. M. Power structure. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Rose, R. Influencing voters. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Weingast, D. E. We elect a president. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

- Hoopes, R. Getting with politics. (S '68)
Schwartz, A. People's choice. (S '68)
- Politics and diplomacy of peacemaking. Mayer, A. J. (Ap '68)
- Politics and economic change in Latin America. Anderson, C. W. (Ap '68)
- Politics and television. Lang, K. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Politics and the military in Jordan. Vatikiotis, P. J. (Mr '68)
- Politics and the regulatory agencies. Cary, W. L. (Mr '68)
- Politics and world oil economics [rev ed]. Hartshorn, J. E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Politics battle plan. Baus, H. M. (Je '68)
- Politics, economics, and the public. Dye, T. R. (Mr '68)
- Politics in Brazil, 1930-1964. Skidmore, T. E. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Politics in New Mexico. Holmes, J. E. (Je '68)
- Politics of American foreign aid. O'Leary, M. K. (O '68)
- Politics of conformity in Latin America. Veliz, C., ed. (S '68)
- Politics of ecstasy. Leary, T. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Politics of federal aid to education in 1965. Meranto, P. (N '68)
- Politics of futility. Johnpoll, B. K. (Je '68)
- Politics of honor. Davis, K. S. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Politics of John F. Kennedy. Ions, E. S. (Ag '68)
- Politics of poverty. Donovan, J. C. (S '68)
- Politics of provincialism. Burner, D. (Ag '68)
- Politics of pure science. Greenberg, D. S. (Je '68)
- Politics of school desegregation. Crain, R. L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Politics of space cooperation. Kash, D. E. (Ag '68)
- Politics of the common market. Clark, W. H. (Mr '68)
- Politics of the European communist states. Ionescu, G. (Ap '68)
- Politics of the Vatican. Nichols, P. (Je '68)
- Politics of violence. Leiden, C., ed. (O '68)
- Pollbooks. Vincent, J. R. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Pollock, Jackson
O'Connor, F. V. Jackson Pollock. (Mr '68)
- Polo, Marco
Hart, H. H. Marco Polo. Venetian adventurer [new ed]. (Ag '68)
- Polynesian art. A pictorial peregrination through the shapely and harmonious, often enigmatical, sometimes shocking realms of. Dodd, E. H. (Ap '68)
- Pompadour, Jeanne Antoinette (Polsson) Marquise de
Mitford, N. Madame de Pompadour. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Pond life. Reid, G. K. (My '68)
- Pontius Pilate. Maier, P. L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Poor law
Great Britain
Hodgkinson, R. G. Origins of the National health service. (N '68)
- Pope, Alexander
Maresca, T. E. Pope's Horatian poems. (Mr '68)
- Pope speaks. Paul VI, Pope. (Je '68)
- Popes
Falconi, C. Popes in the twentieth century. (Je '68)
- Pope's Horatian poems. Maresca, T. E. (Mr '68)
- Popes in the twentieth century. Falconi, C. (Je '68)
- Popular government in America. Hyneman, C. S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Popular guide to government publications [3d ed]. Leidy, W. P. (Ag '68)
- Popular music. Rublowsky, J. (S '68)

- Population
 Clark, C. Population growth and land use. (Je '68)
 Stockwell, E. G. Population and people. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Young, L. B., ed. Population in perspective. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual) Population and people. Stockwell, E. G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Population growth and land use. Clark, C. (Je '68)
 Population in perspective. Young, L. B., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Porcelain. See Pottery
- Portrait of that field. (Ap '68)
- Portrait of an obsession. Munby, A. N. L. (My '68)
- Portrait of Elgar. Kennedy, M. (N '68)
- Portrait of Japan. Van der Post, L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Portrait of Yahweh as a young God. Wels-Schon, G. (O '68)
- Portrait painting
 Lanckman, E. Chinese portraiture. (Mr '68)
 Taubes, F. Technique of portrait painting. (Ag '68)
- Juvenile literature
 Kainz, L. C. Portraits and personalities. (D '68)
 Portraits and personalities. Kainz, L. C. (D '68)
 Portraits of John and Abigail Adams. Oliver, A. (1967, 1968 Annual) Ports of call. Carse, R. (Mr '68)
- Portugal
Colonies
 Chilcote, R. H. Portuguese Africa. (S '68)
 Portuguese Africa. Chilcote, R. H. (S '68)
- Portuguese in India
 Figueroa, M. F. de. Spaniard in the Portuguese Indies. (N '68)
 Portuguese princess. Dery, T. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Positivism
 Kolakowski, L. Alienation of reason. (Je '68)
 Post office department. Cullinan, G. (N '68)
- Postage stamps
 Scott's New handbook for philatelists. (Ag '68)
- Juvenile literature
 Kelen, E. Stamps tell the story of the United Nations. (O '68)
- Postal service
 Cullinan, G. Post office department. (N '68)
 Post-conciliar nun. Valentine, M. H. (O '68)
 Postwar economic growth in Japan. Komiya, R., ed. (Mr '68)
 Post-war years, 1945-1954. Ehrenburg, I. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Pottery
 Chandler, M. Ceramics in the modern world. (N '68)
- Collectors and collecting
 Berges, R. Collector's choice of porcelain and falence. (O '68)
 Reynolds, E. Collecting Victorian porcelain. (Ag '68)
- Pottery, British
 Fisher, S. W. English ceramics. (O '68)
 Reynolds, E. Collecting Victorian porcelain. (Ag '68)
- Pottery, Chinese
 Locsin, L. Oriental ceramics discovered in the Philippines. (N '68)
- Pottery, Greek
 Lacy, A. D. Greek pottery in the bronze age. (Ag '68)
- Poultry
Stories
 Hutchins, P. Rosie's walk. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Jackson, J. Chicken Ten Thousand. (D '68)
 Little Tuppen. (S '68)
- Pound, Ezra Loomis
 Meacham, H. M. Caged panther. (Je '68)
 Norman, C. Case of Ezra Pound. (O '68)
 Pound, E. Pound/Joyce. (Mr '68)
 Reck, M. Ezra Pound. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Pound/Joyce. Pound, E. (Mr '68)
- Poussin, Nicolas
 Blunt, A. Nicolas Poussin, 2v. (Ap '68)
- Poverty
 Bernstein, S. Alternatives to violence. (Ag '68)
 Berry, B. J. L., ed. Goals for urban America. (Je '68)
- Blaustein, A. I., ed. Man against poverty: World War III. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Booth, C. Charles Booth's London. (Ap '68)
 Deutscher, I., ed. Among the people: encounters with the poor. (D '68)
 Donovan, J. C. Politics of poverty. (S '68)
 Good, P. American serfs. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Harris, F. R. Alarms and hopes. (S '68)
 Lerner, J., ed. Poverty: views from the left. (O '68)
 Marris, P. Dilemmas of social reform. (N '68)
 Seligman, B. B. Permanent poverty. (O '68)
 Valentine, C. A. Culture and poverty. (D '68)
 Waxman, C. I., comp. Poverty. (O '68)
 Poverty and politics. Baldwin, S. (S '68)
 Poverty is where the money is. Scheibla, S. (O '68)
 Poverty: views from the left. Lerner, J., ed. (O '68)
 Powder keg. Ratner, L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Power (Mechanics)
 Sterland, E. G. Energy into power. (Je '68)
- Power (Social sciences)
 Krieger, L., ed. Responsibility of power. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 McCarthy, E. J. Limits of power. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Rose, A. M. Power structure. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Swartz, M. J., ed. Political anthropology. (Ap '68)
- Power of sound. Gurney, E. (Ap '68)
- Power resources
Juvenile literature
 Halacy, D. S. Energy and engines. (S '68)
 Power structure. Rose, A. M. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Powers, James Earl
 Hagopian, J. V. J. F. Powers. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Practical stage make-up. Perrottet, P. (O '68)
- Practice of history. Elton, G. R. (O '68)
- Praeger encyclopedia of ancient Greek civilization. (Ap '68)
- Pragmatism
 Winetrou, K. F. C. S. Schiller and the dimension of pragmatism. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Prairies
 Allen, D. L. Life of prairies and plains. (Ap '68)
- Prancing pony. DeForest, C. B. (Ag '68)
- Prayer
 Quiery, W. H. Facing God. (Mr '68)
- Prayer ■ a political problem. Danielou, J. (Ap '68)
- Prayer in the public schools. Muir, W. K. (My '68)
- Prayers
Juvenile literature
 Little prayer. (Je '68)
- Pre-existence of Christ in the New Testament. Craddock, F. B. (N '68)
- Pregnancy
 Liley, H. M. I. Modern motherhood. (Je '68)
- Prehistoric animals. See Fossils
- Prehistoric art. Grand, P. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Prelude to downfall: Hitler and the United States, 1939-1941. Friedländer, S. (Mr '68)
- Prelude to nation-states. Kohn, H. (O '68)
- Prelude to revolution. Rabinowitch, A. (N '68)
- Prelude to riot. Jacobs, P. (Ap '68)
- Premature death of Protestantism. Denbeaux, F. J. (N '68)
- Presbyterian Church
 Melton, J. Presbyterian worship in America. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Presbyterian worship in America. Melton, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Presence and immortality. Marcel, G. (Ap '68)
- Presence of the word. Ong, W. J. (Mr '68)
- Preserve and protect. Drury, A. (N '68)
- President as chief administrator. Wann, A. J. (N '68)
- President who wouldn't retire. Falkner, L. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Presidential debate, 1968. Frost, D. (O '68)
- Presidential plot. Johnson, S. (O '68)
- Presidential reconstruction in Mississippi. Harris, W. C. (N '68)
- Presidential seizure in labor disputes. Blackman, J. L. (My '68)
- Presidential vetoes, 1792-1945. Jackson, C. (O '68)

Presidents

United States

- Cannon, P. Presidents' cookbook. (Ag '68)
 Krock, A. Memoirs. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Potter, J. M. Plots against presidents. (O '68)
 Warren, S., ed. American president. (Ag '68)
 Wicker, T. JFK and LBJ. (Ag '68)

Election

- Abels, J. Degeneration of our presidential election. (Ag '68)
 Baus, H. M. Politics battle plan. (Je '68)
 Kessel, J. H. Goldwater coalition. (D '68)
 Lokos, L. Hysteria 1964. (Ag '68)
 Moscow, W. Roosevelt and Willkie. (D '68)
 Parmet, H. S. Never again. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Peirce, N. R. People's President. (Ag '68)
 Ross, I. Loneliest campaign. (Je '68)
 Tugwell, R. G. Brains Trust. (O '68)
 Warren, S. Battle for the presidency. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Weingast, D. E. We elect a president. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Election—Anecdotes, facetiae, satire, etc.

- Baker, R. Our next president. (Je '68)

Election—Juvenile literature

- Gray, L. L. How we choose a president [rev ed.]. (Ag '68)
 Robinson, L. Stolen election. (N '68)

Family

- Faber, D. Mothers of American Presidents. (N '68)

Staff

- Anderson, P. Presidents' men. (D '68)

Succession

- Bayh, B. One heartbeat away. (O '68)
 Presidents and peons. Romualdi, S. (N '68)
 Presidents' cookbook. Cannon, P. (Ag '68)
 Presidents' men. Anderson, P. (D '68)
 President's plane is missing. Serling, R. J. (N '68)

Press. See Newspapers

- Press and Vatican II. Heston, E. L. (Ap '68)

Press Exploring Expedition

- Wood, R. L. Across the Olympic Mountains. (Ap '68)

- Press in Africa. Ainslie, R. (S '68)

- Press photographer. Spina, T. (O '68)

- Price. Miller, A. (S '68)

- Price policies and practices. Mulvihill, D. F., ed. (Ag '68)

Prices

- Mulvihill, D. F., ed. Price policies and practices. (Ag '68)
 Sheahan, J. Wage-price guideposts. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Priest in crisis. O'Neill, D. P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Priests. See Clergy

- Primal curse. Matthews, H. (Ag '68)

- Primate ethology. Morris, D., ed. (Je '68)

Primates

- Morris, D. Naked ape. (Mr '68)
 Morris, D., ed. Primate ethology. (Je '68)
 Napier, J. R. Handbook of living primates. (Je '68)
 Williams, L. Man and monkey (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Primer on food, agriculture, and public policy. Heady, E. O. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Primer on international trade. Pen, J. (Ag '68)

- Primitive and peasant economic systems. Nash, M. (Ag '68)

Prin. Alice

- Kohner, F. Kiki of Montparnasse. (Mr '68)
 Prince Albert and Victorian taste. Ames, W. (Je '68)

- Prince of aesthetes: Count Robert de Montesquiou, 1855-1921. Jullian, P. (Ag '68)

- Prince of poets. Elliott, J. R., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Princeton, New Jersey

Historic houses, etc.

- Greiff, C. M. Princeton architecture. (Ag '68)
 Princeton architecture. Greiff, C. M. (Ag '68)
 Princeton University
 Greiff, C. M. Princeton architecture. (Ag '68)
 Principles and methods of social psychology. Hollander, E. P. (Je '68)

- Principles and persons. Olafson, F. A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Principles and practice of aikido. Yamada, S. (Ap '68)

- Principles of harmony and contrast of colors and their applications to the arts. Chevreul, M. E. (S '68)

Printing

- Green, P. Introducing surface printing. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Silver, R. G. American printer, 1787-1825. (O '68)
 Strauss, V. Printing industry. (Ap '68)

Specimens

- Sutton, J. Atlas of typeforms. (D '68)
 Tschichold, J. Asymmetric typography. (Je '68)
 Printing industry. Strauss, V. (Ap '68)
 Prison: the penal institutions of Britain. Wolff, M. (O '68)
 Prisoner of the Indies. Household, G. (Ag '68)
 Prisoners of the Mahdi. Farwell, B. (Ap '68)

Prisons

Czechoslovak Republic

- Mucha, J. Living and partly living. (D '68)

Great Britain

- Wolff, M. Prison: the penal institutions of Britain. (O '68)

Rumania

- Wurmbrand, R. Christ in the communist prisons. (My '68)

Russia

- Gilboa, Y. A. Confess! confess! (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Ginzburg, E. S. Journey into the whirlwind. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Pritchett, Victor Sawdon

- Pritchett, V. S. Cab at the door. (Je '68)

Privacy. Right of

- Garrison, O. V. Spy government. (Mr '68)
 Spindel, B. B. Ominous ear. (O '68)
 Westin, A. F. Privacy and freedom. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

- Privacy and freedom. Westin, A. F. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

- Private eye, the cowboy and the very naked girl. Crist, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Private face [1812-1861]: v 1 of Robert Brown-ing and his world. Ward, M. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

- Private houses. Weidert, W. (O '68)

- Private screenings. Simon, J. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

- Private world of Jean Giono. Redfern, W. D. (Ag '68)

- Private world of Leonard Bernstein. Gruen, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Private wound. Blake, N. (Ag '68)

Problem children

- Burton, L. Vulnerable children. (D '68)
 Pavstedt, E., ed. Drifters. (N '68)
 Webb, L. Children with special needs in the infants' school. (O '68)

- Wilson, L. This stranger, my son. (Je '68)

- Problem of Burke's political philosophy.

- Wilkins, B. T. (Ag '68)

- Problematic man. Marcel, G. (Ap '68)

- Problems of psychotherapy. Zucker, H. (N '68)

- Proceedings, 5-10 September, 1966. International congress of Byzantine studies, 1966. (O '68)

- Processes of coastal development. Zenkovich, V. P. (D '68)

Professional education

- Qubain, F. I. Education and science in the Arab world. (Je '68)

- Professional power and American medicine.

- Rayack, E. (N '68)

Professions

- Adams, W., ed. Brain drain. (O '68)

- Profile of the school dropout. Schreiber, D., ed. (Je '68)

Programmed instruction

- Programmed learning conference, 1966. Aspects of educational technology. (Mr '68)

Programming (Electronic computers)

- Barnett, L. Careers in computer programming. (D '68)

- Seligsohn, I. J. Your career in computer programming. (Ap '68)

- Programming languages (Electronic computers)

- Borko, H. ed. Automated language processing. (N '68)

Progress

- Edelstein, L. Idea of progress in classical antiquity. (S '68)

- Progress and disillusion. Aron, R. (D '68)

- Progress and revolution. Waelder, R. (O '68)

- Progress into the past. McDonald, W. A. (Ap '68)

- Progress of the Protestant. Haverstick, J. (Je '68)

- Progressive Education Association
Graham, P. A. Progressive education: from Arcady to Academe. (S '68)
- Progressive education: from Arcady to Academe. Graham, P. A. (S '68)
- Progressive historians. Hofstadter, R. (D '68)
- Progressive politics and conservation. (N '68)
- Progressivism (United States politics)
Patterson, J. T. Congressional conservatism and the New Deal. (Mr '68)
- Prohibited books
Boyer, P. S. Purity in print. (N '68)
- Project Apollo. See Apollo project
- Prokof'ev, Sergel Sergeevich. See Prokofiev, S. Prokofiev, Serge
- Seroff, V. Sergel Prokofiev: a Soviet tragedy. (O '68)
- Proletarian writers of the thirties. Madden, D., ed. (O '68)
- Promise of space. Clarke, A. C. (S '68)
- Propaganda
Murty, B. S. Propaganda and world public order. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Propaganda, American
Sorensen, T. C. Word war. (Ag '68)
- Propaganda, German
Frye, A. Nazi Germany and the American hemisphere, 1933-1941. (Ap '68)
- Propaganda, Russian
Margulies, S. R. Pilgrimage to Russia. (N '68)
- Propaganda, South African
Laurence, J. Seeds of disaster. (N '68)
- Propaganda and world public order. Murty, B. S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Prophecies
Ebon, M. Prophecy in our time. (My '68)
- Prophecy in our time. Ebon, M. (My '68)
- Prospects for peacekeeping. Cox, A. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Prospects for Soviet society. Kassof, A., ed. (N '68)
- Prostitution
Fille de joie. (O '68)
- Protean shape. Tucker, S. I. (Mr '68)
- Protest and prejudice. Marx, G. T. (Ap '68)
- Protest: pacifism and politics. Finn, J. (My '68)
- Protestant churches
Willems, E. Followers of the new faith. (Je '68)
- Protestantism
Campbell, R., ed. Spectrum of Protestant beliefs. (Ag '68)
- Denbeaux, F. J. Premature death of Protestantism. (N '68)
- Haverstick, J. Progress of the Protestant. (Je '68)
- Léonard, E. G. History of Protestantism, v 1. (Ag '68)
- Swanson, G. E. Religion and regime. (Ag '68)
- History
- Daniel-Rops, H. Our brothers in Christ, 1870-1959. (N '68)
- Proverbs
Ellul, J. Critique of the new commonplaces. (Ag '68)
- Proxy, White, J. (Ag '68)
- Psychedelic art. Masters, R. E. L. (N '68)
- Psychedelics. See Hallucinogenic drugs
- Psychiatry
Sarason, S. B. Psychology in community settings. (Ap '68)
- See also*
- Child psychiatry
- Psychiatry and anti-psychiatry. Cooper, D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Psychic trauma. Furst, S. S., ed. (S '68)
- Psychical research
Gauld, A. Founders of psychical research. (D '68)
- Psychoanalysis
Brome, V. Freud and his early circle. (Ap '68)
- Burton, A. Modern humanistic psychotherapy. (S '68)
- Evans, R. I. Dialogue with Erik Erikson. (Ag '68)
- Furst, S. S., ed. Psychic trauma. (S '68)
- Roazen, P. Freud: political and social thought. (S '68)
- Rubenstein, R. L. Religious imagination. (S '68)
- Dictionaries
- Encyclopedia of psychoanalysis. (N '68)
- Psycholinguistics papers. Edinburgh university conference on psycholinguistics, 1966. (Ap '68)
- Psychological concepts in education. Komisar, B. P., ed. (N '68)
- Psychological consultation in the schools. Newman, R. G. (Ap '68)
- Psychology
Arieti, S. Intrapsychic self. (S '68)
- Baker, E. F. Man in the trap. (N '68)
- Bertalanffy, L. von. Robots, men and minds. (My '68)
- Bertine, E. Jung's contribution to our time. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Knight, J. A. For the love of money. (Ag '68)
- Lidz, T. Person. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Linschoten, H. On the way toward a phenomenological psychology. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Matson, F. W., ed. Being, becoming and behavior. (O '68)
- See also*
- Sports—Psychological aspects
- Experiments
- Friedman, N. Social nature of psychological research. (O '68)
- Psychology, Applied
Sarason, S. B. Psychology in community settings. (Ap '68)
- Psychology, Comparative
Barnett, S. A. Instinct and intelligence. (My '68)
- Graven, J. Non-human thought. (S '68)
- Psychology, Pastoral
Belgum, D., ed. Religion and medicine. (S '68)
- Dittes, J. E. Church in the way. (N '68)
- Hillman, J. Insearch. (Ap '68)
- Oden, T. C. Contemporary theology and psychotherapy. (Ap '68)
- Psychology, Pathological
Arieti, S. Intrapsychic self. (S '68)
- Psychology, Religious
Bakan, D. Duality of human existence. (Ag '68)
- Homans, P., ed. Dialogue between theology and psychology. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Pruyser, P. W. Dynamic psychology of religion. (N '68)
- Psychology in community settings. Sarason, S. B. (Ap '68)
- Psychology of children's art. Kellogg, R. (Mr '68)
- Psychology of communication. Miller, G. A. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Psychosocial interior of the family. Handel, G., comp. (Ap '68)
- Psychotherapy
Haley, J. Techniques of family therapy. (N '68)
- MacLennan, B. W. Group counseling and psychotherapy with adolescents. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Minuchin, S. Families of the slums. (S '68)
- Oden, T. C. Contemporary theology and psychotherapy. (Ap '68)
- Schutz, W. C. Joy. (Ag '68)
- Zucker, H. Problems of psychotherapy. (N '68)
- Public administration
Alderfer, H. F. Public administration in newer nations. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Electronic data processing
- MacBride, R. Automated state. (Ap '68)
- Public administration in newer nations. Alderfer, H. F. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Public health
Lasagna, L. Life, death, and the doctor. (Ag '68)
- Great Britain
- Hodgkinson, R. G. Origins of the National health service. (N '68)
- Taiwan
- Baker, T. D. Health manpower in a developing economy; Taiwan, a case study in planning. (N '68)
- United States
- Feldman, J. J. Dissemination of health information. (Ag '68)
- Lambert, C. Clinic habit. (O '68)
- Public image. Spark, M. (N '68)
- Public library service to children. Gross, E. H. (O '68)
- Public opinion
Free, L. A. Political beliefs of Americans. (My '68)
- Hess, R. D. Development of political attitudes in children. (Ag '68)
- Wakefield, D. Supernation at peace and war. (O '68)
- Public opinion and Canadian identity. Schwartz, M. A. (Je '68)

- Public opinion and constitution making in Pakistan, 1958-1962. Schuler, E. A. (Ap '68)
- Public relations
Golden, L. L. L. Only by public consent. (Ap '68)
- Public schools
United States
Crain, R. L. Politics of school desegregation. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Public speaking
Welsh, J. J. Speech writing guide. (Ag '68)
- Public welfare
Brager, G. A., ed. Community action against poverty. (O '68)
Lambert, C. Clinic habit. (O '68)
Lubove, R., ed. Social welfare in transition. (My '68)
Williams, G. R. Coming of the welfare state. (Ag '68)
- Publishers and publishing
Heinsheimer, H. W. Best regards to Aida. (D '68)
Weybright, V. Making of a publisher. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Pueblo Indians
Antiquities
Lister, F. C. Earl Morris & Southwestern archaeology. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Pullman, Illinois
Buder, S. Pullman. (Ap '68)
Pump house gang. Wolfe, T. (D '68)
- Punishment
Menninger, K. Crime of punishment. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Puppets and puppet plays
Juvenile literature
Philpott, A. R. Let's look at puppets. (Ag '68)
- Purcell, Henry
Zimmerman, F. B. Henry Purcell, 1659-1695. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Purcell, William Gray
Purcell, W. G. St Croix Trail country. (Ap '68)
- Pure and the impure. Colette. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Puritans at bay. Burke, C. T. (Mr '68)
- Purity in print. Boyer, P. S. (N '68)
- Pursuit of happiness. Rogers, T. (O '68)
- Pushkin, Aleksandr Sergeevich
Vickery, W. N. Pushkin: death of a poet. (D '68)
- Pushkin: death of a poet Vickery, W. N. (D '68)
- Put-offs and come-ons. Chapman, A. H. (O '68)
- Puzzles
Juvenile literature
Webster, D. Crossroad puzzlers. (My '68)
Pyewackett. Weir, R. (Ag '68)
Pygmalion in the classroom. Rosenthal, R. (N '68)
- Pyramid. Golding, W. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Pyramid of living things. Raskin, E. (My '68)
- Python project. Canning, V. (S '68)
- Quacks and quackery
Young, J. H. Medical messiahs. (My '68)
- Quakers. See Friends. Society of Quakers. Elgin, K. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Quang Ngai, Vietnam
Schell, J. Military half. (O '68)
- Quang Tin, Vietnam
Schell, J. Military half. (O '68)
- Quantity of a hazel nut. Malania, F. (My '68)
- Quarterbacking. Starr, B. (Ap '68)
- Quasars
Burbidge, G. Quasi-stellar objects. (Ap '68)
Kahn, F. D. Quasars. (Mr '68)
- Quasi-stellar objects. Burbidge, G. (Ap '68)
- Quaternary. v2. Rankama, K., ed. (N '68)
- Quebec (province)
Juvenile literature
Boswell, H. French Canada: pictures and stories of old Quebec (Mr '68)
Quebec confronts Canada. Corbett, E. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Queen of hearts. Haldane, C. (O '68)
Queen Victoria's bomb. Clark, R. (My '68)
Quest (1712-1758): v 1 of Jean-Jacques Rousseau. Crocker, L. G. (D '68)
Quest for a united Germany. Váhl, F. A. (Mr '68)
- Quest for Arthur's Britain. Ashe, G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Quest for empire. Hansen, K. J. (Mr '68)
- Quest for peace through diplomacy. Kertesz, S. D. (Ag '68)
- Quest for Timbuctoo. Gardner, B. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Quest of three abbots. Lehane, B. (Ag '68)
- Question of conscience. Davis, C. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Questions and answers about ants. Selsam, M. E. (Ap '68)
- Quiet furies. McNeill, E. B. (Je '68)
- Quiet place to work. Brown, H. (Ag '68)
- Quill, Michael Joseph
Whittemore, L. H. Man who ran the subways. (O '68)
- Quinn, John
Reid, B. L. Man from New York. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Quotations
Bartlett, J. Familiar quotations [14th ed rev & enl]. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Evans, B., ed. Dictionary of quotations. (Jm '68)
Strauss, M. B. Familiar medical quotations. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Quotations from chairman Mao Tse-tung. Mao, T. T. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- R. F. K. Schaap, D. (My '68)
- Rabbits
Stories
Anderson, L. Two hundred rabbits. (Ag '68)
- Rablnowitz, Shalom
Waife-Goldberg, M. My father. Sholom Aleichem. (My '68)
- Raccoons
Juvenile literature
Hess, L. Curious raccoons. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Kohn, B. Raccoons. (O '68)
- Raccoons. Kohn, B. (O '68)
- Race
De Reuck, A., ed. Caste and race. (O '68)
Mead, M., ed. Science and the concept of race. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Race and racism. Van den Berghe, P. L. (Ag '68)
Race and the news media. Fisher, P. L., ed. (Mr '68)
Race, community and conflict. Rex, J. (Mr '68)
- Race problems
Banton, M. Race relations. (Ag '68)
Barnwell, W. H. In Richard's world. (S '68)
Blalock, H. M. Toward a theory of minority-group relations. (O '68)
Coles, R. Children of crisis. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Dentier, R. A. Urban R's: race relations as the problem in urban education. (Ag '68)
Hoetink, H. Two variants in Caribbean race relations. (S '68)
Van den Berghe, P. L. Race and racism. (Ag '68)
- Race psychology
Dickie-Clark, H. F. Marginal situation. (Ap '68)
Fanon, F. Black skin, white masks. (1967, 1968 Annual)
Grier, W. H. Black rage. (D '68)
Race relations. Banton, M. (Ag '68)
Race riot, Detroit 1943. Lee, A. M. (D '68)
Racecourse for Andy. Wrightson, P. (O '68)
Races to the swift. Downey, F., ed. (Mr '68)
Racial prejudice in Imperial Rome. Sherwin-White, A. N. (O '68)
- Radar
Eastwood, E. Radar ornithology. (Ag '68)
- Radar ornithology. Eastwood, E. (Ag '68)
- Radiant darkness. Eng title of: Luminous darkness. Bögl, A. (My '68)
- Radical liberal. Kaufman, A. S. (Je '68)
- Radical theology
Christian, C. W., ed. Radical theology: phase two. (Ap '68)
Irion, M. J. From the ashes of Christianity. (Je '68)
- Radical theology: phase two. Christian, C. W., ed. (Ap '68)
- Radicalism & reform. Paulson, R. E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Radicals and radicalism
Bottomore, T. B. Critics of society. (Ag '68)
Gilbert, J. B. Writers and partisans: a history of literary radicalism in America. (S '68)
Keniston, K. Young radicals. (O '68)
Lynd S. Intellectual origins of American radicalism. (O '68)

Radio

- Hawker, J. P. Radio and television: principles and applications. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Radio and television broadcasting on the European continent. Paulu, B. (Ag '68)
- Radio and television: principles and applications. Hawker, J. P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Radio broadcasting
- Barber, R. Rhubarb in the catbird seat. (Ag '68)
- Hilliard, R. L., ed. Radio broadcasting. (Ag '68)
- Murrow, E. R. In search of light. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Paulu, B. Radio and television broadcasting on the European continent. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

- Gordon, G. N. On-the-spot reporting. (Mr '68)
- Raffles, Sir Thomas Stamford
- Collis, M. Raffles. (Ap '68)
- Railroad labor disputes. Eggert, G. G. (Ag '68)

Railroads

- Ellis, H. Pictorial encyclopedia of railways. (O '68)
- Lyons, P. To hell in a day coach. (Ap '68)
- Salsbury, S. State, the investor, and the railroad. (Ag '68)

Employees

- Eggert, G. G. Railroad labor disputes. (Ag '68)

Finance

- Johnson, A. M. Boston capitalists and Western railroads. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

- Bailey, R. E. Fight for Royal Gorge. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Railroads and state
- Eggert, G. G. Railroad labor disputes. (Ag '68)
- Rain comes to Yamboorah. Ottlev, R. (O '68)
- Rainy day book. Schwartz, A. (D '68)
- Raking the historic coals. Holley, E. G. (N '68)
- Ramage and the drumbeat. Eng title of: Drumbeat. Pope, D. (Je '68)
- Ramona the pest. Cleary, B. (S '68)
- Ramu, Mehta, R. (Je '68)
- Ranch life
- Moody, R. Horse of a different color. (D '68)
- Randell, Arthur Redvers
- Randell, A. R. Sixty years n Fenman. (Ap '68)
- Random house guide to graduate study in the arts and sciences. Wasserman, E. R. (Mr '68)
- Ransom, John Crowe
- Buffington, R. Equilibrist. (N '68)
- Raphael (Raffaello Sanzio d'Urbino)
- Ponente, N. Who was Raphael? (My '68)
- Rare animals

Juvenile literature

- Gray, R. Children of the ark. (Ag '68)
- Rare books
- Houghton library. Houghton library, 1942-1967. (Mr '68)
- Raspail, Francois Vincent
- Weiner, D. B. Raspail: scientist and reformer. (N '68)
- Raspail: scientist and reformer. Weiner, D. B. (N '68)
- Ravel, Maurice
- Stuckenschmidt, H. H. Maurice Ravel. (Ag '68)
- Raw Pearl. Bailey, P. (N '68)
- Ray Harm nature sketchbook. Harm, R. (Ag '68)
- Reaction against experiment in the English novel, 1950-1960. Rabinovitz, R. (Ag '68)
- Reader in political sociology. Lindenfeld, F., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Reading, Rufus Daniel Isaacs, 1st Marquis of Hyde. H. M. Lord Reading. (Ag '68)

Reading

- Chall, J. S. Learning to read. (Ap '68)
- Fader, D. N. Hooked on books: program & proof [new enl ed.]. (D '68)
- Morris, J. M. Standards and progress in reading. (N '68)
- Natchez, G., ed. Children with reading problems. (N '68)
- National foundation for educational research in England and Wales. i.t.a. symposium. (D '68)

Psychology

- Chall, J. Learning to read. (Ap '68)
- Reading Horace. West, D. A. (O '68)
- Reading of Beowulf. Irving, E. B. (O '68)
- Reading of Mansfield Park. Fleishman, A. (N '68)

Ready to riot. Wright, N. (O '68)

Reagan, Ronald

Boyarsky, B. Rise of Ronald Reagan. (Ag '68)

Real achievement of Vatican II. Schillebeeckx, E. (Ap '68)

Real CIA. Kirkpatrick, L. B. (Ap '68)

Real woman in the religious life. Evoy, J. J. (Ap '68)

Reality and the heroic pattern. Grene, D. (N '68)

Reason and authority. Orr, R. R. (N '68)

Reasoning

Newell, R. W. Concept of philosophy. (N '68)

Reasons for moving. Strand, M. (O '68)

Rebel daughter of a country house. Wilson, F. M. (N '68)

Rebellion in Newark. Hayden, T. (Mr '68)

Rebellion or revolution? Cruse, H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Recent & future architecture. Stone, E. D. (Ag '68)

Reconceptions in Christian thinking, 1817-1967. Pittenger, W. N. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Reconstructing African culture history. Gabel, C., ed. (O '68)

Reconstruction

Abbott, M. Freedmen's bureau in South Carolina, 1865-1872. (S '68)

Bennett, L. Black power U.S.A. (Ag '68)

Evans, W. M. Ballots and fence rails. (Mr '68)

Harris, W. C. Presidential reconstruction in Mississippi. (N '68)

Sefton, J. E. United States army and reconstruction. (O '68)

Juvenile literature

Werstein, I. This wounded land. (O '68)

Records of Han administration, 2v. Loewe, M. (N '68)

Recreation for retarded teenagers and young adults. Carlson, B. W. (N '68)

Rector and the rogue. Swanberg, W. A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Red book and the Great Wall. Moravia, A. (N '68)

Red-figured vases of Lucania, Campania and Sicily. 2v. Trendall, A. D. (Ag '68)

Red Guard. Granqvist, H. (Je '68)

Red Hill School, East Sutton, England

Shaw, O. L. Youth in crisis. (Mr '68)

Red machines. Reeve, F. D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Red October. Daniels, R. V. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Red sky at morning. Bradford, R. (Ag '68)

Red spies in Washington. Carpozzi, G. (S '68)

Red star over China [rev & enl ed.]. Snow, E. (O '68)

Red virgin soil. Maguire, R. A. (O '68)

Redbird. McClung, R. M. (O '68)

Redecorating your room for practically nothing. Hautzig, E. (Je '68)

Redeemer nation. Tuveson, E. L. (D '68)

Rediscovery of American literature. Ruland, R. (Mr '68)

Rediscovery of New Mexico, 1580-1594. Hammond, G. P. (Ap '68)

Redoing America. Faltermayer, E. K. (N '68)

Reed, John

O'Connor, R. Lost revolutionary. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Re-emergence of fascism. Eisenberg, D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Reflections on a gift of watermelon pickle. Dunning, S., comp. (Ap '68)

Reflections on Latin American development. Campos, R. de O. (N '68)

Reform in education. Koerner, J. D. (Ag '68)

Reformation

Chrisman, M. U. Strasbourg and the reform. (Ap '68)

McNair, P. Peter Martyr in Italy: an anatomy of apostasy. (Ag '68)

Pelikan, J. Spirit versus structure. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Pineas, R. Thomas More and Tudor polemics. (N '68)

Simon, E. Luther alive. (Ag '68)

Swanson, G. E. Religion and regime. (Ag '68)

Trevor-Roper, H. R. Crisis of the seventeenth century. (Je '68)

Juvenile literature

Cowie, L. W. Reformation. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Reformation. Cowie, L. W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Reformation; v 1 of A history of Protestantism. Léonard, E. G. (Ag '68)

Reformation to industrial revolution. Hill, C. (Ag '68)

Reformers

Davis, A. F. Spearheads for reform. (Ag '68)

Refugees, Tibetan

Murphy, D. Tibetan foothold. (S '68)

Refuse and refuse disposal

Stewart, G. R. Not so rich as you think. (Mr '68)

Regional economic development in Italy.

Saville, L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Regional planning

Dasmann, R. F. Different kind of country. (Ag '68)

Mayer, A. Urgent future. (My '68)

Munzer, M. E. Pocket of hope. (Mr '68)

Whyte, W. H. Last landscape. (D '68)

Regionalism and beyond.

Stewart, R. (O '68)

Regulation and control in living systems.

Kalmus, H., ed. (O '68)

Rehabilitation for the unwanted.

Roth, J. A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Reich, Wilhelm

Baker, E. F. Man in the trap. (N '68)

Reich, W. Reich speaks out on Freud. (Je '68)

Reich speaks out on Freud.

Reich, W. (Je '68)

Reilly, Sidney George

Lockhart, R. B. Ace of spies. (Ap '68)

Reinhold, Hans Ansgar

Reinhold, H. A. H. A. R: the autobiography of Father Reinhold. (Ap '68)

Reinterpretation in American church history.

Brauer, J. C., ed. (D '68)

Relativity (Physics)

Bergmann, P. G. Riddle of gravitation. (S '68)

Prokhovnik, S. J. Logic of special relativity. (N '68)

Juvenile literature

Chester, M. Relativity. (My '68)

Relativity.

Chester, M. (My '68)

Religion

Feuerbach, L. Lectures on the essence of religion. (Ag '68)

Bibliography

Berkowitz, M. I. Social scientific studies of religion: a bibliography. (Ap '68)

Philosophy

Aldridge, A. O. Benjamin Franklin and nature's God. (Ag '68)

Ferré, F. Basic modern philosophy of religion. (Je '68)

Neville, R. C. God the creator. (Ag '68)

Richmond, J. Faith and philosophy. (Ag '68)

Smith, W. S. London heretics, 1870-1914. (Je '68)

Religion and education.

See Church and education

Religion and language

Funk, R. W. Language, hermeneutic, and Word of God. (Ag '68)

High, D. M. Language, persons, and belief. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Religion and medicine.

Belzum, D., ed. (S '68)

Religion and rebellion in Iran.

Keddie, N. R. (Je '68)

Religion and regime.

Swanson, G. E. (Ag '68)

Religion and science

Bube, R. H., ed. Encounter between Christianity and science. (O '68)

Oraison, M. Morality for our time. (D '68)

Overman, R. H. Evolution and the Christian doctrine of creation. (D '68)

Rust, E. C. Science and faith. (N '68)

Waters, F. W. Way in and the way out. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Williams, J. G. Christian faith and the space age. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Yarnold, G. D. Moving image. (Ap '68)

Religion and sociology

American universities field staff. Churches and states: the religious institution and modernization. (D '68)

Martin, D. Sociology of English religion. (S '68)

Stark, R. American piety: the nature of religious commitment. (D '68)

Swanson, G. E. Religion and regime. (Ag '68)

Religion in literature

Hoffman, F. J. Imagination's new beginning: theology and modern literature. (Ag '68)

Jones, H. M. Belief and disbelief in American literature. (Mr '68)

Panichas, G. A., ed. Mansions of the spirit. (O '68)

Patrides, C. A. Milton and the Christian tradition. (Ag '68)

Scott, N. A., ed. Adversity and grace. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Spanos, W. V. Christian tradition in modern British verse drama. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Religion in the public schools

Johnson, R. M. Dynamics of compliance. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Muir, W. K. Prayer in the public schools. (My '68)

Religion in the U.S.S.R. Conquest, R., ed. (Ag '68)

Religion of ancient Israel. Vriezen, T. C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Religions

Kitagawa, J. M., ed. History of religions. (Ap '68)

Juvenile literature

Wolcott, L. Religions around the world. (Ag '68)

Religions around the world. Wolcott, L. (Ag '68)

Religious dimension in Hegel's thought. Fackenheim, E. L. (N '68)

Religious education

Moran, G. Vision and tactics. (D '68)

Religious ferment in Russia. Bourdeaux, M. (Ag '68)

Religious imagination. Rubinstein, R. L. (S '68)

Religious life. See Monasticism and religious orders

Religious literature

Gersh, H. Sacred books of the Jews. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Religious poetry

Miller, V. Onions and roses. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Reluctant medium. Davies, L. P. (Ap '68)

Reluctant prophet. Logan, D. (O '68)

Remarkable chameleon. Hess, L. (S '68)

Rembrandt Hermanszoon van Rijn

Hind, A. M. Catalogue of Rembrandt's etchings, 2v in 1. (S '68)

Reminiscences of affection. Gollancz, V. (D '68)

Reminiscences of the Cuban revolutionary war. Guevara, E. (Je '68)

Remnants of power. Walton, R. J. (D '68)

Renaissance

Aston, M. Fifteenth century: the prospect of Europe. (Ag '68)

Denieul-Cormier, A. Time of glory. (My '68)

Singleton, C. S., ed. Art, science, and history in the renaissance. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Dictionaries

Schweitzer, F. M., ed. Dictionary of the renaissance. (Je '68)

Renaissance and baroque music. Blume, F. (D '68)

Renaissance medals: from the Samuel H. Kress collection at the National gallery of art [rev & enl]. United States. National gallery of art. (My '68)

Renoir, Pierre Auguste

Hanson, L. Renoir: the man, the painter, and his world. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Renoir: the man, the painter, and his world. Hanson, L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Reply to Claude Lefort. Sartre, J. P. (With his The Communists and peace). 2pts in 1. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Report from Iron Mountain on the possibility and desirability of peace. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Reporters and reporting

Overseas press club of America. How I got that story. (Ap '68)

Wood, W. A. Electronic journalism. (S '68)

Juvenile literature

Gordon, G. N. On-the-spot reporting. (Mr '68)

Representative government and representation

Pitkin, H. F. Concept of representation. (Ag '68)

Pole, J. R. Political representation in England and the origins of the American republic. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Reproduction

Gasking, E. B. Investigations into generation, 1651-1828. (N '68)

Smith, A. Body. (D '68)

Juvenile literature

Showers, P. Before you were a baby. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Republic of childhood. Egoff, S. (O '68)

Republican establishment. Hess, S. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Republican papers. Laird, M. R., ed. (O '68)

Republican party

Bailey, T. A. Democrats vs. Republicans. (S '68)

Republican party—Continued

- Cosman, B., ed. Republican politics. (Ag '68)
 Evans, F. B. Pennsylvania politics, 1872-1877: a study in political leadership. (My '68)
 Evans, M. S. Future of conservatism. (S '68)
 Hess, S. Republican establishment. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Kessel, J. H. Goldwater coalition. (D '68)
 Montgomery, D. Beyond equality. (S '68)
 Scott, H. Come to the party. (My '68)
 Thimmesch, N. Condition of Republicanism. (S '68)
 Viorst, M. Fall from grace. (Ag '68)

History

- Holt, J. Congressional insurgents and the party system, 1909-1916. (My '68)
 Republican politics. Cosman, B., ed. (Ag '68)
 Requiem, Robertson, A. (S '68)
 Requiem for a princess. Arthur, R. M. (Mr '68)
 Rescue work

Juvenile literature

- Soule, G. Sea rescue. (Mr '68)

Research

- Orlans, H., ed. Science policy and the university. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Pelz, D. C. Scientists in organizations. (Ap '68)
 Science in progress: sixteenth series, 1964-1966. (Ag '68)
 Research materials in South Carolina. Moore, J. H., ed. (N '68)
 Resistance. Bidault, G. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Resistance to government. See Government.
 Resistance to innovation in higher education. Evans, R. I. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Resnais, Alain

- Ward, J. Alain Resnais, or The theme of time. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Responsibility

- Fingarette, H. On responsibility. (N '68)
 Responsibility of power. Krieger, L., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Restif de la Bretonne, Nicolas Edme

- Porter, C. A. Restif's novels. (Ap '68)
 Restif de la Bretonne, N. E. Monsieur Nicolas. (Mr '68)

Restif's novels, Porter, C. A. (Ap '68)

- Restless American. Powell, T. (Ag '68)
 Restoration dramatists. Miner, E., ed. (Ap '68)
 Restored House of Lords. Schoenfeld, M. P. (My '68)

Restructuring religious life, Berkery, P. J. (Ag '68)

- Resurrection of Israel. Latour, A. (Ag '68)
 Rethinking German policy. Schütz, W. W. (O '68)

Retraining, Occupational. See Occupational retraining

- Retraining the work force. Hoos, I. R. (S '68)
 Retreat from China. Clifford, N. R. (Ag '68)
 Retreat from Moscow. Deiderfeld, R. F. (Ap '68)

Return of the vanishing American, Fiedler, L. A. (Ag '68)*Return to Winesburg, Anderson, S. (Je '68)*Revelation

- Schillebeeckx, E. Revelation and theology. (Je '68)
 Revelation and theology. Schillebeeckx, E. (Jm '68)

Revell, Viljo

- Alander, K., ed. Viljo Revell: works and projects. (My '68)
 Reverend Samuel Davies abroad. Davies, S. (Ag '68)

Revolt in Judea: the road to Masada, Tamarin, A. H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)*Revolt in Southern Rhodesia, 1896-97, Ranger, T. O. (Je '68)*Revolution and counterrevolution, Lipset, S. M. (O '68)

- Revolution in learning. Pines, M. (Mr '68)
 Revolution in the revolution? Debray, R. (Mr '68)

Revolution of hope, Fromm, E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)*Revolution of the dons, Rothblatt, S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)*Revolutionary personality, Wolfenstein, E. V. (1967, 1968 Annual)*Revolutionary politics and the Cuban working class, Zeitlin, M. (O '68)*Revolutionary Russia, Pipes, R., ed. (Ag '68)*Revolutionary silhouettes, Lunacharsky, A. V. (D '68)*Revolutions

- Barnet, R. J. Intervention and revolution. (N '68)
 Leiden, C., ed. Politics of violence. (O '68)
 Sanger, R. H. Insurgent era. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Rex, Stranger, J. (Ag '68)*Reynard the Fox, Varty, K. (O '68)*Rhetoric

- Croll, M. W. Style, rhetoric, and rhythm. (Ag '68)
 Steinmann, M., ed. New rhetorics. (Ap '68)
 Welsh, J. J. Speech writing guide. (Ag '68)

Rhode Island*Politics and government

- Goodman, J. S. Democrats and labor in Rhode Island, 1952-1962. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Rhodesia

- Barber, J. Rhodesia: the road to rebellion. (Ag '68)
 Kaula, E. M. Land and people of Rhodesia. (My '68)

Social life and customs

- Crawford, J. R. Witchcraft and sorcery in Rhodesia. (O '68)

Rhodesia, Southern*History

- Ranger, T. O. Revolt in Southern Rhodesia, 1896-97. (Je '68)

Native races

- Ranger, T. O. Revolt in Southern Rhodesia, 1896-97. (Je '68)

Politics and government

- Bull, T., ed. Rhodesia: crisis of color. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Race relations

- Bull, T., ed. Rhodesia: crisis of color. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Rhodesia: crisis of color. Bull, T., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Rhodesia: the road to rebellion, Barber, J. (Ag '68)*Rhodesian perspective, Eng title of: Rhodesia: crisis of color, Bull, T., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)*Rhubarb in the catbird seat, Barber, R. (Ag '68)*Rhyming Will, Reeves, J. (S '68)*Ribs of death, Zimmer, P. (S '68)*Rich and the super-rich, Lundberg, F. (O '68)*Richard I, King of England*Fiction

- Haycraft, M. C. My lord brother the Lion heart. (Ag '68)

Richard Wagner's visit to Rossini (Paris 1860), Michotte, E. (N '68)*Riddle of gravitation, Bergmann, P. G. (S '68)*Right and left (Political science)*Kennan, G. F. Democracy and the student left, (N '68)*Redekop, J. H. American far right, (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)*Thayer, G. Farther shores of politics, (Mr '68)*Periodicals*Bibliography*Muller, R. H., ed. From radical left to extreme right, (My '68)*Right & wrong, Weiss, P. (Ap '68)*Right people, Birmingham, S. (Ag '68)*Righteousness of the kingdom, Rauschenbusch, W. (D '68)*Rights and wrongs in the Arab-Israeli conflict, Arnoni, M. S. (S '68)*Rights of the mentally ill, Farmer, R. A. (S '68)*Rijksmuseum, Amsterdam, Meijer, E. R. (Ap '68)*Riklis, Meshulam*Schisgal, O. Magic of mergers, (Ag '68)*Ring of fire, v 1, Dodd, E. See his A pictorial peregrination through the shapely and harmonious, often enigmatical, sometimes shocking realms of Polynesian art, (Ap '68)*Ring resounding, Culshaw, J. (Mr '68)*Riots*Bernstein, S. Alternatives to violence, (Ag '68)*Sauter, V. G. Nightmare in Detroit, (N '68)*Wills, G. Second civil war, (Ag '68)*Ripley, George*Crowe, C. George Ripley, (D '68)*Rise and decline of the cold war, Seabury, P. (Je '68)*Rise and fall of American humor, Bier, J. (My '68)*Rise and fall of the well-made play, Taylor, J. R. (Mr '68)*Rise of anthropological theory, Harris, M. (N '68)

- Rise of children's book reviewing in America, 1865-1881. Darling, R. L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Rise of fascism. Carsten, F. L. (Mr '68)
- Rise of moralism. Allison, C. F. (Ag '68)
- Rise of Ronald Reagan. Boyarsky, B. (Ag '68)
- Ristori, Adelaide
Knepler, H. Gilded stage. (D '68)
- Rites and ceremonies
Firth, R. Tikopia ritual and belief. (N '68)
Firth, R. Work of the gods in Tikopia [2d ed]. (N '68)
- Ritual. See Rites and ceremonies.
- River plains and sea coasts. Russell, R. J. (Ag '68)
- River that God forgot. Collier, R. (Je '68)
- Rivers
Juvenile literature
Carlisle, N. True book of rivers. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Rivers of blood, years of darkness. Conot, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Road from Tooml. Wibberley, L. (My '68)
- Road goes ever on. Swann, D. (Je '68)
- Road to Jerusalem. Laqueur, W. (Ag '68)
- Road to revolution. Mishark, J. W. (Ag '68)
- Road to war, 1967. Eng title of: The road to Jerusalem. Laqueur, W. (Ag '68)
- Roads
Von Hagen, V. W. Roads that led to Rome. (Mr '68)
Juvenile literature
Saunders, F. W. Machines for you. (My '68)
- Roads that led to Rome. Von Hagen, V. W. (Mr '68)
- Robbers and outlaws
Juvenile literature
Rennert, V. P. Western outlaws. (O '68)
- Robert Browning: a study of his poetry. Blackburn, T. (Mr '68)
- Robert Browning and his world, v 1. Ward, M. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Robert Browning's moral-aesthetic theory, 1833-1855. Collins, T. J. (Mr '68)
- Robert de Montesquiou: fin-de-siècle prince. Eng title of: Prince of aesthetes: Count Robert de Montesquiou, 1855-1921. Julian, P. (Ap '68)
- Robin Hood
Juvenile literature
Serrailier, I. Robin in the greenwood. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Robin in the greenwood. Serrailier, I. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Robinson, Brooks
Zanger, J. Brooks Robinson story. (Mr '68)
- Robinson, Edwin Arlington
Anderson, W. L. Edwin Arlington Robinson. (S '68)
- Robinson, W. R. Edwin Arlington Robinson. (O '68)
- Robinson, Frank
Robinson, F. My life is baseball. (Ag '68)
- Robots
Cote, A. J. Search for the robots. (S '68)
- Robots, men and minds. Bertalanffy, L. von. (My '68)
- Rochelle, Slavitt, D. (Mr '68)
- Rock art of Texas Indians. Newcomb, W. W. (Ap '68)
- Rock art of the American Indian. Grant, C. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Rock baby. Eng title of: Bush baby. Woodhouse, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Rockefeller Foundation
Penfield, W. Difficult art of giving. (Mr '68)
- Stakman, E. C. Campaigns against hunger. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Rocketry
Ley, W. Rockets, missiles, and men in space. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Rockets, missiles, and men in space. Ley, W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Rockies. Lavender, D. (Ag '68)
- Rocky Mountain journals of William Marshall Anderson: the West in 1834. Anderson, W. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Rocky Mountain mining camps. Smith, D. A. (Ag '68)
- Rocky Mountain West in 1867. Simonin, L. L. (Je '68)
- Rocky Mountains
Anderson, W. M. Rocky Mountain journals of William Marshall Anderson: the West in 1834. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Lavender, D. Rockies. (Ag '68)
- Point, N. Wilderness kingdom. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Rodin, Auguste
Descharnes, R. Auguste Rodin. (Ap '68)
- Roethke, Theodore
Roethke, T. Selected letters of Theodore Roethke. (N '68)
- Seager, A. Glass house. (D '68)
- Roger Sherman and the independent oil men. Destler, C. M. (Je '68)
- Rogers, John
Wallace, D. H. John Rogers. (Ap '68)
- Rogers, Woodes
Juvenile literature
Poling, J. Man who saved Robinson Crusoe. (Je '68)
- Roland the minstrel pig. Steig, W. (N '68)
- Role of the Chinese army. Gittings, J. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Role of the state legislatures in the Confederacy. Ringold, M. S. (Ap '68)
- Rolland, Romain
Strauss, R. Richard Strauss & Romain Rolland: correspondence. (D '68)
- Jean-Christophe
Sices, D. Music and the musician in Jean-Christophe. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Rolls-Royce automobile
Dalton, L. Those elegant Rolls-Royce. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Roman and early Byzantine portrait sculpture in Asia minor. Inan, J. (Mr '68)
- Roman antiquities. See Rome—Antiquities
- Roman colonies in Southern Asia Minor. Levick, B. M. (Ap '68)
- Roman imperial art in Greece and Asia Minor. Vermeule, C. C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Romance literature
History and criticism
Curley, D. N., comp. Modern Romance literatures. (Ap '68)
- Romania. Berciu, D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Romania before Burebista. Eng title of: Romania. Berciu, D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Romantic mythologies. Fletcher, I., ed. (Ag '68)
- Romantic period; v2 of Water-colour painting in Britain. Hardie, M. (O '68)
- Romanticism
Gérard, A. S. English romantic poetry. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Schenk, H. G. Mind of the European romantics. (Mr '68)
- Romanticism in music
Abraham, G. Slavonic and romantic music. (O '68)
- Romantics at school. Marples, M. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Rome
Antiquities
Von Hagen, V. W. Roads that led to Rome. (Mr '68)
- Biography
Juvenile literature
Cottrell, L. Great leaders of Greece and Rome. (My '68)
- Civilization
Grant, M. Climax of Rome. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Haywood, R. M. Ancient Rome. (D '68)
- Sherwin-White, A. N. Racial prejudice in Imperial Rome. (O '68)
- Vogt, J. Decline of Rome. (Ag '68)
- History
Haywood, R. M. Ancient Rome. (D '68)
- Sources
Dudley, D. R., ed & tr. Urbs Roma. (Ap '68)
- Republic, 510-30 B.C.
Gelzer, M. Caesar: politician and statesman. (S '68)
- Hutchinson, L. Conspiracy of Catiline. (Mr '68)
- Empire, 30B.C.-476A.D.
Coster, C. H. Late Roman studies. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Grant, M. Climax of Rome. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Vogt, J. Decline of Rome. (Ag '68)
- Moral conditions
Earl, D. Moral and political tradition of Rome. (My '68)
- Politics and government
Astin, A. E. Scipio Aemilianus. (Ag '68)
- Earl, D. Moral and political tradition of Rome. (My '68)

Rome—Continued

Social conditions

Crook, J. Law and life of Rome. (Ag '68)
(1967 Annual)

Rome (City)

Antiquities

Dudley, D. R., ed. & tr. Urbs Roma. (Ap '68)
Giannelli, G. World of ancient Rome. (Mr '68)

Churches

Oakeshott W. Mosaics of Rome. (Ag '68)

Description

Guide books

Mertz, R. Two thousand years in Rome. (Je '68)

History

Mertz, R. Two thousand years in Rome. (Je '68)

Rome fell today. Adleman, R. H. (Ag '68)

Romilly, Joseph

Romilly, J. Romilly's Cambridge diary, 1832-42. (My '68)

Romilly's Cambridge diary, 1832-42. Romilly, J. (My '68)

Romney, George W.

Harris, T. G. Romney's way. (Ap '68)

Romney's way. Harris, T. G. (Ap '68)

Röntgen, Wilhelm Conrad

Juvenile literature

Esterer, A. K. Discoverer of X ray, Wilhelm Conrad Röntgen. (O '68)

Rooftop mystery. Lexau, J. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Rook takes knight. Palmer, S. (D '68)

Room 39. McLachlan, D. (O '68)

Roosevelt, Eleanor (Roosevelt)

Hareven, T. K. Eleanor Roosevelt: an American conscience. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Kearney, J. R. Anna Eleanor Roosevelt. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Roosevelt, Franklin Delano

Baker, L. Back to back. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Daniels, J. Washington quadrille. (O '68)

Moscow, W. Roosevelt and Willkie. (D '68)

Nash, G. D., ed. Franklin Delano Roosevelt. (Ag '68)

Parment, H. S. Never again. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Roosevelt, F. D. Roosevelt and Frankfurter. (Mr '68)

Tugwell, R. G. Brains Trust. (O '68)

Wann, A. J. President as chief administrator. (N '68)

Roosevelt, Theodore

Keller, M., comp. Theodore Roosevelt. (Ag '68)

Neu, C. E. Uncertain friendship. (Ag '68)

Roosevelt and Frankfurter. Roosevelt, F. D. (Mr '68)

Roosevelt and Willkie. Moscow, W. (D '68)

Roosevelt family

Roosevelt, P. P. I love ■ Roosevelt. (Ap '68)

Rorem, Ned

Rorem, N. Music and people. (D '68)

Rose, Alexander

Rose, A. Memoirs of a heterosexual. (My '68)

Rose, Billy

Conrad, E. Billy Rose, Manhattan primitive. (Ap '68)

Gottlieb, P. R. Nine lives of Billy Rose. (Ag '68)

Rose of solitude. Antoninus, Brother. (Mr '68)

Rose window. Blanc, S. (Je '68)

Roseanna. Sjöwall, M. (O '68)

Rosenberg, William Samuel. See Rose, B.

Rosie's walk. Hutchins, P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Roskolenko, Harry

Roskolenko, H. Terrorized. (D '68)

Ross, Harold Wallace

Grant, J. Ross, The New Yorker and me. (My '68)

Ross, The New Yorker and me. Grant, J. (My '68)

Rossini, Gioacchino Antonio

Michotte, E. Richard Wagner's visit to Rossini (Paris 1860). (N '68)

Weinstock, H. Rossini. (Ap '68)

Rosy is my relative. Durrell, G. (Ag '68)

Rousseau, Jean Jacques

Blanchard, W. H. Rousseau and the spirit of revolt. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Crocker, L. G. Jean-Jacques Rousseau, v 1. (D '68)

Einaudi, M. Early Rousseau. (O '68)

Ellis, M. B. Rousseau's Venetian story. (Je '68)

Masters, R. D. Political philosophy of Rousseau. (N '68)

Rousseau and the spirit of revolt. Blanchard, W. H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Rousseau's Venetian story. Ellis, M. B. (Je '68)

Royal museum, Brussels. Hulst, R. A. d'. (Ag '68)

Royal society: concept and creation. Purver, M. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Royal Society of London

Purver, M. Royal society: concept and creation. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Rubalyat of Omar Khayaam, Original. Omar Khayaam. (Ag '68)

Rubber industry and trade

Collier, R. River that God forgot. (Je '68)

Rubbings

Andrew, L. Creative rubbings. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Rubens, Sir Peter Paul

Wedgwood, C. V. World of Rubens, 1577-1640. (Ap '68)

Ruby, Jack

Wills, G. Jack Ruby. (Ap '68)

Rule of law and the role of psychiatry. Polier, J. W. (D '68)

Rule of three. Eng title of: Great duchess. Butler, I. (Ag '68)

Rumania

Antiquities

Berclu, D. Romania. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Economic conditions

Montias, J. M. Economic development in communist Rumania. (N '68)

History

Fischer-Galati, S. New Rumania. (My '68)

Politics and government

Fischer-Galati, S. New Rumania. (My '68)

Rumor

Shibutani, T. Improvised news. (Mr '68)

Runaway world? Leach, E. (O '68)

Running to paradise. Yeats, W. B. (D '68)

Ruskin, Euphemia Chalmers

Lutyens, M. Millais and the Ruskins. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Ruskin, John

Lutyens, M. Millais and the Ruskins. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Stein, R. B. John Ruskin and aesthetic thought in America, 1840-1900. (O '68)

Russ, Martin

Russ, M. Happy hunting ground. (Je '68)

Russell, Bertrand Arthur William Russell, 3d Earl

Pears, D. F. Bertrand Russell and the British tradition in philosophy. (My '68)

Russell, B. Autobiography of Bertrand Russell, 1872-1914. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Russell, B. Autobiography of Bertrand Russell, 1914-1944, v2. (Ag '68)

Schoenman, R., ed. Bertrand Russell: philosopher of the century (Mr '68)

Russia

Vladimirov, L. Russians. (D '68)

Armed forces

Kolkowicz, R. Soviet military and the communist party. (My '68)

Mackintosh, M. Juggernaut. (S '68)

Church history

Bourdeaux, M. Religious ferment in Russia. (Ag '68)

Fedotov, G. P. Russian religious mind, 2v. (Mr '68)

Struve, N. Christians in contemporary Russia [2d rev and augmented ed]. (Ag '68)

Civilization

MacMaster, R. E. Danilevsky. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Masaryk, T. G. Spirit of Russia, v3. (Ag '68)

Commercial policy

Granick, D. Soviet metal-fabricating and economic development. (Je '68)

Description and travel

Gregory, J. S. Russian land, Soviet people. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Koningsberger, H. Along the roads of the new Russia. (D '68)

Pounds, N. J. G. Europe and the Soviet Union [2d ed]. (Mr '68)

Rothschild, P. de. Irrational journey. (S '68)

Juvenile literature

Lawrence, J. Soviet Russia. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Economic conditions

Blackwell, W. L. Beginnings of Russian industrialization, 1800-1860. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Granick, D. Soviet metal-fabricating and economic development. (Je '68)

Economic policy

Bor, M. Aims and methods of Soviet planning. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Conquest, R., ed. Soviet nationalities policy in practice. (Ap '68)

Dobb, M. H. Papers on capitalism, development and planning. (S '68)

Felker, J. L. Soviet economic controversies. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Hardt, J. P., ed. Mathematics and computers in Soviet economic planning. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Pintner, W. M. Russian economic policy under Nicholas I. (My '68)

Zaleski, E. Planning reforms in the Soviet union, 1962-1966. (O '68)

Foreign opinion

Margulies, S. R. Pilgrimage to Russia. (N '68)

Foreign relations

Berzins, A. Two faces of co-existence. (Je '68)

McSherry, J. E. Stalin, Hitler, and Europe, v 1. (Ag '68)

Ramundo, B. A. Peaceful coexistence. (Je '68)

Ulam, A. B. Expansion and coexistence. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

China

Sladkovskii, M. I. History of economic relations between Russia and China. (Ag '68)

Great Britain

Maisky, I. Memoirs of a Soviet ambassador. (Ag '68)

Ullman, R. H. Anglo-Soviet relations, 1917-1921, v2. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Serbia

MacKenzie, D. Serbs and Russian pan-slavism, 1875-1878. (Je '68)

United States

Copp, D. S. Incident at Boris Gleb. (My '68)

Druks, H. Harry S. Truman and the Russians, 1945-1953. (Ap '68)

Farnsworth, B. William C. Bullitt and the Soviet Union. (Mr '68)

Feis, H. Contest over Japan. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Fontaine, A. History of the cold war. (Ag '68)

History

Alliluyeva, A. Alliluyev memoirs. (Ag '68)

Dukes, P. Catherine the Great and the Russian nobility. (N '68)

Fennell, J. L. I. Emergence of Moscow, 1304-1359. (Ag '68)

Howes, R. C., ed. & tr. Testaments of the Grand Princes of Moscow. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Kaplan, H. H. Russia and the outbreak of the Seven years' war. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Massie, R. K. Nicholas and Alexandra. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Raeff, M. Decembrist movement. (Mr '68)

Seton-Watson, H. Russian empire, 1801-1917. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Juvenile literature

Lawrence, J. Soviet Russia. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

1917-

Deutscher, I. Unfinished revolution, Russia, 1917-1967. (1967, 1968 Annual)

50 years of Soviet power. (Je '68)

Grey, L. First fifty years. (Mr '68)

Impact of the Russian Revolution, 1917-1967. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Ulam, A. B. Expansion and coexistence. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

1917- —Juvenile literature

Columbia broadcasting system, incorporated. CBS News. Lenin and Trotsky. (Ag '68)

Revolution, 1917-1921

Almedingen, E. M. Tomorrow will come. (D '68)

Daniels, R. V. Red October. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Foner, P. S. Bolshevik revolution. (Ag '68)

Gorky, M. Untimely thoughts. (Je '68)

Lockhart, R. H. B. Two revolutions. (S '68)

Pipes, R., ed. Revolutionary Russia. (Ag '68)

Rabinowitch, A. Prelude to revolution. (N '68)

Revolution, 1917-1921—Juvenile literature

Horizon magazine. Russia in revolution. (My '68)

Revolution, 1917-1921—Personal narratives

Lunacharsky, A. V. Revolutionary silhouettes. (D '68)

1925-1953

Conquest, R. Great terror. (D '68)

Rigby, T. H., ed. Stalin. (Ap '68)

History, Military

Mackintosh, M. Juggernaut. (S '68)

Industries

Blackwell, W. L. Beginnings of Russian industrialization, 1800-1860. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Granick, D. Soviet metal-fabricating and economic development. (Je '68)

Intellectual life

Markham, J. W. Voices of the Red giants. (Ag '68)

Mihajlov, M. Russian themes. (Ag '68)

Wortman, R. Crisis of Russian populism. (O '68)

Kings and rulers

Howes, R. C., ed. & tr. Testaments of the Grand Princes of Moscow. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Rice, T. T. Czars and czarinas of Russia. (O '68)

Law

See Law—Russia

Politics and government

Howes, R. C., ed. & tr. Testaments of the Grand Princes of Moscow. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Miliukov, P. Political memoirs, 1905-1917. (Ag '68)

Tompkins, S. R. Triumph of Bolshevism. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Wortman, R. Crisis of Russian populism. (O '68)

1917-

Conquest, R., ed. Soviet political system. (O '68)

Nettl, J. P. Soviet achievement. (Mr '68)

1925-1953

Margulies, S. R. Pilgrimage to Russia. (N '68)

1953-

Armstrong, J. A. Ideology, politics, and government in the Soviet Union [rev ed]. (Ap '68)

Kassof, A., ed. Prospects for Soviet society. (N '68)

Kolkowicz, R. Soviet military and the communist party. (My '68)

Race relations

Goldhagen, E., ed. Ethnic minorities in the Soviet Union. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Relations (general)

Impact of the Russian Revolution, 1917-1967. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Religion

Bennigsen, A. Islam in the Soviet Union. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Conquest, R., ed. Religion in the U.S.S.R. (Ag '68)

Social conditions1917-

Nettl, J. P. Soviet achievement. (Mr '68)

1945-

Kassof, A., ed. Prospects for Soviet society. (N '68)

Russia and Britain in Persia, 1864-1914. Kazemzadeh, F. (Ag '68)

Russia and the outbreak of the Seven years' war. Kaplan, H. H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Russia in revolution. Horizon magazine. (My '68)

Russian anarchists. Avrich, P. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Russian composers. Posell, E. Z. (Ag '68)

Russian economic policy under Nicholas I. Pintner, W. M. (My '68)

Russian empire, 1801-1917. Seton-Watson, H. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Russian land, Soviet people. Gregory, J. S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Russian literature

Maguire, R. A. Red virgin soil. (O '68)

Bio-bibliography

Mihajlov, M. Russian themes. (Ag '68)

Collections

Segel, H. B., ed. & tr. Literature of eighteenth-century Russia, 2v. (My '68)

Juvenile literature

Morton, M., ed. Harvest of Russian children's literature. (1967, 1968 Annual)

History and criticism

Lindstrom, T. S. Concise history of Russian literature, v 1. (Mr '68)

Mersereau, J. Baron Delvig's Northern flowers, 1825-1832. (N '68)

Segel, H. B., ed. & tr. Literature of eighteenth-century Russia, 2v. (My '68)

Russian political thought, Anderson, T. (Ap '68)

Russian religious mind, 2v. Fedotov, G. P. (Mr '68)

Russian themes, Mihajlov, M. (Ag '68)

Russians. Vladimirov, L. (D '68)

Russians and Berlin, 1945. Kuby, E. (S '68)

Russo-Chinese War. Lensen, G. A. (Ag '68)

SST plane of tomorrow. Jacobs, L. (Mr '68)

Sabbath

Rordorf, W. Sunday. (N '68)

Sacha Guitry: the last boulevardier. Harding, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Sacred books of the Jews. Gersh, H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Sacred canopy. Berger, P. L. (My '68)

Sacrifice

Bakan, D. Disease, pain, & sacrifice. (S '68)

Safety education*Juvenile literature

Bendick, J. Emergency book. (Mr '68)

Longman, H. Watch out! (O '68)

Safety in the air. Allward, M. (Ag '68)

Sahajiyā

Dimock, E. C. Place of the hidden moon. (Je '68)

Sail, Calypso! Jones, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Sailing

Chichester, F. Gipsy Moth circles the world. (My '68)

Juvenile literature

Weiss, H. Sailing small boats. (Je '68)

Sailing small boats. Weiss, H. (Je '68)

St Bernard dogs

Hürlimann, B. Barry. (S '68)

St Croix Trail country. Purcell, W. G. (Ap '68)

Saint-Denis, France. Eglise abbatiale de Saint-Denis

Juvenile literature

Rockwell, A. Glass, stones & crown. (Ag '68)

St Francis of Assisi. Boase, T. S. R. (N '68)

Saint George. Miller, K. (Je '68)

St John's university, New York

Scimecca, J. Crisis at St John's. (N '68)

Saint Louis: Louis IX, most Christian King of France. Labarge, M. W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Saint Patrick. Hanson, R. P. C. (Ag '68)

Saints

Albertson, C., ed. & tr. Anglo-Saxon saints and heroes. (Ap '68)

Sakhalin

Chekhov, A. Island. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Salads

Froud, N. World book of hors-d'oeuvre and salads. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Truax, C. Art of salad making. (N '68)

Salamanders*Juvenile literature

George, J. C. Moon of the salamanders. (Mr '68)

Salmon

Netboy, A. Atlantic salmon: a vanishing species? (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Salt*Juvenile literature

Kraske, R. Crystals of life. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Salisbury, Connecticut

Rand, C. Changing landscape. (Je '68)

Salvage

Rackl, H.-W. Diving into the past. (O '68)

Salvation

Orr, R. R. Reason and authority. (N '68)

Salzburg connection. MacInnes, H. (N '68)

Sam Houston with the Cherokees, 1829-1833.

Gregory, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Sam Johnson's boy. Steinberg, A. (O '68)

Samnites

Salmon, E. T. Samnium and the Samnites. (Je '68)

Samnium and the Samnites. Salmon, E. T. (Je '68)

Samoa

Hoyt, E. P. Typhoon that stopped a war. (S '68)

Sampson, Deborah. See Gannett, D. S.

Sandburg, Carl

Haas, J. Carl Sandburg. (Je '68)

Sandburg, C. Letters of Carl Sandburg. (D '68)

Sands of valor. Wagner, G. (Ap '68)

Sandstorm. Kimche, D. (N '68)

Sandulescu, Jacques

Sandulescu, J. Donbas. (Je '68)

Sandy. Hyde, D. O. (Ag '68)

San Francisco*Social conditions

Von Hoffman, N. We are the people our parents warned us against. (Ag '68)

Sanity and survival. Frank, J. D. (Ap '68)

Sanskrit poetry

Bhartrihari. Bhartrihari: poems. (Ap '68)

Santa Claus*Poetry

Nash, O. Santa go home. (Mr '68)

Santa Fe Trail

Oliva, L. E. Soldiers on the Santa Fe trail. (Je '68)

Santa go home. Nash, O. (Mr '68)

Santee Indians

Meyer, R. W. History the Santee Sioux. (N '68)

Sarton, May

Sarton, M. Plant dreaming deep. (Ap '68)

Sartre, Jean Paul

Burnier, M. A. Choice of action. (O '68)

Molnar, T. Sartre: ideologue of our time. (D '68)

Sartre, ideologue of our time. Molnar, T. (D '68)

Sassoon, Vidal

Sassoon, V. Sorry I kept you waiting, madam. (Ag '68)

Sassoon family

Jackson, S. Sassoons. (Ag '68)

Sassoons. Jackson, S. (Ag '68)

Satan in the Old Testament. Kluger, R. S. (Ag '68)

Satire

Caldwell, T. Dialogues with the devil. (N '68)

Satire, American

Bierce, A. Enlarged Devil's dictionary. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Report from Iron Mountain on the possibility and desirability of peace. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Satire, German

Tucholsky, K. What if—? (N '68)

Satire and the novel in eighteenth-century England. Paulson, R. (Mr '68)

Satirical rogue on poetry. Francis, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Saturday in Pudney. Brown, R. (Ag '68)

Satyricon of Petronius. Sullivan, J. P. (O '68)

Saugus Iron Works*Juvenile literature

Clarke, M. S. Pioneer iron works. (D '68)

Saul Bellow and the critics. Malin, I., comp. (Mr '68)

Saul Bellow: in defense of man. Clayton, J. J. (S '68)

Save the children fund

Wilson, F. M. Rebel daughter of a country house. (N '68)

Savoy*History

Cox, E. L. Green Count of Savoy. (O '68)

Scandinavia*Antiquities

Davidson, H. R. E. Pagan Scandinavia. (Je '68)

Oxenstierna, E. G. World of the Norsemen. (S '68)

Scanning the business environment. Aguilar, F. J. (Ag '68)

Scarlet Pimpernel of the Vatican. Gallagher, J. P. (Je '68)

- Schaffner, Neil E.
Schaffner, N. E. Fabulous Toby and me. (Ag '68)
Scheler, Max Ferdinand
Staude, J. R. Max Scheler, 1874-1928. (My '68)

- Schiller, Ferdinand Canning Scott
Winetrou, K. F. C. S. Schiller, and the dimension of pragmatism. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Schizophrenia
Cooper, D. Psychiatry and anti-psychiatry. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Hennell, T. Witnesses. (Ag '68)
Wilson, L. This stranger, my son. (Je '68)
Schliemann, Heinrich

Juvenile literature

- Baumann, H. Lion gate and labyrinth. (Ag '68)

- Schmid, Charles Howard
Moser, D. Pied piper of Tucson. (Mr '68)

- Schneiderman, Rose
Schneiderman, R. All for one. (Ag '68)

Scholasticism

- Worland, S. T. Scholasticism and welfare economics. (Mr '68)
Scholasticism and welfare economics. Worland, S. T. (Mr '68)

School assembly programs

- Krarup, A. comp. School day begins [3d ed]. (Ap '68)

- School at the frontier. Ottlik, G. (Mr '68)
School children in the urban slum. Roberts, J. I., ed. (My '68)

- School day begins [3d ed]. Krarup, A., comp. (Ap '68)

School discipline

- Moustakas, C. Authentic teacher. (Ap '68)
School of Shakespeare. Frost, D. L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

School psychologists

- Newman, R. G. Psychological consultation in the schools. (Ap '68)
School remembered. Avery, G., ed. (Ag '68)
Schoolmaster (1570). Ascham, R. (Ag '68)
Schoolmaster. Lovelace, E. (D '68)

Schools

United States

- Clark, H. F. Classrooms on Main Street. (Ap '68)

Schrödinger, Erwin

- Scott, W. T. Erwin Schrödinger. (My '68)
Schuman [sic] as critic. Plantinga, L. B. (My '68)

Schumann, Robert Alexander

- Brown, T. A. Aesthetics of Robert Schumann. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Plantinga, L. B. Schuman [sic] as critic. (My '68)

Schütz, Heinrich

- Moser, H. J. Heinrich Schütz. (Ap '68)

Science

- Bertalanffy, L. von. Robots, men and minds. (My '68)
Calder, R. Man and the cosmos. (Ag '68)
Compton, A. H. Cosmos of Arthur Holly Compton. (My '68)
Haskins, C. P., Search for understanding. (Ag '68)
Kapitsa, P. Peter Kapitsa on life and science. (N '68)
Schlegel, R. Completeness in science. (Je '68)
Science in progress: sixteenth series, 1964-1966. (Ag '68)
Taylor, A. M. Imagination and the growth of science. (Ap '68)
Weaver, W. Science and imagination. (Je '68)

Dictionaries

- Harper encyclopedia of science [rev ed]. (Je '68)

Experiments

Juvenile literature

- Complete science course for young experimenters. (Mr '68)
Milgrom, H. Adventures with a straw. (Ap '68)
Pine, T. S. Africans knew. (Ap '68)

History

- Africa, T. W. Science and the state in Greece and Rome. (D '68)
Daniels, G. H. American science in the age of Jackson. (Ag '68)
De Camp, L. S. Story of science in America. (Mr '68)
Koyré, A. Metaphysics and measurement. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Purver, M. Royal society: concept and creation. (1967, 1968 Annual)
Pyke, M. Science century. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Reingold, N., ed. Science in nineteenth-century America. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

- Halacy, D. S. Science and serendipity. (Ap '68)

Methodology

- Levi, I. Gambling with truth. (Ag '68)

Philosophy

- Bachelard, G. Philosophy of no. (D '68)
Bush, V. Science is not enough. (1967, 1968 Annual)
Claude Bernard and experimental medicine. (Ag '68)
Wartofsky, M. W. Conceptual foundations of scientific thought. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Study and teaching

- Stratton, J. A. Science and the educated man. (Je '68)

United States

- Daniels, G. H. American science in the age of Jackson. (Ag '68)
Klaw, S. New brahmins. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Lakoff, S. A., ed. Knowledge and power. (Ap '68)

Science and civilization

- Born, M. My life & my views. (S '68)
Kahn, H. Year 2000. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Pyke, M. Science century. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Science and faith. Rust, E. C. (N '68)
Science and imagination. Weaver, W. (Je '68)
Science and serendipity. Halacy, D. S. (Ap '68)

Science and state

- Africa, T. W. Science and the state in Greece and Rome. (D '68)
Crowther, J. G. Science in modern society. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Greenberg, D. S. Politics of pure science. (Je '68)
Lakoff, S. A., ed. Knowledge and power. (Ap '68)

- Manning, T. G. Government in science. (N '68)
Orlans, H., ed. Science policy and the university. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Reingold, N., ed. Science in nineteenth-century America. (Ag '68)
Ryan, W. L. China cloud. (D '68)

- Science and the concept of race. Mead, M., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Science and the educated man. Stratton, J. A. (Je '68)

- Science and the mass media. Kriegbaum, H. (Ap '68)

- Science and the state in Greece and Rome. Africa, T. W. (D '68)

Science as a profession

- Field, S. Guide to opportunities for education, training, and research in the sciences. (Ag '68)
Klaw, S. New brahmins. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Science century. Pyke, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Science explorer. Archer, J. (Ag '68)

Science fiction (Books about)

History and criticism

- Hillegas, M. R. Future as nightmare. (Mr '68)
Science in modern society. Crowther, J. G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Science in nineteenth-century America. Reingold, N., ed. (Ag '68)
Science in progress: sixteenth series, 1964-1966. (Ag '68)

- Science in utopia. Eurich, N. (Mr '68)

- Science is not enough. Bush, V. (1967, 1968 Annual)

- Science, philosophy, and ESP. McCreery, C. (S '68)

- Science policy and the university. Orlans, H., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Scientific recreations

Juvenile literature

- Webster, D. Crossroad puzzlers. (My '68)

Scientists

- Adams, W., ed. Brain drain. (O '68)
Pelz, D. C. Scientists in organizations. (Ap '68)
Reingold, N., ed. Science in nineteenth-century America. (Ag '68)
Taylor, A. M. Imagination and the growth of science. (Ap '68)

See also

Geographers

Scientists—Continued

Juvenile literature

- Dunsheath, P. Giants of electricity. (My '68)
 Scientists in organizations. Pelz, D. C. (Ap '68)
 Scipio Aemilianus Africanus Minor, Publius Cornelius
 Astin, A. E. Scipio Aemilianus. (Ag '68)
 Scipio Aemilianus. Astin, A. E. (Ag '68)
 Scope of anthropology. Lévi-Strauss, C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Scopes, John Thomas
 De Camp, L. S. Great monkey trial. (Mr '68)
 Scorpions. Kelly, R. (Mr '68)

Scotch

Jackson, W. T. Enterprising Scot. (N '68)

Scotch in the United States

Juvenile literature

Manley, S. My heart's in the heather. (Ag '68)

Scotland

Antiquities

Rivet, A. L. F., ed. Iron age in Northern Britain. (My '68)

Civilization

MacDiarmid, H. Company I've kept. (Je '68)

Commerce

Macmillan, D. S. Scotland and Australia, 1788-1850: emigration, commerce and investment. (Ag '68)

Description and travel

Linklater, E. Scotland. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

History

- Donaldson, G. Scottish kings. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Henderson, I. Picts. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Linklater, E. Survival of Scotland: a new history of Scotland from Roman times to the present day. (Ag '68)

Immigration and emigration

Macmillan, D. S. Scotland and Australia, 1788-1850: emigration, commerce and investment. (Ag '68)

Kings and rulers

Donaldson, G. Scottish kings. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Politics and government

Rae, T. I. Administration of the Scottish frontier. 1513-1603. (Ag '68)

Scotland. Linklater, E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Scotland and Australia, 1788-1850: emigration, commerce and investment. Macmillan, D. S. (Ag '68)

Scott, Sir Walter

Juvenile literature

- Schultz, P. H. Sir Walter Scott: wizard of the North. (Je '68)
 Scott, William Anderson
 Drury, C. M. William Anderson Scott, "no ordinary man." (Ag '68)
 Scottish kings. Donaldson, G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Scottish poetry

Collections

- Scott, T., ed. Late medieval Scots poetry. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Scott's New handbook for philatelists. (Ag '68)
 Scouting with Baden-Powell. Freedman, R. (Ap '68)
 Screen printing. See Silk screen printing
 Scroobious Pip, Edward Lear's. Lear, E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Sculptors

See also

- Brancusi, C.
 Judson, S. S.
 Lipchitz, J.
 Marca-Relli, C.
 Michelangelo Buonarroti
 Noguchi, I.
 Picasso, P.
 Rodin, A.
 Rogers, J.
 Umlauf, C.
 Sculptor's world: Isamu Noguchi. Noguchi, I. (Ag '68)

Sculpture

- Burnham, J. Beyond modern sculpture. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Kultermann, U. New sculpture. (N '68)

History

Licht, F. Sculpture, 19th & 20th centuries. (Mr '68)

Juvenile literature

Paine, R. M. Looking at sculpture. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Technique

Baldwin, J. Contemporary sculpture techniques. (Ap '68)

Sculpture, African

- Meauzé, P. African art. (O '68)
 Plass, M. W. African miniatures. (Ap '68)

Sculpture, American

Exhibitions

Tuchman, M., ed. American sculpture of the sixties. (Mr '68)

Sculpture, British

Stoll, R. Architecture and sculpture in early Britain. (Ap '68)

Sculpture, Byzantine

Inan, J. Roman and early Byzantine portrait sculpture in Asia minor. (Mr '68)

Sculpture, Coptic

Beckwith, J. Coptic sculpture 300-1300. (Ap '68)

Sculpture, Greek

- Grant, J. Pillage of art. (N '68)
 Hanfmann, G. M. A. Classical sculpture. (My '68)
 Richter, G. M. A. Korai. (D '68)
 St Clair, W. Lord Elgin and the marbles. (My '68)

Sculpture, Italian

Pope-Hennessy, J. Essays on Italian sculpture. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Weinberger, M. Michelangelo, 2v. (Ag '68)

Sculpture, Roman

Hanfmann, G. M. A. Classical sculpture. (My '68)

Inan, J. Roman and early Byzantine portrait sculpture in Asia minor. (Mr '68)

Sculpture, 19th & 20th centuries. Licht, F. (Mr '68)

Sculpture of Picasso. Penrose, R. (Je '68)

Scurrying bush. Sweeney, R. C. H. (Mr '68)

Scutari, Zarubica, M. (Mr '68)

Sea brings forth. Rudloe, J. (Ag '68)

Sea dreamers. Heatter, B. (O '68)

Sea inside us: water in the life processes. Brooks, S. M. (N '68)

Sea lions. See Seals (Animals)

Sea poetry

Cole, W., ed. Sea, ships and sailors. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Sea rescue. Soule, G. (Mr '68)

Sea-serpents

Heuvelmans, B. In the wake of the sea-serpents. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Sea, ships and sailors. Cole, W., ed. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Sea songs

Cole, W., ed. Sea, ships and sailors. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Sea warfare, 1939-1945 [rev & enl ed]. Creswell, J. (Mr '68)

Seafaring life

Gann, E. K. Song of the sirens. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

Heatter, B. Sea dreamers. (O '68)

Seals (Animals)

Maxwell, G. Seals of the world. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

Kohn, B. All kinds of seals. (O '68)

Seals of the world. Maxwell, G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Seamen

Langley, H. D. Social reform in the United States navy, 1798-1862. (Mr '68)

Séance. Singer, I. B. (D '68)

Search for Atlantis. Chapin, H. (O '68)

Search for El Dorado. Chapman, W. (Ap '68)

Search for form. Ward, J. A. (Je '68)

Search for identity. Fraser, B. (Ap '68)

Search for the girl with the blue eyes. Stearn, J. (O '68)

Search for the robots. Cote A. J. (S '68)

Search for understanding. Haskins, C. P., ed. (Ag '68)

Seasons

Juvenile literature

- Howell, R. R. Everything changes. (Ag '68)
 Merriam, E. Andy all year round. (Mr '68)

- Seasons of heroes. Davis, P. (Ap '68)
 Seasons of time. Baron, V. O., ed. (Ag '68)
 Seawatchers. Bixby, W. (N '68)
 Sebei law. Goldschmidt, W. (N '68)
 Second civil war. Wills, G. (Ag '68)
 Second life. Morgan, E. (O '68)
 Second rebellion: the story of the New York City draft riots of 1863. McCague, J. (O '68)
 Second window. Maugham, R. (D '68)
 Secret. Lengyel, J. (With his From beginning to end). (Je '68)
 Secret army. Bocca, G. (O '68)
 Secret love. Dryden, J. (In his Works of John Dryden). (Ap '68)
 Secret search for peace in Vietnam. Kraslow, D. (O '68)
Secret service
 Lockhart, R. R. Ace of spies. (Ap '68)
 Wise, D. Espionage establishment. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Secret service [new & rev ed]. Rowan, R. W. (My '68)
Secret societies
 MacKenzie, N., ed. Secret societies. (Je '68)
 Secrets of the Gotha. Diesbach, G. de. (Ag '68)
 Secrets of the nucleus. Levinger, J. S. (Ag '68)
 Sectional stress and party strength. Alexander, T. B. (My '68)
Sects
 Judah, J. S. History and philosophy of the metaphysical movements in America. (Ap '68)
 Leff, G. Heresy in the later middle ages: the relation of heterodoxy to dissent, c. 1250-c. 1450. 2v. (Ag '68)
 Secular congregation. Raines, R. A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Secular priest in the new church. Sloyan, G. S. ed. (Je '68)
 Secular saint. Brockway, A. R. (S '68)
 Secular use of church buildings. Davies, J. G. (N '68)
Secularism
 Adolfs, R. Grave of God. (Mr '68)
 Brockway, A. R. Secular saint. (S '68)
 Loen, A. E. Secularization: science without God? (Ag '68)
 Secularization: science without God? Loen, A. E. (Ag '68)
Securities
 Rolo, C. J., ed. Anatomy of Wall Street. (D '68)
Security, International
 Osgood, R. E. Force, order, and justice. (S '68)
 Seeds of disaster. Laurence, J. (N '68)
 Seeing red. Wolff, R. J. (Ag '68)
Segregation
 Graham, H. D. Crisis in print. (Ag '68)
Segregation in education
 Crain, R. L. Politics of school desegregation. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Damerell, R. G. Triumph in a white suburb. (Ap '68)
 Dentler, R. A. Urban R's: race relations as the problem in urban education. (Ag '68)
 Mack, R. W., ed. Our children's burden. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Wiggins, S. P. Desegregation era in higher education. (Ag '68)
 Wiggins, S. P. Higher education in the South. (Ag '68)
 Seigniorial system in early Canada. Harris, R. G. (Ag '68)
 Selected letters of Theodore Roethke. Roethke, T. (N '68)
 Selected Mark Twain-Howells letters, 1872-1910. Twain, M. (Mr '68)
 Selected papers of E. S. Pearson. Pearson, E. S. (Ag '68)
 Selected poems. Ekelöf, G. (Ap '68)
 Selected poems. Shapiro, K. (O '68)
 Selected poems, 1956-1968. Cohen, L. (O '68)
 Selected works, v3. Unamuno y Jugo, M. de. (D '68)
 Selected works of Cesare Pavese. Pavese, C. (Je '68)
 Selected writings. Supervielle, J. (Je '68)
 Selected writings of Charles Olson. Olson, C. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Selections from the Greek anthology. Greek anthology. (D '68)
 Selective service: conflict and compromise. Marmion, H. A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Self
 Diggory, J. C. Self-evaluation: concepts and studies. (Je '68)
Self-defense
 See also
 Aikido
 Self-devoted friend. Cohen, M. (Ag '68)
 Self-evaluation: concepts and studies. Diggory, J. C. (Je '68)
Self-incrimination
 Levy, L. W. Origins of the Fifth amendment. (O '68)
Selkirk, Alexander
Juvenile literature
 Poling, J. Man who saved Robinson Crusoe. (Je '68)
Semantics
 Barfield, O. Speaker's meaning. (My '68)
 Wagner, G. On the wisdom of words. (Ag '68)
Seminole War, 2d, 1835-1842
 Mahon, J. K. History of the Second Seminole War, 1835-1842. (N '68)
 Señor Kon-Tiki. Jacoby, A. (Mr '68)
 Sense of dark. Malliol, W. (O '68)
 Sense of direction. Fernald, J. (N '68)
 Sense of the present. Phillips, W. (My '68)
Senses and sensation
 Gibson, J. J. Senses considered as perceptual systems. (Ap '68)
 Locke, D. Perception and our knowledge of the external world. (Ag '68)
 Wilentz, J. S. Senses of man. (O '68)
 Senses considered as perceptual systems. Gibson, J. J. (Ap '68)
 Senses of man. Wilentz, J. S. (O '68)
 Separated people. Kahn, E. J. (Ag '68)
Serbia
Foreign relations
 MacKenzie, D. Serbs and Russian pan-slavism, 1875-1878. (Je '68)
 Serbs and Russian pan-slavism, 1875-1878. MacKenzie, D. (Je '68)
 Sergeant in the snow. Rigoni Stern, M. (In the lost legions). (Mr '68)
 Sergei Prokofiev: a Soviet tragedy. Seroff, V. (O '68)
 Serial composition and atonality [2d ed rev & enl]. Perle, G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Serigraphy. See Silk screen printing
 Serpent. Malerba, L. (Ag '68)
Serra, Junipero
Juvenile literature
 Wise, W. E. Fray Junipero Serra and the California conquest. (Ap '68)
Servants
 Du Bois, W. E. B. Philadelphia Negro. (O '68)
 Set in a silver sea. Bryant, A. (S '68)
Seton, Ernest Thompson
 Seton, J. M. By a thousand fires. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Settled in chambers. Tracy, H. (Je '68)
 Settlements to society: 1584-1763. Greene, J. P., ed. (Mr '68)
 Settlers on the Eastern shore, 1607-1750. Scott, J. A. (My '68)
 Seven glorious days, seven fun-filled nights. Sopkin, C. (N '68)
 Seven hours to zero. Marx, J. L. (N '68)
 Seven-ingredients cookbook. Robbins, A. R. (D '68)
 Seven Irish plays, 1946-1964. Hogan, R., ed. (S '68)
 7 plays & how to produce them. Smith, M. R. (D '68)
 Seven worlds of the minister. Kennedy, G. (Je '68)
Seven Years' War, 1756-1763
 Kaplan, H. H. Russia and the outbreak of the Seven years' war. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 1776: journals of American independence. Sanderlin, G., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Seventeenth century
 Erlanger, P. Age of courts and kings. (Ag '68)
 Trevor-Roper, H. R. Crisis of the seventeenth century. (Je '68)
 70 years of best sellers, 1895-1965. Hackett, A. P. (Ap '68)
 Sewell, William Gawan
 Sewell, W. G. I stayed in China. (Ag '68)
Sex
 Baker, E. F. Man in the trap. (N '68)
 Bates, M. Gluttons and libertines. (Ap '68)
 Ellmann, M. Thinking about women. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 McCarv, J. L. Human sexuality. (Ap '68)
 Waller, W. W. Old love and the new. (O '68)

Sex (Psychology)

- Winick, C. New people. (S '68)
 Sex education and the schools. NAIS institute on sex education. 1966 (Ap '68)
 Sex; female; Religion: Catholic. Cunneen, S. (S '68)
 Sex in the adolescent years: new directions in guiding and teaching youth. Rubin, I., ed. (Ag '68)
 Sex instruction
 NAIS institute on sex education. 1966. Sex education and the schools. (Ap '68)
 Pomeroy, W. B. Boys and sex. (Ag '68)
 Rubin, I., ed. Sex in the adolescent years: new directions in guiding and teaching youth. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

- Johnson, E. W. Love and sex in plain language [rev ed]. (S '68)

Sexual disorders

- Croft-Cooke, R. Feasting with panthers. (Je '68)

Sexual ethics

- Callahan, S. Beyond birth control. (N '68)
 Packard, V. Sexual wilderness. (N '68)
 Ryan, M. P. Love and sexuality. (Je '68)

Sexual hygiene

- McCary, J. L. Human sexuality. (Ap '68)
 Sexual wilderness. Packard, V. (N '68)

Seychelles*History

- Sauer, J. D. Plants and man in the Seychelles coast. (Ap '68)
 Sforza, Caterina
 Breisach, E. Caterina Sforza. (Ap '68)
 Shadow children. Ellingson, C. (Ag '68)
 Shadow of me. Olsen, P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Shadow that scares me. Gregory, D. (Ap '68)
 Shadowed faith. Bickham, J. M. (O '68)
 Shadows of the evening. Coward, N. (In his Suite in three keys). (Mr '68)
 Shaftesbury, Anthony Ashley Cooper, 3d Earl of Grean, S. Shaftesbury's philosophy of religion and ethics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual) Shaftesbury's philosophy of religion and ethics. Grean, S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Shakespeare, William
 Frost, D. L. School of Shakespeare. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Grene, D. Reality and the heroic pattern. (N '68)

Biography

- Frye, R. M. Shakespeare's life and times. (Mr '68)

Contemporary England

- Frye, R. M. Shakespeare's life and times. (Mr '68)

Criticism, Interpretation, etc.

- Eagleton, T. Shakespeare and society. (Mr '68)
 Eastman, A. M. Short history of Shakespearean criticism. (O '68)
 Jameson, T. Hidden Shakespeare. (S '68)
 Rabkin, N. Shakespeare and the common understanding. (N '68)

Drama

- Usherwood, S. Shakespeare play by play. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Poetry

- Sipe, D. L. Shakespeare's metrics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Quotations*Juvenile literature

- Hodges, M., ed. Constellation. (S '68)

Religion and ethics

- Knight, G. W. Shakespeare and religion. (Ap '68)

Stage history

- Brown, J. R. Shakespeare's plays in performance. (Mr '68)
 Sterne, R. L. John Gielgud directs Richard Burton in Hamlet. (D '68)
 Styan, J. L. Shakespeare's stagecraft. (Ag '68)

Stage setting and scenery

- Styan, J. L. Shakespeare's stagecraft. (Ag '68)

Technique

- Sipe, D. L. Shakespeare's metrics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Shakespeare, William. Hamlet
 Sterne, R. L. John Gielgud directs Richard Burton in Hamlet. (D '68)

Shakespeare, William. The tempest

- Nuttall, A. D. Two concepts of allegory. (Ap '68)
 Shakespeare and religion. Knight, G. W. (Ap '68)
 Shakespeare and society. Eagleton, T. (Mr '68)
 Shakespeare and the common understanding. Rabkin, N. (N '68)
 Shakespeare play by play. Usherwood, S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Shakespeare's life and times. Frye, R. M. (Mr '68)
 Shakespeare's metrics. Sipe, D. L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Shakespeare's plays in performance. Brown, J. R. (Mr '68)
 Shakespeare's stagecraft. Styan, J. L. (Ag '68)
 Shall we gather at the river. Wright, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Shalom: peace. Haring, B. (Ap '68)
 Shamanism
 Lommel, A. Shamanism. (O '68)
 Shamrock and spear. Pilkington, F. M. (Ag '68)
 Shaping of modern Christian thought. Groff, W. F. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Shaw, George Bernard
 Fromm, H. Bernard Shaw and the theater in the nineties. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

- Coolidge, O. George Bernard Shaw. (S '68)
 Sheper, Rosenthal, I. (My '68)
 Shelley, Percy Bysshe
 Buxton, J. Byron and Shelley. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Crompton, M. Shelley's dream women. (Mr '68)
 Reiter, S. Study of Shelley's poetry. (Je '68)
 Shelley's dream women. Crompton, M. (Mr '68)
 Sheridan, Thomas
 Sheldon, E. K. Thomas Sheridan of Smock-Alley. (Mr '68)
 Sherman, Roger
 Destler, C. M. Roger Sherman and the independent oil men. (Je '68)
 Sherrington, Sir Charles Scott
 Granit, R. Charles Scott Sherrington. (Ag '68)
 Shifts of being. Eberhart, R. (O '68)
 Shining stranger. Harold, F. (S '68)
 Ships
 Armstrong, W. Fire down below. (Ag '68)
 Morrison, J. S. Greek oared ships, 900-322 B.C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

History

- Jobé, J., ed. Great age of sail. (Mr '68)

Pictures, illustrations, etc.

- Hansen, H. J., ed. Art and the seafarer. (D '68)

Shipwrecks*Juvenile literature

- Soule, G. Sea rescue. (Mr '68)
 Shipyard. Onetti, J. C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Shoots of green. Bramblett, E., ed. (Ag '68)
 Shoplifter. Smithies, R. H. R. (O '68)
 Short account of Greek philosophy from Thales to Epicurus. Parker, G. F. (Ag '68)
 Short dictionary of languages. Parlett, D. S. (Ag '68)
 Short history of Chinese communism. Houn, F. W. (My '68)
 Short history of Japan. Nish, I. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Short history of linguistics. Robins, R. H. (O '68)
 Short history of Malta. Blouet, B. (O '68)
 Short history of Shakespearean criticism. Eastman, A. M. (O '68)
 Short history of the Channel Islands. Uttley, J. (Mr '68)
 Short history of the University of Edinburgh, 1556-1889. Horn, D. B. (D '68)
 Short novels of Jack Schaefer. Schaefer, J. (N '68)
 Short poems. Berryman, J. (Je '68)

Short stories*Collections

- Best American short stories. 1967. (D '68)
 Davenport, B., comp. Famous monster tales. (Je '68)
 Grossman, W. L. Modern Brazilian short stories. (Mr '68)
 Hills, P. C., ed. How we live. (O '68)
 Shorts aircraft since 1900. Barnes, C. H. (My '68)
 Should we now believe the Warren report? White, S. (N '68)

Siberia

Description and travel

Botting, D. One chilly Siberian morning. (D '68)

Sicily

Social conditions

Mangione, J. Passion for Sicilians. (D '68)

Sick

Reynolds, F. W. Adult health. (My '68)

Sussman, M. B. Walking patient: a study in outpatient care. (Ag '68)

Sickness and society. Duff, R. S. (O '68)

Sidelong glances of a pigeon kicker. Boyer, D. (O '68)

Sidgwick, Henry

Gauld, A. Founders of psychical research. (D '68)

Sidney, Sir Philip

Howell, R. Sir Philip Sidney. (N '68)

Rudenstine, N. L. Sidney's poetic development. (My '68)

Sidney Hook and the contemporary world. Kurtz, P., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Sidney's poetic development. Rudenstine, N. L. (My '68)

Siege. Park, C. C. (Mr '68)

Sierra Nevada Mountains

Juvenile literature

Dowdell, D. Sierra Nevada. (N '68)

Signals in the animal world. Burkhardt, D. (S '68)

Signs among us. Robson, W. W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Signs and symbols

Krythe, M. R. What so proudly we hail. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

Helfman, E. S. Signs and symbols around the world. (My '68)

Signs and symbols around the world. Helfman, E. S. (My '68)

Silence. Bergman, I. (In his A film trilogy). (Ap '68)

Silent cities. Boyd, M. (Ag '68)

Silent star. Moore, C. (My '68)

Silent weapons. Clarke, R. (Ag '68)

Silica and me. Alexander, G. (N '68)

Silk-screen as a fine art. Chieffo, C. T. (N '68)

Silk screen printing

Chieffo, C. T. Silk-screen as a fine art. (N '68)

Kinsey, A. Introducing screen printing. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Silks, spices and empire. Lattimore, O., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Silkspinning. Larson, J. R. (Ap '68)

Silone, Ignazio

Silone, I. Emergency exit. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Silver mines and mining

Juvenile literature

Young, B. Forged in silver. (Ag '68)

Silver pennies. Thompson, B. J., ed. (In her All the silver pennies). (Mr '68)

Silver Street. Johnson, E. R. (O '68)

Silversmithing

Brunner, H. Old table silver. (Mr '68)

Flynt, H. N. Heritage foundation collection of silver. (O '68)

Catalogs

Hughes, G. Modern silver, throughout the world, 1880-1967. (Mr '68)

Silverware

Brunner, H. Old table silver. (Mr '68)

Freeman, L. Victorian silver. (N '68)

Sin

Büchler, A. Studies in sin and atonement in the Rabbinic literature of the first century. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Eberhard, W. Guilt and sin in traditional China. (My '68)

Sinai Campaign, 1956

Calvocoressi, P. Suez ten years after. (S '68)

Sinatra, Frank

Shaw, A. Sinatra. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Sinatra. Shaw, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Singapore

History

Leasor, J. Singapore. (Ap '68)

Siege, 1942

Leasor, J. Singapore. (Ap '68)

Singapore. Leasor, J. (Ap '68)

Singers

See also

Baez, J.

Guthrie, W.

Sinatra, F.

Singing games

Juvenile literature

McGee, B., comp. Jump-rope rhymes. (D '68)

Single light. Wojciechowska, M. (S '68)

Sinister twilight. Barber, N. (D '68)

Sink the Tirpitz! Peillard, L. (D '68)

Sino-Japanese Conflict 1937-1945

Frillmann, P. China. (O '68)

Sins of the fathers. Pope-Hennessy, J. (Mr '68)

Sir Charles Wood's Indian policy, 1853-66. Moore, R. J. (Mr '68)

Sir Francis Dashwood: an eighteenth century independent. Kemp, S. (Mr '68)

Sir Martin Mar-all. Dryden, J. (In his Works of John Dryden). (Ap '68)

Sir Walter Scott: wizard of the North. Schultz, P. H. (Je '68)

Sister my life. Pasternak, B. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Situation ethics debate. Cox, H., ed. (Ag '68)

Sitwell, Dame Edith

Lehmann, J. Nest of tigers. (N '68)

Sitwell, Sir Osbert, 5th Bart

Lehmann, J. Nest of tigers. (N '68)

Sitwell, Sacheverell

Lehmann, J. Nest of tigers. (N '68)

Six day war. Churchill, R. S. (Je '68)

Six metaphysical poets. Williamson G. (N '68)

Six poets of the San Francisco renaissance: portraits and checklists. Kherdian, D. (S '68)

Six seconds in Dallas. Thompson, J. (Ap '68)

Six to break even. Adams, M. S. (Ap '68)

Sixteenth century

Chastel, A. Crisis of the Renaissance, 1520-1600. (O '68)

Sixty miles from England. Pakenham, S. (Mr '68)

Sixty poems of Martial. Martial. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Sixty ribald songs from Pills to purge melancholy. Bradley, S. A. J., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Sixty years a Fenman. Randell, A. R. (Ap '68)

Ski guide to Europe. Rand, A. (Ag '68)

Ski the champions way. McCulloch, E. (Mr '68)

Skiers' paradise. Lund, M. (Mr '68)

Skiing in Europe. Galin, S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Skin, Color of. See Color of man

Skin of grace. Willard, N. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Skis and skiing

Galin, S. Skiing in Europe. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Joubert, G. How to ski the new French way. (Ap '68)

Lund, M. Skiers' paradise. (Mr '68)

McCulloch, E. Ski the champions way. (Mr '68)

Rand, A. Ski guide to Europe. (Ag '68)

Skunks

Verts, B. J. Biology of the striped skunk (N '68)

Stories

Zistel, E. Dangerous year. (Je '68)

Sky suspended. Bassett, J. (N '68)

Slater, Samuel

Juvenile literature

Miner, L. S. Industrial genius: Samuel Slater. (Je '68)

Slave trade

Pope-Hennessy, J. Sins of the fathers. (Mr '68)

Slavery

Pope-Hennessy, J. Sins of the fathers. (Mr '68)

Slavery in Cuba

Klein, H. S. Slavery in the Americas. (Mr '68)

Montejo, E. Autobiography of a runaway slave. (N '68)

Slavery in the Americas. Klein, H. S. (Mr '68)

Slavery in the United States

Berwanger, E. H. Frontier against slavery. (N '68)

Klein, H. S. Slavery in the Americas. (Mr '68)

Ratner, L. Powder keg. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Zilversmit, A. First emancipation. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Slavery in the United States—Continued*Juvenile literature

Douglass, F. Mind and heart of Frederick Douglass. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Slavic literature*Bibliography

Lewanski, R. C., comp. Literatures of the world in English translation, v2. (My '68)
 Slavic literatures, v2 of The literatures of the world in English translation. Lewanski, R. C., comp. (My '68)
 Slavonic and romantic music. Abraham, G. (O '68)

Sleep*Juvenile literature

Kastner, J. Sleep. (O '68)
 Sleep. Kastner, J. (O '68)
 Sleepers can kill. Jav. S. (O '68)
 Sleeping ballerina. Dolin, A. (N '68)
 Sloth in the family. Tirler, H. (Mr '68)

Sloths

Tirler, H. Sloth in the family. (Mr '68)
 Slouching towards Bethlehem. Didion, J. (Ag '68)

Small states. See States, Small

Small town in Germany. Le Carré, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Small wonder. Nelson, W. H. (Ag '68)

Smart, Christopher

Sherbo, A. Christopher Smart, scholar of the university. (Mr '68)

Smart set

Mencken, H. L. H. L. Mencken's Smart set criticism. (N '68)

Smith, Edgar

Smith, E. Brief against death. (N '68)

Smith and Wesson, Incorporated, Springfield, Massachusetts

Neal, R. J. Smith and Wesson, 1857-1945. (Mr '68)

Smith and Wesson, 1857-1945. Neal, R. J. (Mr '68)

Smith of Wootton Major. Tolkien, J. R. R. (Mr '68)

Smock-alley Theater

Sheldon, E. K. Thomas Sheridan of Smock-Alley. (Mr '68)

Smoking

Zagona, S. V., ed. Studies and issues in smoking behavior. (Ap '68)

Smollett, Tobias George
 Giddings, R. Tradition of Smollett. (Ap '68)

Smuggler's road. Evarts, H. G. (S '68)

Smuggling

Pearson, K. Dorak affair. (My '68)

Smuts, Jan Christiaan

Hancock, W. K. Smuts, v2. (O '68)

Smyrna, Florida*History

Panagopoulos, E. P. New Smyrna. (Ap '68)

Snails*Stories

Lionni, L. Biggest house in the world. (Ag '68)

Snakes*Juvenile literature

Eckert, A. W. King snake. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Stories

Huxlev, A. Crows of Pearblossom. (Ap '68)
 Snead, Okey Wardlaw Martin
 Zierold, H. Three sisters in black. (D '68)

Snedden, David Samuel

Drost, W. H. David Snedden and education for social efficiency. (S '68)

So excellent a fishe. Carr, A. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

So long at the Fair. Vermandel, J. G. (Je '68)

So long at the fair. Williams, M. (Je '68)

So much nearer. Richards, I. A. (Ag '68)

So young to burn. Creasey, J. (Je '68)

Soccer

Eastham, G. Soccer science. (Ag '68)
 Liss, H. Soccer, international game. (Ag '68)

Soccer, international game. Liss, H. (Ag '68)

Soccer science. Eastham, G. (Ag '68)

Social and political thought of Karl Marx. Avineri, S. (S '68)

Social and religious history of the Jews, v 11-12 [2d ed rev & enl]. Baron, S. W. (My '68)

Social case work

Feldman, F. L. Family social welfare. (N '68)
 Leichter, H. J. Kinship and casework. (S '68)

Social change

Aron, R. Industrial society. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Aron, R. Progress and disillusion. (D '68)
 Fairweather, G. W. Methods for experimental social innovation. (My '68)

Farb, P. Man's rise to civilization as shown by the Indians of North America from primeval times to the coming of the industrial state. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Gallin, B. Hsin Hsing, Taiwan: a Chinese village in change. (Ag '68)

Lerner, D., ed. Communication and change in the developing countries. (Je '68)

Lipset, S. M. Revolution and counterrevolution. (O '68)

Moore, W. E. Order and change. (O '68)

Rudolph, L. I. Modernity of tradition. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Seminar on the theory of economic change, University of Edinburgh, 1965. Social theory and economic change. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Steward, J. H., ed. Contemporary change in traditional societies, 3v. (N '68)

Social class, language and education. Lawton, D. (D '68)

Social classes

De Reuck, A., ed. Caste and race. (O '68)

Lawton, D. Social class, language and education. (D '68)

Myers, J. K. Decade later: a follow-up of Social class and mental illness. (S '68)

Great Britain

Vincent, J. R. Pollbooks. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

United States

Domhoff, G. W. Who rules America? (1967, 1968 Annual)

Social conditions

Talks with social scientists. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Social conflict

Coser, L. A. Continuities in the study of social conflict. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Social democratic party (Germany)

Mishark, J. W. Road to revolution. (Ag '68)

Social democratic party (Russia)

Wildman, A. K. Making of a workers' revolution. (Je '68)

Social geography of British elections, 1885-1910. Pelling H. (O '68)

Social groups

Bennis, W. G. Changing organizations. (Mr '68)

Social history of England, 55 B.C. to A.D. 1215. Arnold, R. (Mr '68)

Social meanings of suicide. Douglas, J. D. (N '68)

Social nature of psychological research. Friedman, N. (O '68)

Social organization of hamadryas baboons. Kummer, H. (O '68)

Social organization of juvenile justice. Cicourel, A. V. (Ag '68)

Social policies for America in the seventies: nine divergent views. Theobald, R., ed. (Mr '68)

Social policy

Hayek, F. A. Studies in philosophy, politics and economics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Lazarsfeld, P. F., ed. Uses of sociology. (My '68)

Social problems

Becker, H. S., ed. Social problems: a modern approach. (My '68)

Fairweather, G. W. Methods for experimental social innovation. (My '68)

Fox, D. M. Discovery of abundance. (N '68)

Von Hoffman, N. We are the people our parents warned us against. (Ag '68)

Social problems: a modern approach. Becker, H. S., ed. (My '68)

Social programs of Sweden. Rosenthal, A. H. (Ag '68)

Social psychology

Coles, R. Children of crisis. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Hall, E. T. Hidden dimension. (Ag '68)

Hollander, E. P. Principles and methods of social psychology. (Je '68)

Mills, T. M. Sociology of small groups. (N '68)

Roberts, J. I., ed. School children in the urban slum. (My '68)

Sarason, S. R. Psychology in community settings. (Ap '68)

Silberg, R. Devolution of the people. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Social reform in the United States navy, 1798-1862. Langley, H. D. (Mr '68)

Social sciences

Talks with social scientists. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Dictionaries

International encyclopedia of the social sciences, 17v. (N '68)

History

Levitas, G. B., ed. Culture and consciousness. (S '68)

Research

Fairweather, G. W. Methods for experimental social innovation. (My '68)

Galtung, J. Theory and methods of social research. (S '68)

Study and teaching

Krug, M. M. History and the social sciences. (Je '68)

Social scientific studies of religion: a bibliography. Berkowitz, M. I. (Ap '68)

Social security. See Public welfare

Social settlements

Davis, A. F. Spearheads for reform. (Ag '68)

Social structure of a Cape Coloured reserve. Carstens, P. (Je '68)

Social surveys

Gross, B. M. State of the nation. (Je '68)

United States

Munzer, M. E. Pockets of hope. (Mr '68)

Social theory and economic change. Seminar on the theory of economic change, University of Edinburgh, 1965. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Social welfare in transition. Lubove, R., ed. (My '68)

Social work

Zald, M. N., ed. Organizing for community welfare. (Ag '68)

Socialism

Juvenile literature

Ellis, H. B. Ideals and ideologies. (S '68)

Germany*History

Mishark, J. W. Road to revolution. (Ag '68)

Ityder, A. J. German revolution of 1918. (Ap '68)

Japan

Cole, A. B. Socialist parties in postwar Japan. (1967, 1968 Annual)

United States

Foner, P. S. Bolshevik revolution. (Ag '68)

Herreshoff, D. American disciples of Marx: from the age of Jackson to the progressive era. (Ap '68)

Weinstein, J. Decline of socialism in America, 1912-1925. (Ag '68)

Socialist parties in postwar Japan. Cole, A. B. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Socialist party (Italy)

Barnes, S. H. Party democracy. (Ap '68)

Socialist party (United States)

Weinstein, J. Decline of socialism in America, 1912-1925. (Ag '68)

Socially handicapped

Deutsch, M. Disadvantaged child. (N '68)

Pavensdt, E., ed. Drifters. (N '68)

Powledge, F. To change a child: a report on the Institute for developmental studies. (O '68)

See also

Problem children

Bibliography

Booth, R. E., comp. Culturally disadvantaged: a bibliography and keyword-out-of-context (KWOC) Index. (Mr '68)

Education

Dawson, H. On the outskirts of hope. (N '68)

Fantini, M. D. Disadvantaged. (Je '68)

Passow, A. H., ed. Education of the disadvantaged. (N '68)

Socially handicapped children. See Problem children

Society, Primitive

Cohen, R., ed. Comparative political systems. (My '68)

Society and democracy in Germany. Dahrendorf, R. (Mr '68)

Society of Jesus. See Jesuits

Society of Mary

Hosie, S. W. Anonymous apostle. (S '68)

Society, politics & economic development. Adelman, I. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Society's children: a study of resentment in the secondary school. Nordstrom, C. (My '68)

Sociological analysis and politics. Mitchell, W. (Mr '68)

Sociology

Bowers, R. V., ed. Studies on behavior in organizations. (Mr '68)

Buckley, W. Sociology and modern systems theory. (N '68)

Dahrendorf, R. Essays in the theory of society. (S '68)

Demerath, N. J., ed. System, change, and conflict. (O '68)

Dickie-Clark, H. F. Marginal situation. (Ap '68)

Garfinkel, H. Studies in ethnomethodology. (S '68)

Gorer, G. Danger of equality. (Je '68)

Lazarsfeld, P. F., ed. Uses of sociology. (My '68)

Lefebvre, H. Sociology of Marx. (Ag '68)

Lindenfeld, F., ed. Reader in political sociology. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Lipset, S. M. Revolution and counterrevolution. (O '68)

Mitchell, W. Sociological analysis and politics. (Mr '68)

Mouzelis, N. P. Organisation and bureaucracy. (D '68)

Nettl, J. P. Political mobilization. (Ag '68)

Parker, S. R. Sociology of industry. (O '68)

Parsons, T., ed. American sociology. (D '68)

Schutz, A. Phenomenology of the social world. (O '68)

Simirenko, A., ed. Soviet sociology. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Solo, R. A. Economic organizations and social systems. (Ap '68)

Thomas, W. I. On social organization and social personality. (Mr '68)

Dictionaries

Mitchell, G. D., ed. Dictionary of sociology. (S '68)

History

Aron, R. Main currents in sociological thought, v2. (Je '68)

Research

Ford, C. S., ed. Cross-cultural approaches. (Ag '68)

Glaser, B. G. Discovery of grounded theory. (S '68)

Hirschi, T. Delinquency research. (N '68)

Sociology, Christian

Berger, P. L. Sacred canopy. (My '68)

Glock, C. Y. To comfort and to challenge. (Ag '68)

Riga, P. J. Church made relevant. (Ap '68)

Robertson, D. B., ed. Voluntary associations. (Mr '68)

Sociology, Urban

Eldredge, H. W., ed. Taming megalopolis, 2v. (Je '68)

Liston, R. A. Downtown. (Ag '68)

Mumford, L. Urban prospect. (Ag '68)

Plotnicov, L. Strangers to the city. (N '68)

Schnore, L. F., ed. Urban research and policy planning. (Ag '68)

Sociology and modern systems theory. Buckley, W. (N '68)

Sociology of English religion. Martin, D. (S '68)

Sociology of industry. Parker, S. R. (O '68)

Sociology of Marx. Lefebvre, H. (Ag '68)

Sociology of Max Weber. Freund, J. (Ag '68)

Sociology of small groups. Mills, T. M. (N '68)

Socratic paradoxes and the Greek mind. O'Brien, M. J. (N '68)

Soll pollution

Goldman, M. I., ed. Controlling pollution. (Mr '68)

Solar granulation. Bray, R. J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Solar system

Asimov, I. Environments out there. (Ag '68)

Tricker, R. A. R. Paths of the planets. (Ag '68)

Soldiers. Hochhuth, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Soldiers & civilians. Cunliffe, M. (D '68)

Soldiers on the Santa Fe trail. Oliva, L. E. (Je '68)

Solitaries. Walker, T. (Mr '68)

Some aspects of social structure; v2 of A study of contemporary Ghana. Birmingham, W. B., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Some part of myself. Dobie, J. F. (Je '68)

Some versions of silence. Dana, R. (Ap '68)

Something wrong. Linington, E. (Ap '68)

Son of Man in myth and history. Borsch F. H. (S '68)

- Song at twilight. Coward, N. (In his Suite in three keys). (Mr '68)
- Song of ascents. Jones, E. S. (O '68)
- Song of David Freed. Rothberg, A. (Ap '68)
- Song of the sirens. Gann, E. K. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Song, speech, and ventriloquism. Kettelkamp, L. (Ap '68)
- Song to sing, O! Gilbert, W. S. (O '68)
- Songs
- Swan, D. Road goes ever on. (Je '68)
- Songs, English
- Bradley, S. A. J., ed. Sixty ribald songs from Pills to purge melancholy. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Campion, T. Works of Thomas Campion. (Ap '68)
- Songs for a son. Peters, R. L. (Ap '68)
- Songs from around a toadstool table. Bennett, R. (Ag '68)
- Songs of innocence and of experience. Blake, W. (Mr '68)
- Songs of the great American West. Silber, I., ed. (Mr '68)
- Sophia Scrooby preserved. Bacon, M. (D '68)
- Sophocles
- Greene, D. Reality and the heroic pattern. (N '68)
- Long, A. A. Language and thought in Sophocles. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Sophomore. Spacks, B. (Je '68)
- Sorcery. See Witchcraft
- Søren Kierkegaard's journals and papers, v 1. Kierkegaard, S. (Ap '68)
- Sorry I kept you waiting, madam. Sassoon, V. (Ag '68)
- Soufflés
- Beinert, F. L. Art of making soufflés. (Mr '68)
- Soul
- Hillman, J. Insearch. (Ap '68)
- Soul Brothers and Sister Lou. Hunter, K. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Soul on ice. Cleaver, E. (My '68)
- Sound
- Juvenile literature
- Ronan, C. A. Meaning of sound. (S '68)
- Stambler, I. Worlds of sound. (Mr '68)
- Sounds of the struggle: persons and perspectives in civil rights. Lincoln, C. E. (Ap '68)
- Soups
- Howe, R. Wine and food society's guide to soups. (S '68)
- Source book in chemistry, 1900-1950. Leicester, H. M., ed. (N '68)
- Sources for the history of medieval Europe from the mid-eighth to the mid-thirteenth century. Pullan, B., ed. (Ag '68)
- South Africa's Transkei. Carter, G. M. (My '68)
- South America
- Antiquities
- Dockstader, F. J. Indian art in South America. (Ag '68)
- Description and travel
- Chapman, W. Golden dream. (Je '68)
- Foreign relations
- United States
- Billingsley, E. B. In defense of neutral rights. (Je '68)
- History
- Billingsley, E. B. In defense of neutral rights. (Je '68)
- Juvenile literature
- Young, B. Simón Bolívar. (S '68)
- Politics
- Burr, R. N. By reason or force. (Je '68)
- South America and Central America. Dorst, J. (My '68)
- South American Indian art. Eng title of: Indian art in South America. Dockstader, F. J. (Ag '68)
- South Arabia. Little, T. (S '68)
- South Asian history, 1750-1950. Case, M. H. (Ag '68)
- South Carolina
- Description and travel
- Lawson, J. New voyage to Carolina. (O '68)
- South Pole
- Juvenile literature
- Sebastian, L. South Pole. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- South Pole. Sebastian, L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- South rejects a prophet. Abshire, D. M. (S '68)
- South West Africa. Molnar, T. (Ag '68)
- South West Africa & the United Nations. Carroll, F. (S '68)
- Southeast Asian tribes, minorities, and nations, 2v. Kunstadter, P., ed. (Ag '68)
- Southeast Asia's political systems. Pye, L. W. (N '68)
- Southeastern states; v2 of Wild flowers of the United States, 2pts. Rickett, H. W. (Mr '68)
- Southern Africa and the United States. Hance, W. A., ed. (S '68)
- Southern States
- Dormon, J. H. Theater in the ante bellum south. (Ag '68)
- Thompson, E. T., ed. Perspectives on the South: agenda for research. (S '68)
- Biography
- Sherrill, R. Gothic politics in the deep South. (Ag '68)
- Economic conditions
- Good, P. American serfs. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- McGee, L. R. Income and employment in the Southeast. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Maddox, J. G. Advancing South. (N '68)
- History
- Tindall, G. B. Emergence of the New South, 1913-1945. (My '68)
- Politics and government
- Sherrill, R. Gothic politics in the deep South. (Ag '68)
- Religion
- Caldwell, E. Deep South. (Je '68)
- Southwest, New
- Antiquities
- Lister, F. C. Earl Morris & Southwestern archaeology. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Description and travel
- Hine, R. V. Bartlett's West. (N '68)
- Jett, S. C. Navajo wildlands. (S '68)
- History
- Jones, B. M. Health-seekers in the Southwest, 1817-1900. (Ag '68)
- Juvenile literature
- Marcus, R. B. First book of the cliff dwellers. (Ag '68)
- Soviet academy of sciences and the communist party, 1927-1932. Graham, L. R. (Ag '68)
- Soviet achievement. Nettl, J. P. (Mr '68)
- Soviet and Chinese communism. Treadgold, D. W., ed. (Ap '68)
- Soviet and East European agriculture. Karcz, J. F., ed. (Je '68)
- Soviet Central Asia
- Allworth, E., ed. Central Asia. (Mr '68)
- Antiquities
- Belenitsky, A. Central Asia. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Politics
- Caroe, O. Soviet empire: the Turks of Central Asia and Stalinism [2d ed.]. (S '68)
- Soviet economic controversies. Felker, J. L. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Soviet empire: the Turks of Central Asia and Stalinism [2d ed.]. Caroe, O. (S '68)
- Soviet metal-fabricating and economic development. Granick, D. (Je '68)
- Soviet military and the communist party. Kol-kowicz, R. (My '68)
- Soviet nationalities policy in practice. Conquest, R., ed. (Ap '68)
- Soviet political schools. Mickiewicz, E. P. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Soviet political system. Conquest, R., ed. (O '68)
- Soviet political thought. Jaworskyj, M., ed. & tr. (S '68)
- Soviet Russia. Lawrence, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Soviet sociology. Simirenko, A., ed. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Soviet space exploration. Shelton, W. (D '68)
- Soyer, Raphael
- Goodrich, L. Raphael Soyer. (Ag '68)
- Space ABC. Bruce, L. M. (Je '68)
- Space flight
- Clarke, A. C. Promise of space. (S '68)
- Ley, W. Rockets, missiles, and men in space. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Space sciences
- Dictionaries
- McGraw-Hill encyclopedia of space. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Pictures, illustrations, etc.

Juvenile literature

Bruce, L. M. Space ABC. (Je '68)

Spain

Goldston, R. Spain. (Je '68)

Civilization

Brossard, C. Spanish scene. (Je '68)

Collins, L. Or I'll dress you in mourning. (Ag '68)

Michener, J. A. Iberia. (Je '68)

Colonies

Nasatir, A. P. Spanish war vessels on the Mississippi, 1792-1796. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Phelan, J. L. Kingdom of Quito in the seventeenth century. (N '68)

Description and travel

Michener, J. A. Iberia. (Je '68)

Foreign relations

Germany

Harper, G. T. German economic policy in Spain during the Spanish civil war, 1936-1939. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

History

Crozier, B. Franco. (Je '68)

Hills, G. Franco: the man and his nation. (My '68)

Vicens Vives, J. Approaches to the history of Spain. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Civil War, 1936-1939

Benson, F. R. Writers in arms. (Ap '68)

Bolin, L. Spain: the vital years. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Harper, G. T. German economic policy in Spain during the Spanish civil war, 1936-1939. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Snellgrove, L. E. Franco and the Spanish Civil War. (N '68)

Weintraub, S. Last great cause. (Je '68)

Spain: the vital years. Bolin, L. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Spaniard in the Portuguese Indies. Figueroa, M. F. de (N '68)

Spaniards in India

Figueroa, M. F. de. Spaniard in the Portuguese Indies. (N '68)

Spaniards in the Southwest, New

Hammond, G. P. Rediscovery of New Mexico, 1580-1594. (Ap '68)

Spanish armada. Hodges, C. W. (My '68)

Spanish drama

History and criticism

Shergold, N. D. History of the Spanish stage (Mr '68)

Spanish press, 1470-1966. Schulte, H. F. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Spanish scene. Brossard, C. (Je '68)

Spanish war vessels on the Mississippi, 1792-1796. Nasatir, A. P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Spare-part surgery. Longmore, D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Sparta

History

Jones, A. H. M. Sparta. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Sparta. Jones, A. H. M. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Spatial economy of Communist China. Wu, Y-L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Speaker's meaning. Barfield, O. (My '68)

Spearheads for reform. Davis, A. F. (Ag '68)

Spears, Sir Edward Louis, 1st Bart.

Spears, E. Picnic basket. (O '68)

Special bravery. Johnston, J. (Mr '68)

Special counsel. Rusher, W. A. (O '68)

Spectrum of Protestant beliefs. Campbell, R., ed. (Ag '68)

Speculation

Smith, A. Money game. (Ag '68)

Speech

Juvenile literature

Kettelkamp, L. Song, speech, and ventriloquism. (Ap '68)

Speech writing guide. Welsh, J. J. (Ag '68)

Speed math. Clark, F. (S '68)

Speed of darkness. Rukeyser, M. (O '68)

Spleology. See Caves

Spenser, Edmund

Elliott, J. R., ed. Prince of poets. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Lewis, C. S. Spenser's images of life. (D '68)

Faerie queene

Alpers, P. J. Poetry of the Faerie queene. (N '68)

Spenser's images of life. Lewis, C. S. (D '68)

Spessivtzeva, Olga

Dolin, A. Sleeping ballerina. (N '68)

Der Spiegel (periodical)

Schoenbaum, D. Spiegel affair. (Ag '68)

Spiegel affair. Schoenbaum, D. (Ag '68)

Spies

Carpozi, G. Red spies in Washington. (S '68)

Cookridge, E. H. Third man. (Ag '68)

Dulles, A., ed. Great true spy stories. (My '68)

Rowan, R. W. Secret service [new &amp; rev ed]. (My '68)

Tully, A. White tie and dagger. (Ap '68)

Wise, D. Espionage establishment. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Wynne, G. Contact on Gorky Street. (Mr '68)

Spirit of Chinese politics. Pye, L. W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Spirit of Russia, v3. Masaryk, T. G. (Ag '68)

Spirit versus structure. Pelikan, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Spiritual life

Kennedy, E. C. Fashion me ■ people. (Je '68)

Spiritualism

Garrett, E. J. Many voices. (Ag '68)

Splendid isolation. Howard, C. (Ag '68)

Splendid pauper. Andrews, A. (N '68)

Sports

Biography

Juvenile literature

Heuman, W. Famous coaches. (Ag '68)

Psychological aspects

Beisser, A. R. Madness in sports. (Mr '68)

Spotswood, Alexander

Havighurst, W. Alexander Spotswood. (Je '68)

Spring Grove: the education of immigrant children. Burgin, T. (Ap '68)

Spring journal: poems. Honig, E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Spring rider. Lawson, J. (D '68)

Springs

Perrault, P. On the origin of springs. (Ag '68)

Spunkwater, spunkwater! Wood, J. P. (O '68)

Spy government. Garrison, O. V. (Mr '68)

Spy who talked too much. Walden, A. E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Squash rackets

Khan, H. Squash racquets. (S '68)

Squash racquets. Khan, H. (S '68)

Srivijaya (kingdom)

Wolters, O. W. Early Indonesian commerce. (My '68)

Stage design. Rowell, K. (O '68)

Stage fight. Hobbs, W. (Ag '68)

Stagecoach West. Moody, R. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Stained glass. See Glass painting and staining

Stalin, Iosif

Rigby, T. H., ed. Stalin. (Ap '68)

Smith, E. E. Young Stalin. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Trotsky, L. Stalin [new ed]. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Stalin [new ed]. Trotsky, L. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Stalin, Hitler, and Europe, v 1. McSherry, J. E. (Ag '68)

Stamps, Postage. See Postage stamps

Stamps tell the story of the United Nations. Kelen, E. (O '68)

Standard Oil Company

Destler, C. M. Roger Sherman and the independent oil men. (Je '68)

Standards and progress in reading. Morris, J. M. (N '68)

Stanford, Leland

Juvenile literature

Hoyt, E. P. Leland Stanford. (Ag '68)

Stanley, Sir Henry Morton

Juvenile literature

Smith, F. S. Stanley, African explorer. (Ag '68)

Stanley, African explorer. Smith, F. S. (Ag '68)

Star Island boy. Rich, L. D. (O '68)

Star lovers. Richardson, R. S. (Ap '68)

Stars

Juvenile literature

Asimov, I. Stars. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Polgreen, J. Stars tonight. (Mr '68)

Stars. Asimov, I. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Stars tonight. Polgreen, J. (Mr '68)

- The State
Einaudi, M. Early Rousseau. (O '68)
- State governments
Dye, T. R. Politics, economics, and the public. (Mr '68)
Sanford, T. Storm over the states. (1967, 1968 Annual)
Weiner, M., ed. State politics in India. (O '68)
State of change. Gilliat, P. (Je '68)
State of the nation. Gross, B. M. (Je '68)
State politics in India. Weiner, M., ed. (O '68)
- State rights
Sanford, T. Storm over the states. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- State, the investor, and the railroad. Salsbury, S. (Ag '68)
- States, New
Alderfer, H. F. Public administration in newer nations. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Kirkman, W. P. Unscrambling an empire. (Ag '68)
Pearcy, G. E. Handbook of new nations. (Ag '68)
- States, Small
Lloyd, F. J. International trade problems of small nations. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Vital, D. Inequality of states. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Statesmen
Wise, L. F., ed. Kings, rulers, and statesmen. (Ag '68)
- Statesmen, British
Brown, P. Chathamites. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Statistics
Pearson, E. S. Selected papers of E. S. Pearson. (Ag '68)
- Steamboats
Juvenile literature
Ewen, W. H. Days of the steamboats. (Mr '68)
- Steel and economic growth in Mexico. Cole, W. E. (My '68)
- Steel industry and trade
Cole, W. E. Steel and economic growth in Mexico. (My '68)
Johnson, W. A. Steel industry of India. (Ap '68)
McManus, G. J. Inside story of steel wages and prices, 1959-1967. (My '68)
Steel industry of India. Johnson, W. A. (Ap '68)
- Stein, Gertrude
Stewart, A. Gertrude Stein and the present. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Stephen, King of England
Davis, R. H. C. King Stephen, 1135-1154. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Steps. Kosinski, J. (D '68)
- Stevens, Wallace
Sukenick, R. Wallace Stevens: musing the obscure. (Ap '68)
- Stevenson, Adlai Ewing
Davis, K. S. Politics of honor. (1967, 1968 Annual)
Muller, H. J. Adlai Stevenson. (1967, 1968 Annual)
Walton, R. J. Remnants of power. (D '68)
- Stevenson, Fanny (Van de Griff) Osbourne
Mackay, M. Violent friend. (Ag '68)
- Stevenson, Robert Louis
Mackay, M. Violent friend. (Ag '68)
- Stilts, somersaults, and headstands. Fraser, K. (Ag '68)
- Stitch in time. Lathen, E. (N '68)
- Stock exchange
Rolo, C. J., ed. Anatomy of Wall Street. (D '68)
- Juvenile literature
Sarnoff, P. Wall Street careers. (N '68)
- Stolen election. Robinson, L. (N '68)
- Stolen necklace. Rockwell, A. (Ag '68)
- Stone age
Clark, G. Stone age hunters. (Mr '68)
- Stone age hunters. Clark, G. (Mr '68)
- Stonehenge
Crampton, P. Stonehenge of the kings. (N '68)
Stonehenge of the kings. Crampton, P. (N '68)
Stonewall Jackson as military commander. Selby, J. (N '68)
- Stop-time. Conroy, F. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Stories from the English and Scottish ballads. Manning-Sanders, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Storm over Asia. McCabe, R. K. (Ap '68)
- Storm over the Caucasus. Bartos-Höppner, B. (D '68)
- Storm over the states. Sanford, T. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Storms. Dale, P. (O '68)
- Story of coins. Rosenfeld, S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Story of Comock the Eskimo. Comock, (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Story of Fritz Haber. Goran, M. (My '68)
- Story of Japan. Eng title: Short history of Japan. Nish, I., (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Story of Jodrell Bank. Lovell, B. (S '68)
- Story of Malta. Eng title of: A short history of Malta. Blouet, B. (O '68)
- Story of New England. Stearns, M. (Mr '68)
- Story of Prince Ivan, the firebird and the gray wolf. (O '68)
- Story of science in America. De Camp, L. S. (Mr '68)
- Story of sugar. Aykroyd, W. R. (S '68)
- Story of the Channel Islands. Eng title of: A short history of the Channel Islands. Uttley, J. (Mr '68)
- Story of the earth. Matthews, W. H. (S '68)
- Story of the human hand. Sorell, W. (Je '68)
- Story of the three bears. Mure, E. (My '68)
- Story of Western philosophy. Parker, F. H. (Ap '68)
- Stout, William
Stout, W. Autobiography of William Stout of Lancaster, 1665-1752. (Ap '68)
- Strachey, Giles Lytton
Holroyd, M. Lytton Strachey: a critical biography. 2v. (Je '68)
- Straight up. Ullman, J. R. (O '68)
- The Strand magazine
Pound, R. Mirror of the century. (Je '68)
- Strand magazine, 1891-1950. Eng title of: Mirror of the century. Pound, R. (Je '68)
- Stranded. Burchard, P. (O '68)
- Strange facts about the Bible. Garrison, W. (Ag '68)
- Strange fishes of the sea. Earle, O. L. (S '68)
- Strange harp, strange symphony. Walsh, J. (Ap '68)
- Strange summer in Stratford. Perez, N. A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Strange world of insects. Bush, G. S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Strangers to the city. Plotnicov, L. (N '68)
- Stranger's view. Pryce-Jones, D. (Ag '68)
- Strasbourg
History
Chrisman, M. U. Strasbourg and the reform. (Ap '68)
- Strasbourg and the reform. Chrisman, M. U. (Ap '68)
- Strategic persuasion. Stone, J. J. (Je '68)
- Strategy
Beaufre, A. Strategy of action. (Mr '68)
Harkabi, Y. Nuclear war and nuclear peace. (Mr '68)
Howard, M. Mediterranean strategy in the Second World War. (Ag '68)
McNamara, R. S. Essence of security. (N '68)
Rosecrance, R. N. Defense of the realm. (O '68)
- Strategy of action. Beaufre, A. (Mr '68)
- Strategy of civilian defense. Eng title of: Civilian resistance as a national defense. Roberts, A., ed. (N '68)
- Strategy of peace in a changing world. Holcombe, A. N. (My '68)
- Strauss, Franz Joseph
Schoenbaum, D. Spiegel affair. (Ag '68)
- Strauss, Richard
Strauss, R. Richard Strauss & Romain Rolland: correspondence. (D '68)
- Stravinsky, Igor Federovich
Craft, R. Bravo Stravinsky. (Ap '68)
- Strike a blow and die. Mwase, G. S. (Ag '68)
- Strike first! Dayan, D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Strike out where not applicable. Freeling, N. (Ag '68)
- Strikes and lockouts
Eggert, G. G. Railroad labor disputes. (Ag '68)
- See also
Delano, California—Strike, 1965-
- Striking the stones. Hoffman, D. (O '68)
- String, Designing with. See Designing with string
- Stripe of Tammany's tiger. Eisenstein, L. (My '68)
- Striped ice cream. Lexau, J. M. (O '68)
- Stroheim. Finler, J. W. (O '68)
- Strokes. See Apoplexy
- Strong water. Chilton, T. H. (N '68)
- Stronger community. Catlin, G. E. G. (Mr '68)
- Structural study of myth and totemism. Conference on recent studies of myth and totemism. School of Oriental and African studies, 1964. (Ag '68)

Structure of evil. Becker, E. (O '68)
 Structure of the defense market, 1955-1964.
 Baldwin, W. L. (O '68)

Structures, Theory of
 Condit, C. W. American building. (Ag '68)
 Struggle for equality. Swanson, R. E. (Mr '68)
 Struggle for life in the animal world. Gross-man, S. (Mr '68)
 Struggle for social security. Lubove, R. (N '68)
 Struggle for the Ottoman Empire, 1717-1740.
 Cassels, L. (O '68)

Stuart, Jesse
 Clarke, M. W. Jesse Stuart's Kentucky. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Stuart, House of
 Donaldson, G. Scottish kings. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Student politics. Lipset, S. M., ed. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Students
 Nordstrom, C. Society's children: a study of resentment in the secondary school. (My '68)
 Thelen, H. A. Classroom grouping for teach-ability. (Ap '68)

Political activity

Lipset, S. M., ed. Student politics. (1967, 1968 Annual)

United States

Bolton, C. D. University student. (My '68)
 Gorovitz, S., ed. Freedom and order in the university. (My '68)
 Surface, W. Poisoned ivy. (O '68)
 Trent, J. W. Catholics in college. (Je '68)
 Westoft, C. F. College women and fertility values. (Ag '68)

Political activity

Kennan, G. F. Democracy and the student left. (N '68)

Studies and issues in smoking behavior. Zagana,
 S. V., ed. (Ap '68)

Studies in Eastern chant, v 1. Wellesz, E., ed.
 (Ap '68)

Studies in ethnomethodology. Garfinkel, H. (S '68)

Studies in imperialism and the cold war; v 1
 Containment and revolution. Horowitz, D.,
 ed. (Mr '68)

Studies in international history. Bourne, K., ed.
 (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Studies in philosophy, politics and economics.
 Hayek, F. A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Studies in sin and atonement in the Rabbinic literature of the first century. Büchler, A.
 (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Studies in the ancient history of Northern Iraq.
 Oates, D. (D '68)

Studies in the economics of income mainte- nance. Eckstein, O., ed. (Mr '68)

Studies in the history of Hellenistic drama.
 Sifakis, G. M. (Mr '68)

Studies in trade liberalization. Balassa, B. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Studies on behavior in organizations. Bowers,
 R. V., ed. (Mr '68)

Studies on glaciers. Agassiz, L. (N '68)

Study of contemporary Ghana, v2. Birmingham,
 W. B., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Study of Shelley's poetry. Reiter, S. (Je '68)

Sturt, George
 Sturt, G. Journals of George Sturt, 1890-1927, 2v. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Style, Literary
 Croll, M. W. Style, rhetoric, and rhythm.
 (Ag '68)

Style, rhetoric, and rhythm. Croll, M. W. (Ag '68)

Styron, William

The confessions of Nat Turner

Clarke, J. H., ed. William Styron's Nat Turner. (O '68)

Subculture of violence. Wolfgang, M. E. (S '68)

Submarine geology
 Zenkovich, V. P. Processes of coastal development. (D '68)

Submarine warfare
 Kuenné, R. E. Polaris missile strike. (Mr '68)

Subsidies. See Bounties

Suburban life

Gans, H. J. Levittowners. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Ringer, B. B. Edge of friendliness. (Ag '68)

Sklare, M. Jewish identity on the suburban frontier. (My '68)

Subversive activities

Goodman, W. Committee. (Je '68)
 Tully, A. White tie and dagger. (Ap '68)

Success

Biau, P. M. American occupational structure.
 (S '68)

Getty, J. P. Golden age. (Ag '68)
 Rosenthal, R. Pygmalion in the classroom.
 (N '68)

Sudan

History

Collins, R. O. Egypt & the Sudan. (Ap '68)
 Farwell, B. Prisoners of the Mahdi. (Ap '68)
 Hasan, Y. F. Arabs and the Sudan: from the seventh to the early sixteenth century.
 (Ag '68)

Sudina. Rosenberg, J. (Ap '68)

Suez Canal

Calvocoressi, P. Suez ten years after. (S '68)

Juvenile literature

Hirschfeld, B. Vital link. (D '68)

Suez ten years after. Calvocoressi, P. (S '68)

Suffering

Bakan, D. Disease, pain, & sacrifice. (S '68)
 Petrie, A. Individuality in pain and suffering. (Mr '68)

Suffolk, England

Economic conditions

Finn, R. W. Domesday studies. (O '68)

Sugar

Aykroyd, W. R. Story of sugar. (S '68)

Suger, abbot of Saint-Denis

Juvenile literature

Rockwell, A. Glass, stones & crown. (Ag '68)

Suicide

Douglas, J. D. Social meanings of suicide.
 (N '68)

Shneidman, E. S., ed. Essays in self-destruction. (D '68)

Suicide academy. Stern, D. (D '68)

Suite in three keys. Coward, N. (Mr '68)

Sullivan, Edward Vincent
 Harris, M. D. Always on Sunday. (O '68)

Sullivan, William Laurence
 Ratté, J. Three modernists: Alfred Loisy,
 George Tyrrell, William L. Sullivan. (Ap '68)

Sully, Maximilien de Béthune, duc de
 Buisseret, D. Sully and the growth of centralized government in France, 1598-1610.
 (N '68)

Sully and the growth of centralized govern- ment in France, 1598-1610. Buisseret, D.
 (N '68)

Sultan's admiral. Bradford, E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Sumatra

Marsden, W. History of Sumatra [3d ed].
 (Mr '68)

Sumatra seven zero. Wynd, O. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Sun, Yat-sen

Juvenile literature

Spencer, C. Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Chinese Republic. (Mr '68)

Sun

Bray, R. J. Solar granulation. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

Dayrell, E. Why the sun and the moon live in the sky. (Ag '68)

Sun stood still. MacLeish, R. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Chinese Republic.
 Spencer, C. (Mr '68)

Sunday. Rordorf, W. (N '68)

Sunflower as big as the sun. Ellentuck, S.
 (Ag '68)

Sunnyside. Wood, J. P. (My '68)

Sunset for Red Elk. White, R. (Ag '68)

Superior poems of our time. Fujiwara Teika's.
 Fujiwara, T. (Mr '68)

Supernation at peace and war. Wakefield, D.
 (O '68)

Supernatural

Cohen, D. Myths of the space age. (N '68)
 Lubac, H. de. Mystery of the supernatural.
 (Ag '68)

Supersonic transport planes

Juvenile literature

Jacobs, L. SST plane of tomorrow. (Mr '68)

Superstoe. Borden, W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Superworm. Deaux, G. (Ag '68)

Surfing

Farrelly, M. Surfing life. (Ag '68)
Surfing life. Farrelly, M. (Ag '68)

Surgeons

Mayo, C. W. Mayo: the story of my family and my career. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Surgery*History

Cartwright, F. F. Development of modern surgery. (Je '68)

Surinam*Description and travel

Walsh, J. Time is short and the water rises. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Surprised by sin: the reader in Paradise lost. Fish, S. E. (Ap '68)

Surrender. White, R. (Je '68)

Survey of Christian ethics. Long, E. L. (Ag '68)

Surveys and soundings in European literature. Weigand, H. J. (Je '68)

Survival

Lifton, R. J. Death in life. (Ap '68)

Survival (after airplane accidents, shipwrecks, etc.)

Greenbank, A. Book of survival. (My '68)

Survival of Scotland: a new history of Scotland from Roman times to the present day. Linklater, E. (Ag '68)

Survival of the fittest. Johnson, P. H. (Ag '68)
Susanna, mother of the Wesleys. Harmon, R. L. (Je '68)

Swan in the evening. Lehmann, R. (Je '68)

Swans*Juvenile literature

McCoy, J. J. Swans. (Ap '68)

Swatantra party

Erdman, H. L. Swatantra party and Indian conservatism. (N '68)

Swatantra party and Indian conservatism. Erdman, H. L. (N '68)

Swaziland*History

Stevens, R. P. Lesotho, Botswana, & Swaziland. (Je '68)

Swearing

Montagu, A. Anatomy of swearing. (Mr '68)

Sweden*History

Roberts, M. Early Vasas. (N '68)

Social policy

Rosenthal, A. H. Social programs of Sweden. (Ag '68)

Swedes in the United States

Bjorn, T. F. Home has a heart (D '68)

Olsson, N. W. Swedish passenger arrivals in New York, 1820-1850. (S '68)

Swedish passenger arrivals in New York, 1820-1850. Olsson, N. W. (S '68)

Swift, Jonathan

Cook, R. I. Jonathan Swift as a Tory pamphleteer. (N '68)

Ehrenpreis, I. Swift: the man, his works, and the age, v2. (Je '68)

Jeffares, A. N., ed. Fair liberty was all his cry. (Ag '68)

Swift: the man, his works, and the age, v2. Ehrenpreis, I. (Je '68)

Swindlers and swindling

Hancock, R. Compleat swindler. (My '68)

Swinger's guide to London. Halasz, P. (My '68)

Switherby pilgrims. Spence, E. (Je '68)

Sword of Esau. Southall, I. (Ag '68)

Symbiosis

Ahmadjian, V. Lichen symbiosis. (D '68)

Symbolism

Bachofen, J. J. Myth, religion, and mother right. (Je '68)

Sorell, W. Story of the human hand. (Je '68)

Symbolism in literature

Balakian, A. Symbolist movement. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Symbolist movement. Balakian, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Symmetry*Juvenile literature

Razzell, A. G. Symmetry. (Ag '68)

Symmetry. Razzell, A. G. (Ag '68)

Symonds, John Addington

Symonds, J. A. Letters of John Addington Symonds. v 1. (My '68)

Synanon. Endore, G. (S '68)

Synanon Foundation

Endore, G. Synanon. (S '68)

Syndicalism

Renshaw, P. Wobblies. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Syndicate in the sun. Messick, H. (S '68)

Synod '67. Murphy, F. X. (Ag '68)

Syntax in English poetry, 1870-1930. Baker, W. E. (N '68)

System analysis

Buckley, W. Sociology and modern systems theory. (N '68)

System, change, and conflict. Demerath, N. J., ed. (O '68)

T. H. White. Warner, S. T. (Je '68)

T.V. baby poems. Ginsberg, A. (O '68)

Table

Staley, L. New trends in table setting. (D '68)

Table setting and decoration. See Table

Taft, Robert Alphonso

Kirk, R. Political principles of Robert A. Taft. (Je '68)

Taiping ideology. Shih, V. Y. C. (O '68)

Taiping rebellion, 1850-1864. See China—History
—Taiping rebellion, 1850-1864

Taiwan

Chen, L. C. Formosa, China and the United Nations. (S '68)

Bibliography

Berton, P. Contemporary China. (N '68)

Social conditions

Gallin, B. Hsin Hsing, Taiwan: a Chinese village in change. (Ag '68)

Taizé Community

Heijke, J. Ecumenical light on the renewal of religious community life: Taizé. (Mr '68)

Take a number. O'Neill, M. (N '68)

Tale of the unextinguished moon. Pilnyak, B. (Je '68)

Tales. Jones, L. (Mr '68)

Tales alive in Turkey. Walker, W. S. (Mr '68)

Tales from the ballet. Untermeyer, L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Talisman. Nestroy, J. (In his Three comedies). (Ag '68)

Talk. Rosenkrantz, L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Talk about America. Cooke, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Talking hands. Amon, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Talking without words. Ets, M. H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Talks with social scientists. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Taller than Bandai Mountain. D'Amelio, D. (N '68)

Taming megalopolis, 2v. Eldredge, H. W., ed. (Je '68)

Tammany Hall

Eisenstein, L. Stripe of Tammany's tiger. (My '68)

Tanganyika*Economic conditions

Bienen, H. Tanzania party transformation and economic development. (Ap '68)

Tanganyikan African National Union

Bienen, H. Tanzania party transformation and economic development (Ap '68)

Tanks (Military science)

Cooper, B. Battle of Cambrai. (N '68)

Tannenberg, David

Armstrong, W. H. Organs for America. (N '68)

Tanzania party transformation and economic development. Bienen, H. (Ap '68)

Tape and wire recorders*Juvenile literature

Peters, K. Your book of tape recording. (D '68)

Tartuffe. Molière, J. B. P. (O '68)

Tasmania*Description and travel

Arnold, T. New Zealand letters of Thomas Arnold the younger. (My '68)

Native races

Turnbull, C. Black war. (Mr '68)

Taste in America. Ross, I. (Ag '68)

Taxation*China (People's Republic of China)

Ecklund, G. N. Financing the Chinese government budget. (D '68)

- Great Britain
Tait, A. A. Taxation of personal wealth. (Ag '68)
- United States
Jantscher, G. R. Trusts and estate taxation. (Mr '68)
Tait, A. A. Taxation of personal wealth. (Ag '68)
Taxation of personal wealth. Tait, A. A. (Ag '68)
- Teachers
Ascham, R. Schoolmaster (1570). (Ag '68)
Burke, W. J. Not for glory—who are today's great teachers? (My '68)
Moustakas, C. Authentic teacher. (Ap '68)
Thelen, H. A. Classroom grouping for teachability. (Ap '68)
- Juvenile literature
Friedman, R. Freedom builders. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Teachers and politics in France. Clark, J. M. (Je '68)
- Teacher's guide to reading Piaget. Eng title of: A guide to reading Piaget. Brearley, M. (My '68)
- Teaching
Improving college teaching. (My '68)
Leonard, G. B. Education and ecstasy. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Moustakas, C. Authentic teacher. (Ap '68)
Thelen, H. A. Classroom grouping for teachability. (Ap '68)
- Aids and devices
MacLean, R. C. Television in education. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Rossi, P. H., ed. New media and education. (Ag '68)
- Experimental methods
See Education—Experimental methods
- Teaching, Freedom of. See Academic freedom
- Teaching as a profession
Brown, D. G. Mobile professors. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Burke, W. J. Not for glory—who are today's great teachers? (My '68)
- Teaching of history. Roucek, J. S., ed. (Ap '68)
- Teaneck, New Jersey
- Public schools
Damerell, R. G. Triumph in a white suburb. (Ap '68)
- Tear down the walls! Sterling, D. (D '68)
- Technical assistance
Freeman, O. L. World without hunger. (S '68)
Laufer, L. Israel and the developing countries: new approaches to cooperation. (N '68)
Müller, K. Foreign aid programs of the Soviet Bloc and Communist China. (Ag '68)
Stakman, E. C. Campaigns against hunger. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Technical education
Clark, H. F. Classrooms on Main Street. (Ap '68)
- Technique of portrait painting. Taubes, F. (Ag '68)
- Techniques of family therapy. Haley, J. (N '68)
- Techniques of fiction writing. Surmelian, L. (D '68)
- Techniques of the stage fight. Eng title of: Stage fight. Hobbs, W. (Ag '68)
- Technocracy
Elsner, H. Technocrats. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Technocrats. Elsner, H. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Technological history of motion pictures and television. Society of motion picture and television engineers. (D '68)
- Technology
Sussman, H. L. Victorians and the machine. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Dictionaries
Harper encyclopedia of science [rev ed]. (Je '68)
Pugh, E. Dictionary of acronyms & abbreviations. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- History
Kranzberg, M., ed. Technology in Western civilization, 2v. (Mr '68)
Pyke, M. Science century. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Technology and civilization
Casserley, J. V. L. In the service of man. (Ap '68)
Fromm, E. Revolution of hope. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Kostelanetz, R., ed. Beyond left & right. (D '68)
- Kranzberg, M., ed. Technology in Western civilization, 2v. (Mr '68)
- McLuhan, M. War and peace in the global village. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Ong, W. J., ed. Knowledge and the future of man. (My '68)
- Pyke, M. Science century. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Sackman, H. Computers, system science and evolving society. (O '68)
- Sykes, G. Cool millennium. (Mr '68)
- Sypher, W. Literature and technology. (O '68)
- Technology in the twentieth century; v2 of Technology in Western civilization. Kranzberg, M., ed. (Mr '68)
- Technology in Western civilization, 2v. Kranzberg, M., ed. (Mr '68)
- Teeth
Lambert, C. Clinic habit. (O '68)
- Teilhard de Chardin, Pierre
Rideau, E. Thought of Teilhard de Chardin. (Ap '68)
Speaight, R. Life of Teilhard de Chardin. (My '68)
Teilhard de Chardin, P. Letters to two friends, 1926-1952. (Ag '68)
- Teilhard de Chardin. Eng title of: The life of Teilhard de Chardin. Speaight, R. (My '68)
- Telecommunication
Sarnoff D. Looking ahead. (Ag '68)
- Telemeter (physiological apparatus)
Mackay, R. S. Bio-medical telemetry. (N '68)
- Television
Hawker, J. P. Radio and television: principles and applications. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Society of motion pictures and television engineers. Technological history of motion pictures and television. (D '68)
- Television broadcasting
Belson, W. A. Impact of television. (My '68)
Sopkin, C. Seven glorious days, seven fun-filled nights. (N '68)
Wood, W. A. Electronic journalism. (S '68)
- Television in education
Evans, R. I. Resistance to innovation in higher education. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Koenig, A. E., ed. Farther vision. (My '68)
MacLean, R. C. Television in education. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Television in politics
Lang, K. Politics and television. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Wyckoff, G. Image candidates. (Je '68)
- Tell it like it is. Stone, C. (Ap '68)
- Tell it to the dead. Eng title of: The reluctant medium. Davies, L. P. (Ap '68)
- Tell me how long the train's been gone. Baldwin, J. (O '68)
- Tell me that you love me, Junie Moon. Kellogg, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Teller in the tale. Rubin, L. D. (S '68)
- Temporary society. Bennis, W. G. (D '68)
- Les Temps Modernes (periodical)
Burnier, M. A. Choice of action. (O '68)
- Temptation to exist. Cioran, E. M. (Ag '68)
- Tennessee Valley Authority
Economic impact of TVA. (O '68)
- Tennis
Cutler, M. Tennis book. (S '68)
Laney, A. Covering the court. (N '68)
Talbert, B. Tennis observed. (Ap '68)
- Tennis book. Cutler, M. (S '68)
- Tennis observed. Talbert, B. (Ap '68)
- Tennyson, Alfred Tennyson, 1st Baron
Jump, J. D., ed. Tennyson. (Ag '68)
- Idylls of the King
Ryals, C. de L. From the great deep. (Ag '68)
- Tenth century
Duckett, E. Death and life in the tenth century. (Je '68)
- Term structure of interest rates. Malkiel, B. G. (Mr '68)
- Terra cotta
Higgins, R. A. Greek terracottas. (My '68)
- Terrariums
Hervey, G. F. Vivarium. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Terror on the mountain. Ramuz, C. F. (Je '68)
- Terrorized. Roskolenko, H. (D '68)
- Terry, Dame Ellen
Manvell, R. Ellen Terry. (Ag '68)
- Tessie. Jackson, J. (Ag '68)
- Testaments of the Grand Princes of Moscow. Howes, R. C., ed. & tr. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Teutonic race

- Thompson, E. A. Visigoths in the time of Ulfila. (My '68)
Texans. Nevin, D. (N '68)

Texas*Description and travel

- Sibley, M. M. Travelers in Texas, 1761-1860. (Mr '68)

History

- Chidsey, D. B. War with Mexico. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Sibley, M. M. Travelers in Texas, 1761-1860. (Mr '68)

Pictures, illustrations, etc.

- Pinckney, P. A. Painting in Texas. (N '68)

Social life and customs

- Nevin, D. Texans. (N '68)

Texas Rangers*Juvenile literature

- Mason, H. M. Texas rangers. (Mr '68)
Texas rangers. Mason, H. M. (Mr '68)

Textile industry and fabrics

- Linton, G. E. Applied basic textiles. (Ap '68)

Textile printing

- Proud, N. Introducing textile printing. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Thackeray, William Makepeace

- Tillotson, G., ed. Thackeray: the critical heritage. (O '68)
Thackeray: the critical heritage. Tillotson, G., ed. (O '68)

Thailand

- Wit, D. Thailand: another Vietnam? (S '68)

Economic conditions

- Muscat, R. J. Development strategy in Thailand. (Mr '68)

Economic policy

- Muscat, R. J. Development strategy in Thailand. (Mr '68)

Politics and government

- Lomax, L. E. Thailand: the war that is, the war that will be. (Ap '68)
Thailand: another Vietnam? Wit, D. (S '68)
Thailand: the war that is, the war that will be. Lomax, L. E. (Ap '68)
That better country. Barrett, J. (Ag '68)
That Lincoln boy. Miers, E. S. (Ag '68)
That remarkable man: Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. Meyer, E. P. (Mr '68)

Theater

- Bentley, E. Theatre of commitment. (Mr '68)
Kott, J. Theatre notebook. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

History

- Baur-Heinhold, M. Baroque theatre. (Je '68)
Gascoigne, B. World theatre. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Production and direction

- Fernald, J. Sense of direction. (N '68)

Asia

- Pronko, L. C. Theater East and West. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Asia, Southeastern

- Brandon, J. R. Theatre in Southeast Asia. (My '68)

Canada

- Novick, J. Beyond Broadway. (O '68)

England

- Bentley, G. E. Jacobean and Caroline stage. (N '68)
Burton, H., ed. Great acting. (S '68)

France

- Carlson, M. Theatre of the French revolution. (Mr '68)

Germany

- Ley-Piscator, M. Piscator experiment. (Ag '68)

Great Britain*History

- Sheldon, E. K. Thomas Sheridan of Smock-Alley. (Mr '68)

Greece

- Sifakis, G. M. Studies in the history of Hellenistic drama. (Mr '68)

Minneapolis

- Morison, B. G. In search of an audience. (N '68)

United States

- Gottfried, M. Theater divided. (My '68)
Kernan, A. B., ed. Modern American theater. (Ap '68)
Kostelanetz, R. Theatre of mixed means. (Je '68)
Ley-Piscator, M. Piscator experiment. (Ag '68)
Mathews, J. De H. Federal theatre, 1935-1939. (Mr '68)
Novick, J. Beyond Broadway. (O '68)
Schaffner, N. E. Fabulous Toby and me. (Ag '68)
Toohey, J. L. History of the Pulitzer prize plays. (O '68)

Bibliography

- Gohdes, C. Literature and theater of the states and regions of the U.S.A. (Mr '68)

History

- Dormon, J. H. Theater in the ante bellum south 1815-1861. (Ag '68)
Theater divided. Gottfried, M. (My '68)
Theater East and West. Pronko, L. C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Theatre in Southeast Asia. Brandon, J. R. (My '68)
Theater in the ante bellum south. Dormon, J. H. (Ag '68)
Theatre in the round. Joseph, S. (N '68)
Theatre notebook. Kott, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Theatre of commitment. Bentley, E. (Mr '68)
Theater of insects; v3 of The history of four-footed beasts and serpents and insects. Top-sell, E. (Mr '68)
Theatre of mixed means. Kostelanetz, R. (Je '68)
Theatre of the French revolution. Carlson, M. (Mr '68)

Theaters*Stage setting and scenery

- Rowell, K. Stage design. (O '68)

Theocritus*Idyllia

- Lawall, G. Theocritus' Coan pastorals. (Ag '68)
Theocritus' Coan pastorals. Lawall, G. (Ag '68)
Theological anthropology. Balthasar, H. U. von. (N '68)
Theological explorations. Van Buren, P. M. (O '68)
Theological investigations, v3. Rahner, K. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Theology

- Allison, C. F. Rise of moralism. (Ag '68)
Averill, L. J. American theology in the liberal tradition. (Ag '68)
Campbell, R., ed. Spectrum of Protestant beliefs. (Ag '68)
Capon, R. F. Offering of uncles. (Mr '68)
Eichrodt, W. Theology of the Old Testament, v2. (My '68)
Funk, R. W. Language, hermeneutic, and Word of God. (Ag '68)
Groff, W. F. Shaping of modern Christian thought. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
James, R. E. Concrete God. (D '68)
Kuhns, W. In pursuit of Dietrich Bonhoeffer. (Ap '68)
Maritain, J. Peasant of the Garonne. (My '68)
New catechism; Catholic faith for adults. (Mr '68)
Novak, M. Time to build. (Mr '68)
Patterson, L. G. God and history in early Christian thought. (Mr '68)
Pittenger, W. N. Reconceptions in Christian thinking, 1817-1967. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Schillebeeckx, E. Revelation and theology. (Je '68)
Tavard, G. H. Pilgrim church. (Mr '68)
Tillich, P. History of Christian thought [2d rev ed.]. (D '68)
Van Buren, P. M. Theological explorations. (O '68)
Zatko, J. J., comp. Valley of silence. (Je '68)
See also
Faith and reason

History

- Leff, G. Heresy in the later middle ages: the relation of heterodoxy to dissent, c. 1250-c. 1450, 2v. (Ag '68)
Osborn, R. T. Freedom in modern theology. (Ap '68)

Study and teaching

- Ellis, J. T. Essays in seminary education. (S '68)
Theology of hope. Moltmann, J. (Ap '68)
Theology of the Old Testament, v2. Eichrodt, W. (My '68)

- Theology of the spiritual life: v3 of Theological investigations. Rahner, K. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Theoretical issues in international economics. Clement, M. O. (Mr '68)
- Theories of child development. Baldwin, A. L. (My '68)
- Theory and methods of social research. Galtung, J. (S '68)
- Theory of political integration. Ake, C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Theory of the avant-garde. Poggioli, R. (N '68)
- Theory of the novel. Stevick, P., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Therapeutics
McGrady, P. M. Youth doctors. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- There's always another windmill. Nash, O. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Thermodynamics
Angrist, S. W. Order and chaos. (Mr '68)
Theses were not posted. Iserloh, E. (N '68)
They. Mannes, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
They lived in the ice age. May, J. (Mr '68)
They looked like this (Europe). Pedley, A., comp. (Ag '68)
They took their stand. Sterne, E. G. (Ag '68)
Thinking about women. Ellmann, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Thinking faith. Buri, F. (Je '68)
Third bank of the river. Rosa, J. G. (D '68)
Third killer. Wint, G. (Ag '68)
Third man. Cookridge, E. H. (Ag '68)
Third Reich of dreams. Beradt, C. (S '68)
Thirties. Boardman, F. W. (My '68)
36 children. Kohl, H. (Mr '68)
This baffling world. Godwin, J. (S '68)
This changing earth. Shimer, J. A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
This is an airport. Bagwell, R. (Ag '68)
This is the United Nations. Sasek, M. (O '68)
This nation. Wood, D. C., ed. (Je '68)
This raw land. Short, W. (Ag '68)
This stranger, my son. Wilson, L. (Je '68)
This Sunday. Donoso, J. (Ap '68)
This timeless moment. Huxley, L. A. (O '68)
This wounded land. Werstein, I. (O '68)
- Thomas, Gwyn
Thomas, G. Few selected exits. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Thomas and the warlock. Hunter, M. (Mr '68)
- Thomas Hardy and his readers. Lerner, L., ed. (O '68)
- Thomas, More and Tudor polemics. Pineas, R. (N '68)
- Thomas, Sheridan of Smock-Alley. Sheldon, E. K. (Mr '68)
- Thompson, Francis
Walsh, J. Strange harp, strange symphony. (Ap '68)
- Thoreau, Henry David
Anderson, C. R. Magic circle of Walden. (Je '68)
- Those elegant Rolls-Royce. Dalton, L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Those incredible Christians. Schonfield, H. J. (O '68)
- Those remarkable Cunards. Fielding, D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Those who walk away. Highsmith, P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Thought and thinking
De Bono, E. Five-day course in thinking. (Ag '68)
- Thought of Teilhard de Chardin. Rideau, E. (Ap '68)
- Thousand and one Buddhas. Floethe, L. L. (Mr '68)
- Thousand dollar yacht. Bailey, A. (Je '68)
- Three centuries of children's books in Europe. Hürlimann, B. (D '68)
- Three comedies. Nestroy, J. (Ag '68)
- Three faces of power. Berle, A. A. (Je '68)
- $300 man. Sanford, J. (My '68)
- Three modernists: Alfred Loisy, George Tyrrell, William L. Sullivan. Ratté, J. (Ap '68)
- Three plays. Frisch, M. (Ag '68)
- Three popes and the Jews. Lapide, P. E. (Je '68)
- Three sisters in black. Zierold, H. (D '68)
- Three suitors. Jones, R. (My '68)
- Throne and mandarins. Eastman, L. E. (My '68)
- Through a glass darkly. Bergman, I. (In his A film trilogy) (Ap '68)
- Through the vanishing point. McLuhan, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Thumb on the scale. Mowbray, A. Q. (Mr '68)
- Thus life began. Broms, A. (N '68)
- Thy daughter's nakedness. Kaufmann, M. S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Tibet
Chögyam Trungpa. Born in Tibet. (Ag '68)
Tucci, G. Tibet. (Mr '68)
- History
Shakabpa, T. W. D. Tibet: a political history. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Tibet: a political history. Shakabpa, T. W. D. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Tibetan foothold. Murphy, D. (S '68)
- Ticknor, George
Tyack, D. B. George Ticknor and the Boston Brahmins. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Tides
Juvenile literature
Clemons, E. Waves, tides, and currents. (Mr '68)
Kinney, J. What does the tide do? (Ap '68)
Tikki Tikki Tembo. Mosel, A. (Je '68)
Tikopia ritual and belief. Firth, R. (N '68)
- Tikopians
Firth, R. Tikopia ritual and belief. (N '68)
Firth, R. Work of the gods in Tikopia [2d ed]. (N '68)
- Tilden, Samuel Jones
Juvenile literature
Robinson, L. Stolen election. (N '68)
- Tiles
Berendsen, A. Tiles. (Mr '68)
- Tillich, Paul Johannes
Hopper, D. Tillich: a theological portrait. (Ap '68)
Tillich: a theological portrait. Hopper, D. (Ap '68)
- Timbuktu
Gardner, B. Quest for Timbuctoo. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Time
Gunnell, J. G. Political philosophy and time. (O '68)
- Time, incorporated
Elson, R. T. Time inc. (D '68)
Kobler, J. Luce: his Time, Life, and Fortune. (My '68)
- Time and a place. Humphrey, W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Time for treason. Hesky, O. (Je '68)
- Time inc. Elson, R. T. (D '68)
- Time is short and the water rises. Walsh, J. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Time of glory. Denieul-Cormier, A. (My '68)
- Time of parting. Donchev, A. (Ag '68)
- Time of war, a time of peace. McGovern, G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Time to build. Novak, M. (Mr '68)
- Times atlas of the world [comprehensive ed]. The Times (London). (D '68)
- Timoshenko, Stephen P.
Timoshenko, S. P. As I remember. (Ag '68)
- Tirpitz (Battleship)
Peillard, L. Sink the Tirpitz! (D '68)
- Titus alone; v3 of Gormenghast trilogy. Peake, M. (Mr '68)
- Titus Groan; v 1 of Gormenghast trilogy. Peake, M. (Mr '68)
- To abolish children. Shapiro, K. (O '68)
- To be young was very heaven. Peabody, M. L. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- To Brooklyn with love. Green, G. (Ap '68)
- To change a child: a report on the Institute for developmental studies. Powledge, P. (O '68)
- To comfort and to challenge. Glock, C. Y. (Ag '68)
- To dream upon a crown. Williamson, J. S. (Mr '68)
- To England with love. Eng title of: The English. Frost, D. (Ap '68)
- To forget Palermo. Charles-Roux, E. (S '68)
- To glory we steer. Kent, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- To grandfather's house we go. Devlin, H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- To heal and to build. Johnson, L. B. (N '68)
- To hell in a day coach. Lyon, P. (Ap '68)
- To lay a hearth. Scovel, M. (N '68)
- To market! to market! Mother Goose. (Ag '68)
- To my daughters, with love. Buck, P. S. (Mr '68)
- To seek a newer world. Kennedy, R. F. (Mr '68)
- To tell my people. Pollard, M. (D '68)
- To the end of the world. Cendrars, B. (S '68)
- To the top of the world. Kuralt C. (Ag '68)
- To what end. Just, W. S. (Ag '68)
- Toad hunt. Chenery, J. (Ap '68)
- Toads. See Frogs
- Tobey, Mark
Schmied, W. Tobey. (Ap '68)

Tocqueville, Alexis Charles Henri Maurice
Clérel de
Zetterbaum, M. Tocqueville and the problem of democracy. (My '68)
Tocqueville and the problem of democracy.
Zetterbaum, M. (My '68)

Tokyo*Description

Kirkup, J. Tokyo. (Ag '68)
Tokyo. Kirkup, J. (Ag '68)
Tolkien, John Ronald Reuel
Isaacs, N. D., ed. Tolkien and the critics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Ready, W. Tolkien relation. (D '68)
Tolkien and the critics. Isaacs, N. D., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Tolkien relation. Ready, W. (D '68)
Tolstoi, Lev Nikolaevich, graf. See Tolstoy, Leo
Tolstoy, Leo
Matlaw R. E., ed. Tolstoy. (Ap '68)
Simmons, E. J. Introduction to Tolstoy's writings. (O '68)
Spence, G. W. Tolstoy the ascetic. (O '68)
Troyat, H. Tolstoy. (Ap '68)

Juvenile literature

Rothkopf, C. Z. Leo Tolstoy. (Ag '68)
Tolstoy on education. Tolstoy, L. (Je '68)
Tolstoy the ascetic. Spence, G. W. (O '68)
Tolstoy's writings on civil disobedience and non-violence. Tolstoy, L. (Je '68)
Tom Harris. Themerson, S. (Ag '68)
Tomorrow will come. Almedingen, E. M. (D '68)
Tomorrow's church. Holmes, W. A. (Ag '68)
Tomorrow's news. Duffus, R. L. (S '68)
Tomstad, Gunvald
Hansson, P. Greatest gamble. (Mr '68)
Too strong for fantasy. Davenport, M. (1967, 1968 Annual)
Top steal. Tack, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Toronto metropolitan area

Politics and government

Kaplan, H. Urban political systems. (S '68)
Torres, Camilo
Torres, C. Camilo Torres: his life and his message. (D '68)
Torture of mothers. Nelson, T. (O '68)
Totalitarian rule. Buchheim, H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Totalitarianism
Buchheim, H. Totalitarian rule. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Touch. Gunn, T. (Ag '68)
Tough guy writers of the thirties. Madden, D., ed. (O '68)
Tour on the prairies. Irving, W. (Je '68)
Toward a better America. Samuel, H. D., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Toward a democratic left. Harrington, M. (Ag '68)
Toward a manpower policy. Gordon, R. A., ed. (S '68)
Toward a social landscape. Lyons, N., ed. (Ag '68)
Toward a theory of minority-group relations. Blalock, H. M. (O '68)
Toward an effective critique of American education. McClellan, J. E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Toward the African revolution. Fanon, F. (Mr '68)
Towards a new past. Bernstein, B. J., ed. (Je '68)
Towards a pax Africana. Mazrui, A. A. (Mr '68)
Towards a sociology of management. Vickers, G. (O '68)
Tower of Babel. West, M. L. (My '68)
Tower of Babel. Wiesner, W. (Ag '68)

Toys*History

Remise, J. Golden age of toys. (S '68)
Traces on the Rhodian shore. Glacken, C. J. (Ap '68)
Tracks. Ennion E. A. R. (Ag '68)
Trade and trade policy for development. Burenstam Linder, S. (Ag '68)
Trade liberalization among industrial countries: objectives and alternatives. Balassa, B. (My '68)
Trade routes
Wolters, O. W. Early Indonesian commerce. (My '68)
Trade unionism in Africa. Meynaud, J. (My '68)
Trade unions. See Labor unions
Trader Vic's Pacific Island cookbook. (Ag '68)
Tradition of poetry. Buxton, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Tradition of Smollett. Giddings, R. (Ap '68)
Trafalgar, Battle of, 1805
Ribbons, I. Monday, 21 October 1805. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Tragedies of Euripides. Webster, T. B. L. (Ag '68)
Tragedy
Kerr, W. Tragedy and comedy. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Tragedy and comedy. Kerr, W. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Tragic commodore. Hoyt, E. P. (Mr '68)
Trail of apple blossoms. Hunt, I. (Ag '68)
Trail of the Iroquois Indians. Reaman, G. E. (Ag '68)

Tramps

Allsop, K. Hard travelling. (My '68)

Transcendentalism

Heidegger, M. What is a thing? (S '68)
Transformations in late eighteenth century art. Rosenblum, R. (Ap '68)
Transforming America. Mack, R. W. (Ag '68)
Transplantation of organs, tissues, etc.
Hawthorne, P. Transplanted heart. (Ag '68)
Longmore, D. Spare-part surgery. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Transplanted heart. Hawthorne, P. (Ag '68)
Transportation
Wu, Y-L. Spatial economy of Communist China. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

History

Moody, R. Stagecoach West. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Juvenile literature

Ross, F. Transportation of tomorrow. (N '68)
Transportation of tomorrow. Ross, F. (N '68)

Transvaal*History*War of 1880-1881

Ransford, O. Battle of Majuba Hill. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Transvaal War, 1880-1881. See Transvaal—History—War of 1880-1881

Trapping

Russell, C. P. Firearms, traps, & tools of the mountain men. (Ag '68)
Traps for the young. Comstock, A. (S '68)
Trash stealer. Potts, J. (O '68)
Traveler from a small kingdom. Neville E. C. (Ag '68)

Travelers, American

Finnie, D. H. Pioneers east. (My '68)

Travelers, English

Hampden, J., ed. New worlds ahead. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Travelers in Texas, 1761-1860. Sibley, M. M. (Mr '68)
Traveling out. Adler, L. (Mr '68)
Traveller extraordinary. Reid, J. M. (O '68)
Travelling to Tripiti. Steger, H. U. (Ag '68)
Treasures of prehistoric art. Lerol-Gourhan, A. (My '68)

Treasures of Spain from Altamira to the Catholic kings. Pita Andrade, J. M. (Ap '68)

Treaties

Israel, F. L., ed. Major peace treaties of modern history, 1648-1967. (Ag '68)
Treatise on justice. Bodenheimer, E. (My '68)
Treatise on limnology, v2. Hutchinson, G. E. (Mr '68)

Tree on fire. Sillitoe, A. (O '68)

Trees*North America

Grimm, W. C. Familiar trees of America. (Ap '68)
Trends in the world aluminum industry. Brubaker, S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Trial at Nuremberg. Columbia broadcasting system, Incorporated. CBS News. (Ag '68)
Trial courts in urban politics. Dolbeare, K. M. (N '68)
Trial of Marshal Pétain. Roy, J. (My '68)
Trial of Queen Caroline. Fulford, R. (Je '68)
Trial of the assassin Guiteau. Rosenberg, C. E. (O '68)

Trials

Association of the bar of the City of New York. Special committee on radio, television, and the administration of justice. Freedom of the press and fair trial. (Mr '68)
Christie, T. L. Etched in arsenic. (My '68)
De Camp, L. S. Great monkey trial. (Mr '68)
Dinnerstein, L. Leo Frank case. (Ag '68)
Eldredge, L. H. Trials of a Philadelphia lawyer. (S '68)
Heller, L. B. Do you solemnly swear? (My '68)

- MacDonald, J. D. No deadly drug. (D '68)
 Rembar, C. End of obscenity. (Ag '68)
 Rose, A. M. Libel and academic freedom. (O '68)
 Smith, E. Brief against death. (N '68)
 Wilbourne, W. W. Wheels. (N '68)
 Zierold, H. Three sisters in black. (D '68)
 Trials of a Philadelphia lawyer. Eldredge, L. H. (S '68)
 Trials of Dr. Coppolino. Holmes, P. (Ag '68)
 Trimming the ark. Derrick, C. (Mr '68)

Trinity

- Grant, R. M. Early Christian doctrine of God. (Mr '68)
 Triple Ridge Farm. Pochmann, R. F. (Je '68)
Tripoli, Lebanon
 Gulick, J. Tripoli: a modern Arab city. (Ag '68)
 Tripoli: a modern Arab city. Gulick, J. (Ag '68)

Tristan da Cunha

- Earle, A. Narrative of a residence in New Zealand, [and] Journal of a residence in Tristan da Cunha. (Ag '68)
 Triumph. Galbraith, J. K. (Je '68)
 Triumph and turmoil. Mowrer, E. A. (N '68)
 Triumph in a white suburb. Damerell, R. G. (Ap '68)
 Triumph of Bolshevism. Tompkins, S. R. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Triumph of nationalism. Murphy, W. P. (Je '68)
 Triumphant empire: the empire beyond the storm, 1770-1776; v13 of The British empire before the American revolution. Gipson, L. H. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Triumphs and trials of Lotta Crabtree. Dempsey, D. (O '68)

Troeltsch, Ernst

- Pauck, W. Harnack and Troeltsch. (N '68)
 Trojan women (Euripides). Sartre, J. P. (S '68)

Tropics*Juvenile literature

- Borten, H. Jungle. (Ag '68)
Trotsky, Leon
 Wolfenstein, E. V. Revolutionary personality. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

- Columbia broadcasting system, incorporated. CBS News. Lenin and Trotsky. (Ag '68)
 Troubadour. Crofut, W. (Ag '68)
 Trouble with Marx. Wright, D. M. (O '68)
 Troubled continent. Hyde, D. (Ap '68)
 Troubled generation. Wittenberg, R. M. (My '68)
 Troubled giant. Northedge, F. S. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Truants. Walsh, J. (O '68)
 True book of rivers. Carlisle, N. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 True grit. Portis, C. (O '68)
 True story of Okee the otter. Wisbeski, D. (Mr '68)

Truman, Harry S.

- Kirkendall, R. S., ed. Truman period as a research field. (O '68)
 Ross, I. Loneliest campaign. (Je '68)
 Truman period as a research field. Kirkendall, R. S., ed. (O '68)

Trumbull, John

- Sizer, T. Works of Colonel John Trumbull [rev ed] (Mr '68)

Trusts, Industrial

- Schisgall, O. Magic of mergers. (Ag '68)
 Trusts and estate taxation. Jantscher, G. R. (Mr '68)

Tu Fu

- Hawkes, D. Little primer of Tu Fu. (Mr '68)

Tun-huang, Kansu

- De Silva, A. Art of Chinese landscape painting. (Ag '68)
 Tunc, Durrell, L. (Je '68)
 Tune beyond us. Livingston, M. C., ed. (Ag '68)

- Tuned out. Wojciechowska, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Tunnels*Juvenile literature

- Gramet, C. Highways across waterways. (My '68)

Turkey*Antiquities

- Pearson, K. Dorak affair. (My '68)

Foreign relations

- Cassels, L. Struggle for the Ottoman Empire, 1717-1740. (O '68)

History

- Cassels, L. Struggle for the Ottoman Empire, 1717-1740. (O '68)

Social conditions

- Kazamias, A. M. Education and the quest for modernity in Turkey. (Je '68)
 Turn in the dark wood. Stephens, E. C. (Ag '68)
 Turn left at the pub. Oakes, G. W. (N '68)
Turnbull, Andrew
 Panagopoulos, E. P. New Smyrna. (Ap '68)
 Turner, Frederick Jackson
 Hofstadter, R. Progressive historians. (D '68)

The significance of the frontier in American history

- Hofstadter, R., ed. Turner and the sociology of the frontier. (Ag '68)

Turner, Nat

- Clarke, J. H., ed. William Styron's Nat Turner. (O '68)

Fiction

- Styron, W. Confessions of Nat Turner. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Turner and the sociology of the frontier. Hofstadter, R., ed. (Ag '68)

Turtles

- Carr, A. So excellent a fishe. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Stories

- Domanska, J. Look, there is a turtle flying. (S '68)

Tutenkhamun, King of Egypt*Juvenile literature

- Glubok, S. Discovering Tut-ankh-Amen's tomb. (N '68)

Twain, Mark. See Clemens, S. L.

- Twelve. Franqui, C. (Ag '68)

- Twelve against empire. Beisner, R. L. (Je '68)

Twelve-tone system

- Perle, G. Serial composition and atonality [2d ed rev & enl]. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Twentieth century

- Cowles, V. 1913: an end and a beginning. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- Kahn, H. Year 2000. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Twentieth century; v6 of History of mankind. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Twentieth century interpretations of The great

- Gatsby. Lockridge, E. H., ed. (S '68)

- Twentieth century mind. Zoll, D. A. (Je '68)

- Twenty poems. Neruda, P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

- 20,000 years of world painting. Jaffé, H. L. C., ed. (S '68)

Twiggy. See Hornby, Lesley

- Twiggy. Twiggy. (D '68)

- Twiggy and Justin. Whiteside, T. (Ag '68)

- Twilight province. Eng title of: Watch fires to the north. Finkel, G. (Ag '68)

- Twilight struggle. Rogers, W. D. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Twins

- Scheinfeld, A. Twins and supertwins. (Ag '68)

- Twins and supertwins. Scheinfeld, A. (Ag '68)

- Two brothers in the French revolution: Robert and Thomas Lindet. Dupre, H. (O '68)

- Two concepts of allegory. Nuttall, A. D. (Ap '68)

- Two faces of Asia. Myron, R. (Ap '68)

- Two faces of co-existence. Berzins, A. (Je '68)

- Two French revolutions, 1789-1796. Ferrero, G. (Je '68)

- Two glants. Foreman, M. (Mr '68)

- Two hundred rabbits. Anderson, L. (Ag '68)

- Two revolutions. Lockhart, R. H. B. (S '68)

- Two shores of hell. Ray, M. (O '68)

- Two studies in the theology of Bonhoeffer. Moltmann, J. (Ag '68)

- Two thousand years in Rome. Mertz, R. (Je '68)

- Two variants in Caribbean race relations. Hoetink, H. (S '68)

- Two windmills. Reesink, M. (Mr '68)

- Two wise children. Graves, R. (Mr '68)

- Tynan right & left. Tynan, K. (Mr '68)

- Type and type founding

- Sutton, J. Atlas of typeforms. (D '68)

- Types of economic theory, v 1. Mitchell, W. C. (Je '68)

Typesetting

- Tschichold, J. Asymmetric typography. (Je '68)

- Typhoon that stopped a war. Hoyt, E. P. (S '68)

- Typhoons

- Hoyt, E. P. Typhoon that stopped a war. (S '68)

- Tyranny of love. Spencer, C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Tyrone Guthrie Theatre, Minneapolis
Morison, B. G. In search of an audience. (N '68)

Tyrrell, George
Ratté, J. Three modernists: Alfred Loisy, George Tyrrell, William L. Sullivan. (Ap '68)

U.A.R. in development. Kardouche, G. K. (Je '68)

UFOs—identified. Klass, P. J. (My '68)

UN secretary-general and the maintenance of peace. Gordenker, L. (Ap '68)

U.S. policy and the security of Asia. Greene, F. (Ag '68)

U.S. trade policy. Evans, J. W. (N '68)

Ukigumo of Futabatei Shimei. See Ryan, M. G. Japan's first modern novel. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Ulfilas, Bp.
Thompson, E. A. Visigoths in the time of Ulfila. (My '68)

Umlauf, Charles
Umlauf, C. Charles Umlauf, sculptor. (Ag '68)

Unamuno y Jugo, Miguel de
Ilie, P. Unamuno: an existential view of self and society. (Ap '68)

Rubia Barcia, J., ed. Unamuno: creator and creation. (Ap '68)

Unamuno: an existential view of self and society. Ilie, P. (Ap '68)

Unamuno: creator and creation. Rubia Barcia, J., ed. (Ap '68)

Uncertain friendship. Neu, C. E. (Ag '68)

Uncertain mandate. Lefever, E. W. (My '68)

Uncertain trumpet. Greeley, A. M. (S '68)

Undeclared war [2d ed.]. Wiskemann, E. (Je '68)

Under fire. Robinson, D., ed. (Ag '68)

Under fire. Stein, M. L. (Ag '68)

Underdeveloped areas
Adelman, I. Society, politics & economic development. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Burenstam Linder, S. Trade and trade policy for development. (Ag '68)

Challenge of development, theory and practice. (Ap '68)

Hannah, H. W. Legal base for universities in developing countries. (Ag '68)

Johnson, H. G. Economic policies toward less developed countries. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

MacBean, A. I. Export instability and economic development. (Mr '68)

Morris, B. R. Economic growth and development. (Ap '68)

Müller, K. Foreign aid programs of the Soviet Bloc and Communist China. (Ag '68)

Nash, M. Primitive and peasant economic systems. (Ag '68)

Sawyer, C. A. Communist trade with developing countries, 1955-65. (Je '68)

Ward, B. Lopsided world. (O '68)

Youngson, A. J. Overhead capital. (N '68)

Understanding and counseling the alcoholic [rev & enl ed.]. Clinebell, H. J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Understanding of music. Hoffer, C. R. (S '68)

Underwater archeology. See Archeology

Unemployed
Aiken, M. Economic failure, alienation, and extremism. (D '68)

Gordon, R. A., ed. Toward a manpower policy. (S '68)

Unfair to Goliath. Kishon, E. (Ag '68)

Unfinished journey. (N '68)

Unfinished revolution. Russia, 1917-1967. Deutscher, I. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Unfought battle. Kimche, J. (Je '68)

Ungentlemanly art. Hess, S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Uniforms, Military
Kannik, P. Military uniforms in color. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Miller, A. E. H., comp. Military drawings and paintings in the collection of Her Majesty the Queen, v 1. (Ag '68)

Unimportance of being Oscar. Levant, O. (O '68)

Uninvited visitors. Sanderson, I. T. (My '68)

Union of Burma [4th ed.]. Tinker, H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Union pamphlets of the Civil War, 1861-1865, 2v. Freidel, F., ed. (S '68)

Unions in postwar America. Pierson, F. C. (Je '68)

United Nations
Carroll, F. South West Africa & the United Nations. (S '68)

Cox, A. M. Prospects for peacekeeping. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Lefever, E. W. Uncertain mandate. (My '68)

Miller, L. B. World order and local disorder. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

O'Brien, C. C. United Nations: sacred drama. (O '68)

Walton, R. J. Remnants of power. (D '68)

Worldmark encyclopedia of the nations, 5v [3d ed.]. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Juvenile literature

Kelen, E. Stamps tell the story of the United Nations. (O '68)

Sasek, M. This is the United Nations. (O '68)

Officials and employees

Gordenker, L. UN secretary-general and the maintenance of peace. (Ap '68)

United States

Bishop, D. G. Administration of United States foreign policy through the United Nations. (Ag '68)

United Nations. Conciliation Commission for Palestine

Azcárate, P. de. Mission in Palestine, 1948-1952. (My '68)

United Nations: sacred drama. O'Brien, C. C. (O '68)

United States

Anecdotes, facetiae, satire, etc.

Hays, B. Hotbed of tranquility. (S '68)

Antiquities

Silverberg, R. Mound builders of ancient America. (O '68)

Armed Forces

Baldwin, W. L. Structure of the defense market, 1955-1964. (O '68)

Levantrosser, W. F. Congress and the citizen-soldier. (O '68)

Bio-bibliography

Paluka, F. Iowa authors: a bio-bibliography of sixty native writers. (Ap '68)

Biography

Anderson, P. Presidents' men. (D '68)

Juvenile literature

Archer, J. Unpopular ones. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Sterne, E. G. They took their stand. (Ag '68)

Portraits

Cirker, H., ed. Dictionary of American portraits. (Ag '68)

Church history

Brauer, J. C., ed. Reinterpretation in American church history. (D '68)

Clebsch, W. A. From sacred to profane America: the role of religion in American history. (Ag '68)

Civilization

Ambrose, S. E., ed. Institutions in modern America. (Ag '68)

Americana Norvegica. Norwegian contributions to American studies, v 1. (Mr '68)

Bode, C., ed. American life in the 1840s. (Je '68)

Brandon, H. Conversations with Henry Brandon. (Ag '68)

Buckley, W. F. Jeweler's eye. (S '68)

Cooke, A. Talk about America. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Didion, J. Slouching towards Bethlehem. (Ag '68)

Guttmann, A. Conservative tradition in America. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Kostelanetz, R., ed. Beyond left & right. (D '68)

Levy, A. Culture vultures. (N '68)

Morris, W. Bill of rites, a bill of wrongs, a bill of goods. (My '68)

Nash, R. Wilderness and the American mind. (Mr '68)

Ross, I. Taste in America. (Ag '68)

Sann, P. Fads, follies and delusions of the American people. (My '68)

Somkin, F. Unquiet eagle. (N '68)

Stone, I. F. In a time of torment. (Mr '68)

Tanner, L. All the things we were. (My '68)

Wakefield, D. Supernation at peace and war. (O '68)

Webster, N. On being American. (My '68)

White, G. E. Eastern establishment and the Western experience. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Winick, C. New people. (S '68)

Wolfe, T. Pump house gang. (D '68)

Zoll, D. A. Twentieth century mind. (Je '68)

Anecdotes, facetiae, satire, etc.

Buchwald, A. Have I ever lied to you? (Je '68)
 King, L. L. . . . and other dirty stories.
 (D '68)

Juvenile literature

Kennedy, J. F. John F. Kennedy talks to young people. (N '68)

Colonial question

Reuter, F. T. Catholic influence on American colonial policies, 1898-1904. (Mr '68)

Commerce

McCormick, T. J. China market. (Ag '68)
 Mintz, L. Cyclical fluctuations in the exports of the United States since 1879. (N '68)

Commercial policy

Evans, J. W. U.S. trade policy. (N '68)

Constitutional history

Murphy, W. P. Triumph of nationalism. (Je '68)

Constitutional law

Dorsen, N. Frontiers of civil liberties. (D '68)

Defenses

Jordan, A. A., ed. Issues of national security in the 1970's. (Ag '68)
 Lapp, R. E. Weapons culture. (Je '68)
 LeMay, C. E. America is in danger. (Ag '68)
 McGovern, G. Time of war, a time of peace. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 McNamara, R. S. Essence of security. (N '68)
 Universities-National bureau committee for economic research. Issues in defense economics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Description and travel

Bissell, R. How many miles to Galena? (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Dana, R. H. Journal of Richard Henry Dana. 3v. (O '68)
 Kamehameha IV. Journal of Prince Alexander Liholiho. (O '68)
 Powell, T. Restless American. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

Bielawski, J. G. My country, U.S.A. (Mr '68)

Diplomatic and consular service

Bailey, T. A. Art of diplomacy. (Ag '68)
 Briggs, E. Anatomy of diplomacy. (S '68)
 Kennan, G. F. Memoirs, 1925-1950. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Economic conditions

Andreano, R. L., ed. New views on American economic development. (Je '68)
 Baldwin, W. L. Structure of the defense market. 1955-1964. (O '68)
 Beals, C. Great revolt and its leaders. (N '68)
 Clough, S. B. Economic basis of American civilization. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Coleman, J. R., ed. Changing American economy. (Ap '68)
 Deutscher, I., ed. Among the people: encounters with the poor. (D '68)
 Dillard, D. Economic development of the North Atlantic community. (N '68)
 Douglas, P. H. In our time. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Green, C. Negative taxes and the poverty problem. (S '68)
 Harrington, M. Toward a democratic left. (Ag '68)
 Harris, F. R. Alarms and hopes. (S '68)
 Mack, R. W. Transforming America. (Ag '68)
 Perloff, H. S., ed. Issues in urban economics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Seligman, B. B. Permanent poverty. (O '68)
 Waxman, C. L. comp. Poverty. (O '68)
 Wolfbein, S. L. Occupational information. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

1865-1898

Hacker, L. M. World of Andrew Carnegie: 1865-1901. (My '68)

20th century

Ambrose, S. E., ed. Institutions in modern America. (Ag '68)

1945-

Denison, E. F. Why growth rates differ. (Ag '68)

1961-

Lerner, J., ed. Poverty: views from the left. (O '68)

Economic policy

Baker, L. Guaranteed society. (N '68)
 Evans, J. W. U.S. trade policy. (N '68)
 Gross, B. M., ed. Great society? (Ag '68)

Heller, W. W., ed. Perspectives on economic growth. (O '68)

Janeway, E. Economics of crisis: war, politics and the dollar. (Ap '68)

Kelso, L. O. How to turn eighty million workers into capitalists on borrowed money. (Ag '68)

Rockefeller, N. A. Unity, freedom & peace. (D '68)

Wright, J. E. Galena lead district. (My '68)

Foreign opinion

Hernon, J. M. Celts, Catholics & copperheads. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Wise, S. F. Canada views the United States. (N '68)

Foreign population

Fermi, L. Illustrious immigrants. (Je '68)

O'Grady, J. P., ed. Immigrants' influence on Wilson's peace policies. (N '68)

Foreign relations

Bailey, T. A. Art of diplomacy. (Ag '68)

Baldwin, D. A. Economic development and American foreign policy, 1943-62. (Ap '68)

Ball, G. W. Discipline of power. (Je '68)

Barnet, R. J. Intervention and revolution. (N '68)

Beichman, A. "Other" State Department. (N '68)

Beisner, R. L. Twelve against empire. (Je '68)

Bemis, S. F., ed. American secretaries of state and their diplomacy, v17. (Ag '68)

Briggs, E. Anatomy of diplomacy. (S '68)

Brown, S. Faces of power. (N '68)

Cottam, R. W. Competitive interference and twentieth century diplomacy. (My '68)

Draper, T. Abuse of power. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Einstein, L. Diplomat looks back. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Fox, W. T. R. NATO and the range of American choice. (Je '68)

Freidin, S. Experts. (S '68)

Hoffmann, S. Gulliver's troubles; or. The setting of American foreign policy. (S '68)

Horowitz, D., ed. Containment and revolution. (Mr '68)

Howe, I., ed. Dissenter's guide to foreign policy. (D '68)

Kennan, G. F. Memoirs, 1925-1950. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Kennedy, E. M. Decisions for a decade. (D '68)

Kennedy, R. F. To seek a newer world. (Mr '68)

Levin, N. G. Woodrow Wilson and world politics. (O '68)

McCarthy, E. J. Limits of power. (1967, 1968 Annual)

McGovern, G. Time of war, a time of peace. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

May, E. R. American imperialism. (N '68)

May, E. R., ed. Anxiety and affluence: 1945-1965. (Mr '68)

Morse, A. D. While six million died. (Ap '68)

O'Grady, J. P., ed. Immigrants' influence on Wilson's peace policies. (N '68)

Riencourt, A. de. American empire. (N '68)

Rovere, R. H. Waist deep in the big muddy. (Ag '68)

Samuel, H. D., ed. Toward a better America. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Steel, R. Pax Americana. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Walton, R. J. Remnants of power. (D '68)

Waltz, K. N. Foreign policy and democratic politics. (Mr '68)

Wolf, C. United States and the third world. (Ap '68)

Juvenile literature

Rink, P. In defense of freedom. (Ag '68)

Africa

Morrow, J. H. First American ambassador to Guinea. (N '68)

Africa, South

Hance, W. A., ed. Southern Africa and the United States. (S '68)

Africa, Sub-Saharan

Emerson, R. Africa and United States policy. (My '68)

Asia

Greene, F. U.S. policy and the security of Asia. (Ag '68)

Middleton, D. America's stake in Asia. (Je '68)

Reischauer, E. O. Beyond Vietnam: the United States and Asia. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Canada

Craig, G. M. United States and Canada. (S '68)

United States—Foreign relations—ContinuedChina

Varg, P. A. Making of a myth: the United States and China, 1879-1912. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

China (People's Republic of China)

Chen, L. C. Formosa, China, and the United Nations. (S '68)
Young, K. T. Negotiating with the Chinese Communists: the United States experience, 1953-1967. (My '68)

Cuba

Lazo, M. Dagger in the heart. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Plank, J., ed. Cuba and the United States. (Je '68)

Dominican Republic

Hammarskjöld forum, 9th, New York, May 2, 1966. Dominican Republic crisis, 1965. (Ap '68)

East (Far East)

Warburg, J. P. Western intruders. (Je '68)

Europe

Lerche, C. O. Last chance in Europe. (Mr '68)

Europe, Eastern

American assembly. United States and Eastern Europe. (Ag '68)

France

Brinton, C. Americans and the French. (Je '68)
Kaplan, L. S. Jefferson and France. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Germany

Friedländer, S. Prelude to downfall: Hitler and the United States, 1939-1941. (Mr '68)

Great Britain

Bourne, K. Britain and the balance of power in North America. 1815-1908. (S '68)
Merk, F. Oregon question. (1967, 1968 Annual)
Perkins, B. Great rapprochement. (D '68)

Japan

Farago, L. Broken seal. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Koginos, M. T. Panay incident. (O '68)
Neu, C. E. Uncertain friendship. (Ag '68)

Korea

Cho, S. S. Korea in world politics, 1940-1950. (My '68)

Latin America

Slater, J. OAS and United States foreign policy. (My '68)

Near East

Badeau, J. S. American approach to the Arab world. (S '68)

Panama

Liss, S. B. Canal. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Russia

Copp, D. S. Incident at Boris Gleb. (My '68)
Druks, H. Harry S. Truman and the Russians, 1945-1953. (Ap '68)
Farnsworth, B. William C. Bullitt and the Soviet Union. (Mr '68)
Feis, H. Contest over Japan. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Fontaine, A. History of the cold war. (Ag '68)

South America

Billingsley, E. B. In defense of neutral rights. (Je '68)

Thailand

Lomax, L. E. Thailand; the war that is, the war that will be. (Ap '68)

Vietnam

Herman, E. S. America's Vietnam policy. (Ag '68)
Lawyers committee on American policy towards Vietnam. Consultative council. Vietnam and international law. (N '68)
Lederer, W. J. Our own worst enemy. (S '68)

Galleries and museums

Christensen, E. O. Guide to art museums in the United States. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Larrabee, E., ed. Museums and education. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Government publicationsBibliography

Leidy, W. P. Popular guide to government publications [3d ed.]. (Ag '68)

Historic houses, etc.

Krythe, M. R. What so proudly we hail. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

History

Anderson, P. Presidents' men. (D '68)
Bernstein, B. J., ed. Towards a new past. (Je '68)
Franklin, B. Papers of Benjamin Franklin, v 11. (D '68)
Holt, W. S. Historical scholarship in the United States (My '68)
May, E. R. American imperialism. (N '68)
Woodward, C. V., ed. Comparative approach to American history. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

Morsbach, M. Negro in American life. (Ap '68)

Philosophy

Hofstadter, R., ed. Turner and the sociology of the frontier. (Ag '68)

Study and teaching

Nichols, R. F. Historian's progress. (O '68)

Colonial period

American heritage. American heritage history of the thirteen colonies. (Mr '68)
Carse, R. Ports of call. (Mr '68)
Corkran, D. H. Creek frontier, 1540-1783. (Mr '68)
Craven, W. F. Colonies in transition, 1660-1713. (Ag '68)
Edmonds, W. D. Musket and the cross. (My '68)
Gipson, L. H. British empire before the American revolution, v13. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Katz, S. N. Newcastle's New York. (N '68)
Rouse, P. Planters and pioneers. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Savelle, M. Origins of American diplomacy: the international history of Angloamerica, 1492-1763. (O '68)
Schlesinger, A. M. Birth of the nation. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Colonial period—Juvenile literature

Sanderlin, G., ed. 1776: journals of American independence. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Scott, J. A. Settlers on the Eastern shore, 1607-1750. (My '68)

Colonial period—Sources

Greene, J. P., ed. Settlements to society: 1584-1763. (Mr '68)
Vaughan, A. T. America before the Revolution, 1725-1775. (Ap '68)

Revolution

Chidsey, D. B. War in the North. (Ap '68)
Corkran, D. H. Creek frontier, 1540-1783. (Mr '68)
Flexner, J. T. George Washington: in the American Revolution (1775-1783). (Je '68)
Lutnick, S. American Revolution and the British press, 1775-1783. (N '68)
Peterson, H. L. Book of the Continental soldier. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Revolution—Campaigns and battles

Derleth, A. Vincennes: portal to the West. (N '68)

Revolution—Juvenile literature

Abodaher, D. J. Warrior on two continents, Thaddeus Kosciuszko. (S '68)
Hirschfeld, B. Glorious struggle. (My '68)
McGiffin, L. Yankee Doodle dandles. (Ap '68)
Sanderlin, G., ed. 1776: journals of American independence. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

1783-1809

Chidsey, D. B. Great conspiracy. (Ag '68)

1783-1809—Juvenile literature

Morris, R. B. First book of the founding of the republic. (Ag '68)

1783-1865

Adams, H. History of the United States of America during the administration of Jefferson and Madison [abr.]. (My '68)
Bode, C., ed. American life in the 1840s. (Je '68)
Calhoun, J. C. Papers of John C. Calhoun, v3. (Je '68)
Van Deusen, G. G. William Henry Seward. (1967, 1968 Annual)

War of 1812—Juvenile literature

Hoyt, E. P. Tragic commodore. (Mr '68)

1815-1861

- Falkner, L. President who wouldn't retire. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Grant, U. S. Papers of Ulysses S. Grant, v 1. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Morison, S. E. "Old Bruin": Commodore Matthew C. Perry, 1794-1858. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

War with Mexico, 1845-1848

- Chidsey, D. B. War with Mexico. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Price, G. W. Origins of the war with Mexico. (N '68)

Civil War

- Connelly, T. L. Army of the heartland. (Je '68)
 Freidel, F., ed. Union pamphlets of the Civil War, 1861-1865. 2v. (S '68)
 Hernon, J. M. Celts. Catholics & copperheads. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Portion of that field. (Ap '68)
 Wheeler-Bennett, J. W. Wreath to Clio. (O '68)

Civil War—Bibliography

- Nevins, A., ed. Civil War books, v 1. (Mr '68)

Civil War—Biography

- Hartje, R. G. Van Dorn. (Mr '68)
 Selby, J. Stonewall Jackson as military commander. (N '68)

Civil War—Campaigns and battles

- Selby, J. Stonewall Jackson as military commander. (N '68)

Civil War—Juvenile literature

- McPherson, J. M. Marching toward freedom: the Negro in the Civil War, 1861-1865. (Ag '68)

Civil War—Naval operations

- Horner, D. Blockade-runners. (Ag '68)

1865-1898

- Reals, C. Great revolt and its leaders. (N '68)
 Van Deusen, G. G. William Henry Seward. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Wilson, W. Papers of Woodrow Wilson, v3. (Je '68)

1865-1898—Juvenile literature

- Walker, R. H. Everyday life in the age of enterprise, 1865-1900. (My '68)

1898-

- Wilson, W. Papers of Woodrow Wilson, v3. (Je '68)

20th century

- Adams, D. K. America in the twentieth century. (My '68)

1919-1933

- Stevenson, E. Babbitts and bohemians. (1967, 1968 Annual)

1933-1945

- Boardman, F. W. Thirties. (My '68)
 Josephson, M. Infidel in the temple. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

1945-1953

- Kirkendall, R. S., ed. Truman period as a research field. (O '68)
 May, E. R., ed. Anxiety and affluence: 1945-1965. (Mr '68)

1953-1961

- May, E. R., ed. Anxiety and affluence: 1945-1965. (Mr '68)

History, Military

- Cunliffe, M. Soldiers & civilians. (D '68)
 Leckie, R. Wars of America. (Je '68)
 Sefton, J. E. United States army and reconstruction. (O '68)

History, Naval

- Billingsley, E. B. In defense of neutral rights. (Je '68)

Juvenile literature

- Hoyt, E. P. Deadly craft. (Ag '68)

Immigration and emigration

- Hoff, R., comp. America's immigrants. (Ap '68)
 Neidle, C. S. New Americans. (N '68)

Intellectual life

- Berman, R. America in the sixties. (Ag '68)
 Cruse, H. Crisis of the Negro intellectual. (Mr '68)
 Fermi, L. Illustrious immigrants. (Je '68)
 Gilbert, J. B. Writers and partisans: a history of literary radicalism in America. (S '68)

- Josephson, M. Infidel in the temple (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

- Kosa, J., ed. Home of the learned man. (D '68)

- Levy, A. Culture vultures. (N '68)

- Lynd, S. Intellectual origins of American radicalism. (O '68)

- Miller, P. Nature's nation. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

- Stein, R. B. John Ruskin and aesthetic thought in America, 1840-1900. (O '68)

Maps

- Oxford regional economic atlas: United States & Canada. (O '68)

Military policy

- Davis, V. Admirals lobby. (Je '68)
 Fox, W. T. R. NATO and the range of American choice. (Je '68)
 Jordan, A. A., ed. Issues of national security in the 1970's. (Ag '68)
 Lapp, R. E. Weapons culture. (Je '68)
 LeMay, C. E. America is in danger. (Ag '68)
 McGovern, G. Time of war, a time of peace. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Steel, R. Pax Americana. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Moral conditions

- Comstock, A. Traps for the young. (S '68)
 Evans, M. S. Lawbreakers. (My '68)
 Packard, V. Sexual wilderness. (N '68)
 Wills, G. Second civil war. (Ag '68)

Museums

- See United States—Galleries and museums

Occupations

- Blau, P. M. American occupational structure. (S '68)
 Slocum, W. L. Occupational careers. (Je '68)

Politics and government

- Alsop, S. Center. (Ag '68)
 Barnett, R. J. Intervention and revolution. (N '68)
 Buckley, W. F. Jeweler's eye. (S '68)
 Dana, R. H. Journal of Richard Henry Dana. 3v. (O '68)
 Davis, A. F. Spearheads for reform. (Ag '68)
 Dietze, G. America's political dilemma. (N '68)
 Gruber, M. Women in American politics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Heren, L. New American commonwealth. (Ap '68)
 Hess, S. Ungentlemanly art. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hyneman, C. S. Popular government in America. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Jackson, C. Presidential vetoes, 1792-1945. (O '68)
 Janeway, E. Economics of crisis: war, politics and the dollar. (Ap '68)
 Kennedy, E. M. Decisions for a decade. (D '68)
 Lang, K. Politics and television. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Lazer, H. American political system in transition. (Mr '68)
 Lindsay, J. V. Journey into politics. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Miller, W. J. Henry Cabot Lodge. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Pei, M. America we lost. (N '68)
 Roosevelt, F. D. Roosevelt and Frankfurter. (Mr '68)
 Rose, A. M. Power structure. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Thayer, G. Farther shores of politics. (Mr '68)
 Viorst, M. Fall from grace. (Ag '68)
 Who's who in American politics, 1967-1968. (Ap '68)

Dictionaries

- Saffire, W. L. New language of politics. (O '68)

Juvenile literature

- Hoopes, R. Getting with politics. (S '68)

Periodicals—Bibliography

- Muller, R. H., ed. From radical left to extreme right. (My '68)

Colonial period

- Bailyn, B. Origins of American politics. (Ag '68)
 Main, J. T. Upper house in revolutionary America, 1763-1788. (O '68)
 Pole, J. R. Political representation in England and the origins of the American republic. (1967, 1968 Annual)

United States—Politics and government—Cont.Revolution

- Lynd, S. Class conflict, slavery, and the United States Constitution. (Ag '68)
Main, J. T. Upper house in revolutionary America, 1763-1788. (O '68)

1783-1809

- Lynd, S. Class conflict, slavery, and the United States Constitution. (Ag '68)

1783-1865

- Alexander, T. B. Sectional stress and party strength. (My '68)
Boney, F. N. John Letcher of Virginia. (Mr '68)

1815-1861

- Heckman, R. A. Lincoln vs. Douglas. (S '68)
Hendrickson, J. E. Joe Lane of Oregon. (Mr '68)

1865-1898

- Tugwell, R. G. Grover Cleveland. (Ag '68)

1865-1898—Juvenile literature

- Robinson, L. Stolen election. (N '68)

War of 1898

- Belsner, R. L. Twelve against empire. (Je '68)

1898-1919

- Holt, J. Congressional insurgents and the party system, 1909-1916. (My '68)
Reuter, F. T. Catholic influence on American colonial policies, 1898-1904. (Mr '68)

20th century

- Ambrose, S. E., ed. Institutions in modern America. (Ag '68)
Billington, M. I. Thomas P. Gore. (Mr '68)
Davis, K. S. Politics of honor. (1967, 1968 Annual)
Gross, B. M., ed. Great society? (Ag '68)
Krock, A. Memoirs. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Muller, H. J. Adlai Stevenson. (1967, 1968 Annual)
Redekop, J. H. American far right. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Rogin, M. P. Intellectuals and McCarthy: the radical specter. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Steinberg, A. Sam Johnson's boy. (O '68)
Weinstein, J. Corporate ideal in the liberal state, 1900-1918. (D '68)

1919-1933

- Tugwell, R. G. Brains Trust. (O '68)

1933-1945

- Baker, L. Back to back. (1967, 1968 Annual)
Leuchtenburg, W. E., ed. New Deal. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Patterson, J. T. Congressional conservatism and the New Deal. (Mr '68)
Wann, A. J. President as chief administrator. (N '68)

1945-

- Domhoff, G. W. Who rules America? (1967, 1968 Annual)
Johnson, H. Fulbright: the dissenter. (O '68)
Matusow, A. J. Farm policies and politics in the Truman years. (Mr '68)
O'Leary, M. K. Politics of American foreign aid. (O '68)

1961-

- Cook, F. J. What so proudly we hailed. (N '68)
Frost, D. Presidential debate, 1968. (O '68)
Ions, E. S. Politics of John F. Kennedy. (Ag '68)
Johnson, L. B. To heal and to build. (N '68)
Kennedy, R. F. To seek a newer world. (Mr '68)
Kimball, P. Bobby Kennedy and the new politics. (Ag '68)
Lincoln, E. Kennedy and Johnson. (My '68)
Rockefeller, N. A. Unity, freedom & peace. (D '68)
Romney, G. Concerns of a citizen. (Je '68)
Sidev, H. Very personal presidency. (O '68)
Thimmesch, N. Condition of Republicanism. (S '68)
Wicker, T. JFK and LBJ. (Ag '68)

1963-

- Finn, J. Protest: pacifism and politics. (My '68)
Free, L. A. Political beliefs of Americans. (My '68)
Gettleman, M. E., ed. Great society reader. (Mr '68)
Ladd, B. Crisis in credibility. (My '68)

Population

- Price, D. O., ed. 99th hour. (My '68)
Stockwell, E. G. Population and people. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Public lands

- Wright, J. E. Galena lead district. (My '68)

Race relations

- Bernstein, S. Alternatives to violence. (Ag '68)
Carmichael, S. Black power. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Cruse, H. Rebellion or revolution? (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Du Bois, W. E. B. Philadelphia Negro. (O '68)
Fager, C. E. White reflections on black power. (My '68)
Gregory, D. Shadow that scares me. (Ap '68)
Grier, W. H. Black rage. (D '68)
Hough, J. C. Black power and white Protestants. (Ag '68)
Jordan, W. D. White over black. (Je '68)
Killian, L. M. Impossible revolution? (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
King, M. L. Where do we go from here: chaos or community? (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Lester, J. Look out, Whitey! Black power's gon' get your mama! (S '68)
Lightfoot, C. M. Ghetto rebellion to black liberation. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Newby, I. A. Challenge to the court. (Ap '68)
Nolen, C. H. Negro's image in the South. (Mr '68)
Osofsky, G. Burden of race. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Schuchter, A. White power, black freedom. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Steiner, S. New Indians. (Ap '68)
Williams, J. A., comp. Beyond the angry black [rev ed.]. (Je '68)
Wills, G. Second civil war. (Ag '68)
Wright, N. Let's work together. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Wright, N. Ready to riot. (O '68)

Relations (general) with China

- Iriye, A. Across the Pacific. (Mr '68)

Relations (general) with Europe

- Servan-Schreiber, J. J. American challenge. (S '68)

Relations (general) with foreign countries

- Sorensen, T. C. Word war. (Ag '68)

Relations (general) with Japan

- Iriye, A. Across the Pacific. (Mr '68)

Relations (general) with Latin America

- Rogers, W. D. Twilight struggle. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Religion

- Clebsch, W. A. From sacred to profane America: the role of religion in American history. (Ag '68)
Glock, C. Y. To comfort and to challenge. (Ag '68)
Miller, P. Nature's nation. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Stark, R. American piety: the nature of religious commitment. (D '68)

Social conditions

- Beals, C. Great revolt and its leaders. (N '68)
Becker, H. S., ed. Social problems: a modern approach. (My '68)
Bennis, W. G. Temporary society. (D '68)
Bernstein, S. Alternatives to violence. (Ag '68)
Bottomore, T. B. Critics of society. (Ag '68)
Churchill, A. Over here! (S '68)
Dana, R. H. Journal of Richard Henry Dana, 3v. (O '68)
Deutscher, I., ed. Among the people: encounters with the poor. (D '68)
Douglas, P. H. In our time. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Endleman, S., ed. Violence in the streets. (D '68)
Gardner, J. W. No easy victories. (O '68)
Gavin, J. M. Crisis now. (My '68)
Harrington, M. Toward a democratic left. (Ag '68)
Harris, F. R. Alarms and hopes. (S '68)
Jacobs, P. Prelude to riot. (Ap '68)
Josephson, M. Infidel in the temple. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Kaufman, A. S. Radical liberal. (Je '68)
Laird, M. R., ed. Republican papers. (O '68)
McGovern, G. Time of war, a time of peace. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Mack, R. W. Transforming America. (Ag '68)
O'Neill, W. L. Divorce in the progressive era. (S '68)
Paulson, R. E. Radicalism & reform. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Polsky, N. Hustlers, beats, and others. (1967, 1968 Annual)

- Samuel, H. D., ed. Toward a better America. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Seligman, B. B. Permanent poverty. (O '68)
- Stevenson, E. Babbitts and bohemians. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Warner, W. L., ed. Emergent American society, v 1. (Mr '68)
- Wolf, L., ed. Voices from the love generation. (Ag '68)
- Pictures, illustrations, etc.*
- Gutman, J. M. Lewis W. Hine and the American social conscience. (S '68)
- Social life and customs*
- Birmingham, S. Right people. (Ag '68)
- Hanson, K. For richer, for poorer. (O '68)
- Jensen, O. American album. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Ross, I. Taste in America. (Ag '68)
- Sann, P. Fads, follies and delusions of the American people. (My '68)
- Winick, C. New people. (S '68)
- Wolfe, T. Pump house gang. (D '68)
- Juvenile literature*
- Miller, J. C. First frontier: life in colonial America. (N '68)
- Scovel, M. To lay a hearth. (N '68)
- Walker, R. H. Everyday life in the age of enterprise, 1865-1900. (My '68)
- Colonial period*
- American heritage. American heritage history of colonial antiques. (Mr '68)
- Social policy*
- Donovan, J. C. Politics of poverty. (S '68)
- Frieden, B. J., ed. Urban planning and social policy. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Gross, B. M., ed. Great society? (Ag '68)
- Johnson, L. B. To heal and to build. (N '68)
- Marris, P. Dilemmas of social reform. (N '68)
- Rockefeller, N. A. Unity, freedom & peace. (D '68)
- Ryan, W. L. China cloud. (D '68)
- Theobald, R., ed. Social policies for America in the seventies: nine divergent views. (Mr '68)
- Statistics*
- Iskrant, A. P. Accidents and homicide. (O '68)
- Territorial expansion*
- Horsman, R. Expansion and American Indian policy, 1783-1812. (Je '68)
- Youth*
- See Youth—United States*
- United States. Agricultural Research Service
- Moore, E. G. Agricultural research service. (My '68)
- United States and Canada. Craig, G. M. (S '68)
- United States and Eastern Europe. American assembly. (Ag '68)
- United States and the third world. Wolf, C. (Ap '68)
- United States. Army
- History*
- Utley, R. M. Frontiersmen in blue. (Je '68)
- Military life*
- Oliya, L. E. Soldiers on the Santa Fe trail. (Je '68)
- Parks, D. G. GI diary. (Ag '68)
- Peterson, H. L. Book of the Continental soldier. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Ordnance and ordnance stores*
- Peterson, H. L. Book of the Continental soldier. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- United States army and reconstruction. Sefton, J. E. (O '68)
- United States. Bureau of Refugees, Freedmen, and abandoned lands
- Abbott, M. Freedmen's bureau in South Carolina, 1865-1872. (S '68)
- United States. Central Intelligence Agency
- Kirkpatrick, L. B. Real CIA. (Ap '68)
- United States. Commission on Civil Rights
- Dulles, F. R. Civil rights commission, 1957-1965. (N '68)
- United States. Congress
- Froman, L. A. Congressional process. (Ag '68)
- Pearson, D. Case against Congress. (O '68)
- United States. Congress. House
- Alexander, T. B. Sectional stress and party strength. (My '68)
- Jones, C. O. Every second year. (N '68)
- Ripley, R. B. Party leaders in the House of Representatives. (N '68)
- United States. Congress. House. Committee on Un-American Activities
- Goodman, W. Committee. (Je '68)
- United States. Constitution
- Amendments*
- Bayh, B. One heartbeat away. (O '68)
- Fribourg, M. G. Bill of rights. (Ap '68)
- United States. Department of Housing and Urban Development
- Willmann, J. B. Department of housing and urban development. (Ag '68)
- United States. Department of Justice
- Huston, L. A. Department of Justice. (Ag '68)
- United States. Department of State
- Leacacos, J. P. Fires in the in-basket. (N '68)
- United States. Environmental Science Services Administration
- Popkin, R. Environmental science services administration. (Ag '68)
- United States. Farm Security Administration
- Baldwin, S. Poverty and politics. (S '68)
- United States. Federal Aviation Administration
- Burkhardt, R. Federal aviation administration. (N '68)
- United States. Federal Trade Commission
- Alexander, G. J. Honesty and competition. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- United States. Food and Drug Administration
- Mintz, M. By prescription only [2d ed rev]. (Ap '68)
- United States Geological survey
- Manning, T. G. Government in science. (N '68)
- United States. Job Corps
- Weeks, C. Job corps. (Mr '68)
- United States. Library of Congress, Motion Picture Division
- Niver, K. R. Motion pictures from the Library of Congress paper print collection, 1894-1912. (Ap '68)
- United States. Marine Corps
- Juvenile literature*
- Leckie, R. Battle for Iwo Jima. (Mr '68)
- United States Mission to the United Nations
- Beichman, A. "Other" State Department. (N '68)
- United States. National Aeronautics and Space Administration
- Lewis, R. S. Appointment on the moon. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- United States. Navy
- Langley, H. D. Social reform in the United States navy, 1798-1862. (Mr '68)
- History*
- Van Deurs, G. Wings for the fleet. (Ap '68)
- Officers*
- Davis, V. Admirals lobby. (Je '68)
- United States. Office of Economic Opportunity
- Scheibla, S. Poverty is where the money is. (O '68)
- United States. Office of Education
- Unfinished journey*. (N '68)
- United States. Peace Corps
- Hoopes, R., ed. Peace Corps experience. (My '68)
- Smith, E. Where to, black man? (Ap '68)
- Weiss, A. High risk/high gain. (O '68)
- United States. Post Office Department
- Cullinan, G. Post office department. (N '68)
- United States. President's Commission on the assassination of President Kennedy
- Lane, M. Citizen's dissent. (S '68)
- Meagher, S. Accessories after the fact. (Ap '68)
- Sparrow, J. After the assassination. (Je '68)
- White, S. Should we now believe the Warren report? (N '68)
- United States. Supreme Court
- Baker, L. Back to back. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Berger, M. Equality by statute [rev ed]. (S '68)
- Berle, A. A. Three faces of power. (Je '68)
- Freedman, M. Perspectives on the Court. (Je '68)
- Fribourg, M. G. Bill of rights. (Ap '68)
- Hugo Black and the Supreme court. (Ag '68)
- Johnson, R. M. Dynamics of compliance. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Lee, C. B. T. One man, one vote. (N '68)
- Weaver, J. D. Warren: the man, the courts, the era. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Unity, freedom & peace*. Rockefeller, N. A. (D '68)

- Universal Baseball Association, inc. J. Henry Waugh, prop. Coover, R. (S '68)
- Universities and the life of the mind. Salydain, K. G. (Ap '68)
- University student. Bolton, C. D. (My '68)
- Unless peace comes. Calder, N., ed. (O '68)
- Unnatural history. Clair, C. (Mr '68)
- Unofficial art in the Soviet Union. Sjeklocha, P. (Ag '68)
- Unpopular ones. Archer, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Unpremeditated verse: feeling and perception in Paradise lost. Shumaker, W. (Ag '68)
- Unquiet eagle. Somkin, F. (N '68)
- Unscrambling an empire. Kirkman, W. P. (Ag '68)
- Unspeaking practices, unnatural acts. Barthelme, D. (Ag '68)
- Untimely thoughts. Gorky, M. (Je '68)
- Unwritten song, v 1. Trask, W. R., ed. (1967, 1968 Annual)
- Unwritten song, v2. Trask, W. R., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Up. Sukenick, R. (O '68)
- Up front in Vietnam. Reed, R. (Ap '68)
- Up the line to death. Gardner, B., ed. (Mr '68)
- Upper atmosphere. See Atmosphere, Upper
- Upper classes
Birmingham, S. Right people. (Ag '68)
Miller, D. T. Jacksonian aristocracy. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Upper house in revolutionary America, 1763-1788. Main, J. T. (O '68)
- Uprising of the Warsaw ghetto. November 1940-May 1943. Werstein, I. (S '68)
- Urartu. Piotrovskii, B. B. (My '68)
- Urban geography. Beaujeu-Garnier, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Urban planning and social policy. Frieden, B. J., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Urban political systems. Kaplan, H. (S '68)
- Urban prospect. Mumford, L. (Ag '68)
- Urban renewal
Berry, B. J. L., ed. Goals for urban America. (Je '68)
Bradford, A. Oakland's not for burning. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Faltermayer, E. K. Redoing America. (N '68)
Kulski, J. E. Land of urban promise. (Ap '68)
Lowe, J. R. Cities in a race with time. (1967, 1968 Annual)
Rothenberg, J. Economic evaluation of urban renewal. (My '68)
Schnore, L. F., ed. Urban research and policy planning. (Ag '68)
Schwartz, A. Old cities & new towns. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Willmann, J. B. Department of housing and urban development. (Ag '68)
- Urban research and policy planning. Schnore, L. F., ed. (Ag '68)
- Urban R's: race relations as the problem in urban education. Dentler, R. A. (Ag '68)
- Urbs Roma. Dudley, D. R., ed & tr. (Ap '68)
- Urgent future. Mayer, A. (My '68)
- Uriel Acosta: a specimen of human life. (N '68)
- Use of LSD in psychotherapy and alcoholism. Abramson, H. A., ed. (Mr '68)
- Uses of sociology. Lazarsfeld, P. F., ed. (My '68)
- Utah
Description and travel
Abbey, E. Desert solitaire. (Je '68)
- Utilitarianism
Rescher, N. Distributive justice. (Mr '68)
- Utopias
Eurich, N. Science in utopia. (Mr '68)
- Vaagso raid. Devins, J. H. (My '68)
- Vágsøy Island. Battle of, 1941
Devins, J. H. Vaagso raid. (My '68)
- Valdivia, Pedro de
Pocock, H. R. S. Conquest of Chile. (Je '68)
- Valentine estate. Ellin, S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Valentino, Rudolph
Shulman, I. Valentino. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Valley of silence. Ztko, J. J., comp. (Je '68)
- Vanderlyn's kingdom. Stewart, J. I. M. (Je '68)
- Van Dorn, Earl
Hartje, R. G. Van Dorn. (Mr '68)
- Van Dorn. Hartje, R. G. (Mr '68)
- Van Eycks-Petrus Christus: v 1 of Early Netherlandish painting. Friedländer, M. J. (Ap '68)
- Vanished. Knebel, F. (Ap '68)
- Vanishing tribes. Pinney, R. (D '68)
- Vanity of Duluo. Kerouac, J. (My '68)
- Van Meegeren: a case history. Eng title of: Van Meegeren: master forger. Kilbracken, J. R. G. (S '68)
- Van Meegeren: master forger. Kilbracken, J. R. G. (S '68)
- Varèse, Edgar
Oullette, F. Edgard Varèse. (O '68)
- Vargas, Getúlio
Dulles, J. W. F. Vargas of Brazil. (Mr '68)
Vargas of Brazil. Dulles, J. W. F. (Mr '68)
- Variorum Civil disobedience. Thoreau, H. D. (O '68)
- Vasa, House of
Roberts, M. Early Vasas. (N '68)
- Vases
Philippaki, B. Attic stamnos. (Ag '68)
Trendall, A. D. Red-figured vases of Lucania, Campania and Sicily, 2v. (Ag '68)
- Vatican Council, 2d
Commentary on the documents of Vatican II, v 1. (Ag '68)
Cullmann, O. Vatican Council II: the new direction. (S '68)
Georgetown university colloquium on the church in the modern world, 1966. Church in the world. (Ap '68)
Heston, E. L. Press and Vatican II. (Ap '68)
O'Dea, T. F. Catholic crisis. (N '68)
Quanbeck, W. A., ed. Challenge . . . and response. (Ag '68)
Rynne, X. Vatican council II. (Mr '68)
Schillebeeckx, E. Real achievement of Vatican II. (Ap '68)
Tavard, G. H. Pilgrim church. (Mr '68)
Yzermans, V. A., ed. American participation in the Second Vatican council. (Mr '68)
- Vatican Council, 2d. Constitutio pastoralis de ecclesia in mundo hulus temporis
Riga, P. J. Church made relevant. (Ap '68)
- Vatican Council, 2d. Declaratio de libertate religiosa
Regan, R. J. Conflict and consensus. (Mr '68)
Vatican Council II. Rynne, X. (Mr '68)
Vatican Council II: the new direction. Cullmann, O. (S '68)
- Vatican II. Eng title of: The real achievement of Vatican II. Schillebeeckx, E. (Ap '68)
- Venceremos! Guevara, E. (Ag '68)
- Ventriloquism
Juvenile literature
Kettelkamp, L. Song, speech, and ventriloquism. (Ap '68)
- Verdi, Giuseppe
Hughes, S. Famous Verdi operas. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Merkling, F., ed. Opera news book of Travata. (Ag '68)
- Verdict. Bloomstein, M. J. (Ag '68)
- Vergara, Rosario
Vergara, J. Love and pasta. (O '68)
- Vergilius Maro, Publius. See Virgil (Publius Vergilius Maro)
- Vermigli, Pietro Martire. See Martyr, P.
- Vermillion bird. Schafer, E. H. (My '68)
- Veronica Ganz. Sachs, M. (Ag '68)
- Versailles, Treaty of, 1919
Mayer, A. J. Politics and diplomacy of peacemaking. (Ap '68)
- Vertebrates
Juvenile literature
Cosgrove, M. Bone for bone. (D '68)
- Vertical market structures. Baligh, H. H. (Ag '68)
- Very, Jones
Gittleman, E. Jones Very. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Very personal presidency. Sidey, H. (O '68)
- Very private life. Frayn, M. (N '68)
- "Very strange society." Drury, A. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Veterans
Hanning, H. Peaceful uses of military forces. (S '68)
- Vexed and troubled Englishmen, 1590-1642. Bridenbaugh, C. (Ag '68)
- Vibrations. Amram, D. (D '68)
- Victoria, Queen of Great Britain
Mallet, M. Life with Queen Victoria. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Victoria, Australia
Economic conditions
Cannon, M. Land boomers. (Ap '68)
- History
Cannon, M. Land boomers. (Ap '68)

- Victorian artists. Bell, Q. (My '68)
 Victorian duke. Huxley, G. (My '68)
 Victorian military campaigns. Bond, B., ed. (Ag '68)
 Victorian minds. Himmelfarb, G. (Je '68)
 Victorian scene. Bentley, N. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Victorian silver. Freeman L. (N '68)
 Victorians and the machine. Sussman, H. L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Victory at high tide. Heinl, R. D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 La vie passionnée of Rodney Buckthorne. Cassill, R. V. (O '68)
- Vienna
 History
 Field, F. Last days of mankind. (Ag '68)
- Vienna, Albertina
 Benesch, O. Master drawings in the Albertina. (My '68)
- Vietnam
 Description and travel
Juvenile literature
 Henderson, L. Vietnam and countries of the Mekong. (Je '68)
 Foreign relations
China
 McAleavy, H. Black flags in Vietnam. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
United States
 Herman, E. S. America's Vietnam policy. (Ag '68)
 Lederer, W. J. Our own worst enemy. (S '68)
 History
 Bain, C. A. Vietnam: the roots of conflict. (My '68)
 Buttinger, J. Vietnam: a dragon embattled, 2v. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Buttinger, J. Vietnam: a political history. (D '68)
 Duncanson, D. J. Government and revolution in Vietnam. (Je '68)
 Lacouture, J. Ho Chi Minh. (S '68)
 McAleavy, H. Black flags in Vietnam. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Juvenile literature
 Henderson, L. Vietnam and countries of the Mekong. (Je '68)
 Juvenile literature
 Cooke, D. C. Vietnam: the country, the people. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Politics and government
 Nhat Hanh, T. Vietnam: lotus in a sea of fire. (Ap '68)
 Religion
 Nhat Hanh, T. Vietnam: lotus in a sea of fire. (Ap '68)
 Social conditions
 Schell, J. Village of Ben Suc. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Vietnam (Democratic Republic, 1946- )
 Foreign relations
 Zagoria, D. S. Vietnam triangle. (Ag '68)
 Vietnam. Schoenbrun, D. (Je '68)
 Vietnam: a dragon embattled, 2v. Buttinger, J. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Vietnam: a political history. Buttinger, J. (D '68)
 Vietnam and countries of the Mekong. Henderson, L. (Je '68)
 Vietnam and international law. Lawyers committee on American policy towards Vietnam. Consultative council. (N '68)
 Vietnam and the Sino-Soviet dispute. Rupen, R. A., ed. (Ag '68)
 Vietnam folly. Gruening, E. (Ag '68)
 Vietnam: lotus in a sea of fire. Nhat Hanh, T. (Ap '68)
 Vietnam: the country, the people. Cooke, D. C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Vietnam: the roots of conflict. Bain, C. A. (My '68)
 Vietnam triangle. Zagoria, D. S. (Ag '68)
 Vietnam war and international law. Falk, R. A., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
- Vietnamese Conflict, 1961-
 Brellis, D. Face of South Vietnam. (Ap '68)
 Coe, C. Young man in Vietnam. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Corson, W. R. Betrayal. (S '68)
 Draper, T. Abuse of power. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
- Duncanson, D. J. Government and revolution in Vietnam. (Je '68)
 Falk, R. A., ed. Vietnam war and international law. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Fall, B. B. Last reflections on a war. (Mr '68)
 Finn, J. Protest: pacifism and politics. (My '68)
 Gavin, J. M. Crisis now. (My '68)
 Gruening, E. Vietnam folly. (Ag '68)
 Hartke, V. American crisis in Vietnam. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 In the name of America. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Just, W. S. To what end. (Ag '68)
 Kraslow, D. Secret search for peace in Vietnam. (O '68)
 Lawyers committees on American policy towards Vietnam. Consultative council. Vietnam and international law. (N '68)
 Lederer, W. J. Our own worst enemy. (S '68)
 O'Connor, J. J. Chaplain looks at Vietnam. (O '68)
 Parks, D. GI diary. (Ag '68)
 Ray, M. Two shores of hell. (O '68)
 Reed, D. Up front in Vietnam. (Ap '68)
 Rupen, R. A., ed. Vietnam and the Sino-Soviet dispute. (Ag '68)
 Schell, J. Military half. (O '68)
 Schell, J. Village of Ben Suc. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Schoenbrun, D. Vietnam. (Je '68)
 Vo Nguyen Giap. "Big victory great task." (Je '68)
 White, R. K. Nobody wanted war. (D '68)
 Zagoria, D. S. Vietnam triangle. (Ag '68)
- Personal narratives
 Berrigan, D. Night flight to Hanoi. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Russ, M. Happy hunting ground. (Je '68)
- Pictures, illustrations, etc.
 Brellis, D. Face of South Vietnam. (Ap '68)
- Protests, demonstrations, etc. against
 Mailer, N. Armies of the night. (Ag '68)
 Vietnamese cookery. Miller, J. N. H. (Ag '68)
 View from Red Square. Milenkovich, M. M. (Ap '68)
 View from the barrio. Peattie, L. R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Viewing weather from space. Barrett, E. C. (Je '68)
- Views
 Reich, H. World from above. (O '68)
- Vigilance committees
 Jones, J. H. Minutemen. (D '68)
 Viking. (Ag '68)
 Village economy: land and people of Huecorio. Belshaw, M. (Ap '68)
 Village in Normandy. Laurence. (O '68)
 Village of Ben Suc. Schell, J. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Villages
 Belshaw, M. Village economy: land and people of Huecorio. (Ap '68)
 Gallin, B. Hsin Hsing, Taiwan: a Chinese village in change. (Ag '68)
- Vincennes, Indiana
 Derleth, A. Vincennes: portal to the West. (N '68)
 Vincennes: portal to the West. Derleth, A. (N '68)
- Violence
 Endleman, S., ed. Violence in the streets. (D '68)
 Wolfgang, M. E. Subculture of violence. (S '68)
 Violence in the streets. Endleman, S., ed. (D '68)
 Violent friend. Mackay, M. (Ag '68)
 Violent peace. Mydans, C. (Ag '68)
- Virgil (Publius Vergilius Maro)
 Aeneid
 Quinn, K. Virgil's Aeneid. (D '68)
 Virgil's Aeneid. Quinn, K. (D '68)
- Virginia
 History
 Boney, F. N. John Letcher of Virginia. (Mr '68)
 Rouse, P. Planters and pioneers. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Politics and government
 Boney, F. N. John Letcher of Virginia. (Mr '68)
 Social conditions
 Klein, H. S. Slavery in the Americas. (Mr '68)

Virginia—Continued

Social life and customs

- Pearson, C. C. Liquor and anti-liquor in Virginia, 1619-1919. (O '68)
 Rouse, P. Planters and pioneers. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Viruses and colds. Adams, J. M. (Ag '68)
 Virtues. Guardini, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Virus realm. Thompson, P. D. (Ag '68)
Viruses
 Adams, J. M. Viruses and colds (Ag '68)
 Andrewes, C. H. Natural history of viruses. (Ap '68)
 Thompson, P. D. Virus realm. (Ag '68)
Visconti, Luchino
 Nowell-Smith, G. Luchino Visconti. (Ap '68)
Visigoths. See Teutonic race
 Visigoths in the time of Ulfila. Thompson, E. A. (My '68)
 Vision and image. Sweeney, J. J. (D '68)
 Vision and tactics. Moran, G. (D '68)
 Vision of Jean Genet. Coe, R. N. (N '68)
 Visitor. Gilbert, A. (My '68)
 Vital link. Hirschfeld, B. (D '68)
 Vivarium. Hervey, G. F. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Vocational education
 Clark, H. F. Classrooms on Main Street. (Ap '68)
 Dawson, H. On the outskirts of hope. (N '68)
Vocational guidance
 Barnett, L. Careers in computer programming. (D '68)
 Endicott, F. S. College student's guide to career planning. (Ag '68)
 Seligsohn, I. J. Your career in computer programming. (Ap '68)
 Winter, E. L. Women at work. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Juvenile literature
 Sarnoff, P. Wall Street careers. (N '68)
Voice
Juvenile literature
 Kettelkamp, L. Song, speech, and ventriloquism. (Ap '68)
 Voices from the love generation Wolf, L., ed. (Ag '68)
 Voices of silence, v 1. See Malraux, A. Museum without walls. (N '68)
 Voices of the Red giants. Markham, J. W. (Ag '68)
 Voices offstage. Connelly, M. (D '68)
Volkswagen automobile
 Nelson, W. H. Small wonder. (Ag '68)
 Voluntary associations. Robertson, D. B., ed. (Mr '68)
Von Kármán, Theodore
 Von Kármán, T. Wind and beyond. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Von Stroheim, Erich
 Finler, J. W. Stroheim. (O '68)
 Vote of censure. Thomson, G. M. (Ag '68)
 Voyagers of the Vitiast Strait. Harding, T. G. (N '68)
Voyages and travels
 Crofut, W. Troubadour. (Ag '68)
 Figueroa, M. F. de. Spaniard in the Portuguese Indies. (N '68)
 Gann, E. K. Song of the sirens. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Hampden, J., ed. New worlds ahead. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Lattimore, O., ed. Silks, spices and empire. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Williams, H. All the time in the world. (Je '68)
Juvenile literature
 Heatter, B. Sea dreamers. (O '68)
Voyages around the world
 Chichester, F. Gipsy Moth circles the world. (My '68)
Juvenile literature
 Israel, C. E. Five ships West. (Mr '68)
Vrooman family
 Paulson, R. E. Radicalism & reform. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Vulnerable children. Burton, L. (D '68)
 W. B. Yeats, man and poet. Jeffares, A. N. (Ag '68)
 W. S. Gilbert's A song to sing, O! Gilbert, W. S. (O '68)
 Wage-price guideposts. Sheahan, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Wages

- McManus, G. J. Inside story of steel wages and prices, 1959-1967. (My '68)
 Sheahan, J. Wage-price guideposts. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Wagner, Richard
 Gutman, R. W. Richard Wagner. (Je '68)
 Michotte, E. Richard Wagner's visit to Rosini (Paris 1860). (N '68)
The ring of the Nibelungs
 Culshaw, J. Ring resounding. (Mr '68)
 Waist deep in the big muddy. Rovere, R. H. (Ag '68)
 Waking dream. Adair, P. M. (O '68)
Walking
 Sussman, A. Magic of walking. (Mr '68)
 Walking patient: a study in outpatient care. Sussman, M. B. (Ag '68)
 Walking the beat. Radano, G. (Ag '68)
Wall Street
 Rolo, C. J., ed. Anatomy of Wall Street. (D '68)
 Smith, A. Money game. (Ag '68)
 Wall Street careers. Sarnoff P. (N '68)
Wallace George Corley
 Frady, M. Wallace. (N '68)
 Wallace, Frady, M. (N '68)
 Walls of Jerusalem. Raphael, C. (Je '68)
Walpole, Horace, 4th Earl of Orford
 Smith, W. H., ed. Horace Walpole. (My '68)
 Walpole, H. Horace Walpole's correspondence with Sir Horace Mann, v7-8. (Je '68)
Walruses
 Maxwell, G. Seals of the world. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Perry, R. World of the walrus. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Juvenile literature
 Kohn, B. All kinds of seals. (O '68)
War
 Frank, J. D. Sanity and survival. (Ap '68)
 Fried, M., ed. War: the anthropology of armed conflict and aggression. (D '68)
 Wells, D. A. War myth. (Je '68)
 White, R. K. Nobody wanted war. (D '68)
Economic aspects
 Janeway, E. Economics of crisis: war, politics, and the dollar. (Ap '68)
War and civilization
 McLuhan, M. War and peace in the global village. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 War and peace in the global village. McLuhan, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
War and religion
 O'Brien, W. V. Nuclear war, deterrence, and morality. (Ag '68)
 War at sea, bk 1. Southworth, J. V. D. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 War at Troy. Quintus of Smyrna. (S '68)
 War in Korea. Eng title of: Korean war. Ridgway, M. B. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
War in literature
 Cooperman, S. World War I and the American novel. (Je '68)
 Weintraub, S. Last great cause. (Je '68)
 War in the North. Chidsey, D. B. (Ap '68)
 War memorial. Russ, M. (O '68)
 War, mutiny and revolution in the German navy. Stumpf, R. (O '68)
 War myth. Wells, D. A. (Je '68)
 War: the anthropology of armed conflict and aggression. Fried, M., ed. (D '68)
 War we are in. Burnham, J. (Ag '68)
 War with Mexico. Chidsey, D. B. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Warm and golden war. Luard, N. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Warren, Earl
 Weaver, J. D. Warren: the man, the court, the era. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Juvenile literature
 Severn, B. Mr Chief Justice: Earl Warren. (N '68)
 Warren Commission. See United States. President's Commission on the assassination of President Kennedy
 Warren: the man, the court, the era. Weaver, J. D. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Warrior on two continents. Thaddeus Kosciuszko. Abodaher, D. J. (S '68)
 Wars of America. Leckie, R. (Je '68)
Warsaw
History
Juvenile literature
 Werstein, I. Uprising of the Warsaw ghetto, November 1940-May 1943. (S '68)

Warships*HistoryJuvenile literature*

Hoyt, E. P. Deadly craft. (Ag '68)

Washington, George

Flexner, J. T. George Washington: in the American Revolution (1775-1783). (Je '68)

Juvenile literature

Fleming, T. J. First in their hearts. (Ag '68)

Washington, D.C.

Alsop, S. Center. (Ag '68)

DescriptionGuide books*

New York Times. Washington: the New York Times guide to the Nation's Capital. (Ag '68)

History

Reps, J. W. Monumental Washington. (Mr '68)

Social life and customs

Daniels, J. Washington quadrille. (O '68)

Washington, D.C. Church of the Saviour

O'Connor, E. Journey inward, journey outward. (Mr '68)

Washington, D.C. White House

Smith, M. Entertaining in the White House. (My '68)

Washington and Baltimore. Mazor, J. (N '68)

Washington quadrille. Daniels, J. (O '68)

Washington: the New York Times guide to the Nation's Capital. New York Times. (Ag '68)

Watch fires to the north. Finkel, G. (Ag '68)

Watch out! Longman, H. (O '68)

Watching for the wind. Edinger, J. G. (Ap '68)

Water*Analysis

Behrman, A. S. Water is everybody's business. (N '68)

Pollution

Briggs, P. Water: the vital essence. (My '68)
Goldman, M. L., ed. Controlling pollution. (Mr '68)

Purification

Behrman, A. S. Water is everybody's business. (N '68)

Water animals for your microscope. Lindemann, E. (Ap '68)

Water color painting

Hardie, M. Water-colour painting in Britain, v2. (O '68)

Water-colour painting in Britain, v2. Hardie, M. (O '68)

Water colors

Daulte, F. French watercolors of the 20th century. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Hardie, M. Water-colour painting in Britain, v2. (O '68)

Hofmann, W. Expressionist watercolors, 1905-1920. (Mr '68)

Water in the wilderness. Chiffot, T. G. (N '68)

Water is everybody's business. Behrman, A. S. (N '68)

Water resources development

Michel, A. A. Indus rivers. (My '68)

Water supply

Bain, J. S. Northern California's water industry. (Mr '68)

Briggs, P. Water: the vital essence. (My '68)

Water: the vital essence. Briggs, P. (My '68)

Watson, James D.

Watson, J. D. Double helix. (My '68)

Watson, Robert Lamar

Frasca, J. Mulberry tree. (Ag '68)

Watts, Los AngelesSocial conditions*

Schulberg, B., ed. From the ashes. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Waugh, Alec

Waugh, A. My brother Evelyn, and other portraits. (Mr '68)

Waugh, Evelyn

Donaldson, F. Evelyn Waugh. (My '68)

Waugh, A. My brother Evelyn, and other portraits. (Mr '68)

Wave mechanics

Letters on wave mechanics. (Je '68)

Waves. Zim, H. S. (D '68)

Waves, tides, and currents. Clemons, E. (Mr '68)

Way in. Mirabelli, E. (O '68)

Way in and the way out. Waters, F. W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Way it spozed to be. Herndon, J. (My '68)

Way to Rehema's house. Spencer, H. (Mr '68)

Wayland's keep. Bill, A. (Ap '68)

Wayne State University, Detroit*History

Hanawalt, L. L. Place of light. (S '68)

Ways of Aquitaine. White, F. (S '68)

Wayside and woodland fungi. Findlay, W. P. K. (O '68)

We Alcotts. Fisher, A. (D '68)

We are many. Neruda, P. (O '68)

We are the people our parents warned us against. Von Hoffman, N. (Ag '68)

We bombed in New Haven. Heller, J. (N '68)

We elect a president. Weingast, D. E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

We fly. Olschewski, A. (My '68)

We went looking. Fisher, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Wealth

Fox, D. M. Discovery of abundance. (N '68)

Lundberg, F. Rich and the super-rich. (O '68)

Palmer, E. Z. Meaning and measurement of the national income, and of other social accounting aggregates. (Mr '68)

Rescher, N. Distributive justice. (Mr '68)

Sombart, W. Luxury and capitalism. (Ag '68)

Tait, A. A. Taxation of personal wealth. (Ag '68)

Weapons culture. Lapp, R. E. (Je '68)

Weapons merchants. Engelmann, B. (D '68)

Weapons of the American Revolution ... and accoutrements. Moore, W. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Weather

Edinger, J. G. Watching for the wind. (Ap '68)

Weather changers. Halacy, D. S. (Mr '68)

Weather control

Halacy, D. S. Weather changers. (Mr '68)

Weather forecasting

Barrett, E. C. Viewing weather from space. (Je '68)

Halacy, D. S. Weather changers. (Mr '68)

Webb, Beatrice (Potter)

Muggeridge, K. Beatrice Webb. (Ag '68)

Weber, Karl Maria Friedrich Ernst, Freiherr von

Warrack, J. Carl Maria von Weber. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Weber, Max

Freund, J. Sociology of Max Weber. (Ag '68)

Webster, Noah

Webster, N. On being American. (My '68)

Wedding group. Taylor, E. (Je '68)

WeedsJuvenile literature*

Hogner, D. C. Weeds. (Ag '68)

Weeds. Hogner, D. C. (Ag '68)

Weight control

Wyden, P. How the doctors diet. (Ag '68)

Weights and measures

Plass, M. W. African miniatures. (Ap '68)

Dictionaries

Zupko, R. E. Dictionary of English weights and measures. (D '68)

Weimar culture. Gay, P. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Welcome to the monkey house. Vonnegut, K. (N '68)

Welcome to Xanadu. Benchley, N. (O '68)

Welfare economics

Worland, S. T. Scholasticism and welfare economics. (Mr '68)

Welfare state. See Public welfare*Wellesz, Egon

Westrup, J., ed. Essays presented to Egon Wellesz. (My '68)

Wells, Herbert George

Hillegas, M. R. Future as nightmare. (Mr '68)

Wesley, Susanna (Annesley)

Harmon, R. L. Susanna, mother of the Wesleys. (Je '68)

West, Nathanael

Reid, R. Fiction of Nathanael West. (O '68)

The West

White, G. E. Eastern establishment and the Western experience. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Williams, B. Mysterious West. (Mr '68)

Description and travel

Miller, A. J. West of Alfred Jacob Miller (1837) [rev & enl ed]. (Ag '68)

Simonin, L. L. Rocky Mountain West in 1867. (Je '68)

The West—Continued

History

- Jackson, W. T. Enterprising Scot. (N '68)
 Lavender, D. Rockies. (Ag '68)
 McDermott, J. F., ed. Frontier re-examined. (Ap '68)
 Moody, R. Stagecoach West. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Smith, D. A. Rocky Mountain mining camps. (Ag '68)
 Utley, R. M. Frontiersmen in blue. (Je '68)

Juvenile literature

- Rennert, V. P. Western outlaws. (O '68)

History, Military

- Oliya, L. E. Soldiers on the Santa Fe trail. (Je '68)

Juvenile literature

- Silverberg, R. Ghost towns of the American West. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 West Africa: the former French states. Hargreaves, J. D. (Ap '68)
 West African kingdoms in the nineteenth century. Forde, D., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 West German foreign policy, 1949-1963. Hanrieder, W. F. (Mr '68)

West Indies

- Waddell, D. A. G. West Indies & the Guianas. (N '68)

Description and travel

Juvenile literature

- Sherlock, P. Land and people of the West Indies. (My '68)

West Indies, British

Politics and government

- Bell, W., ed. Democratic revolution in the West Indies. (Je '68)

Social conditions

- Bell, W., ed. Democratic revolution in the West Indies. (Je '68)
 West Indies & the Guianas. Waddell, D. A. G. (N '68)
 West Irian, Indonesia

Description and travel

- Rockefeller, M. C. Asmat of New Guinea. (O '68)
 West of Alfred Jacob Miller (1837) [rev & enl ed]. Miller, A. J.
 West of the West. Kirsch, R. (Ap '68)
 Western civilization. See Civilization, Occidental
 Western intruders. Warburg, J. P. (Je '68)
 Western outlaws. Rennert, V. P. (O '68)
 Westminster, Hugh Lupus Grosvenor, 1st Duke of Huxley, G. Victorian duke. (My '68)
 Weybright, Victor
 Weybright, V. Making of a publisher. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Weygand, Maxime
 Bankwitz, P. C. F. Maxime Weygand and civil-military relations in modern France. (N '68)
 What Darwin really said. Farrington, B. (Ag '68)
 What does the tide do? Kinney, J. (Ap '68)
 What if—? Tucholsky, K. (N '68)
 What is a thing? Heidegger, M. (S '68)
 What is cinema? Bazin, A. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 What is the Christian Orient? Dick, I. (My '68)
 What it's all about. Frolov, V. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 What Jung really said. Bennet, E. A. (Ap '68)
 What makes a plane fly? Corbett, S. (Ag '68)
 What Marx really said. Acton, H. B. (Mr '68)
 What so proudly we hail. Krythe, M. R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 What so proudly we hailed. Cook, F. J. (N '68)
 What's going on in space? Hendrickson, W. B. (Ag '68)
 What's in a word? Pei, M. (Ag '68)
 What's your name? Eicke, E. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Wheel of empire. Sandison, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Wheels. Wilbourne, W. W. (N '68)
 When air moves. Freeman, M. (N '68)
 When the gods are silent. Miskotte, K. H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 When the pie was opened. Little, J. (Ag '68)
 When the stones were soft. Heady, E. B. (O '68)
 When the war was over. Frisch, M. (In his Three plays). (Ag '68)
 Whence all but he had fled. Davis, L. J. (Ap '68)

- Where Babylon ends. Tarn, N. (O '68)
 Where do we go from here: chaos or community? King, M. L. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Where eagles dare. MacLean, A. (Ag '68)
 Where I am going. Grennan, J. (S '68)
 Where she brushed her hair. Steele, M. (Je '68)
 Where the wind blew free. Jones, G. (Je '68)
 Where they go to die: the tragedy of America's aged. Garvin, R. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Where to, black man? Smith, E. (Ap '68)
 Where you find God. Bowie, W. R. (Mr '68)
 Which is which? Russell, S. P. (Mr '68)
 Which way Germany? Flannery, H. W. (Ag '68)
 Whiff of death. Asimov, I. (Ag '68)
 Whig organization in the general election of 1790. Ginter, D. E., ed. (Je '68)
 Whig party (Great Britain)
 Ginter, D. E., ed. Whig organization in the general election of 1790. (Je '68)
 O'Gorman, F. Whig party and the French revolution. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Whig party (United States)
 Mering, J. V. Whig party in Missouri. (Ag '68)
 Whig party and the French revolution. O'Gorman, F. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Whig party in Missouri. Mering, J. V. (Ag '68)
 While six million died. Morse, A. D. (Ap '68)
 Whiskers, my cat. Schatz, L. (My '68)
 Whistle in the wind. Culp, J. H. (D '68)
 White, Terence Hanbury
 Warner, S. T. T. H. White. (Je '68)
 White, T. H. White/Garnett letters. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 White/Garnett letters. White, T. H. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 White House chef cookbook. Verdon, R. (Mr '68)
 White over black. Jordan, W. D. (Je '68)
 White power, black freedom. Schuchter, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 White reflections on black power. Fager, C. E. (My '68)
 White stone. Linde, G. (Je '68)
 White tie and dagger. Tully, A. (Ap '68)
 Whitehead, Alfred North
 Overman, R. H. Evolution and the Christian doctrine of creation. (D '68)

Process and reality

- Pols, E. Whitehead's metaphysics. (N '68)
 Whitehead's metaphysics. Pols, E. (N '68)

Whitman, Walt

Juvenile literature

- Stoutenburg, A. Listen America. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Whittier, John Greenleaf
 Wagenknecht, E. John Greenleaf Whittier. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Who can be educated? Schwebel, M. (D '68)
 Who put the bomb in Father Murphy's chowder? Frisbie, R. (Je '68)
 Who rules America? Domhoff, G. W. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Who was Raphael? Ponente, N. (My '68)
 Who's who in American politics, 1967-1968. (Ap '68)
 Who's who in consulting. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Why be a Christian? Haughton, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Why frogs are wet. Hawes, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Why growth rates differ. Denison, E. F. (Ag '68)
 Why not join the Giraffes? Campbell, H. (S '68)
 Why the Chinese are the way they are. Appel, B. (Ag '68)
 Why the sun and the moon live in the sky. Dayrell, E. (Ag '68)
 Wide world of magic. Gaddis, V. H. (My '68)
 Widening horizons in English verse. Holloway, J. (Ap '68)
 Wiesel, Elie
 Wiesel, E. Legends of our time. (D '68)
 Wild animals, Brian Wildsmith's. Wildsmith, B. (My '68)
 Wild flowers
 Peterson, R. T. Field guide to wildflowers of Northeastern and North-Central North America. (Ag '68)
 Rickett, H. W. Wild flowers of the United States, v2, 2pts. (Mr '68)
 Wild flowers of the United States, v2, 2pts. Rickett, H. W. (Mr '68)
 Wild kids. Donovan, F. R. (Mr '68)

Wild life

Conservation

- Cloudsley-Thompson, J. L. Animal twilight. (Ag '68)
 Errington, P. L. Of predation and life. (D '68)
 Walsh, J. Time is short and the water rises. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Juvenile literature

- Gray, R. Children of the ark. (Ag '68)
 Wildcat under glass. Zel, A. (S '68)
Wilde, Oscar
 San Juan, E. Art of Oscar Wilde. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Wilderness and the American mind. Nash, R. (Mr '68)
Wilderness areas
 Dasmann, R. F. Different kind of country. (Ag '68)
 Nash, R. Wilderness and the American mind. (Mr '68)
Wilderness kingdom. Point, N. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Wildlife of the South Seas. Roedelberger, F. A. (Ap '68)
Will. See Free will and determinism
 Willa Cather and her critics. Schroeter, J., ed. (Mr '68)
 William Anderson Scott, "no ordinary man." Drury, C. M. (Ag '68)
 William Augustus Bowles. Wright, J. L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 William C. Bullitt and the Soviet Union. Farnsworth, B. (Mr '68)
 William Crawford Gorgas: warrior in white. Dolan, E. F. (Ag '68)
 William Edmondstone Aytoun and the spasmodic controversy. Weinstein, M. A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 William Harvey's biological ideas. Pagel, W. (Ag '68)
 William Mayne's book of heroes. Mayne, W., ed. (Ag '68)
 William Morris as designer. Watkinson, R. (Mr '68)
 William Styron's Nat Turner. Clarke, J. H., ed. (O '68)
 William Troy: selected essays. Troy, W. (Ag '68)
 William Tyndale's Five books of Moses called the Pentateuch. Bible. Old Testament. Pentateuch. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Williams, Roger
 Morgan, E. S. Roger Williams. (1967, 1968 Annual)
Williams, William Carlos
 Paterson
 Peterson, W. S. Approach to Paterson. (Ag '68)
Williamson, Eugene Edward Fairfax
 Swanberg, W. A. Rector and the rogue. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Willkie, Wendell Lewis
 Moscow, W. Roosevelt and Willkie. (D '68)
 Parmet, H. S. Never again. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Wilson, Woodrow
 Bragdon, H. W. Woodrow Wilson, the academic years. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Levin, N. G. Woodrow Wilson and world politics. (O '68)
 Link, A. S., ed. Woodrow Wilson. (N '68)
 Osborn, G. C. Woodrow Wilson. (N '68)
 Wilson, W. Papers of Woodrow Wilson, v3. (Je '68)
 Juvenile literature
 Archer, J. World citizen: Woodrow Wilson. (Mr '68)
Wind and beyond. Von Kármán, T. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
Wind and the rain. Lewis, R., comp. (Ag '68)
Wind shifts. Sharp, A. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Wind southerly. Miller, H. R. (Mr '68)
Windswest city. Treece, H. (Je '68)
Wine and food society's guide to classic sauces and their preparation. Oliver, R. (O '68)
Wine and food society's guide to soups. Howe, R. (S '68)
Wings for the fleet. Van Deurs, G. (Ap '68)
Winners. Friel, B. (In his Lovers). (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Winter cottage. Brink, C. R. (O '68)
Winter journey. Figes, E. (Ag '68)
 Winthrop Murray Crane: a study in Republican leadership, 1892-1920. Johnson, C. W. (O '68)
Wire harp. Biermann, W. (O '68)

Wire-tapping

- Spindel, B. B. Ominous ear. (O '68)

Wisconsin

Social life and customs

- Purcell, W. G. St Croix Trail country. (Ap '68)
 Wish, Sigurjónsson, J. (In Haugen, E., ed. Fire and ice) (Ap '68)
Wit and humor
 Frisbie, R. Who put the bomb in Father Murphy's chowder? (Je '68)
 Hoppe, A. Perfect solution to absolutely everything. (D '68)
 See also
 American wit and humor

Juvenile literature

- Cole, W., comp. Case of the giggles, 2v. (Ag '68)
Witch dog. Beatty, J. (Ag '68)
Witchcraft
 Crawford, J. R. Witchcraft and sorcery in Rhodesia. (O '68)
 Lieban, R. W. Cebuano sorcery. (Ag '68)
 Witchcraft and sorcery in Rhodesia. Crawford, J. R. (O '68)
 Witch's milk. De Vries, P. (With his Cat's pajamas). (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 With liberty and justice for all. Knight, H. V. (Mr '68)
 Witnesses. Hennell, T. (Ag '68)
 Witnesses. Waring, M. W. (Je '68)
Wittgenstein, Ludwig
 High, D. M. Language, persons, and belief. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Wittgenstein, L. Letters from Ludwig Wittgenstein. (O '68)
Wittkower, Rudolf
 Fraser, D., ed. Essays presented to Rudolf Wittkower on his sixty-fifth birthday, 2v. (My '68)
 Wobblies. Renshaw, P. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Wodwo. Hughes, T. (1967, 1968 Annual)
Woffington, Margaret
 Dunbar, J. Peg Woffington and her world. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Wolf, Gerhard
 Tutaev, D. Man who saved Florence. (Mr '68)
Wolf, Hugo
 Walker, F. Hugo Wolf [2d enl ed]. (D '68)
Wolfe, Thomas
 Austin, N. F. Biography of Thomas Wolfe. (S '68)
 Turnbull, A. Thomas Wolfe. (Ap '68)
Wolves. Kirst, H. H. (O '68)
Woman
 Buck, P. S. To my daughters, with love. (Mr '68)
 Biography
 Laffin, J. Women in battle. (O '68)
 Juvenile literature
 Rich, J. Women behind men of medicine. (Mr '68)
 Employment
 Schneiderman, R. All for one. (Ag '68)
 Winter, E. L. Women at work. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 History and condition of women
 Trahey, J., ed. Harper's bazaar. (Ap '68)
 Rights of women
 Daly, M. Church and the second sex. (Ag '68)
 Lerner, G. Grimké sisters from South Carolina. (Ap '68)
 Social and moral questions
 Bird, C. Born female. (O '68)
 Suffrage
 Mitchell, D. Fighting Pankhursts. (Mr '68)
 Juvenile literature
 Faber, D. Petticoat politics. (Je '68)
 Woman on the roof. Eberhart, M. G. (My '68)
Women and religion
 Cunneen, S. Sex: female; Religion: Catholic. (S '68)
 Daly, M. Church and the second sex. (Ag '68)
 Evoy, J. J. Real women in the religious life. (Ap '68)
Women ■ politicians
 Gruberg, M. Women in American politics. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Women as soldiers
 Laffin, J. Women in battle. (O '68)

Women at work. Winter, E. L. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Women behind men of medicine. Rich, J. (Mr '68)
Women in American politics. Gruberg, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
Women in battle. Laffin, J. (O '68)
Women in Great Britain

Pictures, illustrations, etc.

Green, J. d. Birds of Britain. (Mr '68)

Women in literature and art
 Ellmann, M. Thinking about women. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Women in the United States
 Bird, C. Born female. (O '68)

Juvenile literature

Faber, D. Petticoat politics. (Je '68)

Women of the church. McKenna, M. L. (Mr '68)

Wonder that was India [3d rev ed]. Basham, A. L. (S '68)

Wonderful, terrible time. Stolz, M. (Mr '68)

Wonderful world of paper. Cohn, A. (S '68)

Wonders and surprises. McGinley, P., comp. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Wonders of fossils. Matthews, W. H. (Ag '68)

Wonders of magnets and magnetism. Lieberg, O. W. (Je '68)

Wonders, warriors, and beasts abounding. Barr, B. (Mr '68)

Wood
 Tsoumis, G. Wood as raw material. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Wood as raw material. Tsoumis, G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Wood carving
 Laliberte, N. Wooden images. (Ap '68)

Wood engraving
 Leehr, M. Chinese landscape woodcuts. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Wood is sweet. Clare, J. (N '68)

Woodcocks

Stories

Freschet, B. Little woodcock. (Mr '68)

Wooden images. Laliberte, N. (Ap '68)

Woodrow Wilson and world politics. Levin, N. G. (O '68)

Woolcott, Alexander
 Hoyt, E. P. Alexander Woolcott: the man who came to dinner. (O '68)

Wooster, Ohio. College of Wooster
 Blackwood, J. R. House on College avenue. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Word and symbol. Wrenn, C. L. (O '68)

Word frequency. See English language—Word frequency

Word games

Juvenile literature

Longman, H. Would you put your money in a sand bank? (O '68)

Steig, W. C D B! (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Word index to James Joyce's Portrait of the artist. Hancock, L. (Mr '68)

Word war. Sorensen, T. C. (Ag '68)

Words. Creeley, R. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Wordsworth, William
 Potts, A. F. Elegiac mode. (N '68)

Work
 Kaufmann, C. B. Man incorporate. (Ap '68)

Work of the gods in Tikopia [2d ed]. Firth, R. (N '68)

Workers, unions and the state. Wootton, G. (Ap '68)

Working-class Tories. Nordlinger, E. A. (N '68)

Works and days of John Fisher. Surtz, E. L. (N '68)

Works of Anne Bradstreet. Bradstreet, A. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Works of James Wilson. 2v. Wilson, J. (Je '68)

Works of John Dryden. v9. Dryden, J. (Ap '68)

Works of John Trumbull [rev ed]. Sizer, T. (Mr '68)

Works of Thomas Campion. Campion, T. (Ap '68)

World after Keynes. Roll, E. (O '68)

World architecture 4. Donat, J., ed. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

World book encyclopedia. 20v. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

World book of egg and cheese dishes. Froud, N. (Ag '68)

World book of hors-d'oeuvre and salads. Froud, N. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

World citizen: Woodrow Wilson. Archer, J. (Mr '68)

World from above. Reich, H. (O '68)

World history
 History of mankind, v6. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Bibliography

Sutherland, Z. comp. History in children's books. (Ap '68)

Juvenile literature

Berry, E. Men who changed the map, A.D. 400 to 1914. (N '68)

World ocean. Pizer, V. (My '68)

World of ancient Rome. Giannelli, G. (Mr '68)

World of Andrew Carnegie: 1865-1901. Hacker, L. M. (My '68)

World of curries. Collins, R. P. (Ag '68)

World of Don Quixote. Predmore, R. L. (Ag '68)

World of Dürer, 1471-1528. Russell, F. (S '68)

World of Giotto. Eimerl, S. (Ap '68)

World of gold. Green, T. (Ag '68)

World of Henri Cartier Bresson. Cartier-Bresson, H. (D '68)

World of Islam. Grube, E. J. (Mr '68)

World of melodrama. Rahill, F. (Ap '68)

World of nonsense. Withers, C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

World of persons. Winckelmans de Cléty, C. (Je '68)

World of Picasso, 1881- . Wertenbaker, L. (N '68)

World of Rubens, 1577-1640. Wedgwood, C. V. (Ap '68)

World of the ant. Costello, D. F. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

World of the early hunters. Eng title of: Shamanism. Lommel, A. (O '68)

World of the frog and the toad. Porter, G. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

World of the great white heron. Sanger, M. B. (Mr '68)

World of the Norsemen. Oxenstierna, E. G. (S '68)

World of the ocean depths. Silverberg, R. (Ag '68)

World of the patriarchs. Hunt, I. (Mr '68)

World of the Phoenicians. Moscati, S. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

World of the Victorian novel. Marshall, W. H. (My '68)

World of the walrus. Perry, R. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

World of zoos. Kirchshofer, R., ed. (O '68)

World order and local disorder. Miller, L. B. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

World politics

Berzins, A. Two faces of co-existence. (Je '68)

Betts, R. F. Europe overseas: phases of imperialism. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Burnham, J. War we are in. (Ag '68)

Fontaine, A. History of the cold war. (Ag '68)

Haight, M. V. J. European powers and South-East Africa [rev 2d ed]. (Je '68)

Impact of the Russian Revolution, 1917-1967. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Kennan, G. F. Memoirs, 1925-1950. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

McNamara, R. S. Essence of security. (N '68)

Menzies, E. G. Afternoon light. (Ag '68)

Northedge, F. S. Troubled giant. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Thompson, L. Greatest treason. (Ag '68)

1945-

Draper, T. Israel and world politics. (Ag '68)

France, Germany and the Western alliance. (Mr '68)

Guevara, E. Che Guevara speaks. (Ag '68)

Horowitz, D., ed. Containment and revolution. (Mr '68)

Johnson, L. B. To heal and to build. (N '68)

Kertesz, S. D. Quest for peace through diplomacy. (Ag '68)

Riencourt, A. de. American empire. (N '68)

Seabury, P. Rise and decline of the cold war. (Je '68)

Steel, R. Pax Americana. (1967, 1968 Annual)

World theatre. Gascoigne, B. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

World War, 1939-1945
 Howard, M. Mediterranean strategy in the Second World War. (Ag '68)

Aerial operations

Bekker, C. Luftwaffe war diaries. (Ag '68)

Douglas of Kirtleside, S. Combat and command. (Mr '68)

Marx, J. L. Seven hours to zero. (N '68)

Sims, E. H. Greatest aces. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

Lawson, D., ed. Great air battles. (Ag '68)

Biography

Thompson, R. W. Churchill and the Montgomery myth. (Ag '68)

Campaigns and battles

Moorehead, A. Eclipse. (Ag '68)

See also

Berlin, Battle of, 1945

Africa

Thompson, R. W. Churchill and the Montgomery myth. (Ag '68)

Italy

Adeleman, R. H. Rome fell today. (Ag '68)

Causes

McSherry, J. E. Stalin, Hitler, and Europe, v 1. (Ag '68)

Thorne, C. Approach of war, 1938-1939. (Ap '68)

Diplomatic history

Kimche, J. Unfought battle. (Je '68)

Maisky, I. Memoirs of a Soviet ambassador. (Ag '68)

Evacuation of civilians

Kitagawa, D. Issei and nisei. (Mr '68)

Jews

Lapide, P. E. Three popes and the Jews. (Je '68)

Levin, N. Holocaust. (My '68)

Morse, A. D. While six million died. (Ap '68)

Naval operations

Creswell, J. Sea Warfare, 1939-1945 [rev & enl ed]. (Mr '68)

McLachlan, D. Room 39. (O '68)

Peillard, L. Sink the Tirpitz! (D '68)

Peace

Brooks, L. Behind Japan's surrender. (S '68)

Personal narratives

Beaufre, A. 1940: the fall of France. (Je '68)

Harrison, K. Brave Japanese. (Ag '68)

Kuper, J. Child of the holocaust. (Ag '68)

Moorehead, A. Eclipse. (Ag '68)

Smart, C. A. Long watch. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

Hautzig, E. Endless steppe. (Ag '68)

Prisoners and prisons

Delbo, C. None of us will return. (Ag '68)

Gilboa, Y. A. Confess! confess! (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Harrison, K. Brave Japanese. (Ag '68)

Sandulescu, J. Donbas. (Je '68)

Propaganda

Bennett, J. British broadcasting and the Danish resistance movement, 1940-1945. (1967, 1968 Annual)

Frye, A. Nazi Germany and the American hemisphere, 1933-1941. (Ap '68)

Underground movements

Gallagher, J. P. Scarlet Pimpernel of the Vatican. (Je '68)

Hansson, P. Greatest gamble. (Mr '68)

Lampe, D. Last ditch. (Ag '68)

Juvenile literature

Wilhelm, M. For the glory of France. (Ag '68)

Chios (Island)

Argenti, P. P. Occupation of Chios by the Germans and their administration of the island. (My '68)

Denmark

Bennett, J. British broadcasting and the Danish resistance movement, 1940-1945. (1967, 1968 Annual)

France

Beaufre, A. 1940: the fall of France. (Je '68)

Juvenile literature

Wilhelm, M. For the glory of France. (Ag '68)

Germany

Ambrose, S. E. Eisenhower and Berlin, 1945. (Ap '68)

Bezymenski, L. Death of Adolf Hitler. (N '68)

Friedländer, S. Prelude to downfall: Hitler and the United States, 1939-1941. (Mr '68)

Juvenile literature

Elliott, B. J. Hitler and Germany. (O '68)

Great Britain

Lampe, D. Last ditch. (Ag '68)

Macmillan, H. Blast of war, 1939-1945. (Mr '68)

Thomson, G. M. Vote of censure. (Ag '68)

Italy

Tutaev, D. Man who saved Florence. (Mr '68)

Japan

Brooks, L. Behind Japan's surrender. (S '68)

Fels, H. Atomic bomb and the end of World War II [rev ed]. (Mr '68)

Poland*Juvenile literature

Werstein, I. Uprising of the Warsaw ghetto, November 1940-May 1943. (S '68)

Singapore

Barber, N. Sinister twilight. (D '68)

Leasor, J. Singapore. (Ap '68)

United States

Farago, L. Broken seal. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

World War I and the American novel. Cooperman, S. (Je '68)

World we imagine. Schorer, M. (O '68)

World without hunger. Freeman, O. L. (S '68)

Worldmark encyclopedia of the nations, 5v [3d ed]. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Worlds of sound. Stambler, I. (Mr '68)

Worldwide machine. Volponi, P. (Mr '68)

Would you put your money in a sand bank? Longman, H. (O '68)

Wreath for America. Eng title of: The Corder index. Raine, R. (Mr '68)

Wreath for the bride. Lang, M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Wreath to Clio. Wheeler-Bennett, J. W. (O '68)

Wrecking of Offshore Five. Johnston, R. (Ag '68)

Wright, Judith

Scott, W. N. Focus on Judith Wright. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Wright, Richard

Webb, C. Richard Wright: a biography. (My '68)

Writers and partisans: a history of literary radicalism in America. Gilbert, J. B. (S '68)

Writers in arms. Benson, F. R. (Ap '68)

Writings in time of war. Teilhard de Chardin, P. (O '68)

Writings of the young Marx on philosophy and society. Marx K. (S '68)

Writings of William James. James, W. (Ag '68)

Wulfila, Bp. See Ulfilas, Bp.

Wurmbrand, Richard

Wurmbrand, R. Christ in the communist prisons. (My '68)

Wyeth, Andrew

Wyeth, A. Andrew Wyeth. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Wynne, Greville

Wynne, G. Contact on Gorky Street. (Mr '68)

X rays*Juvenile literature

Esterer, A. K. Discoverer of X ray, William Conrad Röntgen. (O '68)

Yachting world handbook. (Ag '68)

Yachts and yachting

Bailey, A. Thousand dollar yacht. (Je '68)

Yachting world handbook. (Ag '68)

Yahweh and the Gods of Canaan. Albright, W. F. (N '68)

Yankee (Ketch)

Johnson, I. Yankee sails the Nile. (Ag '68)

Yankee Doodle dandies. McGiffin, L. (Ap '68)

Yankee sails the Nile. Johnson, I. (Ag '68)

Yaqui Indians

De Grazia, T. De Grazia paints the Yaqui Easter. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Yastrzemski, Carl Michael

Yastrzemski, C. Yaz. (Ag '68)

Yaz. Yastrzemski, C. (Ag '68)

Year from Monday. Cage, J. (Ap '68)

Year 2000. Kahn, H. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)

Years of high theory. Shackle, G. L. S. (Ag '68)

Years of opportunity: the League of nations, 1920-1926. Dexter, B. (N '68)

Years of protest. Salzman, J., ed. (Ap '68)

Years of transition: the Dial, 1912-1920. Joost, N. (My '68)

Years of war, 1941-1945; v3 of From the Morgenthau diaries. Blum, J. M. (My '68)

Yeats, William Butler
 Ellmann, R. Eminent domain. (1967, 1968 Annual)
 Jeffares, A. N. W. B. Yeats, man and poet. (Ag '68)

Autobiography
 Ronsley, J. Yeats's Autobiography. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Yeats's Autobiography. Ronsley, J. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Yemen
Foreign relations
 Macro, E. Yemen and the Western world since 1571. (Ag '68)

History
 Schmidt, D. A. Yemen. (N '68)
 Wenner, M. W. Modern Yemen, 1918-1966. (My '68)
 Yemen. Schmidt, D. A. (N '68)
 Yemen and the Western world since 1571. Macro, E. (Ag '68)
 Yiddish for yankees. Marcus, M. (D '68)
 Yiddish language
 Kogos, F. Dictionary of Yiddish slang & idioms. (Ag '68)
 Rosten, L. Joys of Yiddish. (D '68)

Dictionaries
 Marcus, M. Yiddish for yankees. (D '68)

English
 Weinreich, U. Modern English-Yiddish, Yiddish-English dictionary. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Yiddish literature
History and criticism
 Madison, C. A. Yiddish literature. (D '68)
 Yiddish literature. Madison, C. A. (D '68)
Yiddish poetry
Collections
 Whitman, R., comp. & tr. Anthology of modern Yiddish poetry [bilingual ed.]. (Ag '68)
 Yogi cook book. Vithaldas, Y. (Je '68)
 You are extraordinary. Williams, R. J. (Mr '68)
 You can't say what you think. Allen, E. (D '68)

Young, Ewing
 Holmes, K. L. Ewing Young: master trapper. (S '68)

Young adults. See Youth
 Young American poets. Carroll, P., ed. (N '68)
 Young man in Vietnam. Coe, C. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Young Mark. Almedingen, E. M. (Ag '68)
 Young offender. West, D. J. (Ag '68)
 Young people and driving. Purdy, K. W. (Mr '68)
 Young people's guide to manners. Barclay, J. (Ag '68)
 Young radicals. Keniston, K. (O '68)
 Young Stalin. Smith, E. E. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Young statesman, 1901-1914; v2 of Winston S. Churchill. Churchill, R. S. (Ag '68) (1967 Annual)
 Young unicorns. L'Engle, M. (Ag '68)
 Your book of tape recording. Peters, K. (D '68)

Your career in computer programming. Sellgsohn, I. J. (Ap '68)

Your career in computers. Fischer, G. (S '68)
Your friend, the insect. White, F. M. (S '68)
Your growing child and sex. Arnstein, H. S. (Mr '68)
Your health and you. Gramet, C. (S '68)

Youth
 Bernstein, S. Alternatives to violence. (Ag '68)
 Donovan, F. R. Wild kids. (Mr '68)
 Eppel, E. M. Adolescents and morality. (Mr '68)
 Erikson, E. H. Identity. (Je '68)
 Von Hoffman, N. We are the people our parents warned us against. (Ag '68)
 Willmott, P. Adolescent boys of East London. (Je '68)
 Wittenberg, R. M. Troubled generation. (My '68)
 Wolf, L., ed. Voices from the love generation. (Ag '68)

United States

Yablonsky, L. Hippie trip. (O '68)

Political activity

Keniston, K. Young radicals. (O '68)
 Youth doctors. McGrady, P. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Youth in crisis. Shaw, O. L. (Mr '68)
 Ypres, 1st Battle of, 1914
 Farrar-Hockley, A. Death of an army. (Ag '68)

Yugoslavia

Description and travel

Guide books

Cuddon, J. A. Companion guide to Yugoslavia. (D '68)

Politics and government

Shoup, P. Communism and the Yugoslav national question. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Yukon. Place, M. T. (Mr '68)
 Yukon River

Juvenile literature

Place, M. T. Yukon. (Mr '68)

Zambia

Politics and government

Mulford, D. C. Zambia. (S '68)
 Zambia. Mulford, D. C. (S '68)
 Zealots of Masada. Pearlman, M. (Mr '68)

Zeitlin, Jake

Edelstein, J. M., ed. Garland for Jake Zeitlin, on the occasion of his 65th birthday & the anniversary of his 40th year in the book trade. (S '68)

Zen Buddhism

Enomiya-Lassalle, H. M. Zen—way to enlightenment. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)
 Zen—way to enlightenment. Enomiya-Lassalle, H. M. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Zeralda's ogre. Ungerer, T. (Mr '68)

Zettel. Wittgenstein, L. (My '68)

Zeus

Parke, H. W. Oracles of Zeus. (D '68)

Zielinski, Victoria

Smith, E. Brief against death. (N '68)

Zillis, Switzerland. St Martin (Church)

Murbach, E. Painted Romanesque ceiling of St Martin in Zillis. (Ag '68)

Zinoviev letter. Chester, L. (Ag '68)

Zionism

Avnery, U. Israel without Zionists. (D '68)
 Mehdi, M. T. Peace in the Middle East. (Mr '68)
 Samuel, M. Light on Israel. (Ag '68)

History

Latour, A. Resurrection of Israel. (Ag '68)

Zoological gardens

Fisher, J. Zoos of the world. (Ap '68)
 Kirchshofer, R., ed. World of zoos. (O '68)

Zoology

Topsell, E. History of four-footed beasts and serpents and insects, 3v. (Mr '68)

History

Ley, W. Dawn of zoology. (D '68)

Australia

Poignant, A. Animals of Australia. (Ag '68)

Europe

Brink, F. H. van den. Field guide to the mammals of Britain and Europe. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Great Britain

Brink, F. H. van den. Field guide to the mammals of Britain and Europe. (Ja '69) (1968 Annual)

Islands of the Pacific

Roedelberger, F. A. Wildlife of the South Seas. (Ap '68)

North America

Caras, R. A. North American mammals. (Ap '68)

Zoos of the world. Fisher, J. (Ap '68)

Zorach, William

Zorach, W. Art is my life. (S '68)

Directory of Publishers and Distributors

- A.L.A. American Library Association. Publishing Department, 50 E Huron St, Chicago, Ill. 60611
- Abelard-Schuman, Ltd, 6 W 57th St, New York, N.Y. 10019
Formerly Abelard
Also use imprint Raven
- Abingdon Press, Hdqrs, 201 8th Av, S, Nashville, Tenn. 37203; 55 E 55th St, New York, N.Y. 10022
Division of Meth. Pub. House
Formerly pub. as Abingdon-Cokesbury
- Abrams, Harry N. Abrams, Inc, 6 W 57th St, New York, N.Y. 10019
Also use imprint Abradale Press Bk.
Acquired by Times-Mirror
- Academia Press, Box 125, Oshkosh, Wis. 54901
- Academic Press, Inc, 111 5th Av, New York, N.Y. 10003
Los Angeles: 672 S Lafayette Park Pl, Los Angeles, Calif. 90057
- Alba House, 2187 Victory Blvd, Staten Island, N.Y. 10314
Division of St Paul Publications
- Aldine Publishing Company, 529 S Wabash Av, Chicago, Ill. 60605
- Allyn & Bacon, Inc, 470 Atlantic Av, Boston, Mass. 02110
Atlanta: 695 Miami Circle, N.E., Atlanta, Ga. 30324
Belmont: Belmont Park, Belmont, Calif. 94002
Rockleigh: Rockleigh Industrial Park, Rockleigh, N.J. 07647
- Am. Bk. American Book Company, 55 5th Av, New York, N.Y. 10003
Sister Co: Van Nostrand-Reinhold
Cincinnati: 300 Pike St, Cincinnati, Ohio 45202
Dallas: 510 Elm St, Dallas, Tex. 75202
Millbrae: 399 Adrain Rd, Millbrae, Calif. 94030
- Am. Council on Education, Publications Division, 1785 Massachusetts Av, Washington, D.C. 20036
- American Geographical Society of New York, Broadway at 156th St, New York, N.Y. 10032
- American Heritage Publishing Company, Inc, 561 5th Av, New York, N.Y. 10017
Publications distributed by various publishers
American Heritage Junior Library Books & Horizon; Caravel Books now available from Harper
Caravel Books now available from Harper Horizon
- American Management Association, Publication Service, 135 W 50th St, New York, N.Y. 10020
Handle publications of the various Divisions and Bureaus
- American Nurse's Foundation, Inc, 10 Columbus Circle, New York, N.Y. 10019
- American Philosophical Society, 104 S 5th St, Philadelphia, Pa. 19106
- American Universities Field Staff, Inc, 366 Madison Av, New York, N.Y. 10017
- Anderson & Ritchie, Anderson, Ritchie & Simon (Ward Ritchie Press) 3044 Riverside Drive, Los Angeles, Calif. 90027; refer orders to Golden Gate for juvenile titles; other titles to Lane Bk. Co.
- Antioch Press, Yellow Springs, Ohio 45387
- Aperture, Inc. See Grossman pubs.
- Appleton-Century-Crofts, 440 Park Av, S, New York, N.Y. 10016; refer orders to Meredith
Purchased Landsberger
Division of Meredith
- Archon Books, Conn. See Shoe String
- Arco Publishing Company, Inc, 219 Park Av. S, New York, N.Y. 10003
- Arlington House, Publishers, 81 Centre Av, New Rochelle, N.Y. 10801
- Artus Company, 7330 Grant Boulevard, Cleveland, Ohio 44130
- Asia Publishing House, 29 E 10th St, New York, N.Y. 10003
- Asia Society, 112 E 64th St, New York, N.Y. 10021
- Association Press (Nat. Council of Y.M.C.A.'s) 291 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10007
Also use imprint Haddam House
- Astor-Honor, Inc, 26 E 42d St, New York, N.Y. 10017
Formerly Obolensky
Books distributed by Grosset
- Atheneum Publishers, 122 E 42nd St, New York, N.Y. 10017
Acquired Russell & Russell
- Atherton Press, 70 5th Av, New York, N.Y. 10011
Division of Prentice-Hall
- Augsburg Publishing House, 426 S 5th St, Minneapolis, Minn. 55415
Columbus: 57 E Main St, Columbus, Ohio 43215
Los Angeles: 3224 Beverly Blvd, Los Angeles, Calif. 90057
Publishers for Am. Lutheran Church
Absorbed Lutheran Pub. House and Wartburg Press
- Augustin, J. J. Augustin, Inc, Publishers, Locust Valley, N.Y. 11560
- Award House, 235 E 45th St, New York, N.Y. 10017; for sale by Crown
- Bantam Books, Inc, 271 Madison Av, New York, N.Y. 10016
- Barnes, A. S. A. S. Barnes & Company, Box 421, Cranbury, N.J. 08512
Owners of Countryman & Camera Craft
Purchased by Yoseloff
Also use imprint Sportsman Press
- Barnes & Noble, Inc, 105 5th Av, New York, N.Y. 10003
- Barre Publishing Company, Inc (Barre Publishers), South St, Barre, Mass. 01005
Formerly Barre Gazette
- Bartholomew House, Ltd, 205 E 42d St, New York, N.Y. 10017; refer orders to Taplinger
Book division of MacFadden
- Basic Books, Inc. Publishers, 404 Park Av. S, New York, N.Y. 10016; refer orders to Book Centre
- Beacham, Roger, Publisher, Box 8254, Austin, Tex. 78712
- Beacon Press, Inc, 25 Beacon St, Boston, Mass. 02108; 1601 Jericho Turnpike, New Hyde Park, N.Y. 11040
Distributor of Am. Unitar
- Bedminster Press, Inc, Vreeland Av, Totowa, N.J. 07512; 75 E 55th St, New York, N.Y. 10022
Belknap press. See Harvard univ. press
- Bellwether Publishing Company, 167 E 67th St, New York, N.Y. 10021
- Bergman Publishers, 224 W 20th St, New York, N.Y. 10011
- Beta Phi Mu. Univ. of Ill, 220 Lib, Urbana, Ill.
- Bethany College, Bethany, W.Va. 26032
- Binfords, Binfords & Mort, Publishers, 2505 S.E. 11th Av, Portland, Ore. 97202
Originally pub. as Metropolitan Press
- Black Star Publishing Company, 450 E 55th St, New York, N.Y. 10022
Distributed by David White Company, 60 E 55th St, New York, N.Y. 10022
- Blaisdell Publishing Company, 275 Wyman St, Waltham, Mass. 02154
Division of Ginn
- Bloch Publishing Company, Inc, 31 W 31st St, New York, N.Y. 10001
- Blom, B. Benjamin Blom, Inc, 4 W Mt Eden Av, New York, N.Y. 10452
- Bobbs-Merrill Company, Inc, 4300 W 62d St, Indianapolis, Ind. 46206; 3 W 57th St, New York, N.Y. 10019
Subsidiary of Sams
Affiliate co. Liberal Arts
Also imprint Charter Books
- Bobley Publishing Corp, 26 The Place, Glen Cove, New York 11542
- Bookman Associates, Inc, 31 Union Sq, W, New York, N.Y. 10003
Affiliate of Twayne
- Books, Inc, Publishing Company, 432 Park Av S, New York, N.Y. 10016; 1250 Connecticut Av, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036
Spartan consolidated with above
Purchased the firm of Henley
Owned by Publishers Company, Inc.
- Boston Univ. Press, 138 Mountfort St, Brookline, Mass. 02146
- Bowker, The R.R. Bowker Company, 1180 Av. of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10036
- Braziller, George Braziller, Inc, 1 Park Av, New York, N.Y. 10016
- British Bk. Centre, Inc, 122 E 55th St, New York, N.Y. 10022
- British Information Services, 845 3d Av, New York, N.Y. 10022

Broadman. The Broadman Press, Sunday School Board, Southern Baptist Convention, 127 9th Av. N, Nashville, Tenn. 37203

Brookings. The Brookings Institution, Publications Division, 1775 Massachusetts Av., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036

Handles distribution of the various Programs

Brown Univ. Press, Box 1881, Providence, R.I. 02912

Bruce Publishing Company, 400 N Broadway, Milwaukee, Wis. 53201; 393 7th Av., New York, N.Y. 10001; 20 N Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill. 60606

Also use imprint Bruce Press

Business Press. The Business Press, 288 Park Av. W, Elmhurst, Ill. 60126

CRM Associates, 1330 Camino Del Mar, Calif. 65709; for sale by Random House

Cambridge Univ. Press, 32 E 57th St, New York, N.Y. 10022; refer orders to 510 North Av, New Rochelle, N.Y. 10801

Publish books for Inst. of Actuaries

Campus Publishers, 711 N. University Av, Ann Arbor, Mich. 48108

Carnation Press, Box 101, State College, Pa. 16801

Caxton Ptrs, Caldwell, Idaho 83605

Century House, Ivy Mus, Watkins Glen, N.Y. 14891

Chandler Publishing Company, 124 Spear St, San Francisco, Calif. 94105

Formerly Chandler, H.

Chelsea House Publishers, 70 W 40th Street, New York, N.Y.

Childrens Press, Inc, 1224 W Van Buren St, Chicago, Ill. 60607

Affiliate co. Melmot Pubs.

Parent co. Regensteiner Corp.

Travel Press is a division

Child's World, Inc, 300 W. Washington St, Chicago, Ill. 60606

Chilmark Press, 941 Park Av, New York, N.Y. 10028; refer orders to Random House

Chilton Company (Chilton Books), 401 Walnut St, Philadelphia, Pa. 19106

Purchased the firms of Conover-Nast Book Division; Greenberg; Heidt and Jenkins Publications

Citadel Press, 222 Park Av, S, New York, N.Y. 10003

Clark, A.H. Arthur H. Clark Co, 1264 S Central Av, Glendale, Calif. 91204

Clergy & Laymen concerned about Vietnam, 637 W. 125th St, New York, N.Y. 10027

Colby College Press, Box 282, Waterville, Me.

College & Univ. Press Services, Inc, 263 Chapel St, New Haven, Conn. 06513

Collier, P. F. Collier, Inc, 640 5th Av, New York, N.Y. 10019

Also use Imprint Crowell-Collier Educ. Corp;

Crowell-Collier Press

Subsidiary cos. La Salle Extension Univ. and Teachers Pub.

Colonial Williamsburg, Inc, Box 516, Williamsburg, Va. 23185

Columbia Univ. Press, 136 South Broadway, Irvington-on-Hudson, New York, N.Y. 10533

Publish and distribute Temple Univ. Publications published from 1955

Concordia Publishing House, 3558 S Jefferson Av, St Louis, Mo. 63118

Publishers for the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Mo. Ohio and other states

Conde Nast Publications, Inc, 420 Lexington Av, New York, N.Y. 10017

Consumers Union, 256 Washington St, Mt. Vernon, New York

On sale by Harper

Cooper Square Publishers, Inc, 59 4th Av, New York, N.Y. 10003

Cornell Maritime Press, Inc, Box 109, Cambridge, Md. 21613

Cornell Univ. Graduate School of Business & Public Adm, Ithaca, N.Y. 14880

Cornell Univ. Press, 124 Roberts Pl, Ithaca, N.Y. 14850

Coward-McCann, Inc, 200 Madison Av, New York, N.Y. 10016

Affiliate cos. Putnam and Day

Cowles Book Company, Inc, 488 Madison Av, New York, N.Y. 10022

Civil Service Pub. Corp; College Pub. Corp; Tech. Extension Service, Inc. have incorporated into Cowles whose imprint is used for all publications

Criterion Bks, Inc, 6 W 57th St, New York, N.Y. 10019; refer orders to Abelard-Schuman

Crowell. Thomas Y. Crowell Co, 201 Park Av. S, New York, N.Y. 10002

Crown Publishers, Inc, 419 Park Av. S, New York, N.Y. 10016

Also use imprint Bonanza Books

Purchased the firm of Allen, Towne & Heath, Lothrop and Covici

Purchased the majority of stock from Bell Pub.

Subsidiary companies: Arcadia; Outlet acquired the Ziff-Davis Little Sports Lib. and Little Tech. Lib. from Prentice-Hall

Distributors for various publishers

Da Capo Press, 227 W 17th St, New York, N.Y. 10011

Division of Plenum Press

Dahlstrom, G. & S. Marks; for sale by Dawsons bk.

Davey, Daniel Davey & Co, Inc, 964 Asylum Av, Hartford, Conn. 06105

Dawsons Book Shop, 535 North Larchmont Boulevard, Los Angeles, Calif. 90004

Also use imprint Glen Dawson

Day, The John Day Company, 62 W 45th St, New York, N.Y. 10036; refer orders to 200 Madison Av, New York, N.Y. 10016

Also use imprint Asia Press

Affiliated cos. Putnam and Coward-McCann

Delacorte Press Bk. See Dial Press

Dell Publishing Company, Inc, 750 3d Av, New York, N.Y. 10017; refer orders to Changebridge Rd, Pine Brook, N.J. 07058; 1104 Lawrence St, Los Angeles, Calif. 90021

Also use imprint Delta Books

The Devin-Adair Company, Publishers, 23 E 26th St, New York, N.Y. 10010

The Dial Press, Inc, 750 3d Av, New York, N.Y. 10017

Controlling interest purchased by Dell

Also use imprint Delacorte Press Bk.

Diplomatic Press, 2305 Amelia Circle, Tallahassee, Fla. 32304

Dodd, Mead & Company, Inc, 79 Madison Av, New York, N.Y. 10016

Also use imprint Apollo eds.

Doubleday & Company, Inc, 277 Park Av, New York, N.Y. 10017; refer orders to 501 Franklin Av, Garden City, N.Y. 11530

Purchased Ferguson, J.G. and Laidlaw

Also use imprints: Doubleday, N; Garden City Bks; Hanover House; Junior Bks; Anchor Bks; Made Simple Bks; Dolphin Bks.

Dover Publications, Inc, 180 Varick St, New York, N.Y. 10014

Publish Handicraft & Hobby series jointly with Foyle

Dow Jones-Irwin, Inc. (Publishers) (Dow Jones Bks), Box 300, Princeton, N.J. 08540; 30 Broad St, New York, N.Y. 10004; 818 Ridge Rd, Homewood, Ill. 60430

Doyle, Howard A. Doyle Publishing Company, 689 Massachusetts Av, Cambridge, Mass.

Drexel Bookstore, 3139 Ludlow St, Philadelphia, Pa. 19104

Drexel Press. Drexel Inst. of Technology, 32d & Chestnut Sts, Philadelphia, Pa. 19104; refer trade orders to Drexel Bookstore

Duell, Sloane & Pearce, Inc, 60 E 42d St, New York, N.Y. 10017; refer orders to 1716 Locust St, Des Moines, Iowa 50303

Affiliate of Meredith

Duke Univ. Press, College Station 6697, Durham, N.C. 27708

Dunbarton Oaks Center for Byzantine Studies, Trustees for Harvard Univ, 1703 32d pl, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20007; for sale by Augustin

Duquesne Univ. Press, Pittsburgh, Pa. 15219; refer trade orders to Herder & Herder

Formerly Duquesne Univ.

Dutton, E. P. Dutton & Co, Inc, 201 Park Av. S, New York, N.Y. 10003

East West Center Pres. 1777 East-West Rd, Honolulu, Hawaii 96822

Eerdmans, Wm. B. Eerdmans Publishing Company, 255 Jefferson Av. S.E., Grand Rapids, Mich. 49502

Elsevier Pub. Co. American Elsevier Pub. Co. Inc, 52 Vanderbilt Av, New York, N.Y. 10017

Also use name Agon Elsevier

Eriksson, Paul S. Eriksson, Inc, 119 W 57th St, New York, N.Y. 10019; refer orders to Hill & Wang

Formerly imprint of Taplinger

Evans, M. & Co. M. Evans & Company, Inc, 216 E 49th St, New York, N.Y. 10017; refer orders to Lippincott

The Exposition Press, Inc, 50 Jericho Turnpike, Jericho, N.Y. 11753

Also use imprints: Banner Bks; Univ. Book and Testament Book

- Fairleigh Dickinson Univ. Press, Box 421, Cranbury, N.J. 08512
Farrar, Straus & Giroux, Inc., 19 Union Sq. W., New York, N.Y. 10003
 Purchased Pellegrini & Cudahy; Creative Age Press and Noonday
 Subsidiary co. Page
 Also use imprints Ariel Books for Children's Book Division; Visual Arts Books and Vision Books
Fell, Frederick Fell, Inc., 386 Park Av. S., New York, N.Y. 10016
Fertig, Howard Fertig, Inc., Publisher, 125 West 12th St., New York, N.Y. 10011
Fides, Publishers, Box 507, Notre Dame, Ind. 46556
Field Enterprises Educational Corporation, 510 Merchandise Mart Plaza, Chicago, Ill. 60654; 11 W 42d St., New York, N.Y. 10018
Fleet Press Corporation, 156 5th Av., New York, N.Y. 10010
 Formerly Fleet Pub.
Fleet Publishing Corporation. See Fleet Press
Folklore Associates, 12 Meetinghouse Rd., Hatboro, Pa. 19040
Follett Publishing Company, 1010 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. 60607; 432 Park Av. S., New York, N.Y. 10016
 Subsidiary co. Maxton
Fordham Univ. Press, 441 E Fordham Rd., Bronx, N.Y. 10458
Fortress Press, 2900 Queen Lane, Philadelphia, Pa. 19129; Rock Island, Ill. 61201
 Merger of Augustana; Augustana Press and Muhlenberg Press
 Trade name of Board of Publications of Lutheran Church in America
 Published and distributed for United Lutheran Church in America
The Four Winds Press, 50 W 44th St., New York, N.Y. 10036; refer orders to 904 Sylvan Av., Englewood Cliffs, N.J. 07632
 Division of Scholastic Mags.
The Free Press, 60 5th Av., New York, N.Y. 10011; refer orders to Brown & Front Sts., Riverside, N.J. 08075
 A division of Macmillan (N Y)
Freeman, W. H. Freeman & Company, Publishers, 660 Market St., San Francisco, Calif. 94104
 Subsidiary of Scientific Am.
Friends of the Univ. of Iowa Libs, Iowa City, Iowa 52240
 See Univ. of Iowa Library
Funk, Funk & Wagnalls Company, Inc., 380 Madison Av., New York, N.Y. 10017
 Absorbed Funk, W.
 Division of Readers Digest
 Also use imprint Minerva Press

Gale Research Company, 1400 Book Tower, Detroit, Mich. 48226
Garrard Publishing Company, 1607 N Marker St., Champaign, Ill. 61820; 2 Overhill Rd., Scarsdale, N.Y. 10583
Geis, Bernard Geis Associates, 130 E 56th St., New York, N.Y. 10022; for sale by Random House
The Gilliga Press, 4524 E. Illinois Av., Fresno, Calif. 93702
Giniger, K. S. Giniger Company, Inc., 1140 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10001
Ginn & Company, Statler Bldg., Park Sq., Boston, Mass., 02117; Eastern Division: 125 2d Av., Waltham, Mass. 02154
 Atlanta: 717 Miami Circle, N.E. Atlanta, Ga. 30324
 Chicago: 205 W Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. 60606
 Dallas: 1510 Young St., Dallas, Tex. 75201
 Palo Alto: 250 Hanover St., Palo Alto, 94304
 Also handle Ginn Lib. Services Publications
 Member Paul Hamlyn Group
Golden Gate Junior Books, Box 398, San Carlos, Calif. 94070
Golden Press, Publishers, 850 3d Av., New York, N.Y. 10022; refer orders to 150 Parish Drive, Wayne, N.J.
 Subsidiary of Western Pub. Co.
 Affiliate co. Golden Pleasure
Green, W. H. Warren H. Green, Inc., 10 S Brentwood Blvd., St Louis, Mo. 63105
 Publish Medical Bks.
 See also Fireside Bks.
The Gregg Press, Inc., 171 E. Ridgewood Av., Ridgewood, N.J. 07450
Grolier, Inc., 575 Lexington Av., New York, N.Y. 10022
 Formerly Grolier Soc.
 Subsidiary co. Watts, F.

Grosset & Dunlap, Inc., 51 Madison Av., New York, N.Y. 10010; refer orders to 227 E Center St., Kingsport, Tenn. 37660
 Purchased the business of Barse & Co. and McLoughlin
 Also use imprint Universal Lib; Madison Sq. Press
Grossman Pubs., 125A E 19th St., New York, N.Y. 10003
 Also use imprint Paragraphic Bks.
 See also Irion
Grove Press Inc., 80 University Pl., New York, N.Y. 10013; refer orders to 315 Hudson St., New York, N.Y. 10013

HRAF Press. See Human relations
Hafner Pub. Co. Inc., 31 E 10th St., New York, N.Y. 10003
 Publishing section of Stechert-Hafner
Hallmark Card, Inc., 2501 McGee Trafficway, Kansas City, Mo. 64141
Hammond, Hammond Incorporated, 515 Valley St., Maplewood, N.J. 07040
 Formerly C. S. Hammond Co. Inc.
Harcourt, Harcourt, Brace & World, Inc., 757 3d Av., New York, N.Y. 10017
 Atlanta: 680 Forrest Rd., N.E. Atlanta, Ga. 30312
 Burlingame: 1855 Rollins Rd., Burlingame, Calif. 94010
 Chicago: 7555 Caldwell Av., Chicago, Ill. 60648
 Dallas: 4640 Harry Hines Blvd., Dallas, Tex. 75235
 Merged with World Bk.
 Expanded to include the publications of Reynal
Harlin Quist, Inc., 252 E 49th St., New York, N.Y. 10017; refer trade orders to Crown
Harper & Row, Publishers, 49 E 33d St., New York, N.Y. 10016; 2500 Crawford Av., Evanston, Ill. 60201
 Distribute some publications for Commonwealth Fund
 Merged with Row
 Purchased Wheeler
Harris-Wolfe & Company, Inc., 235 N Main St., Jacksonville, Ill. 62650
 Also use imprint Delphi Press Bks.
Hart Publishing Co, Inc., 510 6th Av., New York, N.Y. 10011
 Formerly pub. as Hart Book Co.
Harvard College Lib, Cambridge, Mass.
Harvard Univ. Division of Res. Harvard Univ. Graduate School of Business Administration. Division of Research, Soldiers Field, Boston, Mass. 02163
Harvard Univ. Press, Publishing Department (Belknap Press) Kittredge Hall, 79 Garden St., Cambridge, Mass. 02138
 Acquired the Loeb Classical Library from Putnam
Harvey House, 5 S Buckhout St., Irvington-on-Hudson, N.Y. 10533
Hastings House, Publishers, Inc., 10 E 40th St., New York, N.Y. 10016
 Owned by Mr Frese
Hawthorn Books, Inc., 70 5th Av., New York, N.Y. 10011
Hearthside Press, Inc., 381 Park Av. S., New York, N.Y. 10016
Heineman, James H. Heineman, Inc., 60 E 42d St., New York, N.Y. 10017
Helicon Press, Inc., 1120 N Calvert St., Baltimore, Md. 21202; refer orders to Taplinger
Herder & Herder, Inc. (Herder Bk. Center) 232 Madison Av., New York, N.Y. 10016
Heritage Foundation, Inc. See Barre Publishing Company
Hill & Wang, Inc., 72 5th Av., New York, N.Y. 10010
 Also use imprint Dramabooks
Harmon Press, 10 E 40th St., New York, N.Y. 10016
Hillary House Publishers, Ltd., 303 Park Av. S., New York, N.Y. 10010
 Affiliate co. Humanities Press
Hobbs, Dorman & Co, Inc., 441 Lexington Av., New York, N.Y. 10017
Holiday House, 18 E 56th St., New York, N.Y. 10022
Holt, Holt, Rinehart & Winston, Inc., 383 Madison Av., New York, N.Y. 10017
 San Francisco: Crocker Park, Box 24400, San Francisco, Calif. 94124
 Merger of Rinehart and Winston
 Also publish as Universal Bk. and Bible House
 Subsidiary co. Mentzer
Horizon Press, 156 5th Av., New York, N.Y. 10010

- Houghton. Houghton Mifflin Company (Riverside Press, Cambridge) 2 Park St, Boston, Mass. 02107; refer orders to Wayside Rd, Burlington, Mass. 01803
- Human Relations. Human Relations Area, Files Press, Box 2054, Yale Station, New Haven, Conn. 06520; 35 Wisconsin Circle, Washington, D.C. 20015; refer orders to Taplinger
Also publish as HRAE Press
- Humanities Press, Inc. 303 Park Av. S, New York, N.Y. 10010
Affiliate co. Hillary House
- Huntington Lib. Henry E. Huntington Library & Art Gallery, 1151 Oxford Rd, San Marino, Calif. 91108
- Indiana University Press, 10th & Morton Sts, Bloomington, Ind. 47401
- Int. Arts & Sciences Press, 108 Grand St, White Plains, New York 10601
- International Publishers Company, Inc. 381 Park Av. S, New York, N.Y. 10016
Also pub. as Int. Pubs. Associates
- Int. Univs. Press, Inc. 238 Park Av. S, New York, N.Y. 10003
Formerly Int. Univ. Press
- Interscience Publishers, Inc. 605 3d Av, New York, N.Y. 10016
Division of Wiley, to whom orders should be sent
- Iowa State Univ. Press, Press Building, Ames, Iowa 50010
Publishers of bks. in agriculture, science home economics, engineering and veterinary medicine
- Irwin, Richard D. Irwin, Inc. 1818 Ridge Rd, Homewood, Ill. 60430
Distributors for Am. Economic Assn. Publications pub. to 1951 and publishers for future volumes
Subsidiary co. Dorsey Press
- John Knox Press, Box 1176, 801 Main St, Richmond, Va. 23219
- Johns Hopkins Press, Homewood, Baltimore, Md. 21218
- Johnson Pub (Chicago). Johnson Publishing Company, Inc. Book Division, 1820 S Michigan Av, Chicago, Ill. 60616; 1270 Av. of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10020
- Jossey-Bass, Inc. Pubs, 615 Montgomery St, San Francisco, Calif. 94111
- Journal of Chemical Educ. 20th & Northampton Sts, Easton, Pa. 18042
Division of Chemical Educ. of the Am. Chemical Soc.
Books prepared and distributed by the Chemical Educ. Pub. Co. Same address
- Kelley. Augustus M. Kelley, 24 E 22d St, New York, N.Y. 10010
- Kenedy. P. J. Kenedy & Sons, Publishers, 12 Barclay St, New York, N.Y. 10008
- Knopf. Alfred A. Knopf, Inc. 501 Madison Av, New York, N.Y. 10022; refer orders to 33 W 60th St, New York, 10023
Purchased by Random House
- Kodansha International/USA, Ltd. 577 College Av, Palo Alto, Calif. 94306
- Ktav Publishing House, 120 East Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10002
Affiliated with Friendly House
- La. State Univ. Press, University Station, Baton Rouge, La. 70803
- Lippincott. J. B. Lippincott Company, E. Washington Sq, Philadelphia, Pa. 19105; 521 5th Av, New York, N.Y. 10017; 333 W Lake St, Chicago, Ill. 60606
Affiliate Co. Holman
- Lion Press, 21 W 38th St, New York, N.Y. 10018
- Little, Brown & Company, 34 Beacon St, Boston, Mass. 02106
Functions as publisher and distributor of trade bks. for Atlantic Monthly Press Publications
- Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Company, Inc. 381 Park Av. S, New York, N.Y. 10016
Acquired by Scott
- Luce. R.B. Robert B. Luce, Inc. 1244 9th St, N.W. Washington, D.C. 20036; refer orders to McKay
- M.I.T. Press. Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Publications Office (M.I.T. Press) 77 Massachusetts Av, Cambridge, Mass. 02139
- McCutchan Publishing Corporation, 2526 Grove St, Berkeley, Calif. 94704
- McGraw-Hill Book Co. Inc. 330 W 42d St, New York, N.Y. 10036; refer orders to Hightstown-Princeton Rd, Hightstown, N.J. 08520; 4655 Chase Av, Lincolnwood, Chicago, Ill. 60466; 201 Tamai Vista Drive, Corte Madera, Calif. 93637
Acquired House of Grant
Purchased the firm of Embassy; also Gregg, whose identity will be kept as their Business Educ. Division; also Blakiston with their Health Educ. Dept. and Webster
Trade bk. dept. formerly known as Whit-tlesy House on juveniles and some specialized bks.
High School bks. with the exception of modern high school classics bearing imprint Harper are sold by McGraw
- McKay. David McKay Company, Inc. Publishers, 750 3d Av, New York, N.Y. 10017
Taken over the Juvenile dept. of Reynal
- McKinley Publishing Company, 112 S New Broadway, Brooklawn, N.J. 08030
- Macmillan (N.Y.). The Macmillan Co, Publishers, 10022; refer orders to Brown & Front St, Riverside, N.J. 08075
Atlanta: 1360 Spring St. N.W., Atlanta, Ga. 30309
Chicago: 2549 Prairie Av, Chicago, Ill. 60616
Dallas: 501-7 Elm St, Dallas, Tex. 75202
San Francisco: 111 New Montgomery St, San Francisco, Calif. 94105
Cambridge publications formerly handled by Macmillan in the U.S. now handled by Cambridge
Division of Crowell-Collier Pub. Co.
- Macrae Smith Co. Lewis Tower Bldg, 255 S 15th St, Philadelphia, Pa. 19102
- Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Publications Office (M.I.T. Press). See M.I.T. Press
- Meredith Press, 1716 Locust St, Des Moines, Iowa 50303; 250 Park Av, New York, N.Y. 10017
Publishers of Better Homes & Gardens Magazine
Division of Meredith Pub. Co. Purchased Channel and Lyons
Affiliate of Appleton and Duell
- Merit Pubs. 873 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10003
Formerly Pioneer Pubs.
- Messner. See Simon & Schuster
- Mich. State Univ. Press, Box 550, East Lansing, Mich. 48823
Formerly Mich. State College Press
- The Middle East Institute, 1761 N St. N.W., Washington 6, D.C.
- The Minority of One Press, 155 Pennington Av, Passaic, N.J. 07055
- Modern Lib. Inc. 457 Madison Av, New York, N.Y. 10022
Owned and controlled by Random House
- Moirs Bks. B.A.M. Associates, 1042 East Seven Mile Road, Detroit, Michigan 48203
- Monthly Review. MR Press, 116 W 14th St, New York, 10011
- Morrow. William Morrow & Company, Inc. Publishers, 425 Park Av. S, New York, N.Y. 10016; refer orders to Order Dept, 788 Bloomfield Av. Clifton, N.J. 07012
Also use imprint Apollo Eds.
Distributors for Barrows: Jefferson House; Mill; Reynal & Co; Sloane and Whiteside
- Mountaineers. The Mountaineers Publications Division, 2207 Interlaken Blvd, E. Seattle, Wash. 98102
- The Museum of Modern Art, 11 W 53d St, New York, N.Y. 10019; refer trade orders to Doubleday
- Museum of New Mexico Press, Box 2087, Santa Fe, N.Mex. 87501
- The Museum of Primitive Art, 15 W 54th St, New York, N.Y. 10019; refer orders to N.Y. Graphic
- N.Y. Graphic. New York Graphic Society Publishers, Ltd. 140 Greenwich Av, Greenwich, Conn. 06830; 10 W 33d St, New York, N.Y. 10001
- N.Y. Public Lib. New York Public Library, Public Relations Office, 5th Av. & 42d St, New York, N.Y. 10018
- N.Y. Univ. Press, 32 Washington Pl, New York, N.Y. 10003
- Nat. Bur. of Economic Res., Inc. 261 Madison Av, New York, N.Y. 10016
Distribution being handled by Columbia Univ. Press

Nat. Geographic Soc, 17th & M Sts. N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20036
Nat. Press (Washington, D.C.), Inc, 128 C St.
N.E. Washington, D.C. 20002
Natural Hist. Press, 501 Franklin Av, Garden
City, N.Y. 11530
Nelson, Thomas Nelson & Sons, Copewood &
Davis Sts, Camden, N.J. 08103
Purchased by Thomson Organization
New Am. Lib. The New American Library of World Literature, Inc, 1301 Av. of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10019
Also use imprint Signet Book
Subsidiary of Times-Mirror
Parent Co. of New English Lib.
New Directions, Norfolk, Conn; 333 Av. of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10014; refer orders to Lippincott
Also use imprint James Laughlin
The Newman Press Catholic Publishers, 21 Harrington Rd, Glen Rock, N.J. 07452; refer orders to 69 Main St, Westminster, Md. 21157
Division of Paulist Press
Has absorbed Carroll Press and acquired all their publications
New World Press, World Trade Center, San Francisco 11
The Noonday Press, 19 Union Sq, W, N.Y. 10003
Acquired by Farrar, Straus
Northwestern Univ. Press, 1735 Benson Av,
Evanston, Ill. 60201
Norton, W. W. Norton & Company, Inc, Publishers, 55 5th Av, New York, N.Y. 10003
Handle New Collins Classics in the U.S.A.

Oak Publications Inc, 33 W 60th St, New York,
N.Y. 10023
Oceana Publications, Inc, 40 Cedar St, Dobbs
Ferry, N.Y. 10522
Also use imprint Marshall Law Bk. Co.
Octagon Books, 175 5th Av, New York, N.Y.
10010
October House, Inc, 55 W 13th St, New York,
N.Y. 10011
Formerly Clarke & Way
O'Hare Bks, Ten Bartley Road, Flanders, New Jersey 07836
Ohio State University Press, Hitchcock Hall,
Room 306, 2070 Neil Av, Columbus, Ohio 43210
Ohio University Press, Athens, Ohio 45701; refer orders to N.Y. Univ. Press
Open Ct. The Open Court Publishing Company,
Scholarly Bks. Division, Box 492, La Salle,
Ill. 61301
Ore. State Univ. Press, 101 Waldo Hall, Ore.
State Univ, Corvallis, Ore. 97331
Orion Press, Inc, 150 E 35th St, New York,
N.Y. 10016
Proprietor: Grossman Pubs.
Oxford Univ. Press, Inc, 200 Madison Av, New York, N.Y. 10016; refer orders to 16-10 Pollitt
Drive, Fair Lawn, N.J. 07410

Pa. Historical & Museum Commission, Harrisburg, Pa.
Pa. State Univ. Press. Pennsylvania State University Press, University Press Building, University Park, Pa. 16802
Pantheon Books, Inc, 437 Madison Av, New York, N.Y. 10022; refer orders to 33 W 60th
St, New York, N.Y. 10023
Division of Random House
Parents Magazine Press, 58 Vanderbilt Av, New York, N.Y. 10017; refer orders to 80 New
Bridge Rd, Bergenfield, N.J. 17621
Division of Parents Mag. Enterprises
Pegasus (N Y). 850 3d Av, New York, N.Y.
10022
Division of Western Pub. Co.
Pergamon Press, U.S.: Fairview Park, Saw Mill
River Road, Elmsford, N.Y. 10523
Also use imprint Symposium Publications
Division
Pflaum Press (Geo. A. Pflaum) 38 W 5th St,
Dayton, Ohio 45402
Phaidon Publishers, Inc, 65-04 110th St, Forest
Hills, N.Y. 11375; refer Am. orders to Praeger
Horovits founder of Phaidon
Phillips, S. G. Phillips, Inc, 305 W 86th St,
New York, N.Y. 10024
Philosophical Library, Inc, 15 E 40th St, New
York, N.Y. 10016
Pitman Publishing Corporation, 20 E 46th St,
New York, N.Y. 10017
Subsidiary co, Initial Teaching Pub.
Potomac Books, Inc, 1518 K St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20005
Potter, C.N. Clarkson N. Potter, Inc, Publisher, 419 Park Av. S, New York, N.Y. 10016; refer orders to Crown

Praeger, Frederick A. Praeger, Inc, Publishers,
111 4th Av, New York, N.Y. 10003
Associate co. Pall Mall
Acquired by Encyclopaedia Britannica
Prentice-Hall, Inc, Route 9W, Englewood Cliffs,
N.J. 07632
Chicago: 222 W Adams St, Chicago, Ill.
60606
Cleveland: 884 Union Commerce Bldg.
Cleveland, Ohio 44115
N.Y.: 70 5th Av, New York, N.Y. 10011
San Francisco: 560 Mission St, San Francisco, Calif. 94105
Affiliate cos. Nat. Foreman, Parker Pub. and Wadsworth Pub.
Took over some titles from Ziff-Davis
Also use imprint Fiction Lib.
Press of Case Western Reserve Univ, 2029 Adel-
bert Rd, Cleveland, Ohio 44106
Formerly Western Reserve Univ. Press
Press of Western Reserve University. See Press
of Case Western Reserve Univ.
Princeton Univ. Press, Princeton, N.J. 08540
Printing Industries of America, 20 Chevy Chase
Circle, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20015
In association with Bowker
Public Affairs Press, 419 New Jersey Av, S.E.,
Washington, D.C. 20003
Affiliate co. Progress Press
Purdue Univ. Studies, Bldg. D.S. Campus Cts,
Purdue Univ, Lafayette, Ind. 47907
Putnam, G. P. Putnam's Sons, 200 Madison Av,
New York, N.Y. 10016
Affiliate cos. Coward-McCann and Day
Handle and sell all Minton Publications

Quadrangle Books, Inc, 180 N Wacker Drive,
Chicago, Ill. 60606

Rand McNally & Company, Box 7600, Chicago,
Ill. 60680
N.Y.: 405 Park Av, New York, N.Y. 10022
San Francisco: 423 Market St, San Francisco, Calif. 94105
Random House, Inc, 457 Madison Av, New York,
N.Y. 10022; refer orders to 33 W 60th St,
New York, N.Y. 10023
Owns Modern Lib. and Singer
Purchased Burt Home Lib. from Blue Ribbon Bks.
Also use imprint Beginner Bks.
Associate cos. Knopf; Pantheon Bks. and Vintage
Subsidiary of RCA
Regnery, Henry Regnery Co, 114 W Illinois St,
Chicago, Ill. 60610; 175 5th Av, New York,
N.Y. 10010
Purchased Reilly & Lee
The Reilly & Lee Co, 114 W Illinois St, Chicago,
Ill. 60610; 175 5th Av, New York, N.Y. 10010
Division of Regnery
Reinhold. See Van Nostrand
Resources For The Future, Inc, 1755 Massachusetts Av. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036; refer orders to Johns Hopkins Press
Reynal & Company, Inc, 221 E 49th St, New York, N.Y. 10017; refer orders to Morrow
Ridge Press, 17 E 45 St, New York, N.Y. 10017
Rockefeller Univ. Press, York Av. & 66th St,
New York, N.Y. 21
Ronald. The Ronald Press Co, 15 E 26th St,
New York, N.Y. 10010
Roy Publishers, Inc, 30 E 74th St, New York,
N.Y. 10021
Russell Sage Foundation, 230 Park Av, New
York, N.Y. 10017
Rutgers Univ. Press, 30 College Av, New Brunswick, N.J. 08901
Distributors for Abraham Lincoln Assn.

Sabra Bks, 38 W 32d St, New York, N.Y. 10001
Sage Publications, Inc, 275 S Beverly Drive,
Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212
Scarecrow Press, Inc, 52 Liberty St, Box 656,
Metuchen, N.J. 08840
Also use imprint: Scarecrow Reprint Corp.
Owned by Albert Daub & Co, Inc, same address
Schenkman Publishing Company, Inc, 1 Story St,
Harvard Sq, Cambridge, Mass. 02138
Schocken Books, Inc, 67 Park Av, New York,
N.Y. 10016
Science House, Inc, 27 E 62d St, New York, N.Y.
10021
Formerly Int. Science Press

- Scott, Scott, Foresman & Company, Educational Publishers, 1900 E Lake Av., Glenview, Ill. 60025
 Atlanta: 3145 Piedmont Rd., N.E. Atlanta Ga. 30305
 Dallas: 411 Elm St., Dallas, Tex. 75202
 Fair Lawn: 19-00 Pollitt Drive, Fair Lawn, N.J. 07410
 Palo Alto: 855 California Av., Palo Alto, Calif. 94304
Acquired Lothrop
 For trade eds. of Thorndike-Barnhart dictionaries refer orders to Doubleday
Scott, W.R. William R. Scott, Inc., 333 Av. of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10014
 Young Scott Books is a Juvenile division
Scribner, Charles Scribner's Sons, 597 5th Av., New York, N.Y. 10017; refer orders to Vreeland Av., Totowa, N.Y. 07512
The Seabury Press, 815 2d Av., New York, N.Y. 10017
Sheed & Ward, Inc., 64 University Pl., New York, N.Y. 10003
The Shoe String Press, Inc., 995 Sherman Av., Hamden, Conn. 06514
Sierra Club, 1050 Mills Tower, 200 Bush St., San Francisco, Calif. 94104; San Diego Chapter, Box 525, San Diego, Calif. 92112
Silver Burdett Co., Park Av. & Columbia Rd., Morristown, N.J. 07960
 Atlanta: 3272 Peachtree Rd., N.E. Atlanta, Ga. 30305
 Dallas: 4640 Harry Hines Blvd., Dallas, Tex. 75235
 Palo Alto: 435 Middlefield Rd., Palo Alto, Calif. 94301
 Park Ridge: 460 S Northwest Highway, Park Ridge, Ill. 60068
 San Francisco: 604 Mission St., San Francisco, Calif. 94105
Acquired by Time
 Division of General Learning Corp.
Simon & Schuster, Inc., Publishers, 630 5th Av., New York, N.Y. 10020
 Golden Books now obtainable from Golden Press
 Imprints are used for the following divisions: Essandess Specials; Interpublic Press; Messner; Pocket Bks; PB Specials; Trident Press; Washington Sq. Press
Sixties Press, Odin House, Madison, Minn.
Skira, Inc. Publishers, 381 Park Av. S., New York, N.Y. 10016; refer orders to World Pub.
Smith College, Northampton, Mass. 01060
 Address: The Library
The Something Else Press, Inc., 238 22d St., New York, N.Y. 10011
Southern Ill. Univ. Press, Carbondale, Ill. 62901
Speller, Robert Speller & Sons, Publishers, Inc., 10 E 23d St., New York, N.Y. 10010
St. Martins Press, Inc., 175 5th Av., New York, N.Y. 10010
 Am. affiliate of Macmillan (London)
Stackpole Bks. See Stackpole Co.
Stackpole Company, (Stackpole Books) Cameron & Kelker St., Harrisburg, Pa. 17105
 Military Service and Nat. Service Pub. Co. merged with above
Stanford Univ. Hoover Inst. on War, Revolution & Peace, Stanford, Calif. 94305
Stanford Univ. Press, Stanford, Calif. 94305
State Hist. Soc. of Wis., 816 State St., Madison, Wis. 53706
Stein & Day, Publishers, 7 E 48th St., New York, N.Y. 10017
Sterling Publishing Company, Inc., 419 Park Av. S., New York, N.Y. 10016
 Acquired the publications of Bridgman
Stuart, L. Lyle Stuart, Publishers, 238 Park Av. S., New York, N.Y. 10003
 Division of Lyle Stuart, Inc.
The Studio Publications, Inc., 625 Madison Av., New York, N.Y. 10022
 Associated with Viking, who distributes the publications
Swallow, A. Denver, Colo. See Swallow Press
Swallow Press, Inc., 1139 S Wabash Av., Chicago, Ill. 60605
 Formerly Swallow, A.
 Also use imprints Big Mountain Press; Sage
Swedish Pioneer Hist. Soc., 5125 N Spaulding Av., Chicago, Ill. 60625
Syracuse Univ. Press, Box 87, University Station, Syracuse, N.Y. 13210
Teachers College Press, Teachers College, Columbia Univ., 525 W 120th St., New York, N.Y. 10027
Templegate, 719 E Adams St., Springfield, Ill. 62703
The Smith, 5 Beekman St., New York, N.Y. 10038
Theatre Arts Books, 233 6th Av., New York, N.Y. 10014
Time, Inc. Book Division, Time & Life Bldg., Rockefeller Center, New York, N.Y. 10020; refer orders to Time-Life Bks., Life Bldg., Chicago, Ill. 60611; Rockefeller Center, New York, N.Y. 10020
 Subsidiary co. Silver
 Books distributed by various publishers
Topaz Bks., 5 N. Wabash Av., Chicago, Ill. 60602
 Distributed by Taplinger
Transatlantic Arts, Inc., 565 5th Av., New York, N.Y. 10017; refer orders to 105 Blue Spruce Rd., Levittown, N.Y. 11756
Tri-ocean Books, 62 Townsend St., San Francisco, Calif. 94107
Tuttle, Charles E. Tuttle Company, Inc., 28-30 Main St., Rutland, Vt. 05701
 Also use imprint Bridgeway Press
Twayne Publishers, Inc., 31 Union Sq. W., New York, N.Y. 10003
 Distributors for and publishes jointly with Univ. of Kan. City Press
 Distributors for Bookman Associates
Twentieth Century Fund, 41 E 70th St., New York, N.Y. 10021
U.S. Naval Institute, Sec. & Treas. of the United States, Naval Institute, Annapolis, Md. 21402
Ungar, Frederick Ungar Publishing Company, 250 Park Av. S., New York, N.Y. 10003
 Purchased Stephen Daye, Inc. and will continue to use Daye imprint
Univ. Books, Inc., 1615 Hillside Av., New Hyde Park, N.Y. 11040
Univ. of Ala. Press, Department of Publications, Drawer 2877, University, Ala. 35486
Univ. of Ariz. Press, Box 3398, College Station, Tucson, Ariz. 85700
Univ. of Calif. Press, 2223 Fulton St., Berkeley, Calif. 94720; 405 Hilgard Av., Los Angeles, Calif. 90024; 25 W 45 St., New York, N.Y. 10036
 United Nations series handled by the Univ. of Toronto Press
Univ. of Chicago Press, 5750 Ellis Av., Chicago, Ill. 60637; 20 W 43d St., New York, N.Y. 10036
 Acquired the publications of Univ. of Chicago. Dept. of Educ.
 Also use imprint Phoenix Bks.
Univ. of Fla. Press, 15 N.W. 15th St., Gainesville, Fla. 32603
Univ. of Ga. Press, Athens, Ga. 30601
Univ. of Hawaii Press, 2327 Dole St., Honolulu, Hawaii 96822
Univ. of Ill. Press, Urbana, Ill. 61801
Univ. of Iowa Lib., Iowa City, Iowa 52240
Univ. of Kan. Press, Lawrence, Kan. See Univ. Press of Kan.
Univ. of Ky. Press, McVey Hall, Univ. of Ky., Lexington, Ky. 40506
Univ. of Mass. Press, Munson Hall, Amherst, Mass. 01002
Univ. of Miami Press, Box 8104, University of Miami, Coral Gables, Fla. 33124
Univ. of Mich. Press, 615 E University Av., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48106
 Also use imprint Ann Arbor Bks.
Univ. of Minn. Press, 2037 University Av., S.E., Minneapolis, Minn. 55455
Univ. of Mo. Press, 2 Lathrop Hall, Columbia, Mo. 65201
Univ. of N.C. Press, Bynum Hall, Chapel Hill, N.C. 27514
Univ. of N.Mex. Press, Albuquerque, N.Mex. 87106
Univ. of Neb. Press, Lincoln, Neb. 60508
Univ. of Notre Dame Press, Notre Dame, Ind. 46556
Univ. of Okla. Press, Faculty Exchange, Norman, Okla. 73069
Univ. of Pa. Press, 3729 Spruce St., Philadelphia, Pa. 19104
 Publish & distribute Temple Univ. Publications published to 1954
Univ. of Pittsburgh Press, 3209 Cathedral of Learning, Pittsburgh, Pa. 15213
Univ. of Plano, Plano, Tex.
Univ. of S.C. Press, Columbia, S.C. 29208
Univ. of Tenn. Press, Publications Building, Knoxville, Tenn. 37916
Univ. of Tex. Humanities Res. Center, Box 7594, Univ. Station, Austin, Tex. 78712; refer orders to Univ. of Tex. Press

- Univ. of Tex. Press, Box 7819, Austin, Tex. 78712
- Univ. of Wash. Press, 1405 N.E. 41st, Seattle, Wash. 98105
Publish Am. Ethnological Soc. Publications
- Univ. of Wis. Press, Box 1379, Madison, Wis. 53701
- Univ. Press of Kan, 358 Watson, Lawrence, Kan. 66044
- Univ. Press of Va, The Rotunda, Charlottesville, Va. 22903
- Universe Bks, Inc, 381 Park Av. S, New York, N.Y. 10016
- Vanderbilt Univ. Press, Box 1813, Nashville, Tenn. 37203
- The Vanguard Press, Inc, 424 Madison Av, New York, N.Y. 10017
- Van Nostrand. See Van Nostrand-Reinhold
- Van Nostrand-Reinhold Company, 450 W 33d St, New York, N.Y. 10001
Sister co: Am. bk.
- The Viking Press, Inc, 625 Madison Av, New York, N.Y. 10022
Associated with N.Y. Branch of Studio
- Vintage Books, Inc, 33 W 60th St, New York, N.Y. 10023
A division of Random House, who distributes the publications
- Wadsworth Publishing Company, Inc, 10 Davis Drive, Belmont, Calif. 94002
Subsidiary of Prentice-Hall
Subsidiary co. Dickenson pub.
- Walck, H.Z. Henry Z. Walck, Inc, Publishers, 19 Union Sq. W, New York, N.Y. 10003
Has taken over Juvenile titles formerly published by Oxford
- Walker & Co, 720 5th Av, New York, N.Y. 10019
Also use imprint Philip Hofer Press
- Ward Ritchie Press. See Anderson & Ritchie
- Warne, Frederick Warne & Company, 101 5th Av, New York, N.Y. 10003
- Washburn, Ives Washburn, Inc, 750 3d Av, New York, N.Y. 10017
Books distributed by McKay
- Washington Square Press, Inc, See Simon & Schuster
- Watson-Guptill Publications, 165 W 46th St, New York, N.Y. 10036; refer orders to 2160 Patterson St, Cincinnati, Ohio 45214
Division of Billboard Publications, Inc.
- Watts, F. Franklin Watts, Inc, 575 Lexington Av, New York, N.Y. 10022
Division of Grolier
Also use imprint Watts Int.
- Wayfarer Press. See Williams & Wilkins
- Wayne State Univ. Press, Detroit, Mich. 48202
- Wesleyan Univ. Press, 100 Riverview Center, Middletown, Conn. 06457
- Western Reserve Univ. Press. Press of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio. See Press of Case Western Reserve Univ.
- Westminster Press, (Westminster Bk. Stores) Room 908, Witherspoon Bldg, Walnut & Juniper Sts, Philadelphia, Pa. 19107
Publication Dept. of Bd. of Christian Educ. of the United Presbyterian Bd.
Also use imprint Geneva Press
- Weybright & Talley, Inc, 3 E 54th St, New York, N.Y. 10022
- White, David White Company, Publishers, 60 E 55th St, New York, N.Y. 10022
- Whitman, A. Albert Whitman & Co, 560 W Lake St, Chicago, Ill. 60606; Room 1129, 200 5th Av, New York, N.Y. 10010
Acquired all the publications except educational of Laidlaw
Also use imprint Laird
- Wiley, John Wiley & Sons, Inc, 605 3d Av, New York, N.Y. 10016; 1530 S Redwood Rd, Salt Lake City, Utah 84104; Kirkesby Center, 10889 Wilshire Blvd, Los Angeles, Calif. 90024
Now publish and distribute Science Eds.
- Williams & Wilkins Company, 428 E Preston St, Baltimore, Md. 21202
Books printed by Waverly Press
- Windmill Bks, Inc, 663 5th Av, New York, N.Y. 10022; for sale by Harper
- World Publishing Company, 2231 W 110th St, Cleveland, Ohio 44102; 119 W 57th St, New York, N.Y. 10019
Subsidiary co. Meridian Bks.
Subsidiary of Times-Mirror
- Worldmark Press, Inc, 242 E 50th St, New York, N.Y. 10022
- Yale Univ. Press, 92A Yale Station, New Haven, Conn. 06511
- YIVO Institute of Jewish Research, Inc, 1048 5th Av, New York, N.Y. 10028
Formerly Yiddish Scientific Inst.
- Yoseloff, Thomas Yoseloff, Inc, Publishers, Box 421, Cranbury, N.J. 08512; refer orders to Book Sales, Inc, 352 4th Av, New York, N.Y. 10010
- Young Scott Books. See Scott, W.R.
- Zeiglin & Ver Brugge, 815 N. La Cienega Blvd, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069

